Answer man welcomes debate

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Campaign Answer Man is on hand today to give us impressions of the second Ford-Carter debate and some predictions of what we can expect in the final encounter this week.

Question—Sir, do you agree with the apparent consensus that while President Ford "won" the first debate, Governor Carter was the winner in the second?

Answer Man—On the contrary, President Ford definitely won the second debate. After all, his biggest problem before the debate was diverting attention from the Butz commentary on the black vote. You may have noticed that the Butz flap was all but forgotten after the President got through.

Question—But what about the President's own comments on Soviet domination of Eastern Europe? Didn't he hurt his campaign in the ethnic communities?

Answer Man—Only temporarily. The President will explain in the third debate that he thought the question was about "eastern syrup," and who among us would contend that Vermont is under the Russian thumb?

Question—Well, how did you rate Governor Carter's performance in the second debate?

Answer Man—The governor did very well in proving that he is versed in foreign affairs. That was made clear when he began talking about "Basket Three" and the "Sonnenfeld Document" and correctly pronounced Czechoslovakia.

Of course, he could not begin to match the President's command of the diplomatic and defense vocabulary. By my count, Mr. Ford got 14 more "bilaterals" and nine more "multilaterals" in his answers than Carter and absolutely cleared, the bases with his reference to "MIRVing" missiles.

Question—Well, the final debate is coming up this week. What do you look for in it?

Answer Man—First, I expect the candidates to tie up the loose ends from the first two debates. For example, if Carter is asked about his position on abortion, he probably will reply that state government spending did not rise when he was governor of Georgia. If the Playboy interview is mentioned, I expect Carter to explain his position on national health insurance.

For his part, the President will answer questions about his golfing weekends with a description of the Commerce Department's system of keeping track of companies that participate in the Arab boycott against Israel. Should former Secretary Butz be mentioned, Mr. Ford will reveal that the price of maple syrup has remained stable for 30 days after a long period of inflationary price increases caused by the recalcitrance of the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Question—We've asked you this before, but perhaps you have some new insight—what will be the impact of the debates on the election?

Answer Man—Yes. It is my conclusion that anyone who watches all of these debates from start to finish and then actually votes on Nov. 2 will have demonstrated faith in our system so unshakable as to be worthy of special commendation.

Therefore, I suggest that the government recognize all such sterling citizens by presenting them with passes good for lifetime free admission to any meeting of the League of Women Voters.

Push for Sunday liquor sale to be delayed

By DOUG BEVINS

Herald Reporter
A group of Manchester restaurateurs seeking a town ordinance to allow Sunday liquor sales has abandoned its petitioning effort for this year but will probably try again in 1977.

David Woodbury of David's Restaurant, leader of the group, said today that petitioners were unable to obtain enough signatures before the deadline passed for forcing a referendum on the proposal.

Woodbury said the group was trying to get 3,000 signatures but only obtained 1,700. He said proponents of the measure haven't met again, but it appears likely there will be another try next year.

Woodbury said many restaurateurs demonstrated support for allowing Sunday liquor sales and a few were opposed.

"We think it's a reasonable request," Woodbury said, explaining why an ordinance change was being sought.

State liquor taxes are high, overhead costs are climbing, and Manchester restaurant owners still have to pay rent even if they're not open, he said.

When Manchester restaurants are closed on Sundays because they can't sell liquor, townspeople are just going out of town on that day, Woodbury said.

He said Sunday liquor sales would help keep restaurants in business and keep Manchester money in town. In addition, allowing Sunday sales might attract new restaurants to help boost the town's tax base, he said.

The history of Sunday liquor sales in Manchester goes back to Oct. 1, 1917, when the town voted to go bone dry seven days a week.

In the following year, on Oct. 7, 1918, the town voted again and reversed itself to allow sale of liquor six days a week, with Sunday remaining dry.

In 1920, national Prohibition began and Manchester, along with the rest of the country, was dry until 1933, when the measure was repealed. But Sundays in Manchester were still dry.

In October 1939 an attempt was made to permit Sunday liquor sales, but the proposed ordinance was rejected by voters.

Partisans differ on GNP views

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jimmy Carter's forces and the Ford administration have expressed sharply different views on the government's latest economic growth report.

Ford said an increase in housing starts was "excellent news" for the construction industry and "illustrates the increasing confidence of builders and home buyers in the strength of the underlying economic recovery."

Carter's headquarters in Atlanta said the GNP figures are "proof that the economy is in a downward slide."

"The continued economic slide reported today," the Carter camp said, "means a continuation of high unemployment, huge budget deficits and poor prospects for any improvement in the standard of living of the average worker."

Ford's chief economic adviser Alan Greenspan acknowledged that "because we still have a high rate of unemployment, clearly this growth rate is not enough" to reduce it, but he predicted a "much higher rate" — perhaps as much as 6 per cent — in the final quarter of the year.

Treasury Secretary William Simon said the economy is moving in accordance with previous administration predictions. He criticized the news media for using the third-quarter figure to paint a gloomy economic picture.

The modest third-quarter rise in real GNP was substantially less than

Hartford Times ends publication

HARTFORD (UPI)—The Hartford Times, founded in 1817 and at one time the largest newspaper in Connecticut, today went out of business, a move that had been expected for some time.

The Register Publishing Co., which also owns the New Haven Register and New Haven Journal-Courier, made the announcement that the Times would cease publication after 159 years.

The Times had been losing money for years and rumors of its impending demise had been circulating through the state for some time.

Employees were given the news at a morning staff meeting.

The financially ailing paper has been dropping in circulation for more than a decade after being the state's largest single newspaper. It was passed in circulation by the Hartford Courant in the mid-60's.

As a last ditch effort to build circulation the Register Publishing Co. began a morning edition of the Hartford Times known as the "morning line" earlier this fall.

In a front page story the New Haven Register today described the Times as "a newspaper strangled by litigation."

The Times was bought by the Register Publishing Co. from Gannett Co. Inc. of Rochester N.Y. in October 1973.

The closure threw 350 persons out of work.

"Since 1973 the present management has struggled with problems which now have become insurmountable," the Register said.

It said it had brought "claims of fraud and deceit" against Gannett in a court case currently in litigation.

The alleged fraud was in the circulation figures of the Times when it was sold by Gannett to the Register Publishing Co.

"Our advertising support and our circulation have been gravely injured from the start. Despite exceptional efforts by management and a dedicated staff to produce a newspaper of quality for Hartford and the Capitol region, our position has steadily eroded," the newspaper said.

"We are left with no choice but to close the Times," it said.

A spokesman for the Register said severance pay arrangements have been worked out for all eligible employees of the Times.

The Register said the Times had never overcome the shock to advertiser and reader confidence from disclosure in court records that the Gannett circulation figures had been "grossly exaggerated."

The litigation challenging the sale by Gannett is currently before U.S. District Court Judge Jon O. Newman.

A possible sale of the Times to the Courant, now the state's largest single newspaper, was opposed by a number of newspapers in Hartford's suburbs.

boycott of U.S. firms that trade with Israel.

"This is a horrible travesty, a disgrace on our country," Carter said. "We need to get President Ford out of the White House."

"We'll do away with the Arab boycott," Carter promised.

Carter told the American Public Health Association in Miami Beach that he backs an health insurance program that would pay the medical expenses of every American — but only when the government can afford it.

Carter said his insurance program would be phased in "as rapidly as revenues permit." He said coverage of catastrophic health bills and prenatal and infant care would come first.

Boycott toleration called a disgrace

By LEWIS LORD

United Press International President Ford says Jimmy Carter's policies could cripple the nation's defense, and Carter says the President is disgracing the nation by tolerating the Arab boycott.

The two candidates swapped harsh words Tuesday while Ford tended to White House matters and Carter campaigned along the Eastern Seaboard, from Miami to Winston-Salem, N.C., to New York City.

Ford told a delegation of Amvet veterans that Carter would "cut billions and billions" from defense spending and this would send America into global diplomacy "with one hand tied behind her back."

If this happened, Ford said, America "will return on her knees, not her feet."

Ford said America cannot afford to cut military forces by billions in order to "pay for a galaxy of new social programs."

Carter, addressing voters in Miami Beach, denounced what he described as Ford's tolerance of the Arab

Flu clinics scheduled

Manchester's second flu clinic will be Friday from 3 to 9 at Manchester High School cafeteria.

It is different from the first clinic in that the monovalent vaccine will be administered only for non-high risk persons ages 25 through 59.

The registration form and information for the monovalent vaccine will be published in Thursday's Herald. Persons using it are reminded NOT to separate the registration form from the informational sheet. It MUST be kept intact, as this is a requirement of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

There will be another flu clinic Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to noon, also at the high school, for people age 60 and over, for high risk persons ages 25 and over, and for non-high risk ages 25 through 59.

The bivalent vaccine forms for Saturday's clinic will be in Friday's Herald.

Ferry boat-tanker crash kills four

DESTREHAN, La. (UPI)—A fully loaded ferry boat carrying commuters to work collided with a 664-foot tanker and sank in the Mississippi River today, trapping passengers in the wreckage and sending others into the water.

Authorities said at least four persons were reported at area hospitals and another 30 to 50 were missing.

"At the present time we have four known dead, but we feel this thing is going to climb real fast," said a state police spokesman.

A Coast Guard spokesman said ferry George Prince had a capacity of 20 cars and 50 walk-on passengers and was believed fully loaded at the time of the accident.

The ferry sank near midstream within 15 minutes of the collision with the Norwegian tanker Frosta, a 22,000-ton vessel. Coast Guard divers were brought 30 miles upriver from New Orleans to search the wreckage for survivors.

The next — and most recent — effort to pass a Sunday sales ordinance came in 1964. The measure, backed by the Manchester Restaurant Association and opposed by the Manchester Council of Churches, was defeated in a Nov. 3, 1964 referendum in which 57 per cent of the voters opposed it.

The modest third-quarter rise in real GNP was substantially less than the 5 per cent rate forecast by administration economists as late as July.

It also represented the slowest annual growth rate since the fourth quarter of last year when the economy expanded by only 3.3 per cent. It was the second consecutive quarter the growth has slowed.

The GNP grew at rates of 4.5 per cent in the spring quarter and 9.2 per cent in the first quarter.

The Commerce Department also reported the cost of living, as measured by GNP indicators, rose by 4.4 per cent in the third quarter, compared with 5.2 per cent in the previous three months.

Politics Pearson

The two candidates for the 12th Assembly District seat have issued statements concerning taxes.

Walt Joyner, the Republican challenger, said that the state "must re-establish a healthy business climate in Connecticut to restore confidence in this state so that we do not lose any more industry or jobs."

Simple facts tell you that new taxation will not do it. Financial credibility and reasonable taxation will," he said.

He criticized his opponent, incumbent Democrat Rep. Ted Cummings, "for voting to increase the income tax on the business community a whopping 25 per cent."

Cummings came out in favor of inheritance tax relief. He said he would support increasing tax exemptions and deductions on inheritances.

"Exemptions and deductions are too low. Too many businesses have to sell to pay the taxes. I want to correct that," Cummings said.

Inheritance tax relief is "very much needed to protect the widow of a modest estate, the small businessman who wants to continue in business, and, particularly, the small farmer," he said.

Senior citizens attending the West Hill Fellowship Hour on Monday afternoon re-elected President Ford in a pre-election sample ballot.

Rev. Kenneth Gustafson of the Calvary Church, Assemblies of God, conducted the fellowship hour and asked the 24 people present how they would vote on Nov. 2. Fourteen said they would vote for Ford, eight said they would choose Carter, and two were undecided.

Another note of local interest concerning Ford was a statement made by the head of the Polish National Home in Hartford.

Chuck Lukas, a Manchester resident and head of the state division of Democrats for Ford, organized and emceed the event.

The featured speaker was Mitchell Kobelinski, who, as U.S. Small Business administrator, is the highest-ranking Polish person in the U.S. government. Kobelinski told the

In 1965-66 he was a high school teacher of history in Port Washington, L. I., N. Y. and an instructor of history from 1966 to 1968 at Temple, where he also held a fellowship from 1968 to 1970.

Mrs. Paul Adams was elected vice president. He-elect was Mrs. George Walker, corresponding secretary. Miss Jeanne Low, recording secretary; and Miss Emily Smith, treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, Miss Catherine Putnam, John Johnston, Earl Trotter, and Demmon, ex officio.

Dr. Sutherland presented Demmon with a framed certificate of appreciation, commending the past president for his two terms of leadership.

Three more men arrested as burglary suspects

Manchester Police have arrested three more men in the continuing investigation into an alleged burglary gang operating in eastern Connecticut.

Arrested on warrants Tuesday were William T. Green, 20, of Rt. 31, North St., charged Tuesday night with disorderly conduct, after an incident on Center St. Court date is Nov. 8.

Edward B. Wrobel, 51, of 24 North St., charged Tuesday night with third-degree criminal mischief, after an incident at a home on N. Main St. Court date is Nov. 12.

Guver Manufacturing Co., 234 Hartford Rd., has reported several items missing after a weekend break discovered Monday. Stolen were several checks, a check writer, typewriter and $150 cash, police said.

Carter edge 4 points over Ford in new poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Lou Harris-ABC News poll taken after the second presidential debate shows President Ford trailing Jimmy Carter by only four points.

According to a survey of 1,503 voters made jointly by the Harris organization and ABC News between Oct. 7 and 11, Carter had 44 per cent of the vote, Ford 40 per cent and third party candidate Eugene McCarthy 16 per cent. The other 10 per cent were undecided.

Harris said the results of the survey show the momentum is "going Ford's way" and said "make no mistake about it, this election is up for grabs."

Harris said Carter lost his previous 50 to 41 per cent lead despite his 54 to 30 per cent win in the second presidential campaign debate.

The pollster said the latest survey indicates the race is likely to narrow even further in the final two weeks, with much depending on what each candidate does and says.

When voters were asked which candidate they trust more, 39 per cent of the voters said Ford, compared to 38 per cent for Carter, Harris said. After the first debate, Carter ran ahead on the trust issue by 59 to 37 per cent.

Ward seeks re-election to CSC post

Hugh Ward of 3 Evergreen Rd. will be seeking re-election as second vice-president when the Connecticut Council of Senior Citizens Ninth Constitutional Convention convenes Thursday at 10 a. m. in New Haven.

The convention, which will be held at the Sheraton-Park Plaza Hotel, is a biennial event. Ward, who is 69 and retired, has served for the past four years as second vice-president.

Registration for the convention will begin at 9 a. m. with the program starting an hour later.

Those in attendance will hear speeches from Sen. Lowell Weicker and Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer, candidates for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Weicker.

The convention will also act on nine legislative proposals which may be recommended in the future to the state legislature.

Ward said that the proposals to be voted on at this year's convention include an act to exempt the elderly and non-profit groups from the state sales tax.

The convention is open to the public and there will be a lunch served, Ward said. There is a registration fee.

The Connecticut Council of Senior Citizens is a non-profit, non-partisan organization of independent senior citizens groups. It has fought in the past for lower property taxes, higher Social Security benefits, and decent housing for the elderly.

Affirmative Action plan previewed

The Human Relations Commission Tuesday night had a preview of one of the facets of the town's Affirmative Action Plan, which it will monitor.

The commission received its first "flow chart" of town employment activities for the three month period from July through September.

The chart shows how many white or minority males and females applied for a certain job opening, how many of them were qualified or unqualified, how many passed or failed tests, and the number of each who were certified to a department and how many were appointed to the position. It also shows how many of the applicants did not take a test for the job opening.

The commission will regularly receive these charts to determine the effort the town is making in the hiring of minorities to comply with the town's Affirmative Action plan.

William Tierney, town systems analyst, told the commission that for an applicant to be certified he had to be within five points of the top score in testing. The head of each department will have to submit a reason for the selection of a candidate for a post over others who have qualified, Tierney said.

Commissioner Frank Livingston told Tierney that if four applicants are certified and one of them is a member

Guidance Clinic begins new program

The Manchester Child Guidance Clinic is planning a new discussion group for parents of nursery school children.

The group will meet for eight Thursdays beginning Oct. 28 from 9:30 to 10:45 a. m. to discuss questions that frequently arise such as "My child tells me nothing about his day at school"; "I nearly died when I saw my four-year-old had stolen a box of cookies while we were shopping at the supermarket"; "Sometimes I can't stand my kids. Then I feel so guilty. Yet, I wanted them so badly"; "Why didn't anyone give a course in high school on parenting?"

Questions like these have been brought up with regularity at groups of parents of nursery school age children meeting at the Community Child Guidance Clinic for the past five years. The group members are parents of children at local nursery schools.

They met at the clinic with staff therapists and share experiences with the leaders acting as "facilitators."

The groups were started at the request of several community nursery school directors. The informal discussions center around the preschool children, their development, and how parents can cope with some of these common concerns.

Any parents of nursery school age children in the community are invited to join the new group. Miriam Bassuk and Barbara Ivry, psychiatric social workers at the clinic, will act as facilitators, assisted by Anne Satriano, social work intern.

Further information is available by calling the clinic at 643-2101.

Kissinger calls Israel asset, not burden, to United States

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told a Jewish audience Tuesday night Israel was a strong asset and not a "burden" to the United States.

Kissinger's speech, in which he also defended U.S. policy on human rights as a marriage of morality and realism, was briefly interrupted by about 15 militant Jewish demonstrators who shouted that the secretary had betrayed Israel by forcing it to accept a "premature cease-fire" in the 1973 Middle East war.

After the protesters—chanting "Kissinger Must Go"—were ejected from the banquet hall, the secretary said, "This sounded like one of my Harvard seminars."

Minutes later, he again departed from his prepared text and rejected a statement by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that Israel's defense was "a burden" on the United States.

Without directly mentioning Gen. George S. Brown or his controversial remark in an interview this week, Kissinger said, "In our joint efforts, we consider Israel not as a burden, but as a strong asset. Not as a liability, but as a staunch bastion of democracy."

The comment drew loud applause from the audience at the Synagogue Council of America's 50th anniversary dinner. Among those on the dais was Kissinger's father, Louis.

In his speech, Kissinger defended his achievements of the last eight years and, without naming Jimmy Carter, rebuffed the Democrat's charge that U.S. foreign policy under the Republicans had not advanced moral principles.

Citizen makes a point

We don't always agree with Frank Lupien, one of Manchester's more vocal political observers. But he made a good point at last week's Board of Education meeting, and we hope board members were listening. Lupien criticized the board's policy in public comment. He had to ask for special permission to speak, and after he was allowed a few minutes, one board member said the policy shouldn't have been altered at all. School board members often say there's little public interest in local education. It's no wonder, Lupien said, because the board policy allowing public comment is so restrictive. The school board meets twice a month, and during its second meeting, time is set aside for public comment. But there are problems: The comment session is limited to half an hour each month. The board often considers and decides important matters before the comment session is held. And the board's agendas usually aren't announced until the same day of the meeting. There are many reasons why the school board should be listening to townspeople more often, but probably the most important one is that 60 per cent of the town's budget goes for education. The school board now is gearing up for preparation of the 1977-1978 budget, and now is the time to change the policy on public comment. For starters, the school board should give townspeople better notice of its meetings. Agendas should be available a week before the meeting date so citizens can plan to attend. Then the board should provide time at every meeting, not just once a month, for public comment. And later, the board should consider expanding its meeting schedule and plan special sessions just for public comment.

One for the Road

Washington's unknown strongman

WASHINGTON - He's an extraordinary man. A radical. His private denunciations of government operations and the failure of the bureaucracy to bring the public into policy formulation make Jimmy Carter's campaign statements look pale by comparison.

Almost an unknown. But certainly one of the most influential men in Washington. Closer to President Ford's ear than Secretary of State Henry Kissinger or Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld. Perhaps closer, in fact, than any member of the cabinet. I speak of James T. Lynn, Director of the White House Office of Management and the Budget. His strength is as the strength of 10 because Mr. Ford is convinced Lynn is about the only man in government who is in a position to be objective. Everyone else, high and low, is, in some measure, selling a program or defending one. In theory, at least, Lynn's OMB has no axe to grind. Mr. Ford is convinced this is true in fact as well as theory.

go up, the politicians, depending on their party bias, will blame the weather, the opposition party, the Soviet Union, the farmer, the middleman, etc. Of course, if they go down they will seek ways to take the credit. But what do you do if prices are down and you can't really take credit for it? This is the problem of the Democratically controlled Congress which has tied food prices to the Ford Administration for the past two years because of the Russian wheat deal, etc. You do what Rep. Bill Cotter is doing. You predict beef prices will go up by 25 to 50 per cent by some unspecified date in 1978. And you get some forecaster in the Department of Agriculture to agree with you. After all no bureaucrat is going to say that such an increase is impossible. Food price forecasting, alas, is not a precise science. Now we are cautious, too, and would be the last to say Cotter is wrong in his assertion. But we think his challenge to the Ford Administration to outline what it plans to do to avert this increase in beef prices is pure political smoke. First of all we can expect at least 12 per cent of the price increase to result from inflation which the Cotter's Democratic party claims is a lesser evil than other issues, such as unemployment. Also, we should consider that Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter urged and President Ford has agreed grain growers need higher loan prices. This will enable them to hold off the present depressed market; feed grains until prices improve - which means higher beef prices probably in late 1977 or 1978 right in line with Cotter's prediction. But what really disturbs us is that Cotter is telling only half the story. We checked a few Herald food advertisements at random dates for the past year. We found a boneless U.S.D.A. choice chuck roast was selling for $1.39 a pound Oct. 1, 1975. It was $1.29 a pound in January of this year and down to $1.19 in April. On July 14, 1978, however, it was $1.49. Last week, however, boneless chuck roast could be bought in Manchester for 88 cents a pound. This is about a 40 per cent drop since July. To be fair, Cotter should be telling the housewives who buy the family meat that they are getting a bargain today and whether his price increase is based on 88 cents a pound or $1.49 a pound. Today's cornpatch anger. Any mother: "I don't care if the basement walls are cracking, quit telling everyone you're from a broken home."

Ray Cromley

So he puts his trust in this man more completely than any previous President relied on his budget chief. Which by any standard is an awesome amount of power in one set of hands. Especially for a man quite definite in his views with little tendency to equivocate. He's known to look askance of those who hedge every answer or argument with "on the other hand maybe..." Lynn is known about town for his jokes about himself and his influence. "If I ever get itchy feet and think I'm able to walk on water," he says, "come out and watch me drown."

And he's known too, both today and in his old role as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, as noted at the beginning of this column, for his irreverence toward the bureaucracy and its processes. Example, Lynn would like to see Mr. Ford require that all executive departments hold public hearings nationwide on every piece of major legislation they conjure up, then revise the proposals, radically if necessary on the basis of these hearings, before sending the lot up to Congress. This is the only sure way, he believes, that the parochial views of the Washington establishment can be modified, major bugs ironed out and reasonable bills written. This attitude is a major change from the Lynn of seven years ago, who figuratively held his nose at public hearings. As everyone knows who has been faced with so many executive decisions which could be used to weed out lesser programs, enable the government to concentrate on the most effective. Lynn also is quietly - or maybe not so quietly - attempting to sell a policy called barnacle removal, under which an old program - one say five, 10 or 15 years or so of age - would be stripped down to essentials, looked at to see if the same objectives could be achieved in less costly, more effective ways.

FCC throws CB industry a curve

Beginning Jan. 1, the nation's millions of Citizens Band addicts will gain a little breathing space in their crowded radio space. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) had decided to allocate a total of 40 channels to CB, an increase of 17 over the present 23. In doing so, however, the FCC has thrown industry a curve, and unnecessarily so, in the opinion of one concerned observer. It is another example of government regulators regulating without fully considering the effect on the people they regulate, says V.J. Rice, president of The Antenna Specialists Co. in Cleveland. The effective date of the new channels should have been delayed until at least the middle of next year, he argues, to enable manufacturers to clear their inventories of 23-channel models and gear up for production of the new 40-channel models. Already, he says, one consequence of the decision has been widespread discounting of 23-channel sets, with attendant economic dislocation in the industry. There will be another scramble, he predicts, as manufacturers submit new 40-channel radios to the FCC for type certification. This is a process that takes a minimum of a month and could mean that only a few lucky makers will have approved radios for sale on 40-channel day in January. As a company that makes nothing but communications antennas and related accessories, and which sells

Today's thought

A cup of water Jesus taught: "If anyone gives you a cup of water to drink just because you belong to Christ, then I tell you solemnly, he will most certainly not lose his reward." (Mark 9:41) One might be tempted to understand this "reward" as the motive for Christian love, with an extra special recognition for loving the "saints." This would be a mistake. The New Testament speaks of reward in terms of caring even the least sparrow that might fall. Such small services express God's will. The Christian knows him/herself not to be more worthy than any other. An act of love expressed towards another person is known first as honoring God and not the person. The Rev. Rene O. Bideaux, Superintendent, Connecticut Valley District, The United Methodist Church

South Windsor firehouse program open to public

To the editor: After viewing the South Windsor Fire Department's presentation on its proposed new firehouse, I would like to recommend to every citizen of South Windsor that they take the opportunity to attend this informative and worthwhile program. The slide program takes less than an hour. Hopefully you will volunteer one hour of your time to listen to the firemen who are regularly volunteering many hours of their time for your well being. The fire department will offer the slide presentation and a tour of Firehouse One on Oct. 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. Now is the time to ask questions and explore the value of this project because on Nov. 2 you will make a judgment on whether or not South Windsor will have a new firehouse. Being an informed citizen should make that decision a lot easier! Nancy Caffyn, President, South Windsor Association of Citizens, 1533 Main St., South Windsor

HOW THEY STAND On health care

President Ford said that there are several failings in the Medicare program: it does not provide protection against catastrophic illness and lacks adequate mechanisms to control inflation of health care costs. To correct these deficiencies, the President proposes that Medicare recipients pay 10 per cent of hospital charges up to a maximum of $500 per year and increases the deductible amount for physicians' charges but would institute an annual maximum of $50. To control inflation of health care costs, the President's proposal sets reimbursement limits. Annual Medicare reimbursement increases would be limited to 7 per cent for hospital costs and 4 per cent for physicians' service charges in 1977 and 1978. -Fact Sheet on the President's State of the Union Message, 1/17/78. Ford said, "We cannot realistically afford federally dictated national health insurance providing full coverage for all. I do envision the day when we may use the private health insurance system to offer more middle-income families high-quality health services at prices they can afford and shield them also from catastrophic illnesses."

Carter said, "Our present health care system is in need of drastic reorganization." Carter's proposals include: "a national health insurance program, financed by general tax revenues and employer-employee shared payroll taxes, which is universal and mandatory." "We must shift our emphasis in both private and public health care away from hospitalization and acute-care services to preventive medicine." "A second major problem is to better utilize the health personnel available to us." And Carter said, "We must also reorganize the physical plant of our health care delivery system." Another major thrust should be "to improve the delivery of health care and to bring care within the reach - as well as the means - of all our people." -President's Democratic Platform Committee, 6/78. Ford declared that "consolidation of health programs is essential to continue our national progress in the field of health." (The services that would be consolidated include public health programs, community mental health centers, alcohol programs, maternal and child health, migrant health, family planning and emergency medical services.) -Substance Sun, 2/28/78. -Facts for Nurses, CBS, 3/14/78.

Makeup safer

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Dr. Brian Klinger thinks Halloween masks are frightening for what they hide, not for what they show.

Klinger, president of the New Hampshire Ophthalmic Association, thinks most masks obstruct a child's view and pose a serious threat to the wearers. And he recommended replacing traditional masks with makeup.

"I'm not trying to take the fun out of it by any matter of means. The problem with the masks is the visibility, especially with smaller children."

"They just don't have a good mask to fit them. By and large, a makeup situation is safer and lot more fun," said the father of two Halloween-aged children.

Klinger also warned parents who use makeup to beware of any cosmetic to which their children might be allergic.

"The best thing to do is to have your mother find a little patch of skin and dab on the makeup. Children's skin can be very sensitive."

"If they react, there are plenty of cosmetics designed not to be irritating to the skin. In short, mother should take the same precautions on her kids as she does on herself," he said.

Klinger also recommended the use of reflective tape to make the trick or treaters more easily seen by motorists. He also says parents should accompany the young trick or treaters.

The solar home is located at the corner of Hillstown Rd. and Woodside St. in Manchester and is being built by K.T. Lear Assoc. Inc., a Manchester firm owned by Albert Eggen and Ronald Kraatz. It is under construction and scheduled for completion in November.

The author signs his books

Thomas Lewis Jr., author of the recently published "Silk Along Steel," signs a copy of his book for Ron Blake of Tolland Saturday afternoon in the parlor of the Cheney Homestead on Hartford Rd. Lewis, an assistant professor of geography at Manchester Community College, based his book on the South Manchester Railroad which was built by and for the Cheney silk mills in South Manchester. It carried passengers and silk to North Manchester to the main rail line and still carries freight today. Blake is an MCC graduate, a former assistant town planner in Manchester, and the new town planner in Tolland. In the background are MCC staff members. (Herald photo by Barlow)

PUCA chairman forecasts 10% energy cost increase

HARTFORD (UPI) — But, he said, the price of home heating oil is expected to increase by three to four cents a gallon, and industrial oils by 2.5 to 3.5 cents a gallon because of the gradual decontrol of the price of crude oil. "So it's going to be a costly winter," Harrigan said. Arthur Woods, president of the Connecticut Business and Industries Association, said most Connecticut industries are already planning to spend more on energy this winter and to pass those costs on to the consumer. Suppliers' rates for natural gas, due to take effect Oct. 27, may force prices up by 10 to 12 percent with the higher costs reflected in December billings, gas company officials said. Electricity bills may also go up because fuel adjustment clauses allow the utilities to pass in-creased fuel costs on to their customers. Officials predict increases of 10 per cent or more in the cost of oil and natural gas, which are expected to be in good supply. David Harrigan, deputy commissioner of the Department of Planning and Energy Policy, said, "It looks like the cost of energy is going to go up much more rapidly than the inflation rate." Harrigan said the price of gasoline at the pump may drop by one or two cents during the winter.

State Marine faces charges related to shipboard theft

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Lodging of formal charges was expected today against a Connecticut Marine and two other servicemen arrested in the theft of nearly $80,000 from a safe on the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Forrestal. The three were arrested Tuesday and charged with the Sept. 30 robbery that occurred while the Forrestal was anchored about a mile off the Norfolk Naval Station. Safecrackers tied up a ship's attendant and burned through the walls of the ship's safe to get to the money. A spokesman for the Navy Atlantic Fleet Air Command said the Navy Investigative Service apprehended Marine Cpls. Clayton J. Connors, 22, of Stafford Springs, Conn., Joseph L. Slancil, 21, of Newnan, Ga., and Navy PO 3C Eric Dewallace, 21, of Sudbury, Mass. About $24,000 was found Monday night in a stone

Sen. Weicker confident of victory, but runs hard because he likes the job

By FLOYD LARSON
Herald Reporter
Lowell Weicker Jr. obviously likes being a U.S. Senator and is looking forward to a second term as Connecticut's junior senator.
A Republican, who is also a maverick as far as toeing the traditional Republican line is concerned, Weicker enjoys a more than comfortable lead over his opponent Gloria Schaffer and has the distinction of being backed by many organized labor leaders who normally give their allegiance to Democratic candidates.
"But he still keeps plugging away at what he feels are the issues before the state and nation and is not hesitant about expounding upon them. Sometimes his reactions seem to be those of a man shouting from the lip, but when you sit down and talk with him, as we did in an interview for The Herald Tuesday, the image of a man who does his research, or "homework," as he calls it, comes through along with a certain air of impatience to get things done. With the comfortable lead he enjoys, he seems eager for next January when the new term begins and with it a new grappling of the many problems ahead."
While not making a flat prediction, Sen. Weicker sees President Ford as the "winner" in the presidential contest.
"Right now, it is horse-race," he said, "which is a good sign for the President. Who would realize that the majority is Democratic and for him (Ford) to be 50-50 at this point indicates to me he is really running stronger than the polls tend to show. Like I always say, it pleases me that I am rated on a par with Sen. (Abraham) Ribicoff in popularity in Connecticut when you consider the majority is Democratic. To me, that a Republican holds up that well against a Democrat (like Ford) is doing against Carter) shows how close this race is."
"Yesterday (Monday), I was with the President for a campaign strategy meeting. I was the only one who is a candidate and I told them that as I visit the factories, the towns and meetings I find the man on the street still has a lot of respect for the office of the President of the United States. And despite this recent bad trip we have had with Watergate, the man on the street is idealistic about the future of this country."
"Jobs are my first concern," he said when asked to assess unemployment and inflation. "True, inflation is a problem, but I must put jobs first, for unless we have more people working in productive jobs paying taxes, we won't have the money to tackle some of the other problems."
He thinks the housing industry, especially low-rent housing for the elderly and the low-income person will cut our dependence on the Arabs.

Two young sisters die in New Haven fire

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Two young sisters perished when a fire broke out in a bedroom of their parents' second floor apartment late Tuesday night.
The bodies of Starr Smith, 2, and her 5-year-old sister, Tanya, were found by firemen after beating down flames in a bedroom of the three-story building on Shelton Avenue near the Hamden town line.
Fire Chief Francis Sweeney said it was "absolutely impossible" to get inside the bedroom before the children died from extensive heat and smoke.
They were pronounced dead at Yale-New Haven Hospital where the mother of the children was treated for shock.
Police said the children had been left alone by the mother and the father was at work when the fire broke out about 10 p.m.

Rham double sessions studied

Hebron
KAREN BISKUPIAK
 Superintendent David Cattanech and Rham High School leaders will study double sessions at the junior-senior school.

They will also study other solutions to the crowding at the school.

The school now has double sessions for Grade 7 students. Cattanech termed it a "terrible situation." He doubted that full double sessions would serve as a permanent solution to the crowding.

Cattanech said the only good solution would be more building.

Board members said it would be desirable to present the study results to residents of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough at public meetings. Cattanech reminded board members the initial double session program was intended as a stop-gap measure. He pointed out the enrollment at Rham has jumped this year compounding the problem.

The industrial arts shops are operating at full capacity eight periods each day with no down time for machinery or time for preventative maintenance by the staff.

Additional sought. Architects Jeter, Jenson and Cook are working on the public works grant application for federal funding for additional facilities. The application should be submitted by Oct. 26. A decision may be given to the school within 60 days of submission.

Board Chairman Frank Shannon said the application for a $3.9 million grant would be used to construct a 650-place addition to Rham and make major renovations.

A children's booth will feature small stuffed animals and dolls as well as low cost toys. Yankee pedlar items, small treasures from attics or cellars, are also to be sold.

Donation of items may be brought to the fair, last minute, for sale.

The snack bar at the center will be open all day. The event will be held at the Hemlocks grounds on Jones St. off of Burrows Hill Rd.

The fair will feature a bake shop with fudge, cookies, breads, cakes and other baked goods for sale.

The country store will sell home canned goods, calico handmade items, eggs, cheese and wood handicrafts. A plant shop will feature cuttings, plants and fall dried arrangements.

Other work will include advocacy efforts on open housing, review of local zoning, and development of a neighborhood preservation program.

Mayor Benoit said, "There is much that can be done in the region in this area and I look forward to our association."

How Connecticut lost Bishop's Lake

State Rep. Al Ahearn (D-Bolton) whose 9th District covers Andover said people should not blame the governor for the loss of the Bishop's Lake property in Andover to a private developer.

"I think it is unfair to blame (Gov. Ella Grasso) for the loss," he said in a "factual summary" about the property he released this week.

Comments from his summary included:

"In the past, I have not been reticent about expressing my views on bureaucratic red tape. For example, I was very active in criticism of the state's handling of the removal of the railroad track on the Vernon-Willimantic line when it could have been saved."

"However, in the case of the (Robert) Fuller property, I think that the facts show that the governor moved as quickly as possible when the facts were called to his attention."

Biggest failure
 "My investigation shows that the biggest failure, as I see it, was a lack of direct communication between the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and Mr. Fuller (owner of most of the 528-acre land parcel at the Hebron town line). Yet both DEP Commissioner Joseph Gill and Mr. Fuller were anxious to complete the transaction."

Important dates
 Ahearn listed the crucial dates in the Bishop's Lake property dealings.

• July 1975 — The state's first offer for the property for $588,000. The state would pay 25 per cent and the federal government 75 per cent.

• At that time, the state was in a fiscal crisis, said Ahearn and could not consider the offer.

• June 15, 1976 — The offer was made again. This time Mr. Fuller or his agent agreed to waive the state's portion of the purchase price. He would receive an income tax deduction for this gift, Ahearn said.

• July 22, 1976 — DEP ordered an appraisal. The state said it was worth $455,000.

• Aug. 23 — The approved DEP recommendation to go ahead and buy was sent to the executive offices.

To speak on counseling

Mrs. Evelyn S. Hight of 27 Timber Trail, South Windsor will give an address called "Marriage and Family Counseling With A Single Parent: The Dynamic Interactions of One" this week at the National Council on Family Relations in New York City. She will also take part in a panel discussion of divorce. About 2,000 family specialists will attend.

Cohen coffee

Bolton
 There will be a coffee for Dave Cohen Tuesday from 10 until 11:30 a.m. at the Town Hall.

Cohen is the Republican candidate for state senator in the Fourth Senatorial District.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served. The public is invited.

Miller blames Ahearn for lake loss

Andover
 Dorothy Miller, Republican candidate for state representative from the 5th District, said Tuesday her opponent, incumbent Aloysius Ahearn, is partly to blame for the state's not being able to buy the 528-acre Bishop's Lake property here.

The district covers Andover, Bolton, Hebron, Marlborough, and the Talcottville section of Vernon.

"It is very unfortunate for the people in Andover to have lost Bishop's Lake to private developers," she said.

"I probably wouldn't have happened if Mr. Ahearn had been doing his job," she added.

"The owners have been trying to let the state buy Bishop's Lake for about two years but had received no encouragement until it was too late."

"Mr. Ahearn, had he taken the time to find out about the Bishop's Lake situation, probably could have persuaded the governor to act a couple of weeks sooner."

"This tragedy didn't happen overnight. It is the result of two years' lack of interest in Bishop's Lake by private developers," she said.

Funds shifted

East Hartford
SHEILA TULLER
 Paul Costello, director of school finance control, was granted his request to re-allocate funds totaling $39,823.

On the recommendation of Sgt. Eugene DiStasio, Board of Education authorized the transfer to cover unanticipated costs.

The biggest chunk will go for more aide time at all schools. Schools with special kindergarten programs and the individual guided reading programs will receive most of the aide time.

Repairs to the roof of the EHHS pool showed need for more extensive repairs. The pool roof will require a complete new roof soon. Now the west side of the pool will be repaired at an estimated cost of $6,000.

Dr. Diggs also recommended another $2,000 for security personnel at the two high schools. There is one guard now at each school during school hours. More are needed on an "on call" basis, he said.

"When the board budgeted for the new soccer field for the EHHS varsity soccer team at Burnside School, the cost to replace the existing asphalt basketball court was not included. The baseball diamond to be added to the complex at Burnside will be paid for by the town's recreation budget.

Money will help add a clerk typist position to the personnel department staff. More help is needed to aid the two full-time secretaries under Personnel Director Jerry Marcus.

Dr. Diggs' request for a staff member to aid the Task Force of citizens to recommend the future use of East Hartford schools was approved. At a late hour, the board was still discussing the proposed task force and how and when to organize it.

The fund transfer was made possible because of $189,320 budgeted for transportation, supplies, and insurance. The actual amount needed for these was lower than anticipated because of pre-purchasing, low bids and reductions.

Tuition set
 The board voted to establish tuition at $1,722.75 per student. The kindergarten cost is $861.38, half of the full amount.

The figure was arrived at by deducting the transport costs of $489,841 and bonded indebtedness totaling $1,355,977 from $19,364,086 the total budget for 1976-77. Then the number of students was divided into this figure to reach the tuition figure.

Math team competes

Hebron
 The Rham High School junior varsity math team opened its season recently in a contest at Cromwell High School.

Rham team members included sophomores Kevin Spaulding, Cheryl Perry and Brian Reynolds. Freshman Sharon Reynolds and Grade 8 student Giulio Giacoppe also took part.

Giacoppe scored 11 points, fourth highest among all freshmen and eighth grade students who competed from 16 area private, parochial and public schools.

The team placed seventh in the individual rounds, but finished 10th after a very difficult team round.

Roger Clark, team advisor, is looking for freshman, sophomore and eighth graders for varsity or seven units.

Ambulance committee to be set up

Bolton
 The Fire Commissioners requested the Board of Selectmen Tuesday reactivate the ambulance study committee because they were informed by the Andover Fire Commissioners it may cancel ambulance service to Bolton by Jan. 1.

J. Russell Thompson, Andover selectman and chairman of its fire commissioner, said, "If by Jan. 1, 1977 or before, you (Bolton) decide not to have an ambulance, we would like to establish a means of financial reimbursement or cancel completely the service."

The fire commissioners in both towns met recently to discuss Andover's position as regards its ambulance.

Thompson said about two years ago, Bolton was notified Andover would no longer provide emergency ambulance service unless Bolton reciprocated.

Thompson said now the Tolland Mutual Aid Center is dispatching Andover's ambulance to Bolton without any authority.

Raymond Soma, chairman of the fire commissioners, said Bolton mostly uses the Manchester Ambulance Service. But he said he does not feel the firm meets the standards of Bolton's Emergency Medical Technicians.

He said at their last meeting the fire commissioners voted to support Bolton having its own ambulance. Personnel for it would be provided, he said.

"It is up to the township. If they want Manchester, that is what they will have to live with it," Soma said.

About two years ago the selectmen appointed an ambulance study committee. It recommended the selectmen pursue the matter and appoint a committee to study costs. About half the people it surveyed supported the town having its own ambulance.

However, at that time the fire commissioners said there was no personnel to man such an ambulance. The selectmen plan to appoint a committee. It will research the need for ambulance service in general, evaluate present sources of ambulance service, study costs and make a recommendation.

Vernon gays total 2,500

"This Bicentennial year is an appropriate time to look at our Constitution to see how well we are living up to the 'all men are created equal' portion," former council member Glen Roberts told the Town Council Tuesday night.

Roberts asked the council to pass an ordinance which would give equal rights to gays or homosexuals. He said there are about 2,500 in Vernon.

He said gays are not persons without constitutional rights and loneliness is their greatest problem. Many, especially teenagers, commit suicide because they are lonely. The law doesn't protect them to seek friendship with their peers.

He said 17 states accord rights to homosexuals. Psychologists and counselors disagree as to why some persons are homosexuals. Some say they are born that way, some say it is their environment, and some say it's a combination of both.

Roberts said several national organizations are supporting laws to give homosexuals equal rights and 40

Firehouse site sought

Bolton
 The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously Tuesday to request a sum not to exceed $23,000 to purchase a site for a new firehouse.

The 1.5-acre parcel in question is on Toomey Lane and Sumner Rd. near the new library.

Raymond Soma, chairman of the fire commissioners, presented the request. Soma asked for a joint meeting between the fire commissioners, selectmen and Public Building Commission to discuss the project.

Town to wind up celebration

East Hartford
SHEILA TULLER
 The Bicentennial Commission joined with Mayor Richard Blackstone to invite all citizens to an evening at the Town Hall with the theme "East Hartford's Bicentennial Celebration, An Epilogue."

The event scheduled for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. will be one of the last official events by the commission.

The theme depicts the rounding out of the town's celebration.

The evening will feature a display of items to be sealed in a time capsule, a showing of the film "Resolved to be Free" depicting Connecticut's role in the revolution narrated by Katherine Hepburn, a slide show on the local celebration, and a short presentation of certificates of appreciation.

The mood of the evening will be enhanced by choral and instrumental selections by musicians from East Hartford High School.

The evening gala will be conducted by an informal reception with refreshments.

Students vote
 The students at EHHS went to the polls Tuesday. Jimmy Carter was favored by 659 of the 1,194 students voting for the presidential candidates.

Gerald Ford received 525 votes. The closeness of this race was a great surprise to Social Studies Department Chairman Nicholas Jackson as the voter registration in East Hartford favors the Democrats by a three-to-one margin.

Another big surprise was the win of Republican Sen. Lowell Weicker. This race was closer than the presidential as Weicker received 598 votes to Gloria Schaffer's 546 votes.

U.S. Rep. William Cotter was the big winner of the day beating Republican Lucian DePaio 851-805 in the First Congressional District race.

Local Democratic incumbents, Third District Sen. George Hannon and 11th Assembly District Rep. Richard Willard, won over their Republican opponents. Hannon topped Anthony Sioppa 781-821. Willard beat Town Councilman James Cordier 777-853.

Repairs to the roof of the EHHS pool showed need for more extensive repairs. The pool roof will require a complete new roof soon. Now the west side of the pool will be repaired at an estimated cost of $6,000.

Dr. Diggs also recommended another $2,000 for security personnel at the two high schools. There is one guard now at each school during school hours. More are needed on an "on call" basis, he said.

"When the board budgeted for the new soccer field for the EHHS varsity soccer team at Burnside School, the cost to replace the existing asphalt basketball court was not included. The baseball diamond to be added to the complex at Burnside will be paid for by the town's recreation budget.

Money will help add a clerk typist position to the personnel department staff. More help is needed to aid the two full-time secretaries under Personnel Director Jerry Marcus.

Dr. Diggs' request for a staff member to aid the Task Force of citizens to recommend the future use of East Hartford schools was approved. At a late hour, the board was still discussing the proposed task force and how and when to organize it.

The fund transfer was made possible because of $189,320 budgeted for transportation, supplies, and insurance. The actual amount needed for these was lower than anticipated because of pre-purchasing, low bids and reductions.

Tuition set
 The board voted to establish tuition at $1,722.75 per student. The kindergarten cost is $861.38, half of the full amount.

The figure was arrived at by deducting the transport costs of $489,841 and bonded indebtedness totaling $1,355,977 from $19,364,086 the total budget for 1976-77. Then the number of students was divided into this figure to reach the tuition figure.

Firemen okay contract

GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
Members of the town fire fighter's union voted Tuesday night to accept a contract offer proposed by the town on Tuesday morning.

The accepted proposal makes three changes to the fact-finder's report which was issued on Sept. 3.

The first change would grant the fire fighters a 4.5 per cent raise in the second year of the two-year contract.

The second proposed change presented by the town and accepted by the firemen would grant the fire fighters payment on 50 per cent of the total accumulated sick days with no maximum limit.

The present facility at the hospital is considered outmoded and too costly and difficult to maintain. Also, since its installation, it has caused considerable vibration throughout the hospital when it is in use.

Familiar scene for Yankee followers comes true again

Capacity crowd watches first series games in dozen years at Yankee Stadium

Reds after first sweep since 1966

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Cincinnati Reds, called "an all-time credit to baseball" by Manager Sparky Anderson, will shoot for a fourth straight victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday night.

Leading three games to none after Tuesday night's 6-2 victory at Yankee Stadium, the defending world champions are sending Gary Nolan to the mound against Ed Figueroa in the fourth game. Nolan led the Reds' staff with 15 victories while Figueroa was the leading Yankee winner with 19 regular-season wins.

The National Weather Service reported that there was an 80 per cent chance of rain but Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will certainly wait until the last possible moment to postpone the game.

Anderson refused to predict a sweep but made it clear he believes the Reds already rate recognition as one of baseball's all-time great teams.

"We've got to win four out of seven - that's the ground rules," said Anderson. "I would like to win this series here to show everybody how good we are. This team is an all-time credit to baseball. This team is going to be remembered for years to come."

pinch hit 34 times and on four occasions got into play for other reasons.

The latest Reds' hero, who got to bat twice against Boston a year ago in the series and failed to get a base hit, is taking all the attention in stride.

"If every night was like this one," he said, "I would not complain one bit. I know that I can hit and I want to play. The DH rule is O.K. with me. Are you listening Sparky?"

Glance at the boxscore of last night's third game of the series and you'll note that Cincinnati was charged with two errors and New York none.

Cincinnati runner advances from first to third in eighth inning

Yanks pin hopes on Ed Figueroa

NEW YORK (UPI) - If the New York Yankees don't get their act together tonight, the show closes.

Ed Figueroa carries the burden to the mound for the Yankees tonight, knowing his next assignment will be five months from now, if New York fails to thwart a Cincinnati Reds sweep of the World Series.

"I like to pitch in these kinds of games," Figueroa said, after drawing the starting assignment for Game No. 4 in the World Series. "It makes me concentrate more, bear down more on every pitch."

Figueroa started the final game of the American League championship series last Thursday and pitched creditably although the Yankees needed a ninth-inning home run by Chris Chambliss to win the pennant.

His start hinges upon the weather, with the forecast calling for an 80 per cent chance of rain today and tonight.

Despite falling behind 3-0 to Cincinnati the Yankees seem to have expected the Reds to have been better than they have shown so far.

"So far, they haven't hit the ball real good," Figueroa said. But he admitted their speed and daring on the base paths can be just what they need.

"Sometimes when you concentrate on the runners too much, it takes away from your pitches."

However, the prevalent theme in the Yankees' dressing room after their third straight loss to the National League champions was that the Reds simply had been the luckier of the two teams.

Predicting not makeup of Redlegs
NEW YORK (UPI) - The Cincinnati Reds are almost as stubborn as they are proud.

Even bet NEW YORK (UPI) - Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder has listed game four of the World Series Wednesday night as even between the Cincinnati Reds and the home team New York Yankees.

As for the possibility of a four-game sweep, Anderson and his troops were still being cautious - even though the Yankees have played a beaten, outclassed team.

"It's possible," said Joe Morgan, "that we could sweep this thing without having really played one solid game. But let's face it, if we do, I won't be mad."

Anderson, who has insisted all along the series will go seven games, added: "We still have only three. They (the Yankees) could come back. It's possible."

The Reds will send their top 1976 winner, Gary Nolan, against the Yankees' Ed Figueroa today in an effort to complete a rare four-game series sweep. One Red who is confident the series is near a quick end is Pete Rose.

"I'm confident about the fourth game," said Rose. "Gary Nolan is one fine pitcher - I think he's among the five best in the National League. This is the showcase of baseball, you know, the fall classic. I know the commissioner and the fans don't want to see a sweep - they like those exciting seven-game jobs. But I go out and try to win every game. 10-1."

Still at odds
NEW YORK (UPI) - Boston Celtics' owner Irv Levin, President Red Auerbach and two lawyers met with Paul Silas and his agent Tuesday in an effort to sign the rebounding specialist before Thursday's opening of the National Basketball Association season.

MHS booters lose, 2-0

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

What was once a drought has reached epidemic proportions for Manchester High's soccer team.

The Indians for the second straight game were held out of the scoring column and wound up yesterday on the short end of a 2-0 score to Wethersfield High at Memorial Field. Manchester has scored just two goals in its last five games.

The victory by the defending CCIL and State Class LL champs avenged an earlier 2-2 defeat handed them by Manchester. It moved the Eagles' standard to 8-11 and tightened their hold on the League leadership.

Manchester, meanwhile, has lost three straight and is winless in four to fall back to a 4-2-2 ledger. The Indians must win two of their three closing contests if they're to qualify for post-season play.

After a scoreless first period in which Silk Town sophomore goalie Mark Copeland had to make a stop on a point-blank shot by Taras Kucman, the visitors broke through in the second canto.

Talented Tony D'Angona, flying down the left wing, crossed it to just outside the penalty area to a waiting Jack D'Attilio. He, in turn, slid it over to an unguarded Steve Baldwin in the middle and the latter easily beat Copeland with an eight-yarder to the left side of the net at 8:21.

Neither side got off a shot in the third stanza with Manchester's inability to one-time balls preventing it from getting shots. Early in the final stanza Joel Malinoski got a boom-off but the drive sailed over the crossbar.

Wethersfield tallied a clinching goal with 3:00 left with some nifty passwork. Tom Leahy on an indirect slid it over to Pete Ellis and the latter made a return pass. Leahy then chipped to the far right corner where Leroy White accepted the pass. He wheeled and fired and hit the left post. The rebound came sliding out along the goal line with an alert Kucman booting it home.

Wethersfield's coach, Manchester, 11-9, with the locals somewhat overpassing — trying to get closer to the net but in the end failing to get shots off. "We want to dribble it across the goal line and you can't do it. You just don't have the time," commented Indian Coach Dick Danielson. "We're just too inexperienced (in number of games played) in vital areas."

UConn, Yale grid game for Storrs

STORRS (UPI) — The annual football battle between the University of Connecticut and Yale University will be played next season for the first time at the state university, the Connecticut Daily Campus disclosed Tuesday.

UConn Athletic Director John Toner told the student newspaper Tuesday official confirmation of the site change should come in a letter from Yale Athletic Director and head football coach Carmen Cozza "in a few days."

All 28 meetings between the schools have been held at Yale both in New Haven and The Eli last only three times.

Toner said the game would be moved to Memorial Stadium "to put us on a home-and-home basis with Yale. The board is chaired by former Yale Athletic Director Delaney Kiputh.

He said a preliminary decision on changing the site of the game was made this summer by the Governing Board. The department of Athletics and Physical Education at Yale. The board is chaired by former Yale Athletic Director Delaney Kiputh.

Kiputh added the committee would review the situation after the game to determine whether to keep the contest on a rotating basis between Storrs and New Haven, according to the Daily Campus.

"It would be foolish not to play the game in New Haven if we can't hold the crowd in Memorial Stadium," Toner said.

"But UConn deserves a home and home game with our rival down state," he said.

Cozza told the Daily Campus Tuesday a new executive committee would have to approve the change before he could confirm it to Toner.

"I can't say anything yet," Cozza said. "But I can say we'll have a decision by the end of the year."

St. Paul booters blank East, 1-0

Dropping a tough 1-0 decision to St. Paul yesterday was East Catholic's soccer team in Bristol. The Eagle booters are now 5-5-1 and must win two of their final three contests to qualify for the State Tournament. St. Paul with the win moves to an 8-2-1 ledger.

The lone score came as Paul Roberge picked up a loose ball, beat the East fullbacks to the inside and then beat goalie Don Martin with a blast to the near post.

"It was a tough game to lose and really puts our backs to the wall," commented East Coach Tom Malin. "I still have great faith in the players and know we'll be battling all the way to the end."

East was outshot by the Falcons, 25-16. It had chances but failed to connect. Friday, the Eagles have an important contest in Hartford against Prince Tech, a club which owns a 3-1 overtime win over East earlier in the campaign.

Best for the Eagles in defeat were Martin in goal and Rich Barnes at halfback.

Tech kickers bow to Cromwell, 5-2

Succumbing by a 5-2 count yesterday was Cheney Tech to Cromwell High in Charter Oak Conference soccer action yesterday at the Beavers' Field. The win moves Cromwell to a 3-4-1 COC mark and 6-4-1 over-all while Cheney now stands 0-7-1 in the conference and 1-8-1 over-all.

Mark Setaro got the visiting Panthers on the score board at the 12:55 mark of the first period. Peter Krawitz knotted it for the Beavers at 13:20 of the stanza drilling home a shot from 20 yards out. Just over a minute later Gary Brennan headed home a corner kick to give the visitors a 2-1 edge.

Cromwell upped the margin to 3-1 at halftime with Tim McNaughton scoring on a shot from in close. On the play, Cheney goalie Gary Marineau was injured with Krawitz going the rest of the way in goal.

East girls square record outplashing Wethersfield

East Catholic's girls' swimming team evened its record at 2-2 yesterday with a 91-81 victory over Wethersfield High at the loser's pool.

East's diving effort was superb with Alison Lanos, Colleen Fauteau and Jerilyn Frazier taking one-two-three. Kathy Viola was East's only double winner taking firsts in the 100-yard freestyle and 100-yard backstroke.

In the afternoon's most exciting event, Wethersfield's Margot Abbott and East's Katie Tucker were each clocked in 5:44.2 in the 500-yard freestyle with Abbott taking the decision by a fingernail.

Colonial days topic at Historical Society

By JOHN JOHNSTON

Turn back time 200 years to colonial days, add illustrations, period photographs, research and compilation over a three-year period, and blend with excellent photography, succinct tape narration, appropriate sound effects, and background music: the result, an episodic, color slide photo essay of the opening months in the American struggle for freedom from British rule.

The presenter of the prize-winning documentary, "From Tea Party to Independence: Springtime of the American Revolution," for the Manchester Historical Society Sunday was Robert L. Berthelson of Trumbull. His program opened with one of the calysts of the rebellion. That was the East India Co.'s shipment of tea to Charleston, Philadelphia, New York, and Boston. Thomas Hutchinson, the royal governor of Massachusetts Bay, was in the unenviable position of having his two sons as hostages. The tree-pence per-pound tax helped to bring about the dumping of the tea into the harbor.

After the confrontation of British regulars and colonial militiamen on Lexington green, Israel Bissell, a 20-year-old East Windsor post rider, carried the news down eastern Connecticut and along the shore. At Brooklyn he stopped to notify Israel Putnam, a retired Indian fighter. Gov. Jonathan Trumbull was at the Lexington Inn in Norwich when Bissell arrived, and in New London Nathan Hale participated in a night meeting.

When the post rider reached New England, Benedict Arnold demanded access to the arsenal, seized ammunition, and he and his troops set out on the march to Concord. Bissell outdistanced all other news of the Lexington fighting until he reached Fairfield.

Berthelson pointed out that Ethan Allen and Arnold received separate orders to capture Ft.

Ticonderoga. Allen's came from Vermont and Arnold's from Cambridge.

The most important American defensive victory in the early stages of the Revolution, Berthelson said, occurred at Ft. Moultrie in Charleston harbor. The British fleet, commanded by Admiral Peter Parker, pounded the fort, but its soft sand and logs absorbed most of the cannon balls. After the fleet's withdrawal a sailor recorded that their ships' condition resembled that of Berthelson said, was a slaughterhouse.

Death sentences commuted

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. Tuesday emptied Virginia's death row by changing five inmates' sentences to life in prison. "Until Virginia has a death sentence statute over which there is no legal question, I do not feel that anyone should be executed," Godwin said in commuting the sentences.

The Supreme Court last July upheld death penalty laws in Georgia, Florida and Texas, while striking down those of North Carolina and Louisiana.

In Virginia, as in North Carolina and Louisiana, the death penalty is mandatory for certain crimes, but the high court ruling seemed to say capital punishment should be applied at discretion of judges or juries operating within well defined guidelines.

Attorney General Andrew Miller said in a recent opinion that Virginia's law appears to be unconstitutional.

The governor's decision means the five former death row inmates could eventually become eligible for parole.

All year long, these United Way agencies help one out of every three families in sixteen Greater Hartford communities. With services for the elderly, for young people in trouble, for families with problems. With counselling and companionship, with training and rehabilitation, with recreation and health care programs.

And, in these times of rising costs, it's worth noting that 92% of every dollar you give to the United Way of Greater Hartford goes directly to support these agency services.

In so many ways, Greater Hartford communities are better, stronger, more productive, because of those who serve... and those who support.

Hitting the campaign trail

Working tirelessly to gain support for her bid for U.S. Senator, Mrs. Gloria Schaffer, secretary of state, is a frequent visitor to the Manchester area. She is attempting to unseat Lowell Weicker, a Republican. Above, she shared a happy moment at a fund-raising party sponsored recently by the Vernon Democratic Town Committee. Gathered around her are, left to right, Yale Cantor, John Drost (her Vernon campaign director), and John Girardini. At left, Mrs. Schaffer is shown expounding one of her campaign themes in the Pratt & Whitney cafeteria in East Hartford recently.

Halloween ball planned
The Democratic party will hold a Halloween Costume Ball Saturday, Oct. 30, at Mama Mia's from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Costumes are optional for those who attend. This will be the party's only fund-raising affair before this year's election.

'Truth in gambling' rule suggested by Snyder

HARTFORD (UPI) - The newest member of the state gaming commission said Tuesday the panel should consider "truth in gambling" disclosures to let bettors know what they are doing. They may, but I am not sure," he told reporters.

Snyder also said although he's not intimately familiar with the workings of the panel, newspaper reports have led him to question whether it has effectively explained its operations to the public. He cited as an example concerns over the commission's contract with the computer firm that runs the off-track betting system, widely criticized as giving the firm the lion's share of the profits.

"I see the need for more answers to some of the questions that have been raised," Snyder said. "I am not criticizing the commission. I am just looking at it as an outsider."

Rome said he named Snyder to the gambling commission because of his expertise in finance and taxation and his concerns with the social impacts of legalized gambling.

Precautions urged against break-ins

Manchester Police are appealing to townpeople to lock their doors, turn on lights when they're away and take other measures to help slow the increasing number of residential burglaries in town.

"We've had an unusual rash of house breaks which have been attributed to doors being left open," Police Chief Robert Lannan said. "We're appealing to the public to secure property and possessions," he said.

"Lock all your doors. If you're going out at night, leave lights on. Tell your neighbors you're leaving so they can watch. Call the police whenever you see anybody around who shouldn't be there. When you go on vacation, let the police know," Lannan said.

Lannan warned townpeople that locking house doors isn't enough. Hatchways to cellars and attached garages should also be locked, he said.

In many of the recent cases, burglars have entered homes through unlocked hatchways or garages, Lannan said. Entering in that manner allows the burglars to take their time breaking into the house without being seen, he said.

Many of the reported house breaks have occurred in daylight hours, Lannan said, warning townpeople to pay special attention to any unusual automobiles or persons in their neighborhoods.

Most of the burglaries, however, still occur at night, Lannan said. In some cases, burglars have entered homes through unlocked doors while residents were sleeping upstairs.

"It's a good idea to leave lights on at night, he said, also suggesting turning on a backyard light if homeowners are away.

Lannan emphasized intraneighborhood cooperation, attempting to get neighbors to help each other watch for suspicious activity.

"We are our brother's keeper," Lannan said.

Democrats hear candidates views

The four local Democratic candidates for the state legislature spoke Tuesday night to a group of Democrats at the Manchester Club.

All four, Muriel Yacovone, Ted Cummings, Francis Mahoney and Abraham Glassman, are incumbents and are seeking re-election on Nov. 2.

Rep. Yacovone, who is from the Ninth Assembly District, told the audience of her past work on the legislature, where she has served three terms.

She said the legislature in the next two years must examine the state's Blue Laws and the penalties for marijuana. She also said that the state lawmakers should not become involved with legislation concerning abortion. This matter should be left to the individual, she said.

Twelfth District Rep. Cummings said that he has seen a turn away from apathy among the residents he

Grievance committee sought by lawyers

HARTFORD (UPI) - The state's legal community has voted to call on Superior Court judges to set up a statewide grievance committee where clients can file complaints against lawyers.

The committee, complete with a full-time investigative and clerical staff, was recommended Tuesday at the 1976 annual convention of the 5,000-member Connecticut Bar Association.

New London attorney Hyman Wilensky, who proposed the new committee, said something has to be done to reform the present part-time grievance committees set up in the state's eight counties.

He said currently, the committees at times don't inform either the complainant or the charged lawyer about the outcome of the complaint.

He said a statewide committee made up of nonlawyers as well as lawyers is needed to avoid "cronism and prejudice."

In other business, Darian lawyer George Lowman was inducted as the bar's new president. U.S. Attorney for Connecticut, Peter C. Dorsey, was chosen president elect, and will succeed Lowman next October. Lowman succeeded outgoing president Carmine R. Lavieri.

He said a statewide committee made up of nonlawyers as well as lawyers is needed to avoid "cronism and prejudice."

Miss Long in Nepal

Miss Nancy Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Long of 361 W. Center St., is serving with the Peace Corps at Pokhara, in the Himalaya Mountains of Nepal.

She left for Nepal Sept. 10 and is living with a native family in Pokhara. She is finding it difficult to get adjusted to the caste system and the native food, her mother said.

Miss Long is spending three months studying Sanskrit, and in January will be teaching mathematics and science in a high school.

She is a 1970 graduate of East Catholic High School and received B.A. degree in 1974 from the University of Hartford, where she completed her studies for a master's degree.

She's delighted that she is in Nepal and doing something for somebody, her mother said.

Maddox urges controls

HARTFORD (UPI) — Former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox brought his presidential candidacy to Connecticut, calling for tough controls on government spending and a strong national defense.

"America now is number two militarily, we're a long way out of number one," Maddox, running under the banner of the George Wallace Party in Connecticut, told a news conference. "Under a Maddox administration there would not be any defense cuts."

Maddox was Georgia's governor from 1967-71 and lieutenant governor under Jimmy Carter from 1971-75.

He proposed putting a ceiling on government jobs by phasing out a number of jobs equal to any new positions that are created.

He said if that was not possible he favored limiting increases in federal hiring to two per cent per year.

Maddox, who is running under the banner of the American Independent Party nationally, criticized Wallace for endorsing Carter's Democratic candidacy.

"He's joined what he called the pointy-head bureaucrats. He jumped the fence," Maddox said of Wallace.

Maddox said Carter had been the choice of the "political establishment" for president.

But he said that establishment — he referred specifically on the Rockefeller brothers — had soured on Carter because of his "instability" on issues.

The smart people still save at Hartford National

Connecticut's first writer was pretty astute. After all, his politics helped shape a state, his writing pioneered American poetry, and by 1792, his money was working for him in Connecticut's first bank. The bank was Hartford National. John Trumbull's bank.

John Trumbull kept his money in a Hartford National account, right where he could borrow, get financial advice, and take advantage of the 1792 version of checking, all at once. It added up. Trumbull saw the advantage of putting his money in

The Sunshine Club

—and they shall have music wherever they go

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

"Let the sunshine in, mix it with a grin, smiles never lose..." and so the words of this song as sung by the Sunshine Club of the Senior Citizens Center in Manchester spread their own special brand of sunshine everywhere they go.

The club, comprised of 15 members, was formed about three years ago following their appearance in a Cancer Fund Show under the direction of Hector LeGace.

"We just enjoyed performing so much together," Ida Cormier, director of the group, said.

"During those three years, we have visited nearly every convalescent home east of the river and several on the other side," she added.

"It's rewarding to see some of the patients respond to our music," Helen Bumford said. Helen plays harmonica with the "Old Timers," a six-member instrumental group within the Sunshine Club.

"We recently were invited to visit the Psychiatric Unit at St. Francis Hospital and even the nurses were amazed to see some of the patients start tapping their toes and strumming their fingers in time to the music," she said.

Music is a serious business at the Sunshine Club and members practice once a week.

"We participate in the show presented at the Senior Citizens Center in March and spend the rest of the year performing at various clubs and convalescent homes throughout the area," Ida said.

Among the facilities visited by the group are the Entfield Convalescent

Driving course is an eye-opener

By Harold Blumenfeld

When a friend asked us to join him at the DDC at first I didn't know whether this would be a meeting of Dedicated Democrats for Carter, or traffic was getting a medal belatedly for his Army service in World War I. But it turned out to be a Defensive Driving Course. We are glad we went along for more than the ride. We learned some things which might keep us out of an accident which could demolish our auto, and more important, would save our limb or lives.

These courses, with two four-hour or four two-hour classroom sessions, have been prepared carefully by the National Safety Council. Our two instructors were retired men who had attended a special course for teachers of safe driving and were now giving their time free as instructors of accident prevention.

Our course was sponsored by the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, which meant we paid only $2 each for my wife and me. It was perhaps the best expenditure we had made in many days.

Insurance actuaries may try to prove a point that many traffic accidents are caused by the very young or elderly drivers. Is it because they believe when we become older our driving capabilities are lessened by poor eye sight, impaired hearing, slow reactions and daydreaming behind the wheel? Maybe so. But I learned that older drivers as a group make up more than 30 per cent of all drivers but are involved in less than 20 per cent of reported accidents.

My classmates were 50 alert senior citizens of both sexes. The eye-opener for each class session was a dramatic movie provided by the National Safety Council. The films showed violent traffic accidents, bloody and shocking enough to get us to pay attention in class and do intensive home work studying the excellent Student Workbook and Defensive Driver's Manual. These were given to each student at no extra charge.

Traffic accidents can range from a minor fender bender to a head-on collision between two cars traveling at high speed. Traffic mishaps are the leading cause of accidental death for nearly 50,000 persons in the United States each year. Accidents between vehicles and pedestrians account for 10,000 deaths and 150,000 disabling injuries annually. And driver failure is the contributing factor of 80 per cent of all traffic accidents. Sure, the driver of the other car may be completely at fault. Therefore, it's important to practice Defensive Driving, which means driving to prevent an accident despite the actions of others or when driving during adverse conditions.

A good formula for accident prevention is: Recognizing the Hazard, Understanding the Defense, Acting in Time. This all can be summed up with five elements of Defensive Driving: Knowledge, Alertness, Foresight, Judgment, Skill. There are an estimated 122 million drivers in the United States and traffic accidents affect the well-being of almost every man, woman and child as a driver, passenger or pedestrian.

Six million drivers already have taken the course and a research study of 8,000 DDC graduates in 26 states showed this group had 32 per cent fewer accidents. I am recommending every driver take this course, because all of us who have been driving for so many years are creatures of habit. And some of our driving habits are bad ones. I've been driving for more than 50 years and my wife has been driving the family car for almost as long a time. So far our traffic violations have been for overtime parking. Statistics indicate four out of five drivers have never had a serious accident. However, there's always the first time. And that time may be the next time - or you - get behind the wheel of a car.

I'm glad we took the course because we found out that we, too, were driving with old habits. We thought we were good drivers. Or maybe we were lucky. Now we know we must do defensive driving to prevent an accident which could be blamed on the driver of the other car - or a pedestrian.

There was a big bonus for us when we were let out of school. In addition to receiving our Defensive Driving Course diplomas, I also will get a 10 per cent reduction of my annual auto insurance premium the next time the insurance company bills me.

Gun controls favored in First District poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Most residents in Connecticut's 1st Congressional District support some form of gun control, are dissatisfied with the U.S. Postal Service, and believe defense expenditures should be kept at present levels or reduced, according to results of a poll.

The poll was taken by Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., who mailed questionnaires to every business and home address in the district's 17 cities and towns. More than 8,500 persons responded.

The results showed the majority of residents believe the federal government should spend less on unemployment assistance, welfare and foreign aid, but more on law enforcement, the environment and energy.

Only 24 per cent wanted more money spent on defense and most said defense expenditures should be kept at present levels or reduced.

On the issue of gun control, 86 per cent supported some form of gun control although only 11 per cent said the private ownership of all handguns should be prohibited.

Sixty per cent said they were not satisfied with the U.S. Postal Service, but only 10 per cent said they would support an increase in postal rates.

On the issue of abortion, 74 per cent said abortion should be a decision between a woman and her doctor. Only 17 per cent said abortion should be prohibited except when the mother's life is in danger.

Voters were split exactly down the middle on the question of a $1,000 tax deduction for tuition for private schools and colleges.

Seventy-seven per cent said they would support offshore drilling for oil and gas reserves near the New England coast. Only 23 per cent said they would be opposed.

The poll included a list of spending priorities, a question designed to find out what programs voters thought should be emphasized in the federal budget.

A majority favored increased spending in only two areas. 61 per cent said more money should be spent on law enforcement and 57 per cent said more should be spent on natural resources, environment and energy.

In the poll's crime and justice section, 98 per cent said they agreed with Cotter's bill to impose mandatory prison sentences for criminals convicted of using a firearm when committing a federal felony.

A total of 83 per cent wanted the death penalty for murder and other serious crimes. However, a large majority also said prison reform was an urgent need.

Q. As a new resident in Connecticut, I find that your law concerning right turns on red lights is different from many other states. Exactly what is your law?

A. Public Act 75-557 passed by the 1975 session of the Connecticut General Assembly permits a right turn on a red light only when a sign has been erected in the appropriate place permitting a right turn on such red signal, after stopping... and "shall yield the right of way to pedestrians lawfully within an adjacent street and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection."

Q. If I want special plates "family plates" as I've heard them called, what combination of letters and numbers can I get, and how many do they cost?

A. You can get up to six letters; three letters followed by one, two, or three numbers; four letters followed by one or two numbers; five letters followed by one number. Plates with both letters and numbers are separated with a dot between the last letter and the first number. Plates with letters may include one dot.

The plates have a blue background with reflectized white letters and numbers and cost a one-time $30 per set plus $1 for the reflectorization. If you are replacing an existing registration, there is an additional charge of $3 for the registration transfer. These fees, for special plates have no bearing on or relation to your regular registration.

Lutz Junior Museum

The world with Lutz

Kaftan, chador, pollera, poncho, mestiza, mandeel, gele and buba. Do you recognize these words? Visitors to the museum's "Around The World" exhibit, like the child above being assisted by Mrs. Matthew Moriarty Jr., membership chairperson, will.

All the words represent an article of clothing worn by people in various places throughout the world.

In the southern regions of Iran, for example, men and boys wear kaftans, loose fitting cotton coats with wide sleeves, over trousers. A wide sash, which also serves as a knapsack, is wrapped around the waist. A brimmed, felt hat completes the outfit. Girls from this area wear long dresses with a gauze veil on the back of their heads.

Boys' and girls' costumes worn at festivals are similar to everyday dress only more elaborate with brighter colors and embroidery. In the cities of Iran, persons dress much as they do in cities all over the world, except girls and women wear the chador, a long wide piece of colorful cotton cloth that is worn over the head and reaches down to the ankles.

A pollera is a blouse and skirt outfit, elaborately embroidered, with lace flounces, that is worn by women in several Central and South American countries. The style dates back to the dress of 17th century Spain but has been altered to suit the tastes of the individual countries that have adopted it as a national costume. Today it is worn primarily for celebrations and holidays.

Ponchos, which are currently very popular in this country, are well known to most of us. They are usually square with a large opening for the head cut in the center. In the mountains of Ecuador and Peru, men and boys wear large handwoven, woolen ponchos to keep them warm during the cool mornings and evenings. However, the midday sun is hot. So white cotton shirts and trousers are the appropriate clothing to be worn beneath the poncho. Broad-trimmed felt hats are also worn by both men and women as protection against the hot equatorial noon sun.

Another name for a mestiza dress, the national costume of the Philippines, is butterfly-sleeved dress. This dress with the full, ruffled sleeves was worn, and popularized, by Mamie Eisenhower, when she accompanied the President to that country in the 1950s. The stiff fabric, called just, used in the dress is made from banana fibers and crushed and woven into fine threads.

In India and several middle eastern nations women wear very full pantaloons beneath long shirts or dresses. To achieve this fullness, the pants are made very wide, almost twice as wide as any we would see in a store here, and a string run through the waistband, so they can be drawn snug around the waist. In these countries also, women wearing such traditional dress would be certain to

The hat makes all the difference. have their head covered. In Lebanon, a long white cotton scarf called a mandeel is used for this purpose. The full turban head covering worn by women in Nigeria is called a gele. Worn with it, as part of the traditional festival dress, is a cotton blouse, a buba, around which is wrapped, just under the arms, a piece of cloth five yards long and two yards wide. This cloth is an irrobin and is very often bright blue.

Men and boys in Nigeria also wear light cotton ponchos worn over loose, pajama-like trousers, are well suited for their country's tropical climate. Blue is such a popular color because indigo is used for this purpose. Blue is abundant and produced a rich blue color. Even though cloth is now imported from other places, blue has remained a popular color. Visitors to the museum are invited to try on articles of clothing in the "Around The World" display. Lutz is open, free of charge, daily with the exception of Mondays, from 2 to 5 p.m. Anyone who would like more information about exhibits, classes, programs and membership benefits, should call the museum at 643-0949.

Rec offers new classes

The Manchester Recreation Department Women's Programs will be offering two new classes this fall. Both classes begin the second week of November. Fiber Flowers will be offered on Mondays from 10 to 11 a.m. for five weeks. Materials will be available for purchase at class. There will be a minimal instructional fee. Fiber flowers is a revival of an old craft using thin wood fibers to form like-like everlasting flowers. Students need to bring florist tape and stem wire to class. Wood fiber packages will be available at the class.

Pendo, will be offered on Tuesdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for five weeks with materials available at class or locally at craft shops. There is also a minimal instructional fee. Pendo is a clay craft using Pendo self-hardening clay which comes in a wide range of colors. Using simple techniques taught in class, students will be able to make like-like objects. These hardened objects can be used in miniature doll houses, in miniature box crafts, on wooden plaques and other materials. Pendo on plaques, makes three dimensional-type pictures.

Samples of both these crafts are on display between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the West Side Rec, 110 Cedar St., where the classes will be held. Sign-up is going on now in person or by telephone with payments due before the class starts. Rec membership is required for all classes.

VA news

Q - I recently retired on disability from Civil Service. I waived my military retirement and receive one check from Civil Service. I have a 30 per cent disability which I have never claimed. Will I have to waive part of my Civil Service retirement pay in order to receive this disability compensation?

A - There is no restriction on receiving disability compensation if you have waived your military retirement pay in order to receive Civil Service retirement.

Q - I am the daughter of a veteran who died in service, and am attending school as a war orphan. Several of my friends in the same school are veterans and have received educational loans through the VA. Is this also possible for me?

A - Educational loans are available for eligible veterans and persons eligible for benefits under the Dependents Educational Assistance program.

Q - My husband has completed two years on active duty. Is he eligible for VA home loan before separation?

A - Yes. Service personnel who have served at least 181 days on active duty are eligible for a home loan.

Q - If I go on to a master's degree program after completing my bachelor's degree program, will this be considered a change of program?

A - No.

honorable and who served in the Spanish-American War, Mexican Border period, World Wars I and II, the Korean conflict, the Vietnam Era, or peacetime veterans entitled to service-connected compensation at time of death or discharge, or who were retired for disability incurred in the line of duty.

Dedication ceremonies for a new national cemetery for New England veterans to be located at Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod, will take place Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31, at 3:30 p.m., Card said.

Full information concerning the above allowances and eligibility criteria for them is available at any Veterans Administration office.

VA lists burial allowance

Families of veterans should be made aware of the VA burial allowance available to former servicemen and women, Joseph M. Card Jr., director, Veterans Administration Regional Office at Hartford, said today.

For example, VA provides a payment of up to $250 toward the burial expenses of eligible veterans. An additional $150 is available as a plot or interment allowance when burial is not in a National Cemetery or other cemetery under jurisdiction of the federal government.

VA burial or plot allowances are not paid to the extent that payment has been made by the veteran's employer or by a state agency or political subdivision of a state. Card said when the veteran's death is service-connected, payment of an amount not to exceed $800 will be made in lieu of the usual burial and interment allowances.

With the exception of Arlington National Cemetery, burial is available to eligible veterans at all National Cemeteries having space. Burial in these cemeteries may also be authorized for an eligible veteran's wife or husband, minor children and, under certain conditions, unmarried adult children.

Since 1967, burial in Arlington National Cemetery has been limited to persons dying while on active military duty. Medal of Honor winners, former service personnel on official service retired lists who are eligible for compensation stemming from their active service; certain high officials of the federal government and certain members of the immediate families of those listed above or those already buried there.

A headstone or grave marker is available from the VA for eligible veterans and their immediate families. The VA provides certain members of the armed forces who die on active duty and whose remains are not recovered or who are buried at sea.

VA will also, upon request, provide an American flag to drape the casket of the veteran, Card said. Veterans eligible for the plot allowance are those who were discharged under conditions other than dis-

Lawyer

Water dispute continues

A Glastonbury family serviced by the Manchester Water Department says it has been complaining about the quality of its water for 11 years and has received little action. But Frank Jodaitis, water and sewer administrator, said that the problem is a cosmetic one and the water is perfectly safe.

So, on Oct. 10, the department and the Glastonbury Fire Department worked together to "flush" mains in the area. This was done to clear out corrosion that had built up in the mains.

SHOP-AT-HOME Our Shop-at-Home service lets you pick out fabrics confidently. You know you can trust Watkins for service and quality!

Did You Know? There are terrific bargains in good, serviceable home furnishings of all kinds in the Want Ads.

Workmen's compensation is generally payable to anyone who is injured on the job. But suppose the victim is hurt while on his way to or from work. Is he covered then? Consider a case: Joe, coming to work in the morning, parked his car in the company parking lot. But while walking toward the plant entrance, he slipped on a stray bottle and suffered a bad fall.

News for senior citizens

Hi! Here we go again, and the first bit of news is that we remind you folks who missed the flu shots that you have a chance to make it up on Oct. 22, 23 or 27. Please look for more information regarding the shots elsewhere in the paper. We will not be using our bus; therefore, transportation is on your own.

Three busloads of our members had a beautiful day for their trip yesterday to see the foliage. However, the ride was nice, the food at the Old Mill was delicious, and the gang did have time to wander around the gift shop.

Halloween dance

Folks, don't forget that we are having our big Halloween Dance next Thursday, Oct. 28. We will have a dance band to hop to, and a costume parade for those who want to join in the fun; prizes to the winners, and we will have lots of goodies and punch as well as our usual door prizes. Tickets are now ready here at the office, so pick yours up soon.

By the way, unless we get at least 12 people who wish to take our bus for the dance, we will not use the bus. So, if you want to come and use the bus, you must contact our office or tell our bus driver on or before next Wednesday.

Bus fund

Our mini-bus fund is slowly picking up steam, and we now have about $2,000. Still a long way to go, and an interesting statistic is that only 980 members have contributed thus far. This means that many of those who have donated have given much more than just a dollar.

Now if we could get the 5,000 members who haven't given as yet to drop off their contribution, we wouldn't have to go soliciting funds from other sources. We certainly appreciate and thank you folks who have made your donation, and like I said before, we realize there are some members who really can't afford to give. We realize this, and want them to know we understand, and know that they would give if they could.

So we're holding off our going to the outside for help in hopes that our articles will stir up more of our members. Remember, there are quite a number of our friends and members who are counting on your donations so that they, too, can take advantage of the programs being offered here at the center.

Setback games

Let's see, the action here at the center starts with last Friday afternoon when we had 46 players for our setback games, and the lucky winners were:

Betty Jesanis, 141; Edward Scott and Martin Bakstan, 134; Gertrude Hermann and Michael DeSimone, 126; Violet Dion, 124; Grace Windsor, 121; Oscar Cappuccio, 120; Ann Demko, 119; Helen Silver, 115; Sarah Wilson, Bernice Martin, Paul Schuetz, and Mina Reuther, 113.

Pinochle

On Monday we had a large turnout for our kitchen social games in the morning, then after lunch we had 15 tables for pinochle with the following winners:

Ernestine Donnelly, 744; John Gally, 695; Joseph Windsor, and Jennie Fogarty, 684; Cecile Benson, 674; Esther Anderson, 668; Wesley Frost, 665; Frank Gadomski, 655; Mabel Wilson, 648; Lyla Steele, 646; Grace Windsor, 644; Bea Cormier, 639; Mina Reuther, and Archie Houghtaling, 638, and Fritz Wilkinson, 637.

Fun-Day

Tomorrow is our Fun-Day, and in the morning we start off with our social dance class. Then it's downstairs for a big seafood newburg dinner with all the trimmings. In the afternoon our entertainment committee has come up with some surprise entertainment for us.

Thursday is the day that one busload of our members takes off for a three-day tour of Penn Dutch Country. The bus will be leaving at 7:30 in the morning, so make sure you arrive here by 7:15 the latest.

Hospitalized

We just received word that our good friend Bill Mastropietro has been hospitalized and is currently in the coronary care unit, meaning no visitors at this time. However, cards of encouragement would be nice. He is in our Manchester hospital. Let's not forget that Ann Lehmann is still a patient at the Hartford Hospital.

Hear judge

A week from Thursday should prove most interesting for you folks. We will have Judge of Probate William FitzGerald here to talk to us regarding the making out of wills and other important information. So jot down the date, Thursday, Oct. 28, at 1:15 p.m. and join us. We will also have a question and answer period.

Fair coming up

Our final reminder that we are going to have our Annual Arts and Crafts Fair here at the Center on Dec. 2. We need lots of homemade items, crocheted, knitted, and sewed, such as mittens, hats, and other items. We will be having a white elephant table as well as a food sale of all your delicious home baked goodies. If you have items that you know would be nice enough to sell, then your donation would be appreciated.

The monies made from this fair will be used for our lunch program, and also some will go towards our mini-bus.

GOP tag sale Saturday

The Republican Women's Club of Manchester will sponsor a tag sale Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Republican Headquarters at 824 Main St. Proceeds from the event will be used to support the candidates.

Saturday has also been designated as President Ford Team Day.

Anyone wishing to contribute items may bring their donations to headquarters on Friday. Those wishing items to be picked up may contact any of the following persons: Mrs. Scott Clendaniel, 39 Duncan Rd.; Mrs. Hillary Gallagher, 56 Elmwood St.; Mrs. Jack Mercer, 174 Ludlow Rd.; Mrs. Carl Zinsser, 176 Ralph Rd.

DAR Frost Fair Saturday

Horace Porter of South Windsor, antique dealer and appraiser, appraises a Wedgwood pitcher for Mrs. Nancy Akin, publicity chairman of Orford Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Porter will be working with Mrs. Raymond Reid, also an appraiser. For a nominal fee, they will appraise antiques brought to them at the DAR Frost Fair Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Whiton Memorial Auditorium, 85 N. Main St. The fair will feature handmade items, parcel post, dolls, a bake shop, and a jumble sale. A sandwich luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Social Security

Q. I'm a student and hope to get a temporary holiday job. Do I need a Social Security card for such a short period of work?

A. You need a Social Security number if you plan to work in a job covered by Social Security (nine out of 10 jobs are covered). If you don't have a Social Security number, you should apply for one soon at any Social Security office. It takes four to six weeks to get a Social Security number.

Q. I now have a maid come in twice a week since I can no longer do heavy housework. How and when do I report her wages for Social Security?

A. Ask at any Internal Revenue Service office. If you pay your maid $50 or more in cash wages in any three-month calendar quarter, a wage report and the Social Security contributions must be sent to IRS within one month after the end of the quarter. Your current report is due by Nov. 1 (since Oct. 31 is on Sunday).

Q. I rent a small apartment and have very little income. The only things I own are a few household goods and a 1970 car. Can I get SSI payments?

A. It will depend on the amount of your income and the value of your car. If the retail value of your car is not over $1,200, or you need it for a job or to get medical treatment, it shouldn't keep you from getting Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments. Call or write any Social Security office for more information about SSI.

Q. What must I report to Social Security after I start getting SSI payments?

A. Report changes in your income, resources (things you own), living arrangements, and marital status. Your eligibility for SSI will be reviewed by Social Security periodically to make sure you are getting the right payment amounts. But it's up to you to report any changes between those reviews.
