Schaffer urges attack on jobless problem

By GREG PEARSON
Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, spoke to the Hartford Engineers Club Monday night and outlined steps for boosting the economy, including passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins jobs bill.

PROVIDENCE — Mrs. Schaffer, speaking to about 50 members gathered at Willie's, said, "We need a real attack on the unemployment problem. I know it, you know it, but Republicans in Washington don't seem to know it." The Humphrey-Hawkins bill would attempt to bring unemployment down to three per cent by providing incentives to business to hire and train workers and by increasing public service employment.

Carter questions motives of Ford African policy

By DEAN REYNOLDS
United Press International
Jimmy Carter, defending his sex-pitched Playboy interview for several days, is on the attack this week, calling President Ford a worse president than Richard Nixon and questioning administration motives in Africa.
While Carter cut a campaign swath from the Pacific Northwest through the Midwest and on home to Plains today, Ford was busy Monday in his challenger's Southern homeland, courting Cuban-Americans among others in a visit to Florida before returning to Washington.
White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the President's three-day Southern swing, including a joint appearance with Democratic Gov. George Wallace of Alabama Sunday, was "just terrific," and that Ford benefited from a "warm reception."

MHS test scores improving

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter
Fewer Manchester High School students are taking the Scholastic Aptitude Test, a college entrance examination, but their scores are improving, the Board of Education learned Monday night.
A report prepared by Pupil Personnel Services Director Allan Chesterton also showed that SAT scores of Manchester High School students continue to be higher than state, regional and national averages.
The latest mean scores, for the portion of the test and 505 for the mathematics segment. The mean scores for the Class of 1976 were 454 and 494, respectively.
A total of 287 local seniors took the SAT last year, compared to 304 for the previous year. The decline in the number of students taking the test was in line with a decrease in the number of students who applied to colleges which require the test, the report said.

Rev-sharing compromise approved
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weary House negotiators agreed Sunday on a revenue sharing plan that would extend for two years the program of federal revenue sharing with state and local governments $2.6 billion in revenue sharing over nearly four years and to strengthen the program's civil rights protections.
The agreement, which now goes to the House and Senate for final approval, would extend the revenue sharing, due to expire at the end of December, through September 1980. States and localities have received $1 billion under the program since 1972.

The extension was a hard-fought compromise between a House bill providing $25 billion over 3 1/4 years and a Senate bill backed by the administration, providing $41 billion over 5 1/4 years.
A conference committee of eight senators and 10 representatives agreed for 10 1/2 hours and wearily reached agreement at 12:30 a.m. EDT.

MCC professors to participate in Town Meeting '76 workshops
Mary Ann Roy of Prospect St. is one of four Manchester Community College professors of humanities participating in Town Meeting '76 Saturday and Sunday workshops at the college since 1969. He previously had been chairman of the speech and theatre department at East Orange (N.J.) High School, and instructor of speech and theatre at Upsilon University, East Orange, and director of recreational activities at a home for boys.
His theatrical experience dates back to 1952 and includes well over 150 different productions primarily as an actor, producer, director, stage manager or advisor at Temple.
The participation by these humanities professors made it possible for Town Meeting '76 to receive a $145 grant from the Connecticut Humanities Council.

Old sign resurrected
This large wooden "Welcome to Manchester" sign held by left to right, Patricia Gravalis, Shirley McCray, and Joseph Tully, was one of the more unusual items that turned up during "Amnesty Days" last weekend. The program was conducted by the vandalism subcommittee of MOTION a task force of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. Among other things the effort turned up about 30 street signs, 24 highway signs, 12 traffic cones, a flashing light barricade, hundreds of library books, an MHS band uniform (deposited in the book return), a science kit and numerous other items. Most have been returned to their proper places with the exception of the signs which have been replaced. The "welcome" sign is estimated to be about 15 years old. (Herald photo by Richmond)

New laws take effect Friday

HARTFORD (UPI) — Laws to plug a vehicle property tax loophole, allow lower drug prices, give women more time to report rapes and give police more control over gambling for charities take effect Friday.

The state's financial situation preoccupied the last legislature, so most major bills concerning with money took effect July 1 at the start of the new fiscal year. Yet hundreds of laws passed last spring take effect Oct. 1.

Officials said they may be losing between $10 million to $20 million from auto property tax fraud when they backed a new law allowing denial of car registration to those who do not pay the tax. The law sets up a system to catch delinquents, who previously escaped through a loophole.
A bill allowing drugists to substitute "therapeutically equivalent" drugs in cases where doing so would save them money was considered one of the most important pieces of consumer legislation in the session.

The measure's backers said consumers could take advantage of a wide fluctuation in drug prices since many of the big name brands charge much higher prices than their competitors for the same medicine.

The statute of limitations in cases of sexual assault will change from three months to one year on Oct. 1, a move strongly backed by women's groups.

"Las Vegas nights," used by many charities as fund raisers, come under stronger controls Friday. Law enforcement officials lobbied heavily for the legislation, saying they were concerned organizing crime was getting involved in such games.

Establishments having only one toilet must make it available without charge and half of any other such facilities must also be free under a new pay toilet law which takes effect Friday.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso this year signed a law allowing sale of alcoholic beverages in bowling alleys of 10 lanes or more. She vetoed a similar bill last year. Presently, liquor is sold only when a bowling alley shares a common entrance with a liquor license.

Doctors who evaluate a colleague for a hospital, professional medical society or other such institution are protected from civil liability by another new law, if the evaluation was done without malice.

The legislation also protects medical review committees from suits over any action taken as part of the panel as long as there was no evidence of malice.

Many medical groups fought a bill, which becomes law Friday, expanding the areas of surgery allowed to be performed by podiatrists.

The state's auditors will be empowered after Friday to look into the financial records of any board of education receiving state funds, an effort to stop wastes of state money, according to officials.

Also going into effect Friday:
— A law against driving under the influence of drugs.
— A law making it a state crime to carry a sawed-off shotgun or silencer.
— A law allowing towns to exempt the value of the solar portion of solar heating or cooling systems from property taxation.

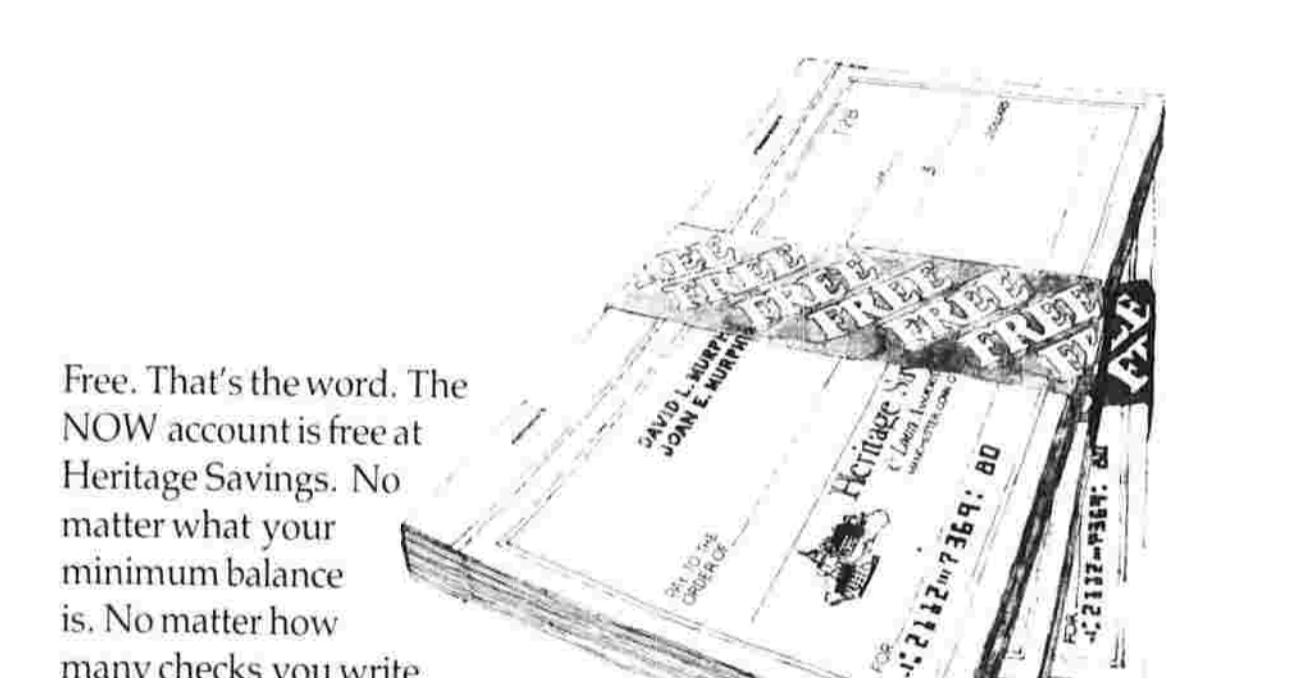

— A law to reduce the amount of prior experience a lawyer must have to be appointed a public defender.
— A law giving guide dogs for deaf persons the same right as guide dogs for the blind to enter places ordinarily closed to dogs.
— A requirement for insurance companies wanting to cancel malpractice insurance to give 30 days notice.

A law expanding the recourse for a person who believes he has been the victim of discrimination in a credit transaction.
The proposed assessment is $16.68 per lot of property frontage. This cost includes the cost of the street lateral from the main sewer to the property line of each benefiting property. All benefited property owners will be given full opportunity to express their views on the proposed assessment.

The Connecticut State Federation of Teachers (CSFT) has announced its support for several local incumbent Democrats seeking re-election in the state legislature.

Pointing out that the AAA rating allows the state to borrow at a lower interest rate, Westbrook suggested the following steps to regain the highest credit rating: 1) Limit debt service to 12 per cent of the total budget. 2) Not depend on gambling proceeds to balance the budget. 3) Require zero-base budgeting. 4) Prohibit deficit spending by any state agency. 5) Base the state budget on the last fiscal year's tax receipts.

Amendment would authorize disciplining of judges

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Supreme Court and a newly set up judicial review council could be authorized by the legislature to discipline the state's judges under a constitutional amendment to be voted on in the Nov. 2 election.

No appointed Connecticut judge, including members of the Common Pleas, Juvenile, Superior and Supreme courts, has ever officially been removed from office under the present provisions. Under the new law, the General Assembly could pass laws allowing the state Supreme Court to discipline judges by removal from office and could set up a judicial review council that could censure errant judges and even suspend them for up to a year.

Liberty abhors a vacuum

One presidential candidate whose name is not likely to become a household word is Roger L. MacBride, standard bearer of the Libertarian Party.

But anybody who is really hankering after "a choice, not an echo" might want to look into MacBride's campaign manifesto, a modest paperback called "A New Dawn for America: The Libertarian Challenge," published by Green Hill Publishers, Inc., of Ottawa, Ill.

Simply stated, the Libertarian platform calls for the abolition of the omnipresent power the bureaucrats in Washington have amassed over the lives of individual Americans and the return of the government to what the Founding Fathers intended it to be.

Consider the following facts, says MacBride.

Washington has increased 100-fold in size and power in just the last 45 years. Government at all levels continues to double every seven years, while the economic energy that sustains our lives grows more slowly. The average person now pays more in taxes than at all the necessities of life put together.

The trouble is that many Americans don't realize what has happened, he says. They go on thinking the government is the same as always — too big and wasteful, perhaps, but still "ours" and still, on the whole, benign.

They go on indulging its expensive bumbling and meddling as a parent indulges a child. They grumble, but accept its claimed Authority. This attitude has been endlessly useful to Washington for expanding its power, picking our pockets and running our lives."

Few Americans, however, will be persuaded to go all the way with the Libertarians, some of whom seem to be advocating the total dismantling of the federal and state governments and their replacement with what would amount to a multitude of minigovernments — free and voluntary associations of people with common interests.

For if Americans have a healthy fear of big government, they also fear big Standard Oil or big Teamsters or big anything else, and recognize the need for some kind of referee to safeguard the interests of the weak and powerless and to promote the welfare of the general public.

Columnist Carl Rowan touched on this recently when, in writing about the Medicaid program, he warned that unless the medical profession begins cleaning its own house it is inevitably inviting more and more government interference.

Why do we have big government? And answered: Because government drifts into vacuums of discipline and control. It rides herd on the stock market because of past calamitous abuses. It monitors the drug industry, pressures the automobile industry, lays rigid rules on lending institutions because they all opened the door to government intervention by short-changing or defrauding the public.

This, of course, is as simplistic as the Libertarian idea that all government is bad government. Everybody wants Uncle Sam to regulate the other guy, and we have developed an alarming tendency to ship all our problems to Washington.

But while it is one thing to say, as MacBride does, that liberty is the absence of forcible restraints, it is quite another to suggest that anything resembling liberty can exist in a state of anarchy. The Founding Fathers knew this. They knew that it was in the nature of men — in government or out, singly or in combination — to further their own interests at the expense of others. And they left us, after all, not with the finished structure of a free society but merely the blueprint for one.

The real challenge facing Americans today is how to achieve the balance they sought, the balance between public need and private freedom. One may not agree with everything the Libertarians believe, but if they can inspire us to do some hard thinking about this, they will have rendered valuable service.

HOW THEY STAND On welfare reform

Gerald Ford
The President will ask Congress for authority to reform income assistance programs — Food Stamps, AFDC, SSI — to make them more consistent, equitable and efficient.

Jimmy Carter
The President will seek authority to modify those federal assistance programs for which there is a means test.

When it comes to welfare government is not doing the job well. Too many welfare programs are inequitable and invite abuse. Worse, we are wasting needed resources without reaching many of the truly needy.

The welfare burden should be removed from the cities, with all welfare costs being paid by the federal and state governments.

"We must recognize there are three categories of poor people: the unemployable poor, the jobless poor, and the working poor, no person on working poor should receive more than the working poor. Strong work and job incentives should be encouraged by assuring that no family's situation will be harmed by the breadwinner remaining with his dependents, efforts should be made to have fathers who abandon their families to continue support, the welfare system should be streamlined and simplified.

There should be "one fairly uniform, nationwide payment, varying according to cost of living differences between communities. It should be funded in large part by the federal government, with strong work and job incentives and with income supplementation for the working poor." The welfare burden should be removed from the cities, with all welfare costs being paid by the federal and state governments.

Playboy and Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In his dash toward the presidency, Democrat Jimmy Carter increasingly has tried to be all things to all people. That central fact of his candidacy is the heart of his current Playboy magazine problem.

Carter was unknown quantity to a great majority of Americans when he captured his party's nomination in July. Even at that early date, however, there was every indication that his fundamentalist religious faith, far from turning voters off, appealed to thinking citizens as well as to those who are inclined to be desirous in their President.

Subsequent public opinion surveys confirmed that his standing with the public was so much greater than that of incumbent Gerald Ford that loss of the upcoming election would be defeat for himself, Mr. Carter is working very hard to do just that.

Carter's various turnabouts on issues ranging from abortion to the funding of new social welfare programs to — most recently — increased taxing of middle-income citizens, are perhaps explicable in terms of political expediency or sloppiness on his part. Far more puzzling is his interview with Playboy — an interview, incidentally, which was once preferred to and declined by Mr. Ford.

It is difficult in the extreme to guess just what Carter reckoned he had to gain by appearing in a pornographic publication in the first place. What's more, it should be noted, Carter's staff confirmed to Scripps League Newspapers that the Democratic nominee himself actively sought the interview.

Again, the question begs an answer: Who is Carter trying to woo now? America's adulterers, with his admission that "I've committed adultery in my heart many times?" Carter's gratuitous confession, the tastelessness of which was compounded by the early language which accompanied it, not only is a monumental political blunder, it also is bad theology. In response to Carter's equating of a lust of the mind to the overt act of adultery, the Rev. George M. Docherty, retired pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church were more than a score of Presidents have worshipped since the early 1800s," commented.

Well, it never fails during those early morning hectic hours a call comes through that really makes my day. Last week was no exception. A woman caller, bubbling with enthusiasm, called and said, "Are you going to do anything about the pajama game?"

Well, I confessed I rather enjoyed the pajama game and asked her just what she had in mind. Well, it seems she went to see Don Stewart (tall, dark, and handsome) in the musical "Pajama Game" at the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor the previous night.

The music was great. I just got carried away," she said. At the end of his performance, the applause was high and so were her spirits and when the star walked off the stage, planted a kiss on her lips and pressed a small red heart bearing his autograph into her palm, well, she was on cloud nine and not planning to come down.

The Rev. Newell Curtis Jr., pastor of Center Congregational Church, will lead a Bible study Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. in the Robbins Room of the church.

St. Bridget religious education teachers of Grades 1 through 6 will meet Wednesday at 9 p.m. in St. Bridget School cafeteria. New teachers are asked to arrive at 7.

Maryland's governor until proven guilty

Andrew Tully

BALTIMORE — Such is the condition of politics in America that the criminal trial of the governor of Maryland is but a minor detail. Marvin Mandel is charged with 21 counts of fraud and racketeering, he is accused of misusing his office and of accepting bribes, but so what? We've seen it all before, many times before.

The official remains calm in the face of extreme adversity; the official smiles broadly and talks of vindication. The official holds hands with his wife as he walks from the courtroom and surrounds himself with friends and employees who swear by God he never did a dishonest thing in his life.

In this case, however, the unshockable public is witnessing something novel in the matter of indicted politicians. Mandel's trial may go on for three or four months, but he is refusing to give up his executive authority. He says he will go to court Monday through Thursday, then run the affairs of the state on the weekends. Fraud counts aside, he's still governor — and he'll do as he pleases, thank you.

It is, for sure, not the first time an office holder has clung to power in spite of legal merriments. Legislators of public men have been defendants and officials at the same time. Dale Anderson, the former county executive of Baltimore, held full powers through trial here for extortion and tax evasion. More recently the governor of West Virginia, Arch Moore, held power while being acquitted of extortion.

Yet the Anderson trial lasted six weeks, and Moore's was over in 11 days. The novelty of Mandel's situation is that he will be in control and in court from early autumn until winter, the busiest season in Maryland government. Budget work is due to begin next month, for example, which means that priorities for a pending some $3 billion state tax do not will be established by a suspected crook.

The unacceptability of the development of office in such instances. All those were the days. Marvin Mandel is a governor who once was caught using the highway patrol's emergency helicopter for personal transportation — emergencies be damned. So much for honor in today's state houses.

Well, then again, it is difficult to condemn Mandel for hanging on. He has for months tried to put the best face on his suspected illegalities, and voluntarily stepping aside at this time might have a prejudicial effect on his trial. At least it would have a psychological effect on the people of Maryland. In power Mandel can act the persecuted but stalwart leader; in limbo his trial would be the only news. In other words, as long as he continues to rule the odds are ever in his favor.

But meanwhile what of the good of the state? There are four million people here who may now be under the authority of a racketeer. No one will know for several months, of course, but even the possibility is absurd. And it could become more absurd. If Marvin Mandel is found guilty, he would then be forcibly suspended, but he would still be the "governor" until all of his legal appeals could be exhausted.

Sigh. And in what state will it happen next?

Why such nonsense? Because the authors of our state constitution simply did not foresee a time when governors would be dragged in disgrace to court. Perhaps also it framers believed honorable gentlemen would remove themselves from office in such instances. All those were the days. Marvin Mandel is a governor who once was caught using the highway patrol's emergency helicopter for personal transportation — emergencies be damned. So much for honor in today's state houses.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Almost every day at the office when the telephone keeps ringing, I sort of groan to myself "I'm not taking any more calls" (which of course I do) and the best (or I should say the rings) go on.

Well, this was a new morning and obviously the enthusiasm hadn't dimmed through the night. "I don't know whether to invite him (Don Stewart) to tea or call my minister to help me calm down," she said.

I advised her not to do either. "Just enjoy the glow," I said. "They're hard to come by some days."

After all, if you've gotta glow, you've gotta glow. And, why not? Bed pals
Speaking of pajamas, this is a story I've been lying (perhaps I should say sitting) on for some time, but the times seems right to tell you about it now.

Dr. John Yudin, MD, has credentials which are very impressive. He is a medical doctor as well as a Ph.D. biochemist. He is both a professor of Nutrition and Dietsetics and Chairman of the nutrition Department at the University of London. This department is recognized as the best on the continent. He has written 200 medical papers, and six books, many on Sugar and on metabolic disorders.

Only 1/3 of the sugar we eat is the typical sugar we think of in the 5 lb. bag. The other 2/3 of the sugar we eat is found in food we would never think contained sugar, such as... luncheon meat... baby foods, canned soups... canned vegetables... corn flakes... T.V. dinners... soft extenders... and other "convenience foods," as well as ice cream... cakes... pies... cookies... candies and soft drinks. WE EAT OF SUGAR PER PERSON IN THE U.S. OVER 140 LBS. EACH YEAR. Even canned beef stew has sugar added, as well as peanut butter!

Dr. Yudin feels we do not need sugar at all. The body has learned to convert carbohydrates, protein and fats to glucose when it needs it.

Dr. Yudin claims that sugar is definitely one of the factors involved in our number one killer — heart disease. He does not claim it is the only factor. Smoking... excessive weight... stress are also involved. However, he has traced sugar in a very complex bio-transfer reactions and has spent a lifetime studying its harmful effects at the molecular level of life.

During the presidential T.V. debate I observed 2 hours of total advertising of Sugar products from cakes, sodas, pop, cereals and Ice Cream 100 Million People were influenced to buy these products. Read your labels and cut down on this excessive use of sugar that may be doing your body a lot of harm through the years and may contribute to heart disease, diabetes, and stroke!

Sugar expert... contradicts Harvard Doctor

Dr. Frederick Stare, MD, Harvard Nutritionist, helped defend Sugar in the Hartford Courant on August 26th, 1976. He stated that SUGAR IS NOT A PRIMARY FACTOR IN HEART DISEASE and the DEVELOPMENT OF DIABETES and that THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO INFORMATION to support these charges. But he does not say that it could be a secondary or tertiary contributor in the cause of heart disease and diabetes? What he does not say frightens me.

Commission on Aging seeks funds for outreach worker

The Commission on Aging Monday night appeared before the Board of Directors to request funding for an outreach worker.

Dr. Joseph M. Danyliw, commission chairman urged the commission members to appear with him in his appeal to the board on Oct. 5 for an Outreach/Friendly Visitor to work with the elderly.

Under Title III funding, about $10,000 will be provided for the position, and the town would supply an additional $3,000 if the board agrees to the commission's request.

Commission member Allan Mason said there is a good chance that the Title III funding for this project will be approved.

There are about 8,000 persons over 65 in Manchester, according to a updated census reported by Mason, and only 973 household elderly have been contacted by VISTA volunteers and a summer youth program within two years.

The possibility of reaching all the town's elderly by volunteers looks discouraging because Mrs. Nancy Carr, executive director of Churches/American Council of the Blind (MACCB), said there are just not that many volunteers available.

Notes off the cuff Two local men who successfully passed their bar exams last week were in Hon. Hovath, former club golf champion at Manchester Country Club, and John Quinn, a fine quarter-back with East Catholic High a half dozen years ago. Hovath is also an active member of the Central Connecticut Board of Approved Football Officials.

Simpson of the Buffalo Bills will receive $60,700 for each game he plays in according to his three-year contract. That should be good enough reason why the NFL's top running back decided at the last minute to remain in Buffalo instead of moving to Oakland last Saturday.

Blue, whom Manager Chuck Tanner calls "the Koufax of this era," said he had control problems and the long fight didn't help. He gave up 10 hits.

The first tieup erupted after Oakland took a 3-3 lead in the sixth on Sal Bando's homer. Losing pitcher Dennis Leonard (17-10) hit Don Baylor with a pitch and Baylor stormed toward the mound. Both players were immediately amped up, and the fighting which followed. A's outfielder Claudell Washington decked Leonard. He left the game, as did Leonard.

A's first baseman Ron Fairly said Baylor had been hit five times in the last three games.

"I guess he's a little tired of it," he said. "I don't like to see fights but that's baseball."

Fairly poked Oakland at the plate with a solo homer and a double. He also turned in the game's key defense.

A's win free-for-all game

Tack loss on Royals

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Oakland A's, scrapping to avert a Kansas City heist of their American League West crown, can never be accused of malingering.

They threw everything at the Royals Monday night, including their fists, in taking an 8-3 victory in a contest interrupted for 45 minutes by a rain-soaked first half.

Blue, whom Manager Chuck Tanner calls "the Koufax of this era," said he had control problems and the long fight didn't help. He gave up 10 hits.

The first tieup erupted after Oakland took a 3-3 lead in the sixth on Sal Bando's homer. Losing pitcher Dennis Leonard (17-10) hit Don Baylor with a pitch and Baylor stormed toward the mound.

A's first baseman Ron Fairly said Baylor had been hit five times in the last three games.

"I guess he's a little tired of it," he said. "I don't like to see fights but that's baseball."

Fairly poked Oakland at the plate with a solo homer and a double. He also turned in the game's key defense.

Walek zone change bid tabled

The PZC will now be asked whether the second proposal is "substantially different" from the first proposal which was rejected by the commission on May 24.

If they rule in favor of the second proposal, a date for a public hearing will have to be set up.

Golas, who represents Herman M. Frechette, Albert R. Martin, and Gerald P. Rothmann, explained to the board that the second proposal would require a public hearing before an organization could go to the Liquor Control Commission for a temporary beer permit.

The PZC did approve a wetland permit for Jay Giles, director of public works. Giles said the permit is needed for construction work connected with the Urban Systems Project on W. Middle Tpk.

Such a permit was granted last July by the Department of Environmental Protection, but it had to be renewed because work did not begin within a year of the issuance.

Since the permit was issued, the PZC has also become the town's Inland Wetlands Agency.

The commission also granted formal approval to the sale of a strip of land to Kenneth Burkamp. The sale was granted earlier this month by the Board of Directors. Burkamp needs the 12-by-100 foot strip to develop a rear entrance to his mini-mall on Main St.

The PZC also heard a rebuttal denial by Acting Chairman Gates.

The member David Paris, who said, "I'd rather mail order this." The commission agreed it should act on the matter when the entire board is present.

"It's a sticky issue," Joseph Swenson said.

The decision on the Residence M Zone request is now scheduled for Oct. 4.

Coaches' corner

By JACK HOLIK, Manchester High

Needless to say, last Saturday's loss (14-6 to Penney) was a bitter pill to swallow. A team always wants to get the season off on the right foot, especially our seniors, who've put up with so much during the past two seasons.

I think we exhibited to a lot of people that we can move the football. We outgained Penney by a sizable amount in both total yardage and first downs, but those stats aren't what count the most. It's those on the scoreboard.

Nothing will earn the respect of an opposing team faster than a team's ability to be physically aggressive. We did that yesterday, and we did it again today. Against Penney our execution wasn't as good as it had to be. I think first game jitters caused some of our players to lose a little bit of their poise.

Liberalized bond plan starts Friday

HARTFORD (UPI) — Beginning Friday, suspects facing trial can gain their release by putting up 10 percent of their bond under a liberalized program approved by Superior Court judges.

The plan, in effect but seldom used in the Court of Common Pleas since 1974, will become effective statewide in the higher court on Friday.

Many of an estimated 1,200 criminal suspects awaiting trial could obtain their release under the 10 per cent plan in which a judge must approve the suspect's release. Common Pleas Court Chief Judge Roman J. Lexton said he had mixed emotions over the rule. "Motions for release will be filed by the hundreds," he said.

He warned the program could be costly and "could destroy our system of criminal justice."

Presently, suspects either must post their full bond or pay a bondsman a 10 per cent nonreturnable fee to post the full bond.

Circuit Court Judge John M. Fitzgerald said he was "concerned about danger to the community as well as release of the accused."

Lexton said he was afraid the number of persons who will leave town rather than face trial will increase sharply.

"All he has to lose is the 10 per cent cash he was required to post." Bail bondsmen now usually see to it that suspects appear in court as scheduled to avoid forfeiture of bond.

Some judges expressed fear a growing number of persons skipping cases represented a growing disrespect of law and order.

The state's attorney's office conducted a similar experiment over an 18-month period beginning in the summer of 1973. Of 91 men and women allowed to remain free on 10 per cent of their bonds, seven failed to show up and four remained fugitives. This 7.4 per cent rate of failure to appear compared to the eight per cent of those considered higher risks who posted full bonds but failed to show up.

Lexton said he would observe the program closely and call for modifications if there are too many defaults. Associate Justice Alva F. Lonselle said the rule was adopted by a five-judge panel after public hearings and recommendation of approval by the American Bar Association.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May I respond to ANXIOUS SON whose problem was his sister who phoned him at all hours of the night when she's "loaded"? Because this sister lives in the same city with their elderly and ailing mother, ANXIOUS SON cannot take it. He has to get out of the city. In our city (Columbus, Ohio) and in many other cities across the country, there are treatment centers in general hospitals where an alcoholic can be admitted for treatment just as he (or she) would be if diabetic or any other disease were present. Because alcoholism is a disease, progressive and can be terminal. Until the public understands these facts, and reacts to them as it would to any other disease, the cure cannot be effected, and many fine people will die unnecessarily.

Please tell ANXIOUS SON to contact his mental health association or some related agency to find out where his sister can receive the treatment she needs before too much brain damage results from her drinking.

Finally, Alcoholics Anonymous (and Al-Anon and Alateen) have made the difference between life and death to many alcoholics and their families.

For Mars (Sept. 24-26, 1976) ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're using unfamiliar equipment or materials today, read the directions carefully. Don't proceed until you fully understand them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may suffer a small loss today through over-enthusiasm. Count your change. Be sure to get guarantees on anything you buy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The big things won't irritate your mate today, but the little things will. Put the cap back on the toothpaste.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your mind is not apt to be on the work at hand today. Don't neglect your favorite vice while dusting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Your resistance is very low today and you could buy silly things. Stay away from bargain counters.

VIRO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're very enterprising today, but more for others than for yourself. Your reward comes from knowing you were able to produce.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's difficult to keep secrets today. Before making disclosures, be sure your listener can be trusted.
