Three submit bids for old firehouse

The Town of Manchester has received three bids for acquiring the old Pine St. Firehouse, with one from The Calvary Church, for use by its Marantha Coffee House.

The church bid $1,775, explaining it wants a facility "to serve as an activity and educational center for youth and young adults."

The apparent high bid for the property is $38,500, from Alexander T. Urbanetti and Richard W. Dennison, both of Manchester, bidding $31,000 was Thomas M. Joyce Sr. of Bloomfield.

If the property is sold, it would have to be by ordinance. However, it is unlikely the directors will approve the sale at the prices bid.

The Planning and Zoning Commission rejected the town's request for a zone change for the property and recommended it shouldn't be sold. In April, Town Manager Robert Weis recommended to the Board of Directors it should override the PZC's recommendation. The board authorized Weis to advertise for bids and indicated it may take formal action if the income from the sale were sufficient to obtain other property for storing the vehicles and equipment now in the Pine St. Firehouse. Estimates for new facilities went as high as $60,000.

Weis is expected to ask the board for a decision on accepting or rejecting the bids for the property.

Memorial Day preparations under way

Members of Dilworth-Cornell-Quey American Legion Post of Manchester Thursday night began their annual program of marking the graves of veterans with American flags for Memorial Day. The work will continue tonight and Saturday until an estimated 2,000 graves have been marked. Starting the program at East Cemetery Thursday night were: Charles Barrera Jr., left, and Dave Morsey. Memorial Day observance to begin with parade

State Sen. David M. Barry will be the principal speaker at Monday's Memorial Day services in Center Park. The day's events will begin with a parade starting at 9:30 a.m. from the front of the Army and Navy Club on Main St. The parade will proceed on Main St. and E. Center St. to Munro Park, where the Rev. C. Henry Anderson, co-pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church and parade chaplain, will give a eulogy. The parade will then march to Center Park where Harold Osgood, chairman of the town Permanent Memorial Day Committee, will conduct the opening ceremonies and introductions. The Rev. Eugene Brewer of the Church of Christ will give the invocation. Mayor Matthew Moriarty Jr. will give the welcoming address. The Manchester High School Band will play the national anthem as well as other selections. The Rev. Philip Saunders, pastor of the Full Gospel Interdenominational Church, will give the benediction. A gun salute by the First Battalion of the 28th Infantry Division of the Connecticut Army National Guard and taps will conclude the annual Memorial Day service.

Church optimistic on beating Carter

By LEWIS LORD — United Press International Frank Church, who ran against Jimmy Carter three times and defeated him three times, is talking about beating the Democratic frontrunner two more times next week. The late-starting Idaho senator told reporters in Cincinnati Thursday he is "well ahead" of Carter in next Tuesday's Montana primary and hopes to win the same day in Rhode Island.

"Carter is now talking about maybe winning on a second ballot," Church said. "Maybe if I win in Montana and Rhode Island he will be talking about a third ballot."

The Nebraska, Oregon and Idaho primaries, is staying out of Tuesday's South Dakota primary, thus giving Morris Udall a clear shot at the frontrunner. Teamster union officials accused of corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons and his top union bosses freely and illegally line their own pockets with millions of dollars, according to a report published by a 2,000-member group of dissident Teamsters known as PROD, Inc., pulled together for the first time all known evidence of alleged corruption in the nation's biggest union.

PROD members see it as a possible wedge for reform and hope it may spur official investigations.

The report sketched a dramatic portrait of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters as a corrupt giant controlled totally by Fitzsimmons, whose cronies are rewarded with annual salaries exceeding $100,000, free cars and homes, huge pensions and unlimited extras.

While outlining specific financial abuses by nearly 200 named Teamster leaders, the report generally accused them of violating federal labor laws and sealing "secrecy" deals with employers.

"There is at least one lawsuit on every other page," said author Arthur Fox.

Teamsters officials refused to comment. But a trucking company spokesman said the 117-page report simply put "everything between two covers."

State police prepare for holiday car crush

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police say they are prepared for the traditional Memorial Day weekend crush of motorists headed for field, stream and relatives during the traditional opening of the summer season.

The weather forecast for the weekend calls for warm, if sometimes cloudy, weather through the state.

Ample supplies of gasoline were expected at a price which Mobil and Texaco, at least, had raised one cent per gallon shortly before the heavy travel three-day holiday.

Another one-cent hike awaits motorists at all gas pumps when the holiday is over. The state gas tax will rise to 11 cents per gallon Tuesday.

State police preparations included larger than usual staffs for the weekend and plans to have auxiliary troopers on duty. Commissioner Edward P. Leonard ordered a sharp lookout for drunk drivers and speeders.

Those driving faults are most likely to cause fatal accidents, he said. Last year two people died on state highways during the Memorial Day weekend.

Bars will be open all weekend for normal hours. Most state beaches open for the season this weekend.

Senior Citizens honored

George Vallone and Pauline Maynard, who have been named "Mr. and Mrs. Senior Citizen of the Senior Center" for 1976, show the plaques they received to Wally Fortin, director of the center. The plaques read "In appreciation for your time and effort and deep concern for your Fellow Senior Citizens and their programs." The award was made in conjunction with the center's "Big Week to Remember." Mayor Matthew M. Moriarty Jr., in his proclamation naming this week "Senior Citizens Week," said that the senior citizens have been outstanding contributors to our community over the years, and we, the citizens of Manchester, are appreciative of their efforts to make our town a better place to live.

Masonic lodge notes 150 years

Members of Manchester Lodge of Masons will launch its 150th year with a night of music on June 2. Wednesday the lodge will open a meeting at the Old State House in Hartford.

Its participation in the town's Bicentennial parade and other events during the year will mark a colorful history.

Manchester Lodge No. 73, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, received its charter in May 1826, just three years after Orford Parish had been set off from East Hartford and made the Town of Manchester.

The lodge was instituted in the Methodist Meeting House which then stood several rods east of the site of the present Masonic Temple.

In August 1826, the 28 members of the lodge met in the schoolhouse at 1816 and stood just south of the present school on a site now crossed by the highway. It was a two-story structure with two school rooms on the second floor and a community hall on the first floor. It was in this hall that Manchester Lodge held its meetings from 1826 to 1829, and again from 1846 to 1855.

Early records state that one of the places popularly resorted to was an upstairs room in Bunce's Tavern.

The lodge also used to meet at the "Mather House," the home of its first elected worshipful master, John Mather on Mather St.

Although many lodges were forced to surrender their charters during the anti-Masonic years of the so-called Morgan Excitement, Manchester Lodge maintained its charter, even though very few meetings were held and few members attended.

The lodge met in the schoolhouse at "The Green" until 1855 when its increased membership (46) necessitated a move to larger quarters at the old Center Academy which stood approximately on the site of the present U.S. Post Office. Here, also, the first floor was used for school purposes. Meetings were held here for the next 20 years.

In 1875, the lodge moved to the Spencer block which, until the North End Redevelopment project, was the largest in the state, having 1,045 members.

The membership of the lodge grew to such an extent by 1964 that 42 Masons in the Greater Manchester area were granted dispensation by the Grand Lodge of Connecticut to form Friendship Lodge.

Friendship Lodge is the youngest Masonic Lodge in the state with a membership of about 240 Masons.

The most unique communication ever held by Manchester Lodge occurred Nov. 4, 1919. It was called "Welcome Home Night." The lodge room was draped with the national colors. All the chairs were occupied by brothers in uniform returned from World War I. All minor officers and workers of the craft were also in uniform. Even the Fellowcraft candidate, James Curran, was an ex-service man.

Masons marking 150th with musical program

Manchester Lodge of Masons will present a musical program Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple as one of several events to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the founding of the lodge.

Performing on the program will be the Round Table Singers of Manchester High School directed by Martha White; Everett MacCluggage, baritone; Ronald Erickson, tenor, and James White who will play several violin and viola solos.

The reactivated Beethoven Glee Club will make its first public appearance since it disbanded several years ago. It will join with

Charlie chases rattlers

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. (UPI) — Every spring 62-year-old Charlie Conner heads for the hills looking for critters most folks would just as soon avoid — rattlesnakes.

"I just get a lot of enjoyment out of it," he said.

He also wins awards. For the past six years, the veteran snake hunter has been the winner of the Okeene, Okla., Rattlesnake Roundup. He won this year with a 71-inch rattler.

"I don't hate 'em (snakes)," Conner said with a grin. "I just like the sport I get out of it."

Rattlesnake is sometimes referred to as a delicacy and most of the snakes caught during the annual roundup end up as sandwiches.

Conner doesn't eat them. "No sir," he said. "I have never tasted one yet. And I don't expect to. They say it's good. I'll let them be the judge."

Conner, a retired farmer who lives seven miles east of town, took up hunting diamondback rattlesnakes at the age of 67. He uses a special set of lungs to catch the reptiles.

"I hadn't seen a rattlesnake since I was a little boy," he said. "I was just as afraid of them as anybody else until after I caught two or three of them. Then the fear left me."

Rattlesnake hunting is like fishing. It is the size of the snake and the number of snakes that count. And, sometimes, the big one gets away.

"I've never had one to get away until this year," Conner said. "I got a hold of one so big that he worked free."

"I couldn't judge his length or his size," Conner said. "I couldn't see his head, so I had to use the catcher at the biggest part of his body and he just twisted free."

Conner won this year's roundup with a 71-inch snake, but he has caught larger ones. The largest was 76 inches long.

Conner does most of his hunting with his son, Lyndon, during February, March and April.

"We quit hunting them as soon as they leave the den and get spread out," said Lyndon Conner, who emphasized how careful the snake hunters must be. "They only strike half their length," he said. "We respect every inch of them."

The elder Conner said he has never been bitten by a snake, but that is because he is careful.

"We don't play with them and we don't give them a chance to bite," he said. "Because they will bite you if you give them a chance."

About town

The Bahais of Manchester will commemorate the ascension of Baha'u'llah, prophet and founder of the Baha'i faith, with a dawn service and prayers Saturday at the home of Ken Washington, Rachel Rd.

Reservations for the June 9 luncheon of Manchester Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, close June 3 and may be made with Mrs. George Potterton, Avery St.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Undoubtedly the master of portrait painting in the colonies, Charles Willson Peale came to painting by chance after several business failures. Studying first with Copley in Boston, and later for two years in London with Benjamin West, Peale returned to America in 1783 and attracted many colonial clients. The most impressive of his commissions was the one received from John Hancock to paint the portraits of George and Martha Washington while the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia during 1776. The World Almanac recalls.

Defensible decline of multilingualism?

It wasn't quite 18 years ago that the launching of Sputnik I sent Americans into all kinds of orbits of their own. One of them was in the field of education, where there was a sudden, renewed interest in the study of foreign languages.

The interest peaked in public high schools in 1968, when 28 per cent of students in grades 7 to 12 were studying some foreign language, modern or classical, compared with 18 per cent before Sputnik. Then a decline set in and today it is estimated that scarcely a fifth of high school graduates have had even a superficial exposure to any language other than English (and, some would complain, little enough exposure to that).

The decline began even earlier in the colleges. The percentage of college undergraduates studying foreign languages has been dropping steadily since 1963, with the rate of decline reaching 15 per cent during the past two years. A survey by the Modern Language Association in 1975 of 1,177 institutions granting B.A. degrees found that 36 per cent of them had no foreign language requirements at all, either for entrance or for graduation. A decade before, only nine per cent had no language requirements.

The trend in the colleges has in turn accelerated the trend in the high schools, where the study of a foreign language has traditionally been designed to prepare college-bound students. Suggested reasons for this growing monolingualism range from student rebellion against required courses and "hard" subjects to a general mood of isolationism among Americans. That there is such a turning back to isolationism may be reflected in an estimate by the American Council on Education that only about one in every 20 college undergraduates is enrolled in courses dealing with foreign cultures in any way.

Hearing-ear dogs

If man's best friend can provide eyes for the blind, why not ears for the deaf? A project to investigate the usefulness of "hearing-ear" dogs was undertaken two years ago by the Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Cruelty. Since then six dogs have been trained and placed with deaf persons and the program has gained international recognition.

country which Theodore Roosevelt feared at the height of immigration was turning into a "polyglot boarding house," a country so irrevocably involved in the commerce and politics of the world, this is a remarkable situation.

It is also an unhealthy situation because, as Stephen K. Bailey of the American Council of Education points out, the welfare of the United States is heavily dependent on the actions of other nations and there is great need for understanding how other people think. For this, language is an essential tool.

But then there are so many other, more important, things you people must learn these days. We can no longer afford the luxury of requiring foreign language study for the "mental discipline" or personal satisfaction involved — especially when the colleges no longer see any need for it. Another argument, cited by S. Frederick Starr of the Kenan Institute for Advanced Russian Studies, is that if the United States can, for example, do $25 billion worth of business with Japan with few American businessmen knowing Japanese, or if ambassadors can be sent to a foreign country without knowing its language, why should students be forced to conjugate irregular verbs in French or German? And after all, English is a world language and anyone who knows English can get along just about anywhere.

Yet as the German poet Goethe said, he who does not know another language does not really know his own. It is interesting to note, if impossible to prove any cause-and-effect relationship, that the decline in the study of foreign languages has paralleled the decline in the ability of either high school or college graduates to read, write or express themselves coherently in their mother tongue, let alone master its immense richness.

A deterioration of good taste

WASHINGTON — What is most troubling about the excitement over Woodward and Bernstein's "The Final Days" is the deterioration of good taste among people one might reasonably expect to be guardians of that special quality.

I speak of those, not special friends but persons of what we call "a good background," who find delectable conversational material in the authors' portrait of Mrs. Richard Nixon during the last painful months of her husband's administration. It is shocking. These are the people concerned about their children's

Unified fire department arguments rebutted

To the editor,
I am writing in contrast to the article printed by a resident of the Eighth District on 5/20/76. In this article there were several insulting remarks against the Eighth District Manchester Fire Department that would only have been made by someone of dogmatic nature and without the ingenuity to look into the facts of the situation he had so referred.

To begin with, the Eighth District Fire Department has contributed more to the progress of the town overall than any other emergency organization excepting the use of ambulance and emergency room personnel. The so-called "Horse and Buggy" fire department, was first in town to equip itself with diesel engines as the Town Fire Department even today is still using gasoline as "Front line apparatus" in some of their stations.

The district fire department, even before the police department, had the first rescuator in town, the first large diameter hose, capable of carrying more water and undertaking more pressure and the first pre-hung air packs in the jump seats, cutting down the critical time in entering a burning house to save victims and property.

In 1967 the first rescue squad was introduced and today is being reinforced with the abundance of Emergency Medical Technicians and the purchase of the new rescue truck and mini pumper, capable of being on the scene of emergency in less time than a larger engine.

Suggestion praised
To the editor,
Republican Director Paul Willhide's recommendations that the Board of Directors and the Board of Education meet jointly to discuss salary differences between education and town government administrators is an idea whose time has come, and I commend Willhide for his forthright and candid comments regarding these differences.

Of course our society has become slatternly. If a fad is chic, it is accepted, however untidy. We look with scorn on the drunk who is sick all over the rug, but we welcome those trendy ideas that soil our lives. The guest who has the temerity to question the artistry of a dirty movie is not asked back. In our 1984 vernacular, good taste is bad, bad taste is good.

Thus, I welcomed Julie Nixon Eisenhower's defense of her mother in Newsweek (reprinted by Woodward-Bernstein's employer, The Washington Post). In the context of our disheveled times, it is 100 per cent square. But what is important is that she produces some statistics to set the record straight.

Julie Eisenhower notes that the authors of "The Final Days" focus on May 1974 and refer to "an occasional reception or a tea." In fact, Mrs. Eisenhower writes, "in that month my mother took part in 18 public events in Washington and made separate trips to four states as well."

As the tragedy matured, in June and July, "she went on state visits to the Middle East and the Soviet Union with my father," Mrs. Eisenhower continues about her mother. "This is hardly the schedule of a reclusive heavy drinker tuned out to the needs of her family and consumed by her own problems."

Indeed it is not. I see no reason to question Mrs. Eisenhower's data. The stuff of it is available to anyone for checking at the White House, as she well knows.

It is astonishing in its dedication to duty the fact that "in five and a half years of almost daily public activity, Mrs. Nixon missed only two events." As a frequent business caller at the White House, I agree with Mrs. Eisenhower that "this is a remarkable achievement if one considers the usual pressures of life" to which a First Family must submit.

Parentally, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was hailed for her many public activities and travels in her husband's and the nation's behalf. She deserved the salute. But in Washington, at least, it was unfashionable in certain media quarters to seem to be bestowing any credit on anyone named Nixon.

Richard Nixon, of course, brought ignominy upon himself. He betrayed a public trust, and gets no defense in this space. But it is disgusting to find people, snug under the patina of respectability, publicly enjoying the leering, voyeuristic vilification of a good woman simply because she is Nixon's wife.

I can't prove that Mrs. Nixon didn't turn to alcohol during those last awful days. But neither can Woodward-Bernstein prove — first-hand — that she did. I don't believe she did, and I dismiss the "revelations" in the authors' book as in a class with the dirty tricks they so superbly exposed in the Nixon administration.

But Woodward-Bernstein only write the book. The sick ones are those among us in this flutulent society who get their kicks out of the destruction of Watergate's innocent bystander.

Sincerely,
Gary E. Zito

FOI seeks more funds

HARTFORD (UPI) — A lack of money has forced the Freedom of Information Commission to violate state law by not deciding on complaints within 35 days, according to the commission.

The FOI Commission has asked the state administration for an additional $19,067 to hire another attorney and pay expenses. The commission was budgeted for $3,600 in expenses and no staff this year and said it could not have functioned without donation of $4,283 in services from the secretary of state's office.

Freedom of Information Commission staff is presently in an extremely precarious posture. A breakdown in operations of the commission and the handling of cases is not far off, the commission said. The lack of staff has resulted in delays of more than 35 days in decisions, according to the commission.

It has handled 122 cases since it began Oct. 1 and averages between five and seven hearings a week.

FDR-Schiff 'relationship' revealed in new biography of Post publisher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dorothy Schiff, editor-in-chief and publisher of the New York Post, says in a new biography she had a seven-year "personal relationship" with President Roosevelt, The New York Times reported Thursday.

Mrs. Schiff, through her attorney, Morris Abram, denied there was any "romance" or "affair" involved. The book entitled "Men, Money and Magic: The Story of Dorothy Schiff," by Jeffrey Potter, is to be published in October by Coward, McCann and Geobegan, Inc. The Times said that by Mrs. Schiff's own account, Franklin D. Roosevelt, her second husband, was married to Backer from 1932 until they were divorced in 1943. The Times story said she had Roosevelt between 1935 and 1943.

Trap door in nation's oldest synagogue reminds members of Spanish Inquisition

By LAURIE HORN
NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)
— A trap door lies beneath the prayer platform in the nation's oldest synagogue. Cut into the wood in 1783 at the place where Rabbi Isaac Touro once faced Jerusalem and chanted, it leads to a secret passage to the garden.

More than one hundred years after arriving in Newport to live under Roger Williams' assurance of religious freedom, about 80 Sephardic Jews from Caracas carved the door in the floor of the platform as a reminder of the persecution of the Spanish Inquisition.

Legend has it the tunnel later was used to hide runaway slaves in the underground railroad, according to Dr. Theodore Lewis, rabbi of Touro Synagogue.

"When the Jews came to Newport they knew the people around were nice people," he told a group of young Hebrew school students sprawled across the synagogue's pewless floor. "They were not afraid of them."

The congregation took the name Yeshua Israel, Salvation of Israel.

In 1781, George Washington visited the congregation. Nine years later he wrote Moses Seixas, the warden, in a document that became a classic statement of American religious liberty.

"It is now no more that toleration is spoken of, as if it was by the indulgence of one class of people, that another enjoyed the exercise of their inherent natural rights," Washington said.

"For happily the Government of the United States which gives a bigotry no sanction, persecution no assistance requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens in giving it on all occasions their effectual support," he said.

A facsimile of the letter hangs on the west wall of architect Peter Hamilton's stark, colonial interior. It is laid out in traditional Orthodox manner with the central bimah (prayer platform) and an upstairs women's gallery. The Ark containing scrolls of the Torah is on the east wall under the Ner Tamid, the eternal light.

In a secular, classical touch, twelve Ionic and Corinthian columns representing the twelve tribes of Israel support the women's balcony. Each was carved from a single tree trunk. Fragile, anachronistic Windsor chairs and love seats offer the only seating except for benches along the walls.

Newport's early Jews were a cosmopolitan group with ties to the West.

New Zealand, composed of the large North Island and several smaller islands and groups, has an area of 107,736 square miles, about that of the state of Colorado. Abel Janszoon Tasman, a Dutch navigator, was the first known European visitor, in 1642. Capt. James Cook explored the coasts in 1770 and British sovereignty was proclaimed in 1840 with organized settlement beginning the same year. The Colony became a Dominion in 1907 and presently is an independent member of the Commonwealth of Nations.

dies, Holland and New York, Lewis said. From their arrival in 1658, they traded in whale oil, candles, rope, dry goods and kosher meat. "Chematize, green and crimson Harteens, fine and middling cap lace, children's shoes, violins, Ducapes, London made cordage 'junk' were among goods advertised in a Dec. 1, 1766 Newport Mercury by Naphthali Hart. Touro, born in Amsterdam, befriended Dr. Ezra Stiles, a Congressional minister later to become president of Yale University. He taught Stiles Hebrew and the minister became so enthralled with reading the Old Testament in its original language "he eventually gave the commencement address in Hebrew," Lewis said. After the revolution Touro went to Jamaica and the congregation dissolved. His sons left a fund to maintain the synagogue but by 1852 Henry Wadsworth Longfellow described the site as:

"...these Hebrews in their graves. Close by the street of this fair seaport town, Silent beside the never silent waves." In 1883, the congregation reopened permanently as Jews from central and eastern Europe flowed into the country. The synagogue was declared a National Historic Site in 1946 and extensive restoration began in 1954. It is still in active use, supporting a congregation of about 330 families.

Shoplifting suspect charged with attempting to escape

Three young women were arrested on shoplifting charges Thursday night and one of them faces an additional charge of attempting escape, Manchester Police reported.

Yvonne Reynolds, 16, and Felicia Sanchez, 21, both of Willimantic, were being held for court appearance today. The third suspect, a 15-year-old girl, has been released to her parents.

Police said Miss Reynolds is charged with third-degree larceny and Miss Sanchez is charged with fourth-degree larceny, and the 15-year-old girl is charged with fourth-degree larceny.

The three were apprehended by store personnel at King's Department Store, Manchester Shopping Parkade, and were accused of trying to shoplift nearly $150 worth of merchandise, police said.

Each was handcuffed and taken to police headquarters, where one of the suspects (Miss Reynolds) slipped off her cuffs, jumped from a cruiser and started running, police said.

Police officers who had been transporting the suspects summoned help as the girl ran south on Walker St. She was apprehended about 15 minutes later on Franklin St., with the assistance of area residents.

A further check of the three at headquarters resulted in discovery of another $30 worth of concealed merchandise from King's, police said.

Miss Reynolds and Miss Sanchez were unable to post cash bonds and were held overnight at the Hartford police station. The 15-year-old has been referred to Juvenile Court.

Police are searching for a man suspected of stealing two handguns from Nassiff Arms Co., 991 Main St., on Thursday afternoon.

Police said the man went in the store at about 3 p.m., removed two guns from a display case, walked out and ran away. A store employee chased the thief as far as Oak St. but then gave up the pursuit, police said.

Missing are a .22-caliber automatic pistol and a .357 magnum revolver, police said.

In other thefts reported Thursday, a Leland Dr. resident told police that $6 in cash and $5 worth of prescription drugs were missing after a burglary.

On May 20, MHS students elected Alan Girelli Student Assembly president for 1978. The election took place after four days of campaigning during which the election committees placed posters in the halls and handed out campaign buttons.

Micky Simon then introduced Girelli as a "competent" candidate who, he felt, had "proven his leadership abilities."

"MHS exists to give us an education, to enrich our lives, and to prepare us for the future," he stated, he felt the school is not offering us enough in these areas; the SA should assume part of this responsibility. The leaders of the organization should expand its duties to include not only activities but also policy reviews and changes, he said.

He said that he sees SA as "the number one priority next year for him." In conclusion, he re-emphasized the importance of creating a "policy-minded Assembly."

After Emmerling had officially closed the assembly, John D'Amato, MHS junior, took the microphone and asked everyone to listen to him. He had not gone through the official process necessary for nomination; therefore, he was prohibited from speaking.

At the beginning of the school year, the Student Assembly will elect student-voice vice-president, secretary, and treasurer for 1978-79.

In an interview with HSW Tuesday, Girelli offered the following comments: "I'm very pleased to have been elected and I urge fellow students to join the Assembly next year. A common saying states 'there is strength in numbers.' This is particularly true in MHS's Assembly because we need to be an organization that truly represents the student body. I'm excited about next year because there's so much to do." — Wendy Horwitz

MHS Freedom Shrine re-dedicated

The Manchester High School Freedom Shrine was re-dedicated on May 21 in an unusual display of patriotic spirit. The shrine, located in front of the library, is a large bulletin board onto which are attached replicas of those documents important to American history—the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and others.

Miss White and the Round Table Singers began the re-dedication ceremony with some rousing patriotic music. The traditional songs were very appropriate to the occasion.

The re-dedication ceremony was led by newly elected Student Assembly President, Alan Girelli. Alan spoke a few words of thanks to those involved in the recent elections and then introduced the guest speaker from the Exchange Club, Donald Keuhl.

Keuhl expressed his desire for the Shrine's great meaning to be impressed upon the student body. He said that the American ideals it represented should be honored. He pointed out that, in his opinion, as long as the Communist threat exists, it is important that students keep America's ideas of freedom for all uppermost in their minds.

MHS art, crafts show set

On Wednesday, June 9, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., the MHS Art Department will be holding its annual arts and crafts exhibition. This exhibit, as well as the sale that evening from 7-9 p.m., will be open to students, parents, and the general public.

Students will be displaying work done during the year. Watercolors, oils, acrylics, drawings, pottery, metalwork, and textiles are several of the items being shown. Every kind of artwork from the much-expanded department will be represented, including artwork from nearly every student in the department.

In addition to the exhibits themselves, a number of demonstrations will be given. Students working in various media will display a portion of the particular creative process. People will be working on potter's wheels and with lapidary machines, in addition to those demonstrating drawing, painting, and other creative skills.

The public is welcome to the exhibit and sale of items that evening. MHS students will have an additional opportunity to purchase remaining items on Thursday, June 10, from 7:45 to 10:30 a.m.

Rock music review

The Royal Scam by Steely Dan. One such example describes a youth's discovery of primitive wall murals in a cave: "Before the fall when they wrote it on the wall when there wasn't even any Hollywood, they wrote it on the wall for us and me...we understood."

Another highlight of the LP is a nice reggae song entitled "Haitian Divorce" which includes some talkbox guitar that makes Peter Frampton's playing sound amateur. Other than that, the album contains no big surprises, but throughout, it keeps one's interest. If you liked Steely Dan in the past, you'll like "The Royal Scam." It's as simple as that!

"Takin' It to the Streets" by the Doobie Brothers. Like the new Steely Dan album, the Doobie Brothers' latest effort, "Takin' It to the Streets," has been a brilliant job. Included in the long list of performers are a fine trio of female singers and a horn section.

The album opens powerfully with "Kid Charlemagne," complete with lively keyboards, mean guitar licks, a toe-tapping melody, and a strange tale to tell. Often it's obvious the writers are playing word games in their songs, but sometimes the lyrics appear to have profound meaning.

Combining their talents, the girls' softball team boosted their record to 11 and 3 on Monday, May 24. The 3-0 shutout was pitched by Mary Cochran, who usually displays her ability at third base. The game was scored with outstanding defenses established for both Windham and Manchester.

Team effort was the most essential factor involved in the decision. Two double plays were covered on infield ground balls, which is an unusual occurrence in softball. Karen Carpenter and Leslie Bartlett were key players in these two spectacular plays. Rachel Rosen was outstanding in left field where she made some noteworthy catches.

All of Manchester's runs were scored in the third inning, with a rally of hits. Windham's defense prevented this from happening again for the rest of the game.

Manchester is guaranteed a place in the Class LL tournament play to begin on June 1st, and finishes second in OCHL play. — M.R.S.

Closer look: Arthur Glaeser

Arthur Glaeser, historian extraordinaire, is one of the most interesting and active members of MHS. Some students will know him from the classes he is presently teaching, western civilization, U.S. history, or American literature. He also has been the advisor to the Outdoor Club. Wherever you know him from, we're sure you'll agree that he's a very interesting man.

Glaeser was born in Hartford and spent his childhood in New Britain. His scholastic abilities were quite outstanding as he graduated third in his high school class. He continued his education at Yale, where he earned his master's degree in history.

Being historically oriented, Glaeser has spent much of his vacation time visiting foreign countries. He has traveled through most of western Europe, the Balkans, and Egypt. If Mr. Glaeser had to choose a favorite place, it would be Italy. The decision Glaeser tries to teach so others can gain the same enjoyment from history that he does. He feels that MHS offers tremendous opportunities to students, both academically and in extra-curricular activities." However, he sees that many students aren't participating as the advisor to the Outdoor Club. Wherever you know him from, we're sure you'll agree that he's a very interesting man.

Glaeser's interests include skiing, hiking, backpacking, tennis, golf and ice-skating. Skiing is his favorite sport, especially since he owns a cabin in Vermont.

Glaeser's wife (an art teacher at MHS) and his two daughters often accompany him on skiing and hiking trips. This serves to keep them a close-knit family.

While in college, he considered majoring in chemistry, but chose history, as it had always been an area of great interest to him. He also felt teaching would be a rewarding career, and as of yet regrets neither the decision. Glaeser tries to teach so Guidance notes. The Guidance Department has had a request for volunteers to help a local family in its intensive educational and therapy program at home for a seven-year old girl with cerebral palsy. This intensive program takes place from 2:45 to 5 p.m. until the end of school. Beginning June 22, it will be from 8:45 a.m. until 5 p.m. Volunteers are being sought to participate for whatever blocks of time are convenient, even as little as 15 minutes. Tasks of the volunteers might include working on specific fine motor skills or educational aspects such as learning colors. Students who are interested in special education, physical therapy, speech therapy or nursing might wish to volunteer. A Job Seeking Workshop will be conducted Tuesday, June 1 for seniors who have indicated an interest in information on how to seek a job. Mrs. Vivian Ladabouche of the Connecticut State Employment Service will discuss preparation for the application and interview. Ms. Ann Reynolds of Kelly Services will discuss filling out the application. Students who complete the applications for an imaginary job which will then be critiqued by Ms. Reynolds, George Serrano or Al Harchark of Union Carbide will conduct mock interviews with the students and discuss interviewing techniques. The program will be held from 9 a.m. to noon at Sears Roebuck Co. at the Parkade. Students participating have been excused from classes for the Workshop. Within the next week, counselors will be discussing with students any courses they have elected which have been canceled. Students will have the opportunity to make substitute elections. In June, the final elective card will be mailed home to parents. It will be assumed that the elections are approved unless parents notify the counselor to the contrary. Changes may be made prior to August 1.

Banners wave. The days of the sloppy tee are over and the emphasis is on looking sharp. We're glad to see so many boys realize this fact. Have you girls noticed the slick new fashion someone has brought back from the Dark Ages? It started with a silk scarf and ended up with pearls twisted around it. Mrs. Janice Reid, wife of the owner-operator of the carnival now in Coventry, takes care of her baby Karen in her trailer at the midway.

The six-man crew of the Deluxe Shows carnival have completed setting up the midway which waits for the crowd in the evening. (Herald photos by Shea)

They chose the life of the carnival

Coventry

By MONICA SHEA

The lights, sounds and smells of the midway have come to Coventry in the form of the Deluxe Shows carnival. Years ago, people saw slysters and ruff artists at a carnival. Reid said, "All of our concessions are run by the sponsoring groups and we use no professionals. We want to attract family groups."

Reid, the carnival operating manager, has been in the business since 1952 when he started working with his father in the Reid Amusement Company, a concession business in Old Saybrook. He has never worked in any other line of business, he said. "This is my life. The business in a two-room trailer during the season which runs from May 1 to November 1. They are in a different town each week in the states of Connecticut and Massachusetts. Reid said, "We will be in 22 to 25 towns before the season ends. We only run in Massachusetts and Connecticut because there is enough business in the two states. There is no need to travel all over the country."

The carnival is a business just like any other, he said. Reid said, "We have over $500,000 invested in equipment and rides. We sometimes hear complaints about the cost of the rides but all this has to be paid for."

Reid said the carnival also has five concession booths, four tractors and two trailers. It takes at least two trips to move the equipment from one town to the next. The carnival usually runs from Wednesday night to Saturday night and the equipment is moved and set up Sunday through Monday.

Reid is proud of the cleanliness of the carnival. All the rides are washed down daily to prevent children getting grease and dirt on their clothing. The midway is run by its own generators, a 305 KW generator plus a stand by 34 KW generator. Reid's wife Janice and 11-month-old daughter Karen travel with him baby. This year she is traveling with her husband. Mrs. Reid works as her husband's bookkeeper and helps out wherever she is needed. "I very much like working out of doors and at this point I think that I will stay in this business the rest of my life."

Clark has worked for the group for three years and runs the ferris wheel. "The business is a lot easier now than it was years ago," Jackson said. "Everything is operated hydraulically and now it only takes a couple of hours and six men to set up."

Reid is proud no one has ever been hurt on a piece of his equipment. The equipment is checked every week by the Public Safety Division of the state Fire Marshal's office before the show can open.

ADA is voters' choice

Bolton

Bolton residents Thursday approved using the Andover Disposal Area (ADA) as their solution to the town's refuse disposal situation. Many of the near 300 residents, including those who voted for Andover, did not leave the special Town Meeting happy about the decision. The meeting was at Bolton High School.

Residents approved the town proper budget in the amount of $833,453.20. It had been tabled at a May 17 Town Meeting, pending the choice of a refuse disposal solution. The budget approval followed approval of reducing the contingency fund $24,500.

At a special meeting Thursday following the Town Meeting the Board of Finance set the 1976-77 mill rate at 81.4 mills. It represents a 3.4 mill increase over this year. Discussion of the three alternatives for refuse disposal offered by the Board of Selectmen lasted over an hour.

Residents chided the selectmen for not doing their homework. Robert Morris said the selectmen did not leave the town meeting happy about the decision. He also received applause. Mrs. Paul Cassidy spoke against the transfer station because of its proposed location near the school. She said anything that might be detrimental to the children should be opposed.

Mrs. Cassidy said she asked the Parent Teacher Organization, Board of Education and superintendent to take a stand against the location but none would. She said she thinks they were wrong not to take a stand. Ron Churchill spoke for a transfer station. He said Andover's charge of over $90,000 was blackmail. He said curbside pickup is for city people, not country people.

IVI Cannon spoke for Andover as the lesser of three evils. She urged a committee of concerned citizens be set up now to find a local site acceptable to the majority of people. Robert Murdoch urged residents to vote in favor of the Andover area. He said he thought they were "holding us up" and they were "a bunch of bandits" but we should contract with them and immediately proceed to come up with "our own permanent solution."

SOFY grants Vernon $10,000 and the number of hours of work is based on the number of youths who apply. Last year 167 youths applied and those 17 and older worked 20 hours and those aged 16 worked 10 hours. The town was not allowed to hire anyone under 16 under the SOFY program last year as there were so

Rogers praises Toomeys

Bolton

James Rogers, a Bolton resident, said, "There are no ways to adequately measure the contributions Mr. and Mrs. David Clark Toomey have made to this community. While raising a family and tending a farm they found time to serve their community and its people in innumerable ways."

Toomeys

Rogers said when his family moved to the area almost 40 years ago, the Toomeys were among the first to extend their hands in friendship. He said, "They exemplified, in the highest manner and tradition, the principles of brotherhood, and what America should be." He said, "The example they set should be a guide for all of us." About naming the park for them Rogers said, "It is a small honor for two who have contributed so much."

MEMORIAL DAY

"...That This Nation Might Live"

With deepest gratitude... we set aside this day in memory of all the men... throughout our nation's history... who came to the aid of their country whenever it was in danger, and put their lives on the line to defend the way of life that America stands for. We pledge ourselves to uphold it.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am not trying to justify my getting involved with another man, but maybe if you knew what my husband was like, you wouldn't blame me.

I have been married less than five years, and my husband stopped paying attention to me about two years ago. His whole life is sports and running with his unmarried pals. We have one preschool child.

I became so lonely and frustrated that I took up with a man I met while he was demonstrating something in a nearby shopping center (don't say where). Anyway, this new man in my life has been coming to my home during the daytime while my husband is at work, and I've never been happier!

He's single and wants to leave his husband for me. What Abby, I'm only 25 and have my whole life before me. What should I do?

CONSIDERING A CHANGE

DEAR CONSIDERING: First try to improve your marriage through professional counseling. The new man in your life may provide some temporary excitement, but all you really know about him is that he spends his afternoons with married women while their husbands work. Is THAT the kind of man you want for a husband? Think it over.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the city of Duluth, Minn.!

Persons caught shoplifting used to be sentenced to clean the cages of the Duluth zoo. Last winter they started something new: Instead of cleaning cages, shoplifters were sentenced to 40 hours of shoveling snow outside the residences of elderly citizens and the infirm.

Now the city gets labor by putting the law violators to work doing something useful.

DIZZY IZZY IN DULUTH

DEAR DIZZY: Great idea! And in the summer, let 'em rake leaves. (Personally, I'd prefer shoveling and raking to cleaning cages in a zoo.)

DEAR ABBY: I work in a two-gig office with a woman who is very pleasant, but she talks too much. Every morning she regales me with stories about what her husband's boyfriend said or the details concerning her husband's stop-smoking clinic. She talks endlessly about her relatives and neighbors I've never met, and it's all very boring.

I've talked to an interested, but I am bored stiff and resent I've kept from my work. I work with figures, and it's not easy to concentrate when I'm interrupted by something she just thought of and has to tell me.

So, how do I get the idea across to her that she shouldn't talk so much? I'm not very good at telling people off.

NOTHING TO SAY

DEAR NOTHING: You don't have to tell her off! Just tell her that you feel guilty "chatting" when you're just paid to work, so to please save the conversation for before or after office hours. She'll get the message. And if she doesn't, keep repeating it until she does.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - New ideas, new energy, new perception. Today, you're thinking things up that you'll like. Perhaps you'll do much of a daydreamer.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) - Guard your possessions carefully today. Don't have anything around that someone unscrupulous might take a fancy to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Avoid people who do things in a devious or underhanded way today. Though your motives are honorable, you'll be identified with these devious characters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) - A number of the opposite sex could be particularly flattering to you today. It may inflame your ego a bit, but don't take it too seriously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - The way of doing business with those with whom you are not familiar, if you get careless, someone will gain, but it won't be you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) - Your indecisiveness could be irritating today. You're all over the place, but don't let it lead to a diamond to dummy's jack. East took his king and led back his signet ring, whereupon the combination of four high hearts in the West hand and both high diamonds in East led to South's defeat.

Lukas points out that there was an absolutely sure thing play. All South has to do was to cash one heart before leading the diamond.

With the actual East holding, he would not be able to lead a heart and would have to either set up a diamond in dummy or give declarer a ruff and discard. If hearts broke 3-2, the hand was cold.

Suppose that East started with four hearts. He could lead a heart, but all South would have to do would be to play the 10 if the nine were led, or his second big heart if the queen or jack were led.
