Manchester's Republican Town Committee Monday night adopted a six-point "position paper" urging that the town not appeal Judge Edward Hamill's decision in the Buckland fire protection lawsuit.

News summary

Compiled from United Press International
State
WASHINGTON - With a stroke of the pen, President Ford not only kept $1.3 billion in current tax cuts in effect but sets in motion thousands of changes in tax rules.

Regional

BOSTON - Reviewing the transcript of the now famous "adultery in my heart" Playboy interview was never discussed with Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter, G. Barry Golson, the interviewer said Monday. He said he was misquoted when the University of Connecticut paper reported Carter had an opportunity to retract statements but did not.

International

MADRID, Spain - The slaying of Juan Maria de Araluce Villan, 59, an advisor to King Juan Carlos by suspected left-wing guerrillas Monday will undermine Spain's delicate move toward democracy, according to Interior Minister Rodolfo Martin Villa, who promised to go ahead with the country's reform program.

National

DETROIT - Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers have reached an agreement on major elements of a new contract to end a 30-day-old strike, but have hit snags on final details of the pact.

AFS chapter officers to meet Wednesday

Regional American Field Service Chapter presidents will meet Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Baxter Jr., AFS area representative, 34 Olcott Dr.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Welch and Ms. Marilyn Slade, presidents of the AFS chapters in Manchester, High School and Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School, respectively, and Mrs. Robert Warren from South Windsor will be among chapter presidents attending from Avon, Canton, Enfield, Granby, Simsbury, Weathersfield and Windsor Locks.

Mrs. Baxter acts in a liaison capacity between the individual chapters and the central office.

The meeting will be led by three staff members from AFS/International in New York. They are Ms. Joann Hall, field consultant; Ms. Flip Propper, counseling consultant; and Ms. Florence Leon, field development specialist. Their purpose is to support and advise local volunteers who deal with the AFS program as it involves the student, family, school and community.

American Field Service is an international, non-profit, scholarship program which arranges for young people to attend secondary school and live with families in other environments to learn about other societies and cultures. The program operates in 60 countries. Volunteers make up the supporting organization in each participating community.

Police report

Manchester Police are investigating vandalism at East Cemetery and a burglary at the nearby Park Department garage on Harrison St., reported Monday.

Police said about 15 to 20 gravestones were toppled at the cemetery, apparently Sunday night.

The break into the park garage at 16 Harrison St., discovered Monday morning, resulted in the theft of two chain saws and a microphone-loudspeaker system, police said.

Park Supt. Ernest Turek estimated the loss at nearly $1,000.

Arrests made by Manchester Police included that of John J. McCarthy, 61, of the Essex Motor Inn, E. Center St., charged Monday night with third-degree criminal trespassing.

Police charged the charge stems from a domestic incident. Court date is Oct. 25.

Handicap information session scheduled

All Manchester area residents who have any kind of handicap, and are seeking employment, are invited to attend "Manchester's Answer to the Problems of the Handicapped (MAPOH I)" sponsored by the Manchester Area Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

MAPOH I will be at the new Regional Occupational Training Center for the Handicapped, 237 Hilltown Rd., on Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m.

In addition to being given a tour of the center, those attending will have an opportunity to meet area employers, fill out job applications, and arrange job interviews.

Registration will begin at 3 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The event is free.

President Ford has proclaimed this week as "National Hire the Handicapped Week."

About town

The first of a series of seminars on post-high education sponsored by the Manchester High School guidance department will be tonight at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria. "Trends in Employment for College Graduates," is the topic of discussion. The series is planned for parents of students who plan to further their education. Students are also invited.

Delta Chapter, R.A.M., will have a business meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. The Mark Master Mason degree will be conferred. Officer dress is tuxedo.

we demand that an immediate study be made by a bipartisan committee named by the Board of Directors on the most efficient use of the new building — whether it be as a town or District firehouse, whether it be put to some other community use, or whether it should be disposed of in some manner which brings advantage to the community," the statement concluded.

Other discussion at Monday night's GOP meeting included criticism of Weiss and Democratic State Rep. Ted Cummings. Clarence Brown, a town committee member, said Weiss should be asked to resign "for this stupid blunder." Brown alleged that town administrators' push to build the firehouse was another example of the town government's history of "empire-building."

Another committee member, Edward Wilson, called on Cummings to resign as a state representative. Wilson said Cummings wasted the taxpayer's money by pushing for construction of the firehouse, and Wilson alleged that Cummings' endorsement of the firehouse "was to enhance the climate for (Arthur) Fischer and M.A.P. Associates," which is planning a large development in Buckland.

HSA reviews MMH laundry plans

In its first involvement with local health planning, members of the North Central Connecticut Health Systems Agency (HSA) attended the second in a series of hearings Monday concerning a proposed new laundry facility at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The review was the second in a series of at least five reviews of the project already scheduled by regulatory agencies for the next four weeks. Officers of the HSA met with hospital officials to review a proposed $282,000 addition including a modernized laundry facility and renovations of adjacent areas.

The hospital is proposing a new laundry facility to replace the existing 17-year-old facility which causes vibrations throughout the building when in operation, and which contains equipment beyond repair. The estimated cost for the new laundry is $282,000, of which $228,000 is estimated for the building and $54,000 for equipment. An additional $228,000 is estimated for proposed renovations of adjacent areas to create additional storage space and enclose the loading dock. The hospital also wants to install a new compactor and renovate a housekeeping area into a "viewing room" where unidentified dead persons may be identified.

Town doctors to volunteer services for swine flu clinic inoculations

Local physicians are encouraged to keep office inoculations of swine flu vaccine to an "absolute minimum," Dr. H. John Malone, president of the Manchester Medical Association, said today.

The town's physicians will volunteer their services as much as possible during the free clinic scheduled in October, November and December.

Participating in Friday's flu immunization clinic at Manchester High School will be Dr. C.W. Wickerrham of Bolton and Dr. Robert Butterfield of Manchester.

About town

Members of the Army and Navy Club Auxiliary are asked to bring items for a "Do Your Own Thing" program Wednesday, which will take place after the 6:30 p.m. potluck at the clubhouse.

Members of the VFW Post and Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. at Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., to pay respects to the late Wilfred (Bill) Smith, a member of the post.

A final training session for volunteers will be held Wednesday at the MHS cafeteria from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Anyone interested in assisting at the flu clinics may attend the session even if they haven't signed up previously.

Opinion

Press victory carries obligations

Journalism is alive and doing very well in the United States. Four newsmen with a Fresno (Calif.) Bee, who spent 15 days in jail rather than tell a secret grand jury transcript about alleged bribery, were praised by none other than the California Bar Association at its recent annual convention. "The courage of the Fresno four in declining to reveal their source of information on pain of imprisonment is commended by this conference," stated a resolution passed by the lawyers by a vote of 229 to 190. Even Superior Court Judge Hollis Best, who sentenced the four in a case that went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, acknowledged upon releasing them that "there is an articulated moral principle in the news media" against disclosing sources. That principle was perhaps best articulated by CBS reporter Daniel Schorr, who at about the same time was explaining to the Ethics Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives why he could

Must say more than just 'Me for President'

WASHINGTON - A couple of Winston Churchills they are not. Neither in the oratorical dode, is even a Richard Nixon, who knew how to draw blood. But they are all we've got, and it may be that the American public needs a couple of human tranquilizing pills named Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

That having been said, Ford should have a little better of it in the second debate Oct. 6. The topic will be defense and foreign policy and if the President muffs this one he will have no excuses. On both of those subjects Ford's knowledge has to be superior to Carter's. Without arguing whether his policies are right or wrong, the fact remains that he's got all the information in his pants pocket. Ford is briefed daily by his stable of defense, diplomatic and intelligence experts. Carter is briefed only regularly, and it is not too cynical to suggest that Ford's boys don't bend over backwards to familiarize him with every important title manance that contributes to the making of policy.

one of the finest minds in the country and second because no one else knows the territory so well. An egomaniac, probably. But a tough, bright guy.

Carter is no dumbbell, and he showed in the first debate that he does his homework. But so far he has not presented a detailed case for his demand that the Pentagon's budget be reduced by several billion dollars. Everybody even casually acquainted with the Defense Department's operations knows they are riddled with waste, appalling inefficiency, and duplication of missions and responsibilities. Carter's job is to cite chapter and verse on that kind of bureaucratic squalor, and then spell out with as many crossed 't's and dotted 'i's as possible what he would do about it. In short, in the second go-around, both candidates have got to talk about the future. In the first debate, they talked mostly about the past. Except for some vague references to a $60-billion revenue dividend that would permit a Democratic Pres-

Rep. Cummings defended

Dear editor: You begin your Saturday, Oct. 2, 1976, "Opinion" editorial asking "Will Manchester be represented in the State House of Representatives by a Republican next session?" Your editorial then deteriorates into an unjustified attack on Rep. Ted Cummings, not on his performance as a legislator, rather, it attacks him because he took an open and forthright position on the difficult Buckland question. An issue, whose short and long-range implications escaped your editorial writer, who would prefer to make it a one-on-one battle between Mr. Cummings and Eighth District Fire Captain Wally Irish. First, the firehouse is needed. Eight Directors, including Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zinsner agreed to the need; only Director Hillary Gallagher did not agree to the need. The need exists today, and it will become more evident as the area develops. Second, the ability of a small group of people, i.e. Buckland residents and volunteer firemen, to thwart the will of the majority of the townpeople is a testimonial to our democratic form of government, but it also places an unfair burden on the rest of the community. The Buckland residents have made no secret of their opposition to development in their area. Their petition to the Eight District is motivated by this self-interest. At the same time the Volunteer Firemen seek the extension of Town fire protection in that area as a threat to their future. These two self-interest groups came together as an alliance, that if successful, will mean an annual loss of revenue to Manchester of over $100,000, and this cost will gradually increase. The Volunteer Fire Service in the North End is outstanding. No one

Soccer club travels to D.C.

Coventry The Coventry Girls' Soccer Club, state champ three years in a row, accepted an invitation to play in the second annual Washington, D.C. Area Girls Soccer Invitational Tournament. The team will play at least three games this Saturday and Sunday. The first opponent is a team from Canada, said Miss Karen Richardson, the team's coach. Coventry has 18 girls on its team ranging in age from 13 to 18. They will be competing in the 18-year-old age bracket. "This is their first tournament and they do not know what to expect. We must be aggressive," said Coach Richardson. "Controlling the ball is important. We are trying some new plays but basically we will stay with our basic game style."

Chances slim for state land deal

Andover DONNA HOLLAND Although chances appear slim of saving the Fuller property on Jurovaty Rd., a meeting will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at Gov. Ella Grasso's office in Hartford. Attending will be Al Ahearn, state representative for the 56th District, David Yeomans, first selectman, Jay Jackson, counsel to Gov. Grasso, and Margaret Jurovaty. Mrs. Jurovaty started a petition now signed by about 300 urging the governor to accept 400 acres of Andover land for open space. The Robert Fuller property now being considered by the state will be discussed. Ahearn said from what he has been able to learn, "There is only a slim chance of saving the land now, but we

Planned town still possible

Coventry LINDA LOVERING William Farley, president of the Farley Corp., spoke to the Town Council about the status of the former DevCo land Monday night. The Farley Corp. is a commercial-industrial real estate firm selling the land now owned by the Hartford Land Corp. The Hartford Land Corp. board of directors includes representatives from Connecticut General Insurance Co., The Aetna Insurance Co., Travelers Insurance Co., The Hartford Insurance Group and United Technologies. Farley said, "We have no intention to building a community on the land. But if someone comes along who wants to build one, we will sell it." He said there had been no major developers interested in the land. He said most of the land does not lend itself to agriculture. Because of the one-acre residential zoning on most of the 1,500-acre tract, Farley said it would be most attractive to a residential developer. "Commercial-industrial development has been held back by the lack of sewers and highway pattern," he said. Farley plans to divide the 500-acre smaller pieces of land into individual sale parcels. He hopes to keep the 1,000-acre contiguous land parcel intact. The building is to be demolished by Nov. 1. The council also approved a bid by Paul Mendonhall to remove the doors of the plant. The bid was $20. Connolly said he had received a letter from the state stating that there are no funds available at this time to help pay for the demolition.

Kathleen running again

NEWINGTON (UPI) - Police today were again looking for Kathleen Bresnahan, the 15-year-old runaway from Vernon who slushed her wrists before a crowd of 300 in front of a Hartford church in August. Kathleen was reported missing Monday after she left Newington Children's Hospital about 1 p.m. when she had been treated as an outpatient. Mrs. Norman Langley of West Willington, who has been serving as her foster parent, said she thought she knew where Kathleen might have gone, but Mrs. Langley declined to be more specific. Police said they doubt they will find Kathleen unless someone she knows reveals where she is.

Morra 'outraged'

BOLTON "Then, having accomplished his goal, he quit the committee in a fair of dramatics, leaving the group when important and far-reaching decisions are still to be made. Mr. Rogers' actions culminate a year-long effort to disrupt, discredit and block the positive actions of the Board of Selectmen. This policy of mud slinging is fortunate for the townpeople of Bolton and the vast majority of Democratic officials in Bolton. The town officials headed by our selectmen are good, honest and hard working people, worthy of our trust and support. I urge the people of Bolton to act now to bring democracy back to Bolton. Write the Democratic chairman demanding an end to this brand of politics." DONNA HOLLAND Robert Morra, Republican Town Committee chairman, said this weekend he is "outraged" by the recent comments by Democrats Jim Rogers and Irv Cannon. Morra released a statement which included: "The mud slinging of Rogers and Cannon has driven politics in Bolton to a new low," said Morra. Morra released a statement which included: "The integrity of the first selectman (David Dressely) was publicly slandered by Rogers (calling Dressely a liar. This action followed a trend set earlier by Cannon (chairman of the Democratic Town Committee). These attempts at sensationalism were carried out with total disregard to the truth. Both political parties in Bolton have violated and practiced integrity in politics until now. Two Bolton Democratic leaders have, by their actions, placed publicly before responsible citizens the apparent goal to disrupt the process of good government, not aid it. "The actions of Mr. Rogers is a prime example. He was appointed to the Dump Study Committee in good faith. It soon became clear that he (Rogers) was to use the committee as a forum to attack and belittle the selectmen. "These attempts at sensationalism were carried out with total disregard to the truth. Smokers pass East Hartford

By SHEILA TULLER High school smokers passed the test. Smoking privileges at Penney and EHSHS will continue. John Callahan, principal of EHSHS and Donald Cramer, principal of Penney, and their vice principals reported to the Board Monday night. The group reviewed the policy on student smoking adopted by the board last February. The developer is Clint Nangle of Boston, Mass. He plans to build 80 homes and a horse stable, then build much of the land to the town, he said Monday. The whole team has been working lately to fund the D.C. trip. Local firms and residents have donated to their efforts. The team will meet its first defeat in five years in D.C., yet they are anxious to go. Eyes, ears to be tested South Windsor

A free audio-visual testing clinic for three to five year children will be held Nov. 4 to 10 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Wapping Community Church. The clinic, now in its sixth year, is sponsored by the Young Wives Club, with the Public Health Service of South Windsor. In an effort to spot hearing and vision problems in as many preschoolers as possible, local nursery schools are scheduling for group testing. Schools include Birch Road, Creative, Learning Place, Mercer, Mother Goose, South Windsor Cooperative, the South Windsor Day Care Center and Sunshine Day Care. Appointments are available for children not attending the schools. To learn more, call the Community Service Council at 644-2509. Clinics will also be in January and March.

Brook project in jeopardy

Vernon Leonard M. Szeszney, town engineer, asked Martin Burke, town attorney, to seek the Town Council's okay to condemn three easements along a brook for a proposed soil retraction project in the Overbrook Heights area. The Soil Conservation Service plans to widen the brook bottom and flatten the side slopes in an attempt to decrease the velocity of the water flowing through the channel. Szeszney said he added that the new banks will then be stabilized with heavy rip-rap to prevent future erosion along the streams bank. Szeszney said 16 of the 19 property owners involved have signed easements. But the other three are not in favor of the project and say they will never sign. Several weeks ago, the council passed a resolution stating it was in favor of the project and would support it. The town also agreed, under the terms of the program, to assume the responsibility of obtaining any easements. Szeszney said the basic purpose of the project is to restore the brook, as close as possible, to its natural condition and prevent future sedimentation and erosion problems. The town engineer said the Soil Conservation Service has as many objections and alterations that can be made without jeopardizing the end result of the project but couldn't change the thinking of the three property owners who are holding out. Szeszney said that without their easements, the project would have to be cancelled. Szeszney said they will not go out to bid until all the easements are signed. If the town delays too long in the proposed condemnation, the service told him it will direct its efforts to other towns.

The Answer Man responds to queries on debates

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Campaign Answer Man is back with us today with some observations on the presidential candidate debates. Question: Answer Man, what did you think of the first debate between President Ford and Governor Carter? Answer Man: Well, it was more exciting than Saturday night in downtown Plains, Georgia, but didn't quite match up to a haircut in Grand Rapids, Mich. If the television audience liked that sleeping pill, I can see a great future for a World Series of Glacial Racing. Question: We detect a vague tone of dissatisfaction in your reply. But do you have some constructive suggestions? Answer Man: Indeed, I do. First, get the debates out of old theaters and into the fresh air. I would suggest they be conducted on the 50-year line during the half time of NFL football games. Second, get some life into the panel of questioners. My choice for participants would be Alex Karras, Hugh Hefner and Elizabeth Ray. The moderator also should be changed. I would recommend Idi Amin, but Howard Cosell could do the job. Question: But Answer Man, you were turning the debates into a circus. Answer Man: A good suggestion, young man. Perhaps we could let the President demonstrate ski tricks in exchange of making an opening statement. Governor Carter could take a few quick lessons from Lester Maddox and ride around backwards on a bicycle while replying to questions. Question: Sir, I believe you are missing the essential point of these debates. Didn't you get anything out of their discussion of unemployment or federal taxes? Answer Man: Yes, I did. The President told us that more people have jobs than ever before and Governor Carter informed us that more people are out of work. I assumed Mr. Ford was talking about Republican people and Mr. Carter about Democratic people. As for taxes, they both are in favor of reducing them and at the same time providing new federal programs with a balanced budget. That is one reason for my earlier suggestion - I would like to see if either of them can keep a straight face while making promises on skis or a bicycle. Question: Well, even if you didn't think much of the first debate, who do you think the public liked best? Answer Man: The TV sound technician. Question: I mean who won the debate? Answer Man: Sen. McCarthy, Governor Maddox and the rest of the candidates who couldn't get on the program. Question: Well, several polls taken after the debate found that the public gave an edge to Mr. Ford. Answer Man: Why ask the public? They don't have to decide until November. Why not select a vote of 10 college debate coaches to board on a winner after each debate. Then we could have a nice banquet and give away a suitable trophy. Something in a porcelain crock would be appropriate. And if we rent the same sound equipment they used in the first debate, no one will be bored by the speeches. Question: The second debate is tomorrow night. Will you be watching? Answer Man: Sorry, but I'm otherwise engaged. I've got a front row seat to watch the garage mechanic down the street do a lube job on a 1944 Humphobile. Clinton J. Hendrickson 78 S. Hawthorne St. Manchester

HOW THEY STAND

On tax structure

Gerald Ford Jimmy Carter "I propose permanent tax reductions totaling $28 billion - the biggest tax cut in history - by raising everyone's personal tax exemption from $750 to $1,000, by making the standard deduction for single taxpayers a flat $1,800 and for every married couple $2,500, and by lowering our basic personal income tax rates. Under my proposal, a typical family of four with a $14,000 a year would get a permanent tax cut of $412 a year - a 27 per cent reduction." "Our national tax system is a disgrace. Carefully contrived loopholes let the total tax burden shift more and more toward the average wage earner. Some of our largest corporations with extremely high profits pay virtually no tax at all. The average family earning $10,000 per year pays a larger portion of its income in taxes more than a family with an annual income of $1 million or more. When a business executive can charge off a $60 lunch on a tax return and a truck driver cannot deduct his $1.50 sandwich - when oil companies pay less than 5 per cent on their earnings while employees of the company pay at least three times this rate - when many pay no taxes on incomes of more than $100,000 - then we need basic tax reform." "I am considering a drastic simplification of the income tax system that would lower taxes on middle and low income families. To do that you would eliminate hundreds of tax breaks and greatly reduce the tax rate. A recent study says such a plan would allow a reduction of as much as 40 per cent in the tax rate." "My program also includes $10 billion of further tax reductions. Benefits are directed toward middle and lower income tax payers and incentives for creation of new jobs by business. These cuts would be linked to comparable cuts in federal spending."

Engineer blamed for train crash

HARTFORD (UPI) — A report of this investigator, would have been avoided," said DOT's report on the crash.

DOT concluded engineer B. J. Egan was operating the train at more than 30 miles per hour as he neared the New Canaan station, in violation of a track signal that had ordered him to slow down to less than 15 mph.

Egan also erred in not seeing the train ahead until it was too late, DOT said, because later tests proved even a speeding train could have been stopped in time if the engineer had spotted the train when it first became visible.

Butz resignation reactions mixed

By CHARLES M. MADIGAN
United Press International
Acting Agriculture Secretary John A. Knebel says he does not think Earl Butz is a bigot because of ethnic slurs attributed to him.

There was an outpouring of reaction in Pennsylvania and elsewhere to the controversial Butz resignation earlier in the day.

One group in Missouri said it was raising money to hire Butz as its spokesman.

About 100 farmers and their wives attended the reception at Camp Hill, Pa. Many of them thought it was a mistake for Butz to resign.

"I don't think it's right," said one woman. "Butz was not the secretary of the blacks, he was the secretary of agriculture."

Guessing game started in Boston, which ball players will be protected

BOSTON (UPI) — Now that the baseball season is over for the Boston Red Sox, the guessing game starts.

The Red Sox, like the other 11 American League teams, must protect 15 players and expose the remainder of their 40-man roster to the Nov. 5 expansion draft.

No one ever will know which team protected since the clubs write every fan's mind at this point.

Way protect Tiant, who needs only to refuse a draft because of his 10-year tenure in the league and five seasons with the Red Sox. How come there is no left-handed pitcher on the list? In Bill Lee or Ferguson Jenkins worth protecting?

Let's take Tiant first. He still is under contract to the Red Sox for another year but has made open hints he would like more money. The five writers who voted for him felt Tiant might go to Seattle or Toronto if one of those franchises offered more than the amount of his present contract.

Red Sox almost assuredly will protect one of the lefties, most likely Lee, if the readings of General Manager Dick O'Connell's hints are interpreted correctly.

Maybe the Red Sox would make room for Lee by dropping Aase, clearly the top pitcher in the minor league organization. The thinking could be that Aase will not be taken on the first round because the new franchises will be reluctant to spend $175,000 on a man who had a sore throwing arm almost all of the season.

Since the draft rules state each team can protect three more players every time one of its properties is drafted, the Red Sox could pull back Aase after, say, Rick Jones is selected.

Jenkins also might be pulled back after the first choice is made. The Red Sox know Toronto is interested in Jenkins, a Canadian-born-and-bred product. But they also know the seven-time 20-game winner will be 33 years old next spring and trying to recover from an achilles heel injury that could end his career.

Coaches' corner

By JOHN LAFONTANA
East Catholic

There was evidence of some improvement Saturday (14-10 loss to Windsor Locks) in our offense. First of all we scored for the first time. Secondly, we gained close to 100 yards in total offense.

This shows some improvement but the efficiency of the offensive line is still below par. Through mental and physical errors, we are not making the plays we need to carry a team up the field for a score. When boys who right we are able to move people and the ball.

This was evidenced by a couple of fine runs by Bob Franks who started at tailback for the first time. He had some good blocking but also ran hard on his own when the extra yard was needed.

One of our problems was the fact we switched some people into different positions to get more punch in the offense and when you do this the new people will make mistakes until they are comfortable in their new jobs. There were a couple of plays I felt would be good against Windsor Locks but they were high risk plays and the personnel involved did not have sufficient practice time to become comfortable with them.

Rich Harrison has played three great games as inbacker despite several odds and ends in the injury department. John Andre, despite a bruised back muscle, chose to play his position at defensive tackle and did a more than adequate job. When you are short of talent, you really appreciate an effort such as this.

This week we got back to the woodshed for practice since we have an open date. We are going to spend considerable time on fundamentals this week to correct deficiencies and then next week we will get ready for our arch-rival South Catholic who is really rolling after two straight victories. He last over Bulkley High.

One last note...The golden shoe for the best kicking job goes to Jim Dakin for his 42-yard field goal and his three kickoffs averaging about 50 yards each.

I don't like to look on the game of football as necessarily a test of manhood. I prefer to think of it as a challenging game that boys participate in according to the degree of motivation they have. Some boys have to overcome slight handicaps to do very well. In other cases, boys with considerable athletic talent never fully realize their potential.

There is, however, one aspect of football and parts that test the dedication and maturity level of any boy and that is the situation in which a player has to perform with a little pain. When a player chooses to play with a little pain we like to think that he is at a higher maturity level and is showing his dedication to the team effort. The point I'm getting at is there were a couple of outstanding performances and several good jobs done by people who still had little hurts from previous games.

felt the club could do without Miller in the outfield. The Red Sox, however, have indicated they want to keep the good-fielding, adequate hitting Miller. Maybe they have a trade in mind for him or possibly plan to trade Evans for a much-needed second baseman or starting pitcher. In that case, Miller would become the right fielder.

Nine writers protected a relief pitcher, with three opting for Jim Willoughby over Murphy. If the Red Sox also plan to protect a relief pitcher, they will have to decide if Murphy ever can return to the 1974 form he showed with Milwaukee or if Willoughby is as good as his 2.86 earned run average indicates and not better than his 3-12 win-loss record exhibits.

The writers also were unanimous in leaving off six veterans beside Montgomery. They are infielders Rico Petrocelli, Jack Baker, Doug Griffin and Bob Heise, outfielder Murphy ever can return to the 1974 form he showed with Milwaukee or if Willoughby is as good as his 2.86 earned run average indicates and not better than his 3-12 win-loss record exhibits.

Three votes were given to minor league pitcher Bob Stanley, an unproven commodity. Yastrzemski, Jenkins, pitcher Dick Pick, second baseman Denny Doyle and pitcher Mike Paxton got one vote each. Paxton does not need to be protected, however, since he has less than three years, experience and cannot be drafted.
