Andover chariot in Halloween parade

Andover sixth graders Michael Leavins (holding whip), Scott Furdam and Steven Lindley put together a horse and chariot act for the school Halloween parade Friday afternoon. The parade also featured the usual ghosts and goblins. Principal Paul Kravets came as a tomato plant. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Penney complex prospect pleases political leaders

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Comments from local party members on the possibility of the J.C. Penney distribution center coming to Manchester were primarily positive and centered on the number of jobs the facility would create. The center could mean as many as 2,100 full-time jobs and another 600 part-time ones. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss announced these figures at a Thursday morning press conference and said that this would help hire a good chunk of Manchester's 1,200 unemployed.

Both party leaders of the Board of Directors, Mayor Matthew M. Moriarty Jr. and Minority Leader Vivian F. Ferguson, were present at the press conference, which was called to announce town plans to develop an industrial park in the Buckland section of Manchester. Penney was not mentioned by name at the conference, but it is believed to be the firm that Weiss referred to several times as "a major prospect" interested in becoming part of the industrial park.

At the conference, Moriarty said, "I can think of few happier occasions than when you can tell people who have been unemployed that you've found them job opportunities."

He cited "large tax revenues" as another benefit of the proposed facility, and said, "Because the state shares the costs equally with the town, developmental costs will be low and quickly repaid by the tax revenues produced."

It is estimated the entire industrial park facility could bring $1 million per year to the town in taxes.

Mrs. Ferguson said that the issue was a "bipartisan" one, and she urged people to vote for the project in a referendum, which would be required for a bonding issue to pay for purchase of land and development of the industrial park. She called herself one of the manager's leading critics, but added, "There are two kinds of criticism. This is a positive criticism (of Weiss). He has worked very hard to bring this project to Manchester."

Another minority member of the board, Carl Zinsser, was pleased with the proposal. "I'll do everything I can to help bring this to Manchester," he said.

But, Zinsser did call the timing of the announcement, made less than a week before Election Day, "unfortunate."

He said that he realized the official announcement was not to be made until after Election Day, but he suspected it might have been a Democratic move to "leak" the story out before the voters go to the polls.

Democratic Deputy Mayor John Thompson called the proposed facility "a great shot in the arm, not only for Manchester, but for the entire area."

"I'm delighted, of course," he said, and, noting that the facility is supposed to be a nonpolluting one, said, "It should enhance the attractiveness of the area."

Republican Town Committee member Wally Irish also was pleased with the possibility of the new facility coming to town.

"I think there's no question that it's a tremendous plus," he said.

He did, however, question the "secrecy" surrounding the plans. He felt that members of the Board of Directors and local business leaders should have been contacted earlier than they were and should have played a part in development of the proposed site.

He also criticized The Herald for not releasing the story at an earlier date.

"I don't like this government secrecy," he said.

Carter and Ford woo big state vote

By JOHN MILNE
United Press International

President Ford and Jimmy Carter will spend the last weekend of the campaign trying to attract enough votes to win the big states.

They are each invading the traditional strongholds of their opponents with figures from one poll that give them almost identical popular vote totals. They are seeking to win state by state because under the electoral vote system, it's winner take all. It takes 270 electoral votes to win the election.

Ford starts today in Texas, with 26 electoral votes. Then he flies to Pennsylvania, 27 electoral votes; and New York, 41 electoral votes.

Carter spent Friday night in Missouri, 12 electoral votes; he flies to Louisiana, 10 electoral votes; then to Texas, 26 electoral votes.

The rest of Ford's weekend will be in Ohio, 25 electoral votes and Michigan, 21 electoral votes. Carter will campaign in California, 45 electoral votes.

A victory could come with 11 states — California, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, Ohio, Michigan, New Jersey, Florida, Massachusetts and either Indiana or North Carolina.

Almost all of these are close. An ABC-Harris Poll released Friday said Carter was strongest in the South, Ford was strongest in the West and Midwest, and the East was up for grabs.

That may be more important than the popular tally, which said Carter led Ford 45-44 per cent with 7 per cent undecided and 4 per cent backing independent Eugene McCarthy. The margin of error makes the two figures virtually equal.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, distributed a document Friday that he said was an estimate by the President Ford Committee. It showed 230 electoral votes leaning to Carter, 196 leaning to Ford and 112 "pivotal."

John Andrews, the Ford aide who Powell said drew up the list, said, "this is ridiculous. I never saw such a thing." Campaign manager James Baker said, "too many of the key states are too close to call."

In St. Louis, Ford talked about his improvement. "We were 33 points behind in September," he said. "Now we have the momentum and we're going to win."

Carter wants lots of voters, hoping for a boost from the large number of Democratic registrations. He told an airport news conference in Toledo, "We're going to have a good turnout Tuesday and we're going to win."

The Supreme Court refused Friday to block an order by New York's highest court removing McCarthy's name from the ballot. McCarthy's name appears on 29 state ballots and can be written in on 16 others.

Lebanese truce near collapse

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanon's shaky 10-day cease-fire was near collapse today because of renewed clashes in Beirut and a warning by rightist leader Camille Chamoun that his forces may resume fighting.

Casualty figures from fighting in the capital Friday and the Chouf region, 25 miles southeast of Beirut, were the highest for any 24-hour period since the cease-fire began.

Two persons were killed and 17 were wounded in Beirut, according to a hospital spokesman, and rightists claimed to have killed 16 leftists in the southern suburbs.

A right-wing radio said at least 37 persons have died in fighting in the hilly Chouf region, a leftist stronghold where trouble flared three days ago.

Rightist leader Chamoun said if the situation continued to deteriorate his forces will disregard the cease-fire and "resume our freedom of military action."

Chamoun has called on President Elias Sarkis to ask the 2,300-strong Arab peacekeeping force to intervene in the Chouf area and said he will ask for Syrian aid if there is no response.

"We are not ready to tolerate further aggression after today and we shall strike with an iron fist on every hand that wants to harm Lebanon and its independence," he said.

In particular, he said, 9,000 Iraqi troops had participated in all violations of the cease-fire in Beirut, the mountains and the south.

Kissinger sends top aide to Rhodesian conference

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger sent his chief troubleshooter for Africa to Geneva today to step in should the talks on Rhodesia's future begin to falter.

But black leaders rejected an American role in advance, saying they were in Geneva to take power — by force, if necessary — and not to negotiate Kissinger's proposals for a gentle transfer to majority rule within two years.

William Schaufele, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, arrived here to establish high-level U.S. representation at the talks and act as informal adviser to the delegations.

"I expect to see most, if not all of the participants," he said.

But Joshua Nkomo, leader of the moderate wing of the African National Council, said there was no purpose for Schaufele's visit, other than "as a Weiss."

Ndaaningi Sithole, leader of the Zimbabwe African National Union, said he hoped Schaufele "is not coming here to confuse an already confusing situation."

All four black nationalist delegations have rejected the Kissinger proposals, saying they want black control in one year, at the most.

Black guerrilla leaders said they will intensify the guerrilla struggle if necessary to get what they want.

"The ANC is not here in a spirit of give and take, we have come here only to take — to take our country," said Bishop Abel Muzorewa.

Muzorewa gave the toughest speech at the opening session of the conference, which was adjourned until next week to allow "time for reflection," according to the chairman, Ivor Richard, Britain's U.N. ambassador.

Squimpkin disqualified

BOSTON (UPI) — The 197-pound squimpkin was disqualified because it didn't go to Georgia.

The squimpkin is a hybrid of a squash and a pumpkin owned by Rodney Flynn, 31, of Woburn.

It was entered in Delta Airlines' Massachusetts-Georgia pumpkin growing contest.

But when Delta wanted to send it to Georgia Friday for display at the State House, Flynn said no.

It apparently was the basis for disqualification from the contest.

"I wish they'd told me they were going to disqualify me," said Flynn sadly.

So in historic Faneuil Hall ceremonies, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis plopped the blue ribbon on a puny 166-pound pumpkin.

State

HARTFORD — The state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care denies its refusal to approve a higher budget for Windham Hospital will force the closing of its mental health unit. The hospital's trustees recently voted to abolish the clinic saying the CHHC approved budget was not enough to keep the hospital on a solid financial footing.

HARTFORD — Connecticut may go to court to block Navy plans to dump dredging spoils into Long Island Sound, according to Gov. Ella T. Grasso. She has asked the attorney general to explore the possibility of legal action.

Regional

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Brown University administrators have announced they will begin hiring permanent replacements for striking library workers unless they return to work by Nov. 3. The workers have been out on strike since Aug. 25.

BOSTON — House Majority Leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill Jr. says he never received gifts or money from South Korean multimillionaire Tonsung Park, but admits Park cohosted a birthday party for O'Neill. Park has allegedly given up to $1 million in cash and campaign funds to various congressmen in exchange for a favorable attitude toward the South Korean government.

National

DETROIT — The strike which closed down the Ford Motor Co. for 28 days cost the firm about $140 million in profits, but record sales still gave the No. 2 automaker third-quarter earnings of $42.5 million.

NEW ORLEANS — The Coast Guard board of inquiry investigating the collision of a Mississippi River ferryboat and a Norwegian tanker has recessed for several days to await results of FBI laboratory reports on a whiskey bottle found in the capsized ferry's wheelhouse.

NEW YORK — Michael Scott Goldbaum, who helped produce television ads for President Ford's election campaign, was fired by the White House when it was revealed he was also working on an allegedly pornographic film, officials said Friday.

WASHINGTON — President Ford personally approved the sale of a sophisticated computer system to the Peoples Republic of China once he was convinced it had no military use, the White House said, adding the President approved a similar sale to the Soviet Union also.

LOS ANGELES — Madonna Slavin, abducted by her family one week ago in a futile attempt to change her Hare Krishna beliefs, says she still loves her parents and can't decide whether to press kidnap charges against them. She said she was "physically and mentally assaulted" by relatives in a five-day ordeal at the homes of three of them in central and southern California.

International

TOKYO — The worst Japanese fire in 15 years swept through the northern city of Sakata Friday and today, destroying more than 1,000 houses and leaving 3,500 persons homeless. Two are reported missing and at least 35 others injured in the fire believed to have been started by an over-heated boiler in a movie house.

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Several persons were killed in West Irian and thousands of hill tribesmen were forced to flee to lower ground today in Indonesia's third major earthquake of the year.

Janet Popeleski now ballerina with Iranian National Ballet

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Herald Reporter

When a five-year-old Manchester girl began her dancing lessons 19 years ago, neither she nor anyone else in her family suspected that they would provide anything more than a few years of development in poise and self-assurance. But Janet Popeleski, just past 24 and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Popeleski, is now a prima ballerina with the Iranian National Ballet.

When she began taking dancing lessons, she took the usual training in ballet, jazz and acrobatic until she was 11 when she entered the Hartford Ballet School. There her life and direction changed. "She always had beautiful feet for dancing," her mother says. After her initial auditions, she was encouraged to take daily lessons during the summer, and four times a week during school. The schedule increased to nightly ballet lessons at the dance studio in Hartford when she was 14.

She finished her high school education under scholarships at Professional Children's School in New York City where she continued her dance study at the American Ballet Theatre directed by George Balanchine. Principal roles were hard to come by, but Janet's opportunity came when she was offered a principal contract last summer with the Iranian National Ballet. Of the 15 girls from United States and England who have joined the group for the next year, Janet is the only principal.

Mrs. Vincent Popeleski of 112 Helaine Rd. looks with pride at the photographs of her daughter, Janet, a ballerina with the Iranian National Ballet. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Her first solo performance will be Nov. 9 in Tehran, and she will wear the close fitting feather headdress of the coveted Swan role in the famous "Swan Lake." Just recently, her parents mailed 50 pairs of ballet shoes because the shoes Janet normally orders from England had not arrived. "She wears out her shoes very fast," her mother says. The ballet company buys her shoes. Janet shares a "flat" in Tehran with two other dancers from London. She has picked up the British term for her living quarters along with some other terms, her mother says.

A program and hymn will be led by the Rev. Kenneth Watson, pastor of Calvary Church, Monday at 1:30 p.m. in Herrmann Hall, Biscarield Dr. All residents of Westhill Gardens and Amos are invited. Refreshments will be served.

Will Clarabelle win?

CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — Clara Belle, one of the nominees for homecoming queen at West Texas State University has auburn hair, brown eyes and weighs 500 pounds. She was already listed on the official ballot when officials discovered she was a dairy cow. "I thought it was a beautiful spoof to have the WTSU Buffaloes homecoming queen be a cow," said John Lewis, a perpetrator of the prank. Seniors David Geiger and Lewis, both of Amarillo, decided to enter Clara Belle in the "spirit of trick-or-treat and campus mischief." Among the few verbal rules for a queen candidate was "that she be sponsored by a campus organization. Lewis and Geiger, who is president of the Ski Club, decided those rules didn't ban a cow. They entered Miss Belle, but decided to back out later. The problem was that the ballots already "We did not write out 'freshman' On her application, Clara Belle, who lives in Borger, is listed as a 'fresh.' "What happens if Clara Belle scores an upset?" Geiger said. "We do have a cow on hand in case she wins and has to be presented at the game."

Penney complex plans unveiled

The town announced plans for an industrial park in the Buckland section of Manchester, which would include a huge J.C. Penney department store and distribution center. If the town and the company can come to a final agreement. The nationwide firm has apparently selected the site, near Exit 83 of Route 146, as the best location for the facility, which would cover two million square feet and could mean as many as 2,000 full- and part-time jobs.

Representatives of the recently formed Manchester Association for the Gifted made another plan to the school board this week. They sought a board commitment and funding for special programs for gifted students. Asst. School Supt. Alfred Tychesen reported this week that more than 80 per cent of Manchester High School sophomores passed a "pilot" basic skills test administered recently. The test — checking to make sure students have learned "survival skills" — may eventually become a prerequisite to receiving a high school diploma.

Students at Buckley School wrote short essays on why it's important for their parents to vote. Unemployment, high prices, and pollution were the major problems of the day, according to the students' remarks.

Paul Moss, assistant administrator, said the new facility was next on the priority list after the completion of the proposed laundry facility. Other planning developments included demolition of the original hospital building because it no longer meets present and future medical needs, replacement with new buildings, and construction of a parking garage with office space. These are items with which the recently formed Health Systems Agency will be involved.

The town also continued fact-finding proceedings with Union Local 901, which represents workers in the Public Works Department. There are still six issues that the two sides are in disagreement about. The fact-finder has approximately 30 days to issue his report on the case. Town Counsel Victor I. Moses issued an opinion that the Eighth Utilities District will have to decide on a petition by Ambassador Dr. residents before the town Board of Directors can act on the matter. The residents are asking that they receive fire protection from the Town Fire Department rather than the Eighth District Fire Department. Those signing the petition live just within the Eighth District's eastern boundary.

Other planning developments included demolition of the original hospital building because it no longer meets present and future medical needs, replacement with new buildings, and construction of a parking garage with office space. These are items with which the recently formed Health Systems Agency will be involved. The hospital's future development plans may also be affected by the results of a joint committee of representatives from Manchester Memorial Hospital and Rockville General Hospital who will study the needs of each hospital's pediatrics and obstetrics departments with the possibility that either or both services may be shared. The Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary heard Dr. Abraham Kurien, Manchester cardiologist, stress the need for education in primary health care. The knowledge could be helpful in economizing a physician's available patient time, and in streamlining and making for more efficient scheduling in the hospital emergency department.

New Hope Manor, a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center for teen-age girls, was awarded a $21,000 grant by the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving to hire an additional social worker and secretary and to purchase a 15-passenger van. The Pension Board decided to look into the Board of Directors' 1978 rejection of an amendment to the pension ordinance that would have permitted people working 17 1/2 hours per week, one-half of a work week, to become part of the pension plan. The minimum limit is now 20 hours per week. The lower limit was requested by Wilcox Dunbar, assistant superintendent of schools, who said that about 30 school employees could be included under the lower hour ordinance.

Education: After debate about administrative problems and wear and tear on books, the Manchester Board of Education this week adopted a policy allowing nonpublic school students to borrow extra public school textbooks. The policy, recommended by school administrators, complies with a recently adopted state law. In other school board business this week, Youth Service Coordinator Robert Digan made a plea for more local homeopaths to make space available to children away from home. Digan explained that the Network Shelter Care program run by his department isn't fully effective because of lack of homes for placement.

Politics: Local candidates completed their final full week of campaigning Tuesday's election. Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel reported that this year's election has seen his office mail out a record number of absentee ballots. The office has sent out about 1,300 of the ballots, a 42 per cent increase over the 1977 Presidential election.

Ill effects of real population growth

Officially, the U.S. population stood at 215.7 million at the middle of 1976. Actually, nobody knows for sure how many of us there really are. The official figure does not include an undercount of 5.3 million announced by the Bureau of the Census several years ago, says Robert Cook, population consultant to The Environmental Fund and formerly president of the Population Reference Bureau. Nor does it allow for the entry into this country of illegal aliens since the undercount was determined. Of the 11 million visitors to the United States in the past year, a million may have stayed on illegally. There is no record of their departure. The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) estimates that a minimum of 400,000 are still illegally in this country. In addition, two or three million aliens entered the country illegally in the same period, and fewer than one million were apprehended and deported. Again, the INS estimates that at least 800,000 stayed on.

Even using the conservative figures of the INS, and combining them with the census undercount, this means that the actual population of the United States is more than 220 million.

The natural increase of Americans (the excess of births over deaths) increased our population by .59 per cent in the past year. But when immigration—legal and illegal—is added, population growth was more than 1.2 per cent. The first figure would double the U.S. population in 117 years; the second figure would double it in 57 years. And while our population doubles, the world's present population of four billion will quadruple, if current growth rates continue.

If that happens, says Justin Blackwelder, president of The Environmental Fund, "the conservationists and ecologists can close up shop. It will be impossible to conserve anything."

Penney plans deplored

To the editor,
 It seemed coincidental that in reading the Oct. 23 issue of the Manchester Herald about the proposed J.C. Penney warehouse in Buckland that I had to turn to page 18 to finish the article. It was continued right under the obituaries.

I was delighted to read some of the solicited opinions of some of my neighbors. "Job opportunities will be good for the young people." "We need the extra employment." "More honest but no less appalling." "Hadn't thought too much about it."

What's the matter with everyone? You are being blocked in asphalt and seem to be enjoying every square foot of it. You will no doubt be elated when you can drive from Hartford to Boston without seeing a single blade of green grass.

My neighbor was recently forced to sell his home. For what? Asphalt! Fourteen feet more will be taken off my front lawn. For what? More asphalt! My home will be next and then they will come for yours.

When they have finally done it, covered the entire ground with tar, where will the opportunities for your young people be then? We won't have to give it much thought, there won't be anything to think about.

Consolidation urged

Dear sir:
 Please allow space in your Open Forum to comment on the recent request from Ambassador Dr. residents for fire protection from the Town of Manchester.

I don't blame these property owners to seek the best fire protection available, namely a determined effort once again to consolidate the Eighth District with the town and eliminate the present bickering.

WASHINGTON — Strip away Jimmy Carter's obsessive ambition, his Playboy interview and campaign double talk. Erase President Ford's gaffe on Eastern Europe and his politically suspect, 11th-hour decisions to give new wheat support prices to farmers and sophisticated weapons to Israel.

Now what do you have? Regrettably, two candidates who still fall woefully short of what the American people have a right to expect in their President.

That is the bottom-line reason why surveys indicate a majority of eligible citizens, for the first time in more than a half century, may not bother to vote on Tuesday.

Since winning this party's nomination in July, Carter has proven to be more adaptable than a chameleon. His lieutenants virtually dictated the Democratic platform calling for tens of billions of dollars worth of new federal programs — in government national health insurance, education and welfare. When Republicans began putting price tags on those expensive items, Carter quickly began to back-pedal, saying vaguely that they would be instituted when affordable.

He also has been deceptive on his record as governor of Georgia. Carter regularly refers to the reorganization of that state's government, saying that 278 out of 300 state agencies were eliminated during his term, and implying that if elected President he would likewise cut the federal bureaucracy down to size. What he fails to add, however, is that the number of state employees actually rose by some 30 per cent and Georgia's total spending shot up by 50 per cent.

Now to Mr. Ford — a capable, though by no means exceptional, legislator tapped by fate and Mr. Nixon to lead America out of the malaise of Watergate. As President, Gerald Ford has done just that. His homespun decency, reminiscent of what Dwight Eisenhower brought to the presidency, was tailor-made for the troublesome time he inherited. Although too many citizens remain unemployed, inflation has been cut in half and most Americans view the future with greater confidence.

Mr. Ford, however, still has given the nation only half a loaf's worth of leadership. This writer believes the President's two-year record of achievements would have been considerably more impressive if he had not been opposed at every turn by the rabidly partisan 94th Congress, weighted nearly two-to-one against Mr. Ford's party.

But history will be concerned with achievements, not excuses, and on at least two issues of overwhelming importance, the Ford Administration probably will be found wanting. Those issues: Energy and national defense.

At the time of the oil boycott in 1973, the U.S. was dependent upon Arab countries for 16 per cent of its imported petroleum. Today, despite that continuing crisis, we import even more — 46 per cent of our oil — and more than 75 per cent of the imports come from the very Arab countries that cut off the supply three

Will democracy die by default?

Don Oakley

There is not much point in arguing with people who say they aren't going to vote in the presidential election because neither candidate is deserving, or because it doesn't matter how you vote since nothing ever changes, etc., etc.

This is the way people feel — 70 million of them, according to one survey — and there is little that can be done to crack through the rather self-righteous shell into which they have retreated. Certainly, much of what they say about politics and politicians is true.

But it is one thing to refuse to participate in selecting the man who will lead the nation, and the free world, for the next four years. It is another to throw away the right to vote entirely.

Choosing the president is, after all, merely one decision American voters are called upon to make on Nov. 2. There will be a host of other questions on every ballot in every community in the nation.

On the national level, of course, all 435 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and 34 seats in the Senate will be in the balance.

But on the state level, voters will be faced with more than 340 issues of every description — laws, judicial decisions, state officers and salaries, bond issues, industrial development, sexual equality, law enforcement.

Georgians alone will be confronted with less than 95 "ballots," ranging from a new state constitution to authorizing the General Assembly to create a small claims court in Whitfield County. In Maryland, 19 amendments to the state constitution will be on the ballot.

In Massachusetts, citizens will decide whether or not to make part of their state's constitution an amendment guaranteeing equal rights regarding sex. In Colorado the question will be whether or not to keep the state's 1972 equal rights amendment.

Also in Colorado, voters will be asked, as they were in California earlier this year, to weigh a proposal — Proposition 3 — which could deter-

Today's thought

I heard or read the story recently of the old "Vermont" leaning on the fence watching the cars go by. One stopped and asked directions. After receiving them he decided to say, "I'm it rather boring just leaning on to that fence watching the cars go by?"

To which the elderly man retorted, "It's better than sitting 'in that car watching the fences go by.'"

We are a jumpy, twitchy generation. We are wound up too tight creating physical and mental problems for ourselves and others. We are inclined to think that doing a lot of things makes us effective, or that happiness comes from being busy.

We are being overstimulated. The problems and needs of the world are coming into our heads constantly. The social life of our day is not relaxing but winds up tighter and tighter. When we have spare moments we get in the car and go out to "see some more fences." We need to be still. The world will be better, we will be better and our work will be better if we practice leaning on the fence a little more.

In Isaiah we read "Thus said the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel, 'In returning and rest you shall be saved, in quietness and confidence shall be your strength; and you would not but you said, 'No! We will speed upon horses!'

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? We Christians need to be reminded that our Lord didn't say — Come to me and I will wind you up, but rather — Come to me and I will give you rest.

Almanac

By United Press International
 Today is Saturday, Oct. 31, the 304th day of 1976 with 62 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

John Adams, second president of the United States, was born Oct. 30, 1735.

On this day in history:
 In 1938, Orson Welles caused a national panic with a radio dramatization of a fictional invasion of New Jersey by "men from Mars."

In 1941, an American destroyer, the Reuben James, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, more than a month before the United States entered World War II.

In 1972, 44 persons were killed in the crash of an Illinois Central commuter train in Chicago.

In 1975, Prince Juan Carlos assumed power in Spain as head of state Generalissimo Francisco Franco lay near death.

A thought for the day: American playwright George M. Cohan said, "No matter what may happen, whatever may befall, I only know that I'm mighty glad to be living, that's all."

HOW THEY STAND

On energy independence

Gerald Ford
 "The only way Congress can really protect the American consumer is to enact a long-range energy program that encourages Americans to produce our own energy with our own resources and at our own price."

Jimmy Carter
 "We, as I said, have now gotten dependent upon about 60 per cent of our oil from foreign countries. A good portion of that comes from Arab nations. In 1973 an embargo was imposed on our country because of the Israeli political situation in the Middle Eastern political situation. I would not permit that to happen again. I would let the Arab countries know that we are not their friends, that we are heavily dependent upon oil being imported from them, that if they declare an embargo against us, we would consider them a military, but an economic declaration of war, and that we would debate in a similar and without further delay. We would not ship them any food, no oil drilling rigs, no oil pipes, no oil tankers, no spare parts for weapons, no other for our oil supplies. We now realize how critical energy is to the defense of our country, to the strength of our economy, and to the quality of our life."

"We must reduce our vulnerability to the economic disruption which a few of our energy supplies or arbitrarily raising prices. We must regain our energy independence."

News for senior citizens

Wally Fortin

"Hi everybody! Man, did things start to happen this past Monday. First thing in the morning I received a telephone call telling me that the Manchester Medical Society came through with the outstanding donation of $2,000. Wow, you could have knocked me off my chair! This person who wants to be anonymous then stated they would be sending me a check for the $1,000. Now I did fall off the chair. I was so excited, and it's all been a big wonderful dream. On behalf of myself, the center's staff, and especially the senior members we want to extend our sincere and gracious thanks to the Manchester Medical Society, and to the anonymous donor. Words just can't convey how grateful and appreciative we are.

When we started this drive I was asking that each senior Gold Card holder that could afford it, to please send in $1 to help us buy a mini-bus. I said at that time that I was confident we would have the money by the end of October. Well, for awhile the monies were coming in rather slowly, and I then changed my time schedule to extend until Thanksgiving.

I guess if I had to wait for just the $1 from our seniors it would have taken that long; however, with these donations, we now have enough money so that we can start going on purchasing a mini-van.

Still need $1,500

At this time however, I find that my goal of $6,000 is about $1,500 short because there are always a few extras that need to be added to the vehicle, and we hope to use any money over and above the actual cost to help maintain and make repairs from time to time. So our fundraising project isn't over yet, we still would like to hear from more of our seniors.

Maybe in the next column we can give you a grand rundown on how we stand, and even be able to say we have ordered the vehicle, because from all reports to get a mini-van with a few extra comfortable features in it, it will take two to four months. At least we know it's coming, and that's the best news.

Now that we have that project pretty well under control the next big thing is the big Craft Fair scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 2, here at the center. We are telling you now because we need lots of your handmade items, also articles that can be sold on our white elephant table, plus a big food sale. From the latest reports we are receiving many lovely articles, and most of them will make dandy Christmas gifts. So keep the date in mind, and also plan on making something that we can sell.

Bowling

News about the center starts with our Tuesday afternoon senior bowling league at the Parkside Lanes, with the following results: In the women's Class A group, Celeste King won the high triple with a 409; and Bea Corrier won the high single with a 176; In the Class B group, Lee Steinmeyer won the high triple with a 306, and Anna Haupt won the high single with a 113.

In the men's Class A group, Paul Desjardes won the high triple with a 520, and Ivar Johnson won the high single with 187. In the Class B group, James Gleeson won both the high triple with 468, and the high single with 178.

On Wednesday morning we had 12 players for pinocle and the winners were: Mary Thrall and Helena Gavello, 565; Michael Haberra, 562; John Derby, 561; Rene Maire, 558; Grace Windsor, 543; Gladys Seelert, 539; Cecile Benson and Al Gates, 535.

In the afternoon while members of our crafts class were busy making articles for the fair, we had 4 tables for our bridge games, and the lucky winners were: Marjorie McLain, 4,990; Mary Thrall, 3,870; Nadine Malcolm, 3,880, and Lou Buller, 3,420.

Thursday Big Day

Thursday was our big day. It started off with a nice turnout for our social dance lessons. Then after a delicious pork chop dinner we moved upstairs to hear the Judge of Probate, William FitzGerald. He gave us a most interesting talk concerning wills and ended with a question and answer period. Many of the members had questions which made it a very interesting and informative session enjoyed by all present. We then Judge FitzGerald for spending the afternoon with us.

We also had our good friend Miss Katherine Gibson who is the chairperson in charge of public donations for the Bicentennial Band Shell. She was asking for seniors to bring their services and help with the fantastic Tag Sale that will be held at the Forbes and Wallace Building in the Parkside on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 20, and 21st. Anyone interested in helping should contact our office as soon as possible.

During the afternoon we heard that Anna Lehmann is now a patient at the Silver Lane Pavilion on receiving Lane, East Hartford, 06108. Helen Gray from Woodland Street is a patient at Manchester Memorial Hospital, and William Mastropietro is now recuperating at his home, 337 Woodland Street.

Food for needy

We reminded everybody that we are collecting canned goods to give to the needy for Thanksgiving. So when you're in the neighborhood, drop by and leave a couple of cans. Let's make this Thanksgiving one that the needy will be really thankful for.

Next Thursday we will have as our guest Steven O'Donnell, Director of Cross Roads who will speak to us

Are welders recall ordered by CPSC

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Consumer Product Safety Commission is ordering the recall of 142,000 electric arc welders which it says "could result in severe electrical shocks, burns or fires."

The welders were manufactured by Wel-dex Manufacturing Co. of Houston, Tex., from 1968 to 1974 and sold nationwide — primarily by mail order — for $19.95.

The commission reported there was one injury associated with the product. The commission claimed in a hearing on the accident that the welder was not insulated properly, the amperage was too high for the type of wiring and defective terminals were exposed on the outside.

"Persons in possession of the product, or who have destroyed it for safety reasons, may contact Wel-dex Manufacturing Co., Box 10639, Houston, Tex. 77014, or the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207, for details concerning the recall and any refunds," the agency said.

It added that the manufacturer has been ordered to replace the product with a safe one or give consumers refunds depending on the age and amount of use of the welder.

Health lectures to be repeated

Because of the many persons who were unable to register for the lecture series in primary health care which began Thursday at Manchester Memorial Hospital, the series will be repeated after the first of the year.

Mrs. Marilyn Peracchio, publicity chairman for the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary which is sponsoring the series, said there were more than 100 persons who signed up for the series, but the conference rooms at the hospital where the lectures are held, can only accommodate about 75 persons.

The series features Dr. Alan Krupp, Dr. Abraham Karim, Dr. George Lamborg Jr. and Dr. Robert K. Butterfield, whose lectures are being offered in an effort to increase the public's awareness and understanding of their own body and how it functions.

For information, call either Mrs. Arlene Hall at 647-9706, Mrs. Elaine Romo at 973-0867, or Mrs. Polly Davis at 645-5021.

Business

Businesses pay third of taxes

Business paid one-third of all state taxes collected in Connecticut in fiscal 1975, according to the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council, placing Connecticut fifth highest in the nation in the percentage of state taxes levied directly on business.

In 1975, the average direct state tax on U.S. business amounted to 23.1 per cent of all state taxes. The corresponding figure for Connecticut was 33.5 per cent, almost half again as much as the U.S. average. Gov. Ella T. Grasso has stated that certain business taxes may receive some additional relief from this heavy burden in next year's budget if the economy continues to improve tax receipts and if spending controls can be maintained. Louisiana and Alaska rank first and second, and have a high state business tax burden because a great portion of their business taxes come from severance taxes levied on the extraction of oil and minerals. In fourth-ranking Delaware, a substantial portion of the tax on business comes from the franchise tax on firms incorporated there under the state's corporation franchise tax law.

The report, "State Tax Collections," just released by the U.S. Census Bureau, from which the data was taken, includes corporate income taxes, gross receipts taxes on businesses and public utilities, severance taxes for the extraction of oil and minerals, various state business license taxes, and unemployment compensation taxes. Data is not available for that portion of taxes paid by business under sales and gasoline taxes and for motor vehicle license fees in the various states.

Symposium Wednesday

Several leaders of Connecticut's business sector will join members of the academic community in Farmington Wednesday for a symposium to help both groups resolve the crisis of public confidence in American business.

The symposium, to be held at the University of Connecticut's Barney Conference Center, is sponsored by the UConn School of Business Administration in cooperation with Pitney Bowes Corp. of Stamford.

Blish promoted

Fred T. Blish of Manchester has been appointed director of program administration in the organization and personnel resources department of United Technologies.

Prior to his promotion, Blish had been assistant personnel manager at United's Hamilton Standard division. He joined the company in 1958 and holds a bachelor's degree from Tufts University and a master's degree from Indiana University.

In his new position, he will be responsible for working with United's divisions and subsidiaries on general personnel matters and for coordinating Equal Employment Opportunity and special employee programs.

Two Manchester area men have been re-elected to staff positions with the Savings Banks' Association of Connecticut.

Kerwin A. Spencer of Manchester was re-elected administrative vice president and treasurer, and Donald B. Eden of Vernon was re-elected assistant vice president.

Elections took place at the association's 74th annual meeting this week. Elected chairman of the organization was Richard S. Martin, president of the Berlin Savings Bank in Kensington.

James M. Stone, CPCU, insurance commissioner for Massachusetts will be guest speaker for the Nov. 16 meeting of the Connecticut Chapter, Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters.

The meeting, open to the public, is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn in Hartford. Further information is available from Albert Boutrou, Middlesex Mutual Assurance Co., 200 Court St., Middletown.

The Data Processing Management Association is celebrating its 25th anniversary this week at the group's annual conference in Las Vegas, Nevada. Director Robert J. Suidak of the Hartford chapter reported.

The association is an international professional organization with more than 23,000 members in 275 chapters.

The United Technologies Research Center has received a $429,000 contract from the Naval Research Laboratory to build a laser system for use in a variety of materials processing experiments.

The contract calls for mid-1977 delivery of a system, to be built and tested at the Research Center in East Hartford and installed at the Navy lab in Washington, D.C.

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) processed 6,493 new principal residence credits totaling $10,240,000 for Connecticut taxpayers between January and July 31. Pete J. Medina, area IRS director, announced.

The residence credits were allowed under the Federal Tax Reduction Act of 1975. Taxpayers were allowed a five per cent credit, with a $2,000 ceiling, on the purchase of a new principal residence built or under construction before March 26, 1975, and acquired and occupied after March 12, 1975. Medina said.

Winters & Co. Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a broker-dealer in municipal and government securities, has consented to a 30-day suspension of its registration, State Bank Commissioner Lawrence Connell Jr. announced.

Connell said the suspension followed receipt of information that the firm sold securities in Connecticut without being registered in the state.

First selectman says most agree:

Bolton will accept its first charter

By DONNA HOLLAND
First Selectman David Dreselly said this week the charter proposed for the town is a serious and good document.

It will codify, on one place, what the duties of town agencies are, especially the Board of Selectmen, he said. The first selectman's job will also be spelled out more clearly.

It will help the government here work better, he said, and new ordinance powers of the selectmen will benefit town affairs.

If passed by town voters Tuesday, it will take effect immediately. However, it will take many months for any real changes to show.

For example, all elected and appointed people will remain the same and remain doing the same basic things. Those on salary such as the first selectman will remain at the same salary. The first selectman is paid $5,000 per year and the second selectman are each paid $3,000.

The process leading up to the May 1977 elections will follow the dictates of the new charter. The election process begins in January. A major difference under the charter would be a total of five selectmen instead of three.

One of the first money changes caused by the charter will be the pay for the two extra second selectmen, said Dreselly. It will total $1,200.

Delays administrator

The two new selectmen positions will delay for a short while the need for the town to hire an assistant to the first selectman, said Dreselly.

Dreselly is a first selectman, the top town official, on a part-time basis only. He works as a property appraiser for a Manchester firm fulltime.

However, he said he often puts in 40 or more hours a week as first selectman, especially when there are problems needing resolution. The average week is about 35 hours, he said.

The extra selectmen will relieve the first selectman of some duties. They will "take off" the need for a fulltime, professional assistant to the first selectman, he said.

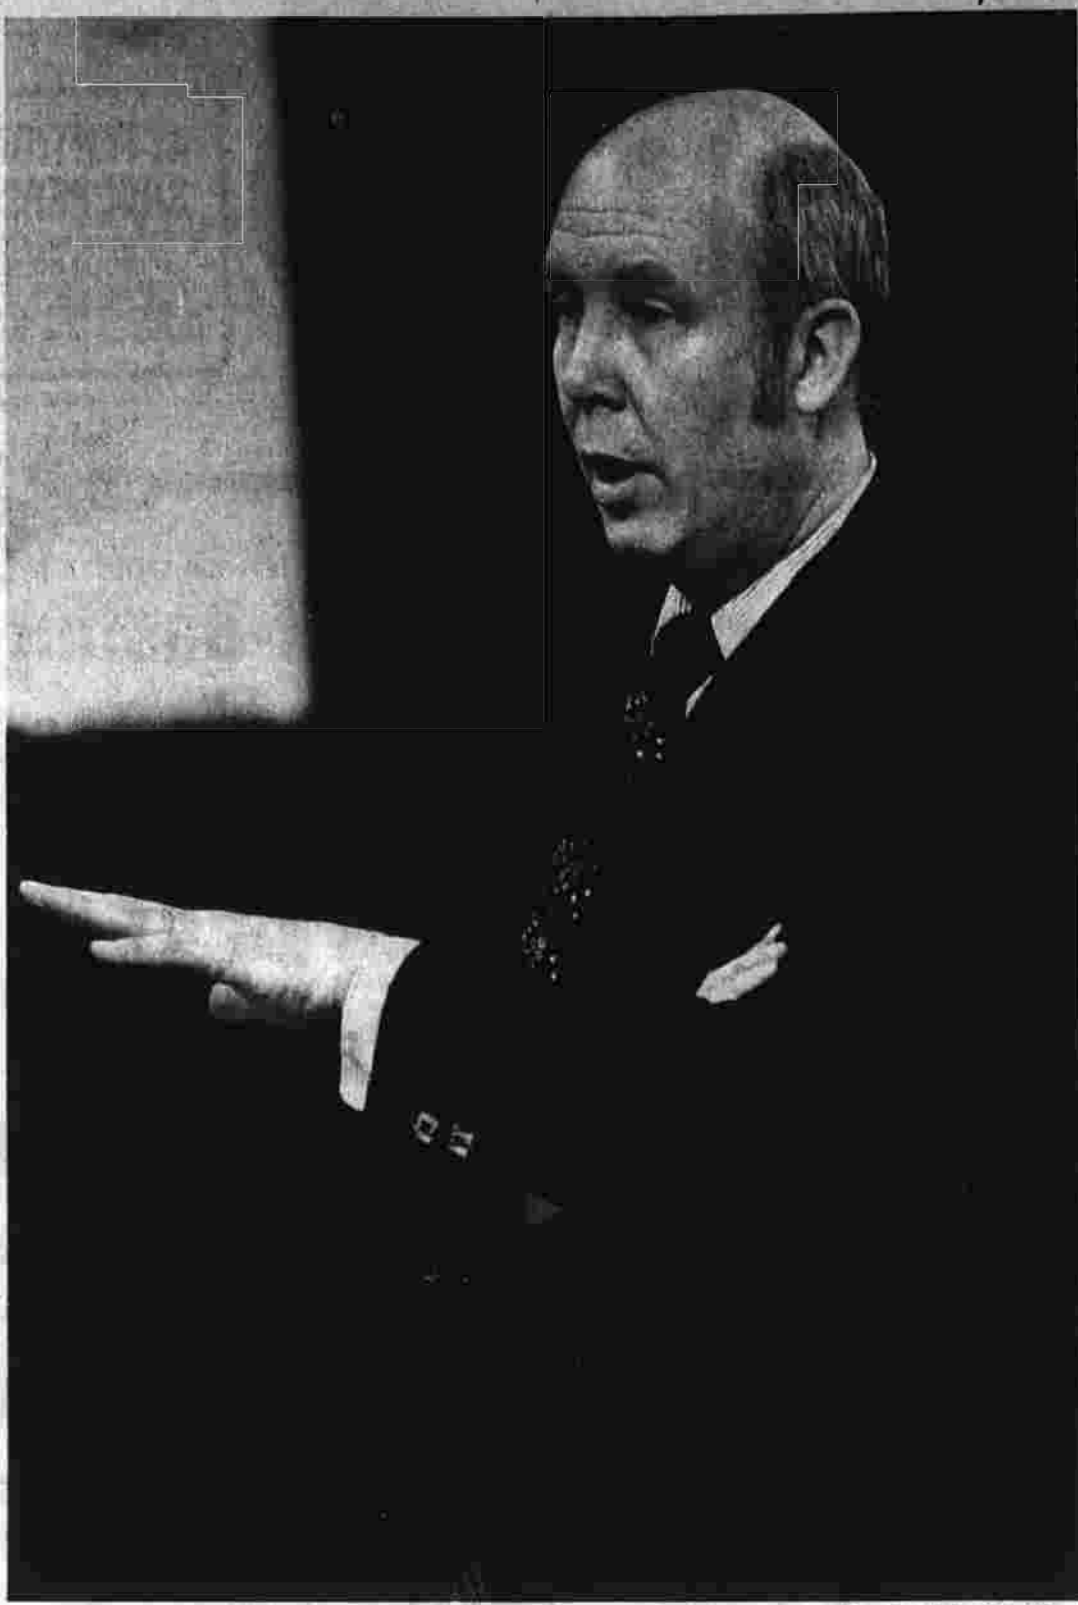

But the time will come, perhaps in three to five years, Dreselly said, when a fulltime man will be needed.

Such a man can be hired without changing the charter. The responsibility for leadership will "still lie in the lap of the first selectman," he said.

Preclection

"I believe this charter will pass," predicted Dreselly.

"Both parties have approved it. There is no serious opposition to it. I think the town will agree it is a positive step."

Bolton First Selectman David A. Dreselly conducting a meeting Wednesday night.

Boltonites worked long hours to prepare a sound charter

DONNA HOLLAND
Tuesday, Bolton electors will be asked to approve a new form of government as outlined in a proposed charter.

The charter story began four years ago.

A group was appointed in October 1972 to study the existing form of government with a view toward making changes. It was called the Town Government Study Committee. It recommended a charter commission be established.

In April 1973, the Board of Selectmen appointed the town's first charter commission. It had 13 members.

In June 1973, an improper balance of members was discovered. In November 1973, the selectmen dissolved the commission due to questions concerning its legality. Immediately they appointed a new, 15-member charter commission.

In December 1975, a 14-member charter commission was appointed.

It worked and worked and worked, often meeting four and five nights a week. They tried in many ways to give opportunities to help shape the charter.

Ordinance power

The selectmen will have the right to adopt, amend or repeal ordinances and adopt emergency ordinances. A publicized public hearing must be held on all ordinances. Those opposed to any change may petition for overrule.

By power of initiative, electors may propose ordinances to the selectmen.

The Board of Selectmen will assist the finance board with the annual town report, create temporary advisory commissions, hold necessary Town Meetings, recommend items for referendum, employ necessary staff including professionals, accept or refuse town roads and generally supervise the administration of the affairs of the town.

Transition period

A transition period for all offices is provided. In general, persons now serving will serve out their unexpired terms.

The Board of Selectmen will assist the finance board with the annual town report, create temporary advisory commissions, hold necessary Town Meetings, recommend items for referendum, employ necessary staff including professionals, accept or refuse town roads and generally supervise the administration of the affairs of the town.

The charter provides for vacancies, audits of books and accounts of the town, preparation and adoption of the budget, special appropriations and transfers. It provides for a capital reserve fund limiting appropriations from it to $1,000 or more.

Town meeting

Town meeting action is necessary for adoption of the budget, insurance of bonds, appropriations over $5,000, grants, purchase of real estate, sale of town-owned land, leases, creation or abolition of commissions, abandoning town roads, rejection of teacher's contracts.

The charter provides for power of initiative, power of overrule, action requiring referendum, minority rejection, incompatible offices, conflicts of interest, removal and recall.

It provides for all boards to have organizational meetings.

All boards must file the voting record of members within 48 hours of a meeting and minutes within 14 days.

Commission members

Members of the Charter Commission are Elaine Camposso, John Esche, Thomas Franz, Catherine Leiner, Joseph Licita, Lorraine Maus, David Mitchell, John Morianos, Richard Morra, William Rady, Lawrence Shaw, Ernest Shepherd, Marshall Taylor, and Robert vanHeiningen.

Its consultant is Irving Beck.

If approved Tuesday, the charter becomes effective immediately.

The final message from the commission to townspersons is, "Be it Fort or Carter. Vote yes on the charter."

Question 5 on the ballot.

League hints

The South Windsor and Vernon Leagues of Women Voters offer the following information to the voters.

To vote for a write-in presidential candidate, the voter must obtain the names of his candidate's eight electors. For this information, call the Elections Information section at the Secretary of State's office, 566-3106, or contact your town clerk. You must obtain this information prior to Tuesday. It is not available at the polling places on election day.

You must write in the initial and last name of each of the eight electors in the space provided on the ballot for write-ins. A voter cannot simply write in the name of his candidate. Also "stickers" carrying the names of the eight electors cannot be glued to the write-in space on the ballot. You must write in all eight names of the electors of your candidate for your vote to be valid.

Be sure to bring the list of eight names with you into the polling booth. It is also suggested that you have with you a pencil or pen in case these are not available.

Officially, on the ballot in Connecticut on Nov. 2nd are the Democratic, Republican, and Party nominees. The Wallace party is backing Lester Maddox of Georgia, the American Independent Party candidate; all other candidates are write-in candidates and must be voted for as indicated above.

55th District

State Rep. Aloysius Ahearn has demonstrated his devotion to human concerns as a long time officer and supporter of the Greater Hartford Twilight League, and through his activity in behalf of Cystic Fibrosis.

Gallagher was also endorsed by the Connecticut State Federation of Teachers.

55th District

Dorothy Miller, Republican candidate for state representative from the 55th District, issued today her final statement of the campaign.

"One of the greatest opportunities that we enjoy is the right to elect our leadership.

"I ask the people of Andover, Bolton, Columbia, Hebron, Marlborough, and Vernon to vote for me. I believe that I am the best person to represent them and their interests in the state legislature and at the state level.

"I am an experienced legislator having spent 10 years in the state legislature representing small towns and I know the needs and sentiments of the communities. During my tenure, I continuously worked with the elected officials to solve each community's problems at the state level. I will continue this service if elected next Tuesday.

"Most important of all," Mrs. Miller concluded, "I am available to serve on a full time basis throughout the year."

Absentee ballots available

The town clerk, Henry Butler, also reminds those whose rights matured since the Oct. 9 voter-making session, that they may still register up to 5 p.m. Monday.

The only ones who may apply are bonafide residents celebrating their 18th birthday during the period of Oct. 11 to Nov. 2; those who have acquired their citizenship since the Oct. 9 session; and qualified persons in the armed forces.

pledge chairwoman; Jacqueline Smakula of Lebanon, hospitality chairwoman; Nellie Manwarren of Columbia, publicity chairwoman; and Cynthia Strouse of Norwich, altruistic chairwoman.

The Alpha Delta Cappa Theta Chapter is made up of women educators from several areas towns.

The members voted to bake birthday cakes for children at the Seaside Regional Center in Waterford.

The group also plans to include Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter baskets for needy families with school age children. The Thanksgiving basket this year will go to a family in Colchester through the public health or school nurse.

Youth leaders ready at Blessed Sacrament Church

Recently elected officers of the CYO at the Blessed Sacrament Church on Cambridge Dr., East Hartford meet to plan the year's events. They are, standing left to right, Treasurer Peter Cyr, Assistant Treasurer Vanita Ratti, Secretary Cheryl Tessier, and vice president Lorrie Nash. Sitting they are, center, Assistant Secretary Diane Tardif and President Donna Rancourt. Their first full membership meeting is Sunday, Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. Guest speaker will be newspaper reporter Constance Neyer.

Mrs. Helen Brink of Grist Mill Rd., Hebron urges Jay Queen, 7, of Grade 2, Hebron Elementary School to learn his letters during a day at the Burrows Hill School. # Hebron schedules antique show

The Hebron Historical Society will conduct an antique show and sale next Saturday at Rhum High School from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

More than 300 dealers will display collectible items to suit every age and purse.

Society members are hard at work on dried arrangements, plants and items for the Bake Sale. Such tongue-tempting things as cakes, pies, casseroles, muffins, cookies and the like will be offered. Cookbooks, notepaper, pen and ink sketches suitable for framing and house plaques will be on sale.

Mrs. Barbara Wythe will also be at the

Bucks undefeated

The Hebron Bucks are undefeated champions with five wins and one tie game for the 1976 Midget Football season. They played their final game Saturday against the Coventry Panthers C Team and brought home another victory.

Scoring the winning points for the Bucks were three Marlborough players, Jimmy Sulzinski, Doug Post and Scott McKay. Due to an agreement among C Team coaches in the Midget Football League, the scores for the C Team games have not been released, only whether the game was a win or a loss.

Rams beat Panthers

Sunday brought a 34-0 victory for the Rams over the Coventry Panthers AB Team. Chuck Medlin, Andover, scored 20 points and gained a total of 178 yards for Hebron.

Two other Andover players, David Knox and Keith Boccaccio, scored Ram touchdowns. Greg Moore from Hebron contributed two points on a safety.

Cited for excellent plays were John Lyman, Tom Mulcahy, Tom Gullfrie, Randy Simmons, Larry Wallace and Mike Gerier.

The Rams will play their final game against Lebanon Sunday at the Gilead Hill Field at 1 p.m.

I-86 hearing set

The Army Corps of Engineers will conduct a public hearing at Tolland High School Nov. 30, 7:30 p.m. on an application for a federal permit for extensive dredging, filling and construction involving I-86.

A federal permit is required under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. The application covers highway work proposed in Vernon, Tolland and Willington.

The work will include the extension of 20 culverts, relocating several waterways, extension of pipes and construction of some new culverts.

Ralph T. Garver, colonel of the Corps of Engineers, said more than 82,000 cubic yards of material would be excavated and the same amount of new fill placed.

TAC talks on energy planned

The Tolland County Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor two programs relating to energy. The first will be Monday and the second Monday, Nov. 8, both at 7:30 p.m. at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30.

John Kolega, agricultural engineer, University of Connecticut, will be guest speaker at the first program. He will speak about home insulation and will specifically discuss when, where, and how to correctly insulate and when and how to use vapor barriers.

On Nov. 8 John Bartok and Edward Palmer, agricultural engineers, will conduct a program on wood stoves. It will cover buying the stoves, correctly installing them and the safe use of them. Some time will also be spent on the choosing and using of appropriate wood.

Those planning to attend either or both programs should pre-register by calling the extension office, 875-3351.

Days of electoral college may be numbered

WASHINGTON — One casualty of the presidential campaign of 1976 may turn out to be the electoral college, that shadowy body through which the indirect election of a new president is performed.

The present arrangement since the 12th amendment to the Constitution was ratified in 1804, on three occasions in the nineteenth century it installed a president who had come second in the popular vote, and several times in this century it has come close enough to that result to give the country a fright.

Not least, the candidates who might conceivably lose the election in spite of coming first in the popular vote is Carter himself, admittedly this is not a probable outcome, but political analysts like Kevin Phillips and Neal Peirce are pointing out that it is perfectly possible, and there is no reason to believe that Carter's camp will be able to change anything about it in October.

February that they were frightened in October. The theory on which Carter might lose the game in this bizarre way assumes that he gets more votes in the South, and in some reliable northern states, than he needs, and that he loses a string of big states — Illinois, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, even perhaps California — by very narrow margins.

The town and union representing the Public Works Department employees moved closer together in contract negotiations Thursday night. But there is apparently still a lengthy stretch of road ahead before a final contract agreement is reached.

Both sides met with state appointed fact-finder David Weinstein and presented their side of the case. The Public Works employees have been working without a contract since July 1. They met in a mediation session with the fact-finder last week where some progress was made. But, during the past week, the two sides had drifted farther apart, according to sources.

Terney said that after Thursday's meeting, "We're much more hopeful we can resolve the impasse." The fact-finder is now given approximately 30 days to write his report, in which he will make recommendations.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. THE METRIC SYSTEM

THE CUSTOMARY MEASURING SYSTEM USED IN THE UNITED STATES TODAY IS NEARLY THE SAME AS THAT BROUGHT BY THE COLONISTS FROM ENGLAND.

360 OF A SERIES

As the society of man advanced through the centuries, his haphazard measurements were changed here and there to make them more reliable for measuring things accurately time after time.

Moreover, new systems of weights and measures were developed. Nearly every trade had its own system.

The surveyor measured in chains, the printer in picas, the jeweler in carats (derived from the weight of a carob seed), and the seaman in knots.

Offers a measurement had different values. A pound of beans, for example, weighed 16 ounces (avoirdupois), yet a pound of gold weighed only 12 ounces (troy).

And there was not only the ton (2,000 lbs.), but the long ton (2,240 lbs.) as well.

When the American colonists arrived in the New World, they brought their patched-up system of inches, grains, pecks and bushels with them. Our system of measurements is quite accurate today, but it's still behind the times.

The anatomy of a campaign

By STEVE GERSTEL
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four years ago, Richard Nixon buried George McGovern for a second four-year term.
 The same day, Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., was easily re-elected and looked forward to retirement after two more years and a quarter-century in Congress.
 And a little-known Georgia governor, Jimmy Carter, privately planned a daring assault on the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.
 The next four years radically changed Ford's life, but not Carter's strategy for capturing the White House.
 The resignation of Spiro Agnew elevated Ford, the conservative, party-line House GOP leader, to the vice presidency. The resignation of Nixon on Aug. 9, 1974, made Ford the first president to take office without standing for national election.
 Shortly after, it became clear Ford wanted to win the presidency on his own.
 At the end of 1974, Carter completed his term as governor. Twenty-two months before the 1976 election, he began his campaign for the Democratic nomination.
Spotlight on Ford
 While the spotlight was on Ford, Carter wandered a lonely road across the United States, a virtually unknown southerner presenting an anti-Washington campaign in a soft drawl.
 Carter was not the only Democrat with visions of the White House. There were many — Jackson, Udall, Bayh, Shriver, Wallace, a hesitant Humphrey.

 But Carter, pre-empting the center with a brilliantly organized campaign, broke away from the pack with a dizzying series of primary victories. When they were over on June 5, he had clinched the nomination.
 When Ford announced he would seek the presidency, a number of GOP aspirants, including Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois and Howard Baker of Tennessee, quickly folded their tents.
 But Ronald Reagan, the 65-year-old former California governor, could not be frightened off. Answering the call of party conservatives, Reagan challenged Ford for the nomination.
 The Reagan campaign was so strong that Ford came within a handful of votes from becoming the first Republican incumbent denied nomination since Chester Arthur in 1884.
See-saw battle
 After a see-saw battle through the primaries — with Ford using every leverage available to an incumbent — he narrowly defeated Reagan at the Kansas City convention.
 In contrast to the bitter Ford-Reagan battle which split the party almost down the middle, Carter came out of New York's Madison Square Garden having healed the great Democratic schisms of 1968 and 1972.

 His aim was to put together the old Ford coalition. To reassure liberals and labor, he picked Walter Mondale, a Senate liberal and Humphrey protégé, as his running-mate.
 The polls looked so good that Carter had to warn against overconfidence. There seemed to be no way to keep the Democrats out of the White House after eight years in exile.
 It didn't look that good for the Republicans in Kansas City. There was no open split but the ravages of the nomination battle left its marks.
 Fearing Reaganites would sit out the election, Ford picked as his running-mate Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, a rough, slashing conservative.
Debate challenge issued
 In his acceptance address — considered the best speech he has given — Ford challenged Carter to debate. Carter immediately accepted, assuring the first face-to-face presidential confrontation since the Kennedy-Nixon debates of 1960.
 Ford clinched the nomination, but Carter still enjoyed a healthy edge.
 As the traditional campaign Labor Day kickoff approached, the Ford and Carter strategies came into focus.
 Carter, the favorite son, was going to bank heavily on sweeping the South and go after the big electoral votes in the North stretching from New York to California. The potential of a big victory was there.
 Like Carter, Ford refused to concede any state. But it was clear that he would have to win in the big industrial states of the Midwest, hope for a break in New York and California, perhaps make some inroads into the South, and add the Rocky Mountain and Plains states.
 Carter hit the campaign trail at the opening whistle. Ford campaigned from the White House, seeking to project a "presidential" image and claiming he could not stray lest Congress "go off the deep end."
 Both candidates tried from time to time to focus on issues — mostly the economy — but the campaign quickly degenerated into a series of mistakes, accusations, and name-calling.
 And neither man generated much enthusiasm.
 Both men spent valuable time trying to climb out of holes they dug for themselves.
Raised a storm
 Carter raised a storm — much of it among his fellow Baptists — when he revealed in a Playboy magazine interview that he had lust in his heart for other women. He conceded in the third debate the interview never should have been given.
 Another interview gave the impression — seized on by the GOP — that Carter would raise taxes of middle-income wage earners. Carter had to work hard to dispel it.

A timely reminder
 The Wolfgang brothers took to the woods with their clock to remind Herald readers that at 2 a.m. Sunday Daylight Saving Time ends. Homeowners, before retiring tonight, should set clocks back one hour and thus follow the dictum of "spring ahead, fall back," in keeping pace with the changing times. ## Town to seek four Public Works projects

The Town of Manchester had originally hoped to submit nine projects this year for funding through the Public Works Employment Act. Now, at most, the town will submit four, according to Jay J. Giles, director of public works.
 The Economic Development Administration work on all the projects before the applications could be completed.
 Giles said that the Public Works Department will submit at least one application, for sidewalk improvements, and the Police Department will submit one for a detention facility before the rating date.
 After the rating date, the town can still submit applications, but there is no guarantee that they would be considered for funds presently available through the act.
 If more funding is made available to the program, these applications could then be considered for the additional funds, Giles said.
 The sidewalk work has been expanded. Giles had originally estimated submitting about 10 miles of sidewalk and curb repairs at a total cost of $1 million. The actual application will be for twice that amount, about 20 miles worth of improvements, valued at $2 million, he said.

Flu clinics set for Newington

A two-day swine flu clinic at Newington Children's Hospital for high risk handicapped children ages 3-17 who are patients at the hospital will be Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 15 and 16, in the hospital's auditorium from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A booster shot will be given four weeks later. Bivalent inoculations are recommended for children who have chronic disease, diabetes and other metabolic disorders, renal disease and cardiac problems.
 Children who are allergic to eggs, or who have asthma will not be eligible for flu shots.
 The hospital recommends that high risk handicapped children receive their flu shots from their family physicians whenever possible.
 Parking will be available in the back of the hospital, Gate 7.

Halloween guidelines

HARTFORD (UPI) — Children who go trick or treating on Halloween should not eat any of their treats — candy or fruit — until they get home, the Connecticut Safety Commission says.
 Although incidents of tampered treats are not widespread, the commission said parents should inspect all treats before their children eat them.
 To help make sure the children don't nibble, parents should prepare a big, favorite dinner for youngsters on Halloween.
 Here are some safety rules the commission recommends that parents keep in mind:
 — Costumes should be light-colored, preferably made of reflective material. Avoid costumes which might be flammable or long enough to trip your child.
 — Children should use makeup or face paint instead of masks which can be hard to see out of.
 — Each child should carry a flashlight, but never a candle.
 — Don't let your children go alone. Accompany youngsters and be sure older children go in a group.
 — Set neighborhood trick or treat boundaries and strict time limits. Send the children out early and have them home early.
 — Review pedestrian safety rules with the children, reminding them to use sidewalks or walk on the left hand side of the road and to cross streets carefully.
 — Keep street crossings at a minimum by telling your children to stop at all the homes on one side of a street and then return on the other side.
 — Skip unlighted or unfamiliar homes.
 — When the children return home, inspect all candy wrappers carefully for signs of tampering, and wash and section fruits. Throw away unpackaged items.
 — If you're expecting neighborhood children to call at your house, put your front lights on, clear your porch and yard of tripping hazards and tie up the dog.
 — If you're driving on Halloween night, keep a close eye out for children on the streets, and remember: they've probably got their minds on all the loot they're planning to gather, not on you.

The lighter side: Hoof-in-mouth disease plagues both parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than in any previous campaign, the candidates this year have been bothered by pedalarthritis, a political malady commonly known as hoof-in-mouth disease.
 At first, the outbreak was pretty well confined to the presidential candidates. But now there are signs it is spreading to the vice presidential level.
 Seeking to learn more about the strange affliction, I had a talk with one of the nation's leading pedalarthritis specialists. Following is a transcript of the interview:
Q. What are the main symptoms of hoof-in-mouth disease?
A. The most common symptom is a rash of retractions and clarifications. Anytime you catch a candidate giving multiple choice answers to true-or-false questions, it's a good sign he is suffering from pedalarthritis.
Q. What happens when a candidate contracts the disease?
A. Pedalarthritis effects the papillae of the tongue. These are the small projections at the tip of the tongue its roughness. One of the functions of papillae is to keep the tongue from slipping. They work on a principle similar to spikes on golf shoes.
 When a politician has an attack of pedalarthritis, the papillae become worn down, causing the top of the tongue to get smooth and slippery. As a result, he has a lot of slips.
Q. What causes the papillae to erode?
A. Papillae erosion is caused by friction created by the candidate putting his foot in his mouth.
A. Is pedalarthritis contagious?
Q. A best we can tell, there is a germ of pedalarthritis in almost every campaign issue. In some issues, it remains dormant. But if it is activated, that issue then becomes a carrier and any candidate who touches it is likely to become infected.
Q. Can you give us an example of a carrier?
A. We suspect pedalarthritis is being spread by the issue of whether the United States would go to the aid of Yugoslavia in event of a Soviet invasion.
 When Jimmy Carter came in contact with it, he apparently put his foot in his mouth. Then when Sen. Robert Dole, the Republican vice presidential candidate, seized upon Carter's slip, he also wound up with a mouth full of foot.
Q. Can pedalarthritis be prevented?
A. The only sure way to prevent it is to sidestep the issues. If an issue can't be dodged, it should be straddled. That at least makes the case less severe.
 If neither sidestepping nor straddling is possible, the best treatment for pedalarthritis is a liberal application of platitudes.
Q. Is pedalarthritis ever fatal?
A. It can be if only one candidate catches it. But usually his opponent gets it, too, and the two cases tend to neutralize each other.

BUSINESS & SERVICE DIRECTORY

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from HEAVYHEARTED DAD whose pregnant daughter was in school on eighth grade, I had to write. This is for all teenage girls whose boyfriends try to pressure them into going all the way:

"I'm 16 and my boyfriend is 18. Sure, we go parking and make out, but when he makes fourth base, I see him straight right away."

My feeling is this: We have our whole lives ahead of us, so why take a chance on ruining it when we're young?

"If your boyfriend says, 'If you love me, you'll prove it by going all the way,' tell him to get lost. Keep a level head and don't ever go so far you can't turn back. He's not worth it. Sign me..."

A FIRM "NO" SURRENDER YOUR VIRTUE...

DEAR FIRM: Congratulations! Fifteen years ago I wrote a book, "DEAR TEENAGER," but the chapter "Should I Prove My Love?" is still sound advice for teenagers. And here it is:

Girls need to "prove their love" through their sex relations like a moose needs a hat rack.

Chase the coverts out of your head: Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest most public fool who ever walked. That's what he is in one of the oldest and rottest liars ever invented!

Does HE love YOU? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But your figure it out. He wants you to:

Commit an immoral act... Surrender your virtue... Throw away your self-respect...

Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? This is the kind of the century. He wants what's best for HIM... he wants a girl he can use as a sex machine. Love? Who's kidding whom! A boy who loves a girl would never ask her to give up her virtue. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he DOESN'T love you.

The probable aftermath of "proof" of this kind always leads Don Juan trying of his sport. That's what when drops YOU, picks up his "line" and goes coasting elsewhere for bigger and equally silly fish.

At times, still another version of this modern tragedy occurs, as indicated by this letter I once received:

DEAR ABBY: I was steady for seven months with a boy I thought was the most wonderful person in the whole world. I thought I'd always stay decent. After a while we were satisfied with just kissing.

He asked me to prove my love. I thought as long as we planned to be married in a few years, what would it matter?

I gave in to him, Abby, and I found out it mattered a lot. He had all respect for me. He started going with other girls. He even talked about me to other boys. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he DOESN'T love you.

Win at Bridge

By Bernice Bede Obo

An ordinary match-point player would probably do just that, but how about the expert who wants an over-trick?

Our expert will win the first trump in dummy and lead the trump of diamonds. If East ducks, our expert will go up with his king, ruff his last heart, run trumps and make the last four tricks with the clubs to wind up with an over-trick and a top score.

Doesn't our expert risk his contract by that line of play? Of course, he does, but the risk is small. West has dealt and passed and not acted this next turn. He has shown up with the ace and king of hearts. He is most unlikely to also hold the ace of diamonds. Furthermore, if West did hold that ace of diamonds he almost surely would have led it at trick three.

How about East? Should he rise with ace of diamonds? Yes, he should, but everyone may make a mistake when given a chance.

Ask the Judge

A New Yorker wants to know what a forcing pass is. It's a card game in a particular position when you know your partner will do something when the bidding gets back to him.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand will be little interesting to rubber bridge players. After West starts out by cashing the ace and king of hearts and shifting to a trump our rubber bridge player will win in his hand, ruff his last heart, draw trumps, cash four club tricks and concede a diamond trump end up with exactly 10 tricks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) At a social gathering today don't get involved with a girl who is a financial matter, you're likely to get the big fish get away while you replace the minnow. Keep 110 priorities in order.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Be aware of being boastful today, you're likely to be humiliated by one of having grandiose schemes.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're trying to impress. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't attempt to overrule ideas of others today. Just tell them enough to work their appetites. Aries (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You're likely to be overindulgent with those you love today. Be kind, but don't overwhelm them.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) A girl who is prone to exaggerate may pass on some intriguing tale to you today. If you repeat it, give voice only to what you know to be true.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) If you're in the company of one you're overly anxious to impress today, don't put on airs. Just be who you are.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Be very careful managing the affairs of others today. Just tell them enough to work their appetites.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Not a good day for you to make major decisions. Don't be pressured into agreeing to something you haven't studied.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be disappointed financially today if you expect more than you're entitled to. Seek only your fair share.

An Open Letter to Our Employees and the Community

Plans to adjust the manpower requirements in the Commercial Products Division of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group are tied almost directly to the current state of the commercial airline industry.

It is well known that in recent years both U.S. and foreign airlines have suffered either financial losses or sharply reduced profits. Last year these airlines reported a total net operating loss of $400 million.

Many factors have influenced this situation. These include the worldwide recession, escalating wage and other costs due to inflation, and rapidly rising fuel costs. To some degree, the plight of the U.S. carriers is also attributable to the slowness of the regulatory process to approve badly needed air fare increases to meet these costs.

Although this year there has been some recovery of airline traffic and most airlines are reporting improved profit margins, it will still be some time before their financial position can be regarded as healthy.

Consequently, despite aging fleets and the need for replacement aircraft embodying the latest technology available for reduction of fuel consumption, noise and emissions, many carriers have postponed ordering such improved aircraft for their fleets. Our projections indicate that the airlines should be adding 170 planes a year to replace older aircraft and take care of growing demand, but in fact they took delivery of only 22 transports last year.

Major financial institutions, normally the prime source of funding for new aircraft, have openly indicated their reluctance to provide financing for many airlines. As a result, new airplane projects have been delayed since no airframe manufacturer is in a position to commit the very large resources required to undertake a major development program without substantial firm orders. This, in turn, has resulted in a significant decrease in their employment levels.

During 1977 the airline industry is looking toward a continued recovery, and, between now and 1985, the carriers are expected to need about $26-billion worth of new airplanes. Yet it will be some time before they will be in a financially viable position to order advanced technology planes. Pratt & Whitney Aircraft does not anticipate orders for a new type of aircraft will materialize before 1978 or beyond.

The delay in the initiation of these new programs has resulted in a reduction of the work available for engineers and supporting personnel in the Commercial Products Division. Regrettably, this will mean the reassignment of some employees and the layoff of others.

Employees have already been advised of a number of openings for reassignment which are available in other departments of the Commercial Products Division as well as in other divisions of the Group. We are attempting to fill these requirements through a volunteer program.

Personnel requirements have also been identified in other divisions and subsidiaries of United Technologies Corporation, and every effort will be made to place employees in these areas. The company is doing everything possible to minimize the impact on its people of this reduction it is forced to make. The employees affected will be notified within two weeks.

Considerable publicity has been given to various inaccurate rumors, including that of an 800-person layoff. It is not possible at this time to indicate the exact number of employees who have to be laid off since this will be determined by our success in placing as many people as possible in other positions throughout the Group and the Corporation. It will, however, be substantially lower than 800.

Although such adjustments are always painful, we still have great confidence in the future of the commercial airline and aviation business. We intend to remain the major supplier of quality engines for both commercial and defense needs and will do everything possible to achieve that goal so that Connecticut will maintain its proud position as the leading jet engine-producing state.

Brecht play at MCC

Manchester Community College will present "The Good Woman of Setzuan," a comedy parable with music written by Bertolt Brecht, Wednesday through Saturday at the MCC auditorium on Bidwell St. campus.

The comedy parable is about three gods in search of a good person in a world filled with greed and selfishness. They arrive at the town of Setzuan and find Shen Te who demonstrates goodness. Her only problem is that it is impossible to stay good and survive at the same time. How she resolves that dilemma is the substance of the play.

Cast in the play are Danielle Pelletier, Jim Pasqurell, Michael Koski, Toni Fogarty, Clay Massey and Jerry Schwartz.

Directing the play is Charles Alan Plese, who is the producer of Theatre 3. He will direct "Tartuffe" for Little Theatre of Manchester next spring.

The music for the play is composed by Robert Richardson, English professor at MCC, and musical director for several past productions in the area.

Clay Massey is the scenic and costume designer. He designed "Fiddler on The Roof" for LTM.

Tickets will be available at the door. For information, call 646-4900, extension 259.

Multi-media show

The choir of the Manchester Church of the Nazarene, under the direction of David Blaney, will present a multi-media performance of the musical, "I Love America," Friday, Nov. 5, at 8 p.m. The church is at 236 Main St.

John Peterson and Don Wyrzten have composed the musical in three sections: Patriotism for America, recounting some of its history; Praise for America, a tribute to our country, and Prayer for America, a plea that our country will turn back to its spiritual foundations.

Soloists are Rev. Donald Kauffman, Sandra Swain, Fran Blaney, Pamela Stetson and Walter Edwards. Other participants are the Rev. Neale McLain, Dee Kauffman, George and Beth Swain, with Martin McLain as flag bearer. Blaney will be assisted by Fred Adamson, sound, and Ron Richards, slides. Refreshments will be served.

This is the last event in the church's year-long celebration of the Bicentennial.

Channel expansion and the consumer

By INK DIPPER

(Editor's Note: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

Expansion of the Citizen's Band from 23 to 40 channels has stopped some prospective CB buyers dead in their tracks.

The new 40-channel rigs won't be on the market until early January, and manufacturers are using a variety of approaches to sell out inventories of 23-channel models.

Most are doing one of two things — either offering to convert 23-channel models to 40-channel capability or cutting prices on present stock without offering conversion.

Hy-Gain was one of the first companies offering to "refit" recently purchased models, and it estimates that adding the new channels will cost about $20 per radio. Most conversion plans are similar to that.

Officials for companies offering retrofitting plans say they want to sell a product that will not be obsolete in a few months.

But companies not offering to convert CBs don't want the expected headaches of setting up temporary conversion facilities.

And they see a risk in converting because no one is certain how the Federal Communications Commission will react to convert CBs.

When the expansion was announced, the FCC added new electronic filtering requirements to lesson possible television reception interference.

Manufacturers are now trying — and not always successfully — to gain FCC approval for new 40-channel units under the toughened requirements. And gaining approval for retrofitted rigs, some manufacturers feared, would be an even steeper hill to climb.

A prospective CB buyer can find slashed prices on radios that can't be retrofitted, with some models selling for half the regular price.

The radios won't be obsolete in the sense that they can't be used, but a CBer who buys one of them won't have the freedom of 17 new channels. Most CBers, finding channels crowded with the lower 23, will want a radio with 40 channels.

An exception to that is the trucker, who relies on channel 9 and 19. Channel 9 is the emergency channel and channel 19 is the trucking channel, and you don't need a 40-channel model to operate on them. Manufacturers are betting, if they don't offer conversion, that the truckers will buy out a big part of the inventories. Besides retrofitting and price cuts, manufacturers are offering other deals to lure in customers for 23-channel units.

One manufacturer, Sharp, will replace each radio it sells from July 26 to Jan. 31 with a "comparable featured" 40-channel radio. The replacement cost will be $30.

Another company, Hadnic, U.S.A., will allow customers buying its 23-channel units to purchase 40-channel sets at half price without having to return the 23-channel sets.

If you want to buy a CB, you can go in a lot of directions to find a deal, but make sure you know what you are getting into. If the salesman says that there is a retrofit or replacement offering being made by the manufacturer, get it in writing.

The companies with the offers should be giving out certificates guaranteeing it. And if the certificate has to be mailed to the manufacturer for the retrofit or replacement, make a photostatted copy of it just in case your radio is lost in the expected shuffle.

23-channel sets still useful

In the wake of Federal Communications action to expand the Citizens Radio Band from 23 to 40 channels, some people have the idea that 23-channel sets will become obsolete.

But Dave Squazza, president of the Connecticut State and County REACT Club, REACT Team 3375, says the information he has received indicates that the present 23 channels won't be affected by the new channels being added Jan. 1, 1977. According to the local CBER, the present 23 channels will be continued and the radios now in use will be good for many years to come.

REACT, an international citizens radio emergency communications organization, monitors CB Channel 9, the official Emergency and Motorists Assistance Channel, as a public service.

Further information about REACT is available from the local club, telephone 646-4209.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me why Chad Everett (Dr. Gannon of Medical Center) has that long piece of hair on the back of his neck. He's such a neat dresser, but that hair drives me crazy. MRS. R. SHORT, Garden Grove, Ca.

He has that long piece of hair on the back of his neck because he likes it. Nobody else does and, in fact, his studio (MGM) has argued with him about it. But Chad wants to keep it and, after all, it's his hair and his neck. He thinks it's his trademark and, apparently, believes it gives him a dash of macho.

DEAR DICK: I am a fan of Lindsay Wagner and I have wondered for some time if she is married, and, if so, to whom? LORI WALKER, Ponca City, Okla.

Lindsay is not exactly married, but she and Actor Michael Brandon have been — to put it delicately for family newspapers — "keeping company" for about 18 months now.

DEAR DICK: My friend and I have a $100 bet going on the movie about the skier, Jill Kinmont, "The Other Side of the Mountain." He says the picture was shown on TV. I say it never was. Who's right? C. C. RAWERS, Troy, Ohio

You've just won yourself $100. Not only has the picture not been on TV, it has still not been sold to TV for the future, according to Universal, the studio that made it.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument between me and a friend. Did Joan Crawford marry into the Coca-Cola or Pepsi-Cola company. I say Pepsi. EARL BURNS, Loretta, Wis.

My correspondents are so smart this week. You're right, too. It is Pepsi-Cola, and she never drinks anything else.

DEAR DICK: Was Brian Keith a child actor? We saw a little boy on an old RKO "Little Rascals" on TV who looked as Brian must have looked as a child. M.W., Winston, Ore.

Although Keith was born into an acting family, and grew up backstage, he only did one acting stint as a child. That was in a long-forgotten movie called "Pied Piper of Malone." He was never a Little Rascal — but he's become a Big Imp.

Mineral resources of the ocean

Editor's Note: This is the eighth of 16 weekly articles in the Courses by Newspaper program, "Oceans: Our Continuing Frontier," published in The Herald's Weekend magazine each Saturday. The course is offered for college credit by Manchester Community College. For details about this and future Courses by Newspaper, call MCC's Division of Community Services, 646-2137. By DON E. KASH

All but hidden by the clamor over the energy crisis is what some believe to be an approaching minerals crisis.

Both crises share two interrelated problems—the growing shortage of domestic resources and thus our increasing reliance on potentially unfriendly nations for minerals as well as energy supplies. Aluminum, copper, manganese, tin, nickel, cobalt—all crucial to the modern technology that supports our economy and life-style—must be imported in ever-increasing amounts to meet needs not covered by domestic production.

But will these dwindling supplies automatically mean that the United States and other developed countries must pay any political or economic price asked by the exporting countries in the future? A vocal and growing group answers, "No, not if we are willing to expend the effort and money to tap resources beneath the ocean."

With more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface covered by the sea, the ocean floor is thought to be a bountiful source of energy and mineral resources. Current estimates are that the ocean floor contains more than 30 per cent of the world's remaining oil and gas and 50 per cent of its hard minerals. Also, many of the ocean's resources should be high grade, as compared to the increasingly lower grade of resources on the land.

Recent technological advances have made deep-water resources available for the first time. With offshore oil and gas technology leading the way, a new marine resources industry is now opening all the world's oceans to development.

Undersea energy and mineral resources differ greatly in physical character, location, state of industrial development, and associated political issues.

Oil and gas technologies are well developed; operations take place near coastlines and involve primarily domestic issues. Hard mineral technologies are not commercial; mining will initially take place in deep water and will involve international issues. For these reasons, the two major resource categories are discussed separately.

Offshore oil

Large-scale development of undersea petroleum resources began off the coast of Louisiana in 1947. The gradually sloping ocean floor in that area allowed industry to develop exploration and production technology step by step into greater water depths. The experience gained off Louisiana contributed directly to exploration and production technologies used in such diverse areas as the North Sea and offshore Indonesia.

Present technologies should be adequate to recover most of the estimated 55 to 70 per cent of undersea petroleum resources located in water depths of 650 feet or less.

In 1975, offshore sources accounted for nearly 20 per cent of the daily world petroleum production, or approximately 10 million barrels. The U.S. portion of that was 1.2 million barrels. With constantly decreasing terrestrial supplies, the offshore production percentages appear certain to increase in the near future.

The major constraints on offshore petroleum development in the U.S. have been political and social, particularly in areas such as the Atlantic and Alaskan coasts with no history of petroleum production. In these areas, political and environmental conflicts are heightened by uncertainty whether petroleum deposits actually exist.

Generally, the individual states own all undersea resources within three miles of their shores. Beyond that point, the federal government is the owner. Most of the nation's offshore petroleum is in federally owned areas. As a result, states contend that they suffer the major disadvantages of offshore development while the federal government enjoys the benefits. The states want a portion of the revenues, a role in managing the development, and sufficient information and lead time to plan for development.

The uncertainty over the existence of petroleum in offshore areas can only be resolved by exploratory drilling. To gain the rights to drill on federal lands, companies must bid on lease tracts, in effect paying thousands of dollars for a hunting license. In one case, Exxon paid $632 million for six tracts, totaling approximately 31,000 acres, on which they found no commercially producible oil. In other cases, low bids have won leases on tracts that became major producers.

As a result of these leasing arrangements, some portions of industry believe that they are forced to take unreasonable economic risks for the public good. Conversely, some industry critics contend that the practices allow private companies to exploit publicly owned resources for unjustified company profits. Added to the state-federal conflicts, these disputes further confuse orderly development of offshore energy resources.

Mining the deep sea

The location of undersea ores and the technology for recovering them differ greatly from those for offshore oil and gas. At present, there is no large-scale marine mining.

Initial mining activities will likely attempt to recover large deposits of ferromanganese nodules under 12,000 to 18,000 feet of water in the mid-Pacific. These nodules have a sufficiently high content of manganese, nickel, copper, and cobalt to persuade experts that they can be commercially recovered from these great depths.

Two mining methods are proposed. One uses a bucket line dredge, which basically consists of a revolving loop of steel cable from the ship to the sea floor. Buckets attached to the cable collect the nodules and carry them to the surface. The other mining method pumps water with the nodules suspended in it through a pipe from the sea floor to a surface ship, something like a giant vacuum cleaner. One American company, Deepsea Ventures, plans to begin commercial operations with a mining system of this type in late 1976.

As will be discussed in a later article by William T. Burke, undersea mining has threatened existing international law and created a new arena of political conflict. Only advanced countries have the technological know-how and capital necessary to mine deep-water mineral resources. A single mining system may require an investment of $750 million.

Many of the less-developed countries argue that such resources are the common heritage of mankind and thus the profits from the minerals should be used to pay for their economic development. Conversely, major mineral producers, such as Zaire and Chile, oppose essentially all marine mining as a threat to their economies. The controversy is so complex that no resolution seems near. However, some of the developed countries appear inclined to claim that these are free minerals owned by whoever recovers them first.

The history of petroleum and hard minerals development on land has always involved high risk and great controversy. As such activities move into the marine environment, those characteristics are likely to be magnified, not reduced.

NEXT WEEK: C.P. Idyll, study director of the National Ocean Policy Study of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration, asks the crucial question, "Can the Sea Feed the Land?"

'73 Medals gone, but '76ers still on sale

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

If you were too far back in the line to get more than a fleeting glimpse of the 1973 Manchester Sesqui medal — here it is again. The silver pieces were sold out in half an hour and the bronzes went soon after. Try and find either one now.

A survey of the three Main St. dealers came up with zilch. There are simply none to be had. One lucky collector picked up a silver piece for $20 a few months ago but that is the only activity to report on the 1973 Manchester medals.

All this is to put the 1976 Bicentennial medal into the proper perspective. It is shown here in views of the front and back. You can see the four Connecticut Signers: Huntington, Williams, Sherman and Wolcott — each with his autograph inscribed across the chest. The lower part of this side shows authentic writing equipment of the times.

On the other side there is "Orford

Stamps and coins

Parish" and the date, 1823, palmed in a handclasp. Then below there is an excellent engraving of the first Cheney Mill and an over-flowing cornucopia. The Minuteman is supposed to be fortifying his musket with some Manchester-produced gunpowder. Above the gun barrel there floats a Pioneer parachute and beneath this a depiction of the Pitkin Glass Works of which some remnants still survive at Parker and Academy Sts.

The medal can be had in prooflike silver (.999 fine) and bronze. Prices: $19.76 and $3.50. It was designed by John Sullivan of this town and executed by the Roger Williams Mint of Rhode Island.

The chairman of the medal committee, Joe McCarthy, will be in the lobby of the Manchester State Bank on Monday to show you the pieces in real life.

Stamps start as photos

The magazine "Modern Photography" makes the point that virtually every stamp starts out as a photograph. They show the Matthew Brady photo of Abraham Lincoln on the Scott No. 1262, four-cent regular issue. This was taken in 1860 in Brady's Washington studio, and may have changed world history. It was used on many certificates, savings bonds that "Brady and the Cooper Union speech made me president of the United States."

Another local winner

Another Manchester Philatelic Society member has won a big-time award. At the recent SO JEX (South Jersey clubs) Richard Hooper, MPS program chairman, took a bronze medal for an exhibit of precancels. It showed their evolution from 1847 to the present: a comprehensive study of methods used and precancel styles.

FARVEX in Avon

The Farmington Valley Club will have their annual FARVEX at the Avon High School tomorrow, 11 to 5, with an auction at 3 p.m. There will be UN and USPS booths and four cacheted covers to commemorate G. Washington's trips through the state — "slept-heres" or otherwise. They will have a postmark showing the Lighthouse Flag carried by his entourage at that time.

We have it as straight stuff that he breakfasted at Brigham's Tavern in Coventry and passed twice through Orford Parish, once taking a drink of water at Manchester Green's Woodbridge Tavern. (Now the site of the self-service gas station opposite Papa Joe's).

Other events

At Enfield tomorrow there will be a Coin and Stamp Exhibition and Bourse at the St. Adelbert School, noon to 6 p.m.

And on election night, at the K of C Hall, 138 Main St., Manchester, the 174th meeting of the Central Connecticut Coin Club. You will have a chance to view, and perhaps acquire, besides a variety of coins, some off-beat items such as souvenir cars, a Japanese mint set, a 1960 NENA medal, etc. There will be plenty of time to take this in and have refreshments and get home for the returns.
