Stevenson lost the toss

Warming up for the football season Well, not quite. Republican Registrar of Voters Frederick Peck (left) and Democratic Registrar Herbert Stevenson (right) watch Town Clerk Ed Tomkiel flip a coin to decide which party will get an extra justice of the peace. Under a new statute, the town will elect seven justices to four-year terms. Each party will get three justices, and the seventh will go to the Republicans, winners of Wednesday afternoon's toss. Democrats nominate Barry, Hannon

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Incumbent state Senators George W. Hannon Jr. and David M. Barry were renominated by acclamation at Democratic senatorial conventions Wednesday night.

Barry, of the 4th District, told delegates and friends gathered in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room that his vote will be an independent one.

"I don't profess to have all the answers to problems of the state. The only pledge I will make is that my vote will be my own," Barry, a Manchester resident said.

He called the past two years an "exhilarating and interesting term."

Hannon, senator from the 3rd District, told the people gathered at the Veterans Memorial Clubhouse that he is proud to be a Democrat.

"I am particularly happy to be associated with a party that is committed to dialogue and interaction, a party that is committed to change and growth," he said.

Hannon, who lives in East Hartford, said he is still interested in a Senate leadership position. He has announced his interest in either the majority leader or president pro tem of the Senate.

"If the opportunity (for a leadership post) presents itself, I will grab it," he said.

Both Joseph I. Lieberman, senate majority leader, and Joseph J. Faullo, president pro tem, have announced they are seeking re-election to their present posts. The positions are selected by members of the assembly.

Hannon will be opposed in November by Manchester resident Dr. Frederick W. Spaulding. Barry's opponent will be David Cohen from Glastonbury.

In other local conventions Wednesday night, Republicans nominated G. Warren Westbrook of South Windsor to run for representative from the 14th District. Westbrook will be running against incumbent Abraham Glassman in a rematch of their 1974 race. Democrat Glassman, who is also from South Windsor, won two years ago by about 1,700 votes.

Also, Democrats from the 35th Senatorial District nominated by acclamation incumbent Sen. Robert D. Houley of Somers.

Rep. Francis J. Mahoney of the 13th Assembly District announced today he is seeking his fifth consecutive term in the House.

He is expecting to retire in September and says he will be able to devote full time to the legislature job.

"I will devote 12 months a year to my constituents, and not merely the four or five months of the annual sessions," Mahoney said.

Mahoney, who lives in Manchester, was mayor from 1962-1966 and served on the Board of Directors from 1966-1969.

Earlier this month, he received a Legislative Award from the American Legion that recognized "his work in the General Assembly and in his community."

Manchester vote key in Suisman election

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Manchester made a key switch with its vote Wednesday afternoon that helped elect Hartford City Councilman Richard Suisman to the chairmanship of the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CRCOG).

Suisman outpolled Marlborough First Selectman Anthony Maiorano 20-9 on the second roll call vote of the afternoon. The first vote had ended in Suisman's favor, but the 17-12 margin was less than the two-thirds majority required by CRCOG regulations.

Manchester was one of the three towns that switched from Maiorano to Suisman on the second ballot, giving the Hartford councilman a whisker more than he needed to win.

The CRCOG had been unable to resolve the matter at its meeting last month. At that meeting, two roll call votes ended the same way Wednesday's first one did — with neither candidate getting the required two-thirds majority.

Matthew Moriarty Jr., mayor and chairman of the Board of Directors, cast Manchester's vote for Maiorano on the first three ballots. Finally, on the second vote Wednesday, and the fourth one on the issue, he switched to Suisman.

"I wanted to get this resolved today," Moriarty said when asked at the meeting why he switched to Suisman. "After the first ballot, I didn't think Maiorano could win," he said.

Canton and Simsbury, along with Manchester, also switched between Wednesday's first and second vote.

Suisman's election ended the first leadership battle in CRCOG's 11-year history. He was elected to a one-year term and replaces present Chairman Otto Neumann, Granby first selectman, who did not seek re-election to the post.

There were hard feelings toward Hartford resident Suisman from some of the 29 member towns of CRCOG because of a Hartford city suit against seven suburbs which halted $4.4 million in federal funds to the communities. (The seven suburbs are West Hartford, East Hartford, Enfield, Farmington, Glastonbury, Windsor Locks and Vernon.)

"If we're going to be a group, we have to have mutual trust, and I feel some of the actions in the past year-and-a-half have weakened this trust," Simsbury First Selectman Russell Shaw said. "We have a bright future if we have mutual respect for each other."

Shaw cast his first vote Wednesday for Maiorano, but switched to Suisman on the second ballot.

Newington Mayor Joseph Doyle said he also had some bitter feelings against the city. "Six months ago, I wouldn't have given Hartford a straw hat in a blizzard." He said his town has been "intimidated" and "threatened" in the past.

"But, now it's time to forget all that," he continued. He praised Suisman's "credibility," and said, "Hartford has never had a (CRCOG) chairman, they should be given the chance to perform."

Moriarty said he originally gave his support to Maiorano because "he asked me first. I made my commitment to him."

Along with wanting to resolve the matter, Moriarty switched to Suisman for two other reasons. The first is, he can be removed by the CRCOG board if he does not perform as expected. The second reason is Suisman has said he will spend near full-time on the chairmanship duties.

O'Neill election called illegal

HARTFORD (UPI) — A former Hartford councilman says the Democratic National Committee could deny membership to Connecticut Democratic Chairman William O'Neill because his election was by secret ballot, in apparent violation of national party rules.

George Levine, who supported Hartford Town Chairman Peter Kelly over O'Neill at the party chairmanship election Monday, told UPI Wednesday night the DNC had been told of the alleged violation of its rules. The party chairmen from each state have a seat on the national committee.

"It has been confirmed with the Democratic National Committee that it (O'Neill's election) is no good and he would not be permitted, if challenged, to take a seat on the national committee," Levine said. O'Neill had no comment on the matter.

No challenge to O'Neill's election was filed Wednesday, but any Democrat in the state was eligible to challenge the result.

Levine said he had told Connecticut Democratic Central Committee members Monday the election was illegal because the party charter provides that "no body, committee or commission can conduct any votes by secret ballot."

However, Levine, who attended the committee meeting as voting member by proxy, said he was overruled by the chair, whose ruling in turn was sustained by the committee members.

Levine said he had no idea whether a formal challenge would be made.

"If he (O'Neill) signed a document going into the national committee as state chairman, they probably would not accept it," Levine said.

Levine, a lawyer, was contacted after WKND radio in Hartford quoted Hartford Councilman Nicholas Carbone, also a Kelly supporter, as saying the election of O'Neill was "illegal." "I informed Mr. Kelly of this, and he was aware of it," Carbone said.

"And sometime Friday, he (Kelly) is going to ask some people what should be done. He already has in his own mind what should be done. I doubt if he'll have an answer before Friday," Carbone said.

Estate combed for clues in kidnap

REDWOOD CITY, CALIF. (UPI) — A police task force today combed a 100-acre estate in the wealthy San Mateo County suburbs south of San Francisco in pursuit of thrill-seeking armed kidnapers who last week hijacked a busload of school children.

The search was launched in the wake of reports the suspects were sons of prominent families in the area. Law enforcement sources said the young men may have joined in a "cult-type" group and that the motive for the kidnaping, not yet established, might have been "thrills."

One source described the suspects as "a collective of kids from well-to-do families." He indicated both guns and drugs might be involved.

Using a search warrant, police officers including SWAT teams in full battle gear moved onto the family estate of Fred Nicerson Woods III. His son, Fred Newhall Woods, 25, has been mentioned in several news reports as a possible suspect in the case.

Sheriff Tom Houchins of Alameda County said they were "graciously received" by the Woods family which cooperated fully. But he described them as "upset and concerned."

Houchins said his men were especially interested in a truck-tractor — the type used to pull truck trailers similar to the one buried at the quarry to serve as the underground prison.

Deputies planned to go over everything on the property in a thorough search for possible clues that could take more than a day.

Shortly after the officers set up their joint command post on Wednesday they held a brief meeting with newsmen at which Houchins angrily accused the media of "sensationalism."

The flurry of police activity followed publication of newspaper reports that at least seven sons of wealthy persons living in San Mateo county may have been the kidnapers. Both the Sacramento Bee and the Fresno Bee, sister newspapers, reported Wednesday that young members of wealthy families were being sought as suspects.

Dust gives Mars sky pink hue

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mars really has a pink sky and not the light blue color displayed in the first color photograph sent to Earth from the Viking 1 Martian robot, scientists said today.

They also reported a problem has developed in the otherwise spectacularly successful exploratory project — Viking's seismometer has jammed. It was designed to detect marsquakes and in turn give scientists a geophysical look into Mars' interior.

Viking 1 today was adding to the rapidly increasing storehouse of knowledge it is building. Today's activities included the transmission of five more black and white photos from the surface.

In the first weather report radioed back from the three-legged observatory, Viking 1 found light easterly winds in the afternoon shifting to westerly after midnight with a maximum temperature of 22 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Dr. James Pollack said the discovery that Mars has a pink instead of blue sky was made after a careful analysis of the color balance of the red, green and blue images radioed back from Viking. He said a slight ground calibration error was responsible for an unnatural bluish tint to the final picture.

The surface of Mars, however, is rusty hued. Pollack said, in fact, that it is reddish color of tiny dust particles in the "air" that gives the sky the pink color.

Dr. Seymour Hess of Florida State

University said the first Martian weather report was based on data gathered during Viking's first day on the planet.

"Light winds from the east in the late afternoon changing to light winds from the southwest after midnight," he said. "Maximum wind was 15 miles per hour. Temperature ranged from minus 122 degrees F. just after dawn to minus 22 degrees."

He said the winds were fluctuating and "that's exactly what winds are supposed to do in any sensible atmosphere."

Lou Kingsland, deputy Viking mission director, said there were a number of possibilities for the seismometer problem, ranging from a computer mixup to broken electrical wiring.

State

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — A drive to use a projected state budget surplus to restore annual pay hikes for state employees has been joined by Rep. Charles R. Matties, R-West Hartford. Matties said Wednesday the 1975 bill reducing the hikes by 75 per cent because of the state's financial crisis provides the increments would be restored if extra funds became available later.

SUFFIELD (UPI) — State police have been asked to clarify whether it is illegal to operate the popular citizen band radios while driving a car.

Today's News Summary

Compiled from United Press International

Rep. Astrid Hanzalek, R-Suffield, who asked for the ruling, said a constituent told her state police fined him $15 for using a CB radio while driving, under a state law banning the use of "hand radio telephones" in moving cars.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Robert C. Sullivan, 47, of Norwich, a former Plainfield dog track cashier, has been arrested on a federal charge he aided in fraudulent cashing of a winning ticket.

Sullivan was accused Wednesday of conspiring with a Connecticut man police had not yet caught. The man was believed to have cashed winning tickets for others in exchange for a 10 per cent fee, so the real winners could avoid taxes.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr. says the Senate's passage of Watergate reform legislation marks the rebirth of the people's trust in government.

Weicker, who served on the Senate Watergate Committee in 1973, said the bill's passage will be the turning point from public cynicism and suspicion of government to growing faith and confidence.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has approved an offshore oil and gas bill designed to balance environment with energy, give small companies a break, and force more aggressive production from federal leases.

Some opponents say the bill gives Congress too much power over the process, and may prompt threats of a presidential veto.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Like some other gardeners who have beautiful and unusual plants, Thomas Regan says of his Easter lily "I never did anything for it."

He did, however, choose a good location for the lily when he planted the bulb in a sheltered spot on the east side of the house and close to the back steps. The plant has morning sun and good protection from hot afternoon sun.

The lily came from a florist, forced into bloom at the Easter season. When the flowers had dropped and warm spring weather had arrived, Mr. Regan set the plant in the ground and left it to shift for itself. It has had a few blossoms other years but this time it put on an unexpected show. At one time the Regans counted 50 buds and blossoms.

One can see that the plant has developed more than one strong stem, although it had just one to start with. The bulb has obviously divided underground and there is probably a clump of several bulbs there now. They could perhaps be dug up in the fall and spaced out to become a row of Easter lilies.

Fall is the natural season for planting lily bulbs. The garden centers receive their shipments of bulbs in October and that is the time to plant them. They will start roots in the fall and send up green shoots in the spring.

Timed for Easter

The Easter Lily, Lilium longiflorum, is grown in commercial quantities and timed to be in bloom at Easter, a date that changes from year to year and a date that the florist must watch carefully. If growth is too rapid they must slow it down by reducing the temperature in the greenhouse, or if it is too slow, they must push the thermostats up.

We have all read or been told that an Easter lily bulb can be planted out to bloom another year but there may have been more failures than successes in getting a lily to bloom a second time. I have had one or two blossoms on a second-year plant but none of my lilies that I can recall have been made an appearance the third year.

There are many kinds of lilies and more are being hybridized all the time. Many bulbs at one time came from Bermuda. The chief commercial sources now are in Oregon and Northern California. It was in Oregon that Jan deGraaf, a grover of Dutch ancestry, did his remarkable work of developing what he called the "Mid-Century" hybrids, around 1950.

The principal problem with lilies up that time was disease, to which some lilies were very susceptible. DeGraaf succeeded in breeding lilies that were resistant to the disease and he produced hybrids in many variations of color, shape and blooming time. Interest in lilies had sunk to a low point before the "Mid-Century" varieties came on the market. Now the interest has revived.

There is an active group of lily growers and there are a few prominent hybridizers in Connecticut. Best known here are David Stone and Henry Payne of Waterbury, who worked as partners and have won many awards. Mr. Stone has dropped out of lily breeding as a business and his place has been taken by Henry Payne's brother, Philip. They work under a new name, Piedmont Gardens. Their work is selling lily bulbs, while always hoping that through breeding they will develop new varieties that will prove popular.

Win top award

Talking with Robert Haring of Woodbridge, another lily expert, I asked him what was new and he said the big news is that a lily introduced by Stone & Payne several years ago had won the Award of Merit, highest honor given by the North American Lily Society, at its recent show in Philadelphia.

Mr. Haring exhibited the lily but he said the originator was Mr. Stone. It is a late-blooming lily and it took the combination of an early season and a late show date to make it possible for the lily to be exhibited. This year Mr. Haring said, lilies generally have been blooming two weeks early.

The prize winner is a yellow lily with many dark brown spots with the flowers "pendant," or facing toward the ground, and "reflexed," with the petals curling back. A good specimen produces 40 to 50 buds.

The name of the lily is Nutmegger and another spike of the same variety won the best-show award for Warren Summers of Tolland. Mr. Haring won a top award also, for the best seedling lily. It is a white flaring trumpet flower, he said, he has not yet given it a name. Connecticut lily-growers, too small in number to have their own state society, are members of the New England Regional Lily Group of the national organization which held its annual show this past weekend in Worcester.

Easter lily received as a gift six years ago was planted out beside the house after blooming at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Regan on Helaine Rd. It has been growing ever since and this year, at one time, had 50 blossoms and buds. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Housing Authority gets Section 8 Housing okay

The Manchester Housing Authority has received the go ahead and will take part in a Section 8 Housing program for the elderly sponsored by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Leon W. Enderlin, executive director of the authority, told the group at its meeting Wednesday night that he has received a letter from HUD okaying Manchester's participation in the program.

Under Section 8 Housing, tenants are expected to pay a certain percentage of their income toward their rent. The rest of the rent is paid by HUD. Manchester already has Section 8 Housing for low-income families. They have been granted 45 units for the elderly Section 8 Housing.

The housing authority also hired a coordinator for the Section 8 program at the meeting. Louise L. Hunter, at the recommendation of Enderlin, was hired for the $9,400-per-year post.

Ms. Hunter was one of seven applicants who applied for the position. Enderlin said she has had experience as an executive secretary and she has had experience in the coordinator post.

Her duties in the coordinator post will include interviewing applicants to the program, briefing participants, and inspecting units. She will also be in charge of the program.

will be on a six-month probationary period.

Dr. Joseph M. Danyliw, a member of the authority, said he would have preferred hiring someone for the position with administrative, rather than clerical, training. Enderlin said, however, that six of the applicants were clerical-field employees. The seventh had extensive background in working with Section 8 housing, but dropped out before the final decision was made.

Dr. Danyliw also expressed concern that past employers of Ms. Hunter had not been checked for references before she was hired.

The authority agreed that practically anyone hired for the position would have to be trained. They unanimously voted to hire Ms. Hunter.

The authority also received notice of receipt of $11,985 for the Section 8 program at the meeting. Enderlin called this "front money," funds that will be used to get the program to get the low-income Section 8 program under way.

Also announced was the awarding of a painting contract to F.J. Dahill Co. of New Haven. The company submitted the low bid, $21,859, for the painting of several buildings in Manchester's elderly housing projects.

Troops launch manhunt in ambassador's death

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Thousands of troops and police today hunted the killers of Britain's newly arrived ambassador to Ireland, slain in what could be the start of a new Irish Republican Army offensive against British officials.

The British newspapers called the search for the assassins of Ambassador Christopher Ewart-Biggs the biggest manhunt in Irish history. The colorful ambassador, who wore a black monocle over one eye and wrote detective novels under a pen name, arrived in Dublin only two weeks ago.

He died Wednesday morning when an estimated 200 pounds of explosives went off under his Jaguar sedan about 150 yards from his Gothic-style residence on the outskirts of Dublin.

Also killed in the blast were Judith Cooke, 27, secretary to Brian Cullen, permanent secretary to the Northern Ireland office, who was seriously injured. The ambassador's chauffeur, Brian O'Driscoll also was gravely injured.

Police said the explosives apparently were detonated by remote control. A 200-yard wire was found leading from the 10-foot-deep crater left by the bomb to a nearby field, where witnesses reported seeing two men with blackened faces running to a car pushed by a third man.

Thousands of troops and police backed by helicopters were ordered to set up road blocks and question sympathizers of the provisional wing of the outlawed IRA and other anti-British extremist groups.

The official Sinn Fein wing of the IRA condemned the attack "without reservations." However, police sources said it carried all the hallmarks of IRA expertise and Irish Foreign Minister Garrett Fitzgerald speculated it was the work of the provisional IRA "or groups of that type."

The killing, the first of a British official in the south since the war of independence ended in 1921, came two months after the provisional IRA warned "any member of the English establishment, military, police or civilian, found in any part of Ireland will be struck down ruthlessly without warning."

The government posted a $36,000 reward for the killers and police said they were searching for a "very stout" young man with black hair and a moustache and a slim, fair-haired man in his mid-30s.

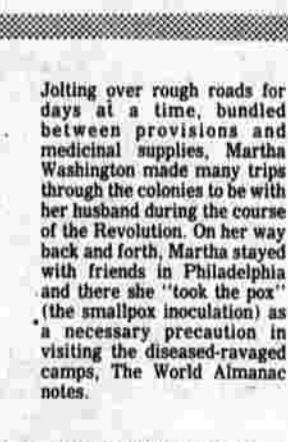

The blast shattered a granite wall, hurled the car into the air and slammed it down on its side. A woman's shoe and a neatly furled umbrella lay on the ground beside the twisted rear door.

Yacovone and Glassman unopposed

Conventions for two local Democratic representatives will be held tonight.

Both Rep. Muriel T. Yacovone and Rep. Abraham Glassman are expected to win renomination from the party without opposition.

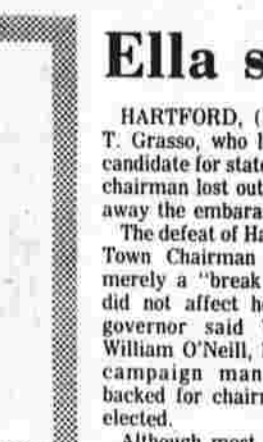

Ella smiles away defeat

HARTFORD, (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso, who lost face when her candidate for state Democratic party chairman lost out, is trying to smile away the embarrassment.

The defeat of Hartford Democratic Town Chairman Peter Kelly was merely a "break in tradition" that did not affect her personally, the governor said Wednesday. Rep. William O'Neill, Mrs. Grasso's 1974 campaign manager whom she backed for chairman once, was re-elected.

Although most political observers disagree, Mrs. Grasso said Wednesday of the Kelly defeat: "I don't feel it is a personal setback for me."

The governor had said publicly in the weeks prior to the election she was "neutral" in the contest. But it was a different story at her Wednesday news conference. "I never maintained that I was neutral," she said.

Mrs. Grasso refused to be pinned down as reporters asked about the near-unanimous assessment of the defeat was a major loss of prestige for her. She kept smiling and saying it would not erode her political footing.

O'Neill was elected Monday over Kelly, for whom Mrs. Grasso mounted an intense lobbying campaign some O'Neill backers called harassing.

Asked if O'Neill's election was a defeat for her since governors traditionally hand-pick state chairmen, Mrs. Grasso said, "Well, I guess that's one tradition that's gone on its way."

"This represents a party coming of age, becoming mature and making its own choices," said Mrs. Grasso. Asked whether the O'Neill victory would cut into her political power base, she smiled and said, "I don't think it eroded any more than what it was."

Health group questions some bylaws proposals

A second session to study the proposed bylaws of the North Central Health Systems Agency ended still in question.

Some of the sections in question refer directly to the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act (P.L. 95-641) which the committee wishes to study further before passing on the proposal.

The group will meet again Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the same place in the hopes of completing its study of the proposed bylaws. After acceptance, the committee will submit the document with its recommendations to the legal committee of the board of directors of the Health Systems Agency.

The subarea members will have their regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Building. At that time, the members from Manchester, South Windsor, Bolton, East Hartford, Avon, Hebron, Marlborough and Glastonbury will elect officers to preside over their subarea.

Blood in short supply

Blood is in short supply according to a report issued by the Red Cross Blood Center — not just in Connecticut, but nationwide.

The shortage of blood is due in part to increased usage by hospitals in addition to the traditional slump in blood collections during the summer months.

There is a critical need for blood of all types. Any person in good health between the ages of 18 and 66 may donate.

Opinion

Sign is misleading

There is sign at the site of the new sewage treatment plant being constructed in Vernon which says, "Pollution Control Project, Environmental Protection for ROCKVILLE, New 12.9 Million Dollar Waste Treatment Plant, $9,706,525 Federal dollars, $1,941,705 State Dollars."

Now we aren't quarreling with the cost nor the merits of the project but we think credit should be given where credit is due.

The truth is that the federal government and the state government aren't paying what the sign says they are toward the project.

You, the taxpayer, directly and indirectly are paying for this project, and many other projects through the state and nation all similarly signed showing so-called federal and state funding.

The federal and state governments do not produce much revenue — they levy and disburse taxes and the source of these taxes are each one of us in one way or another.

We think the sign would be more honest and comply more with truth in advertising rules if it said,

"Your tax dollars at work" — and doubled the budgets for higher education. He verbally slashed right and left and to the quick on health programs and doubled or tripled their budgets, depending on your mathematics.

He railed against government spending and higher taxes, and increased the state budget to 2.5 times its level when he came to office. On balance, he boosted taxes proportionately.

So did Udall, who emerged from the campaign with increased stature and respect, and further enhanced that image by the grace, dignity and good sense of his address to the convention. The Democrats, and the country, need men like this.

California's Edmund G. Brown started some viewers with his short answers to television reporters, and his smoothly political responses thereafter. Brown emphasized that the fight ahead will be long, he inferred both for himself and for the party. He is still a hungry, impatient young man.

Speaking of hungry, impatient young men, politicians should not understate the importance of Carter's infant grandson Jason. It was with his help that the Democratic candidate demonstrated his cool, watching his own nomination and keeping a nine-month-old tyke peaceful and happy at the same time. You can't hardly get Presidential candidates with those qualifications.

Different, and far more lofty impressions were created within the convention framework by Barbara Jordan and Morris Udall.

Reagan's record not in line with platform

WASHINGTON — We have a habit in the United States of judging a man by what he says — almost ignoring what he does.

If he says what we like to hear, we forgive a man whose actions do violence to our beliefs. If he says what we don't like to hear, he cannot please us whatever he does.

Let us then, in assessing Reagan, ignore what he says, what he promises and how he postures.

And look at what he did as governor. He castigated the state universities — and doubled the budgets for higher education. He verbally slashed right and left and to the quick on health programs and doubled or tripled their budgets, depending on your mathematics.

He railed against government spending and higher taxes, and increased the state budget to 2.5 times its level when he came to office. On balance, he boosted taxes proportionately.

Today's thought

Anthony Padovano in "Who is Christ" writes: "The dying Jesus reveals to us not only how absolute God's love is but also how communicative God's love is. The death of Jesus is an act of communion, responsive to the Father and bestowed upon us. God's love takes its place in our history and is shared with us in a unique way as Christ breathes His last. In the broken body of the Lord, the selflessness of God's Word and the communicativeness of God's Love are made clear."

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Thursday, July 22, the 204th day of 1978 with 182 to follow. The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars, Venus and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer. In 1972, President Richard Nixon chose vice president Spiro Agnew as his running mate in their re-election bid.

On this day in history: In 1864, in the first battle of Atlanta, Confederate troops under Gen. John Hood were defeated by Gen. William Sherman's forces from the North. In 1932, Wiley Post completed his first solo flight around the world in seven days, 18 hours and 45 minutes. In 1972, President Richard Nixon chose vice president Spiro Agnew as his running mate in their re-election bid.

Reagan as governor, worked from 9 to 5. He delegated work, was interested only in overall policies, left his cabinet officers and assistants to develop and manage his and their programs with virtually free hands. Details were of little interest.

Like Carter and most other politicians, Reagan is very sensitive to criticism from his opponents. But it's reported he'll take straight, highly critical talk in private from his friends, not a common trait among governors or presidents.

Police report

A Vernon man was arrested after a one-car accident Wednesday afternoon.

Police charged Glenn J. Trahan, 19, of Vernon with speeding. Trahan was westbound on Tolland Tpk. when he stepped on his brakes to avoid a turning vehicle, police said. He went into a skid and slid sideways across the driveway of the Shawmut Equipment Co. at 20 Tolland Tpk., according to police.

The car was towed from the scene and there was damage to shrubs and the lawn of Shawmut's property, but there were no injuries.

A person with a sweet tooth couldn't resist the temptation of a vacant Globe Hollow candy stand.

Police reported two locks and an assortment of candy were taken from a concession stand at Globe Hollow. The stand was found missing its locks by an employee at the park. Value of the missing items was placed at $90.

A woman at a Foster St. home went out to bring in her laundry Wednesday afternoon. The only problem was there was nothing left on the line. Thieves had apparently made off with the clothes, police said. Value of the missing items was given at $60.

Police arrested a juvenile Wednesday in connection with a shoplifting incident at Marshall's.

Other arrests made by Manchester Police included: David R. Dumond, 17, of 245 Adams St., charged with second-degree larceny, third-degree larceny and second-degree criminal mischief. Police said the charges were made in connection with a theft of an auto and a separate theft of a tape deck from a car. Both occurred earlier this month, according to police reports. Court date is Aug. 9.

Richard A. Robbins, 38, of Coventry, charged with threatening and having weapons in a motor vehicle. Court date is Aug. 9.

David R. Hebert, 23, of 255 Mountain Rd., charged with failure to grant one-half the highway, in connection with a minor accident Wednesday on Ferguson Rd.

Frank J. Rago, 26, of Rockville, charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at Shop Rite. Court date is Aug. 9.

"NO PRIDE IN SUNDAY OPENINGS" — The People Speak —

This is one of our many letters that we have been receiving about Sunday store openings.

Dear Frank,

I wish to commend you for your high standards and your firm conviction about not opening your store on Sunday.

I shop at your store as often as I can. I find it a marvelous place to do my shopping and find your prices very fair. I try to take advantage of your specials and your bonus plan & extra stamps. I find that saving $AM stamps helps my budget.

Please keep Sunday special for all of us & do not open your store, as we will support you and shop at your store during the week. I agree with you that stores that open on Sundays are charging higher prices to meet their extra costs.

J.P.

THE GREAT RESPONSE TO OUR POSITION ON SUNDAY OPENINGS HAS BEEN GRATIFYING!

— FRANK

Test case even then

News on blue laws in Connecticut has been getting considerable space in recent weeks and an old Hartford newspaper, dated July 10, 1908, contained an item of local interest.

The paper was found by Barry Snyder of Manchester.

Appearing on the editorial page of the Daily Times was this item titled "Better Change the Law."

"A respectable place in Manchester in which ice cream, soda water and confectionery are sold was open last Sunday, and the proprietor was arrested on a charge of violation of the Sunday law.

"Recently the police had ordered all such places closed on Sunday, and this was intended to be a test case. On Monday it was tried before Judge H.O. Bowers, who found the accused not guilty.

Foreign News Commentary

Peking: Sports are politics

By ROBERT CRABBE TOKYO (UPI) — Taiwan's frustrated Olympic athletes are home from Montreal with tear-stained faces, and Peking has won yet another victory in its campaign to drive Taiwan out of international sports.

Under pressure from the Communist government on the Chinese mainland, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau laid down humiliating conditions for letting Taiwan take part in the 1976 Olympics.

The Taiwan Chinese went home rather than bow to them. If all this shocked the American public, it was no surprise to anybody in Asia.

There have been two rival Chinese governments since 1949, and they hate each other. Their people won't eat in the same room, or play ping pong at the same table.

When you formally accept Peking's friendship — as Canada has — you will soon get demands from Peking that you become Taiwan's enemy.

When any country recognizes Peking, Taiwan automatically breaks diplomatic relations and withdraws its embassy. Peking stayed out of the United Nations for more than 20 years because Taiwan was a member. It joined in 1972 only after the U.N. agreed to throw Taiwan out.

Neutrality, not hostility, is required

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun said something good the other day, to wit, that the Constitution's ban on establishment of a state religion does not require the state to be, per se, hostile to religion.

Writing as a member of a 5 to 4 majority which upheld Maryland's program of financial aid for church-related colleges, Blackmun argued that "Neutrality is what is required. And religious institutions need not be guaranteed from public benefits that are neutrally available to all."

Neutrality indeed is the operative word in any case involving the state's relations with a religious institution, whether it be Roman Catholic, Baptist, or whatever. The Constitution does not, as some well-intentioned free thinkers argue, forbid any contact between the state and religion. It did, there would be no chaplains nor rabbis attached to our armed forces.

In short, the First Amendment is neutral in that it also forbids the state to interfere with the "free exercise" of a religious creed. The court's decision, in effect, says that the expenditure of taxpayers' money to nonsectarian colleges, denial of such aid to church-connected institutions would be discriminatory and thus constitutionally unacceptable.

At any rate, the highest bench has established a three-pronged test that the government gives financial aid to nonsectarian colleges, denial of such aid to church-connected institutions would be discriminatory and thus constitutionally unacceptable.

The majority held that the Maryland schools passed that test. It said the fact many classes open wide to nonsectarian students, that a prayer does not change the school's character but is rather a facet of instructors' academic freedom.

He lashed out at the welfare system — and ended up agreeing to quite liberal benefits and greatly increased spending. His great achievement here, however, was in markedly reducing the number of chiselers on the rolls.

His words have given him a reputation favoring business against the small consumer. But he sponsored what is perhaps the toughest water pollution control law in the United States, and stepped up regulation of the auto repair, home insurance, real estate and retail businesses and of doctors and dentists.

In cooperation with the legislature he reduced the oil depletion allowance, increased income taxes from 7 to 11 per cent for the top bracket, took more low-income families off the tax rolls, stiffened the capital gains tax, increased inheritance tax rates and gave renters tax credits. He supported a bill giving mental patients the right to refuse shock treatments.

Like Jimmy Carter, Reagan brought in a considerable group of bright young men when he moved into the governorship. As in the Carter administration, there was no hint of financial hanky-panky. And Reagan's appointments, like Carter's, were regarded as above average.

Mora-Vaiculis

Elizabeth Anne Vaiculis and Richard Brian Mora, both of Manchester, were married June 19 at St. James Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Vaiculis of 527 Woodbridge St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mora of 330 Hackmatack St.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a nylon organza gown trimmed with imported Venice lace appliques and designed with Victorian neckline, Bishop sleeves, yoked bodice trimmed with lace, Empire waist, A-line skirt with flared edged in appliques and terminating in a train. Her chapel-length veil of illusion was attached to a lace-covered Juliet cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white cymbidium orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath interwoven with blue ribbon streamers.

Miss Pamela Thomas of Manchester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Janet Rodrigue of Manchester, Miss Lauren Fress of East Hartford, and Miss Renee Catalano of Middletown.

Norman Rodrigue of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were Wayne Mora and Bruce Mora, both of Manchester and brothers of the bridegroom; and Steven Vaiculis of Boston, Mass., the bride's brother.

A reception was held at The Colony in Talcottville, after which the couple left for Cape Cod, Mass. For traveling, Mrs. Mora wore a yellow pantsuit with white rose corsage. The bride is residing in Manchester. Mrs. Mora is employed by the State of Connecticut. Mr. Mora is employed by the Hartford Electric Light Co. in Hartford.

New classes at the Rec

The Craft Explosion at the Manchester Recreation Department at 110 Cedar St. is featuring space mobiles and flower mobiles from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday. This is for children in the first to third grade group. Openings are still available.

On Monday and Wednesday, calligraphy will be the project with wall hangings, pendants, and sculptured animals made out of this clay-like substance. Openings for Grade 1 to 3 are being filled through registration at the West Side Rec.

Registration is held daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. with all fees payable in advance. For information call 643-6795.

10 WAYS TO BANK

- 1 Savings and Certificate Accounts. We pay the highest savings rates available — from 5 1/2% to 7 1/2%. Interest is paid daily and compounded continuously, too. And that means that even your interest earns interest in a Heritage Savings account.
- 2 Free NOW Checking. The savings account that works like a checking account and pays 5% annual interest. Free plus 5% — there's no better way to check than with us. That's because at Heritage we've always been consumer oriented, offering you the latest in banking with no strings attached.
- 3 Tax Sheltered Retirement Accounts. Keogh Retirement Accounts for the self-employed and Individual Retirement Accounts for people who do not have a pension where they work. Both are available at Heritage and both can save you a lot of tax dollars.
- 4 Tax Deferred Annuities. A tax deferred investment annuity offered by Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company that can save you substantial tax dollars. Ask us for complete details.
- 5 Tele-Cash. Put your non-working business cash to work earning top interest in our Tele-Cash account. When you need it simply call us and we will transfer your money to your checking account in any bank.
- 6 Home Loans. We're the experts when it comes to home loans. We've been lending money to home buyers since 1891. We know local real estate and it has always been our policy to offer competitive home loans.
- 7 Equity Loans. Borrow on the equity in your home for home improvements, college costs, consolidation of bills — or just about any need you have.
- 8 Home Improvement Loans. From shrubbery to a new pool we can help with loans up to $10,000. Home improvement loan arrangements are simple, easy and prompt at Heritage Savings.
- 9 Personal Loans. Available for just about anything, our personal loans are simple interest. You pay interest only on balance due.
- 10 Moneymarket Convenience. Buy groceries and bank in one super market — our Moneymarket located inside Frank's Supermarket, East Middle Turnpike, Manchester. Our Moneymarket concept is one more example where Heritage Savings leads the way.

ABA expands for plastics division

ABA Tool & Die Co. at 1395 Tolland Tpk. is expanding its plant because of the increasing demand of affiliate corporation, Plastics Gearing Technology Inc. Plastics Gearing specializes in moulding precision plastic gears. The addition will contain 24,000 square feet of manufacturing area and 1,500 square feet of office space. The work, by Ansaldi Co., was started in June and the company expects to move into the plant in September. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Business
Sales up at Rogers

Rogers Corp. posted second quarter sales of $13,012,000 and profits of $412,000, or 44 cents per share. Sales were 34 per cent above those of a year ago and net income compared with last year's depressed figure of $81,000 for continuing operations in the same period.

For the first half, sales came to $25,914,000, a 38 per cent increase, and profits totalled $764,000 or 82 cents per share.

Norman L. Greenman, president of Rogers, said that in May a long term $4,000,000 mortgage loan was secured from a group of Connecticut savings banks and was used to repay most of the company's medium-term bank debt.

Greenman reported purchase of a 60,000 sq. ft. plant near Atlanta, Ga., to provide additional capacity for the company's Engineered Products Division, whose components have been increasingly in demand for business equipment, including Xerox's 9200 copier. Operations there are expected to begin in the fourth quarter.

Looking to the second half, Greenman cited potential for continuing improvement from sales to the electronics industry and from new products and applications.

Desegregation enforcement ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has ordered the government to begin enforcement proceedings against 32 northern and western school districts for violating school desegregation requirements. The proceedings eventually could cut off their federal aid.

The judge set timetables for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to conclude investigations of alleged violations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act in 14 other northern and western school districts, including New York City.

"It is the opinion of this court that delays of one and one-half to eight years are unreasonable," Sirica said in the order, which was made public Wednesday.

Sirica said HEW had failed to enforce its own school desegregation regulations and the Title VI of the Civil Rights Act prohibiting aid to schools that discriminate on the basis of race, color or national origin.

Martin H. Gerry, director of HEW's Office for Civil Rights, complained Sirica had based his ruling on "stale" information. In all but one district, Gerry said, "major action has been taken during the last year to complete the compliance review activities listed." Gerry said HEW hopes Sirica will reconsider his order.

Civil rights attorney Joseph Raub Jr. hailed the decision, saying, "This is the fifth time now that HEW has been told by the courts to enforce Title VI. You would expect they would have gotten the message."

Sirica noted "the staleness of the record" in some of the cases and told HEW to bring them all up to date.

He divided the school systems into three groups, and set the timetables for enforcement or investigation in each.

Sirica said HEW had found one group of six school districts ineligible to receive federal funds under the Emergency School Aid Act because of "various discriminatory practices." He ordered HEW to enforce its decision in those districts.

Sirica said the six districts - in Los Angeles; Rochester, N.Y.; Richmond, Calif.; Chicago; Jeffersonville, Ind.; and Princeton, Ohio - have continued to receive "federal funds for over three years, contrary to the expressed intent of Congress."

Sirica said that in 36 school systems where HEW found Title VI violations it had neither achieved voluntary compliance nor begun enforcement. He ordered HEW to start enforcement proceedings against any still found in violation of the law. Among the 28 districts were two in New England - New Bedford, Mass., and New Britain, Conn.

The judge ordered HEW to complete its investigation of possible Title VI violations in 14 other districts within 60 days and start proceedings against any found to be violating the law.

Sirica said long periods of delay have passed without conclusion as to whether discrimination actually exists, leaving "the distinct possibility that many of these school districts are discriminating and have been discriminating for as long as eight years while continuing to receive federal funds, contrary to the expressed intent of Congress."

Hartford, Conn., had one of the 14 school systems in which HEW is ordered to complete investigation within 60 days.

Gerry said investigations have been completed in each of the 46 districts except New York City and 21 voluntary compliance plans have been negotiated and accepted.

"Four districts are currently involved in administrative enforcement proceedings," Gerry said. "One is before a federal court."

Ruling paves way to recoup funds

BOSTON (UPI) - Four New England states stand to recoup millions of dollars in federal funds as the result of a federal court ruling.

Massachusetts could get a $142 million windfall, while Connecticut has claims totaling $41 million, Rhode Island $2.9 million and Maine $2 million.

Justice Aubrey E. Robinson of the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., issued the ruling Wednesday which could clear the way for the states to get the money tied up in a dispute dating back to 1971.

The claims cover a period from Nov. 1, 1971 to Oct. 30, 1975 when a new federal law took effect.

Robinson ruled the states do not have to determine the eligibility of clients prior to providing social services, and the states do not have to provide those social services based on an overall plan.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare had attempted to impose both those restrictions on all Title IV-A claims. Robinson declared the 1971 memo imposing those restrictions "null and void."

The ruling stems from a suit filed by Massachusetts and a dozen other states which challenged the legality of the HEW action. The law firm of Covington and Burling represented the states in the case.

"It was a total victory for the states," said a spokeswoman for the law firm.

HEW officials were reviewing the 55 page ruling Wednesday. The decision can be appealed and state officials said they expect HEW to take that action.

The dispute over the Title IV-A funds dates back to 1971 when a HEW official issued a memorandum on the procedures to be followed by states filing social service claims.

German police insist on beer

BERLIN (UPI) - Beer no longer is the No. 1 drink in West Germany. It's fallen behind coffee. But beer, known as "liquid bread," still has a very special place in German hearts, and woe to those who speak against it.

West Berlin Police Commissioner Klaus Huebner is finding that out. Hot summer or not, Huebner thinks his policemen should not drink on duty. He even wants to ban lunchtime beers.

The policemen's advisory Personnel Council, which must be consulted on all new regulations governing policemen's rights and privileges, refuses to ram the ban through without consulting the Personnel Council, but the city Administrative Court ruled

New rates proposed for welfare patients

HARTFORD (UPI) - A 12 per cent increase over 1975's actual costs has been suggested as the standard rate for welfare patients by profit-making nursing homes in the state.

The proposal went unheeded Wednesday when a meeting of the state rate-setting committee was called off for lack of a majority in attendance.

The proposed rate, retroactive to July 1, was intended to replace a more complicated one originally scheduled to go into effect Wednesday. That rate plan is being revised and may not be ready until next year.

Nursing home officials said the rate structure as

Nadia Olympic Games super star

MONTREAL (UPI) — Small and skinny, nervous and non-chalant, she's barely old enough to go out at night by herself. Her childish voice sounds like a hushed squeak and her sentences consist of short, clipped words.

Let be whatever may be in the next 11 days, there's only one super star as far as these Olympic Games are concerned. You'll have to look twice to believe it, but at five feet and 88 pounds, Nadia Comaneci has become in the space of a few days the most talked-about athlete in all of America, if not the world.

Russia's Olga Korbut, the Nadia Comaneci of 1972, could do no better than place fifth in the all-around. Until this week, no one ever had received a single perfect mark in the Olympics, and the scoreboard at the Forum wasn't even geared to register a 10.0. Tonight, it will be center stage again for Nadia with an opportunity to pick up four more gold medals in individual events.

Asked if she'd ever been nervous in her life, Nadia admitted, "Once, when I was fighting with my brother I was nervous."

Of more immediate consequence to Americans, along with Nadia's renewed assault on their senses and record books, is the continued success of the men swimmers and the U.S. basketball team.

The swimmers made it 7-for-7, as well as 15 of the 21 total medals awarded thus far, when Matt Vogel led a 1-2-3 sweep in the 100-meter butterfly, following which the 800-meter freestyle relay team broke the world record it had set during the morning trials with a time of 7 minutes, 23.2 seconds.

Members of the winning relay team included Mike Bruner, John Naber and Bruce Furniss, each of whom previously had won individual gold, and Jim Montgomery. Vogel, an 18-year-old sophomore at the University of Tennessee, had a time of 54.35 seconds in the butterfly to lead teammates Jon Bottom and Gary Hall to the finish.

The contribution of the men has enabled the U.S. to take the lead in the overall medal standings with 22-10 gold, eight silver and four bronze.

The East German girls finally had their streak snapped after four consecutive victories Wednesday night when Marina Kosteva led a Russian sweep of the 200-meter breaststroke in the world record time of 2:33.35. But Ulrike Richter of East Germany came back to take the 100-meter backstroke.

The U.S. basketball team had to overcome another scary situation to beat Yugoslavia, 112-83, Wednesday night after trailing by four points at halftime. The victory guaranteed a berth in the semifinals for the Americans.

Adrian Dantley scored a game high 27 points and Scott May added 25 for the U.S., which will boost its record to 4-0 tonight when it accepts a forfeit victory over Egypt, one of the 30 countries that has pulled out of the Olympics in support of Black Africa.

In an unusual occurrence, Lanny Basbaum of Bedford, Tex., became the second American to win in shooting, taking the small-bore rifle three positions, but he almost refused to accept the gold medal.

Basbaum felt that Margaret Murdoch of Poole, Kan., who finished second with the same score as he had, also should have been awarded a gold.

In other events, featherweight Davey Lee Armstrong defeated Soviet champion Anatoly Volkov and lightweight Howard Davis advanced to the semifinals of the boxing championship; and in Greco-Roman wrestling, a U.S. team, which won only 10 matches all told in the previous three Olympics, already has won 10 here and advanced eight wrestlers to the third round.

Olympic view
The purists die of the Olympic Games is for sportsmanship and competition between athletes, not nations. But one, if one is an American, still gets that tingling feeling seeing a countryman atop the winner's platform with a gold medal draped around his neck.

There really isn't a good explanation for such sentiment. A few years back it seemed proper to tear down the flag but now apparently pride in it has been restored. Maybe not in the way it was in the past but hearing the anthem played ever yet another victory in swimming gives you a good feeling.

The American women natators are finding the going rough against the East Germans, who trained long and hard for these Games, but the men are more than holding their own. Five events — five wins — five world records. There is not much room for improvement.

At the last Games in Munich, Mark Spitz won seven gold medals in swimming but was not the friendliest of men. This go-around, the best American appears to be Lon John Naber and everyone is rooting for him. He gains new acquaintances, and fans, by the minute.

The Olympics in Montreal almost didn't get off the ground and they are still having problems. The black African nations walked out in protest of New Zealand playing rugby games

Homers help down Legion

By LEN AUSTER

Herald Sports writer Home runs by Tony DeFellece and Mark McMahon and the pitching of Keith Lamb powered East Hartford past hit-starved Manchester, 9-1, in American Legion Zone Eight baseball action last night at Eagle Field.

The triumph improves East Hartford's zone leading mark to 14-3 and over-all record to 20-8. The setback drops Manchester to 8-8 in the zone and 9-17 in all contests. Manchester is back in action tonight at 6 at Eagle Field against Windsor, which currently stands second in the zone.

The visitors racked Manchester starter and loser Bob Hightler for five runs in the opening frame on four safeties. Dwight Craig doubled in two markers and DeFellece slammed a shot over the leftfield barrier for two more tallies to complete the scoring.

McMahon led off the third with a towering 370-foot homer to right to make it 6-0. East Hartford added a disputed run in the fourth and completed its run producing with two in the sixth.

Manchester averted the shutout with a tally in the seventh as the barks covered the field. Pete Daigle beat out an infield hit. Pete Livingston singled and pinch batter Mike Linsenbiger singled to left sending Daigle scurrying home.

Winning hurler Lamb, an East Catholic product, struck out 11, walked two and allowed four hits. McMahon, Mark Dumond and Craig each pitched one inning.

Daigle went the first two innings plus for Manchester, giving up six runs on six hits, before giving way to Livingston who pitched well in his stint.

Little League stars victors

Coming up with a run in the fifth inning, the Manchester American Little League All-Stars routed the Windsor International Stars, 3-2, last night in District Eight play in Windsor.

Tim Ellis' double in the fifth drove in what proved to be the winning run in support of four-hit pitching by Frank Marandino who went the distance.

Bob Piccin gave the locals a 1-0 lead in the first with a home run but Windsor came back with two in the third inning to take the lead.

A punt single by Glen Dubois, walk to Dan O'Brien and single by Piccin knotted it for Manchester in the home half of the third setting the stage for Ellis' blow.

Brian Austin turned over an unassisted doubleplay in the sixth to squelch a Windsor rally.

Next action for the American All-Stars is Monday night at Leber Field at 6 against an opponent to be determined.

Pair injured
SMITHFIELD, R.I. (UPI) — New England Patriots offensive end Julius Adams and linebacker Rex Shoaie suffered sprained ankles in pre-season practice Wednesday.

The injuries were expected to keep both out of the training sessions at Bryant College for two days. Both men missed considerable National Football League action last year because of injuries.

Players helped to name squad

New format was used in selecting the International Little League All-Star baseball team this season.

The 11 and 12-year-old players and the coaches made the selections. There was just one stipulation, no player could vote for any member of his own team.

In the past, coaches picked the All-Star squad. Ten coaches were polled this season.

Tonight the I.L. Stars trek to Somers for their first taste of district tournament play.

Selected were six members of An-saldi's, Tim and Pat Burke, Tony Chevrette, Dennis Cipriano, Kent Stringfellow and Tim Fogarty.

League champion Hartford Hood Dairy Queen will be represented by Brian Galligan, Jeff Chienlewski and Steve Shirder. Paul McMahon will represent the Oilers, Dean Page the Lawyers and Tim Callahan and WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The jai alai arenas in Bridgeport and Hartford have handled $35.4 million in bets since opening earlier this season, according to the state Commission on Special Revenue.

The commission's weekly income reports showed the following: Bridgeport handled bets totaling $19 million since it opened last March. The state share was $1 million and the city share was $46,000.

Plainfield, in its last 20 cards of racing, handled bets totaling $6 million. The state's share was $528,000 and the town share $16,000.

Eighty-three per cent of all money bet is returned as winnings.

Yankees eye series spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a summer of celebration that featured Operation Sail, a visit by England's Queen Elizabeth and the Democratic National Convention, the New York Yankees are hoping to turn New York into a fall festival, by being in post-season play for the first time since 1964.

They moved another step closer to that reality Wednesday night when they trounced the Oakland A's, 10-1, for their seventh victory in eight games since the All-Star break.

Thurman Munson paced the New York attack, with relief help from Ray Sadecki and Chris Knapp, scoring three runs to help Jim 'Catfish' Hunter earn his 12th victory against eight defeats. Munson drove home five runs in the contest, including three with his ninth home run in the fifth inning.

Munson, who was thoroughly booed by the fans earlier this season when he made several bad throws that proved costly, received a standing ovation when he came to bat in the eighth inning.

"If you make a bad throw you get booed, if you get a few hits you get a standing ovation," said Munson. "It's been a long time since my last home run..."

The A's made three errors in the game, helping Hunter to his 10th complete game. He walked two and struck out six while scattering nine hits.

In 10th game's Milwaukee blanked Kansas City, 5-0, Cleveland topped California, 6-2, Minnesota downed Boston, 5-1, over Texas, its ninth win in 11 games.

'Oklahoma' comes to Vernon

BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

What's the difference between the Vernon Center Middle School and a Broadway theater? Not much these hot summer days as students from the school and the high school tackle an ambitious musical.

Under the sponsorship of the Vernon Friends of Music and the guidance of two dedicated teachers, the students are rehearsing for "Oklahoma."

Eileen Sullivan, Rockville High School music instructor, is directing the entire production.

Ronald Parent, RHS art teacher, is taking care of the sets and scenery.

The cast and back-stage workers are 200 students.

While "The Friends" would like to make a little money for future use by students, that's not the major purpose of the project. The major purpose is to give the students, who do not have summer jobs, something great to do during the school vacation.

This is the fifth year students from RHS and Vernon Middle have taken on a major production. In past years they have done "Girl Crazy," "Mame," "Music Man," and "Guys and Dolls."

Playing the leads will be Cathy Howe as Aunt Eller; Halph Wetherell, Curly; Doreen Faletta, Laurey; Mike Batchelder, Jud; Andy Culjak, Will; and Colleen Connor, Ado Annie.

Each year the production reveals lots of hidden talent including the supporting musicians in the band which is also made up of students from both schools.

Ms. Sullivan has to fit from stage to orchestra pit as she also directs the band. During rehearsals she appears to be 10 places at the same time.

The "show will go on" July 27, 28, and 29 at 8 p.m. in the Middle School auditorium, Rt. 30.

Tickets are now on sale at Vernon-Rockville Music Shop, Lane Music Center, Belmont Record Shop, and The Carousel, all in Vernon and at Bellers Music Shop in Manchester.

Houley to run again

35th Senate District

Democrats of the 15-town 35th Senatorial District tapped State Sen. Robert D. Houley Wednesday night at a convention in Willington.

Houley, 49, recently moved from Vernon to Somers. He will be seeking his fourth term in the Senate seat. He won it in 1968, 1970, and 1974. He declined to run for business reasons in 1974.

Houley said Wednesday night he would consider all forms of tax systems during the next General Assembly session. He would consider an income tax and other revenue sources.

He is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and noted the state budgets had the lowest percentage increases in the last 25 years. He pledged to levy only the most necessary taxes.

Houley helped create the state's Int'l. Lottery, helped redirect federal revenues to aid small towns, and cut waste in the state bureaucracy.

The district includes Somers, Ellington, Vernon, Stafford, Tolland, Union, Willington, Ashford, Woodstock, Eastford, Pomfret, Brooklyn, Hampton, Chaplin, and the northeast section of Mansfield.

His Republican opponent is Peggy Roch of Mansfield.

Westbrook nominated

14th District

"People are fed up with this legislature and the governor pulling the wool over their eyes," said G. Warren Westbrook after Republicans nominated him Wednesday as their candidate for the 14th Assembly District seat.

"People are sensing an arrogance," he said. "The Democrats feel they can do anything they want."

Westbrook has served three terms in the state legislature. He was a member of the South Windsor Town Council for three terms and a deputy mayor.

He lost a 1974 bid for re-election to the 14th District seat to Abraham Glassman, South Windsor Democrat, by 5,018 to 3,319. Despite the size of the loss and the probable candidacy of Glassman for the seat this fall, Westbrook said he will run.

"South Windsor is a swing town," he explained. "There may be more registered Democrats but the independents can swing an election."

The district includes South Windsor and the northwest part of Manchester. Peter Nicholas of South Windsor nominated Westbrook.

Edward Wilson and Doris Coughlin of Manchester seconded him.

Refreshments will be served. The program is under the direction of Edward DiFronzo, instructor, Kathy Moore and Jed Higgins, students.

RGH angry with panel

Vernon

Officials and staff of Rockville General Hospital voiced strong opposition this week to the views filed by a three-member panel review committee assigned by the regional Health Systems Agency (HSA).

The three-member panel, headed by Joseph Cannon, is against an RGH proposal to add two floors to the Bissell Wing. But the panel said to go ahead with construction of an ambulatory service center.

Hospital officials said much thought was given to the expansion. The panel's report did not consider the feelings of the community, they said.

The panel is to make its recommendation to the 13-member review committee of HSA and that committee will then submit its recommendations to a 30-member regional advisory board.

The hospital officials propose a $3.2 million project part of which would be raised through a fund drive. It would include adding the two floors to the existing Bissell wing for relocation of the pediatrics department and the hemodialysis units from the old Maxwell building, adding 14 beds; putting an ambulatory surgery unit in the east wing; and expanding emergency facilities.

The pediatrics unit is now housed in the old wooden Maxwell portion of the facility and hospital officials feel this is a potential fire hazard and functionally inadequate for this purpose.

The panel report said that the construction of a new 13-bed unit is currently the most feasible solution to these problems.

"It is clear that the present pediatric population cannot support an efficiently sized pediatric unit," the report stated.

MMH low on kids
It further stated, "Currently, the 27-bed pediatric unit of Manchester Hospital, which is eight miles away from Rockville is also underutilized with an occupancy rate of 48.3 per cent; the pediatric population of the service area is not growing as fast, and the decline in pediatric patient days nationally is a well defined phenomenon."

The panel recommends considering less costly answers.

They suggested a regionalized pediatric unit at MMH or a more reasonably sized pediatric unit relocated to some portion of RGH such as the obstetrical area.

They said, "The surgical volume of the institution raises serious questions as to the need for new construction for the day surgery program at this time."

The panel recommends RGH begin an ambulatory surgery program without construction at this time.

Hospital officials said the panel based many of its conclusions on conflicting statistics and a short-time review made with little input from the "hospital family."

Planner asks board for emergency lane

Vernon

A special emergency traffic light for the intersection of Rt. 30 and Center and Bolton Roads would cost $20,000 to $30,000 to install, Town Planner John Loranger told the Board of Education.

Loranger showed the board plans for the expanded police station next to the Center Road School. He asked the board's okay to install an emergency lane parallel to the school's playground and parking area.

Loranger said the roadway would be just one lane, 15 feet wide and fenced in on both sides. He said at worst some of the parking area may have to be used for the project and the parking lot realigned to give more parking space elsewhere.

The proposed roadway would allow police vehicles to go through to the Center Rd. exit and avoid the traffic light.

Loranger said the state has been consulted about installing a special emergency traffic light at that and some other intersections but the cost is high. Such lights could have their pattern triggered some distance away by the emergency vehicle.

Loranger said the basic concern of the police is access. "If we could get the state to do something about the intersection, they would rather go through there."

Joseph Novak, principal of the school, said Center Rd. is a direct thoroughfare for all school buses and for parents coming in and out. He is concerned about safety.

The school board was asked to make its decision by August.

Preliminary plans for the new police station have been drawn by Architect David Eveleth of McHugh and Associates. They call for a 20,000-square foot building to be constructed to the right of the existing building and going toward the former county home building on Rt. 30.

Businessman's association formed

Coventry

Tom Welles, acting chairman for the Coventry Small Businessmen's Association, announced the list of charter members this week.

They are: Nathan Hale Gas Inc., South Street Package Store, McLagin Construction Co., Claire Connolly Editorial Service, Jim's Supply, Robert Helms, Pump Sales and Service, Mahr Brothers Transportation Co., Old Country Store, Welles Insurance and Real Estate Agency, Benjamin Insurance Agency, State Parole Officer Malcolm D. Edmunds, The Bank Nursery Inc., James Hackett-Financial and Tax Service, Morneau's Lawn Mower Service, Harvey Barrett, (builder).

LeMay Roofing Co., Western Auto, Zaccary Insurance Agency, B and G Cleaners, Upton Construction, Farrar Sanitation Service, The Village Restaurant, Ray Victor (engineer), Bearce Machine Shop and Don Peletiers (builder).

Welles said items of business included: The appointment of Helms and Jim Hackett to assist the elderly housing committee and a discussion of using Don Holmes as a full-time engineer for the town.

The engineering suggestion was prompted by "excessive" engineering costs presently handled by the town on a contract basis. Holmes serves the town in a parttime capacity.

Members for 1-84

The association favors the completion of I-84. They decided to write individual letters to Gov. Ella Grasso about it. Welles said.

Most members favor the two interchange proposal.

Fish kill in Hop Brook

A trout and sucker lie dead on one of the steps of the fish ladder at Charter Oak Park as smaller fish feed in the water. For some mysterious reason, fish in the stream have been dying lately. Ronald Kraatz, assistant health administrator, said he will contact the Department of Environmental Protection about the situation. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Botticello in GOP registrar race

Barry W. Botticello of 89 Spencer St. today announced his candidacy for the Republican registrar of the Republican party for voters. He joins Mrs. Marion Mercer and incumbent Frederick E. Peck in a three-way race for the party endorsement for the post. Peck has been Republican registrar for 15 years. This is the first time he has faced a challenge from within the party for the job. Botticello, 25, is an attorney and member of the Manchester Bar Association. He said his primary reason for running is, "I am in a position to aid the Republican party by reaching out to voters who are not registered with the party. He said his age might help attract young voters to the party. He also said he will try to use deputy registrars to reach a "cross-section of Manchester's residents — senior citizens, women's club members — in an attempt to promote the party among all new voters in town. Mrs. Mercer of 174 Ludlow Rd. announced her candidacy earlier this week. She has been active in Republican politics for over 20 years and has served on the executive committee of both the Republican Town Committee and the Republican Women's Club. She is now an elected town constable. Peck, who works as an insurance adjuster besides his duties as registrar, expressed surprise at the in-party challenge for his position. "I thought I was doing a good job," Peck said. Republicans will meet Thursday, July 29, at 8 p.m. to endorse candidates for the registrar, legislature and justice of the peace positions.

Fraud claim detailed in Times suit.

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The Register Publishing Co. claim of fraud against Gammet Co. Inc. in the $7 million sale of the Hartford Times has been detailed in Superior Court. The Journal Courier reported Times controller Raymond Dumont was asked by Times publisher Roger Corryell to "devise a better way of reporting net paid circulation" in January 1973, about nine months before the Register bought the Times. Register Publishing Co. owns the Journal Courier and Register newspapers in New Haven. The plan involved creation of an account in the Charter Oak Bank of Hartford under the name "Equal Opportunity Service." The paper reported the service then began billing the Times for the Times' advertising services and Corryell approved payment. The paper said money from the Metropolitan account later would be funneled back to the Times in the guise of circulation revenue. Apparently, the Journal Courier said, the money funneled through the survey service and back to the Times approximated the number of papers being distributed free. The details of this procedure were entered into evidence Wednesday as the law suit involving beneficiaries of the John Day Jackson Trust moved into the ninth day of trial. The suit by those beneficiaries maintains Lionel S. Jackson and Henry J. Conland breached their financial duties as trustees when they voted to acquire control of the Times. The survey service was continued at the Times through October 1973, when Register Publishing Co. officers were questioning the Metropolitan audit, the newspaper reported. The Journal Courier said they discussed what should be told to Register officers. The paper said after the closing Dumont himself told Register officers the real meaning of the survey service.
