Wall blown out into roadway

The complete side of the house at 356-358 Adams St. was blown into the road by the force of a natural gas explosion at about 2:45 p.m. Thursday. Workers were at the site all night cleaning away debris.

Manchester fire fighters work to get beneath collapsed walls of Adams St. house and extinguish smoking debris. Two fire fighters were hurt in the effort.

Explosion injures four

By DOUG BEVINS

Herald Reporter
A natural gas explosion leveled a two-story duplex on Adams St. in Manchester Thursday afternoon, sending four people to the hospital and keeping fire fighters busy all night.

A girl trapped in the rubble of the house was rescued by Policeman David Chzaszcz shortly after the blast. The girl, 17-year-old Tanya Merovonich, was in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital, with a broken ankle and leg and second-degree burns on her face and arms.

A state highway inspector standing in front of the house was thrown across the street by the force of the 2:45 p.m. explosion. The inspector, identified as William Sasser, 35, of Brooklyn, suffered second-degree burns on his arms and back; he was in satisfactory condition today at the hospital.

Two town fire fighters were hurt in the lengthy battle to control the natural gas-fed blaze. Deputy Chief James McKay, 47, was treated for smoke inhalation and heat exhaustion, and Fire Fighter Kenneth Casson, 32, was treated for a minor leg injury. Both men were released from the hospital.

Tanya Merovonich, the only member of her family at home, was apparently sitting in her kitchen when the blast occurred.

Patrolman Chzaszcz, who was working on traffic duty at the nearby intersection of Adams and Hilliard St., rushed to the scene when he heard the explosion. With the help of Frank Manafort Jr. of Kensington, a construction company executive, Chzaszcz ran into the house and pulled the girl free from debris.

They got out of the frame structure just as flames engulfed the building, authorities said.

The Town Fire Department was called at 2:45 p.m., responding with three engines and a ladder truck, and the Eighth District Fire Department, which was responsible for the area, was notified a few minutes later, responding with three engines and a rescue truck.

A huge, orange ball of fire appeared to hang over the collapsed house when fire fighters began pouring water on the fire. Some firemen protected other nearby homes with water curtains while others laid thousands of feet of hose to quell the flames.

Natural gas fed the fire for about half an hour before Connecticut Natural Gas Co. workers were able to turn off the gas main. It took about an hour to bring the fire under control, and firemen remained at the scene until early this morning, pouring water into the smoldering pile of debris.

Officials said there appeared to be two explosions which destroyed the house. The four walls of the house were blown out by the blast, and the upper story and roof fell straight down, firemen said.

Authorities were still investigating the incident today, but initial checks indicated that the explosions were caused by leaking natural gas from a service line severed at about noon.

Robert Dixon, vice president of Connecticut Natural Gas, said workers from the Della Construction Co., doing excavations in the area, dislodged a steel pipe fitting in front of the house.

Members of the Goss family, which share the two-family structure with the Merovonich family, reportedly began smelling the gas shortly after noon and went outside to tell the excavation workers.

Apparently nothing was done about the reported odor, and gas seeped underground into the foundation of the structure, Dixon said. He said gas company officials still weren't certain about how the gas ignited, but it could have been from use of a stove or the startup of a water heater.

Dixon said company service representatives had visited the house Wednesday to check a recently installed gas stove, and everything was secure when they left the day before the explosion.

The excavation work, which involved digging of a 20-foot-long ditch in front of the house at 356-358 Adams St., was part of a major road construction project in the Adams St. area, officials said.

Construction workers apparently got away safely after the blast, and parts of the ditch were filled with debris. A Southern New England Telephone Co. truck parked nearby, unoccupied, was demolished when the house walls were blown out.

The explosion also shattered windows in nearby homes. House plants on a front porch across the street were knocked down. Flying debris—aluminum siding, sections of walls and an air conditioner—were lodged in nearby bushes, tree limbs and on electrical wires.

As fire fighters worked to dig into the ruins of the house, they found the body of a pet dog of the Goss family.

Wallace Irish Jr., assistant fire marshal in the Eighth District, estimated that the loss in the explosion would be more than $40,000. The house was owned by Marlin and Estelle Biedet of 18 Campfield Rd.

When Town fire fighters arrived at the scene, they immediately put in a second alarm for off-duty firemen and volunteers. A total of nearly 100 Town and Eighth District firemen responded to the scene. Fire Co. 3 from Vernon was called for standby in the Eighth District. The last town apparatus left the scene at about 7 p.m., and Eighth District apparatus remained until about 1:40 a.m. today.

Manchester Police Chief Robert Lannan, whose department is also investigating the incident, said it was a miracle no one was killed. "I've never seen a building so completely devastated," he said.

Besides the fire marshal and police, others investigating the explosion include the gas company, the Public Utilities Control Authority and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Anguished mother

Manchester Police officers talk to Mrs. Lorraine Goss across the street from her leveled home, as she was trying to determine whether her three children were safe. She arrived home as the exploded dwelling was still clouded in smoke, and she finally determined that her family was all right.

'Where are we going to live now?'

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter
Nine-year-old Dorin Goss looked up at her mother and asked sadly, "Where are we going to live now?" Lorraine Goss, Dorin's mother, gave no answer. She patted the youngster's head and bent down to kiss her.

In her arms, Lorraine held an afghan hand-knitted by her mother. It was one of the very few items salvaged from the two-family home at 356-358 Adams St. that was leveled by a blast at 2:47 p.m. Thursday.

Lorraine showed the blanket to her daughter and said, "This is your afghan that your grandmother made."

It was a small consolation for a family that had seen practically everything it owned destroyed in a matter of seconds.

Neither Mrs. Goss nor any of her three children were in their home when the blast occurred. But one of the daughters, Debra, had left only minutes before the explosion.

"She smelled gas and went out to tell one of the men working," Mrs. Goss said. "She told him, but he kept on digging. She couldn't stand the smell any longer, so she left the house," Mrs. Goss said.

Debra had walked to the next corner when the explosion occurred. At the time of the blast, Mrs. Goss was driving home from Coventry, where she had just done a friend's hair.

"I got to the top of the hill (the beginning of Adams St.) and I saw the smoke," she said. "It was coming from the right direction, so I thought it might be my house."

Policemen at the top of the hill were not letting cars drive down Adams St. Ms. Goss parked her car at the top of the hill.

"I got kind of hysterical and ran down the hill. One of my neighbors told me it was my house that had blown up," she said.

Nine-year-old Dorin was at an after-school meeting when the blast occurred.

"A friend of mine came into school and said, 'Oh, your house is blown down.' She knows how to make you feel good," Dorin said.

For the Goss family on Thursday afternoon, the future was as muddled as the tangled, charred remains of their home.

Mrs. Goss said that she was not sure about future housing plans for the family. They stayed at a friend's house last night. The Red Cross also offered housing facilities for the family.

But for Mrs. Goss, it was not an afternoon for making decisions. At one point she turned to a friend in the crowd and said, "I just want my house."

Fund established for blast victims

A Goss-Merovonich Fund is being established to aid the victims of Thursday's explosion of the two-family dwelling at 356-358 Adams St.

Chairman of the drive is Frederick E. Peck of 756 N. Main St. The secretary is Adele Katkauskas of 656 Tolland Tpk. and the treasurer is William Moorhouse, assistant vice-president and manager of Hartford National Bank and Trust Co. at 595 Main St.

Cash donations may be sent to Moorhouse at the bank address.

Donations of clothes and furniture may be left at the firehouse at Main and Hilliard Sts.

Clothing sizes for the Merovonich family are as follows: Tanya and Michelle, sizes 14 to 16; Mrs. Dorothy Merovonich, 18 1/2 to 20 1/2.

For the Goss family: Dorin (girl), size 10; Debra, teen size 8; Donald, size 14; Mrs. Goss, size 12.

Carter exploiting Ford gaffe

By LEWIS LORD

United Press International
Jimmy Carter is ridiculing President Ford's claim that Eastern Europe isn't under Soviet domination, and Ford's running mate concedes the statement does present the President "a little problem of clarification."

"I thought he disgraced our country by claiming the East Europeans were free of domination by the Soviet Union," Carter told a labor group in Salt Lake City. "It was a very serious blunder for him to say it."

Ford tried to repair any damage from the comment by stressing that his administration firmly opposes

"foreign domination over any nation."

"In the debate I spoke America's firm support for the aspirations for independence of the nations of Eastern Europe," Ford told a Los Angeles rally. "The United States has never conceded and never will concede their domination by the Soviet Union."

Ford said he favors using "every peaceful means to assist countries in Eastern Europe in their efforts to become less dependent on the Soviet Union and to establish closer ties with the West."

Sen. Robert Dole, the GOP vice presidential candidate, told reporters in Detroit that Carter will try to "stoke the fires" over Ford's Eastern European comment.

"I think he does have a little problem of clarification," Dole said of Ford.

Sen. Walter Mondale, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, told a Houston audience that Ford's comment was "utterly unbelievable" and further evidence of administration insensitivity.

United Way fund stands at $8,000

Manchester has attained over $8,000 toward its $92,237 goal in the United Way fund drive.

Local fund drive president, William Hale, said today that $8,888.80 has been donated to the fund so far by pledges and actual donations.

Wallace J. Irish, vice-chairman of the local drive, said although the campaign seems to be starting slowly, he hopes the contributions will pick up in the following weeks.

Cedar Ridge mains to be re-flushed

Water mains in the Cedar Ridge area of Glastonbury will be flushed again this Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The mains will be flushed to clean out built-up corrosion, which is the apparent cause of problems with water quality in the area.

The town Water Department attempted to flush out the mains two weeks ago, but they lacked the water pressure needed to do a thorough job.

This Sunday, the department has arranged for the Glastonbury Fire Department to provide additional pumps and help out in the flushing.

Residents in the affected area are reminded that while the flushing is taking place, they may have dirty tap water. This water is safe to drink, however. There is also a possibility that water may be shut off in some areas for a short period of time.

Town Hall closed Monday

The Municipal Building will be closed Monday, Oct. 11 because of the Columbus Day holiday.

The following emergency telephone numbers will be in effect for the day: Highway, 640-5070; Refuse, 649-1886; and Sanitary sewer and water, 649-9697.

Unemployment drops slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Unemployment declined slightly to 7.8 per cent in September, the first dip in the overall jobless rate in four months, the Labor Department reported today.

However, the number of persons holding jobs also slipped for the first time since June, the department said. The 0.1 per cent drop in September provided some small comfort to President Ford in the final weeks of his election campaign. It was the last report on joblessness before the Nov. 2 election.

But the job market basically has remained unchanged over the past three months, and the recently strong increase in total employment appeared to be cooling somewhat. Ford has often boasted about the 3.7 million people who have found work since the recession was at its low point in May, 1975.

Some 7.4 million persons were unemployed in September, down from 7.5 million in August. This was the first decline since last May, when joblessness hit a post-recession low of 7.3 per cent.

Unemployment has been increasing steadily since last May and many administration economists feared it might hit 8 per cent in September.

Appropriate reminder

Everybody has been so preoccupied in celebrating the Bicentennial that the quinquicentennial has gone almost unnoticed.

It was 1500 years ago this summer that mighty Rome fell, recalls UPI writer Jack R. Payton. Historians agree, anyway, that A.D. 476 was the year that the last western Roman ruler was deposed by Germanic invaders.

Since Americans are particularly fond of citing the fall of the Roman empire as an example of what happens when a country forgets its founding principles, the reminder is appropriate in this Bicentennial year.

To the editor, Sept. 19th our brother was brought to the hospital in a very serious condition, which was later diagnosed as a brain hemorrhage.

He was at the St. Jude's telethon in the Shop-Rite Plaza on Spencer St. trying to help raise money for the telethon. He was in a woman's car using her CB radio challenging other operators to please give for a worthy cause.

Suddenly our brother collapsed and this woman's son, only 17 years old, checked our brother's pulse and gave none. He quickly gave mouth to mouth resuscitation and revived him until an ambulance got there.

A cruiser was also called on the scene. Later this kind woman stopped to see how our brother was doing. She told us that her son is very discouraged and does not want to continue to learn emergency rescue procedures because he was told by

Doesn't like Buckland decision

To the editor, Would you please allow me space to comment on the Buckland controversy.

First of all I am disappointed with the result of the judge's decision. If this decision is allowed to stand, what next will the Eighth District directors quest for more territory?

It seems to me that they would like to take over all of Manchester north of Middle Turnpike. As a resident of the Bowers Tract, I note an article in paper which states that this article applied for inclusion in the District. This is news to me as I have resided here for 24 years and was never approached about this deal.

I for one am happy to have a paid fire department with men on duty to protect my property in case of fire. I also have an alarm box installed near my home. I imagine there must be in the

On this day in history: In 1871, the great Chicago fire started. It destroyed more than 17,000 buildings, killed several hundred persons and left 98,000 homeless. In

In 1942, the first contingent of World War II WAVES (Women appointed for voluntary emergency service) began naval training at Smith College in Massachusetts.

In 1975, President Ford proposed legislation to reduce government economic controls on domestic airlines, on grounds that they cause excessive fares.

McCarthy is running simply as McCarthy

WASHINGTON - Don't kid yourself, Gene McCarthy is not a joke, or a has-been. His independent candidacy for President is a pain in the neck to both Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

As of this writing, the former Minnesota Senator is on the ballot in 29 states. Some of them are vote-fat - Texas, Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Theoretically - very theoretically - he could be elected President because those 29 states have a total of 318 electoral votes, and it takes only 270 to win it all.

McCarthy won't wind up in the White House. But he could lose the election for Carter by giving Ford a majority on Nov. 2. He could lose the election for Ford by denying both candidates an electoral majority and Gerard Ford Our government in Washington now is a horrible bureaucratic mess. It is disorganized, wasteful, has no purpose, and its policies - when they exist - are incoherent and/or devised by special-interest groups with little regard for the welfare of the average American citizen.

Jimmy Carter The basic difficulty facing the American government today cuts across all the other campaign issues. The proliferation of programs and agencies, particularly in the past ten years, has inevitably created duplications, waste and inefficiency.

We must give top priority to a drastic and thorough revision of our economy, we will have no choice but to raise taxes and will, in the process, damage further the forces of competition, risk, and reward that have served us so well. With stagnation of these forces, the issues of the future would be focused on who gets what from an economy of little or no growth.

While emphasizing his desire to delegate more decision-making authority to the states in fields such as health programs, President Ford told the National Governors Conference that he would "not dismantle programs that really work that reach the people and meet their needs." He added: "I will never irresponsibly transfer serious problems from the federal government to state governments without regard for human needs and fiscal realities."

The reform I am seeking is not a retreat; it is a marshaling of our resources, for instance, to meet the challenges of the last quarter of this century.

stirring up the natives, and that's why both Ford and Carter wish he had gone through with his threat after the '68 election to move himself and his mischief-making to England.

McCarthy's main target, of course, is the one-third of the voters who call themselves independent. If the electorate is as confused and undecided as it seems, he can pan gold in that bloc. Polls taken after the first Ford-Carter debate show the voters are not exactly enchanted with either major candidate.

Moreover, McCarthy believes he can harvest considerable support among the estimated 60 per cent of voting-age Americans who have not been voting at all. He calls these citizens "the turned-off people. These are people who are tired of being pushed around. George Wallace proved they were out there."

Well, McCarthy is running simply as McCarthy. Actually, he represents no party. He has contemptuously dismissed both Ford and Carter as a couple of nonentities who have not been voting at all. He calls these citizens "the turned-off people. These are people who are tired of being pushed around. George Wallace proved they were out there."

Which brings up the question of whether McCarthy himself has earned the right to run for President. He has credentials of a sort. He came pretty close to running the Democratic nomination in 1968. And en route he proved wrong people who were saying that nobody could turn out an incumbent President, by forcing Lyndon Johnson's withdrawal. A lot of high-level Democrats respected for their savvy claim McCarthy would have beaten Richard Nixon that year.

This year, he hasn't a chance of winning, although he hopes to get on the ballot in 40 to 45 states. But he's an expert at making a fuss, at

Sukkoth begins at sundown today

Sukkoth, the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles, will begin this evening and will continue for nine days through Sunday, Oct. 17.

The Sukkoth is to remind the Jews of the wanderings of their Hebrew ancestors in the desert on their way to the promised land and thus to make them aware of God's providence to them during those years of hardship and insecurity.

The four plants are to symbolize the harvest season at this time of the year and of the good fruits which mother earth so generously provides for us. Sukkoth is thus a reminder of God's providence and bountiful blessings which He in His love bestows upon His creatures. During the first seven days of the holiday, those who build a Sukkah have their meals in it when weather permits. In most Jewish communities a Sukkah is built near the synagogue into which the congregation enters after the services for a prayer of Thanksgiving and for refreshments.

Services at Temple Beth Shalom will be held this evening at 8:15 at which the congregation will honor Cantor and Mrs. Israel Tabak on their 10th anniversary with the temple. Following the service, the congregation will enter the Sukkah for refreshments. On Saturday and Sunday, services will be held at 10 a.m. and will be followed by lunch in the Sukkah.

Manchester CYWEP sponsorship shifted to regional council

The sponsorship of Manchester's Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program (CYWEP) has been switched to the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC).

CYWEP is a federally funded program that provides part-time employment for economically disadvantaged children. A summer segment of the program provided jobs for 119 Manchester youths and was run by CREC.

CREC also applied for the in-school phase of the program, as did the Community Renewal Team of Greater Hartford (CRT).

CRT was at first awarded the entire contract for the in-school CYWEP program. CREC was not given the contract because of apparent violations of their Affirmative Action Plan, according to a statement made by the Hartford city manager's office at the time of the decision.

The contract is awarded by the City of Hartford, which requires all organizations and businesses it works with to abide by an Affirmative Action Plan.

The ruling against CREC, however, has been reversed, at least partially.

Thomas English, coordinator of alternative education programs for CREC, said that his organization was informed Thursday that it has been awarded half of the CYWEP in-school contract.

Lynn believes Ford can clarify remarks

BOSTON (UPI) — President Ford can "clarify" remarks made about Soviet domination of Eastern Europe without being accused of a flip flop, according to James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and the Budget.

"To compare whatever questions some people may have with the President of the United States with what Mr. Carter demonstrated... this is like comparing a drop of rain with a hurricane," Lynn said Thursday as he arrived in Boston to attend a fund raising dinner linked to closed circuit television to others across the nation.

Ford Wednesday night said during his second televised debate with Democrat Jimmy Carter the Soviet Union did not dominate Eastern Europe. Lynn said Ford's remarks were having trouble with it, he'll clarify it.

"I think that's a flap over nothing," Lynn said.

"I'm sure that the people in the State Department will provide whatever additional information they need to make quite sure they (allies) know what the President's views are," Lynn said.

"Of course the President knows the proximity of the Soviet Union and the actions it has taken on occasions are (an) influence on other countries," Lynn said.

Lynn said Ford's remark meant "that the Soviet Union hasn't anymore right to dictate what goes on there than does the United States." He declined to speculate on what the Ford administration would do should the Soviet Union intervene in an Eastern European country.

The Soviet Union invaded Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968 to quell anti-Soviet movements without American interference.

"Concern for our cities means aid, not words."

The cities of Connecticut are no longer in flames. But the problems are there, smoldering. To Senator Lowell Weicker, concern meant fighting for aid in areas like housing, health, education and mass transit. That concern also created new jobs that have benefited the entire state of Connecticut. Any politician can say all the right things. But it takes a man like Weicker to get them done.

Weicker. Nobody's man but yours.

Orr gone...not forgotten

BOSTON (UPI)—The empty seats and the side-banners told the Boston Bruins that Bobby Orr is gone but not forgotten.

Experience, speed on side of Redlegs

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The world champion Cincinnati Reds flew to Philadelphia today for a late afternoon workout — their final tune-up before opening the National League playoffs against the Phillies Saturday night.

The Reds are slight favorites for two reasons — lots of post-season experience and team speed.

Cincinnati is in the playoffs for the first time in the last seven years. This is Philadelphia's first post-season play since way back in 1950.

"Speed" has become the overworked word in the pre-playoff publicity barrage, but with good reason — it is the Reds' main battle plan.

And a glance at base stealing statistics in the 12 Reds-Phillies duels this year shows why.

Cincinnati was successful in 14 of 18 steals, while the Phils tried to swipe only four bases and were thrown out twice.

By positions, the Reds-Phillies confrontation produces some interesting matchups:

Catching — Cincinnati's Johnny Bench has been a disappointing hitter, but he still is to be feared defensively and won't permit the Phils to run the way the Reds do. Phils' regular catcher Bob Boone but may find it hard to throw out the Cincinnati speedsters.

Outfield — Reds' Cesar Geronimo, Ken Griffey and George Foster are much better defensively than the Phils. While Philly center fielder Maddox is a better hitter than his counterpart Geronimo, Griffey and Foster give the Reds a better hitting outfield despite Philadelphia's power and clutch hitting Greg Luzinski.

Infield — Close defensively, Reds have Gold Glove double-play combo in Morgan and Dave Concepcion. While Phils' Davey Cash and Bowa also are good defensively, the duo give away a lot of batting points to Morgan-Concepcion. At third, Phils' Mike Schmidt is the power man with 38 homers this year, but leadoff man Pete Rose is hard to keep off the bases. At first base, both Cincinnati's Tony Perez and Dick Allen are power hitters and are about equal defensively.

Pitching — Philly appears to have the edge in starters with Carlton (20-7) and Jim Lonborg (18-10) and although Ozark boasts about his bullpen, the Reds seem to have

Phillies prefer to go for bomb

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — While the Cincinnati Reds have a well-established running game, the Philadelphia Phillies prefer to go for the bomb.

"I think with our power," says Philadelphia's speedy shortstop Larry Bowa, "we like to go for the big inning. You get caught stealing and you get wiped out of a big inning in a hurry."

The Phillies' power contingent includes major league home-run king Mike Schmidt, Greg Luzinski and Dick Allen.

The Reds, on the other hand, like to run. Steve Carlton will pitch the playoff opener Saturday night, which means Tim McCarver will be catching, and also means the Reds will be challenging McCarver's suspect arm.

They will come out running and Bowa says it won't just be Joe Morgan, Ken Griffey and Pete Rose. "We know Morgan and Griffey are going to run," Bowa says. "But we have to keep (Johnny) Bench from going and even Foster. Bench doesn't run all the time but he can sneak up on you."

In fact, Bench's very presence has kept the Phillies conservative on the base paths against the Reds. The Phillies have attempted only four steals on Bench all season, and two of those were wiped out.

The Phillies spent Thursday afternoon working on their hitting and turning the double play, and they were at it again this morning. The Reds are due to arrive in town later today and will hold a workout in late afternoon.

"We'll be meeting with our pitchers in the conference room and we'll be talking about their hitters," Phils Manager Danny Ozark said Thursday. "Then we'll go to the defense and discuss where to play certain hitters... where they've been hitting the ball toward the end of the year."

"But we're not going to deviate from what we've done all season," he said.

Five-day rest helped Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The five days between the end of the regular season and the opening of the American League playoffs was a big help for the Kansas City Royals as far as designated hitter Hal McRae was concerned.

"A break like that helps everybody on our team because we had such a mental strain the last few weeks," said McRae, who finished runner-up to teammate George Brett in the American League batting race. "It gave us a chance to relax mentally."

The relaxation came Monday and Tuesday, when Manager Whitey Herzog gave his team the days off. McRae took advantage of the time off to go home to Bradenton, Fla., and be with his family.

"We weren't physically tired at all," said McRae, "but mentally we had been through a lot."

The Royals were in a terrible slump, with only one win in their last eight games and only two in their last 11. They saw their 12-game lead of Aug. 6 shrink to just 2 1/2 games over five-time defending champion Oakland on Sept. 29 before Larry Gura four-hit the A's for a 4-0 win.

At Kansas City, McRae is one of

Aaron returns

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron Thursday returned "home," to the city where he hit his record-breaking 715th career home run, as a vice president of the Atlanta Braves.

Braves owner Ted Turner announced that Aaron, 42, will be in charge of player development and will supervise the Braves farm system. He said Aaron had signed a one-year contract with Atlanta, but no terms were disclosed.

"Atlanta is my home and the place where I have my family and am raising my kids," Aaron said.

Downgrading Larry Gura was no mistake... Martin

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — New York Yankee Manager Billy Martin says he made no mistake in downgrading the ability of pitcher Larry Gura.

"And if I had him here right now I'd get rid of him again," Martin says. "Gura is a 28-year-old lefthander who never given a chance with the Yankees, who traded him May 18 to Kansas City for reserve catcher Fran Hohey. But, Martin says, Gura's desire for revenge may hurt him in the playoffs."

"I traded him at Texas because he couldn't get the ball over the plate in spring training," Martin said of Gura, who will start for the Kansas City Royals against the Yankees in Saturday's opening game of the American League playoffs. "And I got rid of him in New York because we didn't feel he was as good as our other starters."

While Gura is starting for the Royals, Jim "Catfish" Hunter will be starting for the Yankees, his ninth start in the playoffs or World Series. "It always helps to have been there," said Hunter, who was bothered by tendonitis while compiling a 17-15 record with a 3.53 earned run average. "When you go out there everyone is psyched up, but a guy who has been there before is a little less nervous."

Hunter received a shot for his arm ailment Sept. 14 and since then has pitched in three games, winning two and losing one, going 21 innings and giving up five earned runs.

Black arm bands would be big sellers as Giants and Jets open home seasons

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concessionaires outside Shea Stadium and Giants Stadium Sunday will be selling souvenirs devoted to New York City's two football teams, the Jets and the Giants. But they should be selling black arm bands.

The Jets and Giants both open their home seasons Sunday after four futility weekends on the road, and each has rolled up 0-4 records. Only three other teams have failed to win a game this year and two of them — Seattle and Tampa Bay — are in their initial seasons.

When the sun finally sets Sunday on the Big Apple, its two football teams will in all probability be 0-5. The Jets must find a way to contain O.J. Simpson in order to beat the Buffalo Bills while the Giants will have to find a way to curb Roger Staubach in order to defeat the NFL's only remaining unbeaten-undefeated team, the Dallas Cowboys.

The Giants will have a little more incentive than the Jets because they will be inaugurating a new 76,000-seat stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. The pre-game festivities include the introduction of the 1925 and 1956 Giants' teams. The club will salute the 1925 team because it was the first ever to play in the Polo Grounds and it will pay tribute to the 1956 team as the first club ever to play in Yankee Stadium.

"It will be nice to get back home," said Giants' defensive tackle Dave Gallagher. "We've just played 10 games (six exhibitions) on the road and after a while you forget what it's like to hear cheers."

The Jets rank 13th against the run in the AFC and though the Bills are only seventh in moving the ball on the ground, Simpson is starting to get unimpressive start. He rushed there yet but I'm looking forward to playing this week. I feel real good about my performance of the week."

"I'm not quite up to last year," Simpson said. "I was in the best shape of my life last year. I'm not quite there yet but I'm looking forward to playing this week. I feel real good about my performance of the week."

In other games, Atlanta is at New Orleans, Chicago visits Minnesota, Denver travels to Houston, Kansas City journeys to Philadelphia, Seattle faces Green Bay and Tampa Bay meets Cincinnati.

Reduce squad
DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons reduced their squad to 16 players Thursday by trimming 6-foot-6 forward Charles Edge from their roster.

Removal of the 215-pound forward left Detroit four over the limit it must reach by Oct. 22. The Pistons, 1-1, play an exhibition game in Flint, Mich., against Cleveland Friday night that will help them decide.

Fund raisers
NEW YORK (UPI) — Arthur Ashe, Dennis Ralston, Althea Gibson and stars from Broadway and Hollywood will compete in a fund-raising tennis tournament for the United Negro College Fund at Madison Square Garden next weekend.

The tournament will be held on Saturday, Oct. 16 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Felt Forum. Ashe also will play exhibition matches and the proceeds will be used to establish the Arthur Ashe Scholarship Fund.

THE BETTER BARGAIN: AMERICA'S TOP SELLING IMPORT STILL AT '76 PRICES.

If you hurry, your Toyota dealer can show you why 76 Toyotas have been a bargain all year long. And when you look around and see what others are giving you at '77 prices — a Toyota is even a better bargain now. But it's more than Toyota '76 prices that make them a better bargain.

The better bargain is economy. Just as important as Toyota's low purchase price is its total economy. Other cars may offer so called deals with huge savings. But those same cars may eventually eat up dollars with high operating costs or low resale value. The economy of operation of a Toyota can help keep your new car bargain a bargain. Check resale values at your Toyota dealer. You'll like what you see.

The better bargain is quality. What good is a good price on a car whose durability is questionable? Toyotas are built tough with unibody welded construction to help eliminate squeaks and rattles. And then each Toyota car is completely submerged in primer paint to protect against corrosion and rust. In fact, 9 out of 10 Toyota cars sold in this country are still on the road.

The better bargain is the top seller. Is a bargain getting something off on a car nobody wants? Not likely this year. Toyota offered new car buyers a challenge. We said: "If you can find a better built small car than Toyota, buy it. This year, more people are buying 76 Toyotas than any other import car. You see, a real bargain is always a bargain."

Rapp to manage Cards; Giants name Altobelli

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Vernon Rapp, whose minor-league teams won six championships in the last 12 years, will need his talent for molding youngsters into pennant winners as the new co-owner Bob Lurie's second choice, but as he says "How can you say no to a chance to manage a big league club?"

Rapp, 46, was selected Thursday to replace Red Schoendienst, who was fired Tuesday after 12 years as the Cardinals' manager.

Rapp, a native of St. Louis, said he was also offered the coaching job with the San Francisco Giants but chose the Cardinals because of his past connections with the team. "I had a choice and I picked the Cardinals because that's where I want to be," he said. "Everything has been beautiful. This has been my own personal bicentennial year."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Altobelli, the new manager of the San Francisco Giants, is nobody's fool. He knows he was Giants co-owner Bob Lurie's second choice, but as he says "How can you say no to a chance to manage a big league club?"

Good use made of LEAA dollars

Vernon
BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Christopher Dodd, seeking reelection as Second District congressman, toured the Vernon Police station Thursday to see first hand Law Enforcement Assistance Act (LEAA) funds in use.

Dodd said there is little opportunity for congressmen to get out in the field to see if this federal funding is useful in terms of training police personnel.

He said LEAA was almost not funded this year because the administration in Washington "is making a rotten case of it." He said at one point it was said that the administration didn't know where the money is being spent.

Congressman Dodd said his contact with fund use has been sketchy but he feels the funds have been of great help to police. He said without them police couldn't afford to get the education to keep them up-to-date on police methods.

"There has been some real direct benefits," he said. In Vernon LEAA funds have not only been used for schooling for personnel but also to purchase a three-wheeled vehicle for patrolling the Rockville area and for radio equipment.

Dodd was asked the status of the public works funds for construction of the proposed $1.3 million new police station for Vernon.

He said he had wished that his visit might have been to say the funding had been approved. He said he and his staff are committed to do all they can to see that the facility is approved and supported. He said he is personally concerned about it.

"It is in top priority status. It needs support to have been laying the groundwork for it for a long time," he said.

Laurie Glass, assistant to the town planner, said from the indications she has received, applications for the funding won't be accepted before Oct. 20.

Mayor Thomas Bennett said the town's application is already to go as soon as the word is received from Washington. He said he feels confident the funds will come through but he can't be sure about it.

Dodd also spoke about crime problems in the towns. He said he feels the problems will be sent to the judicial system. He referred to the Bail Reform Act for the federal courts. He said it gives the judges discretion with respect to holding with rape or murder to be held and denied bail. He said 35 per cent of the crimes committed in Connecticut are committed by persons who are out on bail.

He said he is not suggesting that the judges are lax but there is a problem with space in the jails.

Audit available
BOLTON - The audit report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976 is now available for public inspection at the town clerk's office.

A proper manner
Atty. Jackson, the counsel for the governor and former insurance commissioner, insisted the state did not "sit on the deal."

Much of the action appears due to the Candlewood Lake deal offered the state in 1975. In January, Gov. Ella Grasso vetoed the purchase of that land after it was learned the land was overassessed.

Andover
Residents rejected a $3,000 request to resurface the parking lot around the Town Office Building.

The residents suggested the selectmen get cost estimates for hard surface rather than just oiling the lot and request the needed amount at a future town meeting.

The town adopted an ordinance providing for two Board of Finance alternates. The original request was for three alternates.

The alternates will be appointed by the selectmen to serve until July. In May, two will be elected for four-year terms, not more than one from any party.

Fourteen people to serve on the committee studying a gym for Andover Elementary School were approved.

Constables
A report by the Law Enforcement Committee recommending constables be under the supervision of the selectmen was read by Catherine Hutchinson. The committee studied four choices. A resident state trooper was not considered feasible because the town has twice rejected the idea.

Hearing tonight on Bishop's Swamp

Andover
DONNA HOLLAND
Andover leaders learned Wednesday if serious opposition is not voiced at a public hearing tonight to the state's purchasing Bishop's Swamp, if legal technicalities can be resolved, and if the land's owner can hold off selling it to a private developer for a little longer, then the state will probably buy it.

The meeting Wednesday in Hartford was attended by David Yeomans, first selectman, Percy Cook, selectman, Aloysius Ahern, state representative, Margaret Jurovaty, interested resident who initiated the petition urging the state to purchase the property, Jay Jackson and Jeff Daniels, representing the governor and Kevin O'Brien, attorney.

Yeomans said it was the consensus of the meeting it is in the town's best interest to have the state and federal government purchase the property. Legal technicalities must be resolved first.

Merchants want protection

Vernon
Merchants in the Windsor Ave. section of Rockville, petitioned the Town Council Tuesday night to increase the police surveillance in the area.

The merchants made the request "in view of the alarming and increasing crime rate in our area. As taxpayers who require so little from this town we wonder if an increase in the amount of police surveillance would be possible."

Speaking during the citizens' forum portion of the council meeting, Michael Baker of Baker's Shoe Store, said his parents started the store in Rockville about 30 years ago and

Neighbors argue over sewer needs

Vernon
After hearing several residents of Jonathan Dr. object at a public hearing Tuesday to an ordinance which would extend sewers to their street, the Town Council tabled action until its next meeting.

The council said at that meeting the town's consulting engineer and the town sanitarian will be present.

Those speaking Tuesday said the sewer work was for just one of the homeowners who has problems.

Commuter lot planned

Bolton
David Dreselly, first selectman, verbally reported to the Board of Selectmen a meeting between himself and James Burns and Raymond Main of the Department of Transportation.

He said they discussed town aid, 1-84, a parking lot for commuters, and the status of the bridge on North Rd.

The proposed parking lot will be between the Manchester Drive-In Theater and the state highway facility of Rts. 6 and 44A.

The DOT has no authority over town aid because it is a legislative matter.

The DOT will comment in writing as to the status of the bridge.

Homecoming rally draws big turnout

The annual MHS pep rally and dance proved once and for all that "We have spirit, yes we do!" The turnout for the rally, which was held last Friday night in Clarke Arena, was fantastic. Hundreds of MHSers joined in a rousing foot-stomping, cheering, bubble-blowing display of pride in their classes as well as in their school as a whole.

The pep rally began with a rousing cheer session led by the talented MHS cheerleaders, who had each of the three well-represented classes cheering each other into a frenzy with the previously mentioned cheer: "We have spirit, yes we do. We have spirit, how 'bout you?" Each of the classes then challenged the others, and the result was a long, loud display of class pride. Once the cheering had started, it was hard to stop.

Actually, the real reason for the pep rally is not just to cheer and raise spirits, but to provide moral support for our many fall sports teams. And what better way to spread enthusiasm than to introduce the members of the teams to the crowd? Amid tons of applause, members of the football team, the soccer team, the girl's field hockey team, the girl's swim team and the cross country team were named.

Also introduced to the crowd were the cheerleading squads and the relatively new MHS Flag Corps. The latter group did a flag routine to the very appropriate "Beach Boys" tune, "Be True To Your School."

Another highlight of the evening was the Senior Skit, performed by a group of athletically dressed senior girls. They took turns in portraying and saluting the members of each of the teams with songs, dances and cheers.

What homecoming would be complete without a Homecoming Queen? This year, the three nominees were Beth Alemany, Cindy Cain, and Mary Ann Nassiff. These girls were the top three vote getters in a polling of the entire school for the girl with the most school spirit and enthusiasm for the various school sports activities. Actually, this technique of selection is a new one. In past years, the queen has been nominated by members of certain boys' teams. The winner of the contest, announced at the Saturday Homecoming football game, was Mary Ann Nassiff. She and her court (the two runner-up) were driven around the football field at halftime.

This is one of the few traditions remaining in MHS.

But back to the pep rally: After the nominations were announced, the time came for a little more cheering (a lot more cheering) and some unexpected bubble-blowing on the part of the senior class. After a little rousing of the crowd, the girls of the senior class, led by the cheerleaders, began to blow bubbles. The girls of the senior class, led by the cheerleaders, began to blow bubbles. Aridian - Just another magazine?

Although we don't know where the original editors got the name, or even what the word itself means, we do know what Aridian is supposed to represent. Its function has been to represent a spectrum of the creativity of Manchester High students. What's unfortunate though, is that most of them have either never heard of Aridian, or if they have, don't really know what it is, or realize its significance.

Aridian has never been just another magazine. In fact it's not really a magazine in the usual sense at all. I guess the best way to describe it would be to say that Aridian has been a collection of art and literary work, along with exceptional photography, done solely by individuals at MHS.

In the past years, Aridian has been done in many ways. It has been printed on posters, compiled in a box, recorded on a record, and printed as a magazine. Regardless of its form, Aridian's purpose is to serve as a way of expressing our thoughts and feelings of the world around us as best as possible, whether that be through pictures or in words.

In order to make this extraordinary "magazine" possible this year, it will not only need recognition, but it will also need the interest of students at the first meeting was slight, and the cost of such a project is great. These facts, teamed with the great amount of work involved in raising the money and putting the book together, make it necessary for more members and a sizable number of patrons. Of course, we're also expecting and looking forward to a substantial quantity of work submitted by students, but mostly we need more interest and support.

A bake sale will be held during periods three through seven on Monday, October 18th in an effort to raise money for the magazine.

If you would like to buy or examine previous Aridians, contact Mrs. Batakas in Room 209. Meetings are held weekly at times designated on the announcements in Room 207. Please don't hesitate to come and Aridian's purpose is to serve as a way of expressing our thoughts and feelings of the world around us as best as possible, whether that be through pictures or in words.

Girelli reports on Brazil visit

Carl Girelli, an MHS senior, spent this past summer as an AFS exchange student in Brazil, South America. The following article is a personal account of his stay there.

What is the first thing you think of when someone says "Brazil"? (Brazil is the Brazilian spelling of Brazil.) If it's jungles or snakes, you're wrong, at least from my personal experiences in Brazil. My home this summer was in Niteroi, a city of about 400,000 across the bay from Rio de Janeiro. The two cities are connected by a 14-kilometer bridge, the second longest bridge in the world. My house in Brazil was set four blocks from the beach, had four bedrooms, three baths, a living-dining room, and a large recreation room; there was also a small apartment for maids.

Having a Brazilian family made my stay abroad a real learning experience. I went from my natural family with two brothers to a home where I had four sisters. Brazilian sisters, no less. My Brazilian parents were super; I was the first son they had ever had, so they had to adjust to having a guy around the house.

Having maids was an adjustment that I had no trouble making, although sometimes they cleaned my room so well that I couldn't find things. Usually, I got along with them quite well; once they threatened, in jest, to put ants in my bed, but they were so flattered when I took their picture that they forgot all about it.

Life in Brazil was, of course, different. School there began at 1 p.m. and ended around 4 or 5 p.m. In general, the students stayed in one place and the teachers changed classrooms. Teachers there are less respected than they are in the U.S., and for that reason classes were very disorderly.

Social activities began at about 10 p.m. and ended when you couldn't stand anymore. In general, the atmosphere there was much more relaxed. Having been in such a casual atmosphere makes me acutely aware of the way people jump when the school bell rings here at MHS.

Living across the bay from Rio de Janeiro was quite an experience. For the price of a five-minute walk I could see Rio's Christ Figure, The Sugar Loaf, and the beaches of Copacabana. You simply can't get tired of seeing those places.

Naturally, not everything was beautiful. There are many very poor people in Brazil. Favelas (slums) overlook the city and sometimes even sprout up within the city. It isn't easy to learn to turn your back on beggars, but it is necessary to preserve your sanity.

The food in Brazil was, if nothing else, consistent. In my family, we had feijao (black beans) with rice twice a day. In addition to this we would have some meat, fish, or a salad with another vegetable. Fruit juices and Coke were popular in Brazil; the milk was terrible and demanded that you add sugar. Dessert usually consisted of fresh fruit; mango was my favorite.

One of the best aspects of Brazil was the music. Samba is a popular and traditional form of dance; the music is highly spirited and the dance even more so. I learned a bit of it, but my feet really can't move fast enough.

In many ways, urban life in Brazil is like urban life here. There are many of our TV shows - "Kojak," "The Waltons," and "The Rockford Files."

Many of our products are also available: Coke, Levi's, Gillette products, and albums by "Led Zeppelin" and "The Who," to name a few.

Many Brazilians speak English, although I found myself in plenty of situations that required me to speak Portuguese. I was well received and made one of the gang right away. I would like to see more North Americans be as friendly to foreign students as Brazilians were to me.

Language proved to be a problem at first. When I arrived I had studied three years of French and two weeks of Portuguese. In about a month, I understood the language fairly well, and after two months, I had a good working vocabulary and a command of the very difficult regional dialect of Portuguese. The cariaco, people of the state of Rio de Janeiro, speak with a pronunciation that is very difficult to master.

In my opinion, being an exchange student is the only way to have the kind of great experience I had. To be accepted and loved by a new family in a new culture helps you grow and learn to tolerate other peoples' differences.

Of course, there are problems, both adjusting to a new culture and readjusting to your own. When I got to Brazil it was a little hard to get accustomed to seeing men carrying shoulder bags (the true translation would be pocketbook, but that's a bit much for lots of us to handle). Now I can't get tired of seeing those places.

Mrs. Foran remembered

I am one of the many people who was saddened by Mrs. Foran's death. Her warmth, personality, and unique touch found its way into many hearts, and the loss of such a wonderful human being will be felt by all.

As a person, Mrs. Foran had many desirable qualities which we seldom find in society today. She was a person I talked to about her had basically the same sentiments to express. All felt that she was one of those rare persons who is genuinely sweet and good.

She had "an excellent rapport with her students," and according to one "taught on a level we could not understand." One student decided to continue with another year of Spanish when she learned that Mrs. Foran would be her teacher.

Quiet and reserved, but persistent, she was a teacher "who got results." One former pupil said, "she was more than fair, but hard and demanding at the same time."

Mrs. Foran was respected and liked both as a teacher and a person. Comments about her are invariably positive; she is described as "a good person who thought of other people, always cooperative and friendly." As one teacher aptly expressed it, "as often as she smiled, it was always an honest smile in her heart, not only on her lips."

Mrs. Foran was successful in her private life as well as in her profession. She was a "very happy person" who enjoyed her work and her life. She appreciated the outdoors, sometimes working at a campground during the summer. Her interests included swimming, skiing and camping; she loved plants and being outdoors.

After graduating from East Catholic High School, Mrs. Foran went on to graduate from Trinity College in Vermont. She returned to Manchester to teach for four years, and was recommended for a permanent position here. She was a valuable addition to the teaching staff, but she will be remembered most for the kindness she sincerely offered to everyone. - Julie Hodson

Profile: A look at Glenn Florsdorf

Glenn Florsdorf will never forget September 18th, when over 30 Manchester High cross country runners traveled to Wolcott, Connecticut to compete in the prestigious Wolcott Invitational. In a variety race, the 5'4 1/2 lbs. Manchester senior would run the best race of his life. He would be crowned between two tall, lanky Xavier thinkers. He wasn't completely visible until he crossed the finish line. Glenn Florsdorf could stand very tall because he had beaten all but two runners in a field of over 100 outstanding runners.

Many were stunned to see someone of Glenn's size breeze by them and have so much energy left to fight off persistent challengers from the rear. But for those who know him it is not difficult to understand why Glenn is a champion. In practice, Glenn is almost always the first one to start his warm-up by jogging laps. He will run two additional length loops if he feels that a detriment to his running performance. Glenn just does more than is expected of him; that's why he's a champion.

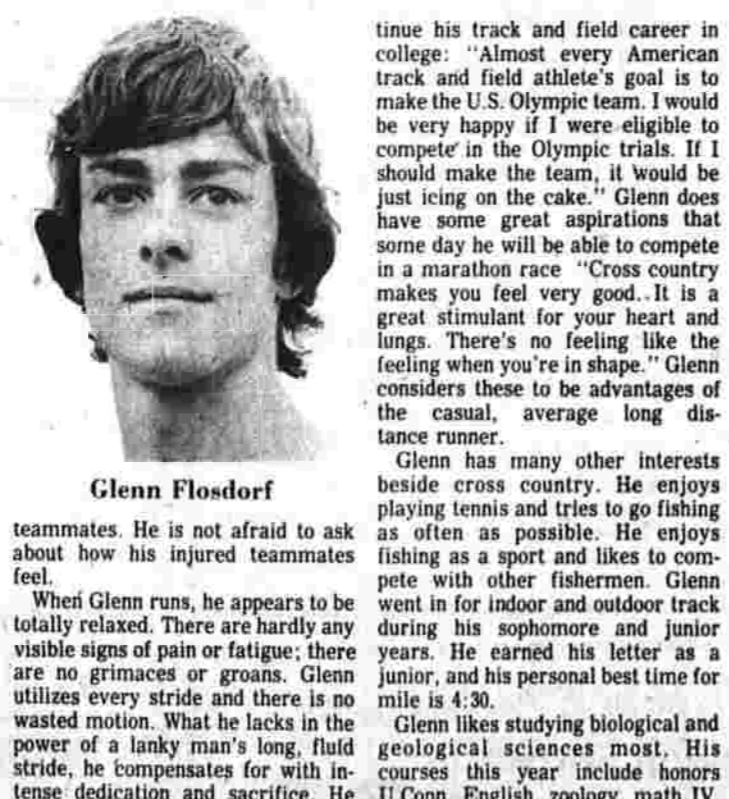

Glenn is thoughtful of the track as well as on. He is a source of great inspiration and encourages all his teammates. He is not afraid to ask about how his injured teammates feel.

When Glenn runs, he appears to be totally relaxed. There are hardly any visible signs of pain or fatigue; there are no grimaces or groans. Glenn utilizes every stride and there is no wasted motion. What he lacks in the power of a lanky man's long, fluid stride, he compensates for with intense dedication and sacrifice. He runs rain or shine. Glenn cites that his slight frame is more of an advantage than a detriment to his running performance. "Excess weight would be like carrying a ball and chain around," he says.

Florsdorf started running across country in eighth grade at Illing Jr. High. He was encouraged by his around-the-block workouts and thought that he had the best chance of excelling in cross country. Glenn placed tenth in his first varsity cross country race at Illing.

Glenn runs not only for the competitive aspect of the sport, but also because he enjoys it. "I like the competition. Cross country is a release of my anxieties. It gets me going. It's a time to yourself where you can get to know yourself better."

If it is possible, Glenn hopes to con-

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been pining for this guy for five months, and both of my parents liked him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking - it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do.

Abby, you're my parents' age, at least. How do you feel about beards?

BONNIE L.

DEAR BONNIE: If they're neat and well-kept for, I think they're great. Some of the most important men I know had beards: Moses, Jesus, Abraham Lincoln and Sigismund Freud, to name a few. And the Smith Brothers, who coughed up a fortune.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40 years old and should know better, but I still burn.

I'm married and have three attractive children. I have one married brother who also has a fine family. My brother lives in the same city as do our parents, and he sees them often. I live in another city, but for many years I've visited my folks one a month.

My mother has a large picture of my brother on her living room wall, and several pictures of him, his wife and all their children displayed in the same room.

My picture is hidden in a back bedroom. There isn't one picture of my three children anywhere in sight, and I've given her several.

When I shop with my mother she takes pictures of my brother out of her wallet and shows them to store clerks, saying, "Here's my son. Isn't he handsome? He's the president of the Blank Company."

It takes several days after I return home to get the ache out of my heart.

Abby, I wonder how many mothers have favorites? Is there a solution to my problem?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Although they won't admit it, most mothers (either consciously or unconsciously) have their favorites, but your mother is extremely insensitive to get out her preference so blatantly.

I suggest that you bring your hurt feelings out into the open. Perhaps it will motivate your mother and will remedy your hurt feelings. It's too bad you have to prompt her to keep her from hurting you, but it's preferable to acting forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.H.: That little "gem" about "talks" was written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox: "I suggest: Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale of mental malades is worn and stale. You cannot charm or interest or persuade by harping on that minor chord - disease. See, say that you are well, and all is well with you. And God will hear your words and make them true."

South was using a weak notrump opening and had opened with one club. This made it easy for West to overcall with one diamond and East to bid two spades after North bid two clubs.

South was still able to get to three notrump and West opened a spade. East was allowed to bid the trick with his jack and shifted to the 10 of diamonds. South went right up with his ace and knocked out West's ace of clubs. West led a club but West's partner South cashed the good clubs.

DEAR ABBY: I've been pining for this guy for five months, and both of my parents liked him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking - it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do.

Abby, you're my parents' age, at least. How do you feel about beards?

South was using a weak notrump opening and had opened with one club. This made it easy for West to overcall with one diamond and East to bid two spades after North bid two clubs.

South was still able to get to three notrump and West opened a spade. East was allowed to bid the trick with his jack and shifted to the 10 of diamonds. South went right up with his ace and knocked out West's ace of clubs. West led a club but West's partner South cashed the good clubs.

Absentee ballots

Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel reminds people wishing to vote by absentee ballot that they must fill out an application before a ballot will be sent to them.

The application must be filled out by mail or in person at the town clerk's office. Tomkiel said that there is no deadline for filing the application, but it should be filled out in plenty of time so the absentee ballot can be returned by Nov. 2 election.

John Caldwell

The smart people still save at Hartford National

Here was a man who knew how to get more out of things, even in 1792. He left ship owning to others, and made a fortune in marine insurance. He ran for Congress, then served 20 terms. And he put his savings in an American bank even before savings earned interest.

The bank was Hartford National. John Caldwell's bank. John Caldwell kept his money in a Hartford National account. Back then, we could only keep his savings safe. But we could save him time, trouble and money by giving him a place to borrow, a source of advice, even the 1792 version of checking.

For a man who wanted more for his money, Hartford National added up. Even in 1792.

Smart man, Caldwell.

Things haven't changed all that much in 184 years. Savings earn interest now, and smart people still get more for their money by saving at Hartford National. In fact, nearly 200,000 smart people save at more than 60 Hartford National offices today.

It makes sense. We've had a long, long time to polish all the ways we can help you save. We'll always modify different savings plans for different individual needs.

7 1/2%	6-Year Accounts	yield	7.788%*
7 1/4%	4-Year Accounts	yield	7.519%*
6 1/2%	2 1/2-Year Accounts	yield	6.715%*
6%	1-Year Accounts	yield	6.183%*
5 1/2%	90-Day Accounts	yield	5.614%*
5%	NOW Accounts	yield	5.116%*
5%	Regular Accounts	yield	5.095%*

*Effective annual yield when savings and interest remain on deposit for one year or to maturity. Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

We'll always pay the highest savings interest the law allows. And we'll always back up Hartford National savings with every time-, trouble- and money-saving service you'll ever need or use.

Open a Hartford National savings account today. Then sit back and watch all your savings grow. Smart thinker, you.

Help Wanted 13

WE WILL provide a free apartment in return for part time personal care for our Father. He is 71, a diabetic, and confined to a wheel chair. He is a difficult and demanding patient.

The care would be in father's home. The apartment is 500 feet away in an old Colonial house. Both are located on 20 acres in a quiet attractive part of Manchester. It is conceivable that a barn would be available for storage, hobbies, or pets.

The care is required from Saturday morning to Sunday morning plus three short time periods during the week. A car is not necessary.

We will consider a situation involving a couple, an individual or individuals, but we must be able to depend, absolutely on the person directly involved.

Although our primary concern is for father's care, to interest the right party we will consider a combination of the personal care plus business office skills. This would involve other compensation than the apartment.

Roof Seal Labels 'Clinger'

A good roof can go a long way towards protecting a house from wind damage. Sometimes the rain that so often accompanies a wind storm causes far more costly damage than the price of having a few shingles replaced that were torn away by gusty winds.

To avoid both water and wind damage, knowledgeable homeowners choose self-sealing asphalt shingles that bear the "wind resistant" label of Underwriters Laboratories. To qualify for the UL label, the shingles must withstand winds of at least 60 miles per hour for two continuous hours without a single tab lifting.

A factory-applied adhesive, which, when activated by the sun, bonds each shingle to the one beneath, gives the self-sealing shingles their wind resistance.

Asphalt shingles also are manufactured to be fire resistant. They must meet UL's Class C standard, or better. The Class C standard indicates the shingles will not easily ignite, will not readily support the spread of fire over the roof area and will not add to the fire hazard by emitting burning brands, which could cause new fires.

Introducing...
BUYER PROTECTION PLAN II

FULL 24 MONTHS/24,000 MILES WARRANTY ON ENGINE/DRIVE TRAIN!
When you buy a new AMC Pacer, Gremlin, Hornet or Matador, we include the engine and drive train warranty which covers 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. And we'll provide you with a free loaner car if repairs take over 7 days.

FULL 12 MONTHS/12,000 MILES WARRANTY ON REST OF CAR!
We'll cover any cost, except taxes, for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first, and we'll pay for the repair or replacement if any part we supply proves to be defective in material or workmanship.

4 MONTHS/4,000 MILES SERVICE ADJUSTMENTS!
We'll also provide normal service adjustments on your new AMC car for 4 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first. Service adjustments such as: maintenance, brake and clutch adjustments, and more.

So we require a lower normal use and service interval for your AMC car. We'll make it as easy as possible for you to get the most out of your new car. The Big 3 don't even come close to this kind of protection. That's why AMC is the Big 3 in protecting car buyers.
