Carter would pardon nation's draft evaders

SEATTLE (UPI) — Jimmy Carter told the American Legion today that, as president, he would grant a blanket pardon for draft evaders to end "the damage, hatred and divisiveness of the Vietnam war."

Carter also said he would maintain adequate U.S. military strength through a defense that is "lean, muscular and flexible."

In remarks prepared for the Legion's national convention in Seattle, Carter said the pardon issue was "about the single hardest decision I have had to make during the campaign."

"I think it is time for the damage, hatred and divisiveness of the Vietnam War to be over," the Democratic presidential nominee said. "I do not favor a blanket amnesty, but for those who violated Selective Service laws, I intend to grant a blanket pardon."

"To me, there is a difference.

Amnesty means that what you did is right. A pardon means that what you did — right or wrong — is forgiven."

Saying he believed in patriotism, Carter said that hundreds of thousands of Vietnam veterans met the same bitter reception at home as did his son, Jack. He added, "I believe very strongly that those scenes and the national mood they reflected amount to nothing less than an American tragedy."

Carter is in the third day of a three-day West Coast trip before the formal start of the presidential campaign on Labor Day.

Carter cited three ways to maintain "adequate military strength" for the nation — by a commitment to necessary military expenditures; by elimination of waste, duplication and unnecessary new weapons; and by "a mutual search for peace" with armament reduction among the nations.

Carter called for "rough equivalent" in direct military strength and in strategic nuclear forces.

"Yet, as we seek an adequate defense, we must face the fact that the very words 'national security' have fallen into disrepute. I want to hear those words spoken with respect once again."

Carter said "whatever the price and whatever the pressures," the president must insist on a national defense "that is lean and muscular and flexible."

Carter proposed cutting down on military transfers, increasing the number of students per military instructor, and halting cost overruns — which he said would save billions.

Carter was critical of President Ford during his stop in Los Angeles Monday before the Town Hall Forum. He called for a "tearing down of the wall between the president and Congress and between the government and the people."

Fire fighters at accident scene

Manchester fire fighters wash away spilled gasoline from the scene of a serious collision of a Jeep and a truck Monday afternoon at W. Middle Tpke. and Hawthorne St. The driver of the Jeep, Ross C. ## Report stresses leadership role in school desegregation efforts WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the vast majority of cases, school desegregation works — but only when community leaders and elected officials at all levels of government act positively, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said today.

It fails, as it did in Boston and Louisville, when local officials do not exercise enough leadership — sometimes politically difficult with such an emotional issue as busing.

"On balance, however, this report makes it clear that substantial progress is being made in the desegregation of our schools," concluded the 315-page report. The commission also said that while some school districts "have experienced a significant decline in white enrollment, evidence does not support the widely held belief that urban school desegregation causes massive white flight."

However, the commission criticized President Ford and members of Congress, who, it said, seek to curb the power of the courts in the school integration process.

"Such efforts undermine the desegregation process and jeopardize the rights of minority students," the commission said. "Furthermore, these attempts contribute to the position of some individuals that desegregation can be avoided."

The commission said it "takes issue" with Ford's proposed School Desegregation and Assistance Act which "seeks both to narrow the definition of illegal segregation and to restrict the scope of remedies available to the courts."

The Commission report, "Fulfilling the Letter and Spirit of the Law — Desegregation of the Nation's Public Schools" was based on 10 months of hearings and open meetings in eight cities, including volatile Boston and Louisville, plus case studies of 29 other school districts and a survey of 1,300 school districts.

"Perhaps the most important ingredient in successful school desegregation is leadership, both at the community level and in the schools," the commission said.

It also said that while many school districts have put desegregation plans into effect, "numerous others remain segregated." Figures from 1974, the most recent available, show that 4 of every 10 black students and 3 of every 10 Hispanic heritage students attend schools with a 90 per cent minority enrollment.

Recommendations:

— Leaders at all levels, including the national, "must accept the fact that desegregation of the nation's schools is a constitutional imperative."

— The federal government must strengthen and expand programs designed to ease the desegregation process, particularly through increasing money for Title IV of the Civil Rights Act providing technical assistance for desegregating school districts.

Rockville man critically hurt in two-vehicle traffic accident

A 20-year-old Rockville man, Ross C. Grant of 23 Burke Rd., was in critical condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital, suffering multiple injuries as the result of a Monday afternoon traffic accident on W. Middle Tpke. The 3:17 p.m. crash was one of two serious accidents in the last 24 hours, Manchester Police said. The other accident, early this morning on Olcott St., sent three persons to the hospital.

Police said Grant was the driver of a Jeep which was in collision with a truck at W. Middle Tpke. and Hawthorne St. The truck driver, William J. Bellody Jr., 20, of 21 Farmstead Dr., South Windsor, wasn't hurt.

Town of Manchester fire fighters were called to the accident scene to extricate Grant from his badly wrecked vehicle. Firemen used the town's Hurst Rescue Tool to free the victim, who was taken to the hospital by Manchester Ambulance.

Police are still investigating the crash; further details weren't available today.

The other serious crash occurred at 12:58 a.m. today at Olcott St. and Love Lane, police said.

Police said a car driven by Jeffrey A. Heim, 17, of 1469 Silver Lane, East Hartford, was forced off the road by a passing car driven by Mark M.

Failla, 18, of 5 Cloverdale Rd., East Hartford. Both cars were headed west.

As Failla's car passed, Heim's car went off the road and struck a utility pole. Further down the road, Failla's car went off the road on a curve and struck another utility pole, police said.

Heim was taken to Manchester

Memorial Hospital with a minor head injury and was treated and released. Failla and a passenger in his car — Michael Toussaint, 18, of 32 Graham Rd., East Hartford — suffered more serious injuries and were admitted to the hospital. They were in satisfactory condition today.

Failla was charged with reckless driving, police said. Court date is Aug. 31.

Pension board reaffirms retroactive coverage ban

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The town Pension Board said Monday that it would maintain its April decision to prohibit retroactive payments to the town's pension fund.

The case in question concerns five para-professional school system employees. The five joined the town pension plan in 1973, although four had been employed since 1970 and one since 1968.

They had requested to make retroactive payments to the pension fund for the years between the time they were hired and the time they joined the plan. The five would contribute about $1,200 if the retroactive payments were allowed.

The board, following an opinion by Town Counsel Victor Moses, ruled April 26 that retroactive payments are not allowed by the town's pension ordinance.

Wilson E. Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools, appeared before the board Monday to ask them to reconsider that decision.

The five were hired through federally funded school programs. Deakin said that a clerical error or the consideration of the five as temporary employees kept them from being placed in the pension plan when they were first hired.

He said that employees hired through CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act), a federal jobs program, are included in the pension plan, and that all five para-professionals are now considered permanent employees.

The board ruled, however, that its first decision was based on the pension ordinance and that any further action on the issue would have to be channeled through the Board of Directors. "What you're talking about is a policy change," Jon L. Norris of the Pension Board told Deakin.

Chairman Fred W. Geyer told Deakin that the next step of action would be to go to the Board of Directors and request a change in the pension ordinance.

"I don't think this board is about to revote," he said.

Deakin said after the meeting that any further action would be up to the five people involved, Marianne Chambers, Carmela Brennan,

Heritage announces $1 million expansion

Heritage Savings and Loan Association of Manchester has announced a $1 million building expansion program to quadruple the size of its headquarters at 1007 Main St.

Heritage President William Hale, announcing the plans Monday, said the bank's decision to expand was the result of continued growth and a commitment to downtown Manchester.

"We are enormously excited about this step," Hale said. "We need additional space because our institution has grown substantially in the past few years."

"In five and a half years," Hale said, "assets have grown 130 per cent and now total in excess of $61 million."

"We are proud of our planned expansion and expect it will be a landmark in Manchester for years to come," he said.

The enlarged facility will provide more teller stations, larger space in all departments, safe deposit boxes (a new service), a community room for free use by local groups, and elevator service.

Also planned is a "family financial center library," containing information, periodicals and books about personal financing, home building and home remodeling. The library will be open to the public at no charge, Hale said.

The design of the expanded building will be consistent with Heritage's colonial decor, Hale said.

"We have retained all that the public thought was excellent in our present office and expanded on it," he said. The bank's lobby is furnished with colonial antiques and reproductions, and it is considered one of the

State

NEW HAVEN — Federal and state criminal charges have been dropped against the former Thai Hoa Vo and her husband, William Popp of Newbury Park, Calif., who have agreed to seek custody of her two sons in Connecticut courts. Richard Lucas of Fairfield is trying to adopt the boys, who were taken by the Pops from a Fairfield school bus stop June 2 resulting in kidnapping charges against the couple.

HARTFORD — Senate Minority Leader Lewis B. Rome says he is virtually certain to run for governor in 1978 if he is re-elected to the legislature this fall. Gov. Ella T. Grasso, a Democrat, has said she will seek another term.

Regional

BOSTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says he believes President Ford made the appropriate response to the slaying of two American servicemen in Korea. He called the incident deplorable and agreed with Ford's shifting of various military units toward the area.

AUGUSTA, Maine — Maine lottery officials say weekly jackpots in the lottery's instant game are now down to $3, and may go lower because players have found ways to beat the system.

National

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said today as part of its national review, the 1960s desegregation of the Stamford, Conn., school system was accomplished with "relative ease," however, "desegregation within the classroom remains a critical issue." Most school officials, parents and students agreed that discipline was a continuing problem in the schools.

LOS ANGELES — Jolted by a strike against the nation's fourth largest mass transit system, some 760,000 bus passengers drove or hitchhiked to work today as the walkout by drivers and mechanics entered its second day.

WASHINGTON — Food prices will go up at the "relatively slow" pace of 3 to 4 per cent through the first half of 1977 if this year's crops are as big as currently expected and livestock production stays near recent levels, the Agriculture Department says.

ATTICA, N.Y. — Officials say they expect a strike by prison inmates to end today, but the convicts vow to continue their "survival action" until their demands are met.

DETROIT — The United Auto Workers today select the "strike target" auto company, which must come up with an industry-pacing settlement or face a possible shutdown next month.

MIAMI — Tropical Storm Emmy pushed northwest over open sea but was expected to veer more northerly later today and gain hurricane strength on a course which might take it near Bermuda, a forecaster said.

International

MOSCOW — Three Americans pleaded guilty today to smuggling 62 pounds of heroin into the Soviet Union. Two of them told a Soviet court they were acting as paid couriers for the Chinese Gerald Amster, 33, of New York City. Paul Braver, 31, of Las Vegas, Nev., and Dennis Robert Burn, 26, of Whitehouse, N.Y., face prison terms of up to 10 years each.

PANMUNJOM, Korea — North Korea and the U.N. Command today agreed to hold a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission Wednesday to discuss the slayings of two American officers by North Korean guards in the Demilitarized Zone.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — U.S. envoys Robert Houghton and David Mack are in Cyprus to transmit a report to Washington on Monday's meeting with lame-duck Christian President Suleiman Franjeh and his two rightist allies. Interior Minister Camille Chamoun and Phalangist party leader Pierre Gemayel.

Bikeway not a high priority item

Development of a bikeway is not in Manchester's immediate future, but the town is investigating a funding program through which the federal government would pay 70 per cent of the cost of building a bikeway.
Director of Public Works Jay J. Giles said that the town has been looking into development of a bikeway for a couple of years, but the paths for pedestrians "have not been a high priority item."

Belgian firm to share in F100 Engine work

EAST HARTFORD — Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group of United Technologies Corporation today awarded a contract to Fabrique Nationale Herstal S.A. of Belgium, for coproduction work on the engine that will power F-16 aircraft purchased by four European countries.
Under an agreement signed last year, a five-nation consortium — the United States, Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, and Norway — will coproduce up to 348 fighters which will be used by the four European countries. Including spares, more than 400 engines may be coproduced. Fabrique Nationale (FN) will fabricate the fan module, the compressor, combustor and compressor drive turbine, and assemble and test

The second floor, to be serviced by a new elevator, will house the community room, mortgage counseling offices, areas for mortgage originations and closings, the mortgage service department, a board room, more executive offices, and the financial library.
The exterior of the bank will be in colonial red brick with white trim. The upper surfaces of the present structure will be refaced to conform with the addition.
The facing and copper mansard will extend to the corner of Maple St., uniting the entire complex of Heritage property, which houses a large new account and customer service area.

Seovill seeks moratorium on pay hikes
WATERBURY (UPI) — Seovill Manufacturing Co. may move its two remaining Waterbury plants south if a new contract calling for three-year wage hike moratorium is not agreed to by workers on Oct. 1.
The possibility of the move, which would affect 400 jobs, was confirmed Monday by Seovill President Malcolm Baidrige. He said the company could save over $1 million annually by moving to an undisclosed southern site.
Another provision in the new contract would allow the company to combine the Waterbury Apparel Fasteners and the Waterbury Sewing Notions divisions to one plant in Waterbury.
Contracts at both divisions have been extended by union workers earlier this year, workers at Seovill's General Products and Metals Division agreed to a three-year contract with no pay raises in return for allowing the firm to be purchased by a group of investors.

Bradley terminal plan cost set
WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) — Bradley International Airport would almost double the size of its terminal under a long-term construction master plan presented to a citizen's advisory panel Monday.
A spokesman for Purcell Associates of Glastonbury said costs had not been detailed but preliminary estimates placed the work at about $30 million.
State officials say some federal funds probably would be available to help meet the cost.
Delta Airlines' request to build a $4 million expansion to its facility, requiring a two-level road network to serve the facility, would not fit into the expansion plan, the Purcell spokesman said.

Ms. Cain gets youth post

Gale Cain, a summer employee with the town's Youth Services Department, will fill a three-month vacancy in the department that will begin on Oct. 1.
Ms. Cain will replace Jennie Talbot as assistant coordinator for the three-month period. Mrs. Talbot is taking time off from Oct. 1 until Dec. 31 to have a baby.
A 1976 graduate from Eastern Connecticut State College, Ms. Cain worked as a coordinator in Manchester for the summer Community Youth Work Experience Program (CYWEP). She also worked last summer in Manchester as a crew chief for CYWEP, which is a federally funded job program for children from economically disadvantaged backgrounds.
While a student at Eastern Connecticut, Ms. Cain did her field work with the town's Youth Services Department.

Rockville company low on Community Y piping

D&R Plumbing of Rockville is the apparent low bidder for the proposed replacement of water pipes in the Community Y building on Main St.
The company entered a bid of $6,246.20 for the project, which will include replacement of all potable cold and hot water lines in the building, except for those connecting to a caretaker's apartment.
The only other company to bid on the work was W. B. Dickenson of Bolton, which entered a $9,180 price.
Bids were also opened Monday for a sub-compartment car for the town Engineering Department.
The apparent low bid of $2,765 was entered by Dillon Ford of

Also approved was a $151.47 per month retirement pension for Margaret L. Nielson, a 20-year employee of the assessor's office.
An early retirement was granted to Joseph A. Wegge, who has worked as a custodian for the school system for 12 years. The amount of Wegge's pension has not yet been calculated and is subject to final approval of his early retirement by the Board of Directors.
All three retirements are effective Sept. 1.

Campus Crusader to describe work

Jenifer Norden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Norden of 387 S. Main St., will show slides and speak at Trinity Covenant Church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. She will describe her summer's activities under the sponsorship of Campus Crusade for Christ.
Miss Norden, a senior at Wellesley College, is a 1973 graduate of Manchester High School.
Supported by Trinity Covenant, Miss Norden worked in June and July at the Christian Embassy in Washington, D.C., where she also did research with Mrs. Bill Bright on the biblical feminist movement.
At the end of July, she attended the Campus Crusade staff training camp in Colorado where she presented some of her research to the staff women. She was there at the time of the flood when seven of the young women campus staffers were drowned.
The meeting is open to all who are interested.

Cheap energy still impossible dream

If wishes were gas wells, there would be no such thing as an energy crisis.
But wishes aren't gas wells, or oil wells or any other source of fuel this nation consumes. Thus that coalition of consumer and labor and other groups that is opposing the Federal Power Commission's decision to raise the ceiling on the price of interstate natural gas is living in a dream world if it believes it can do anything other than delay the inevitable.
The cost of energy — even assuming that we are going to be able to keep finding it — is not going to go anywhere but up, not in our time.

In a move aimed at encouraging new exploration and production the FPC has announced it will allow producers to nearly triple their prices for natural gas in the interstate market, an increase it estimates will cost the average homeowner about $15.60 more a year. In response to a petition from the aforementioned coalition, however, the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington has temporarily blocked the increase.

All very good. Such a far-reaching and sudden decision by the FPC — sudden because we haven't wanted to think about it, not because we haven't been warned — should be examined by a wider forum than that of the commission's four members (one of whom opposed the rate hike).

It is an article of faith among a lot of Americans that the profit of the energy producers are excessive, that their political influence is inordinate and that the energy crisis is largely phony. These people deserve a chance to present their arguments. By the same token, the energy industry should be given the opportunity to prove its case.

It may well be that a smaller increase, or one extended over a longer period, could accomplish the thing that everybody wants — a continuing supply of natural gas.
But it could also be that the longer the increase is postponed, the higher it will have to be in the end and the greater dislocation in the economy and the hardship to people it will cause.

If anyone dreams there is any other possibility — that the prices of natural gas or any other source of energy can be held down indefinitely — he is setting himself up for a rude awakening.

Real culprit was under-production

Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — We talk about unemployment and inflation in a most curious way, as if we must suffer high unemployment to combat inflation. Or that to have "full" employment we must have intolerable inflation.
The reverse, however, may be true. Much of our inflation today is the result of under-production in the past. We could have had greater production, of course, if we had invested more capital and put more men to work in those areas of critical shortages — usually certain raw materials such as petroleum and metals, and in a variety of industrial materials.

temporary, which leaves us with the problem. Increased government jobs increase government red tape and inefficiencies and put strain on the economy, leading to more unemployment.
Now men and women need jobs and there's no galsaying this.
But unless we want the smothering government in so many countries, these jobs must be found in private industry. All presidential candidates — Mr. Ford, Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter agree on that thesis, though Carter waffles at times.

The problem is that no one knows how to create more jobs in private industry. A score of government stimulants have been attempted, some with temporary success but overall they've scarcely scratched the surface. So we are left with theories.
My own guess is that business doesn't need more tax breaks, or even a continuation of some breaks already given industry. Some of these, perhaps all, tend to distort investment. Certainly business does not need the protective hand of the Defense Department, overly anxious to make certain none of its major supplies goes broke, however brief.

What business needs is freedom from 80 per cent of the red tape and contradictory regulations which make efficient operations impossible to operate in too many instances. Businessmen complain they must deal with 20, 30, 40 or 50 bureaus and offices in crucial problems. In some cases, one agency will insist on certain practices and procedures. Another will insist on other contradictory methods. Companies find it impossible, of course, to satisfy both.

A friend, president of a small business firm complains that filling out forms, attending meetings and conferences held by regulatory agencies and securing interpretations of complex rulings takes so many of his days, and those of his senior officers, it is impossible to devote the necessary time to run the business at a profit.
Even so, the regulations are so all encompassing and vague that it is, more often than not, impossible for a businessman to determine whether or not he is in violation of some law. It is likely that if he calls the government for assistance, and the answering official discovers a violation, the businessman will be fined without a chance to voluntarily come into compliance.
Tax laws are no exception. A research company president tells me it is more profitable to hire an additional tax lawyer than to take on another secretary — and science is what the firm is all about.

and the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum were buried, by the eruption of volcanic Mt. Vesuvius.
In 1814, the British captured Washington, D.C. They burned the Capitol building and the executive mansion.
In 1892, Amelia Earhart became the first woman to make a transcontinental nonstop flight.
In 1968, France detonated its first hydrogen bomb in the South Pacific.

A thought for the day: British poet Robert Southwell said, "When fortune smiles, I smile to think how quickly he will frown."

The fragrant male

Not so long ago, the idea of a man using anything other than the standard aftershave cologne was considered strictly "taboo" (no commercial plug intended). Not any more. In fact, according to one authority on the subject, every with-it man will soon have his own personal "wardrobe of fragrances."

It used to be that the only acceptable fragrances for men were spicy odors, says Peter Midwood, U.S. marketing manager for a leading international perfumery. "Now men are beginning to douse themselves more freely with a variety of fragrances, including the more flowery scents."

Recent market experience bears him out. Sales of men's fragrances have grown from $147 million in 1971 to $205 million in 1975 and are projected to increase to $293 million by 1980. Not only are men using fragrances more regularly, but they are seeking out different types for daytime and evening wear.

For daytime, says Midwood, it's still a fresh, tangy, "natural" scent. But for evening wear, something more subtle and delicate is preferred.

Sex discrimination alleged against MCC

To the editor,
Ms. Tina Borders has been rehired as director of the Women's Center of Manchester Community College. This was an illegal act in that she was not given six months written notice as is the proper procedure in all other positions.

It is also an act of sex discrimination against a woman under the auspices of the Federal Act known as Title IX.

Beside all the above illegal maneuvers against Ms. Borders, I, as a woman and an educator have been personally discriminated against by the cutting of funds to the Women's Center, and the elimination of student help, and the elimination of programs offered by the Women's Center. In the immediate past semester I have used the Women's Center as an important resource in my work and as a supportive institution in my personal life. The loss of this center and its director will be an intolerable act of discrimination to all women who have ever stepped across the Women's Center threshold.

I will do everything and anything within my financial, physical and intellectual capabilities to enable Tina Borders to be reinstated; that the Women's Center is restored to full funding and that this outrageous insult to women does not happen again anywhere.

Sincerely yours,

She's still just wild about Harry

Tom Tiede

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Had he lived this would have been the 57th summer of Harry and Bess Truman's marriage, and the 22nd of their quiet and wonderful love affair. As it is, she marks the occasion alone in the Victorian mansion they shared with each other in the Delaware Street community they shared with Middle America, and in the town they eventually shared with the world.

They met in elementary school, she a slim and reserved lass, he a more outward chap with rimless spectacles that magnified his eyeballs. Neither was extraordinary, but they suited one another. By high school their holding of hands had escalated into a proper romance. In 1919, when he was 35 and she 34, the union was formalized.

Bess Truman was an old-fashioned wife but not a subservient one. He called her "the boss," the "one person who can tell me off and get away with it." Periodically she did tell him off. For instance, she was forever admonishing him about his language in public. Not that she was above four letter words herself now and then.

And yet she has never been drab. Truman's eye for her had a bit of roguishness about it, and with good reason. "She looks exactly the way a woman of her age should look," he said, winking. J.B. West, who ushered at the White House during the Truman years, remembers the couple did not always retire after dinner merely to look over speeches. Usually they had a drink, always Old Fashioneds, and after that "well, they suited everyone called them 'the lovebirds.'"

Those Old Fashioneds, by the way, were not meant for the minister dropping in. West says that when the Trumans first moved to the executive mansion, Bess was less than satisfied with the drinks being prepared. She tried several times to hint to the butler that his Old Fashioneds were not really Old Fashioneds. This one evening, in depression, the butler simply splashed huge amounts of bourbon over ice and served it up. "Now that," smiled Bess, "is an Old Fashioned!"

She was not an Eleanor Roosevelt, understand. She did not push her views on her husband or anyone else. She was content to be in the background, to be Mrs. Harry Truman, to be featured in the papers only out of obligation. In the way of her private self she was stuffy, then and now. She has never gabbed, never told all, or even a little. What a book she could write, but of course she will not.

Today's thought

As I finished the last chapter of Robert M. Pirsig's "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance," I was immediately convulsed with tears. I cried as I have not cried since my father died 20 years ago. Yet the book is not a tear jerker. It is about philosophy — about the ultimate meaning of existence — a theological work devoted to relating the most abstract concepts to everyday life — as ordinary a thing as maintaining a motorcycle.

I found myself weeping on several levels: First for the sheer beauty of the work itself which, like a great tapestry, deals with many themes at the same time woven in and around each other, yet all resolved into a coherent whole. Yes, they were tears of joy and excitement before a splendid work of art.
Secondly, my tears were tears of sympathy at my own inadequacy. Pirsig conveys in precise, readable, and exciting prose the story of western thinking from the ancient Sophists to Emanuel Kant. He relates it all to practical wisdom about everyday things. I could never do that.

Finally, my tears were tears of grief. This book deals with the tragedy of western civilization — the decay of cities — the incessantly extruded plastic junk with which we surround ourselves — the strips of hot dog stands, motels, shopping malls, and gas stations which line our highways out of town, and the faces of the people in the cars — staring blindly ahead listening to the blaring music that will never last, empty, numb, in defense against an epidemic of purposelessness — a trap from which there is no escape for the ones who will never know how she changed they are — how they have been robbed of every vestige of humanity they might have had by a social system designed only to extrude and sell more plastic junk.
Well, enough of my tears. Life is very complicated. Any attempt to deal with "the whole ball of wax" is doomed to frustration if not failure. But Pirsig's attempt is encouraging. You might like to look at it. I hope you do.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Have you ever wondered how our lives might change if they really do find life on Mars?
I mean, after all, if it becomes a reality, we'll have to be neighborly. Oh, I don't think it will be necessary to make a cake or pack a casserole (after all, we don't even know what they eat) but it could make a difference.

For instance, we might have to get accustomed to seeing a space ship pull up in the driveway and hear a "bleep bleep" calling our teen-agers out for a "ride."
Can't you just picture your teenager thundering down the stairs heading for the front door and saying, "Mom, just taking a drive to Jupiter — won't be too long."

I suppose the traffic will be less congested, at least to start, but with all those twinkling stars, it might be confusing.
Imagine saying, "Hon, take a look out in the sky and see if Tim's coming home." For heaven's sake, if you'll pardon the pun, the way those stars twinkle, we won't be able to tell whether he's ready for takeoff or touchdown.
I'm probably being a little premature, but you're lucky maybe the future, and if we have lucky maybe we'll stay around long enough to be part of it.

Sudden trip
Do you ever do things on the spur of the moment? Well, I do.
Saturday about mid-morning, I suddenly decided I wanted to visit with an old friend who has lived in Keene, N.H. for several years.

I called. She was surprised. When I asked what she was doing for the weekend she answered "Well, I only had a golf game lined up for late afternoon."
I explained that I had hoped she'd be free to meet me mid-way — perhaps at the Colonial Hilton in Northampton, Mass.

Well, that particular inn was booked solid, so she drove an additional 20 minutes and we rendezvoused at the Hospitality Motor Inn in Enfield.
We had a great time. Took a dip in the pool, enjoyed a good dinner and just caught up on two years of gossip (as only women can).
We went our separate ways Sunday vowing to get together again real soon.
It's always amazing how good friends may be parted for some time.

but when they are together the conversation continues just as though they'd never been apart.
I think it's something I'll do more often. Let's see — there's Mary in Florida, Ann in Pittsburgh, and oh yes, Sally in Delaware. I'm wondering what they're doing next weekend?

Childhood
Being parents isn't easy and no one can actually tell parents how to bring up their children. However, valuable suggestions are available in a new booklet from the Blue Print for Health Series published by the Blue Cross Association and available free from the Public Relations Department, Blue Cross of Connecticut, North Haven 06473.
It contains 10 articles written by experts in the field of child growth and development. There is also a humorous article by comedian Alan King. It's entitled "Kids are People Too — But Why?"

In writing about his hope for family happiness, Alan says, "If you have that going for you as a family, things will probably end up all right."
"If that doesn't work, you whack them."

Computer helps detect fraud against state

HARTFORD (UPI) — A newly refined computer detection system being used by state Labor Department officials said will uncover practically all cases of unemployment compensation fraud. The new system was disclosed Monday with the arrest of Mark L. White of Hartford, who allegedly collected $700 in benefits over an eight-week period while earning more than $800 at the Fafner Bearing Co. in New Britain.

John Nolan, chief of the department's fraud division, said computers have been used to detect frauds for several years but the newly refined system is "totally accurate and faster." He said the system is being recommended for use in states by the federal government as a way to uncover all future cases of fraud. While was arrested on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court Judge Philip Mancini at the request of Chief Prosecutor Allen E. Smith.

Council actions are a tribute to Daley's genius

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard C. Daley's council floor leader Monday rejected as unjust, accusations that the Chicago City Council is a rubber stamp for Daley. Alderman Michael Bilandic issued a 19-page report Monday outlining the council's accomplishments—and most of the 37 items cited were sponsored by the mayor.

Texas wins first round on Hughes residency

HOUSTON (UPI) — The state of Texas has overcome a preliminary legal challenge to its attempt to claim final residency of the late billionaire Howard Hughes and gain an estimated $300 million in inheritance taxes. Hughes, 70, died Aug. 6 on an emergency medical flight from Acapulco to Methodist Hospital in his hometown of Houston. The state has argued Hughes was a Texas resident at the time of his death, but proponents of the so-called "Mormon will" maintain the aviation pioneer was a resident of Nevada. The Mormon will surfaced shortly after Hughes' death and was filed for probate in Las Vegas and in Houston.

Patty Hearst's psychiatric tests end

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Psychiatric tests have been concluded for newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, paving the way for her sentencing in San Francisco on federal bank robbery charges, the Metropolitan Corrections Center said Monday. Authorities said the in-depth diagnostic report, which will remain confidential, has been sent to San Francisco federal court where she was convicted last March 20 of armed robbery and given a temporary 35-year prison term.

College says no intent to close Women's Center

Friends of the Manchester Women's Center at Manchester Community College have called a meeting for 7:30 tonight to protest college actions which they fear will close the center. Supporters of the two-year-old center, a focus of feminist activity on the MCC campus and the community, say the facility is threatened because the college fired the center director and cut back funding. But college officials say there is no intent to close the center or curtail its programs. A decision not to rehire the director was consistent with college policy, and the funding cutbacks were the result of reduced state financing which affected several MCC programs, said Harry Godi, dean of administration. Godi said administration decided not to rehire Ms. Bettina Borders as Women's Center director because of college policy to reduce the number of part-time salaried positions for non-teaching personnel. Supporters of the center say the administration decision was illegal because Ms. Borders was given no notice of termination. The center is housed in a trailer on the MCC campus.

Woman killed in accident

Maryjane Petrocelli, 18, of Bloomfield, was pronounced dead on arrival at Rockville General Hospital Monday night after she was thrown from a motorcycle on which she was a passenger. Peter Langlois, 19, of Hartford, operator of the cycle, was treated and released at the hospital. The driver of the car involved in the accident near Beas Eaton Donuts on Rt. 83, was Michael Beecher, 31, of 67 Riverside Dr., Vernon. Police said the car came out of the road on the left side of the road and struck the motorcycle. Ms. Petrocelli was thrown from the cycle, struck the windshield of the car and then landed on the roadway. Langlois was also thrown to the street. The accident is still under investigation.

Student medication

HARTFORD (UPI) — At least 126 public school students received medication during the last academic year, including 35 given Ritalin for hyperactivity, according to an administrative report. The prescription of Ritalin has been a controversial subject for years between teachers and physicians. Students receive medication on the recommendation of physicians after teachers, parents and social workers approve.

State AFL-CIO's COPE recommends neutrality in U.S. Senate race

HARTFORD (UPI) — Neither incumbent Republican Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., nor Democratic challenger Gloria Schaffer will get organized labor's endorsement if its leadership get their way. The AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education at a 15th anniversary meeting Monday afternoon recommended the Connecticut State Labor Council endorse neither candidate and let the individual unions go their own way.

The almost 700 delegates to the council's state convention next month in New Haven will take a vote on the question, but it appeared unlikely either candidate could muster the two-thirds majority to win the valuable endorsement. The labor leaders showed stronger support for Weicker than for Mrs. Schaffer and the no-endorsement decision was thought a boost to his GOP campaign because the group traditionally has supported Democrats.

The committee — composed of labor leaders from around the state — reached the decision at a closed meeting in which a second vote had to be taken because there were objections some of members voted twice. On the first of the two votes taken, Weicker got 28 votes and Schaffer eight. There were 32 votes for no endorsement. After cries that "some guys voted twice," a second vote was taken in which each representative handed in his voting card when he cast his ballot. That vote showed 27 for Weicker, four for Schaffer and 33 for no endorsement.

Both candidates appeared before the panel earlier in the day, with Weicker — who failed to get the endorsement in 1970 when he won a three-way race for the seat — stressing his independence from the Republican party. Mrs. Schaffer, Connecticut's secretary of the state and the leading vote-getter in the state in 1974, stressed her commitment to traditional Democratic programs which labor has supported. But her vote while a member of the state legislature in 1969 against paying unemployment benefits to strikers cost her dearly.

There is growing dissatisfaction with the Connecticut Democratic party and Lowell Weicker has become considerably more progressive," said Sirabella, who was a strong supporter of Gregory Duffley when he ran against Weicker in 1970. Nicholas Aiello, head of New Haven's Local 123 of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, argued against backing Weicker because it could help other Republicans. He did not urge support of Mrs. Schaffer. "This year if we're careful we're going to wind up with IOP (Independent) District over a Republican legislature," he said.

The group did recommend its membership endorse Democrat Rep. Christopher Dodd in the 2nd Congressional District over Republican Richard M. Jackson. The most popular golfers with the fans in this year's field were, in order: 1. Arnold Palmer, 2. Lee Trevino, 3. Chi Chi Rodriguez, 4. Sammy Snead and 5. Bob Murphy. There were more than a few golfing followers who were glad J.C. Snead dropped off the pace and had to settle for a tie for second place with an underdog come through. Standing ovations were accorded Palmer, Sammy Snead and Massengale on the 18th tee. No one on the golf set can elect a crowd like Palmer. Jaynes reported attendance of 20,000 for the Pro-Am and 12,000, 18,000, 22,000 and 20,000 for the four rounds in that order. Big Jim Dent has been credited with driving a golf ball 285 yards. He's the George Sawyer among the current pros in golfing contacts.

Rich golfing tour

There are now 44 tournaments on the PGA tour and more than 99 million is offered in prizes, including the $42,000 the Hartford Jaycees put up this year. Twenty-eight of the tournaments are being telecast and 26 offer $200,000 or more, in prize money. Sammy Davis Jr. and his friends Bob Hope, Flip Wilson and others — helped make money for the sponsors with their presence. This was the fourth year Davis lent his name to the tourney. Little Sammy can also be credited with getting national video exposure for the annual summer promotion. Before Davis arrived on the scene, the GHO was mainly an area promotion for coverage. Davis had the right connections and CBS had a spot on its schedule. Davis did much to promote the latest GHO edition and he walked the straight and narrow path through it. Hundreds of Manchester golfing enthusiasts were encountered during the five days and a number left the premises early Saturday and Sunday due to the extreme heat and humidity.

Notes off the cuff

It wasn't good scheduling on the part of the Connecticut Women's Amateur Golf Tournament to stage its three-day play at Ellington Ridge GHO. Cherie Dow, 15-year-old Women's Division singles champion at the Nelpic Tennis Club, has spent an active summer on the courts by taking part in nine tournaments in New England. The slender, blonde is one of New England's most promising performers. Ruth Veal Whalley, former well-known local runner, is now a member of the Energy Track Club in Pittsburgh. She competes in races from one-half mile to five miles and in cross country runs. Moriarty Brothers' baseball team members were shut out of berths on the Hartford Twilight League all-star squad this season. A year ago the MB's dominated the squad. Two players who had good years for the locals and were passed up were pitchers Pete Sala and Dave Bidwell. The white-haired Sala posted the best earned run average in winning five or eight decisions, a brilliant 6.08 earned run average. Bidwell topped three of four decisions. Both had been named the most valuable player in the New American Soccer League. Players did the voting.

Dolphins waive Mercury Morris

NEW YORK (UPI) — The final link of the Miami running game that carried the Dolphins to three straight Super Bowl appearances was discarded Monday and the leading scorer by the end of the week. The Dolphins waived fleet Mercury Morris, the second leading rusher in the team's history, to make room for a host of promising runners, and George Blanda says he expects to be waived by the Oakland Raiders sometime this week. "It's only speculation on my part, but I figure they may waive me this week," said the 26-year veteran Blanda, whose 335 field goals, 943 points after touchdowns and 2,002 points are all NFL records. "I don't care for being here as an insurance policy in case the other kicker can't cut it. It's been frustrating and discouraging for me after all the years I've helped this team."

Cherie Dow retains Neipsic tennis crown

Repeating her success of a year ago, 15-year-old Cherie Dow won the 1976 Neipsic Tennis Club's Women's Division singles championship last week. The youngster, who will enter Manchester High in September, repelled the challenge of Mary Catherine Muram in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. Dow earned her way into the finals by eliminating Annette Duke, 6-0, 6-1 and Monica Murphy, 6-0, 6-0. Muram sidelined Pat Fortstrom 6-1, 6-1 and Sean Dalton, 6-0, 6-0. There were 13 entries.

Jaycees rate salute

Hais must be doled in the direction of the Hartford Jaycees for the work put into making the silver anniversary edition of the Greater Hartford Open the most successful in history. More than 100,000 golfers holding spectators walked through the gates to watch many of the country's leading golfers do their thing. Wethersfield Country Club members, the majority, are far from being upset with the decision to continue their support of New England's biggest golf promotion. Not too many years ago some Wethersfield members wanted to pass up the GHO as it took one prime week away from their golfing activity. Ready to step in as the site was Ellington Ridge Country Club and PGA members who toured the nearby course came away highly impressed and gave their stamp of approval if a change was to be made.

Field cut to seven teams

Reduced to seven is the field for the Town Slow Pitch Softball B Division Tournament as three teams were eliminated in last night's play. Rec League runner-up CBT utilized a 15-hit attack and scored in every inning to oust Dusty League champion Looking Glass 11 by a 15-7 count at Robertson Park. At the same locale, Indy League runner-up Manchester Oil Heat remained in contention by sending Rec League champ Telephone Society to the sidelines by a 16-14 duke.

CBT upsets Glass

The third club eliminated last night was Greater Stammers as it fell 4-3 to Sportsman Tavern with the winners coming up with three runs in the sixth to pull out the verdict. Other action at Fitzgerald Field saw Multi Circuits apply the whitewash brush to Rem's 3-0, with Dale Ostrout hurling a five-inning and narrow path through it. Hundreds of Manchester golfing enthusiasts were encountered during the five days and a number left the premises early Saturday and Sunday due to the extreme heat and humidity.

Rod Curl taps ball on 14th green at GHO

Old wrist injury hurt Curl's game

One of the most disappointed golfers in the 25th edition of the GHO at Wethersfield Country Club was Rod Curl, the diminutive Wino Indian. Now married to a Vernon woman, Curl finished far from the list with a 72-hole score of 281 and pocketed just $665 of the $210,000 GHO purse. In tying for 1st place on the money list, Curl had rounds of 74, 67, 69, 71 to finish four under par. My wrist gave me all kinds of trouble I can't hold the club," the 23-year-old Redding, California, said as he unwrapped a heavily bandaged left wrist. "I just can't get any power in my drives, my wrist aches too much I can hardly wait for September to get it operated on."

Charles M. Schultz

That's a great idea. There are all sorts of courses that would be good for you.

They have obedience training and guard dog classes. Those would be good.

Actually, I was thinking of MacGraw!

Priscilla's Pop - Al Vermeer. A devoted husband sits at the table with his wife. Priscilla: 'I'm sorry, I forgot to tell you that I'm pregnant.' Pop: 'What? You're pregnant?'

The bus is late today. I see why. I knew the transit company was on an energy-saving kick.

But I never figured they'd get to a bus pool.

Captain Easy - Crooks and Lawrence. It's the patient for plastic surgery. Doctor: 'How long have you been waiting?' Patient: 'I've been waiting since I was born.'

Some time later in the post office. A man looks like he's not coming.

Well, I just called him and he said he'd be here. He's not coming.

Where do you suppose he is? Well, I just called him and he said he'd be here. He's not coming.

Yes, but exactly where in the west? Well, I just called him and he said he'd be here. He's not coming.
