The line was long, long at MCC today

Hundreds of would-be Manchester Community College students formed long lines today as they waited to register for the fall term in the MCC auditorium at the main campus on Bidwell St. This view, which shows only about one-fifth of the lines, was taken on the upper parking lot near the ramp which leads to the campus below. Registration was for general fund classes which will continue from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. through Wednesday. Registration for community service courses are from 2 to 7 p.m. today through Wednesday.

Carter and Ford making plans for their march into history

By DEAN REYNOLDS
United Press International

The race is on. President Ford and Jimmy Carter, two men almost no one would have picked four years ago as candidates for the White House, have begun their three-month march into history.

Debates, oft-mentioned but seldom used by presidential candidates, claimed much of the early planning time by both camps during the week-end.

White broad outlines for the fall campaign were sketched, Ford and Carter named emissaries to work out details for the face-off expected to begin Sept. 28 in St. Louis under the auspices of the League of Women Voters.

Ford, vacationing in Vail, Colo., is sending an aide to Washington Thursday and Carter will send his press secretary, Jody Powell, to meet with him and the League's representatives in preparation for the encounter.

The President opens political strategy planning today in meetings with top aides Rogers C.B. Morton and Stuart Spencer. Carter is on a Western foray "to provide early exposure in an area where we didn't campaign as extensively during the primaries," aides said.

The outline of Carter's fall strategy appeared to call for major efforts in California, the industrial midlands and the Northeast, a reflection of Carter's confidence that he can return his native South to the Democratic column this year.

His aides said Carter's concerted post-Labor Day effort will begin with an appearance at Warm Springs, Ga.

Hold Egyptair jetliner passengers hostage

Arab hijackers demand release of prisoners

CAIRO (UPI) — Arab gunmen today hijacked an Egyptian jetliner carrying foreign and Arab tourists from Cairo to Luxor. They threatened to blow up the plane unless five Arabs detained for plotting their leader is a Libyan and they belong to a new guerrilla group named after the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser, the spokesman said.

A party of Egyptian officials headed by Premier Mahmoud Salem and War Minister Gen. Mohammed Gannay flew to Luxor, a winter resort 450 miles south of Cairo, for negotiations with the hijackers. An interior ministry spokesman said the gunmen demanded the release of: — A Palestinian and a South Yemeni who were detained earlier this month for making an abortive attempt on the life of Mohammed Ali Haitham, a former Premier of South Yemen, who also lives in exile in Cairo. — Authorities are studying the hijackers' demands and negotiations are continuing in order to reach a solution which would guarantee the safety of the passengers," the spokesman said.

The plane had taken off from Cairo at 7:15 a.m. (1:15 a.m. EDT).

Grain hopper fire nipped in the bud

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

A ton and a half of brewers grain, an ingredient used in livestock feed, was destroyed in a potentially serious fire Sunday at the Central Connecticut Cooperative Farmers Association at 10 Apple St., Manchester.

Six Eighth District fire fighters were overcome by smoke and heat while dousing the smoldering grain, and they were treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital and released.

Emanuel Hirth, general manager of the Cooperative, said the 3,000 pounds of grain was worth about $200. He said there was no damage to the steel hopper which held the grain and he lauded Eighth District volunteers for their efforts.

A Cooperative employee coming to work early Sunday discovered the fire and called the fire department at 6:35 a.m. The grain had apparently been smoldering all night, and the building was overheated and filled with smoke, firemen said.

The Eighth District men responded with Engine 1 and Ladder and Rescue Truck 5, and the Town Fire Department was called at 6:55 a.m. and sent Ladder Truck 2 for standby.

Fire fighters laid about 600 feet of three-inch hose to the Cooperative from a hydrant at the corner of Apple St. and Oakland St. They then lifted two 1 1/2-inch lines about 60 feet to attack the grain fire from the top of the tall building.

At the same time, firemen cut a hole into the steel hopper to douse the grain from the bottom as well as from the top. A total of about 2,000 gallons of water was poured into the hopper, an enclosed structure about 20 feet square and 40 feet deep.

A second alarm was sounded at 8:11 a.m., fire fighters said because of the hazardous situation within grain elevators. Grain dust has been known to ignite and explode, they said, and there was always the potential for a much more serious fire.

Asst. Fire Chief John Christensen, officer in charge at the scene, said there suffered while fighting the fire inside the Cooperative building if the fire had been discovered at an early stage.

Christensen said both Eighth District and Town fire fighters have conducted drills at the Cooperative, and preplanning helped firemen in their efforts to douse Sunday's fire.

The blaze was declared under control at 8:20 a.m., but fire fighters remained on the scene for another hour to clean up and watch for any further problems.

Hirth said cleanup operations were finished by noon Saturday, and everything was back to normal today.

The six fire fighters temporarily overcome by the smoke and heat were Gary Zito, 20; David Hiers, 20; Leland Warts, 39; Wayne Tripp, 18; William Parker, 25; and John Scarfo, 38.

Another three Eighth District men were treated at the scene for minor cuts suffered while fighting the fire.

A total of 40 firemen responded to the blaze — 36 Eighth District men and four Town men.

Congress returns to work on postal system problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returned today from the busy atmosphere of presidential politics — in the case of Democrats, from vacation — to face a more down-to-earth problem: how to make the country's postal system work properly.

That was the first issue facing the Senate following the congressional return for the Republican national convention. The House was working on bills dealing with the District of Columbia and control of toxic substances.

The Postal Service, set up in 1971 as a semi-autonomous, subsidized business, is working its way up to a $4.5 billion deficit while cutting services.

Same day delivery in downtown areas has been dropped. Local mail has been mixed with area mail, slowing it down. Collections from corner mailboxes have been limited. Door-to-door service is absent in newly built-up areas. Many air tax routes have been dropped.

The postal budget is not part of the overall federal budget which Congress annually approves. The service operates on its own budget and survives through authority to borrow money from the Treasury.

"If it were truly a business, the United States Postal Service would be bankrupt," says a Senate report.

A bill before the Senate would tie the service over with $1 billion in additional subsidies during now and September 1977, would prohibit further service cuts and set up a 12-member commission to figure out a long-range solution by Feb. 15, 1977.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., is trying to get the Senate to go further.

Hollings proposed a substitute which, in addition to the $1 billion subsidy, would put the Postal Service back under the federal budget and congressional control, would abolish

Waterbury brass mill workers reject pay cut proposal

WATERBURY (UPI) — Union workers of the Anaconda Company's Brass Division Sunday rejected a proposal by the company to cut wages and benefits by $2 an hour.

The company had said for reduced contract was necessary to keep its three mills open. It was going ahead with plans to shut down the mills by Nov. 30, displacing about 400 jobs.

Anaconda President Willard T. Chamberlain said he was "personally disappointed" with the vote.

Leo Bruglio, president of the 370-member Local 1078, United Auto Workers Union, said the 250 members present overwhelmingly rejected the offer. Bruglio said only about 100 union workers at the tube mills would lose their jobs. He said another 300 employees, including 100 union members, will either be transferred or will retire due to the shutdown.

Anaconda said it was losing money on the three mills and would have to close the factories and sell the machinery unless the union agree to the pay cuts.

Bruglio said most workers at the mills had enough seniority to be assured of transfers to other Anaconda plants in Waterbury.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso and Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., had offered to help try to keep the mills from closing down.

Mrs. Grasso Saturday announced a special plan to help Waterbury, Bristol, Ansonia, and Bridgeport, the three cities hardest hit by the recent declines in the brass industry.

She said the three-part program was designed to help restore some of the 3,000 jobs lost in the brass industry in the past few years "and provide new opportunities for workers and their families who are struggling to overcome the adverse effects of this decline."

The plan includes: — State financial assistance in the form of industrial revenue bonds, mortgage guarantees and small business loans to help new businesses become established in the affected areas. — Low-interest loans to encourage

No rest in Missouri for two at convention

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

It wasn't a very restful way to spend 7 days' vacation, but both Elinor Hashim and Carol Kuehl have no regrets about going to the Republican National Convention.

The two were among the 100-member group of Connecticut delegates, guests, and press who went to Kansas City for the Republican get-together.

"There's no substitute for the thrill of actually being there when the nomination is made," Ms. Hashim, who moved earlier this month from Manchester to Glastonbury, said.

Ms. Hashim was an alternate delegate from the First Congressional District. She had no voting status, but was able to spend some time on the convention floor.

The excitement of the entire event, the first she has attended, impressed her.

Because the race was so close, there was a great deal of excitement in the air," she said. "There was a lot more emotion shown in Kansas City than at any recent Republican convention."

Ms. Hashim and Mrs. Kuehl both commented on the hospitality of Kansas City residents.

"The people in Kansas City were very warm and very friendly," Mrs. Kuehl said. She mentioned that when they arrived the Saturday before the convention, there were "Welcome

Reilly prosecutor dies

NORTH CANAAN (UPI) — Litchfield County State's Attorney John F. Bianchi, the prosecutor in the Peter Reilly murder case, was stricken and died Sunday while playing golf. He was 54.

Police said the attorney, Litchfield County's chief prosecutor since 1972, was stricken while on the fourth fairway at the Canaan Country Club. An autopsy was ordered because the death was considered untimely, state police said.

Bianchi obtained a manslaughter conviction against Reilly in 1974 but a Superior Court judge, who ruled "a grave injustice had been done," last March ordered a new trial for Reilly and a decision has not been reached yet on whether to retry Reilly, now 21.

Reilly retained an alleged confession obtained after long hours of questioning and maintained his innocence during the trial. He was accused of beating and slaying his mother, Barbara Gibbons, 51, Sept. 28, 1972, in their small home on Rt. 63 in Canaan.

Reilly, who was freed soon after the trial on $60,000 to appear at a 6-18-76 year sentence, drew national attention when literary figures joined in his defense appeals begun by townspeople.

Among those speaking in behalf of Reilly were Pulitzer playwright Arthur Miller and author William Styron, who credited Reilly's retrial to a magazine article on the case written by Joan Barthel. The case was later reported in depth in the New York Times and it was the subject of a "60 Minutes" report by CBS.

In ordering a retrial on March 28, Judge John A. Spziale criticized development of the case. He held seven weeks of hearings during which the defense alleged others may have been involved in the slaying, evidence was withheld, and time elements made it questionable that Reilly could have been at the scene when the crime was committed.

Spziale said in his lengthy report it was "more than likely that a different result will be reached" in a retrial.

As late as July 14, Bianchi said state planned to go ahead with the retrial but, unlike the first trial, Reilly would be charged with manslaughter "because of a fear of double jeopardy," but said then he did not know when he would file it.

Bianchi, a lifelong resident of North Canaan, graduated from Holy Cross in 1944 and Forham Law School in 1949.

A World War II Navy veteran, he was town council and circuit court prosecutor until his appointment in 1972 as State's Attorney.

He is survived by his widow, Charlotte Kasper Bianchi, his brother, John A., and a daughter, Susan.

Town may get Urban Systems refund

The Town of Manchester may get a rebate of some of its deposit on a federally aided reconstruction and widening of W. Middle Tpk. and Adams St., according to the governor's office.

Gov. Ella Grasso has announced that the Delta Construction Co. Inc. of Enfield has been awarded the contract for the road work, at a price of $1,359,507.

A spokesman said the original cost estimate for the work was about $1.7 million, and based on that figure, the Town of Manchester sent in a deposit of $333,525.

Since the contract price is substantially lower than anticipated, the town will get some of its money back, the spokesman said.

The W. Middle Tpk. and Adams St. work is financed approximately 15 per cent by the town, 15 per cent by the state, and 70 per cent by the federal government under the Urban Systems Program.

Della Construction Co. has 45 days in which to begin work, and the contract calls for completion of the job in 593 calendar days.

Involved are a 5,000-foot section of W. Middle Tpk. and a 4,300-foot section of Adams St.

Both roadways will be rebuilt and widened. W. Middle Tpk., now varying from 22 to 38 feet in width, will be rebuilt to a uniform 46 feet. Adams St., now varying from 20 to 26 feet in width, will be rebuilt to a uniform 30 feet.

Both streets will be returned to Town of Manchester control and maintenance when the Urban Systems project is finished.

Getting a handle on the CB boom

The hottest topic of interest this year is not the Bicentennial or even the presidential election. Be advised, good buddy, that it's Citizens Band (CB) radio.

CB has captured the fancy and imagination of Americans like almost nothing since the advent of home television three decades ago. Everyone, from truck drivers (who started the current boom during the 1973 gasoline shortage) to stay-at-home, from school kids to the nation's First Lady (known by her "handle" as First Mama) seems to want to communicate by radio.

One measure of this soaring interest is the number of Federal CB licenses. The Federal Communications Commission's issuing office in Gettysburg, Pa., is being swamped with half a million applications each month, compared to 30,000 a month a few years ago.

Another measure is the mushrooming appearance of the CB market. There are now at least 40 magazines devoted to CB, according to a public relations-public affairs specialist, reporting on a just completed survey of the field. This time last year, there were only four. Another seven magazines, all of them less than a year old, deal with CB trade subjects such as marketing and retailing.

CB is also invading the newspapers and finding a place alongside the crossword puzzles and bridge columns. Newspaper Enterprises Association has just introduced a weekly column called "CB Convoc." ("Convoc" is CB-ese for conversation) which is carried in The Herald's weekend magazine.

In addition, the wire services are producing and distributing CB features and interviews, and radio and TV are devoting more time to the subject.

Researchers predict that the CB boom will generate equipment and related sales of more than $1 billion this year and that the boom will continue unabated until 1979, especially since the FCC recently increased the number of channels from 23 to 40.

From 1979 on, they say, CB is likely to have the commonality of today's television, with Americans tuning into CB as routinely as they turn on TV, both at home and on the road.

Marconi, what hath thou wrought?

Cold? Turn the color up

People have long been vaguely aware of how colors can influence their moods. Only recently, however, has much scientific attention been directed to the subject.

One manufacturer of paint and wall coverings, for example, has just completed a study on the psychology of color which it hopes will be an aid to those who make decorating decisions in offices and such institutions as hospitals.

The study "shows conclusively" that yellow is cheerful, red is exciting, green is relaxing, blue is restful and violet is just plain depressing - to most people, anyway.

Beyond setting a mood, the correct colors can also create the illusion of size in a small room or intimacy in a large room.

Color and room decor have other psychological effects. During a series of tests at the Institute for Environmental

An opportunity to pull off an upset

KANSAS CITY - Far the Republican ticket, job opportunities are scarce. Gerald Ford and Robert Dale are this year's political team most likely to qualify for unemployment insurance checks.

They not only represent a minority party, their right to Republican votes will be challenged in Chicago this week by a coalition of silly conservatives, bent on forming a third party to insure a conservative President's defeat in November.

Their Presidential candidate probably will be ex-Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, for God's sake. That bunch would be wrong than that.

But the Ford-Dole ticket has one big plus - named Gerald Ford. His opponents dismiss him as merely a nice guy, in a job too big for him. And, true, he will never rank with Paul of Tarsus in the inspirational league. But Ford is a survivor. He may find the trail rocky and strewn with dead falls, but he will not fall by the wayside.

By any fair appraisal, he has not been a bad President. He has, in fact, quietly done the most important job that's faced him when he and his lively family moved into the White House. He has kept the Republic together despite taking office during the worst Constitutional crisis since

Duty for Ford, love for Reagan

KANSAS CITY - The moment on which this convention turned, dashing once and for all Ronald Reagan's quest for the GOP Presidential nomination, can be calculated with precision. It was on Tuesday night when 38 members of the Florida delegation voted against Reagan's proposal to force Mr. Ford to reveal his vice-presidential choice the next morning.

The Florida vote put Mr. Ford over the top in the crucial test of their respective delegate strength. Although Reagan's forces grimly continued to offer a brave front in public, the inevitable was confirmed Wednesday night as President Ford was nominated to carry the party's banner against Jimmy Carter in November.

Right up to the outcome of the vice-presidential proposal, the former California governor's forces had won almost all the important shouting matches between the two camps which have gone on practically non-stop this week in Kansas City. But when Florida announced its vote, sealed by the coquettish Mississippi delegation which followed suit, the Reagan signs and shouts in Kemper Arena dropped quickly from sight and sound.

Lee Roderick
The Herald's Washington Correspondent

Two very big questions from this convention remain to be answered: First, will the Reaganite Republicans now unite behind Gerald R. Ford? And second, what rabbits desperately needs Gov. Reagan to carry our banner in November.

The case was most recently set for trial in U.S. District Court in Manhattan July 2. It is now scheduled for early next year.

One reason for the long delay is that since the suit was filed, a continuing string of revelations - many of them documented by court-ordered disclosures of the FBI's own files - have been forthcoming to support the party's allegations. Last March, for example, it was revealed that in a six-year period, FBI "black bag" experts had burglarized the SWP's New York office at least 34 times, at an average of one every three weeks.

Unbelievably, and as if enough damage had not already been done by its one great reputation, the FBI has apparently learned nothing, changed nothing, reformed nothing.

In the latest bombshell, it has been revealed that an FBI informant named Timothy Redfeard stole documents from the Denver office of the SWP on July 7. That is, only five days after the party's suit against the FBI was filed. The FBI admits that all this is true, but it argues that it has kept on watching the SWP because sometime in the future, somebody belonging to it might commit a subversive act.

Perhaps we ought to rename it the Federal Bureau of Perpetual Investigation of the Socialist Workers Party.

This is not funny. It is deadly serious. In fighting to vindicate its right to exist as a legally constituted, legally behaving political party, free of official intimidation and harassment, the SWP is "defending the political liberties of all Americans."

Chops & Lobster fry for Charity

Next in line for lamb chops and lobster is Mike Crometer, chairman of the August 28 Chops & Lobster Fry held at Ed Dible's Super Market-Manchester Store. Proceeds will go to local groups.

Mr. Crometer admitted that the turnout was less than he had hoped for. He said that possibly either the cloudy skies or the fifty-dollar-per-plate price might have been a factor. He went on to say that the committee is considering running a 49¢ Lamb & Lobster Hash Fry in the very near future.

Today's thought

I must confess that I have generally been turned off by theology. In theological school I avoided as many courses on the subject as I could. On the other hand, I was a philosophy major as an undergraduate with a minor in economics. I did better in my minor than my major - perhaps because economics is less precise than philosophy.

I don't like being precise. I like living with unknowns. Wide open spaces never bothered me as a child, but I was terrified of being shut up in closets. Perhaps theology gives me a kind of claustrophobia. The walls are all there, close about you and there is no escape. To me, theology is the FBI director Clarence Kelley stated that he had been deceived. (He doesn't know who deceived him.) He is believing that the bureau had gotten out of the burglary business in 1966, when a $27 million damage suit against the FBI and other agencies and officers of the U.S. government was filed. The suit was filed in light of the Denver affair, in which carrying out a systematic campaign of harassment and illegal acts against the party, ranging from the distribution of letters to planting informers and provocateurs inside the party to burglary.

The BA Club overnight train ride from St. Louis to Wichita was far less exciting than the trip from New York. We didn't have a major league baseball team to accompany us.

Few had any sleep to St. Louis; most did get in some shute out on the way to Wichita, but unless you get accustomed to it, sleeping on a train is tough.

Arrival was at 8 a.m., so everyone had an early breakfast before arrival.

Transportation was provided to our hotel, the Hotel Alice in downtown Wichita and only a stone's throw from Lawrence Stadium, within walking distance.

Later that Tuesday morning the team learned its first game of the double-elimination tournament would be against the defending champion of Fort Wayne, the General Electric, on Thursday; the luck of the draw!

The BA's went on to learn that they faced teams whose rosters were dotted with many former major league stars and some from the better minor leagues like the American Association, the Pacific Coast League, the Southwest Texas League, and the top collegians.

In the case of the Voltmen, as the General Electric team was called, they had Johnny Dudick, former Chicago White Sox third baseman; Charlie Shipman, a Chisox pitcher; Wil Wallace, once a Boston Braves hurler.

It was a great game for seven in-

By BARBARA BAKER Chaplaincy

For several years Manchester Memorial Hospital and the churches of Manchester have cooperated financially to support a part-time student chaplain at the hospital. Beginning this fall, a full-time chaplain, supported completely by the hospital, will begin his work in the newly created Department of Pastoral Care. Ernest Harris, selected by the hospital for this position, has been our part-time student chaplain this past year. Our experience of him has been such that we look forward with great pleasure to working with him in establishing a helping relationship between chaplain and church community.

The chaplaincy committee has now undertaken the project of filling out community services with a Roman Catholic priest that would be available to both hospital and convalescent home patients. The present efforts are being directed toward uncovering the financial resources necessary to support the work.

Convalescent homes For three years the division has attempted to establish a visitation program that will attend the need of a friend of almost 500 unvisited patients in local convalescent homes. The work here is seriously hampered by a lack of a coordinator to maintain contact with homes, keep a current file of visitation needs, and act as resource person for the placement of volunteer visitors.

For the six months that we had a coordinator we were able to establish a file, recruit and train volunteers and place them where the need seemed to be greatest. Now, without such a central reference person, our file of patient needs daily becomes more obsolete and our recruitment founders on our inability to respond promptly to the requirements of two mornings a week, a telephone, and a desire to be of significant service in an area of great need. Allen invites students

Bolton
In a letter to the Willington Board of Education, Raymond Allen, school superintendent, asked to be contacted if there was any interest on Willington's part to send its high school students to Bolton.
Allen said he had spoken to Michael Hellogg, chairman of the Willington school board.
Willington is now under contract to send its students to Windham High School. The contract runs for several years.
Allen said the possibility of Willington sending its students to Bolton is remote but "we must explore every possibility."

Marshall to join board

Bolton
James Marshall was appointed to the school board by the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Andrew Manegga.
Nominations by the board members were 4 to 1, the lone vote being an abstention. Two board members were not at the meeting.
He is a teacher at Glastonbury High School. He has a master's degree and a doctor's degree in political science.
William Vogel, school board chairman, said Marshall indicated a special interest in the high school because of the age of his children. He has two. One will enter grade five in September and one grade eight.
Marshall was recently elected chairman of the town's newly appointed Solid Waste Disposal Committee.
His term will expire June 1977.

Approves report
The school board Thursday gave formal approval to its annual report for the 1975-76 school year as prepared by Raymond Allen, superintendent.
A motion by Michael O'Connor board member, asking the Board of Selectmen to distribute the report to all townpeople was unanimously approved.
O'Connor said there were two reasons for the request.
First it would further promote the board's continuing efforts for meaningful communications with Bolton residents.
Second it would provide townpeople with increased information on the major developments and accomplishments in the school consistent with the public interest in such matters.
Busing brainstorm
The board directed its transportation committee, chaired by Lou Cloutier, to brainstorm to find any way to cut busing costs.
The committee is to report back to the board.
Board members expressed opinions on several of the items the committee will be studying.

Eastern wins race track routes

Bolton
Eastern Bus Lines Inc. of Bolton won final approval Friday from the state Public Utilities Control Authority for its two new bus routes to Plainfield Greyhound Park.
One route runs from Manchester Center at 6:30 p.m. daily east on Rt. 6 to Plainfield and on to Plainfield. Round trip ticket from here costs $5.
The other route runs from the Plaza in Hartford at 6 p.m. to Plainfield Terminal there at 6:10 p.m. and on to Plainville. Cost is $5 round trip.
The PUCA gave Eastern temporary authority to run the routes since Jan. 2 this year when the dog track opened.
Eastern's report to PUCA at a hearing June 11 showed that Friday and Saturday are the busiest days with volume down in April and May from the winter months.
The bus line showed a net profit of $19,244 for its first five months of operating the routes. The cost per bus per day was $63.64. Eastern has 12 buses registered for motor bus service.
The bus line is owned by George Negro of Bolton.

Pension board suggests uses for police fund

Vernon
The town's Pension Board will make a recommendation to the Town Council tonight that a Police Reserve Fund be used to provide benefits for police officers "in accordance with the original intent and purpose of the fund."
The report is an interim one of the three-member board pending requested assistance from the Travelers Insurance Co. which underwrites the town's insurance.
The fund was set up many years ago to aid police officers and their families in times of need. The officers now have insurance for this purpose and the town has questioned what should be done with the assets in the fund.
The board said it also considered alternatives for use of the fund. One considered was to use the money to purchase paid-up annuities for the present members of the police force.
Another was to use the money to buy additional disability income and/or life insurance for present members of the department.
Members of the Pension Board are Robert Latis, Raymond Lamy, and Director of Administration Stanley Roessler.

Youth services on council agenda

Vernon
When the Town Council meets in special session Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building, one of the items on the agenda will be the naming of a Youth Services Evaluation Committee.
Mayor Thomas Benoit said he will propose the names for an eight-member committee and the council will be asked to act on his recommendation.
He said the committee will include representatives from the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council, Juvenile Court, the Police Department, schools, the Town Council, a citizen-at-large, and a male and female representative from Rockville High School.
Charles E. Allen, recently appointed as youth services director, for the town said he is encouraged by the appointment of such an agency noting that when people become involved they work with you to improve the services.

Agency unable to keep up with child abuse cases

HARTFORD (UPI) - The state Department of Children and Youth Services has not acted yet on some child abuse complaints made last November.
CSY's statistics showed 340 of the 650 complaints filed in a four-month period last March were still in the "intake unit," which assigns the files to caseworkers.
That's despite a department rule requiring caseworkers to contact families in child neglect cases within a week of the filing of the complaint.
"They're just being stacked in a basket," one caseworker told the Hartford Courant Sunday.
Child abuse caseworkers say hundreds of incidents are unresolved because the staff is too small to investigate all of the reports. The department has been forced to concentrate on complaints of physical abuse while less serious reports of child neglect are delayed for months.
CYS Commissioner Francis Maloney was attending a conference in Colorado and was not available for comment. Other department officials said additional state funds

Queen closes books on Pine Tree Riot

WEARE, N.H. (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth says she is willing to forgive a little act of rebellion 204 years ago.
On April 14, 1772, a fine of 20 shillings was levied against eight Weare woodsmen for beating a King's sheriff and his deputy.
The so-called Pine Tree Riot occurred after one of the woodsmen was arrested for illegally cutting trees in the King's prized white pine forest.

Emmy was expected to pass about 170 miles north of the island of Antigua this morning. A gale warning was expected to narrowly miss island group.

The trees were marked with the word REX and were used to build masts for the Royal Navy.
The Weare Historical Society tried to amend the past grievances with the British throne by sending the current value of 20 shillings ($1.80) to Buckingham Palace as a symbolic gesture.
The society said it recently received a note from the Queen who returned the check "with much appreciation."

Budget cuts could affect services

Hospital budget cuts make it impossible for hospitals to meet state and federal recommended and required service levels, said Manchester Memorial Hospital leaders Friday in Hartford.
Leaders of MMH and a panel of the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care (CHHC) held a sharp debate Friday over the proposed MMH budget for next year.

MMH leaders said they are being forced by state and federal agencies to spend more. The CHHC, an arm of the state Health Department, is telling them they cannot comply, the hospital leaders said.
CHHC panel members, on the other hand, argued state residents can pay no more.

An example of MMH's dilemma was offered by Administrator Edward M. Kenney.

He said a new state law decentralizing intoxication mandates hospitals treat intoxicated persons. State and federal agencies either require or strongly recommend MMH hire orderlies around the clock to insure the hospital can meet the new demands of the law, he said.
But the CHHC had cut the orderly positions, he said.

Another example Kenney offered is a fulltime social worker position. A federal health agency is strongly urging MMH have one. But the CHHC has cut it from the MMH budget.

And another example of the MMH dilemma is malpractice insurance. Insurance firms told the hospital rates will go up 60 per cent. But the CHHC told MMH it could budget no more than 35 per cent for the insurance.

Jay W. Jackson, insurance commissioner who chaired the panel Friday, asked the MMH leaders, "Where do you draw the line?"
Jackson said he is concerned about the rate of increase of hospital costs.
"We're already coming to the end of the line in terms of ability to pay," he said.

The commission informed MMH this month its proposed budget of $16 million was cut by $1.1 million. All the state's 35 general hospitals had their budgets cut sharply.
Friday's panel can recommend changes in the MMH budget to the full commission which must vote on all the hospital budgets by Sept. 15.

New earthquake hits North Central China

By United Press International
An earthquake with a force as high as 7.5 on the Richter Scale rocked a mountainous region of North Central China today. Scientific observations said the area hit was sparsely populated and there was no report of damage.

The Strasbourg Institute of Global Physics in France said the tremor struck in Szechuan province and registered between 7.25 and 7.50 on the Richter scale, compared with 6.7 at the royal observatory in Hong Kong.

The Strasbourg Institute said its instruments recorded a Richter reading of 7.25 for the quake which devastated the southern Philippines a week ago.

The quake in Szechuan province was the third strong quake in China in less than a week and the second in two days. Last month, a quake measuring 8.2 on the Richter scale struck northeast China and unofficial reports said scores of thousands may have died.

Quakes were also recorded today on the Greek island of Cephalonia and in central Japan.

In the Philippines, a major aftershock rocked the southern area where as many as 8,000 persons may have died in a massive earthquake and tidal waves last week.
Seismologists said the aftershock hit the town of Cagayan De Oro, 480 miles south of Manila, with an intensity of four on the Rossi-Forrel scale of nine.

The Athens Observatory said the tremor on Cephalonia, 168 miles west of Athens, was followed by several aftershocks, none of which caused damage or casualties.

Viking 2 prepares for landing

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Commands were shot across more than 225 million miles of space today to Viking 2 for its Sept. 3 landing on a frozen Martian plain called Utopia.
Viking 2 will duplicate the life-seeking experiments of its sister ship which has been in a more southerly area of the red planet for 33 Martian days.

Viking 2 will have less time for the first sequence of experiments. The corona of the sun, the outer layer of gases, will come between the planets about mid November and stop communications between Earth and Mars.

Project scientists said some of the communications have already shown "degrading" as the sun approaches conjunction between the planets.
The computer commands beamed to Viking 2 today are for its separation from the orbiter and its touchdown. The orbiter will continue to circle and photograph the planet.

Students in Washington under intern program

Two Manchester residents spent Aug. 9-14 in Washington D.C. as part of a summer intern program sponsored by Connecticut's three Republican Congressmen.

Robert Weiss of 323 Spring St. and John Sullivan of 115 Carpenter Rd. took part in the week-long internship.

Weiss will be a senior at Manchester High School and Sullivan will be a sen or at East Catholic.

They heard speeches from two of the program's sponsors, Senator Lowell P. Weicker and Rep. Ronald A. Sarasin (Fifth Congressional Stewart B. McKinney, from the Fourth District, was unable to attend the session.

Also speaking to the group were Reps. Christopher J. Dodd (Second District) and Anthony "Toby" Moffett (Sixth District), and representatives of the foreign aid and energy research development departments.

"I learned that government is a lot more than just buildings," Sullivan said. "Many people are critical of Washington, but the government workers I met seemed really concerned," he said.
