Carter woos kingpins

By DEAN REYNOLDS
United Press International
Through much of the primary campaign Jimmy Carter avoided the Democratic Party power centers, relying instead on the so-called "grass roots." That's changing now, as is the Republican reluctance to discuss Watergate.

Carter, who says he has spent too much time recently with party leaders and influential contributors, nevertheless visited traditionally Democratic strongholds and their kingmakers Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole faced Watergate head-on and accused Democrats of linking President Ford by implication to his discredited predecessor.

The Democratic presidential nominee met with AFL-CIO president George Meany and Sen. Edward Kennedy, leaving with endorsements from both before courting support at fundraising dinners in New York City.

While Carter has said he will not bring up the Watergate scandals of Richard Nixon's administration, the subject continues to surface, and Dole, who is visiting Carter's home state of Georgia today, talked of it in Delaware Tuesday.

"Jimmy Carter does a disservice when he keeps saying, 'I will not mention or talk about Richard Nixon,'" Dole said. "He's already done it. He's already raised the doubt in the minds of the American people."

Dole stressed that he wasn't involved in Watergate, and that Gerald Ford, not Nixon is the candidate of the GOP. "I don't think we need to go back into the past," he said. "It's a fact the Republican Party was not involved. Gerald Ford was not involved."

In Washington, Kennedy emerged from his meeting with Carter to say it is "important Gov. Carter be elected president of the United States," and pledged to "do anything I possibly can" to help. And after Carter told union members the administration is "limited in ability and timid in leadership," Meany called Carter "the man," and said his election won't come "a minute too soon."

President Ford attacked Carter today for his posture on worldwide U.S. troop withdrawals.

In a speech to the National Guard Association, the President criticized Carter for saying, in his acceptance speech last month at the Democratic convention, that he favored withdrawing overseas forces if it would not endanger this country's security.

Rightists and leftists clash near Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rightists and leftist forces clashed with rockets and mortars today in suburban Beirut and in the mountains northeast of the capital.

Lebanon's warfronts remained comparatively quiet, however, as both sides awaited the results of president-elect Elias Sarkis' brief peace parley in Damascus.

Clashes along the confrontation lines of Beirut's southeastern suburbs and in the mountains northeast of the capital claimed at least 87 dead over the past 24 hours, according to the combined figures of militia groups.

"That's a normal toll for a light day when nothing much is happening," said a leftist official, his cynicism a reflection of the level of violence which war-weary Beirutis have come to take for granted over 17 months of strife.

The capital's Christian and Moslem residential quarters bustled with activity as pedestrians, street vendors and motorists enjoyed a sunny day's respite from the artillery and mortar fire.

In the late morning, however, sporadic shelling sent three shells into West Beirut.

Leaders of both sides were awaiting a briefing by Sarkis, who returned Tuesday night from one-day talks in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Both Sarkis and the Syrians played down the visit, issuing no joint statement. Accounts in both the Syrian and Lebanese media were skimpy and vague, leading observers to guess the talks were inconclusive.

Sources close to the negotiation reported earlier that rightist and leftist forces are close to an agreement on an Arab League peace plan that could end the 17-month-old civil war.

Anti-boycott amendment added to tax measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House-Senate conference committee has served notice it will vote to impose tax sanctions on companies that cooperate with the Arab boycott of Israel, despite strong opposition from the Ford administration.

The boycott issue was only one of hundreds of issues in the huge tax revision bill, including an extension of tax cuts. The committee is working to complete the bill — a compromise between House and Senate versions of the bill — by Thursday.

The committee staff was ordered to draft an amendment denying some foreign tax benefits to companies that cooperate in international boycotts after the White House refused to offer compromise language of its own, saying the Internal Revenue Code was no place to conduct foreign policy.

"Use of the tax code here would not affect the boycott and would harm our international interests," Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald L. Parsky told the committee.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., accused Parsky of acting "as a flack for the Arabs on this issue," and said Congress would pass anti-boycott legislation despite the administration. Parsky replied, "It is rather shocking to hear you talk that way."

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the conference, cut the exchange short, and told Parsky, "We're going to pass an anti-boycott amendment."

Long told the staff to carefully draft an amendment limiting the tax sanctions to secondary and third-level boycotts only, also limiting the effect of the sanctions to the business actually connected with the boycott.

The sanctions involve loss of the foreign tax credit, foreign tax deferral and benefits under Domestic International Sales Corporations.

Similar legislation for a ban on any U.S. firms participating in the Arab boycott against Israel was approved Tuesday by the House International Relations Committee.

By a 27-1 vote, that panel urged the full House to make it a violation for any American company to refrain from doing business with Israel in order to continue dealings with Arab nations.

Opponents of the House measure believe Arab nations, particularly Saudi Arabia, might retaliate by giving lucrative business contracts to other nations.

Volcano may erupt within three days

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (UPI) — Smoke and steam spouted thousands of feet into the murky skies above La Soufriere volcano today, increasing scientific speculation the volcano will erupt within the next three days.

French volcanologist Haroun Tazieff, leading a team of scientists studying the simmering mountain, found "impressive billowing steam laden with gray ash" spraying from fissures near the 4,900-foot summit.

Colleague John Tomblin, director of the Seismic Research Unit at the University of the West Indies, said the column of steam was jetting 6,000 feet into the air during the night.

"The prediction is that there will be a major eruption in three or four days," Tazieff said. "It could take several forms. We just don't know."

Both Tazieff and Tomblin were among five scientists slightly injured when the summit of La Soufriere exploded Monday in a shower of ash and stones.

Hundreds of earth tremors rocked the volcano for two days after the explosion, slacking off only briefly Tuesday morning.

Tomblin said the volcano registered "about 323 tremors between 10 a.m. and nightfall" and the seismic energy increased dramatically.

Adverse ruling on school funding may lead state to personal income tax

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut has much in common with New Jersey and that could mean the beginning of a personal income tax to fund education, says state Education Commissioner Mark R. Shedd.

Shedd said Tuesday he expected the state Supreme Court later this fall to declare unconstitutional the present method of funding local schools which would create a need for hundreds of millions of dollars in new state revenue.

New Jersey — which had a similar problem — passed a personal income tax earlier this year only after the courts threatened to close the state's schools unless funding was approved. The state is presently appealing a Hartford Superior Court ruling that funding education primarily by local property taxes is unconstitutional.

An adverse court decision is expected to set the stage for a battle over tax reform when the legislature convenes in January.

"I suspect the state may lose its appeal. That's the way these cases have gone in other states," said Shedd who has long opposed the present funding system.

Courts in both states have ruled funding schools primarily by local property taxes — as now done in Connecticut — is unfair because children in poorer districts do not get the same advantages as those in wealthier districts.

"The issues are similarly framed legally and constitutionally," said Shedd. He said he saw no difference between the cases that would result in a different verdict. "This is the same issue that brought the New Jersey legislature to its knees."

"The methods of finance in the two states have been similar," he said. "The two situations are not identical, but there's an experience in New Jersey that can be informative to us."

MHS sophomores given tests

Sara Robinson, guidance counselor at Manchester High School, administers tests to not-so-early new sophomores at this morning's orientation session for incoming students. The new Class of 1979 is taking tests, receiving course schedules and meeting with counselors today and Thursday in preparation of school opening next Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Antibusing protesters clash with police in Louisville

By JOHN LESAR
United Press International
Hopes for a peaceful resumption of school busing in Louisville, Ky., vanished in clouds of tear gas Tuesday night.

An antibusing protest erupted on the eve of the second year of a busing desegregation program.

But Dayton, Ohio, officials moved a public awareness program on busing into high gear hoping to avert similar problems when schools there open Thursday and Cleveland officials prepared an appeal of a school desegregation order.

Today, some 20,000 black and white children, 2,000 more than last year, were bused to better mix their races in the Louisville-Jefferson County area's 165 schools.

Tuesday night, police fired tear gas to disperse antibusing protesters among the 1,000 persons who marched along Preston Highway near Southern High School. Police said the gas was used only after about 200 persons set bonfires along the highway and refused to disperse after the march.

The crowd retreated to a shopping center across the highway from the school, the scene of similar violence last year.

Some demonstrators picked up canisters and tossed them back at the policemen.

Six persons were taken into police custody. Two were later released without charge.

There were 638 arrests between Sept. 4, 1975, beginning the fall term, and Jan. 1, 1976 in connection with antibusing demonstrations in Louisville, mainly in an area south of the city limits.

Ohio's first court-ordered busing desegregation plan begins Thursday in the 41,000-student Dayton school system. About 13,000 students — most of them in the elementary grades — will be bused.

A citywide, school-sponsored system of visits by volunteers to the homes of students, was designed to answer the questions before school starts on a staggered basis Thursday and Friday. Today, parents were encouraged to visit the schools their children will attend to meet teachers and administrators.

Over the last four days, a "rumor-control" center has answered about 1,000 telephone inquiries a day.

The court-ordered busing plan is aimed at making each school reflect a systemwide racial division of 48 per cent black and 52 per cent white.

The Cleveland school board Tuesday authorized an appeal of a desegregation order leveled against the system by a federal judge.

The court, ruling on a suit by the NAACP Tuesday, found the city and state school boards guilty of illegally fostering school segregation. Both boards denied the allegation and charged the ruling would end the concept of community schools.

Despite the appeal, the city and state must formulate a plan for desegregating the Cleveland schools.

Harris' sentenced 11 years to life

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — William and Emily Harris, again reviling the judge and American justice and scoring clemency as revolutionaries to the last, were sentenced to 11 years to life in prison for a Symbionese Liberation Army crime spree with Patricia Hearst.

They still face trial for kidnaping Miss Hearst, the newspaper heiress they helped convert to their cause.

"Bring on the jugglers and the dancing bears and get this charade over," Harris demanded in a last courtroom attack on Superior Court Judge Mark Brander before a sentence was passed Tuesday.

"I could not stoop so low as to ask Judge Brander for mercy," Mrs. Harris declared in her final statement.

"I'm a revolutionary in a court where a judge in a few minutes is going to take great pleasure in locking me in prison."

Mrs. Harris called the judge a "venefol maniac" and Harris called him "a vain, authoritarian, egotistical, vindictive, prejudiced and crochety old man."

Task Force to study enrollment impacts

The Manchester Board of Education has named a 17-member citizens task force, the first of two planned advisory committees, to study the short-range impact of anticipated drops in public school enrollment.

The task force, charged with making recommendations on the next five years, will begin its work with an organizational meeting Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. at the school headquarters, 45 N. School St.

Appointment of the task force was suggested in May by School Supt. James Kennedy, when he told the school board that a continuing decline in births and an increasing trend to "out-migration" are likely to reduce the student enrollment by 1,200 students by 1980.

Also suggested then by Kennedy was hiring services of a demographer to study population trends and make more accurate enrollment projections to the end of the century. The demographer, Thomas E. Stearns of the University of Connecticut, is nearly finished with his report, Kennedy said this week.

Named to the task force were Roger Bagley of 66 Dale Rd., Robert Blanchard of 52 Princeton St., Patrick Brown of 91 Washington St., Robert H. Franklin of 63 Arvine Pl., Harriet Haslett of 78 Blue Ridge Dr., Joel Jurenda of 42 Timber Trail, Richard Marshall of 189 Shallowbrook Lane, Jim McAnulty of 92 Croft Dr., Marilyn McCann of 151 McKee St.

Also, Lee McCray of 280 E. Middle Tpke., Eugene Montany of 289 Ferguson Rd., Beldon H. Schaffer of 118 Porter St., Dr. Walter Schardt of 31 Castland St., Alfred Siefert of 90 Kennedy Rd., Kathy Spohn of 24 Hartland Rd., Robert Stone of 60 Butternut Rd. and M. Philip Susag of 65 Adelaide Rd.

Restitution arranged for damage to school

School and law enforcement authorities have arranged to recover the full value of school equipment stolen or damaged in two burglaries into the Keene Street School in March, School Supt. James Kennedy says.

The burglaries, which occurred over the March 13-14 weekend, resulted in an agreement with parents of the youths, Kennedy said. Full restitution for the school's losses has been arranged, he said.

Kennedy said the Keene Street School case is a continuation of Board of Education policy to seek full restitution for damages and losses when the responsible persons are apprehended.

Cooperation among police, school authorities and the Juvenile Court led to an agreement with parents of the youths, Kennedy said. Full restitution for the school's losses has been arranged, he said.

Kennedy said the Keene Street School case is a continuation of Board of Education policy to seek full restitution for damages and losses when the responsible persons are apprehended.

Grant to help pay cost of instructor at OTC

The Manchester Board of Education has received a $900 state grant to help offset the cost of hiring a handicapped person as a part-time vocational instructor at the new Regional Occupational Training Center.

Center Director Norman Fendell told the school board Monday night that one of the aims of the center's program is to employ the handicapped to help teach the handicapped, so the grant was awarded by the state Department of Education.

The $900 grant will cover the first three months salary for the instructor, whose position will then be financed by the Board of Education. Plans for the job were included in the center's 1976-1977 budget.

The training center is nearing completion. School Supt. James Kennedy said Monday night that he will be ready for students when schools open next Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The school board has scheduled a meeting at the training center to take a tour on Sept. 22, and a public open house is slated Oct. 17, a Sunday. State Education Commissioner Mark Stead will be the guest speaker at the open house.

Amtrak takes over

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Amtrak today assumed control of almost all train movements in the busy northeastern rail corridor.

The territory covers 555 route miles of track recently provided from Conrail from Amtrak. The stretches of track are between Boston and Washington, New Haven and New Rochelle, N.Y., which remains part of Conrail's Metropolitan Region, and Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

Stalin's place in history dwindles down

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dictator Josef V. Stalin's official place in Soviet history dwindled Tuesday. The new edition of the Great Soviet Encyclopedia cut his entry by more than half.

He praised Stalin's war role and described him as a prominent Communist theoretician, but criticized his political "mistakes and miscalculations," including excesses in forced collectivization.

Exiled writer Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn was not mentioned. Former world chess champion Boris Spassky rated 17 lines, but there was no mention of American Bobby Fischer, who won the world title from Spassky. American writer John Steinbeck came in for criticism for his support of the Vietnam War.

Successive issues of the official encyclopedia are scrutinized by diplomats examining changes and omissions to assess Soviet policy directions.

The newly published Volume 24 carried four columns and a postage-stamp size picture of Stalin compared with 10 columns and a full-page picture in the last issue in 1957.

Divorce "Grounds"

The man for coffee in almost every country of the world comes from the Arabian word "qahwah" — an honored title meaning "that which gives strength" and its Turkish derivative, "kahveh." The beverage was once so popular in Turkey that if a husband failed to keep his wife supplied with the brew, she had "grounds" for divorce.

Hard facts of detergents

Those nonphosphate detergents which were introduced in 1970 and which some localities have made mandatory are helping to stop the pollution of the nation's lakes and streams. Unfortunately, they are also causing more damage to fabrics and automatic washers than anybody anticipated.

The reason is that water supplies in most parts of the country contain some hardness minerals. Nonphosphate detergents react with this hardness to produce limestone, which does all sorts of nasty things.

For example, it makes fabrics, especially cotton, stiff and rough. It causes abrasion in the washer which can reduce the life of clothing by more than 15 per cent. It also impairs the dewrinking performance of permanent-press finishes and destroys the effectiveness of flame retardant.

As for washers, limestone buildup in pumps, hoses, nozzles and filter devices can eventually put them out of service. In one hard-water area in the Midwest, washers were found to have a short life as three or four years.

About the only effective thing a person can do about it is to install a home water-softening system — also no small expense, though its initial cost may be outweighed by its long-term benefits.

Either that, or be consoled with the thought that the price being paid in shorter clothing and washer life is buying all of us a cleaner environment.

The economic issue

The economy of Manchester, of Connecticut, and of the nation will be a factor in the upcoming elections. This is a political truism, but what makes it a bit different this year is that the economy is recovering but under different circumstances.

In the past there have been recessions and the ensuing variety of government plans — both Democratic and Republican — to accelerate recovery.

But in 1976, the recovery is largely one that is coming about from within the private sector with only nudging rather than pushing from the federal government.

This is frustrating to both political parties in many ways. For the Democrats, there is that nagging fear that, perhaps, President Ford is right in his feeling that the economy, if left reasonably alone, will recover, and this recovery will be much more sound and permanent than artificially stimulated government-led recovery.

The over-riding of President Ford's veto of the public works bill was a political hedge in that the time element is such that there will probably be very few jobs actually filled before the November election, but there will be a lot of talk about the jobs to be filled as cities, towns and states scramble to qualify for the federal bounty.

This will be frustrating to the Republicans for while the national Republican administration's hands-off policy is creating more jobs each day, this type of program doesn't have the political punch of a public works project.

The Republicans will find it hard to explain the fact that more Americans are working today but more Americans want work today also.

As the count-down toward election continues, each new economic indicator report is going to be watched with interest.

Today, it would appear the Democratic problem is to create the image that the economy recovery we are now enjoying could have been and can be accelerated by Democratic-inspired programs.

The Republicans, on the other hand, must hard sell the economic recovery as being sounder and longer lasting than that which can be produced by federal intervention.

The irony could be the Ford Administration might be turning over the reins of a federal government in January that for the first time in decades is master of inflation because of a solid non-subsidized economic recovery.

The Republicans may lose votes on economic issues, not because the course taken is wrong, but because it is undramatic and, sad to say, American voters tend to be more impressed by rhetoric than results.

An owlish editor's notebook

By FLOYD LARSON

One of the funnier jokes we read the past week is in the current Reader's Digest. We liked it because it points out how the best of bureaucratic intentions often go astray.

It seems that in Australia, the bureaucrats hit on the idea of using a song to educate the aborigines about birth control — a sort of down under Sesame Street approach. The only hitch was that the women believed they were achieving birth control by merely singing the song.

On the other hand maybe that isn't really so funny after all. How many Americans go to the polls each election and leave believing they have solved all the nation's problems?

We hope that once this has been accomplished someone will take the time to track the source of the name for the malady. Almost every other disease has been named after its discoverer but in this case it has been named after the victims. We guess its origin lies with some sharp hotel press agent who realizes that Legion conventions come and go, but booking hotel rooms must go on forever.

By our calculations, last Monday was an important date — it marked six weeks since the last will and testament of Howard Hughes was found.

According to news reports, a new grade school reader lists our charming Gov. Ella T. Grasso in section devoted to "American Women Contributors to American Life." The honor is well deserved, however, the male species ought to look to the future.

We recall our grade school reader had space devoted to Florence Nightingale and almost all of our feminine classmates, who didn't get married, went to nurses school. Will the Class of 1986 girls enter politics?

Do you know what the going rate is for confirming a suspicion in Washington, D. C.?

Well, how does $250,000 grab you. Our source is the House Ethics Committee which indicated Monday that it has a suspicion who leaked a secret CIA report to newsmen. Daniel Schorr but may never defend the name because it lacks hard evidence. The committee asked for another $100,000 to finish its inquiry which is in addition to the $150,000 the House gave it to make the Schorr investigation.

If it is any consolation, the panel had originally wanted $50,000 when it started its investigation in April.

There is an interesting suit involving the question of whether lawyers, whom the state constitution makes "officers of the court" therefore members of the judiciary branch of government, can serve as state representatives and senators in the legislative branch or hold offices in the executive branch.

The real problem will be evident when and if the case is ever tried. Shouldn't the judges disqualify themselves from judging "officers of the court?" Is the attorney general supposed to defend the lawyer-legislators or prosecute them? Where will the lawyer-defendants find lawyers to represent them who aren't defendants?

We better stop here lest we jeopardize the legal profession's right to a fair trial by giving this case too much pre-trial publicity. However, we can't resist one parting shot. It is a case like this that sure makes a lawyer run for his loophole.

Questioning Russia's good faith gets votes

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter didn't get where he is by being a dumb politician. Now, as the Democratic Party's Presidential nominee, he is smart enough to quote Ronald Reagan — without credit — on Gerald Ford's foreign policy.

He had told Pierre Salinger of the French news magazine L'Express that if elected he would be "much tougher" than either Ford or Richard Nixon in negotiations with the Soviet Union. He said that while he would continue trade and other relationships with the Russians and seek arms limitations, he wants Moscow to live up to the Helsinki agreements on human rights.

That sounded familiar because Reagan was saying the same things right up to the moment they called the roll for the nomination at Kansas City.

I do not say that Carter has latched onto a gimmick. He has always been the critical of Henry Kissinger's "Lone Ranger" diplomacy. But it cannot have escaped his notice that Reagan got as far as he did because he shed their belligerence and opportunism in times of crisis in the Middle East, and to lesson political and military pressure on their Eastern European satellites. As it is, Moscow continues to poke a meddlesome nose into any situation where profit beckons.

Obviously, Gerald Ford would like to induce Moscow to behave. But despite all the speeches and conferences, and Kissinger's to-ing and fro-ing, the Russians remain only a shade less recalcitrant than during the bad old days of the Cold War. Washington has seemed too easy to please, a tougher policy is suggested if only because it hasn't been tried.

Carter offered Salinger, John Kennedy's former flack, an example of how he'd like to operate. He pointed out that the democratic nations of Europe kept Portugal from going Communist when they announced that if it did so they "would sever or at least reduce the potential relationship for commerce and trade and mutual defense" with that government.

He went further along the Ronald Reagan line. He said in effect that in certain circumstances a judgment might have to be made to "interfere in the electoral process of a sovereign nation." That comes close to what I consider certain practical and proper activities of the CIA which have appalled so many leading Democrats.

Carter was speaking to the voters when he said "I would never again get military involved in the internal affairs of another country unless our own security was directly threatened." That was a departure from the Reagan line, but it was the kind of pledge an awful lot of people wanted to hear.

At any rate, Carter was getting down to specifics, and that's what a Presidential campaign is supposed to be all about. What is needed now is more of the same, and let the votes fall where they may.

Today's thought

The importance of going in the right direction

What is the meaning and significance of life for us? Certainly the comfort and security we enjoy is a far cry from that of two centuries ago. There are times when we must not only look back, but also determine where we as a people and nation are headed. Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a minister put to death in Hitler's Germany wrote: "If you get on the wrong train it doesn't matter how fast you run down the aisle in the opposite direction.

Let us renew our values in and through the heritage of faith which originally shaped their establishment.

School board sets meeting schedule

The Manchester Board of Education, continuing its practice of conducting one meeting each month in one of the town's schools, has approved a tentative schedule of meeting locations for the 1976-1977 school year.

The school board meets twice a month — on the second and fourth Mondays — and on the fourth Monday the board travels to a school, makes a tour, and devotes part of its session to public comment.

All of the second Monday meetings are in the school board room at 45 N. School St.

The tentative schedule for fourth Monday meetings (all at 8 p.m.) is:

• Sept. 27 — Regional Occupational Training Center, Hillstown Rd. and Wetherell St.
• Oct. 25 — Wadwell School, 163 Broad St.
• Nov. 22 — Nathan Hale School, 160 Spruce St.

More surprises coming

By CLAY F. RICHARDS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter are showing all the signs of preparing for a gloves-off slugfest for the presidency.

In addition to trying to reverse his image of being fuzzy on the issues, Carter is pointing away from the Ford administration's record. Ford has decided against taking a passive role in the campaign and will not stay home working at being President while others do his stumping.

The real problem will be evident when and if the case is ever tried. Shouldn't the judges disqualify themselves from judging "officers of the court?" Is the attorney general supposed to defend the lawyer-legislators or prosecute them? Where will the lawyer-defendants find lawyers to represent them who aren't defendants?

Ten-year-old Laura Luzzi of 32 Wells St. is the winner of the second annual "Balloons to the Moon" contest sponsored by Top Notch Foods and the town Recreation Department. She wins a $25 gift certificate from Top Notch. Her balloon was found and returned by housewife Cindy Davis of St. John, N.B., if that balloon discovered it while on a fishing trip with her husband Donald. The balloon was on the shore of a lake in St. John, just inches from the water. Laura, a fifth grade student at Nathan Hale School, was among those whose names were tagged on the 500 balloons released July 1. The tag also informed winners that they, too, would be awarded prizes from Top Notch, if that balloon travelled the farthest.

Carter at an impasse on abortion issue

NEW YORK (UPI) — At an impasse with the Catholic bishops, Jimmy Carter is carefully distinguishing between his opposition to a constitutional amendment on abortion and his support of the people's right to seek such an amendment. The Democratic presidential nominee and members of the National Catholic Conference of Bishops and the U.S. Catholic Conference discussed abortion in Washington for one hour Tuesday at a meeting the bishops said Carter had requested. Carter's position has been that he personally opposes abortion, but is opposed to any constitutional amendment dealing with it. It is the latter that has drawn bitter opposition from Catholics and abortion groups. "Personal opposition is not enough," Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati told reporters. "We continue to be disappointed with the governor's position and we repeat our call for a constitutional amendment." Bernardin said the meeting was "courteous" but the traditional posing of Carter with the bishops, characteristic of campaign meetings, was absent. The bishops, for their part, said they were gratified by Carter's personal opposition, but told the candidate "personal opposition is not enough." The unborn have rights, they said, "and those rights must be protected by law."

Many residents sign presidential petitions

Manchester residents have signed petitions for presidential candidates Eugene McCarthy, Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr., Roger Lea MacBride and Gus Hall. Town Clerk Edward J. Tomkiel reported Tuesday that his office has received about 250 pages of petitions from minor party presidential candidates. Each page contains enough spaces for 30 signatures. Monday was the deadline for submitting the petitions to the town clerk's office, and Tomkiel said supporters of McCarthy, LaRouche, MacBride and Hall did have petitions in before the deadline. His office must now verify the signatures on the petitions and then send them to the secretary of state's office, where a tabulation of signatures for the entire state will be kept. Each candidate must submit 14,993 valid signatures to appear on the Nov. 2 ballot. Tomkiel said it is impossible to give accurate estimates on how many signatures each party gathered in Manchester. Petitions have come in to his office for the past two weeks and have been sent to the secretary of state's office as soon as the signatures were checked. He did say the U.S. Labor party, which is running LaRouche for president and Ronald Wayne Evans for vice-president, has five times as many signatures from Manchester residents as any of the other minor parties. According to Tomkiel, Communist party presidential candidate Hall and running mate Jarvis Tyner have received the second-highest number of signatures, followed by independent candidate McCarthy, the former U.S. senator from Minnesota who nearly captured the Democratic nomination in 1968. Backers of McCarthy, however, said Tuesday that he will not obtain the needed number of signatures to appear on the ballot. The fourth minor party candidate who has received support in Manchester is MacBride, the Libertarian party candidate. His running mate is David Bergland.

McCarthy backers planning challenge of petition laws

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut backers who failed to place independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy on the ballot plan a court challenge of the state's petitioning requirements. Campaign aides to the former Democratic senator from Minnesota said Tuesday their petition drive for the needed 14,993 signatures fell short by about 3,000. But, said campaign coordinator Richard K. Brando, court action will hopefully put McCarthy's name on the Nov. 2 election ballot. Brando said the state will be challenged for unreasonable requirements that force petition circulators to personally deliver the petitions to each town clerk who must verify each signature. He said the requirement, which has been challenged in other states, placed a tremendous burden on the circulators who must be at their jobs and do not have the time to travel to local clerks' offices. Laybourn said signatures will continue to be obtained on petitions for McCarthy in the event the court challenge is successful.

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Two-time Academy Award winning actor Marlon Brando, shunning newsmen and photographers, flew into Manila at dawn Tuesday to star in a Vietnam war movie, "Apocalypse Now." Brando, 52, who last visited Manila in 1966, immediately went to Pagsanjan, a resort town 40 miles southeast of Manila, where final scenes of the movie will be shot. Filming of "Apocalypse Now" started in the Philippines early this year under director Francis Ford Coppola, who, with Brando, also teamed up in the movie "The Godfather."

Bradley needs to upgrade facilities, says Preissner

Unless the State of Connecticut gets "on the stick" and upgrades its facilities at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks, commercial airlines may leave Connecticut and use Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee, Mass., Herbert Preissner, former airport manager, said today. Preissner, who served as airport manager for 10 years up to a year ago when he was moved to Brainard Field to establish a state division of safety and education, retired yesterday after 16 years as a state employee for "personal and professional reasons." "If the State of Connecticut doesn't get a little more aeronautical thinking they are going to lose out to Westover," Preissner said. Long an advocate for the need for better passenger facilities at Bradley, Preissner said, "The baggage claim area needs considerable updating. An airport like Bradley should have boarding bridges so passengers would be protected in inclement weather. As for Westover attracting commercial airlines now using the Windsor Locks facility, he believes it's possible. I feel it could be a serious problem. Forty per cent of outboard passengers have to pass right by Westover to get to Bradley," he claims. Preissner says he thinks Bradley should be designated a Port Authority or else be entirely divorced from the Department of Transportation. William Keish, director of communications for DOT, commenting on the facilities at Bradley, feels strongly that improvements have been made and said still further improvements are on the drawing board. "During the year 1975-76, we handled 2.6 million passengers compared to 2.4 million a year earlier," he said. "We've done an awful lot of work there to improve the baggage area. In fact, we have an architect working on drawings for it now. We have established a duty-free shop, a flower shop, and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is putting in new navigational systems," he said. As far as the possibility of Massachusetts luring air traffic away from Bradley, Keish doesn't feel a serious concern. John Raisi, airport manager at Bradley, when questioned about the poor facilities there, said, "I'd rather not comment."

Town seeks federal fund grant for Outreach Visitor program

Manchester's Department of Human Services has applied for federal funds to hire an outreach-friendly visitor for the town's elderly. Alan Mason, director of the Human Services Department, said an application for $9,748 has been submitted to the North Central Connecticut Agency on Aging to hire an additional outreach worker to assist the present VISTA volunteer. Approval of the grant is expected to be given in October with the hiring of the individual in November at a salary of $10,000, Mason said. The outreach service will seek out and identify the hidden and isolated elderly persons in the town and help them to receive any needed services. Mason said. The door to door outreach will cover the town's census tracts with the highest number of elderly first. Mason estimates that 4,300 doors will be knocked on and, based on prior experience, about 1,000 elderly will be located. The regular visitor service will provide regular visits to the homes of the isolated elderly so that their needs may be monitored, he said. It is estimated that 450 friendly visits will be made to about 90 individuals. Both services are designed to assist the elderly who at the moment are unaware that services exist for their benefit, Mason said. The goal of this outreach friendly visitor project, Mason said, is to locate as quickly as possible the hidden elderly in the community and to win their confidence so that their needs may be assessed and services provided when possible, and to provide friendly visitor visits to those needing such a service.

Ford nominates two for FCC posts WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, in a compromise with Congress, is nominating both a Republican and a Democrat to the Federal Communications Commission. Ford nominated Joseph R. Fogarty of Middletown, Conn., Tuesday for a seven-year FCC term. Fogarty, a Democrat, has been the Senate Commerce Committee's communications counsel since 1965. Ford nominated for a two-year term Margie E. White of McLean, Va., former director of his White House Office of Communications. Earlier Ford had nominated Mrs. White for a seven-year term and Fogarty for the two-year unexpired term. He withdrew these to make way for Tuesday's nominations. Without the compromise, political sources said, Ford had slim chances of getting Congress to approve Mrs. White for FCC membership. Vernon Michael Revett, 21, of Windsor Locks, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with first-degree robbery and third-degree larceny. Revett was the third person charged in connection with a 1973 robbery at Mr. Donut on Windsor Ave. He was released on a $2,000 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, Sept. 29. Samuel Harrison, 59, of 31 Upper Butcher Rd., Ellington, was charged Tuesday with breach of the peace in connection with an incident at Henry Park. He was released on a $200 non-surety bond for court Sept. 29. Carol Taylor of 107 Dart Hill Rd., South Windsor, was charged with evading responsibility after she allegedly left the scene of an accident on Dart Hill Rd., Vernon. The driver of the other car was William Lair of Crestridge Dr., Vernon. No injuries were reported. Damage to the cars was moderate. Ms Taylor was released on her promise to appear in court Sept. 29. Joel Spectre, 24, of 184 E. Main St., Rockville, was charged Tuesday with operating while his license is under suspension. He was released on a $250 non-surety bond for court Sept. 29. Thomas Brody, 20, of 59 Ward St., Rockville, was charged Tuesday with operating while his license is under suspension. He was released on a $250 non-surety bond for court Sept. 29. James Hobin of Nutmeg Lane, East Hartford, was charged Tuesday with failure to obey a traffic control signal after being involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Rt. 5 and Rt. 30. The driver of the other car was John Hornal, 16 of Oakland Rd., South Windsor. Hobin is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Sept. 13.

Two Californians accused in $110,000 fraud scheme

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two Californians have been arrested and the extradition of an Illinois man is being sought in connection with a $110,000 fraud scheme, according to the state's attorney's economic crime unit.

The unit said Tuesday the three were involved in a scheme to sell people equipment to manufacture beverage coasters from beer cans with the promise the company would then buy the finished coasters.

Thomas L. Verbaan from Ingleside, Ill. was expected to be returned to Connecticut this week, a spokesman for the unit said.

John Stine, also known as John Stein, 27, of Hidden Hills, Calif., and Richard Lloyd, 35, of Canoga Park, Calif., were arrested in the Hartford office and charged with first degree larceny and conspiracy to commit larceny.

The arrested pair were released on $2,500 bond, pending appearance in East Hartford Common Pleas Court Sept. 13.

Stine and Lloyd represented Mold Specialists International, Inc. of Los Angeles, Calif. On Aug. 17, the attorney general enjoined the company from doing business in the state.

Sales representatives of the company sought investors to buy contracts and equipment costing $3,895 to manufacture beverage coasters from empty beer cans. The company never fulfilled a promise to repurchase the coasters, the unit said.

A detective of the unit served a federal complaint on Stine at the request of Minnesota's attorney general. Dee-Deb products of Delaware is being sued in that state for full restitution and $25,000 damages, according to the unit. Stine was reportedly the vice president of Dee-Deb.

One of those involved in Mold Specialists, Roy Lee Cole of Los

School enrollments declining in state

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Education Commissioner Mark R. Shedd says elementary and secondary school enrollments are continuing to decline in Connecticut.

Shedd said Tuesday the drop in enrollment of about 10,000 students from last year would mean the closing of 15 elementary schools and a junior high school this year.

He said the enrollment decrease, generally credited to an overall decline in the number of births, would mean a projected drop of 75,000 students by 1980.

He said enrollments in grades seven through 12 would be an estimated 307,000, an all-time high. But, he said, enrollment in those grades would decline by 35,000 to an estimated 272,000.

He said a total of 830,000 students would enter the state's public schools next week when children return from summer vacation.

Enrollment hit its zenith Oct. 1, 1971 with 666,827 students, he said.

He said the cost of educating students this year would top the $1 billion figure for the first time.

Shedd said there would be 73,000 students using state provided special education services.

Shedd also said a survey of high school graduates showed 60 per cent attended post-secondary education with 38 per cent going to a four-year college.

He said the Connecticut figures remained relatively stable between 1972 and 1974 while those nationwide showed a decline in the number of students seeking further education.

Cardiac deaths below one million

By AL ROSSITER Jr.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Heart disease deaths have dropped below the one million mark for the first time since 1967 in the United States and the government's chief cardiologist says improved medical care is primarily responsible. Cardiovascular disease death rates have been declining for the past 25 years but this decline has not usually been reflected in decreases in total number of heart deaths because the population, and particularly the number of older people, has been increasing.

The key to the decline in total cardiovascular deaths has been the turnaround first noticed two years ago of heart attack death rates. Those rates had been steadily climbing during the 1950s and early 1960s.

Heart attacks are still the nation's No. 1 killer and more than 650,000 Americans are expected to die of heart attacks this year. But the heart attack death rate is now 7 per cent below what it was in 1970.

The National Center for Health Statistics reported that the number of deaths from major cardiovascular diseases in 1975 was 879,180. In 1974, the figure was 1,010,926 and it was 1,037,492 in 1973.

Besides heart attacks, government statisticians include in their totals deaths from high blood pressure, rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease, stroke, diseases of the heart muscle and arteriosclerosis and other artery diseases.

Dr. Robert I. Levy, director of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, said development and widespread use of improved ways to diagnose and treat heart disease are key reasons for the drop in cardiovascular disease deaths.

"For example, the intensive care unit, now a fixture in most moderate to large sized hospitals, has substantially increased prospects for survival among heart attack patients who reach the hospital alive," Levy said.

"And more heart attack patients are being delivered to the hospital in better condition because of ambulances or other emergency vehicles specially equipped and staffed to cope with potentially lethal cardiac calamities."

Levy also said physicians and surgeons now deal routinely and effectively with congenital and other heart conditions which would have meant permanent disability or an early death to the victim not too many years ago.

In addition, he said doctors are better able to spot and treat conditions likely to lead to cardiovascular problems.

"We know that detection and adequate treatment of high blood pressure reduces the threat of stroke, congestive heart failure, renal (kidney) failure and other consequences of uncontrolled hypertension," Levy said.

"We think that such measures can also reduce the risk of premature coronary heart disease and its complications, though we have not proved this yet."

"Similarly, we believe that detection and control of elevated blood levels of cholesterol or other fatty substances — readily accomplished by available techniques — may also reduce risk of coronary heart disease, stroke, and other manifestations of arteriosclerosis."

Levy said voluntary efforts to switch to "more prudent patterns of diet," cut down on smoking and increase exercise also may have a role in the cardiovascular death reduction.

'Indoor Clean Air Act' signed in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California's "Indoor Clean Air Act" putting cigarette, pipe and cigar smokers in a place by themselves in public buildings has been signed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The measure requires that at least one-half of the space be set aside for nonsmokers in public meeting rooms, airplanes, trains and some restaurants located in public buildings.

Airlines and trains already are required to have non-smoking sections. The law specifies that they include at least 50 per cent of the seating for nonsmokers.

Smoking is now prohibited in public buildings during stage or motion picture performances but not for indoor sporting events.

There are no penalties for ignoring the smoking limitations, except individuals would be able to go to court for an order against violations.

The smoking limitations under the bill do not affect the work area of regular office employees.

Stephen Schneps dream: To be the state clown

BY ROD CLARKE
WOLCOTT, Vt. (UPI) — Stephen Schneps has a goal in life. He wants to be like the Morganue, the hermit thrush and the red clover.

After all, Schneps reasons, a Vermont can have a state animal, a state flower and a state flower — why not a state clown?

Five days a week, Schneps — a teacher by profession — works as a counselor for a federally funded manpower training program in north-central Vermont.

But nights and weekends, he paints his face white, dons the time-honored rubber nose, changes his name to "El Schnepo" and tries to make people laugh.

"Laughter is the world's corrective medicine," he says.

Schneps, 31, got into clowning more than two years ago when a friend gave him an application to the famous Clown College in Florida.

It took him six "very intensive" hours to fill out the four page form.

"It became the most extensive self-analysis I had ever undertaken," he recalls. "The application asked questions I had never really spent time thinking about."

Schneps then travelled to Providence, R.I. for an interview with the "dean" of the Clown College and an audition with the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus.

"They liked me, but asked what I was running away from, because a lot of clowns are running away from reality," he said.

"But if I have the ability to make people laugh, forget their problems for a while, and smile — then I don't think I'm running away from anything — I'm running toward something."

But the "dean" felt Schneps, with his masters degree in education, wouldn't be serious enough about a career with the circus. So, having been judged "overqualified" to be a clown, he decided to go it alone.

"I've always had it in me," he said. "It was just a matter of expressing it and letting it out. A lot of nice things have been happening ever since."

That first summer, Schneps developed his character and perfected his act, working both as a clown and a leprechaun with a summer show.

Would he like to be a full time clown, and give up his regular job?

"Sure, if I could make a living so I could handle all the ramifications of being a clown — of being 'up' 24 hours a day."

Being a clown is hard work, Schneps says.

"It's a very, very difficult thing to do. It's hard to always smile, always laugh, always feel your goal is to make other people laugh."

Schneps went to a circus to see how the clowns lived when they weren't in the center ring.

"I saw a lot of sad clowns — a lot of lonely clowns. I saw one sitting alone in his trailer, eating a can of cold spinach. I said, 'I'm not that kind of person.'"

El Schnepo starts his performances with only a white face. The full transformation takes place before the audience's eyes.

First the eyebrows are painted whatever color the crowd wishes.

"A child asks, 'What is a clown?'"

"Close your eyes," says El Schnepo. "Close them tight and don't peek."

"All right, open your eyes."

The big red nose is in place. The youngster is delighted.

"I become a clown right in front of their people, so they know I'm human," he said.

Words aren't important to El Schnepo's act. One of his most satisfying performances came recently in Boston for the National Congress of the Deaf — with two interpreters using hand signs to communicate between him and his audience.

Schneps concedes being a clown is something of an escape, both for the performer and the audience. Inhibitions disappear when the red nose goes on.

"When I put my make-up on, I can be as crazy as I want, and they won't put me away for it. Most people have a lot of that in them."

Sometimes, El Schnepo finds someone in the audience who appears timid and shy.

"I let them wear my nose. You'd be surprised how much they loosen up. They do all sorts of things they wouldn't dream of without the nose."

Schneps thinks the time is ripe for Vermont to become the first state to establish an official state clown.

Palmer 'shoo-in' for Young Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Palmer, on the verge of becoming a 20-game winner for the sixth time in the last seven years, also is a "shoo-in" for the American League's Cy Young Award.

That, at least, is the opinion of Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver and Orioles second baseman Bobby Grich who dismiss the credentials of Mark Fidrych of the Detroit Tigers and Ed Figueroa of the New York Yankees as "no competition."

Palmer, enjoying the strongest finish of his career with a 13-4 record since June 15, raised his season mark to 18-1 Tuesday night when he beat the Kansas City Royals 4-3 with the help of Dyer Miller's late-inning relief. Palmer, who won Cy Young Awards in 1975 and 1976 would be the first AL pitcher to win three should be chosen by the Baseball Writers Association again this year.

"He's a shoo-in for it," said Weaver. "He definitely should win it. I can't say how he's going to do in the last month of the season but right now he deserves it."

"I don't see any competition," said Grich, rapidly becoming the Orioles' team spokesman. "He has all the credentials, and, with due respect to other candidates, is the right man."

Palmer, the AL's leading winner, finished with 111 strikeouts and 11th setback against six victories for Kansas City. John Mayberry had three hits for the Royals.

Miller retired Hal McRae for the final out of the inning.

Ken Singleton led the Orioles' attack with a pair of run-scoring singles as Marty Fazio suffered his 11th setback against six victories for Kansas City. John Mayberry had three hits for the Royals.

Texas defeated Boston 3-1. Milwaukee beat Minnesota 6-3 after a 4-0 loss. Cleveland topped Chicago 4-2 in 10 innings. California topped Detroit 6-3 and New York shaded Oakland 2-1, in other American League games.

Minnesota's Dave Golts pitched a no-hitter until Bill Sharp singled with one out in the seventh inning of the opener and wound up with a two-hitter for his 11th win. Jim Stinson pitched a five-hitter and Von Johanson singled in two runs in a five-run seventh inning as Milwaukee rallied to capture the nightcap.

Joyce due tonight
Due tonight at Fitzgerald Field with the Connecticut Falcons is the state's greatest all-time fast pitch softball pitcher, Joan Joyce.

The Waterbury woman will lead the Falcons here to take part in a money-raising fast pitch exhibition starting at 7 o'clock.

Joyce has demonstrated over the years, more than a decade, that she's the No. 1 female pitcher in the world. Before helping form the Women's Professional Softball League, Joyce led the Haystack Brakettes to one world crown after another.

The Falcons have already won the Eastern Division this season and will be odds-on favorites to gain the loop title in the upcoming playoffs.

Joyce is slated to pitch an inning or two against a team comprised of local umpires.

All proceeds will enter Brown's Tires Fund to help meet expenses for a trip to Chattanooga, Tenn., to take part in the National Women's Slow Pitch Tournament this weekend.

The Tires had hoped to face the Falcons but amateurs are barred from competing against pros, even in benefits.

Nettles homers, Yankees triumph

OAKLAND (UPI) — There's a side to Graig Nettles not too many people know about, and it comes as a refreshing change in an era where athletes in general are being criticized for their open greed.

Tuesday night, the 32-year-old infielder from San Diego, Calif., drilled his 23rd home run with a man on in the seventh inning to lift the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Oakland A's.

Obviously, he was pleased his homer won the game and helped move the Yankees a step closer to the A.L. East title.

"Of course, I'd like to win the home run title, and for obvious reasons, but if I can't, I hope Sa'Bando wins it because of the situation he's in," Nettles said.

Bando is one of seven A's who have not signed 1976 contracts and will become free agents at the end of the season. At 32, not too many clubs will be offering Bando big money although he is certain to get offers more lucrative than the one A's owner Charlie Finley has put on the table.

"I've always admired Sal as a player and a man," said Nettles. "We've played golf together a few times in celebrity tournaments and our wives have played tennis together, so we are more than passing friends in my book, he's a fine person and deserves the best. As far as I'm concerned, he has a right to his opinion but not in published form. Luciano called me and said he was a drunk, said a successful manager was no good and a troublemaker, labeled a high-priced star a cry baby and put one of the brightest young players in that same category. Luciano's remarks were published nationwide and it's surprising that MacPherson, American League president, didn't take action by suspending or even firing the outspoken Luciano. Dumas writes, 'I take exception to liberties that Showboat Luciano takes with respect to downgrading of specific ball players and holding them up to ridicule. Further than that, I fail to see how, feeling as he does with regard to the players, he can remain impartial in his decisions regarding them.'"

Gary Caldwell has resigned from the Hilling Junior High school to accept a position in the athletic department at Marist College in New York.

Dog track and jai alai owners labeled greedy

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — A Connecticut state gaming commissioner has labeled as "greed," efforts to add machines to the state's dog track in Plainfield and the Keeler's jai alai arena in Danbury. Gloria Morris of Willimantic, engaged in sharp exchanges with operators Tuesday as the commission's racing subcommittee labeled the machine requests for a vote next week.

"I'm more concerned with the greed that I see manifested by the licensees of this commission than I am about anything else," she said.

Plainfield dog track owner Edward Keelan asked permission from the commission to add a Thursday matinee to the current Tuesday and Saturday daytime performances, and Bridgeport jai alai owner A. Robert Zeff wants to continue Monday, Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Keelan told the subcommittee one reason he wanted the extra matinee was for senior citizens "who don't want to drive at night." But Mrs. Morris said "it's time for the state to put its foot down," on extra racing days.

Alexander improved his record to 10-8 while Stan Bahnsen, who gave up eight hits in 5 1/3 innings, took his 4-4 fourth loss in 11 decisions.

There will be a classic pitching matchup tonight when Catfish Hunter goes against Vida Blue. Willie McCovey, once one of the game's most feared hitters, makes his A.L. debut at age 38 for the A's as their designated hitter.

Mrs. Morris was also critical of Keeler's warnings of nearby out-of-state racing competition. She suggested that he might end up "being your own competition" because of his admitted interest in proposals to build a track in Springfield, Mass.

The woman commissioner angrily told Zeff he was "out of order" in claiming that matinee patrons will go to illegal bookies to place bets if the jai alai matinees are not continued.

Outgoing Commissioner Paul Silvergield, whose resignation became effective today, disagreed with Mrs. Morris and said he saw nothing wrong with the owners wanting to make a profit.

Mrs. Morris said the commission should seek to strike a healthy balance between entertainment and raising revenue."

Injuries hit Pats

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Coach Chuck Fairbanks read the medical report about his once and future New England Patriots and it was nothing short of dismal.

"Just when we thought we had something good going, this happens," Fairbanks said Tuesday learning the specifics on wide receivers Randy Vataha and Steve Burks, guard Steve Corbett and offensive tackle Leon Gray.

Vataha — his head mashed between two Cleveland Browns defensive backs during Monday night's game — underwent surgery for a triple fracture of his left cheekbone and will be out at least four to six weeks.

"I've been hit harder, but on that play both of their helmets hit mine at the same time and something had to give," says Vataha.

Burks — his right knee in a cast in the hope it's "only sprained" and not in need of surgery — will be out for "an indefinite period of time."

"When he will be able to take it out of the cast and try to play again is conjecture at this point," says Fairbanks.

Corbett, 1974's top draft pick, has returned to Newton-Wellesley Hospital for his admission there for a neck injury which has already taken two operations. He may never play again.

Gray, whose knee was banged in that 30-27 loss to Cleveland, made out with the most hopeful report — just a bad bruise.

"We've just lost two guys who had been playing some of the best football on our team and right now I don't know what to do about it," Fairbanks said of Vataha and Burks.

"We can't put these men on waivers because we would have to keep them out the rest of the season," Fairbanks said. "And right now we don't know how many men we are going to be able to keep on the roster (the league hasn't decided)."

Falcons face umps in benefit tonight

With a goal of $2,300 needed to cover air and hotel expenses to the National Women's Amateur Softball Association Tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn., Brown's Tires of Manchester hope to reduce that figure considerably tonight.

The locals, Connecticut ASA slow pitch champions and No. 2 in New England, will present a novel game starting at 7 o'clock at Fitzgerald Field.

The Connecticut Falcons, featuring the fabulous Joan Joyce, will stop off to engage in an exhibition against local umpires. The Yankees will loan the umps a pitcher and catcher for the fast pitch game.

After several innings, the Yankees will split up and engage in an informal game.

Joyce has already won 37 games this season in Women's Pro League play and has racked up 28 shutouts. The all-time great will streak more than 500 batters before loop play ends. She has lost two decisions, because of a technicality. Brown cannot face the professional or they would lose their amateur status. The Falcons are the No. 1 women's fast pitch team in the country.

Besides Joyce, who has a phenomenal pitching record, and is a top hitter as well, the Falcons will bring in their regular lineup which includes top hitter Kathy Kryger, an outfielder. She was the first to collect 100 hits this season.

Umps slated to play are Carl Silver, Bob Kemp, Jim Herdic, John Moffitt, Dave Doonan, Rudi Witke, John Quaglia, John Durbenberger.

Grieve both bad, good against Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — It was a case of local boy makes bad — then good — for embarrassed Tom Grieve of the Texas Rangers.

Grieve, playing leftfield while 50 friends from his hometown of Pittsfield watched from the nearby stands, overran a Carl Yastrzemski pop fly in the sixth inning that led to a pair of Boston runs.

But the 28-year-old Grieve got the runs back in the seventh with a two-run homer to push the Rangers past the Red Sox, 8-3.

"It was the most embarrassing moment of my entire athletic career. From Little League on up," said Grieve after keeping both teams in the game.

"When I missed that fly ball all my friends were laughing their butts off. The home run (his first at Fenway Park in five major league seasons) took some of the sting out."

Grieve's homer helped Nealon Brites to his ninth win in 17 decisions. But it was reliever Steve Foucault who kept the Red Sox from coming back.

Brites started the eighth inning with 7-3 lead but gave up singles to Cecil Cooper and Jim Rice.

Foucault came on to strike out Dwight Evans, Bob Heise and Butch Hobson to squelch the threat.

"That's the way we knew him," said Texas manager Frank Lucchesi of the inconsistent Foucault. "He's been having a few problems but tonight he did a super job. It's his best performance in the past five or six weeks."

The Rangers built a five-run lead before holding on shaky for their ninth win in 11 games this season against Boston.

The Rangers chalked up two second inning runs off Roger Lesger Cleveland, 7-7, in the second inning on a leadoff walk by Jeff Burroughs, a Grieve double and Hoy Hottel's two-run double off the left field wall.

Phils lose five in row

NEW YORK (UPI) — The only thing Danny Ozark wants to tick nowadays is a losing streak.

His Philadelphia Phillies dropped their fifth straight game Tuesday night as a 3-2 decision to the Houston Astros, as shades of 1964 seem to be surfacing at the expense of Ozark's front-runners.

But the big difference is that the 1964 collapse, a 10-game losing streak, came during the final two weeks of the season and it cost the Phils a pennant. This 1976 slump one month earlier and those five defeats have hardly dented Philadelphia's first-pitch margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates — 10-12 games.

"I could have come in here tonight and kicked over a table or two but I don't think it does any good dang good," Ozark explained. "I know what the players are going through trying not to get tight and I'm not going to say anything at all."

The Phils carried a 2-1 lead into the eighth inning only to see the Astros stage a two-run rally against ace reliever Tug McGraw to win their sixth game in a row.

Enos Cabell led off the eighth with his fourth single of the night and Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash booted a slow ground ball by Cesar Cedeno. Bob Watson tied the game with a single to left, and after a ground out and an intentional walk, Cesar Cruz hit into a run-scoring fielder's choice.

J.R. Richard posted his 16th victory by limiting Philadelphia to seven hits.

Rick Ley was $100 poorer Fotiu 'policeman' Rangers wanted

NEW YORK (UPI) — You know how it is with cops. You never can find one when you need him. Same thing with the New York Rangers. For nearly 10 years now, they've been looking all over for a "policeman," one with enough muscle to make sure they won't be pushed around on the ice the way they've been for so many years.

The Rangers figure they've finally found the man they've been looking for in Nick Fotiu, a strapping 6-foot-2-inch, 215-pound left wing who played with the New England Whalers of the WHA the past two years.

Fotiu comes from Greek-Italian stock. You say his name Foe-tyoo, with the accent on the front syllable, and he comes from Staten Island which makes him the first native New Yorker ever to play for the Rangers.

Siderow off game, wins

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dick Siderow, the British Amateur champion from Westport, Conn., was sweating profusely when his first round match in the U.S. Amateur was over — and it wasn't just because of the heat.

That was a long four-footer for him, Siderow said of Barge's putt. "But I don't know about my chances. I thought they were good when I came here but I didn't hit a fairway all day. I don't look at myself as the man to beat now or yesterday, though."

Bob Segal, owner of The Deal, an unusual boutique, looks over merchandise in his new location at 705 Main St. in downtown Manchester. The store recently moved from its first location at Manchester Green. The boutique features unconventional as well as classic shirts, blouses, sweaters and vests, jeans and corduroys, and a collection of art posters. Many of the items are "one of a kind," Segal says.

Manchester Honda is one of several area firms which has loaned motorcycles to Central Connecticut State College, New Britain, for a summer motorcycle safety course. The course, sponsored by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, was for high school driver education instructors.

Unique system

Goldmark Communications Corp. of Stamford will install a unique "teleconferencing" system for use by the Community Savings Bank of Rochester, N.Y. One of its major advantages is a reduction in the amount of gasoline and executive travel time, the firm said.

The system, an outgrowth of the national pilot New Rural Society project directed by CCC President Dr. Peter Goldmark, is expected to become a major factor in conserving precious energy resources in the future, Congressman Stewart McKinney said in announcing the project.

New Gerber plant to employ 100

South Windsor
JUDY KUEHNEL
The South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night approved the construction of a new 60,000 square-foot plant to house Gerber Garment Technology, a subsidiary of Gerber Scientific Instrument Co. in South Windsor.

The new plant will produce automated garment cutting machines used to cut fabric for use in the garment and automotive industries.

Attorney Stanley Leven presented site plans for the $1 million facility which is expected to employ 100 persons.

The new structure will face the highway and will be shielded by a double row of pine trees.

The planned location of the building is forward, toward Gerber Rd. from the existing building housing Gerber Scientific Instrument.

Officials said the location was determined in order to utilize existing parking facilities, enable future development of the site, and because of the natural contours of the land.

The Planning and Zoning Commission was concerned about added traffic on Kelly Rd., however, Attorney Leven assured the commission that if that became a problem working shifts could be staggered.

The PZC approval is conditional, assuming approval is granted by the engineering department for drainage as well as the installation of a light at the entrance to Kelly Rd.

East Hartford woman to head day care center

Vernon
Angela Pelletier of East Hartford has been appointed as director of the Hockanum Valley Day Care Center's new program for kindergarten-aged children.

Because of the fire marshal's ruling that the day care use is a continuing use due to the fact the children are of school age, it will be up to the Board of Education to correct several fire code violations cited by the state and local fire marshals.

To date about eight children have been enrolled in the new day care program but more are expected to be enrolled before the program starts Sept. 8. The program will also be open to Grade 1 children from the Northeast School.

Ms. Pelletier is a 1975 graduate of Connecticut State College with a bachelor's degree in education. She has worked as a teacher's assistant in the day care center's pre-school program for the past few months.

The state fire marshal's office has ruled that the building is a "continuing use," and therefore the same fire safety codes apply for day care or kindergarten use.

The day care center will occupy one classroom of the building which was constructed in the 1800's. The center for pre-schoolers is operated in a wing of the First Congregational Church.

Board meeting rescheduled

Hebron
The Board of Education has rescheduled its September meeting from Sept. 9 to Thursday, Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. in the library of the Gilead Hill School on Rt. 85.

The item expected to draw most attendance by residents concerns the Central Office Commission (COC) of Regional School District No. 8. It has been placed early on the agenda as a courtesy to the expected large audience.

The COC is composed of two members each from the school boards in Andover, Hebron and Marlborough and the board of Rham High School.

The Rham board will meet Monday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. in the Rham library.

Ms. Pelletier is a 1975 graduate of Connecticut State College with a bachelor's degree in education. She has worked as a teacher's assistant in the day care center's pre-school program for the past few months.

Youth Services board approved

Vernon
An eight-member Youth Services Advisory Board has been approved by the Town Council on recommendation of Mayor Thomas Benoit.

The board will oversee and evaluate the activities of the Youth Services Bureau which was recently reactivated when the town hired Charles Allen to head it.

The committee, appointed for one year terms, consists of the following members: Beverly Cochran, supervisor of social workers in the Vernon School system; George Furbush, member of the Town Council; Richard Godek, representing the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council; Capt. John Bundy of the Vernon Police Department; and Ernest Mark Jr., a citizen-at-large member.

When schools open next week two Rockville High School students representatives will be named to complete the eight-member board.

Several calls were received last week from readers who had tried and enjoyed the recipe for Easy Zucchini Sausage Bake.

Zucchini is a versatile vegetable that shows up in many nonvegetable ways. These recipes I located for zucchini bread and zucchini muffins weren't created to disguise the vegetable, but to capitalize on the moistness and tender texture provided by this ingredient.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice R. Crocker of Woodland Hl., Coventry and the late William D. Crocker. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Glenney of Silver St., Coventry.

Bishop sleeves, and a chapel-length train scalloped with matching lace. Her illusion veil was edged in lace and attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies, English ivy, and stephanotis.

Miss Denise F. Benoit of Manchester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Hawley of Tampa, Fla.; Miss Holly Ponder of Coventry, the bride's niece; Mrs. Lois Moore of Triangle, Va.; Mrs. Marcia VanCamp of Greenville, Maine, the bridegroom's sister; and Miss Kim Glenney of Manchester, the bridegroom's sister.

Old Complant When a housewife buys a spool of "40 denier" she is paying Julius Caesar an indirect compliment. Caesar introduced the coin "denarius" or "denier" into France. King Francis I established the word "denier" in 1500 years later as the standard measurement of his budding industry. Today, denier is a number system to describe the fineness of yarn; the higher the number, the thicker the yarn.

High school seniors seek scholarships

College scholarships of $500 to $5,000 are available to high school seniors through the General Mills Search for Leadership in the Family Living, now in its 23rd year.

Invitations to enroll in the program have been mailed to high schools across the nation. Schools new to the program can write the General Mills Search, P. O. Box 1113, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440, for information.

Enrollment deadline for the 1977 contest is Nov. 1. On Tuesday, Dec. 7, each participating school will administer a 50-minute written examination. Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this general knowledge and attitude examination is the first important step of the scholarship program.

From those results, a Family Leader of Tomorrow will be selected from each participating school. School winners are acknowledged with special awards and their examinations are entered in state competition. Each State Family Leader receives a $1,500 scholarship while every state second-place winner receives a $500 grant. State winners also enter for their school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corp.

State winners will be the guests of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid tour of Williamsburg, Virginia, and Washington, D.C. A special event of the tour is announcement of the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship is increased to $5,000. Second, third and fourth place national winners receive scholarship increases to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively.

The General Mills is on the advisory list of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

we listen to George's complaints, problems, and theories. At night, after he's through hoeing and weeding, he ambles over to our porch with a basket full of day's bounty, plunks down in a chair, and mops his brow on his shirt tail, and tells us about the rabbits that are getting into his lettuce or the cutworm that is attacking his corn. We offer him a cold beer and listen attentively.

"Gosh," said my husband the other night as he fingered a plump red tomato appreciatively. "Even with all your problems, you grow some beautiful tomatoes."

"The best vegetables we've ever eaten!" I agreed, looking up from the bowl of George's field peas that I was shelling. "We don't have to debate the issue of what makes the best kind of garden. We already know. The best kind of garden is the one we've got. The garden in our good neighbor's back yard."

George grinned with pride. "I don't know what we'd do without you folks to help us eat this stuff up," he said, "everyone else

All-day conference set by handicapped

A Manchester man, handicapped himself, will spearhead a research project aimed at determining the primary concerns and needs of area handicapped people. Ray Leger, Manchester's delegate to the State Conference on Handicapped, to be conducted Oct. 14 at the Holiday Inn in Meriden, is seeking information from area handicapped, both physically and mentally.

With this information, Leger hopes to generate a national awareness of their problems and "bring aid down to the local level."

The National Conference on Handicapped slated for May 25-29 next year in Washington, D.C. will be geared to assess the problems and potentials of the nation's handicapped, Leger said.

"There are many handicapped people throughout our area who are unaware of the benefits which may be available to them or do not know that they are entitled to certain considerations," he said.

Delegates at the State Conference will vote on areas of concern of the handicapped and will select which topics and recommendations should be discussed at the White House Conference by the Connecticut delegates.

Towards this end, area handicapped are encouraged to write to: Handicapped, 458 W. Middle Tpke., Apt. 14U, Manchester, 06040, and give the following information:

- Type of disability.
- Age and sex.
- Are you part of a minority group?
- Employed? Are you able to work?
- Are you receiving aid or benefits from any social or civic organizations?
- Do you have any specific problems?
- Do you have any suggestions for discussion at the conference?

Information must be received no later than Sept. 13. No signature is required.

Connecticut's drummer

"It was the only drum corps to ever play in the White House. It was back in 1884 when Chester A. Arthur was president.

"They played in the East Room and their thundering sound cracked the plaster," he said with pride.

"Pointing to his own big drum, he added, "They had eight drums like this one, eight fifers, and three big bass drums."

"Throughout the years, the Connecticut drummer has received many honors. He was given a trophy by the Military Association of Parade Drummers which selected him from among drummers throughout the country as the "Champion Snare Drummer of 1960."

"He also holds the distinction of being named "Ancient Drummer of the Year" in 1960 at age 65.

In 1971 he received notification of his election to membership in the Hall of Fame for Military Drummers.

Pete first started writing poetry back in 1935 when his wife's dog died. "It was a St. Bernard named 'Colonel' and he used to go everywhere with me. The kids would follow us all around.

"When Colonel died, I wrote the poem for my wife, Florence," he said.

Since that beginning, Pete has written over 100 poems, many of which have been published in area newspapers.

we know has a garden. George is already talking about plans for a bigger garden next year. My husband would like him to add a row of cantaloupe, his favorite fruit. "It's a tricky crop to grow, George," he explained, "but with your green thumb, I'll bet you can do it."

Now George spends a lot of time pouring over seed catalogs and garden books. He likes to theorize about the things that make the best garden. It is best to use compost or commercial fertilizer? To spray or not to spray? To rotate your crops or to keep growing the same thing?

When George gets going on the subject, my husband pours him another beer and we just sit and listen.

We don't have to debate the issue of what makes the best kind of garden. We already know. The best kind of garden is the one we've got. The garden in our good neighbor's back yard.

Social Security

Q. My father is 65 and doesn't have enough Social Security work credits to get Medicare hospital insurance. Is there any other way he can qualify for this protection?

A. He can get hospital insurance by paying a monthly premium of $45 (effective for 12 months starting July 1976). He also must sign up for medical insurance and pay the additional premium of $7.20 a month. Your father should call, write, or visit any Social Security office for more information if he is interested.

Q. According to my Medicare handbook, hospital insurance can help pay for a skilled nursing facility care or home health care only if I've been in the hospital for three days in a row. Is the day I'm discharged from the hospital counted as one of these three days?

A. No. In figuring a three-day hospital stay, Medicare counts the day you are admitted, but does not count the day you are discharged on Wednesday. The day of admission, Monday, would be counted, and so would Tuesday. But the day of discharge, Wednesday, would not count. So, your stay would not be considered a three-day stay. Even if you are discharged late in the day, the day of discharge does not count.

Q. My father just had an operation, and his doctor transferred him to a skilled nursing facility. I've heard that Medicare pays for skilled nursing facility care only under certain conditions. Is that true?

A. Yes. Medicare's hospital insurance can help pay for care in a skilled nursing facility only if these conditions are met: (1) The patient has been in a hospital at least three days in a row before his transfer to the skilled nursing facility; (2) He is transferred because he requires care for a condition which was treated in the hospital; (3) He is admitted to the facility within a short time (generally 14 days) after he leaves the hospital; (4) A doctor certifies that he needs, and he actually receives, skilled nursing or rehabilitation services on a daily basis; (5) The facility's Utilization Review Committee does not disapprove his stay.

Q. I get Social Security student benefits, and I'm transferring from the school I've been attending to a college out of state. Do I have to report this change to Social Security? I'll still be attending school full time.

A. Yes, you do have to report the transfer. The type of institution you attend can affect your monthly benefits. You should also notify Social Security if you leave school, start attending on a part-time basis, get married, or have a change in your earnings.

Q. My doctor just told me that I need an operation, and I'll probably be in the hospital for a month. Medicaid will help pay my hospital bills. Will this affect my Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments?

A. Your payment may be reduced whenever an SSI beneficiary is in a hospital or health facility for an entire month and Medicaid pays over half the cost of his care. His SSI payment is reduced. For more information, call your local Social Security office.

THE FAMILY LAWYER by Will Bernard

Person In A Pinch

Driving to a construction site with a box of TNT in his car, Martin suddenly smelled smoke. To make matters worse, the car stalled on a steep hill.

In a panic, Martin leaped out and fled to safety. The car barreled to the bottom of the hill and exploded, injuring two pedestrians.

Was Martin legally liable for their injuries? In a court hearing they blamed him for disregarding the safety of innocent people. But the court found him not liable, since he had been "compelled to act by the instant of self-preservation."

In this case the court was applying the "emergency doctrine," under which the law lowers its standard of care for the person in a pinch. On similar grounds other courts exonerated a golfer whose from the moment he saw danger to the moment of impact. The court said that despite the emergency, the motorist was negligent for not using the time he did have to brake gradually and turn aside.

Nevertheless, even in an emergency, at least some care may be required. In another case, during a snowstorm, a motorist was confronted with a truck blocking an intersection. Afraid to slam on the brakes, he ploughed into the truck.

But the evidence showed that a full seven seconds had gone by

Buying furniture

At some time or another we all buy furniture. Most of us, too, face the same problem—how do we know what's good and what's junk; what's worth the price and what isn't?

Buying from a reliable store that enjoys a reputation for honesty and integrity is one way to avoid problems in furniture buying. Even when you follow this recommendation, however, you should also follow some basic guidelines.

Know what you want. Decide in advance what pieces of furniture you are looking for and what styles you are interested in buying. Shop around and look at various styles before making your decision.

Set a limitation on your spending. This will prevent you from getting carried away once you decide to make a purchase. Shop around to get an idea of price levels.

There are several ways to check the quality of the workmanship. Try leaning on the table you are considering, or while seated in a chair which interests you, try swaying back and forth to test it. If the piece is wobbly, the joints are probably of poor quality.

Shake the piece gently to see if any sides, drawers or panels are loose and take out drawers to see if they slide in and out easily. Check the finish to see that the surface is blemish-free and unstreaked.

Squeeze the arms of sofa and chairs. If there is adequate padding between the fabric and wood you shouldn't be able to feel the frame.

Cushions that are too soft, mushy or limp won't wear well, so test their firmness and bounce.

Head the hang tag. This tag is required by law on all upholstered furniture. A white tag indicates a new piece, a yellow tag goes on second-hand or re-upholstered pieces. The tag also tells you the type of filling used.

Paraguayan peccary to stay put

STORRS (UPI) — The peccary, a once thought extinct relative of the pig that has been found in Paraguay, apparently will stay there.

biologist Ralph M. Wetzel. Wetzel and several of his students have been observing their habits and literally living with the bristly animals found on the marshy plains of western Paraguay several years ago.

Wetzel said the animal's family line dates back 50 million years and the peccary thrived abundantly during the Ice Age one million years ago.

In deference to its historic standing, immigration officials have refused to allow Wetzel to bring back specimens to UConn because of the possibility it could bring hoof and mouth disease into the country, as other pigs have.

Wetzel said his students have approached the animals on all fours. The peccary will grunt at them and the fellows grunt right back," he said.

News for Senior Citizens

Hello everybody! Well, I can chank up another part of my vacation. Although August isn't exactly the best time to visit Florida, I really enjoyed it. Stayed with my sister in Boca Raton, and hit many interesting places from there, and even managed to pick a cloudy day to get in a little golf.

We need four or five more people for the second bus. It should make for a wonderful day away from home, and includes a buffet lunch along with all the colorful sights and entertainment.

Bowling Just received word from our good friend Bernie Giovinno from Parkade Lanes, and he would like to hold an organizational meeting next Tuesday afternoon Sept. 7. He's got some new ideas and big plans for the coming season, and this marks the 16th year for our league under the guidance of Bernie and his hardworking staff.

With the new season ready to start right after Labor Day, Gloria wants to announce that we have a new entertainment committee. Celeste King and Irene Bourez are co-chairwomen, and their helpers are Ann Masterton, Ruth Shelton and Ted Bourez.

Our good friend Ivy Siddell has again volunteered to chair the bridge games. Ivy has been very instrumental in organizing bridge here at the center, and for over four years has been doing a super job. We're looking forward to having a few more members join in the bridge games. We have some excellent players, and some learners, and put them all together makes for a good afternoon of bridge.

We send our condolences to Mrs. Helen Ponchak and family on the recent death of her husband, Frank G. Sr.

Our friend and member Cecilia Berry is a patient at the Manchester Memorial Hospital. Why not send a card to cheer her up.

Pinchle scores

The Vernon Senior Citizens Pinchle Club had 15 winners and the Manchester Club seven winners in a pinchle game last Thursday during a get-together at High Meadow in Graby.

Nearly 100 members attended the event, and a smaller group played pinchle at the Army and Navy Club. Top scorers in this game were Vincent Borelli, 599; Francis Miner, 573; Ray Durey, 554; Joe Windsor, 551; and Bess Mooman, 550.

The Manchester group sponsors a game each Thursday at 9:45 a.m. at the Army and Navy Club. Play is open to all senior citizens.

The Vernon group will have a game Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Vernon Senior Citizens Center.

Family income factor for low lunch prices

A family's gross yearly income will be the basic factor determining the eligibility of children for the national school lunch program and special milk program, according to Mrs. Ann R. Tolman, head of the state education department's child nutrition unit.

All those who believe their children may be eligible are urged to apply. The following basic yearly gross income guidelines include a family of one which include those 18 years of age living alone but still in school, and foster children, each of whom is counted as a family of one.

Manchester — lunch-public schools; milk only — Assumption St. James St. Bridge, Lunch and milk. Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School. Andover — lunch-public schools. Bolton — lunch-public schools. Coventry — lunch-public schools. Ellington — lunch-public schools. Hebron — lunch — Region 8 and local public schools. South Windsor — lunch-public schools. Guinness editors face mammoth task

LINGFIELD, England (UPI) — A quick word to the Guinness Book of World Records. Stop the presses. The news is arriving from Lingfield in the Guinness Book of World Records, the Bible of international bar room bragging.

London policeman John Asmus and movie stuntman John Walker, who dressed in suits of medieval armor weighing 60 pounds each, rode their chargers 165 miles in 25 hours 55 minutes over five days. They sneered at the book's old mark of 146 miles.

It was all part of a mass attempt by hundreds of Britons to beat some of the bizarre records listed in the Guinness Book of World Records, the Bible of international bar room bragging. It's up to the editors of the annual world bestseller to decide if any of the exploits during the three-day "Screwball Olympics," staged on a racetrack at Lingfield 26 miles south of London, qualify as "superlative achievements" of 1976.

Non-credit courses set in environment, skills

Two non-credit courses in environmental studies and two others in vocational skills will be offered this fall by the Community Services Division of Manchester Community College.

The introductory course in ecology will strengthen students' skills in observing living things on land, in water and in the air, and increase their knowledge of the interrelationships between plants, animals and their habitats. The course will involve both field trips and classroom laboratory work.

For information about costs and registration, call the Community Services Division of Manchester Community College at 646-2137.
