Foot Prints to get grant

Foot Prints, a non-profit art center in Manchester, will receive a direct matching grant from the Connecticut Commission on the Arts.

Foot Prints will receive $2,500 to help pay its co-directors' salaries and a challenge grant of up to $2,500 to be matched when fund raising activities surpass last year's total of $3,500.

The grant was approved recently by the Connecticut Commission on the Arts.

Although no specific fund raising events have been planned yet by Foot Prints, a spokesman from the center said that the advisory board will be sending out letters soon concerning fund raising.

Tag sale donations benefit band shell

Donations for the giant tag sale to benefit the Bicentennial Band Shell Nov. 20 and 21 at the Forbes and Wallace building at the Parkade may be left at the building starting Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The building will also be open Tuesday from 5 to 8 p.m. and Thursday from 5 to 9 p.m. to receive tag sale items.

Originally, the building was scheduled to be open this week to receive tag sale donations, but because of the Thanksgiving Food Collection currently taking place there, the drop-off dates were rescheduled.

The Manchester Parkade Merchants Association is cooperating with this fund-raising event for the band shell.

Each Manchester club and organization is being asked to have members donate articles for the tag sale. Though these members will not be needed to work at tables or for other duties, they are requested to price and tag their own items, if possible.

MCC offers course in state aviation

A course in Connecticut aviation history will begin at Manchester Community College this month.

The Community Services Division of MCC, in cooperation with the Institute of Local History at the college, will offer a seven-week, non-credit course titled "Connecticut Aviation History."

The history of aviation in the state will be traced from its beginning in 1785 to the present, with emphasis on those pioneers, events and organizations that have influenced the growth and development of aeronautics.

All types of aircraft will be discussed, from balloons to rockets, with comparisons made to world developments as a means of assessing the impact and value of Connecticut's contributions to aviation history.

The instructor is Robert H. Stepanek of East Hartford, vice-president for history and information at the Bradley Air Museum in Windsor Locks.

The course starts Tuesday, Nov. 16, and meets for seven weeks on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

For information and registration, call the Community Services Division at 646-2157.

What Price Children? The average family of four requires 40 per cent more money than a childless couple to maintain the same standard of living. The Conference Board says. Also, the cost of meeting a child's needs increases as he or she grows up. Middle-income parents with a child under 5 require about $1,500 more than a childless couple with a similar budget. The difference increases to about $3,500 when the child is between 6 and 15. Local history at the college, will offer a seven-week, non-credit course titled "Connecticut Aviation History."

To demonstrate origami

A coffee shop will be open from 10 to 11:30 a.m., and a meal/lunch will be served from noon to 2 p.m. in the Harvest Luncheon. X-ray examination warnings being rewritten by institute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is rewriting the warning instructions to women who use X-ray examinations to determine if they have breast cancer.

The National Cancer Institute said it is revising the consent form, which some women must sign, to address the same points raised Tuesday by Ralph Nader's Health Research Group — mainly that the risks may outweigh the benefits for women under 50.

Nader's group said there should be a specific warning that women under 50 should not have such examinations called mammographies, and should point out some of the potential danger of X-ray exposure.

The institute in August told the 28 centers it sponsors around the country, where mammographies are offered, not to administer them to women under 50 unless special circumstances — such as a previous history of cancer — exist.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant Health, Education and Welfare secretary for health, also said he was ordering a report on some of the allegations made by the Nader group that excessive amounts of radiation were detected at some centers — amounts sufficiently high to pose a problem even for women over 50.

Wolfe said the present "informed consent" sheet "fails to warn about either the increased risks for women under 50 or the existence of mammography machines, which are emitting enough excessive radiation so that the absorbed tissue dose is more than one rad per exam, a danger even to women over 50."

HONOLULU (UPI) — Twenty-foot waves and winds of 40 knots today hampered efforts to rescue surviving crew members of a Panamanian ship that sank in the Pacific 1,400 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The sinking occurred midway between Hawaii and the Aleutian Islands. Other freighters in the area were identified as the 555-foot Russian Khudzhnik Saryan, the 540-foot Norwegian Jalanta, and the 615-foot Japanese Shunyo Maru.

Democratic governors to meet

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic governors from the Northeast will focus on proposals for improving the region's economic health at a weekend meeting. Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today.

Govs. Hugh Carey of New York; Brendan Byrne of New Jersey; Milton Shapiro of Pennsylvania; Philip Noel of Rhode Island; Thomas Salmon of Vermont and Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts are the other governors invited to the meeting of the Coalition of Northeastern Governors in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

"We will consider proposals for welfare reform, employment needs, federal grants and federal spending policies. We will also focus on regional development projects, energy policies and transportation programs," she said.

The governors met last month in Hartford with President-elect Jimmy Carter to tell him of the region's problems. Carter, at that time the Democratic presidential nominee, said the Northeast deserved special attention from the federal government.

"For many years, federal tax and spending policies have encouraged a shift of the wealth of the older industrial states of the Northeast to other regions of the nation," Mrs. Grasso said. "These policies have amounted to a development program for the South and the West."

Mrs. Grasso said among the proposals the governors favored were ones that would provide for federal assistance when unemployment rates or energy costs hit a certain level.

The Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce had first tried to locate the proposed facility in Hartford. When this could not be done, Weiss said that the chamber went to suburban communities to seek a site for the building.

"The chamber turning to us is a good sign of what is going on intergovernmentally," Weiss said.

Richard Suisman, chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CRCOG) and a Hartford councilman, told the group that the city had tried to locate the Penney project on the site of a former parking lot, which would have meant the discontinuation of the air-field.

When this plan did not materialize, the city began contacting officials who took part in a two-day workshop held at the Glastonbury Hills Country Club. Richard Suisman (right), chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Governments and Hartford councilman, listens to Weiss' remarks. (Herald photo by Pearson)

He also spoke of the work he and town employees did to draw up plans and proposals as quickly as possible.

"That's the kind of responsiveness a municipality has to have to attract a major industry," he said. The group spoke not only of attracting more industry, but also of satisfying industries already in the community. Suisman said that 80 per cent of industrial growth is expansion by present industries. Only about 20 per cent is new industry coming to town, he said.

The session began Wednesday with the participants making predictions on what they felt their community would be like in five years.

Basic problems that will face the community in the near future were mentioned. By the end of the afternoon, these problems were narrowed to four general categories — Economic development, regional structure, housing, and affirmative action.

On Thursday, the participants broke into four groups, each one dealing with one of the categories.

Weiss, who helped organize and was an evaluator for the workshop, said he was "favorably impressed with the session and the participation of local communities."

"We've been getting into some gut discussions about problems facing the area," he said Thursday.

Another participant in the affair was East Hartford Mayor Richard Blackstone. He said, "I think it's important that people from all over the area get together and discuss the problems. We sometimes need to get away from a pure political atmosphere and just sit down and discuss items of great interest in the region, state and nation."

P&WA issues assurances no more layoffs planned

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Officials of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group assured concerned workers Thursday the layoffs of 550 persons are the only ones planned. The firm issued the announcement to stem rumors and fears among union employees of the huge jet engine manufacturer. The company said the elimination of 620 jobs and layoff of 550 workers announced Wednesday were necessary because commercial airlines are not buying new planes. Robert H. Zaiman, public relations director at the firm said, "This is a one-shot deal. There are no other foreseeable layoffs in any other part of Pratt and Whitney Aircraft. We're on the record saying that."

Zaiman said although commercial airlines "desperately need new equipment," banks and financial institutions have been reluctant to loan the money. "Maybe the new administration in Washington will help the airlines," he said. Most of the approximately 20,000 workers at P&W's main plant in East Hartford and other facilities at Middletown, Southington and North Haven, are represented by four lodges of District 91, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. Louis Kiefer, a union spokesman, said uncertainty of job stability has caused low morale and, in turn, affected productivity at the plants. One of the workers laid off, James Guyan, 34, of Surrbridge, Mass., said he had feared a layoff for the last five years. An electronics technician, Guyan said he was demoted twice but each time he eventually regained his former position in the engineering department. Guyan said he was confused over the cutbacks in the experimental area and asked how many more jobs will be lost "because we're not developing something to sell in the future?" Another worker whose job and pay were downgraded recently isn't worrying about such things today. George H. Sherwood, 53, of Enfield, learned Wednesday night he had become a millionaire in the Massachusetts Lottery. Sherwood, who has worked at Pratt & Whitney for 20 years as a fuel system technician, will get $50,000 a year over the next 20 years. He plans to stay put in his small, ranch home and continue to work at least for awhile. Sherwood said he will take his wife to Hawaii to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

Big weekend for hunters

Sunshine and three or four inches of snow provide the most favorable weather for tracking deer, he said. Kehoe said rain, deep snow, or cloudy skies keep the hunters inside and make deer difficult to track. Approximately 10,000 registered hunters, 35,000 of which are non-resident, are expected to descend upon the state this season, generating $20 million in revenues. Most of the out of staters come from New England and the northeastern states, but Kehoe said he has had license inquiries from California, Ohio and Louisiana.

Opinion

Who will be the boss?

No matter how smooth a transition President-elect Jimmy Carter and President Gerald Ford work out, the real problems facing the incoming administration may not be Ford's doing.

Already there are signs emerging to indicate the rough waters Carter must cross before he can be said to be firmly in command.

Almost as if they had made their reservations early last month, the major city mayors gathered in Chicago to prepare their shopping list for the new Carter administration.

New York Mayor Abe Beame made no bones about his feeling that Carter is indebted to Fun City for delivering New York State to the Carter fold.

And while no price was mentioned, we can anticipate it will be a hefty one. As Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N. J., said, "You have to understand that what we are talking about is the richest country in the world, and urban centers that we represent are where the largest percentage of the people live. The reason for government is to provide services to the people. It's as simple as that."

(The cited delivered the votes, now he (Carter) must deliver the dollars.)

President Ford could have taken this route (and perhaps now regrets not doing so) when New York City was on the verge of bankruptcy. But the fact of the matter is that it appears the current approach of aid to financially distressed cities—loans linked to positive municipal spending—did save New York City from immediate disaster and given more time, it might recover on its own.

We think it would be a major mistake for the Carter Administration to "throw dollars" to the cities and it is encouraging to note that his liaison man at the Chicago conference warned that the cities could not expect pass keys to the federal treasury.

The only thing we fear at this stage is that too many Democratic mayors may slip into their old spend and spend habits on the assumption that "their man" is going to be in the White House.

We think President-elect Carter must by some means, but in no uncertain manner, let the mayors know what they can and cannot expect. He cannot, and should not, turn his back on the cities.

On the other hand, this may be the most logical issue upon which Carter can show he intends to be the boss. We think he has to because there are many other groups—organized labor, for one—waiting in the wings and as he staid so often in the campaign, he can't do everything for everybody at the same time.

Waste slows our industrial rate of growth

Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — There is a considerable body of evidence which suggests that a slackening in the American industrial growth rate results in a sharpening of inflation over the long pull.

Other studies indicate that, as time goes on, intensified inflation leads to such serious stresses in the economy that major unemployment becomes inevitable.

It is also clear that the growth in productivity becomes most difficult when the men who managed industry do not have the will or the capital to invest major sums in improved equipment, which could make it possible for workers to produce more.

Will is a nebulous quality, difficult to calculate. The availability of capital is easier to measure. When Congress, the bureaucracy or the president divert large sums which are inefficiently used or expended on marginally-useful projects, those funds are not available for private investment. We all suffer.

Take federal subsidies, which, in aggregate, siphon off billions of dollars. Some of these funds go for quite worthwhile purposes, of course. But much of this free money goes down the drain.

A news report based on government in-house studies notes that some communities, enticed by the availability of federal gifts, have been building sewage disposal plants and systems of a size sufficient to handle populations predicted far in the future. Others are reportedly putting in twice the capacity needed per household, so eager are they for the government largesse.

Economist Edward Renshaw, of the State University of New York at Albany, notes that this overgenerous subsidizing has also encouraged suburban sprawl which, he suggests, increases local city operating costs.

Renshaw also points out that the long-time congressional practice of exempting from federal income taxes any interest income earned on municipal bonds encourages the overexpansion of public facilities, relative to private investment.

Meanwhile, discussing federal assistance for municipal transportation, a Brookings Institution study charges that "If the federal government is paying two-thirds of the cost of new equipment, but nothing toward repair and maintenance, local transit officers will naturally replace buses very quickly, long before they should be scrapped. The total cost of providing mass transit will rise sharply, and a large part of the subsidy will serve not to benefit riders but to cover the costs of inefficient decisions."

Witness, too, that Congress over the years has mangled the writing of the Social Security laws so thoroughly that employers are effectively discouraged from hiring older workers, students, part-time employees and the disadvantaged.

The common thread which runs through the above examples is waste, either of money or of men and women. Each case, too, shows how the federal government sops up capital or diverts manpower which might otherwise be used to make us more productive.

It is precisely this shortage of capital, and the lack of will to invest, which today is holding back the modernization and expansion of industry and the employment of millions more men and women. If employed, they would, in turn, spark a boom in those businesses which depend on consumer spending.

It is clear that while the power of the federal government to effectively bolster the economy is marginal it can do a great deal of harm.

Gross neglect in the air continues

Don Oakley

Under the law, a corporation is considered to be a "person," with many of the attributes, rights and duties of a natural person. But nobody has ever indicted a corporation for murder.

Murder may be too strong a word to describe the crash of a Turkish DC-10 jumbo jet near Paris in March 1974, history's worst air disaster in which 346 people died. It was more a matter of involuntary manslaughter, with contributory negligence on the part of executives in two corporations, McDonnell-Douglas and its subcontractor, the Convar Division of General Dynamics, as well as the Federal Aviation Administration.

As was brought out in congressional hearings in 1974, and as a new book — "Destination Disaster" — by a London Sunday Times investigative team has just recounted in dramatic detail, the designers and builders of the DC-10 had abundant forewarning of the crash.

As early as 1969, engineers were concerned that the plane's cargo door could blow out at high altitudes. This actually happened during a test on the ground in 1970.

In June 1972, in a dress rehearsal of the Paris crash, the door on a DC-10 blew out over Windsor, Ontario. Fortunately, the plane's control cables were not severed, as was to be the case with the Turkish airliner, and the pilots were able to land the plane safely.

Despite this, under a "gentleman's agreement" with McDonnell-Douglas, the FAA did not issue a mandatory directive to correct the flaw.

At least 346 people paid with their lives for the FAA's gross neglect of its duty, and the unwillingness or inability of two corporations to face up to their responsibility to the public.

But economic pressures were substantial, say the authors. Design changes would have cost time and money and the DC-10 was a late comer in the competition with other jumbo jets.

And after all, a corporation is not really a person. Responsibility is diluted, the buck gets passed and it is all too easy to rationalize away engineering data in the face of market "realities."

Yet as one of the authors has stated, the fact that decent men could have made the decisions which made the disaster inevitable, or have failed to make the decisions which could have prevented it, is more disturbing than if it had been deliberately planned by evil men.

Since the 1974 tragedy, the DC-10's cargo door has been redesigned and all jumbo jets under U.S. control must be modified by the end of 1978 so that their control cables will not be damaged by an explosive decomposition.

It can only be hoped that all those who were directly or indirectly involved in the disaster have also made some corrective modifications, beginning with their consciences.

The heat goes on
It's hard to believe, and some people may not want to believe it, but the musical fad which wasn't expected to be anything but a loud, passing fancy has come of age. This year marks the 21st anniversary of rock and roll.

According to rock authority Bob Guccione Jr., publisher of Rock Superstars Poster Magazine, the record that launched the rock explosion was "Rock Around the Clock." It was written in 1954, but didn't take off until it appeared as the theme song of the film, "Blackboard Jungle."

In the context of that film of teenage rebellion, the song took on a whole new meaning, says Guccione. It became the first song to have a special, defining meaning for teenagers.

Well, we have had a lot of teenage and young adults in the past 21 years and the defiance rebels of the 1950s are now dealing with teenage rebels of their own. Maybe someday we will all know what we are rebelling against.

In the meantime, the beat, as they say, goes on.

Party compares Russia to Latin fascism

French Reds blast Soviet on rights

PARIS — (LENS) — One of the great riddles in French politics is whether the Communist party can be taken at face value in its persistent, if latter-day, criticism of Moscow.

With general election due in less than 9 months, there is, as any good French leftist knows, obvious political mileage in presenting a softer, more tolerant look on the face of Communism. But never before has Georges Marchais's party acted so boldly as it did last week in debunking Russia's claims about the personal freedom of its citizens.

It sent its current number one glamor boy, politburo member Pierre Juquin, into the public spotlight to join a group of people who were casting the Soviet Union in the same repulsive mold as Latin America's right-wing military regimes.

Juquin, a personable young Communist responsible for polishing the French party's lackluster image took a star role at a meeting organized by the French Communist Committee of Mathematicians, a lobby which helped to win the release of a dissident Soviet mathematician, Leonid Plyushch, from a Ukraine mental asylum this year.

It is unheard of for a top French Communist to take part in a public meeting which the party has not organized itself. So there was considerable surprise — despite the much vaunted turn towards independence taken by the party at its milestone 22nd congress in February — when Juquin called for the release of named men imprisoned in Russia and in Czechoslovakia as well as in Chile, Uruguay and Bolivia (even though he did add that Russia and Uruguay were not equally bad).

French Communists could not remain silent while citizens in the Soviet Union were tracked down and imprisoned for expressing their opinions, he said. Such actions sullied the Communist ideal.

Moscow was outraged. "Tasty" denounced the meeting as a "dirty deal." "What blasphemy, it stormed, to mention in the same breath the true freedom fighters detained in fascist Latin American jails with the 'hateful anti-Soviet' people trying to sabotage the socialist system.

But, Marchais, pleased with the independent-minded decisions taken at the 22nd congress, refused to back

Chirac, the aggressive Gaullist challenger, have taken to bashing the Communists with dire warnings of a grey, sulfurous future promised by a "collectivist" France.

Nor has the Socialist leader, Francois Mitterand, shown any new signs of comfort in his electoral alliance with the Communists. Although a recent survey of French business leaders showed that two out of three senior executives are dolefully expecting a left-wing election victory in 1978, Mitterand is well aware that the mistrust of communism lurking in the average Frenchman's soul could again tip the scales against him as it did in the 1974 presidential election.

The Communists are equally conscious that they must dislodge such fears if the left is to win. The trouble is that Marchais and his older colleagues are fairly new to the flexible, independent line. Only three years ago they were still regarded as orthodox apostles of Moscow.

So, despite the studied Juquin outburst, they are still likely to face big problems in squaring their old-time doctrinaire style with the liberal banner they will be waving in the months to come.

Reuss recommends

Post-election reassurances about the stock market are being offered by Henry Reuss, the former economics teacher who now heads the House Banking Committee. Now is the time to buy, according to Mr. Reuss.

Said he to an AP interviewer over the weekend: "Common stocks are what I would regard as a bargain and I think investors who have the good sense to put their pocketbook ahead of the ideology and are willing to buy now will find they can make a profit out of President-elect Jimmy Carter."

Harb hark back to those bull markets of the Kennedy-Johnson era, he suggested.

We certainly hope Mr. Reuss is right, and we doubt that ideology would get in the way of the pocketbooks of most investors if they left like betting on a Carter bull market. But Mr. Reuss said some other things that are more likely to generate, rather than relieve, nervousness.

For example, he blamed the October rise in wholesale prices on industrialists "who have some fear that President-elect Carter or Congress is going to sock price controls on them and they want to get a high price for their commodities before it happens." He added meaningfully that "This is the most self-defeating thing they could do."

Maybe the confidence problem is attributable more to Congressmen of the Reuss stripe than to uncertainties about President-elect Carter. Anyone involved with the stock market is not likely to be much impressed with a "buy" recommendation from a man who in the next breath is implying that there is no such thing as a market in wholesale commodities and that "industrialists" have it in their power to raise prices at will. He implies still one breath later that if they keep it up they will bring down the wrath of Washington on their heads.

If Mr. Reuss really wants to restore confidence in the markets, he should start by revealing whether he and others who will wield power in the new Congress admit that markets exist. — from The Wall-Street Journal

Business

Mott's has more sales, less profit

Mott's Supermarkets Inc., the East Hartford-based grocery chain, has reported a sales increase and profit decrease for the third quarter and first nine months of 1978.

For the third quarter, Mott's sales were up to $36,422,204, compared to $34,641,969 a year earlier. Profits were 15 cents a share, compared to 24 cents a share in the third quarter of 1977.

For the nine months, sales were $110,835,484, compared to $102,638,418 in the comparable period of 1977. Profits were 35 cents a share, compared to 76 cents a share a year earlier.

Chairman Joseph P. Mott said third-quarter results were better than second-quarter figures, but operations continued to reflect a competitive local situation. Part of the decline was attributed to closing of W.T. Grant Co. department stores in shopping centers where Mott's stores are located.

Mott's has 21 "Super-Rite" supermarkets in Connecticut and western Massachusetts.

Dr. Lamb

More risks than chances

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am not proud to relate my story. I am 54 and was 50 pounds overweight until a year ago. I would consume six to eight ounces of martinis every day at gatherings and parties and I could down 15 to 20 cocktails and still feel I needed more.

Several months ago I had infrequent colds and my eyes filled with blood. When I saw my doctor my blood pressure was 245 over 110 and he said I was "living time bomb." I have cut the booze to almost nil, eat the caffeine in half and altered my life in many ways toward moderation. Of course I still work 80 to 90 hours a week in my business which is loaded with stress and tension, but I seem to thrive on work.

In the last two years at least seven of my associates have died with heart attacks and many of these men were younger than I. Most were not drinkers or smokers and some were not even overweight. Perhaps the thing in my favor is that for 15 years I have been doing the Royal Canadian Air Force exercises religiously every day including the running. The whole thing only takes 11 minutes a day, and I do it faithfully.

I eat at least two pounds of fruits every day plus mountains of salads. My pressure is still 165 over 90 but I did manage to lose 10 pounds. Do you believe the exercising and the vegetables have sustained me from a heart attack thus far?

Your exercise may have helped, but I would like to delude anybody into thinking that a moderate exercise program, which the Royal Canadian Air Force Exercise plan that you are speaking of, can protect a person from having a vascular disease. I am strongly in favor of exercise, but we must keep in mind the total preventive program for heart and vascular disease: Avoiding obesity, eating the proper diet, avoiding cigarettes and possibly eliminating certain forms of stress.

Risk factors for heart disease are for groups. Some people who follow all of the recommendations still have trouble. The risk, though, is reduced by at least 50 per cent by preventive programs. Some individuals who do everything wrong still have the good fortune to escape having a heart attack or disabling stroke.

For information on what to do if you have a heart attack send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-11, Heart Attack: When It Strikes. Send a long, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Private homes lacking in burglar alarms

HARTFORD (UPI) — Also, Geary said, many insurance companies offer discounts on home insurance policies depending on the type of home alarm system installed, he said.

Geary said because most businesses have burglar alarm systems, many homes are easier prey for thieves but there are many steps that can be taken to keep them from such burglaries.

He said most burglaries occur during the day, in the summer when families are on vacation, and in homes set far back from the road or screened by shrubbery.

Vacationers should have neighbors pick up the mail and newspapers and they should install automatic timers which turn on lights in the house at night.

Dissident strikers sue union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dissident group filed suit Thursday claiming the Teamsters union deprived some 15,000 striking employees of United Parcel Services of an estimated $1.3 million in strike benefits.

The class action suit was filed in Superior Court on behalf of three of the UPS workers who have been on strike on the East Coast since last Sept. 16. The dissident group, known as PRO-D, charged that Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons and Secretary-Treasurer Ray Schoeninger illegally subtracted $10 a week from each worker's strike benefits since the walkout began.

A Teamsters convention voted last June 15 to increase weekly strike benefits from $25 to $35 during the first five weeks of any strike and from $35 to $45 during the remainder of a walkout. No effective date was mentioned, and PRO-D claims the provision was designed to take effect immediately.

But the UPS strikers were not paid the higher benefits during the period of the strike.

American Dance Festival looking for a new home

NEW LONDON (UPI) — The American Dance Festival, located on the Connecticut College campus for 28 years, is looking for a new home. It was announced Thursday.

Charles Reinhardt, festival director, said the search is the result of a breakdown in negotiations with Connecticut College for a 1977 contract. He said the college has requested a rental fee of $15,000.

Last year's agreement provided for a $7,500 subsidy from the college to the festival, which has featured major dance artists over the years. The festival paid the college for room and board plus other costs.

"It is not simply a matter of raising the rental fee from zero to $15,000; the College will no longer be providing services such as accounting and bookkeeping," Reinhardt said. "This represents a radical change in the college's policy toward the festival."

"The festival will now begin to look for a new summer home which has suitable living and performance facilities and is receptive and understanding of the arts," he said.

The festival was established in 1948 at Bennington College in Bennington, Vt. to provide a place where dance artists could work, experiment, receive recognition and advance their careers.

After World War II, the festival moved to Connecticut College where it attracted artists such as Martha Graham and Alvin Ailey. The festival now offers a wide range of programs, including concerts and choreographers by major dance companies as well as emerging artists.

It sponsors a three-week Dance Critics' Conference for professional journalists, for professional television directors and the commissioning of new works from major, established and emerging choreographers.

The festival also conducts a year-round Community Outreach Program of movement classes, workshops and mini-concerts in southeastern Connecticut and Rhode Island.

MCC raises 138% of UW goal

Contributions to the United Way from the staff at Manchester Community College totaled $1,518 this year. This represents 138 per cent of the goal of the college drive.

In past years, the United Way drive at MCC has not been as successful, frequently reaching only 60 to 70 per cent of its goal.

Several campus activities were held to raise money for the drive such as a United Way festival complete with music, hot dogs and sodas, a presidential preference poll, and chance demonstrations by major dance and pledges. Many students and staff members took part in a feature activity "throw a pie in the face" of an administrator or faculty member in return for a donation.

Bella speaks

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., Thursday called on college students "to get into the fray" so "we can get our America back." She said the student vote "is lower than it should be" and "nothing is coming from the campuses now."

Mrs. Abzug, who lost in a Senate bid to Daniel P. Moynihan, spoke before the National Entertainment Conference, which is involved in arranging campus concerts and entertainments.

New officers discuss duties

St. James School elects first student council

For the first time in over 50 years, St. James School has a student council which functions according to its own constitution. Since the school opened in 1922, there have been attempts at student council organizations, but none with the organization preparation and purpose of the present one. The council had its beginnings in Paul Cavaliere's seventh and eighth grade American history class this fall when they studied about government and its need, and its relationship to the presidential campaign.

Feeling a need for a student governing body at the school, the students drew up a constitution from which they planned their own campaign nomination and election of officers.

The general purpose of the council is to promote and provide better communication between the students and the school staff.

Among the other goals of the council are the formation of a baseball team and service activities, such as collecting and distributing canned foods and toys to Manchester families.

Oil producers given warning on price rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is warning oil-exporting countries that all nations, including the oil producers, would be hurt by even a small rise in the price of oil.

"We are very much opposed to any price rise," said State Department spokesman Robert Funseth. "We don't believe it to be justified and it is not in the best interests of the world economy and of the oil producers themselves."

"We live in a world of economic interdependence," Funseth said Thursday. "We believe no price increase would be considered reasonable."

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is scheduled to meet next month in Qatar to consider raising oil prices. U.S. oil executives say an increase of perhaps 15 percent is likely.

Body identified

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Bridgeport detectives said today a dead man found Wednesday in Seaside Park has been identified as Alfred McManus, 29, of Bridgeport. An autopsy conducted at St. Vincent's Hospital showed no sign of injuries or wounds, but an investigation to determine the cause of death is continuing, police said.

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors Henry Becker Jr. and Leo Donohue said Thursday computer equipment purchased under an installment plan by the Board of Trustees for Community Colleges should have been approved by the legislature.

Defense rests case in Gold murder trial

WATERBURY (UPI) — Both sides were preparing summations today after the defense rested its case Thursday in the second murder trial of New York stockbroker Murray R. Gold.

Gold, 43, is accused in the so-called Yom Kippur murders of attorney Irving Pasternak 71, and his wife Rhoda, 66. They were found slashed to death in their Waterbury home on Sept. 26, 1974.

Gold was married to the couple's daughter, Barbara, for a year before being divorced in 1965.

The couple had returned from Yom Kippur services and was killed shortly after Mrs. Pasternak telephoned police from a bedroom that an intruder was attacking her husband.

Gold, who said he was at his Forest Hills, N.Y., home the night of the murders, did not take the stand. He did not testify at his first trial, which ended in a hung jury last March.

Superior Court Judge George M. Saden permitted both sides to use today to prepare summations for delivery on Monday. Saden said he will take about two hours to charge the jury, which has been sequestered since the trial began last month.

Saden apologized to the panel for the fact it will have to be sequestered another weekend. The sequester order was the first one in state judicial history issued by a judge in a capital crimes case.

Many of the arguments between chief defense counsel William Kunstler and State's Attorney Francis McDermott have been conducted in the absence of the jury. Saden ruled as inadmissible evidence by the defense trying to show that another man, Bruce Sanford, was the real killer.

The smart people still save at Hartford National

John Trumbull kept his money in a Hartford National account, right where he could borrow, get financial advice, and take advantage of the 1792 version of checking, all at once. It added up. Trumbull saw the advantage of putting his money in Hartford National even before savings paid interest. Smart man, Trumbull.

Things haven't changed all that much in 184 years. Savings earn interest now, and smart people still get more for their money by saving at Hartford National. In fact, nearly 200,000 smart people save at more than 60 Hartford National offices today.

It makes sense. We've had a long, long time to polish all the ways we can help you save. We'll always modify

MHS booters blanked to end slate Cowens up in air on hoop future

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics center Dave Cowens, who has taken an indefinite leave of absence, says he hasn't decided whether he will return to professional basketball.

Cowens, in separate interviews published in The Boston Globe and The Boston Herald American today, said his plans were indefinite. He said the leave was "something I've been thinking about for some time." Cowens said his reasons were personal and indicated he felt they should not be a public concern.

"I don't feel like a superstar. I just feel like a normal person who quit his job," Cowens said. "I can't say I'll be back," Cowens told the Globe. "I really don't know. I've got to think it over. This is an indefinite leave of absence, just the way it says."

Cowens said he felt he wasn't playing at his best so far this season. However, he has averaged 18.4 points and 15.3 rebounds per game. "I wasn't making a contribution or helping the team," he told the Herald. "I had no motivation or enthusiasm."

When the leave was announced Wednesday night, Cowens was unavailable for comment. The official announcement said the leave was for personal reasons. At that time, Boston General Manager Red Auerbach said Cowens "does what's best — not only what's best for himself but what's best for everybody else. Will he ever play again? That's a tough thing to discuss, because who knows what goes on in a man's mind?"

Cowens, 28, a seven-year pro from Florida State, said he might drive to Florida to see some old friends or go to his Newport, Ky., farm for a while. "The big thing right now is for me to relax, go out and do all the things I haven't been able to do and, who knows, I might get the urge to return and play basketball the way I should play it — not the way I've been playing it this year," he said.

Jack Cowens, Dave's father, from Cold Spring, Ky., said Thursday he felt his son "wanted to have a little time away from the game." "I feel sure he will go back to the Celtics," he said. "I don't know but I just feel that way."

Blue-Gray date
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The 30th Annual Blue-Gray all-star football game, which matches collegiate standouts from the North and the South, will be played here Dec. 24 at Craze Stadium. The game is usually held at night, but officials said Thursday that kickoff time would be at 1 p.m. in hopes more people would attend the clash. Attendance has been disappointing in recent years.

Nuggets' skein ends on McAdoo playing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bad back and all, the Denver Nuggets have seen enough of Bob McAdoo.

The 4-foot-10 center, bothered by an injured back for much of the early part of the season, scored 22 points and grabbed 25 rebounds Thursday night as the Buffalo Braves shot their way through the Denver Nuggets' previously undefeated record with a 105-94 victory.

"I have some pain in my back but I can play with it," McAdoo, who took control of the game with eight fourth-quarter points, said. "I'm going to keep myself in good shape so when it gets better, I can play better." McAdoo, perhaps the best shooting big man in the game, gave Buffalo its fourth straight win and lifted the Braves to first place in the Atlantic Division. Denver, which runs the fast break with the speed of thoroughbred, dropped to 8-1 in the Midwest Division but still holds a three-game lead.

The Nuggets, outscored 20-6 during a third quarter surge, were kept alive by David Thompson's brilliant 36-point performance. He converted six in a row in the final quarter and was 14 of 25 for the game. For Buffalo, rookie Adrian Dantley contributed 19 points, Ernie DiGregorio had 17 and Randy Smith 14. Dan Issel scored 18 points and Jones 12 for Denver.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Atlanta defeated Portland, 107-105. San Antonio edged the New York Nets, 106-104. Phoenix beat Indiana, 108-90, and Kansas City downed Golden State, 94-86. Hawks 107, Trail Blazers 105. John Drew's off-balanced, 24-foot jump shot with three seconds left and Lou Hudson's 83 points provided the

Star's father believes he'll rejoin Celtics

COLD SPRING, Ky. (UPI) — Although Dave Cowens' surprise leave-of-absence from the Boston Celtics is open-ended, his father says, "I feel sure he will go back to the Celtics."

"Dave called me last night and said he would be home in four or five days," Jack Cowens said Thursday night. "I expect him this weekend or by the first of next week, and we'll sit down and chat."

"I don't know what the problem is. He didn't tell me on the phone and I didn't press him on it. He assured me he was in good health, so I'm not overly worried."

"I don't think it's team related, and I don't think it was any spur of the moment thing. He's not that kind of guy. I feel it's just something he has thought about for a long time and he wanted to have a little time away from the game."

"I really have no guess about what the problem is. Maybe he just wanted to get away from the game awhile. In basketball you really have to get up for every game and Dave is the type that gives 110 per cent. Maybe he felt he wasn't doing something to his satisfaction."

Jack Cowens, 56, is manager of a loan company in Newport, Ky. Dave is the oldest of six children in the family.

'Hat trick' ties Whalers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota's Mike Antonovich scored the "hat trick" Thursday night to give the Fighting Saints a 3-3 tie with the New England Whalers of the World Hockey Association Thursday night. Antonovich scored his last goal with 15 seconds left in regular play. A 10-minute overtime period could produce no winner.

Antonovich's first goal of the game pulled Minnesota to a 1-1 tie after Tommy Abrahamson put New England ahead just 50 seconds into the game. New England regained the lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aging center Alvan Adams sided with the sprained ankle, received support from Dick Van Arsdale's 16 points, Keith Erickson's 14 and rookie Ira Terrell's 11. Game-scoring heroes went to Indiana's Billy Knight with 24, while Mike Flynn finished with 16 for the Pacers. Kings 94, Warriors 86. Ron Boone scored 22 and Kansas City held Golden State to only two field goals in the final 1 1/2 minutes to boost its record to 6-5. The Kings went on a 17-0 surge at one point and handed the Warriors their fourth straight loss. Golden State was paced by Phil Smith's 29 points and Jamaal Wilkes' 29.

Evert win 'big thrill' in London

LONDON (UPI) — Chris Evert, getting what she called "my greatest thrill since winning Wimbledon," helped the United States to tie Britain, 1-1, Thursday in the opening singles match of the 48th Wimbledon tennis cup.

Evert was forced to fight all the way to down Virginia Wade, 6-3, 2-6, 6-0. But the U.S. No. 2, Rosie Casals, playing with a pain-killing injection for an injured leg muscle, dropped the second match, 1-4, 6-3, 6-2, to Sue Barker to allow Britain back even.

"It was a really tough match," said Evert. "I didn't think I'd win until the last point. It's my greatest thrill since winning Wimbledon."

Oakes swerved a beautiful shot into the center of the goalmouth. There was a mad scramble and Frank Raio, who pulled up from his fullback position, had the ball roll down his chest and he pushed it home. "When you give up four corner kicks in a row something is bound to happen," Danielson remarked.

Darrell Hooce and Bill Finnegan had good chances in the first period while Bill Moran, Matt Scheraga and Finnegan again had bids in the third quarter. Sophomore bullet Jack Modzla with four minutes to go sent in a punt from the penalty area to the right of the net. All of the front line had chances to score but all came up dry.

Outstanding in defeat for the Silk Turners were fullbacks Rick Marshall and Bob Nurmi. Matt Walsh among others played well for Manchester but just wasn't in the cards — and the end of the '76 season arrived.

'Rifle' year ago now 'Phantom'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reggie Leach has been toying with the idea of changing his nickname this season from "The Rifle" to "The Phantom."

Leach, who led the NHL with 61 goals last season, virtually has fallen into obscurity by comparison. This year, with just five goals through his first 17 games. His dip in performance has been a major reason the Philadelphia Flyers find themselves tied in second place of the Patrick Division six points behind the New York Islanders.

"I took Leach just eight games to collect five goals last year when he earned his nickname 'The Rifle' by scoring an NHL record 80 goals over the regular season and playoffs. His 61 regular season goals put him in a class with Phil Esposito and Bobby Hull as the only NHL players ever to score in the 60s."

Leach took leave of absence from his slump Tuesday night to score a first-period goal in helping the Flyers post a 6-4 victory over the staggering Vancouver Canucks, to snap Philadelphia's four-game winless streak.

"Well, I don't know," Leach said of the possibility the goal may have helped him shed his slump. "I'll have to wait until next game. If I can get some more goals that will be an indication."

"I've got to get a few goals to restore my confidence," Leach, Paul Holmgren and Ross Lomberry also scored first-period goals for the Flyers, but Philadelphia could do no better than a 3-3 tie through the first 20 minutes as Don Lever, Dennis Vergeraar and Mike Spruce replied for Vancouver. Phil Barber and Bob Kelly scored goals 69 seconds apart in the second period to snap the tie and Bobby Clarke added an insurance goal in the third period. Chris Oddiefloor rounded out the Vancouver scoring with 1:40 left in the game.

Nice honor for Marti Parllman of Manchester and Ott Ogen of Vermont. The pair had gained the fourth ranking position in Class B women's tennis doubles team in New England competition. Parllman is currently on the In-Town tennis staff at the Hartford Armory. In between, the local woman has also capably guided the cheerleaders in the Manchester Midget Football League program, a position she has held for years.

A crowd of 3,787 watched UConn rip Boston University apart Saturday in the football field while an estimated 7,500 turned out the following day to see UConn bow on the soccer field at Hartford. One area football coach noted this week that the parents were "the worst ever" in their actions this fall. "I'm being second guessed on every play," he added. "Joan Urbanetti, one of Manchester's best young bowlers, has been placed on the Honor Roll for the final stanza of the season."

Orange Bowl bid in sight for Pitt

Pitt might have an Orange Bowl bid in sight, but it has West Virginia on its mind. "They know that good things could be ahead," Coach Johnny Majors says of his top-ranked, undefeated Panthers. "but they also realize what's at stake this week and how important the game is."

Pitt, which moved into the No. 1 spot for the first time after Michigan lost to Purdue last week, will be hosting West Virginia Saturday in a rivalry dating back to 1899. The Panthers, going for their 10th straight win this season, hold a significant edge in the series, 42-2-1. History and tradition aside, Pitt is favored by 24 points and should have little trouble with the Mountaineers, winners of last year's Peach Bowl, whose record stands at 4-5.

However, last season's 17-14 West Virginia upset victory, leave a rancid taste in Majors' mouth and he is not about to take anything for granted. "This is a game of emotion," Majors says of the rivalry. "We know West Virginia always gets ready for Pitt, and we plan on being ready for them."

The Panthers will unveil no surprises — only Tony Dorsett, the extraordinary running back, who owns more records than RCA. Pitt, the fifth-highest scoring team in the country with a 34-point per game average, also will be relying on the arm of Matt Cavanaugh, who is still recovering from a fibula fracture incurred earlier in the season.

At the other end of the field, junior quarterback Dan Keady, who has completed 94 of 190 passes, will lead the Mountaineers before an expected sellout crowd of 56,500 at Pitt Stadium. He will be looking to Cedric Thomas as one of his main targets. Fullback Paul Lumley and half-back Dwayne Woods will handle the heavy ground work in the Virginia, which is coming off a 32-28 win over Tulane last week. Elsewhere across the nation, No. 2 UCLA is at Oregon State; No. 3 Southern California is a three-touchdown choice at home against Washington; No. 4 Michigan hopes to regroup at home against Illinois after last week's loss at Purdue. No. 5 Texas Tech is a 20-point pick over SMU; No. 6 Georgia is rated 10½ over Auburn; No. 7 Georgia Tech is a 17½ point favorite over Clemson; No. 8 Ohio State is a 17-point choice at Minnesota; No. 9 Nebraska is a 7½ point favorite to spoil Iowa State's hopes of taking the Big Eight title and No. 10 Missouri is a 5½ point underdog to No. 14 Oklahoma, which, also having designs on the Big Eight championship, hopes to head of Nebraska.

The Hornets, 8-0 over-all and 7-0 in the CCLL, can not only clinch the league title but also a berth in the first statewide playoff with a win. Penney High, 4-3 in the league and 5-3 in all outtings, is at 2-5, 2-6 Enfield High Saturday with a 1:30 starting time.

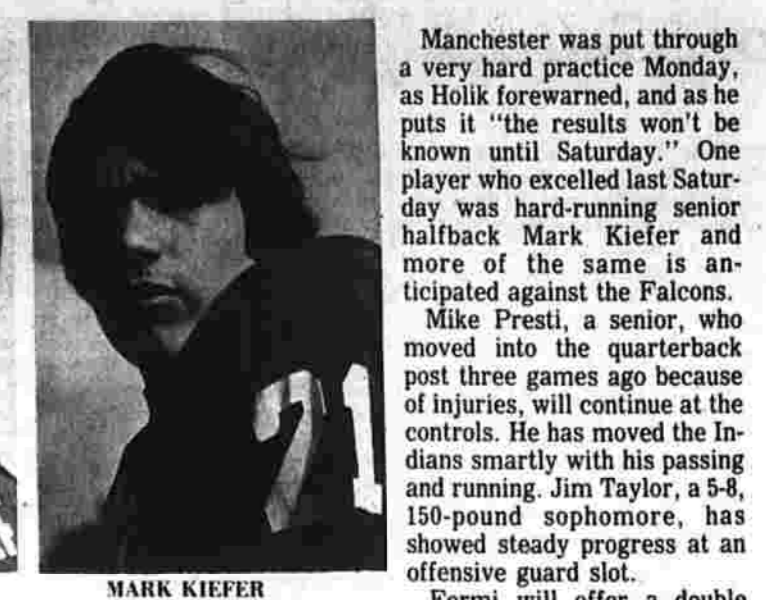

St. Paul probably has the best group of athletes ever seen in one place in one time," Eagle member John LaFontana remarked matter of factly. "We will be fighting for our lives. They are just that good. They are one of the two or three best teams in the state. It will be an overwhelming challenge," he added.

The Eagles will be going in without the services of defensive back Bill Gorman, wingback Tom Gerbo and linebacker Rich Harrison, all out injured. Sophomore Marty Varhue moves into the linebacking post.

Top operatives for the Falcons include quarterback Scott Dumont — "if he's not all-state it's a crime" stated LaFontana — who has passed for over 900 yards and 10 touchdowns and halfback Brian McCutcheon who has scored 22 touchdowns and rushed for almost 1,000 yards. "It will be very interesting. Our kids are loose, we have absolutely nothing to lose," LaFontana noted in closing.

Manchester once again came close last Saturday against Enfield but came up on the short end of a 14-13 score. Costly turnovers in the final stanza spelled doom for the Silk Turners.

First-year coach Jack Holik indicated the Indians will continue with their newly installed option offense, a variation of the Houston veer. They have not abandoned totally, however, the power game he added quickly. The option offense has a built in detour — fumbles — which could cause havoc against a ball control team.

'Winning attitude' with Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Tom Neville says the New England Patriots have that "winning attitude" heading into Sunday's important game with the Baltimore Colts.

Neville, an offensive tackle, said Thursday he is encouraged by the Patriots' performance in practice this week. "We were executing, doing what we have to do," he said. "It was an intangible feeling, a charisma, a winning attitude."

The Patriots' offense didn't look sharp in their last two games — losing to Miami and defeating Buffalo. Coach Chuck Fairbanks and quarterback Steve Grogan said there was a lack of concentration.

"We haven't had a really intense game in three weeks," Neville said. He expects that to change again when the Colts — who are two games in arrears in the American Conference East.

"Baltimore is in the No. 1 spot and that should be the key for us," Neville said. "It should be a personal challenge for each one of us."

Colts' coach Ted Marchbroda said Sunday's match is "our biggest game of the season." The Colts can gain a nearly un-

Jets ponder Jersey shift

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets, tired of being treated as second-class citizens in their fight with the Mets over the use of Shea Stadium, are contemplating moving to the Jersey Meadowlands next season to share the new football stadium with the Giants, a club spokesman said Thursday.

The Jets, who control the lease of the city-owned Shea Stadium, once again voted Wednesday not to allow the Jets use of Shea Stadium until the end of the World Series, which stretches through the third week in October. In previous years the Jets could offer little resistance to the Mets' decision, but the Jersey Meadowlands complex offers them an alternative they may wish to pursue.

"It's something we should consider," said Frank Ramo, public relations director of the Jets. "The Jet owners would prefer not to leave Shea, but we feel not being able to use the field in September and October is hurting our club."

"It hurts our football team to play the first four games every year on the road, and it's not desirable for our fans. We've been getting lots of letters from our fans, complaining about so many home games in December when it's so cold here."

A big factor, if the Jets decide to move, would be if the National Football League decides to expand its regular season schedule next year from 14 to 16.

In refusing the Jets the use of Shea Stadium in September and October, the Jets gave the same reason they have in the past — that the natural turf field will be damaged too severely.

Cards preparing for Rams

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals saw their best season ever go down the drain at the Los Angeles Coliseum last year and would like to prevent a similar ending this season.

Having learned their lesson, the Cardinals left the shivering cold of St. Louis Wednesday for three days of practice under the Southern California sun before taking the field against the Rams.

The Cardinals also will carry increased offensive firepower into the game with the return of Terry Metcalf, who sat out last week's 17-14 triumph over Philadelphia with an ankle injury.

"Any time Metcalf gets outside you, he can go all the way," said Los Angeles defensive end Jack Youngblood. "He's a fine receiver, too, and does so many things for their special teams he can hurt you in nearly everything he does."

The Cardinals are 7-2 and in second place of the N.F.C. East behind the once-beaten Dallas Cowboys. The game begins a four-week stretch for the Cardinals during which time they also will play Washington, Dallas and Baltimore. The Cowboys play only two teams above .500 for the remainder of the season, starting with the 27 Buffalo Bills Monday night.

The Rams also are in a must-win situation because Monday night's 20-12 loss to Cincinnati left them just half a game in front of San Francisco in the N.F.C. West. The 49ers are at Atlanta this week.

In other games, Miami is at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia meets Cleveland, Denver plays San Diego, Houston visits Cincinnati, Kansas City is at Oakland, Baltimore hosts New England, Tampa Bay meets the New York Jets.

RC bishops issue moral statement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops have approved a major statement on moral principles for dealing with the contemporary world, but opened the possibility of a rift with the laity over several social issues.

Concluding their four day fall meeting, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops Thursday overwhelmingly approved an amended pastoral letter, "To Live as Christ Jesus."

It is designed as a teaching document for the faithful, and reaffirms traditional teaching such as banning use of artificial birth control devices, upholding the permanence of marriage, opposing homosexual activity, denouncing the "unspokeable crime" of abortion, and labeling euthanasia a grave wrong.

Some of these principles, however, fly in the face of recommendations made last month by the church's "Call to Action" conference in Detroit, a gathering of bishops, clergy and laity designed to map a course of social action for the church.

At Detroit, the 1,340 delegates approved resolutions asking the bishops to take action to allow Catholics to "form their own consciences" on birth control, to repeal the automatic excommunication of divorced and remarried Catholics, and for the church to "join the struggle by homosexual men and women for their basic constitutional rights."

The bishops are expected to consider the Detroit proposals, which include a large number of recommendations in other areas as well, at their May meeting in Chicago.

Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati, president of the NCCB, told a news conference Thursday that some of the Detroit recommendations "are at variance" with the principles in the pastoral letter. But he said the recommendations would be treated seriously by the bishops.

On the national level, the bishops condemned racism as "among the most persistent and destructive evils in our nation" and said the United States "must find means by which everyone who is able to work can have gainful, productive employment."

Losing candidates undecided about political futures

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The local non-winners in last week's election have not made any firm decisions on their political future yet, but at least one has expressed interest in running again.

"Naturally, my inclination right now is to run again," David Cohen of Glastonbury, said. Cohen, who was defeated in the Fourth Senatorial District by Sen. David Barry, made his first run for public office in 1976.

"Considering it was our first time out with no previous exposure, I was pleased with our showing," he said. "We ran a hard campaign, and a damn good one."

If he does run in 1978, it would be for the same senate seat. "I think my talents would lie more in the senate than in the house," he said. Cohen also said, "I have been asked by some of the town chairman to keep my options open."

G. Warren Westbrook, who lost to Abraham Glassman in the 14th Assembly District, said of his loss, "The race was close, but I think it'll hang up the gloves." But that's not the right attitude.

Westbrook is far from a newcomer to the local political scene. He served two terms in the General Assembly and was seeking re-election in 1974 when he was ousted by Glassman.

"He came closer in his race with Glassman this year, but lost by 1,000 votes. Asked about another try in 1978, he said, "Who knows what's going to happen in two years? We'll just have to wait and check on it."

East Hartford parents invited to school

School programs set next week

The East Hartford public school system announced American Education Week, Nov. 14-20, is an excellent time for all parents and other citizens to demonstrate their concern for what happens in — and to — the schools.

The schools will offer specialized programs and demonstrations throughout the week to mark the observance theme, "The Schools Are Yours. Help Take Care Of Them," said S.J. Leone, assistant superintendent/instruction.

Parents and citizens are invited to visit classrooms and facilities. Invitations will be sent out by individual schools.

American Education Week, observed annually since 1921, seeks to encourage local citizen support and improvement of education. This year the program will stress learning more about the schools as a basis for active and continued personal involvement.

The nationwide event is sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education.

Woodwind concert
East Hartford's Fine Arts Commission invites all area music lovers to the University of Wisconsin Woodwind Arts quintet concert Tuesday at East Hartford High School at 8 p.m. A reception will follow.

All the members of the quintet are faculty members of the university's School of Music. An East Hartford native, Robert Goodberg, son of Mrs. Lillian Goodberg, is flutist.

Goodberg performed with the Hartford Symphony Orchestra and the Manchester Civic Orchestra while a student at E.H.S.

He studied at the Hart School of Music, the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, and Columbia University.

Fair Saturday
The women of Burnside Methodist Church will hold their annual holiday fair Saturday in Menard Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Baked goods, candy, plants, Christmas decorations, crafts and a white elephant booth will be available. A snack bar will be open.

Bingo Wednesday
The Robert J. O'Brien PTO bingo will be Wednesday at 7:30. The PTO puts bingo proceeds into the scholarship fund.

Players will get three bingo cards for ten games. Two special games will be played for two 12-pound turkeys.

Children are welcome but must be accompanied by an adult.

Club raises funds for rescue truck

The Hebron chapter of the Junior Women's Club is raising funds to purchase a new rescue truck for the Hebron Fire Department.

Janitors President Sandra Bocynecki received a donation of a cordwood saw from Joseph Stula to kickoff the fund drive.

Stula, who owns Joe's Sales and Service on Rt. 66 in Hebron, manufactures the saw which retails for $695. It is driven by power takeoff through an offset cast-iron gear box.

The 20-inch blade can be used on any tractor or motor.

Stula was the first person in town to step forward to give the drive "a rousing start," said Mrs. Bocynecki.

Second prize for the raffie will be a Poulan automatic chain saw with carrying case that retails for $189. A cord of wood which retails at an estimated $50 is being offered as third prize.

Tickets are available from any junior. The drawing will be held at Company 1 Firehouse on Rt. 66 on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 10:30 a.m. Winners need not be present.

The club has made the fund-raising drive a major project in order to raise at least $3,000 to purchase a used rescue truck.

Council honors young golfer

East Hartford
SHEILA TULLER
Allan Sinicrope, the winner of the New England Open Championship, was recently honored by the Town Council and Mayor Richard Blackstone.

The young golfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sinicrope, of 99 Holland Lane, was presented with a resolution in honor of his championship win and other achievements.

Allan, who learned golf from his father at a very young age said, "I began playing the game when I was 10."

At that time, he was playing daily at Fox Grove in Manchester because he liked the game. The golf course owner Pete Gorecki recognized Allan's talent and urged him to keep practicing. Allan did and won his first tournament that year.

He's been winning ever since. Twenty-two handicaps trophies on display in the Sinicrope family room attest to his skill. For capturing the New England Open he was also awarded a set of irons and a sports jacket.

Future plans
Allan is not stopping here. He still plays golf, weather permitting, nearly every day and hopes to enter more tournaments. Because all the Sinicrope family enjoys golf, they are members of Manchester Country Club.

A junior at East Hartford High School, golf is part of Allan's school life, too. He's been a member of the E.H.S. golf team since his freshman year.

Golf team coach Angelo Cardello said with a chuckle, "I'm pretty sure Allan will make the team this year, too."

Cardello went on to say, as did the council's resolution, "Allan is not only a fine golfer but a fine student and an outstanding young man."

Saturday there will be a hot dog roast for the local football program participants and the Everett people.

Police union offers aid to town

Vernon
Officer Gary Pfeifer of the Vernon Police Department, president of the local chapter International Brotherhood of Police Officers, has been advised that the town of Vernon can avail itself of the services of the union's Washington, D. C. offices.

Pfeifer said this service includes the union's central research, federal funding development and lobbying capabilities.

Pfeifer said he was told by the union officials that the program is a "new twist for labor unions. We can think of no better way of establishing a working relationship with city administrators whose jobs today are more difficult than ever," they said.

Pfeifer said the Washington office's staff consists of experts in such fields as federal funding, development of numerous services made available by the federal government, and professional lobbyists.

"Naturally, the staff specializes in law enforcement concerns, but our services extend beyond that subject and into problems presently being encountered by administrators of cities and towns throughout the country," Pfeifer said.

He said, "With money being the biggest stumbling block facing everyone today, there is no need to waste taxpayers' dollars in an area where experienced assistance already is available."

An ecumenical junior choir comprised of children from the four churches in Bolton is now rehearsing for the Thanksgiving Eve ecumenical service. The choir meets each Monday at St. Maurice Church immediately after school.

Voting is common sense

Editorial

The voting is over, the returns are in and counted, and post-election hindsight and commentary are in full bloom. One of the many statistics being discussed is the large number of voters who turned out to make their choices. They came despite the numerous calls to vote because of the discouraging quality of the presidential candidates. I am proud to say that I come from a country where the people care about how their government is run.

The arguments for not voting this year were many and often heard. "Both candidates are rotten," we were told, and "not voting makes the statement that you do not like either of them." Voting, too, is actually an option. It is not required that you speak or vote your mind. However, just as eating good meals is an option, abstention is continued too long, the whole system falls apart.

Remember, come next election time, that voting is not simply a choice of one of the other candidate. It is a choice of the whole party coming. It is too late for this now (hindsight is always the clearest), but it will be a choice of the whole party who didn't vote and didn't want Carter. Don't complain about his or his party's policies. When you vote the right to do that, not you. Perhaps next election you'll swallow your non-voting pride or just inconvenience yourself enough to sneak into a voting booth. Pulling those levers involves you in government. Not pulling them place you in the masses of apathetic non-voters. The choice is yours, and the choice of candidates can be yours, too.—Steve Latham

Rock Review: An evening with Neil Diamond

In just two and a half hours during an excellent concert on Oct. 18, at the Springfield Civic Center, Neil Diamond managed to thrill and enchant hundreds of people, young and old, with his fine music by performing everything from jazz to rock.

When Diamond first appeared on stage, the capacity-filled crowd rose to its feet and applauded for over five minutes. Diamond then gave a warm welcome to the audience by saying, "Everyone loosen your collars, put your feet up, and let the music take you." The next fifteen minutes were devoted to an informal rap session between Diamond and the crowd. Diamond then began an impressive repertoire of his songs, including early tunes from 1965 up to his more recent releases.

After Diamond finished an excellent performance of "Longfellow Serenade," he said: "One of my greatest pleasures in doing a concert is to have the audience join in with me in a couple of songs." With that, the crowd stood up, the house lights went on, and everyone participated in a rocking rendition of "Song Sung Blue," "Cracklin' Rosie." Other Diamond classics such as "Cherry, Cherry," "Holly Holy," "If You Know What I Mean," "Brother Lovel," "Am...I Said," and many others were performed for the impressed audience. Diamond then sang a number of tunes from his latest album "Beautiful Noise," this particularly pleased the audience.

A real highlight of the concert was the fact that Diamond explains exactly how he formulated the ideas and themes of each of the songs he performs. "Beautiful Noise" was written about Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, a poet whom Diamond admires and whose writings he loves. "Beautiful Noise" was intended to portray Diamond's experiences in New York City. This particular album required three years of composing to produce. Diamond wrapped up the evening with several excerpts from the musical score of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," which he particularly enjoyed.

Variety show attracts many

Where could you have seen lumberjacks, an Irish step dancer and fiddler, country bumpkins, and a magician all inside the same edifice? Last Saturday night in Bailey Auditorium, you could have observed these and other various personalities as they displayed their talent in "Cabaret."

The show opened as usual with Round Table singing "Another Opening, Another Show" and the show's theme song, "Come to the Cabaret." Emcees Bill Simon and Carl Girelli introduced the various acts. As the show progressed, their humor did likewise. Jennifer Kraussert did a witty job of mimicking various personalities and will most certainly lose her part in the musical if her remarks were taken seriously.

Carry Flanagan started off the evening with several pieces of Scott Joplin Ragtime, which were well performed. Mike Neubert and Jim Robbins, playing flute and sax respectively, continued this musical excellence by performing a song which Jim wrote himself. Needless to say, this aspiring musician will certainly attain his goal.

Pam Wilson and Kathy Costello changed the pace a bit in their dancing of "Take It Easy" and an original composition.

Round Table opened the second part of the show with "No Business Like Show Business," a rapid transit, small group of MHS instrumentalists, received tremendous applause for their excellent performance of various popular tunes. Coleen Wright, Anna Frallicardi, and Diane Mahoney continued with their choreography to "Theme from Exorcist." The "Lumberjacks" released the audience from this enchanted mood by presenting a comical skit. Linda Blair changed the pace again by capably singing "People."

Dan Davies debuted with "Thank God, I'm a Country Boy," which was well received by the crowd.

From Dan Davies and Mike Neubert played the piano and flute to various original tunes. The "Prima Donnas," Tina Strand, Judy Cunningham, Mary Carroll and Dawn Hilyard, sang compositions from "Godspell" and Elton John. "Cabaret" then closed with Round Table singing "That's Entertainment."—Mary

Al Stewart

Al Stewart, the English vocalist with that unmistakable and unique voice of precision, has recently released an LP entitled "Year Of The Cat." Most music enthusiasts have undoubtedly heard the single of the same name—a fairly good tune, interesting and pleasant—but not a song of phenomenal quality or importance. This holds true for the entire album: it's nice, but slightly boring, and not worth getting excited about. One song sounds like another because of a lack of outstanding features. If you are an avid fan of Al Stewart's, the album might be viewed in a different light because the LP's emphasis lies entirely on the man's voice—for me, this detracts from the quality of the album, rather than enhancing it.

The music is difficult to classify; it can be best described as a mellow, very sophisticated type of rock. Guitars, keyboards, and drums are featured; the instrument-

A composite of wit, charm, talent, and intelligence, juxtaposed by a gentle, passive exterior, this is Julie Hodson, a person whose character is a contrast between her quiet demeanor and ambitious spirit and yearning for growth.

Julie undergoes a rigorous curriculum, including honors Physics, Calculus, Advanced Biology, and AP English. Yet, such endeavors are to her not campaigns in competition, but rather, one means to best drain the high school of all the educational opportunities it presents. Herein lies Julie's secret to success. She firmly believes that a person can only go as far as she sets herself, and her goals are great.

Julie keeps herself wide open to all facets of life, yet is especially drawn to the sciences never seen before. So far her life has been pretty restricted because life in Manchester is so limited. I want to go farther than this.

Despite her longing for experience, Julie appears to have cultivated a number of interests which she actively pursues. Track ranks among the top, because it is "so hard and challenging. Running is an independent effort. Your success depends entirely on yourself. There's no one to back either." She has participated in both Track and Field, and Cross Country, placing third for the team in the state sectionals.

In addition to track, Julie is an avid music lover, and insatiable book reader, an outdoorsman, and a gymnast. She finds satisfaction in all kinds of music, ranging from the classical in Beethoven to the rock in Led Zepplin; and highlighted by the softer tones of Andre Segovia and Renaissance. As for a preference in reading material, there is none—Julie reads everything from cereal boxes to works by such authors as Hemingway and Dickens. She names Kurt Vonnegut's books and Catch 22 as some of her favorite modern works.

Julie hasn't determined anything specific to apply herself to, but she is sure of one thing, "I want to end up with family and friends. I guess it's the usual. But I want to have done something. You have an obligation to make some contribution." After high school, she plans to further her education at college, preferably in the northeast. Her only criteria are that the college be a good liberal arts one with an independent atmosphere. One of Julie's more tangible am-

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my job. I am a bus driver in Tacoma, Wash. I can handle the traffic, but the people are driving me bananas. I've been driving a bus for four years now, and I don't know if I've lasted this long.

Can you give me some information on becoming a shepherd? A few months ago I read somewhere that there was a real need in the American Southwest for shepherds, but it was hard finding people who could cope with the isolation that went with the job.

Abby, all my life I've found it hard to deal with people. I crave isolation. I could go for weeks without seeing a human being and be perfectly content. I may be slightly weird, but this is me. Can you help me?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Shepherds tending American flocks have traditionally been Basques imported from Spain and shepherds occasionally complain that the immigration quotas shut off their supply of herdsmen. Write to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the name and address of sheep industry organizations. They'll tell you what, if any, opportunities exist to herd about 100 million of people.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a widower who had two daughters. This is my first marriage. Beginning with Easter, then Mother's Day, then Memorial Day, then her birthday, followed by the anniversary of her death and ending with HER wedding anniversary, the two married daughters make a regular pilgrimage to the cemetery to visit their mother's grave.

I don't mind this, but I do mind the pressure they put on their father to go with them. On some of these occasions, I have accompanied him, but I feel as if I'm a third wheel and am not much more meaningful and not nearly as ostentatious. Don't misunderstand, I have not complained once, and never will, but I think six trips in five weeks to lay plastic flowers on the grave is overdoing it.

How about I handle it? My husband's daughters didn't make all these trips to their mother's grave before their father married me.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Continue to handle it as you have. Stay nothing.

DEAR ABBY: One of your readers suggested national Daughters-in-Law Day. Well, I'm a daughter-in-law but I don't feel the honor I need in just knowing and loving a mother-in-law. I'll tell you about her.

She was a diamond in the rough, a tiny, feisty redhead. Had she been a man, she would have been a two-fisted, hard-drinking gambler. She adored her son. No woman alive was good enough for him, but if one HAD been, it would have been her. When she had a snootful, she berated me, insulted me, belittled me. She came very close to loving me, and perhaps she did. I think she trips in five weeks to lay plastic flowers on the grave is overdoing it.

I gave her a permanent dye before she died, and as she left to go home, she put her freckled arms around my waist and in her deep, husky voice said, "I love you, honey." These were her last words to me.

How I loved that tough old lady, and I miss her like hell.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Enjoy yourself today. Don't do anything foolish or risky. You'll have more fun doing quiet things.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You're a better driver than you are a starter. If your first efforts aren't successful, you'll make it on the second try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things that you do in haste today are likely to be done haphazardly with friends, keep them on a very businesslike manner, although you may be tempted to do otherwise.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a tendency today to imitate by the first thing you see. Compare prices and values before making any purchases.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your temper is on a rather short string today. You could hurt someone without thinking. Make amends promptly if you do anything out of character.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your hunches can't be depended upon today. Your logical evaluations can ignore the small amount of emotion which you know is right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Think carefully before lending anything to anyone. If you operate without today, someone you're fond of but who doesn't take care of things, might catch you in a weak moment.

In addition to track, Julie is an avid music lover, and insatiable book reader, an outdoorsman, and a gymnast. She finds sanction in all kinds of music, ranging from the classical in Beethoven to the rock in Led Zeppelin, and highlighted by the softer tones of Andre Segovia and Renaissance. As for a preference in reading material, there is none — Julie reads everything from cereal boxes to works by such authors as Hemingway and Dickens. She names Kurt Vonnegut's books and Catch 22 as some of her favorite modern works.

Julie hasn't determined anything specific to apply herself to, but she is sure of one thing: "I want to end up with family and friends. I guess it's the usual. But I want to have done something. You have an obligation to make some contribution." After high school, she plans to further her education at college, preferably in the northeast. Her only criteria are that the college be a good liberal arts one with an independent atmosphere. One of Julie's more tangible ambitions is to go Europe, because "it offers a wide spectre of different people, and the history and great art of the past and present." She wants to travel apart from any fixed organizations so she can do exactly what she wants.

In knowing Julie for four years, one of the things I find most striking about her character is the tremendous gusto she has for living and life itself. It takes an exceptional breed of person to work so hard at being individual and who dabbles in everything and concentrates on what she thrives on in quality in quantity and as of now, Julie most well defined ambition is to do as much as she can and be her very best at it. As a result of this policy, Julie has developed into a melting pot of talents and abilities. She is a knowledgeable, scintillating conversationalist, who accents her manner with unique warmth and intelligence. I love humor, especially satirical. I think people should be able to laugh at their own shortcomings, the games they play, and the idiosyncrasies in life and human nature in general. "A very prominent element in Julie's character, her wit can often be well hidden at first glance. Julie has one of the most well-rounded and highly developed senses of humor of anyone I have met.

Speaking from experience, Julie is a sincerely kind person, an animal lover, a nature lover, and a real lover of people. She works in conjunction with youth services to help other children and is actively a Big Sister. With Julie, there is always enough time to fit everything in, and there is still room for expansion. — Sue Koski

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my job. I am a bus driver in Tacoma, Wash. I can handle the traffic, but the people are driving me bananas. I've been driving a bus for four years now, and I don't know how I've lasted this long.

Can you give me some information on becoming a shepherd? A few months ago I read somewhere that there was a real need in the American Southwest for shepherds, but it was hard finding people who could cope with the isolation that went with the job.

Abby, all my life I've found it hard to deal with people. I crave isolation. I could go for weeks without seeing a human being and be perfectly content. I may be slightly weird, but this is me. Can you help me?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Shepherds tending American flocks have traditionally been Basques imported from Spain and sheepmen occasionally complain that the immigration quotas shut off their supply of herdsmen. Write to the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the name and address of the country to visit their mother's grave. If any opportunities exist to herd sheep instead of people.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a widower who had two daughters. This is my first marriage. Beginning with Easter, then Mother's Day, then Memorial Day, then her birthday, followed by the anniversary of her death and ending with HER wedding anniversary, the two married daughters make a regular pilgrimage to the cemetery to visit their mother's grave. I don't mind this, but I do mind the pressure they put on their father to go with them. On some of these occasions, I have accompanied him, but I feel as though I had been and am being used. Much more meaningful and not nearly as ostentatious. Don't misunderstand, I have not complained once, and never will, but I think six trips in five weeks to lay plastic flowers on the grave is overdoing it.

How should I handle it? My husband's daughters didn't make all these trips to their mother's grave before their father married me.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Continue to handle it as you have. Say nothing.

DEAR ABBY: One of your readers suggested national Daughter-in-Law Day. Well, it's daughter-in-law but had all the honor I need in just knowing and loving a mother-in-law. I'll tell you about her.

She was a diamond in the rough, a tiny, fleshy redhead. Had she been a man, she would have been a two-fisted, hard-drinking gambler. She adored her son. No woman alive was good enough for him, but if she had been, it would have been me. When she had a snootful, she berated me, insulted me, baited me. She came very close to leaving me and perhaps she did.

I was with her the day she broke her hip. She was barefooted in a charrette bathroom suit, having just come in from a day at the local swimming hole with her two small grandsons and myself. That was the beginning of the end. I gave her a permanent the day before she died, and as she lay to go home, she put her freckled arms around my waist and in her deep, husky voice said, "I love you, honey." Those were her last words to me.

How I loved that tough old lady, and I miss her like hell. MARTHA IN BEND

Kissinger won't have role in Carter administration

CROMWELL (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will not be offered and probably would not take a foreign policy post with the administration of Jimmy Carter, according to a journalist who has covered his travels extensively.

Richard Growald, a senior editor for United Press International, said Thursday night Kissinger would not like serving with Carter because the president-elect clearly intends to run his own foreign policy. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has suggested Kissinger take a foreign policy role in the new administration.

"I don't think he'll stay on, much as he likes power," Growald said at the meeting of the UPI Newspapers Association of Connecticut.

Irving Kravson, managing editor of the Hartford Courant, was elected president of the group at its 23rd annual meeting.

Christopher Powell, managing editor of the Journal Inquirer, Manchester, was elected vice president. John P. Reilly, editor of The Hour, Norwalk, was re-elected secretary.

Elected to the board of directors were Harold Turkington, managing editor of the Manchester Herald; Leonard Gilbert, managing editor of the Bridgeport Post and Telegram; John Peterson, managing editor of the Norwich Bulletin; and Joseph Bradley, publisher of the Winsted Evening Citizen.

DOT to consider need at intersection

The state Department of Transportation (DOT) will look into whether a traffic patrolman is needed at the intersection of W. Middle Tpke. and New State Rd.

The Manchester Police Department has been studying the situation, and Philip Stark, DOT director of construction, indicated Friday that his department would also take a look at the intersection traffic.

The intersection is included in the Urban Systems construction being done on W. Middle Tpke. and Adams St. There have been some complaints from residents that traffic at the intersection, which is near East Catholic High School and Howard Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School, has been congested, particularly during hours just before and just after school.

There is a flashing traffic signal at the intersection, but at least one person feels more control is needed.

"I think it would be safer with a policeman to direct traffic," the person said. "I hope they don't wait until something happens."

She said that the traffic director would not have to be there all day, but only during the peak traffic hours, especially before and after school.

Deputy Police Chief Richard Sartor said that the department is studying whether a man should be placed at the intersection. There are presently between eight and ten policemen working daily in areas affected by the Urban Systems construction work.

Stark said that anytime there is a complaint filed with his department they will investigate.

"We'll take a look at it," he said Friday after being informed of the complaint.

Frame storage shed damaged by fire

Authorities haven't determined the cause of a Thursday afternoon fire in a Tolland Tpke. industrial storage shed, but officials say the blaze is not suspicious.

One room in the 30-by-30-foot frame shed at L.M. Gill Welding and Manufacturing Co., 1422 Tolland Tpke., was damaged in the fire. Eighth District fire fighters acted quickly to prevent flames from spreading to the main section of the company's plant or to another nearby building.

Police reported the fire at 5:09 p.m., and the Eighth District sounded Box 74 and dispatched three engine pumpers and the department's rescue truck.

The first of 43 fire fighters responding reported flames 25 feet high in the sky as the rescue truck passed Burr Corners on its way west on Tolland Tpke.

A total of 1,200 feet of hose was laid from a hydrant at Meekville Rd. to bring water to the fire scene. Fire fighters used five hand lines to pour more than 2,000 gallons of water in the burning shed, which was attached to the main plant.

Fire Chief Granville Lingard said the fire was very hot and difficult to fight because of combustible and hazardous materials in the shed.

During the fire fighting effort, a half-full, 55-gallon chemical drum "popped," causing concern for an explosion.

The fire was contained to the one room in the shed and was declared under control at 5:42 p.m. Fire fighters and apparatus remained on the scene until 6:55 p.m., continuing cleanup work.

No one was hurt in the incident.

During the fire, the department kept two engine pumpers in service, one at the scene and the other at headquarters.

The fire, which was in the Buckland section of Manchester, is being investigated by the town fire marshal.

Penney facility visit reset for next month

A plane trip for townspeople to look at a J.C. Penney facility in Ohio has been rescheduled and will be smaller than originally expected.

The trip to Columbus, site of a distribution center similar to the one proposed for Manchester, will now be made Dec. 3 in an eight-passenger plane.

The Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce, which helped interest the company in Manchester after no suitable site could be found in Hartford, will provide the plane and pay the cost of the trip.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, an official from the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce, and people from the neighborhood of the proposed site are among those who will now be included in the trip.

The trip had been tentatively scheduled for Nov. 17 and might have included as many as 25 town officials and residents. These plans, however, did not materialize, and the smaller trip has now been scheduled.

RUSTIC HOME FEATURES

'Bath Beautiful' Popular With Today's Homeowners

The beauty wave that washed over bathrooms a few years ago shows no sign of ebbing. As a result, dull old bathrooms are rapidly becoming "beautifuly" rooms. Each year, about 2.8 million bathrooms are remodeled and about 730,000 new bathrooms added to existing homes. In most cases, the desire to glamorize is just as important as the need to update old fixtures, add convenience, or provide more space. This trend, says Building Supply news, a leading building material retailer magazine, has led to heavy demands for luxury items for bathrooms.

A recent remodeling survey taken by BSN, shows these features popular for improved bathrooms: "decorator" sinks and tubs, lavatory-vanities, ceramic flooring, carpeting, ceramic wall tiles, wall paneling, "fancy" mirrors and lighting fixtures, and suspended ceilings. Glamor accessories include: ceiling sun lamps, built-in scales, pull-out hair sprayers, built-in soap dishes and tissue dispensers, and exotic-looking hardware. The survey, which queried 1500 homeowners nationally, indicates that bathrooms are topped only by kitchens as the most frequently planned home improvement. Figures for previous years show bathroom remodeling most usual in homes valued between $20,000 and $40,000. Most bathroom remodeling, about 77 per cent, is done by homeowners.

Well-appointed bathrooms have convenient storage and functional accessories. In planning any bath area, add storage units, either built-in or free-standing, whenever possible.
