Minutemen stop over in Manchester

The Manchester Veterans of Foreign Wars Post hosted the Wilmington, Mass., Minutemen Friday night in one of the many stops the group is making en route to Philadelphia where the unit of eight men is slated to participate in that city's Bicentennial parade July 4. Greeting the unit's commander Maj. Willis Whalen is VFW Post Commander Wes Rhuda, third from right. Second from right is Ed Stickman, captain of the VFW honor guard and right is Tom Hovey, senior vice commander. Other members of the Minutemen, which was originally founded March 9, 1775, are: Jeff Coville, George Garvey, Dave Hill, Peter Wicks, Bob Cooney and Jack Betts. Friday the unit marched from Eastford to Manchester or about 30 miles. Today they were to hike to New Britain. The distance from Wilmington, which is north of Boston, to Philadelphia is approximately 350 miles. (Herald photo by Larson)

Ford widens lead over Reagan

By LEWIS LORD
United Press International

President Ford widened his lead over Ronald Reagan in their race for the GOP presidential nomination early today, by nabbing 17 of 18 at-large delegates selected by Minnesota Republicans.

The near sweep of the at-large delegates, coupled with his earlier 17-7 victory over Reagan at the state's district level, gave the President a commanding victory in Minnesota.

The selection of delegates ran into the wee hours of the morning because of the new marathon ballot-counting process adopted by the convention Thursday at the urging of Ford backers.

According to United Press International's tally, Ford now has 1,064 delegates to 949 for Ronald Reagan. The GOP nomination requires 1,130 delegates. There are 103 uncommitted GOP delegates and 143 still to be chosen.

Reagan accused the Ford forces of creating disunity in the party by pushing the rules change through. "They have done nothing except be divisive," Reagan said. "If party unity is being hurt, it is being hurt by the other side."

Ford, spending this weekend at a summit economic conference in Puerto Rico, urged Republican leaders in Washington Friday to unite after the national convention.

Once a nominee is chosen, Ford said, Republicans must stand "under a banner of unity and strength and I pledge to you that I will do that."

Jimmy Carter felt so sure of becoming the Democratic nominee that he phoned Ford to arrange for intelligence briefings by CIA Director George Bush once the national convention ends.

Carter said he wants the briefings so "I won't make a serious mistake in the heat of the campaign and embarrass our nation or say something inadvertently based on misinformation, which might be contrary to our nation's policies."

NEWPORT, R.I. — The Coast Guard says the Chilean barkentine Esmeralda, due to arrive here Sunday for the Tall Ships festival, will be protected from demonstrators who claim the ship was used by Chile's military government to torture political prisoners.

National

LAKEHURST, N.J. — Karl Thomas, 27, of Troy, Mich., headed out to sea today in a 10-story plastic balloon powered only by the wind. He is trying to become the first balloonist to cross the Atlantic Ocean. The balloon, dubbed "Spirit of '76," was reported traveling about 50 miles an hour off the New Jersey shore early today.

World leaders gather for economic conclave

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Leaders of seven of the world's major industrial nations gather at a lush tropical resort this weekend to try to resolve their lingering economic problems, especially inflation.

President Ford was to arrive first today to greet West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and Prime Ministers Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada, Takeo Miki of Japan, Aldo Moro of Italy and James Callaghan of Britain.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was expected to arrive

Sunday. Like Callaghan, he will fly into San Juan's international airport on the Anglo-French Concorde.

(Ford, in a prepared arrival statement released in Washington, warned Cuba that intervention in the domestic affairs of Puerto Rico will be considered "an unfriendly act, which will be resisted by appropriate means.")

In an effort to mollify ruffled Puerto Rican feelings over failing to inform them of the summit site in advance, he praised the islanders' right to "freely determine the nature of their ties" with the United States, a right not enjoyed by many "critics" of U.S. policy toward the commonwealth.)

Diplomats in San Juan said no dramatic developments were expected at the summit, which formally opens Sunday at the Dorado Beach Hotel, a vast estate of stylish bungalows, tennis courts and golf courses managed by Rockresorts, Inc., a Rockefeller family firm.

Observers said that with the forthcoming elections in the United States and other participating countries, politically shaky leaders may be courting publicity more than concrete reforms.

The meeting is a followup of last year's allied summit in Rambouillet, France, when the leaders of the United States, France, Britain, Japan, Italy and West Germany agreed on economic cooperation to pull themselves out of the worst business recession since World War II.

Now the recession has been followed by a cyclical boom, and the allied leaders are expected to investigate ways to keep the upswing, and its accompanying inflation, under control.

Also on the agenda are ways to achieve world monetary stability, cut tariff barriers, increase energy supplies and cooperate with nonindustrial countries that produce raw materials.

Polish strikers return to work

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Strikers resumed work in factories throughout Poland today in response to the government retraction of plans to hike food prices by as much as 69 per cent.

Parliament officials said a session scheduled for this evening to complete the price increase legislation was canceled.

Railroad officials said rail traffic was again running normally.

Shipyards workers at the Baltic ports of Gdansk and Szczecin — the scene of bloody workers' riots that toppled Communist party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka in 1970 — staged peaceful sit-in strikes, sources said.

They said other strikes occurred at Ostzyn and railroad tracks were broken near Wroclaw.

One day after announcing plans to raise food prices for the first time since Gomulka's ouster, Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz told the nation Friday night the government "thinks that it is necessary to re-analyze the whole matter again."

He said the reconsideration would take "at least several months."

The premier acted after workers went on strike at several factories and brought railroad traffic south and west of Warsaw to a standstill by ripping up track and derailling two trains.

The workers were protesting plans to raise the price of meat, fish, poultry, butter and other foods by as much as 69 per cent, effective Monday.

When Gomulka's government announced similar hikes 12 days before Christmas, 1970, dockworkers staged unprecedented strikes and burned down local Communist party offices. Police were ordered to fire on the rioters and 56 persons were killed in the clashes.

The handling of the riots — particularly the order to open fire on the strikers — toppled Gomulka and brought Edward Gierek to power. The new Communist party first secretary reduced food prices to their former level.

HUD gives approval to $301,000 grant

A $301,000 community development block grant to Manchester has been approved by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A spokesman for U.S. Rep. William Cotter announced approval of the grant Friday, three days before the deadline.

In recent days, town officials had said privately they were convinced the grant would pass, but there was doubt earlier when HUD officials insisted on greater assurance from the town that it would adopt and implement an affirmative action plan and an anti-bias housing plan.

The Board of Directors had rejected a proposal to hire an equal opportunity coordinator and HUD had rejected an alternate proposal by the town.

A third proposal, submitted by Town Manager Robert Weiss, met with HUD approval. It provides for meeting with lending institutions to discuss fair lending practices, meetings with real estate brokers to familiarize them with fair housing requirements, and establishing a procedure for handling discrimination complaints.

On July 6 the Board of Directors is scheduled to consider an affirmative action plan, one of the HUD requirements.

Commenting on the grant approval, Weiss credited Community Development Coordinator Alan Mason for his skill in developing the grant application.

New all-white schools in Boston face test under latest U.S. Supreme Court decision

By United Press International

The president of the NAACP in Boston says the group will probably go to court to test the legality of all-white, private academies set up to avoid court-ordered busing to achieve desegregation in the city's public schools.

Thomas I. Atkins commented Friday after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that private schools cannot exclude blacks on the basis of race. Atkins said academies found to be operating on a whites-only basis would lose their certification under the ruling.

"In order for these schools to function as they have in Boston, it required the action of local, state and various federal officials, and we will focus on all of them," Atkins said.

However, others doubted the high court ruling would have much effect on the schools which began springing up two years ago after U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. ordered busing to end racial imbalance in the city's public schools. Some 26,000 students were bused under the order this year.

Robert Pressman, director of the Harvard Law and Education which represents a group of black parents in the Boston desegregation case, said even if the schools are forced to accept blacks, he said few, if any, would apply.

"How many blacks will be clamoring to get into the South Boston Heights Academy," he said. The ruling appeared to have little effect elsewhere across New England where most schools said blacks already were accepted for admission.

At the exclusive St. George's School outside Newport, R.I., where 30 of the 300 students are black, assistant admissions director Charles Lee said the school has admitted blacks for a decade.

"Most of the private schools that we are familiar with have had black students for some time and are all out looking for additional ones," he said. "I don't think you'll find an all-white private school in New England."

Officials in New Hampshire where Phillips Exeter Academy is located, said schools did not bar admissions because of color.

"I am not aware of any schools that would have admission criteria that would bar entry of blacks," said

Charles Marston, assistant chief of instruction for the state Department of Education.

"I think we can safely say it would not be an issue here."

Donald Hagerman, headmaster of Holderness school, said a number of blacks were among the 210 students.

"To the best of my knowledge blacks have been eligible for admission through our entire history," said Alfred Gengras, director of studies at the 130-year-old Tilton School. In Connecticut where there are an estimated 300 private schools including Choate where John F. Kennedy attended school before Harvard, Alan N. Houghton, head of the Connecticut Association of Independent Schools Inc., said none of the organization's members had a black-only or white-only policy.

Vermont Education Commissioner Edward Fabian said the ruling did not apply because few private schools had black students and no private schools refuse blacks admission.

Sailing on a calm sea

The Portuguese bark Sagres sails on a calm sea silhouetted against the setting sun, en route to Newport, R.I., from Bermuda during the Tall Ships sail. The 16 square-riggers which are the main attraction of the Tall Ships Bicentennial celebration this weekend had to take in their sails and switch to auxiliary power to complete the Bermuda-Newport run.

Crossroads program
losing two fine men

The Crossroads program in Manchester is losing two very fine young men in Jim Breitenfeld and Dave Moyer. They have strengthened the role of the community in developing programs about drug use and abuse. They have moved about almost silently, counseling youths about drugs and working with drug-related problems.

Jim saw the need to encourage youth participation and formed a Crossroads Advisory Board, asking youths to help the Crossroads staff develop programs to meet the needs of Manchester youths.

That advisory board received the approval of the Manchester Drug Advisory Council.

Jim and Dave have done what Crossroads has hoped to do - people talking to people; people listening to people and, in the end, people caring about people.

Ah, poor ozone

Ah, the poor ozone layer. First it was man-made fluorocarbons which were breaking down the protective shield in the upper atmosphere that blocks harmful radiation from the sun. (Or which aren't breaking it down, depending upon what scientific report you've read most recently.)

Now another threat to the ozone has been discerned in the form of carbon tetrachloride, the familiar dry-cleaning compound, which is also used in fire extinguishers and for many other purposes.

Altschuler of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, increasing amounts of carbon tetrachloride have been measured in the atmosphere, but the mystery is that there has not been enough of the chemical produced and used worldwide to account for it all.

It appears urgent," says the chemist, that we find out where this extra carbon tetrachloride is coming from. Pardon us, but we think we'll pass on this crisis. Our sense of urgency is showing signs of depletion worse than that of the much-abused ozone layer.

The press and the American Revolution

The peace treaty THE GAZETTE OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

By Dr. Francis G. Waleit Worcester State College Copyright 1976

American Antiquarian Society When the American peace commissioners at Paris signed a preliminary treaty with Great Britain on Nov. 30, 1782, they were not acting in the spirit of the French Alliance of 1778. By that agreement the United States had pledged not to make separate "truce or peace" with the enemy.

They were strengthened the role of the community in developing programs about drug use and abuse. They have moved about almost silently, counseling youths about drugs and working with drug-related problems.

That advisory board received the approval of the Manchester Drug Advisory Council. Jim and Dave have done what Crossroads has hoped to do - people talking to people; people listening to people and, in the end, people caring about people.

It was nevertheless an awkward moment at the time. How could this secret agreement be explained to the French? Adams and Jay, younger by far than another member of the commission, Benjamin Franklin, shrewdly allowed this wily spokesman to make the necessary apologies to Vergennes.

Contrary to what one might have expected, the French minister was not angry; he even congratulated Franklin on his handling of the treaty. In truth, the French had known all along about the American "secret" talks with the British, and had done nothing to interfere. France was actually pleased that the United States had broken its agreement.

Although Vergennes rebuffed the Americans for not consulting with him, his attitude was so agreeable that Franklin suggested that the United States would be grateful for another loan from France. And strange as it may seem, the French government, which the Americans had just offended, now provided another 6 million livres!

British desire wanted Ever since the surrender of Cornwallis in October 1781, the British had shown little desire to continue the war. Not only was the rebellion in America still much alive, but Britain now was also at war with France, Spain, and Holland.

The American Revolution had developed into a general international conflict. Not all Americans were happy with the treaty. Some disliked the provision regarding Loyalists, others thought we should have worked more closely with France, still others were disturbed there was no provision governing trade with the former mother country.

Without question, though, the great majority of Americans were grateful that the war was over and American independence had been won. Unsettled questions remained, however, about the future of the new nation.

boundary disputes, trade with the West Indies, continued occupation by the British of ports in the Northwest Territory. But these matters would be settled later. It was now time to celebrate the end of the American Revolution.

Perhaps many war-weary Americans agreed with the sentiments of Benjamin Franklin, who wrote, "There never was a good war or a bad peace."

"Time! I speak of 'passing the time' of 'killing time,' or in a different mood, 'I wish there were more time.'" In any case there is the obvious answer, "You have all the time that there is." Yet, in prison "time" is something else. Read what one inmate wrote:

"Time is the lack of freedom; time is eight hundred faceless mannequins; time is the same every fourth week; time is fifty thousand, two hundred and eighty-three paces around the recreational area; time is grey and drab; time is countless conversations, all completely meaningless, without purpose or direction; time is without true laughter; time is boredom bordering upon insanity; time is unreality; time is timelessness; time is man's invention; time is a four letter word... Today's thought The anatomy of man - the heart became synonymous with feeling, with love, with compassion and with mercy. It is symbolic of man's capacity to radiate sunshine and joy and to nourish the souls and spirits of countless people.

Forced retirement statute upheld by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 1 Friday that civil servants can be forced to retire when they reach a set age limit, even if they still are able to perform their work.

In an unsigned opinion, the court upheld a Massachusetts law requiring state police to retire at age 50 - the lowest retirement age for state police in the country.

The court said mandatory retirement laws do not violate the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment if they have a reasonable basis - in this case the assumption that older officers will be less able to perform the physical work of a policeman.

The justices reversed a three-judge court decision which struck down Massachusetts law and said the Constitution requires an individual showing that an employee is unable to work before he can be forced to retire by a state or local government.

Groups representing the elderly and middle-aged asked the court to affirm the Massachusetts law as unconstitutional. They contended each individual should be separately judged as to when he was unable to work and should be retired.

The lawsuit was brought by Robert Murgia, a lieutenant colonel in the state police who was forced to retire when he reached age 50 despite uncontroverted medical evidence he was personally able to perform his duties.

The three-judge court ruled that the state law was not rationally related to maintaining a physically fit police force, especially since all officers over 40 are required to take annual physicals which could easily determine fitness on an individual basis.

But the Supreme Court reversed, holding that "since physical ability generally declines with age, mandatory retirement at 50 serves to remove from police service those whose fitness for uniformed work presumably has diminished with age."

"This clearly is rationally related to the state's objective," the justices declined to apply a more strict examination of the law such as is applied when race discrimination is involved. They said age is not a "suspect classification" such as race.

Without the federal law controlled by contract law, the court said, peaceful "self-help" in labor disputes may not be regulated by the states directly, although states may control disputes involving violence, intimidation and threats to property.

The decision was a key victory for labor unions, which claimed that state laws often more strictly regulate conduct than does federal labor law.

The appeal was brought by the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers which claimed that state laws often more strictly regulate conduct than does federal labor law.

Flag display in town Sunday

South Windsor
The "Flag Man," a disabled World War II veteran, from Newington will bring his collection of 160 flags to South Windsor for the town's Sunday Bicentennial Festival.

The Flag Man, whose real name is Philip Daignault, has a collection of flags from all 50 states, U.S. territories, American armed services and countries where Americans have fought wars.

Daignault was invited by the local Knights of Columbus, sponsors of this weekend's festival.

The flags will be set up at the Rye St. Park, six feet in the ground in metal poles six feet apart.

The "flag man," who suffered a spine injury in the war, displays his flags in more than 175 towns and cities each year.

The South Windsor Bicentennial Commission has requested that the Connecticut Bicentennial Balloon fly over the town as part of the Bicentennial celebration.

The balloon is eight stories high and 55 feet wide.

The balloon is a gift to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Connecticut from the Original States and will fly at Connecticut Bicentennial events throughout the summer as a symbol of the Festival '76 celebration.

The huge craft, with a holding capacity of 77,000 cubic feet of air, will have the state armorial bearings imprinted on both sides.

Three-foot letters on its blue polyester surface proclaim: "The State of Connecticut, Bicentennial 1776-1976."

The date for the balloons pass over South Windsor will be announced shortly.

The South Windsor Bicentennial Ball will be Sunday, July 4 at St. Margaret Mary's Church Hall from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Music will be by Paul Landerman Orchestra. Admission is $25 per couple. The BYOB event is sponsored by the South Windsor Chamber of Commerce. For ticket information call Ed Steben, 289-3242. Type of dress is optional, but a costume designed for the Bicentennial celebration is requested.

South Windsor will bury sludge

The South Windsor Sewer Commission has agreed with the Town Council's suggestion that about 25 tons of sludge at the Vibert Road Treatment Plant be buried.

The decision comes following numerous complaints by groups of residents in the vicinity of the plant that odors from the plant force them indoors on warm summer evenings.

The problem, according to a spokesman for the Sewer Commission, has been caused by "sludge buildup."

The buildup is the result of slow processing of the sludge, due to the malfunctioning of a part in the equipment.

Although the faulty part has been replaced, it would take a long time to burn the 25 tons of sludge - longer than the patience of the odor-plagued Main St. residents.

Officials say it will take about four weeks to bury the sludge. The Department of Environmental Protection has given the green light to bury it.

The Sewer Commission is presently considering modifications at the treatment plant, hopefully to eliminate any further problems. The study is expected to take about three months and could cost in the area of $25,000.

Schools to have surplus

South Windsor
The South Windsor Board of Education may have $13,800 left in its current 1975-76 budget and the money will go to put back some of the controversial cuts the board had to make in this year's budget.

School Supt. Robert Goldman said he will determine the amount of surplus after utility bills are completely paid as well as final teachers' pay due Friday.

Hopefully, the board will be able to put the surplus monies towards high school band uniforms, the leasing of a school department car, ninth grade football jerseys, and a mimeograph machine for Eli Terry School among other things.

Obviously annoyed at the several budget cuts in this year's budget, the school board would like to see the surplus money be used for educational programs and materials, rather than be returned to the Town Council.

Summer Rec plans made

Hebron
The Recreation Commission-sponsored summer program under the direction of Robert Merrifield will begin July 7 at the Hebron Elementary School.

The program runs daily from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and alternates on a weekly basis between the Hebron and Gilead Hill Schools.

Parents must provide transportation to and from the program and should provide a lunch and something to drink for youngsters who will be staying all day.

This year Pam McKeon will assist Merrifield. She will be responsible for the arts and crafts portion of the program.

The program will include sports activities, and arts and crafts. Guest speakers will be invited to give brief presentations.

Anyone wanting more information should call Merrifield.

The commission-sponsored movie program will begin July 7 and run each Wednesday to Aug. 25. It will be held outdoors at the Gilead Hill School. In case of rain the movie will be shown in the school gym.

A minimal fee will be charged to cover the cost of the movie.

He said, "Our students have grown so in mind and body. At times I stand in awe of this process which unites teacher and student and produces a more mature human being."

"The dynamics of people working together toward a common goal is a beauty to behold," Kravet thanked everyone involved, students, school staff, parents, and friends.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If you come up with a remedy for snoring, let me know. I've tried everything. The plastic ear plugs almost punctured my eardrums, and the beeswax ear plugs fell out of my ears and got stuck in my hair. My doctor gave me sleeping pills, but I'm afraid I'll become addicted. Believe it or not, my husband, who is a policeman, is afraid to sleep alone. If I slip out and sleep on the couch, he comes looking for me. This "hero" is 56 years old and has a wife.

DEAR ABBY: You haven't heard snoring until you've heard my little wife snore. She snored it so hard I was recording. We sometimes play it for laughs. She sleeps with her mouth open, so when the racket gets too loud, I just reach over and pinch her nose shut and she quits.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has snored off and on for 33 years, and I would think of trying to cure him. You see, Albert snored only when he has a guilty conscience. After having been kept awake most of the night because he's snored up a storm, I cross-examine him. And sure enough—he's been up to something. Either women or gambling.

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't resist your survey on snoring. My husband is a U.S. congressman, and no one will sleep with him. It is so bad that when he campaigns, no one will sleep with him.

DEAR ABBY: When our family decreased and there was a spare bedroom available, I took it over because my husband's snoring disturbed my sleep. Well, Abby, after five years of my own snoring, I've decided to give it up. I don't, under any circumstances, take a room by yourself. Stuff your ears, put a pillow over your head, take a sleeping pill, but don't leave his bed and don't let him leave yours.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 59-year-old woman. Something dies when a man and his wife quit sleeping together. I can't explain it. It's not sex, either. It's something more important. And once it's gone, you'll never get it back. I know. FOOLISH.

DEAR FOOLISH: A reader once described snoring as "the sweetest music this side of heaven." She was a widow.

Miss Hermine E. Trueb
 ROCKVILLE — Miss Hermine E. Trueb, 82, formerly of 14 West St., died Friday at Rockville General Hospital.

Miss Trueb was born Dec. 5, 1893 in Grunigen, Switzerland, and lived in Rockville since 1923. She was a member of the Apostolic Christian Church of Ellington.

Survivors are a brother, Joseph Trueb of Ellington; and a sister, Mrs. Louise T. Schneider of Rockville.

KofC installation set for Sunday at 3

Dr. Pierre Archambault, District Deputy for District 18 Connecticut Knights of Columbus, will be the installing officer at ceremonies Sunday at Campbell Council.

Council officers for the coming year will be installed at 3 p.m.

A graduate of the College of Holy Cross and the University of Maryland School of Dentistry, Dr. Archambault served in the United States Navy and currently holds the rank of lieutenant commander in the reserve. Long active in civic and fraternal affairs, he is past grand knight of Bolton Council Knights of Columbus, has been named Knight of the Year by the Connecticut State Council Knights of Columbus, and is chairman of the order's statewide health awareness program.

"I am proud to participate in the installation of officers of Campbell Council during its 75th year," Archambault said, "especially since that anniversary coincides with the National Bicentennial Celebration. The Knights of Columbus has always been devoted to the principles of liberty we celebrate this year."

The installation ceremonies will be followed by a brief reception, and the public is invited.

Globe Hollow changes deferred to late fall

Any revisions to Globe Hollow Pool will not occur until at least after Labor Day, according to Manchester Director of Public Works Jay Giles.

The state Department of Health recently made a number of recommendations to the town about improving the quality of the pool's water. These included:

- A redirection of the flow pattern. Water from the Globe Hollow Reservoir now comes down a spillway and flows from south to north through the deep end of the pool. The shallow end remains virtually untouched.

- Redirecting the water from the reservoir through the shallow end would create a better circulation of the pool's water.

- Construction of a high yield well which would guarantee a steady flow-through rate and a constant flow of water to the bubblers located at the shallow end.

- Construction of a collecting chamber at the pond dam. Water collected in this chamber could be chlorinated and pumped through the pool.

- Continuation of regular chlorination periods.

Giles said a "tentative decision" has been made to redirect the flow of water from the Globe Hollow Reservoir. This will require running a pipe from the spillway to the shallow end of the pool.

The pipe would branch out to two or three outlets, Giles said. To install such a pipe would require digging up the lawn and the concrete area at the shallow end of the pond, an action Giles does not want to take during the warm-weather months when the pool is most heavily used.

Agency gives details on rejected requests for school aid grants

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Bond Commission rejected Friday nine school building projects in an admitted move to tell education officials the state will no longer pay for "frills."

The schools had asked for state grants for new carpets, room clocks, movie screens, emergency signs, furniture for principals' offices and teacher lounges and gymnasium doors.

The commission, which supervises the issuance of state bonds for such projects as school construction, said it will reconsider the nine projects when the objectionable parts have been removed.

The panel did approve nearly 60 other school projects in 20 towns, worth $23.9 million.

The state pays 50 per cent of the capital construction costs in school projects worth more than $5,000, but the Bond Commission said equipment such as room clocks can not be considered capital expenditures.

Connecticut has been cracking down on schools that request state funds for "frills," because the state bonded debt, $3 billion, is near its limit and future borrowing will drive up interest rates.

The commission usually does not subscribe the Willimantic Chronicle newspaper, apparently for the cost of legal advertising.

resolved, and the inclusion of the nine items on Friday's agenda signaled an effort to publicize the issue.

The rejected projects amounted to $55,730. Four were in Coventry, two in Berlin and one each in Manchester, Montville and Oxford.

The commission released details of some of the requests turned down and the improper expenses they involved.

—Kensington Grammar School, Berlin, asked for $5,031, including $910 for an audio-visual projecting screen.

—Catherine McGee School in Berlin, asked for $7,385, including $291 for three clocks, $49 for a fire horn; and $610 for a gym partition.

—Lincoln Elementary, Manchester, asked for $14,598 for new carpeting. The old carpet was shifted to another school.

—Capt. Nathan Hale School in Coventry asked for $5,587, including $69 for emergency signs.

—The Robertson School in Coventry asked for $39,576, including about $1,000 for a fire-proof curtain for its auditorium.

—Coventry High School asked for $10,500, including about $40 for a subscription to the Willimantic Chronicle newspaper, apparently for the cost of legal advertising.

Johnny Mercer dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Composer Johnny Mercer, who poured out songs that became popular standards from the 1930s to the 1960s, died Friday of complications from brain surgery last October. He was 66.

Mercer's lyrics moved Americans from the days of "Jeepers, Creepers" to "Autumn Leaves."

He won four Academy Awards, for "Moon River," "The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe," "In the Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening," and "Days of Wine and Roses."

He wrote 1,500 songs and some 75 hits, including "Goodie, Goodie," "That Old Black Magic," "Laura," "Blues in the Night," "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Baby," "The Angels Sing," "Come Rain or Come Shine," "Lazybones" and "One for My Baby."

He leaves a widow, Elizabeth, two children, Amanda and Jeff, and three grandchildren.

Police news

One shoplifting arrest led to another at King's department store last night.

Manchester Police reported that the arrest of Johnny L. Breneman, 30, of 389 Main St. Hartford, was made shortly after 9 p.m. Breneman was charged with taking a pair of men's shoes without paying for them. The value of the shoes was $7.99, according to police.

Police said while they were arresting Breneman, a woman was observed concealing merchandise, and attempting to leave the store without paying for a pair of shoes and women's underwear valued at $12.43. Police arrested Linda Skidgel, 25, who gave the same address as Breneman's.

Both Breneman and Skidgel were charged with fourth-degree larceny and are to appear in court July 12.

Police believe a domestic quarrel was the reason a Manchester woman was found lying in front of 889 Main St. last night.

Shirley Fallon, 22D St. James St., was discovered shortly before 8:30 p.m. She had a cut over her left eye and bumps and bruises, according to police reports. Police said no charges were pressed and the woman did not require hospital care.

A Michigan man, visiting friends in Manchester, told police he had $200-$300 worth of Traveler's checks taken from his pants pocket while he was swimming last night at Globe Hollow. The visitor, Tom Springer, told police the theft took place shortly after 6:30 p.m. yesterday. A cigarette lighter was also taken.

Arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

- Glenn Johnson, 16, 561 Bush Hill Rd., charged with operating under the influence of liquor. Police said Johnson lost control of his auto and collided with a utility pole on the south side of Hackmatack St. at 11:15 p.m. yesterday. There were no injuries to Johnson or the three other passengers in the car.

- Dale F. Judd, 21, 470 Woodbridge St., Apt. 34, charged with evading responsibility and operating without a license. Court date is July 20.

- Amy Wells, 21, 7 Leland Dr., charged with failure to obey a traffic signal after a minor accident near the entrance to the K-Mart parking lot.

- Glenn Spillman, 17, 11 Margery Dr., East Hartford charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) at Marshall's department store. Court date is July 12.

- Barbara E. Birenbaum, 21, 8C Downey Dr., charged with failure to grant right-of-way after a minor accident yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Porter and Willys Streets.

- Edward I. Konarski, 36, 12 McLean St., Rockville charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a reported cigarette machine incident. Court date is July 12.

Bicentennial Relays today and Sunday

By EARL YOST

Athletes from many parts of the East — men, women and children — are headed for Manchester this weekend when the first annual Manchester Community College-sponsored relays, tagged the Bicentennial Relays, are staged today and Sunday at two different sites.

The idea of Christie McCormick, and several years in the planning stages, the Relays will kick off today with a Connecticut Amateur Athletic Union 12-mile (20 kilometer) run and a three-mile run over specially designed courses starting at the college campus off Bidwell St. Competition starts at 1 o'clock.

Sunday the scene shifts to Manchester High's Memorial Field Wigren Track for the biggest track meet in the town's history and one of the biggest ever attempted in New England.

All in all, there will be 22 relays plus 42 individual track and field events in the two-day extravangza.

Many competitors with national reputations, both men and women, will be displaying their talents.

No admission will be charged today but there will be a small admission at Memorial Field where bleachers should be able to accommodate most of the anticipated 5,000 spectators.

Time trials Sunday start at 7:30 a.m. with the finals getting under way at 1 p.m. Competition both days will be staged rain or shine. Pat Mistretta, director of athletics at MCC, is serving as coordinator. Hundreds of hours have gone into the planning and more than 700 athletes have forwarded entries for either or both day's events. It should be a day, or two days, of thrills and excitement for followers of track and field.

Let us put that another way. What we at Charter Oak have for you is Opel Isuzu. A new small import from Buick. And you can have one too, if you come in to see us. That's an Isuzu. CPTV plans Bicentennial shows

Several programs with a Bicentennial flavor have been scheduled for the Fourth of July Weekend on the Connecticut Public Television network.

The specials begin with "Goodbye America" on Saturday, July 3, at 9 p.m. The documentary special, a co-production of the BBC and WNET of New York, dramatizes the events in the British Parliament in May 1776, when debate centered on whether the British should make war or peace with the rebellious American colonists. Robert MacNeil is the host of the program, which will be repeated Sunday, July 4, at 5 p.m. Immediately following "Goodbye America" on July 3, CPTV will present "Live from Wolf Trap," a concert performance by Andre Kostalanetz and the National Symphony Orchestra with Yehudi Menuhin.

The music of American composers is spotlighted on Sunday, July 4, at 3:30 p.m. on "America, America, America." The Mormon Youth Symphony and Chorus performs the music of Stephen Foster, Aaron Copland, John Phillip Sousa and several other American composers in this 90-minute musical special.

Following "Nova" at 8 p.m., "Evening at Pops" begins its seventh season on CPTV. Arthur Fiedler welcomes ballet star Edward Villella in a series of "American Vignettes."

An American hero is profiled at 10 p.m. on Sunday in "A Look at London." Richard Blake portrays the 16th President in a one-man show. After "A Look at Lincoln" at 10:50 p.m., CPTV will broadcast "Eagle," a concert of Sousa marches by the U.S. Coast Guard Band taped on the deck of the Coast Guard training vessel "Eagle" in New London. The concert will include such famous Sousa marches as "The Liberty Bell," "El Capitan," and "The Stars and Stripes Forever." "Eagle" is a production of CPTV.

Case of the Missing Mummy

A modern anthropological mystery story, "The Case of the Missing Mummy," will be seen July 11 at 7 p.m. on the Connecticut Public Television network.

Just 3,500 years ago, the Egyptian courtier Yuya was placed in his golden coffin, waiting to be reborn in the afterworld. But now, Yuya has become vital evidence in a curious and very modern detective story.

Using the advanced post-mortem techniques developed to help police solve murders, Professor Ronald Harrison of Liverpool University hopes to establish new facts about the Pharaohs who ruled Egypt in 1400 B.C. Most of all he hopes that Yuya will help answer a simple but baffling question: "Who was Tutankhamun's mother?"

The documentary records what happens when Yuya's mummy case is lifted off in search of an answer to that question.

Ask Kleiner
By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I heard that John Denver left his wife for Olivia Newton-John. I always thought he was a sweet little country boy, and I can't really picture him doing anything like that. Is it true? — J.H., Redlands, Calif.

It's not true. I saw John and his Annie in town in Los Angeles just last week. But what makes you think "sweet little country boys" never leave their wives for other women?

DEAR DICK: I would like you to settle a bet. Were Jean Harlow and Clark Gable ever married? I say they were, back in the '30s or late '20s. Also was she killed in an accident or not? — Ruby Robb, Kansas City, Kan.

No, Jean was not one of Clark's five wives — Josephine, Rhea, Carole, Sylvia and Kay. There were many rumors about them, but they never actually married. Jean Harlow died in 1937 of an illness, not an accident.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Henry Winkler played or just auditioned for a part in "Westside Story." Also, is his brother playing a part on a TV show, possibly Welcome Back Kotter. — MARY PRIMM, Morgantown, W. Va.

Henry says he neither played in nor auditioned for a part in "Westside Story." And he has no brothers.

DEAR DICK: Will Elton John ever have his own television show? If not, why not? Also, will Lee Majors and Lindsay Wagner ever get married on either The Six Million Dollar Man or The Bionic Woman? — DARYL O'KEEFE, New Glasgow, N.S., Can.

John may have a special from time to time, but probably not his own TV show. He would take a big loss, financially, if he got himself tied down to a TV show — there's much more money in concerts. No plans, at the moment, for a marriage between the Bionic People. It's not impossible, in the future, but there's no need for it now.

DEAR DICK: How about some information about that sweet banjo pickin' gal on Hee Haw, Bonnie Stokland. — PETER VOLLOTTON, Augusta, Ga.

You mean Roni Stoneman, I imagine. She's the 15th of 23 children in the famous (in country music circles) Stoneman Family. She's been on Hee Haw five years now. She's married and has seven children — five of her own, two were her husband's.

DEAR DICK: In the early '30s, Clara Bow made a movie about circus life. I believe Richard Cromwell was also in it. Would you be able to give me the name of said movie? — MRS. A.A., East Detroit, Mich.

That was "Hoopla," which dates from 1933.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me if the person who played "Bob" in the movie, "Come To the Stable," with Loretta Young is the same actor who now plays the role of Jim Matthews on the TV series, "Another World." I say yes, but my family is not convinced. Who is right? — THILDE H. BONEFAS, Hagerstown, Md.

You're right, as usual. The cast list for the '49 film, "Come To the Stable," lists the part of Robert Mason played by Hugh Marlowe, and Marlowe plays Matthews on "Another World."

TV plans big birthday party

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three television networks will be singing "Happy Birthday" to the United States of America on July 4 as they train their cameras on sailboats in New York, rodeos and "powwows" in the west and a Chicano festival in Los Angeles.

All three networks will be turning over a lot of airtime to their news departments.

CBS runs from 8 a.m. to midnight with Walter Cronkite at the helm of an all-day and half the night program called "In Celebration of US."

NBC will run an 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. extravaganza called "The Glorious Fourth," to be followed after an hour of local access time by three hours of prime time entertainment, topped off by a final Bicentennial news hour 10-11 p.m.

ABC will take a different route. Just as it departs from its brethren by not providing gavel-to-gavel coverage of the presidential nominating conventions, so it will provide more limited — but it hopes rewarding — coverage of the Bicentennial Fourth of July.

Max Von Sydow and Liv Ullmann star in "The New Land," ABC-TV's Bicentennial movie July 4 at 8 p.m.

ABC will come on with three one-hour segments of Bicentennial programming on the part of the news department — one in the morning, a second in the afternoon, and finally a wrap-up from 10-11 p.m.

It also will show three hours of special entertainment programming during the 7-10 p.m. segment.

During the day all three networks will be covering some of the more obvious Bicentennial events, including the more than 200 sailing ships that will swing into New York harbor, the festivities at the Washington, D.C., Mall, the ringing of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia and President Ford's address there, the landing of the Viking spacecraft on Mars.

Other events all three networks probably will cover will be a folk festival in Washington, D.C., and a showboat setting sail from St. Louis, Mo.

On a network-by-network basis, here's what to expect, starting with the longest Bicentennial day, the one at CBS:

Charles Kuralt, who does those splendid "On The Road" reports for the network, will be handling the report on Operation Sail.

Hughes Rudd and Sylvia Chase will be on and off during the day with an "Almanac" of American history.

Charles Osgood will meet a wagon train that has worked its way through all 50 states when it arrives at Valley Forge, Pa., to stage its own musical. Alistair Cooke anchoring a British celebration of America's Bicentennial.

CBS Anchorman Walter Cronkite hosts the network's all-day U.S. Birthday coverage on July 4.

Other events to be covered include a tribute to Louis Armstrong from New Orleans, where he was born on July 4; an Indian powwow in Carnegie, Okla., and an ecumenical religious service, "One Nation Under God," live, from Miami.

NBC News plans on reaching more than 50 locations during its "Glorious Fourth" coverage. Aside from those events that all the networks are covering, NBC will try to show how Americans are celebrating together.

That includes Atlanta's "Salute to America" parade, the reading of the Declaration of Independence in Boston by a descendant of one of the signers, sunrise at Grand Canyon, an Indian powwow and ceremonial dance at Flagstaff, Ariz., a riverside concert of American music from Fort Worth, Tex., and the Mexican-American festival, with the parade of 1,000 flags, at The Alamo at San Antonio, Tex.

After an hour's recess for local programs, the network will resume with Paul Anka and his family hosting a 7-8:30 p.m. "Happy Birthday America," a pageant whose cast includes 6,000 students and assorted celebrities from two astronauts to Evel Knievel.

Then comes a 90-minute Bob Hope salute to the Bicentennial, with special guests Sammy Davis Jr., Debbie Reynolds, and Donnie and Marie Osmond, to be followed by a final hour wrap-up of the Bicentennial celebration.

ABC has a special problem, because it is trying to combine high spot live coverage with packaged material in three hour-long segments.

"The final segment definitely will be from 10-11 p.m.," said Arthur Holch, executive producer of "ABC News Goes To The Great American Birthday Party."

"That's the only segment in which we can be sure of the time. In the first hour — the morning hour — somewhere in the middle we want to pick up President Ford live making his remarks in front of Independence Hall in Philadelphia. We think we'll be on the air from 11-noon, but it might be earlier, depending on the beginning of Ford's morning address.

"In the second hour, we would like to feature that part of Operation Sail and the International Naval Review where the senior reviewing officer — which we assume will be President Ford — will be aboard the USS Wainwright.

In the evening ABC will present an hour-long evocation of the Old and New West from 7-8 p.m., narrated by Chad Everett, Henry Fonda and Buffy Sainte-Marie.

It will be followed by "The New Land," the second of a two-part series starring Liv Ullmann and Max Von Sydow, in the tale of a pioneering Swedish emigrant family, which settled in the Minnesota Territory in the 1800s.

There aren't many 'one-day-only' stamps

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

There can't be many one-day-only stamps. The one in the middle was good for postage in Trinidad on September 18, 1914 — and that was it. The proceeds of a half-penny each ("One Fraction") went to the Red Cross. A cover with a nicely tied-on stamp is cataloged by Scott at $85, Minkus, a hundred. The stamp naked and unused is only $7.50 to $9.

Stamps and coins

It is interesting (to me at least) to compare the treatment of this unusual bit of paper by the five leading world-wide catalogs.

First of all, Stanley Gibbons of London, who should be expected to expound on it the most, has not one word even though it came from a British colony.

Scott says "This sea was allowed to pay 1/2p postage on one day, Sept. 18, 1914." They call it a semi-postal and give it a number — B1. (The ones flanking it are B2 and B3).

Minkus indicates that it is a "non-issued stamp of philatelic significance" by their designation N128. They do not give the month and day or the restriction — just the year.

The Michel catalog out of Berlin and Munich assigns it no number but they do show the exact date it appeared. And they enlarge our scope by referring us to Grenada Nr61. This leads to a very similar stamp by that country which surely must have had the same printer, only instead of the very vague "One Fraction" it says "One Farthing."

The Grenada stamp is not shown in Gibbons, Scott or Minkus.

The fifth major catalog in our survey is the Yvert & Tellier, Paris. They show the Trinidad piece and give it number 81. There is no reference, as in Michel, to the Grenada look-alike, but if you do turn to the Grenada pages, there it is.

This belabors the point very well except for non-collectors, idly perusing this page on the way to the TV section, that might wonder how a stamp is tied onto a cover. It does not involve anything like a pink ribbon and a teapot lid. A cover here means an envelope or card that went through the mails. When a stamp is "tied" the postmark overlaps both the stamp and the envelope, assuring that they were not joined by trickery.

Still buzzing

Local stamp people are still buzzing with the experiences of the nine-day Interphil — the crowds, the 125 dealer booths, the exhibits beyond belief. It is said that there were $250 million worth of stamps on display.

A clerk at the Sheraton hotel (400 Interphil rooms) reported that the foreign language mix in the lobby broke all records.

In the face of this world-wide competition, two exhibits by Manchester Philatelic Society members brought away prizes. Ed Bushnell got a vermeil medal (gold plate on silver) for his "19th Century Domestic Registered Mail"; Chuck and Betsy Berry got a bronze for a display of Christmas Seals, Bonds, and Booklets.

The USPS did all right, too, as they sold a million dollars worth of stamps the first day.

Good-looking

At last — a good-looking nurse stamp is in the works. The 13-cent to honor Clara Maass will have a first day at Belleville, N.J. on Aug. 18. Members of the profession have withheld their praise for the 1961, Scott 1190, because it doesn't look like a real person.

Something to do

For somewhere to go tomorrow: Try the Fourth Sunday Stamp Show at the Holiday Inn, Danbury (Exit 8, I-84). This is sponsored by the Connecticut Stamp Dealers' Association. Hours, 10 to 5. Free admission and parking.

Delightfully off center

Gene Wilder has been established by his eerie humor and attained stardom as the wacky Waco Kid in "Blazing Saddles." He is delightfully off center in person as he is on the screen.
