Bailey, who retired in 1960 as principal of Manchester High School, joined its faculty in 1928 as a teacher. Later, he was named guidance director, vice principal and principal in 1935. He helped design Manchester's $5 million high school, and its Bailey Auditorium is named in his honor. He was the first school administrator in New England to adopt data processing machines for all purposes for student accounting. He was cited in 1955 by Bates College and by the Connecticut Association of Secondary Schools in 1960 for his outstanding contribution to the field of education. He and his wife, the late Elizabeth T. Bailey, were the first dual winners of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce "M" award in 1969.

Education revamping bill dies

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature will adjourn today without taking any action on reorganization of public higher education, according to lawmakers involved in the dispute. "We're at an impasse," said Sen. Lawrence J. DeNardis, R-Hamden, a member of the House-Senate Conference Committee formed to iron out differences between the versions of the bill passed by the two chambers. The House first narrowly passed — after stormy debate — a bill to centralize control of the University of Connecticut, the four state colleges, the regional community colleges and the technical colleges under a single board of regents. The Senate refused to go along and rejected a compromise to put UConn and the state colleges, both four-year institutions, under control of one board, while the two-year community and technical colleges would be under a separate board. They voted instead to study the issue and sent the bill back to the House, which rejected the Senate study proposal.

Motion to drop charge against Reilly denied

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — A defense motion to dismiss the murder charge against Peter A. Reilly in the killing of his mother was denied Tuesday. Litchfield Superior Court Judge John J. Bracken turned down the request, clearing the way for Reilly's retrial granted March 25 by another judge who ruled a grave injustice had been done in the case. Reilly, now 21, was convicted of first-degree manslaughter by a jury in 1974 in the Sept. 28, 1973 death of his mother, Barbara Gibbons, 31, in her Falls Village home. Bracken said he would rule this week on Reilly's motion for a change of venue. Reilly's lawyer, T.F. Gilroy Daly, has suggested the new trial be moved from Litchfield County to the northwestern corner of the state to Fairfield County near New York. "I am concerned about the ability to pick a jury up here," Daly said Tuesday. State's Attorney John F. Bianchi said that he opposed the motion for a change of place and that publicity about the case has not been limited to Litchfield County and Hartford County. In another action, Bracken reduced Reilly's bond from $60,000 to $25,000. Reilly has been free since May 24, 1974.

Is the BI necessary?

Washington window By DAVID E. ANDERSON WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "technology fairy," according to Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., has given the country the BI bomber — "a gold plated toy" for the Air Force that will cost the nation billions of dollars without providing the kind of defense the United States needs. This year is the crucial test for the BI program. The administration has asked for $1.5 billion to be used to create the production capacity for manufacturing 24 of the manned, supersonic, nuclear-armed planes. If Congress agrees to the request, it is essentially committing itself to the whole program which is expected to run to a cost of about $100 million a plane, with total production costs of some $21.2 billion over the next eight years. Not to go ahead with production would be, according to Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, the equivalent of setting up the General Motors assembly line and then producing only three cars. But perhaps the best organized critics lobby to oppose a weapons system since the anti-ABM lobby has started raising questions about the BI, particularly in relation to the nation's defense needs. Mrs. Schroeder, who sits on the House Armed Services Committee, for example, speaks of the "technology fairy" and the pressure created to build something simply because technology makes it possible. At the same time, she says, the BI does not address itself to the real imbalance between the Soviet and American military — the imbalance in conventional weapons, such as tanks and guns. Such groups as the American Friends Service Committee, Clergy and Laity Concerned, Common Cause, the Federation of American Scientists and a host of others argue that already current intercontinental and short range ballistic missiles can successfully attack all targeted Soviet positions in 1 1/2 hours the time required for a bomber attack while the current fleet of B52s provides a more than adequate bomber threat until well into the 1990s. Supporters of the BI say that it is necessary as a fleet replacement in the 1980s and beyond for the aging B52s, which first went into production 25 years ago. The BI is designed to approach the Soviet Union at supersonic speeds, descend to near ground level and penetrate Soviet anti-aircraft defenses — already formidable at medium and high altitudes — by flying "under" detecting radar. The BI would also be part of the new strategy of flexible warfare where only a few selected targets might be hit rather than launching all-out nuclear holocaust. Another argument certain to be pushed by the Air Force and the military lobbyists in an election year is that the decision to produce the bombers will create jobs. That of course does not have a great deal to do with the military correctness of the decision but it is a compelling one for the politicians who have to decide on the program. But the opponents of the BI suggest quite the opposite is true. They cite

Town directors should use sharpest pencils

With the use of a revised revenue estimate that will be $492,580 higher than his earlier one, Town Manager Robert Weiss is recommending the Manchester directors adopt a budget calling for 4.3 mill levy increase instead of the 6 mill increase originally proposed. Before the directors accept this budget Friday night, we hope they will have gone through many boxes of pencils. The reduction for 6 to 4.3 mills doesn't represent any trimming of fat out of the budget but merely juggles figures. Whether the initial revenue estimate was deliberately understated in order to make viable a levy increase reduction at a later time is not of importance at this time. What is important is that the directors do not accept the budget without a hard look at proposed expenditures toward the end that perhaps further mills can be pared from it. We should not let the apparent economic upturn lull us into thinking that belt-tightening in town government is no longer urgent. On the contrary, we are in a critical era when we might be tempted to overextend ourselves in the hope that state or federal windfalls might be forthcoming as the economy improves. At stake Friday night is the credibility of our town government. The ballooning revenue estimate has left many suspecting there might be inflated expenditure items in the budget proposal, too. The directors have a dual responsibility when they decide the budget level Friday night. First, they must be satisfied that the budget will reasonably provide the necessary services the town requires. Second, they must be satisfied that a tax increase, if any, is fully justified by the administration and the agencies involved. We do not think Manchester taxpayers as a whole have reached the point like those in Waterbury where a taxpayer strike is being seriously considered. But we think the directors and the town's administrators should realize how strongly the public feels about unjustified increases in the tax burden and unless a concerted effort is made to hold the line on town spending is continued, it could happen here.

CB grows up

The phenomenal growth of Citizens Band radio has inevitably led to widespread abuses of this new form of communication by people who treat their radios as toys. At the same time, CB is reaching a socially useful maturity akin to that of ham radio. In the first three months after their patrol cars were equipped with Citizen Band radios, the Missouri State Highway Patrol logged 22,489 contacts between police and civilian CB owners, says Electronic Technician-Dealer magazine. Most of the contacts - 17,277 - which were made during August, September and October of 1975, involved requests for assistance or reports of dangerous road conditions, while 5,212 related to citizens' reports of law violations. Of the latter, 1,307 contacts led to arrests by law officers and 1,066 resulted in the issuance of warnings.

Health Systems election registration ends May 12

To the editor, On May 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Manchester High School cafeteria, the citizens of Manchester, East Hartford, South Windsor, Bolton and Glastonbury will elect representatives to the sub area council of the newly designated Health Systems Agency. Eligibility to vote is determined by age (18 years or older) and residency in one of the towns named above. Registration by vote is required one week in advance of the above date (May 19) by filling out a form which is available at the Town Hall in Manchester. More information may be obtained by calling 248-7581 during regular business hours. The new National Health and Resources Act, passed in January of 1975, will have a very definite effect on the quality and quantity of future health care services to all of us. Please fill out the registration form today and join your friends and neighbors at Manchester High School on May 19th. Sincerely yours, Margaret Lindahl 34 Hill St. Manchester

Wickham Park vandalism deplored

To the editor, What a senseless act of violence it was to kill the beautiful exotic birds in Wickham Park. I'm sure everyone felt the sense of loss and the anger over such a cruel act. I know the birds were protected by cages and barbed wire but I do feel even so that the birds were virtually unprotected for much of the time. Of course, it can be expected that a guard be hired to protect the birds in the time. But that was what was needed if the birds were to be given adequate protection. I seriously question whether the birds should be allowed to stay in the park under the present conditions. Sincerely, Madeline Cain 86 Lockwood St. Manchester

Scene from here Name dropping - Gerald Ford style

I see by the papers President Ford never mentions former President Richard Nixon by name. In fact, he does it deliberately. That's what he told reporters last week when they happened to ask him if it's on purpose. "It's better for all of us not to remind ourselves of that unfortunate era," is what he told them. By "that unfortunate era" he means Watergate, but he never mentions that word either, just as he doesn't mention "detente." How convenient for him to be able to will something, to make something go away, to pretend it never existed, to create a non-president president. It must be one of the fringe benefits of being president - something like being the emperor in "The Emperor's Clothes." When mentioning the man who appointed him vice-president to succeed you should excuse the expression - Spiro Agnew (the doctor mentions his name either), Ford refers to Nixon as "my predecessor," or, "President Johnson's successor."

Sen. Muskie trying to bell the cat

WASHINGTON - Pouring over some papers on his desk one recent day, President Ford looked up to shoot an irritable question at an aide: "What the devil is this $12-million item?" It was for a federal program Ford didn't know existed - "one of those environmental things," as his aide put it. One should not blame Ford for flunking his homework. Lyndon Johnson one complained to me that he was "not acquainted with about one-eighth" of the minor budgetary requests that passed through the White House. And in the last decade or so the number of domestic programs has increased from 50 to more than 900. Since 1967, the federal budget has climbed from $158.2 billion to an estimated $413-billion for fiscal 1977. Little wonder, then, that there is disquietude even on Capitol Hill, where federal programs are produced. Under the guidance of Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie, a move is under way to get action before the Democratic National Convention in July on legislation which would automatically abolish almost all programs every four years unless Congress approves their continuance. (Only so-called "uncontrollable" spending would be exempted - such as payments on the public debt and for Social Security.) Under the Muskie plan, managers of a program up for re-evaluation would be required to explain what would happen if they got no funds, half their current budget, three-quarters of their current budget, and so on. Moreover, all programs in a specific department or agency would be marked for expiration at the same time, forcing the White House and Congress to give the total effort a swift, as well as hard, look. Ordinarily such a revolutionary plan would have no chance of adoption, maybe this one is doomed by the lobbying of special interest groups. But the Muskie bill has the kind of broad support that success is made of. Common Cause and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which usually disagree on the sum of two and two, are for it. On the Hill, the bill is backed by a group of both liberals and conservatives, including Senate Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Barry Goldwater. The explanation for this gathering of strange bedfellows is simple: There no longer is enough money in the treasury to pay for all the federal government's programs. And already, so-called "uncontrollable" spending amounts to a whopping 75 per cent of the national budget. As Ed Muskie keeps reminding his colleagues: "Government has become out of touch and out of control. We in Congress have not paid enough attention to how well the programs we adopted were working." The result, as any pollster will affirm, is that the plain citizen has become disenchanted with "that Washington crowd," which he claims is spending him into the poorhouse. Predictably, however, Ford's bureaucratic managers take a dim view of the Muskie plan. James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, says the bill is too inflexible. Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson says it's "overly ambitious." William A. Morrill, assistant secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, whine that a review of HEW's more than 370 programs would consume too much staff time. Go "way back and sit down, gentlemen. The Republic is in trouble, and the only cure is to put a crimp in the traditional policy of waste as usual, practiced since New Deal days by both bureaucrats and politicians. And that cure is possible only if Congress, the big spender, repeats and becomes Congress, guardian of the citizenry's bankroll. Its duty is implicit in the Constitution, which says no dough can be spent that has not been appropriated on Capitol Hill. Watch this one closely, voters all. Don't listen to any sweet talk from your members of Congress in the campaign months ahead. Just keep in mind that a vote for the Muskie bill is a vote for YOU.

By United Press International CAPE FEAR RIVER, N.C., May 5 - Bolstered by reinforcements from England, Gen. Clinton issued a proclamation denouncing the "wicked rebellion" in the colony and urging the inhabitants to return to their "duty to our common sovereign." He also offered a pardon to all except Gen. Robert Howe, commander of a body of North Carolina troops, and Cornelius Harnett, an activist in the provincial committee of safety.

Thought for the day

If one were to look through a powerful microscope at what is going on between the leaven and the meal, he would see a tumultuous upheaval of the dough, and signs of turmoil and life within. He would find that there is, in reality, a mighty battle going on between the leaven and the meal. He would observe explosions, and tiny volcanoes in seemingly perpetual activity (Speaker's Issue). This describes the effect the kingdom of heaven should have upon the world. It should be effecting change, as the leaven changes the meal. What kind of change? We are to live in such a manner that others will desire to become citizens of the kingdom of heaven. Rev. Robert L. Baker Pastor United Pentecostal Church

By United Press International Today is Wednesday, May 5, the 126th day of 1976 with 240 to follow. The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus. American author Christopher Morley was born May 5, 1890. On this day in history: In 1925, biology teacher John Scopes of Dayton, Tenn., was arrested for teaching Darwin's theory of evolution in violation of state laws. In 1961, Alan Shepard rocketed 115 miles from Cape Canaveral, Fla., to become America's first suborbital space explorer. In 1972, an Alitalia airliner crash in Italy killed 115 persons. In 1975, President Ford asked Congress for $607 million to aid South Vietnamese refugees. A thought for the day: "If life had a second edition, how I would correct the proofs!"

Charles Scott named Land Trust speaker

Charles L. Scott II, executive director of the Connecticut Chapter of Nature Conservancy, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Manchester Land Conservation Trust (MLCT) on May 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Manchester Country Club.

He will speak on techniques of land acquisition, land management, tax deduction considerations and other services available to local land trusts. The MLCT works jointly with the Conservation Commission, the Environment and Beautification Committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, and the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee.

There are about 240 families, individuals, civic groups and businesses from the Manchester area who are members of the organization.

Byington nomination rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday rejected President Ford's nomination of S. John Byington to be chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Consumer forces, who had opposed Byington's nomination, hailed the vote as a rare victory in the Senate's confirmation process and said it should indicate to the President some of the problems he will be facing in the November election.

The committee voted to suspend indefinitely the nomination of Byington for a seven-year term as chairman of the agency; but at the same time it said it would ask Ford to resubmit Byington's name for another vacancy of 2 1/2 years on the commission.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., told reporters he understood the President was willing to try for the shorter term nomination and said he thought the committee could well approve Byington for the other slot. It was not known whether Ford would resubmit Byington's name for the chairmanship, but it was speculated that he would do so.

The vote, taken in a closed session, was a voice vote with a few no votes, Griffin said. He said some of the committee members seem to feel that Byington lacked administrative experience or that he was too close to the White House in his present role as assistant to Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer adviser.

Byington previously had said that the President was backing him for the full seven-year term as chairman and nothing else. One committee source, however, said he believed the White House would change its mind and ask for the shorter term and that Byington would "jump at the chance" to take it.

Byington, 39, grew up in Ford's hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich. He worked as a press aide for former Michigan Gov. George Romney and was public relations director for the American Pharmaceutical Association. He holds degrees in both law and pharmacy.

The term of the present chairman, Richard O. Simpson, expired last fall but he has remained on the job pending the Senate hearings.

House overrides Ford's veto of day care bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Tuesday voted to override President Ford's veto of a child day care center bill and sent it to the Senate, which was also expected to reject the veto and put the measure into law.

The bill would authorize $125 million to help the centers meet the costs of new federal staffing standards as well as state ordered health and safety regulations.

Without the money, proponents of the override vote said, centers across the nation now serving thousands of children would be forced to close. Working mothers would have to quit their jobs, they said, and low-income employees at the centers would return to welfare assistance.

Ford said he vetoed the bill because it added still more federal control over states that should be decided by voters and cities. Ford favored federal aid to the centers but said it should be given in a bloc grant without federal regulations on how it is used.

News for senior citizens

Hi there! Here we go again, and the first bit of news is that this past Monday we started registering for our June trip to Wildwood, N.J. By noon-time we filled two buses for the first week and are on the third, we have one bus for the second week, and have started on the second bus.

Remember, we will only take as many buses as we fill. The first week is from June 14 through 18, and the second is from June 21 through 25. This usually is one of our nicest trips because you get so much for the money. You're just a block away from the ocean, and it's just the place to go to relax and let it all hang out. Still taking reservations, so if you're thinking about it, come on down and join the gang.

Setback
Action here starts with last Friday's setback games. We had 50 players, and the lucky winner, Edward Shensie, 132; Albert Ouellette, 129; Oscar Cappucco, 126; Thomas Murphy, and Ernestine Donnelly, 124; Jennie Fogarty, 122; Marjorie Reed, Mabel Loomis, and John Gally, 121; Helena Gavello, and Edward Scott, 119; Rene Maire, 116, and Frances Fike, 115.

Then on Monday we had a nice turnout for our kitchen social games. During the morning we heard that Emma Russell, Katherine Evans, and John Wyosniemski are patients at Manchester Memorial Hospital, while Ann Hoffman is back in the hospital in Middletown.

Las Vegas trip
Here is the news you Las Vegas travelers have been waiting for. Paul will be giving us all our briefing session this coming Tuesday morning here in the basement at 10:30 a.m. So we will be looking for you to get all the details at that time.

While on the subject of trips, we will be signing up Monday for a one-day trip to Stanley Park in Westfield, Mass. The trip is scheduled for Wednesday, May 26, and will include bustare, sightseeing, entertainment, and a meal, all for $8.50.

Once again we will take as many buses as we can fill. Many of our members made this trip last year, and talked so highly of it we decided to go again. Registration begins around 8 a.m. on a first come basis.

Golfers
Back to Monday again. The golfers were out on the green bright and early in full force; 39 members played at the East Hartford Golf Course, and these are the results:
Ernest Segerberg, 39; Edward Scott, 42; William Crowley, 43; Russell Nettleton, 45; Al Boles and Joseph Klemas, 48; Clarence Peterson, Al Felke, Vince Porter and Joseph Quinn, 48; Harriet Horan had a 56.
In the afternoon, we had 14 tables for pinocchie with the following winners: Lyla Steele, 75; Paul Schultz, 72; Fritz Wilkinson, 70; Martha LaBate, 68; Rene Maire, 63; John Gally, 67; Ann Perras, 64; Cecil Benson, 62; Gladys Seclert, 64; Agnes LeDuc, 63; Helene Gavello, 63; Bessie Coste, 62; Grace Windsor, 61, and Sue Kerr, 58.
By the way, during our "Big Week" which is from May 24 through 28, we will be pulling an arts and crafts display in Watkins window. This means that Gloria will be looking for you to bring in many of your hand made items, as we want to have a fine display. So check with Gloria, and you may bring your articles right down to Watkins that Tuesday morning from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Mother's Day tea
Tomorrow we celebrate Mother's Day, with our Mother's Day Tea here at the center starting around 1 p.m. All you mothers, grandmothers, and when all be mothers are invited, and this is one day when you can sit back and let the men do the work.
With the weather beginning to shape up, we hope to get started on the outdoor shuffleboard games. So keep an eye open as to when we'll get started.

U.S. naval needs reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld testified in secret Tuesday before the Senate Armed Services Committee about the numbers and kinds of ships the U.S. Navy will need to control the seas during the remainder of this century. The administration has asked for 16 new ships and $6 billion for shipbuilding in its current budget, part of a $35 billion, 111-ship program for the next five years. The House raised the shipbuilding figures by $1.1 billion and added nine ships which the Navy did not request.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
James Madison, a 1771 Princeton graduate, threw himself into politics and was elected to the Orange County, Virginia, committee of safety in 1774. Throughout the Revolution, Madison was a delegate to both the state and Continental Congress. His political achievements included serving on the state committee that framed Virginia's constitution and bill of rights, authorship of 29 of the Federalist Papers and the U.S. Bill of Rights and service as both Secretary of State and President. The World Almanac recalls.

Carter gets support of Rep. Moffett

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., endorsed the candidacy of Democratic presidential front runner Jimmy Carter. "The last thing that Mr. Ford and Ronald Reagan want to see is a Democratic party united around Jimmy Carter. He has run everywhere and won almost everywhere and that is what it's all about," said the freshman congressman. Moffett said the Connecticut's high unemployment situation played a major role in his decision to back the former Georgia governor. "I don't want Connecticut left with little influence in the Carter campaign and the Carter administration," he said. "As the first of what I am certain will be many other Carter supporters among statewide and federal office holders, I hope to help our state get its foot in the door of the Carter camp."

Moffett is the only member of the Connecticut congressional delegation to come out for Carter. Rep. Robert N. Giammo, D-Conn., and Gov. Ella T. Grasso have backed and publicly campaigned for Henry Jackson, who planned a three-day tour of the state prior to Connecticut's first every presidential primary May 11. Before his election to Congress, Moffett was executive director of the Ralph Nader-associated Connecticut Citizens Action Group, a consumer watch-dog organization.

Thal speaks about DVR

Stephen Thal of the local Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR) office, will be guest speaker at an informal meeting Monday at 7 p.m. in the teachers cafeteria at Manchester High School.

DVR is a state agency which provides services to eligible special education and handicapped people. These services include psychological testing, vocational counseling, referral, on-the-job and vocational training.

Thal will explain how to apply for the services and how DVR can assist a special education and handicapped person. Parents and other interested persons are invited.

Comment Session

A variety of complaints were filed Tuesday with Manchester Director Phyllis Jackson, whose turn it was to chair a Board of Directors comment session. A woman complained of hedges higher than three feet at the corner of E. Center and Benton St. She said they block the view and said also that some of them are growing onto the sidewalk. Two men who reside on Teresa Rd. said Hop Brook is eroding the back of their property and said the brook has widened from six feet a few years ago to 12 feet now. A man complained of motorist in W. Center St. who don't pull over for ambulances and other emergency vehicles. He complained also of motorists who park in the fire lanes and travel lanes in shopping centers.

Another man had three complaints. He said the public works department is poorly run and wants to know why the superintendent was hired at a higher salary than the starting one. He said there are too many police cruisers on the road during daylight hours and suggested they should be used more in the evening. And he said he has observed three town trucks parked for over a half hour on Hartford Rd., while the drivers were having coffee. The last complaint received by Mrs. Jackson was by phone. It was from a man who said he is completely crippled from a fall in 1970 on a town street. He said he was in the hospital 31 days and thus passed the 30-day limit for filing a complaint about his fall. He said he has no recourse now for filing a claim.

Three Manchester residents were among those honored at a recent Heart Fund award dinner. Robert Reault and Roger Knauth, co-chairmen for Manchester; and Shirley McCray, Manchester Heart Days chairwomen, were presented with awards for their service during the Heart Association of Greater Hartford's annual fund raising campaign. As of April 21, Manchester raised $12,570, exceeding its fiscal year-end goal by over $2,000.

Governor praises legislature

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature has done a good job this session, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said Tuesday, a day before the lawmakers adjourned for the year.

She also said she favored measures giving strikers welfare benefits and allowing the sale of bonds. The governor did not say if she would sign a measure modifying the state "blue law" which prohibits some Sunday sales.

The legislature "had to work against great difficulties because of our fiscal limitations," Mrs. Grasso told a news conference. "And I think on balance, they've done a good job."

A measure which has passed both houses would allow smaller stores to stay open and expand the list of items which could be sold on Sunday under the state's "blue law."

"Apparently there are some questions of clarity," the governor said. She did not say she would sign the bill even if those questions were cleared up.

"I think we will have to wait until we have completed our study" before deciding whether to sign the bill, she said.

"I think the General Assembly realizes that they must express a posture with regard to the blue law," Mrs. Grasso said. "The degree to which it would wish to go has been confused by the legislation as it's developed."

"That's why we've had so many questions about it today."

The House voted for total repeal, but the Senate voted for modification of the present law. The House went along with modification, but some members said the new measure was so unworkable it would build support for repeal.

Mrs. Grasso said she would sign a measure authorizing the state to sell $20.4 million in state bonds for urban renewal projects.

Committee approves job bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Education and Labor Committee, after sharp debate, voted 25 to 10 Tuesday to approve a bill to cut the nation's jobless rate by more than half in the next four years.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., would give all Americans aged 16 and over who are able, willing and seeking work the right to a job. It sets a national goal to reduce unemployment from its recent 7.5 per cent level to 3 per cent by 1980.

Hawkins said it would attempt to do this primarily through the free enterprise economy, by having the President, Congress and the Federal Reserve Board work out coordinated fiscal, monetary and other economic policies.

To the extent the goal is not achieved, the bill would have the government provide jobs to those unable to find work.

The Humphrey-Hawkins bill, also pending in the Senate, has been endorsed by all the leading Democratic presidential candidates. President Ford has denounced it as a "vast, election year boondoggle."

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., told the committee Tuesday that if Congress approves the bill it will be moving toward "putting the federal government in control of all aspects of American life."

The bill, Quie said, "flies in the face of everything that seems to be the trend of the country." He said it assumes that "all knowledge" and the care to national problems "resides here" in Washington.

The bill, Quie said, is "philosophically wrong and the economics is full of holes."

Rep. Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich., said Congress won't pass the bill and the President won't sign it this year but that the concepts in the bill "will be the vehicle for a national debate for the next six months" during the election campaigns.

$11,000 given MPHNA

An additional $11,000 contribution to the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association (MPHNA) was approved Tuesday night by the Board of Directors.

The action was on a recommendation by a subcommittee consisting of John Thompson, Pascal Priprano and Carl Zasser.

A second subcommittee (Phyllis Jackson, Jack Goldberg and Vivian Ferguson) is considering the MPHNA request for next year and will have a recommendation.

The MPHNA received $70,000 in 1974-75 and $81,000 (plus the added $11,000) in 1975-76. It has requested $125,000 for next year and the town manager is recommending $80,100.

At Thompson's suggestion, the board instructed its new subcommittee and the manager to meet with representatives of the MPHNA, the health department and the Advisory Board of Health — to become informed of MPHNA needs, to keep the board informed of those needs and to come up with a firm recommendation for the MPHNA for 1976-77. The purpose of the review, Thompson said, is to eliminate "open-end" contributions.

Strike unemployment bill, faces Senate vote today

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Senate, with mandatory adjournment set for midnight, was to vote today on a bill extending unemployment benefits to workers furloughed by strikes not of their own making.

The House approved the measure Tuesday and sent it to the upper chamber after a motion to suspend a rule requiring a one-day delay on transmission carried by only 15 votes.

The measure requires unemployment benefits for workers furloughed because of strikes "not involving local labor dispute," so long as they certify they are "ready, willing and able" to return to work.

The nearly three hours of House debate centered on what constituted local labor disputes, with backers arguing strikes by national unions do not necessarily affect local labor-management relations.

Rep. Joseph Coatsworth, D-Cromwell, co-chairman of the Labor Committee, acknowledged benefits would be paid to workers in Connecticut not participating in strikes by their national unions against their national employers.

Coatsworth gave this example: a national union goes on strike against a national firm with a branch in Connecticut. The state local does not join the strike but members are furloughed since the branch can not operate because of the national strike.

There is no reason why those persons should be denied unemployment benefits since they were idled by labor situations not of their own making, Coatsworth said.

Rep. Russell L. Post, R-Canton, said the proposal was a loophole through which national unions could stage "selective strikes" that will cripple companies while avoiding major hardships for their members.

"The strategy from now on will be to strike one section to cripple all others," said Post, who negotiates labor contracts on behalf of municipalities. He tried several times to kill the bill.

Post said qualification for unemployment benefits should be determined on the basis of whether the furloughed employees benefit from the contract negotiations which lead to strikes. He was not opposed, he said, to paying benefits to persons who legitimately qualify for them, such as those covered by existing state laws.

Under the present system, employees in Connecticut idled by strikes of national unions other than their own do qualify for unemployment benefits. But members of the same union do not qualify regardless of whether the state local joined the strike.

The Republican minority opposed the motion to suspend the rules to transmit the bill to the Senate in time for consideration before adjournment. But it passed on a 106-31 party-line vote with 15 more votes than the required two-thirds majority.

House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, responded to Democratic charges his opposition to suspension of the rules was an unfair way of killing the bill by saying:

"This is a bad bill and I'll do anything to stop it from being signed into law."

Assembly rejects proposals to save the state $600,000

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut lawmakers have rejected proposals that would have saved the state $600,000, including $480,000 through a change in the way legislators are paid. The House and Senate voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to approve an "amending bill" — abolishing state functions that cost money — but not before it was amended to restore more than half the $1 million it was meant to save.

The measure was sent to Gov. Ella T. Grasso for her signature into law. The $480,000 was to be saved by requiring lawmakers be paid over 12-month periods. They now can take their pay over three, six or 12 months. Rep. Christopher Shays, R-Greenwich, said the schedule would have discouraged persons not wealthy from running for the legislature because it is nearly impossible to hold down a job during the session.

Lawmakers are paid $6,500 during the six-month session and $3,500 during the three-month session, Shays said, and spreading the salaries over a year would mean a top monthly pay of $541.

The bill allowed exemptions for lawmakers who stated they needed to be paid over six or three months because of economic hardships, but Shays said that would have been demeriting.

The new schedule would have meant a savings because it shifted half the lawmakers' annual payroll of $960,000 from next fiscal year to the following fiscal year. Rep. Abraham Glassman, D-South Windsor, opposed the restoration, saying lawmakers were rejecting a savings that involved them while asking all state agencies to cut spending because of the budget crunch.

"How can we ask everybody in the state to suffer a little bit when we're not doing the same?" Glassman said. Another savings rejected would have abolished the $112,000 payroll for one coroner and one deputy coroner in each of Connecticut's eight counties. No one spoke in favor of the coroners but the restoration was approved, 80-41.

Coroners are considered political patronage jobs. They are lawyers who rule on cases where deaths might have occurred through criminal negligence, such as auto crashes.

Democratic legislature draws Republican fire

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republicans have launched a traditional attack on the mostly Democratic legislature for its performance as the session winds to its constitutionally mandated close today.

House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, in a luncheon speech to Connecticut Republicans Tuesday criticized the legislature's handling of financial matters and pointed to the fall elections.

Sen. George L. Gunther, R-Stratford, attacked the Senate's inaction on bills having to do with the criminal justice system, including a measure making it easier to prosecute politicians for taking bribes.

Stevens said the Republican campaign cry in November, when voters elect a new legislature, could be "less taxation with more representation — let's get government out of our pockets."

He criticized passage of bills which raised state fees $2 million and spending $3 million, and a bill which approved "This is not the way for the state to run its business," Stevens said.

He also said there had been service cuts while the legislature "did nothing to reduce the size of our ever-growing, expensive, expensive bureaucracy known as state government."

Gunther said several law enforcement bills might die with adjournment today.

"Maybe the public will keep this in mind, come next November, and put people into office that will have guts enough to pass laws that they have been demanding for years," Gunther said.

He said four measures have been on the calendar a month without action and one — the bribery bill — has been waiting for two weeks.

Investigators working on the Bridgeport Jal Alai scandal were sorry there was no state law under which those involved could be prosecuted, Gunther said.

He said that by tonight, when the legislature must adjourn according to the constitution, there still might be no law "to prosecute influence peddlers and crooked politicians."

Court consolidation bill sent to governor

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill merging the state's three-tier trial court system was before Gov. Ella T. Grasso today. She has expressed reservations about it.

The Senate, after more than an hour of debate, Tuesday gave final legislative approval to the consolidation of the juvenile court and Court of Common Pleas into the Superior Court.

The only other court that would exist under the reorganization would be the State Supreme Court, which handles appeals only.

Proponents of the measure said it would be more efficient because all judges would be able to sit on all types of cases. Presently there are sometimes overlapping matters.

Opponents argued it was the wrong approach to judicial reform and said it would cost money in the long run because all judges would eventually be paid the $34,500 salary of those on the Superior Court.

Judges on the other two courts now receive $23,500 a year.

The measure would become effective in 1978.

Sen. David Neiditz, D-West Hartford, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the proposal would add "flexibility" to the judicial system.

"We have a system that is more attuned to the needs and problems of the 1930s than the 1970s," he said.

A series of amendments aimed at killing the bill were defeated by large margins.

Sen. George W. Hannon, D-East Hartford, who fought the plan, said it ignored the real problems.

"With the growing need for court reform we have addressed ourselves to items like job promotion and salaries," he said. "We seem to have some warped priorities."

But Senate Minority Leader Lewis B. Rome, R-Bloomfield, said eight years of study had concluded unification of the court system was the best approach to judicial reform.

Under the legislation the number of Superior Court judges would be increased to the combined number now on the Superior Court, Court of Common Pleas and Juvenile Court.

While the Juvenile Court would be abolished by the legislation, cases concerning those under age would receive the same special procedural treatment required presently.

Mrs. Grasso said at a news conference last week she had reservations about the proposal, but declined to say if she would sign or veto the measure.

Bill banning studded tires signed by Gov. Grasso

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso has signed into law a measure prohibiting sale of studded snow tires in Connecticut.

The governor signed 19 other bills Tuesday, raising her total for the session to 180. She has vetoed four proposals.

The tire measure would ban sale of the tires after Feb. 1, 1977, and would allow their use from Oct. 15, 1976 to April 30, 1977 and Oct. 15, 1977 to April 30, 1978.

After that a motorist could be fined $100 for the first offense and $200 for subsequent violations.

Among the other measures signed by the governor were bills that would: — Set up new rules for mobile home parks, forbidding park owners from changing resale standards once a real agreement is signed and requiring approval of the standards by the Real Estate Commission.

— Set 180 as the maximum number of orders for which the state will reimburse local towns. The measure, effective immediately, affects 20 towns and six regional districts and will save the state $213,000 this year.

— Allow savings banks to make some kinds of loans to their officers, and make more kinds of loans available to employees.

— Require prescription labels to contain the name and address of both the manufacturer and the distributor.

— Allow persons to participate in fishing derbies without a license, if the event is sponsored by a nonprofit civic organization, charges no entry fee and has written permission from the commissioner of environmental protection.

— Include cable television lines with phone, gas and electric lines as facilities the commissioner of transportation may order moved for a state highway. When they are moved, the state must reimburse part of the cost.

King's birthday now state holiday

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill making Martin Luther King's Jan. 15 birthday a state holiday was signed by Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

She signed the measure on the same desk President Abraham Lincoln used to sign the Emancipation Proclamation on Jan. 1, 1863. The desk was donated to the state library by a former U.S. Treasury Secretary from Connecticut.

The library loaned it to the governor for the ceremony.

Mrs. Grasso said she was proud on the occasion filled with significance.

Mrs. Grasso, surrounded by prominent black citizens of the state, celebrated on the second Sunday of January and was not an official state holiday.

The governor said "we're honoring him for his selfless devotion for the advancement of equality." She also "honored, pleased and proud on this leadership."

Mrs. Grasso, surrounded by prominent black citizens of the state, celebrated on the second Sunday of January and was not an official state holiday.

Next to her desk was a bust of King done by Connecticut artist Joseph Stein.

Firehouse on schedule

Construction progress at Manchester's Buckland Firehouse was reported good at Tuesday night's Town Building Committee session. Chairman Paul Phillips said walls are almost finished and the contractor is now working on interior partitions. The roof will go up next week, he said. The project is still considered on schedule, but the estimated June 30 completion date may be delayed a week. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Solar heating system considered for schools

Manchester's Town Building Committee (TBC) has indicated a strong interest in adding a solar heating system to planned renovation projects at Washington and Bentley schools and is seeking sources of federal funding for the innovative system.

TBC Chairman Paul Phillips said the committee will investigate availability of grants from the Energy and Research Development Agency of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Jerome Nathan, executive vice president of Choice Vending of Windsor Locks, which manufactures solar energy collector panels, explained various systems to the TBC Tuesday night.

Solar heating systems are strictly supplementary units, the TBC learned, used only when weather conditions allow to augment traditional heating systems.

The initial cost of a solar system is high, Phillips related, but such a system could save 10 to 15 per cent in annual heating costs and would pay for itself in 10 to 13 years. Maintenance requirements are minimal.

Phillips said the TBC is considering solar heat, if a grant is available, for the elementary school projects now being planned. The committee is also gathering information for future town construction projects, he said.

In other business Tuesday night, the TBC made adjustments in budgets for the nearly finished renovations-additions projects at Iling Junior High School and Bennett Junior High School, and for the Regional Occupational Training Center.

It was also reported that the town's Buckland Firehouse is on schedule, although the estimated June 30 completion date may be extended a week.

The TBC, wrapping up the multi-million junior high school projects, decided Tuesday night to transfer funds from each school's contingency account to pay for high-priority safety and health items not included in the original plans.

For Iling, the TBC decided to spend about $13,000 on items such as self-closing doors and supplemental fire alarms. The extra items will reduce the illing contingency account to about $3,000.

At Bennett, the TBC decided on similar items estimated to cost about $11,000, which would leave a balance of about $3,000 in that school's contingency account.

For the Regional Occupational Training Center, which is now about 80 per cent finished, the TBC transferred $12,000 from the contingency fund to the equipment account, to buy items which educators sought but weren't part of original plans.

Sen. Jackson here Saturday

Washington Sen. Henry Jackson, who will be campaigning in Connecticut Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will be in Manchester for about an hour Saturday afternoon, to meet his backers and the public.

He will be in a meeting room in Willie's Steak House, from about 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Arrangements for his visit were made by his Manchester coordinator — Daniel Cole.

Although Jackson has dropped out from actively seeking the Democratic nomination for president, he is honoring his commitment to Connecticut backers to campaign in the state. His name still will appear on Manchester's May 11 preferential primary ballots.

Barry lets nonlawyers decide on court merger

State Sen. David Barry of Manchester, "fed up" with intense lobbying for a state court merger bill in the General Assembly, resigned from the Assembly's Judiciary Committee Tuesday and refused to vote on the bill.

Barry, one of 16 lawyers in the 35-member Senate, said he felt he was in a conflict-of-interest situation and preferred to let the nonlawyers decide the plan. The measure, which would merge the state's trial court system into a single unit in 1978, passed the Senate 28-5 and went to Gov. Ella Grasso. (See story on Page 13)

Barry said there was a great deal of lobbying for the bill and he felt it might be difficult to function as a lawyer in the courts if he voted on the bill.

"It would be impractical to remain on the Judiciary Committee," he said. "I'd just as soon let the nonlawyers decide these matters."

Boy accused of planting explosive in school

BRISTOL (UPI) — Police have arrested a 14-year-old freshman for allegedly planting a homemade explosive device on a hall locker at Central High School.

The boy, whose name was withheld because of his age, was charged Tuesday with first degree reckless endangerment and referred to juvenile court, police said.

The crude bomb was safely removed from the school Monday after two students found it on top of a row of lockers across from the first floor library.

Detective Sgt. Barbara Kenney said the boy told police he planted the device, consisting of a clock, batteries and shotgun shells, to gain attention.

"His intention was not to hurt anyone," she said. "He told us he knew how to make it and he wanted to put it somewhere it would cause a commotion."

Police said two unidentified witnesses told them they saw the youth with the device in school earlier Monday and that was how the police linked the boy to the incident.

About 100 students were evacuated from the school while others were kept in their classrooms.

MHA to take applications for rent subsidy program

The Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) will begin taking applications Monday for a federal rent subsidy program which can help up to 45 families secure housing.

The program — under Section 8 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 — will provide subsidies for families whose income is within eligibility limits and for housing deemed as "fair market rents" by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The MHA has been allocated funds for just 45 non-elderly housing units, divided among varying size units. Plans call for subsidy of 5 one-bedroom units, 20 two-bedroom units, 18 three-bedroom units and 32 four-bedroom units.

MHA Executive Director Leon Enderlin said elderly persons are specifically excluded from the program, but the MHA is seeking funds for 45 elderly units under other provisions of Section 8.

The MHA's responsibility under the program is to take applications and determine a family's eligibility for the program, based on the maximum income limits. It's up to the eligible family to find its own housing, and then the MHA contracts with the landlord for rental payments.

Once the housing is selected and a lease signed, the eligible family pays between 15 and 25 per cent of its monthly income for rent. The MHA, through federal funding, pays the rest.

The federally determined "fair market rents" — the maximum allowed in the program — are $181 for a one-bedroom unit, $214 for a two-bedroom unit, $247 for a three-bedroom unit, and $270 for a four-bedroom unit (those are monthly rents).

The eligibility is determined by a schedule of annual income limits divided into "low income" and "very low income" categories.

For a family of four, the "low income" limit is $12,800 and the "very low income" limit is $8,000. A complete schedule of the income limits, for families ranging in size from one to eight persons, is available from the MHA.

Enderlin said review of eligibility will take some time, but once eligibility is determined, the program will operate on a first-come, first-served basis within each category.

Enderlin said the subsidy program is available to anyone regardless of current residence, but the subsidized housing must be in Manchester.

Applications will be taken by the MHA at its 24 Bluefield Dr. office from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Manchester is among several towns in the Hartford area allocated rent subsidy grants. The Hartford area total will fund 1,089 housing units, according to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Other Manchester area towns participating in the program are East Hartford, Glastonbury and Vernon.

Gambling watchdog unit gets House approval

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill creating a special state police squad to watch over legalized gambling in Connecticut today was on the desk of Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

The measure, the fourth compromise reached on the issue, was approved by the House Tuesday on the eve of its mandatory adjournment.

The eight-man state police squad would be attached to the Special

Revenue Commission, in charge of all legalized gambling in the state, but would be under the direct command of the state police commissioner.

It would conduct all investigations for the commission, primarily background checks on persons seeking licenses to operate parimutuel facilities such as jai alai arenas and dog and horse race tracks.

Church accused of brainwashing; sued for $4 million

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Charging their daughter was brainwashed, a Jericho couple has sued the controversial Unification Church for $4 million.

In a 12-count suit filed in U.S. District Court, Eric and Elizabeth Schuppin charged the cult used mind control, restraints and techniques to destroy their daughter's ability to make "intelligent, rational decisions."

They also accused the church, founded by Korean evangelist Sun Myung Moon, of holding Tamara Schuppin in "involuntary servitude and penance."

Last year the Schuppins engineered an attempt to "rescue" their daughter from the influence of the church.

But it was foiled when police in Windsor, Conn. arrested three men and charged them with kidnaping. The three subsequently pleaded guilty to reduced charges.

Similar charges against Mrs. Schuppin were not pressed by Connecticut authorities after Gov. Thomas Salmon refused to honor them in Vermont.

The state Senate this summer is scheduled to conduct an investigation of the Unification Church, which has a center here.

New food stamp regulation due for adoption Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department later this week expects to adopt formally a new food stamp regulation designed to cut about 5 million people from the $5.8 billion program and to reduce costs about $1.2 billion a year.

Officials who had expected to announce the action Tuesday said that publication of the regulations in the Federal Register—a necessary technicality—had been delayed until Thursday because of the length of the new rules.

An Agriculture source said officials are still unsure of the exact impact of the new regulations which will bar food stamps for families of four earning over $6,700 per year. Estimates based on old data put the potential savings at $1.2 billion, but newer studies are expected to furnish fresh estimates soon.

John Damgard, deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said it was impossible to predict whether the new studies would lower or raise the savings estimate.

The new regulations would drop some current stamp participants by eliminating a complex system of income deductions which enables some families with gross income over $6,700 annually to bring their net incomes down low enough to qualify.

In place of these itemized deductions, the new regulations will allow a standard $100 a month deduction with an extra $25 for families which include elderly people.

Another major item in the new regulations will be a proviso basing stamp eligibility on an applicant's income during the 90 days before he seeks aid, rather than on his current and prospective income.

Vietnamese reported ready to allow Americans to leave

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese authorities may allow the dozens of Americans trapped in Saigon during last year's panicked evacuation to begin leaving the country as soon as this week, diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

The reason for the apparent reversal of policy in allowing U.S. citizens and their Vietnamese dependents to leave Vietnam is not known, the sources said.

But Mennonite worker Max Ediger, who left Saigon last week, said in an interview he believed all Americans would soon be allowed to leave because the government membership for U.S. citizens and their dependents is being processed.

There are at least 38 American citizens in South Vietnam, most of them in the Saigon area.

Although several have indicated they wish to remain in Vietnam, most have been trying to leave the country since the Communist victory a year ago.

So far this year, three Americans—two Mennonite workers and a businessman—have been allowed to leave Saigon.

The South Vietnamese government halted the exit of almost all Americans last August after the United States voted U.N. membership for both North and South Vietnam.

Exceptions were made for newsmen and workers for "friendly" welfare organizations who wanted to leave, including volunteers for the Quaker and Mennonite aid committee.

Manchester police report

Manchester Police detectives Tuesday served arrest warrants charging three persons with four unrelated recent burglaries.

Donald P. Mooney, 19, of 90 Wells St. was charged with third-degree burglary and second-degree larceny in connection with a break into Alcar Auto Parts, 226 Spruce St. He was held on a $2,500 bond for appearance today in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford.

Kevin C. Stanley, 17, of 137 Anthony Rd., Tolland was charged with two counts each of third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny, in connection with breaks into Floyd's Market, 1 Broad St., and the M & R Package Store, 282 Tolland Tpk. He was held on a $2,500 bond for court appearance today.

Peter J. Culligan, 18, of Hartford was charged with third-degree burglary and second-degree larceny in connection with a break into Cumberland Farms Food Store, 151 W. Middle Tpk. He was held on a $5,000 non-surety bond for court appearance May 24.

Other arrests made by Manchester Police included:

- Jeffrey P. Carter, 19, of 22 Davis Ave., Rockville, charged Tuesday afternoon with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) at Caldor of Manchester, Burr Corners Shopping Plaza. After a search, he was also charged with possession of hallucinogenic substance (suspected LSD) and possession of marijuana. Court date is May 18.
- Juan L. Bedell, 27, of 89 Branford St., charged Tuesday morning with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) at Sears Roebuck & Co., Manchester Shopping Parkade. Court date is May 17.
- Aloys C. Devanas, 23, of 374 Hartford Rd., charged early this morning with disorderly conduct and intoxication, after an alleged disturbance at her home. Court date is today.

A Manchester motorist told police he was driving east on Tolland Tpk. near Burr Corners Tuesday afternoon when a car passed him and collided with a truck.

The motorist told police the passenger in the other car leaped from his window and smashed the complainant's window with his fist. The complainant was showered with glass and suffered numerous facial cuts, police said.

The victim told police that the car then left the scene. Investigation is continuing.

Other incidents reported to police Tuesday included several thefts of Citizen Band radios, thefts of money and a few burglaries.

A total of four CB radios were reported stolen Tuesday. The thefts, which occurred in various areas of Manchester, involved units ranging in value from $100 to $250.

Thefts of money were reported by an Oakland St. service station ($31 missing) and an Oakland St. resident ($800 missing). Burglaries reported Tuesday included breaks into two homes and the Manchester Teen Center on Garden Grove Dr. A 38-caliber revolver was among items stolen in a break into a Hartford Rd. home. It wasn't known if anything was missing in breaks into a Myrtle St. residence and the Teen Center.

Frank Church backers freed

With the decision Tuesday by Idaho Sen. Frank Church to pull out of Connecticut's May 11 preferential primary, his name will be blocked out of the paper ballots to be used that day.

His will be the second name blocked out—the other is that of Frank Harris, who withdrew several weeks ago.

Today, Dr. Walter Scharif, Manchester coordinator in the Church campaign, advised the 26 Church delegates they no longer are committed to their candidate and can back anyone they wish.

Still to appear on the May 11 ballots are the names of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Arizona Rep. Morris Udall, Washington Sen. Henry Jackson and anti-fabortionist Ellen McCormack. In addition, there is a box for "uncommitted," for those not backing any candidate.

Candidates and the "uncommitted" must get a minimum of 15 per cent of the votes cast in the May 11 Democratic primary to get consideration for delegates to the Democratic National Convention. If they fail to get the 15 per cent, their votes are divided proportionately among those receiving 15 per cent or more.

Cancer researchers optimistic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is increasing optimism in the National Cancer Institute that drugs they develop into a major weapon in the battle against breast cancer.

NCI Director Frank Rauscher said if current good results in chemical therapy trials continue for a few more years, it may be possible to recommend drugs, plus surgery less disfiguring than radical mastectomies, to treat the disease that strikes 90,000 American women annually.

"This is major progress but it could take another 10 years to determine the best role of the various treatment techniques to produce cures with a minimum of surgery," he told a Senate health subcommittee Tuesday.

"I want you to know that the news, so far, is very good indeed," Rauscher said, however, that there are problems in using powerful anticancer drugs to treat breast cancer. Anticancer drugs have shown that some of the chemical agents might be capable of causing cancer themselves.

But he said the number of secondary tumors that might be caused by drug therapy are far larger than the number of women who would benefit from the drugs.

Mrs. Olga Carlson Olson, 85, of Enfield, formerly of Manchester, died Monday at Johnson Memorial Hospital, Stafford Springs. Mrs. Olson was born in Sweden and came to this country 50 years ago. She lived in Manchester for 30 years until moving to Enfield 20 years ago. She was a member of Emanuel Lutheran Church. Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Walter Barry of Enfield, and five grandchildren. The funeral is Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Brown Funeral Home, 121 Pearl St., Enfield. Burial will be in Enfield St. Cemetery, Enfield. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Israelis asked to produce more, consume less, on 28th anniversary

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel marked the 28th anniversary of the birth of the Jewish state today at a time of growing Arab unrest in occupied territories, increasing dependence on foreign aid and fears of a U.S.-imposed peace settlement. Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin called on the nation of 3.3 million to produce more, consume less, and be less dependent on external aid to solve Israel's problems. The prime minister urged a reduction in Israel's dependence on foreign largesse in case of a "general confrontation" with the United States over peace settlement.

PUCA questions accuracy of overcharge report

HARTFORD (UPI) — Members of Connecticut's Public Utilities Control Authority today were questioning the accuracy of a report that said the state's two largest utilities overcharged customers. The report, commissioned by the PUCA, said the Hartford Electric Light Co. and the Connecticut Light and Power Co. overcharged customers by $24.1 million during a three-month period ending Feb. 29. "Any conclusions at this time would be very precipitous and unjustified," said PUCA Chairman Albert J. Kieban. "I'm not ready to rely on the report at this time."

Board hears explanation of new teacher contract

The Board of Directors Tuesday night heard an explanation of the two-year contract with the teachers' union. The package for 1977-78 provides a 5 per cent raise (applied also to all steps above the first two), plus a 1.0 per cent for inflation (MEA), but deferred consideration to his May 11 meeting. The board doesn't have to approve the agreement; it only can vote to reject it. No action at all by the board would signify tacit approval. Explanations of the agreement were by Alan Prignano, school board chairman; and Wilson Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools. The package for 1978-79 provides a 4.75 per cent raise (applied also to all steps after the first), plus 2.10 per cent for inflation and 0.14 per cent for department heads — for a 6.99 per cent total increase.

Hughes' cousins file claims

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The attorney general of Nevada said it is a disagreeable business to go running into a dead man's pockets. Those who can claim a share of Howard Hughes' estate do not share his distaste. Claimants to Hughes' fortune continue to appear. Three cousins from Hughes' father's side of the family — Jeff Milton Hughes, Elizabeth Hughes McDugald and Felix Turner Hughes — entered the legal arena Tuesday. Attorney C. Alex Meacham of Smyrna, Tenn., filed a petition of interest for them in Los Angeles Superior Court. In another action, Richard Gano, a cousin already named temporary administrator of Hughes' privately owned California properties, filed a petition to be named permanent administrator — fighting off counterclaims by the county public administrator and Noah Dietrich, named executor in the purported will found last week in Salt Lake City.

Krashefski's base hit decides East's thriller

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter
Maybe it's only temporary but it appears East Catholic's baseball team is back on the right track. The Eagles, breaking a three-game losing streak, fought hard for an 11-inning 7-6 HOC victory over St. Thomas Aquinas yesterday at Eagle Field. John Krashefski's two-out single chase home the game-winner in support of a fine relief stint by Kevin Shorey.

Softball eligibility
Softball, slow pitch variety, got off the mark this week in Manchester with 10 leagues. Several leagues have called this desk for information regarding guidelines for player eligibility. Carl Silver, supervisor of the program for the Recreation Department, provided the answers. There are several qualifications that must be met. All players must be residents of the Town of Manchester or local property owners. 2. All must attend local schools full time, Manchester Community College included. 3. A non-resident must be an employee of the team sponsor. The above applies to all leagues except Silk City. Here, Silver said, each team may have not more than five non-residents on its roster. He added that no checks on actual residence are made for any league and the word of team managers is taken that all are Manchester residents or fall into the eligible category listed above. If a player is found to be a non-resident, he would be barred from further play, Silver said. All participants in the softball program must become members of the Recreation Department for a fee of $3 each. Most improved Bill Mann, who upped his individual average 17 pins over a year ago, has won the most improved award in the Silk City 10-Pin Bowling League. Bob McComb upped his average by 15 pins and veteran Ernie Oakman was 14 pins per game better this time around a year ago. Carroll Maddox is handling some sports information news out of Manchester Community College. For many years he operated his own public relations firm. Jeff Tortrance, former East Catholic High golfer, star, is back home after his first season at Miami Dade Junior College, where he sharpened up his game. Tortrance was the only member of the state championship East squad to graduate last year.

The win was East's sixth compared to five losses. All victories have come at home while the setbacks have been away. In the conference, the Eagles are 4-3. The setback drops Aquinas to 3-4 in the HOC and 2-7 over-all. East's next tilt is Saturday afternoon at 1 at Eagle Field against Northwest Catholic. "This was a big win for us," contended East Coach Jim Penders, "it was something we needed. Most pleasing was the pitching of Shorey." The visiting Saints knotted it at 6-6 in the eighth on a two-run homer by Kevin Heckman over the leftfield barrier off East starter Frank Greene. Andy Giertz, who scored ahead of Heckman, had reached on an error by the pitcher. Greene got the first two outs in the ninth, both long shots, before Mike Lyman ripped a single to left. Penders had seen enough and removed his tiring hurler in favor of Shorey. The latter, a hard-throwing right-hander who has had trouble locating the plate, found it with great regularity and was most effective. He allowed no hits and struck out three in 1.5 innings to gain the mound decision.

East jammed the bases in the 11th against Aquinas' loser Steve Aporo as Mike Farrel walked, Tom Gerbo lined his third hit and Bill Moffitt was intentionally walked. The Saints appeared to be out of trouble as they turned over a fine first-to-home-to-first doubleplay on a grounder by Mark McMahon. But Krashefski first ball swinging lined a short shot diving first baseman Lyman for the winner. The Eagles took a 2-0 edge in the second by a reversal of an umpire's call. Krashefski and Mark Dumais were at third and second respectively when the unusual occurred. Shorey hit a roller to the left of first which first sacker Giertz fielded. He tossed to pitcher Lyman covering and base umpire Leo Diana indicated out. Penders protested and appealed to plate umpire Earl Yost who informed Diana Lyman had clearly missed touching first. Aquinas Coach Bill Reagan had his turn with the judge but to no avail. East then pulled off a double steal scoring Dumais; the peg by catcher Mark Zaleski winding up in center field as no one covered at second. Gerbo made it 3-0 in the third with the first of two homers he belted over the rightfield fence, about 330 feet away. Aquinas knotted it in the fourth on four straight safeties in-

Mark Dumais grits teeth on follow through. Catholic catcher came up with two base hits in victory.

Portland nine outruns Tech

Putting it out of reach with a five-run seventh inning, Portland High outdistanced Cheney Tech, 9-3, in COC baseball action yesterday at the Beavers' field. The loss drops Cheney to a 2-7 record while the win moves Portland to a 4-1 ledger. Cheney returns to action today entertaining Rham High at 3:15. Portland took a 3-0 lead in the third with three unearned runs off losing pitcher Pete Ostashen. Bill Borg singled followed by two Cheney miscues. Winning pitcher Pete Bransfield aided his own cause with a single driving home a run. A Bransfield sacrifice fly drove home a tally in the fifth and the Highlanders exploded for five in the seventh. Louie Vargas and Larry Dembowski each drove home a pair of runs for winners. Cheney did its scoring in the sixth. Dave Balon and Ostashen walked and Chris Skoczylas singled to load the sacks. Glenn Cooke walked to force in a run and freshman Dave Gustamachio ripped a double driving in the other two runs. Cooke and Skoczylas each had a pair of hits for Cheney. The loss for Ostashen was his fourth compared to two wins. He struck out six and walked two while Bransfield fanned seven and issued five bases on balls.

Whalers oppose Aeros

HOUSTON (UPI) — The New England Whalers start their seven-game playoff series against the Aeros tonight for the U.S. championship in the World Hockey Association. The winner of the semifinal playoffs will play the Canadian Division champs Winnipeg Jets for the WHI crown and possession of the Avco Cup. Houston will host the Whalers Friday night in the second game that will be broadcast back to Connecticut via the Public Television Network. The series switches to the Hartford Civic center for Sunday and Tuesday night games. Succeeding games, if necessary, will be played at Houston, Hartford and Houston, respectively. The Whalers won the Eastern Division title by winning the best-of-seven series, 4-3, over Indianapolis. The Aeros, the defending WHA Avco Cup champions, defeated San Diego in their best-of-seven series 4-2 to win the Western title.

Solomon blitzes Ashe

DALLAS (UPI) — Harold Solomon kept telling people he could win the World Championship Tennis title. And Arthur Ashe, for one, has been convinced. In just a little over two hours Tuesday night, "the tiny backcourt player blitzed the No. 1 seed and defending champion, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3, and advanced into the semifinals of the sixth annual WCT Tourney. Houston will host the Whalers Friday night in the second game that will be broadcast back to Connecticut via the Public Television Network. Islanders, and Flyers victorious

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Islanders didn't play 60 minutes of good hockey but the first 57 were good enough. "We played very good hockey except for the last three minutes," said New York's Jean Potvin, after the Islanders averted playoff elimination Tuesday night with a 5-2 victory over the Montreal Canadiens. "For that first 57 minutes, we played a very sound game. To outscore the Canadiens 4-0 you've got to play pretty good hockey. We were executing exceptionally well." Two-time defending Cup champion Philadelphia also pulled to within one victory of the final round when the Flyers captured their third straight semifinal game from the Boston Bruins, 4-2. Three Boston regulars — Bob Schumatz, Jean Ratelle and Wayne Cashman — suffered game-ending injuries and none is expected to play in game five Thursday night in Philadelphia. Terry O'Reilly got both Bruin goals in the first period, sandwiching them around a score by Mel Bridgman in game five. Reggie Leach, another former Bruin, set a Stanley Cup record 23 seconds into the second period. His 10th goal of the playoffs gave him at least one in eight straight postseason games.

High gets pitching but short on runs

By STEVE ARMSTRONG Correspondent
Manchester High baseball Coach Hal Parks can be definitely proud of his pitching staff. Yesterday another fine performance was turned in, this time by southpaw Scott Eagleson who pitched a seventh-inner and struck out 10. "Yet once again the Indian bats failed to click in key situations, and Manchester ended up on the short end of a 3-2 score to Windham High in a CCLL action at Kelley Field. The loss drops Manchester to 3-5 while Windham moves up to 6-3. The Silk Towners travel to East Hartford today for a 3:30 clash with Pennsy High. Eagleson pitched an excellent game, with wildness his only problem as he walked six. Many of the Whippet batters fanned fishing for his live fastball. His performance was equaled by Windham starter Dave Besette however. Although not overpowering, Besette seemed especially effective with men on base. He was also aided by a strong defense behind him. Windham opened the scoring in the second. Tom Brown beat out a single to deep shortstop. Russ Shea then lined a single to rightfield. As Brown tried for third, rightfielder Ray Gliha fumbled the ball and then threw past third baseman Wayne Ostrout allowing Brown to score. Windham made it 2-0 in the fifth without getting the ball out of the infield. It was in this frame that Eagleson's wildness was a factor. He walked Shea and Tom Kokoska leading off the frame. Eagleson grabbed a liner by Besette for the first out and fanned John Gustafson and it looked like he was out of trouble. But Chris Risley beat out a tapper to second on a very close call and Paul Noheimer walked forcing in a run. Manchester knotted it in the bottom of the fifth. Eagleson lined a single to right and scored on a triple by Tony Barrett that landed near the scoreboard in centerfield. Jeff Backofen then dumped a single to right tying things up. Windham scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth. Brown singled to right and Cliff Tompkins rammed a shot back at Eagleson, who deflected it all the way into right with Brown taking third. Russ Shea singled to right and Cliff Tompkins rammed a shot back at Eagleson, who deflected it all the way into right with Brown taking third. # Dock Ellis winner in Yank uniform

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Dock Ellis, off to a flying start with the New York Yankees, says he's determined to show the Pittsburgh Pirates the error of their ways.

Part of a package deal with Ken Brett and Willie Randolph for Doc Medich in December, Ellis is 3-0 following a 2-1 decision over the California Angels Tuesday night.

"I was traded and I feel you have something to prove when you're traded," the 31-year-old right-hander said. "I want to show Pittsburgh that they made a mistake. I know I feel like they did. I love New York but I hated to leave Pittsburgh. But I knew I had to leave because I had a run-in with Danny Murtha and that's what happens in the hierarchy of baseball. I understand that."

Roy White and Chris Chambliss hit home runs off Frank Tanana in the fifth inning and the Yankees moved into undisputed possession of the first place in the American League East.

ROY WHITE

walked Bruce Bochte and Sparky Lyle came on to get Rusty Torres to hit into a game-ending double play for his fourth save.

"It's a nice start, but you don't count your record right now," Ellis said. "You count your record at the end of the season. I've had other good starts before. I'm cautious. We'll see what happens. I'm not about to make any claims yet." Tanana, a 16-game winner last season, now has given up six home runs in six starts and is 1-3. Chambliss' game-winning blast was his third homer and gave him a 13-game hitting streak.

"He had a good start last year," he said, "but I think this one is a better one. I'm driving in more runs."

The game was played under protest by Yankees manager Dick Williams, whose team took its 14th loss in 21 starts. Bill Melton hit a ball to left in the first that White appeared to catch. However, third base umpire Art Frazier ruled he trapped the ball. Melton was ruled out for leaving the baseline.

"I had a broken play," said Terry Cooney, first base umpire. "He (Melton) never got to the base in the first place."

Williams said he planned to submit his protest in writing, as is required, to the American League office today.

Cromie complains of council actions

Coventry
Richard Cromie, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, has filed a complaint with the state Freedom of Information Commission which deals with actions taken up to the firing of Allen Sandberg, former town manager, and with the actual firing itself.

Cromie writes that the Republican majority members of the Town Council apparently met without the Democrats and voted to ask for Sandberg's resignation.

A letter so stating was hand delivered by Jesse Brainard, chairman of the council, to Sandberg. This letter was signed by Brainard "for the council."

Cromie claims neither of the Democratic members of the Town Council had knowledge of the letter until it was ready to be presented to Sandberg.

Cromie further charges the

Police charge boys with rape in park

Vernon
Gregory Hurst, 17, of 48 Agnes Rd., Manchester and Jeffrey Aldridge, 16, of Hartford were arrested Tuesday on court warrants charging them with first-degree sexual assault.

The alleged assault took place in Henry Park, Rockville April 28 and involved a 14-year-old girl, police said.

Hurst was presented in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville Tuesday. His case was continued to May 26 and he was freed on a $1,000 surety bond.

Aldridge was to appear in court today.

Robert Frazier, 24, of Edgemere Rd., Coventry, was charged Tuesday with breach of the peace and threatening after a disturbance on Spring St.

Frazier was released on a $500 surety bond for court in Rockville May 26.

Ernest Landry, 17, of 100 Glenstone Dr., Vernon, was charged Tuesday with possession of a cannabis substance.

Police said they made a routine check of a car parked in an unlighted parking lot off Rt. 85 and found a quantity of the substance on the car floor. Landry was to be presented in court today.

South Windsor
Gregory Zak, 19, of 53 Peach Tree Lane, South Windsor, was charged Tuesday with evading responsibility in connection with a minor accident that happened in the high school parking lot. He was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford May 25.

Cathleen Kinney, 18, of 40 Cumberland Dr., East Hartford, was charged Tuesday night with failure to drive in established lane after her car went off the road and struck a tree.

Police said she dropped a cigarette and took her eyes off the road to pick it up. Ms. Kinney and a passenger in her car, Mae Malta, 17, of 77 Northview Dr., South Windsor, were taken to St. Francis Hospital, treated for contusions and abrasions, and released.

Ms. Kinney is scheduled to appear in court in East Hartford on May 25.

Sailboat racing schedule set

Hills residents object to small house

Coventry
A petition signed by 102 residents of the Coventry Hills area seeks to stop the construction of a home on Deborah Dr. which the residents claim is not in keeping with the other homes in the area.

The home under construction by Rubin Grah is a five-room ranch with 1,000 square feet of living area. The surrounding homes are two-story colonials, raised ranches, and split levels that have from 2,200 to 2,700 square feet of living area.

The petition states, "We are seeking redress from an economic injustice caused by the construction of an ill-conceived dwelling. This dwelling is unreasonably out of keeping with the basic appearance of the existing homes in the neighborhood."

It claims some of the homes are for sale there and the owners would like to sell at a lower price because of the new ranch house.

"While the builder may be in technical compliance with the Coventry zoning ordinances and building codes, we feel that a callous disregard has been exhibited concerning the environmental and economic impact of the builder's actions on the other residents of the neighborhood."

"We object to the economic injustice of one person profiting financially at the involuntary expense of several others."

The residents request the Town of Coventry stop construction, mediate a compromise with the builder for a house more in keeping with the neighborhood, and change the zoning ordinance.

They propose the new ordinance in new homes in an established area be of a size within 24 per cent of the average home there, but in no case smaller than 750 square feet.

The petition drive is being led by Mrs. Suzanne Johnson of Deborah Dr. A committee called the Coventry Hills Association has been formed to stop the construction.

Mrs. Johnson said, "We realize the builder is within the law. We had hoped to find a loophole but we did not. We don't think this is fair. We are not objecting to the quality of construction, just this particular style home in this neighborhood."

The association appeared before the Town Council Monday to air their complaints.

The council referred them to the Planning and Zoning Commission. Sandra Slave, chairman of the PZC, said time has been set aside at the Monday PZC meeting to discuss changing the zoning ordinance. But she said the PZC cannot stop construction now.

Frank Connolly, town planner, said he had been informed by the group a zone change application will be filed shortly.

KofC plans sports night

Bolton
The third annual sports night sponsored by the St. Maurice Council Knights of Columbus will be June 9 at 6:30 at the church parish center.

All spring sports awards will be presented. The best male athlete award will be given by the KofC. The best female athlete award will be given by the Bolton Woman's Club. The recipients are determined by the Bolton High School athletic staff.

Chairman of the event will be Tom Sheridan. Gil Boissonneau will be master of ceremonies.

The Bolton Woman's Club will serve a roast beef dinner. Anyone wishing a ticket may call either Sheridan, 646-6619, or Boissonneau, 644-9688.

Pat Mastretta, athletic director at Manchester Community College, is guest speaker.

Glass to head program

Vernon
Laurie R. Glass, 23, of Fairfield has been hired as Vernon's community development specialist.

His salary will be paid from federal community development discretionary funds awarded the town.

His job will be to develop and run the low-interest home rehabilitation loan program which will also be funded by the $150,000 discretionary grant.

Ms. Glass was chosen from among a large number of applicants. She holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Southern Connecticut State College and a master's degree in public administration from the Maxwell School of Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

She has worked in the planning departments of Bridgeport, Conn. and Syracuse, N. Y.

Ms. Glass will assume her duties in Vernon in about two weeks or as soon as the money is made available through the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

School labor talks begin

Hebron
The Hebron Board of Education (HBE) last week entered formal negotiations with the Civil Service Employees Association, Inc. (CSEA), said Supt. David Callahan.

The state Board of Labor Relations recognized CSEA March 10 as the bargaining agent for noninstructional elementary school employees.

The financial burden over a longer period of time, his committee said. Councilman Robert Wehrli, who served as chairman of the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) for several years, asked Furbish if the committee had a cost estimate of the proposed project.

Furbish said the committee was talking about a 7,000 to 12,000 square foot expansion now and an ultimate expansion of 17,000 square feet. "I think the cost would be somewhere in the area of $500,000." Some of the cost would be for renovation.

If the town attorney says Tuesday's action was legal, then the PBC will select an architect. The National Clearing House for Criminal Justice and Planning will assign a staff planner to work with the architect at no cost to the town.

Sanitary refuse bid lowest

Bolton
DONNA HOLLAND
No contract was awarded by the Board of Selectmen following the opening of four bid proposals received for solid waste removal at a meeting Tuesday.

Eleven proposals had been picked up by contractors after the bids were advertised but only four were returned.

The proposals said, "Waste must be deposited by the bidder at a site outside Bolton."

Sue Hoar said her father-in-law, Harold Hoar, owner of Harold and Sons Rubbish Removal, did not bid because he does not have a site.

Charles Kurker from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) said by state law each town must provide a landfill area. First Selectman David Dredel will confer with Town Counsel John Mahon on the matter.

The town received two bids for 100 per cent townwide pickup, two to provide a disposal area and four for a transfer station.

Sanitary Refuse Co. owned by Anthony Botteicchio was the only contractor to bid on all three sections. It was the apparent low bidder at $20,200 for a transfer station and $46,116 for 100 per cent pickup.

Connecticut Carting Inc. from Norwich was the apparent low bidder for a site at $26,825.

Sanitary Refuse bid for a site was $23,600. Its bid for 100 per cent pickup and a site on a one-year contract totals $81,280 and on a three-year contract, $75,116 per year.

The site cost must be added to either the transfer station or the 100 per cent pickup bid.

Architect to be hired

Vernon
The Town Council voted Tuesday not to spend $2,500 for a study of police/fire space needs.

The council voted to appropriate $10,000 from the contingency fund to hire an architect to draw preliminary plans and prepare a cost estimate for expansion of the existing police facility.

George Furbish, chairman of a subcommittee studying space needs, said that highest priority should be given to expansion of police facilities noting that the present station is in adequate.

"The economy leads us to consider the more conservative alternative of expanding existing buildings and utilizing present town-owned land in a multi-stage process so as to spread the financial burden over a longer period of time, his committee said. Councilman Robert Wehrli, who served as chairman of the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) for several years, asked Furbish if the committee had a cost estimate of the proposed project.

Furbish said the committee was talking about a 7,000 to 12,000 square foot expansion now and an ultimate expansion of 17,000 square feet. "I think the cost would be somewhere in the area of $500,000." Some of the cost would be for renovation.

If the town attorney says Tuesday's action was legal, then the PBC will select an architect. The National Clearing House for Criminal Justice and Planning will assign a staff planner to work with the architect at no cost to the town.

Mrs. Kepler resigns from board

East Hartford
Eleanore M. Kepler, chairperson of the Board of Education, resigned Monday night.

Her resignation became effective at the close of the meeting.

In her letter to the board, she said her job is demanding more time and energy leaving less time to devote to increasing board duties. She said someone with more time should replace her.

Mrs. Kepler is supervisor of research and a salary administration at the Johns Insurance Co. in Hartford. A former teacher who is continuing her education, Mrs. Kepler also noted conflicts with meetings and classes.

Mrs. Kepler has served on the board since 1969 when she was appointed to fill a vacancy. That November, she was elected on her own and has served seven years.

She was board secretary until February, 1975 when she was elected chairperson. She added in her letter, all her board experiences were rewarding despite the heavy demands and frustrations.

Board members and School Supt. Dr. Eugene Diggs thanked Mrs. Kepler and praised her for her accomplishments.

Vermonters makes weather vanes that last

By WILLIAM POOLE
CAMBRIDGE, Vt.
(UPI) — The welded-steel weather vane heches smoke from its dragonlike mouth and breathes steam through its nostrils.
It's a five-foot tall, four-and-a-half foot tall "monster" that sits in a workshop in Pumpkin Harbor just outside this northern Vermont village.

The stove was made by blacksmith Peter Krusch, who feeds it a steady diet of hardwood and uses it to make weather vanes.
For the past five years, Krusch has been making the vanes. He has designed more than 50 of them, using such offbeat creatures as butterflies and birds.

He says there is a burgeoning market for the vanes especially if they are unusual and ornate.
The demand for the vanes is part of what Krusch, an ex-farmer and Peace Corps volunteer, calls a "craving for permanency."
"People are getting away from the usual plastic works and are beginning to crave permanency," says Krusch.

"For instance, they buy a $6,000 car and after three years it begins to rust. They want something built to last."
Prior to becoming a full-time craftsman, Krusch, 45, was in the Peace Corps in Sierra Leone from 1968 to 1971 and once ran a farm and 30 beef cattle.
Even though Krusch left the poultry business in 1968, chickens still wander in and out of his shop as the dragon stove tries to satisfy its appetite for maple, ash and beechwood. The dragon's bright green eyes flash with each flicker of the fire in its belly and its scales are pieces of steel cut from a junk car.

It symbolizes the imagination that goes into the weather vanes that Krusch creates with the help of his customers.
"What I like is someone who thinks he knows what he wants, but has no idea of how it could be designed as a weather vane," says Krusch, adding that he'll practically crawl on top of a roof, holding up the patterns to see how they look.

One of the creations is a four-foot butterfly with green stained glass wing patches and a glass eye. It's the kind of weather vane that Krusch says is evidence of a new chapter in the history of a folk art that has been traced back to the ancient Greeks.

It's also evidence of a nostalgia for things of the past — a feeling that has sparked recent waves of the thefts of antiques, including weather vanes, in New England.
Some of those vanes were taken from the Brattleboro area in southeastern Vermont.
Persistent rumors that thieves about two years ago put them on a list of priority targets in New England.
A number of the vanes were later recovered

among other stolen antiques in York, Pa., but they were only a fraction of those taken from New England and sold all over the country.
Some of those vanes were taken from the Brattleboro area in southeastern Vermont.
Persistent rumors that thieves about two years ago put them on a list of priority targets in New England.
A number of the vanes were later recovered by the Vermont State Police. The vanes, he says, were probably gathered by thieves who simply climbed barns and the steeples in search of booty.

Since the thefts, many Vermonters have taken their weather vanes inside for safekeeping.

For craftsmen, like Krusch, that's a pity. He plans to return to work like he did in the Peace Corps in about five years when both of his children are out of high school.
Until then, he says he hopes to continue to get some satisfaction out of making weather vanes which, although bought by the well-to-do, can at least be seen and enjoyed by others.

AL HOSSITER JR., UPI Science Editor WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sometimes during debate on national scientific issues, emotional controversy obscures the technical information which policymakers need to make decisions. To rectify that, a "science court" might be brought before the nuclear power safety debate, the controversy over fluorocarbon spray gases and the ozone layer and the arguments over consumer products suspected of causing cancer.
"One characteristic of these disputes is that experts usually address their arguments to laymen who have no realistic way of assessing the relative validity of claims made by sophisticated advocates," said Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, chairman of the Avco Everett Research Laboratory at Everett, Mass.
"To my mind, there is no other solution to the problem of combining the highest level of expertise with lack of prejudice except the one arrived at centuries ago in the similar legal problem," Kan-

Science court proposed

trowitz said at a recent meeting of the American Physical Society.
Kantrowitz said it has been suggested that advocates in certain issues take their cases directly to political leaders who make the decisions. But he said politicians are unable to spend the time needed to weigh the validity of positions taken by sophisticated advocates.
"The scientific judge would differ from the political leader sitting in judgment on scientific questions in that his scientific background would more quickly enable him to assess the evidence presented by opposing advocates and participate in something analogous to a cross examination procedure."
Kantrowitz suggested that such a procedure be tried experimentally to see if it can reduce the confusion.
"Its success must be measured by the degree to which its results will be accepted by both the scientific and political communities," he said.
In a paper presented at the same American Physical Society meeting, Harold P. Green, professor of law at George Washington University, said there is more involved in the decision-making process than just arriving at scientific facts. He said value, moral and political considerations also are involved.

Green said adherence to the judgments of a science court would make compromise and accommodation more difficult.
"Most lawyers would regard it as naive to believe that decisions necessarily follow from the findings of fact," he said. "Rather, they recognize that the findings of fact may often be shaped by the outcome of the decision-maker desires."
Green also said the science court proponents believe a correct and rational decision based on objective determinations of scientific fact will be pro-technology while an emotional or public relations-based decision in antitechnology.

"There may, however, be a useful public policy purpose served by an antitechnology bias," Green said.
"A decision against technology merely deprives society of a benefit it would not otherwise have. On the other hand, a pro-technology decision exposes society to whatever risks and uncertain disadvantages may be inherent in the technology's use."

Welfare cutoff threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has renewed a three-year-old threat, never imposed, to withhold federal welfare funds from states for failing to reduce payment errors.
The threatened cutoff of $123,623,000 beginning in October would include a loss of more than $31.9 million for New York; $18.4 million for Illinois; $11.3 million for Pennsylvania, and $11.5 million for Michigan.
But HEW's William A. Morrill, assistant secretary for planning, gave no indication that any state will lose welfare aid, and a government spokesman said it won't happen "right away."
Morrill and Donald Wortman, HEW's acting welfare administrator, testified in a House Ways and Means subcommittee this week and insisted the threat is valid even though it has never been invoked.
Asked by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Tex., whether HEW was committed to cutoffs of welfare aid, Morrill replied: "We will need to be persuaded that a sanction-free system will work."
"The department still has a stewardship to assure that federal dollars are not spent erroneously," said Wortman.
Former HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger on April 4, 1973, announced in a statement that under new regulations "states which fail to reduce errors in welfare payments by specific deadlines will lose part of their federal funding."
The deadlines have been postponed and extended and no federal aid has been withheld.
States were expected to reduce the rate of errors in Aid to Families with Dependent Children by June 30, 1975, to no more than 3 per cent; illegibles and no more than 5 per cent each for overpayments and underpayments.
Only five states have met all three goals, HEW said: Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma and South Dakota.

Reading Matter
Originally a magazine was a storehouse, not a periodical. "The Gentleman's Magazine" introduced to the public in 1731, was the first publication to use the word in its new meaning, stating in its introduction that the publication was intended to "store up" a collection of various subjects, "as in a magazine."

GOP issues 'white paper' on budget

Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson has issued the following position statement in regard to the budgets and tax rates now under consideration by the Board of Directors and to be adopted Friday night.

Human services: "We would call for the abolishment of the Human Services Department. While this department is, at this time, partially funded, it seems obvious to us that the funding is coming to an end and that the taxpayer will be asked in the future to bear the costs of an entire new department."

Town cars: "The Republican party calls for a review of the number of cars now in town service. We would like to see a complete inventory of town rolling stock and a justification of each piece of equipment."

Treasurer: "We, as a party, also oppose any move to make the town treasurer's office a full-time job. It is our contention that the duties of this office can be handled effectively as a part-time operation, and that any increase in expenditure at this time would be an imposition on the taxpayer."

Pension fund: "Once again, a large slice is being taken from the recommended contribution to the pension fund. While we favor keeping expenditures as low as possible, it seems to us that this is the worst possible place to make a saving. For the last five years, we have been warning that to succumb each year to the temptation of cutting a whole mill from this easy spot in the budget is false economy and will lead inevitably to disaster."

Personnel rules: "It would seem to us that the time has come for a thorough revision of the personnel rules as they affect the pay scales of our middle management and management people. The old rules have led to confusion and unintended inequities. We would recommend that new rules recognize performance that a merit system be installed, that responsibility be properly assigned so that an employee will be held accountable for the quality of his performance."

Education: "While the Republican party has always stood for quality education in the community, we must state that we feel the budget as proposed by the majority party is unrealistically high in this economy. We believe that the instant lottery funds should go to education, but that they should be used to lower the budget and not to add new programs."

Police: "We comment favorably upon the recent performance of the police department in the field of crime detection. While we cannot at this time support the addition of a deputy chief to the department, we stand ready to reconsider our position in a future budget year."

Assistant counsel: "We go on record favoring the appointment of a full-time assistant town counsel. We hope that such an appointment can be made objectively without political bias."

June 1 hearing date set on restaurant licensing

Without committing itself to an eventual decision the Board of Directors Tuesday night scheduled a June 1 public hearing on a proposed restaurant-licensing ordinance for Manchester.

Cavey's Restaurant, the Steak Out and the The Colony, plus Lulliano's Bakery and Pizzeria, are apparently concerned about the ordinance. Directors Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zinsser expressed concern for "the little guy," in the event the ordinance is adopted.

He noted that the health department didn't consult with any of the "little guys" and, in fact, hadn't even sent them copies of the proposed ordinance. Kraatz said copies will be distributed before the June 1 public hearing. He said a copy will go also to the town counsel for checking.

Variable Rate Mortgage Bank lowers loan rates

By DOUG BEVINS Herald Reporter

Manchester State Bank, which has appeared to lag behind its local competitors in the home mortgage business, is making plans to seek new mortgage business.

common, there will be no need for new fixed-rate borrowers to help subsidize the increased cost of low-interest loans made years ago. The opponents, or those who don't offer such loans, say the VRM isn't very attractive when you consider the only way for interest rates to go is up.

Neither the Savings Bank of Manchester nor Heritage Savings and Loan Association, which have been making the most home mortgage loans in the area, now offer a VRM. Each bank's officers have talked about the VRM but have no immediate plans for it.

IRS agents assisting Gulf Oil grand jury

WASHINGTON (UPI)—1973 for overseas payoffs and illegal gifts to politicians including Sens. Robert Humphrey, D-Minn., Russell Long, D-La., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa. The IRS and the special prosecutor would neither confirm nor deny the IRS was involved in evidence being presented the grand jury.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch signed an order April 7 authorizing Internal Revenue Service agents to assist the grand jury investigation of allegedly illegal connections between Gulf Oil Corp. and members of Congress.

Gasch acted on motions filed by Watergate special prosecutor Charles F.C. Ruff after Ruff consulted with IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander. Ruff's office and the IRS declined comment on the grand jury investigations.

Gulf allegedly diverted $12 million from the corporation between 1960 and 1973.

IT'S WORTH THE SPACE!

Yes, we sincerely believe this particular home is unique enough and has the built-in quality and the location to warrant devoting this entire ad to it. We invite you to a thorough inspection - and are positive you'll agree with us!

THE SETTING

Generally accepted as Manchester's finest area. Several recent sales have been in the over $100,000.00 classification!

THE LIVING ROOM

Front to back, and really big! Plenty of room to arrange plenty of furniture! The cheery fireplace is part of the over-all very attractive "Williamsburg" chimney, and the stained floors emphasize the colonial atmosphere.

THE KITCHEN

It's not often a modern kitchen can be designed to be big enough to enclose all the up to date automatic appliances, be truly a "Country Star" kitchen, and yet retain a "family" atmosphere. We think the beamed ceiling has a great deal to do with this (in fact, we think the kitchen alone is well worth a leisurely visit.)

THE DINING ROOM

You can dine in quiet elegance. The very generous window area in this room enhances the already ample dimensions. A convenient pass-thru from the kitchen makes things easy.

A REAR VIEW

The peaceful and private rear yard features a screened porch, patio, gas grill, etc. The rear lawn blends easily into a "Forest Primrose" parcel that is soothing and easy to look at - perhaps because it is virtually maintenance free!

UPSTAIRS

Four full size, legitimate bedrooms featuring a tremendous master bedroom with "Hideaway" den or sewing room. Fully floored attic.

BASEMENT

Two separate finished rooms plus office. One is extra bedroom for college friends, etc.

ALSO:

In-law suite on first floor
Shrubs, flowers, tree-year round.
Truly large foyer that must be seen!

Four full bath
Zoned heat every floor
Close to school.

Udall supporters thank Church for dropping out of primary

HARTFORD (UPI) — Supporters of Morris Udall today were thanking Erank Church for deciding not to run in Connecticut's presidential primary, but state party leaders heading an uncommitted slate weren't so happy.

Church, the latecomer to the Democratic presidential sweepstakes, Tuesday asked his name be taken from the May 11 ballot.

The decision eliminated the major liberal competition for Udall whose only hope of slowing down Jimmy Carter's momentum towards the nomination is based on unifying the party's reform wing.

Udall representatives met with Church's people recently to convince them the Idaho senator's presence only would benefit an uncommitted slate headed by leaders of the party's "old guard."

The rules of the primary, the first in state history, allot the total for all candidates not getting 15 per cent of the vote in any town to the uncommitted slate in that town.

Church was not expected to get 15 per cent in most towns and his votes, therefore, would have gone to the uncommitted slate.

"It will help Udall," conceded Democratic State Chairman William O'Neill, who is heading the uncommitted slate.

Carter is thought the leader in the race for the state's 51 national convention delegates.

Henry Jackson last week announced a halt to national campaigning, but has scheduled three days of appearances later this week here in hopes, said supporters, of reviving his candidacy.

Because the primary, the first in Connecticut history, is being run without state support most communities are opting not to use voting machines, forcing the scratching of the name from 400,000 already printed paper ballots.

Rep. Irving Stoberg, D-New Haven, Udall's chief Connecticut spokesman, said Church dropped out because his candidacy only would have helped the more conservative wing of the party.

"There was no way he was going to get 15 per cent in any town, he would have only helped the uncommitted," Stoberg said.

Church's campaign press secretary Bill Hall, said the decision was made because the Connecticut primary is on the same day as Nebraska's, which is Church's top priority.

He said because of a shortage of funds, the Church campaign wanted to avoid "stretching ourselves too thin. We had to concentrate our resources in either Nebraska or Connecticut, not both."

Financial success

The corner "store" is the busiest place at Robertson School the first thing in the morning before classes. Kevin Heine and Kim Yoisine, second graders, wear colonial hats as they "mind" the store assisted by Mrs. Susan Carr, left, teacher, and Mrs. Betty Case, a mother. Children can buy home baked goodies and candy. The project, sponsored by the second grade class, reinforces their money concepts learned in their math unit and also helps to finance their class trip to Mystic Seaport Aquarium.

Historian hospitalized

BOSTON (UPI) — Morison won Pulitzer prizes in biography for his work on Christopher Columbus, "Admiral of the Sea," published in 1942, and for "John Paul Jones," published in 1950. Morison retired from the U.S. Naval Reserve with the rank of rear admiral in 1951. He retired from active teaching at Harvard University in 1956, where he was official historian.

A prolific writer who made many ocean voyages both as a naval officer and to research his works, Morison was born in Boston in 1877 and received his doctorate from Harvard in 1912.

The Boston Herald American reported Morison suffered "a paralyzing stroke five days ago and lapsed into unconsciousness." The newspaper said he was in "critical" condition.

Capel McCutcheon eyes the stars

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

When Capel McCutcheon of 33 Racebrook Dr., East Hartford, heard a few of his colleagues discussing astrology, it sparked his interest.

In fact, it lit such a fire that having already received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Carnegie Tech, he can separate old wives tales," he said.

"We can often determine the capability of partners in business," he added.

McCutcheon cited the case of a problem child who had a very aggressive mother.

"She was kind, but aggressive, and their association indicated a power struggle," he said.

"This was a vocational analysis. During his horse race reading, I mentioned archeology. His face lit up like a light bulb.

"It seems he had always leaned towards archeology, but didn't think his mother would think it was an acceptable profession. She said if that's what he wanted, to do it. Today, he is happy studying archeology," McCutcheon said.

"Many people go to an astrologer

"They want to know how to weather the storm; the feeling of pressure. Sometimes you find a middle-age man who suddenly wants to change his lifestyle of being a stodgy businessman and find some excitement in the world. Then you may find one who is tired of excitement and would prefer to be a stodgy businessman.

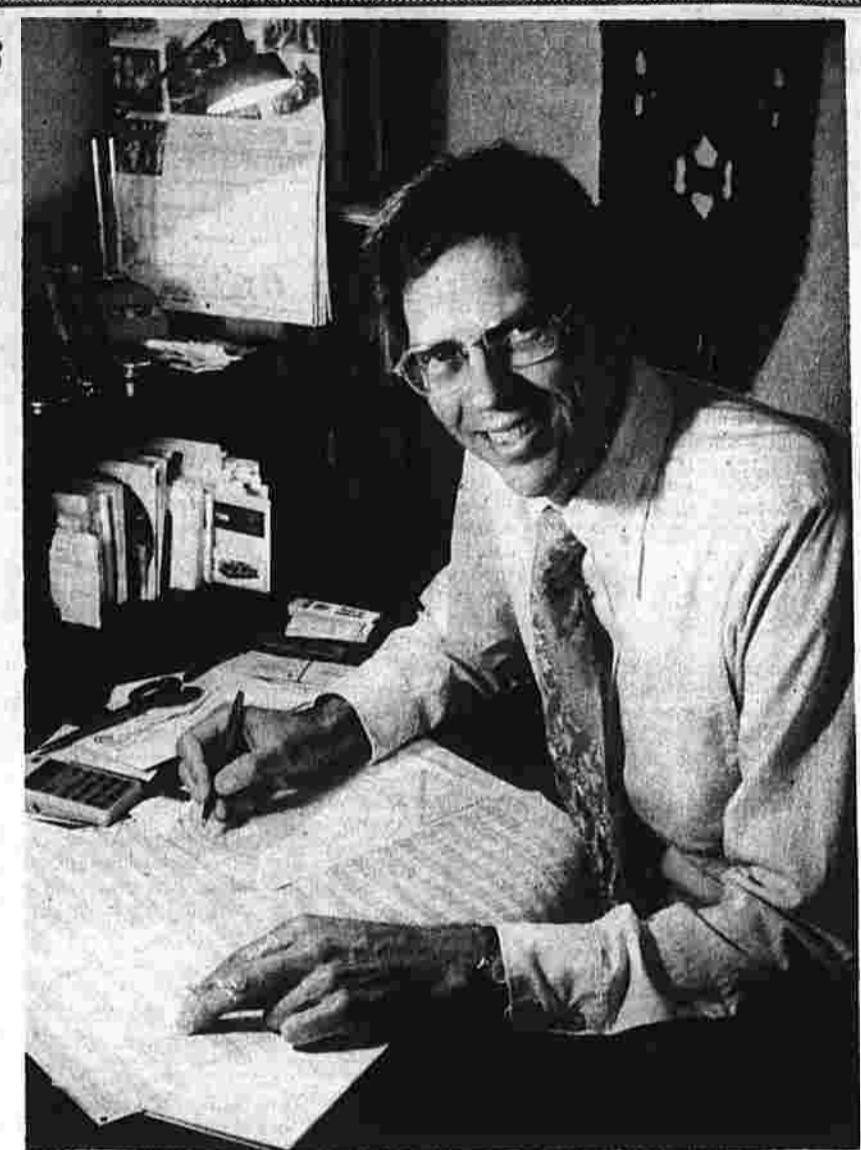

"People getting ready for retirement find it a traumatic experience. Through astrology we can often find vocational or avocational interests which they may have neglected. One man I did a reading for started painting after retirement. He now gets $150 per painting and even founded a community art college. Another always wanted to write and never did. Now, he pursues that interest.

"I try to put them in touch with resource people in the community," he said.

"When people have problems, astrologers can help them get used to the changes in their lifestyle," he said.

A soft-spoken man with a calming manner, McCutcheon said astrology does not predict the future, but rather pinpoints the areas and times going on in my life."

seriously pursued the study of astrology for eight years.

Today, McCutcheon is in his third year of teaching astrology at Manchester Community, has taught for three years at Tunxis Community College in West Hartford, and prepares readings for several businesses and individuals.

President of the Astrological Society of Connecticut, which is comprised of 100 members from the Greater Hartford area, McCutcheon's readings indicate trends rather predictions.

"By knowing a client's date of birth and the actual time of birth, certain determinations can be made. Certain characteristic tendencies and behavioral patterns can be ascertained," he said.

In business, McCutcheon said, the potential a person has for success can also be determined. He services five firms in Manchester.

"Whether a person will be a success as a salesman, if he has a latent alcoholic tendency, or if he is completely unsuited for a particular job, can often, through astrology, be pinpointed."

The name Murphy is not exactly synonymous with Italian spaghetti, but at Ev Murphy's Italian Spaghetti House at 35 Oak St. the two blend perfectly and the combination has delicious results.

In the cozy restaurant, just a few steps from Main St., Murphy offers Italian cuisine which would have any Italian chef saying "magnifico."

No newcomer to the restaurant business, Ev's family operated Murphy's Restaurant and Bowling Alley on Main St. 35 years ago.

He later operated the Treat Shoppes, three in Manchester and one in Vernon.

Recently, he served as food manager at Ellington Ridge Country Club.

At Murphy's Italian Spaghetti House, the decor is attractive, the booths comfortable, and the menu geared to whet the appetite of even the heartiest diner.

cushions and tables covered with red and white placemats all creating a wonderful atmosphere for dining.

The intimate lounge has a cozy bar with windows covered in red and black curtains.

Throughout the restaurant, which accommodates approximately 55 people, are framed pages from old newspapers recalling memorable occasions of yesteryear.

Ev is especially pleased with the old tin ceiling which was uncovered when he was renovating the restaurant.

"It must be 60 or 70 years old. We painted it black and it shows up the various embossing quite well," he said.

The extensive menu at Murphy's offers such popular items as veal parmigiana with spaghetti, chicken cacciatore, chef's salad bowl, Julienne, and spaghetti with a choice of sauces, sirloin steak, and a variety of sandwiches, grinders, and desserts.

He serves one particular grinder, which is a favorite of mine, in which he has pepper and egg topped with slices of tomatoes and cheese, on a roll and then popped into the oven to heat through. It's delicious.

Ev is planning on having "specials" during the week with a realistic price for spaghetti or shells with various sauces, roll and butter, etc. thereby making dining out everybody's financial reach.

In the restaurant which lends itself comfortably to family dining, Ev said, he also serves children's portions.

Open from 10 a.m. to midnight, Monday through Saturday, Murphy's is also open from 4 to 9 p.m. on Sunday.

Ev's recipe for Chicken Cacciatore scaled down for four to six people is as follows:

Combine remaining ingredients except cooking wine. Add chicken to skillet; pour sauce over. Cover and simmer for 45 minutes. Stir in cooking wine. Cook uncovered turning chicken occasionally, about 20 minutes or until chicken is tender and sauce is thick. Skim off excess fat and remove bay leaves.

If eggplant parmigiana is your specialty, you'll find at Murphy's, it's also a specialty.

Eggplant Parmigiana
1 medium size firm eggplant
2 eggs plus 2 teaspoons water
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
olive oil
2 tbs. butter
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
2 cups hot water
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. marjoram
mozzarella cheese
Pare eggplant and slice in thin (1/4 to 1/2 inch) slices. Beat eggs with water. Dip each eggplant slice in the egg. Then roll in mixture of cheese and crumbs. Heat oil in large skillet. Fry eggplant slices a few at a time until light golden brown on each side. Make sure oil always covers bottom of pan. Set aside eggplant slices. In same skillet, cook onion in butter until soft (scraping up browned bits in pan). Add tomato paste mixed with hot water, salt and marjoram. Boil a few minutes. In large shallow baking dish or 9-inch square cake pan, alternate layers of sauce, eggplant and mozzarella cheese, ending with sauce. Sprinkle lightly with more Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate 350-degree oven for about 35-40 minutes.

Chicken Cacciatore
1-1/2 to 2 pounds, ready to cook broiler-dryer, cut up
2 medium onions, in 1/4-inch slices
2 cloves of garlic, minced
1-pound can (2 cups) tomatoes
1/4 oz. can seasoned tomato sauce
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. crushed oregano
1/2 tsp. celery seed
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 or 2 bay leaves
1/4 cup cooking sauterne
Slowly brown chicken in 1/4 cup hot olive oil; remove from skillet. Add onions and garlic, cook until tender but not brown.

Reflections of a peanut butter fan

Last night when my husband said, "I wouldn't give you peanuts for the Dodgers chances to win the pennant this year," I picked him up on his disparaging use of the word peanut. To me the peanut is one of God's most delicious creations and I can't understand why the word has come to be synonymous with things that are lowly and insignificant. You hear it everywhere... "the peanut gallery...they're paying me peanuts...I wouldn't give you peanuts..."

It's time that someone came to the defense of the peanut. Just think about its versatility. Peanuts in the shell are essential for a peanutbun. Salted peanuts are so good that nobody can eat just one. And when peanuts are all ground up into peanut butter, wow! Then you really have something.

Years ago I learned that supplied with a jar of peanut butter and a loaf of bread, any child over four-year-old can make his own lunch. It's quick and nutritious and I'll just bet that peanut butter has freed more women from the hot stove than Women's Liberation.

Since peanut butter is standard fare at our house, we wanted all the children to like it. The first three took to peanut butter like natural, but when the fourth child was about a year old he showed definite signs of rejection. I didn't know what to do and had visions of making ONE tuna fish sandwich for the next 18 or 20 years. In desperation I tried feeding him little bits of peanut butter on a spoon. First I'd give him a taste. The I'd take a taste.

"Yum, yum. Good, good." I'd say rubbing my stomach with enthusiasm. Amazingly these tactics worked and John joined the rest of the clan. Over the years we've become very particular about our peanut butter. Some of us like it crunchy. Some of us like it smooth. And the things we combine with it are often unique.

My husband usually sticks to fluff. I like jelly. But the kids are really creative and top their peanut butter with honey, brown sugar, bacon bits, bananas, celery and cucumber. The girls' specialty is an open faced peanut butter sandwich topped with marshmallows and broiled in the oven. Julia Child hasn't asked them for the recipe, but among their friends the recipe has been a sensation.

When I reminded my husband of the importance role that the peanut plays at our house, he agreed to stop slurring the peanut's name. "Okay, you can have your way in this peanuts business," he said, "but to get back to important things, I still don't think the Dodgers have a chance to win the pennant."

Wedding Bernstein-Levine

Berni C. Levine and Steven J. Bernstein, both of Silver Spring, Md., were married April 25 at Westville Synagogue in New Haven. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Levine of 80 Green Manor Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bernstein of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The ceremony was officiated by Rabbi N. Neldman of New Haven, performed the double-ring ceremony. The synagogue was decorated with baskets of spring flowers. Music was provided by the Arnold Most orchestra. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of ivory Quiana designed with Empire waist. She carried a prayerbook covered with a corsage of two orchids, stephanotis, and streamers. Shirl Axelrod of Hartford, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor. David Levine of Manchester, bride's brother, served as best man.

A reception was held at the synagogue, after which the couple left for St. Croix, V.I. and Florida. For traveling, Mrs. Bernstein wore a powder blue suit with navy accessories. The couple are residing in Silver Spring, Md. Guests attended from London, England; Chicago; Florida; New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Methodist Church to host Fellowship Day

South United Methodist Church will host the "May Fellowship Day" celebration, sponsored by the Church Women United, at noon on Friday in Cooper Hall.

Those attending are asked to bring any kind of a salad for a salad smorgasbord or $1.50 for the luncheon.

"The Fellowship of the Least Coin" money will be collected at this time. Thousands of women on every continent participate in this Fellowship.

Mrs. Robert Gordon Jr. will lead the worship service to be held at 1 p.m. in the sanctuary. Mrs. Calvin Energy Saving Tip: If you're planning a spring vacation, save energy at home while you're gone. Before you leave, lower the thermostat to 50 degrees, empty and unplug your refrigerator and shut off or dial down your water heater.

Q: Is there any evidence that the safety caps are effective in reducing the number of accidental childhood poisonings? A: Yes, the first regulation requiring safety caps on aspirin went into effect nationally in 1973. During that year childhood deaths declined substantially.

Q: If my child is accidentally poisoned or eats or drinks a substance which might be a poison, where can I find information on treatment? A: There is a Poison Information Center, presently located at the State Department of Health, Hartford, which maintains information for the physician, hospitals or the public on necessary treatment after someone accidentally swallows household products or medicines. They are familiar with the toxicity of most substances found in the home or know how and where to find this information.

A. The Food and Drug Administration states that some drugs can increase an individual's susceptibility to substance abuse. Such medications include tranquilizers, diuretics, oral hypoglycemic agents and estrogens. However, you are advised not to assume that you're in either a high or low risk group. If you are a physician, ask your special precautions is needed during exposure to the sun.

make advance appointments with medical authorities and they were able to detect them and treat her," he explained. "We can cite the days when problems are more likely to occur," he explained. In his private astrological counseling business, McCutcheon deals with many married couples. "Sometimes couples rub each other the wrong way. Analysis can avoid the risk. It can put them on their guard, make them aware of just why one irritates the other," he said. Explaining the value of astrology to the medical field, McCutcheon said an astrologer is often able to pinpoint the root of the trouble; then the doctor can counsel, teach and heal. He told of the case of a young girl who was suffering from epilepsy. "The doctor was unable to detect the symptoms, and she was unable to get an appointment at the actual time of the problem. Through study, we went back to determine the days of the month during the past year that the problem occurred. We were able to see correlation, able to pinpoint recurrences of these particular symptoms. We then

Health unit criticized by auditors

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors say the Connecticut Hospital and Health Care Commission has neglected to collect as much as $17,100 in federal subsidies for its payroll.

And CHHC violated state personnel policy by giving employees time off in lieu of overtime and failed to keep a proper inventory of its supplies, they said in a report earlier this week on agency operations for the 1974 and 1975 fiscal years.

The commission sets daily rates for hospitals, nursing homes and other health care facilities in the state. It also helps the institutions plan their growth and development.

The auditors said the state had not tried to recover the cost of fringe benefits it provided to CHHC employees paid out of a $68,360 federal grant for comprehensive health care planning.

The costs of the fringe benefits amounted to between 20 per cent and 25 per cent of the federal grant, said Democratic auditor Leo V. Donohue.

The auditors also recommended CHHC adhere to state regulations prohibiting state employees from taking off time in lieu of overtime pay, and establish a perpetual inventory record of office supplies.

Arthritis Foundation plans appeal

In keeping with the spirit of May, National Arthritis Month, the Connecticut Arthritis Foundation will launch its annual campaign with a special Mother's Day Appeal.

Mrs. John N. Dempsey, honorary chairman, urged all Connecticut residents to join in the fight to help combat the nation's No. 1 crippling disease.

Residents of the Greater Hartford and Norwich areas will be receiving Mother's Day greetings from the chapter with an appeal to help support the program services which benefit the over 3,700 children in Connecticut afflicted with juvenile rheumatoid arthritis as well as the over 300,000 other Connecticut residents who suffer with this painful and crippling disease.

Mrs. Dempsey noted that Mother's Day is an especially appropriate time to give to the Arthritis Foundation since rheumatoid arthritis, the most painful and crippling of the arthritic disease, afflicts women three times as often as men and usually strikes between the ages of 20 and 45, thus incapacitating many young mothers. This is in addition to the many mothers who experience the sorrow of having a child afflicted with J.R.A.

Mrs. Dempsey added that contributions made in honor of a mother will be acknowledged as received.

Group plans campaign to reduce crime

Members of the Church of Scientology were in Manchester Monday in order to launch a campaign for crime reduction in Connecticut.

They surveyed local residents to obtain ideas on reducing crime. These ideas will be compiled into a publication to be made available to the public free of charge.

A similar campaign was implemented in New York City and there was a marked decrease in the crime rate in the area of Scientology's Fifth Ave. church, according to Gerard Velona, coordinator of the Manchester survey.

The Church of Scientology is an all-denominational, religious philosophy with more than 170 churches in the United States and an estimated 40,000 contributing members in New England.

She attends Washington parley on employing the handicapped

Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche of 865 E. Middle Tpke. recently attended a three-day conference in Washington, D.C., on the Employment of the Handicapped.

Mrs. Ladabouche is placement supervisor at the Manchester office of the state Labor Department, where she works with the placement of handicapped persons in job placement and vocational training.

About 2,000 to 3,000 people from all 50 states, Canada and Mexico attended the Washington Conference bringing suggestions and ideas for solving the problems of the handicapped.

One handicapped man said "Just because you have a twisted body doesn't mean you have a handicapped brain."

Two volunteer for camp posts
Manchester's Camp Kennedy is still eight weeks from opening day but the facility for the mentally retarded already has its first volunteer nurse and its first volunteer counselor.
