

Taste Barrier Broken.

'Enriched Flavor' breakthrough ends struggle to bring taste to low tar smoking.

For years, dependency on tar for taste has created a taste barrier for low tar smoking.

Now that barrier has been broken. Broken for good by a remarkable new cigarette called MERIT.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. The result of a radical new discovery so successful at boosting flavor, MERIT actually delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar. Yet MERIT has only 9 mg. of tar. One of the 9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

MERIT was taste-tested against current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were involved. The majority report: even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT still delivered as much—or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

Arab oil ministers discuss price strategy

KUWAIT (UPI) — Arab oil ministers met today to discuss a joint strategy for seeking a price increase at the Dec. 15 meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Represented were Algeria, Egypt, Kuwait, Libya, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates. Seven of the countries also belong to OPEC.

Conference sources said the meeting was not likely to produce a joint Arab decision on the projected oil price increase, for although the Arabs appear united in their determination to raise prices to keep pace with Western inflation, they are deeply divided on how far to go. Proposed hikes range from 8 to 25 per cent.

According to a survey published Monday in the authoritative Middle East Economic Survey, at least seven of the 13 OPEC members will press for a significant price increase when the cartel meets in Qatar in December.

But while Iraq, considered a hard-line member, has indicated it will seek a "minimum" increase of 25 per cent, Saudi Arabia—the largest and thus most powerful producer—reportedly will propose an increase of only 8 per cent, the weekly oil journal said.

The survey quoted Iraqi Oil Minister Mana al Otaiba as quoted as saying:

"Ten per cent should be the upper limit of the increase in order not to cause a setback to the recovery of the world economy." Abu Dhabi Oil Minister Mana al Otaiba was quoted as saying.

Greenwich teachers ordered into court

GREENWICH (UPI) — Leaders of a teachers' walkout were ordered to appear in Bridgeport Superior Court today to tell a judge why they should be allowed to strike against the Greenwich school system.

About 650 Greenwich teachers walked off the job Monday, beginning the first teachers strike ever in this affluent New York commuter town and resulting in cancellation of classes in 16 schools involving 10,600 students.

The teachers were displeased with the latest contract offer of the Greenwich Board of Education.

Following the walkout, Bridgeport Judge T. Clark Hill ordered teacher union leaders to appear in his court this morning to justify the walkout.

Alan Frey, president of the Greenwich Education Association, indicated the teachers would continue to picket despite Hill's order.

When told this could mean jail sentences for some teachers, Frey responded by saying the union could not negotiate if its leaders were imprisoned.

The Greenwich Education Association voted unanimously Sunday to strike in the absence of a new contract.

The teachers began picketing Monday after a 6 a.m. rally outside Greenwich High School.

Shortly after the strike vote, representatives of the teachers and the school board met in joint session along with a state mediator, but no progress was reported.

At that time, school board officials filed for a court injunction preventing the strike and forcing the teachers back to work.

Minister Tayih Abdel Karim as saying OPEC should increase its prices to keep pace with inflation of goods imported from the West, which he said had reached "25 per cent plus." Algeria, another hard-liner, has said any increase "will be more than justified."

On the other hand, Saudi Arabia will reportedly propose an increase of 8 per cent and fight any price hike that goes above that. Abu Dhabi has said it will oppose anything above 10 per cent and Iran is campaigning for a 12 per cent hike, the survey said.

"Ten per cent should be the upper limit of the increase in order not to cause a setback to the recovery of the world economy," Abu Dhabi Oil Minister Mana al Otaiba was quoted as saying.

Kuwait and Venezuela have made it clear they will support a significant price increase, but have not indicated publicly how big a hike they favor.

Arab peace force finishes takeover

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Syrian-dominated Arab peacekeeping force has finished taking up positions throughout the country but has not stationed any troops near the border with Israel, the leftist-held Beirut radio said today.

The radio said the force had stayed away from the Israeli apparently to avoid giving Israel any pretext for military action. Reports from Israeli said the Israelis have moved reinforcements to the northern border with Lebanon.

Israel has said repeatedly it would not tolerate large numbers of Syrian-dominated peacekeeping troops near its border with Lebanon.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For a little over an hour, Jimmy Carter left the power of the White House in the company of President Ford.

Carter and Ford pulled their chairs close to the fireplace in the Oval Office Monday and shared the secrets of presidents. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen would not say what they talked about and Carter spokesman Jody Powell would only characterize it as "a very substantive discussion." He added that most of the time was spent on foreign affairs.

The President-elect prepared all day for the meeting with Ford and other administration officials. He was up at 6 a.m., reading documents. Budget Director James Lynn, Treasury Secretary William Simon, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary David Mathews, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld all paid calls, discussing transition issues in the relaxed atmosphere of the Blair House library.

While Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Carter talked about living in the White House, Carter and Ford, mobbed by photographers, walked to the Oval Office. They sat in the orange armchairs by the fireplace. Carter showed his famous grin. Ford was serious, his jaw set.

Ford worked on the budget, which he must present to Congress before leaving office.

In midafternoon, Carter came out of Blair House and rode the few hundred yards to the White House in a Secret Service motorcade. The White House was being painted for its new resident and an Atlanta interior decorating firm was at work.

Carter and his wife Rosalynn were met at the South Portico by the President and First Lady. Carter kissed Mrs. Ford on the cheek as if he were greeting an old friend.

White reporters were still allowed to look in, Ford and Carter talked about the series of international economic meetings held in France and Puerto Rico, and the one expected to be held soon in Japan.

"How would you feel about another economic meeting like the one you had in Puerto Rico?" asked Carter. "It might be desirable," said Ford. "It would give me a chance to meet some foreign leaders," Carter said.

After about 40 minutes of private discussion, White House transition aides Richard Chevey and John Marsh came in, along with Carter's man Jack Watson. They talked early to tell what the future percentage will be.

The statue got off easy with only a broken arm.

Police said the statue fell atop Bubb and pinned him to the ground. He was rescued, hospitalized and charged with attempted larceny.

The statue was used to put the statue back on its pedestal after the broken arm is repaired.

Electric rate reduction asked by consumer counsel

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state consumer counsel has formally asked the Public Utilities Control Authority to reduce Northeast Utilities' rates to 1974 levels, but chances appear slim.

David Silverstone Monday said rates should be dropped to what they were in May, 1974, when an increase, subsequently declared illegal, was approved. The state Supreme Court is considering an appeal of a lower court decision in the case.

David Silverstone filed the motion with the P.U.C.A. which Sunday said it would seek a court order barring a number of parties — presumably including Silverstone — from interfering while it determined the rate structure.

Because the P.U.C.A. has already said it doesn't think the current rates should be discarded while their legality is being determined, it appeared unlikely Silverstone's motion would be granted.

Last spring, Court of Common Pleas Judge William C. Bielich declared illegal a $47.7 million rate hike granted Northeast in May 1974. The state Supreme Court is considering Northeast's appeal of that decision and at the same time the P.U.C.A. is reviewing the case to determine what rates should be allowed.

But Silverstone said he thought the P.U.C.A. might change its mind and order a roll back to pre-May, 1974 levels because the difference in the two rates is $900,000 a week to consumers.

P.U.C.A. Chairman Albert J. Kleban has said the difference doesn't matter because it after an investigation his panel decides the rates were unjustified, full refunds with interest would be made.

The state Supreme Court has directed the P.U.C.A. to determine what rates were to be charged in the interim while the court considers the case.

Silverstone said the panel's decision not to roll them back was contrary to the high court's order. "We're asking the P.U.C.A. to reinstate the last valid rate schedule in existence," Silverstone said.

He said the P.U.C.A.'s reasoning that rollbacks were unneeded because new rates could be expected by year's end was invalid because that did not take into account a delay that might be expected before they could be implemented.

"The P.U.C.A. in its statements of last week and again of yesterday seem to indicate that these existing rates will only be in effect for a short time. However in the past just what the implementation of that decision has been delayed weeks and months," he said.

The panel Sunday said it would ask a Superior Court judge to prevent Bielich from forcing P.U.C.A. officials into court to explain why they should not be found in contempt for violating his decision.

Kleban said the order was also directed at other unnamed individuals, which appear to include Silverstone.

FBI joins search for stolen liquor

SIMSBURY (UPI) — The FBI has joined in the search for a stolen truck loaded with more than 1,000 cases of vodka and rye whiskey valued at an estimated $45,000.

Police said Monday the weekend theft from a Simsbury freight truck yard was the second in less than two weeks involving liquor from Heublein Inc., which is headquartered in Farmington.

Police said workers Sunday discovered the theft of a truck from the Specter Freight Systems Inc. yard which contained 1,070 cases of vodka and rye whiskey. The theft occurred Saturday between 9 p.m. and midnight, according to police.

Seven Massachusetts men were arrested Nov. 13 when Massachusetts State Police, using a helicopter, spotted a truck stolen three days earlier as it headed toward Woburn, Mass.

Police said the truck, carrying Heublein vodka worth $75,000, was hijacked in Enfield from a driver for the William McCullough Transportation Co.

The arrests resulted from an informant's tip the thieves offered to sell 100 cases of vodka for $37 a case.

In another matter concerning Heublein liquor thefts, four men, including two former Heublein employees, are awaiting trial in connection with the theft of 5,000 cases of vodka between 1972 and 1974.

The four were indicted by a federal grand jury in Hartford after a two-year federal investigation that was started after a Heublein inventory discovered vodka shortages.

State auditors criticize agency's bookkeeping

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors today criticized the Department of Commerce for sloppy bookkeeping and failing to rectify problems found in past examinations.

Auditors Henry Becker and Leo Donohue said the department should keep tighter control of money used by employees for travel.

"Our review of travel advances made to staff employees revealed several instances in which reimbursement of the advances were not made by employees for periods of up to seven months," they said.

They said additionally inventory records should also be better monitored.

"Our review revealed that inventory cards maintained for each equipment item did not show any cost figures or date of purchase, making it difficult to trace new purchases to inventory records or to verify the annual inventory amount reported to the state," they said.

Both recommendations contained in the report for the last two fiscal years were repeats from previous audits.

The auditors also said supervision of records pertaining to attendance and leave was lax.

They said employees who worked additional hours were being allowed to take extra time off in violation of the law requiring they be paid in cash.

Air crash kills 50

SALONICA, Greece (UPI) — An Olympic Airways airliner crashed into a mountain in northern Greece during stormy weather today, killing all 50 persons aboard.

Police said rescue workers reported there were no survivors among the 46 passengers and four crew members.

A spokesman for the Greek airline said the Japanese-built YS11 airliner was on a domestic flight from Athens to Kozani, 200 miles to the northwest, when it crashed into a mountain at an altitude of 4,500 feet.

The spokesman said wreckage was scattered over a mountainside near the village of Metaxades, 10 miles west of Kozani. It was the first crash of an Olympic Airways plane since October, 1972, when another Olympic YS11 crashed into the sea while approaching Athens airport in a thunderstorm on a flight from the island of Corfu, killing 37 persons.

In the region where the plane crashed today, heavy rain and thunderstorms battered the mountains during the night and there were patches of fog and some snowfall.

Airport controllers said they lost contact with the plane as it was approaching Kozani, after making a stopover at Larissa.

Directors to decide residency rules at meeting tonight

Members of the Manchester Rod and Gun Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., to pay their respects to the late Mrs. G. Mae Sherman. She was the wife of Ernest J. Sherman, past president of the club.

By GREG PEARSON
 Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors will meet at 8 o'clock tonight to decide on a residency requirement for town department heads and their assistants.

The requirement was proposed by Director Phyllis Jackson at an October meeting of the board.

She suggested that all present and future department heads and assistants be required to live in Manchester. Her proposal would give present non-residents and newly hired administrators six months to move to town.

There are five present town department heads who will be immediately affected by such a requirement.

A public hearing was held on the proposal on Nov. 9. Speakers against the requirement included Jay J. Giles, director of public works and president of the Department Heads Association.

Giles, incidentally, is one of four department heads who is required by Town Charter to live in Manchester. The others are the fire chief, police chief, and water and sewer administrator. The town manager is also required, by charter to live in town.

The document evaluates recent economic development efforts in the area, analyzes significant economic changes from 1970-76 and discusses development opportunities.

Trade zone
 NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Mayor Frank Logue's office says a public hearing will be held today at 6 p.m. on the economic feasibility of creating a Foreign Trade Zone in New Haven.

A recent local referendum approved establishment of the zone, which will provide certain tax benefits for manufacturers.

Louisiana town to test 'neutrality letter'

DETROIT (UPI) — A small Louisiana town will be the site of the first major test of the so-called "neutrality letter" won by the United Auto Workers in the new three-year contract with General Motors.

The UAW struck for a little over 12 hours last Friday to reach a tentative contract agreement with the No. 1 automaker. The neutrality clause was the management actively campaign that many industry analysts say was the main reason for the abbreviated walkout.

Basically, the neutrality clause is GM's pledge that it will not interfere in the union's organizing drives, could serve as a particularly in the South "bellwether" for the labor movement throughout the country.

George B. Morris, GM vice president of industrial relations, called the letter "a mutual pledge of good faith on the part of the union and the part of the corporation to conduct ourselves in a harmonious relationship..."

That's when the National Labor Relations Board is expected to set a union representation election date for some 500 GM employees who work in the Monroe plant.

Union organizers expect the first test of this "har-

Foreign news commentary:

Sihanouk now a nonentity

By ALAN DAWSON
 BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, former ruler of Cambodia and once among the best-known persons of the world, today is one of the most obscure.
 Shaded by the shadows of the world's most sputtering regime, Sihanouk and his formerly high-living wife Monique apparently are still alive. But even that is not sure.
 The only prominent Cambodian backer of the Communist Khmer Rouge organization which won the five-year war April 17, 1975, Sihanouk has seen his own prophecy fulfilled.
 "I think that in the end, (the Khmer Rouge) want to take power and wipe out the Sihanoukists," he told a UPI reporter team in Peking in September of 1972.
Muted triumph
 Sihanouk, 54, returned to Cambodia in muted triumph a few months after the war ended, mingling briefly with a few of "my children," as he called the Cambodian people, in his role as head of state.

 He moved into the fairy tale-like royal palace in Phnom Penh for less than six months. There, he was totally isolated from the government and from his children.
 Around Cambodia, the Khmer Rouge was conducting the worst phase of its genocide against huge segments of the population, and many of Sihanouk's longtime supporters fled the country in horror.
Stayed away
 But the ex-king stayed on in Cambodia, apparently voluntarily, while elections were staged and a new government was planned.
 On April 3, a statement said to have been written by Sihanouk was read over Radio Phnom Penh. Sihanouk had resigned, and the government had accepted his resignation.

 Deputy Prime Minister (soon to be president) Khieu Samphan said Sihanouk would receive a $2,000 yearly pension, the only hint of what his future would hold.
 Since then, unconfirmed reports from Peking and Paris said Sihanouk was continuing to live at the palace; that he had been moved to the suburb of Takman to the villa of a former general; that he had shaved his head like a monk; that he was in a work camp for royal family members; and that he had been killed.
News hard to come by
 News from Cambodia being hard to come by and even then suspect, no one outside the country and few in Phnom Penh actually know the fate of Sihanouk and his wife.
 Informants in Peking have said to the prince is being returned to the sender, but there also is no indication any mail to Cambodia is actually delivered.

 Cambodia has no mail service, no newspapers, no communication with the outside world except for Radio Phnom Penh and four planes a month — two from Hanoi and two from Peking.
 Optimists once believed Sihanouk likely would be a roving ambassador for the Khmer Rouge following the war, or perhaps a sort of official greeter in Phnom Penh.
 He is neither. Whether by force or by choice, he is in Cambodia and most probably will remain there for the rest of his life.
 Once he was needed for his international following, his influence with the Chinese arms suppliers and his leadership of the peasants.
 But as he said more than four years ago, the Khmer Rouge no longer need Sihanouk. Now he is a nonperson.

One way to beat bad air

By FRANK E. GRIFFIS
 AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Homeowners of the future may drive submarines and wear aqualungs and flippers and live in undersea cottages if research conducted by a University of Texas architect is successful.

Wolf Hilbertz, associate professor of architecture, is developing technology for producing materials to build undersea homes and storage areas for humans.
 Scientists mainly employ land-based technology to build marine structures, but Hilbertz uses processes similar to those of lower marine organisms, which utilize the energy and materials surrounding them to build their protective formations. He literally "grows" building materials as do shellfish or corals.

In the process, minerals are deposited on the surface of electrically charged submerged metal forms, such as wire mesh.
 The electrical current sets off a chemical reaction that causes the minerals to adhere to the wire and eventually completely cover the mesh.

"In the past there have been proposals by many architects and planners to expand growing cities into the sea, for example, for Tokyo Bay," Hilbertz said.

"All these approaches have been derived from land-based technologies which are improper and uneconomical.
 The deposit of calcium carbonate created around the wire mesh is as solid as lightweight concrete, according to Hilbertz. Hilbertz plans to use computers to "custom tailor" the material and to balance and operate the system, which operates inexpensively using "chicken wire" or wire mesh and low D.C. current.

A computer could regulate the flow of electricity to determine the porosity of the material and could create a layer of very porous insulating material on the inside of the walls.

Some of the early experiments have been used successfully as artificial reefs and he hopes the structures soon may be used for underwater storage facilities.

"It doesn't appear that the electrical current has any effect on sealife in the area," he said.

"I think you will see habitable, underwater structures — perhaps even commercial development — in 10 years," he said.

AMC agrees to settle big claim

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Corp. has agreed to a $1.1 million out-of-court settlement in a California lawsuit that charged AMC with failing to meet emission control standards.

AMC officials announced the agreement, saying it "resolves all open issues" in a $4.3 million suit filed in Los Angeles last September by the California Air Resources Board.
 The nation's No. 4 auto firm agreed to pay the $1.1 million over a five-year period. In return, the California board will drop the suit, AMC said.

The wishful elephant

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is a word for people who indulge in wishful thinking in politics. Losers. Also, it seems, Republicans.
 Republicans say a majority of Americans subscribe to the basic principles of their party. They point to poll after poll showing that most Americans consider themselves to be conservative or moderates leaning toward conservatism.
 And they conclude: "We've got the people on our side. Now all we need is the candidates." Or the organization. Or the campaign funds. Or the public relations.
 The Republicans have been kidding themselves. Even when they have had attractive candidates, efficient campaign organizations, abundant funds and friendly public-ty, they continue to lose elections. They obviously don't have the people.

 The record is this: The Congress has been controlled by Democrats with only two brief exceptions for more than 40 years. Democrats have won seven of the last 11 presidential elections. More than two-thirds of the governors now are Democrats. Democrats control both houses of the legislature in 36 states.
 Republican wishful thinking stems from the general theory that the GOP is the political home of conservatives in this country. Just as the Democrats tend to take liberal support for granted, the Republicans assume they are going to get the votes of people on the ideological right.

It is in this regard that Republicans, especially in the heat of campaigns, often make problems for themselves. They let themselves be pictured as hostile to everyone themselves "independents" and they vote for Democrats who seem to be in the middle of the road.
Why has GOP failed?
 Why have the Republicans failed to win these votes? Their own research in the past three years tells them some of the answers. GOP polls show that the party has a "country club" image, the reputation of representing people who "have it made."
 But much of the "conservative majority" the GOP feels should support it does not fit that image. It is the wage earning middle class, blue collar as well as white, believers in the idea that people must work to survive. These people dislike those who would rather live off the labor of others than work themselves. But that includes the idle rich as well as welfare chiselers. And they often know, from bitter experience or close personal observation, that not everyone who is out of work or collecting welfare is lazy and dishonest.

When Republican orators denounce welfare cheating, they seldom stress that the majority of people on public assistance are truly in need and unable to provide for themselves. George Wallace almost always made that distinction, but it is hard to recall a Republican politician who has done so recently.
 But when Republicans talk about consumer protection, they usually focus on the majority of businesses that sell safe products, give honest service and do not lie in their advertising. This often is followed by dire warnings against crippling regulation of business, and suggestions that Americans are smart enough to protect themselves in the marketplace.
 These two examples are generalizations, but they occur often enough to make ammunition for Democrats against Republicans. They do not explain all the reasons the Republicans are losing, but they illustrate at least one area in which the GOP hurts itself.

Soviet buildup nearly complete

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Globe reported Monday a National Security Council study on a military buildup by the Soviet Union will be ready by the time President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

"We're not sure how much impact this will have on the Carter team," one of those taking part in the study told the Globe. "But it'll certainly get their attention."

"Well-placed sources say the study, the first comprehensive report reviewed since the early days of the first (Richard) Nixon administration, questions the basic assumptions underlying America's nuclear and non-nuclear forces structure and the implications of Russia's massive buildup of strategic and tactical forces over the last several years," reported William Beecher of the Globe Washington Bureau.

"One of the major changes in perception since the 1969 study is that the Soviet Union now appears to be aiming at strategic superiority over the United States," the article related. "The earlier precept was that the Soviets were merely seeking to draw abreast of commanding American power, particularly, in long-range missiles."
 Beecher said the study was launched two months ago and originally was to be completed next summer. He said the deadline was advanced to Dec. 1 for two reasons.
 "One was Carter's election and the (Gerald) Ford administration's desire to influence his judgments in these important areas. The other was the wish to reflect the new thinking in drawing up the last Ford defense budget, due to go to Congress early this year."

Regulatory ability doubted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two congressmen question whether the Federal Communications Commission and the Internal Revenue Service are able to effectively regulate the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Reps. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., and Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, have released copies of letters to FCC Chairman Richard E. Wiley and IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander. They said published reports and subcommittee hearings have raised questions about federal ability to oversee the corporate giant.
 "A common thread running through these questions is whether the federal government, specifically the FCC and the IRS, has sufficient resources to monitor AT&T's activities and to audit telephone company income tax returns," they said.

A telephone company spokesman said AT&T was "delighted" to have the questions raised publicly. He said the "tax returns are prepared and filed in strict compliance with what the tax laws say to do in the way it says to do it."

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Area gentry turned out in force at the Silver Ball, sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Manchester Memorial Hospital, Saturday night at the Colony in Talcottville.

Looking her usual, attractive self was Lil Hunter (Mrs. Jack) who greeted guests in a dark brown chiffon gown with a black drape. Lil served as one of the chairmen for the annual benefit.

Also on hand to enjoy the festivities were Robert and Gloria Weiss (he's the town manager), and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder.

Vivian Ferguson wearing a dark brown sheath with printed chiffon scarf and her husband, Tom, chatted with friends as they listened to the music of the Bobby Kaye orchestra. Viv is responsible for much of the success of the MMH's Gift Shop which donates sizable amounts of money each year to the hospital.

Wearing a black and white print gown, Anita Murphy blushed hopped exchanging well wishes with good friends.

Carol Bolin looked chic in a brown and white gown and Liz Barnes of Vernon breezed by comfortably in an aqua gown fashioned with full, long sleeves.

Saw the mayor, Matthew Moriarty Jr., for a few minutes, and blonde and slim, Nancy LaBonne and her husband Ted. Nancy twirled on the dance floor wearing a white jersey gown with shoe-string straps and seemed to enjoy every beat of the music.

Mark Kravitz of The Colony mingled with guests and helped direct them to their respective tables.

The buffet served at midnight was sumptuous with thick slices of baked ham, scrambled eggs, home fried potatoes, etc.

The music by Bobby Kaye was outstanding. His rendition of music of the 40s along with contemporary tunes pleased a diversified crowd.

To quote a favorite tune "I Could Have Danced All Night" and I almost did.

Sugarplums

If your weekend schedule isn't too crowded, I heard through the old grapevine that the Sugarplum Factory in Rocky Hill will have more than its share of beautiful Christmas decorations.

Located at 245 Annes Ct., the Sugarplum Factory is only open three days, Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

No women's libber

I don't know about you, but I'm getting tired of hearing about women's lib. I never knew that I wasn't liberated.

But, now with Ms. and chairperson instead of chairman, etc. I think we're carrying it too far.

Imagine, instead of saying "Go out to the mailbox and see if the mailman left any mail," we may have to say "Go out to the person box and see if the person letter left any mail."

And at college, oh well, that's really going to change. We have seniors, juniors, and sophomores—but do we have to have fresh person instead of freshman?

FDA proposes warning labels on aerosol spray containers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration today proposed putting warning labels on an estimated 1 billion aerosol spray cans to tell consumers they contain fluorocarbon gas which may harm public health and the environment.

The warning label is an interim step designed to take effect until the FDA eventually places a ban on all nonessential uses of fluorocarbons in food, drug and cosmetic products.

The labels would read:

"Warning: Contains a chlorofluorocarbon that may harm the public health and environment by reducing ozone in the upper atmosphere."

The purpose of this warning is to encourage self-restraint by consumers in purchasing aerosol products containing chlorofluorocarbons and to encourage them to seek alternative products," said FDA Commissioner Alexander Schmidt.

"Our goal is to reduce the use of chlorofluorocarbons in aerosols until they are phased out."

The agency cited the controversy over the impact of the gas on the earth's protective ozone layer as the reason for its moves.

"This action is unique and should represent the first of a worldwide series of actions by all nations to limit the release of chlorofluorocarbons into the atmosphere," he added.

The warning labels would be required 30 days after the FDA issues a final regulation on the matter—thus the effective date is uncertain.

Green Rd. zone change request denied by PZC

The Planning and Zoning Commission Monday denied a zone change requested for a vacant store in the center, and the owners have been approached by three different people who are interested in using the vacant slot for a full-service pharmacy, which would include the sale of alcohol and prescription drugs.

The sale of alcohol is not permitted under Business I zoning.

But three of the commission members — David Paris, Ronald Gates, and Leo Kwash — did not feel that this was adequate reason to permit the change to Business II zoning, which would have permitted the sale of alcohol at the store.

Paris said that several other uses not permitted in a Business I zone would be allowed in a Business II zone.

"Their only argument for changing is to permit the liquor sales. I don't think that's adequate to permit the

William Palmer of Manchester was elected treasurer of the Connecticut State Parent-Teacher Association at the organization's annual convention and meeting held recently at the Ramada Inn in West Haven.

Mae Schimide of Newtown succeeded Barbara Kenny of Hartford as president of the group.

Among the resolutions passed at the convention was one from the Manchester PTA Council concerning support of the Dinosaur Park in Rocky Hill.

Other resolutions passed included upgrading the requirements for reading teachers on the elementary and secondary level submitted by the Trumbull delegation, supporting the enactment of uniform traffic safety regulations for ice cream and other mobile food vendors as submitted by the Naugatuck Council as a result of a recent death, and supporting photo identifications on drivers' licenses in an effort to prevent the exchange of licenses for identification at places that dispense alcoholic beverages.

Newington strike is over

NEWINGTON (UPI) — About 300 workers were expected to return to their jobs today at two Dunham-Bush Inc. plants closed by a three-week strike during which a union member was killed.

Members of the Capitol City Lodge 354 of the International Association of Machinists Monday accepted a new three-year pact by a vote of 159-49, according to Jack Ferreria, union business representative.

Ferreria said the new agreement will provide an average wage and fringe benefit increase of $1.30 an hour, bringing typical benefits to about $5.50 an hour in three years.

It was the first strike in the history of the manufacturer of industrial air conditioning and refrigeration units, which has plants in Newington and West Hartford.

On Nov. 5, George DiGrove, 42, of Manchester, was run over by a company truck driven by a foreman at the firm's Newington warehouse.

Authorities said the truck's brake lines had been cut but have been unable to identify the person responsible. The company has offered a $4,000 reward for information leading to an arrest and conviction in the incident.

Politics Pearson

Elsie Swenson, vice-chairwoman of the Republican Town Committee, has received a personal letter from President Gerald R. Ford.

Mrs. Swenson wrote to Ford shortly before the election to tell him how hard local residents worked for his re-election.

In a letter dated Nov. 15, Ford replied to Mrs. Swenson: "Your kind message is deeply appreciated."

Hannon realized he did not have enough votes from his constituents, he nominated Strada for another term in the post.

"I can't stand by and be a critic without offering an alternative," he said.

Mrs. Yacavone, who represents the Ninth Assembly District, was elected by fellow House members as majority whip.

But not enough for tax relief

State's economic health good

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature's chief tax expert says the outlook for the state's economic health is good, but not enough at this point to insure needed business tax relief.

Sen. Audrey Beck, D-Manfield, Monday said a projected $40 million surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1977, plus an additional $34.7 million surplus for the year ending June 30, 1978 portended well for 1977-78.

State officials had feared problems for that bookkeeping year because of the absence of $62.5 million in one-time only revenues used to balance the previous budget that has to be made up elsewhere.

Officials decided to use the one-time only revenue last year as a priority item, Mrs. Beck said the surplus wasn't large enough to guarantee it.

"These are not exceptionally high figures. We don't have a generous amount of money for tax reductions," she said, saying talk of relief for economically ailing businesses is "premature."

Connecticut has a $1.8 billion budget. "These figures indicate the basic tax structure is not significantly changing. It is only a modest recovery picture at best," she said.

Connecticut has trailed national recovery from the recession and only a year ago Mrs. Grasso projected an $80 million budget deficit for the last fiscal year.

Mrs. Beck said the $40 million surplus for the current year, similar to the figure projected by administration officials, was a result of increased revenue estimates, federal money and the unspent part of the previous year's budget.

Due mostly to gambling she said a projected $16.2 million increase was due mostly to higher revenue from legalized gambling and money from a federal public works job program.

She said an additional $19.2 million in unspent budget allocation by various departments was also expected.

Additionally, there is $5 million the legislature set aside to pay for an anticipated deficit in the previous fiscal year that never materialized.

Connecticut has a $1.8 billion budget. "These figures indicate the basic tax structure is not significantly changing. It is only a modest recovery picture at best," she said.

Connecticut has trailed national recovery from the recession and only a year ago Mrs. Grasso projected an $80 million budget deficit for the last fiscal year.

Biebel sees disaster if GOP factions fight

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut Republican Chairman Frederick K. Biebel predicts disaster if the GOP's conservative and moderate wings fight over the national chairmanship.

Mary Louise Smith, first woman to head the Republican National Committee, Monday said she would step down from her post in January. Her announcement confirmed longstanding speculation. It was thought the vacancy might ignite a bitter power struggle between party liberals and conservatives for control of the GOP's national apparatus, reminiscent of the battle for the presidential nomination this summer.

Thanksgiving CENTERPIECE SPECIAL from Flower Fashion

Biebel backed President Ford in his nip-and-tuck fight with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan this summer for the presidential nomination and became one of his dozen floor leaders at the convention.

He delivered all 35 of Connecticut's national convention votes to Ford and his tactics caused hard feeling among many Reagan backers.

"I would hope that it would be a compromise candidate. It would be disastrous if the Ford people ran all over the Reagan people and it would be just as disastrous if the Reagan people try to power play to take over the chairmanship," he said.

Biebel said he did not see any clear favorite for the job, but mentioned former Texas Gov. John Connolly, Tennessee Sen. William Brock and former chairman and currently CIA Director George Bush.

Reilly trial decision may come Wednesday

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — Peter A. Reilly may learn Wednesday whether he will go on trial a second time for the 1973 slaying death of his mother, Mrs. Barbara Gibbons.

Reilly, 21, said Monday night he was ordered to appear in court by State's Attorney Dennis A. Santore but did not know the reason.

"I have no idea what it's for. I'm hoping, but I expect the worst. That's the way I am," Reilly said.

Santore would not comment nor would Reilly's lawyer, T.F. Gilroy Daly of Fairfield.

Reilly had been charged with murder but was convicted of first degree manslaughter in 1974. He was sentenced to six to 16 years in prison but was freed on $60,000 bond while appealing.

He won a new trial last March. Superior Court Judge John A. Spetziale ruled the youth should be granted a new trial based on new evidence presented by Daly. The judge said Reilly's conviction was a "grave injustice" and a new trial was likely to result in a different decision.

Two face gambling charges

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Two men were arrested in Bridgeport late Monday and 68,000 football pool tickets were confiscated by Connecticut organized crime investigators.

Dayhill A. Donofrio, 22, of Stratford and Nicholas Bickey, 29, of Bridgeport were arrested at separate locations and charged with professional gambling. Bond was set at $10,000 for Donofrio and $1,000 for Bickey.

Police said Donofrio also was charged with reckless driving because he tried to evade capture during a 12-block chase.

A spokesman for the investigators said the tickets were illegal pool betting slips for upcoming professional and college games.

The spokesman said the arrests were part of a continuing investigation by the Connecticut Statewide Organized Crime Investigative Task Force.

Two bodies identified

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Two bodies found in a Wethersfield apartment last week were identified tentatively Monday but the cause of death still eluded investigators.

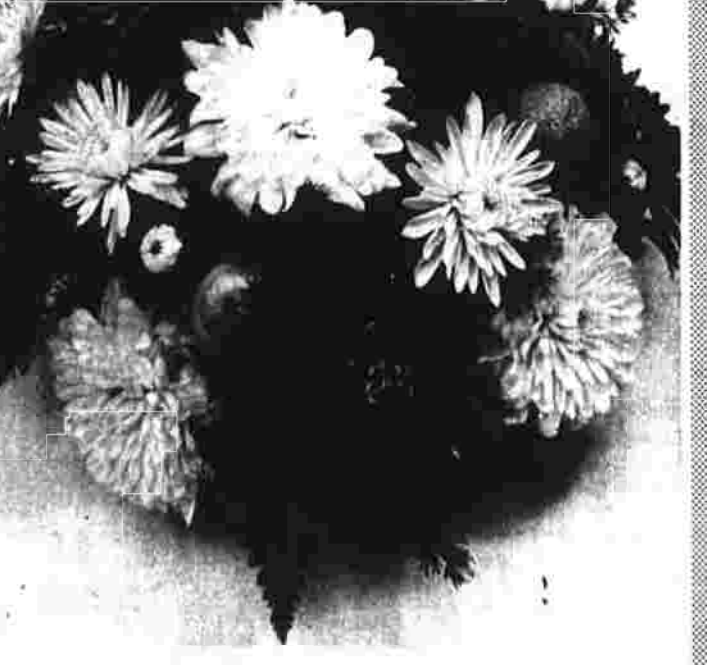

Police said the bodies found in the Clearview Garden Apartments were believed to be those of Gilbert Kuneman, 43, and his wife, Margaret, 51.

Chief Medical Examiner Elliot M. Gross said the cause of death was unknown but there was nothing apparently suspicious about the deaths. Police said they found no apparent foul play.

Medical costs pinpoints in study

CHICAGO (UPI) — Physicians answering an American Medical Association survey say it costs more to provide health care Monday because of general inflation, increased costs of malpractice insurance and higher wages and benefits for employees.

The survey, published in the Nov. 22 issue of American Medical News, indicates that doctors also believe government programs and new technology are adding to the cost push.

The report says 44 per cent of the doctors responding to the poll say their overhead costs have increased between 20 and 50 per cent in the past three years.

Respondents said the single most important factor in malpractice insurance and the biggest cost-cutting move for any physician would be to get premiums or claims reduced.

The CNG Conservationists recommend... the A.O. Smith Conservationist Water Heater

Because natural gas is the cleanest, most environmentally desirable, and most efficient energy source, we call our CNG Natural Energy Consultants "Conservationists." Because it "The Conservationist" conserves natural energy and can cost up to 23% less to operate than older models, CNG's Conservationists are recommending A.O. Smith's Conservationist.
When you replace your water heater with an A.O. Smith Conservationist, you'll be using less energy because the Conservationist applies more of the gas that's burned to actually heating the water. And, the Conservationist has higher-efficiency insulation, a flue design that conserves even more energy, and a glass-lined tank that holds its heat and that's covered by a 10-year manufacturer's warranty.

Industrial road plan rejected in Coventry

By LINDA LOVERING
Herald Correspondent

A motion to reconsider the controversial federal grant application for a road in the Coventry Industrial Park failed at Monday night's Town Council meeting.

Councilman Douglas Whipple moved for reconsideration of the plan, which was tabled last week, but his motion wasn't seconded.

The expiration date for filing the application under the federal Public Works Employment Act is this Friday.

James Ladd, president of the Coventry Development Corp. (CDC) said, "The Council refused to remove from table this application. It is a shame that these funds will be sent to some other Eastern Connecticut town because this council was short-sighted."

Ladd also said "The council's indifference to the economic welfare of this town should be questioned in light of an election on a plank of economic development."

Whipple said, "In my opinion this council was elected largely due to its promise to the people to encourage economic growth. The Coventry Development Corp. faces competition from industrial parks in nearby towns, which have had municipal, state or federal assistance to attract new business. Coventry is faced not only with attracting new business, but with keeping what it already has. The least we, as a council, can do is provide municipal assistance."

Town Manager Frank Connolly

"We did our homework on the grant application and presented it. The council authorized our work four weeks ago.

When asked how he felt about the tabling action, he said, "I would have liked more of an explanation."

Councilman Jack Myles said, "In principal I am not against the town supporting economic development. I felt that all of the arrangements for work with a private corporation were not explored."

Myles said that when the council met with Leonard Benjamin, acting chairman of the Economic Development Commission, the council had asked Benjamin to look into the Wallingford industrial park. Myles said this research was never done.

Dorothy Wilnot, a concerned citizen, said, "I believe in industry, but these are small businesses."

(Mrs. Wilnot was speaking at the industrial park.)

"The town should develop a whole area like Manchester, but we can't afford it," Mrs. Wilnot said. Her biggest concern about the issue was economic growth for private industry, she said.

Correction

James Ladd, president of the Coventry Development Corp., said Monday night there were never any recommendations included in the corporation members who held stock in the corporation.

Last week Ladd reported that some PZC members had an interest in the town which it was established.

Coventry council airs several spending items

The Coventry Town Council discussed several budget items in a special meeting Monday night. A total of $28,855 from revenue sharing funds will be the subject of a December town meeting.

The council voted to present the following proposed expenditures for town meeting approval: Zoning Board of Appeals, $100; Planning and Zoning Commission, $125; Sewer Authority, $75; Town Manager, $71; Town Hall Maintenance, $1,400; Town Clerk, $752; Tax Collector, $700; Tax Assessor, $100; Building Officer, $150; Police Department, $5,750; Civil Preparedness, $600; Town Garage, $1,046. The total is $11,510.

The council also voted to recommend $2,500 for the South Coventry Fire Department and $3,000 for the North Coventry Fire Department.

A total of $14,000 is recommended for the Board of Education. Of the total, $12,500 is for a portable classroom for Capt. Nathan Hale School and $2,000 is for band uniforms. The school board had asked for a total of $22,000. The band uniforms were requested by petitions for 18 residents.

The council voted to recommend spending $8,000 for the Town Clerk's office for an on-going computer service program.

Other recommendations included $500 for the Booth Dimock Library and $125 for the Public Health Nursing Association.

If the money is spent as recommended, there will be $450 in revenue sharing funds left over.

The council also discussed possible uses for a total of $192,700 in unappropriated cash surplus, another matter to be considered at the town meeting.

Items discussed for presentation to townspeople included: Board of Education medical insurance, $14,176; athletic insurance, $1,010; special education, $7,000; and special education tuition, $15,316. Fifty-five per cent of the special education items will be reimbursed by the state.

Other items: $12,500 toward the Cumis property debt; $2,708 for Town Hall needs; $9,000 for the highway sign program (with a 50 per cent reimbursement); $4,180 for increased Blue Cross insurance rates for town employees.

The council voted to hold another special meeting Nov. 29 to ratify actions taken Monday night. At that time, the council will set a date for the special town meeting, which must be before Dec. 15.

"I humbly request that better attention be given to the calendar in the selectmen's office and the door to the town hall be unlocked as required for scheduled meetings."

Bolton selectmen received that request in a letter from Ivi Cannon, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee.

Ms. Cannon said when the committee members arrived at the town hall Friday for their regularly scheduled meeting the door was locked.

Schools use levels system lowest and Level 3 the highest. Those deemed not ready for regular kindergarten are recommended for pre-school classes.

Where there is a question about level the principal of the school determines it. Changes are made in level placements during the year.

This year 141 boys and 155 girls were started on Level 2. The others were divided as follows: Level 1, 77 and 55; Level 1 or 2, 23 and 28; Level 2 or 3, 3 and 8; Level 3, 6 and 2; and pre-school, 11 and 4.

To date 18 children have been moved from one level to another. The number of children with possible special learning problems is: Motor coordination, 11; all areas, 15; speech, hearing and language, 17.

Schwartz said the school system realizes it is impossible to meet the individual needs of all children. He said the levels approach allows meeting many of the needs.

"The guiding precept of the levels system is to give the child work he is capable of doing, building skills in

Vernon funds student trip

Although the Vernon Board of Education hasn't funded student trips in the past, it voted Monday night to spend $15 for participation in a "Model Congress" in Massachusetts.

The request was made by James Norwood of the Rockville High School social studies department. He asked that the money be transferred from the school's teaching supplies account to the social studies-teacher travel account.

The money will pay $12.50 each for the registration fees of four students and $7.25 for one adviser, $73.75 for meals for three days, and $4.80 for travel expenses. The lodging for two nights will be provided by American International College, Springfield, where the Congress will take place.

John Leary, a June graduate of Rockville High School who participated in the Congress, said he was awarded an $8,000 four-year scholarship on the basis of leadership and skills displayed during the Congress.

The motion to approve the appropriation was made by Robert Dubeau and the dissenting vote was cast by Daniel Woolwich.

Woolwich expressed fear that it might set a precedent. He said the board doesn't fund student trips as a rule. He said usually the students raise their own funds.

Dubeau said, "I think everything we can do to encourage this type of thing should be done."

Gardner enters pleas of 'guilty'

Vernon

Carroll Gardner, 32, of 23 Brooklyn St., Rockville, pleaded guilty to several charges in Tolland County Superior Court Monday. He is scheduled for sentencing Jan. 4.

He pleaded guilty to third-degree arson, first-degree larceny, and three counts of second-degree larceny, stemming from the alleged receipt of stolen goods. State's Atty. General Carl E. Larson said he doesn't plan to prosecute 13 other burglary and larceny charges when Gardner is sentenced.

Atty. John Jessup and Atty. David Rosen, representing Gardner, were to have argued 30 defense motions, but these were dropped after plea bargaining.

A number of newspapers and radio and television stations were issued subpoenas to appear in court because Gardner's attorneys claimed pretrial publicity could have affected potential jurors. They had filed a motion for a change of venue it wasn't argued.

The arson charge stems from a 1974 incident in which Gardner allegedly paid a former Wetherfield man to set fire to a building he owned on Brooklyn St. The man, Carl E. Larson, is now serving a prison term in connection with the arson and several burglary and larceny charges.

Hebron officials check on one phone exchange

First Selectman Aaron Reid has told Fire Chief William Bost he will investigate the possibility of a single telephone exchange for Hebron residents.

Bost said the town currently has three exchanges: Columbia, Manchester and Colchester. He said this causes problems for police and fire responses.

Bost also presented new and larger "lot finder" stickers. The stickers should be placed in residents' homes on windows of children's bedrooms.

The stickers will be available at the Town Office Building and through the Welcome Wagon. The Burrill Mutual Savings Bank has made them available to the town at no cost.

Housing rehab office curtails its programs

Vernon

The Town of Vernon's Housing Rehabilitation office, which offers financial assistance to homeowners improving their homes, will curtail its program over the winter months.

The final date for accepting applications will be Nov. 30. Mayor Thomas Benoit said the program is being halted because of difficulties in completing exterior work in cold weather.

He said the program will resume in the early spring. The interim period will be used by the Planning Department to complete new grant applications under the federal Community Development Act and to do a comprehensive housing study.

The rehabilitation office began taking applications in early August and has provided assistance to 23 homeowners. The amount of money involved is about $45,000 of the $150,000 Community Development Program grant received by the town.

Notes off the cuff

Not totally expected was the firing of Larry Naviaux as head football coach at the University of Connecticut. John Toner, director of athletics, didn't waste any time sacking the same man who was toasted three seasons ago for guiding his Huskies to an 8-2-1 record. One wonders how Toner would have fared handling the UConn this fall. He coached the squad five seasons, 1966 thru 1970 with two winning and one 500 records... Good to know that this department has received some support from the public in an attempt to find out why certain sub-par conditions exist in the athletic department at Manchester High. With only a few hours notice, a handful of interested adults met with the Board of Education last night. By now the board must be aware of the situation and that it's not a one or two-man crusade to improve the situation. Taxpayers are not getting their full dollar's worth at present. Buddy Amendola, one of UConn's finest all-around football players, has to be one of the prime candidates to succeed Larry Naviaux at the University of Connecticut. Now an assistant at Yale, and apparently happy, Amendola was one of the top candidates before Naviaux arrived four years ago at Storrs. Another choice could be Andy Baylock, current freshman mentor, one of the most gifted coaches on any level in the business. UConn is fortunate to have a man of Baylock's caliber on its staff. The former East Catholic High coach knows game the game from A to Z and has a way conveying it to young men. Rick Ley, team captain, is the only member of the New England Whalers who plays hockey without a helmet. Next home start for the Whalers will be Saturday night against Minnesota, a team they let get off the hook last Saturday night and had to settle for a 3-3 tie. One wild rumor has Harry Neale getting the pink slip and going back to handle the Minnesota team. Neale is currently the Whalers' mentor.

Dolphins miss PAT try, Colts triumph 17-16

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Dolphins center Jim Langer snapped, "I blew it."
Baltimore Colts tackle Mike Barnes said, "I blocked it with my right thumb."
Miami kicker Garo Yepremian said, "I should have made it."
And place-kick holder Earl Morrall said, "Ninety-nine times out of a hundred we would have made it."
They all were talking about an unsuccessful Miami extra-point try with 12 seconds left in the nationally televised Monday night football game that gave the Colts a 17-16 win over Miami and all but wrapped up the AFC Eastern Division title.
To win the division all the Colts have to do is win their remaining two home games against the New York Jets and Buffalo Bills.
Although a loss at St. Louis in two weeks and three straight wins by New England would tie the two teams at 11-3, the Colts would win the championship because of their 7-1 record within the division. The Pats would finish at 6-2.
The play that won it for Baltimore came after a last-minute Dolphin rally that saw Miami quarterback Bob Griese, with his team down 17-10, hit rookie Durie Harris for a 41-yard completion to the Colt three in the last minute.
One play later, Benny Malone dove over the goal line from three yards out, making 11-17-16 Baltimore, and it looked like overtime.
But down the hall in the Dolphin locker room, Miami Coach Don Shula was down.
Shula, ordered off the field for protesting an offside call against the Dolphins on their last kickoff after they had recovered the onside kick for decent field position and a possible field goal try, was unusually quiet.

There was some doubt whether the ball would have made it through the uprights if Barnes hadn't gotten his thumb on it, but in the Colt locker room all the credit was going to the former University of Miami star.
"I didn't play a very good game," he said. "I plan to look at the films tomorrow and make a report to the league office."
Baltimore had built a 14-10 halftime lead on a six-yard touchdown by Lydell Mitchell and a 28-yard Bart Jones-to-Raymond Chester pass. Miami's first-half scores were on a 20-yard Bob Griese pass to Jim Mandich and a 20-yard Yepremian field goal.
After a scoreless third quarter, Baltimore added a 27-yard Toni Linhart field goal in the fourth period and then came the Miami rally that fell one point short.
Mitchell passed the 1,000 yard mark for the second straight year in the third quarter and wound up the game with 80 yards on 20 carries for a 1976 total of 1,019.

Tiant talks to attorney

BOSTON (UPI) — Sports attorney Bob Woolf wants to discuss pitcher Luis Tiant's contract with the Boston Red Sox. The Boston Herald American reported today.
"There's a discrepancy in Luis' contract that he feels should be corrected," Woolf told columnist Tim Horgan. "And I'm sure it will be when we sit down and talk with the Red Sox."
Tiant held out at the start of spring training this year until the Red Sox agreed to renegotiate his contract. After the season ended, it was suspected he had a complaint when he refused to exercise his veteran player's exemption from the expansion draft and the Red Sox had to put him on its list of protected players to keep any of the new clubs from taking him.
Woolf said Tiant and Carl Yastrzemski "deserve to be the highest paid players on the team," but others might be making more than them when bonuses are taken into account. There was no indication Yastrzemski was seeking to renegotiate his contract.
John Claiborne, assistant general manager of the Red Sox, said of Tiant, "as far as we're concerned, he has a signed contract and we expect him to honor it."

1,091 entries for Road Race

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Entry list, as expected, passed the 1,000 mark for the 40th Five Mile Road Race Thanksgiving morning.
Cutoff point was last weekend, with all signed entries postmarked no later than Nov. 17 being accepted.

Will Hadden, general chairman for the sponsoring Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, reports 1,091 official entries have been processed. In addition, as many as 100 unregistered runners will be at the line for the 10:30 start Thursday. Unregistered runners will not wear any number and will be ineligible for prizes.
No. 1 will be Charlie Robbins, appearing in his 31st Five Mile while No. 1,091 has been assigned David Driscoll.
Last year's entry total was a record 832 and when pouring rain and cold conditions prevailed on race day, many scratched, 739 being accepted and running with 715 finishing. The number of starters and finishers were both records.
All eyes will be focused on Amby Barfoot, the defending champion and course record holder, and John Vitale. The pair has engaged in some great heat-to-head duels over the past eight years, Barfoot winning seven times, Vitale once with the latter also second best on three other occasions. Both are national figures.
One of the most promising young runners who will bear watching is Jody Weatherwax, a youngster who got his start running in junior high here. During his high school career at Hartford Public High he was sensational in both track and cross-country and is coming off a fine college cross-country season.
The race starts at 10:30 on the lower end of Main Street, opposite School. This is also the finishing point.
Proceeds are earmarked for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund of the Tall Cedars.

Dr. J may cure ailing Celtics

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics could find out exactly what ails them tonight when they have their first appointment with the "Doctor" in Philadelphia.
The Celtics, going into their seventh game without vacationing Dave Cowens, will play against Julius (Dr. J) Erving for the first time.
In addition to stopping Erving, Cowens also must hold down his scoring George McGinnis and guard Doug Collins.
The three Philadelphia hot-shots combined for 81 points last Saturday night in the 76ers' win over Atlanta.

Ax lowered on Naviaux, decision 'difficult one'

STORRS (UPI) — University of Connecticut head football coach Larry Naviaux was fired Monday after the Huskies closed their worst season in school history with a 2-9 record.
"I'm not dead. I knew it was going to happen," the Lexington, Neb., native said.
"I was asked for my resignation last week," said Naviaux. "If football has taught me one thing, it has taught me not to quit," he said.
Naviaux said of Toner, "He's got a job to do. He's always done his job." Naviaux said he intends to remain in football but has no immediate plans and will just "look around."
Toner said a search committee would be set up to seek a replacement and the present coaching staff would be kept on to deal with off-season duties.
Naviaux' UConn teams finished a similar pattern to the ones he handled in his four years at BU. After leading them to their best season ever in 1969 with a 9-1 record, the Terriers were unable to come through with a winning season and Naviaux left to succeed Bob Casella at UConn.
A four-year letterman halfback who graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1968, Naviaux served as an assistant coach at his alma mater until 1960. He coached at Southwestern Louisiana until he moved in 1964 to become an assistant at Boston University.

Schoolboy cagers report for drills

Schoolboy basketball practice began officially yesterday with the three local coaches putting candidates through opening drills. Workouts will be a little bit more strenuous than in the past as there are only 15 days before first tap-offs occur.
Manchester High welcomed 31 candidates with third-year coach Doug Pearson expecting a few more once football terminates. The Indians return four lettermen and two starters, John Pisch and Jeff Kieran, off their 1975-76 CCHL championship team which posted an overall 21-3 record. The Silk Towners open their season Dec. 10 at Clarke Arena against Penney High of East Hartford.
East Catholic ninth-year coach Stan Orgodnick put 32 varsity and jayvee hopeful through their paces and reported an early practice saw 35 freshmen try out. The Eagles, runner-up in the tough Hartford County Conference a year ago, have seven lettermen and four starters back from their 1975-76 19-5 club. East opens its slate Dec. 11 with an afternoon contest at Waterford High. Cheney Tech third-year coach Gerry Blanchard had 48 report, including 21 freshmen, to opening drills. The Beavers' return three lettermen and one starter, Tim Martin, off last year's 3-17 club. The Technen tap off their season Dec. 11 at Somers High.

CENTERTVILLE, Mass. (UPI) — University of Connecticut tailback Nick Gagliuto, who set a UConn single-game rushing record of 277 yards against Holy Cross Saturday, was named ECAC player of the week Monday.

Huskies booters

STORRS (UPI) — Two of the three University of Connecticut players named Monday to the All-Valley Conference soccer team are repeaters. Senior captain Paul Hunter was named for the third season and forward Jim Evans was selected for a second time. Evans and junior forward Tom Nevers and Carl Christensen of the University of Vermont were the only three unanimous choices of the seven-coach nominating committee.

Resume slate

FAIRFIELD (UPI) — Fairfield University will resume basketball competition against the University of Bridgeport Nov. 30 after a three-year lapse. Fairfield holds a 36-13 edge in the series that started in 1948. In their last appearance, the Stags defeated Bridgeport 91-62.

Defensive tackle Mike Barnes (63) gets hug from Ron Fernald after he blocked extra point try which gave Baltimore 17-16 win over Miami last night in NFL.

Getting set for invading East Catholic

Coaches' corner

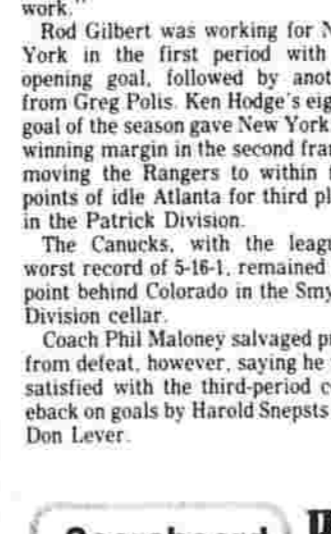

By JOHN LAFONTANA
East Catholic
We seem to have a peculiar habit of showing great generosity towards winless teams.
Bloomfield had lost 16 straight games before they beat us (29-14) last Saturday. A similar occurrence happened in our Thanksgiving game in 1974 with South Catholic. With a 14-game losing streak and the wolves at the door. South upset us, 16-6, and the situation was similar to our game with Bloomfield.
We went into the match too overconfident and our opponents ceased their mistakes, played excellent tough football and before we realized what had happened we were behind 14-0, and were playing catch-up.
We also helped by making some key mistakes on offense and defense.
Ironically, this game was our best effort of the season offensively with a total of 314 yards and this was with only 10 of our 33 plays. But statistics don't count in a football game, only the final score.
I felt the offensive line did another great job providing line holes for our backs and some good downfield blocking.
In light of our performance against Bloomfield, which was very similar to Manchester in its degree of frustration and motivation to accomplish at least one victory, and also based on a personnel matchup, I would have to say that I feel we are a definite underdog in Thursday's game. They have the type of big strong team that can hurt us by controlling the ball and running right at us. If we can stop the Manchester running game we might have a chance to win but our problem all year has been getting the ball away from ball control teams so we could increase the number of plays run and give us more total offense.
I hope we turn the trick Thursday. With all things considered, including the poor records of both of our teams, I think the pride each group of players has in his school will result in the two teams to play their best. I look for an intensely played hard-hitting contest with all the trophies going to the team that hits the hardest over-all.

Pleasant memories for Eagle booters

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor
There will be pleasant memories when East Catholic High reflects upon its 1976 soccer season. They will be thoughts which might lead the Eagles into brighter moments in the future.
As it was noted previously, East went into the '76 season winless for three straight years. But the Eagles won their opener over Bolton, built momentum, and qualified for the CIAC State Tournament. Even a 2-1 first round loss in the tourney to Farmington High which made their final record read 7-1 couldn't suppress the pleasant afterthoughts.
"We knew Farmington was good but that last game leaves a good taste in our mouths for next year. Granted we did play a defensive game but we played with enthusiasm and we went down fighting," commented Coach Tom Malin.
There will be an aura of mystery for the Eagles in '77. They are losing some fine talent in sweeper Bob Legier, the team's MVP, and forwards Jack Neiswanger and Bill Traynor. Who will be coming up as replacements is unsure as East doesn't have a jayvee or freshman program per se. That hurts.
"Without a feeder system I'm not sure what we'll get in '77. I'll be a presidential candidate," I'll have to wait until all the returns are in and see what comes is," Malin cited. He will also be losing graduating Rick Barnes, Tom McCurry and Terry Falcon but does have a "good nucleus coming back."
That returning group includes

Captain lost

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Yvon Labre, team captain of the Washington Capitals, will be lost to the National Hockey League club for at least two weeks with a shoulder separation.
The Capitals said they would call up a minor league player to replace Labre.

Don Nelson named to replace Costello

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Larry Costello, bowing to the pressures of losing in hopes it could help his team become a winner once more, resigned Monday night after coaching the Milwaukee Bucks since their beginning in 1968.

Named as new coach was Don Nelson, who had become an assistant under Costello at the beginning of the National Basketball Association season after a 14-year playing career. At the same news conference Wayne Embry, the first back general manager in the NBA, announced he will resign May 31 for "personal reasons."
In Costello's nine seasons as coach the Bucks had a regular season mark of 410 wins and 294 losses and a playoff record of 37-23, including an NBA title in 1971 behind the play of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.
Last season the Bucks won the Midwest Division title but had a mediocre 38-44 record and there was a behind-the-scenes corporate move to dump Costello. The fans, however, came to his support and he won a two-year contract just a few months ago.
But when the Bucks got off to a horrendous start this year, the pressures started building again. Sunday night in Seattle, after the Bucks dropped their 15th game in 18 outings, Costello made his decision.

to 56-26 the next season because of one thing — winning a coin flip to draft Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.
Then, when Abdul-Jabbar left for Los Angeles two years ago, the Bucks crumbled.
"It's because we never built a team here," Costello said. "It takes time. You've got to have patience."
Nelson, who was with the Boston Celtics for 11 seasons including five in which the Celtics won NBA titles, admitted he was taken by surprise at being named a head coach after only a few months as an assistant.
"I feel that I'm unprepared for the job," he said. "Larry and I went into the season very optimistic and it was a partnership. I should shoulder as much of the blame as Larry."
Nelson said he didn't have a contract with the Bucks because "I didn't want a contract." He said he would try to do his job in hopes the Bucks would like him back next season and he wants to leave himself free if he doesn't like it.
Embry, who played under Costello in the Bucks' first season and came back as an executive in 1970, also was a target of behind-the-scenes fighting last spring.
He said he was resigning at the end of the season because, "I just want to expand on my personal goals."

Illinois fires Blackman, couldn't get to the top

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Illinois Athletic Director Cecil Coleman was searching today for a football coach "who can get us to the top of the Big Ten."
The Illinois athletic board and Coleman decided that Bob Blackman, despite a six-year record of 24-23-1 in Big Ten play and 24-11-1 against the "Little Seven" in the conference couldn't do the job.
"I do feel that I am a forthright and honest person and that it would be a 'phony situation' to submit a resignation, when I know in my heart our coaching staff has done a good job."
"This was done by a small group of people and I have no bitterness. I would lack integrity however if I attempted to tell anyone I was given a 'fair chance' before the board. I was not presented with any type of allegations or charges so I did not really know what I was responding to."
Blackman appeared before the board for the only time in his six years as football coach, on Friday, and made recommendations to the board that in the future regardless of how long their meetings might be, they should listen to coaches to learn about their problems.
"I expected some very deep and penetrating questions on the matters they were concerned about," Blackman said. "There were no questions asked so apparently they were not interested in hearing the other side of whatever problems existed."

Coleman said "recruiting and relations with the players and staff were poor and were a primary consideration in the board's decision not to renew Blackman's contract."
"We will begin a search immediately and I hope to have an announcement by Dec. 3," Coleman said. "I have no preconceived ideas of any particular person. It will be a genuine search for someone we think can get us to the top of the Big Ten."

The decision was reached after "long deliberation," Coleman said. "It was not easy to make, but it has been made." He said he has a list of prospects and has talked to "some of these people," but he would not identify any individuals.
Jack Chambliss, chairman of the athletic board, said Blackman's presentation "had no effect on the ultimate decision," but added the board would discuss some of the questions raised by Blackman's resignation.
"Bob is correct that improvements need to be made," Coleman said.

Soccer outlook bright, MHS JV won 11 of 12

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

That's the storm warning from Manchester High's 11-1 jayvee soccer team to those returning members of the varsity. "There will be competition for jobs like you've never seen," envisioned jayvee coach Bill McCarthy who just completed his fourth year at the helm.

The young Indians with a well-distributed offense tallied 30 goals while the defense allowed just three. "There were not many hard shots on goal in 12 games," McCarthy offered. Sophomores Joey Lovell and Tom Roach, at inside and right wing respectively, each had six goals with second-line sophomores inside Joe Foran right behind with four scores.

Scott Flemke, left, East Hartford High, and Mark Anderson, Penney High, shake hands before annual crosstown freshmen football game last week. Penney won, 28-0. Flemke and Anderson were captains of the Elks, East Hartford's midlevel league champs in 1975. Another 1975 Elks captain, Dan Tully, is a member of the East Catholic freshman team.

Pats need help in linebacking

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI)—The New England Patriots will sew together a patchwork linebacking corps for next Sunday's important contest against the Denver Broncos.

Jim Romaniszyn, who started at left inside linebacker last Sunday in place of injured Steve Nelson, will be sidelined at least one week with a partially separated right shoulder.

In making the announcement Monday, coach Chuck Fairbanks said veteran George Webster will start at right inside linebacker while Sam Hunt will shift from the right inside spot to left inside.

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound Romaniszyn, signed this summer as a free agent after playing two seasons with Cleveland, was hurt in the first quarter of Sunday's 38-24 win over the Jets but stayed in the game. Coach Chuck Fairbanks said the injury "possibly could idle Jim for two weeks."

Romaniszyn had been captain of the special teams until being reassigned to linebacker. Nelson, who suffered a dislocated right kneecap Nov. 14 against Baltimore, will be out at least another week. He will have a cast removed next Monday.

Offensively, the Patriots should get two starters back. Fullback Sam Cunningham (sprained shoulder) and tight end Russ Francis (pulled hamstring) are probable participants against Denver, which must be the Patriots to keep hope alive for a "Wild Card" playoff berth.

Don Calhoun, Cunningham's replacement, earned his second straight game ball from Fairbanks for a 109-yard effort against the Jets. In the past two games, Calhoun has gained 250 yards.

Among the other 11 persons receiving game balls were the entire secondary and defensive backfield coach Larry Weaver. Rookie Mike Haynes had three interceptions. Practice McCray (two for touchdowns) and Tim Fox and Bob Howard one apiece.

Fairbanks also gave a game ball to linebacker Steve Zabel for playing some of his best games since he has been a Patriot. Other footballs were awarded to special teams member Jess Phillips, center-eight and Pete Brock, offensive linemen John Hannah and Leon Gray and nose tackle Richard Bishop.

The Patriots gained 154 yards on the ground against New York to set a single-season club record. With three games to play, the Patriots already have gained 2,145 yards rushing.

Pitt retains ranking, UCLA drops to sixth

NEW YORK (UPI)—The idle Pittsburgh Panthers gained a little breathing room today in retaining its No. 1 college football ranking as two schools dropped out of UPI's top 10 ratings and UCLA plummeted from second to sixth place.

Oklahoma and Iowa State were replaced by Houston and Nebraska this week in the elite set, while Southern California moved up a notch to second place as Pittsburgh's latest challenger for the national title.

Pitt held an eight-point margin over UCLA last week and widened its lead to 17 points by receiving first-place support from 21 coaches, one less than the previous week. Pitt totaled 386 points to 369 for Southern Cal, which drew 12 first-place votes and a pair of second-place votes. UCLA, 24-14, to wrap up the Pac-8 title and its accompanying Rose Bowl berth.

Once-beaten Michigan was another 10 points back in third place with 359 points after the Wolverines shut out Ohio State, 22-0, and collected seven first-place votes. Michigan fanned its national title hopes by earning a berth against Southern Cal in the Rose classic.

The national championship will be decided after the New Year's bowl games.

Georgia, Pitt's opponent in the Sugar Bowl, moved up two notches to fourth place this week with 254 points and Maryland, registering the other two first-place votes from UPI's 52-man coaching board, climbed two rungs to fifth with 216 points.

UCLA was sixth with 167 points, while Houston, benefiting from a 27-19 upset over Texas Tech, vaulted into the No. 7 rating on 143 points. Nebraska was three notches better this week with 79 points for eighth place. Ohio State fell one place to ninth on 57 points and Texas Tech skidded from fifth to 10th place with 56 points.

Stanford looking for grid coach

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Stanford University officials will need at least a month before naming a replacement for fired head football coach Jack Christiansen, according to a school spokesman.

"It will be a nationwide search and the (search) committee will make a recommendation to (Athletic Director Joe) Ruetz," the spokesman said Monday. "The decision is his, but he probably will follow the committee's recommendation."

Ruetz fired Christiansen Friday afternoon. On Saturday, Stanford edged California, 27-24, to give the coach his fifth straight winning year. He had two years remaining at Stanford on a five-year contract.

A statement issued by the Stanford athletic board supported Christiansen's ouster, saying it was agreed to by the president's office and board members.

Ali wants to fight Foreman

HOUSTON (UPI)—Muhammad Ali, saying, "You never heard me say I was going to retire," says he wants to fight former heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman.

Foreman and Ali signed a piece of scratch paper Monday in a staged ritual "agreeing" to a title rematch at some point in the future.

"He said he would fight me in three months and I'm going to look forward to it," Foreman said outside the arena. "I'll be where he can find me. He won't have to look for me."

Berry, who had only one goal and four assists in 19 games this season, is also third in all-time assists, total points and penalty minutes for the Kings.
