

Historical Society views a century of photography

By JOHN JOHNSTON

When wet gave way to dry plates, the emulsion was applied at the factory. Developing could await the convenience of the photographer. Kodak not only revolutionized the photographic industry, Dole said, but also introduced innovations along the way. By way of developing this print, he said that the range finder goes back to 1915.

The speaker also showed two examples of the autographic Kodak. It had a pen as part of its equipment with which the photographer could identify the picture on the negative, to be developed along with the print. This camera's main drawback, Dole said, was that it was not always light tight.

Dole's earliest box camera is Kodak No. 3, made about 1885. The folding type succeeded the box. He had a number of the folding ones on display, the smallest being the vest pocket size.

The first portion of his slide presentation was of black and white images, the earliest an 1840 scene in France. Dole said that only still scenes could be photographed back then because of the many minutes of exposure involved. Other scenes were the San Francisco earthquake, whaling ships in New Bedford, old-style locomotives outside a roundhouse, the head of the Statue of Liberty before final assembling, and Presidents Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt.

A nostalgic scene that must have revived memories for older members of the audience was that of an early automobile seemingly racing a trolley car. Whether because of the dirt road's condition or the unfamiliarity of the operator with his vehicle, the automobile was minus a tire on one side and a fender on the other.

One never knows when or how the history of a picture will be revealed. Dole commented, and demonstrated his observation with one he purchased from a dealer. It is of a girl about five years old, seated before a Christmas tree. All that was known was that it was taken Dec. 25, 1909 in Tariffville and the child's name was Marjorie Robinson.

It appeared on a calendar in recent years. Marjorie, in her 80s, called the printer from her home in Suffield and identified herself.

The second part of the slide presentation was contemporary and in color, using the animate and inanimate. In his tape narration with musical background, Dole called them "hieroglyphics of light and time."

The art of the photographer is active, not passive," he said. "He can capture a moment or an emotion to endure, but he is also a fabricator, an interpreter of reality through reality."

News summary

Compiled from United Press International

State
HARTFORD — John B. Callahan, president of the Miami-based firm which owns the Hartford Jail Area, resigned his post Wednesday, United Press International has learned. The facility is under investigation by the Connecticut state police.

HARTFORD — A paralyzed former stonecutter, Robert J. LaManna of Windale, N. Y., who won a malpractice lawsuit has received a settlement of $650,000. It is believed to be the largest ever made in Connecticut by the federal courts and was against the Sharon Hospital and two staff members.

Regional
BOSTON — A parentless baby sperm whale was clinging desperately to life today at the New England Aquarium.

CONCORD, N. H. — New Hampshire's acting insurance commissioner, Leo Fraser, today blamed high auto parts prices set by Detroit for "devastating" insurance losses which could cost a two-car family another $181 year.

National
CHICAGO — The Teamsters have rejected a higher economic package from trucking industry representatives and no settlement is now in sight for a new contract covering 600,000 truckers and warehousemen.

WASHINGTON — The FBI reported today the U.S. crime rate jumped 9 per cent in 1975 but increased only half as fast as it did the year before. The crime rate increase for 1975 was a record 18 per cent.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Charges were filed against Carol Helen Brooks, 34, who held eight fellow hospital employees at gunpoint for three hours Wednesday, even though most of the hostages said they wanted no criminal action taken. The prosecutor said he had no choice under the law.

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee is demanding answers from the Postal Service about the $1 billion mechanized bulk mail centers that damage "millions" of parcels each year.

SAN FRANCISCO — Patricia Hearst's attorney will argue that the newspaper heiress was a victim of "thought control" and "coercive persuasion" when she goes on trial in Los Angeles on kidnapping and robbery charges.

International
LONDON — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the abrasive warrior credited with turning the tide toward Allied victory in World War II, will be given a hero's funeral April 1 and buried in a country churchyard. He died Wednesday at the age of 88.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — The new military junta has moved swiftly to consolidate power after overthrowing President Isabel Peron Wednesday.

MOSCOW — A bomb threat today forced American Embassy personnel to leave their offices in downtown Moscow, but embassy officials said no bomb was found. The threat followed a large number of anonymous warnings this week of retaliation for harassment of Soviet officials in New York.

Weiss recommends tax hike of 5.98 mills for Manchester

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Town Manager Robert Weiss is recommending a 5.98 mill tax hike in 1976-77 for Manchester's General Fund budget, a 0.45 mill increase in the Town Fire District tax rate and a 30 per cent increase in water rates. Because sewer charges are tied to water rates (sewer charges are computed at 120 per cent of water rates), they would be increased automatically.

If his proposals hold, the General Fund tax rate would go from its present 56.65 mills to 62.63 mills, and the Town Fire District tax rate, from its present 6 mills to 6.45 mills. He estimates that the proposed 30 per cent hike in water rates would mean about $12.40 more per year for the average residential user — plus about $16.10 more a year for sewer charges. He is recommending no change in the 12 mill tax rate for the Special Downtown Taxing District.

Mayor Matt Moriarty said today he's "not too happy" about the increase Weiss is proposing.

"We have to be realistic about it," said Moriarty. "We'll give his proposals a good, hard look. The people of Manchester should be assured we'll keep whatever increase there might be to a minimal figure."

Moriarty said he and the other directors "are extremely aware of the concerns of the taxpayer."

"These are hard times," said Moriarty, "and people in Manchester are as hard hit as most in the area. I know of people in our town who can't pay the principal on their mortgages and are lucky if they can pay the interest."

He pledged, "We'll do all we can to keep from hurting the Manchester taxpayer."

Under Weiss' proposals, a homeowner with a dwelling assessed at $20,000 would pay about $120 more in taxes to the General Fund and, if the property is in the Town Fire District, about $13 more a year to that fund.

Each mill of a tax rate provides $1 in taxes for each $1,000 in property assessments.

Weiss is recommending a $23,342,757 General Fund budget for the year commencing July 1, 1976. It is about 9 per cent above the $21,414,361 adjusted current General Fund budget or about 9.5 per cent above the $21,236,556 original General Fund budget (adopted in May 1975 by the Board of Directors).

Weiss is cautioning the directors to go easy on budget cuts which, he acknowledges, could cut about 3.3 mills or about $1,000,000 from his recommendations. He calls his budget essentially a "hold the line" budget, with no appreciable added services or requests and cautions there could be a great deal of "risk taking" by the directors if they cut in certain areas.

Those "risk taking" cuts, he says, would be in cutting back on pension contributions, holding back on salary increases, freezing all job vacancies, allowing for no improvement in police services, cut back rubbish pickup to once-a-week (it now is twice-a-week), and eliminate capital improvement recommendations (they total $223,500 for eight projects).

Weiss says that 45 per cent of his recommended budget increase is in educational costs, 26 per cent in fixed costs and 29 per cent for all other costs.

He points out that the increase in Manchester's Grand List will provide only $560,500 toward needed increased revenue, necessitating an increase in the tax rate.

In the comments accompanying his budget and tax rate proposals, Weiss states he still sees need for a personal services supervisor, but isn't recommending the expenditure in the 1976-77 budget; that he is eliminating a contribution to the Capital Region Crime Squad or Capital Region Drug Advisory Council, in favor of backing the local Crossroads; and is recommending the position of Deputy Chief of Police.

The $23,342,757 General Fund budget he is recommending is $979,161 below departmental requests.

Among the biggest cuts he made are $300,000 from the school budget, $25,000 from engineering, $81,000 from highway, $45,000 maintenance, $29,000 police, $42,000 health department, $21,000 libraries and $300,000 from the pension fund (the Pension Board requested $700,000 and Weiss is recommending $400,000. It received $300,000 this year).

Weiss is recommending $80,000 for the Public Health Nursing Association (it received $81,000 this year and requested $125,000 for next year). He is recommending $31,900 for the Community Child Guidance Clinic, $31,900 for the Manchester Drug Advisory Council, $9,250 for the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens and $4,400 for Manchester Homemakers Service.

His recommended budget for the Town Fire District is $1,749,367 — a cut of $9,500 from the department's request. It is an increase of 14.7 per cent over the $1,525,120 current budget.

Weiss' proposed budgets and tax rates, plus his budget message, will be printed in their entirety in the Saturday, Monday and Tuesday editions of The Manchester Herald.

A public hearing on his tentative budgets and tax rates is scheduled for April 5 at 8 p.m. in Wadwell School auditorium, Broad St.

Following budget workshops, the Board of Directors will have to May 7 to adopt its budgets and tax rates. Failure to do so by then would make Weiss' proposals the legal ones.

Mass flu vaccination plans are announced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an unprecedented decision, President Ford wants every man, woman and child in America vaccinated before winter to avoid "a dangerous epidemic" of flu from a swine virus dormant almost half a century.

The White House announced Wednesday Ford will ask Congress to appropriate $135 million before his Easter recess so the enormous quantities of vaccine can be ordered and work can get under way immediately on mobilizing medical and public health services for the extraordinary procedure.

The flu virus is similar to the one which caused a worldwide epidemic claiming 20 million lives, including a half million Americans, in 1918-19.

Ford personally delivered a statement expressing concern about the possibility of an outbreak this fall. Scientists with whom he had consulted briefed reporters.

Extraordinary measures are necessary because of the short time period available to assure adequate vaccine production and to mobilize the nation's health care delivery system," Ford's statement said.

Ford also said he is directing Health, Education and Welfare Secretary David Mathews to develop plans for distributing the vaccine, and urging each American to get an injection.

There will be a modest fee, but no person will be denied the vaccine because of inability to pay.

Democratic delegates get committee nod

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Manchester Democrats Wednesday night endorsed 21 delegates to their July 18-19 state convention, 21 to the July 20 Congressional District convention, 11 to the July 21 3rd Senatorial District convention, 10 to the July 22 4th Assembly District convention, 2 to the July 22 9th Assembly District convention, and 3 to the July 22 14th Assembly District convention.

Because the 12th and 13th Assembly Districts are entirely within Manchester's boundaries, conventions for them aren't required. Nominees for state representative in each of the districts will be endorsed in August.

The Democratic town committee, unanimously and by acclamation, endorsed State Sen. David Barry for re-election to his 4th Senatorial District post. And it endorsed John Sullivan for re-election as state central committee member from the 4th Senatorial District and Mary LeDuc for re-election as state central committee member from the 3rd Senatorial District.

Barry, in thanking the committee for its endorsement, said, "Your action tonight will go a long way toward making up my mind whether to run for re-election. All things being equal, I expect to have a favorable announcement for you."

Reilly granted new trial

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — A Superior Court judge today ordered a new trial for Peter A. Reilly, convicted of manslaughter in the Sept. 28, 1973, slaying of his mother, Barbara Gibbons.

Judge John A. Spziale said in a 34-page order, "It is readily apparent that the interest on that bond, as well as part payment of Reilly's lawyers' fees, has come from money raised by a committee of Falls Village residents forming to support Reilly soon after he was charged with his mother's murder."

Reilly said Wednesday he would not be at the Litchfield County courthouse today, but expected to be notified, by telephone at the high school where he works as a custodian. He has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Madow and their family in North Canaan since he was freed on bond.

Mrs. Madow said she would not go to the courthouse either. "I'd rather do my crying or whatever it is in private," she said.

State's Attorney John F. Bianchi who prosecuted the case is on vacation in the Caribbean and is not expected to return to Connecticut until next week.

Reilly's lawyer, T. F. Gilroy Daly, had sought a new trial based on what he said was new evidence.

Reilly granted new trial

During the six-week hearing, Spziale ruled on Jan 30 that a fingerprint found on the rear screen door of Miss Gibbons' home after her death, but identified only in January of this year, was "newly discovered evidence."

One of the requirements for a new trial is new evidence which the defense could not have obtained with due diligence during the trial.

When Spziale asked attorney Joseph Galicchio if the state would stipulate that the fingerprint was newly discovered evidence, Galicchio said, "The defendant does stipulate to that, your honor."

Among the key issues in the case was the question of whether Reilly, who attended a teen center meeting at a Canaan church the night of his mother's murder, would have had time to go from the church to his home to kill his mother.

Reilly's case has drawn so much national and state attention that Bianchi complained the press attempted to influence the outcome of the hearing for a new trial.

"Probably never in Connecticut history has there been such general media coverage," Bianchi said in closing arguments last month.

Health Fair to provide free testing

The elderly citizens of Manchester will have an opportunity to receive free screening tests for chronic diseases at a health clinic in April.

Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, told the Commission on Aging Monday night there will be a Health Fair April 13 from 2 to 8 p.m. in the Manchester High School cafeteria.

The event will be co-sponsored by the town health department and the Manchester Public Health Nurses Association.

Different health agencies will be represented and information on various phases of health service will be available.

There are some chronic diseases that can be identified in their early stages for those who come to the Health Fair. Dr. Turek said. Persons with health problems will be referred to their family physicians.

The Manchester Housing authority is expected to approve basic plans in about four weeks for the 40-unit elderly housing project on Spencer St. Dominic Cimino, project architect, is working on the plans. Preliminary plans were approved earlier this month by the Department of Community Affairs, according to Paschal Mastrangelo, MHA chairman.

Advisory board reviews model food service law

By JUNE B. TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

Details of a state model for an ordinance pertaining to food service establishments were reviewed Wednesday by the Advisory Board of Health, state health inspector Paul Schur and Steve Cavanaugh and William Oleksinski, two of Manchester's restaurateurs.

After revising some of the language, a final draft will be presented to the Advisory Board of Health for its approval on April 6.

Adoption of the ordinance will mean that all food service establishments are required to obtain a two-year operation license and to have separate men's and women's toilet facilities.

The proposed ordinance will also provide the health director with authority to suspend any license to operate a food service establishment if the license holder does not comply with the ordinance requirements, or the state public health code.

Before a license is suspended, the health director will issue a written notice specifying that corrective action be taken and also specifying the time period within which such action shall be taken, and, if deemed necessary, order immediate corrections.

Prepared plans and specifications for construction or remodeling of a food service establishment shall be submitted to the director of health for review and approval before issuing a food service license or a building permit.

Schools, churches and non-profit organizations would have to be licensed, but they would not have to pay the $50 license fee required of restaurants.

Ronald Kraatz, health administrator, said the Advisory Board of Health will probably recommend that the Board of Directors adopt the ordinance.

The ordinance will be presented to the board probably in May after which the directors will schedule a public hearing before formally adopting the ordinance, Kraatz said.

Many restaurant owners who opposed the ordinance a few months ago now reportedly approve it.

ELI B. TAMBLING JR.

Tambling to attend FBI school

Sgt. Eli B. Tambling Jr., a Manchester policeman for 19 years, will attend the spring session of the FBI National Academy, April 4 to June 17 at Quantico, Va.

Tambling will be the seventh local police officer to attend the FBI Academy, which is considered the best law enforcement school in the country.

Others who have attended are former Deputy Chief Joseph Prentice, Lannan, Patrol Capt. Richard Sartor, Lt. Henry Minor, Sgt. Patricia Graves and Sgt. Raymond Mazzone.

Tambling joined the police department in October 1957 as a patrolman after service in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is a World War II veteran.

He was promoted to police sergeant in September 1969.

Tambling has attended Manchester Community College and several specialized law enforcement schools.

He is married and has eight children. In his local police career, Tambling has been commended several times for extraordinary work and heroism.

He was honored in 1972 for apprehending an armed burglar suspect after a shootout at Manchester Modes on Pine St.

The Connecticut Justice Commission has denied a $13,000 grant sought by Manchester for expansion of the police department's Youth Services Bureau.

The commission, acting on nearly 30 funding applications Wednesday, approved a $15,000 grant for Vernon's police department to start a youth service program.

A spokesman for the commission said Manchester's application was denied because funds weren't available for all seven municipalities seeking the same type of grant.

Manchester was among seven municipalities seeking money to add a civilian specialist to an existing juvenile program, to help screen youthful offender cases and make referrals to other agencies.

The three civilian specialist applications approved by the commission were from Hartford, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

The commission spokesman said Manchester could appeal the decision, but it's unlikely anything could be done because all the funds have been awarded.

The commission approved about $500,000 worth of the $670,000 sought by local police departments, and it approved about $85,000 in grants for state law enforcement agencies.

Vernon was among several towns without an existing youth bureau which were seeking funds to establish such a program, the spokesman said.

Patrol Capt. Richard Sartor of the Manchester Police Department said today that local officials haven't yet received formal notice of the application denial.

No decision has been made on whether the commission's action would be appealed, he said.

The Connecticut Justice Commission is responsible for determining priorities and awarding grants with money from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA). The state commission was formerly known as the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration.

Arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

• Christopher D. Lattanzio, 17, of 41 Cardinal Dr., East Hartford, charged Wednesday with evading responsibility in connection with a March 20 accident on Spencer St. Police said the charge stems from a hit-and-run accident involving a car parked at Holiday Lanes. Court date is April 13.

• Dennis L. Howe, 22, and Maria Tyoshaw, 20, both of 82 Lakeside Dr., Andover, each charged Wednesday with disorderly conduct. Police lodged the charges after receiving complaints about a fight at a Spruce St. address. Court date is April 12.

• Frederick L. Rockwell, 33, of Ashford, charged on a court warrant Wednesday night with two counts of issuing a bad check. Court date is April 12.

Dry run job interviews

Students at Manchester Community College found out what it was like to be interviewed for a job, and then have their interview evaluated by the employer.

This unusual activity was part of the Career Day program Tuesday in the college auditorium.

About 30 employers in the fields of law enforcement, corrections, mental retardation and drug control gave seven-minute interviews with students. Afterward, the interviewer gave a critique of the prospective employee's interview.

The student was asked if that particular kind of job was what he or she really wanted to do, and would there be another area of employment that would be preferable.

Before the interview sessions, there were introductory remarks in the auditorium which was set up like a national convention with overhanging signs designating the various fields of employment.

William Altman, placement officer at the college, called the Career Day activity "unique over other schools" because of the critique method used in interview evaluations.

Although the exercise was an educational one, Altman said some of the agencies did have openings for which they might consider some of the students interviewed.

High court ruling favors retroactive seniority claim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday in favor of retroactive seniority for blacks who can show they have been denied jobs because of race.

In an opinion by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., the court held that the 1964 Civil Rights Act empowers federal courts to make such awards back to the date of the black's rejection to cure the effect of discrimination.

Brennan refused to accept the views of three other members of the court that he had not paid enough attention to the position of "innocent employees."

In two military cases, the court ruled that political rallies and speeches can be barred from military bases and that servicemen have no constitutional right to a lawyer in summary courts-martial.

in all circumstances. Nor did the decision deal with the seniority system itself and the major question of whether blacks should be let go under the "last hired, first fired" principle.

In other actions the court: —Ruled 6 to 2 that nonprofit hospitals may take advantage of an antitrust exemption in their drug purchases if the drugs are dispensed to patients, employees or doctors for personal use, but not to former patients renewing prescriptions or to walk-in customers.

—Held unanimously that federal courts have power to rule on water claims by the United States even though state agencies are considering the same claims.

Between 40 and 45 floats are expected to be entered in Manchester's Bicentennial Parade June 12, Marti Conderino, chairman of the parade's float committee, said Wednesday night.

"Many organizations I know are building floats but haven't filed the required parade entry forms," Conderino said. It has been reported that several schools are planning floats, but to date, only two schools have filed entry forms, he said.

Conderino suggested that any organization wishing to enter a float in the Bicentennial Parade call him at 646-7286 during working hours or 646-5152 evenings, and let him know they want to enter a float.

Opinion

Cleaning up water at cost of economy?

The closer the nation gets to the goals set by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, the harder it becomes — and the more it is costing.

Spending for pollution abatement and control by business, consumers and government in the United States totaled $23 billion in 1973, reports the Department of Commerce. This was an increase of 18 per cent over the $19.5 billion spent in 1972 and the bulk of it — $13.2 billion — was spent by industry, and most of it went to combat water pollution.

Figures for 1974 and 1975, when they become available, will no doubt show a continuing upward trend. According to the government's Council on Environmental Quality, some industries will have to put 10 to 20 per cent of their total plant and equipment investments into pollution control to meet existing federal laws.

But not only is industry feeling a cost pinch. Municipalities were promised federal grants to cover 75 per cent of the capital cost of sewage treatment systems. These grants were to have totaled $18 billion over the last three years. Congress, however, has released only $9 billion to date.

Present indications are that 40 per cent of the nation's municipalities and 10 per cent of industry may not be able to meet the Environmental Protection Agency's July, 1977, deadline for compliance with water quality standards.

When Congress passed the amended Water Pollution Control Act, it set a series of progressively higher standards. If and when the 1977 standards are met the nation will have achieved 90 per cent of all the water quality goals envisioned in the original bill.

Already, however, there is a growing chorus of calls, not only from industry, but from labor leaders and local politicians, for a relaxation of pollution standards lest the nation's recovery from the recession be endangered.

At least one business leader has suggested a more positive way of reducing the adverse economic impact of pollution control laws in the area of water quality. F. Perry Wilson, chairman of Union Carbide Corp., proposes the creation of a "Water Quality Board" which would evaluate the progress of each industry and municipality toward the goals of clean water and identify where those goals were not being met.

"Where the goal has been achieved," he says, "the board would require additional control laws in the area of water quality. Where the goal has not been achieved, it would identify the additional technology that would have to be applied, determine its feasibility, and ascertain the desirability of the benefits expected."

Such an approach, he says, would avoid the unnecessary cost of an automatic and sweeping standard by establishing realistic and economically justifiable goals. Another solution to the dilemma is through "second generation" water pollution control equipment.

At a recent Pollution Control Roundtable, a firm reported innovations which have sliced thousands of dollars off the initial capital cost of water treatment equipment as well as energy costs and still more in annual operating costs, which better results in terms of water quality.

The nation's course over the next few years would thus seem to be, not to abandon the goal of "swimmable and fishable" water, but rather to make haste slowly so that healthy water and healthy economy may both be realized.

Judges' lawsuit is a silly case

WASHINGTON — In the Greek tradition, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi has a word for that lawsuit by 44 federal judges seeking an increase in their salaries. "I hate to say it," he said, "but I think it's a silly case."

I don't know why Levi should hate to say it. The suit not only is silly, it is dumb, absurd, asinine, foolish, senseless, witless, fatuous, undignified and uninformed. Those 44 judges should be ashamed of themselves for seeking to waste any court's time on a patently frivolous piece of litigation.

Six of the plaintiffs are U.S. Court of Appeals judges from various circuits. The other 38 are District Court

Andrew Tully

Judges from across the country. Their contention is that their salaries have been reduced by inflation to the point where they are now "unconstitutionally" underpaid. They cite Article 3, Section 1, of the Constitution which says that their compensation "shall not be diminished during their continuance in office."

Let's see now Appeals Court judges still make $44,626 a year, and District Court judges $42,000. The Appeals judges say their buying power has been reduced to $29,228 by the high cost of living. The District Court judges say their purchasing power has declined to $27,510 for the same reason.

Ah there, your lofty honours. Welcome to the ruddy club. I can't speak for the Rockefeller's, but it can be said without fear of successful contradiction that every working stiff's buying power has been eroded by inflation. Even President Ford has complained that his job doesn't provide as much walking-around money as he had anticipated.

The "yes, but" in the judges' suit, of course, is that the government can't do that to them. It can't. Their salaries have not been "diminished" during their continuance in office.

Nobody has belted them with a pay cut; indeed, the pay of federal judges has increased during the tenure of some of the plaintiffs.

Perhaps it can be argued that federal judges are worth more than they're paid. But that's up to Congress to rectify, not the courts. Meanwhile, it is not entirely irrelevant to remind those 44 robed plaintiffs that most Americans would like to see the $44,626 paid Appeals Court judges and even the paltry $42,000 earned by District Court bench warmers.

Therein lies the frivolity of the plaintiffs. They are better off than a vast majority of their fellow citizens, yet they have thechutzpah to hire Arthur Goldberg, a former Supreme Court justice, to litigate themselves a pay raise. Among other things, judges are supposed to be above such self-interest protests.

"I don't think you can read the Constitution as taking into account the changes in lifestyle and inflation," said Levi. Of course you can't. If you could, I'd sue the government for reneging on the Preamble's pledge to "insure domestic tranquility." In Hell City, the citizenry is paying for police protection it doesn't get.

Phoony on those 44 judges. What's next on their agenda — calling a strike?

Today's thought

Time Magazine recently wrote an article entitled, "How Ford Won and Reagan Lost." It was speaking of the primary that took place in New Hampshire.

When we consider life, we realize that there is a great deal of winning and losing. In life itself there is a great deal to win. There is also a great deal to lose. This makes the consideration of your life very important, particularly, when it comes not only to the external things of your life, but those which are internal.

We are accustomed to times changing, things shifting, and often, being unpredictable. The Bible, realizing this, says that when we turn to those things which have been made known to us in Christ, we do not lose heart. "Knowing that He who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also with Jesus and bring us into His presence."

Though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed every day. This momentary affliction is preparing us for an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison, because we look not to the things that are seen, but to the things that are unseen. For the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal.

How grateful we can be that God, through Christ, has introduced us to Him personally and the spiritual, unseen and eternal life.

Norman E. Swensen, pastor Trinity Covenant Church

Silly season in the U.S.A.

Lee Roderick
The Herald's
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — "Dear Mum: How are things in London? Nothing much to report from America."

Madalyn Murray O'Hair is up to her old athletic tricks and is about to get God off the radio here. Congress is going to pass a bill making it illegal for parents to force their kids to take out the garbage (Boy, do I wish we lived here!). Oh yes, and the U.S. Constitution is going to be all rewritten this year. Servo George Washington right for rebelling. Bye for now."

If a visitor were to read certain well-circulated literature making the rounds of this nation today, he might well send such a letter home to Mum. It seems that it's silly season in the U.S.A., and the silliness by no means is confined to the political campaigns.

Taking the letter to London a sentence at a time: Heaven (forgive me Father) knows how Madalyn O'Hair, the outspoken atheist, came to be accused of trying to ban religious broadcasting in America. What is a fact is that two California broadcast consultants, Lorenzo Milan and Jeremy Lamsman, in December 1974 filed a petition with the Federal Communications Commission. It sought a "freeze" on new television and FM radio licenses granted to religious institutions and reserved for educational stations.

Since then, some three million letters have flooded into the FCC's offices. A great majority of them urge the agency not to ban all religious programs from the air — something not even proposed in the petition. The FCC denied the petition last August on grounds it would infringe on First Amendment rights of freedom of religion.

At the time of the FCC decision, 200,000 letters had been received on the subject. But — get this — since the issue became a dead one, the agency has received more than twice as many additional letters. Some of them accuse Madalyn O'Hair of being behind the abortive effort (which she denies) and, not surprisingly, an FCC spokesman says more than 90 per cent of the letters were form letters.

But onward to the kids and their garbage. It seems there is legislation pending on Capitol Hill to establish a federal bureaucracy for children. Among other things, the Child and Family Services Act of 1976 would help meet the health needs of neglected pre-schoolers and provide a system of federally supported day care centers.

Many responsible opponents of the proposal, while acknowledging the legitimacy of the problems raised, believe families and private agencies, rather than Uncle Sam, should solve them.

Enter a scurrilous, ungranted filer who seeks to rewrite the Constitution in a resolution introduced by the late Rep. Jerry Pettis (R-Calif.) early in 1975 before his untimely death. Article Five of the Constitution states that the document can be amended, among other ways, on application by two-thirds of the states. Although traditionally this has been taken to mean two-thirds of the states on a single issue, Rep. Pettis decided it also meant two-thirds on any number of issues.

By July 1, 1974, a total of 289 resolutions by the requisite number of states had been passed, calling for a constitutional convention. Hence, the California Congressman introduced House Concurrent Resolution No. 28, calling for such a convention to be held in Philadelphia. The proposal was never seriously considered by Congress and today lies dead on Capitol Hill. Meanwhile, however, the familiar pattern of filers, complete with false innuendo, has again emerged. One version has it that, not only is there going to be such a convention, but that the sinister blueprint for the new American system of government already is in hand. (Among other things, the system supposedly would feature two heads of state — one an administrator and the other a figurehead.)

It appears that this particular rumor — which, again, is utterly unfounded — has been confined primarily to western states to date. But if the FCC and child care propaganda campaigns teach anything, they teach that members of Congress from other sections of the country likewise had better oil their letter-writing machines in preparation for any other silly onslaught.

Why this seems to be open season for the wildest of rumors on the tamed grounds is baffling. A guess is that, with the genuine national and false crises which will follow Watergate now behind the nation, various kooky groups in America — to justify their existence — are busy weaving threads of controversy into garments of crisis.

But by and large, they are phony garments and false crises which will fall to the wearer's feet at the first hint of a breeze carrying fact on it. And the wearer will be left as naked as the Emperor of the Hans Christian Anderson fairy tale.

The moral of this unfortunately true story: Beware from whom you buy your clothes.

"You'll be happy to know that our guest speaker has to catch a plane in twenty minutes."

NRA lobbying jeopardizing its mail rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Rifle Association's campaign against gun control legislation makes it more of a lobbying group than an educational organization, a judge has ruled, and it consequently is not entitled to preferential mail rates.

Chief Law Judge William A. Duvall upheld a 1974 Postal Service decision which classified the NRA as an "Action" organization involved in lobbying.

The NRA, founded in 1871 for persons interested in shooting and hunting, claimed only its total budget was $12.3 million and it spent only $316,786 of it on action activity.

Duvall said, however, the total budget was more than $16 million and $5.5 million to $6 million went for action. He termed this "substantial" action activity. The higher postage rates for NRA publications and letters soliciting donations or members are estimated to total about $1 million a year.

Commemorate World War II atrocity

Mourners assembled Wednesday in Rome under a huge Star of David at the Ardeatine Caves to commemorate the 32nd anniversary of the slaying of 335 hostages by Nazi troops in World War II. Credit bill amendments successfully repulsed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer and feminist leaders said Wednesday they have succeeded in defeating efforts to weaken a law that forbids discrimination against credit applicants on the basis of sex, marital status, race, religion, national origin or age. But they said amendments signed into law Tuesday by President Ford still do not contain adequate enforcement provisions. The original Equal Credit Opportunity Act, which went into effect last October, prohibited discrimination by creditors on the basis of sex or marital status. It was designed primarily to protect women credit seekers. Feminist and consumer groups charged the original law was too weak, and creditors claimed it was unduly stringent. Both groups returned to Congress seeking amendments. Kathleen O'Reilly of the Consumer Federation of America said the changes signed Tuesday marked "a victory" over the creditors. "On balance," she said, "it was the strongest bill we could ever get in this political year."

Landmark being dismantled
A landmark of a bygone era will be coming down shortly as workers prepare to dismantle the Somerset Railroad trestle near Bingham, Maine, which was built in 1904. The 125-foot tall trestle spanned 700 feet across the Gulf Stream to carry summer people from Boston and New York to vacations in Moosehead Lake and the Hotel Kineo. It was last used by pulp trucks hauling logs to pulp mills in 1936. (UPI photo)

Forest resources are renewable: the nation today has 759 million acres of forest land — a remarkable fact since it represents three-fourths of what forest was here when Columbus discovered the New World.

Minimum liquor price repeal bill rejected

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee has decided to maintain minimum prices on liquor sold in Connecticut. The decision Wednesday by the legislative Liquor Control Committee was preceded by a public hearing attended by about 500 angry liquor retailers and liquor wholesalers who opposed the measure. Liquor salesmen must charge certain minimum prices on all products under present law. The proposal would have allowed dealers to set their own prices. Rep. William A. Collins, D-Norwalk, and Charles Hamm of Stonington, a liquor-refiner, were among the few favoring the measure. Collins said it would benefit consumers if we had free and open competition, for lower prices. He said most people won't drive very far to buy liquor and the convenience of small stores "will keep most of the people in this room in business."

Hamm, owner of Hamm's Wine Cellar, said the state loses $5 million annually in liquor taxes because people drive to neighboring states, where prices are lower, to buy their liquor. Small dealers need price protection from large liquor chains if they are not to be driven out of business, several retail store owners told the committee.

George J. Montano, a state liquor commissioner, was among the many opposing the measure. The commission issues liquor permits. The committee gave initial approval to a measure allowing alcohol to be sold on election day. The bill went to the Senate.

Goolagong working harder on net game

BOSTON (UPI) — Evonne Goolagong is making tennis look easy again because she's working harder than ever.

The 24-year-old Australian is the favorite as the $75,000 Virginia Slims tennis tournament moves into tonight's quarterfinal round at Boston University's Walter Brown Arena.

"I'm trying harder in every match this year," said the right-handed Australian who is seeking her fourth Slims title of the season. "I was very consistent tonight (Wednesday). And I was pleased last week in winning the Dallas Slims because I played well in every match. This is the longest I've played consistently well."

Countrywoman Dianne Fromholtz is also playing the best tennis of her short pro career. The 19-year-old left-hander from Sydney, still largely unknown in the United States, played Tuesday upset of top-seeded Chris Evert, stopped South Africa's Greer Stevens Wednesday, 6-4, 6-3.

Messersmith fails to land big pact

NEW YORK (UPI) — Andy Messersmith's negotiations to land a big contract as a free agent haven't come close so far to touching off the bidding war that ended when Jim Hunter signed his record $2.8 million five-year pact with the New York Yankees.

The Cincinnati Reds said, "thanks, but no thanks" to an offer by Messersmith Tuesday and it was the Los Angeles Dodgers' turn Wednesday to play it cool with their former 20-game winner.

Dodgers President Peter O'Malley revealed Wednesday that he was making an offer in excess of a half-million dollars over a three-year period. He said Messersmith turned down the offer, and added, "I don't expect to make another offer."

O'Malley didn't reveal the specific terms of the Dodgers' offer, except to say that it was in excess of $500,000, but he said the club's final offer to Messersmith last December before the pitcher entered arbitration was a "$450,000 contract for three years, calling for $150,000, $170,000 and $200,000 beginning in 1978, which would have made it retroactive."

Herb Osmond, Messersmith's agent, has said he will file a suit on behalf of the Players Association with Judge John Oliver's federal court in Kansas City, Mo., Thursday, charging the owners with collusion in not bidding for the star pitcher—a charge O'Malley said "is ridiculous."

"I did Herb I thought he did not have a leg to stand on," said O'Malley. "He has said he has two clubs, who will top or match anything offered, plus he has three or four other offers."

"That doesn't sound like collusion to me," O'Malley concluded. "To call it collusion is ridiculous."

The Dodgers, meanwhile, defeated the Montreal Expos, 13-4, Wednesday, as Bill Buckner drove in three runs.

The Kansas City Royals beat the Texas Rangers, 8-3, in a game during which wind played havoc with fly balls. Outfielder-first baseman Pete LaCock drove in three runs with two doubles in the Chicago Cubs' 9-6 triumph over the San Diego Padres. Von Joshua's fifth-inning homer powered the San Francisco Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Fine field enters Heritage Classic

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — One of the finest fields ever gathered for a "nonmajor" tournament squared off today in the $25,000 Heritage Classic.

Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Hale Irwin, winner of the past five Heritage Classics, head a star-spangled group that includes the top 23 golfers on this year's PGA money list.

Nicklaus, the defending champion, was the favorite. The "Golden Bear" Thursday, charging the owners with collusion in not bidding for the star pitcher—a charge O'Malley said "is ridiculous."

The field for the Heritage is stronger than that for the Masters. It has taken a big name golfer to win here each year since Arnold Palmer won the inaugural Heritage in 1969.

Kennedy says pupil drop does not reduce budget

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter
Declining student enrollment in Manchester's public schools hasn't been much help in cutting the costs of local education, School Supt. James Kennedy told the Board of Directors Wednesday night.

Kennedy, questioned by Director Jack Goldberg about why costs are going up while student enrollment is declining, said there would have to be a large drop in enrollment before significant savings could be realized.

Trying to hold school spending in line with enrollment has been a persistent problem, Kennedy said, and it will be a problem for many years.

The predicted 137-student decline is spread throughout town, he said, and represents less than one student per classroom. If the decline occurred all in one area of town, there would be a savings, he said.

"Unless it (the enrollment decline) falls just right," Kennedy said, "we can't save on our largest expense—salaries. And there's no saving in fixed costs."

"If we could close a school we could show significant savings on salaries and operating costs. But closing schools is a traumatic thing," Kennedy said, explaining widespread adverse reaction to talk about closing South School this fall.

"If we could pick and choose where to put our students, and could drop our costs, we'd have to drop the neighborhood school concept for costs to go down," Kennedy said.

The Board of Education has tried to save money—on pupil transportation—by shifting opening hours of several schools for 1976-1977, Kennedy said. But nobody's sure the money will work, and it is expected to be traumatic for families who have become accustomed to certain school hours.

Kennedy's remarks came at the second joint meeting of the Board of Directors and the Board of Education. The first, March 1, came as the school board asked for a 1976-1977 school appropriation of $14,150,063. The second came after Town Manager Robert Weiss cut the request by $30,000, or a recommended $13,850,063.

Weiss, explaining why he "reluctantly" cut the school board's request, said he expects a $24,000 revenue shortfall in 1976-1977. He said he is recommending a total budget which will require a tax rate increase of 5.98 mills. He also said he is recommending a capital improvement budget of $22,250, most of it for the town sidewalk program and none of it for the Board of Education's proposed projects.

Weiss said that the total budget increase he recommends is divided among education, 45 per cent; fixed town government costs, 26 per cent; and general town increases to maintain services, 29 per cent.

Board of Education Chairman Allan Thomas, seeking restoration of the $300,000 cut from the school spending plan, asked directors to consider a special, one-time expense of $122,000 to open the Regional Occupational Training Center. With that amount coming out of the school budget, the actual budget increase from 1975-1976 to 1976-1977 would only be about 5.9 per cent, Thomas said. The school board seeks an 8.9 per cent increase.

Thomas also argued for restoration of anticipated state Instant Lottery proceeds as a special appropriation to the school board instead of Weiss' recommendation to put that money into the regular school budget. He said he believes the Instant Lottery money should be part of the regular school budget, but if the town council rules otherwise he will just slice that money—about $187,000—from his $13,850,063 recommendation.

Wednesday night's one-hour meeting consisted mostly of educators' defense of their spending plan. Directors had a few questions, and Republican Director Paul Willhide again took the "hard line" on school spending, refusing to vote for any increase and calling local school budget "exorbitant."

The current school budget of $13 million represents a per-pupil expenditure of about $1,460. Weiss' recommendation of $13,850,063 represents a per-pupil expenditure of about $1,429 for 1976-1977. And if he cuts the Instant Lottery proceeds from his recommendation, the remaining $13,662,320 would mean a per-pupil expenditure of about $1,409.

Mayor gives budget details

Vernon
 Although Mayor Thomas Benoit's proposed $5.5 million budget would raise taxes nine mills, he had already cut many items from the proposals of his departments.

He gave details of his budget and how he prepared it.

Refuse collection
 The superintendent of the sewage treatment plant requested a $1,200 salary increase and the mayor proposes an increase of $1,191 for a salary of $14,941.

Top salaries
 Other department heads and their proposed salaries, with the current salary in brackets are: Town engineer, $19,178 ($17,504); building inspector, $16,372 ($14,941); sanitation inspector, $12,811 ($11,795); housing code inspector, $11,366 ($10,137); director of social services, $7,259 ($7,250); director of recreation, $16,601 ($15,153); town planner, $18,329 ($14,000).

Buildings
 In the budget for maintenance of general government buildings the mayor deleted many requests for improvements. The Public Works Department asked for $61,000 to tear down its old office building and replace it with a new two-story building to connect both garages. It would be an additional $25,000 for a full basement.

Seniors' car
 Under the Senior Citizen portion of the recreation budget there was a request for a compact car to operate the dial-a-ride program. This was deleted along with requests for a cost

Only a 6-mill tax hike, vow leaders

South Windsor
 Still reeling from what could be a 10-mill increase, South Windsor councilmen Tuesday night agreed to attempt to keep any tax increase under six mills.

The Town Council agreed the school board budget request with a 2.8-mill increase should be cut to no more than a 1.5-mill increase.

Of the requested 7.3-mill increase in the general government budget, hopefully councilmen will cut to 3.5 mills.

Councilman David Cohen said the Ellsworth School should be closed. This would save about $100,000 per year.

School Supt. Robert Goldman said he has not decided yet whether to recommend the closing of the Old Main Street School. However, both Goldman and board chairman Donald Berghuis agree the closing of the Ellsworth School seems most

Lake St. residents oppose project

Vernon
 Concerned with its effect on wetlands, on drainage, groundwater levels, wells, and the wildlife in the area, some 50 residents of the Lake St. area opposed a plan for an 84-foot subdivision off Lake St.

Opposition was expressed at a public hearing of the Conservation Commission Tuesday night.

The commission's only concern is with the wetlands regulations. Any other concerns of the proposed plan go to the Planning Commission.

The Conservation Commission is expected to issue its decision on the wetlands portion sometime next week.

Zollo's to reopen on same site

Coventry
MONICA SHEA
 Zollo's Supermarket will reopen within six months, said Bruce Zollo Wednesday night.

Zollo, co-owner with his father Ben Zollo of Zollo's in the Meadowbrook Shopping Center on Rt. 44A, said he and his father intend to reopen as soon as possible.

"We are working on the situation now to see how we stand as far as insurance goes. We are going to reopen on the same site," said the son.

"We estimate four to six months before we can reopen. We have no intentions of opening a store on another site as a temporary thing."

"We are adequately insured to cover our losses. Our business interruption insurance would provide paychecks for key men and pay our taxes."

The store employed 29 persons, 10 full time, 19 part time. The state fire marshal's office has not yet offered a cause of the fire. The office has taken samples. "There had been a fire a couple of months ago on the roof of the DevCo offices in the cooling unit," said Ben Zollo. "We have a similar cooling unit and heating units that are fired by gas."

Zollo was able to get the store's safe out of the rubble. "I was always cash a check for me no matter how big. I don't know what I will do now."

Work crews are on the site yesterday and were on the site all day yesterday cleaning up the mess. Most of the store's contents has been cleaned and the remainder will be cleared as quickly as possible.

The rubble of the store is being carted to the Coventry landfill. It is being compacted and covered with earth.

It is estimated the store rubble is equal to about a month's use of the landfill area.

Town records show the total value of the store's contents furnishings and fixtures as well as stock on hand as $106,770.

The store itself is assessed about $100,000.

Arrest follows Bolton burglary

State Trooper Al Meckel of the Colchester Barracks was on routine patrol on Rt. 44 this morning at 1:45 p.m. when he apparently came on the scene of a burglary in progress at the A-1 Service Station, said police.

A man had kicked in the door of the station's restroom and cut a hole in the restroom ceiling when Meckel arrived. The man fled.

After three hours of search and investigation, police arrested James B. Boudreau, 23, of Colchester about a half mile from the scene.

Boudreau is charged with third-degree burglary. He is being held in lieu of $5,000 surety bond for appearance today in Common Pleas Court 19 in Rockville.

Brush fire season

Hebron
 Fire Chief William V. Borst said the Hebron Volunteer Fire Department is concerned about the upcoming brush fire season.

Last spring, careless burning and children caused a large number of brush, grass and woods fires, he said.

Borst said these fires are "serious business" which cause much damage to property, and tie up men and apparatus which might be needed for structure fires and emergency medical responses.

Most important, they cause injury, he said.

Last year, three Hebron fire fighters were injured while fighting brush fires.

Open burning is not allowed in the state without a permit. For Hebron, that permit must be obtained from the Department of Environmental Protection in Hartford, said Borst.

The chief asks parents to warn their children about the danger of playing with matches.

"Unfortunately, we are going to have to refer those responsible for these first to the DEP or the state police," said Borst.

Water firm seeks 60% hike

Coventry
 The South Coventry Water Supply Co. is seeking a 60 per cent rate hike. The state Public Utilities Control Authority set a hearing date of April 13 in Room 565A, State Office Building, Capitol Ave., Hartford at 9:30 a.m.

The firm's request filed with the authority Dec. 16 said the rate hike would increase its revenues by $4,370 per year.

A typical residential customer using 2,400 cubic feet of water per quarter would be increased on an annual basis from $87.36 to $139.96.

The authority will hear all interested persons and consider all relevant testimony at the hearing.

Blackstone attacks bill

East Hartford
 Mayor Richard H. Blackstone, president of the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities, today urged the legislature's Education Committee to reject compulsory binding arbitration for teachers.

The bill would "emasculate" local government, he said.

It would give the power to make "the fundamental decisions of government" to an outside third party, the arbitrator, he said.

The arbitrator would have control over such decisions as local budgets, the level town services, and property taxes. And he would have "no political accountability whatever," Blackstone said.

"There would be no way for the voters to get back at him as they can

Blackstone attacks bill

at their elected officials," he added.

Backers of the bill "are kidding themselves if they think this mechanism can or will guarantee that strikes will not occur when a union doesn't like an arbitration award."

"How would an illegal strike then be any different from an illegal strike now?" he asks.

Binding arbitration is "a one-sided weapon which only the town or city is absolutely compelled to comply with," he said.

"The CCM president urged support for a limited right to strike for teachers. The CCM proposal calls for mandatory mediation and fact-finding, 10-day strike notice, use of injunctions, mandatory suspension of the dues checkoff in illegal strikes and other conditions."

Bishops call abortion a 'violent solution'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Roman Catholic bishops Wednesday called abortion a "violent solution" that offers a quick answer to a problem pregnancy but has irreparable consequences in terms of loss of human life.

Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardini, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Cardinal Terence Cooke, who chairs the group's Committee for Pro-Life Activities, said abortion "degrades the respect for life that is necessary for the well-being of the human spirit of all men and women alike."

In testimony before a House judiciary subcommittee considering several anti-abortion amendments, the bishops did not endorse a specific proposal. But they said Congress should act to "establish that the unborn child is a person... in terms of the Constitution from conception on" and make the right to life "unalienable."

"The violent solution of abortion attracts because it promises the quick and sure solution," the bishops said. "However, the cost in human lives is irreparable. It necessarily leads to the destruction of the human spirit. One cannot kill or condone the killing of a fellow human being without suffering one's soul a humanly irreparable loss."

Earlier the attorney for Boston gynecologist Kenneth Edelin, convicted of manslaughter in the death of a fetus, said it is necessary to let the courts resolve problem areas in the 1973 Supreme Court's abortion ruling rather than prohibit abortion by constitutional amendment.

William P. Homans Jr., said the Supreme Court was "deliberately vague" in defining viability as "the point at which a fetus presumably has the capability of meaningful life outside the mother's womb."

New gun control bill okayed by subcommittee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House crime subcommittee Wednesday approved a new gun control bill which would ban the manufacture, sale and importation of cheap, handguns and impose mandatory sentences on criminals using handguns.

The bill is in most respects identical to a tough handgun control which the full House Judiciary Committee recommended to the subcommittee this month.

The subcommittee approved the bill 5 to 2 after adopting a handgun ban amendment offered by Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill. The vote on the controversial amendment was 4 to 3.

The McClory amendment would ban cheap, concealable handguns, commonly known as "Saturday night specials".

Marie Lindsay, shopping for house plants, saw a large columnea, with hanging branches of lovely flowers on all sides and thought she would very much like to have it. The cost, as she remembers it, was $16 or perhaps $18.

The shop was Buell's Greenhouse in Ashford, widely known for the African violets that the Buells grow, but they also grow columnea and other related plants. Alfred Buell happened to wait on Mrs. Lindsay and, while he would have been willing to sell her the expensive large columnea, he suggested that it would be better for her to start with a small one.

The price was $1. It would take some time for the plant to reach blooming size. He pointed out, however, that if she lost the plant, for any reason, her loss would be correspondingly small.

While not recalling this particular transaction he said that they are inexperienced. Mrs. Lindsay bought the small columnea.

It is in a hanging pot in the window above her kitchen sink where perhaps the extra humidity in this location benefits the foliage. The blossoms are trumpet-shaped and a deep yellow color, almost orange. As a blossom fades, another bud swells and opens. The blooming period continues several weeks.

The plant has bloomed several times and continues to grow. Some day it may reach the size of the $16 plant she first admired.

Was 4-H Club champion
Marie was a 4-H Club member and at the age of 11 won a championship with her vegetable exhibit at the Hartford County 4-H Club Fair. The next year she had the reserve championship, losing the top award by a single point "to a boy." It was a shocking disappointment.

Mrs. Lindsay says her club was called the Manchester 4-H Leaders and she thinks she might volunteer as a club leader some day when her children reach 4-H Club age.

From their vegetable garden, the Lindsays have had green beans, tomatoes, peppers, Swiss chard and onions, besides the produce they are freshly picked. She likes to freeze, rather than can, tomatoes. She blanches them to remove the skins, cuts them in half and puts them in the freezer in containers.

When she takes the tomatoes out of the freezer she uses them for stewed tomatoes or tomato sauce.

The Lindsays raised potatoes on Lake St. several years, but Mrs. Lindsay says they have given up this project. After the work of planting, cultivating and hilling, spraying, and

Her grandfather, Anthony Tournand, had a commercial greenhouse for many years on Lake St., where he raised house plants and bedding plants for sale. Marie liked to help her grandfather with his work and a family story is that, at the age of six, then digging the potatoes, she is sure "you can buy them cheaper."

Legislators propose 'Tomorrow Commission'

HARTFORD (UPI)—Connecticut should set up a "Tomorrow Commission" to establish guidelines for the state's future development, two top Democratic and Republican leaders have urged.

"We're hoping to get the public's opinion of what we want to be and how much that ideal will cost," Senate Majority Leader Joseph I. Lieberman and Minority Leader Lawrence J. DeNardis, both of New Haven, said.

"The public would have a forum to discuss the level of services the government should be providing and their willingness to accept the costs," said DeNardis, a Republican, and Lieberman, a Democrat.

"The state's decision makers would be provided with the public's view of goals, assets and liabilities, and growth strategies for the state," they said.

State accused of prejudicing case of Bridgeport jai alai promoter

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut officials intentionally disclosed sensitive information to prejudice the case against Bridgeport jai alai promoter David Friend, according to Friend's lawyers.

Attorney Jacob Zeldes submitted to Superior Court Judge Simon Cohen a two-foot-high stack of evidence Wednesday in support of a motion to dismiss a perjury charge against Friend because of the publicity surrounding the scandal.

Friend has pleaded innocent to a charge he lied under oath when he claimed he paid $250,000 cash to the late National Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey to expedite the jai alai license. The $16 million facility primarily is financed by Teamster Union pension funds.

Cohen rejected Zeldes' request to close off the hearing on the motion to the public and reporters, but he ordered all the evidence in the case be kept secret until further notice.

There has been conscious generation of publicity in this case, Zeldes said as he introduced stories on the jai alai scandal by 14 news-gathering organizations, including United Press International.

Friend is on a $15,000 bond while awaiting trial on two perjury charges and one of financial misrepresentation.

Zeldes also submitted affidavits from Gov. Ella T. Grasso, Senate President Pro Tem Joseph Fusillo, D-Hartford, Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer and statements issued by the Special Revenue Commission, in charge of state legalized gambling.

But Zeldes, sticking to his policy of not making statements about the case outside the court, would not tell reporters what the affidavits contained, at least before it was made public.

McMann was on duty Jan. 12 when a five-hour meeting of the Special Revenue Commission, in charge of Connecticut's legalized gambling operations, was held. He was called to the stand as Superior Court assistant clerk Kevin McMann.

McMann testified that he had 20 to 25 copies of his report which he distributed to reporters in the court.

Zeldes said when the hearing resumed March 21, he will call the Superior Court Judge Harold Malvey, had 20 to 25 copies of his report which he distributed to reporters in the court.

Compromise election bill approved by U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has succeeded in passing a compromise election law reform bill, which is quite different from the House Administration Committee bill, which is quite different from the Senate's.

The House could complete action by midweek and a joint conference committee would have to hammer out differences in the two measures, get concurrence in each house and send it to the White House before presidential candidates can again start drawing federal matching campaign funds.

Bill opposed banning race data transmissions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress should kill a bill outlawing interstate transmission of race information, says the chairman of Connecticut's Commission on Special Revenue.

Paul Silvergold Wednesday told the House subcommittee on transportation and commerce passage of the legislation would cost Connecticut badly needed revenue.

He said the bill would cost the state of Connecticut, the General Investment Corp. and New York race tracks countless millions of dollars by preventing the opening of off-track betting parlors in the state.

He said his commission, which supervises legalized gambling in the state, has signed contracts with organizations representing five New York race tracks and with a subsidiary of General Investment for operation of the OTB program.

Connecticut has no horse racing track of its own.

He said the commission, which Gov. Ella T. Grasso has proposed restructuring, anticipates the opening of the first dozen OTB offices next month.

House approves statute concerning generic drugs

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut House has approved a bill letting pharmacists substitute cheaper generic drugs for brand-name prescription drugs, unless the buyers object.

The measure, passed 122-21 and sent to the Senate Wednesday, allows the exchange for generic drugs with the same biological impact only if they are less expensive than the prescribed drugs.

The House removed provisions in the bill that would have exempted pharmacists and doctors from suits should the substitute prove to be harmful.

Much of the debate centered on the question of the competence of pharmacists to substitute drugs without the doctor's extensive knowledge of the patient's medical history.

Rep. Albert R. Weber, D-New Haven, saying brand-name drugs often are much more expensive than the same drug sold under a generic name, claimed the bill would "reduce the cost of drugs, pharmacists substitute cheaper generic drugs for brand-name prescription drugs, unless the buyers object."

Rep. Vito M. Mazza, D-West Haven, said "cost is not the main factor."

Mazza cited statistics indicating doctors often prescribe drugs which cause serious side effects, problems he said would be aggravated by passage of the bill.

Approved on 84-44 and sent to the Senate was a measure allowing removal of organs from persons who have volunteered as organ donors once they suffer "permanent and irreversible cessation of brain function."

Limited charges supported

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill setting a 15 per cent annual limit on finance charges has gotten the endorsement of two citizens' groups.

Raphael I. Podolsky, of Connecticut Legal Services, Wednesday told the General Laws Committee his group favored a 12 per cent limit, but the legislation was acceptable since some firms were currently charging much higher rates.

Shirli Axelrod, of the Connecticut Citizens Action Group, said the bill was a better one than a measure before the Senate Committee which would set a 2 1/2 per cent limit.

Podolsky, who said "it is not unusual to see rates of 25 and 30 per cent," said the legislation "was not unreasonable."

"We believe that a 12 per cent rate is the preferable limit, but the 15 per cent limit is not unreasonable and I support the bill," he said.

"The 15 per cent interest rate is justifiable," said Miss Axelrod. "It will cost millions."

Radioactive shipment hearing set

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature's Environment and Natural Resources Committee will hold a public hearing on a bill to regulate shipments of radioactive materials through Connecticut.

The lawmakers Wednesday scheduled a hearing for April 2 on the bill, which would require firms shipping radioactive materials to notify state officials with specifics about the shipment and the route it would take.

The issue was raised earlier this month when a shipment of nuclear waste from Brookhaven Laboratory on Long Island destined for South Carolina was routed through Connecticut.

Environmentalists expressed concerns that adequate safeguards were not being maintained and the protection for the shipment was inadequate.

Rep. John W. Anderson, D-Newtown, told the committee the measure was needed to guarantee state officials were always aware such shipments were in Connecticut.

"The mechanics of shipping radioactive waste have not been addressed," he said.

"This would not restrict anyone," he said. "There is just an awful lot being shipped through the state without our knowledge."

Environmental Commissioner Joseph N. Gill said the committee would postpone a decision on the bill pending action by a task force appointed by Gov. Ella T. Grasso on the subject.

Gold case summations start

Waterbury (UPI) — The last words heard by the jury as the defense in Murray R. Gold murder trial rested its case Wednesday were spoken by Rhoda Pasternak, a wife of the defendant.

"Yes," Mrs. Pasternak said. Then the telephone went dead.

Mrs. Pasternak's call to the police followed a call at 9:10 p.m. from one of the Pasternaks' three daughters, Mrs. Myrna Kahan.

Mrs. Kahan's words to the police were: "33 Fern Street. Right above the tennis courts. My father just opened the door. I heard my father say, 'Get away from me.'"

After the tape recordings were heard in Waterbury Superior Court, the couple had returned home shortly before from Yom Kippur services.

Mrs. Pasternak, whose body was found in the bedroom near the telephone, said in a frantic tone of voice: "33 Fern Street, please. There's a crazy man up here."
