Little Andrew Dudley Carroll peeks lazily at his surroundings as his mother cuddles him lovingly. Andrew, the son of John J. and Christina D. Carroll of 1 Murphy Rd., Hebron, was born early this morning at 12:50 and weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces, the first 1977 baby to be born at Manchester Memorial Hospital. His mother is holding a gift presented by last year's New Year baby, Laura Jean Heffley, daughter of Dennis and Sylvia Heffley of Mansfield, born Jan. 2 at the Manchester hospital. The gift was a silver baby spoon. (Herald photo by Pinto)

New Year's baby receives gifts

Although Andrew Dudley Carroll of Hebron was a little late in making his arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital in time for New Year's Day, he had many gifts waiting for him besides his parents and a sister, Christina Amanda, 16 months.

Andrew's parents won the first baby of the year at Manchester Memorial Hospital contest which entitles him and his parents to a variety of gifts donated by Manchester merchants.

Mr. Carroll is a manufacturer's representative for G.B. Stumpp Associates, a sporting goods firm, of Towson, Md.

The following merchants have given presents:

Frank's Supermarket, one case of Drydees; Heritage Savings & Loan Association, a five-dollar savings account; Regal Men's Shop, a five-dollar gift certificate; Marlow's, a toy by Creative Playthings; Prague's, a pair of Stride Rite crib shoes; Manchester Drug, a box of Dutch Master cigars; the Head Chop, a free haircut for Mom or Dad; Shoor Jewelers, an engraved baby cup; the Country Loft, a decorative room rack; House and Hale, a Johnson's baby set.

Carter turns attention to economic problems

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Marshaling black support for his choice of Griffin Bell to be attorney general, President-elect Jimmy Carter turned his attention today to pressing problems of the economy and government reorganization.

Carter invited Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, and budget director-designate Bert Lance to Plains to discuss his hope that Congress will give him wide-ranging authority to streamline the bureaucracy.

He also arranged an interview with James King, an executive with the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority and a Carter advance man during the campaign, apparently to offer him a position.

After a visit to the American-Sumter County Hospital to see his ailing mother, "Miss Lillian," Carter told reporters he has begun work on his inaugural address. Obviously consistent of the historical impact of the speech, Carter has read most of the inaugural addresses in modern times.

With 17 days more to go before his inauguration, Carter was preparing an economic package, including a tax cut and a job creating public works program, to be announced after a meeting with his economic advisers and congressional leaders here.

With Bell heading for Washington today to interview potential top-level assistants, and possibly a new FBI chief, at the Justice Department, the president-elect lined up some vocal black support in Bell's behalf.

Carter invited three black clergymen, including a boyhood chum and two bishops, to his Bible class at the Plains Baptist Church Sunday, and they endorsed his selection of Bell whose appointment did not sit well with some civil rights leaders.

Assembly to focus on reorganizing government

HARTFORD (UPI) — A proposal to consolidate more than 200 state agencies into 15 "super agencies" most likely will take top priority when the 1977 Connecticut Legislature convenes Wednesday.

A major section of Democratic Gov. Ella T. Grasso's "State of the State" opening-day message likely will be devoted to remarks on the reorganization proposal contained in the Filer report.

The Filer Committee, the informal name of the governor-appointed Committee on the Structure of State Government, suggested consolidation of most of the state's more than 200 agencies into 15 "super agencies."

They would be governed by a separate Office of Policy and Management created within the governor's office.

Mrs. Grasso has held off stating her position on the report, but just how she stands on the consolidation issue should become clear Wednesday.

Last year at this time legislators were concerned about a critical financial crunch in Connecticut. That situation has eased, but the fiscal area is one sure to get a lot of attention in this session.

Democratic leaders and the governor planned to meet today to help smooth relations between the administration and legislature.

The governor and Democratic and Republican leaders have predicted a "harmonious" session. That would contrast with last year's stormy legislature, when many opposing views on how to meet the financial crisis were discussed.

Not all lawmakers are convinced things will be any smoother this year.

Labanon imposes press censorship

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Elias Sarkis today signed his emergency government's "Legislative Decree Number One" imposing strict police censorship on Lebanon's press, which had been the most free-wheeling in the Arab world.

As the law went into effect, Syrian troops of the Arab peacekeeping force evacuated the offices of six newspapers and one magazine that they had occupied for more than two weeks.

One of the occupied buildings included the offices of United Press International and Newsweek magazine.

Editors and publishers accepted the legislative decree with reluctance.

"It will no longer be a liberal democratic system that provides the liberties we always knew," said Riad Taha, president of the Lebanese press association.

However, he asked fellow publishers "to cooperate with the authorities in these special circumstances in the interests of the nation" and they agreed.

Francois Akl, managing editor of An Nahar, the country's largest newspaper, said he could begin publishing the day after the Syrians gave back his newsroom and his presses.

But when editors of An Nahar and the leftist newspaper As Safir returned to their plants this morning, they found doors broken open and the offices ransacked.

It was not known whether other newspapers were similarly affected or if the newspapers would resume publishing Tuesday.

An advance copy of the decree stated stiff penalties, including suspension of the publication and prison terms of one to three years for editors' first convictions, and cancellation of the publisher's license on a second conviction.

Foreign news agencies and correspondents were not mentioned specifically in the bill, but government sources said they will be censored as "publications" along with magazines and books. Films and theatrical performances are covered by separate decrees.

Waterbury teachers go back to posts

WATERBURY (UPI) — Waterbury's 17,000 public school students ended their winter vacation today and returned to classes in 28 schools along with their teachers who approved a new wage pact Sunday night.

The 1,100 members of the Waterbury Teachers Association, working without a contract since March, voted Dec. 12 to go on strike today unless the city came up with an acceptable wage offer. The vote Sunday night was 643-219 in favor of the contract.

The WTA negotiators had rejected the same contract offer Thursday but decided to let the rank and file have the last word.

The two-year contract provides 3 per cent incremental pay hikes in July and September for teachers not earning maximum salary, about 50 per cent of the total. Teachers at the top of the salary scale will receive a $500 wage increase in September.

The pact also guarantees no further teacher layoffs for its duration but allows slight increases in classroom sizes.

City leaders reminded teachers throughout negotiations of the poor financial health of Waterbury.

The city's financial straits resulted in a special act passed by the Connecticut General Assembly last spring, permitting the city to float $13 million in bonds to pay off operating debts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976.

The legislature's special act stated the city could not impose a special tax or float bonds again. So Waterbury raised its tax rate by 17 mills to a total of 87 mills to cover expenses for the current fiscal year.

Holiday death toll passes 300

By United Press International
Ice-glazed roads in the Deep South triggered a flurry of traffic accidents Sunday as the New Year's weekend death toll climbed past 300. Weekend fires claimed more than 80 lives.

Sleet and snow slicked highways jammed with homeward-bound holiday travelers Sunday but, despite the inclement weather, it appeared the traffic death count would fall short of the National Safety Council's preholiday estimate.

The Council estimated between 350 and 450 persons would die in traffic accidents during the holiday period, which began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

A United Press International count showed that 303 persons had died in traffic accidents during the holiday period. Another 81 were killed in fires.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:
Traffic 303
Fires 81
Planes 8
Total 392

California reported 41 traffic deaths, Texas 20, Pennsylvania 17 and Kentucky 16.

At least three persons lost their lives on Connecticut highways over the New Year's weekend as travelers jammed the roadways.

Two persons were killed New Year's morning and a third Sunday morning.

The victims were identified as:

— Joseph Sampson, 37, of Bridgeport, who was killed Sunday morning when his car was struck by another vehicle on Park Avenue, Bridgeport. The accident was under investigation.

— Laura Costa, 22, of Stratford, who was fatally injured early New Year's Day when the car she rode in crashed head-on with another vehicle on Rt. 8, Shelton. Her companion, the driver, William Garrity, 28, of Bridgeport, was charged with misconduct with a motor vehicle.

— Gary Bradshaw, 20, of Preston, who was killed early New Year's Day when his car went off Lyons Plain Road in Weston and struck a utility pole.

State police said there was a "medium to heavy flow" of homeward bound vehicles on Connecticut roadways Sunday night.

Bradley International Airport officials reported its facilities were "mobb'd" while bus and rail officials reported they were busy.

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Firemen fought a blaze late Sunday at Yale University's Hendrie Hall, a four-story brick office building. Officials said the fire, whose cause was not immediately known, did "considerable damage" to the basement and first floor. No injuries were reported in the blaze, which broke out at 10:30 p.m., officials said.

STONINGTON (UPI) — Residents have learned their vacant train station in the Mystic section may qualify for as much as $1 million in matching funds under an Amtrak program for communities wishing to upgrade their railroad stations. Community leaders reported they learned of the bonanza in the December issue of "Amtrak News," which said the program is aimed at "encouraging a broad upgrading of stations in small communities where current levels of ridership do not warrant early improvements by Amtrak acting on its own."

GROTON (UPI) — City officials say more than $20,000 remains unclaimed in refunds owed electricity customers overcharged during a nearly two-year period. The refunds stem from excessive electrical bills passed on to city residents by the city utilities department. The department, in turn, had been overcharged by Connecticut Light and Power Co.

Regional

BOSTON (UPI) — Fire damaged a five-story apartment building across the street from historic Old North Church Sunday night. The Fire Department said the church, where lanterns were hung April 18, 1775, to signal Paul Revere that the British were coming, was not damaged by the flames. No one was injured. Five families were evacuated from the brick apartment building at 174 Salem St. in the North End.

BOSTON (UPI) — A Massachusetts official reports apparent success in discouraging residents from traveling to New Hampshire to buy liquor. However, New Hampshire officials have a different opinion. Owen L. Clarke, Massachusetts Commissioner of corporations and taxation, said Sunday there has been a "sharp reduction" in recent weeks in the number of persons traveling across the state line to the New Hampshire liquor stores. Clarke said he did not have exact figures.

ST. ALBANS, Vt. (UPI) — After 29 years of service, The Vermont Sunday News has announced it will temporarily cease publication. In its last edition published Sunday, the paper cited inflation, increased production costs and "overall poor Sunday newspaper market conditions in Vermont" for the suspension. However, the paper said it hopes to re-enter the Vermont Newspaper field at some future date.

National

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Jimmy Carter says his mother, "Miss Lillian," is feeling better and may be released soon from the hospital where she is being treated for a muscle ailment in her leg. "She's feeling really good today — the best I've seen her," Carter told reporters who buttonholed him at the American-Sumter County Hospital after he visited his mother Sunday evening.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford may not yet have made up his mind on blanket amnesty for Vietnam era draft evaders and deserters, but first lady Betty Ford has. She's opposed. "I feel that those mothers who lost their sons in the war would feel very upset over the fact that these people just took off," she told reporters aboard Air Force One enroute home from Vail, Colo., where the family spent a two-week Christmas vacation.

MIAMI (UPI) — Union negotiators for striking hotel employees say individual agreements could be signed today with some of the eight hotels hit by holiday walkouts, but settlement with 35 others hinge on guaranteed tips for maids. Five hotels on Miami Beach and three on the mainland are still being picketed as south Florida's peak winter tourist season draws near.

Manchester crash injures three

Three persons were injured Sunday afternoon when these two vehicles collided in the west-bound lane of W. Middle Tpke. The driver of the car on the right, Debra Bracci, 24, of Auburn, Mass., and a passenger in the other vehicle, Maria Lovett, 27, of 107 Spruce St. were both in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Robert S. Lovett, 26, of Spruce St. was treated and discharged from the hospital. (See story on Page 5A) (Photo by Earl Chastain)

Police report quiet holiday

It was an "unseasonably quiet" holiday weekend for the Manchester Police Department, Police Chief Robert Lannon said today.

Detectives reported no major breaks and there were no major fires or accidents.

The only criminal arrest was made Friday on a warrant charging James M. Pierce, 32, of Tolland with issuing a bad check. The charge was in connection with a check for $1,172.32 issued to the Bissell Candy Co. of 18 Bissell St. for cigarettes on Oct. 30.

Pierce was processed and released under a $300 cash bond for court appearance Jan. 17 in East Hartford. Pierce is employed with Pierce and Phillips Enterprises Inc. of Tolland which has been doing business with the local firm for five years.

Detectives said another arrest is anticipated in the case.

A break and theft of an undetermined amount of coins from a candy machine were reported at the Andrews Building, East Center St. The break occurred sometime before 9:30 p.m. Sunday when it was reported to police.

A rear door was found unlocked, a thermostat ripped off the wall and a candy machine moved, police reported. An attempted break was made in an office in the building, but no access was made, police said.

MACC news

by NANCY CARR
 Creative director
 What happier way to welcome the New Year than to thank everyone for their generosity and openheartedness of the year just past. And in the aftermath of the holiday season we would like to share with you some of the delightful happenings that make Manchester such a good place to live, not only during the holidays but all year round.

Among our "Christmas angels" were Mrs. Eugene Provost who knit 78 pairs of mittens to keep little fingers warm and snug and her good husband who untangled and rewound the year. Mrs. Alice McKay who completely restored some 30 dolls until they were more beautiful than new and then sewed costumes for each, providing joy for little girls and a gracious lady, widowed and with six children of her own, who quietly and anonymously celebrated Christmas by donating complete dinners to three of our most needy families.

Another family I know of chose to give what they would have spent on one another to the Seasonal Sharing Appeal. They even sent in their stocking-stuffer money. A special thank you to a modest young woman who not only made and delivered a hot meal to a shut-in but made an attempt to take along as a gift.

The parishioners of St. Bartholomew's adopted 28 needy families and (bringing food and gifts to the altar during the offertory at Sunday Masses) provided complete Christmas dinners and at least one new gift for every one of their "adopted" brothers and sisters.

The congregation of Concordia Lutheran Church took up a special collection to provide turkeys and hams for the Christmas food boxes and then helped with the packing and moving.

The good people of the Salvation Army set up a "toy store" with your new and used toys. They most graciously offered the real spirit of Christmas giving by providing coffee, seating, a quiet registration process and hostesses.

Each parent had an opportunity to "shop" in privacy, selecting without hurry or embarrassment, gifts for their children and then was taken by the hostess to pick up the family's Christmas dinner. Christmas spirited neighbors on Oak St. collected $112.00 for the families burned out before Christmas. Thank you to all those who sent in gifts for the fire victims. We were able to give both Mrs. Bushey and Mrs. Gyokeri checks for $155 right before Christmas. An additional note of appreciation to the other residents of the apartment house who, although at least one other person had lost everything in the fire, selflessly insisted that all the aid go to the two young women with children.

In this spirit, we wish each and every one a New Year enriched with hope, joyful in faith, and made beautiful by our love for one another.

Are air bags worth whatever they cost?

Secretary of Transportation William Coleman probably had no choice but to rule as he did in the automobile air bag controversy.

Although he is convinced that air bags could prevent thousands of deaths and tens of thousands of injuries on the highway, he nevertheless had to take into account what he foresees would be massive consumer resistance if he were to order them installed on all new cars.

Thus, after carefully weighing evidence and testimony from both sides in hearings he held last fall, he has chosen a compromise course: Air bags will not be mandated on all new cars at this time, but instead the automakers will be asked to participate in a two-year test of them.

Specifically, he has proposed that at least two manufacturers offer air bags on a half million cars in the 1979 and 1980 model years, or roughly 40th of the number of cars that will be produced in those years.

Reaction from the industry, which has always opposed air bags, as well as from air bag advocates, has been less than enthusiastic.

Mansfield needs cited

To the editor: The people of the Mansfield Training School need help. Mansfield is a state institution which serves the retarded from all over the state.

For example, our son, 25 years old and severely retarded, lives with a group of 12 other residents in an antiquated building that was built in 1917. He and his group (all severely retarded and emotionally disturbed) are closed up all day in a room approximately 30 feet by 30 feet in size. They sleep and live in this room, use the adjoining dilapidated bathroom and spend each day here, every day, 24 hours a day.

So what is the result of these undesirable conditions? Every resident is regressing and the use of medication is increasing. The casualties mount daily. They range all the way from minor cuts and bruises to broken hips and bones. In addition,

Thought

When I search my heart the words and wisdom of Jesus remind me that if I have anything against my brother, I should first reconcile myself with him and then bring my gift to the altar.

You are present to us, Father in gentle compassion. Help us to be present to one another. So that our presence may be a strength. That heals the wounds of time and gives.

Pollution would also drop

Mandatory car checks would save fuel

By William A. Raftery Less than four years after the Arabs lifted their oil embargo, the United States is more dependent than ever on foreign oil, particularly oil from the Middle East.

Nevertheless, the United States still has no long-range energy Carter was apart from energy measures which have more public relations content than substance. While the political implications of the problem have paralyzed the government, the squandering of a precious resource continues unabated and the nation becomes increasingly dependent on other countries to provide the fuel that keeps our economy functioning.

While more time may be needed to define a thoughtful, comprehensive long-range program to develop new energy sources and conserve existing sources, the government could within a matter of months institute a mandatory program which would cut fuel consumption by as much as 370,000 barrels of crude oil a day, according to Environmental Protection Agency data.

That could be accomplished by a nationwide Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection (PMVI) program and which gas wasters would be required to have their vehicles operating at maximum efficiency. This would not only result in better mileage, but it

WASHINGTON - For better or for worse, President-elect Jimmy Carter seems to have nominated Attorney General an old Georgian friend who falls somewhat short of the definition Burke submitted in citing "the cold neutrality of an impartial judge."

Former federal judge Griffin Bell, 58, of America, Ga., has not always been neutral in the field of race relations. As chief of staff for Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver in 1960, he told the state legislature he would resist school desegregation by "every legal means, and remedy available to us."

Today, Bell still opposes court-ordered busing to integrate schools and except as a last resort. It is that position based on prejudice? Not necessarily, many if not most black parents feel the same way. So does Atty. Gen. Ed. Levi.

In any event, Bell's nomination promises to be the most controversial of Carter's nominations. Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the NAACP, has expressed "many misgivings" about the Bell choice, and prominent liberals are uneasy about a judge who has belonged to two Atlanta's clubs which bar blacks and Jews.

Still, Bell's record has never suggested any conflict with the letter of the constitution. In the midst of national outrage over the My Lai massacre in Vietnam, he announced his feeling that Lt. William Calley had been denied due process in his court-martial for that tragic life.

While some motorists might find mandatory inspections an inconvenience and even an infringement on their "right" to pollute, most Americans would be likely to respond favorably - if they fully understand the benefits of such inspections and the need. And hardly anyone is likely to resent the potential savings and increased driving comfort associated with a properly functioning car.

Congress regulates pollution levels of new vehicles but has not dealt on a comprehensive basis with the fact that once new cars are on the road they become polluters relatively quickly without proper maintenance.

At this time, 32 states already have periodic motor vehicle inspection laws on their books and 19 states have been ordered by EPA to establish emission inspection programs in 27 urban areas. Although many of

With unemployment still high, PMVI would create new, socially useful jobs in state-operated inspection stations, private garages, private contractors or any combination of these options.

These state programs are seriously deficient in scope and enforcement, obviously the planning has been accomplished and many of the physical facilities are in place to establish a nationwide system.

Federal action is needed to bring the other states into a single system which uses the same criteria and standards and which will be enforced.

estimated that 4,572 new jobs would be created if it adopted a safety and exhaust emissions inspection program. Nationwide, employment estimates run as high as 125,000 jobs.

Certainly manufacturers of replacement parts would benefit, but vehicles have needed repairs performed, as would car dealers, independent garages and servicemen.

But to drive a car that wastes gasoline, pollutes the air or is unsafe, getting this way to make certain they don't get additional business, is about as sensible as refusing to eat necessary nutrients because the food industry would sell more of its products.

Since energy management is high on the Carter administration's list of priorities, perhaps a comprehensive national program will be formulated within a reasonable period.

In the meantime, we could make an intelligent start with PMVI which would go a long way toward easing not only the nation's energy problem, but its air pollution and employment problems as well. All this while making cars and trucks safer and less expensive to operate.

'Don't knock new faces'

Andrew Tully

But the Senate is bound to consider Bell on his record as a judge, and he has a couple of 18-karat endorsements in his pocket. One is from the Supreme Court. Almost everybody knew Carswell had advocated "white supremacy" as a candidate for the Florida legislature, and later had given aid to an effort to incorporate a segregated country club. Bell, however, has said "I didn't know about" the speech or about "some club they had there" in Tallahassee.

To be sure, Carswell had a right to his racism, just as certain blacks have a right to hold whites in contempt. But you can't get a Carswell confirmed to the highest bench, for obvious reasons concerned with the Court's proper functioning, and Bell was derelict if - as he says - he failed to take a harder look at Carswell's background.

Manchester year in review

Eyes focused on Buckland

—First in series

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

There may be differences of opinion over the single most important news story of the year in Manchester, but there can be no question about the question of town that generated the most news in 1976.

The two stories that seemed to create the most interest last year centered around the northwest area of Manchester — the section known as Buckland.

One of the stories concerned a continuing controversy — fire jurisdiction in Buckland. The second was a brand new story — the announcement that the J.C. Penney Co. planned to locate a two-million-square-foot catalog distribution center in town.

Superior Court Judge Edward Hamill ruled on Sept. 30 that the Eighth Utilities District had the right to expand its boundaries and provide fire protection in Buckland.

The district, seeking to expand its area, had filed suit against the town in January after Buckland residents had petitioned to be served by the district rather than the town.

The town appealed the Superior Court decision, and the case is presently before the state Supreme Court.

The town also filed a $500,000 counter-suit seeking damages against the district. This suit was rejected in the Superior Court decision.

A town-owned firehouse was opened in Buckland soon after the court decision was announced. If the Superior Court ruling is upheld, the firehouse could not serve the Buckland area.

Until the case is finally resolved, the town and district agreed to maintain the "status quo" for fire services in Buckland. The district provides fire protection and is paid per call by the town, while the town continues to collect fire taxes. These taxes, however, are being held in escrow until the final decision.

The announcement of the Penney Center coming to Manchester included formation of plans for a 350-acre industrial park that would house the Penney building, which is expected to attract other industries to the area.

Town and Penney officials met regularly with neighbors in the proposed site of the park to work out plans for the area.

The Neighborhood Committee, formed primarily of Burnham St. and Croft Dr. residents, seemed most concerned with increased traffic connected with the park.

Some proposals made by these residents, including the dead-ending of Burnham St., have been agreed to. Others are still being ironed out.

The neighbors were concerned about the relocation of I-291, which

The controversial Buckland firehouse, shown under construction, opened in early October, only ten days after the state Superior Court ruled that the Eighth Utilities District had the right to provide fire protection to the Buckland area. If the ruling is upheld by the state Supreme Court, this firehouse, owned by the Town Fire Department, could not service the area immediately surrounding it. (Herald photo by Dunn)

had to be moved to accommodate the park plans. The group was strongly opposed to a relocation north of Croft Dr. that would have placed the highway between the park and the highway.

Members met with Department of Transportation officials and wrote letters to the governor about I-291. A southerly route, which would cross Tolland Tpk. and intersect I-86 south of the proposed park, was a more acceptable location for the neighbors.

Members of the Neighborhood Committee and Alan Lamson, assistant town planner who has been a chief architect in the park plans, went to Columbus, Ohio to see a similar Penney Center. The group was generally impressed with the Ohio facility.

A timetable of steps to be taken for the park plans has been formalized. The next major date is Jan. 10, the date of a public hearing before the Planning and Zoning Commission that will decide on a zone change needed for the park.

Not all the action in Manchester takes place in Buckland, of course. Other local news events in 1976 included:

• The dramatic explosion of a two-family home at 556-558 Adams St., which injured four people.

• A labor dispute at the Meadows Convalescent Home that was settled on Nov. 30, the eve of a threatened strike at the home.

The controversial Buckland firehouse, shown under construction, opened in early October, only ten days after the state Superior Court ruled that the Eighth Utilities District had the right to provide fire protection to the Buckland area. If the ruling is upheld by the state Supreme Court, this firehouse, owned by the Town Fire Department, could not service the area immediately surrounding it. (Herald photo by Dunn)

had to be moved to accommodate the park plans. The group was strongly opposed to a relocation north of Croft Dr. that would have placed the highway between the park and the highway.

Members met with Department of Transportation officials and wrote letters to the governor about I-291. A southerly route, which would cross Tolland Tpk. and intersect I-86 south of the proposed park, was a more acceptable location for the neighbors.

Members of the Neighborhood Committee and Alan Lamson, assistant town planner who has been a chief architect in the park plans, went to Columbus, Ohio to see a similar Penney Center. The group was generally impressed with the Ohio facility.

A timetable of steps to be taken for the park plans has been formalized. The next major date is Jan. 10, the date of a public hearing before the Planning and Zoning Commission that will decide on a zone change needed for the park.

Not all the action in Manchester takes place in Buckland, of course. Other local news events in 1976 included:

• The dramatic explosion of a two-family home at 556-558 Adams St., which injured four people.

• A labor dispute at the Meadows Convalescent Home that was settled on Nov. 30, the eve of a threatened strike at the home.

Lumps in throat cause for concern

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there such a thing as a lump in the throat due to a nervous condition. It causes dizziness and confusion. There is a rise in my blood pressure. I am taking blood pressure medicine and tranquilizers but they do not seem to be much help. The lump, or what appears to be so, still exists. I had this same problem years ago and it led to a peptic ulcer. It again is causing indigestion. I don't have any emotional problems but I have always been a very nervous person. I would appreciate any information you can give me on this. I am 65 years of age.

DEAR READER — For the benefit of others let me say at the outset that the diagnosis and confusion as well as the lump in your throat, it may also be contributing to your rise in blood pressure. Excess nervousness or tension and anxiety is sometimes associated with peptic ulcers. It is an underlying cause in many cases. The anxiety produces a sensation of a lump in the throat by causing improper contractions of the normal muscles in the esophagus and throat area responsible for swallowing.

must consult a physician at once. Sometimes difficulty in swallowing is associated with a cancer of the esophagus. Early detection can lead to a cure in many cases — so don't delay. Let your doctor decide if it's a nervous condition or something more serious.

Since you have already seen a doctor I am certain that he has already ruled out those problems. In specific answer to your question, yes, you can have a feeling of a lump in the throat from a nervous condition, doctors call this lump in the throat problem "globus hystericus." It is associated with anxiety. I would presume that the anxiety and problem that you are having is really responsible for the dizziness and confusion as well as the lump in your

The year in review

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter
Bicentennial events highlighted Vernon's activities during the spring and summer months of 1976, with the main event being the parade on June 6.

All of the schools had activities relating to the celebration of the nation's birthday. A large time capsule was buried at the Northeast School to be dug up 100 years from now. School children and town officials contributed items for this event.

Mayor Thomas Benoit completed his first year in office as the first Democratic mayor in six years. While many sad things happened in town, the good things outweighed them.

Many got awards
Many citizens received awards of other citations. Mayor Benoit was named the Rotary Citizen of the Year; David White of Manchester, a Rockville postman, was named 'Carrier of the Year' by fellow carriers; Miss Nellie McKnight of Ellington was given the Liberty Bell Award by the Tolland County Bar Association; Joe Genovesi of Rockville and her partner Kent Wiegler skated their way to the Olympics in Austria; Robert Tedolli was given the Joyce's Center Award by the Joyce's Center Board of Directors.

John Bundy was named as the Vernon Police Department's first captain; Andrew Managlia was appointed principal of the Middle School; Joseph Bellis, principal of Northeast School, and Joseph Novak, principal of the Center Road School, both celebrated 25 years in the school system; Connie Kelly retired after almost 50 years in the school system.

Lae Silverstein and Grover Olsztyn, principals of the Rockville General Hospital to head a new Human Services and Alcohol Abuse Program; Chester Morgan (D) was elected as state representative from the 6th

District; Katherine Menard was named valedictorian and Jeffrey Gledhill, salutatorian, of Rockville High School's graduating class; another high school student, Denis Lambert, was selected to play in McDonald's All-American Band in the Rose Bowl parade.

Two Vernon young people, Joe Cristofani and Linda Powers, were named 'best all-around swimmers' in the Recreation Department's summer swim program.

In the area of town government, the town received many grants during the year; a Senior Citizen Advisory Committee was created to study senior citizens needs; a youth director was hired; a new Park Department was formed; day care facilities were expanded to include kindergarten children; the postal department purchased the former A&P building on Union St. and is completing a new facility for Rockville; a rescue squad was formed and plans are in the works to form an arson squad.

In April, the Town Council adopted a $14.6 million budget for the town and Board of Education and set a mill rate of .55, which was a 3.5 mill increase.

The council also adopted an ordinance to regulate massage parlors in town; approved the widening of Union St. by the hospital and completed that; approved demolition of the old County House, later destroyed by fire; approved a parking ordinance; and approved an appropriation of $75,000 to purchase a new pumper for the Rockville Fire Department.

Yets, a member of the Vernon Police Department, was named the department's community relations officer and instituted several crime prevention programs.

Steven Lamont was elected president of the Board of Education; and the Court of Common Pleas moved from the Memorial Building to the former town administration building.

Also during the year, the additions to Rockville High School and the Voc-Ag building were completed; construction was started on a new sewage treatment plant; a Sewer and Water Commission was established; several new sidewalks were installed; an Affirmative Action plan was implemented; a Fine Arts Commission was established.

Many Vernon residents died during the year including several young persons who lost their lives in accidents. Like most other towns, the good things and the bad things had to be taken in stride and it is expected the town will strive to celebrate the nation's Bicentennial.

Also in August, a housing rehabilitation program was started. Federal funds are being furnished to loan to homeowners for rehabilitation of their homes.

Bishop's Lake deeds signed

The long awaited sale of Bishop's Lake in Andover to the state occurred Dec. 31, almost. Actually, the 528-acre parcel was sold to Nature Conservancy, a private, non-profit conservation group, which will, in turn, sell it to the state. Smiling faces reflect the happiness of those involved that the controversy surrounding the story is finally over. Standing are Charles Scott, Warren Howland and Michael Dennis. Seated are Robert Fuller, Lawrence Gordon, Victor Plagge. Fuller was the principal owner of the land. Gagnon and Plagge were part owners. Howland's real estate firm handled the sale. Scott and Dennis represented Nature Conservancy. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Condemned building hit by fire for third time

Vernon
A condemned apartment building on W. Main St., Rockville was hit by fire for the third time early Sunday morning and Mayor Thomas Benoit plans to take quick action to have it torn down.

The large old wooden building sits in an older section of town as is surrounded by other large wood multi-family houses.

In Sunday morning's frigid temperatures, firemen worked to be sure the fire wouldn't spread to the other buildings. Several families from a nearby apartment were evacuated until the fire was completely under control.

Fire Chief Donald Magusa said the building, which had already suffered extensive damage in the two previous fires, received further damage to the back portion and the roof.

Fire departments from Vernon, Ellington, Tolland, Manchester, South Windsor and Enfield assisted the about 3:45 a.m., was under control by 7 a.m., but the

Earl Whaler hero

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Two weeks ago, Tom Earl, who has established himself as a deluxe penalty killer, was shipped down to the minors, Providence.

When injuries took its toll, the SOS was sent out and Earl was recalled just in time to help the Whalers beat the touring Russian Nationals last Monday night.

Last night, the hard-working Earl, a South Windsor resident, scored the winning goal in a 3-2 New England Whaler decision over Cincinnati at the Hartford Civic Center.

The goal, a backhand shot from 15 feet out, beat goalie Norm LaPointe, and helped send 8,976 fans home happy.

Since the Russian game, the Whalers being the only team to top the star-studded Nationals to date, the Whalers have played some consistent hockey despite the absence of several regulars. Sitting out last night again were Rick Ley, Tom Webster and Tommy Abramson.

The Whalers moved into third place in the WHA Eastern Division standings with the win, moving ahead of ice Minnesota and Cincinnati.

There's no rest in sight for coach Harry Neale's suddenly revived squad, which has shown some consistency of late for the first time this season.

Wethersfield High stops skaters, 4-2

Putting up a good battle, Manchester High's hockey team dropped a 4-2 verdict to Wethersfield High last night at the Glastonbury Arena.

Manchester, 3-4 over-all, has a home date Wednesday night at 8:25 at the Bolton Ice Palace against Platt High of Meriden.

Frank Piscotano assisted by Chris Zink tallied first for Wethersfield at the 7:09 mark of the first period but four minutes later Manchester senior captain Clark Brown knotted it with a blistering slapshot from just inside the blue line.

The Indian icemen took the edge before the period was over with sophomore Kelly McSwensy putting home his third goal of the campaign as Dave Werberl was a stand-out on defense for Manchester which was outshot by Wethersfield, 46-25.

Dave DeLeo tied it early in the second period for Wethersfield, digging the puck away from Indian goalie Bernie Hebert and depositing it into the net. At 12:52 of the middle session, Wethersfield scored a power play goal with Mike Fitzsimmons lighting the lamp.

It was a tight third period with Wethersfield scoring a clincher with 25 seconds left after Manchester pulled Hebert in favor of a sixth attacker. Dave Werberl got the empty net goal with seven seconds left.

Dave Werberl was a stand-out on defense for Manchester which was outshot by Wethersfield, 46-25.

Manchester Pee Wee, 3-0, last night at the Bolton Ice Palace. No other details were available.

Enfield's Squirts downed Manchester, 5-1, last night at the Ice Palace. Peucker, Mulligan, Rudolph, Blackwood, Merriam and Cahill scored for Enfield (no first names given) while Danny Gauchlone lit the lamp for Manchester.

West Hartford's Bantams bested Manchester, 4-2, last night at the Ice Palace. Brad Washburn scored twice and Clarence Zachary, Steve Coughlin and Dave Albanese each for West Hartford while George LeBlanc accounted for both Manchester scores.

Heavy schoolboy slate resumes

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor
With the first of a new year comes the resumption in full swing of the schoolboy basketball schedule and this first full week of 1977 finds several crucial games on tap.

Tuesday's calendar is a most attractive one as the four CCLC leaders collide which means something has to give. Manchester High, 4-1 in the league and 4-2 overall, travels to Simsbury to face the 4-1, 5-1 Trojans who are early surprise in the CCLC. The other match finds 4-1, 5-1 Penney High entertaining 4-1, 5-1 Hall High in East Hartford.

Manchester also sees action Friday night at Clarke Arena against Enfield High while Penney will duel Windham High on its home court in what should be another tight league struggle.

East Catholic, coming off its 57-49 win over Manchester will put its 5-2 over-all ledger up against former over-all champion South Catholic, 0-3. 0-4 East Hartford High at 7:30, 2-3 Concord High in West Hartford in a CCLC test, 2-0, 3-3 South Windsor High entertains 0-0 South Catholic, 0-3, 0-4 Rockville High visits 0-3, 1-6 Newington High in a Central Valley Conference battle and 0-2, 1-4 Ellington High travels to 1-1, 4-2 Tolland High in an NCCC engagement. Charter Oak Conference tilts pit 0-3, 0-4 Bolton High at 1-2, 1-3 Fortland High and 3-0 Coventry High journeying to 2-1, 2-3 Hartford High. On the distasteful side, 5-2

Braves' owner suspended

'Tampering' charge against Ted Turner
ATLANTA (UPI) — Flamboyant Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner, suspended for "tampering" with another losing club's slugger, feels his ouster may have dashed his hopes of being baseball's "executive of the year."

But, Turner said, his hopes of a championship for the Braves are still alive.

"This is going to make it hard for me to be executive of the year, if we win the World Series next year," he said.

Turner, the advertising millionaire who took over the Oaklander National League franchise last year and pledged to it a winner, thought it over a bit in an interview Sunday night and added, "I had my heart set on being executive of the year."

Both sides had their "shooting irons" — the Whalers getting off 45 shots and Cincy 36 with Christer Abrahamson, the game's No. 1 star, turning back all but two, one each by Ron Plumb, a 55-footer, and Claude LaRose in the first and third periods.

Ralph Backstrom and George Lyle tallied for the home team in the first and second periods, the latter's being his 24th. Backstrom now has 10.

Outstanding on defense were the Roberts brothers, Doug and Gordie and Ron Bessink for the Whalers. "We're thinking now, and we're on the move," Neale said adding, "if we play like we have been, and get some of our first liners back from injuries, we'll take a good run at (leading) Quebec."

No one can disagree. The Whalers are playing good hockey and the results are wins and no defeats.

Tom Gorman Key speaker

NEW HAVEN, (UPI) — The Connecticut Sports Writers Alliance has chosen Tom Gorman, a National League umpire for 25 years, as the main speaker for the 38th Annual Gold Key Dinner Feb. 6.

The alliance will honor West Hartford's Joe Gorman, New Haven's Wally Neale, and former Houston Rocket player-coach Johnny Egan with Gold Keys. Bruce Jenner and Dorothy Hamill have been named co-athletes away from one.

Hamden hockey coach Lou Astorino was chosen the scholastic coach of the year and former Norwich Hour sports editor Willard Williams also will be honored at the dinner to be held at the Park-Plaza Hotel.

Gorman, born in 1919 in the Hell's Kitchen area of New York City, was a three-sport star at Power Memorial High School before signing a contract with the New York Baseball Giants in 1939.

"I was used strictly in relief," remembers Gorman, who has been the featured speaker at many dinners throughout Connecticut. "Manager Bill Terry didn't want me starting my first year so I did nothing but come out of the bullpen. It was quite a thrill playing in the Polo Grounds."

But after his first year in the pros, World War II called and Gorman spent the next five years serving his country.

Alumni swimmers dunk MHS varsity

While they're older the stroke remains and it was proved by the Manchester High alumni swim team as it dunked the 1976-77 varsity, 88-84, at the high school pool.

The meet was highlighted by superb performances by varsity tankers Bob Michael and Mike Wasyluk, who each captured two individual events. These performances were matched by the alumni with fine performances from Ed Adams and Pete Naktensis, each who won individual events along with diver Steve Dwyer.

Also swimming well for the varsity were Dean Wilkie, winning the 50-yard freestyle, and Dave Beckwith, in the 100-yard free.
