During the opening day of the General Assembly, legislators noticed an economic optimism that has been stifled the past few years.

"For the first time in a long time, the governor sounded the song of hope," Sen. George Hamon, of the Third Senatorial District, said of Gov. Ella Grasso's opening-day remarks.

"I think we have money to do things with that we haven't had for two years," Hamon said. Sen. David Barry, of the Fourth Senatorial District, and Rep. Abraham Glassman, of the 14th Assembly District, both said that with less time spent squeezing a dry budget, the legislators may get more work done on legislation.

"The economy is in better shape than it was two years ago. In that sense, it should be a better session in terms of accomplishments," Barry said.

"It's easier to govern when you've got money," Glassman said. "For the first time since I've been here, things seem brighter," the second-term representative said.

Glassman said that while there may be more money this session, the legislators will also be under increased pressure on how to spend it. He said that some "real hot issues" will be presented during the upcoming session. The restructuring of higher education, state government, and courts will all be discussed, he said.

Barry agreed that several controversial bills, including the repeal of minimum pricing on liquor and the bottle bill, outlawing throwaway bottles, will receive plenty of attention.

"They will generate a considerable amount of public input and a considerable amount of lobbyists," he said.

Barry has filed a bill that would allow the commissioner of motor vehicles to license and regulate repairers of boats and marine engines.

"Consumer complaints to state agencies about problems involving repairers go unanswered because the state has no power to act at the present time," Barry said.

The senator said that neither the Department of Motor Vehicles or the Department of Consumer Protection presently has authority over complaints about boat repairing.

The following poem was written by Republican Registrar of Voters Frederick Peck in honor of his recently retired secretary, Catherine Perkins:

"We've gathered today to share a toast, To a gracious lady who is really the most. Her duties, have been clear, and quite well-defined. The voters franchise, topmost in her mind.

Across the Registrars' counter she's brought Many answers which voters have moved?

Where to go? What to do? How to get out of this stew? Where do you live? Have you moved?

"We'll do our best to get your vote approved. I'm speaking of Kay, of great composure. Who has skillfully handled each exposure.

Now may the good Lord give her energy and health. And Manchester give thanks for sharing her wealth. Peck read the poem at a retirement party recently held for Mrs. Perkins.

Basic adult education courses to resume

Classes in Adult Basic Education, High School Equivalency Preparation, and English for the Foreign Born will resume on Feb. 1, as part of the Manchester Adult Evening School Program.

These classes, which are offered free of charge to Manchester-area residents, will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Manchester High School.

Adult Basic Education offers training in reading, spelling, grammar and mathematics for adults who have not attained an eighth-grade level in any of subjects.

The High School Equivalency Program offers courses in English, social studies, science and mathematics for adults who have not attained a high school diploma.

In June, the Connecticut High School Equivalency Examination is given for students who have completed such programs. Last year, 60 Manchester-area residents received their high school equivalency diplomas through this program.

A person must be 19 years old or a member of an already graduated high school class to qualify for the equivalency diploma.

The English for the Foreign Born offers two levels of study, one for beginners and one for advanced training.

Registration by mail for all classes will end on Jan. 21. In-person registration at the high school will be held on Monday, Jan. 24 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Further information about these classes may be obtained by contacting Manchester Director of Adult Basic Education, Joel Chaison, at the Board of Education office. The telephone is 646-5854, extension 252.

Tuesday, Jan. 18, 7:30 p.m. at Osborne Hill School, Fairfield.

Tuesday, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Willamantic Town Hall, 979 Main St.

Muskie urges sunset bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will reintroduce the sunset bill he authored last year to put all federal programs up for review and reauthorization every five years.

Muskie, in a statement in the Senate Monday, urged his colleagues to give the legislation the "highest priority in the 95th Congress."

"We have just come through an election in which perhaps the overriding concern of our constituents was that government is not working as well as it should be," he said.

"The sunset bill I am introducing today is a response to this concern, one I believe will work."

A sunset bill is an ideal complement to President-elect Jimmy Carter's intent to reorganize the executive branch, because it will ensure federal agencies are doing their jobs in the most efficient and least costly manner, he said.

The new bill is essentially the same as that introduced last year, Muskie said. A companion bill has already been introduced in the House.

"The need for sunset legislation is obvious," Muskie said. "We now have 302 different health programs, 250 community development programs and 62 programs involved in providing social insurance and aid to the needy."

"Those are some of the known figures. In fact, no one really knows just how many federal programs there are. Many agencies don't even know how many and which programs fall under their jurisdictions."

Permanent programs have been the fastest growing part of the federal budget in the last decade, Muskie said. So-called uncontrolled spending will make up 77 per cent of the entire budget for fiscal year 1977, according to the Maine senator.

Industrial park referendum hearing set for Jan. 25

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors has scheduled a public hearing Tuesday, Jan. 25 to set a date for the townwide referendum needed for the industrial park.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has recommended March 15 as the date for the referendum, at which Manchester residents will decide on a $1,720,000 bond issue to pay for park development.

The final cost figure includes $879,000 for costs for work connected with the park, but taking place outside of the park's boundaries and $841,000 for renovation work to the Harrison St.-side at East Cemetery.

The board approved allocating $3,378.18 to pay for architect's fees for renovation work to the Harrison St.-side at East Cemetery.

Wholesale prices up quickening inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.9 per cent in December to quicken the pace of business inflation in 1976, the Labor Department said today.

The report said wholesale prices rose 4.7 per cent for the year compared with 4.2 per cent in 1975.

All of the increase was in industrial commodities like metals, building materials and energy. Labor said the industrial section of the Wholesale Price Index increased 6.4 per cent from December 1975.

Wholesale prices of farm-fresh foods, processed foods like cereals or baked goods and animal feeds dropped 1.1 per cent over the year.

The Labor department said food prices accounted for the bulk of the 0.5 per cent increase in December.

Prices for farm products rose 3.7 per cent while processed foods and feeds climbed 2 per cent.

Coffee, cocoa, tea, fruits, vegetables, hogs and live poultry accounted for most of the increase.

Price movements for agricultural products, which often are erratic, declined in three of the previous five months, the department said.

There was encouragement in the more important category of industrial commodities, which increased 0.3 per cent in December.

Director Phyllis Jackson, who suggested the referendum at last week's meeting, expressed her concern about a referendum for sidewalk repairs. She said that the felt there are other priority items in town.

But, Pascal Prignano, who suggested the referendum at last week's meeting, said that his request was made "almost by popular demand. Everyone I turn around, someone is asking about sidewalks."

He said that making improvements to the walks would save the town money by reducing the number of claims made by people injured in falls on sidewalks.

The directors tabled a separate request for new sidewalk construction on Spencer St.

Unemployment down slightly to 7.9%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment fell to 7.9 per cent at the end of 1976, slightly higher than when the year began, the Labor Department reported today.

December's decline from the year's highest level of 8.1 per cent in November brought some relief for Jimmy Carter as he prepares to assume the presidency. But the year-end rate was still only 1 per cent below the 1975 recession peak.

The report also heralded a full year of virtual stagnation on the American job market. The December rate was 0.1 per cent higher than last January.

President Ford previously predicted that unemployment would be cut below 7 per cent in 1976. As a result, Carter has been cautious to promise no more than a 1.5 per cent decline in 1977.

Unemployment dipped to a 1976 low of 7.3 per cent last May, but those improvements were wiped out by July. Joblessness hovered between 7.8 per cent and 7.9 per cent for four months prior to November.

Combined with this grim news was another Labor Department report showing that wholesale prices rose 0.9 per cent in December, reflecting a double-digit annual rate.

A total of 7.6 million persons were out of work in December, a decrease of about 210,000. But most of the decrease occurred among adult men, many of whom simply left the labor market.

Town snow-removal fund dwindling

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Unless Manchester resembles Miami for the next couple of months, the Town Highway Department will have to ask for more snow-removal money from the Board of Directors, according to Highway Superintendent Timothy O'Sullivan.

More than half of this season's snow-removal budget has been spent, and that does not include the cost of clearing after Monday's storm, O'Sullivan said.

The town budgeted $103,000 for clearing roads this winter. Before Monday, the department had spent $50,000 and $60,000 of that total, he said.

The money budgeted for this year is based on weather and expenses of previous years.

"We're running way ahead of last year - almost double," O'Sullivan said of this season's expense.

"If this trend continues, we will not be able to stay within our budget," he said Tuesday.

Rep. Mahoney sponsors bill to reduce state sales tax

Rep. Francis Mahoney, Democratic legislator from the 13th Assembly District, has submitted a bill to reduce the state sales tax to five per cent.

Mahoney admitted that the legislation will be "a tough one" to get passed, but he is hopeful that it will be supported.

The state sales tax is presently seven per cent. Mahoney would like to reduce that levy by two per cent.

He pointed to the upbeat outlook surrounding the state's economy as part of the reason for filing the legislation.

"With all the excess money from state lotteries, why can't we help the man on the street?" he asked.

Mahoney spoke about Gov. Ella Grasso's opening-day remarks to the state General Assembly, when she painted a fairly bright picture of the state's economic outlook for the upcoming year. In her address, Grasso indicated possible increased spending for state agencies and programs.

"I think she could make a pitch to the guy who pays

Illegal alien to leave for Hong Kong

Yun Chen Yan, 26, who has been living at 7 Lilac St., and was facing charges of being an illegal alien by immigration authorities in December, was found to be deportable by a U.S. Immigration Judge Tuesday.

Yan was ordered to leave the country by May 11 by Judge Anthony DeGarto at an administration deportation hearing at U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service district office in Hartford.

According to Edwin Maloney, district director of the Hartford immigration office, Yan asked to leave the country voluntarily at his own expense. Yan said he would go to Hong Kong. He was born in China.

Sikorsky announces transfers

STRATFORD (UPI) - Sikorsky Aircraft said Tuesday it plans to transfer next month about 50 workers to its plant in West Palm Beach, Fla., and the flow of United Technologies Corp. employees from Connecticut to the Stamford area.

They will join about 350 of the 600 Pratt and Whitney Aircraft workers already moved from the Hartford area to the firm's expanding facilities in West Palm Beach. The others will be moved later.

UTC also said it will move about 60 to 70 workers at its Otis Elevator division from other parts of Florida to the West Palm Beach location.

The Sikorsky employees will be setting up a helicopter testing facility about 16 miles from the town. Company officials said the testing - beginning with work on its new S76 commercial model - will be easier in Florida because the weather is milder than Connecticut's.

A UTC spokesman said there were "absolutely" no plans to shift other staff members to Florida with the exception of one technician. UTC began shifting workers to Florida last April when the parent company announced a reorganization of the Pratt & Whitney division.

Sikorsky said it had no plans to shift any production work to Florida.

Sikorsky last month won a major contract to build "UTTAS" helicopters for the Army, work that is expected to provide a major economic boost for the area.

Opinion

Puerto Rico next?

Never underestimate the power of even a lame-duck president to influence headlines and generally shake things up.

For a case in point, we need look no further than President Ford's call for Puerto Rican statehood. So why not now? Would-be explanations for this surprise proposal range from the totally ingenious — that it came off the top of the presidential head in the disarray of packing up to leave the White House — to the politically devious — that it would eventually bring federal control of potentially highly profitable offshore mining and oil-drilling. (Puerto Rico, with its present commonwealth status, enjoys semi-sovereign rights in its waters which the states do not.)

Whatever the reason, or combination of reasons, behind the recommendation, has had some highly visible immediate results. It brought the president and his administration back onto front pages dominated for weeks by the president-elect's artfully orchestrated selection of the new Washington team, and it warmed up an issue which had been on a very low back burner — one which the new administration would much prefer remain there for a time.

So what about statehood for Puerto Rico? As proponents see it, the island and mainland have been approaching such a rendezvous with mutual destiny for decades. Milestones in the elevation of Puerto Rico from mere possession states are the 1947 replacement of a Washington-appointed governor by an elected chief executive and the 1952 constitution establishing the island as a free commonwealth in association with the United States.

A further refinement of this relationship is recommended by the U.S.-Puerto Rican study group set up by President Nixon in 1973 whose final report, now on President

Pediatric ward needs facilities for parents

To the editor,
An Open Letter to the Administration of Manchester Memorial Hospital.
This letter concerns the Pediatric Ward at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Recently both our children spent overnight visits at the hospital, for two year old son, David in October of '76, and our eleven month old daughter, Nancy, earlier this month. Being in a hospital can be a traumatic experience for any child, especially when they are so young they do not understand what is happening to them.

We have nothing but good things to say about the staff of the Pediatrics Ward. All the nurses and aides were helpful and kind and we thank them.

Today's thought

"How can a young man keep his way pure? By keeping it according to Thy word. Thy word I have treasured in my heart. That I may not sin against Thee" (Psalm 119:9, 11, New American Standard Bible).

We hear a lot today about the pollution in our streams, rivers, and atmosphere. But the pollution that is of great significance involves ourselves and centers in the word sin. We need to be cleaned up inside.

But how is this done? By reading and remembering and even memorizing the Bible as explained to us in the verses from the book of Psalms.

Just recently I read about the activities of Jerry Lucas, the former basketball player for the New York

Knicks. He is in charge of an organization entitled Memory Ministries. He simply goes around our country encouraging others to memorize Scripture. This is what he says: "We want people to hide God's word in their hearts; it changes them in such wonderful ways."

Why not take the advice of Jerry Lucas? Better yet, why not take the advice God gives to us?

"Thy words were found and I ate them. And Thy words became for me a joy and the delight of my heart; For I have been called by Thy name, O Lord God of hosts" (Jeremiah 15:15, NASB).

If you are one of the thousands of Nutmeggers who are trying to keep off the fags today — Connecticut no-smoking day — hang in there. The day will be over soon.

But, before you reach for that smoke, honestly ask yourself if you quit for one day, why can't you quit for two?

Since it appears that a cabinet position's place in the Washington sun hinges on which party is in power, maybe the matter can be resolved by officially creating a shadow cabinet. But this might be difficult since substance is necessary for casting a shadow and in recent times presidents have been inclined

Despite Democratic party control of the Congress since 1932, with the exception of two years in mid-forties, this apparently hasn't changed much.

Carter, we fear, will find the Congress will make it tough for an ex-Navy skipper to run a tight ship.

But don't despair, most of us will think it will be better than it is only because we want to believe. It is the American passion for wanting to believe that sustains us — and unfortunately inertia in government.

Speaker Tip O'Neill a credit to Old Ireland

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Oh, the new Speaker of the House is surely a credit to Old Ireland, because you can be sure the lads will never get to go by from Tip O'Neill of Massachusetts who is called Thomas only by the British Embassy and the New York Times.

"You can say the job is back where it belongs," said a man from Boston, his face glowing with the joy of County Cork, as he waited in line to shake Tip's hand in the House chamber. "Carl Albert was a good and decent man, but nobody can say he was another Johnny McCormack, coming from Oklahoma as he did."

And, to be sure, there was all the fun of an old-fashioned Irish wake when Tip took over from Albert. The Irish were all over the place led by The McCormack, now 85 but not too old to enjoy a good cigar and the boisterous celebrating of male named Malloy and Sullivan and O'Rourke.

And there was Tip himself, with his shock of white hair and the bulk of him looming above the crowd, looking like a jovial tackle from Boston College, waving a hand here and a hand there, and deferring like a natural-born hero to the tiny, smiling Albert, who paid the Irish crowd the biggest compliment he could think of. "They're like Oklahomans," he said. "They know how to have a good time."

There was, too, a man named Kostowski, who had his say. "Irish wake, hell," he said. "It more like a Polish wedding. Tip is grand enough to be a Polack."

Kostowski was among the McEweens and Moriarty — 600 in all — who had chartered three planes and paid their own way to Washington to tell Tip how grand he is. They were all over the Capitol by day and filled a hotel hall to overflowing at a reception in Tip's honor that night.

We do not believe it is asking too much for the hospital administration to allow a comfortable chair or two to be placed into the rooms of the pediatric ward to accommodate parents that wish to stay overnight. Many other hospitals allow and encourage parents to stay. Every child has different needs, and for the child's emotional and psychological well being, the parent should decide whether he or she is needed all night. Again we strongly repeat that we are not asking for a bed, or even a cot, just a comfortable chair so the parent would be available if the child should awaken and need care or just reassurance and love.

We hope the hospital administration will take note of this request and act on it, or offer us reasons why this can not be done. And we would ask any other concerned parents to write to the hospital administration and ask that those arrangements be made to allow a parent to spend the night with his or her child.

Thank you,

Court rules racial impact not sole test for unconstitutionality of zoning laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 8 to 0 Tuesday that local zoning laws are not unconstitutional solely because they tend to keep minorities and low income groups out of a community.

The court said impact on minorities is a factor in determining whether local zoning ordinances are unconstitutional discrimination, but impact may not be the sole test.

The decision by Justice Lewis F. Powell reversed a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, which found that suburban Arlington Heights, Ill. zoning regulations violated the 14th Amendment because they barred construction of a low income housing project in the community.

The appeals court found no evidence city officials were motivated by racial concerns but held that the impact of the zoning rules would foster continued housing segregation in the suburbs.

The Supreme Court reversed on that ground. Powell quoted from a decision last term involving job testing and said "disproportionate impact is not irrelevant, but it is not the sole touchstone of an invidious racial discrimination."

"Proof of racially discriminatory intent or purpose is required to show a violation of the Equal Protection Clause," the court sent the case back to the appeals court, however, to determine whether the zoning provisions violated the Fair Housing Act of 1968.

All eight justices sitting on the case agreed that in light of last year's ruling that job tests are not discriminatory solely because they have greater impacts on minorities, zoning laws could not be judged solely on their racial impact. But

Justices Byron R. White, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. said since the Arlington Heights case was ruled upon in the appeals court prior to the testing decision, that court should take another look at the case rather than be reversed outright. Justice John Paul Stevens, who was a member of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals when the case was decided there, did not participate in the ruling.

Arlington Heights is 26 miles northwest of the Chicago Loop. According to the 1970 census, only 27 of the village's 64,000 residents were black.

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. sought to construct a housing project with two-story townhouses on land zoned for single-family detached residences. The corporation applied for a zoning change, but was rejected by the village trustees on grounds the change would not fit the Arlington Heights comprehensive community plan.

History buffs to hear talk by Kravic

Frank Kravic of 33 Godard Ter., East Hartford will be the guest speaker at Sunday's meeting of the Manchester Historical Society. It will be held at 2 p. m. in the Whiton Memorial Library auditorium.

He will appear in uniform in presenting his color slide program, "The Soldier's Life in the American Revolution," based on archaeological discoveries. It will reveal how probing at historical sites have been able to remove many myths about the soldier of the period and provide a clearer understanding of his life.

Kravic will also display military and personal equipment of American, British, French, and German soldiers. He will discuss problems of collecting materials.

With George Neumann he co-authored the "Collector's Illustrated Encyclopedia of the American Revolution," published by Stackpole, Harrisburg. The book pictures more than 2,500 items used by soldiers of the American Revolution in more than 300 categories from ammunition through weapons and implements. The volume is based on material in the authors' collections and public and private sources.

Kravic is a member of the Brigade of the American Revolution and a sergeant in the 3rd New Jersey Regiment. They are educational, historical organizations dedicated to recreating the life and crafts of the Revolutionary War soldier.

Kravic holds B. S. and M. A. degrees from the University of Connecticut. For 12 years he has been a teacher of agriculture at Woodrow Wilson High School in Middletown.

MCC first community college to offer special recreation course for retarded

Manchester Community College is the first community college anywhere to offer a special recreation course for those involved with retarded children, according to James H. Bracken, associate director of residential care at Mansfield Training School.

Bracken will teach a three-credit course titled "Recreation With Your Retarded Child: A Family and School Approach to an Active Life." The course is made possible by a cash grant from the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, and a contribution from the college, which will enable about 30 persons to take the course without cost, except for transportation.

The grant was announced in a letter from Eunice Kennedy Shriver. The course is intended for students enrolled in the Mental Retardation Aide program at MCC as well as parents of retarded children.

Manchester civic music groups plan to organize auxiliary

The Board of Directors of the Manchester Civic Orchestra and Chorus is sponsoring two meetings for the purpose of forming an auxiliary for the group.

The meetings will be Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. and Thursday at 1:30 p.m., both at the home of Mrs. Karen Kilhamoff, 14 Dorset Lane.

Interested persons will have an opportunity to meet both orchestra and chorus members at the meetings. Also, tapes of previous concert will be played, slides of both groups in rehearsal will be shown, and there will be a discussion on future plans including a name for the auxiliary.

The Manchester Civic Orchestra and Chorus have grown in size and also as a cultural and educational asset in many communities east of the Connecticut River. The Board of Directors feels that an auxiliary would be helpful in areas of promotion and publicity for the musical groups.

Persons planning to attend either of the meetings may call any of the following persons: Vera Sundquist, 643-4783; Harriet Donovan, 643-0801; Pat Jacobson, 646-0407; Joan Lepiacomo, 529-8908.

Snow dates are the following Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 26 and 27.

Late school opening procedures revised

The school administration released new schedules and procedures for delayed school openings on storm days.

The late openings to allow additional time for snow removal on the roads and at the schools will mean that all schools will open one hour late and all bus schedules will be one hour delayed for student pickup.

Official time and bus schedules at the end of the day would not be changed under the procedure.

The delays apply to Head Start and ROTC classes, also. There would be no junior high school shuttle service to the ROTC and Senior Citizens Center on the late days.

The biggest change will be for the kindergarten schedules which will require two special buses and one station wagon on the late days.

School Supt. James P. Kennedy urges parents not to call the Board of Education on the delayed opening days as the phones must be kept open for emergency calls and communication with the snow removal station.

The late openings as well as school closing will be broadcast on the following radio stations: WINF, WDRB, WTHV, WHCN, WROP and TV Channel 30.

The time scheduled for all kindergartens, with five exceptions, is as follows: 10 to 12:30 and 12:30 to 3. The exceptions are as follows: Manchester Green, 10 to 12:30 and 12:15 to 2:45; Nathan Hale, 9:45 to 12:15 and 12:15 to 2:45; Wadwell, 9:45

Buying clothing

Careful planning, skillful shopping and proper clothing care can help you get the most value from your wardrobe dollars. By using some imagination, a little fashion know-how and a basic knowledge of clothing facts, you can begin to develop the ability to dress well within the limits of your income.

Shopping skill is the key to being well-dressed without overpaying. Whether you are buying for yourself or for your entire family, it pays to develop shopping techniques that can help you find what you need at the prices you can afford.

The following points may enable you to make the most of your dollars when you shop clothes:

Plan for clothing needs ahead of time.

Be price conscious and follow your spending plan. Read labels and hang tags to find out who made the garment, what the garment and trimmings are made of, what care is required and the wear you can expect.

Buy well-made clothing for better fit, longer wear and good appearance. Check the garment construction. Are seams secure? Does the fabric pattern match? Are fasteners secure and practical?

Select the best quality you can afford for items you wear often; lower quality for garments that will be worn infrequently, may go out of style quickly or be rapidly outgrown.

Compare prices, values, merchandise and services in several stores. Try on clothes before purchase when possible as sizes may vary among manufacturers. Be sure to check the retailer's refund or exchange policy when shopping in a store for the first time.

The amount of money you spend on clothing is a personal matter, but keep in mind that planned spending is essential if you are to get the most from the clothing dollars you have.

SBM approaches electronic banking

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

The checkless statement of the Savings Bank of Manchester is one step toward electronic banking, the checkless, cashless society, of the future.

"The old days of writing a check and having a week for it to clear are gone," said David Dwyer, assistant treasurer and automated services officer in charge of the new Data Processing Center of SBM.

Although SBM has been offering checkless accounts and the checkless statement since Jan. 1, the operation outgrew its old quarters and was moved into a new facility at 20 Purcell Pl. on Dec. 1.

Twelve persons work in the center, handling a huge volume of paper daily. They process about 2,200 checks daily worth a total of $50,000, condensing it all into tiny boxes of microfilm.

One large filing cabinet drawer contains all the microfilmed checks of SBM's 3,500 new checking account customers for the past year.

The new automated system is working well, Dwyer said. He terms it "very successful."

The Savings Bank is one of two banks in the state to offer the checkless statement exclusively, Dwyer said. The Banking Center of Waterbury is the other bank. Several other banks offer the checkless statement as an option.

Before the checkless account service started, SBM officers investigated the checkless system operating in some banks in Massachusetts. They felt strongly it could work for SBM, Dwyer said.

Several employees were trained specifically to explain the new system to potential customers. There have been no real complaints and no major problems with the checking account customers, Dwyer said.

Of the 3,500 new checking accounts, Dwyer estimates that about 80 per cent came from existing savings or other accounts at SBM.

The data center handles more than just checking accounts. It handles all the automated banking such as automatic mortgage and loan payments, social security checks and international currency and checks.

The entire system was designed to cooperate with one compact machine, a $1500 Burroughs Data Catcher Proof Machine, the first of this kind to be installed in the United States, according to Dwyer.

The machine "reads" every check fed into it, records them on cassette tapes which are transmitted to the computer center in Hamden over a telephone line. Only one person is needed to operate the machine which can process up to 2,000 checks an hour. The center usually processes them in batches of 500.

The seven statement cycles are almost constantly being done now. The checks for each customer are kept until statement time when they are microfilmed with the statement.

Before the checkless account service started, SBM officers investigated the checkless system operating in some banks in Massachusetts. They felt strongly it could work for SBM, Dwyer said.

The checks are all indexed according to account numbers. If a customer should need a copy of his check, he needs only to call the data center where employees find the appropriate microfilm and put it in the reader-printer machine which produces a copy of the check.

It is very seldom that someone calls for a copy of a check. The center receives perhaps only two calls a month for this service, Dwyer said.

Dwyer sees the greatest advantage of the system as a convenience for the customers. The bank has the entire account history which can be reconstructed quickly in case a person has a fire or water damage in his home.

He said he has seen savings the bank may have incurred by using less postage on monthly statements is probably washed out by the extra time taken on the microfilming. A microfilm system existed before, but it was not nearly so extensive.

The next innovation for the center is installation of a Central Information System sometime in January. The system will list all the accounts one person has at the bank.

Other banks are apparently becoming curious about the new system as Dwyer has received about a dozen phone calls inquiring about it. Dwyer thinks other banks would have used the new checkless system if they could start all over. He said it is easier for banks having checking accounts for the first time to use the system than for banks with the older system to change over.

Three Savings Bank of Manchester employees work on machines in the new Data Processing Center. The new automated checkless statement was designed around the machine in the foreground, a $1500 Burroughs Data Catcher Proof Machine being operated by Joan Sheehan, Chris Olmstead and Carla Calabrese work on check coding machines. Chorches bid low Chorches Motors Inc., 80 Oakland St., was awarded the bid for a new police cruiser for the Town of Coventry on Jan. 2.

Chorches was the lowest bidder by $300 for the 1977 Dodge Police cruiser at a bid price of $4,065 plus a trade-in of the 1972 police cruiser.

Promoted

The promotion of Edwin L. (Bob) Davis to the new position of manager, product support services, in the Commercial Products Division of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group was announced today by David J. Hines, division president.

Davis has served since 1968 as assistant to the president of P&WA. In his new post, he will report to Frank T. Spogell, vice president, product support, and will direct the spare parts sales and product support administration and operations functions.

Town seeking to sell junk, buy machinery

The Town of Manchester is seeking bids on a number of different items it is interested in buying or selling.

Two bids that will be opened Tuesday, Jan. 25 involve the sale of used town properties. One bid is for the sale of junk vehicles — a 1962 Dodge bus and a 1973 Chevrolet Nova. The town says that both are not fit for highway use in their present condition and is also asking for the return of the tires from the bus.

The second sale involves 7½ tons of obsolete water meters now stored at the Water Department garage.

On Thursday, Jan. 27, three bids on items being purchased by the town will be opened.

The Highway Department is seeking bids on one curb feeder and one automatic paving machine. The Recreation Department is seeking bids on 984 soccer shirts for the department's soccer programs.

All submitted bids will be opened at 11 a.m. and should be mailed to M.A. Pass, Director of General Services, Municipal Building, Manchester.

Profit gains

Building products manufacturers posted an after-tax profit gain of 25 per cent in the third quarter of 1976, compared to a year ago, it was reported today by the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

According to the firm, sales increased 16 per cent in the July-August-September period. The information is derived from the Dodge's Division's quarterly survey of 60 manufacturing firms covering a broad spectrum of building products.

The properties sold included a 10-unit apartment building at 295 Bidwell St. for $177,000 and a commercial building at 20 Purcell Pl. for $1,250,000.

Damato said the sales were made in an effort by his firm, Damato Enterprises, to consolidate its real estate in the areas of town closest to its office at 240 New State Rd. and with the further intention of investing. The investment plans are not for the immediate future. The Bidwell and Otis St. apartments were farthest from the main rental offices, Damato said.

Weiss outlines Buckland Industrial Park steps

The steps to be taken by the Town of Manchester in connection with the planned industrial park have been outlined in a letter from Town Manager Robert B. Weiss to residents near the proposed site of the park.

The residents, primarily from the Burnham St. Croft Dr. area, had requested the letter to assure that the town will meet a list of 11 requests about the park that they made at a November meeting with town officials.

"There has been massive effort by the Town to make this facility compatible with its residential neighbors," Weiss wrote in the letter.

"I am pleased that the major issues of concern cited in your memorandum of Nov. 12, 1976 appear to have been satisfactorily resolved," he said.

The 11 requests drawn up by the residents dealt primarily with traffic concerns and protection of their property.

For instance, they asked that a road to go through the industrial park be built first to prevent construction vehicles from using Burnham and Windsor Sts.

Weiss wrote that the park road will be started as soon as possible and will be completed by Nov. 15.

The Town will prohibit the use of the residential areas of Burnham and Windsor Sts. to any and all construction trucks," Weiss said. The neighbors also asked for the dead-end of both Burnham and Windsor Sts. Such a design has been included in the park plan.

A sticky issue at one time concerning a "ring road" around the J.C. Penney catalog distribution center has apparently been solved.

The residents had asked for a 100-foot minimum between their street and the ring road. Preliminary park plans, however, showed a distance of only about 50 feet at one point between the two areas.

Weiss said that the Penney company has agreed to move the ring road south at that point to increase the distance between it and the Burnham St. home.

Weiss also wrote, "The Penney building will be constructed as a practical south of Burnham St. as is practical." He indicated that the distance between the street and the building will be a minimum of 400 feet. Weiss also listed other results to the residents' 11 requests, including:

- The water-and-septic agreement between the neighbors and the Town of Manchester. The neighbors had sought some protection in case of damage to private water systems.
- The town will require "eye grass or equivalent planting" in the park to minimize dust. Filtration basins will also be installed where needed to prevent silt from entering the area.

- The major outgoing merchandise area for the Penney building will be in the southern portion of the building, which is farthest from the Burnham St. area. Incoming trucks will unload in the western section, but trucks will be restricted from a northwest receiving area, closest to the neighborhood, before 7 a.m.

- All lights in the park will be limited to a 30-foot maximum height and will have to be shielded.

At Monday night's hearing on a zone change application for the area, Weiss said, "We have satisfied, to the best of my knowledge, all the major concerns of the neighborhood."

Weiss also estimated at the hearing that the payroll connected with industrial park industries will be $23 million. He said the economic effect on the community would be about 2½ times that much, or about $60 million.

"It will affect every institution in the community," Weiss said of the money he thought would be generated by the proposed park.

More than 22,000 vaccinated at Manchester-Bolton flu clinics

The final count of persons inoculated with flu vaccine during the recent flu clinic for Manchester and Bolton residents was in excess of the estimated 22,000 persons, Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, told the Advisory Board of Health Tuesday.

This figure included all those inoculated by private physicians and nurses in offices, hospitals, convalescent homes and Manchester Community College.

Of all those inoculated, Dr. Turek said there was one person whose reaction was severe enough to be reported to the State Health Department. No details on the case were available.

The cost breakdown of the operation was $2,900 for Manchester and $200 for Bolton. The health board will submit an expense item for the total amount to the Board of Directors.

In his commendation to the health board for the success of the flu clinic, Michael Gallacher, assistant superintendent at Manchester Memorial Hospital, said that it cost so little to get so much done. "Other states had fiascos," he said. He added, "If there is ever a need for a similar mass operation in Manchester, we've proved it can be done."

Dr. Turek acknowledged the large number of volunteers who helped make the program successful. She said plans are being made for a testimonial dinner honoring all the volunteers who participated in the flu clinic.

In other business, Dr. Turek announced plans for the town's second annual Health Fair which will be April 25 from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Manchester High School cafeteria.

The fair is a combined effort of the Manchester Health Department and the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association to offer information and services to the town's citizens. Board chairman Dr. Walter Schardt told the board that Town Manager Robert Weiss will ask the Board of Directors to consider another request from the Board of Health for a restaurant licensing ordinance.

The Board of Directors failed to approve a proposed restaurant ordinance last year.

If the Board of Directors approves, Town Counsel Victor Komar and Ronald Kraatz, assistant director of the health board, will draft a new ordinance.

Dr. Schardt said that there is a big need for licensing procedure.

The executive board of the Verplanck School PTA will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Amory Stanfield, 29 Perkins St.

The executive board of Manchester Junior Women's Club will meet tonight at 8 at the home of Mrs. Linda Pessagno, 205 Woodland St.

The Marine Corps League will meet tonight at 8 at the Marine Home.

Second Congregational to install new pastor

The Rev. Dr. James D. MacLauchlin of Bridgewater, Mass., has been named pastor of Second Congregational Church and will assume his new duties Sunday.

The church extended a call to the Rev. Dr. MacLauchlin on Nov. 7. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Felix Davis, who served the church for 16 years before resigning to become the executive director of the Manchester Counseling Service, a church-encouraged agency that counsels in crisis situations.

The Rev. Dr. MacLauchlin served as minister of the Central Square Congregational Church in Bridgewater for nine years before accepting his present post. He has also served churches in Vermont.

He is a graduate of Babson College, Babson Park, Mass., where he earned a B.S. degree in business administration.

Income credit refunds could be much bigger

By Ray De Crane

(Ninth of a series)

More than a billion dollars in refunds were paid out last year by Internal Revenue because of the workings of the Earned Income Credit on federal income tax returns.

With the rules for claiming the credit greatly liberalized this year, the windfall of refunds should be much greater.

Sometimes referred to as "the negative income tax," the credit provides refunds to low-income workers who otherwise might owe no tax and who may not even have had any withholding tax deducted from their earnings.

Under these conditions anyone with total income of less than $8,000 can claim this credit. You must have maintained a household which was the principal residence for all of 1976 either for a child under the age of 18, a child of any age who qualified as a full-time student or a dependent disabled child.

While the disabled child must qualify as a dependent, it is not required that the child under 19 or the student be a dependent for income tax purposes.

In this way, a son or daughter in high school or college could qualify the parents for the credit even though he or she furnished his own chief support. With the exception of absence to attend school or during vacations, the student must have lived at home full time.

The credit can be as much as $400. It gradually lessens as income rises and totally disappears once total income reaches the $8,000 level.

Many taxpayers whose income is too low to be required to file a tax return should file a return in order to claim this credit. The filing of a return is the only way to establish the eligibility to the credit and the right to a refund.

If the taxpayer claiming the credit is married, a joint return is filed.

The credit starts out with 10 per cent of total income, but not more than $400. If total income for example, was $3,800, the credit would be an automatic $380. If any tax were due on that income it would be subtracted from the credit and the balance would be refunded. If no tax were owed, the full $380 would be paid in a refund check.

As income goes beyond $4,000, the credit is reduced by 10 per cent of the amount over $4,000.

Here is the way the credit would be determined for a couple with a combined income of $6,000 who had a qualifying individual in their home:

Maximum credit	$400
Income over $4,000	$2,000
10 per cent of that	$200

If you have income of less than $8,000 and have a child in your home look for this opportunity. But you must file a tax return to claim it.

(NEXT Itemized or standard deduction, what will it be?)

Get the best book available to help you save dollars on your 1976 income tax. CUT YOUR OWN TAXES 1977 costs only $1.00 plus 25 cents for postage and handling. Send check made payable to "Cut Your Own Taxes" or money order with your name, address and zip care of the Manchester Herald to P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10018. New guidelines set for tax preparers

Persons who prepare federal income tax returns for compensation are now faced with stricter rules than in the past, the Internal Revenue says.

Under the Tax Reform Act of 1976, income tax preparers are subject to $25 for each one or for any of the following: For failure to furnish completed copies of returns or claims for refund to their clients; failure to sign the returns or claims in the space provided; and failure to enter their identifying number along with their signature on each return or claim prepared.

In addition, tax preparers are now required to maintain copies of each return or claim for refund prepared for pay for a period of three years, or failing that, they must maintain a list containing the name and identifying number of each taxpayer served. Each failure to do so will subject the tax preparer to his or her firm to a $50 fine, up to a maximum fine of $25,000 in any given year, according to the IRS.

The new law also prepares it.

Local schools open Friday

Manchester schools will remain open Friday, although some schools, like Hartford, will be closed for the first legal state holiday in honor of Martin Luther King's birthday.

The Savings Bank of Manchester and Manchester State Bank, normally open on Saturday, will be closed this Saturday.

School Supt. James P. Kennedy explained that the schools have a local option to close for state holidays which occur on Saturday. The law also is specific as to closing if the date for a legal holiday falls during the school week and on Sunday. If the day falls on Sunday, then the schools are required to close on Monday.

The Manchester Board of Education, in preparing its school calendar last spring, opted to remain open on Friday. Dr. Kennedy said the board is trying to stay away from single day holidays whenever possible.

The new state law also requires certain ceremonies to commemorate the Martin Luther King Day. Dr. Kennedy said. He said the schools will be having appropriate exercises.

The same situation of a holiday falling on Saturday will occur on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12 and Manchester schools will remain open on the preceding Friday.

Police report

Police reported at least 17 minor accidents Tuesday, mostly occurring in the afternoon hours, and all as a result of icy road conditions. There were no major accidents and only two minor injuries.

Police were investigating a break-in at the Hartford Courant office on Broad St. which was reported at 8:44 a.m. today. A police scanner and three tape recorders were reported missing as well as three bottles of soda which the thieves allegedly drank.

Files were pulled out and an attempt was made to enter the safe. There was evidence of forced entry through an office door, police said.

Another break-in was reported at Extra Gas Station on Oakland St., however nothing was reported missing. The break occurred about 2 a.m. today.

An attempted break at an Alto St. home was reported at 10 a.m. Tuesday, but no entry was made.

Approval of $2,900 to the Health Department to pay for the swine flu program. Moriarty said that those who worked on the program did a "magnificent" job.
Voting in favor of an $85,000 appropriation to the Health Services Department. The funding, which will come from the state, will provide a program for youthful status offenders. The directors also approved allocation of state funding for a program for legally blind students in Manchester's schools.

Public hearing slated on CDA allocations

The Citizens Advisory Committee has set a public hearing tentatively for Jan. 20 on its suggestions for spending next year's Community Development funds.
The committee Tuesday night decided to allocate the available $221,000 this way:
• $100,000 for storm sewers.
• $100,000 for housing rehabilitation (for actual loans to home owners).
• $40,000 for administration costs.
• $25,000 for enforcement of housing code.
• $10,000 for legal aid for lower income families and the elderly.
• $5,000 for a housing study.
• $21,000 for a contingency account.
The administration item includes the planning, managing, monitoring and administration of the grant and its projects as well as the administrative costs for the housing rehabilitation program.
Last week, the committee was interested in spending $5,000 for legal aid for lower-income families and the elderly. Tuesday night, after hearing Susan Seal of the Neighborhood Legal Services of Hartford, discuss the project, the committee decided to invest $10,000, which will give the town between $30,000 and $35,000 in services.
The higher figure will provide a wide range of services centering on housing, and perhaps income or health related problems.
Though next year's grant is $301,000, there was a $20,000 carry over from this year's grant, making more money available for the projects the committee is endorsing.

The quiet dynamism of Bruce Backus has earned him the comments marvelous, eager, competent. Backus, 29, will this month celebrate his first anniversary as the director of the East Hartford Youth Services Department. He joined the department as assistant to its first director, Fred Bales, in July 1973.
A study of drug use by young people in East Hartford in 1969 prompted the town to create the Youth Services Department. It opened in January 1971.
Backus was born in East Hartford and lived here eight years before his family moved to West Hartford. He graduated from Conard High School there and studied at the University of Pennsylvania for three years.
He then joined the U.S. Navy and became a communications technician. He left the service with the rank of petty officer second class in 1968.
He completed his BA degree work at the University of Hartford in 1971 where he majored in psychology. He went on to get his MA in clinical psychology there in 1973.
He joined Bales working in the Youth Services office at 2 King Court.
Backus spent much of his time at first consulting, something he had done a great deal of while working on his degree for the four previous years at the state prison in Somers.
"Somers, I got a feeling for and an understanding of the minds of people who get into criminal trouble," said Backus.
"Some of the young people here show the same feelings. They are the qualities of street living, not cooperating with police. If one is found out by authority, one tries to move with it. You capitulate only when there's nothing else to do. "It's a way of survival."
Backus said this understanding helps him in East Hartford where when he is talking to young people not in trouble.
"Adolescence is a survival also."

Hurt woman's condition called satisfactory

Mrs. Carol A. Linton, 31, of 118 Lydall St., who was injured in a tobogganing accident Sunday at Center Springs Park, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She suffered a fractured vertebra in the accident when her toboggan struck a pile of snow and threw her in the air.

Backus directs youth services office

Bruce Backus, director of youth services in East Hartford

The quiet dynamism of Bruce Backus has earned him the comments marvelous, eager, competent. Backus, 29, will this month celebrate his first anniversary as the director of the East Hartford Youth Services Department. He joined the department as assistant to its first director, Fred Bales, in July 1973.
A study of drug use by young people in East Hartford in 1969 prompted the town to create the Youth Services Department. It opened in January 1971.
Backus was born in East Hartford and lived here eight years before his family moved to West Hartford. He graduated from Conard High School there and studied at the University of Pennsylvania for three years.
He then joined the U.S. Navy and became a communications technician. He left the service with the rank of petty officer second class in 1968.
He completed his BA degree work at the University of Hartford in 1971 where he majored in psychology. He went on to get his MA in clinical psychology there in 1973.
He joined Bales working in the Youth Services office at 2 King Court.
Backus spent much of his time at first consulting, something he had done a great deal of while working on his degree for the four previous years at the state prison in Somers.
"Somers, I got a feeling for and an understanding of the minds of people who get into criminal trouble," said Backus.
"Some of the young people here show the same feelings. They are the qualities of street living, not cooperating with police. If one is found out by authority, one tries to move with it. You capitulate only when there's nothing else to do. "It's a way of survival."
Backus said this understanding helps him in East Hartford where when he is talking to young people not in trouble.
"Adolescence is a survival also."

The men in prison may not have outgrown adolescence. They could not work out their problems in society correctly.
Most of the young people he counsels are between 12 and 25. Backus and his staff often talk with the families of those they counsel.
"A family's dynamics may be dragging them apart," he said. The family disunity will show up in the child. The child does not have the defenses of the adult.
"Our primary approach is to the family. Some kids may insist we only see them. That's alright.
"But I don't want all of the weight of a family dynamic on the kid's shoulders. We try to involve the whole family."
Juvenile review board
Police Sgt. Jim Kegan several years ago thought the town should have something like a juvenile review board. The board would review the cases of young people going to find the resources to help them.
Chief Backus, Police Chief Clarence Drum and others then set up such a board. School leaders, juvenile court officers, and private attorneys will get together with them to discuss cases.
A goal of Backus is to divert as many of the young people discussed as possible from the criminal justice system. Helping the first offender is more fruitful for him and society than letting the system punish him, he said.
For example, an 11-year-old youth was caught shooting a BB gun, which is illegal in East Hartford. The youth heard got him into the YMCA rifle team.
Another example of the board's work is a vandalism case.
Dr. Diggs built his case quoting the state of Connecticut, which has broken into a church and thrown clods of dirt all over. By agreement with their parents and the church people, the boys in East Hartford were working to clean and repair the church.
"Adolescence is a survival also."

East Hartford news briefs

The sisterhood of Temple Beth Tefillah at 465 Oak St., East Hartford, will present the program "Exploring Inner Space" Monday at 8 p.m. Mrs. Sandra Stanlake, assistant professor of psychology at Manchester Community College, will lead the talk about extra sensory perception and related subjects.
Michael Malinguaggio of East Hartford, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, this week urged all veterans and their families to contact Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and Lowell Weicker to ask them to preserve the U.S. Senate Veterans Affairs Committee. He predicts disaster for veterans if the committee is absorbed into another.
Town meetings the rest of the week include Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., the Town Council discussing the audit report Thursday at 7:30 p.m., and the Public Building Commission Thursday at 7:30 p.m., all in the Town Hall.
The Kacey Square Dance Club will hold a regular dance Friday from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Langford School, 60 Alps Dr., East Hartford. Jerry Bennett will call, with Paul and Lillian Zepke cueing the rounds. All club level dancers are welcome; soft solo shoes required.
John Rogers, a black historian from the University of Connecticut and a Manchester resident, will lead a Martin Luther King memorial ceremony Friday at 2 p.m. at the Town Hall council chambers, said Mayor Richard Blackstone. The East Hartford High School Mixed Ensemble will provide music. All are welcome.

School housing report questioned by parents

By SHEILA TULLER
A small but vocal group of parents gathered at the Board of Education meeting Tuesday night at Fenney High School to hear and question the housing report for 1977-78.
Because of constantly declining enrollment because the school district is not keeping pace with the housing plan by class with assists from Miss Norma Kibbe, Burnside principal; William Carroon, Norris principal; and David Wallis, Willowbrook-South Grammar principals.
Dr. Diggs built his case quoting the New England School Development Council's projection of enrollments in the East Hartford Public Schools for the next five years as compared to 12,650 students in 1982. Next year the projected enrollment is 9,894, a drop of 287 from the 10,181 as of Sept. 16, 1976.
Dr. Diggs explained next year's housing plan by class with assists from Miss Norma Kibbe, Burnside principal; William Carroon, Norris principal; and David Wallis, Willowbrook-South Grammar principals.
Parents object
Most of the parents present echoed the thought of the few that addressed the board. One mother said she bought her home mainly because it was near Woodland School and she did not want her children at Burnside.
Kathy Feletti, a past president of the Woodland School parents group, questioned the safety of children housed in the older wing of Burnside. Dr. Diggs explained Burnside was recently upgraded to meet the state fire marshal's safety code and is the only school in town to be completely upgraded to date.
A Hocknam parent, who questioned continuation of programs such as the gifted program at O'Connell if more students are added to the school, was assured by O'Connell Principal Gerald Welch that lower numbers are often more detrimental to special programs.
"Can we do more with 19 teachers than 12," Welch said.
Board members who had the opportunity to study the Housing Plan over the weekend were mainly concerned with class size and space for art and music rooms. Burnside is the only one of the three receiving schools who will have separate art and music rooms next year.
At this point, board member Walter Miles said, "Seems like we're moving to last crowding Willowbrook and Norris next year. What would the picture look like after that?"

The Rockville Post Office now on Park St. will be moving to its new building on Union St. soon, but the post office is still without an official name. Hopefully this will be resolved at a meeting with postal and town officials early next week.

Last October, several Rockville residents expressed concern when the Union Congregational Church, which is in Rockville Center, was told by the post office it would have to use Vernon, rather than Rockville, for its mailing address.

Barak will drop suit against Coventry PZC

By LINDA LOVERING Herald Correspondent Barak Homes will drop legal action against the Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) as a result of the PZC's changes Tuesday night in conditional approval of the firm's application.

The PZC, in other business Tuesday night, also denied and approved parts of the seven-lot Jump-Harvest subdivision and responded to last week's criticism by the Town Council of the PZC's "no growth" policy.

In the Barak Homes matter, a representative for the developer said the firm would drop the court appeal filed last fall because the PZC made acceptable changes in its conditional approval granted in August.

Barak Homes' application is for the 340-unit, Arrowhead Ridge apartment complex on the Coventry-Andover town line.

The PZC, in other business Tuesday night, also denied and approved parts of the seven-lot Jump-Harvest subdivision and responded to last week's criticism by the Town Council of the PZC's "no growth" policy.

Few oppose plans for Vernon housing

A public hearing conducted by the Vernon Planning Commission Tuesday night showed little opposition to a plan for a senior citizens housing project in Talcottville. The proposal, to construct 140 units over a three-year period, was made to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by New Samaritan Corp., a subsidiary of the United Church of Christ.

The housing is proposed for 31 acres of land off Welles Rd. New Samaritan has requested mortgage and rent subsidy assistance from HUD for the units.

At Tuesday's hearing John Talcott III, speaking for himself and his father, who owns land adjacent to the area to be developed, said they feel the project would change the character of Talcottville and wouldn't be an asset.

An original plan for drainage for the project was dropped when it was found that installation of a 41-inch pipe under Rt. 83 to the Hockanum River would be too expensive.

Revised plans call for installation of three retention basins to take care of the runoff. Ronald Hine, director of public works, opposes this plan. He said he feels long-term maintenance problems would result.

Town Planner John Loranger has told Mayor Thomas Benoit and the Town Council that the need for subsidized elderly units has been well documented. He said there are more than 300 qualified persons on the Housing Authority's waiting list.

The Zoning Commission has already amended zoning ordinances to permit elderly housing to be built by a non-profit sponsor.

The Conservation Commission, which regulates the town's inland wetlands, has given preliminary approval to the plan with several stipulations concerning fill areas, catch basins and such.

Franklin Welles, owner of the land where the project will go, said after the hearing that the Talcott land doesn't really abut his property.

or Vernon for their mail but they had to use just one zip code number. Up to then, each area had a separate number.

Mayor Thomas Benoit then contacted the office of Congressman Christopher Dodd. Dodd was assured by postal officials that Rockville would be dropped.

Dodd pressed to have the name Rockville-Vernon for the new facility, but he was told by postal officials that they were not ready to decide on the name.

Town officials feared they might not know what the name would be until the day they saw the sign, up which they requested the meeting with postal officials. They were assured nothing would be done until the meeting took place.

Conditions of the approval for the five other lots on Skinner Hill Rd. include acceptance of drainage easement by Andover, final septic system approval and drainage swales.

The PZC also responded to last week's attack by Town Council Chairman Jesse Barnard, who, speaking for Republican council members, accused the PZC of a "no growth, slow growth attitude" toward development.

In a written statement, the PZC said the council is responsible for any legal policy faults.

"PZC members said they are severely handicapped by a shortage of members and the Town Council has had ample time to fill vacancies with persons "with more progressive and desirable views."

There are three vacancies on the PZC. The statement said the attack was "an unwarranted misrepresentation of our intentions."

South Windsor accepts subdivision dam plan

An earthen dam, proposed as part of a T&M Builders subdivision in the Norton Lane-Tumblebrook Dr. area, was formally accepted by the South Windsor Town Council at a work session Tuesday night.

The dam, which would be part of an open space area accepted by the town, was approved with the condition the builder provide funds for the 25-year maintenance cost.

The town has been reluctant to accept the dam because of future anticipated maintenance problems.

The Planning and Zoning Commission approved 25 lots for the T&M subdivision with a number of conditions, including improved drainage improvements.

Scoreboard Dodgers finally land Rick Monday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers finally landed Rick Monday but they had to give up Bill Buckner to get him.

In a five-player trade Tuesday, the Dodgers obtained Monday, 31, to play center field next season and also obtained 27-year-old relief pitcher Mike Garman from the Chicago Cubs.

They dealt Buckner, who hit .303 last season, along with utility shortstop Ivan DeJesus, 24, and minor league pitcher Jeff Albert, 22.

The Dodgers said they have sought Monday for four years. According to Chicago General Manager Bob Kennedy, Monday became too expensive for the Cubs.

"Rick was simply asking for more than we were able to pay," Kennedy said. "We traded him strictly as a matter of dollars and cents."

Monday played last season on a one-year contract for an estimated $90,000. Kennedy said the 11-year veteran, a product of Santa Monica, Calif., who went to Arizona State, asked for a multiyear contract.

"I had not asked to be traded and I never would simply because of my appreciation for the way the Cubs treated me and because of my regard for friends and teammates in season and had career highs of 32 homers and 77 RBIs.

New Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda said he probably would put Monday day sixth in a lineup reading: Davey Lopes, second base; Bill Russell, first base; Reggie Smith, third base; Steve Garvey, first base; Dusty Baker, left field; and Steve Yeager, catcher.

"The hard part is giving up Buckner," said Lasorda. "We came up through the system together and he's been like a son to me. He's a tremendous competitor who should give the Cubs a lot of good years. He's a bona fide 300 hitter."

Hi! How do you like this for weather? Really getting into the old fashioned winter, and it's been a long time since I can remember that we had to close the building two days in a row.

That makes for very little information about our programs. In fact, nothing much to tell you.

We would like to send our heartfelt condolences to Mrs. James Brand whose sister passed away recently. Also to the brothers and sisters of Robert Cordier who passed away this past weekend.

Florida trip

The Florida caper is all filled now and in fact we have started a waiting list. The trip will start from the center, leave at 7 a.m. on Sunday, Jan. 30, and the first night you will stay at the Days Inn, in Petersburg, Va. On Monday night, you'll stay at Day's Inn in Savannah, Ga., and on Tuesday evening you'll stop at Howard Johnsons in Orlando, Fla.

When you board the bus on Sunday, you will receive a flyer that will tell you about all the happenings for the complete trip. There are still a few who haven't made their final payment and they must do so before the end of the week.

Other trips

People have been calling up asking about some more trips. Well, here's a

News for senior citizens

People to think about. Probably, sometime in April, we may line up a four-port Caribbean cruise. The comedian on this cruise will be none other than Milton Berle.

Now, here's one many have been asking for. It's a nine-day trip to Nova Scotia where the first night will be spent on a boat, with dancing, gambling, etc., as it cruises on to Yarmouth. From then on, it's a sightseeing adventure. This trip is scheduled for June 3.

We'll have more information coming real soon. Meanwhile, if either or both of these trips sound good to you, will you do me a favor and just call in letting us know that you are indeed interested. No use of us going to all the work of putting together a nice package if we can't fill at least one bus. Just call our office at 643-8310.

Film Thursday

Tomorrow is one of our big days. After a baked ham meal with all the trimmings, the action will move upstairs. We had intended to have our good friends the Round Table

Singers. However, because of all the time off due to the weather, we have had to reschedule them for a later date.

In their place, we will be showing a full length movie "The Marrying Kind" starring Judy Holiday and Aldo Ray.

Now, as an added surprise, we may have our good old piano-playing pal from Brazil who with us last year and put on a tremendous performance, one which received a standing ovation. Gerardo Farente is scheduled to arrive in town and spend a few days with Reggie Pinto, and if he happens to arrive tomorrow, he'll be with us. Let's keep our fingers crossed.

However, if not, you'll still have an opportunity to hear him as he and a friend of his who is accompanying him on this trip, will be performing on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 8 p.m. at the Bailey Auditorium in Manchester High School. The price is right because it's free; however, a small donation would be accepted with the monies going for the Bicentennial Bandshell.

Let that date dawn because you're really in for a treat.

Don't forget to keep looking for a Tiny Tim record because I'm looking to borrowing one for a little while.

Stop & Shop brings you the meatier Ground Beef

There's a good reason for today's coffee prices.

Two-thirds of the Brazilian crop was destroyed by frost. And it will take at least 2 years before it's back to normal. So coffee prices are high and getting higher. Maybe next spring's crop will help. What can you do to help? Simple. Don't buy coffee if the demand goes down, the price will go down. You made it happen a couple of years ago when you stopped buying sugar! If you must buy coffee, buy it only when it's on sale. Most of us need to cut down anyway. How about tea or fruit juice once in awhile? That'll help you taper off. Wayne Gagnon - Grocery Manager

Social Security

Q. My mother is getting Social Security, but she has to have to go to the Social Security office for anything because, she says, it's too crowded. And invariably when she calls the phone is busy. Is there any way to get the Social Security information by mail?

A. That might be a factor. But people don't realize that most Social Security matters can be handled by phone, including applying for benefits. And there are certain times when the phone is less likely to be busy. This is generally around the later half of the month and the later half of the week, and later during the day - after 3 p.m., for example.

Q. You going into the hospital next month for surgery. How much of the bill will my Medicare hospital insurance pay?

A. It will pay for all covered expenses during the first 90 days of each benefit period except for the first $124. You are responsible for that. Should you be confined for a longer period, your hospital insurance would pay for all covered expenses for the next 30 days except for $11 a day.

Q. I didn't sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare when I first had the chance. Can I do so now?

A. You can sign up during the first three months of any year. If you get Social Security payments, the medical insurance premium will be deducted from your monthly check.

Q. Does the bonus value of food stamps count as income for SSI purposes?

A. No. Q. My daughter is 19 and severely retarded. Since both my husband and I work full time and have steady incomes, can she qualify for SSI? A. Regardless of family income, your daughter may be eligible for SSI. Children are considered independent starting at age 18 (or 21 if in school). A disabled child under 18 (or 21 if in school) can get SSI checks only if the parents have little or no income and limited resources. Call or write any Social Security office for more information.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Part of the case against Harris, on trial for manslaughter, was the fact that two bloodhounds had shown a trail to his house. But Harris raised an objection to this kind of evidence.

"According to the Constitution," he said, "an accused person has the right to cross-examine his accusers. Obviously I cannot cross-examine a couple of dogs. Therefore, I am not getting my constitutional rights."

However, the court pointed out that Harris did have a right to cross-examine the dogs' trainer. Overruling the objection, the court said this was as good as cross-examining the operator of a drunkometer or a radar speedometer.

Most courts are willing to accept, under proper safeguards, information gleaned from animals. Does this apply only to bloodhounds?

Consider the case of a disputed cow, allegedly stolen from Farmer Griggs. Griggs had the animal brought to his barnyard. There, according to witnesses, she showed familiarity with both the barn and the watering mechanism.

In court, the judge found this evidence persuasive. "It is characteristic of practically all domestic animals," he said, "to show familiarity with the places where they have been sheltered and fed."

Still, an animal "testimony" is usually not strong enough by itself to send a person to jail. In a burglary case, a bloodhound had led detectives to the defendant's shack. But there was no other evidence to connect him with the crime.

"Alone and unsupported," said the court, "dismissing the charge, such evidence is insufficient; there must be other testimony to convict."

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: It's no wonder so many girls and women wear halters and skin-tight pants, and some of them even have their whole midsections bare naked. They're practically asking for it!

DEAR GRANDMA: The theory that girls "ask for it" by 10-month-old baby wearing a diaper? Or an 80-year-old woman in a house dress?

DEAR ABBY: The continuing discussion in your column regarding "recycled dentures" brought to mind an old limberick, which you may have heard:

DEAR ME: Thanks to the editor of the Bulletin of the History of Dentistry.

A woman of many talents

South Windsor artist makes enamel jewelry

By BETTY RYDER

Family/Travel Editor

A South Windsor woman who took only a casual interest in making jewelry, had that interest sparked during a visit to a friend's house and consequently has been making and selling jewelry for more than eight years.

Rita J. Kenway of 229 Oak St., a woman of many artistic talents in her own right, heeded the suggestion of a friend, Marion Atkinson of Manchester, and stopped into the home of Kay Adams, also of Manchester.

"Kay had made jewelry for some time and had decided to go out of business. After viewing samples of her work and getting a few quick instructions, I decided to try it for myself," Rita said.

"I purchased some of her supplies, also her kiln, which I have since replaced, and that's how it all got started."

Learning by doing was Rita's format, and although she admits to a few burned fingers from handling hot-as-fire items from the kiln and to a few "mis-paintings," she has been very successful and produces beautiful, designer-type jewelry.

Her husband, Ed, built shelves in her cellar workshop where she keeps bottles of paints and various other material necessary for her enameling work.

Rita makes sets of pins, pendants, earrings and crosses. She even has designed earrings for pierced ears.

"The items are made of copper, and after several steps of preparation, they are fired in a 1,500 degree kiln.

"I then paint them with what is called the 'French swirl' which blends the various colors into an intricate design."

During this process, Rita wears an asbestos glove as she must reach into the hot kiln with a special tool to swirl the paints when they have been heated to the right consistency.

A member of the Society of Connecticut Craftsmen, Rita has displayed several pieces of her jewelry at area fairs and church bazaars. She currently has some items at The Shoe String in Manchester, a craft consignment store.

When the idea of giving lessons was suggested, Rita replied with a firm "No."

"I've had several people ask me to give lessons and have been asked to teach at the Community Y in Manchester, but I am involved in too many other projects and with my family. I have given a basic lesson to a few friends, but that's all," she added.

"When I actually sit down to work on my jewelry, I stick with it at least three full hours. That, along with my other interests, takes up most of my time.

Other members of the family are John, a senior at Boston University School of art, who has received recognition for some of his intricate etchings; Lester, a 1975 graduate of Bates College; Jeff, who is a sophomore at Gordon College; and Nancy, a sophomore at South Windsor High School.

Rita works 20 hours a week as a bookkeeper-secretary at Flair Home Furnishings in the Manchester Parkade. She is also a member of the choir at South United Methodist Church, a member of the Gilbert & Sullivan Workshop and its past president, and a member of the Singing Savoyards in Manchester.

Talent runs in the family, and the living room of the Kenway home boasts several of John's sketches and various scenes painted by his mother. Nancy is pursuing her musical studies by learning to play the flute.

"We spend our vacations in Bass Harbor, Maine, where we own an eight-room farmhouse, which we are continually renovating," Rita said. "When we finish one room, it's time to start on another. But we love it there. The view of the harbor and surrounding countryside has really been an incentive to John and me as far as our art work is concerned."

A woman of many talents, Rita has managed to combine her many diversifications and still fulfill the role she holds most important, that of wife, homemaker, and mother.

Rita Kenway uses knife to tap container of powdered paint which she sprinkles on copper disc.

Wearing an asbestos glove, Rita places item in kiln for firing.

In her workshop, Rita adds variegated paint crystals.

Rita displays the finished products.
