Many children feel their dads could be good presidents

BOSTON (UPI) — Being president of the United States is a difficult job. But there are many children who feel their fathers can do as good a job as it as any of the men currently seeking the office.

Since Father's Day is near, it may be interesting to see why some children think their fathers should be president.

"I love my daddy. He fixes my toys. If he was president he would fix things," said Jeff Bell, 6, of Chester, N.H.

"My dad deserves to be president. He is a school teacher and already knows how to tell people what to do. And he needs the money," a little girl from Foxboro, Mass. said.

"My daddy should be nominated president of the United States because he is so smart and my mother is smart and she could help him with the hard decisions," said second grader Sarah Travis of Concord, Mass.

These responses and others came from a stack of letters and postcards received by Boston radio station WBZ. The station is conducting a Father's Day contest to see why some children think their fathers are qualified to hold the most powerful office in the land.

"My dad should be nominated president of the United States because he manages a bank, and I think he could manage our country," another second-grader from Concord wrote.

All the talk about Watergate seems to have had an impression on another youngster. "My father should be president of the United States because he is not a crook," wrote a 6-year-old from Watertown, Mass. The boy continued that his "mother would make a swell First Lady."

"I think my dad would make a good president because he is honest and fair and keeps his word. He makes sure I do too," Jackie Burke, 9, of Medford, Mass. wrote.

Prepare for drug symposium

Planning for a forum on drugs is serious business for this youth committee which will be on a panel Thursday at 6:45 p.m. in Ilium Junior High School. Heading the committee is Scott Garman, left, assisted by Jane Zammitis, Ann Filloramo and "Obbie" Pet. They are all seniors at Manchester High School. There will be professionals assisting the panel in answering questions during the group discussion. The public is invited.

Autopsy fails to reveal exact cause of death

FARMINGTON (UPI) — The exact cause of death of the Connecticut victim of Robert F. Carr III of Norwich — self-confessed slayer of four — may never be known, according to Chief State Medical Examiner Dr. Elliot M. Gross.

He completed his autopsy of Rhonda L. Holloway, 21, Tuesday. "We may never officially reach a definite determination" of the cause of death, he said.

Her body was discovered in Canterbury Sunday, in a shallow grave pointed out by Carr, who also led Miami, Fla. detectives to the bodies of three other victims in Mississippi and Louisiana.

"The exact cause of death has not been determined, partly because of decomposition and the fact the body was interred," Gross said. "The death has been classified as a homicide. She was dead when she was buried."

He said police investigations and autopsy laboratory tests would continue.

LDS open house Friday

A film entitled "Ancient America Speaks" will be the feature at an open house at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Manchester Ward chapel at Woodside St. and Hilltown Rd.

The film will show the culture and religion of the people who inhabited the early Americas and built ancient cities.

There will also be a slide show depicting a week in the life of the Manchester Ward featuring local members.

The public is invited. The event is free. Refreshments will be served.

Development Commission will meet

Manchester's Development Commission, which has been more or less dormant the past several years, but which is showing signs of revived interest in the town's industrial development, will hold one of its infrequent meetings Monday at 10 a.m. in the Municipal Building.

Present also will be the Chamber of Commerce's Industrial and Commercial Development Council and several town directors.

Arranged by Town Manager Robert Weiss, the meeting is to familiarize Manchester officials with the services being offered by the Hartford Economic Development Commission (HEDCO).

HEDCO, recognizing the fact that only limited industrial land and sites are available in Hartford and primarily interested in employment in the region, is embarking on a cooperative effort with suburban communities, to promote industrial development in the area.

Representatives of HEDCO will outline the services available from their agency.

HEDCO director Warren Leuteritz and Town Manager Robert Weiss said impetus for the Manchester meeting comes from recent discussions of regional problems — and possible solutions — held recently by officials from Hartford and suburban towns. A meeting similar to the one next Monday in Manchester was held last week in Glastonbury. Plans are being made for holding them in other area towns.

Storm sewer project nearly complete

Town Engineer Walter Senkow, extreme left, was on hand this week when work was nearing completion on the last section of Keeney St. storm sewers. He's talking to John Tarbicki, foreman for Frank Kapsia & Son of Glastonbury, contractors for the job, as they watch patching being laid near Keeney St. School. The project has been completed in the ground and all that remains is some paving, curbing and seeding. The storm sewer project extends from Primer Rd. to the Glastonbury town line. ## Town getting $62,581 from Lottery

Manchester is receiving $62,581 this month in the second local installment of proceeds from the state's Instant Lottery, but the money — destined for education — can't be spent until the 1976-1977 fiscal year.

The money, designated as educational equalization funds, is part of more than $3.4 million in allotments signed by Gov. Ella Grasso this week. The $62,581 due in Manchester represents the maximum amount permitted under legislation which created the Instant Lottery last year.

Manchester received its first Instant Lottery check in January and the Board of Education, viewing it as a bonus, decided to spend the money on graphic arts equipment for Manchester High School and a variety of other, less costly projects.

The school board expected to receive this month's check as a bonus also, but the town Board of Directors, when it set the 1976-1977 school appropriation, decided the June money should be held for spending in 1976-1977.

So directors, when they adopted the 1976-1977 budget, separated the amount of anticipated Instant Lottery grants from the school appropriation and then added an equivalent amount as an extra appropriation. The school board will view the Instant Lottery money as part of its regular budget, however.

Hepatitis outbreak delays fair

MANSFIELD (UPI) — The Mansfield Training School has postponed its annual fair and changed plans for moving residents because of an outbreak of 24 cases of infectious hepatitis, school officials said.

Supt. Roger MacNamara said Tuesday there may be 30 to 35 cases of the disease when it reaches its peak.

He said hepatitis is not unusual in large institutions and was present at Mansfield in past summers, but in smaller numbers.

The 24 infected residents have been placed in one section of a four-unit dormitory and the other three units have been quarantined, he said. The school houses 110 adolescents.

The school's annual July 4 celebration, scheduled for June 27, has been postponed to August or September and moves into new home-like cottages, set for this summer, may have to await the end of the outbreak, officials said.

Each new case means a four- to six-week extension of quarantine, MacNamara said.

MHA to discuss drainage, plans

The Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) will discuss storm water drainage and heating plans for its 40-elderly housing project tonight.

An engineering survey for installation of storm sewers at the rear of the 171 Spencer St. site and a change in building design to provide for gas heat instead of electric heat are among matters on the MHA's agenda.

The MHA will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the authority offices, 24 Bluefield Dr.

Towel refund deadline is July 29

HARTFORD (UPI) — Consumers who paid $1 for mail order towels from a Philadelphia firm have until July 29 to get refunds, according to Mary M. Heslin, state Consumer Protection Department commissioner.

She said Tuesday the firm and the province have agreed that $10,000 should be left in escrow until then to provide refunds for people who thought the towels, advertised in magazines and matchbooks, were made of cloth.

The five towels were actually made of a fibrous synthetic material which could only be used a few times, according to complaints, she said. They produced hundreds of complaints in the state, according to her department.

Mrs. Heslin said refunds should be requested by letter from Innovative Products Corp., also known as Towels, Five Towels, and American Value, at P.O. Box 6061, Philadelphia, Penn., 19114.

Opinion

Does Manchester rate with the politicians?

If one had designs on political office, there was beautiful exposure for candidates in Manchester last Saturday. There were 125,000 people waiting for them on the sidelines of what had been billed as the "largest Bicentennial Parade in the State of Connecticut."

Pants perplexities explained

I see by the papers pants for women are still the "in" thing, in spite of what you see, think and hope. The fashion experts are seeing to it that pants are flourishing, not to mention blooming and billowing. That old-time song, "Sam, You Made the Pants too Long," is back in style—thanks to those same fashion experts.

Philly getting back to educational basics

WASHINGTON — I ran into some interesting news here in Ben Franklin's town while catching my breath after some political pulse-taking in New Jersey. Philadelphia was experimenting with "basic education" in 17 of its public schools next fall.

Well, it's happening anyway, the outgrowth of the so-called Filter Plan established earlier this year by Supt. of Schools Michael P. Marcuse. The plan was to take one school, Filter, and make of it a model for the old-time virtues — basic skills, homework, proper dress, order, Marcuse, obviously attentive to the sensitivities of his principals and teachers, called it "academics plus."

Manchester Police Tuesday apprehended two suspects in a driveway sealing flim-flam investigation, ordered them to repay their victims, and told them to leave town. The two suspects, driving a red pickup truck with Tennessee marker plates, were offering to seal driveways at prices ranging from $150 to $300, police said.

San Juan conclave aids resort owners

By DANIEL DROSDOFF

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — The seven Western leaders who came here to talk over their economic problems at the end of the month already have given a financial shot in the arm to a couple of large private enterprises.

The Rockefeller-managed Cerromar and Dorado Beach luxury tourist hotels have taken a beating in the 1974-75 business recession, a downturn still plaguing this Caribbean commonwealth. But, beginning next Monday, the hotels, located 22 miles west of San Juan, will begin to fill up with some 750 diplomats, aides and security personnel — more than 100 persons per leader.

About 40 advance men from the United States were scheduled to arrive by Monday, and contingents from Great Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Canada and Japan will be trickling in before the summit's opening June 27.

All of this, Cerromar and Dorado Beach manager Bernard Illiff told UPI, "will have a very favorable impact," on the two resorts.

Illiff said all 300 bungalows and cottages at the Dorado Beach have been set aside for the visitors, as have most the 508 rooms at the eight-story Cerromar a mile away.

The VIPs will have the use of some 800 acres of hotel facilities — beaches, swimming pools, two golf courses, 22 tennis courts, citrus groves, patches of tropical rain forest and a private airport.

Illiff said the Dorado Beach will close its gambling casino during the summit, but the Cerromar will stay open.

The summit comes as something of a windfall for the two hotels, where recession struck hard at the end of 1974 and "the bottom dropped out of everything," Illiff said.

Last summer union employees agreed with management to limit the work week to 32 hours and this year, while occupancy rose 10 per cent in the peak winter months in the Cerromar, the Dorado Beach continued to languish.

In fact, the hotels' owner, Eastern Airlines, has decided to get rid of them, transferring its ownership of $30 million in hotel stock to the two financial institutions holding the mortgage.

Rockresorts, Inc., a Rockefeller company, will continue to manage the two properties after the June 27 sale, Illiff said.

The two resorts, Illiff said, are making "an excellent recovery."

Investigation asked

SOUTHINGTON (UPI) — State Attorney General Carl Ajello has been asked to investigate the practice of designating an official photographer who takes all pictures for a high school yearbook.

The request came from Arthur Rich, who said the official photographers are expected to provide free services which are similar to kickbacks. He said his efforts to take pictures for the yearbook here were rebuffed.

Official photographer

James K. Wright could not be reached for comment. He takes student activity pictures and lends students a camera and film, Rich said. Ajello was out of town Monday.

Rich said he thinks Connecticut antitrust laws are similar to those of Vermont.

The Vermont attorney general has ruled it illegal for a school to get free services from its official photographer and limit the yearbook portrait business to that person.

A family that went to look for America

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Nearly a year ago, Paul Smith and his family went to look for America. Some 40,000 miles later, they report it is bigger, better, more prosperous and more optimistic than they had expected.

Last July 4, Smith, his wife, Maria, and their teen-aged son and daughter sent out from Collins, Mo., in a little yellow Volkswagen. In those 11 months of living on the road, they learned a lot about the virtues of America.

They arrived Monday with their Bicentennial journey nearly over. They had four more states to go and admitted to a bit of homesickness — but they wouldn't have traded this last year for anything in the world.

Not that it was any luxury tour.

Along the way, they have labored in the migrant camps of California's Salinas Valley, suffered three broken arms, fought off voracious insects while tenting in Alaska and gotten stuck in the wilds of western Canada.

But they've gone the way they wanted to go — close to the land and its people. Mariene, 18, who put off her first year of college to join the odyssey, said, "If we had not done it this way, we wouldn't have had nearly the experiences we've had."

Those experiences included meeting an Indian, who was born in a teepee, getting caught up in the struggles between rival unions in the vegetable fields of California, and talking with hundreds of people like the gentle Amish farmer in Ohio and the gregarious Portuguese fisherman in Rhode Island.

"It has been a once in a lifetime thing," said Smith — but added, "I wouldn't want to do it every other year."

Working at odd jobs in Washington states, California, Louisiana and other places brought the Smiths closer to the people — but it also was the only way they could have managed.

"We had been talking for years about getting out and getting acquainted with the country, but we knew we would have to finance it by working," said Smith, who owns a strawberry farm outside Collins — a hamlet of about 150 persons in southwest Missouri.

The Smiths said they generally found things in the heartland are not quite as they had been led to believe by the news media.

"I found people were more patriotic than I had expected," said Smith. "I'm sure there is a great future for this country."

His wife, born in Columbia, said the trip has "reinformed by belief in America. This is still the land of opportunity."

The Smiths now are off to Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa before returning home to celebrate July 4 in Jefferson City, Missouri's capital.

As they go, persons along the way will receive their greeting, pointed on the front of their car.

"Hello America, how are you?"

Science today: Children get arthritis, too

Robert Muesel LONDON (UPI) — Most people accept rheumatism and arthritis as among the hazards of growing older. Few of them realize that thousands of children also suffer from the same dangerous and often very painful maladies.

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Council in a report titled "Children Get Arthritis, Too" and intended to shock the British public into an awareness of the tragedy of the young victims, says it is hoping for a complete cure in the future.

"Nobody believes," said the Council, "that children get what is widely thought to be a 'granny's disease' but children can get rheumatism at a year or even younger."

The booklet adds: "This report is different. It has nothing to do with growing old; it is about arthritis in children. The phrase shock-report is hackneyed and over-used but this may be a valid context for its use. It will shock many to learn that children as young as a year old can get arthritis and that, if not properly managed and treated, it threatens them with crippling, blindness, stunted growth and even death."

The report accused Britons of being so familiar with arthritis and rheumatism that they have too easily accepted the pain and disability caused to millions of sufferers.

"Arthritis is the overall name for a set of very nasty diseases," it said, "but there is still the widespread feeling that it is just something to be put up with. The phrase 'just a touch of rheumatism' is part of Britain's national phrasology. Those who feel that touch know that it is not just a fleeting touch but a painful grip of very long duration."

The report offers some hope to the thousands of child victims. It says that although most of them face a complete recovery can expect to lead "reasonable lives," the report said.

"This Ain't The Summer Of Love (Don't Fear The Reaper) ETI (Extra Terrestrial Intelligence) Sinful Love/Dobbie Denise

The report says that arthritis early in life makes a good recovery. This has been achieved mainly through research and treatment developed at the Canadian Red Cross Memorial Hospital in Taplow, Berkshire, which cares for the largest group of children in the world suffering from arthritis.

The report said some children used to go blind or nearly so. "This is now much less likely," said Dr. Barbara Ansell of the Taplow team, "because of drugs which help the eye and also surgery. Arthritis in children is very rarely a killer disease. However, because the child's general health is undermined, relatively minor infections which a normal child could cope with, can prove very serious and occasionally lead to death."

Last laugh for 'the Kid'

CHICAGO (UPI) — The chronicler of America's biggest con man, wants to give "the Kid" the last laugh on, among others, Paul Newman and Robert Redford.

Attorneys for author William T. Brannon have filed a $50 million federal court suit against the producers, stars and distributors of the movie "The Sting," including actors Redford, Newman and Robert Shaw. The suit accuses them of stealing the Kid's life.

Well died in a Chicago nursing home last February at 101. He boasted he made millions as an international swindler during his prime. But he was a ward of the state at the end.

Brannon's suit contends "the theme, central idea, plot, storyline, structure and continuity" of the movie stole away "certain exploits, deeds and misdeeds of the internationally famous Chicago native" as outlined in the book: use of similar card game swindles; use of horse race schemes, in which words where a victim is crowded out before

Well: The Autobiography of America's Master Swindler. The suit noted that the main character in the movie was named "Kid Twist."

It said Well was depicted in the book as often wearing a Homburg hat, bow tie and spats, and "Kid Twist" often wore a Homburg hat and spats.

The scene for one of the cons outlined in the book was set in the sixth floor of the Western Union Building in Chicago, while the scene in the movie was in the basement room of the Western Union Building in Chicago, the suit said.

It also cited these similarities between the book and movie: use of similar card game swindles; use of horse race schemes, in which words where a victim is crowded out before

A huge Uncle Sam's hat holding such notables as Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin, Betsy Ross, Clara Barton, Daniel Boone, Babe Ruth and Neil Armstrong was Verplanck School's entry in Saturday's Bicentennial Parade.

Washington School saluted George Washington, "Father of Freedom," with this float, showing Washington as a boy ready to cut down a cherry tree, then as a general commanding the Army at Valley Forge, and finally as president sitting before a fireplace with Betsy Ross who is working on America's first flag.

The "clown" with the Sphinx Temple Cycle Unit is really Howard Turcotte, appearing in the Masonic Division of the Bicentennial Parade.

Two lovely young women sit beside an open Bible, which is propped against a large rock with a cross in the background on the Calvary Church Marantha Coffee House float in Saturday's Bicentennial Parade.

A bright gold emblem, glittering in the sun, was the focal point of the Rockville American Legion Post's float in Saturday's Bicentennial Parade.

Opportunities better

HANOVER, H. (UPI) — Job opportunities for liberal arts graduates at Dartmouth College are better this year than last—by 10 to 20 per cent, estimates William N. Moorman.

The director of placement at the Ivy League school in Hanover said recruiters seeking interviews with liberal arts majors say they are looking for "educated" persons—regardless of the major.

French majors are getting bank jobs. History majors are working for financial publishers.

A Cleveland engineering firm a few years back wrote to Moorman, explaining why it sought liberal arts graduates for its management training program.

"We are fully prepared to train educated men in this business but we cannot educate trained ones—and to our knowledge neither can any other company." The same goes these days, according to the placement official.

Moorman said the Dartmouth graduates admitted to Harvard Medical School included not a single science major one recent year.

Those accepted among other liberal arts grads majored in music, history and arts.

At the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, the good news for the class of 1976 extends to liberal arts graduates, too.

Placement Director Carl Herring said — "We've got more jobs on the board than students applying for them."

Hearty slap on back saved Reagan from choking

By PATRICIA M. CORMACK
UPI Health Editor

A hearty slap on the back could have kept Ronald Reagan from being killed by a peanut the other day.

It happened on Reagan's campaign plane when he was munching peanuts.

A peanut lodged in his throat. The sharp hit on the back by an aide dislodged the legume.

Authorities estimate some 4,000 persons a year die in minutes when food sticks in the throat, blocking the airway and preventing breathing.

In just four minutes the victim suffers permanent brain damage from lack of oxygen. In less than four more minutes the victim is dead from asphyxiation.

Also called a bear hug, the Heimlich Maneuver has been credited with saving more than 200 lives already. There's also a way of executing it yourself if you're choking to death.

In the pamphlet, two steps are listed for the Heimlich Maneuver. To wit:

"With the victim standing or sitting, wrap your arms around his waist from behind. Make a fist with one hand and place it, thumb side against the abdomen, between the navel and rib cage."

"Clasp the fist with your free hand and press it with a quick upward thrust. Repeat several times, if necessary."

If you choke while alone, press your own fist into your abdomen with a quick upward thrust, or press your abdomen quickly by bending over the back of a chair, or against the edge of a sink, railing or counter top.

Governor tells how it was done

DETROIT (UPI) — Mrs. Grasso Tuesday gave a group of Detroit women a detailed history of how she says she turned an $80 million state budget deficit this year into an $8 million surplus.

He is medical director of Fireman's Fund American Life Insurance Company in San Francisco and leads the firm's campaign to cut choking—the sixth-leading cause of accidental death in the United States.

Annually, more persons die by choking than are killed by firearms or aircraft accidents, poisonous snake bites, lightning or electric shock, according to Dr. Newirth.

"These needless deaths can be prevented," Dr. Newirth said. In a free pamphlet, Fireman's Fund tells how to take a few simple steps to save a life threatened by choking.

Reagan's aide, Mike Deaver, did the right thing when he hit the boss on the back. The potentially fatal incident took place Tuesday as the plane was enroute to Los Angeles from Cincinnati.

Dr. Newirth said, "Strike the victim sharply, several times in rapid succession between the shoulder blades with the heel of your hand," is the first quick step to take if the choking victim is conscious.

If the hunk of food doesn't come loose, the next quick step is to use the Heimlich Maneuver — named for Dr. Henry J. Heimlich of Cincinnati, who invented it.

The alcohol impairs judgment and the dentures make chewing less than perfect — so big chunks of food are more likely to be launched into the throat.

Fireman's Fund has just printed 50,000 posters for distribution to restaurants nationwide—similar to the one's called for under the California law.

The first sign of choking," Dr. Newirth said, "is when a person suddenly becomes quiet and a look of alarm comes over his face. He may clutch at his throat and attempt to rise."

A person showing these signs must not leave the table alone. "In a few moments he may collapse and he cannot save himself."

Following are some questions with answers based on information in the pamphlet available free from Fireman's Fund, P.O. Box 335, San Francisco, Calif. 94119. Q. What is the difference between stroke or heart attack and choking victim? A. Stroke and heart attack victims if they are conscious, can usually breathe and talk. A choking victim is unable to breathe or make a sound.

Soon after these first symptoms appear he will start to turn blue and lose consciousness. He is just minutes from a "preventable" death. Q. What if the Heimlich maneuver doesn't work? A. Repeat blows to the back and the Heimlich maneuver. Q. What should be done if the victim loses consciousness? A. Roll the victim on the side, bracing his chest against your knee. Strike him sharply several times in rapid succession. In a few moments he may collapse and he cannot save himself."

Seavey-Karmazin

Pamela Karmazin of Edison, N.J., and David K. Seavey of Manchester were married June 5 at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Fords, N.J.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Karmazin of Edison, N.J., and the late William R. Karmazin. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Seavey of 77 Oxford St.

The Rev. Richard Izard and Dr. Robert Wood officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white flowers. Mrs. Lillian Banyascki and Mrs. Barbara Ryder, both of Edison, N.J., were organist and soloist, respectively.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather Leslie Murley, wore a gown of sheer organza over polyester crepe designed with V-neckline with sheer sleeves, beaded lace trim at neckline, cuffs and train. Her organza veil was attached to a beaded lace Juliet cap and she carried a triangular bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and pompons.

Mrs. James Makely of South River, N.J., served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Seavey and Miss Shirley Seavey, both of Manchester and sisters of the bridegroom; and Miss Laurie Johnson of Florham Park, N.J.

Li Michael Billingsley of Lafayette, Ind., the bridegroom's brother-in-law, served as best man. Ushers were William L. Karmazin of Edison, N.J., the bride's brother; Harve Gellmans of Hartford and James Makely of South River, N.J.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn in Woodbridge, N.J., after which the couple left for Bermuda. For traveling, Mrs. Seavey wore a creme colored knit suit. The couple will reside in Carteret, N.J.

Workshop Without Walls which will be moving to new facilities in the Regional Occupational Training Center in September, said, "Since the Minischool is so close, it will be convenient for some of our students. When they graduate, they will have had practical day-care experience. It's very important that they go out into the community and show people their skills."

Next year's class will be taught by Doreen Ringland, a certified teacher who lives in Squire Village. She will have two or three mothers as her aides and plans are to increase the number of preschoolers from 18 to 20. While the major stumbling block—funds for a fire alarm system and a fenced-in play area — have been removed, the Minischool is still in need of several items.

Among them are a concrete drain pipe for the play yard, rocking chairs, child-size table and four chairs, jungle gym, swing set, rhythm instruments, a phonograph, carpentry tools, storage cupboards, etc.

Attempts are being made to involve many people in the Minischool. An advisory board will include members from the greater Manchester community.

Any individual or organization wishing to donate items or obtain further information may contact Mrs. Chisholm at 648-9225 or Mrs. Kathy Mangiofco at 646-2354.

Of Consumer Concern

Magazines

Almost every consumer at some time has been solicited by a magazine salesman. Some of these sales persons say that he or she is working his way through college, is trying to win a scholarship, or is competing for a trip.

Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: "Of Consumer Concern," Dept. of Consumer Protection, State Office Bldg., Hartford, Conn. 06115.

Is Paddling Constitutional?

Students have been debarred from the public schools. But recently a new question has come into the discussion: Is paddling a "cruel and unusual punishment"?

In an extreme case, the answer may well be yes. At one junior high school, officials set up a system of punishment that kept students in a constant state of fear.

Minor Infractions

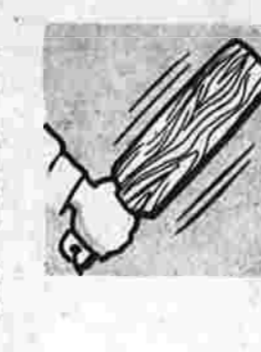

Victims sometimes needed medical attention. When their story came out in a courtroom, the judge declared the system cruel and unusual—a violation of the Constitution.

A method of parental control originating in the miles of pre-historic times, commended in Biblical references, sanctioned by and defended by many of today's child psychologists is not lightly to be declared unconstitutional.

Social Security

Q. I was in a bad automobile accident and was laid up for three months with serious bone fractures. Since I had no earnings during this period, could I collect Social Security disability benefits?

A. Yes. Your payments would be reduced by one-third in consideration of the value of the room and board you'd get from your son if you lived in his household.

Q. I have a 66-year-old uncle who I believe may be eligible for Supplemental Security Income. But a neighbor told me I probably couldn't get these payments?

A. The Supplemental Security Income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. Your uncle can get information about applying for these payments by calling or writing any Social Security office.

Q. I'm 68 and I had planned to apply for Supplemental Security Income. But a neighbor told me I probably couldn't get these payments?

A. No. Your eligibility for federal Supplemental Security Income payments would not be affected by your children's ability to support you. However, any support they may furnish you would count as income and could affect your payment. Call or write your Social Security office for information.

Comment session

The Board of Directors will conduct a public comment session Thursday, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Manchester Municipal Building.

Learning that the British army in Philadelphia was moving to New York, Gen. Washington decided to attack at Monmouth Court House, N.J. on June 28, 1776. Maj. Gen. Charles Lee was given command of the advance guard, but his vague orders resulted in a general retreat. Washington stopped the retreat, rallied the troops, and pushed the British forces back to their original position. Although the outcome of Monmouth was a stand-off, it proved that Continentals were a match for the British in open battle. It also secured Washington's position as his chief military critic, Lee, was disgraced and later court-martialed. The World Almanac recalls.

Finley's 'Tuesday night massacre' strengthens Yankees and Red Sox

OAKLAND (UPI) — Charles O. Finley, in deals that may affect the balance of power in the American League for years, virtually completed the dismantling of his three-time world champion Oakland A's in a "Tuesday night massacre" during which he sold three superstars for a total of $3 million.

Selling Rudi, described by teammates as "the man without a weakness," and Fingers, considered the best relief pitcher in the major leagues, to the Red Sox for $1-million each.

Finley was at his best in pressure situations, compiling a 1.35 earned run average in 16 World Series appearances for the A's. He was voted the most valuable player of the 1974 Series during which he appeared in four of the five games with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Q. Because my son, who's 21, had worked for two years at low wages when he became severely disabled last year, he gets a small monthly Social Security disability payment. Since I'm going to be 65 and retire within a couple of months, could my son get higher payments on my work record?

A. He may be able to. When you apply for retirement benefits, you can also apply for benefits for your disabled son. He will get the higher of the two benefits — either the monthly benefit based on your own work record or a monthly check based on his own record. You should also check at any Social Security office on the possibility of your son getting Supplemental Security Income payments for people with little or no income and limited resources who are disabled, or 65 or over, or blind.

Q. My son wants me to Sam loves Americana

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sam Gordon says he suffers from a disease called Americana, and because of it was tickled pink to put up $44,000 to buy a stagecoach built in 1860.

"It's beautiful, it's so original," Gordon said after submitting the winning bid. "It looks like you turned the clock back. It hasn't been messed with. I just love Americana."

Gordon said he would place the stagecoach in a museum he maintains at his restaurant between Sacramento and Lake Tahoe.

"Americana," he said, "is a disease with me. My house is even laid out like that. I can't help myself."

The restaurateur didn't win easily at the auction. Wells Fargo Bank went all the way to $35,000 in its efforts to land the stagecoach. And a man from Atlanta, Ga., bid $44,000.

"I'm glad we stopped where we did," Gordon said.

To show he had no hard feelings against the gentleman from the South he told him, "Maybe one of these days I'll sell it to you."

Gordon said he just loves Americana.

"Remember in 1961? I paid $5,000 for a ball that Roger Maris (a New York Yankee slugger) hit in the bleachers," he said. "A little Italian boy caught the ball, and I paid him $5,000."

He said his restaurant museum has several old horse-driven vehicles he purchased from movie studios in Hollywood. He said he even bought a horse-driven fire engine that had been used by the New York City Fire Department.

Butterfield and Butterfield spokesman Andrew Johnson said the $100,000 auction collection came from REA's offices in Chicago, Wash. D.C. He said the stagecoach itself recently had been brought here from the Hawthorne Museum in Chicago.

The auction also brought a winning bid of $1,600 for a scale model of a Wells Fargo and Co. Overland Stagecoach, and an American Railway Express survey went for $3,000.

Top Notch Foods advertisement featuring a grid of various food items and their prices, such as 'CHOCK FULL O' NUTS INST. COFFEE 10 oz. $1.99', 'CYCLE DOG FOOD 14 oz. 4 for $1', 'HELLMAN MAYONNAISE 10 oz. 99c', etc. Includes the slogan 'We Dare to Compare!' and 'OVER 10,000 LOWEST PRICES!'.

Gene Johnson, successful player-coach with Moriarty's in the Hartford Twilight Baseball League, is on the automobile sales staff at Moriarty's.

Bill Thornton, president of Manchester Sand & Gravel and stock car owner, is a one-time Dartmouth football lineman.

Paul Correnti, manager of the Holiday Lanes, likes to recall his younger days as a tennis player.

Despite the triumph, Tenace appeared still stunned by what happened before the game.

Former teammates Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers were in Boston uniforms Tuesday night at Oakland's Coliseum, scene of their three World Series championship seasons. They had come to the Red Sox a few hours before and Vida Blue went to the Yankees.

Rudi and Fingers, watching from the Boston dugout, saw Tenace hit two home runs to lead the A's to a 3-2 win. His second shot, a 1-2 pitch of starter and loser Ferguson Jenkins, won it in the ninth inning.

Second baseman Phil Garner predicted Finley would sell the A's. A tinge of resentment colored the Red Sox welcome to Rudi and Fingers.

Gene Tenace stunned by player sales, several Sox members regret move

Little cheering in Birds' camp

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ordinarily, a five-hit shutout by Jim Palmer, snapping a nine-game losing streak, would be cause for joy among the Baltimore Orioles.

But there was little to cheer about for Orioles Manager Earl Weaver Tuesday night in the wake of the up-and-down, million-dollar trades by Oakland's owner Charles O. Finley which sent Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue to Baltimore's closest American League East rival.

About all I can say," said Weaver after Palmer hurled the Orioles to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox "is that it's gotta make a couple of pretty good players on Boston available."

Mets' Matlack wins eighth, could be NL's best lefty

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jon Matlack may be the National League's best, left-handed pitcher — but he'd be the last to admit it. "I reached my goal my rookie year by winning at least a dozen games," said the 26-year-old Matlack after he pitched the New York Mets to a 2-1 victory Tuesday night over the Los Angeles Dodgers. "I haven't reached any of my goals since then. With a little luck this year I might get there."

Matlack won his 10th game in his second season. The Dodgers scored the first run of the game when Ted Sizemore singled to left-center. Steve Carlton coasted to his sixth victory in nine decisions. He was the seventh when Dave Kingman led off with a double, advanced to third on an infield out and scored with two out when the Dodgers allowed a pop fly to center fielder Jimmy Rollins. Kingman then stroked a two-out run-scoring single in the eighth inning for the winning run after Bud Harrelson led off with a bunt single, advanced to second on Felix Millan's sacrifice and went to third on John Milner's fly to right.

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia's clobbered San Francisco, 10-2. Cincinnati beat Chicago, 4-1. Atlanta, 5-4. St. Louis, 5-4. San Diego nipped Montreal, 2-1, and Pittsburgh at Houston was postponed because of 7.1-2 inches of torrential rain. Phillies 10, Giants 2. Jay Johnstone, and Garry Maddox, with his third homer, each drove in four runs.

Golfing trip to Texas high spot for Huguley

By CHRIS BLAKE A correspondent in the 70's several times. He qualified by placing among the top 10 in Region X at the 1976 Manchester Community College golf in season, nothing meant more to the freshman slanting than gaining a berth in the recently completed National NCAA Tournament in Galveston, Texas. Huguley was one of 10 New England golfers to qualify for the nationals.

Runs to lead Philadelphia. The Phillies jumped on San Francisco starters Ed Hakeik and reliever Dave Heaverlo for an eight-run lead after two innings and left-hander Steve Carlton coasted to his sixth victory in nine decisions. He was the seventh when Dave Kingman led off with a double, advanced to third on an infield out and scored with two out when the Dodgers allowed a pop fly to center fielder Jimmy Rollins. Kingman then stroked a two-out run-scoring single in the eighth inning for the winning run after Bud Harrelson led off with a bunt single, advanced to second on Felix Millan's sacrifice and went to third on John Milner's fly to right.

Joe Frazier goes down in fifth round George Foreman has just delivered final punch

Frazier's ring career ends after TKO loss to Foreman

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Joe Frazier staggered to his feet deep into the mandatory eighth count, fell back into the turpentine bucket and spit a mouthful of blood onto the canvas. His fight was over. One hour later, so was his career.

Frazier changed his style for the rematch with Foreman, shaved his head and employed three tricks he learned from Muhammad Ali: dropping his gloves to challenge his opponent, rope-a-doping it and hiding his face in peek-a-boo fashion.

Foreman rushed back and slipped a devastating right to the side of Frazier's head to send him spinning back to the canvas. Frazier squatted in the corner, instinctively trying to get when he hit to his feet at eight, the referee rushed over and looked him in the eyes and waved it to a conclusion.

Foreman adjusted his own style to meet the challenge of Frazier, tapping his opponent in the face so that when Frazier covered up, Foreman could explode punches at his belly.

every knoll and hill for a quarter of a mile of the arena.

To the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," 353 high school seniors paraded in on the red carpet which covered the ice of the skating arena for the student's special occasion.

"I am only one, but I am one," read the motto of the Class of 1976. "I cannot do everything, but I can do something, and I should do and can do, by the grace of God. I will do."

Following the Star Spangled Banner, the Rev. Joseph Schick of St. Margaret Mary Parish told the graduating seniors, "Most of us are not destined to become famous but we are all destined to become great, if we let God's love work for us."

Salutatorian Jean Marie Weiss reminded the audience the class of 1976 is the first class to have girls as both salutatorian and valedictorian. She commended the class for being "truly remarkable."

"Our most important achievement," said Miss Weiss, "is our own maturing as individuals, the maturing of our class."

Lynn Susan Bogatz, valedictorian, spoke of our nation's history and democracy.

"It has been said," said Miss Bogatz, "that too many people accept the wonders of democracy, when the wonder is just having it."

Miss Bogatz quoted President Lyndon Johnson when she said, "Yesterday is not ours to recover but tomorrow is ours to win or lose."

"We have reached the final page of the concluding chapter of our school days," said Miss Bogatz. "I hope you have the wisdom to make all of you proud of all of us."

Claudio Sotocornola, South Windsor High School's exchange student from Italy and a member of the graduating class, expressed hope that a better understanding between nations had been derived through his stay in America.

"I hate saying goodbye," said Claudio. "I have had happy moments and sad moments in South Windsor, but the happy moments have outnumbered the sad. I've learned a lot by staying with you. I hope you will all remember, if you come to Italy, you have a friend to visit there."

The warmth and sentimentality of the occasion helped to remove the chill of the carpet covered ice, as the graduates girls in gold and boys in maroon, filed up to the podium to receive their diplomas.

Superintendent Robert Goldman expressed hope, "We will always be learners."

"The process of education is an old one," said Goldman, "but the world remains fresh and alive because new people are constantly brought to it."

Singing is optional during the ceremonies. (Herald photos by Dumm)

On local board

Helen L. McMullen, president of Pressure Blast Manufacturing Co., at Manchester, a capital equipment manufacturing firm has been named a member of the associate board of directors of the Manchester area offices, Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

A Hartford native, she went to work for the Cro-Plate Co. in Manchester in 1950. In 1968, Mrs. McMullen bought Cro-Plate, renamed it Pressure Blast Manufacturing Co., and developed a national and international market for the machinery Pressure Blast produces.

Mrs. McMullen is a member of the National Association of Manufacturers, the Connecticut Business and Industry Association, and serves on the board of directors of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. McMullen and her husband, Lowell, live in Manchester.

In MCC post

Carroll M. Maddox of Glastonbury has been appointed director of college and community relations at Manchester Community College. His responsibilities include media relations, internal communications, advertising in the production of all college publications.

He will be concerned with creating increased awareness of the unique role played by the community college through its wide range of courses, programs, services and special events. MCC officials said.

Prior to his appointment, Maddox operated an advertising agency in Glastonbury. He has a long and varied career in advertising, public relations and media work in the Greater Hartford Area. He was educated at Hartford Public High School and the University of Connecticut, and for many years he has been active in local civic and community affairs.

Commentary: What the primaries did

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The primaries have ended without completing the job of choosing presidential candidates for the two major parties. That does not mean that the 32 elections since Feb. 24 have failed the political process. They may, in fact, have helped it.

The primaries are not intended to do the whole job of selecting candidates. Even though more than half of the delegates who will nominate national tickets next month and in August were chosen in the primary process, the caucus and convention method was retained in a number of states, and some of them have yet to complete it.

The candidates will be selected, as the system intended, by the national conventions. The emergence of primary winners in recent presidential years has tended to downgrade the conventions and provoke further criticism of the American method of national leadership selection.

But the primaries have done a good deal more than give new purpose to the national conventions. In all 30 states, a given citizen, in this also has been at the men and women who seek to lead the country, given candidates who had no national recognition a chance to emerge; and given the two parties an opportunity to begin forging the issue positions on which they will run in the fall.

It may seem to some that the politicians are hogging too much attention already. But after the experiences of the last few years, it is possible to argue that Americans should spend a lot more time scrutinizing candidates.

The primaries this year have given voters a look at a wide range of candidates, and not just in the protected circumstances of television studio speeches and carefully arranged rallies. The candidates have been exposed in all kinds of situations, including some crises — such as Jimmy Carter's "ethnic purity" slip, Ronald Reagan's Rhodesia controversy and President Ford's problems with Bo Callaway — that have given a measure of their ability to act in pinches.

The primaries also have helped men like Carter, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, and, to some extent, Reagan, overcome the advantages of Washington-based politicians in ready voter recognition. This can't hurt, despite the wounded feelings and punctured presidential dreams of some senators and congressmen.

They also have helped the parties focus on their positions and forced the candidates to speak up on hard questions. Through the primary process, the Democrats have settled on the Humphrey-Hawkins bill approach to unemployment and candidates in both parties have been compelled to pledge extreme caution in future foreign intervention by U.S. military forces.

Finally, candidate positions on issues like abortion, marijuana laws and amnesty for draft resisters — which some would like to avoid — have been smoked out in the primaries. All in all, not a bad job of work.

Government officials here believe the decision was made by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger at the urging of the Peking leadership. The Nationalist Chinese will not be invited to participate in the Bicentennial.

Miki soon perils TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's conservative Prime Minister Takeo Miki may remain in power for a while but don't bet on his hanging onto his job indefinitely.

Opinion polls are in Miki's favor but opponents within his ruling Liberal Democratic Party have not given up efforts to force his resignation, reports UPI correspondent Teiji Shimizu.

Miki will attend the seven-nation summit in Puerto Rico June 27-28 but his continued popularity will depend on the outcome of the investigation into the Lockheed payoff scandal in July.

That probe will be completed within a few months and Miki's foes within his party could find ways of unseating him as party president, a post which carries with it the job of prime minister.

Thailand-Malaysia strain BANGKOK (UPI) — Thailand's order to Malaysian troops to pull back to its own side of their common border has severely strained relations between the two members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

A number of diplomats in Bangkok, who opposed the withdrawal order, fear Malaysia may retaliate by removing controls on its citizens who favor aiding Thailand's separatist Moslems.

So far, Malaysia has helped keep a rein on the separatists, who are based in Kelantan state on the east coast bordering Thailand's would-be breakaway provinces.

Philippines going nonaligned MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — While still maintaining its traditional friendly ties with the United States, the Philippines is making a strong bid to become a full-fledged member of the nonaligned bloc.

It has opened diplomatic relations with the major Communist powers and is pursuing closer contacts with them. President Ferdinand E. Marcos has repeatedly stated that his government will keep the Philippines out of big power rivalries.

At the United Nations Conference on trade and Development in Nairobi, Marcos personally presented the Third World's blueprint for a new world economic order which ran counter to the American-led industrialized group's plans.

UPI correspondent Vicente Malinang says Marcos wants to remove the last traces of the Philippines' former reputation as a rabid follower of its former colonial ruler, the United States.

Test for Hussein KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Malaysian Prime Minister Hussein Onn faces a test of his strength and popularity at a July 24 general meeting of his ruling United Malay National Organization (UMNO) party.

Hussein became acting UMNO president on the death in January of his predecessor, Tun Abdul Razak.

The July meeting in Kuala Lumpur will vote whether to confirm him as full president in his own right.

Hussein has proved himself a tough and unbending leader, engineering the ouster and subsequent corruption conviction of former Selangor State Chief Minister Harun Idris who once was a powerhouse in UMNO.

Bicentennial snub TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — The Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan has been officially, although privately, notified by the U.S. State Department that neither Taipei nor Peking will be invited to America's Bicentennial celebrations.

The Nationalist Chinese will not be invited to participate in the Bicentennial.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer is here, I notice so many teenagers driving now so fast and recklessly. Two years ago I clipped the enclosed editorial from our local newspaper and showed it to my teenage son and daughter, and after they read it they became two of the most sensible drivers alive.

Please print it, Abby. It may do the same for others.
 DAILY READER

DEAR READER: It's well worth an entire column. Who wrote it? And for which newspaper? I want to credit the author.

PLEASE GO, I'M ONLY 17!
 The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I snuffed the car out of Mike. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All this drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 6:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It didn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off - going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was peeing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream. Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strength that I could feel was fading away.

Hey, don't put that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Did suddenly look like an angry man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a wild experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away from me. I can't bear to see my Mom and Dad so broken up. My grandpa and aunts are so shocked with grief they can barely walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a sense, everybody! No one can believe this. And I can't believe it either!

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise you give me just a mere chance. God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I'll want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17!

Skill never comes into play

West might well have opened the bidding with one club. If he had done that and rebid hearts after North responded with either one or two diamonds, North would probably have wound up playing a notrump or diamond slam. A heart or spade lead would give him that contract. With a diamond or club lead the right line of play. However, South passed his 12 high-card points then North opened the bidding and South's game plan could do was to take eight tricks after the defense score the first five.

To watch some rubber-bridge players in action you would think that the Declaration of Independence had been signed. All men were created free and equal and entitled to play all notrump contracts.

South was one of those notrump players who is so brilliant he also knew that he should not pass his three notrump was to bid it.

SCORPIUS (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - Be yourself today when dealing with others, even if someone is sure to be a sore loser. You shine more when you like to play. You shine more when you like to play. You shine more when you like to play. You shine more when you like to play.

And I can't believe it either!

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise you give me just a mere chance. God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I'll want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17!
