Court asked to intervene in Rhode Island count

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Attorneys for auto dealer Richard Lorber today filed a request for a federal court injunction, seeking to prevent the state Board of Elections from certifying a Democratic U.S. Senate nominee while he presses his challenge on hundreds of absentee and shut-in ballots.

The board faced a midnight deadline tonight to certify a nominee in the close, disputed race between Lorber and Gov. Philip W. Noel. Lorber appeared to be the winner after Tuesday's primary but Noel took the lead Saturday during counting of absentee ballots.

The Lorber camp last week said it would seek a repelling of all absentee and shut-in voters after complaining of the way the board handled disputed ballots.

As counting resumed today, Noel's margin was 86 votes with about 600 absentee ballots to be opened and 100 machine vote totals to be checked. Board Chairman Harry F. Curvin said he was confident the remaining work could be completed before midnight.

Lorber, who spent nearly $400,000 in personal funds on his "anti-politician" campaign, said he would "go to the courts or do whatever is necessary to insure a fair election" if the final tally showed Noel a winner.

STRATFORD — Police said a device they described as a possible pipebomb was discovered Sunday by two young boys near the rear door of a Stratford synagogue. They said they did not know if the device was found was actually capable of being set off or if it contained explosives.

STORRS — The state's Civil Defense Preparedness Training Program is to expire after 13 years because the federal government refuses to fund it any longer. Gov. Ella T. Grasso and community leaders have written Congress protesting the cutback but to no avail. The program runs until the end of the month.

SOUTHWICK, Mass. — Three New Hampshire teen-agers were killed Sunday night on Rte. 202, and Warren Rothman, 48, of Simsbury, Conn., was to be arraigned today in connection with the accident. Rothman was charged by police with operating under the influence, driving to endanger and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

MANCHESTER, N. H. — Striking teachers resumed picketing at Manchester's 30 public schools today in defiance of a court injunction ordering them back to school. The 950-member Manchester Education Association Sunday night voted overwhelmingly to reject the city's latest contract offer. The strike began Sept. 7.

BOSTON — With half the jurors tapped, jury selection resumed today in Suffolk Superior Court in the bank robbery-murder trial of former Brandeis University honors student Susan Saxe. Two more men were added during a rare Saturday session to the four women and two men previously selected from 200 candidates.

Carter pushes tax plan which would soak rich

By ELIZABETH WHARTON
United Press International
Jimmy Carter is using a whistle-stop campaign train trip to push his "soak the rich" tax policies some of his opponents claim will also mean soaking the poor.

President Ford spent a quiet Sunday afternoon filming a television commercial with a group of farmers at a Maryland farm some 50 miles from the White House.

Aides on both sides claimed their candidates are not in training for the debates, which begin Thursday night.

Kissinger reports progress

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he believes "considerable progress" has been made toward black majority rule in Rhodesia as a result of his meetings in Pretoria with the prime ministers of white-ruled Rhodesia and South Africa.

Kissinger spoke as he arrived in Lusaka shortly after noon to brief Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda on his weekend talks with Prime Ministers John Vorster of South Africa and Ian Smith of Rhodesia.

"I brought to South Africa the considerations that had been developed together with the presidents of black Africa," Kissinger said. "I believe that considerable progress has been made towards these objectives and I will now present these conclusions to President Kaunda to see what further steps need to be taken."

Newsmen aboard the plane said Kissinger has no plans to return to South Africa during his current shuttle and there would be no need, or point, in his going to Rhodesia. From the airport, Kissinger went immediately to the Zambian State House to meet with President Kaunda. The talks were expected to last all afternoon.

Despite the low profile Ford maintained Saturday and Sunday, aides denied he was spending time preparing for the confrontation. They said it isn't necessary for him and that Ford is doing even less than he would to get ready for a regular White House news conference.

Carter is leaving his campaign train tonight to return to Plains, Ga., but his aides said Tuesday and Wednesday are earmarked for relaxation rather than intensive study.

Despite heavy rain in Kansas City, Mo., Sunday, large and enthusiastic crowds greeted Carter there and in St. Louis as he continued to call for programs to raise taxes of the "rich, big corporations and special interest groups."

But Carter still did not give details of his tax program. Republicans charge would mean a tax increase for at least half the people of the country.

GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole said Carter should "get out of the race" if he doesn't know the median income in the United States.

Carter earlier had proposed higher income taxes for Americans making more than the median, and Dole called that program a "major blunder."

That means that everyone making more than $14,000 a year would get a tax increase," Dole said. Carter pledged Sunday he would never raise taxes for working class families, but said he wanted to eliminate tax loopholes for the rich, big business and special interests. Without spelling out specifics of his tax program, he did indicate that a $15,000 annual income might be the dividing point at which he would start imposing tax increases.

"I'm not going to add a tax burden on working families and the middle income categories — a $15,000 income," Carter told reporters at the St. Louis Airport.

"The Democratic party never burdened low and middle income people with higher taxes," he said.

Wearing a beige leisure jacket and open-collared white shirt, Ford motored to nearby Frederick, Md., and spent more than an hour at a dairy farm, talking to owner William B. Crum and about eight other local farmers.

Motorcyclist killed in Coventry crash

EAST HARTFORD — An East Hartford motorcyclist was killed early Sunday when he apparently failed to negotiate a curve on Rt. 31, in Coventry, police reported.

Thomas F. Anton, 26, of 130 Monroe St., was riding his motorcycle when it veered off the road at the curve and hit trees and a wall at about 12:30 a.m. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Coventry town officials said Sunday the crash has been included among state Department of Transportation improvement projects for several years. It was listed recently as a top priority of proposed improvements submitted to the state by the Windham Regional Planning Agency.

Mr. Anton was born in Springfield, Mass., and lived most of his life in East Hartford. He was the son of Mrs. Laura Olender Anton and the late Francis Anton.

He was graduated from East

Catholic High School in 1968. He also graduated from University of Connecticut where he later received his master's degree.

He worked for the Bio-Medical Service of the University of Connecticut Medical Center, Farmington.

Other survivors are a sister, Mrs. Donna Mines of Foxboro, Mass., and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Aksina of East Hartford.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 8:15 a.m. from John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., Manchester, with a Mass at 9 a.m. at St. Christopher's Church, East Hartford. Burial will be at 1:30 p.m. at St. Anthony's Cemetery, Lawrence, Mass.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that those wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society, 292 S. Marshall St., Hartford.

CSEA accuses state of stalling the filling of 300 job openings

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut State Employees Association today said it was getting the run-around from officials when it sought to force the filling of vacant state jobs.

CSEA President Al Marotta told a news conference more than 200 of the workers let go earlier this year when the state faced a projected $80 million deficit were still jobless and must be immediately rehired.

He said authorizations for at least 300 positions were stalled in the Department of Finance and Control, the agency that handles budgetary matters.

"The governor's own commissioners in many departments have underscored the immediate need for additional staff," he said.

Marotta said he had met with Gov. Ella T. Grasso and she had told him to see Finance Commissioner Jay O. Tepper. Marotta said Tepper had assured him since July the positions would be filled, but there had been no action.

"We are well into September and he (Tepper) still has seen fit not to approve the requests," Marotta said. Marotta said Mrs. Grasso "must come down off her surplus clouds and deal with reality and hard facts concerning jobs and promotions in state service."

Mrs. Grasso let go 505 workers as part of her austerity program last winter to deal with the projected cash shortage and another 147 persons lost their jobs when Cedarcrest Hospital in Newington closed earlier this year.

"The layoffs of state employees were never needed and that was proven," he told reporters.

He said his group knew of 240 of the workers who the state had rehired and at least 60 laid off workers who had since taken jobs with private industry.

He said that left about 150 of the furloughed workers about whose status the union was not clear.

Officials seek cause of chute malfunction

ELLINGTON (UPI) — Efforts continued today to determine why both the main and reserve parachutes failed to open in the fatal plunge of a woman skydiver.

Susan Alley, 25, of Springfield, Mass., an experienced parachutist who had jumped hundreds of times previously, died Saturday during competition sponsored by Connecticut Parachutists Inc.

Federal aviation officials, in addition to state and local police, were looking into the incident.

Officials said Miss Alley jumped from 3,000 feet and died when both her parachutes failed to open. The meet was ended for the day following the incident.

Authorities said the accident was the first in the seven years the club has used the Ellington airport.

Turkish crash kills 154

ISPARTA, Turkey (UPI) — A Turkish Airlines Boeing 727 flying almost at rooftop level smashed into a mountain in rugged southwest Turkey Sunday and exploded in flames, killing all 154 persons aboard — mostly German, Dutch and Italian tourists.

Airline officials speculated engine trouble may have caused the plane, on a domestic flight from Istanbul to the Mediterranean resort of Antalya, to crash into 4,500-foot Karakaya Mountain just 30 miles short of its destination.

Officials said only 23 of the 147 passengers were Turks. The others were German, Italian and Dutch tour groups. The plane carried a crew of seven.

"There were no survivors," an airline official said.

Witnesses said the plane flew too low over Isparta, 30 miles north of the crash site.

"It was flying dangerously low over the city, almost touching the rooftops," a witness said. "A few moments later it hit the mountain and was gutted in flames."

"We still do not know the cause of the disaster, but eyewitness accounts indicate that the plane may have developed engine trouble in midair," an airline official said.

New study blames criminals for crime

What has been called a major new study of the causes of crime amounts almost to heresy by today's crazy standards.

"The Criminal Personality," by psychiatrist Samuel Yochelson and clinical psychologist Stanton E. Samenow, actually blame crime on criminals instead of society.

The authors in fact state flatly that the belief that mental illness, a poor home environment or other factors outside the control of the individual are responsible for criminal behavior are "simply excuses." What is needed to combat crime, they say, is not so much society's improvement or conventional therapy but an offender's "conversion" to an entirely new lifestyle, along with a rigorous moral education.

They reached their conclusions, which is the opposite of the one with which they began, on the basis of 15 years of investigation of criminal offenders at St. Elizabeth's, a government-run hospital in Washington.

The researchers at first used traditional psychiatric methods, but eventually realized that the criminals were making fools of them. They then abandoned per-missiveness and "understanding" for a much more judgmental approach in intensive sessions of "moral inventory." Instead of trying to allay feelings of guilt, they attempted to bring out a criminals' latent disgust with himself, at the same time indicating a willingness to work with him.

In the process they discovered that there is no such thing as a "first offender."

"The criminal gets away with far more than is ever known by anyone else," they say. "By the time he is apprehended, he has more than likely committed hundreds, if not thousands, of offenses."

It is not clear how many St. Elizabeth patients were successfully converted from crime. Also, the question of how society is to accomplish the wholesale rehabilitation of the tens of thousands of offenders in its prisons, where they are in daily contact with fellow criminals, remains unanswered.

But it is encouragingly to learn that some criminologists are beginning to realize that there is only so much society can do, and that the true rehabilitation of the criminal personality must proceed from the criminal himself.

Congress taking pretty good care of itself

WASHINGTON — A nonprofit research outfit, Tax Foundation, Inc., has handed the Ford camp a tidbit of a campaign issue in a report showing that Congress spent nearly $1-billion "on itself" in the last fiscal year — almost triple what it spent in 1970 and more than five times what it spent in 1960.

This item is food for Republican orators because it is added evidence for their florid charges that the Democrats are spendthrifts; after all, the Democrats have had exclusive control of Congress for 22 straight years and for 40 out of the last 44 years. Voters don't have to be told that the minority does not set spending policies on Capitol Hill.

In any event, working stiff's should view with some amazement Tax Foundation's findings that while the overall federal budget increased 305 per cent and the Consumer Price Index (CPI) rose about 93 per cent since 1960, the budget for the legislative branch increased a whopping 441 per cent. From 1970 to 1976 alone, Congress' budget increased 168 per cent.

costs in fiscal 1976 were for salaries and related expenses for members and their staffs. There are 22 per cent more legislative branch employees than there were in 1970. The Congressional staff alone has grown 44 per cent since 1970, compared to a mere 12 per cent growth in the total civilian labor force.

Congressmen have received three pay raises since 1970; they now earn a respectable $44,825 a year, plus thousands of dollars in allowances. Tax Foundation claims that staff salary levels are high by almost any standard. It is right. The average Senate employe makes $18,000 a year; the average House employe $14,000. There are a lot of bright people on the Congressional payroll, but their average pay still looks big compared with the national per capita average income of just over $5,000.

Of course, there is this: Congress spent "only" $426.3-million in fiscal 1976 for everything from salaries to stationery for its members and employes. Legislative agencies created by Congress to serve

Reflections

Hal Turkington
Managing Editor

A young journalism student came into the Herald editorial room, on the second floor of the Bissell St. building, on a September morning in 1951. He was looking for a job, and there was a vacancy on the staff.

"Go out there, find an empty typewriter, and write your obituary," he was told.

He did, he wrote about the death of the city editor of The Herald; he wrote about the man who, today, is the city editor of The Herald — Alex Girelli.

He got the job.

"He was the only reporter I ever hired," said Alan Olmstead, the retired editorialist and columnist of The Herald.

So next Friday, Sept. 24, Alex Girelli will celebrate 25 years covering, editing, and commenting about the news of Manchester and its surrounding towns.

We asked Alex about letting this column call attention to his anniversary, and he agreed. We said that, rather than an interview, why didn't he jot down his observations about he has seen in those 25 years, and his own reflections. These paragraphs that follow are his.

In those days, there were almost as many reporters for every available job as there are today when I have a big stack of applications from young people who have more talent and better training than I did then. I was very lucky to find The Herald.

Some years afterward the situation was to reverse itself. I remember reading, to my amazement, at one time that there were ten jobs for every journalism school graduate.

I didn't exactly "find" The Herald at that. I missed it. My wife and I drove right through Manchester and kept going west. We remarked, as we drove along E. Center St., that this was a lovely town.

I had cause many times in later years to remember that reaction when natives or old-time residents would say that Manchester had changed, making it clear that the changes were all for the worse. While some things have happened that I wish had not, I've never changed my mind about Manchester. I still think it is lovely.

My job-hunting tour took me as far west as New Britain where a kind gentleman at the New Britain Herald asked me if I had stopped at Manchester. There, he told me, the paper had lost almost a century of experience with the death of Thomas and Ronald Ferguson.

I made better time between New

Britain and Manchester then in a 1936 Pontiac than I do now in a better car on far better roads.

I had been told many times that a good reporter learns to know his community. As soon as I got the job, I tried to assimilate Manchester in almost one gulp. I took a map and drove around town again and again, deliberately getting lost so I could find out exactly where I was and how I got there. I read and reread the town charter.

Now that you've heard the observations of Alex, I have some of my own.

Had he not chosen journalism, Alex would have been an excellent teacher; he has often been leader of staff discussions about the news, how to handle it, report it, display it in the makeup of the paper, and photo content.

He'd rather be closer to the news, reporting upon it rather than commenting upon it; but he can comment upon it. His "teacher" was Alan Olmstead, and he became Alan's reader.

Welcome to The Herald 25-Year Club, Alex. There are four of us in the newsroom and the chimes of Tolland Pike, farming for the solitude of a

Slipstick slides out

You might call it the "Case of the Vanishing Slide Rule," but there is no mystery to what has happened to the instrument that once was as necessary to mathematicians and engineers as a knowledge of formulas and theorems.

The ubiquitous electronic calculator has cut sales of slide rules to 20 per cent of what they were 10 years ago. The electronic variety, many of which are called "slide rule calculator," are not only simpler to use but are frequently faster, more accurate and cheaper than the old-fashioned slipstick.

Some manufacturers of slide rules have stopped making them entirely. Others are hanging on only by virtue of the fact that some schools still teach their students to use slide rules, and there remains a market for simple rules costing under $2.

But if they quit teaching calculators in the schools, says one executive, you can say goodbye to the whole business.

If you have a slide rule, though, don't throw it away. Like so many other things that have succumbed to the march of progress, it will probably be a collector's item some day.

The CNG Conservationists can tell you... how to take some of the heat out of paying for your heating this winter

Because natural gas is the cleanest, most environmentally desirable, and most efficient energy source we call our CNG Natural Energy Consultants The Conservationists. And because their job is a matter of showing you how to conserve energy and to save money at the same time, home heating is one of their real concerns.

They know how to help you save by replacing your old heating unit with a new gas unit that's designed for saving. A unit with no pilot burning all the time. A unit that delivers more of the generated heat to the areas where you live. A unit that can save you more on your total heating bill.

Because no two homes or heating systems are the same, he can help you only by checking your home, your heating requirements, and your present heating costs.

Whether you heat with warm air, hot water or steam, he'll show you how you can save by replacing your old unit with a new gas burner that uses clean, safe, efficient natural gas. And he may show you how to save even more by recommending new fuel-saving control systems.

Parking lot changes create some problems

The new arrangement for the Municipal Building parking lot has created some traffic problems for exiting motorists, but the town is looking into possible cures for the situation.

The lot was recently expanded and a new exit road was built west of the fire house, one previous exit and entrance road, between the Municipal Building and the fire station, was changed to an entrance only.

The new exit, which is directly across from Linden St. has two lanes, one for those turning right and one for those turning left. This presents a problem, according to some Municipal Building workers, because, if there is a car in each lane, it makes it hard for both motorists to see oncoming traffic along Center St.

"I think it's really a big problem to get out of the lot, especially at noon and 4:30," one town employee who works in the Municipal Building said. (The Municipal Building closes at 4:30 in the afternoon.)

Another worker said it now takes her five minutes more than it used to get out of the lot.

"Somebody's going to get killed,"

Archeological surveys made on new road site

Professors and students will be checking the site of the proposed Interstate 291 between the Bissell Bridge in Windsor to Interstate 86 near Caldor's this fall for Connecticut's archeological past, before the bulldozers rearrange the landscape.

Members of the Connecticut Archeological Survey, headquartered at Central Connecticut State College, will perform field archeological assessments at five major highway construction sites under a $10,000 grant from the Connecticut Department of Transportation.

Dr. Frederic Warner, director of the Survey and a professor of archeology at the New Britain college, said that the grant was made for the field work in accord with federal regulations that require potential construction sites to be checked for archeological value before the start of construction.

The Survey has located several other archeological sites in Connecticut in the past two years, uncovering early historic and prehistoric communities in all parts of the state.

Winless Yale, UConn tangle

HARTFORD (UPI) - One team obviously has no place to go but up when the University of Connecticut and Yale meet Saturday in New Haven. Yale, which has opened against UConn since 1968, already has a loss, a 14-0 score-filled defeat at Brown.

Notes off the cuff

Tom Kelley, pitching coach with Tidewater in the International League, wound up the year by pitching one inning in the season finale for the El. Brown took the first tumble and Billy Hill scampers 11 yards for a touchdown two plays later.

Caponi success

Former two-time Women's Open champion Donna Caponi Young says she is going to lay off making predictions in the future. "One thing I'll never do again as long as I play golf is predict a playoff," said Young, after she nipped Clifford Ann Creed by one stroke on the second hole of overtime Sunday to win the LPGA Portland Ladies Classic.

Falcons triumph again

MERIDEN (UPI) - The Connecticut Falcons defeated the San Jose Sunbirds, 2-1, at Falcon Field in Meriden Sunday night to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven, Women's Professional Softball World Series. Joan Joyce allowed only two hits and struck out 17 in pitching the victory.

Pro football

owner Phil Iselein was hospitalized in stable condition after suffering a heart attack at halftime Bears, 19, 19ers 12. Walter Payton scored on runs of 20 and seven yards and Chicago special teams set up 12 points as the Bears beat San Francisco 19-12 in their season-opening game Sunday.

High booters gain revenge

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports-writer Maybe the 1975 State Class AA soccer championship sits in the Wethersfield High trophy case. But Manchester High tasted sweet revenge Saturday with a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over homesteading Wethersfield before a good crowd of 350 in the '76 debut for both CCHC clubs.

Quarterback Steve Grogan of the New England Patriots sits on helmet and bites fingernails while watching his mates on defense. Grogan's three touchdowns passed led Patriots to 30-14 up-set against Miami.

Runners fare well

Competing in the seventh annual Wolcott Invitational Cross Country Races, both East Catholic and Manchester High showed well. East placed third with 109 points in Varsity Two trailing Greenwich 147 and Sacred Heart 186. Manchester took third with 76 points in Varsity One behind Xavier (39) and Bethel (75). There were four varsity races with teams chosen by lot.

Two big wins change Colt owner's attitude quarterback Jim Plunkett six times for losses. Cowboys 24, Saints 6. Scott Laidlaw scored second period TDs on run of 10 and one yard to carry Dallas over New Orleans. Preston Pearson recovered a fumble in the endzone for another Cowboy score and Roger Staubach threw for 239 yards. Patriots 30, Dolphins 11 Steve Grogan threw for three TDs and ran 13 yards for another Patriot score. The Dolphins suffered another major loss when cornerback Tim Foley was knocked out for the year with a knee injury. Patriots 14, Browns 14 Terry Bradshaw, given good field position by an aggressive Pittsburgh defense, threw two TD passes to John Stallworth as the Steelers erupted for all 31 points in the second half to overtake Cleveland. The Browns took a 14-0 halftime lead on two Brian Sipe TD passes before Jack Ham's blocked punt and Steve Culbert's fumble recovery got the Steelers offense moving. Redskins 31, Seahawks 7 Mike Thomas scored two TDs and ran for a personal high of 143 yards and three touchdowns for three lead before New York's Craig Morton threw seven yards to Walker Gillette for a score in the first quarter. Cardinals 29, Packers 7 Jim Bakken scored two field goals and Terry Metcalf and Steve Jones added clutching TD runs in the third and fourth quarters. The Cardinals broke the game open in the final minutes as 46-yard TD run by Rocky Young and a 36-yard interception return for a score by Tom Hayes to defeat Tampa Bay. The expansion Bucs have yet to score in two games. Oilers 11, Bills 11 Mike Boryla passed 21 yards to Harold Carmichael for one score and plunged a yard for another score in the second quarter. The Giants and brought their first NFL victory. The Eagles built a 20-0 lead before New York's Steve Largent threw a 54-yarder was the longest of his career and a tough Oiler defense limited the Oilers. The Oilers led 10-0 in the first quarter. MCC booters lose in 'heartless' start

By DAVE ROBACK Correspondent "We didn't have our hearts in this contest," commented Manchester Community College soccer Coach Jim Dyer after his squad dropped a season-opening 3-1 duke to Rhode Island Junior College Saturday at Cougar Field. "If you are to win it's necessary to have your hearts in the contest. We didn't have the desire to come back when we were down and that hurt us," continued Dyer.

Rham booters dominating Catholic

Eventually Rhode Island did it as scored at the 1:13 mark of the first half with Jose Rico blasting home a shot to the right side beating goalie M.C.C.'s Scotty Green intercepted and tied it at 6-6. A tripping violation resulted in a penalty kick which Rico converted with two minutes left in the half Rhode Island collected its final tally four minutes into the second half with Tautian Vartan's corner kick being directed home by Steve Potras.

Battle lines

BOSTON (UPI) - The battle lines are clearly drawn in both the Ivy League and Yankee Conference. Brown has established itself as the Challenger to Harvard's third straight Ivy title, with Dartmouth straight the darkhorse.

Hunter wins 200th game

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, a pitcher who has met and broken many records during his 12-year career, Sunday added another impressive but rather obscure statistic to his name.

He tossed a five-hitter to lead the New York Yankees to a rain-shortened 2-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers and thus became only the fourth major league pitcher to win 200 games before his 31st birthday.

The only other to reach the 200-victory mark before turning 31 were Cy Young, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson.

Hunter, who turned 30 April 8, also became the 71st pitcher to win 200 games.

What about shooting for 300? "I'm trying not to think it because it's a long way off," Hunter said. "To tell you the truth, I never thought I'd be around long enough to get 200. If my arm holds up, I might be around long enough."

Anyhow, he says, he's not one to set goals.

Hunter struck out five and did not walk a batter in five and one-half innings while improving his record to 16-14. It was the Yankees' fifth straight triumph and 11th in their last 14 games.

Jim Mason doubled with two out in the second inning to drive in both New York runs. Carlos May and Oscar Gamble had both singled before Mason's game-winning blow.

Jim Slaton, now 14-13, went the distance and took the loss.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The road to the new Royals Stadium has been a rocky one for Roger Nelson, Kansas City's No. 1 selection in the expansion draft in 1968.

After an 14-6 record with the Royals in 1972, Nelson was shuffled to the National League, the minors and ultimately to oblivion.

But when Manager Whitey Herzog called on the sore-armed, right-hander Sunday, Nelson responded with 5 2/3 innings of three-hit relief that helped the Royals to a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The victory, coupled with Oakland's doubleheader split with the Rangers, left Kansas City six games in front of the A's in the American League West. The two clubs meet in Kansas City for a three-game series beginning Tuesday and meet three times next week in Oakland.

"Being called up was like dying and then going to heaven," said Nelson. The Red Sox collected a dozen hits as they achieved their longest winning streak of the year.

Twins 7, Angels 5. Steve Braun drove in two runs with three singles and edged Milwaukee, 2-1, in a rain-shortened game, pitched the last three in-

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (UPI) — It was not the "Golden Bear" in his own winner's circle Sunday but "Gentle Ben" Crenshaw, a quiet PGA tourist who speaks with his putter.

Soft-spoken, easy-going Crenshaw, beginning to play more and more like Jack Nicklaus, golf's "Golden Bear," captured the $150,000 Ohio Kings Island Open with a final-round 66 Sunday.

The win was the 24-year-old Crenshaw's third this year and moved him into second place behind Nicklaus in the 1976 money winners race. The $30,000 first prize pushed Crenshaw's earnings to $256,321. Nicklaus, who made $4,668 for his sixth-place tie here, had $286,437.

Crenshaw, a three-time All-American at the University of Texas, played six straight days of brilliant golf at the par-70, 6,837-yard Jack Nicklaus Golf Center course. He had a practice round of 66, won the Pro-Am with a 65 and then put together a 69-69, 67-66-271 in the tourney.

It was Crenshaw's brilliant putting that helped him edge Andy North by one stroke in Sunday's exciting finish.

Leading by just one shot going into the final hole, Crenshaw sank a pressure-packed 14-foot birdie putt that negated North's six-iron for a birdie.

"Putting by far is the best part of my game," Crenshaw said after his victory. "Putting is mostly mental, about 90 per cent of it. You have to think

NATIONAL LEAGUE NEW YORK (UPI) — On a day when the Cincinnati Reds clinched at least a tie for the National League's Western Division, Ray Burris pitched a seven-hitter that gave the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Phillies and Dave Kingman drove in five runs with two homers to lead the New York Mets to a 7-6 triumph over the Pirates.

The missed opportunity by both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh meant the Phillies retained their four-game lead in the NL East heading into the final two weeks. Each has 14 games left to play.

Burris, who hasn't yielded an earned run in his last 27 innings and has a 19-3 record since the All-Star break, didn't walk a batter and struck out five in downing the Phillies. Jerry Morales gave Burris the only run he needed when he hit his 18th homer in the second inning. Jim Lonborg suffered his 10th loss against 15 victories.

Asked if he thought the Phillies were "playing nervous," Burris replied: "I don't think so. I don't notice anything different about them. You have to give credit to our club for beating them. We just played good ball."

Kingman hit his 38th and third home run as the Mets rallied from a 6-2 deficit to beat the Pirates. John Stearns also homered for the Mets, who dealt Dave Giusti his fourth defeat despite homers by Willie Starrett and Omar Moreno.

The Reds made winning look so very easy as they jumped off with three runs in the first inning and in the second for a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants. They mathematically eliminated Los Angeles from the Western race the next time they win a game or the Dodgers lose one.

Pete Rose led a ratcheting 10-hit Cincinnati attack in the first inning and pitched a six-hitter for the Dodgers. Steve Garvey and Ed Gooden each had three hits and two RBI as the Dodgers hammered out 16 hits. John Evers hit his record at 10-10.

Astros 3-3, Padres 2-2. Pinchhitter Jerry DaVanon's single drove in the winning run for the Astros in the ninth inning of the opener and saddled 21-game winner Randy Jones with his 14th loss.

Cliff Johnson drove in two runs with a homer and a double and Bo McLaughlin pitched a four-hitter as the Astros completed the sweep.

Cardinals 9-0, Expos 7-1. Ted Simmons' bases-loaded triple was the big blow of a five-run ninth-inning outburst which carried the Cardinals to their victory in the first game at Montreal. Ellis Valentine broke up a scoreless tie with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning of the nightcap with Woodie Fryman pitching his second shutout of the year for the Expos.

Yarborough wins DOVER, Del. (UPI) — If Cale Yarborough was a quitter, he might have watched Richard Petty drive into the winner's circle Sunday at the Delaware 500 Grand National Stock Car Race.

Asked if he thought the Phillies were "playing nervous," Burris replied: "I don't think so. I don't notice anything different about them. You have to give credit to our club for beating them. We just played good ball."

Fatal alarms Rt. 31 people

Coventry

LINDA LOVERING

The death Sunday of an East Hartford man on Rt. 31 has alarmed among the residents of the area.

Several, including the woman who found the young man's dead body in her driveway, spoke out this morning about the deceptive and dangerous section of road where he died. (See story page 1.)

Mary Zanner

The woman who found the body is Mrs. Mary Zanner of Rt. 31. She has lived there 28 years.

"This curve has had so many accidents that we (she and her husband and the area residents) are afraid for the children that walk on this road."

In the summer, a great many area children walk on the road on their way to the beach on Coventry Lake. "We've had two cars hit, a tenant's car hit, and two cars in the Thomas Stevenson's driveway hit."

A bad memory

"It happened between 12 and 1 in the morning. We heard no brakes. It sounded like a tree fell."

"I got my flash light and went up there. There was a motorcycle that looked like it had been parked by our car."

"And there was a young man lying in the driveway."

"My husband called the police and an ambulance. They arrived immediately," she said.

"His helmet was found in the neighbor's driveway next door."

"We would do anything to straighten out the corner but we don't know what to do. We've tried everything."

She is a proponent of 184's completion. But she said it would not help the accident rate here as the accidents occur mainly to local people, she said.

The motorcyclist was a graduate of the University of Connecticut in nearby Storrs.

Sharon Kendall

Sharon Kendall, a Rt. 31 neighbor of Mrs. Zanner for over seven years, said, "Over the past three weeks, there have been three accidents including Saturday night's."

"Last year a young man was killed on the curve."

"This summer there were numerous accidents. Last February a pickup truck went 150 feet in the air. Nobody was killed then but no one knows why they weren't."

"The other fatality I know about was a few years ago when a woman went head on into a tree."

"When Al Ahearn (D-35th District) was running for state representative, I called him and he looked at the curve. He was equally horrified and campaigned about it."

"Two days before election, his opponent Dorothy Miller, stated there were funds available for the repair of the curve. But there was no priority listing of it."

"That was the last we heard and that was seven years ago."

"The town has put up radar to no avail. All the neighbors have complained."

"I have called Congressman (Chris) Dodd and we are waiting for him to call back. And we (the neighbors) are getting up a petition."

Rita Zazel

Rita Zazel, a Rt. 31 resident for 12 years, said, "I'm very concerned after all the accidents."

"I've written to all the representatives and called them. I've received promises and promises."

"I shudder when I see the Kendall child waiting for the bus."

"There was an accident Monday of Labor Day and the Friday after that a car plowed into a truck across the street."

Thomas Stevenson

Thomas Stevenson of Tomm's Five and Ten store of Rt. 31 and a Rt. 31 curve resident said, "I know the legislature appropriated the money to repair the road eight years ago. I was there."

"I think that the state has rescinded the money and declared this area not a priority."

"It's a bad corner. It's a blind corner with driveways and the beach."

"Ten years ago, I fought for a top light there. Instead they put up a caution light."

"A girl was hit going to the bus five years ago and is still crippled today."

"They no longer have a stop bus there. But it isn't stopping the problem."

Chief Kjellquist

Coventry Police Chief Robert Kjellquist said today, "We have not finished our investigation. The blood analysis will not be available for six to eight weeks."

Both the police and the town manager's office have recommended to the state Department of Transportation that this curve be corrected. There was no real other solution other than to correct the curve, the chief said.

Police have used radar but radar can cause as many problems as it might solve, he said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last June, when my husband went back to his hometown for his 50th high school reunion, he started up with an old sweetheart he hadn't seen since graduation. Ernie is 68 and retired, and she's a 67-year-old widow with 11 grandchildren!

Ernie took 60 Polaroid pictures at the reunion, and this woman is in 60 of them. She's skinny, has orange hair and wears a light knit dress with a plunging neckline.

He's called her long distance several times (she lives in San Diego), and I'm sure they're corresponding the way he breaks his neck to get the mail first.

Ernie's told our children all about her, and they've been teasing me. He says it's all in fun, but I'm not sure. Maybe I'm handling it all wrong, but I told Ernie he could have his freedom if he'll give me 50 per cent of everything he has.

I need some expert advice, Abby. What should I do?

JEALOUS AT 65

DEAR JEALOUS: Don't make Ernie any offers you don't intend to honor. He just may call your bluff.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to pose an ethical problem faced by many doctors. Here's the scenario:

A husband phones to say that he has picked up a case of gonorrhea and fears he has infected his wife. Since the wife is coming in for a routine checkup he wants you to diagnose and treat her without telling her what she has. Should the doctor?

A. Refuse subterfuge and insist that the guy level with his wife?

B. Agree to test for gonorrhea, and if the test is positive, tell the wife the whole story?

C. Go all out and even lie a little to keep the phlegm-dripping husband out of trouble?

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Under no circumstances would an ethical doctor treat a patient for a venereal disease without an ethical doctor's consent. And in the interest of public health, instruct the V.D. source to tell his wife - or you!

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column signed J.M. just floored me! It was from a woman who had given birth to twins 34 years ago, and was told by her doctor that one twin had died, but never saw a birth certificate or a death certificate for the "dead" baby.

Abby, I had a similar experience. My doctor told me I was carrying twins, and I was thrilled.

I entered the hospital on June 19, 1941, and was examined by several interns and nurses, who told me that I would deliver twins. I had a long difficult labor, so when I finally gave birth I didn't fuss because I didn't get the twins I had expected.

Well, 34 years later while standing in the checkout line at the supermarket, I nearly fainted when I noticed that the woman ahead of me was the image of my daughter who lives in California! She could have been her identical twin sister. A sick feeling came over me, but I was so numb and speechless, I couldn't bring myself to speak to her.

That incident has haunted me for several months. I have no idea how to start searching for this woman, but if I ever see her again, you can bet I will think of something to say to her.

Win at Bridge

DEAR ABBY: If either spades or diamonds broke 3-3. He was also sure of it if either opponent was the only one able to spot the spade or diamond suit. He came to his hand and the king of diamonds and cashed his two last hearts. A club and spade were thrown from dummy.

Oswald: "East had to throw either a diamond or spade on that last heart and was hopefully squeezed. He did chuck a spade, since he was looking right at four diamonds in dummy, but now South just made four spades, three diamonds and his slam."

Jim: "Tomorrow we will suggest a simple way to use a few four-trump calls as real trump bids and we will discuss the Greater Club-convention later this week."
