By Betty Ryder

The Manchester Civic Club held its annual Christmas gala Saturday with dinner and dancing at the Colony in Talcottville.

When we walked in, the pretty songstress with The Electric Company musical group nodded her head in recognition and it suddenly dawned on me that we had danced to the same group just the week before when The Herald hosted its Christmas party at the Colony.

Enjoying dinner were Ed and "Sam" Gagnon (he's president of Civic), "Sam" looked great in a black jumpsuit. Joseph Tully and his Mrs. along with the Steve Cassanos and the Al Martins joined in the festivities.

Rarely sitting out a dance were Howard and Marge Holmes (she looking radiant in a long sleeved white jersey gown) and Bill and Lois Dion.

It was a great night and several other organizations must be heard celebrating, as music could be heard from a few other rooms.

Celebration
Missed a happening at Ric Repka's new facility at Constitution Plaza in Hartford.

Ric hosted a holiday party on Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. and I'm sure his new store is super. If you are familiar with the one he has in the Manchester Parkade, "Fair Fashions" you just have to know that "Repko Designs" will be equally as elegant.

Use bran in cooking

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have had troublesome bowels all my life and for the past few years have tried including some roughage in my daily diet. I very much like bran but I wonder if the roughage effect of the bran is lost when it is in the form of muffins. Is it?

DEAR READER - No. One important way of increasing the cereal fiber in your diet is to use real whole-wheat bread and baked products containing bran. Watch out for some of the commercial breads claiming to be whole wheat. Read the label carefully as much whole-wheat bread is made with about half white flour and then artificially colored. A tea-cup of All-Bran or Bran-Buds or two cups of Bran Flakes will meet your daily needs for cereal fiber. There is more to preventing bowel problems than just bran, am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation, to help you. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. ### Past Commanders install officers

At the annual meeting of the Past Commanders Association of the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion in Manchester, Ernest G. Linders was elected chairman and John B. Mayne, secretary-treasurer.

Ernest G. Linders

John B. Mayne

Linders, an Army veteran of World War II, served as the post's commander in 1972 and was elected again in 1973. He is presently serving on the executive board of the post and also heads up the Friday Fish night as chef.

Mayne, who served as commander of the post in 1975, was voted commander of the year by the Department of Connecticut at a recent convention. He is an army veteran having served in Vietnam.

The annual reports were presented by the outgoing chairman of the association, Eugene Freeman and Robert Donahue, both past commanders of the post.

Following the installation of officers, the association made plans for its annual Christmas party to be held Saturday at the Post Home. There will be a social hour at 6 p.m. with a roast beef dinner at 7. All widows of the deceased past commanders are invited.

Plans also were discussed for the Legion's Birthday Anniversary to be held in March. In the past, the association has sponsored this program on behalf of the post and expects to do the same in March.

OPEC asked by Saudis to freeze oil prices

DOHA, Qatar (UPI)—Ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries opened a crucial meeting today with Saudi Arabia calling for a six-month freeze on oil prices and other countries demanding hikes of up to 25 per cent. Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani of Saudi Arabia, the most important voice at the parley, said before the conference his country opposes any immediate increase because of the weak state of the world economy.

Opening the conference, which is taking place amid intensive security, outgoing OPEC President Mohammed Sadiq of Indonesia said the oil ministers have "a heavy burden of global responsibility."

The last time the price of oil was raised in the last month, watching the trend of recovery, we now believe the recovery is not as strong as we hoped for and therefore we have changed our position and we think we have to have a strong view.

Officials said the ministers would immediately begin work on the question of price revision.

Since any OPEC decisions must be unanimous, Yamani's statement appeared to signal a hard-fought debate. But Yamani has said the same kind of thing before other OPEC meetings and then gone along with a price hike.

Yamani added, "This is our position today and we will do our best to convince the members in OPEC with our views and we think we do have a strong view."

In Atlanta, President-elect Jimmy Carter said the U.S. government has made some progress in convincing Arab oil nations that a price increase "might be counterproductive."

The Shah of Iran is on record as first opposed the hike then joined the others in imposing one.

Sheikh Mana Saeed Al-Otaiba, Oil Minister of the United Arab Emirates, who is reported to be close to Yamani, said he had coordinated pricing policy with Saudi Arabia, and that he favored 10 per cent.

Conference sources said this seemed to indicate that Saudi Arabia also would go for this figure as the conference proceeds.

Saudi Arabia, OPEC's biggest producer, is adamantly opposed to an increase so big that it would damage Western economies on which its own development depends, and where its petrodollar profits are invested.

Yamani said he had coordinated pricing policy with Saudi Arabia, and that he favored 10 per cent.

At least three persons were killed-including a Saudi Arabian national-and 10 others seriously wounded in the blast that occurred Tuesday, killing at least three persons and injuring hundreds of others, the official Iraqi news agency said today.

Time bomb bursts in Baghdad airport

A powerful time bomb hidden in a suitcase exploded at the customs hall of Baghdad International Airport Tuesday, killing at least three persons and injuring hundreds of others, the official Iraqi news agency said today.

In London, a British Airways spokesman said as many as 10 persons may have died and as many as 400 were wounded in the crowded terminal.

Preliminary investigation indicated the explosives-packed suitcase was unloaded at the airport from an Egyptian airliner that originated in Cairo but made a stopover at Damascus, Syria, the Iraqi agency said.

GE shareholders vote for merger

STRAFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Shareholders of General Electric Co. voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to merge their company with Utah International Inc. to form the largest corporate marriage in the nation's history.

Meeting at the American Shakespeare Theater here, 98 per cent of the GE shareholders present or voting by proxy approved the plan to swap about 41 million newly issued shares valued at some $2.2 billion for 31.5 million shares of Utah International.

About 80 per cent of GE's outstanding shares were cast in the voting. Shareholders of Utah International were to meet later in the day to vote on the merger which will make the coal and uranium mining concern a wholly owned subsidiary of GE.

The merger represents the first major diversification for GE in the company's 84-year history, greatly expanding its international scope through Utah International's vast foreign mineral holdings.

Town counsel claims director statements seemed like pressure

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Town Counsel Victor I. Moses issued a statement to the Board of Directors Tuesday night that said the "political pressure" he had felt on his office was in connection with statements made by directors to the press.

Moses had told the directors on Nov. 23 that his office had been receiving such pressure in connection with the Buckland fire jurisdiction case, which he called a "highly emotional" case.

In Tuesday's statement to the board, Moses said, "There appeared in the press various articles relating to this matter which disturbed me greatly. One reading these articles could not help but to receive a clear impression that legal decisions concerning this case were not being made by the town counsel's office and that there was indication and confusion concerning the handling of this matter."

He mentioned two directors - Phyllis Jackson and Jack Goldberg - who had commented on the possibility that the counsel's office might seek additional help from the Buckland case.

"It was a concern on their part for the amount of time in the counsel's office," Moses said in reference to the remarks made by the directors.

"Some people might say that I overreacted, but I always felt strongly about the independence of the town counsel's office," Moses told the board.

Moses also said that he found some newspaper stories on the Buckland case and his office "misleading."

"The impression from the articles was that I was not making the decisions in the office," he said.

Director Carl Zinsser said that he appreciated Moses' writing of the statement but added, "I'm amazed if this is all there is to it."

Two new town positions funded by directors

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors Tuesday night appropriated funds for two new positions, a budget analyst and an outreach worker for the elderly.

The funding for both jobs will come primarily from federal monies. The board voted 8-0 (Director John Thompson was out of town on a business matter), to allocate $8,125 to pay the salary and fringe benefits for the budget analyst position.

This money, which will pay the analyst's salary and fringe benefits for the remainder of this fiscal year, is being allocated from the town's share of the federal Public Works Employment Act, Title II program.

The town recently received a $78,000 payment through the program and is expected to receive a total of about $150,000 in Title II funds.

The budget analyst will work with Controller Thomas S. Moore and Town Manager Robert E. Weiss in preparing next year's budget. Weiss recommended the position be created to allow for more accurate budget forecasting.

The board indicated Tuesday night that it would review the analyst's work after the upcoming budget is completed.

Board member Vivian Ferguson said, "The analyst can be an important adjunct to the town. I'll be sitting on my seventh budget, and I think the analyst can be a great asset."

Director Paul Willhide said, "As much as I hate to add another body to the payroll, I think this is a valuable addition."

The directors also voted 6-2 to approve a $2,800 appropriation to pay for the town's Vista Volunteer, who works in the elderly nutrition program.

The position, which used to be held by Ms. Wicks, had previously been funded completely with federal monies. This year, the town was asked to pay part of the salary of the volunteer, who oversees the nutrition program that feeds 80 elderly residents.

Directors Willhide and Zinsner voted against the appropriation for this post.

An approval of an early retirement requested by Howard I. Crothers to be effective Feb. 1, 1977.

The directors unanimously approved spending $10,000 of Title II funds on the dredging of Center Springs Pond. Money that had been budgeted for the project had previously been transferred to the construction of a bathroom-refreshment facility at Mt. Nebo Field.

Other action taken by the board Tuesday night included:

• Unanimous approval of a $4,200 appropriation for various educational special projects, including $600 for club advisors and $900 for work study programs for needy students. The money will be provided by a state grant.

• Appropriation to the General Fund Budget of $13,500 received from the Savings Bank of Manchester Library Appreciation Fund. The money will be used only for library expenses. The board will send a letter of thanks to the bank.

• A unanimous vote to issue a waiver of the building permit fee for the Bicentennial Bandshell. The board agreed that because of the nature of the townwide bicentennial project, no fee should be required for the structure.

• Approval of an early retirement requested by Howard I. Crothers to be effective Feb. 1, 1977.

The Community Outreach Center will sponsor a potluck Thursday at 6 p.m. in Luther Hall of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, will have a church service and testimony meeting, which is open to the public, tonight at 8 at the church, 447 N. Main St.

When the post was vacated by Ms. Hashim, it created a minor stir in the Republican party.

Mrs. Beck said she is "deeply concerned" that Ajello's role in the proposed purchase could present "potential conflicts of interest."

Under law, Ajello is within his rights to maintain a private practice while he serves as Connecticut's chief legal counsel with a salary of $30,000.

But Mrs. Beck said she is concerned the public will not understand the "legal niceties" separating an attorney's views from that of his clients.

It is to avoid the appearance of a conflict that the state's attorney general should, in my opinion, devote all of his efforts to his elected responsibilities," she said.

Ajello said the business deal is a legitimate transaction and he is not guilty of any wrongdoing. He said his business concerns are not getting in the way of his elected responsibilities.

The lights are on the tree again at Robertson Park. For the past couple of years, the large live tree has gone unlighted. Theft and breakage of the lights discouraged the Town Recreation and Park Department from continuing the practice of putting lights on the tree.

This year, with the cooperation of seven North End businesses, one gross of light bulbs was purchased for the tree lighting.

Three dozen each of red, white, green and orange bulbs twinkle in the darkness every night.

Donors of the lights are W.J. Irish Insurance Agency, Lingard Cabinet Co., Farr's, Capitol Equipment Co., Don Willis Garage, Manchester Car- bide Co. and North End Package Store.

The area around the tree will be the setting for a Christmas Carol sing Monday at 7 p.m. The event, open to the public, is sponsored by the Eighth Utilities District Board of Directors and the District Fire Department.

In case of inclement weather, the singalong will be inside the Whittier Ladies Auxiliary. Louise Tamer will direct the sing.

Participants are requested to bring flashlights. Carol books will be provided.

Refreshments will be served after the carol sing.

Board member Vivian Ferguson said, "The analyst can be an important adjunct to the town. I'll be sitting on my seventh budget, and I think the analyst can be a great asset."

Four women being considered for Carter cabinet positions

ATLANTA (UPI) — One woman, Jane Cahill Pfeiffer, has turned down a Cabinet post offered by President-elect Jimmy Carter, but at least four others remain prominently on his list of possible choices.

The announcement of Mrs. Pfeiffer's appointment to be commerce secretary had been expected at Carter's Tuesday news conference, but he said instead she asked that she not be considered for the job.

She said later there were two reasons: Her marriage is her first priority and her husband would have been unable to accompany her to Washington; she had surgery for thyroid cancer a year ago and while in good health now, she uncertainly she possesses the stamina for a Cabinet job.

Mrs. Pfeiffer is a former vice president of the IBM Corp. So far other names have been reported for the commerce position.

Phyllis Jackson, who voted for the worker, warned that she thought the job was more than one person could handle. She asked that the Outreach worker act as a "coordinator" over volunteers and social groups who could be seeking out the town's needy senior citizens.

It should be a routine meeting. It should be over in ten minutes," Ferguson said, who is one of the delegates.

Irish, who announced his candidacy for the post in August, said that he will be present at the convention tonight.

"It's been long coming. I've waited a long time for this," he said at the time of her withdrawal.

Sen. Byrd virtually clinches Senate majority leader post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia appears to have virtually clinched election as Senate Democratic leader at the start of the 96th Congress in January.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., withdrew from the race Tuesday, leaving Senate Democrats with a two-way contest between Byrd and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Hollings said at least five of his supporters would swing to Byrd, putting the West Virginian well over the 32 votes needed for election Jan. 4. He would succeed Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who is retiring.

Humphrey, who last week urged Hollings to withdraw during a Tuesday two-hour meeting, was not available for comment. But a top aide said Humphrey "has no intention of dropping out at all."

"He feels good about it," the aide said. "He feels he can win the race."

Byrd had an official "no comment" on Hollings' withdrawal but he told a friend this week that a conservative count gives him a "comfortable first ballot" lead.

Byrd, who has served as assistant Senate Democratic leader since 1971, has consistently claimed he has enough votes to win. But Humphrey said last week that Byrd has not locked up the race.

Hollings said his count puts Byrd over the top. He credited Byrd with 22 votes and said five of his supporters would swing to the West Virginian and seven to Humphrey.

But Humphrey's bid to overtake Byrd suffered in the past two days. Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota, listed by the anti-Byrd forces as a probable vote for Humphrey, declared for Byrd. So did Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, previously listed as only a probable Byrd vote.

Hollings, who ran as a "compromise" candidate between Humphrey and Byrd, said he rounded up 12 committed votes and decided to withdraw when he could make no more headway. Hollings said he plans to vote for Humphrey.

If Byrd wins, he probably will be succeeded as assistant Senate Democratic leader by Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the only candidate for the No. 2 post.

"He feels good about it," the aide said. "He feels he can win the race."

Byrd had an official "no comment" on Hollings' withdrawal but he told a friend this week that a conservative count gives him a "comfortable first ballot" lead.

Byrd, who has served as assistant Senate Democratic leader since 1971, has consistently claimed he has enough votes to win. But Humphrey said last week that Byrd has not locked up the race.

Hollings said his count puts Byrd over the top. He credited Byrd with 22 votes and said five of his supporters would swing to the West Virginian and seven to Humphrey.

But Humphrey's bid to overtake Byrd suffered in the past two days. Sen. James Abourezk of South Dakota, listed by the anti-Byrd forces as a probable vote for Humphrey, declared for Byrd. So did Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, previously listed as only a probable Byrd vote.

Hollings, who ran as a "compromise" candidate between Humphrey and Byrd, said he rounded up 12 committed votes and decided to withdraw when he could make no more headway. Hollings said he plans to vote for Humphrey.

If Byrd wins, he probably will be succeeded as assistant Senate Democratic leader by Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the only candidate for the No. 2 post.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia appears to have virtually clinched election as Senate Democratic leader at the start of the 96th Congress in January.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., withdrew from the race Tuesday, leaving Senate Democrats with a two-way contest between Byrd and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Hollings said at least five of his supporters would swing to Byrd, putting the West Virginian well over the 32 votes needed for election Jan. 4. He would succeed Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who is retiring.

Humphrey, who last week urged Hollings to withdraw during a Tuesday two-hour meeting, was not available for comment. But a top aide said Humphrey "has no intention of dropping out at all."

The lights are on the tree again at Robertson Park. For the past couple of years, the large live tree has gone unlighted. Theft and breakage of the lights discouraged the Town Recreation and Park Department from continuing the practice of putting lights on the tree.

This year, with the cooperation of seven North End businesses, one gross of light bulbs was purchased for the tree lighting.

Three dozen each of red, white, green and orange bulbs twinkle in the darkness every night.

Donors of the lights are W.J. Irish Insurance Agency, Lingard Cabinet Co., Farr's, Capitol Equipment Co., Don Willis Garage, Manchester Car- bide Co. and North End Package Store.

The area around the tree will be the setting for a Christmas Carol sing Monday at 7 p.m. The event, open to the public, is sponsored by the Eighth Utilities District Board of Directors and the District Fire Department.

In case of inclement weather, the singalong will be inside the Whittier Ladies Auxiliary. Louise Tamer will direct the sing.

Participants are requested to bring flashlights. Carol books will be provided.

Refreshments will be served after the carol sing.

Board member Vivian Ferguson said, "The analyst can be an important adjunct to the town. I'll be sitting on my seventh budget, and I think the analyst can be a great asset."

Housing studies only a good start

At the instigation of Town Manager Robert Weiss and Town Planner Eric Pitzer, two study committees are working on ways and means to encourage the construction of lower cost homes in Manchester.

With an average price of $42,000, the officials feel that the price is nearing the point where too many Manchester people cannot afford to own their own homes.

The studies are to be commended, but we do think there are limits to which they can go in overhauling or changing the town's regulations on lot sizes, floor area requirements and other subdivision and zoning rules designed to a large degree to insure and protect the prime feature of an individual home - living space beyond the walls of a house and living space within the walls of a house larger than that of the standard rental.

We think that lower home prices, while a commendable goal, should not be the ultimate criteria. True, more homes on the same plot of land cuts land costs - for a while. But land costs are dictated by many factors and we would question crowding more units per acre will be anything more than a temporary solution.

Reduction of the minimum square footages does have merit particularly in the terms of the current trend toward smaller families.

We suggest the town follow up these studies with a look at building codes which may be preventing the use of labor-saving techniques and materials in housing construction.

And finally, the biggest thing the town can do to encourage home ownership is to hold the line on property taxes.

The more common complaint about home ownership is not the price, nor the interest, nor the neighborhood, but taxes.

And more and more we hear homeowners dreading to sell because of high taxes. They know they won't escape them by renting, but it will seem easier.

In summation, holding the cost of home ownership down involves many things which Manchester as we know, may or may not be able to influence. One thing it can do is create a favorable climate for home ownership by keeping taxes down, protecting existing property values with reasonable zoning laws, and insuring orderly growth by looking before it leaps. The two studies now being undertaken hopefully are being done in that context.

Hospitals signing leases

Both the American Hospital Association and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare say that the cost of hospital care will go up again next year.

Hospitals in one typical major metropolitan area expect to be paying about 4 per cent more for sutures and 14 per cent more for anesthetic gases. Laboratory supplies and chemicals and X-ray film will cost 10 to 12 per cent more, as will housekeeping, laundry and maintenance supplies and food. Wages and benefits for hospital workers will similarly rise.

One result of such steadily mounting costs is that hospitals around the country are finding that the replacement of obsolete equipment with up-to-date technology may be more than their budgets will allow. For example, a portable X-ray unit that cost $2,500 20 years ago now costs $14,000.

This not only means that many hospitals cannot acquire the sophisticated equipment needed to provide quality medical care. Many doctors will not practice in areas isolated from technological innovation.

As recently as 1973, nearly 140 counties in the United States were without a single resident physician.

Fortunately a growing number of hospitals, large and small, are meeting the problem by leasing big-budget medical equipment. According to the American Hospital Association, over 50 per cent of U.S. hospitals have adopted leasing programs to cut their equipment expenditures.

Demand for leasing is particularly strong in the area of emergency care, says Richard D. Kings, president of Trans Union Leasing, a major company in the business. Emergency room visits jumped from 22 million in 1972 to more than 60 million in 1975 and now account for more than 25 per cent of all hospital admissions.

Besides easing budget pains, another advantage of equipment leasing, he says, is that it eliminates the threat of obsolescence. When equipment is no longer current, a hospital simply transfers to whatever is new by signing a new lease.

Today's thought

"Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear." This verse of Holy Scripture found in Isaiah 59:1 lays emphasis upon who is Saviour and Lord.

The Bible makes it clear that man cannot save himself. For when we were still helpless, Christ died for the wicked at the time that God chose. But God has shown us how much He loves us - it was while we were still sinners that Christ died for us! (Romans 5:6, 8, Good News Bible). Thank God He has not left mankind to grope in darkness without hope and no light to guide. The wonderful Christmas message recorded in Luke 2:35 and 11 reads: "And the angel said unto them (the shepherds on the Judean hillside), Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

God still works in the world. It is "His hand." He "formed" us, and He "redeems" us.

Supreme Court says a kind word for reason

WASHINGTON - Let's hear it for a "U" majority on the Supreme Court, which has said a kind word for reason in the implementation of civil rights laws affecting public education.

That majority gave a nod with the impact of a battle-ax when it overruled a lower court decision that would have required widespread busing of students in the public schools of Austin, Texas. In sending the case back to the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals for another look, the highest bench was expressing a healthy skepticism of large-scale cross-town busing for making a case.

The appellate court had ruled that Austin's policy of sending children to neighborhood schools amounted to an official policy of segregation. Its finding would have required the busing of 11,500 to 25,000 students - as much as 45 per cent of the school population.

That neighborhood school was no big rig for the Supreme Court was major to swallow in a separate opinion written by Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., and supported by Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justice William E. Brennan. Powell said the lower court seemed to have assumed too much about the duty of local school board officials to do their job as to break it down into smaller, more manageable pieces.

While this continues to be a debatable issue in our home, there are some valid reasons for not being too eager to shop early.

First, there are those electronic games which utilize the cash sale. You might consider yourself to your netwets, but what will your football-loving brother-in-law think of you when his interests howl game is broadcast on the family's only television set?

Second, what will he think of you when he realizes that the gadget will be constant use until Jan. 1 when school will resume?

We have never found it possible to practice to give earlier or our better half. We know what we want to see for an at a store, when it is in the air of early Christmas hunting, we know quite early in the game what she would like.

side in the community. Chinese kids have their rights, too.

Fortunately the Supreme Court had established a precedent in a ruling just June 7 which said all forms of racial discrimination are not automatically unconstitutional. That decision involved an zoning law in Washington, D.C. which prohibited a producer a much higher failure rate on blacks than whites. That Court ruled, "To hold that maximum in civil rights cases must prove a 'racially discriminatory purpose' on the part of officials and may not rest their case merely on 'disproportionate racial impact.'" Powell stated.

In any case, no previous Supreme Court decision has required school officials to end the existence of either all-black school or every all-white school. Yet, in the Austin case, the lower court ordered that every school in the city must achieve some degree of racial balance.

Carried to the extreme, a frequent occurrence in school integration schemes that would mean that every school in City's schools or to rolls representative of every race.

Science today: Holiday hazards for the allergic person

By AL BOSSITER Jr.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) - One of every four or five Americans is allergic to something and a North Carolina specialist says many allergic reactions are caused by food.

Phase two is the subtle reminder approach. You know it is in use when you see the gift catalog open to a particular page or an advertisement partially - not that partially - torn out of the newspaper.

Then there is phase three where the gifts already under the tree get inventoried not only by the kids but also the better half who punctuates her tally with six glances in your direction.

And of course, the final phase is when all of a sudden the kids seem to have lost interest in what they're hoping to get and begin giving you the third degree on what you are going to get for Mom.

The end result is that you forget what you wanted to buy her and panic and buy her what she has indicated she wants.

So another Christmas comes and goes without breaking out the traditional gift exchange - perfume for her and a new tie and a pair of socks for us.

Each year we vow to do it differently, but then again isn't Christmas a time for reaffirming one's love for another even if we do it with some aid gift in the same old way?

Today's compact special: Fyber. What happened to that waterproof, unbreakable and guaranteed-for-life watch I gave you for Christmas?

Son: "I lost it."

allergic reactions. Scented soaps, perfumes and the like are out for some and the glue used to assemble model cars or planes can cause allergic symptoms.

Frazier said food allergies can appear at any time of life, although they most often develop at an early age.

"When it comes to making a diagnosis of allergy to food, there is really no cut-and-dried series of definitive tests that can be made," he said.

Valuable clues
The patient's personal and family history can provide valuable clues, but Frazier said skin tests common in detecting other forms of allergy are unreliable and may be misleading in searching for causes of food allergy.

He said the surest way to a diagnosis and cure is a patient's meticulously kept food diary, and an elimination diet which starts off with water and basic nutritional needs. After a couple of weeks on that diet, foods are added one by one to see if symptoms appear.

Dr. Claude A. Frazier said doctors understand how pollens, mold, animal danders and house dust produce allergic illnesses, but he said food is a different matter.

"It is my conviction that we do not fully recognize the nature of the extent of all allergy symptoms caused by the foods we eat and the intentional and unintentional additives used in much of our food," Frazier said in a report in the current issue of the doctor's magazine, Drug Therapy.

Author of several books
Frazier, a practicing allergist in Asheville, N.C., and author of several books on the subject, believes a lot of the vague symptoms that are dismissed by people or their doctors are actually caused by food allergies.

"My advice to my colleagues in medicine is that when differential diagnosis has ruled out more potentially serious and more easily recognized problems, think of food allergy."

The Christmas holidays, he said, are particularly difficult for children suffering from allergies.

Hidden dangers
"Christmas is no doubt the high point of any child's year, but for those who are allergic, this most festive of seasons holds hidden dangers."

He warned the parties with rich, gaily colored cookies and cakes can be a problem for those allergic to milk, wheat, eggs or artificial colorings. Egg nog, nuts and even turkey dressing can be a hazard for the hypersensitive partygoer.

There also are plenty of nonfood perils during the holiday season for the allergic person.

Some people are sensitive to Christmas trees, or to the mold that accumulates on their branches, especially if the tree was cut several weeks earlier.

Open fire
"An open fire is a traditional part of the holiday scene, but wood smoke and fumes can spell disaster for the allergic, especially those whose allergic symptoms take the form of rhinitis or asthma," Frazier said.

Even the gifts under the Christmas tree can be a problem. Stuffed animals harbor dust and the dust mite. Finishing materials in new, unwashed clothing can cause

Give safety for Christmas

Lee Roderick

The Herald's
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON - "The gift of life is the best gift that motorists can share with their families. With the increased traffic on the nation's highways during the holiday season, the use of safety belts can mean the difference between life and death for those involved in traffic accidents."

That timely Christmas message is from John W. Snow, head of the highway traffic safety office of the Department of Transportation.

Snow also urges motorists to routinely check the positioning of car safety belts when entering or leaving their vehicles to ensure that the belts don't become entangled in doors or seat mechanisms. Such entanglement, he warns, can cause abrasion and dangerous weakening of belts.

"Safety belt damage due to entanglement and abrasion is more prevalent in vehicles equipped with bucket or split front seats," says a consumer advisory bulletin released by Snow's office. "Entanglement occurs (usually) to the part of the belt in the center of the car when the backs of the seats are tilted forward to load passengers or load cargo. During this process, the loose belt may become entangled in, and abraded by the seat back latching mechanism, and the problem may not be noticed until damage has been done."

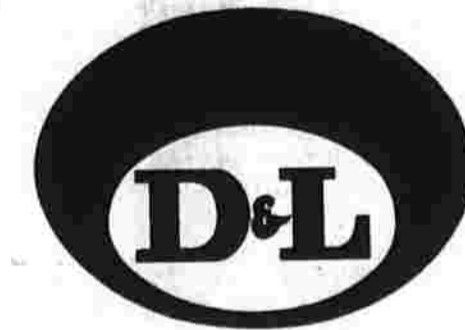

Meanwhile, Snow's office has also issued a proposal to eliminate most vehicle speedometers that show speeds as high as 120 miles an hour, and to require tamper-resistant odometers on new cars that would indicate clearly when a vehicle's mileage exceeds 100,000 miles.

"Under the proposal, all model year 1980 passenger cars, multipurpose passenger vehicles, trucks, buses and motorcycles would have to be equipped with speedometers that do not display speed readings which exceed 85 mph," says a Department of Transportation statement.

The Department's safety office explained that a scale limited to 85 miles per hour "would allow speedometers to be more readable and more accurate in normal speed ranges, and that the higher limitations now in use might encourage immature drivers to test the top speed limit of the vehicle."

The proposal is open for public comment until March 14, 1979. It was initiated, according to Department officials, to help maintain lower highway speeds which have reduced traffic fatalities and conserved fuel.

to grope in darkness without hope and no light to guide. The wonderful Christmas message recorded in Luke 2:10 and 11 reads, "And the angel said unto them (the shepherds on the Judean hillside), Fear not. For, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

God still works in the world. It is "His hand." He "formed" us, and He "redeems" us.

An owlsh editor's notebook

By FLOYD LARSON

Time is a matter of perspective. At our house the better half's completed her last minute Christmas shopping and we, as usual, are about to start our early Christmas shopping. We long ago convinced ourselves that it is a sign of thrift to wait until the last week before the holiday in order to take advantage of the sales. The better half starts her early shopping the day after Christmas when the sale stuff is on sale.

While this continues to be a debatable issue in our home, there are some valid reasons for not being too eager to shop early.

The Kibitzers

A visit to the game department of almost any Manchester store shows one of the hazards risked by an early shopper. Almost all the new games are based on current television shows and who wants to be embarrassed Christmas morn as the donor of a gift based on a show that was canceled the Tuesday before?

Then there are those electronic games which utilize the boob tube. You might endeavor yourself to your nephews; but what will your football-loving brother-in-law think of you when his favorite bowl game is blacked out on the family's only television set?

And, what will he think of you when he realizes that the gadget will be in constant use until Jan. 3 when school will resume?

We have never found it possible or practical to shop earlier for our better half. We know what we want to buy her and as she is most adept in the art of early Christmas hinting, we know quite early in the game what she would like.

The ritual might be familiar to you.

Phase one is they "we need to cut back on Christmas spending this year so let's concentrate on gifts for the others since we have each other."

Phase two is the subtle reminder approach. You know it is in use when you see the gift catalog open to a particular page or an advertisement partially — not that partially — torn out of the newspaper.

Then there is phase three where the gifts already under the tree get inventoried not only by the kids but also the better half who punctuates her tally with sly glances in your direction.

And of course, the final phase is when all of a sudden the kids seem to have lost interest in what they're hoping to get and begin giving you the third degree on what you are going to get for Mom.

The end result is that you forget what you wanted to buy her and panic and buy her what she has indicated she wants.

So another Christmas comes and goes without breaking out of the traditional gift exchange — perfume for her and a new tie and a pair of socks for us.

Each year we vow to do it differently, but then again isn't Christmas a time for reaffirming one's love for another even if we do it with some old gift in the same old way?

Today's cornpatch special:
Father: "What happened to that waterproof, unbreakable and guaranteed-for-life watch I gave you for Christmas?"
Son: "I lost it."

Supreme Court says a kind word for reason

WASHINGTON — Let's hear it for a 7 to 2 majority on the Supreme Court, which has said a kind word for reason in the implementation of civil rights laws affecting public education.

The majority gave a hint with the impact of a battle-ax when it overturned a lower court decision that would have required widespread busing of students in the public schools of Austin, Texas. In sending the case back to the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals for another look, the highest bench was expressing a healthy skepticism of large-scale cross-town busing for busing's sake.

The appellate court had ruled that Austin's policy of sending children to neighborhood schools amounted to an official policy of segregation. Its funding would have required the busing of 16,000 to 25,000 students — as much as 42 per cent of the school population.

That neighborhood school bit was too big for the Supreme Court's majority to swallow. In a separate opinion written by Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., and supported by Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist, Powell said the lower court seemed to have assumed too much about the duty of local school board officials to run its schools so as to break up racial neighborhood segregation patterns.

Powell noted a fact of life that has too often been ignored by civil rights activists. He said that it was a "familiar" pattern in the nation's cities for "citizens of common national or ethnic origins" to live together in neighborhoods. "Such residential patterns are typically beyond the control of school authorities," Powell added.

In any case, no previous Supreme Court decision has required school officials to end the existence of every all-black school or every all-white school. Yet, in the Austin case, the lower court ordered that every school in the city must achieve some degree of racial balance.

Carried to the extreme, a frequent occurrence in school integration squabbles, that would mean that every school in City A include on its rolls representatives of every racial group in the community. Chinese kids have their rights, too.

Fortunately, the Supreme Court had established a precedent in a ruling last June 7 which said all forms of racial discrimination are not automatically unconstitutional. That decision involved job testing for Washington, D.C. policemen that produced a much higher failure rate for blacks than whites. That Court ruled, 7 to 2, that plaintiffs in civil rights cases must prove a "racially discriminatory purpose" on the part of officials, and may not rest their case merely on "disproportionate racial impact."

In the Austin case, Powell properly noted that large-scale busing could be used only if it could be proved that the integration that would result would have been achieved had the school board fulfilled its constitutional duties. But the lower court handed down the curious opinion that school officials had acted unconstitutionally because they had "held to a neighborhood policy" that perpetuated neighborhood segregation.

Yep, crazy. It was as if the appellate bench was suggesting that Austin city authorities embark on a program of moving black families into white neighborhoods, and vice versa. How else could the city erase the court's "charge" that it "held" to a neighborhood school policy?

Bah! A neighborhood school policy has never been, in itself, unconstitutional, except in the view of wild-eyed zealots. The Constitution is violated only when discrimination is the result of intentional government policy. In Austin, the school board did not cause and could not have prevented segregation produced by imbalance in residential patterns.

Science today: Holiday hazards for the allergic person

By AL ROSSITER Jr., UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of every four or five Americans is allergic to something and a North Carolina specialist says many allergic reactions are caused by food.

Dr. Claude A. Frazier said doctors understand how pollens, mold, animal danders and house dust produce allergic illnesses, but he said food is a different matter. "It is my conviction that we do not fully recognize the nature of the extent of all allergy symptoms caused by the foods we eat and the intentional and unintentional additives used in much of our food," Frazier said in a report in the current issue of the doctor's magazine, Drug Therapy.

Author of several books
Frazier, a practicing allergist in Asheville, N.C., and author of several books on the subject, believes a lot of the vague symptoms that are dismissed by people or their doctors are actually caused by food allergies.

"My advice to my colleagues in medicine is that when differential diagnosis has ruled out more potentially serious and more easily recognized problems, think of food allergy."

The Christmas holidays, he said, are particularly difficult for children suffering from allergies.

He warned the parties with rich, gaily colored cookies and cakes can be a problem for those allergic to milk, wheat, eggs or artificial colorings. Egg nog, nuts and even turkey dressing can be a hazard for the hypersensitive partygoer.

There also are plenty of nonfood perils during the holiday season for the allergic person.

Some people are sensitive to Christmas trees, or to the mists that accumulate on their branches, especially if the tree was cut several weeks earlier.

Open fire
"An open fire is a traditional part of the holiday scene, but wood smoke and fumes can spell disaster for the allergic, especially those whose allergic symptoms take the form of rhinitis or asthma," Frazier said.

Even the gifts under the Christmas tree can be a problem. Stuffed animals harbor dust and the dust mite. Finishing materials in new, unwashed clothing can cause allergic reactions. Scented soaps, perfumes and the like are out for some and the glue used to assemble model cars or planes can cause allergic symptoms.

Frazier said food allergies can appear at any time of life, although they most often develop at an early age.

"When it comes to making a diagnosis of allergy to food, there is really no cut-and-dried series of definitive tests that can be made," he said.

Valuable clues
The patient's personal and family history can provide valuable clues, but Frazier said skin tests common in detecting other forms of allergy are unreliable and may be misleading in searching for causes of food allergy. He said the surest way to a diagnosis and cure is a patient's meticulously kept food diary, and an elimination diet which starts off with water and basic nutritional needs. After a couple of weeks on that diet, foods are added one by one to see if symptoms appear.

Women do not fare well in court decisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — and married women wage earner retires or is disabled Social Security benefits can be denied a divorced wife under age 62 divorcee caring for small children, held this week that when a while granted to married women in the same circumstances. The court also rejected the appeal of a Lexington, Ky., woman who used her maiden name for social and legal purposes but was prevented from using it on her driver's license.

Sylvia Scott Whitlow, an instructor at the University of Kentucky School of Journalism, sued to challenge an unwritten regulation of the state Driver Licensing Division requiring married names. She was told her license had to show Van Tubergen, her husband's last name.

In a lower court Ms. Whitlow's arguments founded on a 1972 action by the Supreme Court upholding a similar practice in Alabama. The justices rejected her appeal without comment.

The Social Security case was brought by Mrs. Helen de Castro of Chicago, 56 at the time, who was caring for a 24-year-old retarded daughter. She was denied benefits because she had not reached 62 when her former husband retired, although had she still been married to him she would have been eligible.

He said the purpose of the old-age and disability aspects of the Social Security system is not simply to pay money to those who need it most but to provide workers and their families with "basic protection against hardships created by the loss of earnings..."

"Divorce by its nature works a drastic change in the economic and personal relationship between husband and wife," Stewart said. "Congress could have rationally assumed that divorced husbands and wives depend less on each other for financial and other support than do couples who stay married."

Last week the justices ruled that employers do not violate federal law by excluding pregnancy from their disability insurance plans.

Report from America: Betsy Ross still stitches by hand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manhattan's modern-day Betsy Ross was marching in a Fifth Avenue parade one day, proudly bearing a 13-star flag she had made herself.

A group of sailors on the sidewalk snapped to attention and saluted as she passed, and the elderly former actress and model almost burst into tears.

"It was so beautiful," said Elaine Whitney Dickson Roberts, who sits before her television each night patiently hand-stitching cloth stars and red and white cotton strips into copies of the original Old Glory.

"The flag means so much to me: the courage of our soldiers and the hope for peace, and here these young men were showing me they felt the same way."

Mrs. Roberts has made more than 100 flags from scratch and given most of them away — to such dignitaries as Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson and to patriotic groups like the Sons of the American Revolution.

Odds 3 to 1 against white Yule

LONDON (UPI) — William Hill bookmakers have set 3-1 odds against a white Christmas in London.

A William Hill spokesman said the firm had accepted an $800 wager at those odds that it would snow in London on Christmas Day. The capital is shivering through one of its coldest Decembers in recent years.

To win, snow must fall on the roof of the London Weather Center in Holborn between midnight Dec. 24 and midnight Dec. 25, the spokesman said.

Last summer, William Hill offered 10-1 odds against clients naming the day when the drought would end.

"It seems amateur meteorologists like to back their judgment with cash," the spokesman said.

Tea break blamed for inefficiency

LONDON (UPI) — Abuse of the traditional tea break is partly to blame for the inefficiency of Britain's factory construction workers, a government report said this week.

The National Economic Development Office report, based on a study of 18 British and foreign construction sites, said British construction projects take longer than foreign ones, manning levels are considerably higher, productivity is lower and less of the working day is spent actually working.

Of the traditional tea breaks and rest periods, the report said, "These matters have long been determined by custom and practice and are at the discretion of the parties on site, but the observation suggested more abuse of these allowances on British sites."

The only positive finding in an otherwise "disturbing" report, the office said, was that Britain's engineering standards are generally higher.

Some 30 billion barrels of oil, more than double the known U.S. liquid reserves, could be recovered under present technology from shale deposits in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Most caviar sold in the United States is made from the roe or eggs of red salmon or whitefish, rather than from sturgeon.

American painter James A. McNeill Whistler flunked out of West Point. He would have graduated in the Class of 1855 had he not failed chemistry.

Ford begins recall of 100,000 units

DETROIT (UPI) — Defects involving safety belts and suspension systems have forced the Ford Motor Co. to begin recall more than 100,000 cars involving 1978 and 1977 model Ford Granadas and Mercury Monarchs.

Ford said 86,600 cars are involved in the safety belt recall and 36,100 in the suspension system recall. It said the total number of cars involved was not known since many of the cars, particularly two-door models, are included in both safety campaigns.

A Ford spokesman said owners of the affected cars will receive separate notices and repairs will be made by dealers at no charge to the owners.

There have been no accidents or injuries as a result of either problem.

The No. 2 automaker said 86,600 of the late-1976 and early 1977 two-door models built between May 15 and Oct. 22 of this year were being recalled because of the shoulder belt problem. The problem, caused by a possible misalignment of the shoulder belt anchor nuts, could result in the belt pulling loose in an accident. Dealers will attach a reinforcement to prevent the belts from separating.

In addition, about 36,100 two-and-four-door 1976 Granadas and Monarchs—many of them also involved in the shoulder belt recall—may have been built with incorrect fastener nuts in the suspension system. After many miles, this could result in a loss of steering control, the company said.

Sen. Beck joins legislators seeking judiciary review

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Peter Reilly case, and others like it, have raised "serious questions" about the manner in which the state of Connecticut enforces its laws and administers its system of justice, then the state senator said.

Reilly was charged in the Sept. 23, 1973 slaying of his mother, Barbara Gibbons. Last March, when new evidence was revealed, a Superior Court judge agreed to give Reilly a retrial. When more evidence surfaced last month, all charges against Reilly were dropped.

About town

Members of St. Bridget Rosary Society will go to the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. to pay their respects to the late Maurice E. O'Connor whose wife, Margaret O'Connor is a member and past president of the society.

The Single People's Group will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Pritch, 74 Helaine Rd. All interested singles are welcome.

Cub Scout Pack 47 will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at South United Methodist Church. The scouts are reminded to bring Christmas gifts.

The Board of Directors will conduct a public comment session Thursday from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in the directors' office in the Municipal Building.

The public is invited to attend the session and offer any comments, suggestions, or criticisms about the town.

Indians turn back Hornets, 63-40 in mistake-riddled CCIL hoop tilt

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

While it was not the pleasantly pleasing to the eye nor very good basketball, it was a win nevertheless as Manchester High topped East Hartford High, 63-40, in a mistake-riddled CCIL tilt last night at Clarke Arena before a crowd of 700.

The victory was the second in as many starts for the defending league champs while the Hornets have gone to the gate twice and lost both.

Manchester will find itself in an early-season crucial situation Friday night against 2-0 Hill High in West Hartford.

"No, it wasn't one of our better efforts but you will get one like this now and then," stated Manchester coach Doug Pearson. "We were a little sloppy but East Hartford plays a type of defense we haven't worked that much against. We didn't read it (the defense) too well but it was a good experience for our players."

Coach Neil Guerin's Hornets opened up in a 1-3-1 zone which in shifts shifted to a 2-3 and then again a 3-2. This alignment bothered Manchester early and, in fact, the visitors jumped out to an 8-2 lead. But two hoops by John Pisch and two charity tosses by Bill Kelly knotted it to 1-30 left in the period. While this was going on, East Hartford turned the ball over five consecutive times without a shot.

There was an exchange of turnovers before Scott Hyde put Manchester ahead with a 14-foot junior Mike Sherman off the bench netted eight points and unloaded two fine outlet passes for two other buckets.

Pisch, hitting 12 of 19 field goal attempts, finished with a game-high 13 turnovers, Manchester eight and both had excellent shooting percentages from the floor, the Indians 10 for 26 and Hornets nine for 21.

Manchester crept to a 39-36 bulge after three quarters and put it away in the first five minutes of the final stanza. The Indians with some crisp passing were able to get good shots and reeled off an 18-3 streak, hitting nine shots in a row. Six-foot-one junior Mike Sherman off the bench netted eight points and unloaded two fine outlet passes for two other buckets.

Pisch, hitting 12 of 19 field goal attempts, finished with a game-high

24 points. Sherman and Hyde each added eight markers with the latter while Jeff Eden netted 12 points for the Hornets.

Fouls hurt again in Cheney setback

Running into foul trouble for the second consecutive game, Cheney Tech fell, 65-58, to Rham High in a Charter Oak Conference basketball game last night in Hebron. It was the season opener for the winning Sachems.

Rham jumped ahead, 16-6, after the first turn with its zone defense bothering the Techies. The teams battled on near even terms the second stanza with the Sachems holding a 35-24 halftime advantage.

Rham built the lead to 52-32 after three quarters with Cheney making a valiant but too-short surge in the final eight minutes.

Rham (65) Weingart 0 1-3 1, Fisher 9-23-20, Long 4-4-12, Cherry 8 4-20, DeGray 4-17-9, Morey 1-0-2 Bergeron 0-1-1. Totals 28 13-24 56.

Penney tops Conard to square record

By BILL McAVOY
Correspondent

Using their experience under pressure to the fullest, the Penney High Black Knights won their home opener, 80-73, over Conard High of West Hartford last night in a CCIL basketball tilt before a crowd of 850.

Penney kept a five-point advantage until, with a minute left, Moffitt hit both ends of a one-and-one to close the gap to three. James then came down, dribbled up the middle, and hit a layup and was fouled. He made the charity toss and Jaworski made a short jumper 10 seconds later to give Penney an insurmountable 78-70 lead with 31 seconds to go.

James and Jaworski were the keys for Penney in the second half. Jaworski was very tough, especially on the offensive boards, and led the way with 22 points. James, hitting from the outside, picked up 20 markers with Tom Francis and Brent Young each chipping in with 17 tallies.

Both teams now sport 1-1 league marks with Penney's next action Friday night at home against Ferni High of Enfield.

The game was close all the way with neither side leading by more than five points in the first half. The teams were trading buckets, Penney was strong on the inside while Conard was hitting from the outside. The lead see-sawed with the clubs deadlocked at the half at 37-all.

Conard was led by Calabrese's game-high 29 points, 16 on driving layups. Moffitt shot well from the outside and totaled 16 points.

Penney (80) Francis 65-717, Young 7 3-6-17, Jaworski 10-2-22, James 9-2-20, Lynch 0-2-3, Guzdari 1-0-2, Casey 0-0-0, Grady 0-0-0 Totals 33 14-21 80.

MHS girls triumph

Leading by one at the half, Manchester High's girls' basketball team exploded for 19 third-quarter points en route to a 61-46 victory over East Hartford High yesterday in East Hartford. The victory was the third in a row for the Silk Towners while the setback dropped East Hartford to a 1-3 mark.

Manchester held an 11-11 first quarter lead with both teams netting 14 points in the second eight minutes of play. The Indians' defense allowed the homesteading Hornets just eight markers in the third stanza which enabled them to pull away, 44-32, going into the final cant.

Junior Ellen Donadio led the Manchester attack with a game-high 23 points with Kathy Strand and Colleen Shane adding 14 and 10 markers respectively. Carol Gustamachio led the Hornets offense along with Amy Hanney, each with 14 points, with Roxanne Heineman tossing in 13 tallies.

Wild finish marks Whalers' victory

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Tom Webster and Dale Smedsno scored third-period goals to give the New England Whalers a 3-1 win over the Quebec Nordiques in the World Hockey Association Tuesday night.

Webster scored his 15th goal of the season on a power play at 4:43 of the final period to give the Whalers a 2-1 lead. Smedsno's first goal of the season at 11:46 clinched the Whaler's victory.

New England took a 1-0 lead in the first period with a goal by Danny Bolduc. Serge Bernier scored Quebec's marker early in the middle period.

Six players, including Webster and Smedsno, were ejected from the game for fighting with less than two minutes remaining.

"Except for the Team Canada series in 1972, I've been playing my best hockey." Espo, admittedly sensitive, is upset about some recent criticism he has received, but he now has 14 goals and his play has helped the Rangers on their recent surge, during which they have lost only one of their last 12 outings.

"It's a good one to see the guy get going," Hodge said of his linemate and longtime friend. "It's a super plus for the team for him to get untracked and get going."

Red-hot Mitchell five downs MCC

Shooting a torrid 57 per cent from the floor, Mitchell College ran away from Manchester Community College, 97-69, in basketball action last night in New London.

The Cougars, 1-5, are now off until Jan. 5.

The tempo started slowly with Mitchell managing eight points after five minutes. This pace quickly changed as the homesteading Pequot won on a scoring spree to take a 24-12 lead with eight minutes left in the half. MCC just couldn't find the range while Mitchell remained hot to take a 44-25 lead at the half.

The second half started out with Mitchell dominating resulting in a 27-point bulge. MCC answered with steady scoring from Nick DeMarco and Mike Nolan with Steve Zocco grabbing defensive rebounds. With 11:09 left, Mitchell's lead had been cut to 13 but shortly after Zocco fouled out and forward Craig Wilson came in with five fouls and it was all over.

DeMarco led all scorers with 26 points.

Mitchell (97) Horvath 40, Burke 4-1-9, Grumbach 6-0-12, Lombardi 2-2-6, McCoy 2-0-4, Okonok 1-1-19, Moffatt had eight points and Dean Jankowski 14-6-3, Thurmond 10-0-20, Sousa 0-4-4.

Ard in spotlight with Cowens out

BOSTON (UPI)—Big Jim Ard, elbowing his way into a position of respect around the NBA, plans to show another facet of his game tonight when the Boston Celtics host the Milwaukee Bucks.

The 6-10 center, in his third season with Boston after a tour of the ABA, plans to outrun the Bucks' big men down the court.

Starting in the prolonged absence of Dave Cowens, Ard has shown bicep and muscle. Boston coach Tom Sanders and Ard's hustle led Saturday with Chicago's Artis Gilmore.

"How many guys are going to take on a 6-foot-8 ballplayer in a fight?" asked Heinsohn, grinning at Ard. "Jimmy's doing just what I want. I want him under the boards, scrapping and hustling. He's the biggest, meanest cat on this ballclub."

Against Milwaukee, Ard said he expected to race downcourt, gain position under the boards and win. "I won't have to worry unless they

Irish win was costly

NOTRE DAME'S 78-65 victory Tuesday night over Indiana, the defending NCAA champion, was impressive, but it was also costly.

The fourth-ranked Irish lost starting guard Stan Martin for the season when the 6-foot-1 senior broke his ankle early in the second half.

"We won a ball game all right," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said. "But the saddest part of it was the loss of Ray Martin. He's a great kid and didn't deserve this unfortunate accident."

Martin, a co-captain, led the Irish in assists and steals last year and was one of Notre Dame's best defensive players.

Notre Dame's victory topped Pizza House, 27-20, last night at the Community Center. Tony Knight, who scored a career high 23 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the first half, lost Jim Bosse's six points led in four games.

"We got in a bind tonight because of our handling of the basketball," Indiana Coach Bobby Knight said. "In the last seven or eight minutes of the first half, there was an improvement in the ball handling. It was enough to get us back in the game the first half, but five for Marjory's."

JEFF FLEISU canned 23 Groman's 31 points to lead Top Notch to a 31-24 win over Wyman last night at the East Side Rec. 22-12, as Brad Jones scored 20 points. Matt Falkowski Mathewson (6) led the hoopsters for the losers.

Dean Tully scored for Manchester with goalie tilt to Suffolk, 5-4, last night at the East Side Rec. Larry Kuchachik had a three-goal hat trick to lead the Suffolk effort.

George LeBlanc, Scott Brown, Garth Slycz and Manchester.

Ernie D and Pistol Pete enjoy season top games

NEW YORK (UPI)—They were the most productive games ever for two guards who sparked their teams to important victories Tuesday night.

Ernie DiGregorio scored a career-high 36 points in leading Buffalo to a 106-99 triumph over the Phoenix Suns. The victory broke Buffalo's four-game losing streak and was the team's first win since all-pro center Bob McAdoo was traded to the New York Knicks last Wednesday.

In New Orleans, Pistol Pete Maravich scored 51 points, the best of his seven-year NBA career, to help the Jazz defeat Kansas City in the final period.

The six-foot guard sank 14 of 23 shots from the field and all six free throw attempts, giving him a streak of 40 straight.

Randy Smith added 22 points for Buffalo and John Shumate had 21. Ricky Sobers led Phoenix with 23 points.

DiGregorio, who regained his starting position this season after being assigned to the bench last year by former Braves' Coach Jack Ramsey, received a standing ovation from Buffalo fans with 10 seconds left in the game after scoring 14 points in the third period and 10 in the final period.

MCC soccer 'grads' enjoyed big years

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Clean indication of the high-class brand of soccer played at Manchester Community College the past few seasons is the number of players who went on to star at four-year colleges. Bob Campbell of Rockville started with the Cougars during the 1973 and 1974 seasons and was recently named the most valuable player with the Southern Connecticut State College squad. Also, Campbell was named to the North-South Senior Bowl being played this weekend in Miami, Fla. Campbell's Dave Treschuk started in goal with MCC in 74-75 and had finished his first season as the starting goalie with Philadelphia Tertile, the No. 5 ranking team in Division I. John Motta grabbed the headlines this fall while setting a University of Hartford single season scoring record with 22 goals. The 1974 MCC standout also was named to the New England All-Star Division I squad. Former East Catholic High star Timmy McConville, also a two-year veteran at MCC in 1974-75, was named to the All-Colonial Conference

Dorsett player of year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett, picking up awards as easily as he does touchdowns, added another honor to his growing collection Tuesday when he was named college football's Player of the Year by the United Press International. Dorsett, who has also won the Heisman Trophy and been named to every postseason All-America squad, was a near-unanimous choice for UPI Player of the Year honors in a balloting of 116 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation. The 5-foot-11, 190-pound running back received 112 votes with Southern California running back Ricky Bell getting two and Southern Illinois running back Andre Herrera and Nebraska quarterback Vince Ferragamo each getting one. Regarded by his coach Johnny Majors as a player who comes along "once in a lifetime," the shifty Dorsett rushed for a NCAA record 1,948 yards this season and scored 22 touchdowns while leading Pitt to an 11-0 regular season record. Four times Dorsett rushed for more than 200 yards in a game and he bettered the 100-yard mark in all 11 of Pitt's game to tie an NCAA record. During his four years at Pittsburgh, Dorsett became the first player to surpass 6,000 career rushing yards (6,823) and he set tied 14 NCAA records. He also established NCAA career records for most points scored (356), most seasons gaining 1,000 or more yards (4), most seasons gaining 1,500 or more yards (3), most rushes (1,074) and most all-purpose rushing yards (6,815). He also tied NCAA career records for most touchdowns (59) and most 100-yard games (33). "He is the best player we've ever played against," said Penn State head coach Joe Paterno, "and that includes guys like Archie Griffin (the only two-time Heisman Trophy winner), Greg Pruitt, George Webster, Bubba Smith and Gary Beban. Tony Dorsett is the best player in America and it isn't even close." "I knew from the first time I ever saw him scrimmage he was something special," said Majors. "There are three things I think that have made him the outstanding running back he is—his approach to practice, his use of his speed and his great anticipation. He's a great practice player. Never in the four years I had him have I ever had to tell him anything twice."

Uniforms stolen

Several sets of home and away East Catholic High varsity basketball uniforms have been discovered missing. No questions will be asked if they are returned to the East Catholic athletic department. If not, and the uniforms are found in a person's possession, that person will be prosecuted. East officials announced.

Fairbanks wants Pats loose for most important contest

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Chuck Fairbanks has been trying to keep his young New England players as loose as possible heading into the most important game a Patriots team has played in more than 12 years. Fairbanks spoke to the squad and showed films Monday and gave the team Tuesday off. Starting today, though, players were to return to the practice field to prepare for an American Football Conference playoff game Saturday afternoon in Oakland. "I'll help that we beat them, but we've got a chance anyway. I'll fire them up because we're the only team to beat them. But we've got to be fired up, too. The Patriots will be relatively healthy for the contest with only running back Ike Forde slated to miss the game. Linebacker Steve Nelson, out four weeks with a dislocated kneecap, will return to the lineup and Sam Cunningham, who netted 195 total yards in the previous win over Oakland, will play despite a still sore right shoulder. "I don't know how much or how effective I'll be," said the fourth-year fullback from USC. "I probably won't be able to play with the same intensity I did in the first game. Right now it's harder for me to block than carry the ball." If Cunningham is unable to play effectively, Fairbanks will replace him with Don Calhoun, who had four straight 100-yard games late in the season. "But this is the first playoff game I've ever had a chance to be in," said Cunningham, a former Rose Bowl hero, "so I want to be in it."

New England has suffered through years of mediocrity, never making the National Football League playoffs. New England's only playoff action was at the end of the 1963 American Football League season. New England defeated Buffalo that year for the AFL Eastern Division championship but was defeated by San Diego for the league crown in January 1964. The Patriots were the only team to beat the Raiders this season but Oakland was neither healthy nor particularly motivated for that game. "They're not going to be like that Saturday," said New England quarterback Steve Grogan in Oakland (46-17 on Oct. 3) we should be more confident than if we hadn't played them or if we had played and lost to them.

Scott trade to balance Yankee deal

BOSTON (UPI) — The Red Sox obtained George Scott last week to counterbalance the New York Yankees' purchase of Reggie Jackson, a Boston club spokesman says. John Claiborne, Red Sox assistant general manager and chief contract negotiator, said Tuesday the trade that sent Cecil Cooper to Milwaukee for Scott and Bernie Carbo was made with an immediate goal in mind. "We do agree Cooper will hit .290 to .300 and be around for 10 years or more," said Claiborne. "But Scott is a short term investment of 3-5 years and quite frankly, we feel he negated Reggie Jackson."

McVay rewarded with new pact

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Giants rewarded interim coach John McVay with a multi-year contract today for making the team respectable over the final seven weeks of the season after replacing winless Bill Arnsparger. McVay, 46, was elevated from the Giant staff Oct. 25 to replace Arnsparger, who was fired after the Giants lost their first seven games of the season. Under McVay, the Giants closed out 4-4 with victories over Washington, Detroit and Seattle. New York also held Dallas without a touchdown in losing 9-3, fell 14-13 to Denver on a missed extra point and carried a lead deep into the final quarter against St. Louis last Sunday before succumbing 17-14. The Giant defense, which yielded no fewer than 19 points in any of the seven games this year under Arnsparger, did not allow more than 17 in anyone game under McVay. McVay joined the Giants this season after a 1½ year stint as head coach of the Memphis Southern of the World Football League. McVay was the most successful coach in the NFL's brief existence as he won 17 games in the league's only complete season to direct the Southern to the regular season championship.

Redlegs' player agent speaks up

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A players' agent talked about a "new reality" today as he represented Joe Morgan, George Foster and Ken Griffey in 1977 contract talks with the world champion Cincinnati Reds. Translated, that "new reality" figures to mean "big money." "The free agent system has created a new reality for signing contracts," said Tom Reich, who had a negotiating session scheduled with Reds' Executive Vice President Dick Wagner. "And I think the Reds are going to have to pay players based on this new reality. "I didn't create this system, but it has swung to the advantage of the players and obviously, players want to capitalize on that swing. Players now have a very attractive alternative (becoming free agents) if they can't reach an understanding with their club. "I'm prepared to compromise what a player's free agent value is and what his standing value is, but we're still talking about a whole new set of numbers compared with what existed before 1976." Reich figures all three of the Reds he represents are due for hefty 1977 pay raises because of their 1976 performances. Morgan was the National League's most valuable player for the second year in a row, Foster hit so well that he had a shot at the Triple Crown and Griffey nearly won the NL batting title. "Morgan is generally regarded as the best player in the game and he would like to be similarly compensated," said Reich. "Foster and Griffey obviously also would like to be justly compensated for their value." Morgan reportedly received slightly more than $200,000 last year, but

Rhody wins

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The University of Rhode Island had to work hard in the second half against Robert Morris to remain undefeated. Robert Morris of Pittsburgh led 32-21 at halftime. Rhode Island opened the second half with 11 straight points, tightened up its defense and went on for a 32-43 win. Freshman Sylvester Williams led Rhode Island with 24 points. Earl Curton had 14 points and Paul Jones had 12 for Robert Morris. No other players were in double figures.

Seeding reduces lightning

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Researchers from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration say they have tested a cloud-seeding technique which successfully reduces lightning during thunderstorms. The scientists, in a paper presented to an annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union in San Francisco, said the seeding operations did not eliminate lightning but reduced its intensity and frequency. Dr. David Rust of the NOAA said the research team flew through thunderstorms and seeded the clouds with aluminum strands of fiberglass "chaff." Scientists in a nearby plane then used a radiometer to measure the intensity of lightning. "Although the chaff does not completely dissipate the storm's electricity, it is apparently enough to bring about a considerable reduction in lightning activity," the scientists' report said. The director of the project, Dr. Heinz Kasemir, said the equipment indicated the seeding caused electrical charges within the clouds to "bleed away," resulting in reduced occurrences of lightning. "The seeding operation does not completely dissipate the storm's electricity, it is apparently enough to bring about a considerable reduction in lightning activity," the scientists' report said.

Frozen salt spray

While the northern sections of Maine were experiencing blizzard conditions with a six to eight-inch snowfall and high winds, the coastal area near Falmouth was yet to receive an appreciable snowfall. The only snow on the ground can be found in the tidal marshes where salt spray has frozen it into the marsh grass. (UPI photo)

Malik successor

MOSCOW (UPI) — American-educated Oleg Troyanovsky, a former newsmen and translator who served as ambassador to Japan, will succeed Yavov A. Malik as the Soviet Union's permanent representative at the United Nations, the Tass news agency said Tuesday. Malik, 70, represented the Soviet Union at the United Nations for a total of 14 years. He returned to the Soviet Union last month and assumed the duties of deputy foreign minister. No reason was given for Malik's retirement from the United Nations post. He and his wife were injured in an automobile accident in the United States in March. Troyanovsky, 57, son of the Soviet Union's first ambassador to the United States, was Soviet ambassador to Japan from 1967 until March. He studied at Swarthmore College outside Philadelphia and at the Moscow Institute for Foreign Languages.

Long-range weather outlook

The National Weather Service in New York has issued its 30-day outlook for mid-December to mid-January. Temperatures are to average below seasonal normal in the southern Great Plains and the Gulf Coast region as well as the north Atlantic states. Above normal averages are indicated for the northern Great Plains, the Northwest and the far Southwest. In unspecified areas near normal temperatures are in prospect. Precipitation is expected to exceed the median amount along the north Pacific Coast and over the southern half of the country, except for less than median over the central Pacific Coast and the central Plateau region. Elsewhere less than median value is indicated. (UPI map)

Would-be reporters studying brow raisers and blinkers

ATHENS, Ohio (UPI) — The journalism students of Ohio University professor Roger Bennett have been studying the arching eyebrows and blinking eyes of the Senate Watergate hearing witnesses. Bennett is improving his training film by incorporating videotape of the Senate Watergate proceedings. "It's so record who lied at certain times and who was telling the truth," he said. "So we can put the theory to a sound test. If the technique had been perfected before Watergate it could have been a great aid and may have greatly speeded up the proceedings. The study has other applications, as well.

Holy men' jailed

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — Two men calling themselves Jesus Christ and Brother Francis will serve five days in the city jail for hitchhiking. The men, later identified as Michael John Reed of Brookline, Mich., and Frank Ray Edwards of Santa Barbara, Calif., told arresting officers they lived in Heaven and listed their occupations as saints. Brother Francis also said he was a street preacher. The men were found hitchhiking on Interstate 10 wearing long flowing gowns with their heads wrapped in turbans.

The better way to retire rich.

TAX SHELTERED RETIREMENT SAVINGS. An ordinary worker could retire with $290,592 less in tax sheltered Heritage Savings IRA (Individual Retirement Account), based on today's interest rates and tax laws. The worker in our example would deposit the $15,000 annual maximum at today's 7% interest from age 30 to age 65. The tax savings alone would put him $153,345 ahead—just because he used a Heritage IRA account. The Heritage IRA account sure is a BETTER WAY to save for retirement—$153,345 better in this case. These figures are for IRA accounts with a $1500 annual deposit maximum. Keogh accounts for the self-employed accumulate even more funds with a $7500 maximum. If you don't have a pension, ask at any of our offices about tax sheltered retirement savings. You pay no income tax on the money you deposit and none on the interest it earns. You are taxed only as you withdraw funds during retirement when you are likely to be in a lower tax bracket. DEADLINE DEC. 31. To qualify for IRA or Keogh you must act by December 31. Now is the time to arrange your tax sheltered retirement savings account.

The bootmakers becomes a new song

By KENNETH F. ENGLADE
DALLAS (UPI) — Charles Dunn was already a legend in those circles where men take pride in what they wear on their feet.

Then along came Jerry Jeff Walker, famous for writing the song "Mr. Tambourine Man," and put Dunn's legend to music.

"That song brought in more durn business. I had orders from people as far east as Minnesota," said the balding, slim gent with the lively brown eyes, batting ears and battered black Basque beret.

It sounds better put to music but "Charlie Dunn" pays rare tribute to Dunn's craft, in part, like this:

"Well, if you're ever down in Austin, Texas,

"A little run down on your sole
"I'm gonna tell you the name of a man to see;
"I'm gonna tell you right where to go.

"He's working in Capitol Saddlery,
"He's sewing in the back of the place.

"He's old Charlie Dunn, a little fraul one
"With a smile and a leathery face."
"I estimate I've made 200 pairs of boots a year and, over 55 years, that's a lot of boots," said the 70-year-old Dunn, picking fastidiously at a neatly trimmed thumbnail.

"I've made boots for Ernest Fubbs, Gene Autry, Jerry Jeff Walker, Rusty Weir and a lot of football players like Bobby Layne."

Dunn is a third generation bootmaker who was 4 when he went to work for his father as an apprentice and spent five years learning the trade.

Ford urged to take active role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional GOP leaders Tuesday urged President Ford to be an active leader of the Republican Party, not just a figurehead who leaves the work to the new party chairman.

Ford met this morning today with the Republican leadership to discuss legislative matters, including a pay raise for federal personnel, but afterwards, the talk turned to GOP politics.

Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., a long-time friend of Ford's and one of those in the running to succeed Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., as the Senate Republican leader, said Ford filled the lawmakers in on his meeting last week with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, conservative Ronald Reagan, and Texas Gov. Jim Ed Compton.

The President, said Griffin, "was encouraged not only to be a titular head of the Republican Party but to be an active leader."

Scott said Ford was considering reviving the Republican coordinating committee as a forum for expressing the GOP point of view while the Democrats control both the White House and Congress.

"The President said he was leaning very favorably toward the forming of a commission to express party policy," Scott continued.

Leary and Wagner appointed to Memorial Day Committee

Francis Leary and James Wagner have been appointed to serve on Manchester's Permanent Memorial Day Committee.

Leary, an active member of the local American Legion Post, was appointed by Town Manager Robert Weiss to represent the Manchester citizenry on the committee Monday night at its meeting at the Municipal Building.

Flags marking veterans' graves can be put in the Thursday evening before Memorial Day and by the next Saturday, they are gone. Walter Von Hone, a member of the committee said.

Everett Kennedy, a member of the committee and one of the three custodians of veterans' graves, suggested that the committee look at the New Britain system of installing a parklet with a flagpole and monument in the veterans sections of its cemeteries instead of using flags on individual veterans' graves.

One of the problems that would have to be solved before such a system could be instituted, Von Hone said, would be to persuade the town to spend money to put flagpoles in the three privately owned cemeteries in town. We just can't tell a cemetery, we are going to put up a flagpole, either, he said.

Howard Hughes gone, but not forgotten

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Howard Hughes is gone but not forgotten—at least not by the courts, biographers and filmmakers, not to mention authors of phony wills.

Billionaire Hughes, like King Midas, clearly is doomed to legendary status now and forever, enshrined by worshippers of wealth.

Whereas the late J. Paul Getty and the equally late Aristotele Onassis (Jackie Kennedy notwithstanding) may have been as rich as Hughes, they were not the material from which folklore is created.

Neither of them was accused of wearing Kleenex on his feet. Nor, so far as is known, did they design brassieres for Jane Russell.

Too colorful

If Getty and Onassis had strings of movie star mistresses, word never got out. The list of Hughes' conquests reads like the film academy's directory of actresses.

H. Hughes was a billionaire with flair. He is sure to be heralded even more greatly in death than in life for the excellent reason that he no longer is around to deny, defend or dismiss the rumors and tales of his colorful life.

The first film story on the man, "Howard, The Amazing Mr. Hughes," will be aired early next year in two two-hour segments on consecutive nights by CBS-TV.

Uses Dietrich book

Roger Gimbel, an old hand at producing television shows (including "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman"), based his Hughes movie on the book by Noah Dietrich, who for years was the billionaire's No. 1 associate.

Aside from hassles with Summa Corp., Hughes' conglomerate, Gimbel's biggest problem was finding an actor to fit the title role.

He finally found Tommy Lee Jones, who resembles the young Hughes although he is neither as tall nor as skinny as Hughes. He also is pathetically less well heeled.

"We tried to get Warren Beatty for the part," Gimbel said. "We offered him a million dollars. But Warren refused. He's still talking about doing his own theatrical motion picture on Hughes."

"Our film starts with Hughes at 20 and traces his life until the time of his death. We're easy to simply give the events of his life.

No recent interviews

"Hughes didn't talk to many people and there were no interviews the last 20 years of his life except for that telephone press conference he held five years ago.

"We've researched books, tapes, news accounts, photographs and newsreels. And, of course, Dietrich has been a tremendous help because he was around Hughes in the interesting early years when more facts were available."

Among the film's highlights are the story of the Spruce Goose, Hughes' plywood plane, his pursuit of sexy movie stars, his passion for golf and record setting flights and, inevitably, his penchant for privacy.

Plains plastic Christmas tree vandalized

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — The town's plastic Christmas tree that Billy Carter, brother of President-elect Jimmy Carter, promised to remove if elected mayor has been torn down by vandals.

Billy Carter said during his unsuccessful mayoral race his first official act if elected would be to "tear down that damn tree." He said it didn't make sense to have a false tree there "there are real trees all around us."

Town Clerk W.C. Lamb Jr. said "somebody hooked up to the Christmas tree and dragged it down the street" with their car Sunday night. It was found a mile away but "it's not in shape" to be put back up again.

After Billy Carter lost last week's election to incumbent Mayor A.L. Blanton, Blanton said the 25-foot-high tree would remain just where it was, across the street from City Hall.

New orange ripens faster

TEL AVIV (UPI) — An Israeli farmer has developed a new orange that ripens three weeks sooner than the most successful local variety and is sweeter and easier to peel, agriculture officials report.

Amiel Gottesman, a citrus farmer in a small town near Tel Aviv, developed the new strain after 20 years of experiments.

Named after Gottesman's daughter, the new strain, "Varda G," is sweeter because it has less acid than the Shamuti, the most popular of Israeli-grown oranges.

Small lots of the new orange have already been sent to England for marketing, a Citrus Marketing Board official said.

Ford Christmas card

President and Mrs. Ford's 1976 Christmas card shows a winter scene called "Going to Church," by the Connecticut artist George Durrie (1820-1863). The card, by Hallmark, has an antique gold border and metallic green background. Inside, under an embossed Presidential seal, are the words: "With best wishes from our family for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. The President and Mrs. Ford." (UPI photo)

McCall's BEST DIETS & EXERCISES

Rocky Hill Woman Takes 'Big Loss,' Is Delighted

By Lou Edman
Rita Randazzo of Rocky Hill took a big loss, but it's the kind a lot of others wouldn't mind taking either. In five and a half months, Rita went from 213 pounds to her present 118 which looks pretty good on her 5 foot 8 inch frame.

Like a smoker who quit, she can remember the exact date when it started: Jan. 6, 1974 when she hit that 213 pounds. It was on that day she left the hospital with her third child, a son. She went shopping for a dress and found she could not get into a size 20. That did it. Today, she wears a size 7.

Na Hunger Pangs

What did the trick was a diet food called NaturSlim, used twice a day in the form of milk shakes. The program requires no meetings to attend, no exercises, no drugs or shots and, best of all for those who follow it, no hunger pangs.

Various sweetenings can be added to lend variety. Rita says she's a chocolate nut, so uses Nestle's Quik in her shakes. The unusual part of the diet is the main meal of the day, dinner, is absolutely unrestricted. The dieter can eat anything he or she wants. Rita claims she ate like a horse then.

Originally, Rita was aiming for 125 pounds, supposed to be ideal for her height. Losing weight was so easy she found herself doing her present 118.

Since she feels good at that figure, she's staying there happily. Strangely, she only weighs herself once every three weeks. For those starting the diet, she advises them to wait a week before weighing themselves. Many get discouraged if they don't lose a pound a day. The first few days people lose water weight, but then the fat begins to melt, she points out.

Of the 1,200 to 1,500 NaturSlim dieters, Rita estimates 50 percent of them reached their goal. Many of these only use the powder for a single meal. Such as breakfast or lunch, just to maintain their weight.

Come With Vitamins

After her success at losing weight, Rita obtained the distributorship for NaturSlim for this area. Today, she estimates there are between 1,200 and 1,500 people here using the diet food. It is sold in one pound cans, along with a jar of vitamins which provide the required daily needs. One can supplies 60 meals, at an average cost of 38c, including the low fat or skimmed milk used.

The slim Mrs. Randazzo lives with her husband, Paul, an analyst with Delta Insurance Co., and their three children at 220 Farms Village Rd. Needless to say, he feels a lot happier now than she did two years ago.

Lutz Junior Museum

Christmas plants

Just about now, people celebrating the Christmas season are "decking their halls" with boules of holly, pine, hemlock and many other evergreens. In doing so, they are practicing a custom that dates back many centuries.

Even before the Romans, evergreens were looked upon as symbols of eternal life because they survived the winter cold that killed most other plants. In Celtic and Nordic lands, these greens "that do not die" were held in high regard and were believed to possess powers that could shield people from evil spirits. Even after the Teutonic tribes embraced Christianity, many of them continued the use of evergreens at winter festivals and Christmattide.

Often times church officials objected to decorating the church with such greenery since the custom was derived from heathen practices. However, it was tolerated and allowed to continue since it was so popular among the people. One of the most favorite of holiday evergreens is mistletoe, a member of the laurel family. This plant with its pale grayish-green leaves and waxy white berries is a parasite, whose aerial roots penetrate the bark of the host tree. In time, if the tree becomes too heavily infested with the mistletoe, it will be weakened and die.

Mistletoe grows throughout the United States and is particularly abundant in the states of Alabama and California. Its name is probably derived from the Anglo-Saxon word, mistletoe meaning "different twig" since it stands out from other twigs in color and habit of growth. The holiday custom of kissing under the mistletoe may have originated among the Romans who considered it a symbol of hope and peace. Whenever enemies met under mistletoe, they laid aside their weapons, kissed one another and declared a truce until the next day. Today the custom requires a boy or girl to claim a kiss from anyone standing beneath the mistletoe, remove a berry and hand it to that person. When all the berries are gone, the plant has no more kisses to offer. Unlike evergreens in general, mistletoe rarely was used in church decorations because it is the sacred plant of pagans. Druids. Another holiday favorite is holly with its dark green glossy leaves and bright red berries. Its name is derived from the Old English hollen or holoen, and the practice of using it at Christmas was brought to this country by English settlers. Branches of sharply pointed leaves have come to represent Christ's crown of thorns and the berries his blood. Another story describes holly as springing from the footsteps of Christ as he wandered the earth. In medieval England, unmarried women who tied a sprig of holly to their bed post on Christmas Eve would be saved from becoming witches in the new year. There are more than 300 species of holly growing in almost every country throughout the world. In the United States it is native to the eastern half of the nation from Massachusetts to Florida and westward to Missouri and Texas. Much of the holly sold in this area, however, is grown commercially in the northwestern states and British Columbia. Although not an evergreen, the poinsettia is certainly a popular Christmas plant. Its bright red bracts are found everywhere during the holiday season. This plant was discovered by Dr. Joel Roberts Poinsett, our first

Western oil conservation efforts seen wanting

By BARRY JAMES
BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — Members of the international effort, in attempting to justify demands for yet another increase in prices, point to what they regard as the wasteful consumption of energy by the industrialized nations.

"It is completely unreasonable to go to the energy-producing countries and say to them to produce more because we have a slight difficulty for the moment and at the same time tell them not to increase their prices," said Viscount Etienne Davignon of Belgium, chairman of the International Energy Agency.

When the industrial nations have "no serious policy for the future," Davignon said, "it can understand scholars in those countries saying... their mission is life is not to subsidize our errors."
Despite a lot of talk after the 1973 Arab embargo and oil price shock, many Western countries have paid scant attention to conservation and oil consumption is again rapidly increasing.

"Some governments feel the energy crisis is behind them. The lead time to get a new source of energy on board and decide now, we will get more and more bogged down in a bad situation."

Nuclear fission plus a return to coal is the path plotted by a number of countries. If scientists can ever tame nuclear fusion, the world's most common element — hydrogen — may one day become a source of cheap, clean and safe energy.

But until that day, nuclear power represents at best a Faustian bargain spawning deadly plutonium which will have to be sealed up and monitored for 50 times as long as all recorded history to date.

Washington window Exit Bob Strauss

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Years ago, the New Yorker magazine ran a cartoon that showed Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia arriving at City Hall. The next couple of panels showed the old building rocking, rolling and nearly jumping off its foundations. The last showed it collapsing limply as Hizzoner departed for the day.

Something of that sort would be appropriate for the Democratic National Committee upon the departure of Robert L. Strauss, its chairman from December, 1972, through January, 1977.

Much has been written about the accomplishments of the Dallas lawyer-banker who took over the debt-ridden Democratic party after its worst election defeat and brought it back to relevancy and victory in 1976.

There are some who might argue that the Democrats could have won the presidency this year with a candidate other than Jimmy Carter, but few who watched the political scene in the four years just past would maintain that the party could have come back without Strauss.

Strauss did not restore unity to the Democratic party. It still has factions that do not speak, and it still has agreements that can raise the roof without notice.

Strauss did get the party out of the red. It was about $9 million in debt after the 1968 election, and as treasurer and then chairman, Strauss got most of the bills settled.

As part of this effort, he developed the political television air time to raise money. Buying costly national television air time to solicit funds was a gigantic risk, but it worked and it probably will be a permanent feature of the political scene.

Strauss did all this with a zest and energy that seemed limitless. Putting a Democratic whistlestop campaign train on the tracks was one of his fondest personal projects, and he worked for two years to get it done.

Hard set to follow
After all the complicated details were worked out and the train finally got under way in New York, Strauss alighted at every stop to warm up the audience and introduce the local politicians and the presidential candidate. He and his wife Helen also served snacks to the reporters between stops.

His works for first 14-hour day of the trip was just completed, finished as the train reached Pittsburgh. Strauss was celebrating by blocking the aisle of a VIP car and leading a loud and raucous sing-along all the way into the station.

Strauss will be a hard act to follow. But whoever Carter selects will find it an easier job to do because of the remarkable Texas who filled it last.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: With Christmas coming, the same old problem for many of us wives in the Christmas office party—no spouses invited!

After quite a few years, I realize now, it's the WOMEN who promote these affairs. I honestly believe that most men don't care for these office parties, but the women engineer everything. They get the men to sign up for the catered lunch, which now begins at 11:30 A.M. and goes on forever. They get them to agree to exchanging gifts. Anything just to get them to commit themselves. The men go because if they don't, the other man will say they're henpecked.

What's your opinion, Abby?

DEAR AGAINST: More and more large companies are making Christmas parties a "family affair." Married employees are free to bring their spouses, and single ones may bring a date. In offices where wives and dates are not welcome, you can be sure a wife was taken and the majority ruled. No one is forced to go to an office party. And that "henpecked" excuse is only good for chickens.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boyfriend (he's no "boy," he's a 45-year-old man who has needed to see a dentist for at least three years that I've known about. His teeth are in terrible shape. Some are so rotten they're crumbling, and he has large spaces in his mouth where he's lost teeth and never had them replaced.

He won't get terrible toothaches and headaches because of the miserable shape his mouth is in. Yet he refuses to go to a dentist. He has made up all sorts of excuses, saying he's too busy, his dentist has a three-month waiting list, etc. Finally, he told me he can't stand pain, and he can't take novocaine.

He looks awful, and it can't be good for his health. How do I get him to a dentist? I love him, his too big, I'd drug him and drag him there.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Forget the drugging and dragging, and turn to educating. Ask your dentist for written material on the new methods of painless dentistry. If neither doctor nor dentist can impress upon your mind the importance of dental care, point out the futility in having a man whose health is going downhill because of needless fear and ignorance.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my early 60s. I live with my sister and her husband, but I am financially independent and pay my own bills. My sister and her husband are invited to someone's home for dinner, they say to me, "The 30 and 40 have invited us to their home for dinner, and we can't bring Edith along if she's not doing anything."

Abby, would you consider that a proper invitation? When I tell my sister that I love him, she says, "It's good enough. People don't send engraved invitations for dinner."

Abby, would you accept one of those "Bring Edith" invitations or not?

DEAR EDITH: A "bring Edith" invitation is more than most widows who live with their sisters receive. I appreciate your sensitivity, but if I were you, I'd go and have a good time.

Hammers, spark plugs lure girls to Cheney Tech

People

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Herald Reporter

Girls have definitely invaded the vocational educational program in Manchester.

Last year, girls enrolled for the first time for a full course at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School taking such courses as carpentry and electrical shop.

In addition to the three who "broke the ice" last year, four more girls joined the student body this year. Besides signing up for carpentry and electrical shop, two of the new girl students chose drafting.

Added to Cheney Tech's student enrollment this year are Lori Sherman of Gardner St., Charlotte West of Glastonbury, Lucy Goodsky of Oxford St., and Susan Barry of Bolton.

Two of the girls were influenced by older brothers who are attending Cheney Tech.

David Sherman is a junior in electrical shop and Lori says she has watched her brother doing electrical jobs around the house with increasing interest.

Although she doesn't intend to make a career of electrical work, she figures it will always afford a backup for whatever else she may want to do. Right now, Lori talks about going to drama school. A job in the electrical field could finance her education, she says.

"I was in several school plays when I lived in Bolton and I hope to join the Little Theatre of Manchester," she says.

Charlotte West also has a brother, Ed, who is a junior at Cheney Tech. In fact, three older brothers are all Cheney Tech graduates and own their own firm West Brothers Home Improvements, in East Hartford.

The baby of the family, Charlotte says she has practically grown up with a hammer in her hands. Even now, she helps her brothers in their business on weekends. Climbing a ladder comes almost as naturally as going upstairs.

Although Charlotte is majoring in carpentry, she plans to branch out into interior decorating and add the feminine touch to her brothers' business.

Charlotte has to run to keep up with her brothers, in races, that is. Her brother, Andy, has run in several benefit marathons, and all her brothers have participated in several Thanksgiving Day races in Manchester. This year, Charlotte ran, too, although she didn't officially register.

Another girl who expects to use her vocational career to finance her college education is Lucy Goodsky. Majoring in drafting, Lucy wants to be able to support herself with a good job while studying law. She took drafting last year at Illing Junior High School and liked it well enough to prefer that the girls continue going to regular high school, the girls agree.

The girls say their parents questioned the seriousness of their daughters' decision to pursue a vocational technical education.

Except for one instance, most of the parents are beginning to agree that the choice has been a good one because the girls, for the most part, are showing improvement in their school grades.

The curriculum at Cheney Tech is set up so that the students take a few weeks in their shop courses alternately with a few weeks in related courses such as English, math, social sciences, and so forth.

The students say that they take pride in keeping up with their homework in related subjects because more is expected of them. Students who do not keep up to Cheney Tech standards, are transferred to general high school.

"This year marks a 'first' at Cheney Tech because the girls are joining the boys in physical education classes."

"We do everything the boys do in the classes. Why not?" Charlotte says.

The girls are presently using the nurse's office for a locker room, and a shower will be installed in the girls' lavatory.

Some of the girls play basketball with the boys.

"I can shoot about as good as any of the boys," Charlotte says and Lucy says she, too, plays a pretty good game.

According to the girls, the boys don't seem to mind having them on their team. They play on the gym class team, not the regular school team.

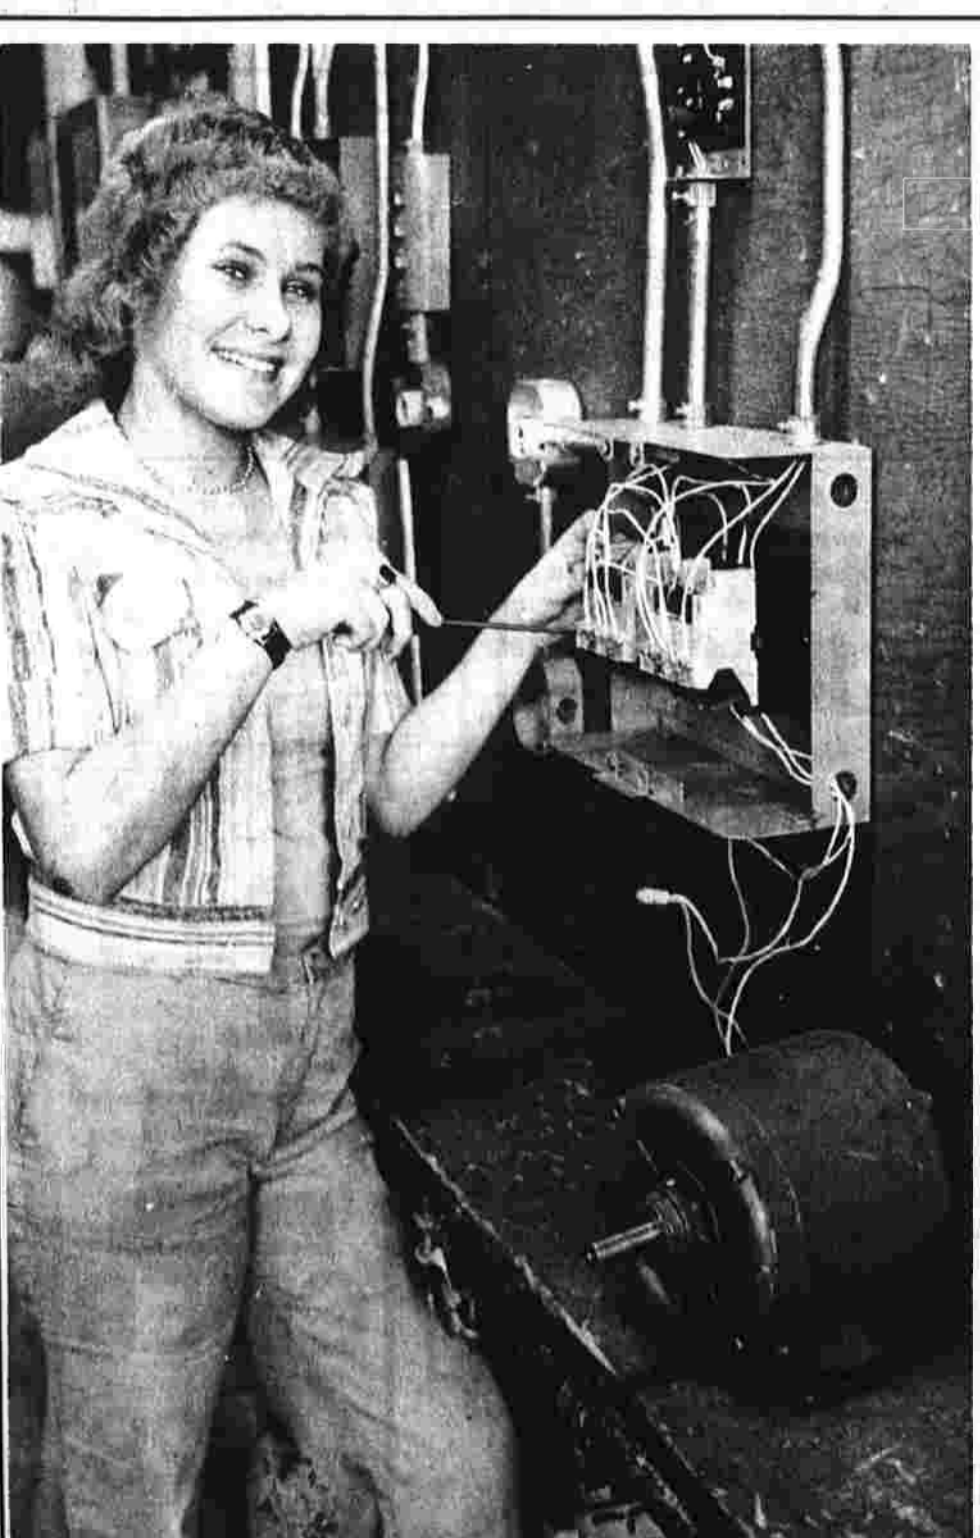

"A lot of people think we want to come here to meet the boys," one of the girls says. However, that's not quite true because each of the girls has her own boy friend outside the school.

After two years, the boys are getting used to the feminine invasion of their school and, so the girls say, are taking it in their stride.

Would any of these girls go back to general high school if they had a choice? "No way," is their unanimous reply.

Making sure they have the right angle on drafting are Susan Barry, left, and Lucy Goodsky as they learn to use the tools of the trade in a drafting class.

Lori Sherman tests the wiring of a forward-reverse motor control during a class in basics in the electrical course.

James Beard's Prune Bread, elegant in its simplicity, makes a delicious hospitality gift.

While some think prunes are a funny fruit, these dimpled nuggets of sweetness are no laughing matter.

In fact, prunes win special praise from many famous cookbooks writers. James Beard's Prune Bread, Maida Heatter's Prune-Pecan Cake and Alice B. Toklas' Prunes in Port are the prune greats.

"I don't know why prunes should strike us as so funny," Beard said. He soaked pitted prunes in sherry or Madeira overnight and then uses the "drunken" prunes in a quick bread. Beard recommends this bread for sandwiches of ham or pork slices or with fruit and nut fillings.

Maida Heatter, daughter of radio commentator Gabriel Heatter, is a renowned pastry chef. In her recently published dessert book, she describes how to use prunes in Prune-Pecan Cake. While this very moist cake calls for stewed prunes, "stewing" is a simple matter. Cover pitted prunes with cold water, boil 3 minutes. For a slightly less moist cake, pitted prunes may be used without stewing.

Prunes in Port are said to have originated with Alice B. Toklas, who was Gertrude Stein's constant companion. Packed into a crock, covered with port, these prunes are delicious alone, or as a dessert topping. Or try the prunes as Miss Toklas did in France. Serve the wine in cordial glasses, with one prune per glass.

James Beard's Prune Bread
2 eggs
1/2 cup sherry or Madeira, in which the prunes have marinated for 24 hours.

1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
2 cups all-purpose flour
3 tsps. double-acting baking powder
1 cup finely chopped prunes, previously marinated and drained.
Mix the eggs, milk, and sherry or Madeira in a mixing bowl, and sift in the sugar, salt, cinnamon, flour, and baking powder. Stir until well mixed, and finally add the prunes. Pour into a well buttered bread pan or souffle dish or any 6-cup mold you choose; a round loaf is rather pleasant in this case. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 50-60 minutes, or until nicely browned. There will probably be a crack across the top, which is usual with baking-powder breads. Let it cool in the mold for 5 minutes, then turn out and cool on a rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Maida Heatter's Prune-Pecan Cake
1-1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1-1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1-1/2 cups pitted, stewed prunes (about 1 1/2 extra-large prunes)
Finely grated rind of 1 lemon
1/4 this, lemon juice
1/2 pound 1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2/3 cup buttermilk
1/2 pound (2 1/2 cups) pecans, cut or broken into large pieces
Place rack one-third from bottom of oven. Preheat to 400 degrees.

On second thought

My mother has been after me for weeks to send her Christmas list. "Write down your heart's desires. Santa Claus and all your aunts and uncles are listening." Well, frankly, I've reached that point in life where my heart's desire can no longer be tied up with red ribbon and put under the Christmas tree. But, just to please my mother, the other day I sat down with a pencil and paper, composed the following list, and mailed it to her.

1. Warm flannel nightgown with long sleeves and a high neck. (Mississippi nights can be cold.)
2. A set of mixing bowls. (The ones I got at my bridal shower have had it.)
3. A portable stadium seat. (To support my back during John's basketball games.)

4. An egg timer with a loud bell. (To time long distance phone calls.)
5. A tennis skirt. (Extra long... to cover you know what!)

My mother wrote back by return mail. She thanked me for my list and enclosed a copy of my sister's Christmas list with the observation, "I thought you'd be interested."

My sister's list filled a full page, single spaced on the typewriter; so I'll just give you a few of the highlights.

1. A long, sheer, swishy nightgown (black, red or leopard print.)
2. Erica Jong's new book of poetry.
3. Champagne glasses (with hollow stems for the bubbles).
4. The new Kiss album. (I'm beginning to like the kids' music.)
5. A pair of knee length boots. (To wear with my Gauch pants.)
6. A huge bottle of cologne. (One that smells musky and wow!)

Now, you're not going to believe this, but Nancy is my OLDER sister. She has five children. She wears a size 16 dress. She is a school teacher.

When you compare our lists, a message comes through and I don't like it! I think I should re-examine my heart's desires. I also think I should give my sister's Christmas list to my husband... and tell him that it's mine.

Dr. Lamb

Worry over husband's health

DEAR DR. LAMB - What does one do with a 48-year-old husband who won't take care of his health? He's a big man, 6 feet 2 and weighs 200 pounds. Two years ago the doctor found he had very high blood pressure and gave him some medicines and told him to come back in three weeks. He never went back. He gets very little exercise, eats no breakfast except for two cups of coffee and fruit juice, eats no lunch and has a good evening meal. He has two cocktails before dinner and several after. He is in bed by 10:30 week nights and 11 or so on weekends. He sits at a desk all day.

He suffers terrible headaches and eats aspirin like he can't get enough of it. His mother died of a stroke at age 57 and I am afraid he is heading in the same direction. His father is hale and hearty in his middle 70s and my husband says he takes after his father and will live to a ripe old age. His father is four inches shorter and 50 pounds lighter. He doesn't drink or smoke. My husband stopped smoking 10 years ago so I know that is in his favor.

Our sex life has gone down the drain. He says it makes his heart beat too fast for an hour or so afterwards.

I love him, Doctor, and don't want to be a widow. I am only 44 and we still have four children at home. If you'd comment on whether blood pressure is inherited or not I would be most grateful.

DEAR READER - You have good reason to be concerned. There is an inherited tendency toward high blood pressure. Anyone who has high blood pressure certainly deserves careful evaluation and should then have regular medical supervision. If necessary, medicine should be taken. Elimination of any evidence of excess fat in a person who has high blood pressure is exceedingly important. High blood pressure significantly increases the likelihood of a stroke.

From the sounds of your husband's diet it is most unsatisfactory. Individuals usually are not successful in controlling their weight by eating little or no breakfast, little or no lunch and having one large meal a day. That large meal usually contains so many calories that it defeats all the earlier efforts.

The alcohol contributes to his caloric intake. A high alcohol intake with poor dietary habits is a set up for developing liver disease and other problems. If sexual activity produces a significant strain on your husband, his health must be sufficiently

Social Security

Q. I'm looking ahead and trying to figure my retirement income. Is it possible for me to find out how much my monthly Social Security payments will be?

A. Yes. Any Social Security office can give you an estimate of your Social Security payments. It's a good idea to talk to a representative when you're beginning to think about retirement. In addition to giving you an estimate of what your payments will be when you retire, he can also tell you what papers and other information you'll need when you apply.

Q. I plan to retire next year at 65. The only proof of age I have is a baptismal certificate written in Norwegian. Can I use it as proof of age when I apply for Social Security retirement benefits?

A. Yes. Translators in the Social Security Administration will translate the certificate, make a certified copy of it, and then return the original certificate to you.

Q. I work part time as a waitress in a supper club. I collect all the tips at the tables I serve, and later I share them with the bus boys working my tables. Do I report all these tips for Social Security?

A. You must give your employer a written report of your tips within 10 days after the month you receive them when they amount to $20 or more, for one month. Report only the amount you keep for yourself. The other employees should also report their tips to the employer if they amount to $20 or more in one month.

Q. My mother, who's 80, has gotten so sick that she can't handle her own money any longer. I have her power-of-attorney, but I'm not sure what I should do with her monthly Social Security checks. Should I try to cash them?

A. No, you should not cash her Social Security checks. You should call the Social Security office immediately. We can arrange to send her checks to you as her "representative payee" with the checks carrying your name as well as your mother's so you can cash them.

Q. I'm planning to retire in January 1977. I heard that it takes about six to nine months for Social Security to get my latest wages on their records. How can I be sure my most recent wages will be included in figuring my monthly payments?

A. When you apply for retirement payments, you should take a copy of your 1976 Statement of Earnings (form W-2) to the Social Security office. On the basis of form W-2, all of your creditable earnings for 1976 will be recorded to your record.

Q. My husband, who's 66 and enrolled in Medicare, can't get monthly Social Security checks because he's still working full time and earning too much. I'm 62 and not working. Can I get wife's payment on his work record even though he isn't getting payments?

A. No, since your husband is still working and is not getting monthly checks, you cannot get monthly checks as a wife. However, you may be eligible for payments on your own Social Security record if you have had enough work over the years in jobs covered by Social Security.

Consumer concern

"Degree Days" and heating

"Degree days," commonly quoted by TV and radio weather reporters, are a measure which indicates the nominal heating requirement for a particular area during the cold weather season.

Using 65 degrees as a base, a temperature when heating is not required normally, there are as many degree days as there are degrees in Fahrenheit difference between 65 and the average temperature for the day, when the average is below 65 degrees. If the average temperature for a certain day is higher than 65 degrees that day is ignored in figuring the degree day total for any period.

Basically, one "degree day" is recorded for each degree that the daily average temperature drops below the 65 base. For example: If the average temperature for the day is 60 subtract that figure from 65 and that gives a total of 5 degree days for that 24-hour period.

Degree day readings are used by fuel oil dealers to schedule fuel deliveries to those listed on an automatic delivery basis. Fuel requirements vary in various areas of this state. In recent years, annual degree days totals have ranged from about 5,800 in the Bridgeport area to 7,500 in the northwest corner of the state.

Home heating takes energy of one type or another and the watchword is still conservation. A new and informative publication to guide the homeowner in determining possible energy and money-saving measures is available without charge from the State Department of Planning and Energy Policy, "Home Energy Savers' Workbook," with emphasis placed on treatment of attics, floors and windows, may be requested by mail from the DPPEP at 20 Grand St., Hartford, 06115 or by phoning the toll-free number 1-800-842-1448. The booklet also contains a brief section on choosing a contractor.

Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: "Of Consumer Concern," Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115.

No haggling over this school's budget

PRUDENCE ISLAND, R.I. (UPI) — Parents don't haggle about the school budget here and the teacher picks up the entire student body on his way class.

Rhode Island's last one-room schoolhouse, perched on a seven-mile-long island in Narragansett Bay, is a precious link to days gone by. Above the hum of the heater and the gurgle of the salt water aquarium, you can hear a deer wail.

There is no principal, no loudspeakers, no announcements, no bathroom passes, no tardy notes, no shoes in summer, no study hall, no guidance counselors. There are just trees, a blackboard, books, paper, chalk, a few wooden chairs, a chart on the wall, a man and the four students he has chosen to teach.

You can't beat it. It's practically like having a tutor," said Barbara Molden, whose two children attend the school, but will be leaving after Christmas.

All in all, schoolmaster Bill Bacon is about to lose three-quarters of his student body.

Craig Molden, 11, and his sister, Karen, 9, and their mother are leaving the island for South Carolina to join their father, back from the sea after a stint on a submarine tender.

Kenny Bachini, 13, will take the ferry to the mainland to live at a high school in Portsmouth next September. The ferry churns through the icy bay only three times a week in winter, ruling out daily runs to school.

That will leave Lori Bachini, 10, as Bacon's only pupil. There are only 30 year-round residents on the island.

Mother went to school

Bacon, 31, got his teaching certification so he could return to the schoolroom where his mother learned "the Three R's" and his great-grandfather once taught about George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Roger Williams, the founder of Rhode Island.

"A lot of teachers envy me when they hear I'm teaching a class with only four kids," he said, "but they change their minds when they hear that as a part of the job you have to live here."

Bacon looks part lumberjack, part patriot and part country preacher as he stands in a plaid flannel shirt with palms raised outward before the bright American flag.

Not much is new in the faded 89-year-old frame schoolhouse that weathered the hurricane of 1938 and the 1973 exodus of a handful of Navy personnel that staffed a now-abandoned munitions dump on the island, an isolated part of the town of Portsmouth.

Sells water

Kenny and Lori's mother, Marcy Dunbar, sells water to the school. Occasionally she padlocks the two stores she owns on the island to pick up the children on mornings when Bacon's car is out of whack.

"We can go off, but not too much," Craig said. He arrived last spring from an American school at a submarine base in Rota, Spain. "It's a lot better than being with 1,000 kids. I hated that."

Portsmouth School Supt. Henry V. Diodati has racked his brains trying to figure out how to transport the Prudence Island children to mainland schools.

But ferries, private boats and even helicopters cost more than the $16,000 it costs keep the school gas heater running and Bacon in chalk.

Growing older

Politicians need lots of prodding by oldsters

The 1978 presidential election is over, yet some of us may continue debating whether "the best man won." Nevertheless, Jimmy Carter will be our 39th president and we hope the next four years will be more rewarding for the senior citizens.

I've listened to many campaign speeches and voted in many past presidential elections. But it seemed to me 1976 was the year of the pollsters. Polls had been taken all through the campaign and on Election Day.

Then the pollsters tried to analyze the voting patterns in assorted precincts around the country.

In fact, there seemed to be so many attempts to break down the voting patterns that I was surprised the pollsters didn't try to learn how many right-handed and left-handed people pulled down the voting booth levers or dropped their ballots into the box.

But most surprising to me was the failure of the polls to analyze the voting patterns of the large aging population during the last days of the campaign or on Election Day.

Today there are 22 million men and women over 65, possibly more who have recently grown older and have added more candles to their birthday cakes. Another 19 million are between the ages of 55 and 64. And many of them will have joined us in the ranks of the senior citizens before Jimmy Carter completes his four years in the White House.

Add them all together and this reaches a figure of 40 million people, possibly half of all other eligible voters. Even if some of us didn't vote we make up a large and powerful voting bloc for the future. But it is to our credit that as a voting bloc we do turn out to express our preference in goodly numbers. It's important that we learn how to use our numbers and our influence on our people in government to do something for us.

I'm optimistic that things will get better for us during the next four years. New President Jimmy Carter in his many speeches repeated his awareness of the problems facing the senior citizens and the importance of doing something for them.

The day after his election he said this need to help the older people would be high on his agenda of urgent things to do. The same day our new First Lady, Rosalynn Carter, promised that she would continue her long time work for mental health and the senior citizens.

And in the background there's the maternal influence of Miss Lillian. She is in her late 70s and has professed a great interest in the problems of older people.

Our new president may try to direct Congress to enact new legislation which will benefit the older citizens. But it's our representatives in Washington who pass the laws and provide the money to help us live healthier and better lives.

I feel doubly confident that sound legislation benefiting the older population won't be sent back from the White House with a presidential veto.

There may be new faces in the Senate and the House representing some of us and there will also be new chairmen and committee members in the legislative branch dealing with our many problems. But we shouldn't sit around and wait.

It's up to us as individuals and organizations to use our aging but still powerful political muscle to pressure our own representatives in Washington for action — so that we may enjoy decent and rewarding lives.

AARP bowling team formed

A bowling league for members of American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) in Manchester will begin bowling Jan 3 at 1 p.m. at the Parkade Lanes.

The league was formed recently after 36 AARP members completed a five-week instruction course. At graduation ceremonies, they were presented with certificates from the Brunswick Recreation Centers who sponsored a "Learn to Bowl" school at the Parkade Lanes.

The new league will be for fun and recreation. All members of AARP, either national or local, are welcome to join the group.

News for senior citizens

Hi! I guess the big news is that two buses will be leaving for Restland Farms at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. This means that here at the center we will not have a hot meal, nor a regular meeting. However, the building will be open for business, visiting, and open card playing.

We will be finalizing our plans for our combination Christmas-New Year's Dance which will be held here at the center on Wednesday, Dec. 29, from 7:30 to 10:30 in the evening. We will be dancing to the tunes of Lou Joubert and his band, have a few noise makers, lots of spicy juice, goodies to munch on, and as always door prizes. Lots of fun and excitement as we celebrate the old year out, and the new year in. Tickets are now available here at the center, with the donation of $2 per ticket.

Setback, results

The action here starts with this past Friday afternoon

when we had 55 players for our setback games, and the lucky winners were:

Martha LaBate, 131; Arvid Peterson, 127; Ann Fisher, 125; Lillian Rutchik, 124; Michael Haberman, 122; Betty Jesanis, 121; John Gally, 120; Maude White, Grace Windsor, and Al Gates, 119; Jennie Fogarty and Robert Cordeur, 117; Helen Gavello, 116; Felix Jesanis, Marjorie Reed, and Vivian Esquerre, 115.

Pinocle

On Monday morning, despite the cold and windy morning, we had a nice turnout for our kitchen social games, and in the afternoon we had 14 tables for pinocle with the following winners:

Audrey Durey, 823; Robina Carroll, 786; Ann Fisher, 784; Frank Gadowski, 783; Hans Fredrickson, 775; Fritz Wilkinson, 774; Marie Hebenstreit, 772; Jennie Fogarty, 758; Esther Anderson, 753; Catherine Gleeson, 752; Felix Jesanis and Anna Thompson, 747; Rene Maire, 740, and Mabel Wilson, 728.

Gifts on sale

A reminder that we have many lovely articles on sale here at the center for Christmas gifts. The sale will continue on a daily basis from now until Dec. 23, from 9 o'clock until 4 in the afternoon. Everyone is welcome to drop in, and browse around the craft room.

Don't forget that our annual Christmas party here at the center will be held on Thursday, Dec. 23. Santa Claus will pay us a visit, and help pass out the gifts. A woman's gift for the women, and a man's gift for the men must be brought in.

Golfing trip

We also remind all you golfers that if you would like to go to Hilton Head, S.C., to do some vacation golfing, now is the time to sign up. You do not have to be a senior to be eligible.

We send our sincere and heartfelt condolences to the families of Beatrice Mader, who's son passed away this past week, and to the Joseph DuPont family on the loss of his Aunt Rose who passed away Sunday.

We just learned that Jennie McCredy is in the hospital for eye surgery, so let's send her a card to cheer her on.

Florida-travelers

Don't forget that we have that big Florida trip in January and we could use a few more to make the trip a success. It is for 14 days, and with so many interesting places to see and places to visit plus a super boat ride and buffet dinner, it makes for a trip you'll not only enjoy but long remember. We have flyers available here at the office, but you better make up your mind real soon because time is running out.

Just another reminder that the buses for Restland Farms will be leaving at 10:30 a.m., not nine-thirty as stated in previous write-ups.

QE2 is a Noah's Ark for the rich

By PETER COSTA
BOSTON (UPI) — If there were a Noah's Ark for the rich it would have to be the Queen Elizabeth 2.

But unlike the biblical boat which carried two of every species of animal, QE2 has at least two of every kind of luxury.

It boasts two indoor swimming pools, and two more outdoors. There are four gourmet dining rooms and nine nightclubs. The 963-foot Cunard Line British liner tries to combine the carefree Jazz Age with the instant-on Space Age.

Passengers may dine on Strasbourg foie gras in mahogany quietude or a plain hamburger amid ear-splitting disco rock. Or they can do what leisure class people have done since F. Scott Fitzgerald was around: Wear beautiful clothes and look gloriously thin.

But even doing nothing costs money. Typical prices for a 15-day cruise start at $655 for the least expensive double cabin to $9,800 for a luxury penthouse suite with outside private verandah. That amounts to approximately $730 a day for a penthouse.

And according to William C. North of the Cunard Line, there is a waiting list for the penthouses.

"We're experiencing somewhat of a boom in the cruise business in the last 10 years cruising grew at a rate of 20 per cent per year. Not only that, but the rate of passenger ship building is also near boom proportions. A new passenger ship construction has been growing at a rate of 25 per cent per year," North said.

The key to successful operations, according to North, is an efficient relationship between the number of passengers carried and the size of the ship's power plant.

"An old ship, an unprofitable ship, is one that has too few bedrooms and too large a power plant," North said.

He cited that as the reason why people travel aboard luxury liners remain the same — passengers sail for service, for food and for the romance of the sea, according to North.

And the QE2 makes food and service her specialties. Not only is there one crew member to every two passengers but that ratio on some cruises is often one to one.

"Take the passenger-steward concept, for example. Waiting across the hall from every passenger's cabin is a steward and stewardess just waiting for a buzzer, 24 hours a day. Now that's service and that's what cruise passengers get and expect when they voyage on the QE2," he said.

The food aboard is unparalleled, according to North. In addition to a sunrise breakfast, there is a formal breakfast, two tea times, lunch, a formal dinner and even a daily midnight buffet. Gourmet cuisine is featured and there is even one first class dining room which does not use a menu. Its chefs will cook anything the passenger requests. The passengers who eat in this dining room meet with a chef or his representative one day ahead of the meal and discuss what they would like to have the chef cook for them.

It is this kind of exclusive service and elegance that continues to draw cruise passengers, North said.

And the kind of passenger has changed. No longer is the stereotype of the ultra-wealthy magnate as passenger true, according to North. While there remain many passengers who fit this stereotype, there is no such thing as a typical passenger. Many people who would be considered from the middle-income group now take to the sea in ships, he said.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

by Will Bernard

When the case came to trial, the neighbor argued as follows:

"The canary may have been her property while it was in the cage. But once it escaped into the open air, it was 'fair game.' So now it's mine."

However, the court ruled in favor of Myrtle, primarily on the ground that the canary had been domesticated. It was no more "fair game," said the court, than an organ grinder's monkey would be if it slipped out of its collar.

Myrtle's pet canary escaped from its cage one morning and fluttered into a neighbor's back yard. The neighbor captured the bird but refused to give it back. Finally Myrtle filed suit.

Generally speaking, an animal that is wild by nature belongs to no one. But once captured and domesticated, it may become as much private property as an automobile or a suit of clothes. From then on, even if it escapes, most courts will continue to recognize the original owner's rights.

A more extreme case involved a rare species of parrot. This time, the bird escaped and remained at large for almost three weeks. When finally captured, it had made its way to the next county.

But again, when the owner proved that the bird had been trained, the court upheld his property rights in the parrot and ordered it returned.

On the other hand, consider the saga of a sea lion which escaped from a holding tank into the Atlantic Ocean and was later recaptured by a fisherman. Hence, the creature had not been domesticated in any way. The court thereupon decided in favor of the fisherman, pointing out that the sea lion had "regained its natural liberty."

There was no intention on its part," said the court, "of returning to its place of captivity, or of again submitting itself to the domination of the (original owner)."

Q. All the rumors indicate that countries exporting oil to this country are about to raise prices again. How can I conserve energy and save some money on my car?

A. Here are some ways to get more miles per gallon of gas:

- Drive at moderate speeds. Most cars get about 21 per cent more miles per gallon of gas at 55 m.p.h. than at 70 m.p.h.
- Drive at steady speeds. The Hold a steady foot on the gas pedal as long as traffic conditions allow. This can improve your gas mileage by as much as 1.3 miles a gallon.
- Start off slowly, except when you are passing or entering high-speed traffic. Hot rod driving and quick starts can decrease your gas mileage.
- Keep the engine air filter clean. An air-starved engine wastes gasoline.
- Use the octane gasoline and oil grade recommended for your car.
- Check tire pressures regularly. Under-inflated tires increase gas consumption.
- Consider steel-belted radials when you buy new tires. They give better mileage and last longer. But never mix radials with conventional tires.
- Remove unnecessary weight from the car. The lighter the car, the less gas it uses.

Swinging Santas live any house

By Dusty Pilot
Bring holiday spirit to any room with these whimsical swinging Santas. Hang them from the ceiling, from a light fixture over your dining table or hang them flat against a wall. They can even be used as package and tree trims.

Individual strings of various-sized Santas from one large Santa. The swinging, swaying Santas are part of the jolly family of clothes pin dolls, pine cone owls and pixie tree ornaments in Dusty Pilot's Christmas Craft Book which also includes many other holiday decorating ideas. Order your own and gift copies today. The book costs only $1.50 each (includes postage and handling). Send check or money order with name, address and zip code to CHRISTMAS CRAFTS, in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 489, Dept. J, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

On Aug. 16, 1776, members of the Moravian religious sect in Salem, N.C., objected to the Declaration of Independence because they feared they would have to take a loyalty oath to the Continental Congress. The World Almanac notes that Moravians permitted oaths to be taken only to God during religious services.

4-H holiday dance set

The Hartford Country 4-H Fair Association will sponsor a holiday dance, "Midwinter in the Moonlight," Dec. 22 at the KofC hall in East Hartford. A social hour from 7 to 8 p.m. will be followed by dancing until midnight. There will be live music. Dress is semi-formal. All 4-H members, friends and parents are welcome. Tickets will be sold at the door. Members are asked to bring finger foods. Coffee and punch will be provided throughout the evening. In case of inclement weather, cancellation announcements will be made on WDRS and WTRC radio stations.

About town

Diet ideas reduced to size

ARTHUR P. HARMATZ, AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — The diet you started last week may cause you to gain weight. That's only one of the surprising conclusions of a year-long investigation of overweight and dieting persons by University of Massachusetts psychologists. Morton G. Harmatz, 37, director of clinical training in the university's psychology department, says preliminary findings of the series of studies tend to disprove some long-held dieting "truths." For example, he said one study shows diets probably should include, rather than eliminate, a person's favorite food. And Harmatz said another study indicates overweight persons should shop for groceries while hungry, contrary to instructions given shoppers by consumer guides. But even more importantly, he said in a recent interview the studies have found diets tend to prepare the body for gaining weight and set up an already overweight person to join a class of "super-obese."

"When someone diets, they may actually do themselves more harm than good in the long run," Harmatz said.

"It appears there's no difficulty getting an initial weight loss from dieting. Almost anyone can lose an initial 10-15 pounds," he said. "It's really quite easy. The problem is maintaining that new body size and maybe even losing further."

"The classic pattern with overweight people is to regain that weight that they lost on a diet. Not only do they regain that weight, but they tend to show a rebound above their previous weight."

He said that means "they lose on one diet, then rebound a little, then lose on another diet and then gain even more. So you get an increasing gain over the years. The super obese come out of that kind of pattern."

To combat that pattern, Harmatz said some type of weight-loss maintenance program is needed.

So far, he said, studies involving 33 overweight women have had success with positive reinforcement programs in which dieters were rewarded for maintaining weight loss with imagery programs in which subjects connected eating and thought of themselves as slimmer persons and with group programs in which subjects discussed eating problems and had public weigh-ins.

Harmatz said another University of Massachusetts study of eating indicates that "favorite foods" should be included in diets. He said when two groups of 600 students used diets with similar caloric intakes, the group that had its "absolute favorite snack food" included in the diet was more successful in maintaining weight loss.

"Being on a diet you feel deprived, with a physical or psychological desire for certain foods," he said. "When you come off the diet you eat the desired food and have a rapid weight gain."

"By including that 'favorite food' in the diet, you seem to eliminate that desire."

Harmatz said both groups in that study lost weight equally during a 10-week diet. But persons who ate their favorite foods either maintained or continued to lose weight during a 10-week follow-up, while the other group regained the weight it lost.

Another study shows that overweight people should probably shop for food while hungry, he said. Preliminary findings of that study, which measured the length of time people looked at food slides to indicate their interests in the foods, indicated some people "might have something wrong so that food does not lead to satiation but to hunger," Harmatz said.

He said those persons' brains apparently get high insulin readings from eating rather than the normal high blood sugar reading. That mix-up in signals makes the person's eating lead to a desire to eat, Harmatz said.

"So after eating, they'd be highly likely to look for something to eat," he said.

Hartford firm acquires five planes

Corporate Air, Inc., of Hartford, operators of an air express and passenger charter service, have announced the acquisition of five aircraft from Japan Air Lines. This brings to 14 the number of aircraft in the Corporate Air fleet. The new airplanes are Piper Navajos. Used by Japan Air Lines for pilot instrument training, the airplanes are exceptionally well equipped with avionics. Two of the Navajos have been fitted for air charter service and feature attractive club seating for up to six, desks, and a refreshment center. The other three are configured for freight.

Jackson joins Magson Uniform

Paul Jackson joined Magson Uniform of Kensington today as its New England States police uniform director and assistant to Nathan E. Mag, vice president in charge of sales.

Jackson has been in the uniform field for past 21 years from early youth. He is a graduate of Rockville High School and attended the University of Connecticut. James R. O'Connor of East Hartford is in charge of the Connecticut Police Uniform division.

Ron Vincent, formerly of Manchester and now of New Britain, will be in charge of the letter carriers uniform division.

Business

Stock sale expands investment company

The Dewey Investment Corporation of Manchester, licensed by the Small Business Administration, has successfully completed its recent expansion through a public sale of stock. This enlargement provides the corporation with additional funds of $1,800,000 which will be used to assist area firms. The brokers on the sale of stock were the F.L. Putnam Co. of Boston and its East Hartford division, Kennedy-Peterson, Inc.

The Manchester corporation, under the terms of its license, can assist in the financing and expansion of small businesses by providing both long term loans and equity capital investments. The company, whose office is at 101 W. Middle Tpke. intends to continue its concentration in the area of business loans with terms of five and ten years.

This is the second expansion of the Dewey Investment Corporation. It was originally acquired by a group of local businessmen in 1973 who brought to Manchester and increased its assets by $600,000 at that time.

The officers of the investment company are George Mrosek, president; Salvatore Filloramo, vice president; Loren Andreo, treasurer; Jack R. Hunter, secretary; and the directors are James McCarthy, John Filloramo, John Wile, John DeQuattro, William Thornton, John Mrosek, Thomas Toomey and Donald Genovesi.

Lead wick candles still being sold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission says some candles, mostly used in votive lights at churches, are being sold with lead-core wicks despite concern over health hazards which might result.

The commission singled out two manufacturers Monday which it said are still making the wicks. Most of the industry dropped the practice after health concerns were raised three years ago about exposure to burning lead.

Thousands of Christmas candles and others at that time used slim lead wires inside the wicks for support.

Two firms — Queens Braidworks Inc., New York; and American Wick Co., North Bergen, N.J. — "are continuing to produce lead core wicking," the commission said Monday.

The commission said it is considering whether to require a label warning on such candles to let buyers know of the presence of lead.

Meantime, it said, "consumers can easily identify candles with lead-core wicking by a close examination... The lead wire running through the center can be exposed by peeling back the surrounding cotton braid."

Pregnancy pay ordered

HARTFORD (UPI) — In the first Connecticut decision since the U.S. Supreme Court said pregnant employees are not entitled to disability pay, a Torrington firm was ordered to pay a woman $715 for a 1973 pregnancy leave.

The Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities said Union Hardware, a division of Brunswick Corp., in Skokie, Ill., discriminated against the woman in denying her full disability pay for the pregnancy.

The decision favoring Shirley Hilla of Torrington was written before last week's high court decision but went unreported until Monday.

SNETCO declares dividend

Directors of Southern New England Telephone declared a regular quarterly dividend of 95.5 cents per share on the company's preferred stock Series A, $1.15625 per share on its preferred stock Series B, and 75 cents per share on its common stock at their meeting on December 8.

The dividends are payable Jan. 15, 1977 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 20.

Existing single homes selling well

Sales of existing single-family homes in October continued at near the record-setting pace established in September, according to the latest monthly existing home sales report of the National Association of Realtors.

for the association, said that existing single-family homes were sold at a seasonably adjusted rate of 3,290,000 units during the month.

The figure is 1.2 per cent below September's record pace of 3,330,000 units, but 19.6 per cent above October 1975 when an estimated 2,750,000 transactions occurred.
