Eighth District celebrates decision

Elected officials and fire fighters of the Eighth Utilities District were obviously happy with the Buckland lawsuit decision as they began a lengthy celebration at the District firehouse Thursday night, under a traffic sign mounted on the dispatcher's office wall. Buckland ruling impact spreading

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

As town officials considered an appeal of the Buckland fire protection case, the impact of Judge Edward Hamill's decision was of growing concern today.

In developments since the judge's ruling was announced Thursday:

• Town Counsel Victor Moses said he will "strongly recommend" an appeal of the decision, which favored the Eighth Utilities District.

• Town Assessor Ed Belleville said he hasn't calculated an exact figure on how much tax revenue would be lost by the Eighth District's expansion to include Buckland.

• Town Fire Chief John Rivos said he hasn't changed his plans to begin using the controversial new Buckland firehouse next week, although it can't serve the Buckland area.

• Reports began circulating that residents of other areas within the Eighth District's "authorized territory" may petition for further expansion of the District.

Wants to appeal

Moses said he is still studying the memorandum of decision announced Thursday, "but there's no question in my mind that I'd like to take an appeal."

Moses said, however, that the decision to appeal isn't his; it must be made by the town administration.

Town administrators wouldn't comment on the case today.

"The war isn't over," Moses said. "We lost a big battle, but I don't like to give up."

For an appeal to be considered, a "notice of appeal" must be filed within 20 days, Moses said.

He said there appears to be some issues that could be raised in an appeal, and he said he's studying the judge's decision and the transcript of the June trial. Further comment on an appeal isn't expected until the middle of next week.

Moses wouldn't specify any issues that could be raised in an appeal, and other legal observers indicated that Judge Hamill's ruling is complete and might be difficult to challenge.

"The judge apparently took a very strict interpretation of Special Act 200," Moses said, "but it's only one man's opinion." (Special Act 200 is the 1963 legislation which provided for Eighth District expansion.)

Moses said he was "very disappointed and a little surprised" by the decision. "I'm still confident, though," he said.

Tax picture in question

Moses said he wasn't sure what the immediate effect on town taxes would be in light of the judge's decision.

"Right now, it's a big mess," Moses said.

Belleville, the town tax assessor, said the court decision, if it stands, will have a definite effect on the town's tax revenues, although an exact figure on the losses cannot be calculated immediately.

Belleville said that to calculate the losses, a list of all the affected properties would have to be made, and then the assessed value of each property would have to be checked. "It would be a helluva job," he said.

During the June Superior Court trial, Town Manager Robert Weiss testified that the town would lose between $2,000 and $123,000 in tax revenues annually if the Eighth District was allowed to extend its boundaries to Buckland.

Conversely, Eighth District officials have estimated that their tax revenues would increase by about one-third of the town's estimate, because the town fire tax rate is 6.17 mills and the District's rate is 2 mills.

Eighth District Counsel John LaBelle said Thursday that the District can begin levying a tax on Buckland property, although the tax won't be collected until next year.

Belleville said today that if the court decision stands, the assessor's office will begin a separate list of the Buckland properties to levy a tax

State

FAIRFIELD—Republican vice presidential nominee Robert Dole was to open a three-day swing through New England today with a series of stops at New Haven and Bridgeport late this afternoon and a GOP fundraiser in Fairfield tonight which officials hope will net party coffers $50,000. He is to go to Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine Saturday.

GROTON—A threatened strike by 2,700 marine draftsmen against the nation's major builder of nuclear submarines was averted when a tentative agreement was reached in 11th hour negotiations. Details were to be revealed to members of the Marine Draftsmen's Association this afternoon.

HARTFORD—Gov. Ella T. Grasso says it is "awkward" for Democrats to have as a national fundraiser, Hyman J. Goldfeld, a wealthy real estate developer who has twice been denied a Connecticut gambling license for undisclosed reasons uncovered by police. She recently informed Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss about the Greenwich man who has twice sought to buy part of the Bridgeport jail area. Goldfeld is a member of the National Finance Council of the Democratic Party.

Regional

BOSTON—His credibility challenged by his own criminal past and his efforts to obtain special jail treatment, Robert J. Valeri returned to the stand today for his third day of testimony in the Susan Saxe bank robbery-murder trial.

BOSTON—The Kennedy magic is not transferable. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy lent the family name to Jimmy Carter for the first time Thursday through a four-hour campaign blitz in eastern Massachusetts. Carter won crowds with his words. But it was the presence of the last of the Kennedys that ignited frenzied ovations.

PROVIDENCE, R.I.—Jimmy Carter and President Ford are in a close race for popularity among Rhode Island voters, according to a copyrighted research poll taken this week. The Newsweek 10-ORC poll by WJAR television, showed Carter with 47 per cent compared with 38 per cent for Ford with 13 per cent undecided. But in the race for governor, the Democratic candidate was favored 57 to 31 per cent.

National

WASHINGTON—The federal regulation which forced the Wethersfield, Conn., sixth-grade boys choir to disband will not be suspended by President Ford, according to Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., who asked the Health, Education and Welfare rule be stricken by executive order. A Ford spokesman said no decision would be made until a HEW investigation is completed.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Thursday night signed into law the first-in-the-nation legislation to give patients the right to "die with dignity" rather than live with the aid of mechanical life-sustaining equipment. Opponents called the law a step toward euthanasia.

WASHINGTON—The 94th Congress drove toward adjournment today, hopefully by tonight, despite a late blooming Senate filibuster which appeared certain to kill any revisions in the clear air standards.

WASHINGTON—For the 12th time in 27 tries, Congress has overturned a President Ford veto. This one was a $6.6 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Ford vetoed the bill because it was $4 billion more than he requested and therefore, he said, inflationary.

WASHINGTON—President Ford opposed every legislative step of two major job bills now on his desk—but says he will sign them although he feels one will lead to higher inflation and in the long run higher employment. He claims it will cost $25,000 to create each job and most of the jobs will not materialize for 18 months.

International

UNITED NATIONS—U. S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger used tough language Thursday in addressing the U.N. General Assembly reviewing U. S. foreign policy. He pointedly directed much of it at the Soviet Union accusing it of "crude attempts to distort the purposes of diplomacy and to impede hopeful progress toward peaceful solutions" in southern Africa.

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Syrian forces overran the hometown of President Elias Sarkis in Lebanon's central mountains today and Christian rightists fired mortar shells into Moslem sections of Beirut.

Carter visit hopes to stem drift to Ford

HARTFORD (UPI)—Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter today spent his 52nd birthday campaigning here in hopes of stemming an apparent drift away from his candidacy in Connecticut.

Carter flew into Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks where he and his huge press entourage went by motorcade to downtown Hartford for a series of appearances and meetings.

A host of Democratic officials, including Gov. Ella T. Grasso, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and state party Chairman William O'Neill, were on hand for the visit, his second to the state in the fall campaign. His arrival came on the heels of a Republican poll that claimed the former Georgia governor—generally conceded to be ahead in the Nutmeg State—now had lost that lead and trailed President Ford.

GOP State Chairman Frederick K. Biebel said a poll he commissioned showed Ford with a 45-38 margin in Connecticut, traditionally a swing state in presidential elections.

In July Biebel's poll gave Carter a 46-41 margin with 13 per cent of the voters undecided.

The Carter campaign refuses to release its polls, but state coordinator Michael Cardozo remains confident, claiming his man retains a lead of seven to 10 points.

A poll recently by Rep. Anthony Moffett, D-Conn., a strong Carter supporter, showed Ford leading in the 6th Congressional District, traditionally an area that rolls with the political tide.

Unlike the rest of the country, when pre-Republican National Convention surveys showed Carter leading Ford by a wide margin, Democrats in Connecticut admitted the race here was a close one.

Most observers agree the Ford-Carter contest in the interim has gotten even closer in Connecticut and Democrats privately worry the President may be gaining ground.

Jubilation and concern result from fire decision

By DOUG BEVINS
and GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporters

Reaction to Thursday's court decision on the Buckland fire protection case ranged from extreme jubilation among officials of the Eighth Utilities District and district firemen to a comparison by one town official to the Civil War.

"I'm three feet off the ground and I'm feeling great," Larry Noone said after hearing the decision in the Buckland fire protection lawsuit.

For Noone, the central figure in the Buckland petitioning to join the Eighth Utilities District, Judge Edward Hamill's decision proved that "the will of the people prevailed."

"No matter what their elected representatives did, the people were able to overcome it," Noone said.

Noone's comments closely paralleled remarks of other Eighth District elected officials and administrators at a Thursday night celebration party in the Eighth District firehouse.

Pascal Prignano, a member of the town Board of Directors, said the decision, which grants the Eighth Utilities District the right to extend its boundaries to include Buckland, "is divisive to the spirit of the town."

Prignano, one of six Democrats on the board who voted to go ahead with the building of a firehouse in Buckland, said, "It's unfortunate that a few who organized for the self-interest of a fire department have been able to pull off a coup like this to the detriment of the whole town."

"It's really a loss to the entire town. It's like the Civil War," he said.

Deputy Fire Marshall Wally Irish, a leader in the move to expand the District, said that in light of the court decision the town "has to face the fact that the District exists."

"It (the District) is there now and it's bigger than ever," Irish said.

"Manchester's Watergate has come to an end," Irish said. "It was a Watergate; there was a cover-up, a definite attempt at denying the wishes and the will of the people."

"Every taxpayer and voter should recognize this and be concerned about the type of government we have," Irish said.

GOP minority sees decision as confirmation of stand

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Political statements concerning the Buckland fire protection decision have already begun to echo through Manchester.

The Republican party has issued a statement that Thursday's decision by Judge Edward Hamill "repeats substantially the stand of the Republican minority of Manchester's Board of Directors."

The three Republicans on the board, Vivian Ferguson, Carl Zinsser, and Paul Willhide, cast the only dissenting votes when the board voted on whether or not the town should go ahead with construction of a firehouse in the Buckland section of town.

Hamill's decision allows the Eighth Utilities District to expand its boundaries and furnish fire protection to the Buckland area. This means, if the court decision stands, the town firehouse in Buckland would not serve the section of town it is located in.

The Republican release said, "It was stated by all three Republicans that any decision to spend hundreds of thousands of taxpayer dollars while the issue was before the courts would be an irresponsible risk of the taxpayers' money."

"The stand of the Republican members was ignored. The decision of Judge Hamill underscores the correctness of the Republican judgment, and makes obvious the irresponsibility of the Democrat majority action," the party said.

The GOP has called an emergency meeting of its town committee on Monday, Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in party headquarters.

"The leadership of the Republican party feels that the demonstrated failure of the majority action demands that action be taken immediately," the statement read. Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson would not elaborate.

The party statement also mentioned that the continuation of firehouse construction was "encouraged strongly" by Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings, who is also seeking re-election in the 12th Assembly District.

Cummings' opponent, Walt Joyner released a statement that read:

"The arrogance and insensitivity of public officialdom to the needs and desires of the people has resulted in the loss to the Town of Manchester of several hundred thousands of dollars in the Buckland firehouse case."

"My opponent, Ted Cummings, who has yet to decide whether he represents the people of the 12th District or the Democratic Party, shares a major portion of the responsibility for this extravaganza," Joyner said.

Cummings replied, "All my actions for this community have been taken to end up with the greatest amount of good for the greatest number of people."

He also said that the Superior Court decision is just one judge's decision and there is the possibility of appeal.

"It's very early to make unsubstantiated statements about possible loss to the town," he said. "I try to represent everybody." Cummings said. "You can't please them all."

Town Meeting '76 Saturday at Manchester High School

Morning workshops will discuss the problems Manchester faces. A free buffet lunch will be served at noon, and the afternoon sessions will deal with solutions to the problems discussed during the morning.

Advance registration, though suggested, is not necessary.

The Manchester PTA Council will participate in the Town Meeting '76 in lieu of its regular October general meeting.

A booklet recording the day's activities will be presented to each participant during the closing ceremonies at about 5 p.m. Town officials will also receive copies.

Serving as masters of ceremonies for the event will be Stephen Cassano, who has been selected as one of the three Outstanding Young Men of New England by the area chapter of Jaycees, and the Rev. Newell Curtis Jr., pastor of Center Congregational Church.

Town modifies Love Lane sewers About town

The Town of Manchester has made modifications on two items on which it is seeking bids.
 The first bid is a truck for the town Highway Department, will also be rebid by the town. Giles said the low bid on the first round, submitted by Airport Truck Center, was over $1,000 more than the town had anticipated.
 Giles said the town had budgeted $25,000 for the vehicle. The bid was $28,890.
 The rebid document asks for a smaller truck. The first bid was for a 45,000-pound gross weight truck. This bid will be for a 33,000-pound gross weight truck. A plow hitch, originally included in the full price of the truck, is now being listed as an option.
 The town is also seeking bids on two new items, rock salt for road care and rental packer trucks for leaf pickup.
 The packer trucks, which are modified garbage trucks that include a leaf compactor, will be rented for the seasonal pickup.
 The bids on the Highway Department's truck, the rock salt, and the packer truck rental will all be opened Oct. 15.
 Bids should be mailed to M.A. Pass, Director of General Services, Municipal Building, Manchester.

Opinion

Specious suit?

Famed Texas physician and heart surgery pioneer Dr. Denton Cooley has been named, together with various other defendants, in a $31 million malpractice suit filed by a former patient. Yes, you read it correctly: $31 million dollars.

It seems that in 1969, according to the UPI reporter, Cooley implanted a heart valve in the plaintiff, who does not contend that the operation was not necessary or was bungled. But in 1975—six years later—she began experiencing symptoms similar to those she had had before the operation.

About this time, she was notified by Cooley that he had received reports of a number of failures of her particular type of valve and he urged her to return to Texas so he could replace it with an improved model.

This she did and this he did, by virtue of which fact she has a new complaint which only $31 million will cure—the mental distress and loss of money she suffered as a result of having to undergo a second operation.

Our medical-legal expertise and 10 cents used to be worth a cup of coffee. Today it takes 25 cents. But it is obvious from this story, even to a layman, that both professions have made enormous strides.

Why, not too many years prior to 1969, people with serious heart ailments seldom lived long enough to sue anybody.

Urges support of blood drive

To the editor,
Rush help now!
Everybody, help! Our American Red Cross of Manchester is desperately short of blood. Now is the time to think: What if your own life depended upon a blood transfusion and there were no other way to stay alive, unless volunteers would rush their blood gift to save your life!

One never knows when an accident or illness may strike, which would require a blood transfusion. Every able-bodied person should prepare him or herself against such a possible emergency and make this most worthy donation of blood.

Please give the next time the bloodmobile visits Manchester that others may live. The life you save may be your own.

God bless the American Red Cross for their many valiant services to mankind. Their many good deeds will be remembered forever.

Open classroom program in Coventry criticized

To the editor,
An article in an area newspaper tells of a school that stresses the "Three R's" with the students' school experience being one of dress, code, discipline and academic success. This should have been front-page news! The article goes on to state "many of the heralded innovations of the last five or 10 years are largely regarded as failures including open classroom, new math and permitting a child to select his area of academic pursuit."

Specifically, in Coventry the very costly open classroom program at the grade school level has proceeded, despite public protest, for four years. The author of the program has long since left for greener pastures. At the high school level, a work/study program, reported to have been one of the best in the state, was deemed inadequate by one administrator who felt that an "alternative school" would be better. The lack of federal funding scrapped this idea, but the original program suffered immeasurably by losing the very fine teacher who headed it for years. The constant time and risk in continually developing, analyzing and paying for new programs is leading the educational system downhill as shown by declining national test scores. The students basic, fundamental learning and discipline are being taken as program after program do nothing more than leave school systems in a state of uncertainty and change.

Vernon's Junior Miss urges girls to enter

To the editor,
On that cold day last November when I became Vernon's Junior Miss I wasn't completely sure what I had gotten into or exactly what a Junior Miss was. Now there is no doubt in my mind and I wouldn't trade my experiences and memories for anything in the world.

When people bear the title "Junior Miss," they automatically associate this with a beauty contest. This is a common but terrible misconception. Junior Miss is a program designed to find a girl's goals and aspirations, the things she has done with her life and plans to do, both socially and academically.

The reward you receive is the pride and confidence you get from the people involved with Junior Miss telling you that "you are all winners." The friends you meet, the scholarships and gifts you receive, to go along with the good times you have make it so worthwhile.

I hope all the girls in the senior class at Rockville High School will be in contention for this year's title of Vernon's Junior Miss. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose.
Sincerely,
Susan Gardner

Today's thought

Question: Are Episcopalians Protestants or Catholics?
Answer: They are both. "Catholic" is the Greek word meaning "universal" and was first applied to those Christians who ascribed to the universal creeds of the early church. In popular usage "Catholic" suggests adherence to a sevenfold sacramental system and an order of ministry consisting of apostolic succession. Episcopalians are Catholics within the Reformation tradition. They are therefore Protestants too.

Area hospitals raise room rates

As of today, room rates will go up at Manchester Memorial Hospital and Rockville General Hospital.

The increase is in accordance with the court's recent injunction allowing Connecticut's 30 general hospitals to implement their full new budgets. The Commission on Hospitals and Health Care will challenge the ruling that blocked budget cuts imposed on the hospitals.

The commission had cut $44 million from the institutions' proposed budgets. But New Haven Common Pleas Court Judge Frank Kinney Jr. recently ordered a temporary halt in implementing the cuts while the hospitals appeal the commission action.

The areas at Manchester Memorial Hospital affected by the rate increase are:

- Intensive care unit - $150 to $170;
- semi-private - $86 to $93.50;
- maternity - $93.25 to $111.90;
- pediatrics - $92.15 to $103.95;
- emergency department, initial charge per visit - $19.75 to $20.85.

A hospital spokesman said that even with the increase, Manchester hospital's rates are still lower than many other hospitals.

At Rockville General Hospital the increase in room rates and ancillary services averages slightly less than 7 per cent, Robert Boardman, hospital administrator said.

The standard room rate is increasing from $91 to $96 and the Intensive Care Unit from $125 to $150. The rates of the emergency room, operating room, and X-ray lab have not been increased. Laboratory rates have increased 5 per cent and pharmacy, 10 per cent.

Boardman said the hospital will continue to work toward a reduction in costs. He said he does not intend to layoff any help but rather to accomplish this savings by attrition.

The commission normally rules on how much hospitals can charge patients. The hospitals are challenging the degree of control the commission has over hospital budgets, and the manner in which it is exercised.

In compliance with the stay order, Manchester hospital will maintain 10 per cent of the revenues they will take in an escrow account. The other 90 per cent will be recorded.

The reason for the split, the spokesman explained, is that about 10 per cent of the hospital bills are paid directly by individual patients. The rest is paid through insurance plans, whose accounts are adjusted later.

Manchester Memorial Hospital had requested a $16 million budget, which was trimmed by about $1 million by the commission staff.

Buckland ruling didn't surprise John LaBelle

By DOUG BEVINS

Herald Reporter
For John LaBelle, it wasn't surprising that Judge Edward Hamill ruled heavily on Special Act 200 of 1963 when he decided the Buckland fire protection lawsuit.

"It's the key to the case," said LaBelle, counsel for the Eighth Utilities District and the original author of the 1963 legislation.

It is Special Act 200 which, the judge ruled, allows the District to extend its boundaries upon application of property owners.

At that time, a group of District residents were concerned that the provisions for expansion might result in higher District taxes if sewers had to be built.

At an April 3, 1967 legislative hearing on the proposed measure, there seemed to be little discussion of the expansion provision. A Herald account of the hearing mentioned only that the legislation provided that "district lines could be extended if the majority of owners so request."

The 1963 proceedings weren't the last time the General Assembly considered legislation affecting the Eighth District.

Earlier this year, State Rep. Ted Cummings introduced a bill to amend the 1963 act and "freeze" the District boundary lines.

The Cummings bill, coming in the midst of the Buckland controversy, was shelved by the legislature's Government Administration and Policy Committee. The committee cited technical roadblocks in killing the measure in February.

If it had succeeded, the bill would have prohibited District expansion, after effective date of the measure. Cummings and other proponents of the bill argued that it would solve a confusing fire protection situation, but opponents of the measure - out numbering proponents at the legislative hearing - maintained that it would eliminate the people's right to freedom of choice.

Cummings, widely criticized for introducing the bill, said Thursday he didn't know whether he would introduce another bill in light of Judge Hamill's decision.

"We'll have to wait and see what the great numbers of people want to do," Cummings said.

Generic drug law in effect

By United Press International

Connecticut's Drug Product Selection Law, permitting pharmacists to substitute a therapeutically equivalent but lower priced drug for one prescribed by a doctor, goes into effect today.

But Daniel C. Leone Jr., executive director of the statewide Pharmacy Association, said Thursday it will take time for the full effect of the new law to become evident.

He said pharmacy inventories have to be revised and gradually restocked with lower priced equivalent drug products, and pharmacists must become familiar with the technical requirements of the new law and its regulations.

John DeNicola, president of the Connecticut Pharmaceutical Association, said the law probably will have the greatest impact on the elderly and the chronically ill.

"The elderly, while representing about 10 per cent of the population, consume a disproportionate share of prescription drugs, about 25 per cent of the total," DeNicola said.

"It could also result in savings of close to $1 million to the Department of Social Services on prescription medications to welfare patients under the federal and state Medicaid program," he said.

Under the terms of the law and regulations proposed by the Commission of Pharmacy, a pharmacist may make a substitution if in his or her professional judgment there is a lower priced and equally effective drug product in stock.

Rail line rebuilding forecast

HARTFORD (UPI) - State Transportation Commissioner James Shugrue says the railroad tracks ripped up by the old Penn Central Railroad between Williamantic and Manchester will eventually have to be rebuilt.

But, Shugrue told the legislature's Transportation Committee Thursday, the state has no resources to restore the track now and he didn't know how it eventually would be accomplished.

The right-of-way cost $250,000 but the track was valued at between $600,000 and $1 million.

The state Department of Transportation purchased the abandoned right-of-way from the railroad last year but was criticized for allowing the line to tear up the track and ties over the 20 mile route.

Shugrue said he believes cost-cut service on the stretch could be restored.

The lighter side:

The hick town boomerang

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Something new has been added to this year's presidential campaign - a whistlestop backlash.

Because it has been overlooked by most of the political experts, it is difficult to judge the extent of the backlash at this time. But signs of it are beginning to show up in some of the public opinion polls.

The polls indicate that Jimmy Carter, the Democratic candidate, is running "surprisingly" strong in small towns across the land.

The reason Carter's small town support is surprising to some analysts is because big cities traditionally have been the main bastions of Democratic strength, with Republicans favored in the backwoods.

But party labels don't mean a thing in a whistlestop backlash. Home towns are what count.

To understand what the backlash is all about, you have to have grown up in a hick town and know what it's like to be belittled by the city bred.

Just having people ask "where's that?" every time you say where you're from is enough to keep you seething inside.

In Merkel, Tex., which had a population of about 1,800 when I was growing up there, we had to take a lot of patronizing guff from the cosmopolites of nearby Abilene, which then boasted about 25,000 residents.

And I suppose our old Merkel boys might have acted somewhat condescendingly toward our even smaller town neighbors in Nubia.

HOW THEY STAND

On strip mining

Gerald Ford

Ford has twice vetoed strip-mining legislation (pocket veto in 1974).

In response to a question on the strip-mining bill, Ford said, "If the same bill came before me of course I would veto it because of several things. One, it would have slowed down our answer to the energy program. It would have slowed down significantly the development and expansion of our coal mining throughout the country at a critical time when jobs were important. There could be a strip-mining bill that I would sign and I have indicated about 10 different amendments to the legislation. If they were adopted, yes, I would accept them. In the meantime, it has been interesting, there have been a number of states - not a number of our coal states - that have moved ahead in their own strip-mining legislation, and I think this could be a very good alternative."

Substantial increases in coal production and utilization will only come with a stable regulatory climate. The recent veto of the strip-mining bill merely prolonged the present climate of uncertainty.

Speaking about the search for other sources of energy, Carter said, "We have about 200 years worth of coal that is clean burning. It can be mined with strict strip-mining laws which I favor."

Carter says that he would "support efforts to place reasonable limits on strip mining. We must require reclamation of land as a condition of strip mining."

In 1973, he was the Republican candidate for treasurer of East Hartford.

He told the convention that his reason for running is that he will more equitably represent all of the voters in the district.

His opponent is incumbent Democrat Sen. George W. Hanson Jr., who is also of East Hartford.

Hanson has announced that he may seek Senate leadership position, either majority leader or president pro tem, if he is re-elected.

Stoppa mentioned this to the audience Thursday night.

"My opponent is more concerned with winning the leadership for his party in the State Senate than he is with the problems of his constituents," Stoppa said.

Dr. Frederick W. Spaulding of Manchester was the first party choice to run for the Third Senatorial seat. He dropped out of the race on Aug. 25 because of commitments to his family and work.

The Republican slot in the race had been vacant from then until Thursday night, when Stoppa accepted the party's nomination.

GOP Third picks Stoppa

Anthony Stoppa of 72 Prospect St., East Hartford, has been selected as the Republican candidate for the Third Senatorial District seat.

The district convention, held Thursday night at Manchester's Republican headquarters, picked Stoppa to fill the third district slot.

Stoppa is a retired developer in East Hartford and is former owner of the Dallas Real Estate Company. He is now chairman of the first voting district of East Hartford for the party.

In 1973, he was the Republican candidate for treasurer of East Hartford.

He told the convention that his reason for running is that he will more equitably represent all of the voters in the district.

Police report

State Police and Manchester Police are investigating the Thursday night theft of a car from High St., its subsequent involvement in an accident on Interstate 84 and the disappearance of the driver.

The operator was nowhere in sight, police said, and a search of the area turned up nothing. There was no blood inside the car, police said, although the heavy damage indicated the driver must have been hurt.

Local officers were called to 234 W. High St. at about 11:25 p.m. when Desmond Vogelvang reported that his car was missing. Vogelvang told police he was watching television when he heard a noise outside. He looked out and his car was gone.

While the investigating officer was taking a statement, he was informed by police headquarters that a car matching the stolen car's description was involved in an accident on I-84.

Court overrules ZBA billboard ban

In a case dating back to 1972, the Hartford County Court of Common Pleas has ruled that a Hartford advertising firm can maintain nine billboards in Manchester.

Judge Robert Satter, in a decision released Thursday, reversed a Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) decision ordering removal of the nine billboards owned by Bolte Advertising-Hartford Inc.

The judge cited provisions for continuing nonconforming uses and said the ZBA was wrong in interpreting Manchester's zoning regulations.

Boite had challenged the zoning enforcement officer's order for removal of the billboards, and the ZBA decision which upheld that order.

Evidence presented the court showed that Bolte, had erected its billboards at least 25 years before the 1972 ZBA decision. Judge Satter said zoning regulations were first adopted in 1938, he said.

and the billboards were already in place at that time. Because the billboards predated zoning, they were considered nonconforming uses, the judge said. "The right to continue a nonconforming use as a substantial one and is afforded substantial protection under our law," he said.

The nine billboard locations are: The south side of W. Center St. east of 512; the north side of Tolland Tpk. between Parker and Oakland Sts.; the east side of New State Rd. opposite the Jarvis plant; the east side of New State Rd. north of the Hockanum River; the north side of W. Middle Tpk., east of 851.

Moreover, the express provisions of its own zoning regulations, upon which the Zoning Board of Appeals relies, are not applicable," the judge said.

Judge Satter pointed out that the zoning regulation prohibits "new" signs, and the language of the regulation can't affect signs which are 45 years old.

In sustaining the appeal, Judge Satter also said Bolte shouldn't have had to obtain variances at all.

"Everyone in this country has the right to a decent place to live."

Buying homes, building new housing—that takes money. Senator Lowell Weicker fought for and won that money, to make low and moderate income housing easier to finance, easier to buy. When new homes go up, new jobs are created, too.

In construction, trucking, furniture and all the other industries involved in putting a decent roof over people's heads. That's good for the state, good for the people, and it proves one very important point: when Weicker goes to bat, he hits you where you live.

Finnegan's overtime goal gives Indians 1-0 victory

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor

Unanticipated trouble was experienced by Manchester High's soccer team with winless Ferni High of Enfield. The visiting Falcons put up a battle and the Silk Towners didn't play particularly well in the rain yesterday but did manage to squeeze out a 1-0 overtime win at Memorial Field.

The contest wasn't decided until the final two minutes of the second practice and overtime session. Senior right wing Darrell Hoey crossed it to the middle where Bill Finnegan, who had numerous chances, was waiting and headed it home for the game-winner. It was Finnegan's fifth goal of the campaign.

The narrow victory was productive for the Indians as it moved them into sole possession of the top rung in the CCHL. Manchester is now 4-0-1 for 22 points while previous co-leaders Enfield and Simsbury slipped off the pace somewhat. Enfield was tied by fall and is now 3-0-2 for 19 points while Simsbury was upended in overtime by Windham, 2-1. Simsbury is now 3-1-1 for 17 points while Windham moved up at 2-0-3 for 16 points. The Silk Towners' next tilt is Tuesday in Willimantic against Windham.

"When a team like Ferni (now 0-5) can carry you so far you can't say too much right was going on out there," commented Manchester Coach Dick Danielson who was outwardly displeased with the overall performance. "Some are not playing their positions as they should. I have to remember this is a young team in that it hasn't played too much soccer. What's happening is some are trying to cover up for others and winding out of position themselves. They're not playing as a team, the way we want them to."

Indian Greg Smayda (in white) looks in wrong direction for ball. Ferni player, meanwhile, finds footing somewhat slippery and heads for soft landing.

Sophomore Mark Copeland in his first varsity start in goal wasn't halfback Greg Smayda also severely tested but nevertheless

Pats set, primed to upset Raiders

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — It all sounded good up till a couple of weeks ago.

The Oakland Raiders, out to show for the umpteenth time that this would be their year, wound into Schaefer Stadium Oct. 3 with three straight wins and face a young bungling New England Patriots squad that figured to be 0-3 and buried beyond recognition.

As it stands going into this Sunday's matchup between two of the most ancient American Football League rivals, the Raiders are 3-0. Their trail to three wins, though, has been full of ruts. Injuries to most of the defensive wall and to quarterback Ken Stabler have made all four games a frustrating close.

The Patriots, after an opening game loss to Baltimore, have reeled off their most impressive back-to-back wins in a 17-year history. By shocking Miami and Pittsburgh the Patriots have earned respect around the National Football League.

"The Patriots are very impressive as evidenced by the fact that they beat Miami and Pittsburgh in two straight weeks," Raider coach John Madden said Wednesday in a telephone conference call with New England writers. "That's a bell of a task for anyone."

First place at stake

First place will be at stake tonight in the Manchester Midget Football League when the two unbeaten entries, Chargers and Jets, tangle in the opener at 6:30 at Mt. Nebo.

Each team has won twice, the Chargers rolling up 34 points while holding the opposition scoreless. The Jets have tallied 38 points in two games and have allowed 12, six in each start.

Tonight's second half of the weekly twinbill brings together the Patriots and Giants, each losers in their debuts.

The Eagles are idle tonight.

Illing eleven bows, 26-8

Subsuming in its opener yesterday was the Illing Junior High football team, 26-8, to the Penney High freshmen in East Hartford.

Mental errors by Illing enabled Penney to score three first half touchdowns. The Rams penetrating Penney territory continually but two interceptions and a fumble thwarted the scoring efforts.

A Ken Hill to Orzlie Johnson 43-yard pass got Illing on the scoreboard in the final period with Keith Ray balling over for the two-point conversion.

Close batting races
While most attention on the major league baseball scene is focused on the stirring American League's Western Division race, the race for the batting titles in both leagues will go down to the wire Sunday when regular schedule play ends.

Cincinnati's Ken Griffey has finally overtaken Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs and holds a three point edge with three games left. Madlock, trying for a repeat crown, paced the senior loop for nearly four months before going into a tailspin. Griffey is hitting .339 and Madlock .336.

On the other hand, Griffey, consistent year, reared into the lead when Madlock fell off.

It appears to be a two-man race in the N.L. Over in the American League, Kansas City's twosome of Hal McRae and George Brett has been waging a battle royal for weeks with designated hitter McRae holding the upper hand at the moment by two points.

Rod Carew appears out of the race for the first time in five years. Minnesota's veteran is still one of the best hitters with a .325 average, eight points off McRae's .333 mark while Brett is batting .328.

Good news for franchises in the World Hockey Association was word earlier this week that 48-year-old Gordie Howe had signed to play again this season with the Houston Aeros. Howe's name is still magic at the all important box office and the all-time great can still hold his own

Royals need win, Allen leaves Phils

NEW YORK (UPI) — Get it together. That's the motto the Kansas City Royals and the Philadelphia Phillies will have to adopt this weekend if they hope to put up a competitive fight in the upcoming baseball playoffs.

The Royals still need one victory against Minnesota (or one loss by Oakland) in their final three games of the season to lock up the American League West and meet the New York Yankees in the AL championship series. But, at this point of the season, a sweep of the Twins' series is needed for the Royals to build momentum after a long dry spell.

"We feel like it is a must for us to win all three games," said the Royals' Hal McRae. "If we are going to put together some momentum, we can't win a game and then lose a couple. We have to go out and win a bunch in a row."

The Phillies have already clinched the National League East title, but they've developed problems of a different sort. Stories of internal disputes erupted Thursday and at the center of the trouble was none other than Mr. Controversy himself, Dick Allen.

Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark held a team meeting prior to Wednesday night's game with the St. Louis Cardinals during which the air was cleared of some grievances. The biggest gripe concerned Allen's having left the club to go home, apparently with little warning and no prior approval, after Sunday's doubleheader in Montreal.

The team also was supposedly upset at Allen's ultimatum a week ago that he would not participate in the playoffs and the World Series unless veteran Tony Taylor, a long-time friend, is included on the 25-man post-season roster.

Homecoming

Saturday's football game at Memorial Field at 1:30 between Manchester High and visiting East Hartford High has been designated as Homecoming.

The festivities will begin with a Homecoming Dance tonight where a Homecoming queen and her court will be elected. They will be crowned at halftime of the football game.

Eason sidelined

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Providence College forward Bill Eason, a strong rebounder and scoring threat in the last basketball season, is academically ineligible to play for the Friars during the fall term.

The 6-foot-5 junior from Waterbury, Conn., averaged over 11 points and six rebounds per game last year.

Oakland win mark on line

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pardon the Oakland Raiders for feeling a little uneasy this week. It's just that they go into Sunday's game against New England at Foxboro, Mass., as one of only four unbeaten, untied teams after just three weeks of play in the National Football League and the Patriot club they're facing has just been feasting on big winners.

The young Patriots have followed an opening day loss to Baltimore with back-to-back upsets of Miami and the Patriots club they're facing has just been feasting on big winners.

The key to the upsets has been Steve Grogan, the second-year quarterback from Kansas State, who was handed the starting job when Jim Plunkett was dealt to San Francisco this past winter.

Two weeks ago against Miami, Grogan threw three touchdown passes to spark the Patriots to victory last Sunday in Pittsburgh, the 6-foot-5 younger threw for two scores and ran six yards for another to rally the Patriots past the Steelers 30-29.

The Raiders are seven-point favorites — but then again, Miami and Pittsburgh were favorites, too.

In other games Sunday, San Diego is at Denver, the New York Giants at St. Louis, Dallas at Seattle, Washington at Chicago, Los Angeles at Miami.

Nick returns

Popular Nick Fotiu will be at the Hartford Civic Center tonight but he won't be wearing a New England Whaler uniform. The popular former Manchester resident will be with the New York Rangers against the Whalers in the final pre-season exhibition game against Dartmouth Saturday night.

Final period lapse hurts Cross eleven

BOSTON (UPI) — Holy Cross has been three-quarters of a good football team this season.

But the Crusaders have to shell out a final quarter of good defensive football against Dartmouth Saturday if they are to win their first game under coach Neil Wheelwright.

Sue Launi tells of trip to Sri Lanka

If somebody asked you what place in the world you would like to see most, I would bet you'd never say Sri Lanka. About three months ago, I probably wouldn't have either, but I certainly have changed my mind. That is because I spent this past summer as an AFS student in Sri Lanka. For those of you who still aren't sure if Sri Lanka is actually a country, let me remove all doubts: it is a small island about the size of West Virginia off the southeastern tip of India. It used to be known as Ceylon, but 1972 saw political changes that also led to a name change.

I had the good fortune, along with twenty-five other AFSers, to finally arrive on the island paradise. We encountered some difficulty entering the country due to the Non-Aligned Conference which took place in Colombo, the capital, while we were there. Visas were finally granted; however, we had a five-hour rainstorm delay in New York which necessitated an unexpected and lengthy stay in India.

I finally arrived in my town of about 40,000, Matale, and met my family. Amme and Thathy (roughly equivalent to Mommy and Daddy) were inspectors of physical education, which means they traveled to various schools checking out the physical education departments, the teachers, and so on. My host sister was Shabnam, age fifteen, and she had just started the eleventh grade.

I also had two brothers: Siraj, thirteen, and Altaf, eleven. My family was great; they made things very easy for me, accepting me right away. It wasn't long before I was chasing my brothers around while putting ice down their backs, sharing their thoughts with my sisters, getting into political "discussions" with Thathy, and watching Amme and our servant girl in the kitchen. Yes, we had a servant, most people there have at least one servant. The kitchen work is especially difficult. It seemed to me that they were preparing food all the time, from pounding rice flour to grinding chilies.

Food there was quite interesting. A meal consists of some starchy food, mostly rice, but sometimes bread, string hoppers (very thin noodles), crepe-like pancakes, or noodles, which they mix with a curry sauce (meat, chicken, fish, or vegetable). They mix all their food together and eat with their fingers. I picked that custom up right away, and believe me, the food tasted that way.

However, their food is extremely hot; they put chilies and curry in just about everything. Amme faced me boiled vegetables and meat because the food was just too hot (and I mean hot!) That is because I'm used to nice, bland hamburgers or pasta with macaroni and cheese. I did try everything, though. My family would enjoy giving me hot food to try, just to watch my reaction. They even ate a chile and onion dish for breakfast. I really enjoyed the various fruits: mangoes, papaya, bananas, pineapples, mango stems, and pomegranates, and on and on.

We had a mango tree in our yard and our neighbors had a banana tree. A lot of coconuts are also used; I actually saw someone shimmy up a coconut tree and cut down the coconuts. The meat and milk are very good, or in Sinhala, "boboma hatale."

One thing that made my stay easier was the fact that many people speak English, and most understand it. This was due to the fact that Sri Lanka was once a British colony. I did learn a little Sinhala, the native language, taught to me by family and friends. Because it is rather easy to learn, I also learned to read and write the language. They have a fifty-seven letter alphabet which is syllabic. That makes it very easy to read; however, I usually don't understand what I read.

Clothing is a bit different there; all the women wear saris. I became proficient at the art of putting one on, and also brought a couple back. The traditional men's dress is a white tunic with a type of white skirt. You can still see men in that particular outfit, or else in sarongs. A sarong is a piece of cloth sewn in a circle and worn by wrapping and tucking it. Naturally, men also wear pants, and the young people wear somewhat Western-style clothes.

I attended school while over there; school runs all year with vacations at various times. It's not a matter of different seasons and having a definite "summer" vacation as we do here, because it is summer there all year round. In addition, once a month they have a day off: Poya (Full Moon) Day, a religious day for Buddhists. School began at 7:30 a.m. and ended at 12 p.m., the day consisting of eight forty-minute periods, a twenty-minute interval, and no lunch period. The day began with prayers, Hindu, Buddhist, or Catholic, depending on your faith. Teachers rather than students change classes. Teachers are also regarded with a great deal more respect than they are here. After tenth grade, the students take a government exam (all essays), after which they are placed in one of three areas of study: science, art, or commerce. For them, specialization begins in eleventh grade, whereas here it commences with college. They have no activities or clubs as we do, but a very active sports program.

Everyone was interested in the U.S. I received all kinds of questions, ranging from discussion of American economics and politics, to describing what a hamburger is (there are no McDonald's over there). Students were especially interested in our open campus, and also the fact that we take no government exams. I have brought back a lot of special memories from my summer: teaching my family how to blow bubbles, learning how to play cricket, taking a short-cut through a cemetery while wearing a sari for the first time, making hoppers, pounding rice flour, learning to sing Sinhala songs, climbing a local mountain by taking a three-hour "short-cut," riding the buses, getting my ears pierced — the list is endless. I consider my AFS experience to be the most important happening in my life. I met so many people and made friendships that I hope will last a lifetime.

I have a second family now, that will be with me always. I also feel I have changed and grown as a person. It is something that AFS offers to everyone: the opportunity to develop, expand, and discover.

If all of this has made you wonder how I was chosen, or if you think you may be interested in doing it yourself, good! The screening process to find next year's AFSers will begin soon. AFS will be looking for juniors to participate in the summer program and seniors for the school program.

Any one can apply and it is very easy: just a simple application and interview. If you're interested in having some fun and meeting some interesting people, check out the AFS Club. We could really use you. Just listen for the announcements or contact Mrs. Board, Rick Tierney, Carl Giurelli, or me, Susan Launi. — Sue Launi tion to French II, Ann's courses included Algebra II, AP English, Patterns of Human Behavior, and Foods I.

Another great interest of Ann is literature: "I'll read practically anything," she says. Her favorite books include "Lord of the Flies" by William Golding, "The Fountainhead" by Ayn Rand, "Moby Dick" by Herman Melville, "The Devil and Louise" by Aldous Huxley, and "The Plague" by Albert Camus. The works of Hermann Hesse and the poetry of Anne Sexton also appeal to Ann. She enjoys children's books, such as "The Chronicles of Narnia" by C.S. Lewis, "Alice in Wonderland" and "The Trilogy" by Tolkien. Ann loves to read because she'd "rather read about characters in books than get to know people in real life. When I read, there's a personal relationship between the characters and me."

Ann herself enjoys writing poetry, mostly short three-line poems that capture a single idea brilliantly. She received an Honorable Mention in the Scholastic Writing Awards competition in tenth grade for the poetry she submitted. Rather than publish her material in magazines, Ann prefers to "choose my readers."

On a person-to-person basis, Ann is an intelligent, eloquent individual with warmth and wit. Contact with her makes you appreciate what a special person she is; you feel better having known her. — Christine Jaworski

MHS profile: Ann Kibbie

Ann Kibbie, an MHS senior, is a quiet, intensely personal individual, a loner by some people's standards. As she explained it: "I hate to do things in groups — I don't know why people think that they have to have other people doing something with them to make it a worthwhile activity. I'd rather have one or two people that I really enjoy being with." Ann's private way of life tends to conceal the very interests and accomplishments nurtured by such privacy; this profile will bring out those special qualities of Ann.

In my mind, I associated Ann with theater more than anything else. When she was twelve years old, Ann was a walk-on for Little Theater of Manchester's (LTM) production of "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

was arranged, and it was an improvised dance. I wish I had been able to see it. It was really "fascinating," I myself saw Ann perform in "The Crucible" — it was indeed fascinating.

Undoubtedly, Ann's most impressive accomplishment in theater was her performance in the Tri-Town Players' production of "The Miracle Worker," in the role of Helen Keller. Ann stated that it was "one of the things I'm most proud of. I was only fourteen, and I hadn't done that much to obtain the role. There were a lot of things I had to learn, everybody was so patient and helpful." The work and experience certainly paid off. Ann's performance was superlative. Her portrayal of a struggling, blind-deaf-mute child moved me, and the rest of the audience, to tears. You could feel yourself inwardly rejoicing as she stammered her first word: "Water."

Despite her passion for theater, Ann will not incorporate acting into her career. "I plan to major in French. Meet the MHS Round Table Singers

The Manchester High School Round Table Singers were founded by G. Albert Pierson, instructor of music 40 years ago. They are a group of students, about 70 in number, who voluntarily give up some of their time to sing in places such as convalescent homes, service clubs, schools, hospitals, and television and radio stations.

They sang in California last year, representing Connecticut in the Bicentennial celebration, "America on Parade" at Disneyland. They also sang at the Pearl Harbor Memorial, overlooking the battleship USS Arizona.

To become a Round Table Singer, a student must try out for a position by having his voice tested for singing individually and in harmony. If a student makes the Round Table, there are many hours of practice and much time to be given.

Each year the Round Table takes a trip. They have visited such places as California, Hawaii, Walkiki Shell, and the oldest high school on the island, Punohu High School.

Approximately 100 concerts are given every year by the MHS Round Table. The students are one of Manchester High School's many assets and they should be recognized for the hard work and time they put into it.

If ever you wish to hear these singers at practice, just come around the choir room of the high school between 6:30 and 9 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday evenings. — Holly Miller

Youth Services need volunteers

This program started with volunteers from MCC, but little assistance was found there. Mrs. Talbot turned to MHS for Big Sister volunteers.

There is definitely a need for more students to become involved in this program. Big Brothers are needed in addition to Big Sisters. Because Mrs. Talbot will be absent until Christmas, Gale Gain will be taking over temporarily. Anyone interested in the program is very welcome to contact either Jean Talbot or Gale Gain at Youth Services — Carleain Douville

Sock 'n Buskin casts fall play

"Dinny and the Witches," Sock 'n Buskin's fall play, is starting to rehearse. The actors in the play were chosen in trials Thursday and Friday of last week, and Monday of this week. The production is directed by Jerry Smith as Dinny, Ann Kibbie as Amy, Jim Bauer as Ben, John Fry as Jake, Paul Marie as Mr. Stonehenge, Lance Tatro, Carry Flannigan and Jim Richardson as Tom, Dick, and Harry, Linda Blain as Bubbles, Donna McCarthy as Chise, Coleen Wright as Dawn, and Jane Dewey, Dawn Hilyak, and Beth McClain as the three witches, Uglu, Zella and Zenobia.

The play is anything but a typical Sock 'n Buskin production. It is a fantasy about an unhappy musician Dinny Jones, who through a series of fate, obtains the command of the entire world from the three sisters of Trouble. Time stopped, but he forgot to go on. Contained in the fantasy are the elements of a love story, those of a comedy, and even a solid moral.

The production will once again be performed in thrust staging, wherein the audience sits up on the stage near the actors. This type of staging presents a number of technical challenges. Included in the many special effects needed for a street light that will move and more throughout the play, a shooting star, numerous explosions, and even costumes that deteriorate as the play progresses.

Lee Hay, advisor to Sock 'n Buskin and the play's director, says that this play is not one that will be aimed at the general public, but one that will be attractive to the student body, and one that will prove an educational challenge for all of those involved in its production. Judging from past Sock 'n Buskin efforts, the challenge will most surely be met and the play will be a success. — Steve Latham

Swim team needs support

The MHS girls' swim team needs your support! We've had a good turnout this year, 27 girls in all. The team consists of 12 sophomores, 10 juniors, and five seniors all hoping for a victorious season.

This year's captain is Sherrie Hopperstead, and the co-captain is Cathy Come. Our 10 meet schedule includes six home meets, one against cross-town rival East Catholic (Oct. 12). All meets begin at 5:30 p.m. at the pool. We hope to see you there. — Kim Noone

Assembly elects officers

The second Student Assembly meeting last Thursday evening was well attended. After a short speech by George Emmerling designed to explain and boost SAA status, new officers were elected. They are as follows: Student vice-president, Bob Nurni; acting vice-president, Tracy Jenkins; treasurer, Robert Weiss; senior Board of Education representative, Joel Mroczek; Junior Board of Education representative, Mark Meridy.

Following elections and a review of old business, the floor to new business was opened. Sign-up sheets for help with the flu clinic and "Back to School Nite" were passed around, but it was evident that help is still needed for both.

Lack of time caused an unsolved discussion on the nature of the elections for the Homecoming Queen to be tabled and a special session was called for this Wednesday evening. The meeting was adjourned at 9:40 p.m.

If anyone wishes to help, please speak to Tracy Jenkins. — Dawn Hilyak

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: A note to the lady who was considering divorce because she was tired of "faking in the bedroom" for eight years. I've been married for 30 years to a dear man who (I hope) is not aware that his love-making is far from satisfying. But I would "fake it" for another 90 years rather than hurt this beautiful man who cannot, or will not, discuss our sex life. He would be devastated at the thought of how unloved and frustrated he has left me. And he would be crushed by the idea that I thought he needed counseling.

After all this time, I'm sure part of the fault was mine. NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Therapists in the human sexuality program of many medical schools inform me that many couples who have been married for more than 30 years have been helped tremendously by counseling. But if you "know" that your husband is not a candidate for counseling, and you are willing to "fake it" forever, you have handed your problem well enough to suit yourself.

I would not, however, advise anyone who has been married for only eight years to "fake it." In these enlightened times, a spouse committing a grave error in judgment to "fake" satisfaction when real satisfaction can be achieved through education.

DEAR WORRIED: You will save 78 cents and a lot of time.

DEAR ABBY: This is for EMBARRASSED. She said her three grown children were raised in a good Christian home, but one plays with a rock group and looks like a bum, another lives with a married man in Mexico, and another is into a far-out religious cult that doesn't believe in money (although she's always asking her parents for money to feed her and her "brothers and sisters"). The problem was to tell people when friends ask what her kids are doing.

Wife of aid. I have three grown children who turned out very much like EMBARRASSED's, but we aren't embarrassed. When people ask about them, we give them a complete rundown, and the usual response is, "That's nothing. Wait till I tell you what MY kids are doing!" SOUTH PASADENA

Win at Bridge

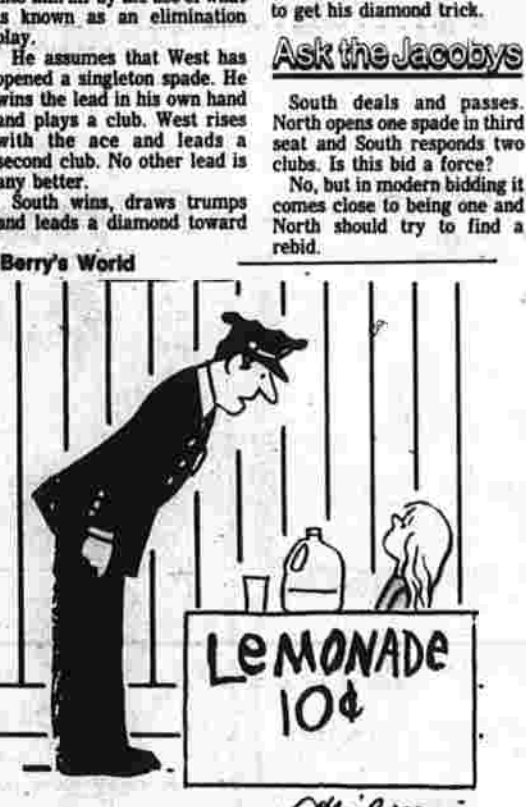

Dummy's king wins the first or second diamond and another diamond is played. This will give West two diamonds and one club and a headache. He will have to lead a card in one of these suits. South will ruff in dummy and discard his losing spade!

This is what would happen with an expert dealer, but there is a way to defeat the contract. Instead of taking his ace when the first club is led, West plays the queen. South must draw trumps before leading a second club which East must take with his nine. Now East plays the queen of spades. South takes the ace in dummy, comes to his hand with a trump and leads a diamond. West plays the queen of this suit. Dummy takes the king but the second diamond is played. East wins. He catches his jack of spades, leads another dealer and the defense waits for West to get his diamond trick.

Ask the Jacobys

South deals and passes. North opens one spade in third seat and South responds two clubs. This bid forces. No, but in modern bidding it comes close to being one and North should try to find a rebid.

Cedar Ridge water main corrosion unresolved

The flushing of water mains Wednesday in the Cedar Ridge area did not help solve the problem of corrosion in the lines, Robert Young, water treatment manager, said today.

Young said that water pumps in the area could not generate enough pressure to thoroughly clean out the corrosion in mains near the top of the hill.

"We didn't solve the problem. We couldn't do a thorough flushing job," he said.

The town Water Department had received complaints from customers in the Cedar Ridge area about water quality. Testing had determined that corrosion in the mains was the cause. The Water Department will now attempt to flush the mains using water pumps borrowed from the Glastonbury Fire Department. Young said he will contact the department today to set up a day when the pumps and men will be available.

Buckland decision

separately from other areas in town jurisdiction.

Will use firehouse

Concerning the controversial No. 5 firehouse in Buckland, Town Fire Chief Rivoso said today that his plans to begin service from the station haven't changed.

Although the Town Fire Department won't be allowed to serve Buckland, the firehouse can be used as a station to serve other nearby areas under town jurisdiction, Rivoso said.

"Opening this station will greatly enhance the fire protection across the highway," Rivoso said, referring to an area east of Buckland and north of Interstate 86, reached via Tolland Tpke.

The No. 5 firehouse is much closer to that area than the No. 3 firehouse on Lawton Rd. which now serves the area, Rivoso said. Service from the new station will eliminate a problem of fire apparatus crossing the Hockanum River bridge on the way from Lawton Rd., he said.

The No. 5 firehouse, to be manned by one engine company, will also serve Dorney Dr., Progress Dr. north to Vernon, an area between W. Middle Tpke. and Center St., and East Catholic High School and Cheney Technical School, Rivoso said.

Town Building Committee Chairman Paul Phillips said today the final inspection of the new firehouse is scheduled Saturday, and the facility will be ready for occupancy next week.

Meanwhile, Eighth District officials are still concerned about town plans to use a firehouse which is actually within their District. But LaBelle, the District counsel, said there's nothing the District can do to stop the town from using its firehouse.

Other areas involved

Reports circulating in town today indicated that the Town Fire Department's geographical area may be threatened even more by Judge Hamill's ruling.

The decision, which upheld petitioning by Buckland property owners and the subsequent expansion referendum last November, appears to apply to all of the District's "authorized territory."

The "authorized territory" as described by Special Act 200 of 1963, is "all of the territory north of Middle Turnpike West and north of Middle Turnpike East, from the East Hartford town line on the west to the Bolton-Vernon town line on the east."

The so-called Buckland area covers a large share of the "authorized territory" in northwest Manchester. The area is bounded by East Hartford on the west, Slater St.

and the former Eighth District boundary on the east, South Windsor on the north, and W. Middle Tpke. (with some exceptions) on the south. The exceptions are Wickham Park, East Catholic High School, Cheney Technical School and apartments on New State Rd.

Among areas in the "authorized territory" which aren't part of Buckland are town jurisdiction lands in northeast Manchester now served by the town's Lawton Rd. firehouse.

One of those areas — which would be served from the town's new No. 5 firehouse — has been rumored to be the site of resident interest in petitioning the Eighth District for expansion.

Residents of the Bowers Farm Subdivision — a residential tract off Deming and Avery Sts. — reportedly approached Eighth District officials earlier this year about a petitioning effort similar to the Buckland situation. The interested residents apparently decided to do nothing, awaiting the court's Buckland decision, and it now seems possible that interest may reappear.

Any petitioning from those areas may be delayed to await a town decision on whether there will be further court proceedings on Buckland.
