President Ford is surrounded by the hands of overzealous fans who broke through restraining ropes Wednesday to greet him as he campaigned in Union, N. J. Ford was entering a restaurant when the crowd converged on him. No one was injured.

Superagencies key to plan to revamp state structure

HARTFORD (UPI) — The creation of 13 "superagencies" to ride herd on sprawling state government was recommended by a select panel studying ways to streamline Connecticut government.

Filer admitted the job of selling the overhaul to lawmakers would be easier if it is accompanied by estimates on how much the state might save, but he added such estimates might also cause troubles.

"It makes it more difficult, but on the other hand if we project some savings we can't document, it will make it more difficult for the legislature to accept," he told a news conference.

A similar attempt at government streamlining by the so-called Eberington Committee in 1971 ended in controversy when state officials questioned the $154 million in savings the committee had predicted.

Only 38 percent of its 821 recommendations were adopted.

Filer said his panel plans to remain active until next year to lobby its recommendations through the coming session of the legislature which begins in January.

Among the major recommendations:

- Merge the existing Departments of Commerce, Banks and Insurance and the Public Utilities Control Authority into a single Department of Commerce.
- Merge the four boards of trustees overseeing state colleges into at least three and preferably one board. A similar proposal was killed by the 1976 legislature.
- Create a Department of Revenue Services to include the existing Departments of Tax, Finance and Control and the Commission on Special Revenues, which supervises legalized gambling in the state.
- Eliminate the comptroller, shifting the duties to a new Department of Administrative Services in charge of providing administrative support to all state agencies.
- Create a noncabinet level Office of Policy and Management to supervise state planning and budgeting, overall personnel policy and federal government relations.

Concerning Michigan campaign finances

Ruff clears Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford did not misuse campaign funds while he was a Michigan congressman and a federal investigation into the matter has been ended, Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff said today.

"The matter has now been closed and counsel for the President has been so advised," said Ruff in a written statement.

Ruff's announcement that Ford had been cleared in a probe into 1972 campaign financing in his home district removed a major problem for the President in his battle with Democrat Jimmy Carter for the White House.

"The evidence developed during this investigation was not corroborative of the allegation on which it was predicated," Ruff said. "Nor did evidence disclosed during the inquiry into that allegation give reason to believe that any other violations of law had occurred."

Ruff referred to a report by an FBI informant alleging Ford missed political contributions from 1964 to early 1974 while he was a House member and Republican leader.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley turned the report over to Attorney General Edward H. Levi who, in turn, asked Ruff to assume jurisdiction.

Ruff said he agreed to investigate and received a formal assignment dated last July 16.

Ruff schedules news conference tonight at 7:30

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will hold a news conference tonight and, at his request, the three major television networks agreed to broadcast his remarks nationwide.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford would meet reporters at 7:30 p.m. EDT and wanted the air time to make important comments on several matters, including news that Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff's investigation of Michigan campaign finances had cleared the President of any wrongdoing.

Spokesmen for the networks said they would comply with Ford's request for television coverage.

Town files appeal in Buckland case

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

Appeal papers in the case of the Eighth District vs. the Town of Manchester were filed this morning by the town in Hartford County Superior Court.

The filing of the appeal comes exactly two weeks after Superior Court Judge Edward Hamill's decision, which gave the Eighth District the right to extend its boundaries and provide fire protection to the Buckland section of Manchester. The appeal will be to the state Supreme Court.

The town has also requested that the time for filing a draft finding be extended to 45 days. Town Counsel Victor I. Moses, contacted this morning, said that the extension has been agreed for because he has not yet received a transcript of the Superior Court trial of the case.

"I can't do anything until I get the transcript," Moses said. He said he has ordered a copy and expects to receive it any day.

During the court case, both the town and the Eighth District indicated that they would appeal the decision if they lost.

After Judge Hamill's decision was released, Moses recommended that the town appeal the decision. Weiss agreed and sent a letter to members of the Board of Directors, saying the town would appeal unless the board felt the step was "inadvisable."

Weiss said that, at the time of his recommendation, "The implications for the town are so serious, not just in Buckland, but in the whole northern area of town. I feel I would be remiss if I didn't support the recommendation of the Town Council to appeal."

A major concern for the town is the loss of tax revenues if the Eighth District is given jurisdiction over the Buckland area. Weiss testified during the trial that the town would lose between $2,000 and $123,000 annually in tax revenues if the Eighth District was given the right to include Buckland.

The Board of Directors also supported the appeal against an appeal.

The next step in the appeal process will be for the town to file its draft finding, for which it has asked for the extension. The Eighth District will then also submit its finding to the Supreme Court before the case is heard.

Volunteers fill vital link in communications net

By SCRIBBLER

If one believes that disasters can be the harbinger of progress, then it is easy to believe that the devastating ice storm of 1973 was indirectly responsible for an improved communications system within our town.

For about a month, a group of Manchester citizen band (CB) operators, in conjunction with the Connecticut State and County REACT Club, Inc., Team 3376, Manchester Control, has been operating on a voluntary basis in the recreation building at the Nike Site off Keeney St. Its basic purpose is to help people.

The public will have an opportunity to see how the setup works during an open house at the site Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. when CB volunteers will be busy receiving and relaying emergency calls.

The letters in REACT stand for Radio Emergency Assistance Teams. In organization for six months, the local REACT club operates within an area as far north as Enfield, as far south as Middletown, and comparable distances east and west. It operates on Channel 9, the official emergency channel of the Citizens Radio Service. The club is part of REACT International which has been in existence since 1967.

In the short time that Manchester's control base has been in operation, nearly 300 persons in various types of situations have been helped, including motor vehicle breakdowns, a lost child and a woman on the way to the hospital. CBers are well known

Affirmative Action compliance discussed

Town officials met Tuesday with representatives from the Capitol Region Council of Governments and the Hartford Human Relations Commission to discuss the Manchester's Affirmative Action Plan.

Discussion centered mostly on the future and what steps Manchester should take to comply with its Affirmative Action Plan, which outlines steps the town should take to attempt to increase the number of women and minority group members hired by the town.

Daniel W. Parrish, field representative for the Hartford Human Relations Commission, suggested that the town adopt and post an equal opportunity policy statement.

Both Parrish and Melvin Simpson of CRCOG asked the town to provide more up-to-date information on the status of women and minority group members hired by the town. They also suggested that Manchester make more use of "resource agencies" to recruit members of the target groups for town jobs.

A list of such agencies was provided to the town by Parrish. The town representatives present — Robert B. Weiss, town manager; Charles F. McCarthy Jr., assistant town manager; and Lee Ann Gundersen, Human Relations Commission chairwoman — were also told that the town should regularly update equal employment information to include changes in the town's labor force.

An Affirmative Action Plan is required in towns that participate in the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). If Manchester complies with the intent of affirmative action, it will receive a 60-day provisional certification as CETA contractors. This will lead to an annual certification if compliance continues.

Manchester adopted its Affirmative Action Plan in July.

Lawyer admits theft

NEW LONDON (UPI) — A Norwich attorney has pleaded guilty in Superior Court to charges he stole more than $75,000 from funds entrusted to him by clients.

Richard C. Post of Norwich Wednesday entered pleas of guilty to four counts of first degree larceny before Judge John J. Daly who said the defendant also faced disbarment.

State's Attorney C. Robert Satti said he would recommend Post be sentenced to three-to-eight years in prison when he is sentenced Nov. 21.

Post was a member of the Norwich Board of Education before he resigned after his arrest in July.

Satti said the first count charged Post with taking $16,000 intended for beneficiaries that was earned from the sale of property of a Norwich woman's estate.

The second count accused Post of taking $26,000 entrusted to him for payment from a Norwich savings bank for a mortgage payment that was never made.

Post was charged in the third count with failure to return $18,000 of $25,000 entrusted to him for investment purposes by a woman in a Norwich convalescent home.

Satti said the final count charged Post with failure to place in escrow about $18,000 in receipts of a real estate sale which he handled for a Norwich couple.

Town to honor Childs

The Town of Manchester will honor Richard Childs, a 94-year-old native son whose family developed the Bon Ami firm.

At Tuesday night's Board of Directors meeting, Town Manager Robert B. Weiss recommended the honor for Childs, who was born in Manchester and now resides in New York.

Weiss said that Childs has been a "leading light in civic reform" and a major supporter of the council-management form of government.

A tentative date of Nov. 18 has been set for the presentation of the award to Childs, Weiss said. The award will be made at the dinner meeting of town government commissions. The commissions periodically meet to report on their recent work and are scheduled to do so again on Nov. 16.

Weiss said that the date has not yet been confirmed with Childs, so it might be subject to change. The meeting will be held at the Regional Occupational Training Center.

It's really true, as Dorothy Parker rhymed, that men don't make passes at girls who wear glasses. But women like men just as well with or without spectacles. Or so reports the Sight Improvement Center, a New York company that specializes in contact lenses.

Why at this time?

The Watergate special prosecutor's office is investigating campaign contributions made to Gerald R. Ford's political campaign of 1964 when Mr. Ford was running for Congress. The purpose of the investigation, it is reported, is to determine whether any campaign funds contributed by certain unions went to Mr. Ford personally, instead of into his campaign.

WASHINGTON — In the White House press room the morning after the second Ford-Carter debate, a Ford aide chided a reporter for placing too much emphasis on the campaign's peripheral issues — Earl Butz's unfortunate racial slur and Carter's singularly candid interview with Playboy magazine.

Politics Pearson

Ted Cummings, who is seeking re-election in the 12th Assembly District, has replied to a recent charge by his opponent, Walt Joyner, that a vote for Cummings is a vote for the state income tax.

At a recent affair sponsored by the American Association of Retired People, Cummings was the only candidate who did not respond "yes" or "no" to a question on a state income tax. The other nine candidates cast a "no" response when asked if they would support a state income tax.

After the affair, Joyner said, "Instead of answering with a one word 'yes' or 'no' as requested, Mr. Cummings hedged for a minute and a half, indicating that he would do what he felt best served the voters in his district." Joyner said that he felt a vote for the incumbent Cummings would be a vote for the state tax.

Cummings responded, "I've just lived too long and been involved in too many things to give blanket promises. I just try to do the best I can without giving blanket yes or no statements."

"The worst thing anyone can do is close up their mind tightly," he said.

David Cohen, Republican candidate for the Fourth Senatorial District seat, has asked for "attractive tax relief" to help keep business and industry in the state.

Cohen recommended that tax credits be offered for planned expansion.

"Expanded business means added employment. A temporary loss of tax revenue could be offset by extending tax benefits to attract new business and industry to the state," he said.

The senatorial candidate said that Connecticut ranks 43rd out of the 48 mainland states on the business desirability location scale.

"If we are to get our broad tax base back, and cut down the business exodus, we have to provide some attractive tax relief for business and industry," he said.

Cohen, who has already announced he is against payment of unemployment benefits to those who quit their jobs, also said that he is opposed to unemployment benefits for workers on strike.

Lucien DiFazio, Republican candidate for the First Congressional District, has criticized his opponent, incumbent Democrat Rep. William Cotter, for his support of Jimmy Carter's budget proposals.

DiFazio said that the "rank-and-file American's income would be devastated by the financing of new programs under a Carter administration."

Other local political notes of interest include:

* U.S. Rep. Christopher J. Dodd is one of 37 members of the House who received a "100 per cent" rating from the Consumer Federation of America (CFA).

The CFA rated the House members based on their pro-consumer votes during the second session of the 94th Congress.

* The Connecticut State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, has endorsed the following local candidates: David Barry, Fourth Senatorial District; Muriel Yacavone, Ninth Assembly District; Theodore Cummings, 12th Assembly District; Robert Walsh, 3rd Assembly District; and Aloysius Ahearn, 55th Assembly District.

All are Democratic incumbents.

Occupational trainees may do some town work if agreement is reached

Students at the Regional Occupational Training Center (ROTC) may soon do some work for the Town of Manchester if an agreement between the school and the town can be reached.

The weekly staff meeting of town department heads was held at ROTC on Monday, and the possibility of such an agreement was discussed.

The training center, which opened in September, is a school facility that provides training for area handicapped children.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said that the town is considering giving minor maintenance and repair projects to the school's students.

"There are certain things done in the town highway garage that the students could be used to cater some dinner-meetings of nonprofit and town organizations he said.

town vehicles and lubrication work could be done by the students.

Norman Fendell, director of ROTC, said, "I think there are a lot of possibilities."

Fendell said that the town and school are trying to work out a "reasonable" charge for the services the students would provide.

The students at the school are now working on washing and waxing cars owned by staff, parents, and friends.

Another possible consideration might be the town's using a catering service the school's students will provide, Fendell said.

He said the students have begun work in food service and do plan to develop a catering project. The students could be used to cater some dinner-meetings of nonprofit and town organizations he said.

Band shell tag sale planned

A "glam" tag sale to benefit the Bicentennial Band Shell is being planned for mid-November at the former Forbes and Wallace store at Manchester Shopping Park.

The tag sale is being sponsored by the Bicentennial Band Shell Fund Drive Committee, with members of the Manchester Jaycees and the Golden Age Club of the Senior Citizens Center working together to make it a success.

The success of this venture will depend heavily on public support as the sale will only work if there is adequate merchandise, LaBonne said.

Washout accounts sought for education projects

The Manchester Board of Education has asked town directors to set up four "washout" accounts to receive and then spend a total of $9,897 on a variety of programs.

The four accounts are: $2,950 for the Center for Environmental Education. The money comes from surrounding towns who use the center's services.

Union seeks okay for job actions in CC pay dispute

HARTFORD (UPI) — Faculty members and non-professional staff at the dozen state community colleges will be asked to authorize job actions to protest what their leaders say is an insulting contract offer.

Union leaders for 750 faculty and staff at the two-year schools Wednesday said they would recommend rank-in-file members authorize the action at a meeting Friday night.

"We're going to recommend a series of job actions," said Robert Vater. "We want them (the union members) to give the negotiating team authorization to take necessary action."

Despite persistent questioning by reporters, Vater would not specify the job actions.

Vater is president of Local 129 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents faculty members and nonprofessional staff at the colleges for collective bargaining purposes.

Vater said state negotiators had offered a 3.4 per cent raise over three years in no way makes up for this loss," said Michael Ferrucci, head of AFSCME Council 16, Local 129's parent group.

Ferrucci called the offer a "insult to the bargaining process. The state is playing the game of bad faith bargaining."

He said he was confident rank-in-file members would follow their leadership's recommendation.

Lawyers signing up prison inmate voters

HARTFORD (UPI) — Three lawyers involved in prisoners' rights have begun signing up eligible inmates in Connecticut prisons to vote in the November presidential election.

Only about 150 inmates in Connecticut jails and prisons are expected to be eligible to vote, attorney James Greene, legal coordinator for the Connecticut Prison Association, said Wednesday.

The figure is sharply down from initial voter efforts in the prison system in 1972 when 600 new voters were registered. At that time, lawyers took advantage of a loophole since closed by the legislature.

"I think it's too bad the legislature plugged the loophole," Greene said. "It has cut down tremendously the amount of inmates eligible to vote this time."

Hospital emergency nurses pick topics for meetings

Handling of sport injuries, legal aspects of medicine and interpretation of lab tests are some of the topics to be presented at this year's series of Connecticut Emergency Department Nurses Association (CEDNA) meetings.

The group will meet Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 6 p.m. at Yankee SilverSmith Restaurant in Wallingford.

Other scheduled meetings are as follows: Nov. 16, "Initial Management of Sport Injuries."

Jan. 18, CEDNA workshop: a potpourri of specialty interests for emergency department personnel as well as emergency medical teams who are out in the field.

The location of the above meetings will be announced at a later date.

Ford signs $25.6 billion rev-share bill

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) — President Ford signed a $25.6 billion revenue sharing bill and said the program had halted a trend toward "more centralized government" in Washington.

Ford, who hammered hard at Jimmy Carter at campaign stops in New York City Tuesday, softened the partisan tone for his speech on the steps of Yonkers City Hall before crowd estimated by city officials at 10,000.

But Ford cheered the former Georgia governor for his support of proposals to give revenue sharing money to cities, but not states.

The bill, which takes effect next Jan. 1 and runs through Sept. 30, 1980, also loosens up earlier restrictions on how the money could be spent.

Since its inception, Ford said, the program has "reversed a dangerous trend toward more centralized government in Washington" and given taxpayers "an even greater voice in deciding how their federal tax dollars are spent."

Ford said Washington bureaucrats would further centralize authority "without a president who is willing to say no. I am willing to say no."

In addition, Ford said, he offers "imaginative alternatives" such as revenue sharing.

Legislator surprised at sunset law response

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Russell Post, R-Canterbury, said he was surprised his proposal for periodic review of government programs had met with widespread acceptance.

"I am amazed that the concept of the sunset law has been accepted so enthusiastically," he said.

Post has introduced legislation — nicknamed sunset laws — calling for regularly scheduled re-examination of state agencies, programs and regulations to determine if they are still needed.

"This is a very positive step toward eliminating waste in government," he said. "There is obviously strong sentiment for a change that will decrease government waste."

Manchester Young Marines will meet tonight at 6:30 at Second Congregational Church.

Welfare costs up $1,000

During September, Manchester's welfare list increased by one person, and the cost of the program went up about $1,000, according to Mary DellaFera, director of social services.

The town now lists 145 people on its welfare roll, compared to the 144 who were listed in August.

Miss DellaFera said that increased hospital expenses for welfare recipients might be the reason for the higher-than-normal September figure. In September 1975, Manchester spent $18,017 on welfare.

Welfare costs are usually higher in winter because of the increased need for clothing and home heating.

The $20,674 figure is over $1,000 more than was spent for welfare in Manchester during January of this year, when the town spent $19,300.

LTM needs auditorium for 1977 productions

After the Little Theatre of Manchester's November production of "Oklahoma!" at East Catholic High School, the group just doesn't know where it's other three productions for the next year will be presented.

LTM is faced with the difficulty of scheduling its future performances in either Bailey Auditorium at Manchester High School or at East Catholic High School because of the schools' commitments to its own curriculums.

"Our real problem is not knowing where we're going from show to show," Frank Minutillo, member of the LTM building and planning committee, said last night at a special meeting to discuss the problem.

"Our need is for a place where we can get a long term contract," Minutillo said in conversations with the Rev. Robert E. Saunders, principal of ECBS, about future engagements had been on a very friendly basis, but that the school's principal would not make any long term contracts because of the school's own growing need for more frequent use of the auditorium.

A similar situation exists with Bailey Auditorium. Other school auditoriums do not lend themselves to the type of performance LTM wishes to give its patrons.

Manchester's junior high schools are going into their third year of an innovative program for "gifted" students and principals of the two schools say they've worked out the bugs in the original program.

Bennet Junior High School and Illing Junior High School made the same mistakes when the program was started, the principals said, and the previously structured curriculum has been changed to a voluntary, elective program.

Bennet Principal Allan Cone and Illing Principal Richard Lindgren told the Board of Education this week that each program was started separately, but the initial offering was a fixed, scheduled class.

The course was well received at either school, they said, so the program has developed into a type of independent study project.

Interested teachers have volunteered in their spare time to serve as "consultants" to gifted students selected by counselors, Lindgren said. The students wishing to participate meet with the consultants about twice a week, during free periods (study halls). Activities include creative writing, oceanography, animal research, advanced mathematics, and fine arts projects, he said.

Cone said the setup is about the same at Bennet, with teachers participating as volunteers and students, who have been identified as "gifted," participating if they choose. No grades are given for the extra study, and few records are kept, he said. In addition to the special program for the gifted, Bennet has an "accelerated program" in which junior high school students take high school level courses. The "acceleration" is now limited to mathematics and foreign languages, he said.

Both principals said they would like to expand the program for the gifted, but they are restrained by lack of funding. Everything is on a volunteer basis, they said, so the number of students participating is held to about 45 at each school.

Other survivors are a son, Richard M. Raffino of Windsor; two daughters, Mrs. Patricia Silva of Windsor and Miss Kim Raffino, at home; a brother, Paul Raffino of Unionville; a sister, Mrs. Rose Sturgis of Windsor; and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Friday at 9:15 a.m. from Carmon Funeral Home, 5 Poquonock Ave., Windsor, with a Mass at St. Margaret Mary Church at 10. Burial will be in Wapping Center Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9. The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Snyder appointed to gaming agency
HARTFORD (UPI) - Lester Snyder, former chairman of the state Elections Commission, was named today to the state Commission on Special Revenue which supervises legalized gambling in Connecticut.

Snyder, a Democrat, was appointed to the $12,500 part-time job by Senate Republican Leader Lewis B. Rome. He replaced James Fitzgerald of East Hartford, now the committee's executive director.

Rome had to name a Democrat to maintain the legally required balance between Democrats and Republicans on the nine-member committee. The GOP holds a 5-4 edge on the panel.

Snyder became chairman of the state Elections Commission when it was created in 1974. He resigned last December to resume his duties as a law professor at the University of Connecticut.

Patek spoke up and Royals reacted

NEW YORK (UP)—All season long, little Freddie Patek has been quiet as a mouse.

A church mouse. Deeply religious, the pale, high-strung Kansas City shortstop sits in his locker all by himself every day solemnly reading the Bible he carries with him everywhere.

He generally reads it right up until game time. If you look in his locker, you'll find the Good Book there this evening.

Patek doesn't try to sell religion to any of the other Royal players, but they all know how big a part of his life it is to him.

Whitey Herzog, the Royals' manager, is a bear about one rule on the club. No one, but no one, is permitted to skip batting practice. With one exception, Herzog allows Patek to miss batting practice on Sundays so he can go to church.

Usually, Patek doesn't have much to say. He astonished all the Royals by suddenly having a whole lot to say after Tuesday night's 5-3 loss to the Yankees, a setback on the club was going to stand up and dispute him.

On Wednesday at Yankee Stadium, there was no more time for any talking. One more victory by the Yankees, and it would be all over. They'd be on their way to Cincinnati for the World Series and Whitey Herzog's crew would head on back home. Not on any royal champagne flight, either.

It was a time now for action, and nobody had to show Patek the way.

With two out and two on in the second inning, he lined a double to right center off Catfish Hunter to drive in two runs and then scored the third on himself on Buck Martinez' single to center.

Patek hustled so much leading off the seventh, he beat out a ground ball to the right side for his second hit, running so hard that he caused reliever Dick Tidrow, covering first, to traded him to the Royals three years ago. Selected for the American League All-Star team twice, Patek plays the artificial turf in Kansas City like no other shortstop in the league.

"He's as good on the 'carpet' as anyone I've ever seen," said Herzog. "But he's good anywhere, on the 'rug' or anywhere else. He can play on the moon."

Sometimes, though, Patek gets his moods. The Royals lost three in a row in Oakland near the end of 1975 and Patek was so disgusted with the way things were going in games two and three, he asked Herzog to take him out of both of them in the late innings.

Patek explained. "I was frustrated. So I got up and left."

He plans to stay around for the whole game tonight, and for any afterwards, like, say, the World Series. Patek says he's having a lot of fun now.

Shoe on other foot

YANKEE STADIUM.—The shoe's on the other foot now, Hal McRae told writers after Kansas City squared the best of five-game set against New York yesterday in the American League's playoffs.

The Royals' designated hitter shared the spotlight with little Fred Patek as the bottom half of the batting order supplied all the punch in a 7-4 decision.

"That's the feeling of our club now," McRae said. He slugged a long double and a triple while Patek had a single, two doubles, three runs batted in and he scored once.

"They went into the game with their best (Jim Hunter) and we won," McRae added. "We have the momentum now. They had the big guy but won't have the same face (Hunter) they had today."

The face the Royal batters will look at, at least at the start, will be that of Ed Figueroa in tonight's finale starting at 8:30.

"I have a lot of faith in Figueroa," Billy Martin said.

Answering a question as to what happened yesterday, Martin shot back, "The ball hit Patek was lost in the background and then played poorly. It should have been caught by either (Mickey Rivers or Elliott Maddox). They got the breaks and played well."

Martin confident

"Our guys are fighters. We are confident. We did all right didn't we, we knocked out their super pitcher (Larry Gura)," he added in defense of his troops.

"The pressure is off Figueroa now. He could pitch a three or four-hitter tomorrow," he continued.

Hunter, working with only three days rest - instead of four - did not have it and was shelled in the fourth inning after being raked for five hits and as many runs. With Hunter working, the Yankees were big favorites to wrap up the series. Still, favors the margin is wafers thin in the bookie market.

"I'm not blaming Rivers for losing, it was tough to see. Normally, he would have caught the ball easy," he added.

It appeared that Rivers didn't hustle for Patek's liner and then went into a swan act which ended up with a

Yankee owner will get answer today if money can buy happiness-pennant

NEW YORK (UPI) - New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner finds out today if money can buy happiness—and the American League pennant.

It didn't do a whole lot for him Wednesday as $3 million pitcher Catfish Hunter was knocked out of the game by the Royals, in the fourth inning of Kansas City's 7-4 victory, which evened the best-of-five American League championship series at two games apiece.

"If there's a hard way, we'll find it," pitcher Paul Splittorff said, of the Royals' penchant for continually teetering on the brink of disaster.

But now they're feeling cozy. "We beat the big guy, which is Hunter," said Hal McRae, after rediscovering his batting touch with a double and a triple Wednesday.

"You know they felt the guy today was the guy to do it."

New York Manager Billy Martin immediately named Ed Figueroa to start the final game for the Yankees, while Kansas City best Whitey Herzog admitted he had not looked past the fourth game and was undecided upon the Royals' starter.

Hunter said, "My arm didn't hurt or anything. I don't think my arm was used to it. All year long we went with a four and five-man rotation and my arm just didn't pop back that fast."

The Royals jumped to a 3-0 lead in the second inning Wednesday on Patek's two-run double and Buck Martinez' single.

The Yankees closed the deficit to 3-2 in their half of the inning on

Town time capsule burial site selected

Manchester's time capsule, a red, white and blue painted vault, will be buried in the middle of a knoll just north of Mary Cheney Library after the annual Thanksgiving Day Road Race.

The burial site was selected by Mrs. Terry Paria, chairman of the town's Conservation Commission, and David Gay, chairman of the Bicentennial time capsule committee.

As for his first-game starting pitcher, Anderson doesn't care if he's playing the Yankees or Kansas City. He already has decided to go with and will provide about four cubic feet of space for the historical items of each of Manchester's organizations, including the town, schools, churches and local business community, Gay said.

The only space problem that Gay foresees is that there will not be enough material to fill the capsule. Residents having any historical or future historical items that might be included in the time capsule are asked to call Gay, 647-9792, or Diane Casson at the Municipal Building, 649-2321.

 'All things must come to an end' is a very familiar phrase that many people don't take seriously.
 Yesterday, Manchester Community College's soccer team found out how serious it was as Springfield Tech upset the locals, 3-1, ending their six-game winning streak in Springfield.
 MCC, 6-4, faces South Central Community College Saturday in New Haven.
 The Bay Staters, 4-4, drew first blood 6:17 into the first half. A Tim Goodchild cross set up a Rick Ratell score past MCC goalie Mike Gerber on an early 10-edge.
 Later in the half, a disputed tripping penalty resulted in Tech's second score. Unable to change the referee's mind, the decision stood and Herman Dias converted the penalty shot for Springfield.

Wicks ready to sit down with Celts and talk money

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics and their newly acquired All Star forward Sidney Wicks agree on at least one thing — they each have records that speak for themselves.
 The next thing they have to agree on is a contract.
 "I think my record speaks for itself," said the 6-foot-9 veteran, who has made the NBA All-Star team four years while averaging 23.5 points and 10.3 rebounds a game with the Portland Trail Blazers.
 "This guy's a winner. He would give anything to have a ring like this," said Celtics President Red Auerbach, holding out one of the nine NBA championship rings he earned as the club's coach.
 The Celtics now have 13 NBA title flags hanging from the aged rafters of Boston Garden and Wicks' acquisition gives them a running start on No. 14 even if negotiations with power forward Paul Silas, a holdout in a money dispute, do not work out.
 Wicks, who was introduced to the Boston media at a press conference Wednesday, said he has not reached a contract agreement with the Celtics but anticipated no problems.
 "I think things will work out smoothly," said the 27-year-old Wicks, who is being represented by agent Sam Gilbert.
 "We haven't sat down yet," said Auerbach. "We're satisfied he's with us and we just want him to be happy."
 Wicks, who is in the option year of a five-year contract, hopes to make his first appearance as a Celtic in tonight's exhibition contest against Philadelphia at New York's Madison Square Garden. "I have a groin injury, so we'll see how it responds to treatment."

ILLING

Following the tryouts, teams will be selected and league play is tentatively set to begin in December.
 Registration must be in person. When the age of a youth is questionable, a birth certificate may be required for proof of age.
 Anyone interested in coaching should contact the basketball director at the Rec Center, East Side — Mary Gracyalny and Dwight Kearney; West Side — Rick Silver; Community Y — Cliff LaPointe and Collins Judd.

MHS JAYVEES

Dropping a 2-1 overtime decision yesterday was the Manchester High jayvee soccer team to Simsbury at the Indians' field. It was the young Indians' first setback after five wins.
 Michael Wilson scored for Manchester in the final period with Peter Krupp, Tom Roach, Joe Foran, Bill Frattaroli playing well on the front line and Wilson, Walt Adams, Burt Pina and Ben Yavis defensively.
 Jeff Lombardo got Bennet on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter and the Bears applied tremendous pressure but couldn't get the equalizer.
 Bennet's next tilt is Saturday morning against cross-town rival Iling at Iling at 10.

Tae-kwon-do event set Sunday at arena

Coming up Sunday at Manchester High's Clarke Arena is the Choi Cup, an International Tae-Kwon Do (Korean karate) tournament with contestants from 22 countries expected.

Islanders start fast with four victories

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four years ago, they would've been satisfied with a tie. But today, the New York Islanders won't settle for anything less than a win.
 "We don't plan on losing any games this season," said Garry Howatt jokingly, after he scored two second-period goals in leading the Islanders to a 4-3 victory over the Buffalo Sabres, New York's fourth victory in as many games.
 "That's what we've got planned," he continued, "all 80 games."
 The first two Islanders goals came off Sabre mistakes.
 Eddie Westfall scored an unassisted short-handed goal midway through the first period when he took the puck away from Rene Robert and beat Buffalo goalie Bob Sauve. After Buffalo tied the score on Don Luce's power play goal, Clark Gillies took advantage of Sauve's failure to clear a puck behind his net to give the Islanders a 2-1 lead.
 Then Howatt went to work. He made it 3-1 with a 35-foot shot from the slot at 5:06 of the second period and added his second goal on a shot from in front of the net four minutes later.
 The Sabres narrowed the margin to 4-3 on goals by French Connection linemates Robert and Richard Martin.
 But Buffalo missed a chance to tie the game when Brian Spencer scored of an open net after

Lakers, 76ers, Bucks would all like Erving

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superstar Julius Erving could come to Los Angeles this season if the New York Nets are unable to resolve a contract dispute with him and if the Lakers can outbid the Philadelphia 76ers and the Milwaukee Bucks.
 Erving, perhaps basketball's most exciting player, has refused to report to the Nets for exhibition play, claiming Net owner Roy Boe reneged on promises to renegotiate his $1.9-million, seven-year contract. Boe insists "we have broken no promises, either verbal or written, with Julius," and the dispute has been slated for two weeks.
 Boe gave three NBA teams — Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Philadelphia — permission to talk to Erving. The New York Knicks, also expressed interest but were turned down by Boe.
 Boe is reported in deep financial difficulty. He was required to pay $3.8-million to the NBA as one of the four teams entering the league this season. He had to borrow at least $1 million from a cable television station to meet his payments.
 Several owners have offered to help Boe meet Erving's money demands by forming a pool, as was done in the case of several

UPS, union to meet Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Representatives of the United Parcel Service and the Teamsters Union will meet with federal mediators Oct. 18 to try and settle a month-long strike in 15 Eastern states. The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service announced Wednesday. Mediation service director said union and UPS officials will meet in nearby Alexandria, Va., to discuss the problems of pay and protection for full-time employees in a new contract. The walkout began Sept. 15 and has caused problems for the U.S. Postal Service in many areas because of an increase in packages being shipped by parcel post. "While positions of both sides remain practically unchanged," the mediation service announced, "it was agreed that a bargaining session would be held next Monday at 10 a.m. EDT." The dispute has halted UPS operations in New England, New York State (except New York City area), New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Virginia, North and South Carolina, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

While money has been a major problem for a new contract, the union has also balked at what it calls attempts by the company to replace full-time UPS workers with part-time help.

Maryland couple to divorce again to protest absurdity of tax laws

ELLCOTT CITY, Md. (UPI)—An Ellicott City couple plans to get a second divorce soon — not because of disaffection, but to protest the "absurdity of the tax laws." H. David Boyter, 36, and his wife Angela, 31, got their first divorce last December, remarried Jan. 9 and now say they will go through the same process this year. Federal tax laws require a married couple to pay higher income taxes than two single unmarried adults living together. To avoid the tax bite, the Boyters will be flying off to the Dominican Republic in November for a vacation and a $50 divorce in Santo Domingo. They will be married for the third time in January. Even with the expense of the divorce and the vacation, the Boyters figure they will still come out ahead. "We take the trip for a vacation," Mrs. Boyter said. "People spend over $1,000 just to do what we are going to do — swim and get a suntan on the beaches. Only we are also getting a divorce and expect to pay at least that much less income tax as single adults." The IRS issued a ruling earlier this year "not recognizing divorces like ours," he said. "But until that ruling is upheld in court, we have no plans to stop getting annual divorces until the tax law is made equitable," he said. Despite the divorces, Boyter said he and his wife still have an enduring relationship. "Our marriage is sound," he said.

Kebl of 393 Oakland St., won top prizes in their age groups for their brightly colored-in versions of the company's campaign poster which has the theme, "Let Your Love Flow."

The contest was open to sons and daughters of Connecticut Mutual employees and some 40 entries were received in six different age groups. "We decided to run a coloring contest this year to get children as well as adults involved in our Communitized campaign," said Teri M. Butler, head of this year's Communitized Drive, in announcing the contest results.

"The kids had a lot of fun taking part, and submitted many beautifully colored versions of our campaign poster," she added.
 Abby's father is a consultant in Connecticut Mutual's marketing development and training department, and Laurie's father is a senior administrator in the company's central collections department.

Pioneer reports gain

Pioneer Systems, Inc. (AMEX) today announced operating results for the nine-month period ended Aug. 28, 1976. Net sales were $33,669,000 compared to $34,676,000 in 1975. Net income for the period, after extraordinary gain, amounted to $856,000, equivalent to 30 cents per common share as against a loss of $463,000 in the prior year.

Pioneer President David N. Abrams noted that a number of nonoperating factors influenced the corporation's consolidated results in the nine-month period. He stated that the company had incurred a foreign currency translation loss of $464,000 and a nonrecurring loss of $228,000 before tax provision on the sale of certain nonoperating assets. In addition, net income for the 1976 period includes an extraordinary gain of $1,021,000 on retirement of a portion of its long-term Swiss Franc debt and an extraordinary gain of $270,000 resulting from utilization of tax loss carryforwards.
 Abrams reported that three of the corporation's four 80 per cent owned major subsidiaries were profitable during the first three quarters of fiscal 1976. Before provision for minority interest, Pioneer International Corporation, Vogart Crafts Corporation and The Putnam-Gellman Corporation reported a total of $1,924,000 of pretax profit for the period, while Optical Systems Corporation incurred a pretax loss of $463,000.
 Pioneer Systems, through its operating subsidiaries, markets a diversified range of products and services.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Tropical Storm Belle is responsible for the new greenhouse that John Luton has built on Tunnel Rd. The wind stripped the polyethylene from two smaller and quite old greenhouses farther back from the road and made them unusable with cold weather coming on.

John Luton in his new greenhouse on Tunnel Rd., Vernon. He is holding a plant that he is calling the "Lollipop plant." The orange-growing plant next closer to the camera is an orange-colored Kalanchoe, and still closer the sword-shaped leaves of Sansevieria or snake plant. (Herald photo by Richmond)

A second greenhouse of the same size, 48 by 25 feet, will be put up beside the first one before winter. There is a sign close to the road announcing house plants for sale. Mr. Luton, who was for many years a welder-fabricator, has entered a new career.

He knew something about growing plants because he had helped his father, who has since died, raise vegetable plants in the two old greenhouses, for sale mainly to commercial vegetable growers. He is learning about house plants as he works with them, and he says he can still learn from his mother, who lives next door and helps a little with the new business.

He is willing also to hunt through the pictures and the fine print in large volumes devoted to plant identification. I loaned him the two he has at home and that I use in writing about every column. It was Mr. Luton who found the "Lollipop plant" in one of my books. The botanical name is Pachystachys lutea and it grew wild in Peru.

Like a shrimp plant
I had said, at first glance, this was a "shrimp plant," but there was one trouble with my identification. The "shrimp plant" has deep red, overlapping bracts which look with a little imagination, like shrimp tails.

The bracts on Mr. Luton's plant are yellow. That is the only obvious difference, and that is the reason.

On both plants, small tubular white flowers grow out between the bracts, or overlapping scales. These are modified leaves, not flowers.

Building the greenhouse closer to the road has made a 100 per cent improvement in the business. Mr. Luton said. His plans are to grow both vegetable plants and annual flowers as well as expanding the number of house plants.

He likes to grow plants from seed and from his own cuttings. On one bench he has spider plants in pots set on damp peat moss. As the small daisy-like plants form on the stems of the spider plants, they rest on the damp moss and quickly take root. He has learned that starting them in small pots and letting them become rootbound means they will throw out new baby plants in a shorter time.

There are many pots of tradescantia, with its red-and-green leaves. The stems are beginning to droop over the sides of the pots, on their way to becoming hanging basket plants. Oxalis is thriving small, white blossoms about green leaves that look a little like clover.

There are several cultivated ferns, but Mr. Luton has been unsuccessful in attempts to bring wild ferns into the greenhouse. He has not found any way to keep them healthy in the greenhouse atmosphere.

A plant that never fails to bring exclamations of surprise is the Sensitive Plant. Botanically it is a Mimosa and when a leaf is touched it quickly folds its small leaflets along the mid-rib. In a few minutes they flatten out again. In season it will have small pink blossoms.

The greenhouse is a family enterprise. Everybody works, including Mr. Luton's mother, already mentioned, his wife, their daughter, Susan Ann, 20, and their son, William, 15.

Suspect returned to face charges

A burglary suspect who left Connecticut while his case was still pending in court has been returned to Manchester from Hanover County, Virginia. Jonathan L. Hargrove, 27, of Newport News, Va., waived extradition and was brought back to Manchester Wednesday night on charges of first-degree burglary to appear in court, third-degree burglary and first-degree larceny.

Manchester Detective Sgt. Samuel Kotsch Jr., who wrote to Virginia to take the suspect into custody, said Hargrove had been detained by Hanover County authorities on a fugitive from justice warrant.

Kotsch, accompanied by Patrolman Thomas Schmedding on the two-day trip, said Virginia officers stopped Hargrove while driving for a routine check, and they found a weapon in his automobile. Checking with national law enforcement authorities, the Virginia authorities found that Hargrove was wanted in Connecticut.

Kotsch said the original burglary and larceny charges stem from a November 1975 break into Potterton's Inc. on E. Center St., Potterton's, no longer at that address, reported the theft of five color television sets valued at about $2,500.

Hargrove is being held on a $3,000 cash bond, officers said. He is scheduled to appear today in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford.

Tools worth about $500 were taken in a Wednesday night burglary into the Gammons-Hoaglund Co., 356 Main St., police reported today.

In another business burglary, an undetermined amount of cash was taken from the Penny Saver on Purnell Pl., police said.

Thefts reported to police Wednesday included a motorcycle stolen from a Henry St. address. The 1975 Honda was valued at about $1,000.

The Manchester Board of Education and its employees now have "labor peace." Asst. School Supt. William Deakin said today.

Deakin, the contract negotiator for the school board, said that the contract was ratified by the school board and the teachers' union.

The contract covers the period from September 1, 1976, to August 31, 1977. It includes provisions for salary increases, benefits, and working conditions.

The board and the teachers' union agreed to a three-year contract. The board is pleased with the results of all the negotiating, and all of the new contracts are considered "win-win" situations.

Indian Drive in Indian Summer

Yes, there's a spanking new majestic 7 1/2 room Colonial in this "hideaway" location, custom crafted with a fieldstone front and raised hearth fieldstone fireplace! The bedrooms have wall to wall. The laundry room is on the first floor. The insulation is extra heavy - 3 1/2" in the walls and 6" in the ceiling. (With today's fuel prices, this is of prime importance.) Thermopane windows, of course. Two car garage, and 2 1/2 baths. All this on a "Country" lot well within Manchester.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from HIS WIFE who wrote an open letter to all women who were in love with a married man. I hope you will give me equal space to respond:

DEAR WIFE: He has never told me you are a shrew, cold, homely, too fat (or too thin) or that you have neglected him sexually. Instead he speaks only in glowing terms of you, how you stood by him in rough years, through all the difficult times.

DEAR ABBY: I beg to differ with you when you state that a girl can tell if a man is married because she sees him on weekends or holidays.

DEAR STILL LOOKING: Because she probably figures she's the "business" more by lying to you about his marital status than by seeking satisfaction outside marriage to a woman who refused to sleep with him but refused to divorce him.

WOMEN'S CLUB WORLD

Manchester Junior Women's Club, Inc.

Mrs. Stanley Trask of 86 Doane St. is serving as president of the Manchester Junior Women's Club, Inc. Officers are elected in April and serve from May to May of the following year. Meetings are held on the third Thursday of each month, September through May.

Mrs. Cheryl Pitts of 51 Goodhill Rd., South Windsor, is vice president.

Among the club's annual events are a fashion show, an auction, and a dance.

Purpose of the organization is to keep members informed and help in its town and in the world.

The local club is a member of the Connecticut

State Federation of Women's Clubs. It contributes annually to the Manchester Scholarship Fund. It has also given a dam to Oak Grove Nature Center and a portable incubator was donated to Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The club was organized in December 1958 at a meeting at the Whiton Library. The club voted to become federated and the application for membership in CSFWC was accepted in 1960. Originally named the "Junior Century Club," its name was changed to the Manchester Junior Women's Club in 1967.

Mrs. Stanley Trask

Sunset Rebekah Lodge

Marion Straughan of 114 Washington St. is the noble grand of Sunset Rebekah Lodge, IOOF.

Other officers are Thomra Maloney of 267A N. Main St., vice grand; Elaine Lancaster, Somers, recording secretary; Bernice Cox, 27 View St., financial secretary; and Ruth Beckwith, 44 Montauk Dr., Vernon, treasurer.

Officers are elected in December and serve for one term. Regular meetings are held on the first and third Mondays, September through June, at 8 p.m. at the Marine Corps League Hall on Parker St.

Annual events is the Rebekah Assembly Night or Visitation of State Officers. Purpose of the lodge is to promote fraternalism and to carry on the benevolent and humanitarian work of the Odd Fellows; its aim is to relieve the distressed, visit its sick, bury the dead, and educate the orphans.

Too permanent Remember, a straightener can be used to uncurl naturally curly hair, but it won't do anything for that permanent you got and have decided you hate. If it's that intolerable, have it cut.

Better soft Cocoa butter sticks which can be purchased inexpensively at a drugstore are handy smoothers for wind-weary skin, for hands and lips as well.

Marion Straughan

The lodge, which has about 150 members, was instituted in 1894. The 50th anniversary of Sunset Lodge was observed in 1944 with Ruth Beckwith as noble grand.

In 1961, the Connecticut Eye Bank was organized and is sponsored by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Connecticut. The Rebekahs throughout the state have had many fund-raising projects for this cause. The Eye Bank is established in the New Britain General Hospital.

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Coddie boots
If Frye boots are part of your wardrobe (or any western style, natural leather boot), keep them looking good with saddle soap and an occasional application of mink oil or neat's-foot oil.

Bang control
Letting bangs grow out? To surmount the awkward stage, try curling them back with a curling iron or part your hair in the middle and secure the bangs back with barrettes.

Uniform code
If the uniform look is for you, don't forget accessories have to have a sturdy, utilitarian look as well.

Assenting white
If you wear a white uniform during work, remember to wear clear make-up colors — easy on the eyes. Make sure your foundation matches your skintone.

Flea market
For that one of a kind look in jewelry, wear a plain gold or silver chain with a trinket from an antique fair or flea market.

Protect ears
If earmuffs and hats don't appeal to you but your ears still cry out for protection in the winter, why not wear a ski band.

Balloon Mail

The French created the first postal system of modern times in 1450 and launched air mail a century ago. A balloon carrying 500 pounds of mail soared aloft from Paris on Sept. 23, 1870, during the Franco-Prussian War. Because the free-floating balloons landed in the Prussian camp, Parisians soon switched to pigeons.

On wearing shoes fit for a queen

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — You are at an important affair. There is one particular trend follower present, perhaps a size three, who stares coldly from her de la Renia eyeglasses and Halston asymmetrical neckline. Her estimate of you is clear: On a scale of one to ten, you don't register.

It takes some contriving, but you manage to slip your foot out of your shoe so that she can get a good look inside.

"By appointment to H.M. The Queen, Shoemakers, H. & M. Rayne & Co., Ltd." That's what it says, right there in your shoe, in gold letters. A clean and swift victory.

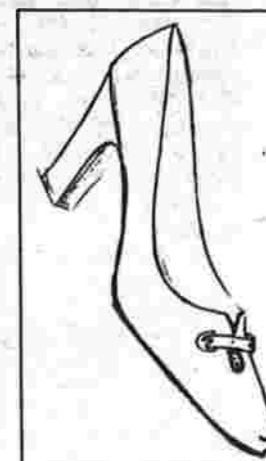

Rayne shoes aren't widely available here yet. Edward Rayne, chairman of the London firm, explained on a recent visit to New York that the company just bought the I. Miller shoe chain.

"So we have about 55 outlets in the States, including our departments in Delman Shoe salons, and you will be increasingly able to buy Rayne shoes in our outlets."

In 1961, Rayne became president of Delman Shoe Salons in America, the most prestigious of which just may be in Bergdorf Goodman's on Fifth Avenue here, where we spoke.

Now, to tell the truth, despite the prestige, you may not care to spend $60 or $70 for a pair of Rayne shoes because, judging from the rack in Bergdorf's, they're rather on the staid side. Dull, one might say. The sandals are decorous, the short-vamped ghillies respectable, the pumps understated. Oh, nicely crafted, mind you — but then they should be for the price, shouldn't they?

"You pay for the design basically," Rayne says. "The intrinsic value of the materials that go into the PEEKED vamp in white patent with a touch of gold was in Queen Elizabeth's shoe wardrobe when she visited the United States and Canada recently. Such classic shoe designs by H. & M. Rayne, Ltd. London, soon will be more widely available in the U.S.

shoes doesn't justify the difference in price between a $20 pair and one for $60. But we've entered an era of consumerism and I think one accepts that the fit and quality should be taken for granted.

What about the Queen, then, who wore Rayne shoes during her visit here? What size does she wear? Is she prompt with her bills? And what about Princess Anne and Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother, for whom Rayne also supplies shoes?

Rayne, a portly and rather harried gentleman with thick eyeglasses, is reluctant to reply. Polite but reluctant.

"One, you see, is not supposed to commercialize on a royal warrant. The Queen has been on the throne for 24 years and she gave us a royal warrant after three years." The most he will say is that "her shoes are medium heel and quite soft and comforttable. You can see from the sketches."

Ah yes. Functional shoes for standing in receiving lines and reviewing troops. Shoes suitable, too, for scrutiny by the public.

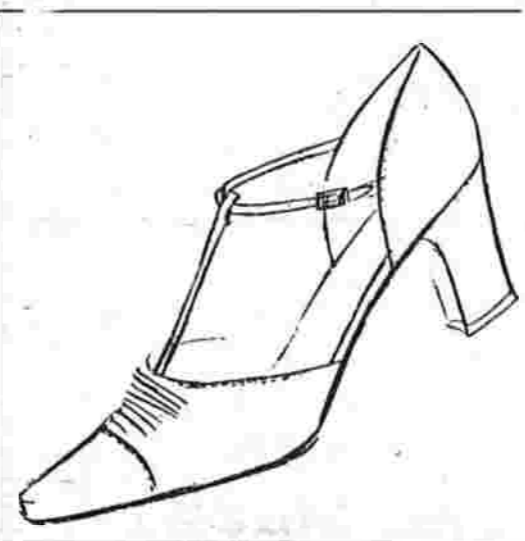

H. & M. Rayne & Co., Ltd., is well attuned to that. It was founded in 1889 by Rayne's grandparents as a theatrical shoe business. "Now," he says, "with the theater and films, we've got a kitchen sink syndrome and the excuse for people to wear pretty shoes is rather less than was the case 30 or 40 years ago." Which explains the company's entrance into the fashion field. Still, Rayne's clients include Katharine Hepburn, who "likes fairly conservative shoes, generally low heels because she's rather tall." And Rosalind Russell, "who rather likes elegant, more feminine shoes."

Since Europe is the center of the marketplace for fashion shoes, he says, "There's very little difference between shoes we sell here and in England. American ladies are slightly taller and you get lots of them with slim, angular feet. More than we see in Europe where the feet tend to be shorter and fatter."

Boxlike or tapered, those feet will be parading in boots this fall. "There's a tremendous emphasis on boots of all heights and a lot of interest in the elegant, tailored shoes, particularly tie shoes that go with tweed and country looks. And a lot of interest in wine shades."

Well, now, does the Queen wear wine shades? Does one just stick a shoe on her foot or wait for her to say something like, "You may proceed with the royal right foot?" We wanted to ask, but we didn't. After all, we have settled one major dispute rather nicely with the mother country, haven't we, ducks?

OPEN-SIDED Court Shoe on a medium high heel was worn by Queen Elizabeth on her recent visit to the United States and Canada. She chose a pair in navy blue to wear in Philadelphia and in sandstone for New York. In softly draped kidskin trimmed with matching patent, shoes are by H. & M. Rayne, Ltd., London, who now own I. Miller.

COMPLETE peasant look is interpreted for Jerry Silverman for fall. It is done in Italian rayon-crepe de chine border print with rope belt and matching scarf in green-yellow-brown.

The guild was initiated in 1959 being one of the first organizations of the newly founded St. Bartholomew's Parish. Among its various committees are altar, St. Camillus Society, and Social Action.

Slouch today, suffer tomorrow

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dr. Catherine Carlton is appalled by women's unbecoming attitude these days.

In a phone interview from her Fort Worth, Tex., office, the president-elect of the American Academy of Osteopathy said:

"There's no pride in posture anymore. I seldom see a young girl in my office who isn't slouching in her chair or with one foot tucked up under her. Years ago, they used to have posture queens. Now, even the models roll their shoulders forward, for some reason, and this isn't good for the looks."

Those girls slouching in her waiting room are there, Dr. Carlton says, to complain of aches and pains resulting from bad posture. And here's where ulcers are going to throbb on Seventh Avenue — she sees a connection between current fashions and crumpled carriage.

"The slouchy, loose clothes don't hold the stomach in which doesn't help the posture any," she says. "You see, all the nerves to all the organs of the body make their exit from the spine and if the organs of the body are going to get the best impulses, they are going to come from an area that's straight."

"Ideally, a woman should keep her muscles toned by walking a lot or swimming and hanging from a crossbar twice a day to straighten the spine."

If, however, she's relying on loose clothing to camouflage lazy muscles, "She should wear a little garter belt. I'm not too crazy about girdles. A tight one backs up the venal blood in the legs and causes varicose veins. And I don't think women should wear pantyhose all the time because it prevents air from getting to the vagina which makes it more likely to get a fungus there."

The empire waistline, she says, "restricts the motion of the rib cage and you can't breathe. So you can't aerate the blood as well. You'd do better to have the waist at the natural waistline."

"And when young ladies go without bras, it will make their breasts sag and break the tissues. It's better having support there and possibly help hold up the shoulder." Especially for those well-endowed.

Speaking of shoulders, since 85 per cent of humanity is righthanded, she says, "we drop the right shoulder often because we're always reaching down for things with our right hands. That puts a curve in the spine to the right, which crowds the rib cage where the concavity is and isn't good for the lungs." Use your left hand more, she urges. "Get acquainted with it."

DO YOU suffer back and neck pains? It may be due to bad posture. Common positions that may cause chronic aches are (left) the Venus de Milo stance of tilting to one side; (top center) sitting on one foot; (top right) holding phone between ear and shoulder, and (bottom) propping up the head to read or to watch TV. All these distort the straight line of the spine and prevent "good function," according to Dr. Catherine Carlton, president-elect of the American Academy of Osteopathy.

And lighten up that shoulder bag and alternate it from one shoulder to the other.

The "best bet in shoes," she says, "is one that's no higher than an inch and a half and offers some support in the arch. If the arch goes down, the knee tends to roll in so you become knock-kneed, so to speak. If you have a little bit of an arch, you walk correctly, stepping first on the heel of the foot, then the outside and Earth shoe is excellent. I believe it helps the posture by changing the center of balance. In pregnant women where they tend to be front heavy, this tilts them back."

So, ladies, put that bra on, tuck that stomach in under that tunic, and get that left hand moving. And, to make sure you're standing up straight, Dr. Carlton offers a simple precaution: look in the mirror.

finally the toes. That's perfect. You tend to have a better knee and a better back which means if you have good structure, you have good function." No lower back pains, in other words.

"Sneakers are all right for tennis but not to wear all day long. A low-heeled sandal is fine if it has support. Just because it's open to the air doesn't mean it's bad. And the

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Wig trick
Before changing your present hairdo, try on some wigs for different color and cut ideas.

Double trouble
You can camouflage a double chin by blending dark foundation on and under it.

Soothe lips
Choose a creamy lipstick to help prevent chapped lips. If you're an inveterate lip-biter, break the habit.

No strain
If you're a full-bosomed woman, make sure a dress or jumpsuit, or a blouse for that fact, fits properly in the chest—no buttons bulging or popping. This detracts the attractiveness of the outfit.

Eye age
To make eyes seem wider apart, use a brown cosmetic pencil on eyelids, extend the line beyond the eye.

Hair treat
If you worry about drying out your oily hair with a shampoo made for oily hair, try a normal-dry hair shampoo and add a little powdered magnesium to it to absorb the extra oil without hurting the hair.
