Miss Butler honored

Nathan Hale wing dedicated to Miss Butler

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

About 150 friends and former pupils of Miss Hulda A. Butler attended the dedication Monday morning of the new wing at Nathan Hale School named in her honor.

Completed in November 1971 are a combined gymnasium and cafeteria and four open classrooms upstairs.

Master of ceremonies for the special event was school principal Leo Diana, who was also a pupil under Miss Butler's teaching and principalship at Nathan Hale.

Attending Miss Butler in the receiving line were her grand-nephew, Kenneth Butler, and his mother, Mrs. Richard Butler, both of New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fairbanks, and Mrs. Nellie Farr, a friend.

After receiving her many friends in the cafeteria, the group then moved to the vestibule of the new wing and watched as Miss Butler unveiled a color portrait of herself and a replica of a bronze plaque with the name of the new wing.

Because of a labor dispute in the Rhode Island company making the plaque, the finished product will not be available until August, Diana explained.

Miss Butler read her remarks because she said she doesn't memorize as well as she did in 1914 when she came to Manchester to teach the sixth grade.

She recalled three special thrills in her lifetime. The first was the Friday before she received her second teacher's diploma allowing her to teach in Massachusetts. She said Mr. Fred Verplanck (former superintendent of schools in Manchester) came to see her "in action," and hired her to teach in Manchester.

Her second thrill was when she received her master's degree, cum laude, in reading from Boston University.

An appointment to be the first lay person to lead the Connecticut Reading Conference was her third thrill, she said.

Several corporations targets of mail bomb extortionists

By United Press International
At least 12 letter bombs, one of which exploded and injured 4 persons in New York, have been mailed to corporations around the country by extortionists who warned corporate officers to pay or be killed, FBI sources said today.

The letter bombs, mailed from east Texas, followed extortion letters received earlier that included photos of individual businessmen marked as targets.

"We shall kick corporate until there is nothing left to kick," unless money was deposited in a specified account, one of the notes warned, according to an FBI source.

There was no immediate indication of whether an individual or group was involved.

One of the bombs exploded Monday in the Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith brokerage house in New York.

A mailroom employee, Mileta Phillips, 50, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition with severe cuts on her arms. Three coworkers standing nearby suffered minor cuts, police said.

The New York City Police Department warned the public to "be on the alert for bulky manila-type envelopes 8 1/2 by 11 inches in size, postmarked from Texas."

The other letter bombs either failed to explode or were defused. FBI headquarters in Washington warned all 59 field offices to be alert for the bombs.

"The FBI is conducting an active investigation regarding these mailings," said FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

Kelley said he was "not at liberty to comment on the number of letter bombs sent or the number of cities involved, but he revealed that all the individuals who received the bombs were associated with corporations.

One FBI source said, however, there were more than 10 devices found.

The extortion letters reportedly contained pictures of high ranking executives of the corporations. They included warnings such as, "This pigeon is one of your officers."

The letters also claimed that the pictures were taken with sophisticated camera equipment, suggesting that the extortionists had the executives under close surveillance, the FBI source said.

However, the source said the photo with the letter to one company — the Gallo Wine Corp. — was known to have been taken from a picture published in a magazine.

All but one of the corporations that received the extortion letter had received letter bombs by Monday. The one exception was the Occidental Petroleum Corp. in Los Angeles. During the day, letter bombs which either failed to go off, or were defused, were also discovered at:

—McDonald's Systems, Inc., headquarters of the hamburger chain in Oakbrook, Ill.

—Dupont Co. headquarters in Wilmington, Del.

—The Marathon Oil Co. in Findly, Ohio.

—Bung Corp. offices in New York.

—Exxon Corp. offices in New York.

—The residence of a Bunge Corp. executive in New York.

—A residence in Chicago's South Side, probably sent to the wrong address.

—Cargill Inc., headquarters in Minneapolis.

—Cargill offices in suburban Wayzata, Minn.

—The residence of a Cargill executive in suburban Minneapolis.

Red leader wants Italy in NATO

ROME (UPI) — Communist leader Enrico Berlinguer said today Italy's continued membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would provide a shield against outside pressure from Moscow should his party enter the government.

In an interview with the newspaper Corriere della Sera, Berlinguer said that even though there are Western pressures to limit Italy's autonomy within NATO, Italian Communists feel more secure within the Atlantic alliance.

"I don't want Italy to leave NATO for this reason and not only because our leaving might disturb the international balance," Berlinguer said.

"I feel more secure staying here, but I also see that there are serious attempts here to limit our autonomy. From the point of view that Italy does not belong to the Warsaw Pact there is absolute certainty that we can proceed along the Italian way to socialism without conditions."

Head Start to be shifted to South School this fall

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

Head Start, the federally funded school program for pre-kindergarten children, will be moving from Buckland School to South School this fall, School Supt. James Kennedy told the Manchester Board of Education Monday night.

Kennedy, explaining the reasons for the relocation, said South School will be a better facility because it is more easily accessible to handicapped students and because of its central location, which may result in minor savings in transportation costs.

However, minor kitchen remodeling will be necessary at South School, Kennedy said. Administrators are seeking a federal Department of Agriculture grant to help pay for the remodeling costs, he said.

Kennedy recommended that the school board maintain control over Buckland School instead of returning the facility to town control, at least until officials obtain more precise student enrollment projections for northwest Manchester.

Kennedy suggested a public or semi-public use of the Buckland School building, or establishment of a school system storage facility there for furniture and other equipment.

Buckland School became the home of Head Start in September 1975, when the school was closed for regular classes. Head Start's former home was the old Orford Village school building.

South School will be closing this fall as the result of budget revisions and cost-cutting efforts by the Board of Education.

The school closing and plans for redistribution of South School's students were the subject of an apparently controversial discussion just before Monday night's school board meeting.

Several South School parents appeared to protest busing of their children to Highland Park School, but administrators said definite decisions haven't been made and won't be made until this summer, when projected enrollments are more accurate.

In other business Monday night, the school board:

• Learned of confirmed end-of-the-year plans and summer activities. Kennedy said the last day of school will be Tuesday, June 22, a four-hour day. The last full day of school will be Monday, June 21. Manchester High School graduation ceremonies are scheduled June 21.

• Kennedy said a limited summer school session just for Manchester residents will start June 28 and end Aug. 9. Asst. School Supt. Alfred Tychsen described a schedule of educators' summer curriculum workshops for elementary, junior high school and high school personnel.

• Voted to ask town directors to set up a washout account to receive and spend a $640 state vocational education grant. The grant is to be used to hire two Manchester students for summer inventory work throughout the school system.

• Authorized Kennedy to complete applications for a total of $222,000 in state and federal grants for remedial reading programs. The "compensatory education grants" are available under the State Act of Disadvantaged Children and the federal Education Act of 1965.

Connecticut Udall delegates shunning Carter bandwagon

HARTFORD (UPI) — Jimmy Carter increased his control of Connecticut's delegates to the Democratic National Convention but leaders of Rep. Morris Udall's delegation didn't dash for the bandwagon.

Carter, virtually assured of the nomination, Monday increased his control of the state's Democratic National Convention by picking up eight uncommitted delegates and three others pledged to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Udall's liberal followers, who fooled the experts by finishing a close second in the state's May 11 primary, held back their support.

Udall Monday stopped just short of formally releasing his 16 delegates, but gave them a green light on an individual basis to vote for Carter. The Arizona congressman concedes Carter will win a first ballot nomination.

Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, chief spokesman for Udall's Connecticut campaign and one of the delegates, said he wanted to talk with Udall before deciding what action to take. He said the 16 Udall delegates would meet within the next two days on the matter.

The rush to Carter Monday appeared to stem from heavy lobbying by Gov. Ella T. Grasso who Sunday telephoned the 11 delegates to request they announce their support for Carter in the interest of party unity.

On Saturday Carter supporters won 19 delegate spots and five Jackson delegates — including Mrs. Grasso — announced they also would support the former Georgia governor.

"I'm gratified that my call for unity within the ranks of Connecticut Democrats is being heeded," she said.

"If he (Udall) wants us to support Carter on the first ballot we will certainly consider that," Stolberg said. "As of now my personal feeling is I will vote for Udall on the first ballot unless he personally indicates to our delegation he desires otherwise. I think that may be the course of action we will take."

"I would expect they would vote for him. That's what they were elected to do," said Amy Brennan, Udall's state coordinator, of the Udall delegates.

Connecticut's 51 national delegates Saturday were selected at six congressional district caucuses by more than 1,200 local delegates named primary night in the state's 169 towns.

In that primary Carter won 33 per cent of the popular vote, while Udall finished with 31 per cent. Jackson had 18 per cent and the uncommitted slate, backed by much of the state party leadership, had 13 per cent.

WATERBURY — Members of the Waterbury Teachers' Association Monday voted to authorize their president to call a strike with the approval of the group's executive board. No immediate walkout is expected. The teachers' contract expired Dec. 31 and was extended to March 24 when the school board pulled out of it.

HARTFORD — State Social Services Commissioner Edward Maher said a survey of 5,000 Medicaid recipients in the Hartford area showed about 640 or 12.8 per cent don't meet eligibility requirements for the program. The survey is a pilot project to determine if a statewide review would be worth the time and expense, Maher said.

HARTFORD — Officials of the Connecticut State Employees Association have asked for a special legislative session to restore benefits withheld from state workers by the Grasso administration as economy measures. The request was made in the wake of predictions that the state end of the fiscal year with $8 to $16 million in surpluses.

BOSTON — Poor organization, not court ordered school desegregation is driving up the cost of operating the Boston School Department, according to a study completed by the Boston League of Women Voters. The report said the city had far more administrative personnel than it needs and in comparison to systems of similar size.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Harvard University has refused to grant Daniel Patrick Moynihan another leave of absence from his post as professor of government. He is a candidate for the nomination for U. S. Senate in the New York Democratic primary and a former ambassador to the United Nations and India. He was granted leaves during five of his 10 years at Harvard.

By UPI's tabulation, Jimmy Carter is only 124 delegates away from the 1,505 needed to become the Democratic presidential nominee. President Ford lost a handful of delegates to Ronald Reagan but his campaign manager is confident of a Ford first-ballot victory.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Teamsters president Frank Fitzsimmons is emphatic in his refusal to make concessions to dissidents and reformers in the union who are accusing him of corruption. "Go to hell," he told them Monday as he opened a four-day convention of the nation's largest union.

SAN FRANCISCO — The death of U. S. District Court Judge Oliver Carter, who presided over the trial of Patricia Hearst, will delay the newspaper heiress sentencing on bank robbery charges until his successor has studied the trial record. Carter, 65, died of a heart attack Monday.

WASHINGTON — A 1,536-page tax "reform" bill, coupled with an extension of tax cuts, reaches the Senate today but the debate may drag out for a week or more as liberals challenge sections they feel are watered down to be called reforms.

WASHINGTON — Rep. Allen Howe's colleagues are urging him to leave politics today and the Utah Democrat — accused of soliciting a police decoy prostitute in Salt Lake City Saturday night — is expected to withdraw as a candidate for reelection.

Boston reacts to busing decision with disappointment and elation

BOSTON (UPI) — Some of the city's leaders said it was time to end protest. Others said there probably would be more.

Comment came swiftly Monday after the U.S. Supreme Court slammed the door on white neighborhoods' hopes of stopping court-ordered school busing to desegregate public schools. The high court let stand the city's two-year-old busing plan.

Thomas Atkins, president of the NAACP, said the court decision represented an "end to all legitimate challenges" to the desegregation plan.

"Desegregation is here to stay and all of us have to live in this city and with desegregation," Atkins said.

"It is now up to the people to decide through whatever means at their disposal what steps they will now take to save themselves from the apostles of urban neglect," said City Council President Louise Day Hicks, a leader of antibusing forces.

School Committee member Elvira Pixie Palladino, another antibusing leader, warned citizens may "once again have to become modern day patriots."

"The people have lost all hope," she said. "They may turn to other ways of settling their grievances."

Rep. Mel King, D-Boston, a black legislator, said city leaders had a "responsibility to support those people who are obeying the law and who wish to carry out the law."

"Feelings of disappointment or elation, depending on one's point of view, will quite naturally be expressed over the next few days," Mayor Kevin H. White said.

"Our first objective must be to diminish anxiety and tension so that we, as a people, can continue to resolve our public issues in an atmosphere of reason and peace," White said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said "there is no need to applaud or not to applaud the decision."

Some opponents of busing looked to legislation being prepared by the Ford administration to limit the authority of judges.

"Maybe that's the answer," said Virginia Sheehy, spokesman for the South Boston Information Center.

One swell parade

It is hard to find superlatives to properly describe Saturday's Bicentennial Parade. While there are many who may doubt Manchester's parade was the biggest in the state, we think most will agree that it was the best Bicentennial effort by any community to date. Not only was the parade well organized, but we were particularly pleased with the balance of the themes in the parade. Especially pleasing, we think, was the perspective which did not let the military — as might be expected in a parade commemorating the Declaration of Independence and the American Revolutionary War — dominate the parade. Instead we were treated to a full gamut of music, marching units, floats and historical themes. We were impressed with the efforts made by our public and private schools. The hard work and ingenuity they displayed in their creations clearly demonstrated that the Spirit of '76 is as much alive today as it was 200 years ago. We must commend all the

A tale of two nation's constitutions

WASHINGTON — What could be worse than the confusion of having two political candidates, and the weariness of the drawn-out American election process — only the first phase of which ended on June 8 after three and one-half months and 30 primaries? This could be worse. Having only one political party by law and having only the option of voting for the local candidate of that party or against him. This is the system in the Soviet Union where, probably to no one's surprise, the number of voters to oppose Communist Party candidates to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) has never exceeded 1 per cent of the total casting ballots. Both political systems are rooted in the constitutions of the respective countries. But their similarities end abruptly at that point. The current Soviet constitution was penned in 1936 under the iron hand of Joseph Stalin. While the American Constitution was adopted nearly two centuries ago to perpetuate the liberty of one great people, its Russian counterpart was penned to perpetuate the enslavement of another great people. Especially as we near the nation's Bicentennial, it is humbling to contemplate how different life would be under the Soviet system — which is religious propaganda shall be recognized for all citizens. Since religion is, in the Soviet view and in Karl Marx's words, the "opium" of the poor, it takes little imagination to guess which "freedom" is favored by Moscow. But the real Catch 22 of the Soviet constitution comes in article 125 which "guarantees" the following: "freedom of speech; freedom of the press; freedom of assembly and rallies; freedom of street processions and demonstrations." The booker? All of these are to be "for the purpose of strengthening the socialist system..." In other words, these freedoms basic to a humane society are to be allowed only to the extent they support the aims of Russia's rulers — making them a dead letter from the outset. There are risks in life under every system of government. But given the numerous inroads built into the Soviet constitution — as system evolved in part by two other totalitarian regimes — the conclusion that the Americans are indeed blessed to have our constitution is unmistakable. As Dostoyevsky — one Russian eminently worth quoting — said: "Tragic freedom is to be preferred over compulsory happiness."

It warrants imitation

The "no-fault" concept has spread from automobile insurance to divorce and now to consumer products. At least one company has tried it, anyway, and reports that it works. Most companies guarantee their products with offers to repair or replace components that fail within a certain period of time. Three years ago, the Gast Manufacturing Corp. of Benton Harbor, Mich., introduced a novel "no-fault" warranty covering its air compressors, vacuum pumps and air motors for any reason — even deliberate abuse or neglect by the customer. The company has discovered that while its warranty repair costs have been slightly higher, these have been more than offset by the elimination of lengthy correspondence and report writing by its service

South's disreputable glimpse of the past

PLAINS, GA. — If Atlanta is a look at the future of the South, Jimmy Carter Country is in some disreputable ways a glimpse of the past. Andersonville is here. So are stains on the earth where the slave auctions stood. If one listens there are echoes from uns and whips and weeping children. This is Southwest Georgia, perhaps the birthplace of the next president of the Union.

Tom Tiede

It can be said the region has only selectively kept pace with the progress of America. It has accommodated color TV and fast food service, but there has been less in the way of adoption of the soul. Folks who 'praise be' in Carter's church still don't like niggermen looking at their daughters. Black youths can be free in a way, but their fathers dare less. Prejudice remains the reason of tools here. Justice for the darkeys still often resembles the machinations of trolls. One example is illustrative. Two years ago a man named Roy Patterson was engaged in the pursuit of upward mobility in Albany, Ga., a town to the south of Plains. He was married, had a child, and was a Marine Corps sergeant with a fine record of service. He was, however, black, and as it has for so many of his people in this area his color was to become his undoing. One day the sergeant accompanied his mother and brother on an innocent trip to Cordele, Ga., a community of the west of Plains. There, at a filling station, a state trooper began questioning Patterson's brother about a defective taillight on his automobile. The sergeant joined the conversation to see if there was anything he could do, and was reworded by the cop to "shut your mouth."

Today's thought

I do not think I would choose to be anything but an American. But that doesn't mean I approve of everything or that I don't get angry and critical. What is there in us that thinks "good" relationships has to be all honey and roses? Who doesn't fight with those he loves most? Wives with husbands, parents with children, members with churches, citizens with government, we all do it. A friend of mine speaks occasionally of the anger she sometimes feels with God. She may go a week without speaking to Him at all. She suffers for this, as we all do when we are alienated from loving. Yet that anger bespeaks a real relationship, a living bond that needs

Drive-in bank facility planned by Heritage

Heritage Savings and Loan Association of Manchester has started construction of a new drive-in, walk-up, full-service banking facility located behind its main office at 107 Main St. Construction is expected to be finished this summer. Heritage President William Hale said. The new facility will be reached from either Main St. or Maple St. The branch, designed by Hartford architect David C. Barker, will be of a brick colonial design with a gabled roof that extends over the drive-in stations. One of the drive-in stations will be a remote teller unit, with bank transactions handled by an automatic carrier tube. The walk-up window will be inside the structure to provide shelter in bad weather, Hale said. The National Safe Corp. is supplying equipment for the new facility, which is to be the most sophisticated system of its kind in Manchester, Hale said. Among the special features is a closed circuit television link to Heritage's main office. Hale said the new facility is needed because of the growing volume of business in the association's main office. He said the expansion, which will allow increased customer service, demonstrates the association's commitment to downtown Manchester.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

I love a parade and I'm sure everyone watching Manchester's Bicentennial parade Saturday feels the same way.

I can't actually say I saw the parade; only parts of it. I was one of the helpers in the Civilian Club's hot-dog stand and for a time we were really busy.

It was fun though. My kids really came through for me and brought a few of their friends to help man (or woman) the booth.

Some of the other club members had their children in full force and it was nice working together.

Course, we stayed a little later than most of the booths since we were right in the area for the outdoor square dance. Hot dogs proved to be favorites up until 11 p.m. and we had a successful day.

Father's Day

What do you know about George Washington's father? Or Hitler's, or Beethoven's, or Pope John's? And what did Ben Franklin and Shakespeare say about their dads? Set you don't know.

The father of "The Father of His Country" was Augustine Washington, an English-educated Virginia landowner who died when George was only 11. And, who knows, perhaps it was William Shakespeare's father John, a butcher by trade, who inspired his son to write: "If I chance to talk a little wild, forgive me. I had it from my father."

Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler reportedly despised his shoemaker father Alois, illegitimate son of Maria Schickelgruber and a man known variously as Huetler, Hiedler or Hiltler.

Composer Ludwig van Beethoven had a father who was an unsuccessful tenor singer. Reportedly, he was bad-tempered and rarely sober, but insisted upon his son learning music at the age of five. At 15, Beethoven was supporting his family. A case of father knows best.

Ben Franklin's father was named Josiah. He emigrated from England to Boston in 1685 and became a maker of soap and candles. Ben describes him affectionately: "He was of middle stature, very strong he was ingenious, could draw prettily, was skilled in music and had a clear, pleasing voice. He had a mechanical genius, too. But his great excellence lay in prudential matters, both in private and public affairs."

Like father, like son.

By contrast, these words are by Sir William Wilde's playwright offspring Oscar: "Fathers should be neither

Sheehan-Horvath

Mrs. James Sheehan

The Rev. Paul Tringo of the Church of the Assumption and the Rev. Edward McDonough of Mission Hill, Roxbury, Mass., the bridegroom's uncle, celebrated the double-ring ceremony. Musicians were John Doyle, Rosaria Salerno, Angela Weinath, all of Boston, Mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother James Horvath of West Yarmouth, Mass. and her mother Rika Horvath. She wore a gown designed with scoop neckline, long sleeves, lace overlay on bodice of silk and worsted fabric, Empire waistline with lace, fashioned by her mother. She wore a lace mantilla headpiece and carried a bouquet of white daisies, white carnations, baby's breath, and white roses of her own creation.

Miss Kathryn Horvath of Manchester was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Joanne Chisholm of Bedford, Mass., and Miss Andrea Richardson of Malden, Mass.

Edward Hommel of Jamaica Plains, Mass., the bridegroom's cousin, served as best man. Ushers were John Hommel of Boston, Mass., the bridegroom's cousin; and Leonard Horvath of Manchester, the bride's brother.

A reception was held at the Manchester Country Club after which the couple left on a trip to Cape Cod and Nantucket, Mass. They are residing in Roslindale, Mass.

Mrs. Sheehan is employed as an executive secretary by Thomas E. Sears, Inc. Insurance Co. in Boston. Mr. Sheehan is currently attending Northeastern University, in the Criminal Justice Program, evening division. He is employed by Excelon Detective Agency.

Old school to be closed

VERNON
BARBARA RICHMOND

The old Vernon Center kindergarten will be used next school year. Its 170 pupils will be divided between the Vernon Center School kindergarten and the Vernon Elementary School.

The action was approved by the Board of Education Monday night with Board Chairman William Houle and members Steven Marchand and Edward Meyers voting against.

Supt. Raymond Hamadell suggested closing the building, citing previous moves to cut back staff and the creation of space to reassign the Center kindergarten students to their own school districts.

Dr. Ramadell expects about 170 students for the Center kindergarten next year. He said 110 of these will go to Center Road and 60 to Vernon Elementary.

Houle said he was putting on his hat as a member of the Planning Commission. He said there are several more acres of land which will be developed in the near future which will increase the population in the area of Vernon Elementary School and Lake Street.

"I hope we haven't closed our eyes to the possibility of the parochial schools being closed," he said. This would mean about 200 students to be absorbed in the public schools.

The board invested much money

Area police

VERNON
Earl K. Hamil Jr., 39, of 28 of Vermont Dr. Vernon was arrested Monday on a warrant charging him with issuing a bad check. He is to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, July 14.

Clayton B. Connors, 44 and Clayton J. Connors, 21, both of Stafford Springs were charged Monday with first-degree criminal trespassing, third-degree criminal trespassing and third-degree criminal mischief. Clayton J. was also charged with possession of a dangerous weapon.

Police said the arrests were made in connection with the lock at the town dog pound being pried and a dog let loose. The property, owned by the town, is posted with no trespassing signs. Both were released for court in Rockville July 14.

Floyd Chase Jr., 27, of 3 Progress Ave., Vernon was charged Monday with illegal sale of controlled substances. He was held overnight by

Cab company wins approval

COVENTRY
The state Public Utilities Control Authority Monday announced its approval of the application of the Coventry Cab Co. Inc. of 149 Ross Ave.

The firm owned by Kenneth McCaffrey and Russell Schweitzer, both of Coventry, now has a certificate allowing their operation of three cabs in the towns of Andover, Columbia and Coventry. They can take customers to and from this area and any point in the rest of the state.

The PUCa held a hearing May 17 in Hartford at which time people from all three towns testified the cab service is needed. The towns do not have a cab service now. It is needed for the elderly, for housewives without a second car, and others in emergencies.

The rate is to be 85 cents for the first fifth of a mile or the first one minute of waiting time and 10 cents for each additional fifth mile.

The driver of the second car is Gregory Nicholas, 21, of 144 Edgewood Dr. She's court date was set for July 22 in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford.

ACFBG opposes salary hike

ANDOVER
The executive board of the Andover Committee for Better Government is against the proposed salary increase for elected officials because of the "devious techniques employed by the town fathers," said Norman Whitney, chairman of the group.

He said the matter should have been brought up at the recent Town Meeting when the budget for 1978-1979 was approved.

Costume contest featured

BOLTON
A Bicentennial costume contest will be featured during the Waterbury Bicentennial Committee to commemorate the march will be given to the boy with the best costume.

Gilead Hill School may serve breakfast

HEBRON
Plans for a proposed breakfast program in the elementary school in September were outlined at a recent Board of Education meeting by Ralph S. Saccuzzo, principal of Gilead Hill School.

The cafeteria manager Marge Porter came up with the program and she feels it is feasible, said Saccuzzo.

The schools would offer a breakfast consisting of juice, milk and a sweet roll or bun. Twice a week the menu would include cheese and eggs or sausage, he said.

The charge would be 35 cents.

The board approved the sending of letters to parents explaining the proposed program.

The administration presented a list of proposed budget adjustments for the 1978-79 school year totaling $36,243. This would meet the board's approval for the 1978-79 school year of $60,071.

Increases included restoring the physical education program one day a week for $2,338.

Decreased total $40,553. Large dollar items are: Special education

VERNON - The Vacation Bible School at St. John's Episcopal Church, Rt. 30, will be June 21 through June 25 from 9 a.m. to noon. The theme will be "Let Freedom Ring." Activities for each day will include a short worship service, music, Bible study with visual aids, arts and crafts, outdoor games, and refreshments. Open house and parents' night will be July 24 at 7 p.m. Any child from Vernon, Tolland or Ellington may attend by registering in advance by calling Mrs. Raymond Shors at the church office. Classes will be for children from K-8. A nominal fee will be charged.

Barak Homes makes third presentation

COVENTRY
Barak Homes made its third presentation to the Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night.

The development was called Arrow Head Ridge and first appeared before the commission in 1965 because of its fire or emergency.

The complex is expected to generate about 100 children with about 50 of them school age.

There will be 204 one bedroom units and 136 with two bedrooms.

A split room would provide double access in case of fire or emergency.

Harold W. Wilson Jr., 18, of 27 Cook St., charged Monday night with reckless driving at the Manchester Shopping Park. Court date is July 6.

Police report
A total of 10 other motorists, charged with a variety of traffic violations in unrelated cases Monday. Police said most of the charges involved speed violations, and court appearances aren't required.

Democratic work shop Saturday
The Connecticut Federation of Democratic Women will conduct a Bicentennial Workshop and Luncheon Saturday at Valde's Steak House, Hartford.

Registration will be from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. After lunch, there will be a reception with Mrs. Ella T. Grasso at the Governor's Mansion, 929 Prospect Ave., Hartford.

ZBA hearing Wednesday
ANDOVER - The Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Town Office Building. Ernest and Marie Cadorete are seeking relief from frontage requirements for a lot on Shoddy Mill Rd. John Bradbury is seeking relief from depth requirements for a lot on Lakeside Dr. The appeals are on file in the town clerk's office.

Jewelry party
HEBRON - The American Legion Auxiliary will host a Sarah Coventry jewelry party Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the post home. It will benefit the Fourth District. The public is invited. To learn more, call Geraldine Grant.

Swim registration
BOLTON - Registration for swimming lessons is Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. at Herick Memorial Park. Those registering are asked to bring their cards from last year if they have them.

Parents group to meet
SOUTH WINDSOR - Citizens for Better Education (CBE), an independent parents group active in public school affairs, will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Society Congregational Church, 140 Main St. Barbara Varrick, one of the group's founders, said today all residents are invited. The group will discuss the school bureaucracy, curriculum, and a parents bill of rights.

Parish Council
VERNON - The St. Bernard Parish Council will meet tonight at 7:30 in the church hall.

Nurses raise funds
COVENTRY - Mrs. Marjorie Roach, finance chairwoman of the Coventry Public Health Nursing Association, said $1,460 has been received in its fund drive. She is still accepting donations at her home at Lewis Hill Rd., RFD 3 or the PHNA office, Rt. 31, Mrs. Diane LaRoche of North River Rd. was recently appointed a new member of the board of directors. Her professional background includes staff nursing, hospital research, in-service nursing education and nursing administration.

Yacavone faces primary challenge

It appears that State Rep. Muriel Yacavone, D-9th Assembly District, has a serious challenger within her own party for the legislative seat she's held for three consecutive terms.

Hers is the only party challenge for the four state representatives and two state senators - all Democrats - who represent Manchester at the State Capitol. Certain of nomination without opposition are State Sens. David Barry and George Hannon and State Reps. Ted Cummings, Francis Mahoney and Abraham Glassman.

The district encompasses three voting districts in East Hartford and one (District 9) in Manchester.

To force a primary (on Sept. 7) either candidate - must receive at least 30 of the 11 votes. In 1977, Barron lost to Mrs. Yacavone by one vote and qualified for a primary but chose not to challenge the nomination.

The 14th Assembly District convention also will be July 22 - in South Windsor.

The 3rd and 4th Senatorial District conventions will be July 21, with the 3rd District convention in East Hartford and the 4th District convention in Manchester.

About town INVITATION TO BID

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Home. Refreshments will be served. Past commanders of the unit will meet at the same hour at the VFW Home.

The Democratic Club will meet tonight at 8 at the First Federal Savings and Loan, W. Middle Tpk.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from FOREVER SORRY brought back some memories that I wish I could forget. I'll never forget when my wife called me at work and said, "Come right home after work, John, we've got a problem on our hands."

When I got home, there sat our 17-year-old daughter and her 19-year-old boyfriend with their eyes on the floor. Nobody had to tell me what the problem was. My wife said, "Doty's pregnant."

I was heart sick. I had wanted her to go to college. When I found the words I'll never know, but to I said, "So what? There will be just one more to love."

I told the boy if he felt trapped the door was open. There would be no abortion.

The kids got married. That was six years ago, and they're still very much in love. And now they have TWO to love.

LUCY GRANDPA

DEAR ABBY: I was in the same predicament as FOREVER SORRY until my beautiful daughter was nearly 3 years old.

Although my ungrateful mother worshipped my little girl, she constantly reminded me that I had "disgraced" her because I was a pregnant bride.

She would put on a long face and say, "I can't look at that child without feeling betrayed and ashamed, knowing that she was conceived in sin."

I finally had it with the guilt my mother was laying on me, so I said, "All right, Mother, I don't want you to suffer anymore, so if that's the way you feel, I'll never bring my daughter to your house again and you need not come here."

Thanks, Abby. To hell with selling her she didn't need her mother's forgiveness - that only God had the power to forgive.

May I say something to FOREVER SORRY? We must be sisters. Hon, because we have the same mother. I'm 22 and have two sons. One is 8 months old, and the other is 4 years old.

My husband has made a wonderful home for us and we've both happily married for four and a half years now.

My mother still throws my "lurid premarital affair" in my face. She dishes out guilt by the gallon.

Finally went to my County Mental Health Clinic where a wonderful woman therapist assured me that I had long since "paid my pen." She made me realize that I was a worthless ADULT woman, not a "bad little girl" who needed Mama's approval.

While helping me to understand my mother's hangups, she freed me from feeling guilty. What an improvement she made in my life!

Please get counseling at your nearest Mental Health Clinic. It may take a while, but you will find that you can live happily without an "I forgive you" from your mother. I do!

know, because good old South had the equivalent of a South opening one-heart bid.

The fact that West's opening spade bid had cut down the value of his king of spades and that East's two-diamond call had shown both diamonds and at least 10 or 11 high-card points did not save South. His hand was worth an opening bid. Nobody was going to keep him from overcalling and he did bid two hearts.

West doubled to end the bidding. South did get something of a break. West didn't have a diamond and decided to lead his ace of spades. He continued with a low spade. East ruffed and played a king of spades had bitten the dust.

South did manage to collect three tricks, but down 1400 was a lot to pay for the pleasure of making a bad overcall.
