

Carter scores big win

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jimmy Carter, from the Deep South, scored an overwhelming victory in the industrial North by sweeping Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary. He may have buried the presidential hopes of Henry Jackson and Morris Udall — and perhaps Hubert Humphrey.

Declaring to his fellow Georgians today "we finally won at Gettysburg," Carter predicted his stunning twin victories in both the popular and delegate voting would propel him to a first-ballot convention victory in July.

Asked today whether he thought Humphrey, the man who wasn't there in Pennsylvania, should remain on the sidelines or now declare his candidacy, Carter said crisply: "I don't care."

Not only did the former Georgia governor crush Jackson and Udall with his across-the-state triumph, he may have foiled the scenario plotted by Humphrey supporters — work for a deadlocked convention that would turn to the veteran from Minnesota.

Even Humphrey conceded Carter's win was "significant," but he warned the front-runner that there were a lot of votes to be reaped before July.

It was Carter's seventh and most important primary win, and came despite the efforts of labor leaders and party chiefs to derail his bandwagon.

Jackson had said Carter could not win a big northern industrial state, but the veteran senator from Washington even was badly beaten in the delegate race he had expected to win, apparently finishing tied for fourth with Gov. Milton Shapp behind undecided delegates and Udall.

At 9:30 a.m. EDT, with 99 per cent of the vote counted, it was:
 Carter: 498,158 - 37 per cent.
 Jackson: 333,501 - 25 per cent.
 Udall: 254,276 - 19 per cent.
 Wallace: 153,668 - 11 per cent.
 McCormack: 39,123 - 3 per cent.
 Shapp: 35,730 - 3 per cent.
 Day: 16,826 - 1 per cent.
 Harris: 13,755 - 1 per cent.

In the delegate count with 89 per cent of the vote in Carter had 65, Udall 23, Jackson and Shapp 17 each, and Wallace 3. There were 46 uncommitted delegates.

Tuesday night, after the scope of his win became apparent, Carter told jubilant supporters, "I think we're going to win on the first ballot. We're No. 1 now and we're going to stay No. 1."

And at a news conference this morning in Philadelphia, Carter — seeking to become the first southerner elected president since the Civil War — said, "I'm very at ease with the other candidates, including Senator Humphrey," and hoped the Minnesotan would endorse him.

Carter joined the complaints of his rivals that money has become a critical problem since federal matching funds have been cut off. "I've expended myself as far as I can," he said, noting that he had plowed much of his own money, including a $100,000 personal note, into the Pennsylvania campaign.

Jackson said he was changing his strategy and would go directly to the people instead of the "gimmicky and pressing-the-flesh" of the campaign to date, and indicated money would become a bigger problem for him in the wake of his disappointing showing in Pennsylvania.

And Udall, although he said he would battle all the way to Madison Square Garden, also was crying the money blues. His treasure chest is empty and he has been forced to spend $10,000 for television time to plead for campaign contributions.

President Ford, untested in the GOP primary, can rely on the 84 uncommitted delegates elected Tuesday and 19 more to be picked later by state leaders if there is a convention showdown with Ronald Reagan. Counting New York and Pennsylvania uncommitted, Ford is 26 delegates short of a majority — and the uncommitteds will jump quickly on his bandwagon.

Democrats elected 134 delegates, with 44 to be allocated later on the basis of Tuesday's popular vote. Carter has predicted he will go to the convention with 1,000 delegates — about 500 short of a majority — and the uncommitteds will jump quickly on his bandwagon.

Backers of noncandidate Hubert Humphrey had hoped Jackson could stop Carter and keep alive the scenario that a deadlocked convention would turn to the veteran from Minnesota. Even Humphrey conceded Carter's victory was "significant," but warned the front-runner "it's a long time until July."

Pennsylvanians also picked Rep. William Green as the Democratic nominee for retiring Sen. Hugh Scott's seat, but the Republican battle between Rep. John Heinz and former Philadelphia district Attorney Arlen Specter ran undecided into the early morning hours.

Jackson, saying "I have no excuses, I just didn't get my message across," pledged a dramatic shift in campaign strategy away from gimmicky and handshaking.

Commentary
The surplus
 By SOL R. COHEN

The Town of Manchester now has its second expert opinion on how to handle surplus funds and it agrees with the one received three weeks ago — to use it as a revenue item when adopting annual budgets.

The opinion three weeks ago was from UConn's Institute of Public Service, following a review of Manchester budget procedures. The latest and concurring one is from the Connecticut Public Expenditures Council (CPEC), also following a review of Manchester's budget procedures.

The reviews were at the request of the Board of Directors, following an audit report which showed a surplus in excess of $500,000 for 1974-75. When the board adopted the current budget, it didn't know of the big surplus and increased the tax rate by 1.35 mills. The reports are intended to give the directors better control of revenue and expenditure figures, when budgeting in May for fiscal years beginning July 1.

UConn Professor George E. Hill acknowledged utilization of surplus is an area where experts disagree and the CPEC acknowledges it is "subject to philosophical differences."

However, the two agree that cash surplus should be declared as revenue and available for income when adopting a budget.

Town Manager Robert Weiss is one of those with a "philosophically different" approach to surpluses. He believes it should be carried over for emergency spending, when the situation calls for it.

Hill warned against carrying large surpluses "to act as safety valves in a year when everything went sour."

He warned, "Where there are large surplus balances carried over each year, the tendency is to promote a climate of affluence in funding new and expanded programs during the fiscal year."

In other words, the availability of surplus funds (unallocated) spurs unnecessary spending.

The CPEC reports states, "In our opinion, there would be no more risk associated with anticipating surplus as a revenue item for the next year than there is risk associated with estimating property taxes, federal or state grants or any other revenue item."

The CPEC recommends that the budget should contain a revenue item called "estimated cash surplus," which would include accounts receivable, and not merely a revenue item called "surplus." Weiss' argument has been that surplus doesn't exist (even though it's identified) until the controller says it exists.

The philosophical question of how to use surplus is especially moot and topical this week and next. The directors have until May 7 to adopt budgets and set tax rates for 1976-77. Failure to do so by then would make Weiss' proposals the legal ones.

Last year, when the directors added 1.35 mills to the General Fund tax rate, they utilized $49,000 from surplus as revenue. Soon after, they learned that somewhere between $300,000 and $500,000 would be declared as surplus in the 1974-75 audit.

This year, with almost $300,000 in combined cash and accounts receivable surplus still unappropriated (plus an undetermined amount of surplus anticipated from the 1975-76 current budget), Weiss is recommending that $25,000 be utilized from surplus as revenue in next year's budget.

Each mill in the tax rate is equivalent to about $300,000 in revenue.

Ford says Reagan defense views make him unfit for presidency

TYLER, Tex. (UPI) — President Ford said today Ronald Reagan's statements about national defense make him unfit for the presidency.

In his bluntest attack yet on his rival for the Republican presidential nomination, Ford referred to Reagan's former movie career, saying, "There are no retakes in the Oval Office. Glibness is not good enough; superficiality is not good enough."

Ford, in a speech written for delivery at Tyler Junior College, said, "Obviously we should exercise great caution before heeding the words of a man who obviously has no experience and little understanding of the complexity of national defense matters. Superficial arguments based on incomplete knowledge are fundamentally harmful rather than helpful."

Ford said, "Somewhere between the snows of New Hampshire and the sunny climes down in Florida," Reagan realized he had failed to make a case against the President's economic program so he switched to criticism of the U.S. defense policy.

"I've been down the campaign trail before and I know there's a reason why a challenger will try to shift his attack. It's called second place. It makes you try harder — and swing wilder, too."

The President, on his longest drive of the campaign this year, hopes for a record turnout to upset Reagan in the May 1 Texas primary and end

Reagan's challenge for the GOP nomination.

"He (Reagan) glibly quotes statistics without any in-depth understanding of them," and makes false charges of U.S. defense weakness, Ford said.

He said Reagan's call for parallel defense policy would mean America must return to the draft and put into uniform two million men and women.

"No reputable military expert I know has suggested such a course of action. Such a policy, if you could call it that, would undermine rather than strengthen our defenses," Ford said.

Charges dropped against Mrs. Fowler

All charges against Mrs. Rose Fowler, former chairman of the Coventry Town Council, were dropped yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas at Rockville.

Mrs. Fowler was charged Aug. 27 with unauthorized sale of liquor; sale of liquor to minors, and sale of liquor on days of closing.

Joseph Fowler, who had been similarly charged, pleaded guilty to a charge of unauthorized sale of liquor and paid a $30 fine. Two charges against Fowler were nolle.

Six are arrested in drug raid

Six persons were arrested on drug charges Tuesday night when Manchester Police raided a Squire Village apartment and seized $400 worth of heroin and a small amount of marijuana, Detective Capt. Joseph Sartor said today.

Arrested were:
 • Juan D. Montegudo, 16, and Joseph J. Montegudo, 23, both of 44D Channing Dr. (Squire Village), each charged with sale and possession of a narcotic substance (heroin).
 • Carlos A. Martinez, 20, and Michael J. Roman, 19, both of Hartford, each charged with possession of a narcotic substance (heroin).
 • Jane M. Fawcett, 17, and Pamela M. Dambrosio, 17, both of Bristol, each charged with possession of a narcotic substance (heroin).

Park nears completion

A People's Park, one of many Bicentennial projects planned for this year at Manchester Community College (MCC), will be completed Saturday through the efforts of a combined volunteer force of students and members of the college staff.

The park is located in a pine grove at the Hillstown Rd. end of the campus near the college soccer field and the Regional Occupational Training Center.

When completed, the People's Park will have ten picnic tables and three playground units for children including a fort, a climbing pyramid, and parallel bars.

All of the equipment will be constructed of wood.

Fireplaces will not be provided and fires will not be allowed. An agreement has been made with the Town of Manchester allowing picnickers to park in the ROTC lot once it is finished.

An effort has been made to retain the natural appearance of the 1 1/2-acre park.

The People's Park will be ready for use about June 1, and will accommodate 40 persons. It will be available to members of the community as well as the college students and staff.

The college has already presented several Bicentennial programs and more are planned. The next function will be a Revolutionary period costume ball, sponsored by the art club, later this spring.

Bicentennial relays and other track events will be held June 26 and 27.

They pipe her into retirement

More than 100 friends and co-workers of Mrs. Helen McCartney of 37 Lancaster Rd. were at the Colony recently to express their best wishes to her on her retirement from Manchester Memorial Hospital. Retiring as outpatient business supervisor, Mrs. McCartney began work at the hospital in 1957 as a cashier and billing clerk. In 1965 she transferred to the emergency department where she served for one year as a receptionist. In 1966, Mrs. McCartney was asked to create an outpatient billing department and be its supervisor, the position she has held until her official retirement on Friday. A charter member of the MMH Credit Union, she has served as its president and treasurer, and as a member of its Board of Trustees. She was born in Scotland and is a member of the Daughters of Scotia. Because of her Scottish heritage, she was entertained by members of the Manchester Pipe Band and Scottish dancers. Mrs. McCartney's future plans are to travel to Indiana and Australia.

Tire-recycling program urged

Last week, during a discussion concerning Manchester's landfill operation, Town Manager Robert Weiss asked the Board of Directors to consider a tire-recycling program. He said it would help extend the life of the landfill area. He was told to check programs in other towns and make recommendations for disposal bins, where old tires may be left for shipment to Naugatuck, the center of the tire-recycling program. Director of Public Works Jay Giles told the directors the year 2000 is still the life expectancy date for the landfill area, but alerted them to the possibility of extending that date — with the recycling of paper, glass and tires. Giles said one of the problems he foresees is the need of landfill material in a few years. Giles and Weiss recommended the purchase of a land adjacent to the refuse disposal area — land which is several feet high and which could furnish landfill material. The directors, several years ago, turned down purchasing the adjacent area.

Only cut in budget would close school

It appears the Manchester Board of Education and school administrators prefer not to close South School this year, although closing of the five-room facility may be forced by budget cuts. The school board has not officially discussed the possible closing, Board Chairman Allan Thomas said today, and it won't until the town Board of Directors decides the 1976-1977 school budget. If South School is closed this year, Thomas said, it will be only as a cost-cutting move, even though closing the school has been talked about for five years and is considered inevitable someday. Community opposition to the possible closing has been mounting since last month, when School Supt. James Kennedy renewed talk about the plan. Monday night, the school board received a 322-signature petition opposing the closing. Valerie DeQuatro of 49 Arvine Pl., Manchester, presented the petition, said the needs of children are more important than the small amount of money to be saved by closing South School. She also said closing of the school would weaken Manchester's long-standing neighborhood school concept. Educators seem to agree that the savings would be small — probably around $30,000 in a multi-million-dollar budget — but might be necessary if town directors don't approve the school board's spending plan. And the educators don't necessarily think that closing of South School would damage the neighborhood school concept. "We're still committed to the neighborhood school concept," Thomas said, "for the foreseeable future. If we close South School it would violate the concept to some degree, but not seriously." He said. If South School is closed this year, most of the 57 students in the school would have to be housed for at least a year at Highland Park School. But the long-range plan for closing South School involves relocation of the students to nearby Martin School, which would become the new neighborhood school for the South School district. South and Martin Schools already operate basically as one school; South only has kindergarten through Grade 3, and Grades 4 through 6 of the South School district go to Martin School. There have been past violations of the neighborhood school concept, for other reasons, Thomas said. At one time, students from an overcrowded Highland Park School were bused to Buckley School until Highland Park's space problem eased. And although educators are committed to a neighborhood school concept, there has been a small-scale violation in the concept in the form of an optional, voucher-type system. Under that limited system, parents can send their children to schools outside the neighborhood if space is available at the desired school and if the parents provide the transportation. Thomas noted that about 20 percent of the student population at Green School comes from outside the neighborhood. The extra students are sent there by parents who apparently prefer the Green School's Individually Guided Education program. That voucher-type program has been in effect for several years, Jackson demanded an apology and a retraction. Rockefeller initially refused to comment because the session was off-the-record and later sent a tersely worded telegram to Jackson saying, "I have made no charges, and therefore there are none to be withdrawn." After Rockefeller's speech, Jackson rose and accepted the apology. He later told reporters that he was not concerned, the matter was closed.

Jackson accepts Rockefeller apology

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson says he is satisfied with an apology from Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, who had alleged that a Communist had infiltrated the senator's staff. Rockefeller, in remarks to the Senate Tuesday, noted that Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Democratic Whip Robert Byrd had called on him to either back up his statements or apologize. "In the context of their remarks," Rockefeller said, "I would like to apologize to the Senate of the United States and to its members and particularly to Senator Jackson for my remarks in an off-the-record meeting. There is no question that I made a mistake. Obviously it was a mistake to have engaged in unsubstantiated speculation about two members of Senator Jackson's staff, even though I made no charges against anybody and even though it was a private discussion." The dispute arose last week when the Atlanta Journal reported that Rockefeller told a private meeting of Georgia Republican leaders a Communist had infiltrated Jackson's staff. He also hinted Jackson's foreign policy expert, Dr. Dorothy Fosdick, had Communist leanings. Jackson demanded an apology and a retraction. Rockefeller initially refused to comment because the session was off-the-record and later sent a tersely worded telegram to Jackson saying, "I have made no charges, and therefore there are none to be withdrawn." After Rockefeller's speech, Jackson rose and accepted the apology. He later told reporters that he was not concerned, the matter was closed.

State Senate approves bill tightening game night rules

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Senate has passed legislation tightening requirements for legalized games of chance run by charities as fundraisers. "I think this bill is a reasonable bill. It tightens up the law while permitting them to exist," said Sen. Louis Ciccarello, D-Norwalk, following unanimous approval of the measure. "The vast majority of Las Vegas nights were run by charities without the slightest taint of criminal elements," said Ciccarello, co-chairman of the General Laws Committee, which authored the bill. "For many charities it was the only way they could fund needed projects," he said. "There is fierce competition for the charity dollar and they have to use the most entertaining way they can to attract money." The bill would require state operators to register with the state police, guarantee the organization it will at least be paid expenses and allow the charity to require they post a bond. Ciccarello, explaining his support for the compromise, said he thought authorities have overstated the problem of criminal influence. "I wouldn't be changing the law if I didn't think there were abuses. But that doesn't mean you throw the baby out with the bath water," he said. The legislation, which was sent to the House, would raise from one year to two years the length of time charities must be "actively functioning" before they could hold "Las Vegas nights." It would also reduce from four to two the number of such events a charity could hold per year.

Grocer needed near downtown

The Commission on Aging is asking the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce to attempt to find a grocery store willing to locate close to the downtown area, preferably on Center or E. Center St. Concerned with the plight of the elderly in the downtown area since the A&P store on E. Center St. and the First Food Store on Center St. closed in late February, the commission Monday night voted to ask the Chamber to seek a company willing to open a grocery store in this area. Mrs. Suzanne Flocken, executive vice-president of the Chamber, said Tuesday afternoon that the Chamber had notified Highland Park Market that there was an available building on E. Center St. when the A&P closed. However, the owners of Highland Park said they were going to expand their own market, she said. Mrs. Helen Lynch, secretary of the commission, said that the A&P used to be a sort of meeting place for the elderly, who need a store within walking distance, not transportation. "They want to go to the store when they want to," she said. Town Manager Robert Weiss told the commission that he sees light at the end of the tunnel for two of the problems that the town has been grappling with for several years — transportation and meals for shut-ins. Meals-on-Wheels has been founded, he said, and will soon get going. The transportation problem may take a little longer, as Alan Mason, director of human services, reported that an application has been made for operating funds for two buses and in the next few months a request will be submitted to the Greater Hartford Transit District for capital funds to purchase two buses, one of which will be used as a dial-a-ride service for the town's elderly. The other will be used for the handicapped. Weiss told the commission he envisioned its role as advisory, and compared it to that of the Park and Recreation Commission. He said that the commission should act as a "gadfly" to call the Board of Directors and his attention to some of the vital needs of the elderly and suggest what "we should do."

Major contenders to clash in May 11 Demo primary

BY PETER A. BROWN United Press International It appears today voters in most Connecticut towns will find the three major Democratic presidential contenders — Jimmy Carter, Henry Jackson and Morris Udall — on the May 11 primary ballot.

A spokesman said no slate would be filed for Udall in East Haven and Jackson spokesman said there would be no slate for his candidate in Bridgewater.

State party representatives said there also would be an uncommitted slate, thought in many cases to be leaning toward Hubert Humphrey, filed in every town.

Spokesmen for the three said they expected to file slates in almost every town for the primary, pending final results from the 169 town caucuses held Tuesday night.

Stan Weinberg, state coordinator for Carter's campaign, said, "We have a couple of places that we're still not sure of. But we expect to have a slate in every town, or most towns."

Anti-abortion candidate Ellen McCormack will be on the ballot in either 71 or 72 towns, mostly the state's larger communities, said a campaign spokesman.

Supporters of Fred Harris, who is withdrawing as an active candidate, said they would have slates in eight towns — of which New Britain is the largest — and possibly more.

Carter, who won Tuesday's crucial Pennsylvania primary, made a tour through Connecticut earlier in the day, greeting voters and raising about $21,000 for his campaign. "I'm very optimistic, I think we're going to be shooting towards 50 per cent," said Weinberg about Carter's chances in Connecticut.

Among the Connecticut politicians on the various candidates' slates is Gov. Ella T. Grasso on Jackson's slate in her home town of Windsor Locks. To get on the May 11 ballot, each candidate was required to nominate at least the number of delegates a town will send to its congressional district convention.

The delegates elected May 11 will go to the June 12 congressional district convention, which will choose Connecticut's 51 delegates to the Democratic National Convention this summer in New York City.

Carter, who won Tuesday's crucial Pennsylvania primary, made a tour through Connecticut earlier in the day, greeting voters and raising about $21,000 for his campaign.

Andover townspeople to decide dump issue

The Andover Board of Selectmen will positively call a meeting at which townspeople — will be given the opportunity to vote on the generous offer of the Bolton Board of Selectmen for use of the Andover disposal area, said David Yeomans, first selectman.

Yeomans said the selectmen are discussing whether the decision should be made at a Town Meeting after an informational discussion, by paper ballots at a Town Meeting, or by referendum (voting machine).

After discussion Monday in Andover by officials of both towns, the Bolton Board of Selectmen held an emergency meeting and then proposed to Andover a three-year contract at $40,000 annually for Bolton's use of the Andover Disposal Area.

Before the emergency meeting David Dresley, Bolton first selectman, questioned whether the proposal should first be brought to a Bolton Town Meeting.

Leon Rivers, Bolton selectman, and Bolton residents at the meeting said a Town Meeting was not necessary. Dresley was urged to make a proposal.

J. Russell Thompson, Andover selectman, said if Bolton had not gotten itself into a mess by not making a proposal, it would have been ridden on a $30,000 figure and nobody would have said anything.

When a bill in excess of a verbally agreed upon amount was presented to Bolton, it withheld payment pending answers to how the amount was arrived at.

It never received a satisfactory answer.

Monday David Yeomans explained, saying the costs to operate the Andover Disposal Area listed in the annual report do not show depreciation of land or equipment or insurance costs.

Thompson said the town should consider itself in business and thus should make a profit.

John Yeomans, Andover Board of Finance chairman, said he does not believe the town is in a profit-making business and must give service to constituents.

Yeomans said the town can give much better service by serving both towns. The Andover selectmen agreed that getting residents' approval was not a problem of money but of attitude on the part of the townspeople.

The Andover selectmen seemed to feel that although Andover residents liked having a one-town operation, by sharing the Andover Disposal Area with Bolton, it could be open five days a week instead of two days.

The selectmen also felt that by charging Bolton a substantial amount, Andover would be able to get some of the things it wants but presently can't without a mill rate increase.

Percy Cook said if the two towns had gotten together there wouldn't have been any trouble.

Council settles on $3,972,452 budget

Coventry

At the witching hour of midnight last night the Town Council moved to go to the Town Meeting with a recommended budget of $3,972,452.

This budget represents an increase of $117,025 over last year's budget.

The money will be appropriated as follows: Board of Education, $2,415,700; general government, $869,312 and debt service, $322,338.

A total of $22,568 was deleted from the proposed budget.

Major cuts include $19,000 from the reserve fund; $5,000 from contingency; $2,500 from the Booth Dimock Library; $17,000 from the association; matching funds; $2,500 from welfare.

The Lake Association matching funds were cut so low because there is presently $23,000 in separate category for matching funds.

Other general government budget cuts from the Planning and Zoning Commission about $5,000; $3,000 from parks and recreation; $8,000 from the town manager's account; $5,000 from the town hall maintenance account; $3,000 from the town clerk's account; $2,000 from the tax collector; $9,000 from the assessor's account; $4,000 from the building officials account; $27,000 from the police account; $34,000 from the roads account; $14,000 from the garage maintenance account; $12,000 from the sanitary landfill and $2,000 from the engineering account.

The council cut all of the $16,695 from the proposed new cemetery account.

The council also removed all funds for meeting and travel expenses, membership fees and books and subscriptions except those specifically required by State Statute and contractual obligations.

The position of crew supervisor was cut as well as a clerk dispatcher and a laborer at the town garage.

Two positions were deducted from the police account, those were a patrolman and a dispatcher.

The cut in the parks and recreation account was made with the provisions that this cut was not to affect the town beaches in any way.

The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 to make its cuts in its budget.

The general government budget cuts cut 1 1/2 hours spread over three days.

These cuts are normally made during a Saturday session of the Town Council.

The total budgets will represent about a 4-mill increase in the tax rate from $7.50 to $7.91 mill.

Copies of the new budget will be available on Monday at the town hall.

All capital outlays were deleted by the Town Council and will be reconsidered at a later date if Revenue Sharing funds are received. This in itself was a cut of $28,000.

Hebron firm seeks waste dumping permit

A hearing to determine whether or not Nuclear Technology Corp. of Ansonia will be issued a permit to discharge waste into a tributary of Haywood Brook will be conducted Thursday at 10 a.m. in Room 1 at 122 Washington St., Hartford.

Aljosius J. Ahearn, state representative from the 55th District said while he has not taken a position for or against the application he is in the process of fact gathering and "I am concerned that local waters are not endangered by waste products of any source."

The proposed permit would allow the nuclear plant to discharge some 1,000 gallons of waste water and effluent into the brook about two miles south of Rt. 66 and Rt. 85.

Ahearn said that on the basis of a preliminary review, the director of Water Compliance is proposing that the permit be issued. "However, the action is tentative, and would, no doubt, be influenced by local reaction," he said.

For this reason Ahearn said he urges all concerned citizens to make their views known to the Department of Environmental Protection by attending the hearing.

Nuclear Technology Corp. blends specialty chemicals for use as scale inhibitors in cooling towers, desalination plants and the decontamination of nuclear power plants.

The permit, if issued, would require that all wastes be treated to meet the applicable effluent limitations.

Senior citizen discount tickets are available from Jan. Nosenek, 644-0023.

Seating is limited and interested residents are urged to make early reservations.

Changes made in Hebron budget

Hebron

The 1978-79 budget adopted by the Board of Finance, $494,875 for general government and $960,071, Board of Education, reflects many changes from the original budget.

While the finance board can only reduce the bottom line of the education budget it did make suggestions as to where it feels cuts can be made.

Areas suggested are: $17,913 in the teacher salary account; $3,500 in substitute teachers; $400, substitute aides; and $1,485 to eliminate an item listed twice in the custodial salary account.

Also, $1,980 in employee insurance; $2,000 in unemployment compensation; $2,000 in heating oil; $1,575 in gasoline; $400, superintendent's office; $2,500 in special projects; and $2,500 in high school transportation.

The reduction in the assessor's salary request is to keep the salary at the figure provided for in his two-year contract.

The sanitationary's office expense is reduced to $350 and the assessor's expense, $100.

Other reductions are: Ambulance service, $1,013; registrars salaries, $50; salaries for deputy fire chief and assistant chief, deleted, $500; the requested fire department operation account is cut $1,650 and the equipment account, $3,400.

The $8,500 requested by the selectmen for town roads is in excess of the agency request.

By $9,000 in an effort to begin a program of oiling the roads to aid in preventing major breakups such as occurred this winter.

The requested salary for the building inspector is cut back to the present $8,000, a reduction of $400, and his mileage request is cut $300.

The requested salary for the department secretary is reduced by $274 to keep it in line with the other clerical increases of five per cent.

The fire department maintenance request is reduced by $1,180 and the police radio equipment request is cut by $850. The Conservation Commission's request for a $3,000 reserve appropriation for land acquisition has been deleted.

In the Community Health Services item, $2,395 was added. The amount included in the budget prepared for the public hearing was incorrect. However, the recommended amount of $36,465, is still about $3,300 less than the agency request.

To cover anticipated increases in printing costs, $200 was added to the budget for town reports.

Trial delayed

TOLLAND (UPI) — A Superior Court judge has delayed indefinitely the trial of Richard T. Delage, of Thompson, accused murderer of University of Connecticut coed Paget Weatherly.

Judge John P. Shea Jr., permitted the delay after granting a pro-se motion allowing the state to conduct a psychiatric examination of Delage before the trial can begin.

Two Republicans honored for service to Coventry

By MONICA SHEA

Republicans at an old-fashioned roast dinner on Friday evening honored two women for their many years of service to the town.

Pauline Little and Margaret Jacobson received gifts and applause from many old friends and neighbors as well as Miss Jacobson's family of five girls. As well as acting as the town's tax collector, she was a member of the Republican Town Committee and ran Republican campaign headquarters for many years. In the midst of her many activities, Mrs. Little also served as a reporter for several newspapers.

Miss Jacobson is still serving as registrar of voters and has done so for eight years. She is a member of the Republican Town Committee and has served as its vice-chairman for four years.

She was a Coventry teacher and principal of the Center School as well as a policewoman for 23 years. Miss Jacobson also was a Girl Scout leader for many years.

Jesse Brainard, chairman of the Town Council, acted as master of ceremonies for the evening and the guest speaker was Fred Biebel, Republican state chairman.

Schools revise, continue survey

East Hartford

Because an initial survey conducted by school officials led to some misunderstandings, parents are now being asked to cooperate in a new research project. The new project will hopefully result in a method to tell whether children are learning as well as they could in the public school system.

School officials said the initial version of the survey brought objections from parents who said many of the questions asked were too personal. Some school board members also objected to some of the questions.

The revised questionnaire gives parents a more detailed explanation of the purpose of the study. All initial questionnaires returned have been discarded of officials said.

School officials have also assured parents that filling out the questionnaire is optional and that material gathered will not become part of any child's permanent record or be used beyond the basic research project.

"We think that the information is so important that we're going ahead with the study despite the initial misunderstanding," Dr. Eugene Diggs, superintendent of schools, said.

He said the studies are part of a broad evaluation effort that East Hartford schools have been working on for several years.

The superintendent said school officials feel the effort is needed because the IQ and other achievement measures now in use don't go far enough in predicting or explaining the actual classroom learning by children.

Mrs. Fran Klein, reading supervisor, said, "We're looking for a more sophisticated understanding of what a child has and what he needs. Eventually this will provide more useful data to both staff and parents."

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I had some plumbing done. Due to some financial troubles, I wasn't able to pay the bill within 30 days.

DEAR ABBY: I received another bill with a note from the plumber's wife, who does his bookkeeping. It read: "Jim doesn't expect to take this bill out in trade, so please remit!" And she signed her name.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old woman with a problem I've never been in your column. I have been going with this man for six years. He is 43, and he says he can't marry me because he promised his man before she died three years ago that he wouldn't get married until his daddy got married, as she didn't want to marry until her daddy got married.

DEAR ABBY: Last night was the last straw. I cannot spend another morning picking up my garbage after my neighbor's dog has spread it all over my backyard. I turned the porch light on, and I could see Sam's tail wagging in his dog in my garbage can. Then he tipped the can over, and the garbage was strewn all over my yard.

Teacher of Tour Escort Course trying to protect U.S. jobs

By BETTY RYDER

Family/Travel Editor Muriel Andrews believes in America and she has kept busy doing something about it for the past five years.

Muriel, who teaches a Travel Tour escort course at Manchester Community College, emphatically states her feelings when discussing job opportunities for tour escorts in America.

"Foreign tour escorts bringing a group to the United States are allowed to work in this country, but we can't work in theirs," she said.

Her experiences began when she left a job with a Meriden bank and moved to Paris some years ago.

After familiarizing herself with her surroundings, and becoming somewhat of an expert on tourism in Paris, she applied for a work permit.

"Well, I soon found out that you can't get a job without a work permit and they were just not issuing them to foreigners," she said.

"Foreign tour escorts can make from $70 to $100 per day to show off this country. In an effort to boost international tourism to the United States, this country subsidizes foreign countries in the amount of $12 million," Muriel said.

"These foreign tour escorts take jobs away from Americans in an economy when they are badly needed," she said.

"Tours coming to this country have their own tour escort. When American tour escorts take a tour to Europe they must turn it over to foreign tour escorts," she added.

Muriel's determination to remedy what she considers an unfair practice, has taken her to Washington and meetings with many congressmen, officials of the Labor Department and other authorities in the travel business.

"Some laws must be enacted; others changed. Until then, they say they can't do a thing," Muriel said, reporting on her trip to the Capitol.

Muriel first started her course in Travel Tour Escort Course after discussing it with Fred Ramey, director of business and careers at Manchester Community College.

"She has been conducting her course here for two years and also taught at Middlesex Community College.

Her program is copyrighted and she says it is the only one of its kind in the country.

"The course at MCC is given one night a week for eight weeks and includes the handling of people on planes, buses, hotels, customs, baggage arrival. You meet all kinds of people and one must have a flexible personality. Some are easy to get along with, others demanding, and still others impossible to please. You have to adjust to any circumstance; they are depending on you to make their trip pleasant."

Muriel also conducts a 40-hour course at the Holiday Inn in Meriden, with or without food and lodging.

"To date I have graduated 75 students, and plan to have 150 by summer but this summer with the Bicentennial events I could use 500," she said.

Enrollees in the course must be at least 22 years of age. Age limit is 65. All applicants must be in good health.

"Although knowledge of a foreign language is not mandatory, two of the most needed languages now are French and German," she added.

"On the domestic scene, tour escorts can earn $25 to $50 a day, plus food allowance, hotel expenses and tips. My escorts were sent all over the United States, Hawaii and Mexico."

A member of the International Association of Tour Managers in London, as well as manager of the Unique Travel Ltd. in New York and Unique Travel Inc. in Connecticut, Muriel is still in there plugging.

She has written a book entitled "Good Morning, Ladies and Gentlemen," in which she gives an account of many of the complexities she encountered in trying to remove foreign travel employment restrictions. The book is scheduled to be published May 1.

"It's a continuing battle, Muriel admits, but she is determined to have laws passed to enable Americans to experience the excitement of travel and its cultural and financial rewards.

She hopes to organize service clubs and various community organizations in an effort to get legislation enacted allowing Americans to escort tours in foreign countries as well as here.

"The more interest we have, the harder we can get in Washington and make them aware of the need for equal employment opportunities for Americans," she concluded.

Who put the caviar in my grocery cart?

The other day at the supermarket I met a friend who was shopping with her three small children.

The baby was in the grocery cart teething on a chocolate cookie. The three-year old was clinging resolutely to her pant leg. And the five-year-old was chanting "Please, please, PLEASE!" and continued to do so till her mother gave her a penny for the gum machine.

"Shopping with kids is a nightmare!" cried my friend. "I can't wait till mine are all grown up like yours."

Now, I didn't say anything to discourage her, but frankly I think my friend should count her blessings. A penny for the gum machine is kid stuff. Still wait till she goes to the supermarket with teen-agers.

Our teen-agers, in an effort to help run around the store picking up all the things they think we need like root beer, potato chips, candy bars, and strawberry-flavored drinking straws. Sometimes at the check-out counter I have to reject half the stuff in my cart. Other times I'm so tired, or so covered by the look in the cashier's eyes, that I let everything go through.

With each of our kids, shopping is a unique experience.

When my 12-year-old John is in town it's like a TV rerun.

"Are you a choosy mother?" he asks, waving a jar of peanut butter under my nose.

"Would you like your towels to smell as nice as Aunt Nancy's?" he challenges putting the appropriate laundry product in my cart.

When John is not busy helping me fill the cart, he's down the aisle looking for handouts. Last week he ate so many pieces of free pizza, that out of embarrassment, I bought one from the monstrator.

Our teen-age daughters are particularly interested in the cosmetics department. They're not satisfied with ordinary store-brand products. For example, their favorite shampoo is a special blend of exotic herbal essences that makes her hair smell like a mountain pool.

Periodically the girls also become interested in low-calorie items and try to fill my cart with yogurt, diet drinks, and large containers of cottage cheese.

When our son Tom comes from college I discover that he is learning quite a lot outside the classroom. He's developed a fascination for the gourmet shelves and comes to my cart with his hands full of small costly items.

Why don't we ever eat interesting things like heart of palm, and escargot, and pate de foie gras?" he asks.

Now, my mother, whom I frequently turn to for the last word of a subject says that there's only one proper way for a woman to go shopping...and that's ALONE.

She also says, that though her heart goes out to the woman with toddlers, and she feels for the woman with teen-agers, you really have nothing to complain about...until you've been to the supermarket with a retired husband and his hand calculator.

Jim Costello toured Europe with a friend for five months before he really got into serious cooking. The 24-year-old college graduate, although not a vegetarian, has really made strides in cooking vegetable dishes.

Jim, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Costello of 378 Summit St., toured through Spain, Italy and Morocco with a friend, Jack Ryan, also of Manchester.

Before graduating from the University of Connecticut in 1975 with a B.A. degree in English, Jim used to do the cooking for himself and seven of his college friends.

"We had a little commune and everybody helped out with the work. I never liked the housework, so took over the task of cooking meals."

"Some of the fellows had been cooking rice and soy beans, but everything was very bland. I tried to make something that would taste good and still be vegetable," he said.

Jim enjoys meat dishes and says he never was too interested in seafood until he went to Europe.

"In Spain we had paella, which is rice and mussels and clams and a variety of other ingredients. Since I've been home I've made it for the family," he said.

Jim's travels took him on the road to Morocco (just like Bob and Bing) and he viewed the Sahara Desert and rode a camel.

After a visit back home Jim and Dave Cormier, a former classmate at East Catholic High School, went to San Francisco where they tasted the savory delicacies of oriental food in Chinatown.

"One family I know grows their own vegetables and even have goats for milk," he added.

Jim, who is going to be producing a five-minute skit for independent cable television with Jay April, would like to work with the Judicial branch of the State of Connecticut, or with handicapped people, possibly at Mansfield Training School.

A good-looking young man, with a ready smile, Jim has added variations to a recipe for Celery-Cashew Loaf which he likes to serve with a Cheese Sauce.

"It is served as a substitute meatloaf accompanied by other vegetables," he said.

Incidentally, I had a slice of his Celery-Cashew Loaf right out of the oven and it is delicious. The cashew nuts give it such a rich taste and the celery a natural crispness.

- Celery-Cashew Loaf
- 2 ends from a fresh loaf of whole wheat bread, crumbled
  - 1 1/2 cups whole wheat bread crumbs
  - 2 1/2 cups milk
  - 1 cup chopped raw cashews
  - 1 1/2 cups chopped celery
  - 3 eggs well-beaten
  - 3 lbs. melted butter
  - 1 1/2 lbs. onion, chopped
  - Pinch of salt and a dash of pepper
- Mix everything together. Let stand as oven preheats to 350 degrees. Pour into 1 1/2 quart glass baking dish greased. Bake covered for 20 minutes, then uncover and bake about 60 minutes longer or until inserted knife comes out clean.
- Cheese Sauce
- 2 lbs. flour
  - 2 cups milk
  - 1/2 cup butter
  - 1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
- Melt butter. Add flour, salt and pepper and stir until well-blended. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly to insure smoothness. Bring to a boil and simmer for two minutes. Add cheese and stir. Remove from heat and stir until smooth and thick. Serve hot over Celery-Cashew Loaf.

Problems of black children topic of May 5 seminar

What special problems are faced by black children growing up in America, where policy making and attitudes are largely controlled by whites who are often antagonistic or indifferent to the needs of Blacks. This and many other questions will be discussed by James P. Comer, M.D., keynote speaker at a one-day seminar and workshop session sponsored by the Family Life Education Committee of Catholic Family Services, on Wednesday, May 5, 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at Centinel Hill Hall, Main St., Hartford.

Dr. Comer is a professor of psychiatry at the Yale University Child Study Center. He is the author of the book, "Black Child Care: How To Bring Up A Healthy Black Child in America: A Guide To Emotional and Psychological Development." Following his keynote address, beginning at 10:20 a.m., Dr. Comer will answer questions for the audience.

Four workshop sessions dealing with youth services, child health development, the educational dilemma and growing up within the family unit — are scheduled for the afternoon program from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Arthur Johnson, executive director, Human Relations Commission, City of Hartford, will summarize the one-day seminar following the workshops.

The one-day seminar is part of the year-round program of Catholic Family Services' Family Life Education Program to improve understanding and relationships between family members of all races, religions and from all walks of life. "Sound family life makes for better families, better communities, and improved society for all," said Mrs. Rosalind Moore, chairman, and a psychiatric worker at the Institute of Living, Hartford.

Committee Members of CFS' Family Life Education Program are: Mrs. Adeline Crabtree, of the Connecticut Health Department; Barbara Elliott of Connecticut Child and Youth Services; Alison Feaster of the Hartford Headstart Program; Harry Hartie of the Hartford Board of Education; Mrs. Catherine Jenkins of Connecticut Central Life Insurance; Robert Pernell of the Hartford Human Relations Commission; Ms. Carrie Roberts, Project Headstart; and Ms. Roz Swift of Hartford. James A. Gobeis, board president of CFS is an ex-officio member and Ms. Pearl M. Hill is the program coordinator with CFS.

The license allows Rogers to add a product which complements its current lines.

Quarterly reports

Veeder Industries Inc. of Hartford has reported first quarter net sales of about $24.4 million, up from $20.6 million in the first three months of 1975. Income for the first quarter was $1.17 per share, compared to 71 cents per share a year ago.

The Stanley Works of New Britain has reported record first quarter earnings of $5,992,000 (76 cents per share), compared to a loss of $42,000 in the first quarter of 1975. First quarter sales were $128.8 million, compared to $107.2 million a year ago.

Hartford National Bank and Trust's first quarter income was a gain from the fourth quarter of 1975 but didn't match record results of 1975's first quarter.

The comparable figure for 1975 was $2,349,000 (84 cents per share). The corporation had posted losses in the third and fourth quarters of 1975 because, it said, of a writedown of investments of a real estate investment trust and establishment of additional reserves.

Income after securities transactions was $919,000 (33 cents per share), compared to $3,294,000 (82 cents per share) a year ago.

College note

Mrs. Linda R. Garceau of 68 Leland Dr., was one of four recipients of a Center Scholar Award at the awards banquet of the University of Connecticut for the Study of Professional Accounting.

Mrs. Garceau is a part-time lecturer in data processing at Manchester Community College. She is a candidate at the UConn for a master's degree in professional accounting at commencement May 30. She and her husband, Albert A. Garceau, have a young daughter.

Deadline for poster contest is Saturday

The Greater Hartford Arts Festival Poster Contest is currently under way.

The 1976 Greater Hartford Civic & Arts Festival will be held June 4 through June 13.

The grand prize poster will be reproduced on Heublein's 14-foot by 48-foot billboard on I-94 and used all over the area as the official poster to announce the festival.

Entry classes are: A, ages 12-18; B, over 18, amateur; and C, over 18, professional in graphic arts.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Donna Leigh Sandall to Mark F. Williams, both of Manchester, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sandall Jr. of 114 Hollister St.

Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Williams of 338 Woodbridge St. The bride-elect was graduated in 1972 from Manchester High School and in 1976 from the University of Connecticut.

Her fiancé was graduated in 1970 from Manchester High School and in 1974 from Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy, Mass. where he received a B.A. degree. He is currently attending the evening division at the University of Connecticut Law School. He is employed at Aetna Life and Casualty.

The couple is planning an August 21 wedding at South United Methodist Church in Manchester.

Medi Mart is open at Charter Oak Mall

Medi Mart opened a new drugstore this week at the Charter Oak Mall in East Hartford. The new store completes a trio of stores opened at the mall recently by the Stop & Shop Cos. The others are a Stop & Shop Supermarket and a Bradlees Department Store.

The East Hartford Medi Mart has a full-line pharmacy, with a registered pharmacist always on duty, and self-service departments for such items as health and beauty aids, housewares, luggage and greeting cards.

Manager William Hynes of Hartford and his management staff cut the ribbon Monday morning to officially open the store.

Robert Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shea of 76 Edmund St., Manchester, has been appointed Wisconsin state manager for the Arrow Sales Co., a division of Heublein Inc. of Hartford.

Shea joined Heublein in 1972 as a representative for the Venture Marketing Co. division. Later that year he became Rhode Island state manager for Arrow.

Shea served in the Air Force from 1955 to 1969 and was graduated from Central Connecticut State College in 1971 with a BS degree in marketing.

He, his wife Elizabeth and their three-year-old son live in Oconomowoc, Wis.

CNP elects town man

John Long of 710 W. Middle Pike, Manchester, has been elected president of the Connecticut News Photographers Association. Long, a staff photographer for the Hartford Courant, succeeds Peter Maronn of the Herald Press.

Long, nearly a lifelong resident of Manchester, is a graduate of local schools. He is a graduate of St. Thomas Seminary in Bloomfield and of Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

He taught English and religion at Manchester's East Catholic High School for three years before joining the Courant in 1972. He and his wife, Mary, have three children.

Other CNP officers elected recently are Vice President Robert Dwyer of Vernon of WFSB-TV; Secretary Peter Hevada of the New Haven Journal-Courier; and Treasurer Ellery Kingston of Tolland of the Hartford Times.

Public Records

HELCO closing town office

The Hartford Electric Light Co., which just a year ago closed its downtown Manchester office, is now moving out of its relocated location in the Andrews Building, 63 E. Center St.

As of Saturday, there will no longer be a Manchester HELCO office. District Manager Frank Delaney, who has run the local office since last year's move, will still be working out of HELCO's Middletown office.

Delaney said the move is part of HELCO's consolidation and cost-cutting efforts. He said he will continue to serve as area representative for Manchester, Bolton and East Hartford, and will assume added responsibility for Middletown, Portland and Cromwell.

The only other employee in the Manchester office, a secretary, is being transferred to another HELCO office, Delaney said.

Until a year ago, the Manchester HELCO office on Main St. employed a dozen workers, including secretaries and sales personnel, as well as the district manager. When that office closed, the reduced staff concentrated on serving as liaison with municipalities and as a complaint investigator.

UConn workshop

A three-day workshop designed to help supervisory personnel improve managerial skills will be conducted at the University of Connecticut starting May 12.

The workshop, "Effective Supervision," will be at the UConn Bishop Continuing Education Center in Storrs.

Registration information is available from Linda Prochorchik, Extended and Continuing Education Services, Office of Conferences and Institutes, Box U-56, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. 06269.

Dermoth Brown

Qualifies

Dermoth Brown of Manchester has qualified to attend a career conference of New York Life Insurance Co.'s most successful new agents this month in Enfield.

Brown will join other agents and company executives for two days of educational work in life underwriting, health and employee protection insurance.

The longest-lived U.S. presidents were John Adams and Herbert Hoover, each reaching 90.
