Convention ends tonight

Carter picks Mondale

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Carter today picked a vice presiden-tial running mate, received a con-gratulatory phone call from Presi-dent Ford and prepared to address the Democratic National Convention which nominated him for president.

Carter, who won the Democratic presidential nomination Wednesday night, announced his choice to run with him in November was Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota "if the delegates will approve." They were which nominated Carter Wednesday

Earlier, the White House announced Ford telephoned Carter him he hoped the fall campaign can be kept "at a high level." The President himself faces a tough battle for nomination at the Republican National Convention Aug. 16-20.

After a mid-morning news conference at which he announced Mondale was the one out of a final list of six U.S. Senators, Carter continued final preparations for tonight's finale to what was regarded as a convention lively but without the heavier drama

Carter's speech - his first appearance at the convention - was anticipated as an indication of how he would lead Democrats against the Republicans and, further, of what manner of president he would be if he won in November.

Carter, 51, former Georgia gover-nor, came from the small town of Plains and what early scoffers called 'nowhere" to take the nomination. He said it had been a full-time job for 19 months, though he began building

FOR TRUTH

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am the grandmother of a beautiful little granddaughter I love dearly. I used to babysit with her while my daughter worked because she didn't care all that much about being a mother. Actually, my daughter never really wanted this child, but she had no choice.

My daughter and her husband moved to another state, and I know that my granddaughter is being neglected. She is left at a daycare center all day, and a sitter comes in on some evenings. Whenever I call my daughter, the child has a cold and doesn't feel well.

I am so worried about her. Abby I'm afraid something a cold and doesn't feel well.

I am so worried about her, Abby. I'm afraid something will happen to her if she doesn't get better care.

Do you know of any legal steps I could take to bring charges against my daughter and her husband for being unfit parents? Please answer before it's too late.

PENNA. GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: If (as you say) your daughter doesn't care "all that much" about being a mother, perhaps if you offered to take the child off her hands, she would be glad to let you have ner.

In order to take the child from her legally, you will need a lawyer and proof to support the charges that your daughter is an unfit mother. But you'd better be sure of your facts,

Is she trying to tell me something? Or do all Hungarian comen do this?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are very friendly with another married couple I'll call "Bob" and "Joan."

Bob is having an affair and Joan knows it, but she suspects the wrong woman and has been bad-mouthing her. Most of Bob's friends (including us) know who his girlfriend is because he has introduced her around.

I don't think it's fair for an innocent party to be slandered, and I want to tell Joan that she is on the wrong track, but my husband says I should stay out of it.

I would NOT tell Joan who the right party is: I would only tell her she has put the finger on the wrong woman.

Would I be out of line?

fother, or you could stir up a hornet's nest.

DEAR CURIOUS: No. Some of them kiss.

glad to let you have her.
