Do your children sometimes drive you up a wall? Do you suspect you may have a similar effect on them? Then plan to come to Center Congregational Church at 8 p.m. Thursday to see "Being an Effective Parent," a movie based on Dr. Thomas Gordon's book "Parent Effectiveness Training."

Raising children certainly is one of our most important life experiences. Yet, most of us have received little or no formal education preparing us for such a role. Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) for parents to improve their relationship with their children and to gain new insight into parenting skills.

Last year, several very successful discussion groups were formed, meeting for eight weeks to review Dr. Gordon's book, share reactions and mutually develop specific skills. Karen Prewé, a psychiatric social worker, provided introductory information during the first session and helped evaluate during the concluding session.

After the movie, more groups will be formed, again with Karen Prewé's help. It has been most effective. So come, if possible, with friends, but whatever — do come. There is no charge for either the movie or for help in beginning the groups.

This program is provided as a service to the community by the MACC Division of Christian Education. PET is a skill-port.

Foreign news commentary:

Window on Europe

LISBON (UPI) — President Antonio Ramalho Eanes, who took office with a pledge to leave day-to-day governing to the government, is showing signs of impatience with the Socialist administration of Premier Mario Soares.

In a recent speech he told Soares' government, in effect, to stop internal jockeying and get cracking on dealing with the economic problems that afflict the country.

It is an open secret in Lisbon that Soares' address to the nation on the economy was delayed last week by one day because Eanes was dissatisfied with the first draft.

The result was a speech that painted a grim picture of the economy that many left-wing socialists would have liked. But it is still unclear when promised austerity measures to fight the crisis will take effect.

LONDON (UPI) — A damaging split in the governing Labor party may be in the offing at the annual party convention at Blackpool at the end of the month.

Left-wingers will try to push through a resolution castigating the Labor government plan to cut public spending by $1.8 billion next year.

The resolution is sponsored by Barbara Castle, former social services secretary who was fired by Prime Minister James Callaghan when he took office last April.

Callaghan may be able to defeat the resolution with help from several big trade unions. But commentators say the convention fight will leave scars in the party and the government.

France battles inflation

PARIS (UPI) — President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing plans to combat France's current 13 per cent annual inflation with hikes in personal income and corporate taxes and auto license fees.

Giscard will announce the plan Sept. 22 but details already have been leaked in the press.

The two largest labor unions, both Communist-dominated, have declared war on the plan. But it does not require parliamentary approval and any opposition move to block it with a no-confidence motion probably would be defeated.

Portugal joining Europe

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Portugal will apply for membership in the European Common Market after Premier Mario Soares completes a tour of European capitals later this year. It may have to wait years for an answer.

Dutch Foreign Minister Max Van Der Stoep has just been in Lisbon to offer the Portuguese a Common Market aid and cooperation package, including greater freedom for Portuguese workers to move around the community.

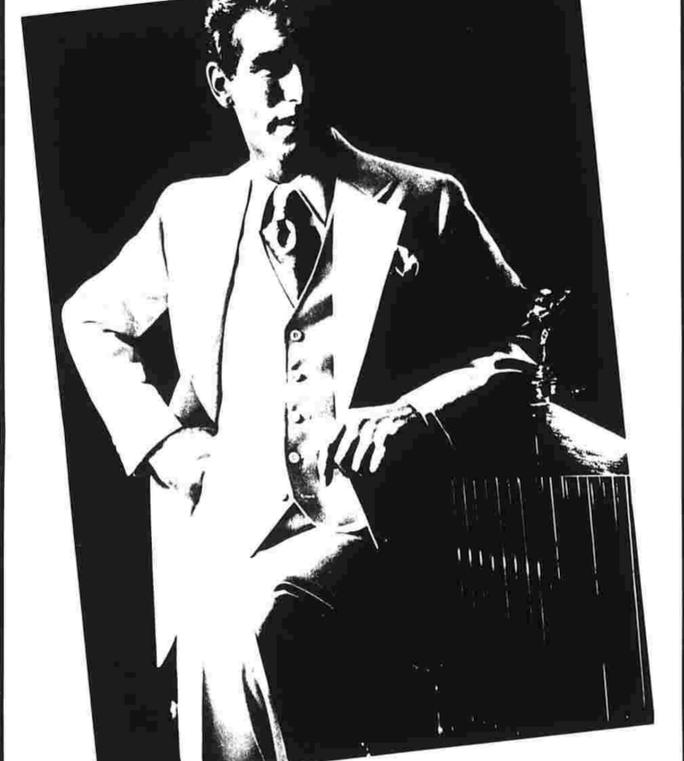

Smoke detector safety debated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Smoke detectors, viewed by safety officials as a key factor in cutting into the nearly 7,000 fire deaths in American homes every year, are under attack for alleged radiation dangers.

Ralph Nader's Health Research Group told the Nuclear Regulatory Commission last week it should ban ionization type devices which contain the radioactive metal americium because of group of people who use them for fuel cycles and materials at the commission, disputed the demand.

"There's talking about a microcurie of americium. If you were sitting 25 centimeters away from a device for 40 hours a week you would get one millirem (of radiation) in one year. If you take a round trip airplane flight from Washington to California you get five millirems per flight.

Rhodesian transition plan approved by black leader

DAR ES SALAAM (UPI) — Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere, key leader of the black African states aligned against Rhodesia, put his stamp of approval today on the negotiations for a Rhodesian transition plan.

Nyerere, who had been pessimistic about Kissinger's chances of setting up a negotiated settlement in Rhodesia only a week ago, told a news conference: "We are making movement toward a constitutional conference."

Nyerere said the only thing missing is the formal, public acceptance by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith of the principle of majority rule.

Nyerere said that formal acceptance is expected from Smith on Friday.

As Nyerere visualized the next steps, it would go like this:

—Smith will make his formal acceptance and a constitutional conference will be called, perhaps in London, perhaps elsewhere.

—This constitutional conference would establish a deadline for the transition to full majority rule in Rhodesia. U.S. officials said that majority rule means one-man, one-vote and nothing else.

Nyerere said the principal breakthrough was Smith's acceptance of majority rule, and the reason he accepted it now and not before, said Nyerere, "is that the United States told him, the game is up."

Earlier today Kissinger flew to the Tanzanian capital of Dar Es Salaam from Zambia and drove directly to the Tanzanian State House, where he had to wait about five minutes for Nyerere to arrive.

Lobbyist admits firm entertained Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Steel's chief lobbyist said today his firm paid "room and board" for at least two visits by President Ford to the company's country club lodge in New Jersey when Ford was a congressman.

On three previous occasions, U.S. Steel's Washington-based vice president, William Whyte, told UPI he had personally taken care of all expenses incurred by Ford on golfing trips to the lodge between 1964 and 1971.

In a telephone interview today, Whyte said he had refreshed his memory and now recalled that U.S. Steel picked up the tab for Ford's "room and board" at the Pine Valley Golf Club near Clementon, N.J.

"I picked up caddy fees on the greens and things like that," Whyte said.

Whyte also confirmed a report that U.S. Steel has a complete listing of guests who have stayed at the lodge since 1969. Those records, he said, are kept in a limestone mine in Andover, Pa.

Whyte said Ford had not vacationed at the lodge since he left Congress and that U.S. Steel no longer uses it for VIP purposes. Ford was nominated by Richard Nixon to be vice president, succeeding Spiro T. Agnew, in October, 1973, and became President when Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, asked for a response to Whyte's remarks, quoted Ford as saying: "I've been a friend of Bill Whyte for 28 years. I've been there twice as his friend to play golf."

Nessen said Ford recalled playing there in 1964 and about five years ago.

"He feels Bill Whyte is a personal friend who asked him to go up and play golf," Nessen said, noting also that Ford and Whyte are frequent golf partners at the Burning Tree Country Club in suburban Maryland.

Whyte said Ford's first visit to the lodge was in the fall of 1964. At that time, there was no law or congressional rule being called, perhaps in London, perhaps elsewhere.

U.S. officials said such a conference could come within two months after Smith's statement.

—Among the first orders of business at that constitutional conference will be the establishment of a provisional government.

—That provisional government would call for a cease-fire in the guerrilla war now in progress against Rhodesia.

—This constitutional conference would also establish a deadline for the transition to full majority rule in Rhodesia. U.S. officials said that majority rule means one-man, one-vote and nothing else.

Nyerere said the principal breakthrough was Smith's acceptance of majority rule, and the reason he accepted it now and not before, said Nyerere, "is that the United States told him, the game is up."

Earlier today Kissinger flew to the Tanzanian capital of Dar Es Salaam from Zambia and drove directly to the Tanzanian State House, where he had to wait about five minutes for Nyerere to arrive.

At Eighth District meeting

Wait and see attitude urged on Buckland fire protection

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

There's no way the Eighth Utilities District can prevent the Town of Manchester from moving into the nearly finished Buckland firehouse, Eighth District Counsel said Monday night.

John LaBelle's words of caution quelled a move by District Fire Chief Granville Lingard and others to "press the issue" on the Buckland jurisdiction question, which is still in court.

Before LaBelle arrived at Monday night's Eighth District meeting, Lingard said the Town Fire Department would be infringing on Eighth District rights by occupying the new firehouse.

Lingard said town occupancy of the firehouse, even if not for serving the disputed Buckland area, would pose a serious safety problem, if both the District and Town departments were responding to an alarm at the same time.

The new firehouse, expected to be ready next week, was designed for town service of the Buckland area, but a lawyers' agreement will prevent town service of Buckland. So Town Fire Chief John Rivosa said he will use the new facility to serve other areas of the Town Fire District, specifically the Oakdale area via Tolland Tpk.

Lingard alleged Monday night that town officials are "bending the rules again" by occupying the new firehouse.

The spokeswoman said the prisoners "made a demand for an inmates' grievance committee but it was rejected by the administration."

After giving a final order at 1 a.m., correctional officers entered the yard and physically removed the inmates. The spokeswoman said one prisoner received a head laceration "while being physically removed" by guards and was treated at the prison's medical center.

The spokeswoman said Corrections Commissioner John Mansano and Warden Carl Robinson who were at the scene, rejected a demand by the demonstrators to set up a prisoner's grievance committee.

She said the demonstrators will probably face individual disciplinary hearings.

Consumer price index up 0.5%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose 0.5 per cent for the third straight month in August, reflecting higher prices for clothing, gasoline, fruits and vegetables, the Labor Department reported today.

The consumer price increase translates into an annual inflation rate of 6 per cent, larger than administration economists had expected. President Ford has projected an inflation rate of 5 per cent for 1976.

Combined with a slight decline in pay, the August price increase cut into the average worker's real spendable earnings by 0.3 per cent. Real earnings have declined 0.6 per cent over the past year.

Although food prices rose only a slight 0.3 per cent during August, the figures indicated consumers were fully benefiting from recent declines in food prices on the wholesale market.

Service prices rose 0.6 per cent for the third consecutive month and the prices of goods other than food also climbed 0.6 per cent for the second straight month.

Administration economists were anticipating that lower food prices would bring some moderation in the nation's inflation rate prior to the Nov. 2 election. Most public opinion polls have identified inflation as the voters' No. 1 concern.

A decline in meat prices during August, however, failed to offset rising prices for fruits, vegetables, apparel, automobiles, gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil and coal.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 171.9 in August, an increase of 0.6 per cent over a year ago. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967, now sell for $171.9.

Inflation rates spiked up last May after a virtual lull in the early months of the year. Consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in May, followed by three consecutive monthly increases of 0.5 per cent.

Clothing and fuel prices accounted for most of the increase in non-food commodities. Gasoline and motor oil prices, which normally decline in August, instead rose 1.5 per cent. Fuel oil and coal prices were up 1.8 per cent.

Apparel prices rose 1.1 per cent as new fall and winter fashions showed up in the stores. The biggest increases were on clothing for women and girls.

Used car prices continued to climb, rising 1.4 per cent in August. New car prices also rose slightly and the cost of driving a car jumped by a full 1 per cent.

Edwin Newman to moderate first debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television network executives still object to the ground rules, but the first presidential debate since 1960 will be carried on four national channels Thursday night as scheduled.

Edwin Newman of NBC News will moderate the first confrontation between President Ford and Jimmy Carter, and questioners will be James P. Gannon of the Wall Street Journal, Elizabeth Drew of the New Yorker and Frank Reynolds of ABC News.

The panelists will serve only for the first debate. A League of Women Voters spokesman said there has been no decision whether Newman will act as moderator for all three.

League officials have not yet resolved a dispute that had threatened television coverage of the event — a League ruling that audience reaction cannot be televised. In separate announcements CBS, NBC and ABC said they still object to the restrictions but will carry the hour and a half event.

Somers guards quell prison demonstration

SOMERS (UPI) — Guards early today forcibly removed 66 demonstrating inmates to segregation cells after they refused to leave a recreation area and return to their cells.

"There was resistance," according to a Corrections Department spokesman, who said one prisoner was injured slightly as guards carried out the removal about 1 a.m.

A stand-by contingent of 40 state troopers was sent to the prison but were not involved in the removal and were withdrawn by 2 a.m., the spokesmen said.

The demonstration, which started Monday at 9:15 p.m., was to protest the placing in segregation of eight other inmates during a similar demonstration over the weekend demanding a prisoners' grievance committee.

The spokeswoman said the prisoners "made a demand for an inmates' grievance committee but it was rejected by the administration."

After giving a final order at 1 a.m., correctional officers entered the yard and physically removed the inmates. The spokeswoman said one prisoner received a head laceration "while being physically removed" by guards and was treated at the prison's medical center.

The spokeswoman said Corrections Commissioner John Mansano and Warden Carl Robinson who were at the scene, rejected a demand by the demonstrators to set up a prisoner's grievance committee.

She said the demonstrators will probably face individual disciplinary hearings.

Replicans flay Carter tax plan

By ELIZABETH WHARTON
United Press International

Republicans continued to flay Jimmy Carter's tax policies as the Democratic candidate wound up a day of whistle-stop campaigning from New York to Pittsburgh, and returned to Plains, Ga., for two days of preparation for the debate.

The three commercial television networks said they still oppose the ground rules, which forbid them to focus the cameras on the audience, but said they will televise the confrontation Thursday night as scheduled. The event begins at 9:30 p.m. EDT and will run for an hour and a half.

A hot sound system, antiabortion demonstrators and a lone heckler plagued Carter at the whistle-stop windup rally at Pittsburgh, but failed to quell the cheers of several thousand fans who packed the rain-soaked stadium to greet him.

After Carter gave his usual campaign speech, a fireworks display was launched on the hill behind him. Rockets shot off into the air as one ground display wrote "Carter-Mondale" in fiery letters.

During the trip Carter attacked the administration's unemployment record and urged voters to return government to the people.

Noone urges opposition to Cummings re-election

A director of the Eighth Utilities District is urging other directors and voters in the district to oppose State Rep. Theodore Cummings in his re-election campaign in the 12th Assembly District.

District Director Lawrence Noone, in a letter given to other directors Monday night, said Cummings' appointment of a special campaign unit within the Eighth District conflicts with his actions involving district matters.

Noone's letter, not discussed by the Eighth District directors Monday night, said:

"I noticed an article in the Manchester Herald announcing campaign managers in the Eighth District for the re-election of Ted Cummings.

"While I realize it is not the practice of this board to be involved in politics, I feel the board has a duty to protect the District and its electors in any manner at its disposal.

"Mr. Cummings in his present term of office has acted only in a negative and detrimental manner regarding the district. His incompetence as a legislator became apparent with his haphazard and unsuccessful attempt to remove the rights of the people of all of North Manchester. This is in regards to his attempt to change Special Act 200. He also spoke publicly in favor of building an unwanted firehouse in Buckland. It amazes me that Mr. Cummings would look to the district for any support.

"It is with the above thoughts in mind that I ask you, the board and the voters of the Eighth District, to actively oppose the re-election of Mr. Cummings," Noone concluded.

Cummings, whose 12th Assembly District seat includes much of the Eighth Utilities District, earlier this month, named a seven-member "Eighth District Committee for the Re-election of Ted Cummings."

Rhode Island race still up in air

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—The state Board of Elections expects to certify a winner tonight in the top-heavy race between Gov. Philip W. Noel and auto dealer Richard Lorber for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

Noel continued to pick up absentee ballot strength Monday in the strenuously disputed battle but even his aides feared Lorber had the edge.

"I am confident we will have a winner before we go home tonight," Board Chairman Harry F. Curvin said as counting recessed at 12:15 a.m. today.

There were two sets of unofficial totals used by the Noel and Lorber camps, based on regular machine vote totals and the 1,238-548 absentee ballot lead held by the governor.

One showed Noel in the lead by 51 votes overall. The other had Lorber ahead by 96. The board had approximately 400 absentee ballots to deal with today. It was scheduled to resume the tedious counting procedure at 1 p.m.

"If they (the Lorber camp) are right, we are behind by 96. I think their figures are right. Forget it," Noel aide Joseph Almonite said after keeping track of the recount from the beginning.

It was one week ago today that Rhode Island voters went to the polls in statewide primary balloting to pick Democratic nominees for the U.S. Senate and other contests.

Unofficial election-night figures gave Lorber a 381-vote edge over the two-term governor in an eight-man race. The lead has jumped back and forth four times since the recount began Thursday.

The winner will face Republican John H. Chafee, a three-term ex-governor and Navy secretary, in the race to succeed retiring Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

Noel was Pastor's hand-picked choice for a successor on Capitol Hill. Lorber spent nearly $400,000 of his own money on a campaign stressing lack of political experience and "political 101's."

Noel said win or lose, he will not challenge the official outcome of the race. Lorber pledged to go to court if he loses, contending the board improperly handled disputed 1,000 absentee ballots.

The Board of Elections originally faced a 12 p.m. Tuesday deadline to name a winner but later said the law provided a 48-hour extension in cases of recounts and disputes.

The board ordered nearly 150 absentee ballots impounded from Providence's 1st state representative district which Noel's lawyers called "bogus... invalid." It planned to consider whether to void the ballots later today.

A federal judge Monday refused to issue a temporary restraining order sought by Lorber to prevent the elections board from certifying a Democratic nominee while he presses complaints about disputed ballots.

Chief Judge Raymond J. Pettine of U.S. District Court said Lorber would be entitled to an "evidentiary hearing" should he lose. He also said the case probably belonged in the state courts instead of in his federal court.

Manchester welfare costs up

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The cost of welfare in Manchester during August was higher than would be expected for a summer month and marks a $7,000 increase in Manchester's welfare payments since May, Mary DellaFera, director of social services, said Monday.

Manchester issued $19,741 worth of welfare vouchers last month.

Miss DellaFera said that the summer months are usually less demanding on welfare expenses than the winter ones. This is because the summer means less expenditure for home heating and clothing. There is also usually less illness during the summer, cutting medical expenses, she said.

But this August's figure for welfare costs by the town is comparable to figures from November and December of 1975 and is actually more than what was spent for welfare recipients in January of this year. (Manchester spent $20,373 in November 1975, $20,228 in December 1975, and $12,500 in January 1976.)

"I hope this is not an indication of what's going to happen in Manchester," she said.

The monthly figures are calculated by the value of the welfare vouchers given out each month. While these figures are not exact for the cost per month, they do provide an accurate estimate, Miss DellaFera said.

She looked at the cost for both July, when $17,748 was spent, and August, when $19,741 was spent, and said, "That's not low for July and August."

In May, for instance, the town paid out $12,311 in welfare vouchers. That rose to $14,712 in June.

Miss DellaFera blamed the costly August on two things, hospital bills and a lack of summer jobs.

She said that the town had to pay $1,651.49 for two welfare recipients who were hospitalized. This is a higher-than-normal amount.

There was also a drop in the number of people who found summer employment.

"Perhaps this year there weren't that many summer jobs," she said.

The lack of jobs particularly hurts young single people, who are forced to go on welfare if they can't find employment, she said. She recently pointed out that the number of single

Tax collection change rejected by Eighth District directors

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

Eighth Utilities District directors Monday night rejected a former director's suggestion that district taxes be collected by the Town of Manchester to save money.

Preceding Monday night's unanimous vote, directors were told that town collection of district taxes wouldn't save any money at all and it might even be more expensive.

Cervini, who retired from district service in June, had maintained in his letter to the board that his estimates of cost savings were conservative.

If the proposal had succeeded, it would have meant elimination of the elected position of district tax collector. Tax Collector Mary Larrin had no comments on the proposal.

In other business Monday night, the Eighth District directors:

- Waived bidding procedures for Fire Department purchase of a heavy-duty rescue tool. District Fire Chief Granville Lingard said only one firm made the tool and the firm, Hurst Performance Inc., does its own distributing. The purchase price, under $5,000, was approved by directors earlier this year.
- Learned that work to close in a district sewer plant "greenhouse" is proceeding ahead of schedule and at less cost than anticipated. The "greenhouse," off Fleming Rd., is being enclosed for use as a shop and garage for the Fire Department and Public Works Department. The outdoor work, which has cost just under $3,700 so far, is to be finished next week.
- Received Lingard's monthly Fire Department report. The department responded to 21 alarms in August, he said, including two potentially serious fires — one in a barnage on Woodbridge St. and the other at the Central Connecticut Co. Farmers Association on April Pl. Other August alarms were three car fires, two rescue calls, two water calls, one false alarm and 11 miscellaneous, minor incidents.

Police report

Manchester Police are seeking suspects in a Monday afternoon flim-flam in which a local pharmacy was billed $50 worth of cigarettes and an $1,100 check.

Police said a young woman walked into the Pine Pharmacy at 664 Center St. and told employees she was substituting for the regular cigarette and tobacco route salesman.

She took $50 worth of cigarettes which were to be returned to the distributor and a check for $1,100, police said.

A short time later, the regular route salesman came in for his check and order and was told about the "substitute." Pharmacy employees then learned the distributor had no substitute salesman.

Payment of the check, which was made out to the distributor, was stopped at the bank, police said, and the investigation is continuing.

The flim-flam artist is described as a white female in her 20s, about five-feet-four-inches tall, brown hair and brown eyes, wearing a blue shirt and blue denim shirt.

Arrests reported today by Manchester Police included:

- Jeanne R. Desmarais, 37, of 14 Delmont St., charged on a Common Pleas Court 12 warrant with conspiracy to violate the state narcotics act. Police said the charge stemmed from investigation of a marijuana possession incident. Court date is Oct. 18.
- Michael C. Brainard, 32, of 53 Bissell St., charged Monday afternoon with breach of peace, in connection with a domestic disturbance. He was held overnight on a $50 bond for court appearance today.
- Ira Friedman, 19, of 7 Lexington Dr., charged on a court warrant Monday with fourth-degree larceny, in connection with a recently reported theft of a Citizen band radio antenna. Court date is Oct. 4.
- Pamela A. McCollum, 23, of 144 Hartford Tpk., Tolland, charged early today with illegal possession of a controlled substance. Police lodged the charge after investigating a traffic accident on E. Center St. in which a van driven by Ms. McCollum went off the road and struck a utility pole. Court date is Oct. 11.
- Sтивен A. Maise, 16, of 55 Summit St., charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with an alleged Sunday afternoon incident at Parker St. Used Auto Parts, 775 Parker St. A 14-year-old boy was also arrested in the same case and has been referred to Juvenile Court. Court date is Maise is Oct. 4.
- Raquel Calla, 30, of 44A Smith Dr., East Hartford, charged with fourth-degree larceny in connection with alleged shoplifting Saturday at Mott's Shop-Rite Supermarket, Spencer St. She posted a $3,000 surety bond for court appearance Oct. 4.
- Police said that high figure was used because it was suspected that the woman might be an illegal alien. U.S. Immigration Service officials are investigating, police said.

Manchester Police, who had warned townspeople two weeks ago about a crackdown on passing violations involving school buses, issued three summonses Monday afternoon at W. Middle Tpk. and Homestead St.

Police said three drivers were charged with passing a stopped school bus, which had its red lights flashing and was discharging passengers. No court appearance is mandatory but violators are subject to a $25 fine.

Police stated out the intersection Monday afternoon after receiving several complaints last week.

Opinion

State fiscal reports too varied to believe

Of all the things that might be phony about the state's budget surplus for the past fiscal year, the phonyest has to be the attitude of many politicians toward it. For example, when the Republicans controlled the governor's office, Republicans were extolling surpluses as evidence of fiscal responsibility. Now, with a Democrat at the helm, all kinds of explanations arise challenging the validity of the $34.7 million the state has left over.

Now it may be true that the so-called deficit specter raised late last fall was highly inflated. But then we suspect that same sort of fiscal exaggeration was used to set the stage for some of the recent Republican surpluses too. The disturbing thing is not that we don't know whether there is a genuine surplus or not; or whether it is the result of one-shot bookkeeping devices.

The disturbing thing is that too many of us who are not accountants are becoming cynical about any fiscal information emanating for any political source.

Quite bluntly, the state fiscal figures have been bandied about so much in recent years that one might seriously question whether an honest set of books exists or are we merely given that set of figures which make the state look good. We suspect that if a private corporation issued as many conflicting financial reports as our state government does it would be up to its elbows in hot water.

Less hazardous?

New hope for people who want to kick the cigarette habit is reported from England. Doctors at the Addiction Research Institute at London's Maudsley Hospital have been testing "nicotine gum" to help wean people off the weed.

Since nicotine is apparently the source of the stimulus smokers get from tobacco, by chewing the gum they can satisfy their craving without the other hazards of smoking, such as tar and carbon monoxide.

Nicotine even in gum is still a poison, however, and the experiment has been quite successful, says the Institute. About 40 percent of the smokers who have used the gum have remained non-smokers for at least a year. The usual success rate among psychologists receiving only psychological treatment is less than 5 percent.

HOW THEY STAND On governmental corruption

25 years ago Principal Edison M. Bailey gives the requirements for proposed new high school at Memorial Field. The West Side Dairy, operated for 27 years by J.G. Trueman and Sons, becomes affiliated with Hood and Sons.

10 years ago Dr. David L. Warren is appointed chairman of the town's Human Relations Commission until November. Republican and Democratic candidates for the Board of Directors differ sharply at a "Meet the Candidates" meeting, conducted by the League of Women Voters, over the GOP proposal to incorporate advisory referendum powers into the town charter.

Will good men do nothing about it?

An absolutely stunning figure of 70 million voting-age Americans is planning to boycott this year's presidential election. Only a little less stunning is the fact that as many as 10 million of them are regular voters who have "dropped out" of the electoral process.

The statistics further indicate that the total presidential vote may not reach 70 million this year (it was nearly 78 million in 1972), which could mean that we may actually see a majority of eligible voters sitting out the 1978 presidential contest. "Disillusionment," "disaffection," "distrust" are the words the pollsters use to describe the phenomenon, and the attitudes cut across all age groups.

Although the survey found that 46 percent of the nonvoters are under age 35, the dropouts, who once voted frequently but have since become estranged from politics, tend to be older, more educated, more affluent and, yet even more alienated than other nonvoters. There are, unquestionably, plenty of reasons to be dissatisfied with the way the country is being run, from the local level on up. Crime, inflation, unemployment, the plight of the cities, the official lying during the Vietnam war, Watergate, recurrent scandals in Washington — all have contributed to the erosion of our trust and confidence in both our elected and appointed officials.

But what do these movements want — a certified savior, without human foibles and with absolute answers to all our problems, who will singlehandedly turn the country around and straighten it out? If so, then can contemplate a long wait. Perhaps they look for another Abraham Lincoln, who comes closest to sainthood of any American president.

Each of these men had shortcomings and deficiencies as great or greater than those of the candidates of 1976, whom some 62 percent of the alienated nonvoters indicate are not "worth voting for."

Each of them was a "politician" in both the worst and best senses of the word. And each of them was opposed, distrusted, even hated, by large portions of the electorate.

The nonvoters either have very short memories or they are letting their discontent with the present turn the past into some sort of Golden Age that never existed. But it is what they're offering out of America's electoral life may mean for the future of this country that should give us pause.

As the researchers themselves ask, will the baby-born generation of Americans now well arrived at voting age be assimilated into the political system, or will they become a "lost generation" in terms of non-participation in politics, which for better or worse is the lifeblood of a democracy?

If so, they will — all in the name of virtue — be setting the stage for a form of minority rule that could have pernicious consequences for the Republic. As Edmund Burke said long ago, the only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.

Surviving an assault of goodness in Virginia

FAIRFAX, Va. — The social service agencies in this community are having a devil of a time trying to be good to Charles Perkins. He is an 89-year-old retired biochemist whom the benevolent officers have decided is incapable of taking care of himself. He disagrees. And herein is a story with a lesson for us.

The service bureaus discovered Perkins a few months ago. He had become estranged from his wife; he had been evicted from his apartment; also, he had this bizarre tendency to simply follow his own lead — even if that meant walking along a highway at 2 a.m. Ergo, the benevolent officers concluded that he needed help. "Trouble is, the old man had different ideas. Thus when he was set to a home for the aging, he would not stay. And when he was shuffled from shelter to shelter, program to program, he showed little interest and no cooperation. He was not nasty about it, nor for that matter was he ungrateful. He just wanted to do things his way.

Well, the benevolent officers were at a loss. So they regretfully determined that the Charles Perkins had some hay missing from his loft. And he was committed to a state hospital for the mentally ill. No malice was intended, rest assured. And the city's action is not all that uncommon. Sending the toddling old to the looney bins is a time-honored practice in many American communities.

The rationale is that anything is better than letting the aged wander in the streets. Therefore, when no other facility is available, or applicable, the law provides contingencies for letting senior citizens spend their golden years in padded corridors at the funny farms.

Many of the recipients — victims of this kind of beneficence — have doubts as to its wisdom, you can bet. Following the November elections, someone like Charles Perkins speaks up for the majority. In this case he got himself a court appointed lawyer to fight the commitment. "I don't belong there," Perkins says. "I was a member of the American Legion and its own booth to sell coffee. In the past, concessions had been limited to one of a kind. Osborne noted that the committee received a letter of thanks from Dorothy Miller, Republican candidate for the 5th Assembly District from Bolton. The committee gave her $50.00.

The committee noted thanks to Steve Devins, a Rham High School senior who coordinated a group of high school students at the Harvest Fair in support of Sen. Lowell P. Weicker. Mrs. Katherine Grant will serve as local youth coordinator for Sen. Weicker. Chairman Osborne told the committee that it was his feeling that a campaign headquarters should be open only for election day. The committee concurred with his suggestion and a search will be made to locate a suitable headquarters site.

Believe the man in Kentucky would have profited from the offered assistance. It is quite clear that Charles Perkins could use help, too. He is among that army of older Americans who do not have enough money, enough friends or enough strength to live out life the fullest. And yet he's a big boy. We should treat him so. A paramount right of free people is the right to be foolish.

Flag display van fund seeking contributions

The privately owned collection of flags which has appeared in many Manchester parades has apparently made its last public appearance. Philip Daigoneault of Newton, who has displayed the flags 167 times this year at non-profit civic events, announced Monday that the old van he has been using to transport them has been condemned by a mechanic who has kept it in operation despite its bad condition.

Efforts by Daigoneault to raise funds for a new van, equipped for transporting his 300 flags, has brought in about $3,000 so far and he says he needs just $8 to 10 more to be practical. Daigoneault refuses to allow the flag collection to be displayed under any circumstances which involve a commercial profit and does not charge for displaying them.

He said he has limped to the last five public events in the old van, but Monday morning the mechanic refused to allow him to use it any longer, because it is unsafe. So Daigoneault has canceled all future showings, some of them booked to 1978. He said he is disappointed in the response of civic and patriotic organizations to his fund request. Most of the response, he said, has come from school children. Contributions toward the fund for the van are being accepted in an account labeled "Flags" and held in the New Britain Federal Savings and Loan Association at 1120 Main St., Newton, 06111.

Reform government structure says Morgan

Calling for "a complete restructuring of state government," Chester W. Morgan, Democratic candidate for state representative from Vernon's 56th District, said he is anxious to examine the findings and conclusions of the Filmer Commission on the structure of state government. "It is expected that the commission will report before the beginning of the 1977 session of the General Assembly. However, even without the Filmer Commission's conclusions, there is hard evidence mandating reform in our state government structure," Morgan said.

He termed Connecticut's government as being a complex array of departments, commissions, boards, councils and committees throughout the three branches. "They meant well. But they overstepped themselves. If the old guy doesn't want help, that's that. He has the right to be left alone." Hence the lesson of C. Perkins' tale. If he respectfully declines public assistance, it should not be forced on him. The state saw what it considered to be a needy soul, it pulled all of its bureaucratic switches to correct the situation, and this was commendable; it demeaned itself, however, and it damaged the name of charity when it decided it would imprison Mr. Perkins in order to help him. Largess is wonderful. Services must be available. But though God provides worms for his birds, he does not presume to push them into their beaks.

GOP upset over coffee

Hebron The Republican Town Committee met Thursday night to discuss campaign progress and Harvest Fair proceeds despite the lack of a quorum. Chairman Clay Osborn praised Marilyn Horton and Charles Barrasso for the job they performed at the committee's fair booth. Osborn, however, criticized the Lions Club which sponsors the fair for allowing the American Legion and its own booth to sell coffee. In the past, concessions had been limited to one of a kind. Osborn said the issue will be taken up following the November elections. Vice-chairman Jeff Odell said Lions Club officers had informed him that "they don't need us."

Committee member Mary Porter suggested a change in attitudes to effect a possible compromise. She moved that a committee be appointed to meet with the Lions. The motion was approved and the committee appointed Odell, James Derby, and Ann Luke. In other business the committee accepted the services of member John Fitzgibbons to organize a phone bank in the local area to canvass for contributions. The state Republican headquarters was barely enough for them. Adults and kids played softball, football and tug of war. Children also had relay three-legged and sack races.

The lines for the pony rides, dotted by George Negro of the Bolton Riding Academy were long and steady all afternoon. "There was even time for politicking as David Cohen, Republican candidate for senator from the Fourth District, showed up to shake hands and do some "finger licking" after enjoying his chicken, salad, spaghetti, bread, soft drinks, and 25 burip sacks of corn on the cob. At times I appeared the line would never stop. The last family through was six in number at 5:30 p.m. There

State balloon comes to town

South Windsor The state Bicentennial balloon will fly over town Saturday at 6 p.m. in front of Town Hall. The state Bicentennial commission received the balloon, measuring eight stories high and 55-feet wide, from the Bicentennial Council of the Thirteenth Original States. The craft has a holding capacity of 77,000 cubic feet of air and has the state armorial bearings imprinted on both sides. The three-foot letters on its blue polyester surface proclaim: "The State of Connecticut, Bicentennial 1776-1976." Planning for the balloon's manufacture began in June of 1975 and, while in production, 1,300 yards of polyester fabric lay on the floor of the Balltown Towers. The balloon was a one-of-a-kind project and had to be hand-assembled. The development of the balloon has been under the direction of William Mino of Sky-America, Glastonbury, who is donating his services. Mino is licensed by the FAA to fly the lighter the craft, which is FAA light approved. The propane-powered balloon has been flying at Bicentennial events all summer and will fly in South Windsor next week. The craft will go on a free or tethered flight in winds of eight miles per hour or less, weather and other conditions permitting. The Fire Department's Explorer Troop will assist the balloon crew Saturday.

Lake people angry with PZC

Hebron KAREN BISKUPIAK "Do we dig up George Washington's grave because new zoning regulations have moved the cemetery?" said James Davis. Davis of South Windsor spoke for his mother at a special Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Friday and asked this question to point out that his mother had owned property at Amston Lake for 40 years. She bought with the intention to build a home some day. Now the PZC tells her property would not qualify for a year-round dwelling. The PZC met to receive comments and concerns from residents and property owners at the lake who had been notified that their properties were being classified either as seasonal or year-round dwellings. About 30 residents attended to present proof of year-round residency or to solicit further information from the PZC.

Ames Rd. resident Carl Jacobs argued, "The decision may be legal, but it doesn't really apply to the people who from the community at the lake." He said the PZC should consider the people before they consider regulations. PZC Chairman Salvatore Mastandrea told the group that the commission was aware that it was a sensitive area for all concerned. The commission and its sub-committee had tried "in earnest" to decide best for the whole community. He said out of some 400 PZC letters sent out to lake property owners, only 18 had responded by letter. Another hearing will be held Oct. 1 to hear the remainder of the owners' comments. Residents presented proof such as fuel and light bills during the cold portions of the year. Ames Rd. resident Carl Jacobs argued, "The decision may be legal, but it doesn't really apply to the people who from the community at the lake." He said the PZC should consider the people before they consider regulations.

The George Gotowala property of Ames Rd. will be reclassified with the Amston Lake Study Committee. The James Vaughn property of Ames Rd. was also tabled until Zoning Board of Appeals records can be examined to determine why a variance granting a year-round status was denied. The Mario Puchetti property also on Ames Rd. was reclassified year-round subject to a proper well.

Those interested may contact Town Committee Chairman David Larry Knight or Nominating Committee Chairwoman Patricia Dopstall.

Weiss optimistic about town industrial growth

Industrial development in Manchester looks more favorable now than it has in some time, according to Town Manager Robert Weiss told the Development Commission Monday that the town had received more industrial inquiries in the past couple of weeks than it had in a long time and that he anticipated industrial development in Manchester within the next year. He did not specify what inquiries were received.

Weiss also predicted that "the east side of the Connecticut River will blossom in the next decade" with industry.

He based his prediction on the assumption that the economy won't go downhill. He said that land is more plentiful east of the river than on the west side. It is important, he said, to administer proper control of available land for future use.

The commission held an executive session before the meeting to discuss the inquiries and available industrial properties.

Commission Chairman Gerald Okrant observed that there is a possibility that the act could empower a town or city with more authority than its charter would allow which makes it unacceptable to Manchester in its present form. He based his opinion on the experience of towns that adopted the Development Act. Those towns are Hartford, Waterbury, New Haven, Bridgeport and New Britain.

Weiss asked the commission to study the act and present its suggested revisions to the Board of Directors by Nov. 30.

Trudon auction bids bring in about $33,000

A tax auction of personal property of Ted Trudon Porsche-Audi Inc. in Talcottville brought about $33,000 in bids Monday, a federal Internal Revenue Service spokesman said today.

Sold in the auction were office furniture, testing equipment, tools and other items, the IRS spokesman said.

The auction was conducted, the spokesman said, to help repay tax money owed the IRS by the dealership, whose property was seized by the government in July.

Another IRS auction, at the neighboring Ted Trudon Inc. Volkswagen dealership, is scheduled next Monday.

The auctions did not include any automobiles at the two dealerships. They were seized by the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

Lingard said.

Lingard was joined in his remarks by District Director Lawrence Noone, a Buckland resident, who said it's time district officials did something about threatened town occupancy of the firehouse.

Noone said opening of the town firehouse within an area now served by the district will confuse area residents, and the wrong fire department might be summoned when there's an emergency.

LaBelle, contrary to statements made by both sides before the June trial, hedged on the question of an appeal. Both the town and the district had acknowledged that the lawsuit would go beyond the Superior Court.

In another Monday night issue stemming from the Buckland contract Monday night, LaBelle said he would expect that whoever wins the case would levy a tax on the Buckland area. He urged district officials not to move to levy a tax before the court decision, but he said he would study the issue further.

Noone told other directors he had overheard a conversation at the scene of a fire in Buckland in which a town policeman commented that the town fire department response to about taxing Buckland as an attempt to assert district rights in the area in line with results of the Nov. 17, 1975 district expansion referendum.

LaBelle said it appeared that district taxing or Buckland would be a bad move, because the town is already taxing the area and Buckland homeowners would object to receiving two tax bills.

Town to pay portion of flu program costs

Town Manager Robert Weiss estimates that approximately 27,000 persons will receive the flu vaccine which will be administered at a free flu clinic program beginning Oct. 8 in Manchester. The estimate includes persons from Manchester and Bolton.

The town of Manchester has been assisted by the state of Connecticut in plans for this program.

The convention first met July 19 and selected Dr. Frederick W. Spaulding of Manchester to run for the seat. Spaulding, however, withdrew from the race because of obligations to his dentistry practice and his family life.

The Vacancy Committee was scheduled to meet Monday night to select a candidate. But Charles Stehbins of East Hartford, a member of the committee, said that state statutes allow the committee to select a candidate only 15 days prior to the primary date or 15 days prior to election day.

Since the primary date has passed, and it is not yet close enough to election day, the choice of a candidate must be made by the reconvened convention.

Stehbins said that all delegates to the first convention will be notified by mail that a second convention has been called.

The Oct. 5 convention will be held at East Hartford's Raymond Library at 7:30 p.m.

The Republican Third Senatorial District convention will reconvene on Tuesday, Oct. 5 to select a candidate for the Third Senatorial seat.

The convention first met July 19 and selected Dr. Frederick W. Spaulding of Manchester to run for the seat. Spaulding, however, withdrew from the race because of obligations to his dentistry practice and his family life.

The Vacancy Committee was scheduled to meet Monday night to select a candidate. But Charles Stehbins of East Hartford, a member of the committee, said that state statutes allow the committee to select a candidate only 15 days prior to the primary date or 15 days prior to election day.

Since the primary date has passed, and it is not yet close enough to election day, the choice of a candidate must be made by the reconvened convention.

Stehbins said that all delegates to the first convention will be notified by mail that a second convention has been called.

The Oct. 5 convention will be held at East Hartford's Raymond Library at 7:30 p.m.

Sewell master avoiding strikeouts, not so in case of Kingman, Schmidt

By MILT RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every time I see Dave Kingman take one of those King Kong swings of his and miss the ball, I can't help thinking how much values have changed, yes, even in baseball, where hardly anything ever changes.

Years ago, ballplayers felt personally humiliated anytime they struck out. I can still see Babe Ruth hugging his head after taking a third strike. Mickey Mantle would come close to kicking a hole in the water cooler and Tony Kubek used to be so self-conscious after striking out, he'd run all the way back to the dugout dragging the bat in his hand.

The player everyone marveled at in that regard was Joey Sewell, who played for the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees and who made contact with the ball better than anybody you ever saw. Sewell still holds the major league record for the fewest strikeouts in one season, having fanned only four times in 608 times up in 1925.

Three times over the course of a season, he struck out only four times and once only three times. I can still see him standing up there at the plate. He was a little left-handed batter only five feet six inches and he cruised slightly. Anything but a pushover as a hitter, Sewell fashioned a 312 lifetime figure in 14 seasons. He was so good at getting a piece of the ball, that in the 7,132 of times he went to bat in the big leagues, he struck out only 114 times.

Think of that a moment. Dave Kingman strikes out more often than that in a single season. He has struck out 119 times already this season and he isn't even the National League leader in that department.

Mike Schmidt, the Phillies' slugger third baseman, is tops with 134 strikeouts. Kingman is second followed by Rick Monday of the Cubs with 117 strikeouts; Hector Cruz of the Cardinals, 109; Jim Wynn of the Braves, 104, and Greg Luzinski of the Phils, 102. All of them are free swingers who generally go for the fences. Kingman leads the league with 37 homers and Schmidt is second with 35. It was pretty much the same story last year when Schmidt led the league in home runs with 38 and in strikeouts with 180. Kingman had 36 homers and struck out 153 times.

Dave Kingman isn't that embarrassed by all his strikeouts. He feels his 37 homers and 64 RBIs more than make up for everything else and things being what they are nowadays, he must be right because the Mets are paying him $55,000 and probably will have to go over $100,000 for his services next year.

"Striking out is part of my game," says the 27-year-old six-foot, six-inch outfielder. "I'm a free swinger. I'm not going to punch the ball. I can go up there and make contact every time if I want."

Kingman has tremendous speed. Few players in the league can get down to first base faster than him and with his batting average over .300 in the 20s, it occurred to him he might be able to beat it up by bunting occasionally, so he tried that this year about a dozen times.

"Every time I try to bunt, though, I get booted," he says. "The fans don't like me bunting."

It doesn't particularly bother Kingman that he has come to be regarded as purely a home run-or-strikeout performer, and nothing in between.

"I'm giving it my best effort," he says, "and sometimes it's like being on a roller coaster. There are times I fall on my face and other times I excel. As long as I can go home at night and say I gave my best effort, I'm satisfied. True, I strike out quite a bit but my production is there."

Kingman never has won the home-run title and he claims winning it this time doesn't mean that much to him.

"I'd rather hit only 10 homers and play in the World Series than lead the league in homers and not play in the Series," says the right-handed hitting Californian.

The ideal home-run hitter in his opinion was Willie McCovey, once a teammate of his with San Francisco.

"He hit his share of home runs every year, he got his walks and he didn't strike out that much," says Kingman.

Words of wisdom

Boston's most consistent professional team, the basketball Celtics, big winners in NBA play over the past two decades and 13 times World Champions, but only a 500 club playing "home" games at the Hartford Civic Center, delegated its top brass to a Hartford date yesterday. The Beantown crew arrived late and left early after meeting with area media.

However, during the stop-over, coach Tom Heinsohn, general manager Red Auerbach and publicist Howie McHugh left some words of wisdom about the squad that will report Thursday to the Massachusetts Maritime Academy on Cape Cod and the upcoming season.

The Celtics will launch their regular season by playing the first of six "home" games at Hartford against Buffalo Oct. 28.

The 13-time NBA kings and defending champions have not played that way consistently in Hartford appearances over the past two seasons.

"The players think it's a road game. We are a very good road team, but I don't know what happens here, it's only an hour and a half from Boston," Heinsohn said.

"We fans are neutral now, after the way we played, and I'm boomed here more than in Boston," the former Celtic shot-maker said.

"This is a super team. We have given our all, played teams that did well against us," he continued, with tongue in cheek, knowing that many ticket purchasers were disappointed in games last season in Connecticut.

The Celtics are down for seven Hartford showings, one preseason exhibition against Philadelphia, and regular loop tests against Buffalo, Houston, Detroit, Golden State, Chicago and San Antonio.

"The Hartford schedule is a good one," Auerbach said.

Nineteen players have been invited to camp and only one spot is open, Don Nelson having retired to join the Milwaukee Bucks as an assistant coach.

Red Sox unbeaten at Tiger Stadium

DETROIT (UPI) — If the Boston Red Sox had played in Tiger Stadium all season they might have been successful in defending their American League championship.

The Red Sox may have been so everywhere else, including their own cozy Fenwick Park, but they were super in the park the Detroit Tiger call home — winning all nine times the two teams met in Tiger Stadium this season.

The 1978 AL kings swept to their sixth straight victory, their longest winning streak of the season, and expelled the Tigers' sixth consecutive loss, 12-6, Monday night by handling for seven runs in the fourth inning.

"It was a nightmare of an inning," said Detroit manager Ralph Houk, one day removed from having received a unique open-ended contract to continue his stewardship of Detroit's baseball team.

"The kid (rookie left-hander Ed Glynn, who started and fell to 0-2) was wild," Houk said. "He got behind the hitters and hung his slider. It's his first bad outing."

"He had two outstanding performances before, including a really outstanding game in New York," Houk said.

Boston's Rick Jones took over when starter Reggie Cleveland, who failed to retire any of the four batters and registered only five first-place votes and a total of 335 overall in Monday's balloting.

The Royals a seven-game lead and at a stranglehold on the American League's Western title.

The Philadelphia Phillies picked up a half-game Monday when the New York Mets defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-4. The Pirates, having lost three out of four to the Mets, will be attempting to reverse their downward momentum in their afternoon doubleheader in Chicago.

Boston defeated Detroit, 12-6, Milwaukee stopped New York, 4-2, California beat Texas, 1-0, in Monday's only other scheduled games.

The Milwaukee Brewers had just beaten the Yankees for only their se-

Two-run, two-out homer beats Bucs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Mazzilli called it "one of those things," but to the Pittsburgh Pirates it may have been a death blow.

What "it" was Mazzilli's two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday which lifted the New York Mets to a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh and dropped the Pirates 4½ games behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East pennant race with only 13 games left to play.

Mazzilli, a major league all of two weeks, wasn't concerned about destroying the Pirates' chances of catching the Phillies.

"It doesn't bother me," the 21-year-old switch-hitting outfielder said. "It's just one of those things." The Pirates had rallied in dramatic fashion from a 3-0 deficit to take a 4-3 lead in the eighth inning on Willie Stargell's 19th homer.

When Pittsburgh's ace reliever Kent Tekulve retired the first two batters of the ninth inning, it appeared the Pirates were going to gain a split of their four-game series with the pitching-rich Mets.

But John Milner, batting for winning pitcher Bob Apodaca, slapped a pinch single to set the stage for Mazzilli, who knew what pitch to anticipate in that situation.

"When I went up there, I wasn't going to go after anything but a fastball," Mazzilli said. "It (the pitch) was a belt-high fastball, the home run, and I just went after it. I knew it was gone as soon as I hit it and it felt fantastic."

George Scott honored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Milwaukee Brewers' first baseman George Scott was named the American League's Player of the Week for the period of Sept. 13 thru Sept. 19, based on his 14 hits in 28 at bats.

Scott hammered three home runs and drove in eight runs during the week in which he improved his batting average from .266 to .275.

Jets waive pair

HEMSTED, N.J. (UPI) — The New York Jets, their payroll deflated by the Denver Broncos in a 46-3 rout Sunday, waived cornerback Roscoe Word and safety Clifford Brooks and signed John Roman, a free agent tackle.

Roman, 6-4 and 230 pounds, was impressive in a one-day tryout last Wednesday.

Traded to Nets

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Larry McNeil, who began the 1975-76 NBA season as a starter for the Kansas City Kings but wound up sitting on the bench, was traded to the New York Nets Monday for a 1977 third-round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

It was the second trade this month between the two teams. Last week, the Kings sent guard Nate Archibald to the Nets for guard Brian Taylor, backup center Jim Eakins and first-round draft choices for the next two years.

Davis sold to Royals

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Tommy Davis, a well-traveled major league veteran of 17 seasons, who has two batting titles to his credit, was sold by the California Angels Monday to the Kansas City Royals, his 10th major league club.

"We expect him to play a key pinch-hitting role down the stretch," said Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog. "He may be able to get a key hit that could win a big game for us."

Wood injured again

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox pitcher Wilbur Wood underwent exploratory surgery on his ailing left knee Monday at suburban Skokie Valley Community Hospital.

A White Sox spokesman said Wood was running at his home in Lexington, Mass., Sunday as part of his rehabilitation program when he hit a soft spot and fell, re-injuring the same knee that was damaged earlier this year. A shot off the bat of Detroit's Ron LeFlore broke Wood's kneecap last May 9.

A spokesman said Wood's knee would be placed in a cast for six weeks and then he would begin rehabilitation.

Looking for doctors

PARK CITY, Utah (UPI) — The U.S. Ski Team is looking for doctors willing to travel with its cross country and jumping squads this winter.

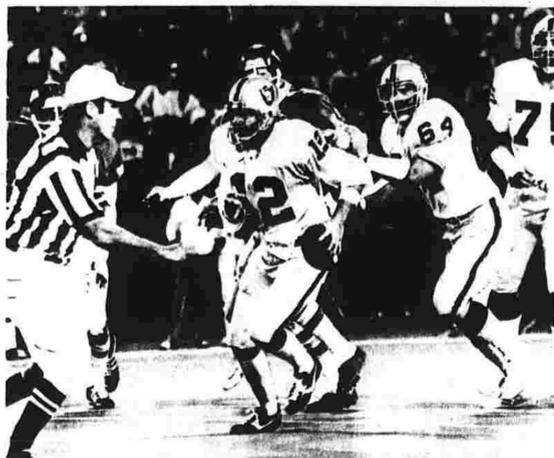

John Bower, Nordic program director, said the team wants to form a pool of doctors to serve the teams when they participate in training camps in the United States, and who can travel with the jumpers and cross country skiers in Europe later this winter.

No comment

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — New York Jets' owner Roy Roar issued a terse "no comment" this morning to a question about published reports that three-time ABA Most Valuable Player Julius Erving would not be present at the opening of training camp Friday because of "broken promises" by management.

Erving, who has four years remaining on a seven-year, $1.9 million contract, said that he had been promised several homes but had not received them.

Ken Stabler has easy job throwing against rookies

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Oakland Raider Ken Stabler says being a quarterback is an easy job when his receivers are working against a couple of rookie defensive backs.

Stabler proved his point Monday night. He hit 22 of 28 passes with an interception for 224 yards and three touchdowns as the Raiders beat the Kansas City Chiefs, 24-21, in a nationally televised game that was more lopsided than the score indicated.

East jayvee 11 bows

Moving the football but unable to score more than once, East Catholic's jayvees were handed a 20-6 setback yesterday by Northwest Catholic at Eagle Field. East scored first on the strength of Ken Brasa's passing to Mike Freiheit and the running of Fred Cecchini in an 85-yard drive. The Eagles' pass defense, however, yielded a second quarter score and two more in the second half while offensive fumbles and penalties kept them off the scoreboard.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Los Angeles Rams spokesman said today it was "an impossibility" in denying a newspaper report that his team was about to engineer a trade with the New York Jets for superstar quarterback Joe Namath.

"I've never heard of such a thing," said Rams public relations director Jerry Wilcox early Tuesday morning, in a state of high good humor upon learning of the story published by the Washington Post. "There's no such deal in the works that I know of. Everything else aside, it's against the rules, an impossibility. Good night."

The Post quoted sources as saying the Rams have been discussing the trade since quarterback Ron Jaworski was sidelined by a broken throwing shoulder in the Rams' opening game victory over Atlanta. The Post also said the Jets are ready to deal, but it would be a difficult transaction since the interconference trading deadline has passed.

Namath, who is earning $450,000 in the second season of a two-year contract and has previously expressed an interest in joining the Rams, would have to clear waivers in the American Football Conference and through those clubs in the National Conference with 1975 records worse than the Rams' 12-2 mark.

The Post said Namath's in-trade contract might help in deterring other teams from putting in a claim for him. But the

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was recently granted a divorce after being married for 30 years. I had a lot of suspicions about my wife but I had only a second grade education and was pretty dumb then. I didn't begin to add things up until after she had two children who couldn't possibly have been mine. So, I was always a good father to them, and they never had any idea they were illegitimate.

My question: I'm making out my will and have brothers and sisters who could sure use some money. I own my own home plus some stocks and savings, and I don't see why I should leave anything to my illegitimate children, do you? Who should be punished?

A PROBLEM OUT EAST

DEAR PROBLEM: Any children born during your marriage are legally your children. You say you've been a "good father," and I believe you. But how can you write off all the years during which they grew up loving you and being loved in return?

To leave them nothing would be punishing them for the "sins" of their mother. Unfair. Please reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and received some very nice gifts from friends and relatives.

Since I've had a very busy summer and had to write letters, I decided to telephone all those who sent me gifts to thank them personally. I even called long-distance to thank those who live out of town, and I intend to pay for the calls myself.

My parents aren't satisfied. They think a written thank-you note is necessary. I think a telephone call is enough. What do you think?

PHONED MY THANKS

DEAR PHONED: Phoning one's thanks strikes me as the lazy man's way. It's adequate; but those who do it right write!

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to a golden wedding anniversary party. I am only an acquaintance, not a close friend or relative, but I was told by a relative of the celebrating couple to bring money rather than a gift because the golden wedding couple are having a money tree. With the money collected, they plan to take a cruise.

I asked how much I would be expected to contribute and was told, "At least a dollar for every year the couple have been married."

Abby, that's a minimum of $50—as much as I gave my niece for a wedding present!

What do you think?

PASADENA READER

DEAR PASADENA: I think you should give whatever you feel is appropriate and no more.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could be a trifle careless regarding health habits. Remember, the ounce of prevention is worth the pound of cure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you're a bit more businesslike. Be extra careful when dealing with strange merchandise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Doubts about associates should not be ignored today if something bothers you, bring it out. Discuss it with the person himself.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) If you ignore a task today, figuring you'll get around to it tomorrow, you're banking up the wrong time. Postponement only means delay.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Speedwith says could cause serious financial problems today. Stop telling yourself you need things that you'll buy now and not use later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't anticipate defeat today before you even enter the fray. You have at least as much chance of winning as you do of losing.

North's jump to four notrump is an example of that bid. If he really wanted to ask for aces, he would either have to use the Gerber Convention, which will discuss tomorrow, or make some unusual forcing bid at the three level, preparatory to a Blackwood four notrump at his next turn to bid.

With a minimum hand, South passes at four notrump. South opens the six of spades. South is sure to make at least 10 tricks and may score as many as 12, if the defense tries to beat four. But there is no play for a slam if one is bid.

Havens to head up Glassman campaign

Edward F. Havens has been named chairman of Rep. Abraham Glassman's campaign committee. Glassman is seeking re-election in the 14th Assembly District.

Havens, a South Windsor town councilman, said, "I want to help Abe to be re-elected because he is familiar with the people and problems of our district. Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Hope you all had a great weekend. I did. My story was especially pleased with the story about his hibiscus that Frank Ardow presented Thursday in his gardening column.

Well, it seemed many of them are gardeners at heart, and when they heard that he had a rather extensive garden, they called, and are planning on visiting him.

Naturally, he's tickled. Whether you're 70 or 77 you always like company. Now, he's hoping they will arrive before the last blossoms on the hibiscus are gone.

I told him not to worry, 'cause with a personality like his, they won't be disappointed about not seeing a bloom in hibiscus.

Unusual habits As a mother, oh and I am one, I guess you're more apt to notice certain peculiarities about your children than other people do. At least I hope so.

For instance, it wasn't too long ago that I noticed my daughter wearing socks that didn't match. She was wearing her ever-loving jeans so they didn't show too much, but I had to ask "How come your socks don't match?"

Well, I told her that the fact that just about everybody I know has a washing machine that eats one sock at a time. Why should my machine be different?

She glanced up from tying her shoes and said, "I like them this way."

Well, I did allow that we all have individual tastes and I guess she could squeeze by with socks that don't match under jeans, but I emphasized they might look odd when she changed into her shorts for gym class.

Non-plussed and with a big grin on her face, she said, "Mom, don't worry. Everybody knows I have another pair just like it."

Then, there's one young man of the house who only eats sandwiches.

Well, actually he's served many things besides sandwiches, but whatever it is, it ends up between two slices of bread.

For instance, ravioli. Now you know that was never intended to be sandwich fare - but it is.

Fried eggs and bacon. They end up between a piece of folded toast. Actually he does draw the line when it comes to mashed potatoes.

No date has been set for the wedding.
