Ford wins GOP platform battle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — President Ford emerged as winner of the Republican platform battle today, but faced a critical new challenge from Ronald Reagan on the politically hazardous issue of Ford's prospective running mate.

On the eve of the arrival Sunday of both major candidates for the Republican National Convention, the President's political strategists issued their first state-by-state delegate count to support their repeated predictions that Ford is assured of a first-ballot victory.

The breakdown, announced by chief delegate hunter James Baker, claimed Ford had five votes more than the 1,130 required for nomination.

Reagan campaign manager John Sears, insisting that the former California governor had it locked up, dismissed the Ford figures as wishful thinking.

According to UPI's latest tabulation Ford had 1,123 first-ballot votes — 7 short of the magic number; Reagan had 1,036 and there were 100 uncommitted.

The UPI tally was close to Ford's in nearly every state except for some uncommitted West Virginia delegates, which Ford lieutenants claim.

The President survived serious conservative challenges when the final draft of a GOP campaign platform was approved for a vote on the convention floor Tuesday night.

Ford prevailed on such key issues as the Equal Rights Amendment for women, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's African policy and his support — hotly contested by headline conservatives — for a new Panama Canal treaty.

Ford made minor concessions to conservatives on some other issues, notably in the platform language on support for Taiwan and opposition to abortion, but he won reversal of a tentative vote to eliminate the $1.9 billion federal school aid program.

With the platform battle settled largely in Ford's favor, Reagan forces were shifting late today to a rules committee test of Sears' high-stakes proposal to force the President to announce in advance his choice of a vice presidential running mate.

Ford already is ducking crossfire from conservatives and moderates on the issue. Delegates from Maine are threatening to defect if he taps John B. Connally of Texas, whom Ford is known to admire more than most.

Two newspapers, the New York Daily News and the St. Louis Post Dispatch, said Connally was no longer in contention.

Mississippi state Chairman Clarke Reed is making threatening noises over the prospects of a Ford running mate from the ranks of such moderates as Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois or Mark Hatfield of Oregon.

Partitioning of Lebanon is urged

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A key Christian leader has urged the creation of a federalized state in Lebanon that would set up separately administered Moslem and Christian zones.

"It is imperative that a new formula be found whereby Christians can enjoy the freedom and security of administering their own affairs in their own territories," Pierre Gemayel, head of the rightist

Phalangist party, said Friday. Gemayel aid the move was necessary to prevent formal partition of the country, which "would be the only alternative if this fails."

Lebanon has been drifting toward a de facto partition for months and Gemayel's statement was seen as an admission by the rightists that Lebanese Christians and Moslems can no longer live together after 16 months of civil war that has left 35,000 dead and left 250,000 homeless.

The division was hastened Thursday by the fall of the Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp, a leftist enclave in Christian eastern Beirut. The camp's fall, after a six-week siege, led to the expulsion of 12,000 of the camp's inhabitants from the eastern side of the capital.

One Beirut editor and veteran Arab political observer commented that Lebanon, "may finally have gone around the bend."

"It all seems to be becoming dangerously clear now," he said. "After 16 months of going nowhere, our civil war is finally and irrevocably pushing us toward partition and the fall of Tal Zaatar puts the seal on this."

Leftist radio Friday devoted all its reports to Tal Zaatar, broadcasting everything from eulogies and prayers to angry — often hysterical — cries for revenge.

August auto sales set records

DETROIT (UPI) — The U.S. auto industry, paced by industry giant General Motors, turned in a record-breaking performance in early August. New car sales topped last year's dismally low level by 48 per cent.

GM said Friday its sales topped last year's Aug. 1-10 period by nearly 72 per cent. Chrysler posted a 74 per cent gain. Ford was up 10 per cent, but American Motors, caught in a small car sales slump, fell nearly 29 per cent below last year.

GM accounted for a higher-than-normal 62 per cent of the 194,760 cars sold in the Aug. 1-10 period, eclipsing a mark set by the industry in 1965.

Last year's sales were the lowest for the period since 1958 and came at the tail end of the industry's two-year slump.

The strength of GM's sales and its share of the market surprised some analysts since GM normally accounts for about 52 to 54 per cent of domestic car sales. The ending of a sales contest in its Chevrolet Division boosted the sales level.

"I wouldn't have thought there was a wide enough variety of 1976 models to make a record possible," one industry analyst said. "People seem to be willing to settle for whatever the dealers have in stock right now, which isn't much in some car lines."

Angry Irish women rally for peace

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A peace drive by thousands of angry Roman Catholic women has crossed the religious divide and brought Protestant women into a rally today to demand an end to the killing in Northern Ireland.

The rally was planned at the site where a fleeing Irish Republican Army gunman, fatally wounded by a British army soldier, lost control of his automobile and ran into a Catholic family walking on the sidewalk.

Joanne Maguire, 8, John, 2, and Andrew, 2 months, were crushed to death when the car pinned them against an iron fence Tuesday. Their mother was critically injured.

Thousands of citizens, many kneeling in prayer, watched Friday as the three tiny white coffins carrying the bodies of the dead children were carried through the streets to Milltown Cemetery.

The organizer of today's rally, Betty Williams, 32, said more than 20,000 Catholics have signed a petition demanding that the Provisional wing of the outlawed IRA lay down their arms.

"There have been other tragic deaths," Mrs. Williams said. "But the tragedy of the little Maguires was the moment when I and many others like me felt we just could not take any more."

Muriel Kennedy, a Protestant mother of two, living on the other side of the divided city, said Protestant women also were signing a similar petition.

She said they were organizing buses to take Protestant women to the Catholic rally to join in a call for an end to the violence that has taken 1,603 lives in both communities in seven years.

"It is up to us to get behind the Catholic women, who have shown such bravery and courage," Mrs. Kennedy said.

Faced with the sharp, citywide Catholic backlash, the IRA issued a statement Friday denying responsibility for killing the children.

It said the community should blame the British army for shooting "Volunteer" Danny Lennon at the wheel of the automobile.

Peck and Mercer begin campaigns for GOP voter registrar position

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Frederick E. Peck and Marion Mercer, opponents for the Republican Registrar of Voters position, have started organizing campaigns that will last until the Sept. 7 primary.

The primary for registrar, the first such ever held in Manchester, became a reality Friday afternoon when Peck submitted petitions with 788 verified signatures to the town clerk's office. He needed signatures from five per cent — 413 — of Manchester's registered Republicans to force a primary.

Mrs. Mercer was elected to the position by a 44-18 vote of the Republican Town Committee. Peck, however, received more than the 20 per cent of the vote needed to petition for a primary if he wished.

He decided to take such action and successfully turned in the needed number of signatures before Friday's 4 p.m. deadline. Peck has been registrar since 1960, and this is the first time he has faced a challenge for the job.

"This is only half the battle," he said Friday, after he knew he had passed the 413 figure.

Peck said he had 30 workers who helped him collect the needed signatures. He also noted that he had 13 days to get 413 signatures that were due on Friday the 13th. "I guess 13 must be my lucky number," he said.

Mrs. Mercer said she has already started campaigning for the primary. She has the endorsement of both the Republican Town Committee and the party's executive committee.

"I have had many calls of encouragement and backing and welcome the challenge," she said. She said she plans to make the registrars job a full-time one.

"I plan a fresh new approach with enthusiasm and an all-out effort to interest new residents and voters of all ages to register with the Republican party," she added.

Republican Town Chairman Thomas F. Ferguson reiterated that Mrs. Mercer has the support of the town committee.

"The Republican Town Committee did not make its decision to drop Fred Peck lightly. We did it because we felt he had done a very poor job in the past few years," Ferguson said. Asked if he felt the primary might cause problems of divisiveness in the party, Ferguson replied, "It won't cause as many problems as Mr.

Peck's election to another four-year term as registrar would."

The primary will be held Tuesday, Sept. 7 from noon to 8 p.m. in all ten voting districts. All registered Republicans may vote.

Petitions for primary presented

Frederick Peck turned in petitions, shown on the counter, containing 788 signatures to the town clerk's office Friday afternoon. He obtained enough signatures from registered Republicans to force a primary for the party's registrar of voters position between himself and Marion Mercer. Here, Peck is shown taking an oath to confirm the number of signatures as correct. Asst. Town Clerk Esther Matchett gives the oath.

State

HARTFORD — Connecticut Tax Commissioner Gerald Heffernan says advertisements by out-of-state liquor stores should warn Connecticut residents they could be fined if they take too much advantage of the low prices. State law limits to one gallon the amount of liquor a resident can bring into the state without a special permit.

HARTFORD — Fewer GIS are being court-martialed and going AWOL because the old Army discipline has been replaced with more "meaningful" regulations, Maj. Gen. William B. Steele, a top officer, said Friday.

Regional

TRURO, Mass. — The sun broke through gloomy skies today and the second annual Cape Cod "nude-in" by some 4,000 persons was expected to come off without a hitch. The demonstrators are protesting U.S. Interior Department bans on nude swimming along the Cape Cod National Seashore.

LINCOLN, Mass. — A 24-hour police guard was posted Friday at the home of Polaroid Corp. President William J. McCune Jr., who was nearly kidnaped by two men armed with a shotgun. Two suspects, Richard J. Picariello and Edward P. Gullion Jr., are also wanted for a series of terrorist bombings recently in three area states.

Hereditary diabetes discounted

BAR HARBOR, Maine (UPI) — A geneticist says the risk of diabetic parents passing on the illness to their children has been overrated.

"There are all sorts of false assumptions made about inheritance risks in diabetes that are not borne out by what we are learning about it," Dr. David L. Rimoin of the University of California at Los Angeles said Thursday.

"The idea that two diabetics should not marry and have children because of the risk of passing on the disease is based on misinformation," Rimoin told a genetics conference at the Jackson Laboratory research center, sponsored by the National Foundation March of Dimes and Johns Hopkins University.

"Genetic counseling is completely misleading," Rimoin said. "It certainly is not true that anybody with two diabetic parents is bound to get diabetes. The risks are much lower than they were once thought to be."

Town felt the hurricane

Thousands of Manchester homes lost power and local streets were littered with fallen tree limbs when Hurricane Belle hit Connecticut this week.

Residents and town officials were prepared for the worst, but the fierceness of the storm and a change in its course spared Manchester of much of Belle's fury.

A total of about 3,200 electrical customers in Manchester were blacked out during the Tuesday morning storm. By midday Tuesday, power was restored to 1,200, by mid- Wednesday power was restored to 500 more, and full service resumed Wednesday night.

A power outage caused a shutdown in the chlorination system of the Buckingham reservoir, affecting several homes in that area, but by Wednesday residents had no more water problems.

Police, firemen and highway crews worked overtime during the storm, taking care of Belle's problems as quickly as they were reported. By Thursday, everything was back to normal.

Money matters
The Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) approved a secondary grant of $97,333 for the town's rehabilitation loan program. Added to $74,000 in Community Development block grant funds, the loan program now has $171,333.

The program will use federal funds to help subsidize the interest rate on home improvement loans given to local families living in a designated area of Manchester. The idea is to help rejuvenate existing neighborhoods, and it is felt the lower interest rate will encourage people to make improvements that they might not be able to afford at the regular rate.

A new law affecting motor vehicle taxes may mean as much as $200,000 in increased revenue for the town. The law, which goes into effect Oct. 1, requires tax payment for new ly acquired vehicles within 30 days after the acquisition. An owner of a new vehicle will have to receive the tax bill before the vehicle can be registered.

Collector of Revenue James Turck said this week revenue from motor vehicle taxes for the 1975-76 fiscal year was $1.5 million. Estimated revenue for fiscal year 1976-77, under the new law, is $1.8 million.

Politics
Vivian Ferguson withdrew Thursday from the race of the Third Senatorial District seat on the Republican State Central Committee. Wallace Irish Jr. is now the only announced candidate for the position, which was vacated when Elinor Hashim moved out of the district.

Fred Piek received the necessary number of signatures to force a primary for Manchester's Republican registrar of voters position. He and Marion Mercer, who received the backing of the GOP Town Committee, will meet in the Sept. 7 primary.

People
Kevin Walsh of 3 Preston Dr. began work Monday as the town's new laboratory technician. Working at the Cooper Hill water laboratory and the town's sewage plant lab, he'll allow Manchester to provide seven-day-a-week coverage of both facilities.

Roy Thompson of Manchester, until last month the secretary of the state agency regulating the funeral industry, said this week that his five-year term on the board was a "lesson in frustration." Thompson, associate director of the Watkins Funeral Home, alleged that the agency isn't doing its job.

Theodore (Ted) LaBonne was named general chairman of the Bicentennial Band Shell Fund Drive.

Manchester Evening Herald published an interesting report Sunday and Monday. Entered at the post office as Second Class Matter.

Business and the consumer
Promoted
George F. Odell of 134 W. Main St. has been promoted to vice president of the W. G. Glenny Co., 536 N. Main St.

Odell joined the local firm in August 1974 as an adviser and assistant to the president. He was formerly secretary-treasurer of Bell Detroit Diesel Inc., a General Motors division. Odell attended the Morris College in Hartford and the Walton School of Commerce in Chicago, and he has completed several management courses. He is a member of the American Management Association.

Colt dividend increased
Directors of Colt Industries have voted to raise the quarterly dividend on the company's common stock from 50 cents a share to 62 1/2 cents a share, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 18.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

I hope you weren't looking for your column in Wednesday's paper, because, as I mentioned before, from now until we start our winter season we will only have news for Saturday's column. Our winter schedule starts the week after Labor Day.

Last Monday we started signing up for the Sterling Gardens trip. We still have about 12 seats left on the second bus and must fill them before we can take the bus. So why not plan on joining us for a real treat and a day away from home. It's really a beautiful sight and you'll enjoy every minute of it. Drop by and sign up; for more information, call our office.

Speaking of trips, this coming Monday we will sign up for that Pennsylvania Dutch three-day trip. The trip is scheduled for Sept. 27, 28 and 29, but to order to be sure of your reservations for the motel we must sign up now. The complete package of $87 includes the air-conditioned bus, a stop on the way to visit "Home of the America," and then on to the new Willow Valley Farm Motor Inn, in Lancaster, where we will stay for the two nights. Upon arrival we're treated to a dinner (included in price) and the rest of the evening will be spent just relaxing at the inn.

The next morning after a hearty breakfast (price included) we meet our favorite guide, Mrs. Anne Buckwalter, who will take us on one of her special tours of Dutch country. That evening will end with a family style dinner (price included) and then back to the motel. The next morning, after a big breakfast (again, included in the price), we head for Hershey Park and the chocolate world. After touring the factory and taking in the sights we will head home and expect to arrive before dark. When signing up for the trip, you must pay at least $45 and the rest of the first part of September. At the time we will be limited to one bus, if by chance we get a large turnout, arrangements will be made to go maybe the next week.

Better get up early
Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. If you really want to go, you had better get up a little earlier than usual. We start signing up around 8 a.m. but many members are in line starting around 5:30 a.m. Remember that one person can sign up for two people and the trips are always open to Manchester residents.

The action here started last Friday's setback scores. We had 44 players and the winners were: Mike Haberman, 141; Archie Houghtaling, 137; Thomas Murphy, 132; Arvid Peterson, 129; Cecile Benson, 127; Robert Schuber, 125; Rene Mairle, 124; Sam Schors, 120; Albert Ouellette, 119; Mina Reuter, 118; and Josephine Schuetz, 117.

Monday afternoon we had 12 tables for pinocle and the winners were: Mike Haberman, 74; Betty Jeanis, 67; Anna Haupt, 67; Leon Fallo, 67; Helena Gavello, 62; Edward Scott, 60; Bessie Mooney, 63; Robert Schuber, 63; Helen Silver, 62; John Gully, 126; Ann Thompson, 62; and Paul Schuetz, 61.

In the afternoon we had four tables for the Pennsylvania Dutch trip and also the Sterling Gardens trip. Monday, 8 a.m., Senior Golf League at the East Hartford Golf Course; 10 a.m. to noon, kitchen social games; 1 p.m., pinocle games. Bus setup at 6:30 a.m., return trips at noon and 3:30 p.m.

Great day outdoors
Thursday was a great day for outdoor shuffleboard and we didn't have an official meeting. However, we heard from our good friend, Mary Rhodes, who is recuperating at Manchester Manor and wishes to thank you folks for the many cards she has received.

Georgia Vinca is still a patient in the hospital and Bea Mader is in St. Francis Hospital for a complete checkup.

Ann Young is at the Meadows and is hoping to get back home in a few more weeks. Let's remember to send them cards.

Storm drain work set
The proposed work includes installation of about 2,300 feet of reinforced concrete pipe from the end of Thompson Rd. to Preston Dr. and on S. Adams St. between Thompson Rd. and Center St. The area has had past flooding problems.

The contract for a storm drainage installation of about 2,300 feet of reinforced concrete pipe from the end of Thompson Rd. to Preston Dr. and on S. Adams St. between Thompson Rd. and Center St. The area has had past flooding problems.

Hospital notes
Discharged Thursday: William Howe, 142 Bissell St.; Andrew Suhie, 55 Hill St.; Lawrence Bousquet, 127 Delmont St.; Marie Hilliard, 127 St. Mary's; Stephanie Oringer, Sierra; Nancy Wask, 105 Lenox St.; Raymond LaPoint, Mansfield Depot; Robert Webb, 564 Tolland Tpke.; Richard Crawford, 144 Birch St. Also, Greta Hare, 6 Kenney St.; Ellington, Ross Roberta, Fitzgerald Blvd.; Coventry, Claudia Clapproad, 238 Vernon Ave., Rockville.

Before You Throw It Away, Check With Ostrinsky First
For over seventy-five years, the Ostrinsky family has been involved in the business of recycling in the town of Manchester. As a past president of the Eastern Paper Mill Suppliers Association, Mr. Abraham I. Ostrinsky has kept abreast of standards and procedures for packaging and presenting a variety of mill product for recycling that has continually met the demand for other than natural resources. Ostrinsky has a constant market for his product, (salvageable material) and has paid his customers higher prices because he has insisted on handling only that type of material which is free of contamination. Environmental Control, resource recovery, and ecology are familiar topics discussed and acted upon by the various mill and secondary handlers associations. It is for the best interest of the public to be concerned with our future for we come into those years that our natural resources dry up it will become mandatory to save as much as possible those resources which can be recycled. You can start now by selling your paper-metal and iron to Ostrinsky at 731 Parker Street, Manchester, Connecticut, Telephone 643-5879.

Strange bedfellows

Politics surely does create strange bedfellows — and the Republican party seems to be out to prove it. First is the pre-nomination selection of Sen. Schweiker by Ronald Reagan to be his running mate, an alliance not based on ideological compatibilities despite the harmony of utterances since the announcement.

Then there is the pressure on President Ford to follow suit which can be only explained, if you understand the politics, of luring your opponents into legitimizing your mistakes by making the same mistakes. This may not be a strange bedfellow-type of thing, but it sure is strange.

But the real cropper seems to be Sen. Buckley's proposed "third world" (of ultra-conservatism) candidacy which he says could give delegates a chance to vote according to their consciences by forcing a second ballot at the Republican convention next week.

Maybe Buckley is looking for a place to bed down, politically speaking, but Reagan has already picked his bunk mate

The lighter side:

The long, green white elephant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It looks like the $2 bill has bombed again, folks. When it was revived last spring after being out of print since 1966, the $2 bill was given a good chance of making a comeback. But now it appears the Treasury has a real turkey on its hands.

SIDE GLANCES by Gill Fox

"The only bumper crop he ever raised was wild oats!"

Bribery still is a form of larceny

WASHINGTON — There is nothing wrong with President Ford's proposal that Congress pass legislation that would require United States businesses to report to the government all substantial payments made in foreign countries to promote sales.

Andrew Tully

Today, many foreign governments don't give a tinker's dam if certain individuals take bribes for granting orders to U.S. businessmen. They would be more likely to crack down on extorters if the U.S. government spread such corrupt practices on the record for all the world to see.

Sheer numbers key to Soviet success

Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — The basic danger of the Soviet arms buildup is not the number of their weapons, nuclear or conventional. Nor is it the size of their warheads, firepower of their navy or the rapidly increasing number of Soviet tanks.

The evidence now suggests that this margin of U.S. scientific and technological advantage is disappearing. The evidence is equally clear that this is not because of a superiority in Russian science or efficiency in military production technology that surpasses ours.

deter would-be foreign extorters from seeking improper payments from American businessmen. Today, many foreign governments don't give a tinker's dam if certain individuals take bribes for granting orders to U.S. businessmen. They would be more likely to crack down on extorters if the U.S. government spread such corrupt practices on the record for all the world to see.

VFW to meet at Gilbert Building

Vernon The Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 1021, has received the approval of the Planning Commission to use the Gilbert Building, 625 Talcottville Rd. as a meeting place.

Vernon youths survive capsizing

Michael Marshall, 15, and Clifford Dutton, 17, both of Vernon, on vacation in Georgia, Vt., spent eight harrowing hours in the waters of Lake Champlain, last week, after their canoe overturned in choppy waters.

They were to meet Marshall's parents about a mile from the island where they had been dropped off the night before on Georgia Shore Rd. About 10 minutes after launching the canoe, the report said, a wave whipped by and capsized it about a half-mile from shore.

Obituaries

Town man killed in cycle accident

James H. Hayes, 22, of 20 Union Court died Friday of injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident Thursday afternoon in Whitefield, N.H.

Hayes' motorcycle swerved off Forest Lake Rd. in Whitefield and struck a large tree Thursday at about 5:30 p.m., police said. He was taken to Littleton, N.H., hospital and later was transferred to Mary Hitchcock Hospital, Hanover, N.H.

A hospital spokesman said Hayes died Friday at 8 a.m. He originally was listed in critical condition, suffering from head, spine, chest and abdominal injuries, the spokesman said.

Mr. Hayes was born Nov. 15, 1953 in Hartford and lived in Manchester most of his life. He attended local schools and was a 1972 graduate of Manchester High School. He was employed as a pipefitter at Pratt and Whitney Division of United Technologies Corp., East Hartford. He was a communicant of St. Bridget Church.

He is survived by his parents, Raymond and Helen Pokarski Hayes of Union Court; a brother, Roy Hayes, at home; a sister, Kathleen Hayes of Broad Brook; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Plechaczyk of Manchester.

The funeral is Monday at 10:15 a.m. from Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with a Mass at St. Bridget Church at 11. Burial will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in St. Bridget Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to St. Bridget Church or to St. Bridget School.

John Lukacik
ROCKVILLE — John Lukacik, 73, of West Yarmouth, Mass., formerly of Rockville, died Thursday in a Clarksville, Mass., convalescent home.

Mr. Lukacik was born in Harrisburg, W.Va., and lived in Rockville most of his life, moving to West Yarmouth six years ago. Before his retirement, he was employed as the Royal Typewriter Co. Hartford.

Survivors are a son, Robert D. Lukacik of Scituate, Mass.; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Sheridan and Mrs. Rose Fontaine, both of New Britain; and Mrs. Mary Landry of Hyannis; and three grandchildren.

Alfred L. MacNeil
Alfred L. MacNeil, 47, of Southbury died Friday at the Newtonington Veterans Hospital. He was the brother of Mrs. Norma Goodin of Manchester.

Mr. MacNeil was survived by five brothers and two other sisters. The funeral is Monday at 8:45 a.m. from Rose Hill Funeral Home, 585 Elm St., Rocky Hill, with a Mass at St. Pius X Church, Westfield, at 9:30. Burial will be in St. Lawrence Cemetery, Southbury.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Ruth A. Clarke
Mrs. Ruth A. Ruddle Clarke of East Orange, N.J., formerly of Manchester, died Friday in the Orange, N.J. hospital.

Mrs. Clarke was born in Manchester and lived for many years in East Orange, where she was a member of the Calvary United Methodist Church. Survivors are a son, Theodore A. Clarke of San Francisco, Calif.; and two sisters, Miss H. Louise Ruddle of Manchester and Mrs. Philip W. Leauge.

The funeral and burial will be private at the convenience of the family.

Robert E. Rumens Sr.
COVENTRY — Robert Edward Rumens Sr., 74, of 2 Valley View Dr., Storrs, formerly of Coventry, died Friday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Ella Christensen Rumens.

Mr. Rumens was born April 30, 1902 in Kent, England, and lived in Coventry for 10 years before moving to Storrs eight years ago. Before his retirement in 1939, he was a policeman with the Sands Point (L.I., N.Y.) Police Department, for 31 years. He was a member of the Sands Point Police Benevolent Association, Nassau County Police Association and a life member of the Atlantic Hook and Ladder Co. of Port Washington, L.I., N.Y.

Other survivors are a son, Robert E. Rumens Jr., of Port Washington, Va.; a stepson, Howard Christensen of Coventry; a sister, Mrs. Edith Hoffman of Delray Beach, Fla.; a granddaughter and two great-grandsons.

The funeral is Tuesday at 10 a.m. from the Sands Point Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester. Burial will be in Grant Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Monday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Private graveside services will be in Grove Hill Cemetery.

The White-Gibson-Smith Funeral Home, 85 Elm St., is in charge of arrangements.

'I won't walk at night for a long, long while'

GROTON (UPI) — Six years ago, Victor Krasnowa's girlfriend was run over and killed by a car. Krasnowa, now 20, was held on $50,000 bail Friday on charges of trying to do the same to two young women who said they never saw him before.

Police said the two women are alive only because other strangers saved them. It was 2 a.m. Thursday when Charlene Bartlett, 19, of New London, and Max Lerzack, 22, of Groton, decided to walk across the Gold Star Memorial Bridge from Groton to visit Charlene's mother in New London, police said.

It happened so fast Maria can't remember it vividly. "It's probably good that I can't. I don't really want to," she said.

"Please say thank you to the men who helped us and say how much Charlene and I appreciate what they did. It's not often nowadays that you find people who will help you. I won't walk at night for a long, long while," Maria said.

Smollen and Rall were trying to open the door on the driver's side of the car. It was locked, Lewis said. "The tires were spinning and the whole area was full of blue smoke. I ran to the CB (citizen's band radio) in my car and called for some cops. The other guys were pounding on the car door," he said.

Lewis grabbed a jack stand and smashed a window. The men hauled a suspect, later identified as Victor Krasnowa, from the vehicle and held him for the police. They tried to comfort the injured women.

Bogner's oust Dick's, A title at stake Monday

Earl Yost Sports Editor

Bitter rivals and one-two finishers in the Silk City League, Bogner's Packers and Trudon's will tangle Monday night for the Recreation Department's Class A Town Slow Pitch Softball Tournament crown.

The Packers, regular season winners, got Dick's American last night at Robertson Park, by the skin of their franks, 8-7 to gain the right to face Trudon in the double elimination event.

Trudon is unbeaten and Bogner's must score two wins Monday to secure the title. A Trudon win in the 7:30 game will mean first to the season and to Bogner's in the postseason play.

Dick's, runner-up in the Connecticut League, nearly pulled a second upset against the Packers. After four innings, the Americans held a 6-2 lead thanks to a one run first frame, three more rallies in the third and one in the fourth.

Bogner's pitched the Bagger offense with a double and triple. Dave Viana and Mike Reardon each collected two bingles and Dave White and Bob Brannick added singles.

Standouts in defeat were Ron LaBriere with three hits and Dave Schirmer, Lytle Eastman and Leo Williams each with two hits.

Bethesda, Md. (UPI) — Most people think Dr. Gil Morgan will be under the most pressure of his brief career trying to protect a four-stroke lead for two more rounds of the PGA Championship.

Morgan finished third alone to win $8,875 and 60th place on the money list with only $331 more than Bobby Cole.

Morgan, who opened with a 66 Thursday, shot a two-under-par 68 Friday in the heat and humidity at Congressional Country Club for a 36-hole total of 134, tying the PGA record for the first two rounds set by Jerry Barber and Bruce Crampton, both of whom eventually lost.

It put him six under par and four shots ahead of Tom Kite, who shot a 72 after a first-round 66.

"I'm just playing pretty good golf for me," said Morgan, who played on the Southern mini-tour in 1972 before he qualified for the regular tour in 1973. "I've probably hit more good shots here than in any other tournament I've played. I put solid rounds

Police report

Police said he was turned over to Chesire police. William R. Lapenta, 29, of Hartford was arrested Friday at 6:45 p.m. on Main St. and charged with driving while his license was suspended.

William C. Muir Jr., 36, of 358 Adams St. was arrested Friday night on a warrant charging him with third-degree burglary and second-degree larceny. The charges stem from a burglary in Cheshire July 14.

Spignesi was taken by Manchester Ambulance to St. Francis Hospital in Hartford with cuts on his scalp and other minor injuries. He was treated and released, a spokesman said.

James V. Spignesi, 23, of West Hartford was charged with reckless driving in connection with a two-car accident today at 12:15 a.m. at Center and Main Sts.

Frederick Archer, 26, of 40 N. Park St., charged Friday afternoon with breach of peace and driving while his license was suspended. Court date is Sept. 15.

Mark Koschwitz, 20, of 85 Vernon Center Rd., Vernon, charged Friday night with reckless driving on Rt. 30. Court date is Sept. 15.

Richard Demay, 19, of 7 Walnut St., Rockville, charged Friday night with reckless driving and driving while under the influence of liquor. On Rt. 30. Court date is Sept. 15.

At the same time, Kansas City's injured-deleted pitching staff began to show signs of wear-and-tear and the Royals have lost five of seven games and their lead has shrunk to seven games.

There are no quitters here," Gene Tenace says. "We're doing everything possible now to get back in the race. The confidence that (Manager) Chuck Tanner has instilled in us has kept us going."

Help sign out

Wanted Coaches: Spec Flavell of the Manchester Miglet Football League reports there is a shortage of volunteer coaches for the 1976 season. Anyone interested is invited to report to Charter Oak Park Monday night when practice sessions start for all five entries.

Another thing that has kept the A's going is pitching. In Friday night's 2-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox, right-hander Mike Norris hurled two-hit ball into the seventh inning, before Tanner called it.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Just as the final nail was about to be hammered into the coffin, the Oakland A's, who at one time were 12 games behind the front-running Kansas City Royals, suddenly resurrected themselves with seven straight victories.

At the same time, Kansas City's injured-deleted pitching staff began to show signs of wear-and-tear and the Royals have lost five of seven games and their lead has shrunk to seven games.

Game-saving catch by Bogner's Dave Viana

Score was deadlocked at time in last inning, 7-7

Dick's, runner-up in the Connecticut League, nearly pulled a second upset against the Packers. After four innings, the Americans held a 6-2 lead thanks to a one run first frame, three more rallies in the third and one in the fourth.

Bogner's pitched the Bagger offense with a double and triple. Dave Viana and Mike Reardon each collected two bingles and Dave White and Bob Brannick added singles.

Standouts in defeat were Ron LaBriere with three hits and Dave Schirmer, Lytle Eastman and Leo Williams each with two hits.

WHEELING, W.Va. (UPI) — Like a traveling salesman, LPGA four-golfer Jerry Britz goes on business trips with a little black book tucked discreetly in her pocket.

Britz' book, actually a deep brown, is not the kind one would have to hide from a jealous spouse. It's strictly work-related — something that helped her take a one-stroke lead with a two-under par 36-34 — 70 going into today's second round of the 850,000 Wheeling-LPGA Classic.

Britz, laughing and flushed with triumph Friday after her best outing since suffering a severe back strain in an auto accident last April, held her book aloft for photographers.

Jets bombed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mark Van Eeghen's 62-yard touchdown run highlighted a 34-point Oakland outbreak in the first half Friday night that carried the unbeaten Raiders to a 41-7 exhibition rout over the winless New York Jets.

A crowd of only 10,726 at Yankee Stadium saw the Raiders, now 3-0, score the first four times they had the ball, have a pass intercepted in the Jets' end zone on the fifth possession and then score again on the sixth.

The Jets, using reserve quarterback Tom Reed, scored twice in the first half as they played their second game in 49 hours, are now 0-3.

Van Eeghen, burst off right tackle and outraced the weary Jets secondary to make the score 20-0 after Jeff Phillips scored from two yards out and Ken Stabler threw a 16-yard TD pass. Pete Banaszak to put Oakland ahead, 13-0.

Reserve quarterback David Humm threw a 12-yard TD pass to Morris Bradshaw to make it 27-0 before the Jets scored on J. J. Jones' 21-yard pass to Lou Piccone.

Veteran Charlie Smith gave Oakland a 34-lead with a four-yard TD run and the Jets' Pat Leahy made it 34-10 at halftime with a 32-yard field goal.

Oakland's third quarterback Mike Rae threw a 25-yard TD pass to ex-Jet Carl Garrett late in the third period for a 41-10 lead before Richard Todd added New York's second touchdown with a 37-yard pass to Clark Gaines.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am wondering if other farm families have this problem with city relatives. We almost have to put locks on everything when they come to visit. The city folks are so antique-crazy, they tear the boards off the barn, pick up fence posts and go snooping through the cupboards to see if maybe we've got some old, beat-up brass or copper pots they can make into lamps. They are always asking how old things are and if we know where they came from. We wouldn't mind if they waited until we discarded something, but I can be sitting on a rocking chair, and they'll ask if I'm ready to throw it out.

DEAR FROM: They'd probably think you were grasping handouts with bad manners, when in fact they are grasping liberties with no class.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law must have at least 200 pictures standing around. They're on her mantle, piano, television and every table in the house. Her walls are also covered with them. All are pictures of her children when they were babies and in various stages of childhood. I have never seen such clutter in my life. Should I tell her that no one cares to see a baby picture of her 35-year-old son naked and on a rug? The "baby" is my husband.

DEAR ABBY: John and I were married in 1970. It was the second time around for both of us. Because of interfering relatives, including eight children and in-laws on both sides, who did everything they could to break up our marriage, we were divorced three years later. The problem is, we still love each other. Despite all the unpleasantness, we forgave each other and continued what has always been a wonderfully loving relationship. We are in our mid-50s and feel ridiculous sneaking around to be together.

DEAR ANON: It's your mother-in-law's home, and apparently she enjoys the collection, so if you don't, keep your eyes closed. And your mouth as well.

DEAR ABBY: I don't like the looks of her house. I should visit her, because my husband is our son. I should visit her, because my husband is our son. I should visit her, because my husband is our son.

DEAR TORN: Your John is a man after my own heart. He's a good man and he's got his own life. Don't worry about your unmarried daughter. She's probably due to leave the nest any day. Enjoy your life. It's a long time later than you think.

Win at Bridge

South checks best play. South saw that if the heart finesse was on he would make six diamonds. He would win the first trick with the queen of hearts, knock out the ace of trumps, draw trumps, discard two of dummy's spades on the long clubs and eventually ruff his lack of spades in dummy's hand.

South also saw that irrespective of where the heart and spade kings were located, North could make at least four hearts. Therefore, South reasoned that his only chance for a high score was to play safe for five diamonds and best anyone who reached six and found the heart finesse.

So South called for dummy's ace of hearts, went after trumps and made his contract right on the nose. It didn't do him much good, but at least it worked out better than finessing the heart, losing the spade finesse if it shifted to a spade and winding up in the tank.

Several readers have asked when a revoke becomes established.

The rule is clear here: It becomes established as soon as the player has his partner's play to the next trick.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am wondering if other farm families have this problem with city relatives. We almost have to put locks on everything when they come to visit.

DEAR FROM: They'd probably think you were grasping handouts with bad manners, when in fact they are grasping liberties with no class.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law must have at least 200 pictures standing around. They're on her mantle, piano, television and every table in the house.

DEAR ANON: It's your mother-in-law's home, and apparently she enjoys the collection, so if you don't, keep your eyes closed.

DEAR ABBY: I don't like the looks of her house. I should visit her, because my husband is our son.

DEAR TORN: Your John is a man after my own heart. He's a good man and he's got his own life.

The anatomy of a nomination

By RONALD E. COHEN
 KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The old movie star, gray hairs cosmetically disguised, declared on a chilly Washington November morn that he wanted the GOP presidential nomination. Many chuckled and gave him little chance.

Through five late-winter primaries, his candidacy was turning into a national joke, his strategy was in disarray, he had failed dismally in states he had banked on winning.

Then, with the first robins winging north, he won the North Carolina primary. Nobody is laughing at Ronald Reagan any more.

How could a man who looked like a loser in Kansas go to the national convention in August against an incumbent president with the party's nomination still up for grabs?

There have been many explanations. They range from the inadequacy of Ford as a campaigner to strategic blunders a sitting president never should make. They include the argument that it is an anti-Washington year. They note that Reagan cannily consolidated his campaign to reduce the scatter-gun effect. They say Ford was an appointed president, a man who never had stood for office outside his hometown.

All these play a part. Even if Ford wins in Kansas City, histories will be written about how the gunslinger from the West rode out of the sunset and almost denied a president the nomination.

And a Reagan win would mark the first time a president had been denied the nomination since 1884, when James G. Blaine defeated President Chester A. Arthur on the fourth ballot at the Republican convention in Chicago.

For Ford, the key primaries were New Hampshire and Florida, where he blunted Reagan's bid to make him look like an early loser and force him out of the race; Michigan, holding his home state just when Reagan's momentum was strong; and New Jersey and Ohio on the last primary day, where he neutralized Reagan's 167-delegate win in California.

For Reagan, the key states were North Carolina, where he finally proved he could win; Texas, the cornerstone of his Sunbelt Strategy with 96 delegates; Indiana, where he showed he could beat Ford outside the South; and California, with its rich, winner-take-all delegate harvest.

Here is a primary-by-primary rundown of election campaign — the anatomy of a nomination.

Feb. 24 — Ford narrowly defeated Reagan 51 to 49 per cent in New Hampshire, a state both had labored hard to win. The margin was less than 2,000 votes out of almost 110,000. But slim though the margin, it badly hurt Reagan's strategy of whipping Ford in the early primaries and forcing the President to pull out.

March 2 — Ford easily defeated Reagan 2-1 in Massachusetts where both were on the ballot, and was unopposed in Vermont's beauty contest. Neither campaigned hard in the states and Reagan clearly was pointing for the Florida primary next week. After three primaries, Ford led in delegates 42-17.

March 9 — Ford again trimmed Reagan, this time in Florida's crucial primary by a 53-47 per cent margin. The loss, by 36,000 votes, left the Californian's campaign in shambles and forced Reagan to adopt his "Sunbelt Strategy" — in which he would concentrate on the South and Southwest and cede other primaries to the President.

March 16 — Reagan's hope for "a miracle" in his native state of Illinois did not materialize. Ford won a smashing victory, 59-40 per cent, and came out with a total of 160 delegates to Reagan's 55. Ford called his win "a real clincher," and his aides urged Reagan to concede defeat and "throw in his lot with the President."

March 23 — Reagan's campaign got a dramatic rebirth in North Carolina, a state where Ford was overconfident. It was the first time since Estes Kefauver beat Harry Truman in New Hampshire in 1972 that a president seeking another term had been beaten in a primary. The numbers looked like this: Reagan 101,488 — 52 per cent; Ford 88,924 — 46 per cent. But Ford still led in delegates, 205 to 81.

April 6 — Ford won big in Wisconsin, drubbing Reagan 55 to 45 per cent. In New York, Ford also was the overwhelming winner, although the delegates he will count on were elected uncommitted on a slate controlled by Nelson Rockefeller. At the end of the day's activities, Ford had 251 delegates to Reagan's 86 — with 166 officially uncommitted.

April 27 — Ford won in Pennsylvania, unchallenged by Reagan, and picked up huge blocs of delegates elected officially uncommitted. He now had 291 delegates to 135 for Reagan and 294 uncommitted.

May 1 — Reagan stunned Ford with a massive victory in the Texas primary. Showing his Sunbelt Strategy was beginning to pay off, Reagan took advantage of large crossover voting by Democrats to win all 96 Texas delegates. There was no popular vote, but clearly Reagan had destroyed Ford in a state the President had hoped to win.

May 4 — Reagan jumped right back into the thick of the race for the nomination. Helped by the momentum built up in Texas, Reagan narrowly defeated Ford 51 to 49 per cent in Indiana and swamped the President in Georgia and Alabama. He forged ahead in the delegate tally for the first time, 359-318.

May 11 — Ford and Reagan split two primaries, Ford winning big in West Virginia and Reagan the easy victory Nebraska. The delegate race stood at 426-331 for Reagan, with 313 uncommitted.

May 18 — Ford turned what had been expected to be a close race in his home state of Michigan into a rout, destroying Reagan 65 to 34 per cent, and won by almost as big a margin in Maryland. Ford picked up 98 new delegates to pull closer in the total, 524 to 455.

May 25 — Ford narrowly won in Oregon and Kentucky and upset Reagan in Tennessee. But the California took Idaho, Nevada and Arkansas by landslides. With Rockefeller turning over huge blocs of his delegates to Ford before the day's primaries, and a number of Pennsylvania delegates announcing for the President, the delegate tally now was Ford 794, Reagan 640, uncommitted 129.

June 1 — Ford won Rhode Island, but was defeated by Reagan in South Dakota and Montana. Following the next-to-last primary Tuesday, Ford led in delegate strength 822-651, with 132 uncommitted.

Ronald and Nancy Reagan

June 8 — Reagan stayed in the running by winning all 167 delegates in his home state of California, drubbing Ford by 65-35 per cent. But Ford captured Ohio and 91 of its 97 delegates, and won the popular vote in New Jersey — and although the 67 delegates in the Garden State were elected uncommitted, Ford could count on the lion's share at the convention. So at the end of the primaries, Ford had 914, Reagan 857, and 203 were uncommitted.

The men just about split the delegates that hadn't been picked in primaries but were chosen at state conventions and caucuses in Connecticut, Delaware, Minnesota, Colorado, North Dakota and several other states.

Now the battle truly began. Both the Ford and Reagan camps began wooing the uncommitted delegates who held the key to the nomination. Almost daily, reports came from the respective camps of new successes in convincing the fence-sitters.

Long distance telephone lines burned between Reagan's ranch in California and the homes of uncommitted delegates. The phone bills rose as the White House also applied the pressure on the uncommitteds.

Television cameras recorded Reagan campaign manager John Sears describing how two delegates from this state and one from that had joined the Californian's column.

Ford delegate hunter James Baker would respond — usually within a couple of hours — that the Reagan figures were inflated. And he generally had a few new claims of his own.

Rogers Morton, the Ford campaign manager, claimed his man was over the top.

Sears retorted that Reagan had 1,140 delegates — 10 more than needed for nomination.

But it was clear both sides were jousting for advantage, playing the numbers game to the hilt. But those numbers were questionable.

Finally, on July 26, Reagan dropped his bombshell.

Breaking with tradition, he announced that his running-mate would be liberal Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania — a man whose political philosophy seemed poles apart from the Californian, coming from a state with a rich harvest of uncommitted delegates.

There was a firestorm of protest from many Republicans. Some — mostly Ford backers — called it the cynical and desperate act of a man who knew he was going to lose.

A couple of Reagan backers defected.

By and large, the storm seemed to have settled in the week before the convention. On balance, ostensibly few delegates were lost or won by the move.

Reagan's choice of Schweiker probably would be the key at Kansas City. The delegates would ultimately decide whether it was a brilliantly bold decision that turned the nomination to the Californian, or a gross miscalculation of the mood of the party that sullied an otherwise strategically sound campaign.

But one thing was clear. Ronald Reagan had gone farther than even his most diehard supporters had dare dream.

Gerald and Betty Ford

If Reagan wins, Ford preference for veep may never be known

STEVE GERSTEL
 KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — If Ronald Reagan wins the GOP presidential nomination he will recommend as his running-mate Richard Schweiker and no one may ever know whom President Ford might have chosen.

Reagan, the California conservative, reached far to his geographical east and his philosophical left to pick Schweiker, a liberal Pennsylvania senator.

In an unprecedented move, Reagan announced his choice well before the opening of the National Convention in what was an admitted attempt to break through the Northeast for badly needed delegates.

Despite proddings from Reagan lieutenants to do the same, Ford has decided to adhere to tradition and name his running-mate only if and after he wins the GOP nomination.

Reagan's decision to unveil his potential vice presidential candidate was a high-risk gamble to pick up Northern liberal delegates without losing his own Southern conservative strength.

Ford's traditional path also offers some risks, mainly because delegates have to gamble he will choose someone to their liking.

Ford is getting — and accepting — all the advice he can. But Ford's staff has made it clear the President will do the choosing.

There are two routes Ford can take — to the North and to the South. The top choice among the conservatives is still Reagan. They are convicted a Ford-Reagan ticket — if Reagan can't win the nomination — is the best the GOP can field.

But Reagan repeatedly has said he would not take the second spot, and Sen. John Tower of Texas, a Ford strategist, said the chances of the "dream ticket" have faded.

The second choice among Southerners and conservatives may be former Texas Gov. and Treasury Secretary John Connally, highly regarded by Ford.

But Northerners and liberals have already warned against Connally, charging he is too closely tied to the morality of the Watergate era.

The Northern liberals probably would be happiest with a re-run of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller or Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, one of the heroes of Watergate.

One of the few considered capable of pleasing — although not enrapturing most Republicans — Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, a Southerner but not a hard-line conservative.

There are other names in speculation that would please one or the other of the two wings of the party — liberals like Sens. Charles Percy of Illinois or Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, and conservatives like Sens. Robert Dole of Kansas, Bill Brock of Tennessee or James Buckley of New York.

Or Ford could settle on a governor — perhaps Dan Evans of Washington or Christopher Bond of Missouri, or more probably the highly regarded Robert Ray of Iowa; or a member of his administration — perhaps Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld or Treasury Secretary William Simon.

There also is the possibility — not completely discounted — that the convention would shatter tradition and deny the presidential candidate his choice of a running mate.

Some, including Rep. Phillip M. Crane of Illinois, plan to run a conservative vice presidential candidate against Schweiker if Reagan wins. Taking into account that the delegates are predominantly conservative, Schweiker might get whipped.

A similar challenge could come against Ford's choice of a running-mate, especially should he turn out to be too liberal for the delegates.

On 'Manchester Profile'

Next week's "Manchester Profile" show on cable television will feature a look at the town as it was in the early 20th Century, contrasted to the Manchester of today.

The videotaped program will air at 6 p.m. Wednesday through Friday on Greater Hartford CATV Channels 13 and 21.

Director Mark Hirschfeld said the production staff made use of tapes from Manchester Community College's Oral History Project in preparing the historical feature.

Next week's show will be the last in the summer series of "Manchester Profile." Future plans for public cablecasting haven't been determined.

Diahann Carroll premieres in her own summer show tonight at 10 on CBS-TV.

Ask Kleiner
By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Is Mike, in All In The Family, going to be written out of the show at the end of the season? If so, is he going to get a show of his own? MICHELE ADERNOLD, Monett, Mo.

What happens at the end of this coming season of All In The Family is anybody's guess at the moment. When the show started, they all signed seven-year contracts, and this is the seventh year. So all the contracts are up. This probably means that the show will end, and whether or not Mike (Rob Reiner) gets another show remains to be seen.

DEAR DICK: I read in a magazine that Lindsay Wagner was killed in a plane crash. Is this true? LOUISE ARSENAULT, Abram's Village, P.E.I., Can.

DEAR DICK: I read that Lindsay Wagner (the Bionic Woman) was killed in an automobile accident. Is this true? MARK LAYOIE, St. Eleanors, P.E.I., Can.

Neither is true — Lindsay wasn't killed in an automobile accident or a plane crash or by a low-flying frisbee. She was in an auto accident, but recovered from her injuries.

DEAR DICK: Would the Bionic Woman have to shave her legs? My friend and I were curious about that. MIGGI RYERSBAEL, Williamsport, Pa.

To tell you the truth, that has never come up before. I suppose a real bionic person would have all the latest improvements, including hairless limbs. Maybe even a stomach that resists indigestion. But bionic people are fictional.

DEAR DICK: Is there such a thing as a legitimate stunt school? My son would like to become a stunt man. He met a fellow in New Mexico who told him he could get him into a stunt school, but it would cost $800 for two days. Is that how to get started? MRS. L. R., Canton, Ohio

No. That's obviously a racket. I put your question to Hal Needham, one of Hollywood's top stunt men. His reply: "There is no such animal as a stunt school. It's something you learn by doing. If your son is still in school, he should go for tumbling and the gym team, swim and dive, learn as much as he can about cars, motorcycles and horses. To be a stuntman — and the competition is fierce — you have to be an actor first, because you must be a member of the Screen Actors Guild. And you have to get a part before you can join the union. It's tough, but that's the way it's always been."

DEAR DICK: I was wondering about Peter Frampton, whose hit song is "Show Me the Way." I would like all the information you can get on him — how old is he, where was he born, if he is married or single and all that good stuff. BEVERLY CARTY, Halesville, Tex.

Here's the good stuff: Frampton is an Englishman, just turned 26, and in the process of getting a divorce, so he is reasonably free at the moment. He's been around a long time, first with groups (The Herd and then Humble Pie) and on his own. He made five albums before he hit it big with "Show Me the Way." His is one of the major success stories of 1976.

DEAR DICK: Since the world is so heavily populated with talented people, why must there be so many poor actors and actresses on soap operas? SHARON MCIVER, Kinkora, P.E.I., Can.

Most soap operas have a few talented people in key roles, then fill out the balance of the cast with less talented performers. The reason, of course, is economic — the reason for everything is economic. Non-talented actors cost less than talented ones. Actually, you'll get an argument about your thesis from some people, however. There are those who say acting on the average soap opera is better than on the average prime time dramatic show.

DEAR DICK: Whatever happened to that handsome star of films of the '40s, Dennis Morgan? Where is he, what is he doing, how old is he now? ELLEN C., Sacramento, Ca.

Dennis Morgan, at 65, still works, but mostly in the theater now. He recently, for example, replaced the ailing Pat O'Brien in a touring show.

DEAR DICK: Is Ronald Reagan (President-Elect) a Catholic and, if not, what religion is he? B.J.F., Columbus, Kas.

In the first place, your parenthetical phrase is a little premature, to say the least. In the second place, if you like the man, as you obviously do, what difference does his religion make?

St. George's slays the dragon on a coin

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

Here is St. George, the patron saint of England, busily endangering a species of dragon. It is happening on a five-shilling piece, otherwise a crown, that was made up for the 1951 Festival of Britain. The head is that of the then-reigning monarch, but the battle scene was designed by the medalist Benedetto Pistrucci in 1816. The creation was squashed down a bit to fit into the narrower confines of a stamp (G.B. 1951, Scott No. 288).

Stamps and coins

The motif first appeared on a coin called a "George noble" at the time of Henry VIII. The Pistrucci design was developed during the reign of a king lately the target of a long-standing grudge — George III. It was minted from 1818 through 1822. It was dropped for several decades, then revived in 1887 and continued under Victoria and Edward VII.

In 1935 there was substituted "a sleek streamlined St. George crushing a modernistic dragon" a production looking for all the world like something made by United Nations stamp artist.

Then for the 1951 Festival, the real thing again.

The Pistrucci design was also used on copper pence and half-pence by Bank of Upper Canada (Toronto) in 1850 through '57.

I have indicated a certain sympathy for the dragon but actually he was all bad and deserved extinction. The story goes that St. George slew him to save the life of a maiden, Alexandria or Sabra, depending on where you read about it. (There are several long-winded tales extant that involve magicians and spell-casting).

St. George is believed to have been the son of the High Steward of Coventry about 300 A.D. He went off to the Crusades and rescued the daughter of the king of Egypt who was about to give herself up to a fire-breathing dragon to save others. He has been the patron saint of England since the 14th Century — April 23 is the official St. George's Day. The hoofprints of his horse are purportedly on the wall of a churchyard in Y Faerdref, Denbighshire.

Catalog for tiny place

Would you believe that any place as tiny as the Pitcairn Islands could inspire a specialized stamp catalog? It's true — just published in Dubbo, New South Wales. It has 128 pages with illustrations and maps.

It tells about watermarks, imprints, varieties, booklets with a word about some fake assemblies, details on forgeries.

And there's more — commemorative cachets, air letters, radio covers and a list of markings: postal, registration, directional, and so on. And there is also a list of the early ships associated with the history of Pitcairn and the mutiny on the Bounty.

It is a philatelically active country. Just about all of its 145 stamps listed in the 1976 Scott's are priced higher in the 1977 edition. What if Pitcairn had four square miles instead of two and 150 people instead of 74?!

Scott's II due

And about Scott's, the new Volume II is due Monday. Have been looking over the first volume of the four we are getting this year (splurged on a hard cover again). We have heard murmurings about the poor paper but it seems to be no worse. What is bad is that some of their older plates have given up the ghost and are putting out unhappy dark blots instead of stamp pictures.

There are said to be 6,000 new listings and 100,000 price changes. The recently numbered pages have increased from 670 to 733. There are xviii pages of front material, A1-5 in the Addenda, F1-14 in For the Record, and an Index and Identifier and six pages of "Save the World" unmarked.

Back along I had an idea of setting up a "Let's-Put-The-Number-On-Every-Darned-Page Society to fight this sort of thing but couldn't decide how to pronounce "LPTNOEDPS."

CB radio a lifesaver as much as a novelty

By INK DIPPER

There are many people wondering today what CBers are like, what makes them tick, are they different than their fellow-Americans.

The music which has emerged to reach best-seller lists and most-played on popular radio stations indicate that CBers are "folksy" and friendly. From the big hit by C. W. McCall, "Convoy," to Cledus Maggard's "White Knight," both telling a story about CBing with a touch of humor, to the current sad one: "Teddy Bear," there is the single strain of togetherness among those who modulate.

A crippled lad whose Daddy was a trucker and killed in a blinding snow storm wreck, yaks with a trucker on his father's CB. The boy's handle is "Teddy Bear."

He desperately wants to ride an 18-wheeler again. The trucker says his "freight can wait" as he U-turns to go to the boy's home to give him that ride.

Upon arriving there, he finds that he wasn't the only one monitoring Channel 19. The block in front of the house is lined up with 18-wheelers giving "Teddy Bear" the rides he wanted so much. They, too, were expressing their compassion.

The ability to mobilize people to help in times of need is manifest all over the country. Wherever there are CBers. Not long ago in Snohomish, Wash., 19 CBers pitched in to help when the worst winter-time flooding in 50 years inundated the fertile Snohomish River Valley. According to the CB Times-Journal, the club members used their CB units 24 hours a day. They monitored Channel 9 for distress calls and used four channels to coordinate their rescue efforts. They went into action overnight and kept the endeavor going for an entire week. No money. No overtime pay. Just helping out.

In the Ohio River Valley, CBers from Pittsburgh to Parkersburg, W.Va., and from Columbus to Harrisburg, a base station is operated almost constantly by a watchful and helpful lady, Mrs. Jerry Hoyt. Known throughout the area as "The Swami," rarely a day passes when she has not handled some distress call.

Few have met her, but her smiling voice: "Break ... break ... this is The Swami lookin' at ya' on channel 10 ... come on back" ... is truly famous. She has traced a trucker on the wrong medication by putting out a 10-33 and the relay help of a Cber in Nova Scotia, jawed a Cber who was "a little drunk" home without mishap; and by instant action saved the life of a little girl seriously hurt.

Attesting to this new spirit of comradeship, Gus, a St. Bernard dog, was on a training trip, learning to carry a backpack. High in the Sandia Mountains behind Albuquerque on the La Luz trail, Gus' feet became raw from the rock and gravel. He could no longer keep up.

Weighing over 200 pounds, Gus' exhaustion and wounded paws literally flattened him. His owners skied to the nearest Forest Service phone. Through a relay with Albuquerque's Citizen Band and Rescue Team, Gus was carried safely home to recuperate.

The exploits of CBers who do not even know each other, but who respond to a distress call with a singleness of purpose, reminds one of the pioneering days when covered wagons criss-crossed our country. Helping out was a way of life for those early settlers. CBing offers this same flavor and spirit in 1976.

The fun in ratchet-jawing is amplified with unit of purpose in helping out. Does this make CBers different than their fellow-Americans?

This artist deals in disappearing art

DALLAS (UPI) — Phillip Lamb's artwork is here today, gone tomorrow.

For hours he'll labor over one of his 24 Etch-a-Sketches, working for the last detail. But then he gives the device a couple of soft shakes, and the most intricate drawing disappears.

"I wouldn't be doing justice to Etch-a-Sketch as an artform if I allowed a drawing to be preserved," he said.

Lamb, 24, has elevated the red plastic children's toy into a form of pop art. "Art is intangible," he declared.

What drawings Lamb does preserve, if briefly, often find their way to galleries for exhibition. But the transporting and hanging often become problems in themselves.

Several months ago while preparing a Fort Worth museum exhibit, several of his Etch-a-Sketches were accidentally shaken en route and the drawings partially destroyed.

"I thought it was kind of neat," he said. "That's the nature of the Etch-a-Sketch, so I hung the drawings anyway."

By twisting two white knobs — one controlling the vertical and the other the horizontal — he makes a stylus placed under a television-like window scrape away aluminum filings from the glass surface. What's left is either a straight, curved or diagonal line.

With his hands, his Etch-a-Sketch and his satiric imagination, Lamb can whip out a quick portrait, a landscape or an abstract interpretation — whatever can be done with pencil and paper.

For his Bicentennial show this year he conjured up a sequence beginning with children blowing themselves up with fireworks and ending 22 absurd Etch-a-Sketches later with the end of the world.

Lamb says he's not only satirizing his sketch subjects, but also the idea of art.

"Hanging toys in the gallery is satirizing the importance of gallery space," he said. "And watching people admire it is part of the satire."

"But the display also could be appreciated by anybody — a kid who tried the Etch-a-Sketch, a heavy art person into the thematic development, someone who appreciated the humor."

Though Lamb isn't always sure what his art shows will include, he always knows how they'll end.

The night the Bicentennial show ended he strolled quietly through the gallery, walked from elaborate sketch to elaborate sketch, and shook them.

And by the way
