Balloon hunt is on

It's up, up and away for these balloons which Gail White of the Manchester Recreation Department is handing out to a crowd of waiting children. The colored balloons were sent off last Thursday at 2 p.m. from Charter Oak Park, with a card listing the sender's name and address inside each balloon. The child whose balloon travels the most miles by July 23 will win a prize from Top Notch Super Market as will the finder of the balloon. This is the second annual Balloons To The Moon contest sponsored by the rec department. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Affirmation action plan before directors tonight

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors is expected to accept an affirmative action plan for Manchester at its meeting tonight in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room at 7:30 p.m. At least five members of the board have said they will probably vote the plan.

The plan maps out steps to be taken to increase the number of women and minority group members hired by the town.

Manchester has been under pressure from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to adopt some type of affirmative action plan.

The plan up for approval tonight says, "The under-utilization of minorities (in Manchester) is apparent in all positions." Of 456 town employees, 96, or 21%, are women, and three, or .65%, are minority-group members.

The Hartford labor market, in which Manchester is grouped, has a work force made up of 39.9% women and 8.6% minorities.

The plan notes that the town does have a low rate of turnover with little future expansion expected, meaning "a moderate amount of hiring within the next few years." Thus, the lack of female and minority employees cannot be eliminated overnight, but must be done over a number of years.

Because of this, the plan establishes three time period goals:

- An "immediate goal" to review recruitment and selection procedures and try to attract more women and minority applicants.
- An "intermediate goal" of "significant movement" toward the figures of employment women and minorities now have in the Hartford labor market. The plan proposes this be accomplished by July 1980.
- A "long-range goal" where the percentage of women and minorities employed by Manchester "reflects their percentage in the labor market." The plan suggests this be done by July 1984.

The plan also offers suggestions on ways of eliminating possible discrimination. This includes review of job specifications for any bias, removal of any unnecessary restrictions upon applicants and a review of present testing procedures used for screening job candidates.

For increased recruitment, the plan suggests minority community agencies be notified of job openings, as should placement officers at minority and women's offices.

Assistant Town Manager Charles F. McCarthy Jr. would not predict what action the board will take.

Rehabilitation loan fund administrator proposed

Manchester's Board of Directors is being asked to approve hiring of a new individual to administer a planned revolving loan fund for housing rehabilitation.

The new position, recommended by Community Development Coordinator Alan Mason and the Community Development Advisory Committee, will be considered by directors when they meet tonight at 7:30 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Proposals for the loan fund, to be financed by federal Community Development block grants, are aimed at "rejuvenating existing neighborhoods by eliminating and/or preventing blighting influences, that if left unchecked would eventually turn the neighborhood into an unhealthy place to live," according to Mason.

In a June 23 memo to town directors, Mason said the loan fund program, and an updated housing code, should be adopted by the Board of Directors by mid-September.

Mason said coordination of the loan program and housing code enforcement is essential, and a qualified individual should be hired to ad-

Settle down for next 200 years

America stages unparalleled Bicentennial extravaganza

By United Press International

For three days, Americans celebrated the 200th anniversary of their freedom. They sang it, paraded it and wrote it in fire in the night skies. Today, they settled down to begin the next 200 years.

Parades and fireworks displays in scattered cities and towns Monday night capped a weekend of unparalleled patriotic extravaganzas.

But about 1,500 unhappy Bicentennial wagoners had enough of Valley Forge and many left Monday, complaining that facilities were inadequate. Organizers at Valley Forge, where Washington's troops suffered privation, disease and bitter cold 200 years ago, say 3,000 wagoners - 1,000 more than expected - showed up. They said they ran out of food once - on Saturday night - and that they had complaints about toilet facilities and food for the horses that drew the wagons from all 50 states.

President Ford Monday told 105 new citizens from 23 countries at Thomas Jefferson's Monticello estate in Virginia "there is still something wonderful about being an American."

At Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., the Bicentennial weekend concluded with the re-enactment of Revolutionary War battles by costumed soldiers.

Dire warnings of radical violence that haunted Fourth of July party preparations in historic Philadelphia proved unwarranted. The only mess the city was cleaning up was the usual one, left in the wake of happy celebrants.

Bottle-throwing incidents Monday in a crowd of 200,000 gathered for a Bicentennial parade at Bristol, R.I., left several persons injured and several arrested and cut short the parade.

In Kansas City, the Shriners - 60,000 strong turned the streets into a carnival with a seven-hour parade. The event was the largest of its kind in the city's history and the Shriners planned to repeat the show on Thursday.

But perhaps one of the best expressions of the American spirit came in message of Bicentennial congratulations from 14 political prisoners who said they were being held in labor camps in the Soviet Union.

Supreme Court to decide welfare-abortion issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide in a Connecticut case whether a state may refuse to pay for elective abortions for women on welfare.

Attorney General Carl R. Ajello appealed after a special three-judge federal court in New Haven required the payments.

The court will hear the case next fall or winter and decide it by written opinion.

The panel rejected as "simply contrary to undisputed facts" that the state is saving money by refusing to fund Medicaid abortions. It said they cost far less than childbirth.

The opinion said the only other reason for a refusal would be that the state might find the practice "morally objectionable." It pointed out that the Supreme Court has said women have a constitutional right to an abortion.

"To sanction such a justification would be to permit discrimination against those seeking to exercise a constitutional right on the basis that the state simply does not approve," the opinion said.

It rejected as "groundless" state concern that it will be obligated to pay for all elective procedures such as cosmetic surgery. They are not constitutional rights, the opinion said.

In addition the panel struck down a requirement that welfare women must have a doctor's certificate saying the abortion is medically necessary.

"No state regulation of Medicaid payments for abortions performed in the first trimester of pregnancy can impose conditions or requirements that are not equally applicable to Medicaid payments for childbirth, if such conditions or requirements tend to discourage a woman from choosing an abortion or to delay the occurrence of an abortion that she has asked her physician to perform," the opinion said.

In his appeal, Ajello said the state is not focusing on either pregnancy or abortion but upon medical services medically necessary. It said the program excluded all unnecessary medical care, including prenatal or postnatal care.

Barry seeks re-election to Connecticut Senate

State Sen. David M. Barry of Manchester, announced today his candidacy for re-nomination and re-election from the Fourth District. The Democratic convention to nominate a candidate will be in Manchester July 21.

Barry said that he is willing to be judged by the people of this district on his legislative record and his continuing commitment to those causes of special concern with which he has been associated. These include the improvement of the juvenile justice system, the toughening of penalties for the use of guns in the commission of crimes, the improvement of psychiatric facilities for adolescents and the expansion of benefits for the elderly and for veterans.

Barry is chairman of the State Juvenile Justice Commission which will be recommending new legislation to the 1977 session of the General Assembly.

He was the author of the law passed last year that requires the imposition of a non-suspendable one-year sentence for the commission of certain crimes involving the use of firearms.

Barry was one of the early advocates of tax relief for the elderly and co-sponsored the tax freeze legislation in the 1967 session.

He chaired the committee that produced the Vietnam Veterans Bonus Act and co-sponsored a law passed in 1975 that permitted more World War I veterans, or their widows, to receive their World War I bonus.

In 1969, he was chairman of the committee that produced legislation providing for a referendum to give 18 year olds the right to vote, which right he strongly supported in the Senate.

From 1970 to 1972, Barry served as vice chairman of the state Advisory Council on Aging.

During his present term, Barry has been chairman of the Senate Executive Nominations Committee, vice chairman of the Judiciary Committee and a member of the Committee on Public Personnel and Military Affairs. He resigned from the Judiciary Committee in May because he felt that it would have been a conflict of interest for him to vote on the bill to merge the Superior Court with the Court of Common Pleas.

Barry served as state representative from Manchester in the 1959 session and was elected to the Senate in 1966, 1968 and 1974. He did not seek re-election in 1970 or 1972.

A graduate of Trinity College and Boston University Law School, he practices law in Manchester where he resides with his wife and five children.

Declaration's delivery by postrider highlights Hartford festivities

By United Press International
 Maj. Everett Kandarian of the Governor's Horse Guard completed his Bicentennial re-enactment by delivering the Declaration of Independence to Connecticut amid music, musket fire and merriment.
 Kandarian, ending a journey that began last Tuesday in Philadelphia, Monday galloped to the Hartford Courant, where he delivered a copy of the declaration and was greeted by a cheering crowd of about 2,800 persons.
 It was one of a score of Bicentennial ceremonies, fireworks displays and concerts on the weekend calendar as the Nutmeg State joined the rest of the country in celebrating the nation's 200th birthday.
 In addition to the bands, gunfire and balloons that appeared everywhere at Kandarian's arrival, American flags were prominently displayed and youths dressed in colonial garb distributed copies of the edition of the Courant that announced the declaration.
 The Courant is the oldest continuously published newspaper in the United States.
 Kandarian said between blowing his horn and shouting "happy birthday" during his trip he had heard most of his voice and had become hoarse.

Foundation creates free press award

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new national award to recognize newspapers contributing "outstanding public service in the cause of the First Amendment guarantee of a free press" has been announced by the Scripps-Howard Foundation.
 The foundation sponsors several other awards for U.S. journalism excellence and a scholarship program for outstanding college journalism students.
 In announcing the award, Matt Meyer, foundation president, said entries "may reflect service to the First Amendment in one or more of a variety of ways: fighting the growing threat of censorship in America, overcoming public uneasiness with regard to press credibility, combatting government secrecy at all levels, and instilling in the public an appreciation of its need as well as its right to know as guaranteed by the First Amendment."
 Entries must be submitted by Feb. 1, 1977, for work done during 1976.
 Judges will be Leon Jaworski of Houston, the former Watergate special prosecutor and former president of the American Bar Association; Frederick W. Beaton, president of United Press International; Keith Fuller, president-designate of The Associated Press; Clayton Kirtland, editor of the Chicago Tribune; and Harold Anderson, publisher of the Omaha World-Herald.

Six die in accidents during long holiday

By United Press International
 Thousands of people spent the final day of the holiday weekend at Connecticut beaches. But for some the weekend ended in tragedy, as at least six persons died in accidents.
 Russell Kingsbury, 67, of Redding, was killed Monday when his red, white and blue glider crashed at Black Rock State Park in Waterbury.
 The single-seat glider was flying over the park when it nosedived at 3 p.m., according to eyewitnesses. He was flying from the Connecticut Soaring Center at Mt. Tobe Airport in Plymouth.
 State police said traffic Monday was light to moderate, during the weekend they made 1,000 traffic arrests, including 700 for speeding. Police issued 600 speeding warnings. They reported 126 accidents on major roads and more than 45 injuries, none serious. The state's fatalities came on secondary roads.
 A record crowd of 800 cars crammed up the area of Lake McDonough in Barhamstead, resulting in a number of parking violation arrests. Elsewhere, officials said 15,000 attended Hammonasset Beach in Madison Monday.
 There were 9,500 beachgoers in Rocky Neck State Park in East Lyme Monday, and 7,165 at Ocean Beach Park in New London, for a weekend total at that beach of 33,777. Last year's July 4th attendance was 22,115.
 Those killed on the highways since the weekend started Friday at 6 p.m. included Terrion A. Gahura, 21, of Coltraville, Chertly A. Fiorillo of Orlando, Fla., Craig T. Johnson, 18, of Middletown, David Leason, 24, of East Hartford, and Linda Ritter, 23, of New London.
 Three of them, Gahura, Johnson and Leason, were killed in motorcycle accidents.
 Gahura was killed at 6:55 p.m. Sunday when his motorcycle smashed into a car in New Britain.
 Miss Fiorillo was killed when the car she was riding in left the road and hit a utility pole in Plymouth at about 6:30 p.m. Sunday.
 Johnson died at about 1 a.m. Sunday from injuries he incurred in a Middletown accident.
 Leason was killed Saturday at 7:30 p.m. when his motorcycle and a car collided in East Hartford.
 A two-car accident on the Military Highway in Groton resulted in the death of Ms. Ritter, a passenger, at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Italian Tall Ship crew hosted by Gov. Grasso

HARTFORD — Gov. Ella Grasso hosted 24 crew members from the Italian entry in the Bicentennial Tall Ships event.
 The group lunched with the governor and a group of Italian-American residents at the governor's Prospect Street mansion.
 "I always see the sea towns," said Commandante Manuel Didonato, "So I catch any opportunity to view the provinces."
 Mrs. Grasso responded, "Oh, we're the provinces. So we're the hinterland to you."
 Didonato is training commander of the San Giorgio, one of Italy's two naval destroyers which were part of the armada in New York harbor Saturday.
 He brought Naval cadets, ranging in age from 16 to 20, with him to Hartford. They spend three months a year at sea and attend Italy's naval academy the rest of the year.
 The group included men from the Amerigo Vespucci — said to be the most authentic man-of-war fighting ship in the parade — and another Italian destroyer, the Stella Polare.
 The governor spoke Italian to the cadets, who spoke little English.
 Before visiting Mrs. Grasso, the cadets walked around downtown Hartford and said they were impressed with its cleanliness, compared to New York city.
 The national chairman of the American Committee on Italian Migration, Melina Blesso, organized the Hartford visit.
 The San Giorgio will remain in New York until Friday, then sail to Quebec and back to Italy in the fall.

Bridgeport man shot to death

NEW YORK (UPI) — Timothy Fenton, 20, visiting from Bridgeport, Conn., was shot to death in an East Harlem apartment, police said.
 Police said the victim was shot once in the head Monday by one of two men who entered a basement apartment at 53 E. 130 St. and demanded money.
 Police said Fenton, who was with three companions, apparently tried to resist the robbers and was shot to death. The suspects then robbed Fenton's companions of their wallets, police said, and fled on foot.
 Fenton was taken to Harlem Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.
 The amount of money taken was not immediately known. There have been no arrests.

Meals-on-Wheels now under way

BARBARA RICHMOND
 Herald Reporter
 The Meals-on-Wheels program, sponsored by the Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc. started today by delivering meals to 10 elderly and homebound persons.
 The program is being funded by the town and the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving with each providing $100 grants.
 The program was to have started sooner but was delayed first because of the lack of funds and more recently while awaiting proper containers to deliver the meals.
 Meals are being prepared in the kitchen at Manchester Memorial Hospital. They include hot dinner and a cold lunch, each day. Mrs. Hyalie Hurwitz, executive director of the Homemaker Service, said it is expected the program will eventually expand to serve about 50 persons.

 Clients pay for the meals on a sliding scale according to their ability, up to $3.50 per day. Food stamps will be accepted as payment.
 The containers are specially insulated and made of styrofoam. They will keep the hot meals at a temperature required by health laws. The cold lunches will be in separate containers.
 Meals will be delivered by volunteers. The small number of persons being served at the start, is in part, due to the delay in starting the program. Mrs. Hurwitz said some persons who previously signed up have since moved or passed away or decided not to participate.

Rep. Giaino urges another judge for Connecticut federal courts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Robert Giaino, D-Conn., says he doesn't want to take a chance Connecticut

U.S. District Court judge. Giaino has urged the House Judiciary Committee and chairman Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., to include another federal judge in legislation being prepared that would allow more federal judges.

Connecticut has four federal judges. Giaino said his effort was directed at making sure the House passed the bill giving Connecticut the extra judge approved.

The Senate earlier this month passed its version of the bill which would give the state another judge.

 Dear Frank, May I add my "ditto" to your statement: NO "PRIDE" IN SUNDAY OPENING! Agreeably it does erode the quality of life by infringing on the privacy and sanctity of the home. It interferes with family living by denying members a deserved day of leisure as well as one's right to worship as one chooses. It totally immerses society in a materialistic, greedy cut-de-see. Opinion
There's food in our future

A typical dinner around the turn of the century might very well include the following:
Appetizer — Fresh algae-fed oysters from a sea farm.
Entrée — Chicken à la analog, made of 100 per cent spun soy protein.
Vegetables — Mixed almonds on a bed of single-cell protein.
Dessert — Trilicate cake, baked with flour from a hybrid of wheat and rye.

Underground tile systems which will not only drain fields, but irrigate, carry supplemental oxygen to plant roots and act as guides for automatic farm equipment.
For the near future, however, the world is going to continue to depend upon traditional farms and traditional foods, and here, too, the current outlook is encouraging, says Don Paarlberg, agricultural economics director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.
Among the reasons he cites: Rain has returned to drought-plagued areas of Africa, food-deficient countries have improved their foreign-exchange position, fertilizer is less expensive, higher prices have stimulated investment in farms and more money is going into agricultural research, education and capital improvement.

According to two other agricultural authorities, the world's wheat supply in the next 10 years "is expected to exceed the realistic world demand by a wide margin."
Specifically, wheat production in 1985 is projected at 570 million metric tons, say professors Henry B. Arthur of Harvard Business School and Gail L. Cramer of Montana State University, writing in the Harvard Business Review. This compares with a projected total consumption of 447 million metric tons — including 108 million tons of live livestock feed — leaving a surplus or carryover of 123 million metric tons.
The real problem in feeding the world's hungry, the authors contend, is not agricultural but economic. "We will never reach the point where we have no food problems. But we do believe that new and persistent world food shortages are not an inevitable prospect for a foreseeable period."

Anyway, there are always those "mixed analogs."
Agricuture experts, in fact, see a future of unprecedented bounty, says Industry Week magazine — but only if the politicians leave agriculture and the markets free of unnecessary regulation, and only if our presently wasteful methods of growing, harvesting and distributing food are drastically changed.
Not only will the food we eat be different in 1999, but the farms the food is grown on are as likely to be as different from today's farms as today's farms are from the horse-and-plow farms of the pioneers.
Some predictions:
— Farms laid out in narrow strips spanned by moving "bridges" which will be programmed to cultivate, seed, irrigate, weed and harvest any kind of crop. The farmer will ride in a cab on the bridge.
— "No till" systems in which seeds are planted with drills, leaving the stubble of the old crop undisturbed and saving water, soil, fuel, labor and fertilizer.

Today's thought
While the spectacular colors, the crackling noises, and the smell of spent rockets is still fresh, reflect with me on some meanings for our national celebration.
O Beautiful for Spacious Skies
O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties about the fruited plain!
America! America! God shed his grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.
Each one of us has at least one favorite picture of our country's natural beauty. It is a vision that arouses deep and powerful feelings of awe and thoughts of almost unimaginable magnificence. Before such beauty we are overcome with a sense of gratitude. "Look what I have been given, with no thought for whether I deserved it or not. Shared with me as a gift."

Social Security's built-in insecurity

WASHINGTON — It's been well advertised that Social Security faces a financial crisis in the years ahead as benefits rates are increased sharply, or benefits reduced.

Ray Cromley

Congress who prepared and pushed the benefit calculations. In essence, percentage increases to compensate for inflation were applied to figures already increased in line with inflation.

What's gone virtually unnoticed is an even more serious defect, according to testimony given the Joint Economic Committee of Congress by Martin Feldstein of Harvard University.

The problem: Social Security does not invest its money and therefore earns no interest or dividends on what labor and management pay in. Private pension plans, which can and do invest, increase the assets of those workers covered.

Today, this discrepancy isn't much talked about, because those now retired get more in Social Security benefits than they paid in taxes — possible because the government dips into what you and I pay today to finance those already retired.

But paying out more than has been paid in cannot continue forever.
Eventually, says Feldstein, well-run private pension funds, their assets increased with dividends and interest on capital, will have the means to pay out higher returns on what's been paid in than will Social Security. Unless the government dips into the general Treasury funds.

Somewhat soiled Great White Hope

Tom Tiede

FLORESVILLE, Tex. — The autumn's presidential campaign will undoubtedly be the penultimate in history. There will be James Earl Carter on the one side, likely. And on the other, if folks here in the goober capital of Texas get their wish, will be John Bowden Connally, the local legend who may be the best vice-presidential material the Republican party has had in this country.

It's not a bad thing, considering the mood of the electorate. Jimmy Carter could get the Jesus vote, John Connally the patriotic. At least that way there would be a contest. And the wretched GOP could offer the voters something more than Presidential night.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Had a fabulous three-day holiday weekend before last. It was my 39th birthday again, so at work we got a day off for our birthday. Nice huh?

Well, my daughter, her friend Diane, and I went to a great motor inn which has an indoor and an outdoor swimming pool.

It's the Hospitality Motor Inn in Enfield (just next to the Springfield, Mass. line) and it's super.

After we settled into our room on Saturday, the girls, naturally, had to "check the place out."

They soon popped back into the room all excited.

"Guess who we just saw in the hall," they said. "Paul Lynde."

I said, "Are you sure?" They were POSITIVE.

Well, it sounded possible, since I had read that he was appearing at the Storowton Theatre in West Springfield. I remembered seeing him on "Hollywood Squares" and "The Paul Lynde Show" on television.

So, with the reporter's blood starting to surge through my veins, I promptly called down to the front desk and asked the clerk for Mr. Lynde's room number. Of course, they screen calls to celebrities quite well, so I hastily added that it was in regard to an interview.

The clerk said, "He's in Room 502, but he's out by the pool right now."

That was an important bit of information since we were in Room 512. With pen in hand, I quickly scribbled him a note (never mind the contents) enclosed my card and tipped quietly down the hall and slipped the note under his door. "Just like in the movies, h'mmm?"

You know what happened next, I bet. You're right, I lapped for the pool—and to behold there he was in the flesh (actually he was wearing a red, white and blue bathing suit) and looking tan and terrific.

My second thoughts told me not to rush into a meeting, so I casually sauntered to a lounge across from where he was reclining.

I suppose I should have done something dramatic, like fall into the pool with my clothes on and wait to see if he'd jump in to save me.

The thought passed and I kept an eye on him while others who had recognized him approached him for an autograph. It was difficult but I resisted the impulse to follow suit.

By now, my ladies and I had abandoned me and were busy swimming and eyeing an attractive young diver. Ah, youth.

After an hour or so, I noticed the object of my attention was preparing to leave. That did it. I couldn't let him escape; so I did it.

I walked up to him and asked if he would grant me an interview when he had time. (You have to say that, they stars) don't like being rushed.

He was very agreeable, and said he would poolside Sunday and perhaps we could chat then.

Sunday rolled around and as I prepared to approach him at the promised interview, who should appear but Mimi Heinz. She's that zany, attractive, skinny, comedienne who is appearing with him at the Storowton.

She's very attractive, but I didn't care much for her G-string bikini. Punny, all the fellows did.

Well, unwanted, I finally seated myself beside Paul (he said I could call him by his first name) and we talked.

Well, it seems he's just tickled with his new show. He was a little apprehensive at first, but that's the pool—and to behold there he was music—I mean the audience. "The people here have just been wonderful," he said puffing away on one of those long, chocolate-colored cigarettes.

An attractive man, he's really better looking in person than he appears on television. And he is no where near as nutty, although he does seem to be a nervous man.

Course with someone strolling by in a G-string bikini, I guess anyone would be nervous.

When I asked which one of his lines from his television show he felt was a real audience-pleaser he said, "the one where I come home from work and my wife meets me and says 'how's the rat race,' and I reply 'I think the rats are winning.'"

We didn't get to talk too long because some little diver grazed the board as he headed for the water and a couple of the men nearby dove in to aid him. He was just shaken up, but then so were the rest of us, so I thanked Paul for his time, etc.

Ge. I wonder if he'll recognize me when I watch him on "Hollywood Squares." When he gives one of those extra big grins, it'll probably be for me.

Bullough-Pfisch

Linda Irene Pfisch of Salt Lake City, Utah, formerly of Manchester, and Steven Gary Bullough of Salt Lake City were married June 19 at the Church of the Assumption in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Francis S. Pfisch of 71 Grant Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary A. Bullough of Livonia, Mich.

The Rev. Paul Trinque of the Church of the Assumption performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with yellow gladioli and marguerites.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Francis S. Pfisch Jr. of Bolton, wore a white organza gown trimmed with Chantilly lace and seed pearls and designed with lace bodice, ruffled edged neckline, Bishop sleeves with lace cuffs, highrize waistline, lace outlined panel front, with full circular skirt extending to a chapel train. She wore a chapel-length mantilla of silk illusion bordered with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, white miniature carnations, yellow sweetheart roses, and baby's breath.

Miss Katherine Maloney of Haddon served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Laurie Pfisch of Bolton, the bride's sister-in-law; Chitcey Balesano and Michele Watrous, both of Manchester; and Katherine Marshall and S. Gale DiPlavio, both of Salt Lake City.

Margy J. Bullough of Livonia, the bridegroom's sister, was flower girl. Jeffrey Rudack of Salt Lake City served as best man. Ushers were Tom Greene and Brian Ellison, both of Salt Lake City; Mark Goyer of Livonia; and Ray and John Pfisch, both of Manchester and brothers of the bride. Mark Pfisch of Bolton, the bride's nephew, served as ring bearer.

A reception was held at Mama Mia's in Manchester, after which the couple left on a motor trip of New England. They will reside in Salt Lake City.

Mrs. Bullough is employed as a customer service representative for XL Equipment Co. in Salt Lake City. Mr. Bullough is currently attending the University of Utah at Salt Lake City.

Wedding

Kissman-Pearl

Karen Walters Pearl and Wayne Albert Kissman, both of Manchester, were married July 2 at Emanuel Lutheran Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Walters of the Masonic Home and Hospital in Wallingford, and Edward Walter of 83 Main St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kissman of 310 Charter Oak St.

The Rev. Ronald J. Fornier of Emanuel Lutheran Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Miss Winn Lumpkin was organist.

The bride wore a pale blue dotted Swiss gown trimmed with lace and carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies, white carnations, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Paul Kissman of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, served as matron of honor. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Pearl and Miss Victoria Pearl, both of Manchester, and daughters of the bride.

Paul Kissman of Manchester was his brother's best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride. The couple will live in Manchester.

minister the program when it is adopted.

Mason said an alternative to hiring new staff would be to contract with a consulting firm or a specialist for the service.

Mason said the advisory committee has strongly recommended hiring an administrator but the committee hasn't discussed the alternative.

Two other towns planning similar loan programs — Bloomfield and Vernon — have found it necessary to hire administrators, Mason said.

Details of the loan program haven't yet been decided, Mason said. Among the unanswered questions is whether the federal money will be used to subsidize interest costs or for actual loans.

Other undecided details include the areas of town which would be eligible for the program, the interest rates, maximum amounts of loans, restrictions on what loans could be used for, whether loans would be made to absentee landlords, whether the loans would be secured, a possible link to rent controls, and the role of local banks.

Affirmative Action

tonight. He did say, "Affirmative action isn't a novel, extreme or bizarre approach to equality in the work place. It's the misunderstanding of affirmative action that menaces people."

The Board of Directors and the Human Relations Commission had been at odds concerning the monitoring of an affirmative action plan.

McCarthy said that sessions between the two groups helped clarify a number of points about affirmative action. "No member of the board is going to feel menaced by affirmative action," McCarthy said.

HUD's demands that Manchester adopt an affirmative action plan came to a peak on June 25, the day the town received a $30,000 community development block grant from the federal agency.

In announcing the grant, Thompson wrote to the town and asked for an affirmative action plan to be submitted to the HUD office in Hartford within 90 days.

The Board of Directors earlier rejected an HUD suggestion to hire an equal opportunity coordinator for housing. Instead the town offered a three-part proposal: 1) The town would adopt an affirmative action plan. 2) The Human Relations Commission would assume direct responsibility for handling complaints on housing and employment discrimina-

Fidrych all-star pitcher

NEW YORK (UPI) - Rookie sensation Mark Fidrych of the Tigers, whose boyish enthusiasm and antics on the field have already made him a household word in Detroit, was one of nine pitchers chosen by Boston Manager Darrell Johnson today to pitch for the American League in the 47th All-Star game at Philadelphia next Tuesday night. Johnson went against the usual practice of picking mostly starting pitchers by naming three relievers to the staff, thus bypassing Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer of Baltimore and Pat Dobson of Cleveland, both 10-game winners, as well as Gaylord Perry of Texas (8) and Wayne Garland of Baltimore (9-1 with 2.5 ERA). Along with the 21-year-old Fidrych, who leads the league with a 1.96 earned run average and has posted a 9-1 record, Johnson selected starters Bill Travers (9-8) of Milwaukee, Luis Tiant (10-5) of Boston, Jim "Calish" Hunter (10-7) of New York, Frank Tanana (10-5) of California and Rich Gossage (5-6) of Chicago along with relievers Dave LaRoche (8-2) of Cleveland, Spáky Lyle (5-4) of New York and Rottie Fingers (4-5) of Oakland. Fidrych, Travers, Tanana and LaRoche will be making their first All-Star appearances. Hunter, on the other hand, was named for the eighth time; Fingers and Tiant for the third time and Gossage and Lyle for the second time. A hypertensive youngster, who talks to the baseball and openly cheers his teammates from the field, Fidrych gained national attention by stopping the Yankees on seven hits, 5-1, on ABC-TV's Game of the Week at Detroit on Monday, June 28. The regular starting lineup for the American League will be released Thursday morning by the baseball commissioner's office and the AL reserves will be announced Friday afternoon. Pitchers for the National League squad will be released Wednesday morning with the starting NL team released Thursday afternoon and the NL reserves named Friday morning.

Martin protests loss

NEW YORK (UPI) - Very little escapes the eagle eye of Billy Martin. The New York Yankees' manager, who will do practically anything to get the upper hand on the opposition, spotted an obscure rule infraction on the Kansas City Royals' Hal McKenna in the ninth inning Monday and lodged an official protest which Martin believes will be accepted by the league office.

Hooton Phils' jinx

NEW YORK (UPI) - Burt Hooton of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Phillies for the Chicago Cubs back in 1972, has beaten them seven straight times for the Dodgers. Hooton might be turned in a two-hitter, giving the Dodgers a 6-2 triumph before a crowd of 60,942-the largest in Philadelphia baseball history. "I pitched that no-hitter against the same name, not the same team," quipped Hooton after the game. "The Phillies are now a fine-hitting team and really can't explain my success against them. "I just seem to have good stuff when I pitch against them. I challenge them and they challenge me."

Killanin worried about principle

MONTREAL (UPI) - Lord Killanin won't come out flatly and say it, but he is worried if the International Olympic Committee does not stand its ground on the issue of Taiwan, the Olympic Games could turn into a shambles in Moscow in four years' time. Killanin, looking tired and worried, met the media Monday, 20 minutes after arriving from Dublin with the Irish team. "The Irish aristocrat, 'I'm extremely worried. The Canadian government has violated an Olympic principle and if we set a precedent now, it could have long-term repercussions, not just in Moscow in 1980, but in 1984 and thereafter.'"

Red Sox at .500

BOSTON (UPI) - A .500 season never sounded so good as it did Monday for the Boston Red Sox. With Luis Tiant getting about four times the runs he has been used to this year, the Cuban right hander put down the Chicago White Sox, 11-2, on 11 hits. The win pushed Tiant's record to 10-5 and ended the Red Sox' mark to 37-37. They last went over .500 May 23 by beating the White Sox, 8-2. "Following an eight-day layoff because of rain, the Red Sox dropped 10 straight and had come back to within one game of 500 nine times before reaching the plateau. "I know we got a better team than we had last year," mumbled Tiant through his mustache post-game cigar. "But we don't hit the ball and score runs like we did last year. "But I'm not losing faith that we can't come back and win. We've got nearly 100 games left (actually 88) and we're starting to come back now."

Odum recalled

BOSTON (UPI) - Johnny "Blue Moon" Odum was to be back in the big leagues tonight but he had better be on his best behavior if he wants to stay. Chicago White Sox manager Paul Richards said Monday he expected the controversial 19-year veteran to arrive today from Iowa with the American Association, where he was 3-0 after a 4-3 start with Richmond of the International League. "As of right now I don't know if he's here or not," Richards said. "Whatever I need, it's up to him to fit in; I'm sure it's going to fit our club to him."

Nicklaus likes heat, heavy British pick

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI)—The hotter it gets in Britain, the lower the odds get for Jack Nicklaus to win his third British Open golf championship.

The more his fellow golfers complained of the record-setting heat wave that was baking the Royal Birkdale course, the more Jack Nicklaus enjoyed it. He has been listed as a 5-1 favorite to win the 106th British Open Golf Championship.
