Santa donates his eyeglasses

Santa Claus takes time out from greeting children in front of McDonald's to come in and donate a pair of eyeglasses to the annual week-long eyeglasses collection project sponsored by the Manchester Lions Club. Holding the collection bag is Linda Hulme, customer service representative for McDonald's, while David Thompson, president of the Manchester Lions Club, watches. Terrell Rice Jr. appears as Santa. McDonald's will give a free hamburger to anyone donating a pair of glasses during the drive which continues all this week. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Lebanon peace troops plan to move south

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Elias Sarkis today met with aides to discuss the possible advance of Arab peacekeeping forces farther south — a move Israel has warned against.

"The only thing I know is that there are signs the forces will enter the south," said a spokesman for the Arab force's general command. "The details of when, where and how many are being kept secret."

He said "The issue is being dealt with at the highest levels, from President Sarkis on down."

Israel has warned that a move by Arab forces below the so-called "Red Line" may be considered a provocation.

The line has never been clearly defined but is understood to run along the Litani River in southern Lebanon, which meanders to the Mediterranean at distances ranging from about 4 to 18 miles from the Israeli border.

Sources close to the Arab command said a mixed force of Syrians and troops from United Arab Emirates and Saudi Arabia were likely to move this week to the southern port of Tyre and the inland crossroads town of Nabatiyeh, both less than 18 miles from the border.

Travelers from the south quoted Capt. Khalil Jalbout, a Lebanese commander at the southern rightist-controlled garrison of Khiam, as saying that the move may be more extensive. Jalbout said he had conferred with Sarkis and his military commander of the multinational Arab army, Col. Ahmed Al Hajj.

"Arab forces will enter the south within four days," Jalbout told one Lebanese journalist.

He reportedly said the Arab forces would open the main road from the coastal cities of Sidon and Tyre inland through the strategic rightist-held towns of Marjayoun and Kleia and up to Masnaa on the Syrian border.

Although the report was carried in several Beirut newspapers, the Arab forces spokesman refused to confirm it, saying "the Beirut newspapers are specialized in making a big thing out of nothing."

If Arab forces moved into Marjayoun it would bring them south of the Litani River, about nine miles from the Israeli border.

Sources also indicated that the collection of heavy weapons from the warring groups in Lebanon would begin with the arms that had belonged to the Lebanese Army before its disintegration during the civil war.

Although the Christian rightists were reported to have begun assembling some of their heavy weapons for collection by the peacekeeping troops, the Palestinians and their Lebanese leftist allies appeared to be more reluctant.

Leftist sources said the peacekeeping force had run up against "a brick wall" of resistance to the plan.

Israeli aide opposes Syrians near border

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Foreign Minister Yigal Allon says it is the responsibility of the Lebanese government to maintain order in the sensitive region between Israel and the Syrian forces occupying the rest of Lebanon.

"Policing activities must be carried out by Lebanese security forces that can and should be organized quickly," Allon told a cabinet meeting Sunday.

"They should act under Lebanese command and under the instructions of the president of Lebanon and its government."

Government sources said the Israeli position was similar in some respects to the proposal by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis that his army take control of the region south of the Litani River.

But the sources said Israel would not accept any movement of Syrian or Palestinian forces beyond the "red line," an undefined boundary believed to be the Litani River, which runs into the sea 18 miles north of the border.

"We wouldn't stand for it," one source said.

Defense Minister Shimon Peres said there was "no real change" in the lineup of Syrian and Palestinian forces in southern Lebanon.

"The southern Lebanese region is defended by its population and any Syrian incursion south of the present deployment will only increase tension and create fresh hazards," he said.

"An attempt by the Palestine Liberation Organization to transform this calm region into a terrorist strip will encounter firm Israeli opposition."

Soviet air crash kills 70

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet TU104 airliner crashed shortly after takeoff from Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport Sunday, killing about 70 persons, airline sources said today.

The sources said the plane crashed and burned in the suburbs a few miles from the airport. It was not known if there were any survivors.

The plane, a twin-engine turbojet belonging to the Soviet Aeroflot airline, was enroute to Leningrad at the time, the sources said.

No further details of the crash were available. The Soviets at first told Western airline companies that fire engines racing from the airport were on a practice run.

It was the first Soviet air crash since September, when sources reported an Aeroflot plane went down near the resort of Sochi after a collision in flight.

The Soviets never publicize their own air accidents.

Accord reported in Rooney case

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A settlement has been reached, though not yet finalized, that would reinstate Brian Rooney to the rank of sergeant in the Manchester Police Department, according to sources close to the case.

Rooney would be reinstated to sergeant and would receive full back pay, three different sources have said.

Rooney, a 14-year veteran of the town force, was demoted from sergeant to patrolman on Jan. 6. At the time of the demotion, Police Chief Robert Lannan confirmed the action was a disciplinary one, but would give no further details on the matter.

A grievance hearing was held concerning the demotion, and Town Manager Robert B. Weiss upheld Lannan's decision. He also said, however, that Rooney should have first chance at any sergeant's vacancy that occurred.

The Connecticut Council of Police Unions then filed a grievance with the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration on behalf of Rooney.

It was in this step of the proceedings that the apparent settlement was reached.

Sources also said that Rooney will now apply for a disability retirement.

This would resolve a problem that might have occurred for the local Police Department.

The present budget allows for 11 sergeants. Sgt. John G. Mott was promoted on Jan. 11 to fill the vacancy created by Rooney's demotion. This move, along with the recent promotion of Gary Minor to sergeant, gave the department a full slate of sergeants.

If Rooney returns to the force as a sergeant, there would be one too many. This problem, however, will apparently be resolved by the retirement agreement.

Reilly ordeal over, murder still mystery

HARTFORD (UPI) — Peter Reilly spent three long years trying to convince the world he was innocent of his mother's murder. And then it happened.

Last Wednesday, a Litchfield Superior Court judge dismissed murder charges against the 21-year-old Canaan youth.

In the judge's estimation, Reilly had not stabbed his mother to death.

Although the state case against Reilly died when Judge Simon Cohen dismissed the charges against him, the controversy that surrounds the 1973 slaying of Barbara Gibbons remains very much alive.

Who did kill Barbara Gibbons?

Why was the evidence that ultimately cleared Reilly withheld for so long?

In an attempt to find some answers to these questions, Gov. Ella Grasso has called for a full-scale investigation into the matter.

Last Friday, she ordered the state police to reopen their investigation of the Gibbons murder and instructed chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley to determine why evidence was suppressed in the case.

Reilly's lawyer, T.F. Gilroy Daly Jr., has asked that a special prosecutor be appointed to head up that investigation because, as he says, the police shouldn't investigate the police.

And Gormley says he's not even sure the investigation can be reopened since the prosecutor in the case — John Bianchi — is dead.

Nevertheless, state police have already begun searching for clues in the tiny town of Falls Village where the murder took place, trying to piece together some evidence that might lead to the killer of Barbara Gibbons.

The Hartford Courant reported today it was told by a source that state police found some rat-gnawed clothing that may be stained with blood in the air vent of an abandoned church near the Gibbons' home. The newspaper said police searched the church Friday after an anonymous tip.

The paper, which said state police officials would not confirm the find, reported the clothing was taken to a state police lab for testing.

The slain woman was badly bloodied. Reilly, who had no blood on his clothes the night of his arrest, was wearing the same clothes prior to the murder, according to witnesses at his trial.

Police admit they don't know where to start.

Until recently, locals had all but erased the memory of the horrible murder from their minds. The hot dog stand where Mrs. Gibbons and her son lived is now abandoned. And the man who put together the original case against Reilly is dead.

"It is almost impossible now to reconstruct what happened over two years ago, or to determine what the motivations might have been," Gormley said last Friday.

Bianchi prosecuted Reilly at his trial and represented the state during Reilly's retrial hearing, which resulted in a March 25 order for a new trial.

Bianchi later died of a heart attack Aug. 2 while playing golf at the Canaan Country Club.

He was succeeded by State's Attorney Dennis A. Santoro who found statements by auxiliary state trooper Frank E. Finney and his wife, Wanda, while reviewing the Reilly case to decide whether Reilly should be tried a second time.

Nine die in crashes on holiday

By United Press International
Thomas Meath was paralyzed by polio from the neck down since he was 10. Yet he overcame the handicap and made it his life work to help others with similar afflictions. Meath, 35, of Stamford died Thanksgiving night when the specially equipped van in which he was riding struck a stone wall in Stamford.

Meath was one of nine Connecticut's traffic fatalities of the holiday weekend. The toll was two higher than during the last Thanksgiving period.

HARTFORD — Sunday shoppers, like their weekday counterparts, may prefer suburban stores over those in downtown Hartford. Browsers outnumbered buyers at the Civic Center shops, clerks reported Sunday and a major department store, open for its first Sunday downtown in almost 130 years, was quieter than a busy Saturday. Stores with suburban outlets said the outlets were doing extremely well.

Manchester police report

A Bolton man is in fair condition at Hartford Hospital following a one-car accident early Sunday morning.

Police said Harold A. Sauer, 26, of Bolton, was driving south on Greenwood Dr. when he lost control of his auto and ran head-on into a car.

The accident occurred at 1:20 a.m. Sunday, police said. Sauer was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital and then transferred to Hartford, where he is being treated for multiple fractures, lacerations and internal injuries.

Rosina Comollo, 46, of 16A Ambassador Dr. is in satisfactory condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was a passenger in a car involved in a minor accident in the Shop-Rite parking lot.

Police reported a break Sunday into the Main St. office of two doctors. A tape player and a radio, valued at $300, were taken, according to police.

An adjacent insurance office was also entered, but nothing was reported missing, police said. A break was also reported late Saturday evening at a Tolland Tpk. home, but police said nothing was missing.

Police reported the following arrests over the weekend: Roger C. Olson, 53, of Bloomfield, charged with operating under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Court date is Dec. 14.

Paul S. Yais, 20, of 446 W. Middle Tpk., charged with reckless driving and operating an unregistered motor vehicle. Court date is Dec. 21.

David D. Kenny, 48, of 203 Adams St., charged with breach of peace. Court date is Dec. 13.

Earl R. Alexander, 36, of Waterbury, charged with operating an unregistered motor vehicle and driving while his license is under suspension. Court date is Dec. 14.

Alan J. Cockerhan, of 46 Ferndale St., charged with breach of peace. Court date is Dec. 13.

With less money to spend, the state must be careful how it spends its limited funds, Carbone said. He said the money should be spent on crime prevention such as youth employment, counseling and emergency programs rather than outfitting police departments with the latest technological gadgets.

New type buoy ready for use GROTON (UPI) - The Coast Guard says its Research and Development center in Groton finally is ready to put into use 50 solar-powered navigational buoys to help ships at sea.

Even though four of eight buoys tested by the Coast Guard during the past three years have malfunctioned, it says they are ready for use by mariners.

The failures, the center said, were the result of human error and not the equipment's fault. Subsequently, the Coast Guard has decided to put the 50 buoys in Florida waters for further tests.

The Coast Guard said the advantage of the new buoys is they never have to be recharged and they save money because they get their energy from the sun.

Australia cuts dollar

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) - A record 17.5 per cent devaluation of the Australian dollar today triggered similar devaluations of the currencies of neighboring New Zealand and Papua New Guinea.

The devaluation pegged the Australian dollar at 1.017 against the U.S. dollar, compared with Friday's closing quote of 1.235, making the two currencies roughly equal in value on international monetary markets.

Australia's announcement of the devaluation Sunday prompted a 12.5 per cent devaluation of the currency of Papua New Guinea against the Australian dollar and a 7.25 per cent devaluation of the currency of New Zealand against the Australian dollar.

The immediate impact of the devaluations will be to increase the cost of imports, making local industries more competitive and making exports more attractive on international markets.

In announcing Australia's devaluation, Treasurer Philip Lynch said wage increases had reduced Australia's competitive position in world markets, resulting in foreign currency reserve losses. Manufacturers and business leaders strongly criticized the decision because of higher import costs.

The devaluation decision set a split in Australia's ruling Liberal party, with former Social Services Minister William McMahon calling for Lynch's dismissal.

About town

The name of Maj. Gen. Thomas Corway was prominently given to a secret movement led by the New England faction of Congress in an attempt to regain its lost leadership of the Revolution. The "Corway Cabal" was organized to effect the ouster of General Washington by means of cautious suggestions and the circulation of an anonymous paper, "Thoughts of a Freeman," attacking Washington's ability and popularity. Ironically, The World Almanac notes, Corway's impetuous and ignorant actions merely brought the affair to Washington's attention and wrecked it.

Marine Corps League installs first woman commandant

Mrs. R.L. (Sandy) Adams of Briarwood Rd. has been elected and installed as commandant of the Frank J. Mansfield Detachment of the Marine Corps League, the first woman in the state to hold such a post.

She succeeds James Gleason. Other elected and installed officers are John Rogers, senior vice-commandant; Herman Paradise, junior vice-commandant; Winston Chevalier, adjutant; Joseph Banning, sergeant-at-arms; Harold Osgood, treasurer; Harry Mathison, chaplain; and Jerry Sapienza, judge advocate.

Donald R. Moore, state department commandant of the Marine Corps League, officiated at the recent installation ceremonies at the Marine Home, Parker St.

Mrs. Adams, who served in the Women Marines in 1968 and 1969, is the state adjutant of the Department of Connecticut Marine Corps League. She has other firsts to her credit. She is the only woman commanding officer of a boys' unit of the Young Marines, while also serving as commandant of a girls' unit. She is the only woman who belongs to both the Marine Corps League and to the Marine Corps League Auxiliary, the state rose to the post of state president.

Number one child killer

Modern technology has virtually eliminated disease as the major cause of death among children, only to replace it with a more lethal threat - the automobile.

Nearly half of all childhood deaths in industrial countries are caused by traffic accidents, reports the Journal of Insurance, a publication of the Insurance Information Institute. And the percentage is rising.

A study by the European Economic Community found that children's deaths from traffic accidents rose from 39 per cent to 45 per cent of all child fatalities during the 1960s.

The "automobile epidemic" is most virulent between the ages of 6 and 14, says the EEC study, which is when children leave the security of home life, but prior to when they attain the experience essential for survival amid the hazards of traffic.

A Swedish study concluded that "modern mechanized society presents a risks for children which were unknown a hundred years ago. In fact, instead of making their lives more secure, it has created for children an environment bristling with deadly danger."

In the United States in 1974, more vehicle accidents led all causes of death from age one through 24. The National Safety Council reported 20,559 fatalities for this age group.

It is adults, not children, who must take responsibility for making the automobile the number one childhood killer, says the Journal. Children simply are not sufficiently developed physically or mentally to cope with traffic dangers.

Merely instructing children about traffic hazards has only a limited effect, it says, since children do not and cannot act predictably. Safety campaigns should include adults, and driving schools should teach drivers the special problems posed by children.

Husband-wife moving teams

More than 70 million Americans moved their homes last year, and as many will do so this year. Women's liberation notwithstanding, in most cases the responsibility for planning and overseeing the moving operation falls on the distaff member of the household.

In hopes of alleviating much of the trauma felt by housewives on moving day, a number of leading moving companies are recruiting husband and wife trucking teams. Seeing a uniformed lady mover, it seems, assures a housewife that her crystal, china and other valuables will be handled by someone who cares about them.

Institute of Certified Moving Consultants, there are presently some 500 husband-wife teams driving together - and pulling down as much as $50,000 a year doing it. Bekins, the world's largest moving and storage firm, counts close to 100 such teams among its independent contractors and expects that number to double by the end of 1977 because of the enthusiastic response by housewives.

Another advantage of husband-wife moving teams is that it does wonders to combat the loneliness of the long-distance trucker.

When truckers have their wives along, says a Bekins executive, they don't get lost in Las Vegas or Juarez.

Carter: The Man and the Message

By WESLEY G. PIPPETT

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) - Three days after the election, Jimmy Carter told reporters at his mother's Pond House. It was as if nothing had happened. The president-elect was wearing heavy work shoes, denim shirt, blue jeans.

The scene was symbolic. As president, Carter probably will bring to Washington a life style much less pretentious and formal than any recent president. And he will pursue relentlessly the same goals he campaigned for - government reorganization, a balanced budget and tax and welfare reform.

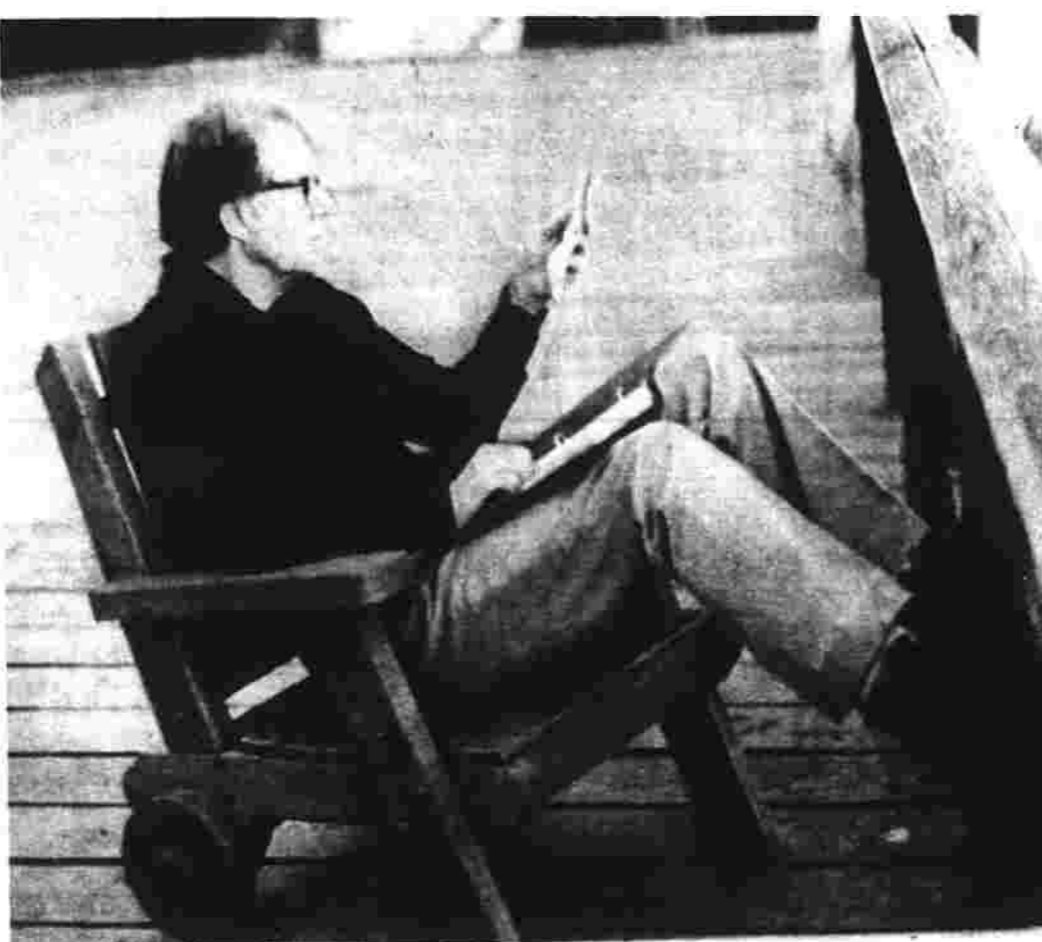

In perhaps every one of his 1,400 campaign speeches, Carter portrayed himself as a small-town businessman and farmer who embarked on his pursuit of the presidency short of funds and shorter of fame.

He said he was the first member of his father's family to graduate high school. He told how he was raised in a predominantly black community. When asked, he told of his faith in Jesus Christ.

Unlike other politicians who still boast of their long-distant humble origins, Carter now, at this moment, still lives where he was raised: Plains, Ga., Pop. 683.

During the campaign he returned to Plains every few days. As president he will come home about once a month - "10 times a year," he told one person here.

Press Secretary and confidante Jody Powell explained why. "He just relaxes better in Plains." Carter shunned President Ford's offer of Air Force One during the transition period, partly because the

Reflections

Hal Turkington
Managing Editor

We'd like to pass along our comments about the 40th running of the Thanksgiving Day Road Race. Once again we in the cruiser were chased to the finish line by Amby Barfoot. Once, a few years ago, he almost beat us there.

The race was only about a half-mile gone when Walt Ferguson, riding with us in the cruiser, noticed that Amby wasn't wearing his painter's cap, but he had something in his hand. We reported to the starting line that Amby was carrying his cap.

Later we noticed that Amby was carrying something in BOTH hands, and on closer inspection next time he came near the cruiser, he was carrying gloves.

Still later, after the race, we all learned that Amby had left his cap in the car.

We suspect the race officials will gather soon to start planning for 1977. Perhaps a female division now? Is there another way to record the runners at the finish line? Should the chutes be on the finish line or should they be farther south for recording the runners? Is the field getting too big?

All of those points have been discussed the last few days. You can be sure the officials will do all they can to keep this one of the big events in the year for Manchester.

go home to Georgia to hunt and fish. He will not play golf.

His administrative Carter won the Democratic presidential nomination in part by welding a grand coalition. With the polarized 1972 candidacy of Sen. George McGovern well in mind, Carter demonstrated a capacity not only to communicate with diverse groups but to bring them shoulder-to-shoulder.

He went to stock car races and rock music picnics and gave interviews to religious publications and Playboy magazine. He wooed and won union leaders, mayors such as Richard J. Daley of Chicago and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and other southern Democratic politicians.

After he won the election, he moved to heal wounds. He invited the former foe of State Henry A. Kissinger to Plains. During the campaign Carter criticized him as "the Long Ranger" of a secretive U.S. foreign policy. In Plains Carter called him "my good friend" and gave him a tour of Main Street.

This diversity, this tendency toward bridging gaps, surely will reflect itself in his administration. Little-known persons, certainly non-Washington figures, will receive many of his top appointments. There may be a Republican or two on his team.

There will be certain representation from groups close to the core of Carter's life - blacks and other minorities. His overwhelming vote from blacks - which, indeed, may have given him the election - may be a Republican or two on his team.

And he spoke about, probably more than any other topic, the need for government reorganization. Some Washington observers speculated Carter would soft-pedal his ambitious legislative agenda in the interests of harmony with Congress, where the probable new Democratic leaders - Sen. Robert Byrd and Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill - may be far tougher than their predecessors.

Observers were wrong. These observers were wrong. When Carter went to the Lovejoy meeting, he made a symbolic concession to Congress by going to their turf - Sen. Herman Talmadge's antebellum mansion pictured in the opening scenes of "Gone With the Wind."

Once their Southern-style meal was over, Carter told the congressional leaders he would have "specific proposals, including tax reform and welfare reform, carrying out the promises I made to the American people."

And he made a top priority renewal of the old Hoover commission law, under which a president may reorganize the executive branch subject to congressional veto.

"I would like for Congress to take the fullest possible action to direct me to make the executive branch efficient," said Carter, as he stood alongside the congressional representatives.

He said his No. 1 domestic priority was finding jobs for the 8 million unemployed. He spoke of the need for comprehensive health care and welfare reform, and said he would be ready to proceed in these areas soon after inauguration. He also proposed tax reform, but said this would require a year's study.

When the Republican National Convention pictured him as an irresponsible spender, Carter said he would balance the budget by the end of his first term even if it meant delaying some of his social programs.

MACC news

Nancy Carr
of the MACC (Manchester Area Council of the Deaf) will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the Sunshine Group which will be held at the meeting of the Connecticut Northeast Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, at 1:30 p.m. at the KotC Home, 138 Main St.

The program will also include a sing-along. Retirements will be served. Edward Timbrell, the legislative chairman, asks members to report if they have been the victims of any crime such as assault, robbery, purse snatching or burglary. No names will be used at any time, he said. He will report these statistics when he testifies at hearings on crime at the next session of the legislature. All information should be sent to Evelyn W. Grogan, 53 Schaller Rd.

This year, the chapter will celebrate Christmas and Hanukkah with a luncheon Dec. 8 at Willie's Steak House.

The local chapter of the Chaminade Musical Club executive board will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Concordia Lutheran Church, 40 Pitkin St.

The Parents Anonymous Club will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Elks Home. Mrs. John Olechyn and Herbert Wolfram are in charge of a program on Rocks, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Altman, Beverly LaChapelle, Margaret LaChapelle, Mary McKernan and Adeline Parico.

All interested persons are invited to join the Manchester Council on World Hunger Tuesday, at 9 p.m. at the Church of Assumption School library.

The Salvation Army Band and the Round Table Singers will lead the carolers in the beloved Christmas favorites. Be sure and wrap up warmly and bring flashlights. We'll provide song books. You are all invited to fellowship and refreshments just across the street in the Salvation Army Citadel. Come enjoy both the carols and one another.

Mrs. Birmingham dies, active in state, Andover

ANDOVER — Mrs. Edith Clapp Gardner Birmingham, 78, past president of the state PTA and former state employe, died at her home on Long Hill Rd. Saturday. She was the widow of Thomas J. Birmingham.

Mrs. Birmingham was born in Chester, Mass., and lived in Andover for 45 years. She was a social worker for the State of Connecticut for 14 years, retiring 11 years ago. She was a teacher at the Alfred Plant School in West Hartford.

She was program chairman of the Andover Historical Society until her death. She was also a local correspondent for The Hartford Courant for many years, a member of the Andover Board of Education, Andover Democratic Town Committee and Democratic registrar of voters. She served as an organist at the First Congregational Church of Andover, where she was also a member.

Mrs. Birmingham was the mother of Stephen G. Birmingham of Cincinnati, author of "Our Crowd." Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Susan P.B. Losee of Andover and four grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in Andover Congregational Church. There are no calling hours.

The Potter Funeral Home, 456 Jackson St., Willimantic, is in charge of arrangements. The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society or the American Heart Association.

Ernest L. Custer Ernest L. Custer, 78, of 34 Campfield Rd. died Saturday in Rocky Hill Veterans Hospital, Rocky Hill, after a long illness.

Mr. Custer was born Nov. 11, 1898, in Vernon, the son of the late Louis and Freda Lange Custer, and lived in Manchester all his life.

He worked at Cheney Bros. in Manchester and Hamilton Standard Division of United Technologies until his retirement.

He was also a member of the Dismark-Cornell-Quey American Legion, the Army-Navy Club and the Zipsper Club.

He was a World War II Army veteran, and a member of Concordia Lutheran Church. Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Arlyne Ponticelli, and a sister, Mrs. Leo Monast, both of Manchester; two brothers, Truman Custer of Manchester and Edward Custer of Duncedin, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

There are no calling hours. The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Concordia Lutheran Church Memorial Fund.

Mrs. Edna E. Magnell The funeral for Mrs. Edna Elizabeth Magnell, 75, of 28 Center Street, died Saturday, will be Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., with the Rev. Newell Curtis Jr., pastor of Center Congregational Church, officiating. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Frances Skoglund ROCKVILLE — Mrs. Frances Shortmann Skoglund, 75, of 190 E. Main St. died Friday in Rockville General Hospital. She was the widow of Ernest L. Skoglund Sr., who died Saturday.

Mrs. Skoglund was born March 26, 1901, and lived in Rockville all her life. She was a member of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, South Windsor.

Survivors are two sons, Leonard E. Skoglund and Ernest L. Skoglund Jr., and a daughter, Mary E. Skoglund, all of Rockville; two brothers, Richard Skoglund of Ellington and Walter P. Shortmann of Vernon; a sister, Mrs. Elsie Malation of Ellington; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Tuesday at 11 a.m. at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Sand Hill Rd., South Windsor, with the Rev. Bruce W. Jacques, rector, officiating. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery, Rockville.

Friends may call at the Ladd Funeral Home, 19 Ellington Ave., Rockville, tonight from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Nellie D. Smith VERNON — Mrs. Nellie Dimmick Smith, 101, of 60 Prospect St., Needham, Mass., formerly of Talcutville section, died Saturday in Glover Memorial Hospital, Needham. She was the widow of Lucius Smith.

Mrs. Smith was born in Wales, Mass., and lived in Talcutville many years before moving to Needham 14 years ago. She leaves a son, Harold Smith of Needham.

The funeral is Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the White-Gibson-Small Funeral

The funeral was held today from the George F. Hoye Home, 168 Academy Ave., Providence. Burial was in St. Ann's Cemetery, Providence. The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Rhode Island Cancer Fund, 283 Rhode Ave., Providence, R.I., 02906.

Giles would expand municipal parking

The town is interested in adding an additional 18-20 spaces to the Municipal Building parking lot. Jay J. Giles, director of public works, said that he will approach the town's Conservation Commission with the proposed expansion before the matter is acted on by the Board of Directors.

Giles said that the town would expand the parking area by filling in the road to the rear of the lot. The road presently provides an exit from the lot onto Valley St. The area that needs to be filled to bring it to the level of the present parking area would require about 3,000 cubic yards of fill, Giles said.

Buckland data sought by means of FOT law

Two Manchester lawyers have filed a complaint with the state's Freedom of Information Commission concerning the planning and zoning commission, the Development Commission, and the Department of Commerce.

Russell Beck and Anthony Pagano said that they have been denied access to documents relating to the development of the park. The attorneys requested information from Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, Development Commission chairman Gerald Okrant, and state Commerce Commissioner Edward Stockton about meetings that took place concerning the proposed park.

The requesters were made Nov. 8, 15, and 17, but the information has not yet been given to them, Beck and Pagano said. The lawyers are acting on behalf of a group of residents, led by Edith Schoell, who lives on Tolland Tpk. near the proposed location of the park.

They have requested that town officials supply them with the names of persons involved in negotiations with J.C. Penney, the major tenant of the proposed park, correspondence with Penney, and minutes of all meetings regarding the development. They also want information from the Department of Commerce concerning the primary and secondary environmental impacts of the park and the Penney facility.

Honored for 74 years fire fighting duty

Fred E. Gommer, left, and George N. Scott are pleased with the plaques each received Friday at Mt. Carmel Hall during a testimonial dinner honoring them for their combined total of 74 years service on the East Hartford Fire Department. Scott joined the force in 1938 as a volunteer bunker at the south end station house, Station No. 5. Gommer joined him there in 1940. Scott joined the regulars in 1950 and in 1975 became assistant to the fire alarms officer. Gommer joined the regulars in 1946, became a driver in 1949, and a lieutenant in 1968. In July 1971 he was appointed a captain and in August 1971 he was appointed deputy chief. The men are both East Hartford natives and still live here. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Murphy's wins Flag Football title

Mad Murphy's won the East Hartford Flag Football League playoff Sunday to end the fifth flag football season. Murphy's, beaten twice in regular season play by the Hose Co. team, came back yesterday and beat the Hose 25-20.

Murphy's team also hosted an invitational tournament earlier this month. The Hose Co. team represented East Hartford in the tournament finals. Others area teams that played were from West Hartford, Vernon, Unionville and another East Hartford team.

Dave Flanagan, a member of Murphy's team and league president, said recently he hopes the tournament will include more teams from West England next year. Flanagan, former EHS and UConn athlete, has been president of the East Hartford league since it was organized in the early '70s.

In 1975 a Board of Commissioners was established and since then the commissioner, league officers and representatives have assisted Flanagan with league operations.

The commissioners are Dan Pandiscia, Fred Clark, Ray McKenna, Hank Giardi, Bill Whipples and Mrs. Lubs Brown. League officers include Bob Bains, treasurer; Bill Ulman, secretary; and Ray Oiva, social director. East Hartford's League has six teams. Besides Hose Co. No. 3 and Murphy's are Athletic Attic, Traveler's Trojans, Larry's Grocery, and Robinson's Florist.

There were 125 players on the six-team roster. Hose Co. 3 is the oldest continuous team in the league, breaking off from the Hartford League in 1971. According to Flanagan, the league hopes to expand next year. A first this year for the league was playing Friday night games with lights at McCallville Park. The Park Department cooperated with the league in scheduling the Friday night games. The Park Department, with the league by its side, assists every weekend during the season.

Both Friday and Sunday morning games drew good crowds. Over the years, some Sunday morning games have attracted more than 700 fans. Flanagan and his board feels the East Hartford Flag Football League is a credit to the community. It is not only a great recreational activity for the players but an activity of interest for the fans.

Flanagan, a teacher at Manchester's Bennett Junior High School and assistant basketball coach at Manchester High School, is a firm believer in the future of East Hartford's Flag Football League.

Parents are invited to attend a meeting on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the YMCA, 770 Main St. For more information and to register, call 299-4377.

Swimming club starts classes

The East Hartford Branch YMCA Laurel Swim Club will begin classes to extend its competitive swimming to include an Eight and Under Development Program. This will include two sessions of land activity each week to develop strokes and two swimming sessions each week.

The land work will consist of movement skills for body coordination. The swimming will use these skills and work on stroke technique in the water. Mini meets will help the children see how they are progressing. The land activity will be Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:30. The swimming will be Friday from 5:15 to 6:30 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 1 p.m. The program will run from Monday, Dec. 6 through the end of March. The class will be limited to 15 children.

The land teacher will be Mrs. Kristen Walenga. She has a BA in education from the University of Michigan and is working on her MA in early childhood education at St. Joseph College. Herbert Aziz, the head coach of the club, will coordinate the program and direct the swimming. Parents are invited to attend a meeting on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the YMCA, 770 Main St.

EHHS '51 Class has reunion Several returned to East Hartford for the Thanksgiving holiday and the reunion. Among the returnees were Ellen Stevens Branigan and John Palshaw from California, Cody Jordan from Oklahoma, Jack Paul from Minnesota, Don Taylor from Georgia, Dave Clark from Maryland, Ann LaForge from Florida, Tony Agosto from New York, Charlene Stone from Vermont, and Marion Green from Massachusetts. The committee, which has been planning the reunion since early September, located all but 15 members of the 252-member class. A list of names and addresses was given to each class member at the reunion. The same list will be mailed to all other class members. Before the evening ended, Class President Ed Slowik led discussion and the class made preliminary plans for their next reunion in 1981.

Educators to discuss cooperation

Bolton

Bolton and Columbia educators will meet tonight in Bolton to discuss possible cooperation between the two school districts.

The joint meeting of each town's school board is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Bolton High School Library.

Bolton School Supt. Raymond Allen said cooperation between the towns could help both school systems.

He mentioned possibilities such as high school use, transportation, effective use of staff, curriculum development, business operations and in-service programs for teachers.

Tonight's meeting will be held at the request of the Bolton Board of Education, which is also seeking similar meetings with other area towns.

It is expected that a key topic will be a possible invitation to send Columbia high school students to Bolton High School, which has been suffering from declining enrollments.

Bolton officials have been concerned that the small student population at the high school has forced less-than-optimum use of the facility.

At a recent Town Meeting, Board of Education Chairman William Vogel said the school board is trying to make Bolton High School more attractive to tuition students from other towns without secondary schools.

Columbia now sends its high school students to Windham High School, Willimantic, on a contract basis.

Tonight's meeting has been called an "emergency meeting" by Allen because administrators did not meet the deadline for notifying the town clerk of the meeting.

Report cards out
Bolton High School is issuing its first-quarter report cards today. They will be sent home with the students.

South Windsor weighs closing schools

The South Windsor Board of Education will meet tonight at Timothy Edwards School to discuss possible closing of one or more of the town's schools.

Plans to date call for the possible closing of Wapping Elementary School at the end of the next school year. Ellsworth Middle School on Main St. may be kept open a few more years and then closed.

The Central Committee for Use of Educational Facilities suggested the closing plan because of declining enrollment in elementary grades of the school system.

Following six months deliberations the committee suggested five alternatives to deal with the space situation in the schools.

The Board of Education felt the closing of Wapping School is feasible, but the preliminary decision has met with some parental objections.

Other alternatives suggested by the committee are:
• Reorganize the school system into a four-year high school, a two-year middle school and four six-year elementary schools.
• Close Ellsworth School first and move the seventh graders now at the school to Orchard Hill Elementary School.

• Close Ellworth School first and extend the town's five elementary schools from six to seven grades.

• Do nothing, leave the system as it is.

School Supt. Robert Goldman felt if Ellsworth School were closed first it would be disruptive because the seventh graders would have to be moved into an elementary school, then returned to middle school.

The following lunches will be served in the South Windsor elementary schools through Dec. 3:

Wednesday: Baked chicken, whipped potato, gravy, corn, bread and butter, cranberry sauce.

Thursday: Pizza, Hamburger, cheddar cheese, whipped potato, gravy, corn.

Friday: Chef's Day
All lunches are served with milk and dessert.

Police seek suspect in abduction case

Vernon Police are seeking the identity of a man "with curly brown hair" who allegedly tried to abduct, at gunpoint, a woman who was driving on Bolton Rd. Saturday night.

Police said the man allegedly pointed a gun at the woman and tried to get her out of her car after he stopped her by flashing blue lights on his car.

The woman, whose identity is being withheld pending a criminal investigation, was honking her horn and flashing her lights at another vehicle passing along the road.

Karen S. Cain, 25, of Mapleshade, N. J., was charged Sunday with illegal possession of controlled drugs and operating under the influence of liquor or drugs, police said.

State Police said she was observed driving erratically on I-86, Vernon, Wednesday night. She was arrested and taken to the station where she was held for 18 hours.

She was released on a $300 bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, Dec. 14.

Vernon Police are investigating an armed holdup at the Vermont Shell station on Rt. 30, reported at 9:25 p.m. Saturday.

Police said a man described as being black, a little over six feet tall,

The Ostrager home is combined with the office of the Amston Lake Co.'s management firm. Borst said the house was difficult to fight due to the confined spaces and because the firemen had to wear portable breathing apparatus due to the thick smoke.

Borst said that although he has no overt evidence that the fire was set, "I consider all fire suspicious until a legitimate cause has been determined."

Hebron Fire Chief William Borst said this morning there was apparently some confusion in dispatching the fire department, which was called to the Hebron home.

He said the men reporting there didn't see any smoke and were preparing to leave, thinking it was a false alarm, until they saw the fire at the Ostrager house about 100 feet down the road.

Borst said there was damage to the house and the entrance and to the crawl space where it is thought the fire started.

The Hebron, Colchester and Lebanon fire departments were called in to fight the blaze.

Hube has reportedly received threatening phone calls since yesterday's fire. The alleged caller was said to be a woman who said, "You're next," and then hung up.

Finance board rejects health service request

The Hebron Board of Finance has rejected a request from the Community Health Services Agency for an additional $3,274 in the current budget for school health aide services in the town's two elementary schools.

The board also voted to support Board of Education continuation of the service and hopes the appropriate funds will be found within the education budget.

The finance board member Jeff Odell said the health agency should have established priorities for the funds approved. He said it should be made clear that an agency cannot attack emotional issues to force additional financing.

Odell said the finance board should look at other ways of getting the health aide service and said he was against setting a precedent of increasing budget funds already approved.

Richard Grant, finance chairman, said agencies tend to reduce services in areas that will raise the greatest public outcry when budget requests are denied in hopes the finance board will "knuckle under and give them the funds requested."

Copies of letters from School Supt. David Cattanchi to Robert Owens were reviewed indicating receipt of more than $25,000 from Instant Lottery funds this year, compared to the estimated $17,500, and the receipt of $1,000 less than expected in the state ADM (Average Daily Membership) grant.

Jack Baker, chairman of the town report committee, said the report is almost ready for printing. He said the report will run about 76 pages, an unintentional tribute to the 76th Bicentennial which is the theme of this year's publication.

Ford aide to oversee quake area shipments

VAN, Turkey (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson has flown to Turkey on orders from President Ford to oversee American aid shipments to earthquake victims in the country's remote eastern section, where snow and bitter cold were hampering rescue efforts.

Richardson broke off a six-nation European tour Sunday and flew to Ankara from Belgrade for the scheduled to meet today in the capital with Prime Minister Sileyman Demirel.

Demirel, who Saturday visited the remote, mountainous disaster area on the borders of Soviet Armenia and Iran, said the latest official death toll from Wednesday's quake was 3,024.

However, local officials said they feared that many who survived the quake itself may die of exposure and the final death toll may be double the official estimate.

The quake registered 7.6 on the open-ended Richter scale and was Turkey's worst since 1939.

Temperatures dropped to as low as 12 degrees at night and the area has been plagued by intermittent blizzards since the quake struck, the officials said. They emphasized that warmth and shelter for the homeless now was the main priority.

Fresh snow, whipped by freezing winds, fell in the area Sunday and temporarily blocked the runway at Van Airport, the bulkhead for relief supplies. It also slowed down truck convoys bearing blankets, heated tents and clothing to the stricken area north of Lake Van.

American technicians have installed portable lights on the runway to enable the relief efforts to continue around-the-clock.

Government officials have commandeered private vehicles and mobilized all able-bodied men in Van Province aged 15 to 65 to help in the relief operation.

International aid continued to pour into the region from the United States and several Western European nations.

Greece, involved in several bitter wrangles with Turkey over Cyprus and exploration rights in the Aegean Sea, sent 300 tents, 2,500 blankets and other relief material.

Two legislators seek business tax relief

HARTFORD (UPI) — Business in Connecticut will get some form of tax relief in the upcoming legislative year if two state Democratic leaders get their way.

The leaders, House Speaker James Kennedy and Senate Pro Tempore Joseph Paulino, both of Hartford, said Sunday tax credits are needed to encourage businesses to invest more money to create jobs for the state's unemployed.

Gov. Ella Grasso recently said she is all for tax relief for business, too, but not at the expense of the individual taxpayer, thus seeming to rule out a state personal income tax.

Mrs. Grasso said she does not intend to include any tax increases in the budget she will present to the state legislature in January. Furthermore, she said she will not propose any kind of tax swap.

Last year, gasoline taxes were raised, while business taxes were lowered.

Kennedy and Paulino said they would like to hold the line on general increases, but they said that may not be possible.

They said the business tax credits are essential to bolster the state's ailing economy. They said the credits ultimately would help the individual as much as business.

Most of us in the United States have enough food so that we can use it as a luxury, a part of entertainment. Meanwhile, two-thirds of the people in the world don't have enough food for even minimal survival.

The problem of sharing our food adequately is so big that it can't be solved overnight. However, if we each begin to diminish our use of food as a luxury and give the savings to the World Hunger Fund, we will have made at least a beginning in our awareness and in our concern.

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Seven Northeast governors have presented their proposals for increased federal economic aid to President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The seven, all Democrats, worked out the proposals at a meeting two weeks ago in Saratoga Springs. They forwarded them to Carter Saturday.

They maintain the federal action is needed to redress what they describe as eight years of neglect by Republican administrations.

The state executives, who comprise the Coalition of Northeast Governors, also asked for an opportunity to meet Carter in early December to personally review their region's problems with him.

Carter was invited to the Saratoga meeting but did not attend. In his place, he sent two high-ranking aides, who promised that serious attention would be given to the governors' proposals.

The group pressed in particular for federal assumption of a larger proportion of welfare costs and the creation of a Regional Energy Development Corp. to coordinate the Northeast's resources.

The governors also called for federal aid and tax incentives to spur new investments in economically inactive areas.

In a brief written summary of their proposals, the governors said the programs could be implemented with minimal costs to the federal treasury but did not attend. In his place, he sent two high-ranking aides, who promised that serious attention would be given to the governors' proposals.

Calhoun and Haynes contributing much in success to date of Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Why have the New England Patriots soared from the depths to the heights of the National Football League in one season?

Don Calhoun is one major reason and rookie Mike Haynes is another as they showed again Sunday in the Patriots' 38-14 swamping of the Denver Broncos that moved New England to within a breath of the playoffs.

Calhoun, dumped by the Buffalo Bills last season in favor of an extra defensive back, picked his way for 177 yards in 25 carries while Haynes returned his second punt of the season for a touchdown and intercepted a pass.

"Buffalo thought they had enough in the backfield with O.J. Simpson and (Jim) Braxton and that they needed help in the secondary," said Calhoun, after running for more than 100 yards in this third straight game and relieving injured fullback Sam Cunningham.

"I feel I had to prove myself, and, yeah, I think I showed them I'm something," Calhoun said.

Although he failed to score a touchdown, Calhoun loosened the Broncos defense which yielded 332 yards on the ground to the Patriots. The third-year pro gained 82 yards in the first half, setting up a 49-yard John Smith field goal and running 11 yards to help the Patriots grab a final touchdown in the second quarter that gave them a 21-0 halftime lead.

With the Patriots leading 17-0 in the second period, Haynes strengthened his bid for Rookie-of-the-Year honors by streaking and stuttering down the right sideline for a 63-yard score. Haynes, whose 89-yard touchdown return three weeks ago was the first punt return for a score in Patriot history, also ran back a punt 36 yards to pave the way another first half score.

"I just caught the ball, looked up, and saw a wall setting up along the sideline," Haynes said of the touchdown return. "I didn't know it was going to be a touchdown until I crossed the goal line."

Haynes also picked off one of three passes the Patriots stole from Denver quarterback Steve Ramsey, who threw a 21-0 lead.

A Bob Howard interception early in the second period led to Smith's longest career field goal and Grogan's three-yard pass to Al Chandler gave New England a 17-0 lead midway through the quarter.

The Broncos were unable to muster any running offense once O.J. Amstrong left the game in the first quarter due to a bruised rib, and when middle guard Ray Hamilton sacked Ramsey for a nine-yard loss nine minutes into the second half, Bill Van Heusen had to punt. Van Heusen, who also left the game with a shoulder injury later in the quarter, kicked to Haynes who broke the line open.

Before the quarter ended, the Patriots capped a 29-yard drive by sending Andy Johnson around right end for a one-yard score.

Ramsey finally moved Denver in the third quarter, marching the team out of the playoffs.

"Sorry football," he mumbled, picking his head up from between his hands. "We had a total breakdown in every facet of the game—offensively, defensively, and special teams. We weren't flat; we just didn't play well. We played lousy."

The Patriots, 9-3, have two games left in the American Football League championship in 1983. Denver, 7-5, plays Kansas City at home Sunday and finishes the season against the Bears at Chicago.

chance with a fumble, or someone in there throwing the line off.

"It was one of the best games we've had from the area of members of the team contributing," John Ralston, naturally, was upset with his team's loss that knocked Denver out of the playoffs.

"I was proud of that long, fourth quarter drive, as I was at anything," said fourth-year Patriots coach Chuck Fairbanks. "That's why I kept Grogan in with us ahead 21-7. I wanted to get the time on the clock to run down and I didn't want to take a turned some and blitzed the linebackers a lot. They're the best team we've ever played."

But in the first period, New England looked like the Patriots who got a 31-1 record in 1975. Twice they got inside the Denver 10-yard line and failed to score. But with 10 seconds left in the opening quarter, quarterback Steve Grogan snuck through the middle for his 10th rushing touchdown of the year.

A Howard interception early in the second period led to Smith's longest career field goal and Grogan's three-yard pass to Al Chandler gave New England a 17-0 lead midway through the quarter.

Ex-Whalers turn on old mates

HARTFORD, (UPI) — It's a beautiful time for Indianapolis Racers coach Jacques Demers. But it's anything but that for New England Whalers coach Harry Neale.

Their teams are in the same World Hockey Association division and going in opposite directions.

Demers said the biggest thing contributing to the surge of his team is the health of his goaltenders. The teams were bothered by injuries at the start of the season.

Notes off the cuff

Gene Johnson, who has managed Moriarty Brothers' baseball team to numerous regular season and playoff championships in the Hartford Twilight League over the past dozen seasons, is ready to sit down and talk contract for 1979.

One Minute Observation: One reason the New England Whalers are struggling in the WHA this season is that opening teams have caught up and passed the team in talent.

Speaking of the Whalers, unless some of the high salaried veterans start producing, the Whalers are heading for a different color.

The average Whaler salary is reported over $40,000 with several players drawing six figure salaries.

The Whalers are home Wednesday night against Calgary. Friday with Quebec and Saturday against Winnipeg with Bobby Hull attendance, for the first Sunday game of the season, is a disappointing 6,966, smallest in any Hartford showing ever.

John Pagliaro, Yale's outstanding running back, has won the Ted Blair Award at the team's most valuable player. The Derby runner became only the second player in Yale football history to gain over 1,000 in a season.

Comeback falls short

Middlesex spoils MCC hoop opener

Early turnovers and mistakes proved overwhelming against a Manchester Community College comeback as Middlesex Community College defeated the Cougars, 93-83, in opening night basketball action Saturday night at East Catholic High.

Middlesex ran off a quick 13-0 lead before MCC called time out to cool down the action.

Despite the efforts of Nick DeMarco and Steve Zocco chipping in for nine points in a five-minute span, the Flying Horsemen came back with forward Walt Jackson sinking seven tallies increasing the lead to 30-19.

Middlesex ran the bulge to 22 points with 1:43 remaining in the first half with Carl Wilson's free throw making it 27-34 at the half.

Middlesex built its biggest lead, 62-37, MCC slowly marched back as Mike Nolen sank two charity tosses Wednesday night against Calgary.

Tennessee reps talk to Majors

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Johnny Majors, coach of the No. 1 ranked Pitt Panthers, met during the weekend with Tennessee representatives to discuss an offer to coach at the alma mater.

Majors said he would hold further talks with the Tennessee people "and I will also talk with my people at the University of Pittsburgh."

A Pitt spokesman said Majors made it clear he would have no further comment on the situation for the moment.

Majors was in New York today for a speaking engagement at the Lambert Trophy presentation ceremony.

He may remain in New York Tuesday for the presentation of the Heisman Trophy, expected to be awarded to Pitt running back Tony Dorsett.

Berth in Cotton Bowl for revived Houston

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new kid on the block in the Southwest Conference proved to be a lot tougher than anyone thought.

A year ago, the University of Houston had the look of the 100-pound weakling in that famous bodybuilding advertisement when it went only 2-9 in college football. But in a dramatic turnaround that would bring a smile to the face of Charles Alas, the Cougars used their first football season in the SWC as an inspiring force and became a defeated club that wreaked havoc on their new neighbors.

The climax of the Houston success story came Saturday when the Cougars crushed Rice 42-20 to earn at least a share of the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl opposite undefeated and fifth-ranked Maryland on New Year's Day.

Neis Blackwell rushed for 133 yards and three touchdowns and Daryl Thomas added 110 yards rushing and two TDs as Houston raised its record to 8-2. The seventh-ranked Cougars conclude their regular season with a non-conference game against Miami (Fla.) next Saturday.

Houston, which finished 7-1 in the SWC, had very little trouble with the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl to play Nebraska.

Dramatic

TORONTO (UPI) — If Tom Clements and Tony Gabriel had any real dramatic flair, they would have waited another 19 seconds before staging the pass that gave their Ottawa Rough Riders a 23-20 Grey Cup victory over the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

But, being only a couple of young football players, they took the opportunity when it came—with 20 seconds on the clock—and settled for a merely heroic final act to one of the most exciting championships in Canadian football history.

Tom Clements, quarterback, threw a 23-yard pass to Tony Gabriel for a touchdown with 20 seconds left in the game.

The Rough Riders, who were trailing 23-20, scored the winning touchdown on a pass from Clements to Gabriel.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders, who were leading 23-20, were unable to score in the final minutes of the game.

Pittsburgh needs help from Oakland to defend Super Bowl championship

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders and the Pittsburgh Steelers are perhaps the most bitter rivals in the National Football League as fate would have it, the Steelers' main shot at making the playoffs this season depends on a huge helping hand from the Raiders.

Pittsburgh, which lost four of its first five games, moved to within a game of first-place Cincinnati in the American Conference National Division race Sunday by beating the Bengals 7-3 in a snowstorm at Riverfront Stadium. The Steelers can no longer qualify as wild card or best runner-up and must win the division title outright to go on and defend their Super Bowl title.

And that's where Oakland comes in. The Raiders, who own the best record in the league at 11-1, play host to Cincinnati on national television next Monday night. A Raider win combined with a Pittsburgh victory over winless Tampa Bay would put the Steelers and Bengals in a tie for first with one week left. If the race ends that way, Pittsburgh would go to the playoffs by virtue of having beaten Cincinnati twice.

A Bengal victory, however, would eliminate Pittsburgh and could raise all sorts of questions since the Raiders actually might benefit from a Cincinnati win. That would eliminate a Steeler team that is playing perhaps the best ball in the NFL right now, allowing just 28 points in winning its last seven games.

It is also the same Steeler team that has eliminated Oakland in the playoffs the past two seasons and had gone on to beat National Conference champion in the Super Bowl.

Al Davis, Oakland's managing general partner, scoffs at talk of an Oakland "dump."

"Only a bunch of simple fools would even suggest something like that," Davis said. "Look, no one in this league, not even Tampa, is a pushover. You have to get out there and win or lose on your merits. No one can dictate ahead of time how a game is going to turn out and to suggest we might say about for the Bengals... that's as ridiculous as anything I have heard in all my years in football. I'd say only a bunch of crybabies would make that kind of a suggestion."

"We're out to win every game," said Raider quarterback Ken Stabler, who threw two touchdown passes and raised his season total to 23 in a 49-16 rout of Tampa Bay. "And right now, I'm glad we are going to have an extra day to get ready for Cincinnati. The Bengals are as good a team as there is in football and they certainly have nothing to be ashamed of for losing to the Steelers."

Cincinnati closes out in two weeks against the Jets, now 3-9, in New York while Pittsburgh finishes up at Houston, now 5-7.

In other games Sunday, it was New England 38 Denver 14, Cleveland 17 Miami 13, Baltimore 33 the Jets 16, Washington 24 Philadelphia 9, Los Angeles 33 New Orleans 14, the New York Giants 28 Seattle 16, Kansas City 23 San Diego 20, Houston 20 Atlanta 14 and Chicago 16 Green Bay 10. Minnesota is at San Francisco tonight.

Colts 33, Jets 16. Bert Jones had three TD passes in a 24-point second period burst as Baltimore clinched a playoff spot by beating the Jets. The Colts are 10-2 game ahead of New England in the AFC East. If they fail to win the division title, they are assured a wild card playoff spot. Jones hit 22-of-32 passes for 175 yards, including TD passes of five yards to Don McCauley, 14 to Lydell Mitchell and 31 to Roger Carr. Tom Landrum added a career-high four field goals.

Watts has hot hand pacing Seattle win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Slick Watts, Seattle's speedy 6-foot-1 guard who usually guards teams with quick hands, sharp passes and fast feet, showed a few more weapons from his arsenal Sunday night.

Watts has never been known for his shooting, his principal weapon being the off-balance, falling-to-the-floor, wing-and-prayer underhand scoop shot. Sunday night he created a new image, pumping in 37 points to lead the Seattle 116-106 squeaker over the Washington Bullets.
