Grasso administrators prepare for labor talks

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today called together the heads of state agencies for a briefing on upcoming collective bargaining negotiations with state employees.

The 1975 legislature passed a collective bargaining law for state employees, but it wasn't until this fall that the 11 units of state employees broken up by job classification voted on which unions would represent them.

The Connecticut State Employees Association won most of those elections in a bitter fight with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

State Personnel Commissioner Sandra Bloom said CSEA's victory in almost all of the unit elections had changed the state's bargaining strategy.

But Mrs. Bloom, citing the provision of the collective bargaining law allowing closed meetings when strategy is to be discussed, asked a reporter to leave before she would reveal what the change was.

She said later she had meant only that there was a possibility of "coalition bargaining."

"If there were a number of different groups to contend with that would be less likely," she said.

She said her remark had nothing to do with the postures taken by the two unions.

AFCSEME had campaigned for support as the more militant of the unions and had said the state administration would prefer to have CSEA to deal with.

Mrs. Grasso told the about 40 officials at the meeting that the state had set up two goals in the negotiations.

"We strive to establish good working relationships between employees and managers in all agencies. Equally important, we're dedicated to efficient delivery of services to the people of our state," she said.

Kissinger heads for Brussels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On what was likely to be his last journey as Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger headed for Brussels today for a NATO ministerial council session.

Despite the sentimental drama of Kissinger's last official meeting with his Western European colleagues, officials stressed the routine nature of the NATO meeting. One official said, "The big problems of the last 18 months have been pretty well solved."

Those problems centered around NATO's southern flank: Portugal, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

The officials said the feared Communist drift in Italy and Portugal appears to have been halted and both countries remain effective members of the alliance despite financial problems. Greece and Turkey have begun talks that may solve their long-standing dispute.

The NATO meeting, according to the officials, will focus on a "sense of unease" raised by the growing Soviet military

Mistrial ruled in Mandel case

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal judge declared a mistrial today in the political corruption trial of Gov. Marvin Mandel and four codefendants due to publicity surrounding the attempted bribery of a juror.

U.S. District Court Judge John H. Pratt said the publicity had reached at least two other jurors, reducing the pool of jurors and alternates to 12.

Earlier two alternates and one juror were excused because of the alleged attempt of a furniture salesman to bribe a juror to acquit.

Mandel, W. Dale Hess, William A. Rodgers, Harry W. Rodgers III and

Democrats pick leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats picked a Massachusetts liberal and a Texas moderate for their top two leadership posts in the new Congress and turned their attention to reforming House operating procedures.

Both Rep. Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, a product of rough-and-tough Boston politics who was opposed in the Democratic caucus Monday to succeed retiring Carl Albert as speaker of the House, and his successor as majority leader, Texas Jim Wright, who won a slim 188-147 victory, pledged an all-out attack on employment as their top priority.

Wright was a surprise winner over Rep. Phillip Burton of California. Burton and Missouri Rep. Richard Bolling had been considered the front runners.

Region's pipe bands form an association

Manchester Pipe Band hosted a meeting of the newly formed Northeastern United States Pipe Band Association (NUSPBA) Sunday.

Representatives of nearly 40 pipe bands in New England and New York State, with the exception of New York City, attended the meeting in Orange Hall.

Manchester's six pipe bands — Manchester Pipe Band, Taggart Pipe Band, Sphinx Temple Highlanders, Stuart Highlanders Pipe Band, St. Patrick's Pipe Band and the Manchester Police Department Pipe Band — were represented at the convocation.

Roger Ritchie of 106 Breton Rd., a member of Manchester Pipe Band, is vice-president of NUSPBA. His wife, Betty, and Mrs. Ruby Kerr of Worcester, Mass., provided refreshments for the representatives.

The NUSPBA was formed in October when representatives of 14 bands from upper New York State and New England met in Nassau, N.Y., to become a branch of the Eastern United States Pipe Band Association.

Sunday, the representative approved the NUSPBA becoming a branch of the United States Pipe Band Association also, it was reported.

Trinity professor impressed with Carter appointments
HARTFORD (UPI) — A Trinity College professor feels Jimmy Carter is showing good leadership qualities by choosing capable administrators instead of good campaigners for his administration.

"Some people are good in winning elections, but are horrible at running the country. Carter feels no obligation to those people," said Clyde McKee in an interview on radio Monday.

He said several Connecticut Carter campaign workers are disappointed because they apparently are not going to get jobs in the new administration.

"I think Carter is saying to those people, you did your job well. I thank you for it, but now it's different — I want to know if you can help me run the country," McKee said.

He was one of about 15 Connecticut residents who worked on Carter's campaign from the start, but he said he is not disappointed by not being picked to go to Washington.

McKee said Gov. Ella Grasso probably won't be called upon to help Carter, but not because she worked for Sen. Henry Jackson in the primaries.

"People who aren't good administrators just won't get jobs in his administration," he said.

Students visit governor
High school and junior high school students from Manchester were among student leaders from Connecticut's 242 high schools who met today at the State Capitol.

The governor invited the student leaders to discuss ways of becoming involved with voluntary actions within their own communities.

Attending from the following schools were:
• East Catholic High School — Monica Holmes, president of the Social Action Club, and Chuck Mercier, vice-president.
• Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School — Mark St. James, president of the senior class and treasurer of statewide student council, and Thomas Mainville, president of the sophomore class.
• Bennett Junior High School — Glenn Eagleson, president of the student council, and Will Meier, vice-president.
• Iling Junior High School — Susan Katz, chairman of the student council, and Lynne Bono, co-chairman.

No one from Manchester High School volunteered to attend.

Gov. Grasso said the state is deeply concerned about the problems that will be caused by the harsh winter expected in Connecticut, which will especially affect the low income and elderly citizens.

"Connecticut's young people are an important resource in helping our state meet human needs. We are calling on our high school students to share their concern, compassion, leadership skills and time and talents to work within their own communities as volunteers," the governor said.

McDonald's restaurants, operated by Taylor Management Company of Woodbridge, are cooperating by supplying lunches for the student participants as their contribution to increasing student volunteer involvement.

Impact of fire on Meriden to be studied.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Department of Commerce, at the request of Gov. Ella T. Grasso, will try to determine the impact of Sunday's spectacular fire in Meriden on the city's economy.

The 2 p.m. fire destroyed an abandoned factory on Lithuanian and a nearby lumber yard in the older section of the city.

Mrs. Grasso sent Commerce Commissioner Edward J. Stockton to Meriden Monday to survey the damage and determine the impact of the fire on the city's economy.

"After the data is compiled," she said, "my administration will be in touch with the Small Business Administration to determine whether Meriden qualifies for a Small Business Administration Disaster Declaration."

A declaration could mean substantial federal assistance for businessmen whose buildings were destroyed by the blaze.

The fire started in the block-long Charles Parker Co. laundry factory on Hanover St. and quickly spread to the adjacent Lyon and Billard Lumber Yard.

The lost at the abandoned factory, owned by Carabotta Enterprises, is estimated at $500,000. Financial damage to the lumber yard has yet not been determined.

Firemen from nine Connecticut communities spent most of Sunday battling the fire and Monday morning on dampening embers from the three-alarm blaze.

One fireman was treated for smoke inhalation at Meriden-Wallingford Hospital and later released.

The fire sent huge swirling columns of black smoke into the sky, which could be seen for miles away. Traffic was snarled and rail service temporarily blocked.

Kissinger heads for Brussels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On what was likely to be his last journey as Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger headed for Brussels today for a NATO ministerial council session.

Despite the sentimental drama of Kissinger's last official meeting with his Western European colleagues, officials stressed the routine nature of the NATO meeting. One official said, "The big problems of the last 18 months have been pretty well solved."

Those problems centered around NATO's southern flank: Portugal, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

The officials said the feared Communist drift in Italy and Portugal appears to have been halted and both countries remain effective members of the alliance despite financial problems. Greece and Turkey have begun talks that may solve their long-standing dispute.

The NATO meeting, according to the officials, will focus on a "sense of mission" raised by the growing Soviet military momentum in Eastern Europe. Kissinger is expected to give his assessment of the Soviet buildup, and outline his ideas of what can be done about it.

He also is expected to give the European allies a description of the process of transition now under way in Washington.

U.S. officials said the meeting also is expected to deal with two recent Soviet proposals:

— An agreement barring first use of nuclear weapons. U.S. officials consider this to be unacceptable, because it would reduce NATO's ability to maintain a deterrent in the face of Soviet conventional superiority.

— "Freezing" membership of NATO and the Warsaw Pact. Officials said this appears to be a transparent device by the Soviets to keep Spain from becoming a NATO member, and is probably unacceptable.

After the two-day Brussels meeting, Kissinger is scheduled to fly to London, returning to Washington Sunday, Dec. 12.

Mistrial ruled in Mandel case

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal judge declared a mistrial today in the political corruption trial of Gov. Marvin Mandel and four codefendants due to publicity surrounding the attempted bribery of a juror.

U.S. District Court Judge John H. Pratt said the publicity had reached at least two other jurors, reducing the pool of jurors and alternates to 12.

Earlier two alternates and one juror were excused because of the alleged attempt of a furniture salesman from the Baltimore suburb to bribe a juror to vote for acquittal.

Mandel, W. Dale Hess, William A. Rodgers, Harry W. Rodgers III and Ernest N. Cory Jr. are charged with mail fraud and racketeering.

Mandel's attorney, Arnold M. Weiner, told Pratt, "No one—not the government, not you, not us—can be assured that if the trial is taken to its conclusion, that there would have been a fair trial."

The government argued, however, that the 14 remaining jurors and alternates were not tainted by reports of the arrest of Walter Walters, 67, of Pikesville, who was charged with obstructing justice in the alleged attempted bribery of a juror.

Prosecutors contended an outsider attempted to malign the proceedings so that a mistrial will be declared.

Democrats pick leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats picked a Massachusetts liberal and a Texas moderate for their top two leadership posts in the new Congress and turned their attention to reforming House operating procedures.

Both Rep. Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, a product of rough-and-tough Boston politics who was unopposed in the Democratic caucus Monday to succeed retiring Carl Albert as speaker of the House, and his successor as majority leader, Texas Jim Wright, who won a slim 168-147 victory, pledged an all-out attack on employment as their top priority.

Wright was a surprise winner over Rep. Phillip Burton of California. Burton and Missouri Rep. Richard Bolling had been considered the front runners.

The incumbent whip, John McFall of California, was the fourth man in the heated race and the first to drop out, after receiving only 31 votes on the first of three secret ballots.

The caucus also elected Rep. Thomas Foley of Washington over Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York for caucus chairman by a 194-96 vote.

The selection of officers by Democrats, who will continue to control the new Congress, was the first of a series of organizing moves. The caucus resumed discussion today on a series of proposed reforms in House operating procedures.

House Republicans meet Thursday to elect their officers, with GOP leader John Rhodes expected to be renominated to that office.

Trinity professor impressed with Carter appointments

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Trinity College professor feels Jimmy Carter is showing good leadership qualities by choosing capable administrators instead of good campaigners for his administration.

"Some people are good in winning elections, but are horrible at running the country. Carter feels no obligation to those people," said Clyde McKee in an interview on radio Monday.

He said several Connecticut Carter campaign workers are disappointed because they apparently are not going to get jobs in the new administration.

"I think Carter is saying to those people, you did your job well, I thank you for it, but now it's different — I want to know if you can help me run the country," McKee said.

He was one of about 15 Connecticut residents who worked on Carter's campaign from the start, but he said he is not disappointed by not being picked to go to Washington.

McKee said Gov. Ella Grasso probably won't be called upon to help Carter, but not because she worked for Sen. Henry Jackson in the primaries.

"People who aren't good administrators just won't get jobs in his administration," he said.

Students visit governor

High school and junior high school students from Manchester were among student leaders from Connecticut's 242 high schools who met today at the State Capitol.

The governor invited the student leaders to discuss ways of becoming involved with voluntary actions within their own communities.

Attending from the following schools were:

- East Catholic High School — Monica Holmes, president of the Social Action Club, and Chuck Mercier, vice-president.
- Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School — Mark St. James, president of the senior class and treasurer of statewide student council, and Thomas Mainville, president of the sophomore class.
- Bennet Junior High School — Glenn Eagleson, president of the student council, and Will Meier, vice-president.
- Hilling Junior High School — Susan Katz, chairman of the student council, and Lynne Bono, co-chairman.

No one from Manchester High School volunteered to attend.

Gov. Grasso said the state is deeply concerned about the problems that will be caused by the harsh winter expected in Connecticut which will especially affect the low income and elderly citizens.

"Connecticut's young people are an important resource in helping our state meet human needs. We are calling on our high school students to share their concerns, compassion, leadership skills and time and talents to work within their own communities as volunteers," the governor said.

McDonald's restaurants, operated by Taylor Management Company of Woodbridge, are cooperating by supplying lunches for the student participants as their contribution to increasing student volunteer involvement.

According to early voting requirements in the early years of the Republic, less than 5 per cent of the present U.S. population would be eligible to vote. In most cases, voters had to be male, 21 years, white and a property owner.

Impact of fire on Meriden to be studied

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Department of Commerce, at the request of Gov. Ella T. Grasso, will try to determine the impact of Sunday's spectacular fire in Meriden on the city's economy.

The 2 p.m. fire destroyed an abandoned factory owned by the late Charles Parker Co. lavatory factory on Hanover St. and quickly spread to the adjacent ministration Disaster Declaration.

A declaration could mean substantial federal assistance for businessmen whose buildings were destroyed by the blaze.

The fire started in the block-long Charles Parker Co. lavatory factory on Hanover St. and quickly spread to the adjacent

Firemen from nine Connecticut communities spent most of Sunday battling the fire and Monday morning on darning up the damage.

The fire sent huge swirling columns of black smoke into the sky, which could be seen for miles away. Traffic was snarled and rail service temporarily blocked.

One fireman was treated for smoke inhalation at Meriden-Wallingford Hospital and later released.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Many area residents turned out despite the snowy evening Tuesday for the preview of the "Holiday Festival of Trees" which was sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford.

Looking over the colorful selection of more than 100 Christmas trees were the Edgar Clarks, Lil and Jack Hunter (she's a committee member), Wells Dennis and his wife and his brother, Bill and his Mrs. Cocktails and tempting platters of cheese, nuts and dates were served during the preview which was followed by a luscious French buffet — and fine red wine.

Changing the title of a recipe. Can you imagine instead of Gingerbread Man Cookies its recipe is titled "Very Best Gingerbread Person Cookies." To each his own I guess. Or should I say her own? Well, anyway, the gingerbread cookies that hang from my Christmas are going to be MEN.

What next? There seems to be no end to the equal rights movement, what with many women wanting to be called Ms. instead of Miss or Mrs. to say nothing of the complete change from chairman to chairperson, etc. But the Tolland County Bulletin recently published is going one step further by

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Calorie data isn't right

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am on a 1,000-calorie a day diet. I found it necessary to take hamburger off my menu because it contains 100 calories an ounce. In the store I have noticed hamburger marked lean and extra lean. I wonder whether this type of hamburger would contain the same amount of calories per ounce as regular hamburger since most of the fat drains away, or whether it would contain fewer calories. Could you give me an estimate of the calories per ounce in extra lean hamburger?

Dear Reader — I sometimes think that 90 percent of the food value information available to people must be wrong. At least it certainly isn't consistent with the values from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Regular ground raw hamburger contains 76 calories per ounce. Cooked hamburger (cooked weight) contains only 82 calories per ounce. Remember the cooked weight not only has fat drained away from it, but the cooking process also eliminates water that is present in raw meat. Lean hamburger, raw, contains 51 calories per ounce and cooked, 63 calories per ounce. The number of calories per ounce in hamburger certainly is dependent upon the amount of fat that's ground with it. If you want to have hamburger meat that's lean you can get round steak or even a good lean roast and cut away all the fat. The separable lean of round steak contains only 39 calories per ounce.

Crash diets are dreadful. At the beginning of a diet you may lose a lot of water and empty out the digestive tract. This five to six pound loss the first week is not fat. The purpose of dieting is to learn how to eat properly. You might as well adjust your eating habits with a good balanced diet to start with. That way you can stay slim once you have achieved your goal rather than having the yo-yo effect of being fat and slim, fat and slim, dieted out from loss of body water by using crash diet fads and then rehydrated with water again when you get off the diet.

For more information on sensible dieting, send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 47, Weight Lossing Diet. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Opinion

Hopeful nod goes to nuclear energy

Despite the emphatic rejection of "antinuclear" referenda by voters in six states last month, the debate over the future of nuclear energy in this country is far from finished.

The public — that part of it which has spoken on this issue by way of the ballot box — has given at least a tentative okay to continued nuclear development. So far, at any rate, it has not been swayed by the warnings of environmentalists and others concerning the possible health and safety perils of nuclear power plants.

All this is subject to change, however. Antinuclear activists are gearing up for similar battles in other states, and in the meantime one new argument has been dropped into the controversy.

According to a report just issued by the private, nonprofit Council of Economic Priorities, nuclear power plants are so uneconomical that more attention should be given to alternative energy sources, such as solar energy, which have been downgraded as too expensive for too far in the future.

Nuclear power plants are forced to shut down so frequently for maintenance and repairs, says the Council, that nuclear energy is less economical than coal everywhere in the country except in the Northeast.

Specifically, it found that existing commercial nuclear power plants operate at an average of only 59 per cent of capacity compared to 60 to 70 per cent for coal-fired plants. Efficiency is even less for large nuclear plants, and most plants currently being constructed or planned are large ones.

This, too, may be subject to change as nuclear technology improves, and coal has its own environmental drawbacks. But the Council's report has certainly deflated industry claims about the supposed cost advantages of nuclear energy versus coal.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that we are moving, however slowly and uncertainly, into the era of nuclear energy. Today, nuclear power generates some 10 per cent of the nation's electricity — enough to meet the needs of 23 million typical households. By this time next year, industry sources predict, the figure will be in the neighborhood of 30 million.

As the industry is not slow to point out, each additional megawatt of nuclear-generated electricity means that much less dependence on foreign oil.

Thus until such time as antinuclear forces can point to some significant breakthroughs in solar energy, coal gasification or other types of advanced power technologies, it is unlikely that the public will continue to give a hopeful, if not entirely enthusiastic, go-ahead to nuclear energy.

Other editors say

The G.O.P. is still alive, thank you

Professional politicians, it is reported, see little hope for the survival of the Republican Party in the wake of the November election.

They point to the greater number of voters who enroll as Democrats, and to the election returns themselves, as well as to what appears to be a national trend away from Republicans.

These are persuasive arguments, but they would be more convincing if the Republicans, despite their acknowledged handicaps, had not come so very close to winning the election for president on Nov. 2. Pollsters admitted the election was too close to call, and the popular vote justified their wariness. While Republicans are disappointed over the outcome, the result does not warrant their being discouraged.

What should worry the Republicans, however, is the prospect of fragmentation within their ranks. The announcement that Mary Louise Smith will resign as national chairman in mid-January signals an impending power struggle between the ultra-conservative Reagan elements and the more liberal Republicans. Such an internal conflict could only scuttle the GOP's chance for survival.

The time has come for Republicans to stop thinking of their party in terms of liberal vs. conservative, or left vs. right. They must think of themselves as Republicans, and they must nominate candidates for public office who have a record of accomplishment untainted by partisan extremism, such as a person, for example, as George Bush, who has announced his forthcoming retirement as head of the C.I.A. The son of the late Prescott Bush, U.S. Senator from Connecticut, George Bush has earned the respect of Democrats and Republicans alike as an able public servant — honest, articulate and patriotic.

There are other competent individuals, too, and the Republican party should take pains to bring them to the forefront. The Grand Old Party is far from dead, whatever the political pundits may say. But intra-party strife and a turn to the right at this time would be suicide. For the party's sake, and for the sake of the nation, the Republican party must be restored to health in order that the two-party system may be kept viable — from The Meriden Morning Record

Today's thought

A person who gives away much of himself creates a need of constantly being together with people — in order to feel a whole person. A full life and a great love — this is the quest of a free creative Christian.

Christ has said, there is no greater love than to lay down your life for a friend. Real love requires us to share our lives. Some part of our lives is given away. It simply doesn't belong to us any more.

The person who loves must be poor in spirit and possess usefulness simply; otherwise he will constantly begrudge the gift of his life and demand reciprocal attention.

Flu shot 'safe as Lawrence Welk'

WASHINGTON — "There is as much chance someone will die after watching Lawrence Welk as after getting a swine flu shot. In fact, watching him is probably more of a reason to die."

That opinion — expert medically if not musically — comes from the chief spokesman for the U.S. Public Health Service which is coordinating the current mass influenza immunization program.

In an interview, John Blamphin, director of public affairs for the agency, punctured some rumors and dispelled some myths about swine flu — otherwise known in government circles as A/New Jersey/76. The designation relates, in order, to the type of virus, where it was isolated (Pt. Dix, N.J.) and when, last February.

"We know that out of every 100,000 persons over age 65, 16 will die in a given 24-hour period," said Blamphin in giving the government's reaction to the widely publicized deaths of three persons who died after being vaccinated recently at a Pittsburgh clinic. Noting that the three all had a history of heart trouble, he added that "we investigated the deaths within 48 hours and found no evidence that either the vaccine or the way it was administered contributed to them."

Lee Roderick
The Herald's Washington Correspondent

"The broader you spread the immunization campaign," Blamphin continued, "the greater will be the chance that someone will die after getting a shot. But that doesn't mean the death will be related to the shot."

As of the end of Thanksgiving week, some 30 million Americans over 18 had been vaccinated. The figure, while representing half again as many flu vaccinations as have ever been given in the U.S. in a single year, falls well below the Public Health Service's hopes for the program as the country now enters the flu season. The agency wants to make the vaccine available to the entire adult population of 147 million.

Public response to the swine flu threat has tended to follow the flow of news about it. After the Pittsburgh incident, for example, the rate of immunization slowed down, with 11 health clinics actually closing their doors for lack of business. Then it appeared to pick up significantly in November after it was announced that a man in Concordia, Mo. became sick the previous month with what was subsequently diagnosed as swine flu. That was the first known case of the flu since the outbreak at Ft. Dix in February.

"Many people are just procrastinating getting their shots," said Blamphin, "while others say 'Why not wait until and if it crops up, then get vaccinated for it'."

The problem with that approach, says Blamphin, is that it could take 12 to 14 weeks to immunize the entire population, even assuming the vaccine had been stockpiled at strategic locations around the country. "Then, it takes another two to three weeks before the body can build up its natural antibodies to fight off an invasion of this new type of virus," he said.

The swine flu virus is extremely similar to the strain that killing an estimated 20 million persons around the world in 1918, including about $48,000 in the United States. It has been found in hogs during most of the time since 1918, but has not been seen in the human population until the outbreak at Ft. Dix, in which 500 military personnel were affected, 12 got sick, and one died.

More recent flu epidemics, while not as devastating as the one in 1918, likewise have taken a high toll. The Public Health Service says the Asian flu of 1957-58 killed 70,000 Americans, the Hong Kong flu of 1968-69 killed 33,000, and the Victoria flu epidemic that started in Hawaii in November of last year, spread to Oregon in January and had hit every state by the end of February took as many as 20,000 lives.

In the absence of the current immunization program, says Blamphin, a swine flu epidemic could put 40 million Americans in bed. Of that number, 40,000 could be expected to die.

Some medical authorities disagree with the immunization program. Given the risks involved, however, it is difficult to argue with the view represented by Dr. W.F. Buchanan of Fenton, Mich.

In a letter published in the Hanford Sentinel of Hanford, Calif., Dr. Buchanan writes: "The only explanation I can give for all the adverse publicity is that the press does not understand the seriousness of the swine flu threat, and as a consequence, many people will die for lack of immunity because of fear of the vaccine."

Manchester police report

Three persons were apprehended Monday night shortly after a burglary was reported on Grison Dr. Charged with two counts each of second degree burglary and second degree larceny were Jeffrey Smith, 16, of 181 Oak St., Peter C. Drown, 16, of 114K Rachel Rd. and Susan M. O'Rourke, 16, of 22 Greenhill St.

The three were being held Tuesday on $1,500 cash bonds each.

A car being driven by Smith was stopped shortly after the Grison Dr. home break and a television set and several items were noticed by police in the car.

The home was entered by prying the front door, the house ransacked and items, including a television, calculator, stereo, clock radio and jewelry were stolen, according to police.

The charges also included an attempted burglary at a Kennedy Rd. home in which the suspected burglars were frightened away by a dog.

In another arrest Monday night, David Erickson, 16, of 159 Olcott St., was charged with third-degree burglary and tampering with a motor vehicle at Discount Auto Sales, 624 Center St.

A juvenile was also arrested with Erickson. Erickson was being held on $1,000 cash bond Tuesday.

Can Carter control the bureaucracy

Ray Cromley

Washington — Neither economy nor efficiency will be the major objective in President-elect Carter's upcoming moves to reform the federal bureaucracy.

Control is the name of the game.

At least three recent presidents — Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon — and a series of Cabinet officials have been angered or infuriated by their inability to have their orders obeyed by the rulers of small kingdoms scattered throughout the departments and agencies which run Washington and determine much of what goes on in the nation.

That is, a series of presidents and their aides have found that orders given are delayed interminably in execution or so modified as to be ineffective, or to produce a result diametrically opposite that intended.

Most of these powerful bureaucrats are extremely able. They are doing and congressmen usually do not. The secret of a paragraph here or there in proposed legislation can save a senator or representative headaches later.

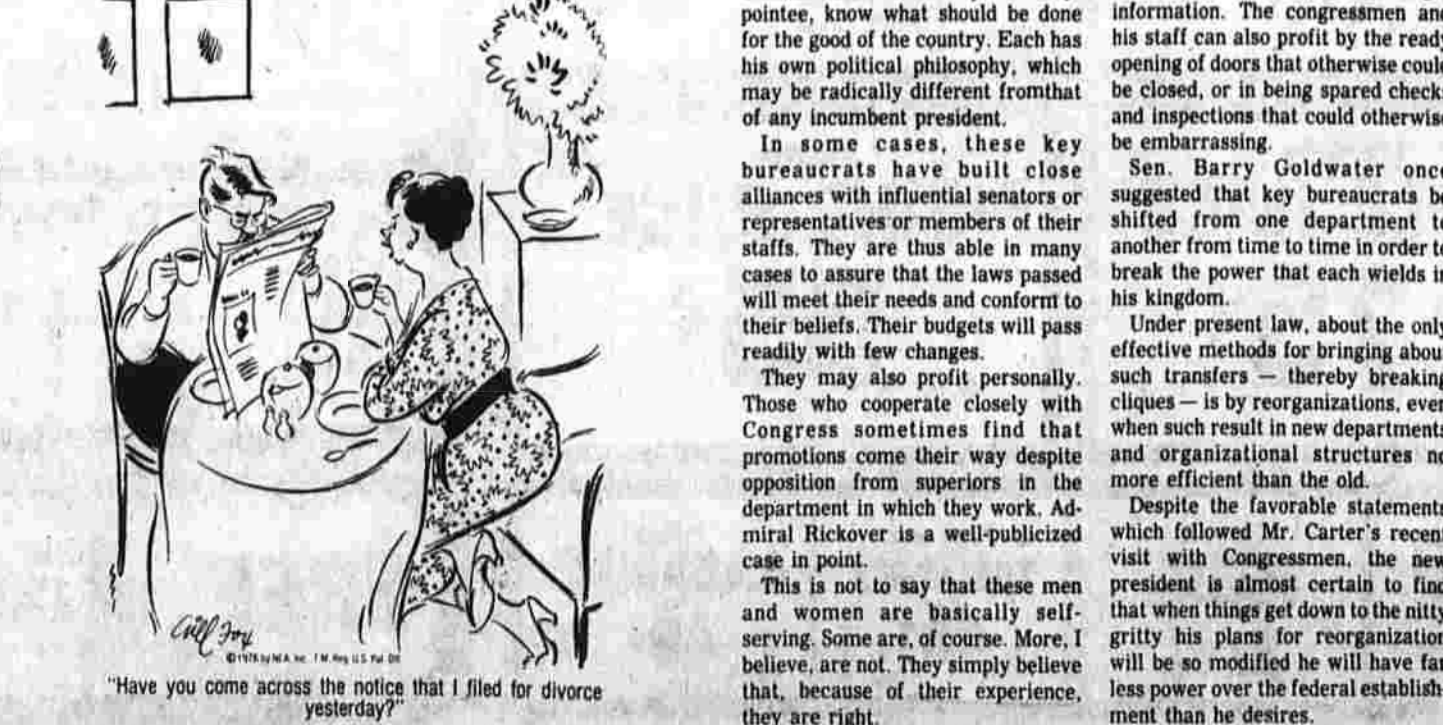

Then, too, there is frequently a personal payoff for cooperative congressmen. If a legislator wins the approval of a powerful bureaucrat, he can count on favors. For consultants, there will be job openings, special consideration in applying a federal law or access to hard-to-get information. The congressmen and his staff can also profit by the ready opening of doors that otherwise could be closed, or in being spared checks and inspections that could otherwise be embarrassing.

Sen. Barry Goldwater once suggested that key bureaucrats be shifted from one department to another from time to time in order to break the power that each wields in his kingdom.

Under present law, about the only effective methods for bringing about such transfers — thereby breaking cliques — is by reorganizations, even when such result in new departments and organizational structures no more efficient than the old.

Despite the favorable statements which followed Mr. Carter's recent visit with Congressmen, the new president is almost certain to find that when things get down to the nitty gritty his plans for reorganization will be so modified he will have far less power over the federal establishment than he desires.

Swine flu clinic Wednesday at MHS

Another flu immunization clinic will be held Wednesday at Manchester High School cafeteria from 3 to 6 p.m. for all persons over age 18 and for those receiving booster shots. The clinic will be at the high school from 3 to 8 p.m.

In spite of the lower than expected turnout in many parts of the country, Manchester's turnout, including Bolton residents, for flu shots has been very good, said Ronald Kraatz, assistant town health administrator. He said of the estimated 5,000 high risk and elderly persons, nearly all would have had their flu shots by the end of the clinic schedule. Of an original target of 22,000 persons for overall flu shots, about 75 per cent have been inoculated so far. Kraatz thinks it's possible that their total estimate may be reached by the end of the final clinic.

Kraatz said that Manchester may have the highest percentage of citizens protected from the swine flu in the state. By the middle of last month, the town's inoculated population represented about 20 per cent of the statewide inoculated population, Kraatz said.

He attributed the successful clinics in town held for residents of both Manchester and Bolton to a combination of volunteer efforts and extensive publicity.

In some town clinics, Kraatz said inoculations were being given by appointment only.

There were at least 100 volunteers at each of the Manchester flu clinics, Kraatz said. Some of them were repeat volunteers, and some were new each time.

Directors to fund two new positions

The Board of Directors meet tonight at 8 p.m. and will consider appropriations to help pay the salary for two new positions it recently created.

The directors will hold public hearings on eight matters, including the appropriation of $13,173 for an Outreach worker for the elderly and $9,125 for a budget analyst.

Most of the Outreach worker's salary will come from federal funds ($9,748). The town will be expected to match these funds with $3,425 of local monies.

The appropriation for the budget analyst will pay the salary for the position for the remainder of this fiscal year. Applications for the post are due Dec. 17.

The money to pay for the analyst is expected to come from the Public Works Employment Act, Title II.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said that he expects the town to receive about $160,000 from the program. The federal funds have not been approved for Manchester yet, but approval is expected soon.

The directors approved the analyst position only on the basis that it would be paid by federal funding.

The directors will also conduct a public hearing for the appropriation of $10,000 of the Title II money for the dredging of Center Springs Pond.

Tall Cedars installation rites Wednesday night

Alfred Vennard of 139 Hollister St. will be installed Wednesday as senior deputy of Tunxis Forest Tall Cedars of Lebanon of West Hartford at a semi-public installation at the Masonic Temple in West Hartford.

Other officers to be installed are Eric Pierson, grand tall cedar; Theodore Robbins, junior deputy grand tall cedar; Robert Duval, scribe, and Horace Strout, treasurer.

Frank Gworek of 532 W. Middle Tpk., district deputy supreme Tall Cedar, will be the installing officer.

Vennard is a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons, the Connecticut Consistory, and a Scottish Rite Mason of the Hartford bodies. He is currently serving as chaplain of Bigelow Chapter No. 33, O.E.S., of East Hartford. He is also a member of Sphinx Temple, its Drum Corps and Imperial Drum Corps, and Omar Shrine Club.

Vennard has worked at Colt Industries, Pratt & Whitney Small Tool Division, West Hartford, for the past 40 years.

The Necklace with a Legend

While the Sand Dollar is one of the most widely known and popular of all shells, few people are aware of the pretty little legend attached to it.

Legend has it that these strange shells tell the story of Christ's suffering and his glory.

The five holes represent the five wounds of Christ. On the front the Easter Lily—in the center, a five pointed star representing the Star of Bethlehem which led the shepherds from afar. On the back the outline of the Christmas Poinsettia reminds us of his birthday. When the shell is broken open, five Doves of Peace and Good Will appear. Because of this religious legend, this fascinating creature of the sea is often referred to as the Holy Ghost shell.

A beautiful story, beautifully told in sterling silver.

Arthur J. Kittle dies at 96, was SA bandsman until 92

Arthur J. Kittle, 96, of 565 Vernon St., formerly of Keeney St., who at the age of 22 was the oldest active Salvation Army bandsman, died this morning at a Manchester convalescent home.

Mr. Kittle played the sousaphone with the Manchester Salvation Army Corps Band from 1909 until four years ago. He was a charter member of the Clacton-on-Sea Band in England, where he learned to play the cornet at the age of 17. For 75 years, he played with Salvation Army bands in England or in this country.

He was born Nov. 18, 1880 in Sumnerland, England, and came to this country and settled in Manchester in 1909. He had been a stone mason, doing much specialty work in this area. Before he retired at the age of 75, he was employed at the Firearm Division of Colt Industries, West Hartford. He then worked for various contractors in Manchester until he was 92.

He is survived by a son, Robert G. Kittle of Manchester; a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Perrett of Manchester; a brother, Cecil Kittle of Manchester.

Manchester; a sister, Mrs. William Bray of Manchester; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, Capt. Arthur Carlson, commanding officer of the Manchester Salvation Army Corps, will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Manchester Salvation Army Corps.

Mrs. Floyd R. Ryan

Mrs. Shirley Readon Ryan, 49, of 30 Northbrick Lane, Wethersfield, formerly of Manchester, died Monday at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford. She was the wife of Floyd R. Ryan.

Mrs. Ryan was born in West Springfield, Mass., and lived in Manchester before moving to Wethersfield seven years ago.

She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Ruth P. Lucente of Freedom Hills, Mass.; three brothers, Charles P. Readon of Terryville, Richard D. Readon of Wethersfield and Donald A. Readon of Manchester, N.H.; and two sisters, Mrs. Leland Grimson of Vernon and Mrs. C.J. Ziener of Manchester, N.H.

The funeral is Wednesday at 11 a.m. at Rose Hill Funeral Home, 580 Elm St., Rocky Hill. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Shawn P. Roeker

Shawn Paul Ricker, infant son of Wayne and Catherine Bisson Ricker of 10 Hoffman Rd., died Nov. 8 in Hartford Hospital. He was born Nov. 4 at the hospital.

He is also survived by his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ricker Sr. of Portsmouth, R.I.; his maternal grandparents, Rene Bisson of Manchester and Mrs. Marie Bisson of Fall River, Mass.; and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Alice Rossouw of Fall River.

A private committal service will be Wednesday in St. James Cemetery.

The Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., is in charge of arrangements.

Manchester and Robert Rho of Tolland.

She is also survived by a daughter, a sister and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Thursday at 9:15 a.m. from the Rose Hill Funeral Home, 580 Elm St., Rocky Hill, with a Mass at St. Lawrence O'Toole Church, Hartford, at 10. Burial will be in Rose Hill Memorial Park, Rocky Hill.

Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The Rev. Guy W. Ezelle Sr.

EAST HARTFORD —The Rev. Guy W. Ezelle Sr., 51, of 172 Main St., pastor of the Hockanum United Methodist Church, died Thursday at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford. He was the husband of Mrs. LaNelle Luckett Ezelle.

A memorial service was held Sunday at the Hockanum United Methodist Church, 1000 Main St., in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the East Hartford Human Needs Fund, c/o the Rev. Carl Holt, First Congregational Church, Main St., East Hartford.

The Rev. Ezelle was born in Cleburne, Texas, and lived in East Hartford for the past year.

He attended Texas A&M in 1942 and University of Texas in 1949. He did graduate work at University of California and Southern Methodist University in Texas. He graduated from Boston University in 1974, and was ordained an elder of the Southern New England Conference last June.

Before moving to East Hartford, he was a pastor of the Grassendale Methodist Church and an interim pastor for the Union Evangelical Church, both in Stow, Mass.

He was an Army Air Force veteran of World War II.

Other survivors are a son, Guy W. Ezelle Jr. of Texas; two daughters, Mrs. Donna McMahon of Oakland, Calif., and Miss Alice Beth Ezelle, at home, and a brother, Jesse W. Ezelle Jr. of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Summit St. zone change tabled for on-site inspection

A request for a zone change to property on Summit St. was tabled Monday night by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The decision was made to table until the commission could look at the land in question which involves 1.1 acres.

The change from Residence B to Residence M was requested by Raymond and Mary Postre of 51 Summit St. for a parcel described as 55V Summit St., a vacant lot.

Atty. Leon Podrove, who represented the owners, told the commission that the application concerned only the zone change which would permit the owners to proceed with building plans on the parcel. Building plans call for duplex apartment buildings with either one, two or three bedrooms.

J. Eric Potter, town planner, reminded the commission that the actual developable land on the parcel is only six-tenths of an acre, and there is a restriction of a sewer on one side, and the Bigelow Brook on the other. He said opposition to the request was not so much because of its proposed use as the density allowed.

Speaking in favor of the proposed zone change at the public hearing were Mrs. Norman Pilver and George Murray, both of Summit St., Richard LaPointe of 55 Wadsworth St. and Earl Wilson of 64 Kennedy Rd.

Mr. Podrove told the commission that the change would be in favor of keeping the downtown area what it is and improving it. "I don't adamantly oppose it (the zone change), but I am adamantly in favor of developing the downtown area," McKenzie said. "I don't think being in favor of opposing the zone change request is important," he added.

Richard McKenzie of 15 Plymouth Lane told the commission that if it granted the zone change request, it would be defeating the purpose of the downtown business area. He said he was in favor of keeping the downtown area what it is and improving it.

Joe still trying to collect $21

HONOLULU (UPI) — Joe Bachner says the Navy owes him $21 because he was only following orders when he abandoned ship during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, and the battleship California sank, carrying his paycheck with it. "It certainly wasn't my fault that the California sank with all my gear — and my money — that morning," Bachner said in an interview Monday on the eve of the anniversary of the bombing.

"And I was only following orders when I abandoned ship, leaped into the water and swam ashore... But I've never been able to convince the Navy that I should be repaid for that clothing allowance and paid for that month's duty."

"I'm agreeable to a compromise. If they'll pay me the $21, we'll forget about the clothing allowance — and the accumulated 35 years of interest."

Bachner, president of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, was a radioman U.S. aboard the California at the time of its sinking.

He said he was on duty at the time and the first order he heard was "Fire." This, he said, sent crewmen scurrying for fire hoses and hydrants.

"We thought it was a fire drill and scrambled for our base stations," he recalled. "In his haste to give the alarm, the boss's mate gave the 'Fire' instead of 'Open fire' alarm."

"Even though I was three decks below, I sensed something was wrong and headed for my battle station in the conning tower, figuring that was about the safest place to be. However, we were without communications as a torpedo had hit the radio room and knocked out all our gear."

"The operators abandoned the radio shack and went to an aid collection station on deck. Thirty minutes later a bomb hit the collection station and killed six of them."

Bachner said the California took three torpedo hits, which doomed the vessel.

He said he remembers when he leaped for his life into the water.

"It was 9:55 a.m. I know because my watch stopped the minute I hit the water. I still have that watch somewhere in the bottom of one of my drawers at home."

Grasso outlines portable unit use

A larger than usual audience gathered at Monday night's Board of Education meeting to hear a report on ending school use of portable classrooms.

Ernest Grasso, supervisor of pupil accounting, was directed to report and make recommendations on the future of the temporary facilities.

Dr. Eugene Diggs, superintendent of schools, said this information was necessary before the board could act on closing schools.

Grasso's report, in rough draft form, was not available to the audience as central administration and principals are still working on it.

Dr. Diggs said a specific housing recommendation would be available by the Dec. 20 board meeting or early in January.

Grasso's report outlined the uses and locations of the 36 portable units purchased in 1969 when the system faced a serious overcrowding problem.

Since then, Penney High School has been enlarged and Langford School built to ease the overcrowding. Decreasing student enrollment has also eased the situation.

Presently, one portable unit is at Barnes School. Because there is no extra space in the building now, Principal William Evans said it would be phased out this unit in 1978-79.

Center School has three portables. One is used for industrial arts and one for music. The third was given to the PTA Council over a year ago for a science center.

Grasso said, "Because this is one school where the enrollment is dropping drastically, the portable units could be removed without any problems."

Grasso also said, "We can dismiss units at Pitkin."

Principal Helen Jeffries said, "We could use the units especially if students are transferred from Willowbrook next year."

She added, "We won't have room for our speech teacher or reading consultant and their materials."

Mrs. Corine Scepanski of 9 Chickasaw Dr. in Rivermead Park off High St., East Hartford checks the mailbox in front of her mobile home. She and her husband, Frank, have lived here more than 10 years. The mobile home is new in this new area of the park. She used to live in a house in Bristol and said of her new home, "I love it. It's so easy to clean." Only adults are allowed in her section of the park.

Rivermead Mobilehome Park doesn't want state rules

"We're doing fine the way we are," said James Fusco, owner of a mobile home in the Rivermead Mobilehome Park off High St. in East Hartford.

"We don't need state regulations here," said Fusco, explaining the opposition of both homeowners and the management of the park to new state laws designed to protect the homeowners.

The law is the Connecticut Mobile Home Park Licensing Law. The General Assembly passed the law two years ago after the Connecticut Mobile Home Owners Association pressed for it.

The association is a statewide group representing residents of 118 parks. It has used the new law in court suits to protect mobile homeowners.

"I realize a lot of problems exist in other towns," said Fusco, who is also president of the Rivermead and Colonial Mobile Homes Association which is composed of 250 of the 400 plus mobile home families there.

But the new state law only adds confusion and extra expense to a good park like Rivermead, Fusco said.

For economy Robert Burns, manager of the two East Hartford parks for over 18 years, said he argued against the law before it was passed and still thinks it is wrong, at least for his parks.

"My job is to give these people the most economical living they can afford," said Burns. "I can't do it under this law."

Insurance alone for the parks rose $6,985 this year because the insurance companies are raising rates.

Like a utility Burns said he considers the park similar to a public utility. Brewer Inc. which owns the two parks must maintain roads, fuel lines, water lines, security, and the common grounds.

The two parks have a total of 420 sites of which just about all are occupied with mobile homes.

Rivermead was first set up beginning in June 1958. That summer 100 mobile homes were built.

side extensions for the living room. Seven years ago a large one might cost $10,500. Today it would cost over $16,000. That includes the kitchen appliances, two bedrooms, side skirting and newly required thick insulation.

The space rent runs as high as $83 per month. Fuel averages about $190 per year.

Most satisfied Fusco said about 85 per cent of the parks' residents get along well with Burns' management. They like the rules Burns has set up to keep the parks pleasant, he said.

"Rules such as no cats or dogs are meant for good living in such close quarters," he said.

He and his wife have two sons, John, 8, and Mark, 4. They live in the area set aside for families with children. Few families remain in the parks if they have more than two children, they said.

Due to their low costs their heat bill is less than $100 per year, they said. He said he charges slightly less than the area average for their type of fuel. On top of that, he gives a rebate at the end of the season if he can.

The three-man security force in the parks is composed of park residents. They work in uniform on staggered shifts.

The park maintenance staff, also partly composed of park residents, plows the roads, maintains the oil burners, mows the land, and puts in and takes out mobile homes.

Brewer Inc. sells new mobile homes and acts as agent for homeowners wishing to sell.

The new homes run at least 61 feet long and 14 feet wide. Many also have

Town does not depend on Hartford ambulances

East Hartford does not appear to be affected by the setting up in Hartford of a centralized dispatching system for four ambulance firms.

East Hartford Fire Chief Michael Fitzgerald said the town does not depend on any of the four firms involved.

The town's primary ambulance service is Manchester Ambulance in Manchester. Roger Talbot, president of the firm, said his backup ambulance service for when none of his services or ambulances is available is Professional Ambulance Services in Hartford.

East Hartford designated Manchester Ambulance as its primary service after a study this year. One of the reasons cited was the cooperation Manchester ambulance crews give to the paramedics of the East Hartford Fire Department.

Harvey Kagan, president of Professional, says he will not participate in a centralized dispatching system created by four smaller rival firms in greater Hartford.

"How can I trust my competitors with my business," Kagan said Monday. "The ambulance industry is a very competitive one and unless the persons operating the system have ties to any one company, there soon will be a lot of discomfiture."

Several smaller ambulance services in greater Hartford have announced a central dispatching system to increase efficiency, replacing their individual telephone answering systems.

The system, which began with L&M Ambulance Service and Maple Hill Ambulance, will include Aetna Ambulance Co. and Trinity Ambulance Service, according to L&M President Richard Mery.

Raiders silenced all skeptics overpowering Bengals, 35-20

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Now, everyone will have to believe the Oakland Raiders.

All week long leading up to Monday night's game against the Cincinnati Bengals, people everywhere, including the Pittsburgh Steelers, suggested the Raiders wouldn't go all out because they lost to Cincinnati, their old rivals, the Steelers, would be denied a spot in the forthcoming AFC playoffs.

So, the Raiders who talk often of pride, went out and smacked the Bengals, 35-20, on national television where everyone could see them, with Ken Stabler throwing four touchdown passes for a season total of 27. That put the Bengals on the outside looking in today, while the Steelers seem to be sitting in pretty good position in the playoffs.

"I said last week that the talk by the Steelers was stupid, and I still say it's stupid," said Raiders' Coach John Madden. "I can't believe any club would make such a suggestion—that we would deliberately lay down so that we could decide who would play in the playoffs."

By beating Cincinnati the Raiders improved their record to 12-1, the best mark in the National Football League, and clinched the home field edge for the playoffs. That had been their goal right along, so when the playoffs open the weekend of Dec. 18-to finish ahead of Pittsburgh, which beat them twice this year.

The Bengals made a game of it Monday night for the first half. They trailed only by 21-13 with a fairly balanced offense, but in the second half they gained only 35 rushing yards as Ken Anderson abandoned the run and went to the air.

It proved a poor move because the Raider defense started tearing off on Anderson and the harder he tried, the worse things became. In the end, Anderson completed only nine passes in 20 second-half attempts and worse than that, he was intercepted three times. That put the Bengals' defense in the hole and Stabler quickly ran off

Sunshine
FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Coach Chuck Fairbanks figures a little sun won't do the New England Patriots any harm.

The Patriots, assured of a playoff spot because of their win over New Orleans last Sunday, will travel earlier than originally planned to Florida where they finish the season against the winless Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

"This team has been playing under pressure for 13 straight weeks and I thought the players deserved a little reward," Fairbanks said Monday. "This will give them a chance to relax a little before they hit the pressure of getting ready for the playoffs again next week."

The 10-3 Patriots will leave Thursday instead of Saturday.

Apparently no serious injuries were sustained in the game against the Saints. Fairbanks said linebacker Steve Nelson and running back Sam Cunningham, both out for a few games because of injuries, might not play Sunday but hope to be ready in time for the playoffs.

There are 22 skaters born in Europe in the WHA and 10 are with the Jets, the class of the WHA, defying Western Division and playoff camps and current division pace-setters.

Of the 21-man roster, the Jets have 11 Canadian born players and the 10 Europeans, eight from Sweden and two from Finland.

The Whalers played well against the lightning quick and talented Jets in their last meeting, a 6-2 victory for Winnipeg Saturday night, but a better

Fairbanks eliminated 'sour grapes' and turned Patriots into winner

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — The difference between a rare wine and sour grapes can be one bad seed.

In sports, each player must offer his sweetest juices to make a vintage blend. If one member oozes dissension, though, the result is vinegar.

Winemaker Chuck Fairbanks stomped his feet purple for four seasons to come up "Patriots '76," the toast of the National Football League. First he had to pick out those "sour grapes"—players who caused dissension.

"They have been so cooperative and willing to try everything we suggested," said Fairbanks after the New England Patriots had secured their first playoff berth in 13 years. "We don't have anybody going against the grain. The players are very close to one another and have a great relationship to my staff. That's one thing that has to be there."

A highly successful college coach, Fairbanks managed only 15 wins against 27 losses in his first three seasons. The talent may have been there, but the willingness to sacrifice individual honors for the good of the team was missing.

In training camp last summer, though, "an electricity" developed, according to Fairbanks who was at a loss to describe the reasons for the positive change. The indications, although never spoken, was that former players had been responsible for a negative charge.

When times were bad the previous three seasons, players vocalized discontent in public and private. They quipped they were out of a job with the Patriots.

Two years ago Reggie Rucker, a good receiver, had words with Fairbanks. He quickly was put on the injured reserve list and traded at the season's end to Cleveland.

Unhappy cornerback Ron Bolton also was traded to Cleveland after last season and problematical Mack Herron was released on waivers last November even though he had set a total offensive yardage record the previous season. Jim Plunkett wanted to leave New England and Fairbanks worked out a trade with San Francisco.

The message was clear: do what the boss wants or get out.

Fairbanks weathered a storm of criticism for his moves and more than one of the traded players had unkind things to say about the inflexible coach. Upon his release, Herron said, "People think Fairbanks is a goody-goody. Well, he isn't, and he's starting to show he can't handle the pressure."

"I've been playing pro football longer than he's been coaching it and he doesn't know all there is about men in the game yet. He doesn't treat them like men. He's been coaching boys for too long and he hasn't realized the difference yet."

Based on the Patriots' stunning turnaround from last season's 3-11 record, Herron's words smack of the sourness of grapes. The players who suffered silently the first three years feel Fairbanks has vindicated himself.

Wide receiver Darryl Stingley, a first-round draft choice in Fairbanks' than average effort is needed to halt Bobby Hull and Co.

With Hull back in action, after missing the first 23 games while a broken wrist healed, the Jets are more powerful than ever.

The all-time great, who was the first super star to jump from the NHL to the WHA, has proven beyond any doubt that he had lost little of his ability with eight points, one goal and eight assists in his first four games.

The 37-year-old Golden Jet was a marked man in his latest Hartford appearance. Several Whalers tried their best to intimidate Hull but he would have none of the nonsense and concentrated on playing hockey, one of his centering passes setting up the winning goal.

With Anders Hedberg and Ulf Nilsson, Hull formed the highest scoring line in the WHA the past two seasons. Hedberg is No. 1 in the scoring parade to date with his Swedish teammate third.

The Whalers have two Europeans, the Abramsson twins, Christer and Tommy, from Sweden.

Winnipeg will make just one more visit to Hartford this season, Feb. 10. By then they should be far out ahead of the pack in the West.

Meanwhile, Coach Harry Neale has hopes that his Whalers will be ready

Milwaukee Brewers living up to promise made to fans with several player trades

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers Monday were busy living up to their promise to fans to do everything they could in the offseason to make their team respectable.

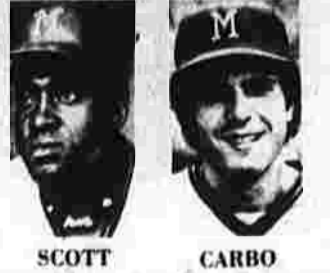

In a whirlwind day at the beginning of the winter baseball meetings the Brewers:

- Traded pitcher Jim Colborn and catcher Darrell Porter to Kansas City for outfielder Jim Wohlford, 25, third baseman Jamie Quirk, 22, and a player to be announced later.
- Sent George Scott and Bernie Carbo back to the Boston Red Sox, the team they had originally come from, for first baseman Cecil Cooper.
- Acquired veteran catcher Larry Haney, 34, after he didn't have as good a year as the Brewers would have liked and he openly criticized the team. Carbo, who came to Milwaukee only last summer, was a big disappointment but the Red Sox want back their World Series hero from two seasons ago.
- And Baumer was happy over Cooper, a 26-year-old first baseman who has been the Boston Red Sox first baseman for three years and who last season hit .282 with 15 homers and 78 RBIs.

"We're delighted to get a player of Cooper's talents," Baumer said.

Manager Alex Grammas was also happy over both the trades the club made, especially for Cooper.

Scott had been the star in Milwaukee ever since he came to the Brewers in 1971 in a bit 10 player trade with

SCOTT CARBO

Boston but last year he didn't have as good a year as the Brewers would have liked and he openly criticized the team. Carbo, who came to Milwaukee only last summer, was a big disappointment but the Red Sox want back their World Series hero from two seasons ago.

And Baumer was happy over Cooper, a 26-year-old first baseman who has been the Boston Red Sox first baseman for three years and who last season hit .282 with 15 homers and 78 RBIs.

They sent Porter and Colborn, the Brewers' only 20 game winner, to Kansas City. Colborn was a hero in 1973 but has had a rough time since then he was 9-15 with a 3.71 ERA this season and Porter has never lived up to the potential the club thought he had.

The Brewers liked the trade because they got a solid outfielder in Wohlford, who hit .249 last year and stole 22 bases, and a fine young player Quirk.

"You can be sure he will play more this year," Grammas said of Quirk who hit .246 in 64 games for the Royals.

The Royals were happy to get Porter and Manager Whitey Herzog said he "certainly has tremendous potential" and that the team is hoping it can bounce back from several poor seasons. Last year he hit only .208 in 119 games.

Baseball trade mart busy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies came to the winter baseball meetings looking to replace the departed Dick Allen and Dave Cash. They've taken care of half that problem with the signing of free agent Richie Hebner.

"We'll shift him to first base," explained Danny Ozark, the Phillies' manager, after the 29-year-old Hebner signed with the National League's Eastern Division winners Monday night. "We're very confident he can do the job for us."

Hebner played third base for Pittsburgh last season but originally was a first baseman.

"I'm tickled," said Paul Owens, the Phillies' director of player personnel. "This gives us the lefthanded power hitter we've been after for four years."

Hebner, who hit .249 with eight home runs and 51 RBIs last season, was the Pirates' regular third baseman since 1969. He helped the Pirates get into five playoff series and one World Series. He became the 19th of 24 free agents to sign a contract with a new club. Owens would not disclose terms of the multi-year pact.

Allen played first base for the Phillies last year but chose his free agency and has not yet been dealt by anyone.

Owens said the Phillies probably would take care of their second base needs within their own system. The second base vacancy was created when Cash went to Montreal as a free agent.

Hebner, who has been on a European tour of U.S. military bases, wasn't present at the announcement of his signing. He returned to Boston

Monday afternoon where he met with his agent and then telephoned the Phillies to tell them of his decision.

Eight clubs drafted Hebner and Owens, a close friend of American League batting champion George Brett, played in only 64 games with the Royals last season and hit .246. "Quirk's will definitely play a lot more for us," said Grammas. "Obviously, we're now in a position to make some other moves."

The Cleveland Indians reobtained 36-year-old Rico Carby from the Toronto Blue Jays for catcher Rick Oterone and utilityman John Lovense. The Indians lost Carby to Toronto in the expansion draft and Cleveland general manager Phil Siegel said, "We're delighted to get Rico back. Had we known he was going to be taken so quickly in the expansion draft, we'd have protected him. We fully expected to pull him back after the first round."

With the acquisition of Carone, Toronto now finds itself with four catchers and Peter Bavasi admitted that was a prelude to another deal up in the air.

In other activity here, the Red Sox sold infielder Bobby Heise to Kansas City and the Minnesota Twins bought outfielder Glenn Adams from the Giants.

Barons blanked
MONTREAL (UPI) — Last season the Montreal Canadiens won the NHL championship and the Stanley Cup by cutting down on their goals against. This season the Canadiens are heading for another title and also are aiming to be the NHL's leading goal scorers.

However, they did not do much to help their goal output Monday night as they only managed to blank the Cleveland Barons, 1-0, in the one hockey game played.

Palmer, Fidrych, Ryan tops

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles, rookie Mark Fidrych of the Detroit Tigers and Nolan Ryan of the California Angels were the American League's pitching stars of 1976. It was revealed today by official statistics.

The figures, compiled by the Sports Information Center in Quincy, Mass., voted the American League's Cy Young Award to Palmer as the pitcher of the year in three categories and by the Baseball Writers Association of America in five others. He was

Learning season for East eleven

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

"We ran into a brick wall in regards to our opponents," East Catholic football coach John LaFontana stated summing up the 1978 campaign. The Eagles finished up 2-4, tying their worst finish ever, but did manage a 14-6 Thanksgiving Day win over Manchester to end the year on a successful note.

"We played two league champions (HCC-St. Paul, CVC-Rockville) and either played or scrimmaged two (St. Paul and East Hartford) of the eight teams participating in the state playoffs. We hit teams in their turnaround years," the fourth-year coach commented.

The season cannot, and should not, be written off as a total loss, however. As LaFontana described it, "It was a season they learned how to play," referring to the offense. East only scored 95 points but many on the platoon were undergoing their first baptism this time around.

The encouraging aspect is that tackles Tom Messier and John Anderson, both juniors, will return and that brings a modicum of experience to the middle of the line at either center or guard slot.

The Eagles appear set at quarterback with sophomore Ken Briscoe, and at running back with Mike Giberto. Briscoe is a sophomore and Giberto a junior. Briscoe is a sophomore and Giberto a junior. Briscoe is a sophomore and Giberto a junior.

Michigan tops UPI hoop poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — The No. 1 ranked college basketball team in the nation still hangs in the Big Ten Conference.

But, for the first time in two seasons, it isn't Indiana.

Michigan, runnerup to Indiana in the NCAA tournament last season, took over the No. 1 spot Monday in the first weekly United Press International Board of Coaches' college basketball poll.

The Wolverines (30-3), second to Marquette in the preseason ratings, received 22 first-place votes and 388 points.

Marquette, which has won its only game, got 16 first-place mentions and 308 points for second place and was followed in order by UCLA, Nevada-Las Vegas, Kentucky, Alabama, Arizona, San Francisco and North Carolina.

Call up Harrison BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars Monday called up goaltender Paul Harrison, center Blake Dunlop and left winger Jim Roberts from their New Haven, Conn., farm team.

North Stars' Coach Ted Harris said Harrison would start in goal Tuesday night when Minnesota plays the Pittsburgh Penguins in Pittsburgh.

SEATTLE (UPI) — Safety Bryant Salter, acquired by Miami only last week, was dropped by the Seahawks Monday.

Mike Nolan will be in MCC's starting lineup tonight against Greater Hartford at East Catholic High's gym at 8 o'clock. Nolan has averaged 12.1 points per game and 10.1 rebounds per game in 11 games.

LaFontana stated East will work hard on getting its short passing game working so it can control the ball. He also added the Eagles will "really have to put things together defensively." East allowed 23 points and 11½ have to score things up and repatch because of graduation.

Freshman John Korzar and junior John Shovak, the latter of which will find because of a broken leg, will play in the defensive line somewhat. Junior Brian Hayes is also a possibility. Sophomore Marty Varhue and freshman Dave Bottaro give East a start in the inbacking back with sophomore Greg Ferruolo and sophomore Brian Shea in the secondary.

Sophomore Rich Harrison will play somewhere, either offensively or defensively or both, with junior Tony Tiemann another who should get ready for the '79 season.

One can see the Eagles won't start from scratch come '79. How well they do will depend on how much they improve and at what level they find the opponents. And that, LaFontana has "stopped guessing on. You don't know who'll stay up or come down."

Gains franchise PAWUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Businessman Marvin Adelson, founder of the pie-in-the-sky World Baseball League, says he plans to run the International League Rhode Island Red Sox like a major league operation.

Mike Furlong, 93 carries for 447 yards, and Bob Frank, 97 carries for 379 yards, graduate but LaFontana anticipates the likes of Brian Sirois, Ernie Carter and Mike Giberto to come through at running back. Dave Kiser, who found a home at wide receiver, could be used in the backfield or as a pass catcher in '79. He latched onto six passes for 244 yards and two TDs. At either slot he should help the Eagles.

Southpaw net players losers in Houston event

HOUSTON (UPI) — There probably was no relation between a full moon and losses by all three left-handers in the second night of the Grand Prix Masters, but there was little else to explain what happened in the unusual tennis tournament.

Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, a powerful left-hander and the tournament favorite after his controversial victory over Mexico's Raul Ramirez on opening night, was upset by Brian Gottfried 6-3, 2-6, 6-4 Monday.

Eddie Dibbs, who was made to look awkward by Spain's Manuel Orantes two days. But that's the way it stood going into today's third of four round-robin days.

To start with, the eight players vying for $40,000 first prize were divided into two groups. The two players in each group with the best round-robin record after four days will advance to the semifinals Thursday.

Solomon, scheduled to play Grand Prix circuit point winner Ramirez tonight, led the blue group with a 1-0 record. Vilas and Gottfried were 1-1 and Ramirez was 0-1.

In the white group, Fibak was 1-0, Orantes and Dibbs 1-1, and Tanner 0-1.

Never in the previous six Masters have there been three lefties in the eight-player field, which is determined by points gained over the 48-tournament Grand Prix circuit.

Never in the previous four years, since the Masters was played in the present format, has there not been a player and friend Mickey Vernon also attended.

Married Murtaugh and his wife, Kathleen, some 35 years ago, said Murtaugh was a man who by an example of love and dedication and worthy of our great admiration."

Woodlynn, Pa. (UPI) — A moment of silence for a likable man who seldom was silent was the final tribute paid Monday to the late Danny Murtaugh.

After a five-minute eulogy for Murtaugh, who died last Thursday after a stroke, the priest who celebrated a funeral Mass asked for a moment of silence.

The Rev. Francis O'Reilly said the moment was "to think how Danny entered into our life and influenced our life and what we can do to say, 'Thank you Danny Murtaugh.'"

Murtaugh, 36, who died just two months after he retired as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was buried in St. Peter and Paul Cemetery, Marple Township, Pa. after the mass at Our Lady of Peace Roman Catholic Church in nearby Millmont Park.

Baseball players and officials, judges, politicians, priests, friends and neighbors of the generous man gathered at the standing room only crowd of 700 in the church and in the funeral cortege of 70 cars.

Sports figures included former Pirates' General Manager Joe Brown, Dan Galbreath, president of the club, Harding Peterson, Brown's successor; baseball announcer Bob Prince and Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steelers football club.

The Pirates ballplayers included Willie Stargell, Al Oliver, Larry Demery, Bob Robertson, Jim Rooker and Manny Sanguillen. Coach Don Leppert, retired umpire Shag Crawford, and former player 3-0 in matches after the first two days. But that's the way it stood going into today's third of four round-robin days.

The woman and one of her companions, who also was unidentified, told the newspaper they didn't notice any lights inside the Gibbons' house that night and thought it unusual.

"We never told the state police, we never did," the woman was quoted as saying. "I only saw a car. I didn't think it was important. We would have come forward if we thought it was important."

The newspaper said Mrs. Gibbons had telephoned her physician at 9:20 p.m. the night of the murder to learn the results of some medical tests she had taken. When state police arrived at her home 10:02 p.m. she was pronounced dead.

The sighting of the car came approximately at the same time an auxiliary state trooper and his wife told state police they saw Reilly five miles from his home in North Canaan. It was this statement, never presented during Reilly's ordeal, that resulted in the dismissal of charges against him.

Reilly arrived home about 9:50 p.m. that night and told police how he had found his dead mother in her blood-splattered bedroom.

The statement by the auxiliary trooper of Reilly's whereabouts and the time proves he would not have had time to kill his mother, clean up and change his clothes before troopers arrived, according to Reilly's lawyer, T.F. Gilroy Daly.

After Reilly was cleared and freed two weeks ago, state police said they found bloodstained clothing under a crucifix in a wooden church near the Gibbons house. The clothing was sent for testing at the FBI Laboratory in Washington but test results have not been disclosed.

Conviction upheld HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Supreme Court Monday upheld the conviction of Charles Crawford, 20, who admitted killing another man but contended he was drunk and under the influence of LSD.

Crawford appealed to the high court his conviction in 1974 for the fatal shooting of James Frolosone, 19, of Hamden the year before, an incident authorities believe stemmed from gang rivalries.

The unanimous high court ruling upheld the decision of Superior Court Judge George Saden who had instructed Crawford's jury on the legal relationship between intoxication and specific intent to commit a crime. Saden sentenced Crawford to 22 years in life.

In Peter Reilly case

Strange car reported seen near residence of murdered woman

FALLS VILLAGE (UPI) — An unidentified woman, breaking a three-year silence, says she saw a dark car parked across from the home of Barbara Gibbons near the time she was slain in 1973, a published report said today.

The Hartford Courant said the sighting hadn't been made public before and the woman didn't think the information was important enough to tell the state police.

Mrs. Gibbons, 51, was found stabbed, slashed, and stomped to death Sept. 28, 1973, in the home on Rte. 63 she shared with her son, Peter Reilly, then 18.

Reilly was convicted of manslaughter, sentenced from 6 to 16 years, appealed, freed on bond, and granted a retrial on the basis of new evidence. A judge dismissed charges against Reilly Nov. 24 when the state disclosed it had evidence tending to clear him, but had suppressed it from the start.

A renewed investigation has begun and Gov. Ella T. Grasso has ordered Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley to investigate the conduct of the prosecution of Reilly.

The woman, identified only as a Falls Village resident, reported seeing "a dark color car, an older model," across from the Gibbons home sometime between 9:30 p.m. and 9:45 p.m. while driving home from a restaurant with two other women.

The woman told the Courant the vehicle appeared to be parked on the wrong side of Rte. 63 heading toward North Canaan, about five miles away.

"The woman and one of her companions, who also was unidentified, told the newspaper they didn't notice any lights inside the Gibbons' house that night and thought it unusual.

"We never told the state police, we never did," the woman was quoted as saying. "I only saw a car. I didn't think it was important. We would have come forward if we thought it was important."
