Law firm picked for industrial park

New developments continued to surface this week in the plans for a proposed industrial park in Buckland. The Manchester Economic Development Commission selected the law firm of Lesser, Rottner, Karp and Pletcher to assist in preparatory steps for the park.

The firm will work on preparing the town's presentation for the Jan. 10 zoning hearing. It will also assist Town Counsel Victor I. Moses in legal work needed for land acquisition.

The Neighborhood Committee met Thursday and reviewed recent happenings in the park development. Films and slides of the J.C. Penney catalog distribution center in Columbus, Ohio were shown, and the committee learned that the firm has sent a letter to Gov. Ella Grasso explaining that it has no interest in the development of I-291.

The committee was also filled in on a couple of possible changes that are being considered for the park plans. One would include the moving southward of the southern boundary. Another would involve the acquisition of some property in the northwest corner of the park.

The Conservation Commission look a "tell me more" attitude about the industrial park. It asked to be kept informed of all information and developments pertaining to the park.

Town officials met Monday with some residents in the area of the proposed park site. The officials said that they would look into the possibility of providing area property owners with some type of protection in case well water is damaged by any construction connected with the park.

In a matter connected with the Buckland fire jurisdiction case, Town Counsel Moses explained his recent statement about "political pressure" on his office. He said that he was referring to newspaper articles that quoted a couple of the town directors had suggested additional counsel might be needed for the case.

Hi! Well our Restland Farms Christmas Party trip is over, and you'll have to wait until next Wednesday for the happenings. Speaking of Wednesday, that will be our only column for the week; in fact, it will be the same the following week. The reason is because both Christmas and New Year's day fall on Saturday, and naturally no paper. Our center will be closed the Fridays before each holiday.

Christmas party The big thing this week will be our annual Christmas party in which we exchange presents. Santa Claus will be on hand to help pass out the gifts, and we remind our members who plan to attend that a woman must bring a woman's gift, and a man a man's. We ask that you will be considerate in the gift you bring, and it should cost about $2. Bring a gift that you yourself would like to receive.

Pinocle On Wednesday morning we had 36 players for pinocle and the lucky winners were: Michael Haberman, 504, Helena Gavello, 589; Violet Dion, 581; Al Gates, 580; Gladys Seelert, 578; Frances Fike, 577; Archie Houghtaling, 572; Audrey Durey, 571; and Harold Bogot, 553.

Bowling The action here starts with our Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes with the following results: In the men's Class B group Edward Litwin won the high triple with a 459 and Arvid Peterson and Ed Litwin tied for the high single with a 127.

Education The renovations and additions project at Washington School was placed on a top priority list of local school projects by the state Board of Education Tuesday. Another project, for renovations to Bentley Elementary School, was placed in a third priority category for receiving state grants.

Housing Two town agencies - the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Community Development Citizens Advisory Committee - will study the possibility of constructing lower-priced homes in Manchester.

Public Safety Four out of the five families left homeless by an extensive fire in a multi-family home on Oak St. Dec. 9 had found new housing by the end of the week.

People Deputy Mayor John Thompson is virtually assured of promotion to executive director of the Connecticut State Employees Association.

Health The executive committee of the Manchester-Bolton Branch of the American Red Cross appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of a permanent location.

Menus for the week Monday, sliced turkey on whole wheat with pickle chips, Boston baked beans, fruited Jello, beverage.

Schedule for the week Monday, 10 a.m. to noon, kitchen social games, one can of canned goods needed. Noon to 12:30 p.m., lunch is served. 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., pinocle games. Bus pickup at 8:30 a.m., return trips at 12:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Science Today: Phoning your heartbeat to the doctor

JAMES J. DOYLE TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) - Heart patients worried the rhythm of their heartbeat may be off - too slow or too fast - can stay at home and phone it in to Harbor General Hospital. Instead of visiting the hospital in person, they attach a couple of electrodes to their body, dial the hospital's Arrhythmia Clinic, and then place the phone on a small box.

The box is an electronic transmitter which converts the patient's pulse or heartbeat into a radio signal. The signal in the form of a series of beeps is carried over the phone wires to the heart station and translated into a graph of the person's heartbeat. "I feel there have been lives saved," technician Faddy Dillon said. "In one instance two patients who are following were not feeling well and called in three times a week. We gathered enough data to discover they both needed pacemakers."

The pacemakers were implanted surgically and Miss Dillon said without them the patients could have developed serious problems. "We analyze the signal," Miss Dillon said, "and if we find something out of the ordinary we call the patient back at once and arrange for an in-person appointment."

The system has been in effect here for about two years for pacemaker patients, and for about a year with heart patients suffering from arrhythmia, or irregular heart beat.

The electronic connection, the box that transmits the heartbeat into phone signals, costs the patient about $125. Miss Dillon said she said the cost of the Harbor General system is low "for such a fabulous security blanket."

It gives one look at what the heart is doing. There are other systems which look at the heart from four angles but she said they are very expensive. The device used at home involves an elastic band with two metal electrodes connected to wires into the transmitting device. The patient has only to scrub the area where the electrodes will be placed - usually the wrists or one arm and one leg - and make the call.

About 65 of the hospital's patients are currently using the device, she said. Dr. J. Michael Griley, UCLA Professor of Medicine and Radiology and chief of the hospital's Division of Cardiology, said the system saves time and money.

"Many of the patients can stay home and receive the same type of careful and reliable surveillance they would in a hospital," he said.

Miss Dillon said patients using the telemetry program are mostly in the Los Angeles area but some are in San Diego. That's another advantage of the system. "The atmosphere of the hospital was so strange and frightening to her, the benefits of the hospital care were just about neutralized, if not overcome. Once back at home the patient made steady improvement."

In one case, he said, a patient was suffering from a bad case of "hospitalitis" in addition to the heart problem. "The atmosphere of the hospital was so strange and frightening to her, the benefits of the hospital care were just about neutralized, if not overcome. Once back at home the patient made steady improvement."

In a matter connected with the Buckland fire jurisdiction case, Town Counsel Moses explained his recent statement about "political pressure" on his office. He said that he was referring to newspaper articles that quoted a couple of the town directors had suggested additional counsel might be needed for the case.

Education: The renovations and additions project at Washington School was placed on a top priority list of local school projects by the state Board of Education Tuesday. Another project, for renovations to Bentley Elementary School, was placed in a third priority category for receiving state grants.

School administrators and school board members, in an effort to improve communications with local interest groups, met with ten Realtors in an informal luncheon meeting Tuesday. They fielded questions from the Realtors and distributed a new pamphlet on the schools and educational services which will be available for new and prospective residents.

Housing: Two town agencies - the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Community Development Citizens Advisory Committee - will study the possibility of constructing lower-priced homes in Manchester. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss and Town Planner J. Eric Potter both suggested the idea of the study because of the cost of housing in town.

The South United Methodist Property Interest Committee has set up plans to attempt to stop the sale of the church's Hartford Rd. property for elderly housing.

Public Safety: Four out of the five families left homeless by an extensive fire in a multi-family home on Oak St. Dec. 9 had found new housing by the end of the week. The local Red Cross office was still helping Mrs. Donna Bushey find housing for her family and seeking furniture for Mrs. Iles Gyokery who lost all her belongings in the fire. Manchester Area Conference of Churches had a donation of money for the victims and other groups in town are aiding the families.

Christmas party: The big thing this week will be our annual Christmas party in which we exchange presents. Santa Claus will be on hand to help pass out the gifts, and we remind our members who plan to attend that a woman must bring a woman's gift, and a man a man's. We ask that you will be considerate in the gift you bring, and it should cost about $2. Bring a gift that you yourself would like to receive.

On the following Thursday evening, Dec. 23, we will be celebrating our Christmas and New Year's party dance. It will be a real fun night with great music especially tuned for seniors, lots of noise makers, goodies to eat and door prizes.

Pinocle: On Wednesday morning we had 36 players for pinocle and the lucky winners were: Michael Haberern, 594; Helena Gavello, 589; Violet Dion, 581; Al Gates, 560; Gladys Seelert, 578; Frances Pike, 577; Archie Houghaling, 572; Audrey Durey, 571; and Harold Bogot, 553.

Then in the afternoon we took time out to hold a little thank you party for all the volunteers who worked so hard to make our recent Holiday Fair a huge success. Meanwhile, downstairs, we had our bridge games with four tables, and the prize winners were: Marge Reed, 4,040; Jack Owen, 3,820; Josephine Schuetz, 3,730; and Kathleen Ellsworth, 3,630.

Revelations of a makeover

REPORTER: What shade is that? SARAH: Well, it's just a pale shade of yellow for a matte finish which I want because her skin is only (she dots the face). Always blend make-up down and out because every pore has a hair in it and you don't want the makeup to get into the pore. MICHEL: Just a second, can you do that again? (to reporter) I can never say that word, again.

REPORTER: Now, this stringing will close the pores. Next, you must always use a moisturizer, even though you have oily skin. SARAH: (retrieves mirror) It's better if she doesn't look like a ghost. MICHEL: (snap, snap, snap)

SARAH: I'll outline the lips with a brown lip pencil and use a brush to apply a brownish lipstick. To give the lips a wet look, we finish with a gloss. JANEY: What happens when you get kissed? Make a holiday merry with food gifts

By Allison Clare
NEA Food Editor
Racking your brain and that of your friends to decide on suitable holiday presents? A gift from your kitchen adds a personal touch that no manufactured item can compete with. Your specialty may be cookies, or cakes, or liquors, or preserved fruits and relishes. Whatever you decide upon there is still plenty of time to prepare special treats for gift giving.

The packaging doesn't need to be elaborate. Just present with love and best of holiday wishes. Beat cheeses until smooth; almonds and scallions. Grapes an 8 x 4 x 2-and one-half inch loaf pan. Line with waxed paper and grease again. Press in cheese mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour and 15 minutes.

HAM-PICKLE PATE
3-4 cups fully-cooked ground ham (1-1/4 pounds)
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup pickle liquid (drained from sweet pickles)
1 tablespoon fresh or frozen chopped chives
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 eggs, slightly beaten
12 small sweet pickles

Thoroughly mix together ham, bread crumbs, parsley, onion, pickle liquid, chives, pepper, garlic and eggs. Firmly press half of mixture into 4 lightly oiled 5-inch baking dishes. Press 2 pickles into most mixture in each dish; top with remaining mixture. Press down very firmly with spatula or wooden spoon. Bake in 400-degree oven 30 minutes. Let stand in dishes 10 minutes; then unmold. Cool to room temperature. Chill thoroughly. Return pate to clean baking dishes; place in a pretty gift box and take to your hostess or a friend as a gift. Makes six molds. (Ham pickle pate will keep up to five days.)

SPICED COFFEE LIQUEUR
3-4 cups water
1 package (1 pound) dark 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
2 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup light molasses
1 egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
8 whole cloves
2 ounce jar (1 cup) instant 2 cups sifted whole wheat flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
12 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon crushed anise seed
1 teaspoon anise extract

CHRISTMAS CUT-OUTS
2 1/2 cup sugar

Dr. Lamb How to start exercise program

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am very anxious to get started on an exercise program that will help protect me from a heart attack. I am 29 years old and consider myself out of shape, although I am not exceptionally fat or anything like that. I need to know what kind of exercise I should do for my heart and lungs. What I really want are some specifics as to what I can expect from an exercise program, how I should start it and how fast I should increase my level of exercise. Should I start right out jogging, or what do you recommend? How should I judge how much exercise I am doing so that I won't overdo it and get into trouble? If you have any information on this area I would appreciate having it.

DEAR READER — You are wise to find out what to do before you start. Many a good exercise program has gone down the drain because the individual didn't have a clear idea as to what he could achieve with the program or how to go about doing it. To give you a thumbnail sketch, the important principle can be put in two words, gradual and consistent. Start your exercise program by walking at a comfortable pace. Perhaps you can start off at 15 minutes a day unless you have been exercising quite a bit in the past. From there gradually build up until you are able to walk three miles in an hour comfortably and are able to do this day after day without undue fatigue.

Memories build as we add ornaments

The Barnes family has a "thing" about Christmas tree ornaments. And, because Christmas is a time for sharing, we'd like to share our collection with you. We started from scratch 20 years ago and have added a special ornament or ornaments each year. One year it was large hand-painted glass ornaments of the Three Wise Men and the Virgin Mary. Another year we added a group of bisque birds, squirrels and a butterfly. A few years ago we found a box of iridescent glass "soap bubbles" which added a fragile, magical quality to the tree.

Wings of evening

CLIFF SIMPSON

The discarded baby

He heard a cry. It was a baby. Someone had put a newborn infant into a grocery bag and dropped it into a Salvation Army collection bin.

Christmas drew near, a young boy was very unhappy. His mother could not console him. The tree had been trimmed, wreaths hung in the windows, candles lit.

It was a tragedy. Others have found him and discarded him. This is a tragedy. Yet every Christmas there is opportunity to discover him anew, to take him back into our hearts, to let him become our guide, our Saviour and our Lord.

When Brooks came to Boston, many were turning to the Unitarian movement. With his coming, the Evangelical Church was strengthened in the old Bay State.

For two thousand years we have believed that God came to earth in Christ and the year 1976 is no exception. Our Father has indeed stepped into our world.

The Christmas spirit brings home to us - or should bring home to us - the profound Biblical truth that it is more blessed to give than to receive.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" In 1868 Phillips Brooks wrote this familiar hymn. The final verse is based on Matthew 1:23 "And they shall call his name Emmanuel; which is being interpreted, God with us."

"O holy child of Bethlehem, Descend to us, we pray; Cast out our sin, and enter in; Be born in us today. We hear the Christmas angels: The great glad tidings tell; O come to us, abide with us, Our Lord Emmanuel!"

"Pedigree was the only social pivot in Baltimore. A favorite local story concerned Rebecca Shippen, of the bluest blood in Maryland."

"But, my dear," replied Mrs. Shippen, "you forget. He was well connected on his mother's side."

"Christmas is glorious." Frequently I quote from Forbes magazine. B.C. Forbes writes about our upcoming holiday.

Police demonstrate

MADRID, Spain (UPI) - Several hundred policemen, among them members of the paramilitary Civil Guards and political police, demonstrated in central Madrid Friday for better pay and more security.

Preserving scraps from the throwaway society

GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) - John Frost is displaying a form of his historic newspapers at the new Ephemera Society show, but only a few.

There's one thing about collecting newspapers, Frost said. "It's a never-ending job. The latest one, just in, covers the election of Jimmy Carter."

Back to 1630

Frost has complete newspapers going back to 1630, and nearly all the events which made history.

Receipts - scraps of paper like the one dated 1616 which says, "Received, the sum of 5 pounds for a half year's winding the church clock."

Back to 1630 Frost has complete newspapers going back to 1630, and nearly all the events which made history.

designer, half a dozen major companies and several museums. Ephemera Society members. He is keen on the history of envelopes.

Once, he says, blacks got "the patronizing comic treatment" in ads. But now "the degree of economic power Negro people already have achieved is reflected in advertising. Perfit's specialty points up the serious side of ephemera collecting - the light bits scraps of paper they were printed or written.

Merchandise collector Scott is part of the avalanche of new Ephemera Society members. He is keen on the history of envelopes.

Ads in the current issue of "The Ephemera" prove the endless range of things fanatics are eager to collect.

But most ephemera collections are simple fun.

New study on religion-youth

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

Young people are "children of the times" who resist religious indoctrination. And while organized religion can be a major support system for adolescents, they will accept it more critically, according to a new study done by U.S. Catholic Conference.

The study which examined young people between the ages of 13 and 29, also said that the "problems of religion" usually associated with college-age people are appearing at an earlier age level and are now the problems of high school youth.

The study, "Religion and American Youth: With emphasis on Catholic adolescents and young adults," said concern for basic values such as independence and autonomy has reached within the ranks of high school and a "confrontation with faith appears to occur much earlier."

Loosening note In addition, the study also found that there appears to be a "loosening of specific moral dicta" among Catholic students in college over the past decade.

The study also found differences in the religious orientation of college and noncollege youth. "While college youth attend religious services more frequently and appear to be more orthodox in doctrinal matters, the study said, noncollege youth are more traditional on moral issues, pray to God more frequently and more strongly believe religion is an important value in life."

Gaiamo now front runner

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Robert Gaiamo, D-Conn., may be emerging as the front-runner in a three-man contest to become chairman of the House Budget Committee.

His candidacy was given a big boost recently with the withdrawal of Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, as a possible nominee for the chairmanship.

Dr. Edelin's conviction reversed

BOSTON (UPI) - The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has reversed the abortion-reversal conviction of Boston City Hospital Dr. Kenneth Edelin.

The obstetrician was convicted on Feb. 15, 1975 in the death of a fetus which he aborted at BCH. He was sentenced to one year's probation by Suffolk Superior Court Judge James McGuire.

Edelin's six week trial brought to national attention several abortion issues left unresolved by the U.S. Supreme Court's 1973 Roe v. Wade decision.

All six Justices who heard the appeal, holding that there was error in the proceedings at trial, voted to reverse the conviction, the opinion said.

Eagles in romp, 85-60, two Classic games today

Complete domination of the boards, some fine outside shooting by Peter Thompson, and hustle by Mark Dumais, Gary Carlson, Jon Lindberg and Jeff Heim helped East Catholic to overpower LaSalle Academy of Providence last night at the Eagles' Nest by a score of 85-60.

Indian win, skein in CCIL ends in 67-56 loss to Hall

Warrior backcourt tandem of Calbey and Glover kept popping them in to push Hall to a 28-14 lead in the first quarter. When LaSalle coach Bob Walsh tucked with the first of two technical fouls, which Dumais converted, at the start of the second stanza, the steam seemed to go out of the visitors.

Defense sparks Penney victory

Fine team defense was the key to Penney High's 81-69 comeback behind CCIL basketball victory over Fermi High of Enfield last night in East Hartford before a crowd of 800.

Hornets stung by Wethersfield

The Hornets opened quickly with two field goals by Joe Kasper sandwiched around a bucket by Wethersfield's Bob Molloy. Then the roof fell in as the Eagles tallied 12 unanswered points and it was all over for East Hartford as it fell to a 16-31 disadvantage after one period.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

MANCHESTER HIGH — Falling behind 12-2 after the first quarter, Manchester High's girls basketball team never caught up and fell for the first time after three opening wins, 54-26, to unbeaten Hall High last night at Clarke Arena. Hall sports a perfect 4-0 mark.

AREA BASKETBALL

Two area teams remained undefeated as they won their second track after two losses in schoolboy basketball action last night.

SIXTH STATE TITLE FOR CATHOLIC

Because of the use of an ineligible athlete, Weaver High of Hartford is forfeiting its 1975 Class M indoor track title. Thus giving the championship to East Catholic.

Assessments possible

It may cost teams a little money to play in Manchester's softball program next spring and summer. It has been proposed that to help cut down on operating expenses that all entries in the Silk City and Candlelight Leagues be assessed $150 with all other teams in the eight circuits paying $50 each for the privilege.

Notes off the cuff

Freshman football players at East Catholic High who were singled out for outstanding contributions this fall were as follows: Dan Tully - spirit award; Tony Pachera - most valuable; Mike Gilbert - best offensive player; Andy Bednar - best defensive player; Jamie Mitchell - most improved on offense; Mike Daily - most improved on defense.

Why not raise fees?

Suggestion Department: One way of raising additional funds, not only for softball, but for all other sports offered by the Recreation Department, would be to increase the dues, both for residents and non-residents.

Knicks run, rout Celtics

BOSTON (UPI) — When the New York Knicks began to run, the Boston Celtics were left flatfooted.

The speedy Knicks took just under two minutes at the beginning of the second half to turn a tight seven-point lead into a 129-92 rout.

"We just took control," said Walt Frazier, whose season-high 32 points on 16 for 24 shooting and seven assists played a major factor in turning around the score between the two teams from their first encounter this season on November 27.

The Knicks stretched the margin to 75-58 early in the third quarter as a 2-0 deficit in New York out of the quarter to take an insurmountable 82-61 lead.

U.S. leads Davis Cup

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Raul Ramirez was on the ropes, an unaccustomed position for Mexico's top tennis player.

And that's where he remains today as he tries to bring his Davis Cup battle to a 2-0 deficit in New York out of the quarter to take an insurmountable 82-61 lead.

That was until Friday when Tanner thought it was about time to turn the tables against Ramirez and defeated him straight sets 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Resident in ballet

When the Hartford Ballet presents its annual production of "The Nutcracker" this weekend at Bushnell Memorial Hall in Hartford, two area residents will be in the large cast of characters. In the ballet ensemble will be Leigh Jeffrey of Manchester and Suzanne Brazeal of Coventry.

Carol ceremony

Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" will be presented Christmas Eve at 10:30 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church, 120 Sigourney St., Hartford, with Sharon Hanjian, harpist. The event is free.

At the Atheneum

The Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford is featuring a Victorian family Christmas scene on view in "Christmas in the Goodwin Parlor," the museum's traditional holiday display. People of all ages will enjoy seeing an entire family of mannequins, dressed in period costumes from the Atheneum's collection celebrating the season in the carefully preserved Goodwin Parlor. Also on exhibit at the Atheneum is an exhibition illustrating the beginning and development of the building program of Trinity College which had to move in the 1870s to make way for what is now the State Capitol.

CG Band concert

The United States Coast Guard Band will present a concert of Christmas Music Sunday at 8 p.m. Guest performers will be the East Lyme Arts Council Chorus. The concert is open to all without charge and will be in the U.S. Coast Guard Academy's Leamy Auditorium. The CG Band's performance will include traditional Christmas-season music as well as Norman Dello Joio's "Scenes from the Louvre." The East Lyme Arts Council Chorus will feature its Madrigal Singers in works by Purcell, Bach and Clark.

WTIC-FM listeners want classics again

A group has been formed to restore a full-time classical music format to Radio Station WTIC-FM, Hartford.

The WTIC-FM Listeners' Guild was recently organized in Southbury with listeners from Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

Until last June, the Hartford station had programmed classical music full-time for two decades. After Travelers Insurance Co., long-time owners of the facility, spun off its property to another corporation, classical music was reduced to a few evening hours.

Now, most of the broadcast time is filled with what the station calls "romantic FM," more familiarly known in the trade as "wall-to-wall" music. This move has left Connecticut and its surrounding area without a single station broadcasting classical music full time.

According to the Guild, opera lovers who will expect to hear the Texaco-sponsored live Metropolitan Opera productions from WTIC-FM on Saturday afternoons this winter will receive instead "wall-to-wall" music.

One of the persons attending the Southbury meeting told of the successful fight to restore classical music to a New York City station. Among those lending their support to the return of classical music to FM was Tony Marvin, TV personality and commentator for the CBS Symphony broadcasts.

Music lovers who want to help in the fight to return classical music to WTIC-FM and Connecticut are asked to send financial help to WTIC-FM Listeners' Guild, P.O. Box 521, Southbury, Conn. 06488.

Interested persons are also asked to write to Richard Wiley, Chairman, F.C.C., Washington, D.C. 20554, expressing their disapproval of the present WTIC-FM program policy.

Women and the sea: Not all on widow's walks

By IONSTANTINA ROTHSCHILD

Women have not fared better at sea than they have on land.

As a matter of fact, they have fared much worse and have often been entirely excluded from sea-going activities.

Because the sea has always been viewed as dangerous, and because adventures and physical dangers have been traditionally left to men, women stayed on land. The early, primitive nature of sea-going vessels was not compatible with the almost eternally pregnant or lactating status of women. And later on, a number of superstitions developed, according to which women were considered to pollute the water and to bring bad luck if aboard a ship, or by stepping across the nets.

Furthermore, in some traditional societies, including Islamic, women are not allowed even to swim, so that they practically have no contact with the sea.

Because women have not been allowed to play active roles at sea, their relationship with the sea has been primarily indirect, through their fathers, brothers, lovers, husbands' and sons.

Many women living on islands, in fishing villages, and countries with a large merchant marine and-or navy have been socialized from a tender age to painful departures, anxiety over the fate of seafaring men, loneliness during long absences, pain and tragedy at the death of a close and beloved man, and short-lived and anxiety-ridden happy reunions. They come to view the sea almost as a rival who lures away the men they love and often destroys them.

Forced independence

Seafarers' wives regularly have to stay alone for considerable periods and must, therefore, learn to stand on their own feet. They have to play the role of mother and father to their children, manage family finances, make family decisions, and take on at least some of the husband's roles and responsibilities.

In traditional societies, such as those in Greek islands, however, even during husbands' long absences, wives cannot make important decisions. They must either postpone them or get in touch with their husbands to get their approval.

Sometimes they also have to cope with and accept a husband's infidelities and more or less long-term attachments to other women in far-away ports.

COURSES BY NEWSPAPER

Changing roles? Aran Islanders (Ireland), left, following ancient tradition, watch their men go off to sea. Nadezha Artysch, right, captains a Soviet passenger ship. Does she represent a new breed of women who will now have active duty at sea, or will the sea remain "a masculine territory?"

Sometimes they manage so well on their own and learn to enjoy their independence and power so much that when their husbands are home, the strains and conflicts are considerable. The wives become reluctant to relinquish their active and responsible role to return to the subordinate, submissive wife role.

Because of the risk involved in being a fisherman, unusual compensatory cultural patterns have developed in some areas. In Itoma, a fishing village in southeastern Okinawa, women have been able to marry two or more husbands, so that even if one husband died at sea, a woman would have one left.

Breaking with tradition

There have, of course, been some occasions on which women have broken with tradition and gone to sea. During important national crises, such as wars and national uprisings, women have often been allowed to play masculine roles and, in some countries, active roles at sea. During the long Greek Revolution of 1821, two prominent island women, Bouboulina and Manto Mavrogenous, "manned" their own ship and fought against the Turks. They fought valiantly at sea and were honored as heroines.

This exceptionally active role of the Greek women as captains can be explained by the long and desperate nature of the Greek Revolution, which needed the efforts, resources, and sacrifices of everyone, including women and children.

In a more romantic vein, two English women, Anne Bonney and Mary Read, became full-fledged pirates. Dressed as men and living the lives of men, they spent several years on pirate pearls, or fish is done with diving apparatus, men are the divers. When the diving is done without technological aids, women dive. The "ama" divers of Japan, who dive for shellfish and edible seaweed while semi-naked or wearing wetsuits and eyecup goggles, are a good example of women divers with a long tradition dating back at least 2,000 years.

Active sea duty

Although modern navies in many countries now include women, in most nations, including the U.S., the women have not been allowed to go on active sea duty along with men (except on hospital ships).

Nor are they allowed as fishermen on large fishing boats that spend several weeks or months at sea. In both cases the rationale is the same: The presence of men and women on the same vessel for a considerable time period is supposed to lead to sexual and love relationships that may bring about favoritism, lack of discipline, rivalries, conflict, and inefficiency.

When a directive was issued recently by the U.S. Chief of Naval Operations lifting the ban against women serving aboard warships at sea, Navy wives made news by protesting vehemently against the directive.

In Russia and the Scandinavian countries (and sporadically in a few other Western countries), women have recently entered the merchant marine as radio operators, and a handful as officers.

In the 1970s, some "firsts" were recorded for the United States. The first women were admitted to a Merchant Marine and a Naval Academy, and the first all-woman class graduated from the Coast Guard Academy (which has now become coeducational). Likewise, the Navy undertook a successful pilot program in which 80 women in different crew roles sailed with 500 men.

Women oceanographers and marine biologists now regularly sail on small research ships and participate in scientific experiments under the sea, living and working in close quarters with men for weeks. But giant U.S. freighters still do not employ women because of existing regulations requiring separate bath and toilet facilities for women.

Despite the apparent gains made by women, however, especially in Western developed nations, the sea is still a masculine territory.

NEXT WEEK: Heywood Hale Brown, journalist and television and radio personality, explores the sea as a place of recreation and sport rather than as a source of livelihood in the concluding article in the series. "From Work to Sport"

Canadian 'chewing gum' booklets now scarce

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

This is one of the Canadian "chewing gum" booklets, so-called, plus a typical pane of the stamps it carries. You'd swear it was a stick of Wrigley's in the dark.

These were all the go from 1942 to 1953, but so many were broken up that they are now scarce in the original condition.

Stamps and coins

K. Bileski, the big Winnipeg-Pembina dealer, has ads in the recent stamp papers saying that never a week has gone by in the last 35 years that somebody hasn't phoned long-distance or sent a registered letter exclaiming over the discovery of an "unlisted" item. It usually turns out to be a single stamp orphaned from such a strip of three. If it is the end one, of course, it would have an imperforate side, and either of the other two would have perforations unlike the current coils.

Catalogs do not describe these stamps in their detached states so you can imagine the collector's excitement — "Whoopie, a new variety worth heaven knows what!"

The 4-cent George VI pane as shown is said by the dealer to be the scarcest of all and "a bargain anywhere under $30." Scott lists it for only a buck, but they have been behind-times more than once.

Note the bilingual bit on the booklet cover: "Canada Postage" versus "Timbres-Poste Canadiens." The earlier chewing gums came out with a choice of language instead of both together like this.

Leaving the "chews" — both Canada and the United States have had booklets since 1900. (Right now you can get a neat one at the P.O., the 13-cent Liberty Bell, 23 for $2.99 — no extra charge for the binding). Canada's first was a 2-cent carmine Queen Victoria, now listed, for the pane of 6 only, at $600, (see Scott 77b). The U.S. counterpart for that year was a 2-cent red Washington (279B-e). They have this down for $275 — again for the full pane of 6.

Scott does not give prices for the complete booklets. Such information does appear in the Holmes Specialized Catalogue for Canada where the whole ones go for three or four times the figure for a separate pane. This omission by Scott is bad, because no hard-nosed, well-heeled, collector would be content with anything less than the material just as it came from the post office.

Wethersfield medal

Coin World has a picture of the Wethersfield Bicentennial medal that has finally got under the wire. You can see Silas Deane, the Webb House and the Meeting House, and the Cove Warehouse. This from "the most ancient town in Connecticut."

So what is it?

There will be a new way to get a "first-day" cancellation starting with the Peale "Washington at Princeton" that will be issued Jan. 3. We are invited to get the stamp at our own post office and affix same to a self-addressed envelope of our choosing. This, in turn, must be enclosed in a larger envelope (which calls for another stamp) and sent to the Postmaster at Princeton, N.J., postmarked no later than Jan. 18.

We can still do the old way, but now "collectors have control over centering, perforations, and arrangement of the stamps."

And when you get the thing back, what is it?

Something to do

A big show today (until 8 p.m.) and tomorrow (10 to 6) — the Dy-Nam Stamp and Coin Bourse at the Civic Center. There will be a 75-cent admission charge.

The Manchester Philatelic Society, per tradition, will skip its second December meeting and re-assemble at Mott's on Jan. 11.
