

In searching old records to trace a family line through the generations, one comes up with some interesting characters and their connections with the history of long ago. There was this Samuel born at Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 26, 1729. He was the sixth generation of his family in America and his father's homestead, which he inherited, was his home for more than 94 years. He was a "cordwainer" by trade. That means a leather worker. It seems several men in this line were cordwainers over many years. They could be harnessmakers or shoemakers. There are found time for other endeavors. This Samuel was elected warden 1777-1781; sealer of weights and measures 1789; jurymen 1791-1799; hayward 1792; sealer of leather 1778-79, 81-96, 98, 1801 a total of 21 years. He was a Revolutionary soldier and fought at Bunker Hill. His name (as well as his brother William) appears in a list of men that served in the Canadian expedition. Samuel was a member of a jury in a celebrated case in 1778. After Burgoyne's surrender his soldiers were taken to Cambridge as prisoners of war. The men were placed in barracks, but quarters for officers were found in private families. Orders were given that no one should pass the patriot lines without a passport. A British officer tempted fate and defied a Yankee sentinel to his sorrow. The jury's finding is on record as "upon their oath do say, that the said Richard Brown was shot with a firearm by a Centinel in Charlestown, near Prospect-Hill, between the hours of five and six p.m. on the 17th day of June, A.D. 1778, in attempting to pass a Centinel with two women, after being properly challenged by said Centinel and so came to his death." (O.C. He should have known there was sound in the old cemetery by Harvard Square. Samuel was prosperous financially and loaned money on mortgages extensively, and was a considerable purchaser of land. "He owned the covenant in 1777." If anyone knows what that means (O.C. doesn't.) A statement standing by itself without any apparent connection or reference to anything else. He died April 3, 1824, aged 94, by accidentally inhaling gas from a charcoal stove. His property was sold for $28,547. He had but one child, a son Samuel who died before his

of an article in her newspaper, the Maryland Journal, Mary Katherine
Goddard defiantly refused.

The curse of inflation, with ever-subscription prices. Affairs were so bad that she offered to take payment for the newspaper in all sorts of relieved of this position on the grounds that the Postmaster General wanted to assign someone who could more easily travel and supervise the whole quality of the paper: "The stoppage of the Paper-Mill, near this town, for the want of a Supply of Paper, and the enormous prices demanded at the stores here for Paper, constrains us to print the Maryland Journal on this dark and poor sort."

"Why?" — OR "What?"
some time or other, no matter how our degree of faith, we ask "why?" Even Jesus on the cross asked: "Why, why hast thou forsaken me?"

Many of our questions are never answered to our satisfaction. As we study the Gospels we see that Jesus did not give clear-cut answers to the question "why?" His accent was on what should be done to enter the kingdom, to live life to the full, to respond to God.

His teaching is not a theoretical proposition but a guideline for living in relationship with God and fellow man. Perhaps, on the other side of death, we will have answers to "why?" that we cannot possibly know in this life. The question of "why did this suffering come to me?" or "why does that good man suffer?" is one that can never be fully answered, though afterwards insights may come which were not apparent at the time.

For example, an earnest deacon came to me some years ago to ask me why God did not take his mother who was living on and on in a senile state. I could not answer his plea.
Some months later she died and he came to me again with new insight.
During the last week of his mother's illness his thoughtless, teen-age son had become more and more considerate and sensitive to her needs.

He no longer came in slamming the door and bawling as he used to do.
The deacon concluded, "My mother was unaware of the change in her grandson but this is what her long illness accomplished." This was not really an explanation of "why?" but rather showed what can come out of a seeming hopeless situation that is of value.

As it says in Romans: "In everything God works for good with those who love Him." (8:28) Rather than beating our heads against the wall with "why? why?" we can always turn to the question "what?"
"What good can come from this situation?" What is it that God is saying to me through it? "What does he want me to learn to do?"
to be?

Haunting conflict creatively
In a seminar on this subject this week at Hartford Seminary another area was explored where the question "why?" is not as fruitful as the question "what?"
If two people (or groups of people) are in a conflict situation it is important that each side clarify its goals.
When these goals are shared it is not would mean a state grant of $325,000.

The total cost includes the purchase of land, the installation of water and septic and water systems as well as the actual construction of the units.
Bradley said it would take about two years from receipt of funds to open it to its first occupants.

Schools list health data visits to the health rooms of the two elementary schools.

The breakdown is 103 for playground related injuries; 51 for classroom; and 54, nonchord related to be out of school due to illness or injury of up to $1,000 for each offense and

Wings of evening
By Cliff Simpson
When I did a TV program at Thanksgiving, several expressed regret that they did not know of it beforehand and missed it. In case any of you are interested, tomorrow morning on Channel 3 at 8 I am discussing the very important subject of

A messenger service
Not too long ago the Wall Street

go to the church about once a month,
pick up the bulletins, and deliver

Poem of the week
"Gettsemane"
All those who journey, soon or late,
Must pass within the garden's gate;
Must kneel alone in the darkness
And battle with some fierce despair.

Personal note
I was one of several "First Church

go to the church about once a month,
pick up the bulletins, and deliver the initials FCM imprinted on it which

Our statement of faith
In telling of our belief we are relating "the mighty acts of God."
This paragraph gives meaning and purpose to all the rest.
In Jesus Christ, the man of Nazareth, our crucified and risen
Lord,
He (God) has come to us
and shared our common lot, conquering sin and death and reconciling the world to Himself.

"Robbing God of his glory is

Former Dolphins said free agents

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) - Former Miami Dolphins teammates Larry Conka, Jim Kick and Paul Warfield may negotiate as free agents with any National Football League club if they are free as Canadian millionaire John P. Bassett maintains.

Larry Conka, Jim Kick Said to be free agents

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle told sportswriters in a closing day briefing of the annual NFL owners meeting Friday that the former Dolphins players could be signed anywhere. "We just want to be positive that there's no legal basis for a problem with people other than Mr. Bassett," Rozelle cautioned the owners that the availability of the trio to sign a contract with one of the 28 NFL clubs would hinge on clear evidence that they are free of all entanglements with the defunct World Football League.

Rozelle key witness

The Dolphins expressed some interest in resigning Conka, but not Kick, the all-purpose running back reportedly interested in a move to Denver. Warfield said he wants to play in Cleveland.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am in a terrible quandary. We are having a formal affair for my son's bar mitzvah. My brother and his wife recently separated and are living apart. I don't know whether they will eventually pick up their differences or go through with the divorce.

DEAR IN: Send a separate invitation to your sister-in-law and also one to her parents, and let them decide whether or not to accept.
DEAR ABBY: I am amazed at your chauvinistic put-down of women who accept attention from married men. You fail to mention the man who poster married women, who provides a much-needed oasis for a second-class citizen and refuses sex, but is hurt and martyred when he finds another woman with whom to share and companionship.

DEAR FOR EQUALITY: If a marriage must be "saved" by the "other woman" (or the "other man") who provides a "hard-needed oasis" and sends the lover home "refreshed and renewed," I think all concerned should take a good, hard look at the marriage. Such marriages are for maintenance, not for love.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Perhaps I.P.S. Meanwhile, easy, Ma. You sound like a candidate for a conspiracy!

"South Pacific" comes alive

The colorful characters of Roger's and Hammerstein's "South Pacific" will come alive for the entertainment of all on March 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. and March 28 at 2:30 p.m.

The Manchester High School Music Department will present its annual musical production under the direction of Martha J. White along with Student Director Stuart Flavell and Production Coordinator Charlotte Whyte.

"South Pacific" was written by Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein II as a musical adaptation of James A. Michener's Pulitzer Prize winning novel, "Tales of the South Pacific."

The story takes place on two South Pacific islands and it revolves around two romantic themes. The primary romance involves a young, high-spirited Navy nurse, Nellie Forbush, played by Susan Sterling, and the gallant, middle-aged French planter, Emile de Beque, played by Michael Simon.

The secondary romance involves a likable American Marine, Lt. Joseph Cable (Brian Beggs) and the lovely Tokinese girl, Liat (Karen McArdle).

Surrounding both couples are such fascinating characters as Bloody Mary (Dawn Hliviak), Liat's shrewd mother; and Luther Billis (Patrick Irish), a knowing and down-to-earth Seabee who plays a wonderfully comic role in the amateur entertainment provided by the temporary residents of the island.

Tickets may be purchased from any Manchester High School choir member or may be obtained by calling the MHS music office at 646-5854, Ext. 365. — Jennifer Towler

AFS fruit sale goal is met

After much door knocking and shoe-leather scraping, Manchester AFSers reached their fruit-selling goal. They were attempting to raise money for the purpose of funding student and cultural exchange with other countries. The money was being raised by the selling of citrus fruits to be exact, Valencia oranges and pink grapefruit to Manchester citizens. A goal of $600 worth of fruit sales were set. This goal was reached within two weeks of the sale's start.

The ordered fruit will be obtained in conjunction with South Windsor AFS. The sales money that was collected in advance was sent to Florida, where the fruit will come from. A truck of freshly picked fruit will be sent up to the Manchester-South Windsor area where AFS members of both towns' clubs will unload it and deliver it to the homes of those people who ordered it. The dates for fruit delivery will be March 27 and 28.

AFS would like to thank those Manchester citizens who ordered the fruit for supporting their cause. They hope to make this fruit sale an annual affair. They hope also to keep it as fruitful a venture as it proved to be this year. — Steve Latham

Allons-nous!

It's that time of year again. That's right, time for the annual French Club trip to Quebec City. We will be spending four exciting days in Canada. Any French Club member or any French student will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

All night owls will be happy to hear that we will be leaving at 11:59 p.m., April 10 and returning 8:30 p.m., April 14. The trip will cost only $55 if there are at least 37 people going or $68 if there are at least 27 people. You can receive your permission slips from Miss Dutelle every morning in Room 116 before school, during period one, or after school at filling in Room 107.

This trip has always been a great success, and everyone is anticipating an even greater time this year. — Marc Laufer

From left, Eric Thomas, Mike Weiford, David Maimment and Kevin Sullivan practice their roles in "South Pacific" which will be presented in Bailey Auditorium March 26 through 28.

Rock review: A Night at the Opera by Queen

"Queen" made their debut in 1974 with an album that set critics all over the world babbling praises proclaiming the British quartet as "destined to become the epitome of 70s hard rock." But the release of their next two LPs went almost entirely unnoticed; both were unanimously panned by critics and fans. The only song from this period that met with success was a novelty tune from "Sheer Heart Attack" called "Killer Queen," released last February as a single.

Suddenly, with the coming of 1976, the band decided to change its style...it worked. Once again, the critics are applauding the British rockers, but this time they're saying that "Queen" shows the versatility of the Beatles. Hard to believe? Listen to "Bohemian Rhapsody," the current single from Queen's latest, "A Night at the Opera." (By the way, an Irish friend tells me "Bohemian Rhapsody" was number one in Great Britain for 10 weeks — the largest selling record there in 15 years!) It's got elements of hard rock, pop, and oddly enough, opera. (Yes, you read that correctly!) Not only does the group show a sense of humor on the catchy opera section, but they do it with class — great vocal harmonies and above-average musicianship.

Go Big Red

Manchester has had a great year for showing school spirit. I would like to thank the "corner" and all the other fans for their faithful enthusiasm throughout the soccer, football, and basketball seasons.

For those of you who can really yell during a game here is your chance to be put to good use. Cheerleading clinics will begin Monday, March 29. In order to try out for either of the two Manchester High cheerleading squads you must attend four of the six clinics offered. During these clinics you will learn exactly what is required at tryouts.

We would also strongly urge anyone who is interested in joining a great club, working hard, and having fun to attend these sessions. Even if you've never been a cheerleader before, we will teach you all you need to know.

So bring your enthusiasm along with a pair of cut-offs to the MHS cafeteria, Monday, March 29 at 3:15 p.m. — L.J. Williams

Guidance notes

Representatives visiting MHS during the week of March 22 through 26 are as follows:

Monday, March 22, Roger Williams College, Bristol, R.I., at 11 a.m.; Wednesday, March 24, New England College, Henniker, N.H., at 11:30 a.m.

The latest scholarship applications received in the Guidance Department are as follows: The Catholic Graduates Club of Greater Hartford will award two scholarships of $500 each to a Catholic boy or girl residing in Hartford county, presently attending an accredited secondary school, and planning to attend a four-year college. It is not necessary that the student attend a Catholic college. Application deadline is March 22.

The National Council of Jewish Women offers a scholarship to a Jewish girl graduating this year from a public high school in the Greater Hartford area who plans to attend a two or four-year college. $500 will be awarded for the freshman year; thereafter, $200 will be awarded if the student maintains a good academic record and if financial need still exists. Application deadline is April 30.

The Connecticut Credit Union is sponsoring a scholarship essay contest for Connecticut high school seniors. Three $500 scholarships will be awarded. No affiliation is required with the Credit Union to be eligible.

The Laurel Club, an organization of newsmen covering state government in Connecticut, will award one $500 scholarship to a graduate of a Connecticut secondary school planning a college course of study leading to work in journalism. Application deadline is March 31. Further information is obtainable in Room 107 from Mrs. Hickey.

Student Assembly looking ahead

On March 11 a Student Assembly meeting was conducted in the MHS cafeteria. Dates for various social events were set and other matters were discussed.

It was decided that two dances will be held in April. A Sadie Hawkins dance was set for April 23 and a semiformal spring dinner-dance for April 30. The donkey basketball game which was canceled this month because of the snow day was rescheduled for April 27.

In regard to this month's activities, March 19 was designated as "spiff day"; the entire student body was encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to dress up in their best clothes.

The possibility of an exchange program with Hartford Public High School and St. Thomas Seminary in Bloomfield was also discussed at the meeting. Under such a program, student representatives from MHS would visit these two schools while representatives from Hartford and St. Thomas would visit MHS.

A joint walkathon involving MHS and East Catholic was also discussed. The walkathon proceeds will benefit Kevin Hurst, an East Catholic student who was seriously injured last year during a football game.

Revision of the Student Assembly Constitution is also being considered, the revision committee chairman being Carl Girelli. Items to be revised include membership qualifications, election of officers, and the number of S.A. meetings to be held per month. — C.J.

Educational reforms needed

It has become increasingly popular for the news media to publicize the decline of SAT scores in the United States. Although Manchester's mean scores have exceeded the national means for the past nine years, both sets of results are definitely on a decline. This decline is due to the inefficiency of the tests to measure the abilities which students have developed. These abilities have not necessarily declined, but the rigid educational structure of past years has almost disintegrated.

It has become normalcy for high schools to offer a partial or entirely elective program to their students. Although this freedom has not deterred some students from selecting a rigorous program, the majority use it to acquire a diploma with the least amount of work. SATs supposedly measure mathematical and verbal ability and relate these factors to one's potential success in college. Yet how can these tests truly measure potential, when one is only required a single year of math and three years of English? These courses do not guarantee drilling in vocabulary or reading to a great extent. Electives are good supplements for a balanced education, but these courses alone do not provide a good foundation for what the SAT measures.

A greater fault of today's educational system is the total absence of courses dealing with SAT skills at the secondary level. Throughout elementary school and junior high, grammar, vocabulary, reading comprehension, and spelling are instilled in the brains of American children. However, once these same students reach the high school level, these basic skills are left out of their programs. Although these skills can be developed on one's own through extensive reading accompanied with curiosity, few high school students possess such a quest for knowledge. Yet the SATs measure these skills, which have obviously become at least a bit rusty, after four years of absence from them. Although some English teachers provide a crash review of these skills the day before the tests take place, this cannot replace constant practice in these areas.

The problem of SAT scores, however, cannot be attributed to one single factor. It is influenced by a combination of factors. The causes are evidenced through curriculum, guidance from both educators and at home, and the maturity of the student himself; the educational system has definitely provided the laxity which has incurred these problems.

To reverse the decline of SAT scores, several steps will have to be taken. Education must include the skills tested by SAT throughout the first 12 years of schooling. A stricter and more rigorous program should be required of those planning to further their education. If we do not return to these values of yesteryear, there is no doubt that the SAT scores will continue to drop. We must either alter the tests to measure the new, possibly inferior, education which today's students are receiving, or revert back to the system which was capable of producing genuine students. — Mary Stack

So I Am Told

The wind whistles soft,
The wind whistles loud,
It is gentle and sweet,
It is strong and proud.
The wind is protective,
The wind is warm,
It nurses seedlings,
And carries them from harm.
Some would say the wind is cold,
harsh and mean,
cruel and bold.
But it is not that way,
so I am told.
Who is it then that whispers in ears
that tells ancient secrets of bygone years?
Who is it then that moves the skies
and carries the voice of eagles' cries?
The wind whispers of bygone years and dries the stains of children's tears.
The wind is wise, for it is cold,
and is a friend,
so I am told....

Profile: Lorraine Urban

Lorraine Urban

To many people, Lorraine Urban probably seems to be either a serious or shy person. Neither of these things is true as I found out when I talked with Lorraine. Once I got to know her, I found her to be very outgoing, not at all shy.

Lorraine isn't the most studious person in the world, but if you saw her grades you'd realize that she must do some work. This year, Lorraine is taking AP English, Math IV, patterns of human behavior, and advanced biology. She has no favorite subject but finds English and patterns most interesting. Biology is Lorraine's most challenging subject, but she seems to be able to cope. According to her, "challenges sharpen and broaden a person's knowledge." Lorraine is a member of the National Honor Society and just recently, she was named a State of Connecticut Scholar for 1976.

Nutrition and health foods are two of Lorraine's main concerns. She herself hasn't eaten any junk foods in over three years.

"People tell me I'm missing out on all the good things in life like pizza...I work at a McDonald's, but I couldn't tell you what anything they sell tastes like." This interest in nutrition is connected with her future plans to become a dietician. She would like to work directly with people, as in a hospital or clinic.

Dance is one of Lorraine's many interests. She has taken dancing lessons for nearly nine years from Beverly and Lee Burton of Manchester. Having taken ballet, tap, and jazz, she enjoys jazz the most. Lorraine also likes to observe dance, watching other performers dance live or on television, for instance.

Another of Lorraine's favorite pastimes is listening to music. Her favorite groups are Deep Purple with Tommy Bolin, Aerosmith, Queen, and Led Zeppelin. Every month, Lorraine tries to attend at least one rock concert.

Lorraine holds a favorite opinion at the high school now, but she hasn't always. In tenth grade, she "hated school." This is one reason why she never became involved in any school activities. Lorraine now likes the relaxed atmosphere, the teachers, and many of the courses which are offered here. She especially likes the crafts courses she took and wishes that she had taken more of them.

Spring is Lorraine's favorite season, and this one will have a special meaning because of graduation.

"Graduation means leaving school for the final time which of course is great, but it also means leaving behind friends who you'll probably never see again."

The most important thing in life for Lorraine is "just to be happy and healthy and everyone around me the same." She feels that it is also important to know yourself, your emotions and opinions. One gets the feeling that Lorraine knows herself pretty well. — Louisa Marti

Alternative school test under way

MHS has begun to expand its educational process, placing it in a new light, and has had very encouraging results. A new experiment, designed and executed by teachers William DiYeso and Susan Hardy, was launched this semester and has been geared towards a freer form of learning. By creating this type of school atmosphere, the teachers earnestly feel that the "student motivation has increased substantially" and is entirely worthwhile.

While the program is intended for students with a past record of many absences or for those students who, for different reasons, were not working to their fullest potential, the teachers are adamant in stressing that the students are totally capable intellectually and that many have a college future.

This four and a half-hour school day is aimed at increasing student attendance and motivation as well as their interest in learning. Scholastically, the students are being exposed to skills in English, mathematics, science, social studies, and reading. The majority of the 31 enrolled have shown significant improvement.

In itself would seem to be more than enough encouragement to go on with the program. However, due to the lack of money, any continuation next year remains to be seen.

Still, DiYeso and Ms. Hardy feel that this "different approach to education" is worth the extra effort and they hope the program continues. — Sue Koski

Realist responds

(Editor's note: The following is in response to last week's editorial concerning the importance of learning a foreign language.)

To the editor:
On the contrary! Today's society has unfortunately taught the college-bound student that if he or she plans to attend a fairly good school, two or three years of a foreign language are an essential. Although a foreign language does have its good points, it is still taught for the sake of the soft-billed idealists who made foreign languages a college requirement.

For the fairly good student, learning a foreign language can be fun, especially the first year. It can be an educational experience and can help the student to comprehend other subjects more easily. However, unless the student plans to go into a foreign language as a career, to work in public relations, or live in an area where English is not the first language, he will probably not use the skills he learned in Spanish, French or German.

Of course, if a student does want to know exactly what Chico of "Chico and the Man" or the Germans in "Hogan's Heroes" are talking about, that's just fine, but it's not so fine for the many students who have to take a foreign language merely because they cannot get into the college they want without it.

In the eyes of a realist, spending five hours a week, excluding the time he spends in out-of-class preparation, on a subject he feels has little or no significance to himself now, or in the future, is a waste of time and therefore should not be a college requirement. — Anne Putira

Spinning

Spinning wheels at Manchester's Lydall & Foulds paperboard mill are visually exciting to a photographer's eye. Industrial machinery is usually considered dirty, noisy and/or ugly, but not to Herald Photographer Steve Dunn, who offers these views of whirring wheels.

New Jersey's medal is a nice production

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

If you have a hankering for medals, here is one that is pretty good. It is the official New Jersey Bicentennial piece.

One side shows their Great Seal, which is just now 200 years of age. The other has a melange of Washington and troops, the Morristown headquarters, some British ships, and a scroll stabbed by a quill pen.

A bronze specimen of this has come to hand and it is really a nice production. The edge has the maker incused: "Medallic Art Co. Danbury, Ct."

We should also be aware of the official official medal of them all — the National. That one was authorized by Congress, made at the Mint, and is being sold out of Frisco by the Bicentennial Administration (the ARBA). There are seven types from $5 to $4,000. (The last-mentioned is in gold, three inches across, struck to order only).

The design was easy to think up — the Statue of Liberty backed by the Great Seal of the United States.

They're making waves

The American Philatelic Society is making news, and waves, with a jump in their rates for stamp expertization. Up to as high as $15 for non-members.

Stamps and coins

They do a good job — you get an enlarged photo of your stamp and a certificate signed by wheels of the APS and the American Stamp Dealers Association.

But if you send something, be prepared to settle down and wait. And wait... And wait. And even if you are a member, don't expect them to go as far as to write your name on an envelope or trust you for postage.

Away back last June I set out to get two old U.S. toughies identified. One was mine, one was a friend's. Found that they goof off for the summer so had to start all over again in the fall, making out the forms and this envelope and that envelope. Then the return registered one came back with some fine print about not using metered mail. Finally all was straightened out and I had a receipt from Pennsylvania — at least the stuff was there safely.

Days passed; weeks; months.

Chuck would ask, "Where's my stamp?" "Haven't heard." "How long do they take?" "A while." "It's been a while!" "Any day now."

Then in January I cracked up and wrote about them. The reply said that one stamp was done but not the other. "We are holding as we have only one return envelope...send SASE..."

On the 6th of March, some nine months since the first inquiry, the material returned. Both stamps are real, but by now as Chuck says (expurgated) "Who cares?"

A complete collection

Early this spring in Philly we will be able to gaze upon a specimen of every U.S. coin struck for circulation since the beginning in 1792. All the coins from all the mints. Even the 1804 dollar, the unique 1870-S $3 gold, and the 1873 "No Arrows" Carson City dime.

It is the Eliasberg collection — the only complete one in existence. It will be presented as a special Bicen exhibit at the Philadelphia Mint.

Louis Eliasberg, lately deceased at the age of 80, once got a big kick out of over-bidding a henchman of King Farouk for some of the rarities. He was never selfish with his treasures, as they have been shown from New Haven to Dallas in the past. A just-right photo of Mr. Eliasberg recently appeared — he is seen with pipe, mag glass, white gloves, and a coin.

Exhibit scheduled

The Manchester Philatelic Society will meet at Mott's Community Hall Tuesday, March 23, 7 to 10 p.m. Ed Bushnell will set up his exhibit "The Use of the Hand with Pointing Finger as a Postal Marking." It has won gold and silver medals in international shows. Hopefully this will inspire members to get going on their own exhibits for the Manpex next month.
