

Vernon Police have safety tips

Vernon
William Yetz, community relations officer for the Vernon Police Department, has issued a report giving safety tips for women who are walking or driving alone.

Yetz said a man determined to follow and attack a woman is more readily attracted to one who is wearing revealing clothing or behaving in a suggestive manner.

He cautions women not to accept rides from a stranger. If a car approaches and the woman feels threatened, she should scream and run into a lighted building, flag down a passing car or use any available object for a weapon, such as a nail file, a high-heeled shoe, or an umbrella.

Women are advised to run in the opposite direction of a car following them and in that way the driver will have to turn around to pursue.

At night women should walk near the curb and avoid walking close to shrubbery, dark doorways and other places where they could be hidden. While driving a car alone, a woman is advised to travel on well-lighted streets when possible and keep the windows up and the doors locked.

When stopping for stop signs and traffic lights, a woman should keep her car in gear. If her safety is threatened, she should press the horn and drive away as soon as possible.

If a woman believes she is being followed while driving, she shouldn't turn into her driveway. If another car tries to force her to the side of the road, she should not pull over.

Concerning a car becoming disabled, a woman should raise the hood and sit inside with the doors locked until help comes and she should leave the windows up while talking with anyone who approaches.

Women are also advised to take caution with luggage and other places of their car. If it has been parked, the front and back seat should be examined before entering the car even if it has been locked.

Burglary report
During the week of Dec. 31 through Jan. 4, the Vernon Police Department investigated seven burglaries and the estimated value of items taken was about $15,000.

Yetz said one break involved $7,000 in items taken. He said two subjects were apprehended and all of the items were recovered.

The areas and types of breaks were: Tunnel $2,500 for a police officer; Indian Rd., residential; Taylor St., residential; Rt. 83, business; Lake St., residential; Rt. 83 area, business; and Merline Dr., two residential.

Bolton
The Bolton High School Parents Group will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school library. Principal Joseph Fleming said parents of Grade 8 students are welcome. The group will discuss the orientation program for eighth grade students.

The Bolton Congregational Church Senior Choir will rehearse each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. The scheduled Wednesday rehearsal has been cancelled. Sunday worship will be held at Chandler Hall this week due to renovation of the sanctuary.

Tickets are still available for the Republican Town Committee's "Old Fashioned Record Hop," scheduled next Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the St. Maurice Church Parish Center. Music will be provided by Dick McDonough of Radio Station WDRS. There will be a buffet and set-ups will be provided by the BYOB affair. For tickets, call Sonia Kirk 649-7070, or any town committee member.

Coventry
Anyone needing the special services provided by the Person-to-Person Hotline should call the Windham Homebased Service, 423-6381, or Mrs. Matilda Raish, 742-6941. Volunteers are needed for the group, which calls elderly, handicapped and ill persons daily to check on their well-being.

The Coventry Senior Citizens Club will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Second Congregational Church, Rt. 44. The program will be presented by the Coventry Public Health Nursing Association. Blood pressure screenings will be conducted by representatives of the Connecticut Medical Service. A representative of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. will discuss insurance for the elderly. Annual club dues may be paid to the treasurer before the meeting.

Ellington
The annual meeting of Ellington Congregational Church will be Thursday starting with a potluck supper at 6:30 at the church social rooms. Those attending the potluck whose last names begin with the letters A to L should bring a large casserole to serve 8 to 10; letters M to Z should bring a large salad. Beverage, rolls and dessert will be provided.

Hebron
The Hebron Center Nursery School will hold a community program Thursday at 8 p.m. at Phelps Hall, Rt. 85, entitled "Avoid Flanking Kindergarten, 1977." Paul White, principal of Hebron Elementary School, will be the guest speaker. The meeting is open to the public. Parents of pre-kindergarten children are urged to attend.

Area YMCA plans events

Vernon, South Windsor
The Vernon and South Windsor YMCAs will sponsor a series of four Sunday afternoon wrestling meets for boys aged 8 to 14. The meets will be held on alternate Sundays and will end March 6. Parents and friends of wrestlers are invited to attend the meets which will be held at the Vernon Middle School at 1 p.m.

Dr. Edward Meyers is the coach. He said the Sunday program is designed to complement the instructional program conducted on Mondays.

Dr. Meyers said there are many things about the sport of wrestling which cannot be taught or learned without the full use of the mat. While wrestling is an individual sport, the spirit of team sports is possible when conducted in the framework of team competition, he said.

New participants are invited to join in the program. Practice sessions are conducted Mondays from 6 to 7 p.m., for beginners and from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for advanced wrestlers. Dr. Meyers is assisted in coaching by Tom Steed and John Linderman. Those interested should register at the YMCA office at Vernon.

Gymnasium programs
The Indian Valley YMCA will sponsor a series of six Saturday afternoon winter gymnasium programs for children aged 6 to 12, starting Jan. 29 in the Wapping Community Hall, South Windsor.

There will be two sessions each Saturday. The first will be from 12:30 to 2 p.m., and the second from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Conrad MacIntyre is leader.

Children will receive instruction in various gym sports and games and will be guided in good sportsmanship and cooperation.

A winter gym session for children aged 9 and 10 will be conducted from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m., and for those 11 and 12, from 4:45 to 5:45 p.m.

The older students will concentrate on physical fitness through exercise and basketball. Good sportsmanship and team play will be the YMCA office at Vernon Circle.

Rham offers adult courses

Registration for the Adult Education Program at Rham High School will be held Wednesday or by mail prior to that date. Only mail registrations accompanied by full payment will be valid.

Whenever Rham is closed due to holidays, vacations or inclement weather, classes will also be canceled. If announcements are necessary, they will be made over WTRC Radio.

Classes offered on Tuesday nights will be Beginner's Spanish, Quilting, Upholstery, Conversational French, Needlepoint, Photography, and Developing Relationships in Family, Jobs and Society.

Wednesday night classes will be Journalism, Jewelry, Income Tax Preparation, and Amateur Watch and Clock Repair.

Thursday night classes to be offered are Sewing for the Home, Macrame, and Woodworking.

PZC may act on zone change for industrial park tonight

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) meets today at 7:30 p.m. and is expected to act on a zone change required for the proposed industrial park. About 340 acres of property that is presently zoned Rural Residence or Business would have to be changed to Industrial Zone for the 350-acre park to be constructed.

Ashford man is accused of several break-ins

An Ashford man was being held at the Hartford Correctional Center today under a $12,000 bond facing charges of 12 counts of burglary and seven counts of larceny in varying degrees in connection with 12 house breaks in Manchester during a six-month period in 1976. Theodore Blessing Jr., 38, was served with court-issued warrants at the state correctional center Friday.

Keep a close tab on contributions

By Ray De Crane (13th of a series) Of course you will list as charitable contributions on your tax returns whatever you gave to your church, synagogue or favorite charity. But if you stop there you may be cheating yourself. Don't forget also to include payments to Community Chest or Red Feather agencies — if organization on the value makes no difference if they were a payroll deduction or an out-of-pocket payment, as well as contributions to war veterans' groups, civil defense organizations, payments to a building fund for an educational in-

ZBA has hearing tonight

The Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) will conduct three public hearings tonight, including one involving the change of ownership of a motor vehicle junk yard. Ownership of Parker St. Used Auto Parts, at 770 Parker St., is being transferred from Daniel P. Pantaleo to Daniel T. Pantaleo and Thomas M. Pantaleo. No changes are planned for the business, but a hearing before the ZBA is required on any change of ownership. Anita C. Bogner is asking the ZBA for a special exception needed to convert a single-family house at 58 Woodbridge St. to a two-family house. The property is located in a Residence Zone B.

Opinion

There isn't enough to go around, boys

It is pie cutting season again in Hartford.

Already the various groups are casting out for increases in state budget requests.

The state Board of Education wants $60 million more. Welfare thinks $35 million is the minimum increase it can get by with, and of course those representing the state employees see their needs being fulfilled for about $100 million.

But the governor has said no new taxes and has promised to shave a few already on the books.

And there are the other precincts, so to speak, to be heard from.

What it adds up to is that the projected $55 million to $70 million surplus won't take care of everybody by a long shot.

So what they are dividing now is largely pie in the sky.

We know all are asking more than they really expect to get or really need. But the lesson for the taxpayer is there.

The demand for more and more tax dollars continues unabated and the need for prudence in fiscal management of state government is not diminished one iota because the economy appears to be improving.

A costly epidemic

The National Fire Protection Association reports that there were 141,100 fires "of suspicious origin" in the United States in 1975, an increase of more than 25 per cent over 1974. Deliberately set fires cost some $634 million in property losses.

The insurance industry says the true situation is actually much worse. When such things as lost jobs, lost property tax revenues and increased insurance premiums are considered, the total arson bill may be closer to $10 billion.

Some experts believe that half of all fires officially classified as due to unknown causes should be included in the category of arson. We are, in fact, in the midst of an "arson epidemic," says one major insurer.

Typical arson targets include business properties in deteriorating central-city areas, schools, churches and other public buildings. But rural areas, too, are seeing arson increases and automobiles are becoming a favored target.

Money, of course, is one big

The need for legislators to say "no" to new and expanded programs remains if the budget is to be kept in balance. The need to wisely apportion available new funds in the area of greatest need may well mean turning a deaf ear to special interest groups whose merits are political rather than the common good.

The governor's upcoming budget message will, we hope, give us a clue as to whether the state will continue a prudent fiscal course until economic recovery is fully complete or if it will start drifting in spending circles.

Tax relief has been promised and no tax relief package is legitimate if produced by going further into debt.

But debt retirement has no spokesman who cries out for $10 million or $20 million for state debt retirement out of the surplus funds—even though state law says surplus funds should be used for this purpose.

We don't envy the legislators. At this early stage, it appears they must find a way to buy about a billion dollars of happiness with a paltry few million bucks.

The owner of a home or business or car may see defrauding an insurance company as the solution to his financial problems.

Vandalism or malicious mischief is another primary reason, with juveniles the most frequent culprits. Other motives include spite, labor troubles, racial conflicts, attempts to hide another crime such as burglary, and mental illness.

Contributing to the problem is the difficulty of proving arson. Authorities estimate that only about one to three per cent of all confirmed arson cases result in convictions. In addition, few fire or police departments are as well-trained to investigate suspected arson as they could be, and some insurance companies have been criticized for failing to pursue arson prosecutions as vigorously as they might, although both situations are improving.

Despite its mounting economic cost, however, arson is not yet generally perceived by the public to be a serious crime problem.

Being snowbound . . . Washington style

WASHINGTON—When snow falls, Washington is full of people who, like T.S. Eliot's J. Alfred Prufrock, wonder if they dare to eat a peach.

In the city whose powers theoretically cause tyrants to tremble and foreign currencies to tread fitfully, even two inches of snow can force declaration of an emergency.

Newspapers, radio and television recite the harrowing experiences of those hardy citizens who challenged the streets and highways.

Schools are closed, PTA meetings are postponed. Bus drivers are authorized to bring their vehicles to a halt and abandon their passengers if they decide a snow-sprinkled thoroughfare poses a danger to life and limb.

The Civil Service Commission proudly announces that 58 per cent of the city's federal workers made it to their jobs by noon. Those who didn't are granted hardship leave; so are those who patriotically left work early to avoid contributing to traffic jams.

We have had a lot of snow in Washington this year—a little more than 11 inches in a recent week. A lot! I can see the raised eyebrows in Wausau, Wis., and Casper, Wyo. But in such localities men are well, snow shovellers, and so are women. In Washington, D.C., even a forecast predicting furies sends officialdom and citizenry alike into a tizzy of mopping contingency plans.

Use lowest gear
"Don't drive unless it's absolutely necessary," said Seward Cross, an official in the Bureau of Traffic Engineering and Operations. "If you do drive, use the lowest gear possible. Don't brake unless you have to. Once the wheels lock on an icy surface you've lost control of the car's direction. When you do brake, use a short, light, pumping motion."

And, finally, "Keep both hands on the wheel."
I don't know what the folks back in my New England hometown would say about all this. Kids up there apparently are born with a capacity for driving in the snow and on ice, conditions which prevail from late November to mid-April. At any rate, no bureaucratic would presume to hand out "emergency" driving advice. Parents take care of that, along with the assignment of daily chores.

Walking an adventure
Indeed, in my day snow was annoying only because boys were awakened an hour early to remove it from sidewalks and driveways. Walking to school was an adventure, not a misfortune. No school I ever attended closed because of too much snow. However, the buses that carried pupils from the nearby villages of Sturbridge and Charlton occasionally were a few minutes late. If school furnaces balked, the kids sat at their desks bundled in mackinaws and great-coats.

Poor Washington. Its prisoners cannot savor Emerson's "frotic architecture of the snow." They are more like James Joyce's dead Michael Furey, whose "soul swooned faintly as heard the snow falling faintly through the universe..."

MHS steps said hazardous

To the editor,

During my three years of walking to school at Manchester High School, I encountered the difficulty of climbing up stairs that were not shoveled during the entire winter.

Even though I no longer attend Manchester High School, my two sisters have the same problem, and both have fallen on the treacherous steps.

I am referring to the south-most stairs leading from the school to Brookfield Street. There is no reason why these stairs, which many people use, are not cleared of ice and snow.

The student is responsible to get to school on time, yet Manchester High School will not shoulder the responsibility of ensuring that school property is safe for its students.

Today's thought

Did you have another "Blue Monday" today?
In our hectic, rapid-pace world-of-work the vast majority start out on "Blue Monday" and end the week with "Thank God it's Friday." And on the days in between some wear their "Keep Smiling" buttons to bolster their spirits. Reminds me of the song "Let a smile be your umbrella..."

Well, it really makes a lot of sense a smile can effect our outlook on life.

While walking down E. Center St. one morning this winter, deep in thought as I made my way to a meeting, I was suddenly struck by a "Hello! Lovely day, isn't it!"

Caught off guard, I paused a moment and looked at the smiling elderly gentleman who was stroking by. I smiled back and, taking note of what he said, replied, "Yes, it is beautiful out!"

That really set my mood for the day!
What does your face say to others about your faith? Do you express the joy of the Lord, or do you go around "looking like the devil!"

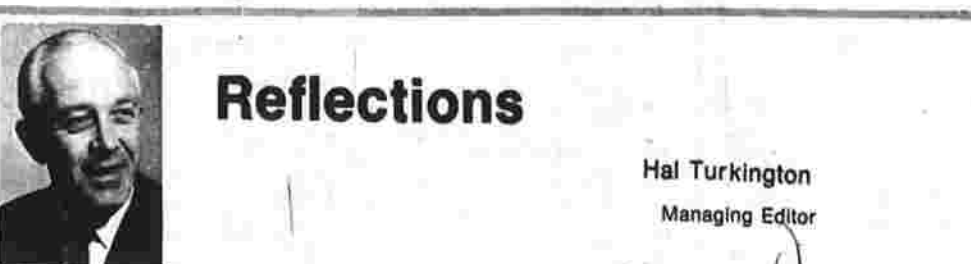

Try smiling on Mondays — and every other day of the week — and spread a little sunshine.
A smile is a precious gift. The more you give it away, the more it comes back to you.

Washington, D.C. can be nice at Cherry Blossomtime, but it's a cold town in which to parade on a day in January. There will be a lot of cold marches there next Friday for the Inaugural Parade.

There was a quick rehearsal for the two bands in the GU quadrangle before we were hustled back onto the buses and shipped to Bolling Air Force Base. There, ALL units of the parade had designated spots; in fact, that was the REAL assembly area.

Once we had our places, it was back on the bus again, and back to Washington to line up on the Mall along Pennsylvania Ave.

And then the old military slogan took charge — hurry up and wait!
Wait we did, for about three hours. Over on the next street we could see the U.S. Coast Guard Academy Band waiting just like us, so we moved on over to say our hellos to many friends in that band.

They hadn't forgotten convenience for parades; there were portable restrooms, and there were tents, inside of which were gas stoves. But poor Joe Tobin, the drum major, who was a Hartford policeman. Big long, thin Joe kept running into the tents every half hour and hollay, "FALL IN!" We fell in — and fell out again when the marshal learned our section wasn't next in line.

But finally we did step out, left turn onto Pennsylvania Ave., and never to stop again until we had reached the assembly area.

The two bands were parading side-by-side. First Co. on the left and Second Co. on the right, 12 abreast. The other group with us was a squad of State Troopers who were to carry the state's colors.

No body sleeps on a sleeper parade. Cat-nap, yes; but sleep, No! The train arrived at Washington Union Station about 8 a.m. and buses were there to deliver us to Georgetown University, where the Foot Guard Colonial cutaways and trousers had been trucked. We had breakfast there, and then a change into street parade uniform.

There were there to return us to Georgetown and a change into the blues again. There we were dropped in Washington, with time on our hands until the train left Union Street for home.

There were Hospitality Suites offered at the Senate Office Building, in Abe Ribicoff's place. Many went there; others toured the city.

Herb and I decided we wanted to hear the bands — the Coast Guard, the Army Band and the Navy Band. Each was playing concert music at the three Inaugural Balls around the city.

We don't remember now where each band was playing, but there was one at the Washington Statler, at the Smithsonian, and at an armory.

Time does fly, and soon we were back at Union Station, waiting for the train. It was another sleepless night home; in fact, there wasn't much time to sleep at all.

We got back to Hartford about 10 a.m., only to learn that the baggage car was dropped off at New Haven with Second Co., — and First Co. gear was on board. They sent it up on the next train, but it was early afternoon before it arrived. Herb and I planned to get back to The Herald late morning, but it wasn't to be. Back home, we got that necessary sleep we had been avoiding.

Let us draw your attention to the People Section front page of Wednesday's Herald where Betty Ryder writes about a REAL veteran of inaugural parades. He will be there Friday in Washington, and "He" is Ed Foster of 58 Woodbridge St. Ed will be parading in his 10th inaugural with First Co.

Women set annual ball

East Hartford
The annual East Hartford Women's Club Ball will be held Saturday, Feb. 5 at The Colony in Vernon.

A 7 p.m. social hour will precede dinner. Dancing to the music of Al Jarvis will continue until 1 a.m.

Mrs. Martin Burnham, ball chairman, has appointed Mrs. Warren Russell as reservations chairman. To make reservations, call Mrs. Russell at 528-8733.

Other club members assisting Mrs. Burnham are Mrs. Kenneth Ackerman, co-chairman; Mrs. James Clementine, decorations; Mrs. Dominic Leone, invitations; Mrs. Raymond Krzyk, Mrs. Alfred Roberts and Mrs. Richard Willard, program; Mrs. John Postoli, treasurer; Mrs. Bernard Keobe, publicity; and Mrs. Elmer King, scholarship chairman.

For the first time in the club's history, proceeds from the ball will go to the Women's Club Scholarship Fund. In previous years, the club's annual fashion show was for the benefit of the scholarship program.

Every year the club awards four scholarships to two East Hartford High School seniors and to two Fenwick High School seniors.

In previous years, the proceeds from the dance went to the League for Autistic Children, the State Federation Breast Cancer Association, Youth Services of East Hartford, and the East Hartford Media Center.

The Women's Club has also purchased a kidney dialysis machine for Kidney Foundation, two buses for the transportation of the town's exceptional children, and a cytotoxicity (prepares specimens for cancer detection) for Hartford Hospital with proceeds from the annual dance.

East Hartford Dems suggest Egazarian for council vacancy

By MAL BARLOW

The East Hartford Democratic Town Committee Sunday night recommended Harry A. Egazarian of 44 Bancroft Rd. to fill the vacant seat on the Town Council.

James Fitzgerald, Democratic town chairman, said today the process of selecting Egazarian began soon after Joseph P. Dentamaro announced his resignation from the council Dec. 7. Dentamaro had been the Democratic majority leader of the council.

The majority leader job soon after fell to Henry Genga.

The chairman of the Democratic Town Committee's nine districts held meetings to discuss possible replacements for Dentamaro. Several persons, including Egazarian, announced their interest in the post.

After the nine district chairmen felt they had the true sentiments of their constituents, they met Sunday night, Fitzgerald said.

"After a lengthy dialogue and review, Harry Egazarian was our choice," he said.

Fitzgerald will give the committee notice to Genga, who is head of the council subcommittee in charge of finding a replacement for Dentamaro. The custom has been for such a subcommittee to take the party's choice.

Egazarian is a 38-year-old resident of East Hartford. He studied pharmacy at the University of Connecticut in Storrs and, in his junior year, worked in the Rexall drug store in the Manchester Parkade. At that time, Egazarian lived with interns at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He received his pharmacy degree in 1966 and soon after joined Pasqual Gullotta, who then owned Pat's Pharmacy at 1001 Main St., East Hartford. Gullotta died and Egazarian bought the store from his estate in 1968.

"Many people still call me Pat," Egazarian said this morning. "I don't correct them. I admired Mr. Gullotta very much. That's why I kept his name on the store."

A better place
Egazarian said he did not tell the Democratic Town Committee district members of any special view he holds, because he said he does not have any.

"I wrote the committee offering my services. I told the members I had watched the town closely in my 20 years here.

"East Hartford has been very good to me. I just love it.

"Now I have time to turn around and help the town stay as good as it is. Maybe I can even help it be a better place."

Egazarian did say he has some special concerns. The snafu on Silver Lane due to the lack of an I-94 connector and the mess at Governor St. due to the dumping of I-96 traffic dead his list.

"Those people on Prospect St. (near Governor St.) have it tough. I want to learn why we can't improve that situation."

Egazarian's wife, Marilyn O'Leary Egazarian, is also a registered pharmacist and works with him. They have three children. Margaret is in her first year at Holy Cross College in Worcester. Gregory attends East Catholic High School and John attends the St. Yve Elementary School.

"We've got a helluva nice town," he said today. "I want to keep it that way."

Plan is not unanimous for Vernon band shell

The committee appointed by Mayor Thomas Benoit to make a recommendation about building a portable band shell will recommend Tuesday night that bids go out on the project.

One committee member, Gerald Allen, would like to see Vernon put up a permanent facility.

The band shell will be paid for with money from the Swindell Trust Fund, which at last audit contained $24,802 in cash and stocks stipulated to be used for recreational purposes.

Stephen Marcham, chairman of the committee, said the committee proposes the purchase of a Wenger trailer, a 28-foot enclosed trailer, one side of which folds down to form a stage.

The basic vehicle would cost about $23,500. Seven additional sections would cost $2,340, freight charge would be $1,750, and spare tire and wheel would cost $120 for a total of $27,700.

Marcham said the deficit between the cost and the available trust funds would be met by re-examining priorities on the current Recreation Commission budget.

Marcham said the committee discussed the merits of a stationary structure but a majority of the committee rejected this concept for several reasons.

He said they feel a permanent structure would be prone to vandalism. He said the committee hoped to avert another headache such as the Fox Hill Tower has created.

Marcham said possible sites discussed for a permanent facility would either be too remote to ensure a sufficient audience (Valley Falls

Coventry report has Bicen theme

The 1975-1976 annual report of the Town of Coventry is available today at the town manager's office, Town Hall.

A copy of the report will be presented to Jesse Brainard, town council chairman, by Frank Connolly, town manager, at tonight's Town Council meeting.

The attractive Bicentennial cover was drawn and designed by Marilyn Richardson. Christine Woods donated the early map of Coventry used on the back cover.

Ms. Gantner edited and compiled the report, which features a history of Coventry and a biography of Nathan Hale by Margaret Jacobson, and many photographs by Frances Punt.

Many hours were spent to make the report a special and unique publication, Ms. Gantner said.

The report features a two-page summary of Coventry Bicentennial activities in 1976, as well as reports from all town departments, boards and commissions. The report also includes portions of the year-end audit.

Blood pressure screening
The Coventry Senior Citizens Club will hold a blood pressure screening session at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, sponsored by the Coventry Public Health Nurses, before their regular 1 p.m. meeting at the Second Congregational Church Community Center, Rt. 44A.

Representatives from the Connecticut Medical Services and Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. will present a program about health insurance at the meeting.

Area bulletin board

Andover
The Andover Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Andover Elementary School Conference Room. The board will begin discussion of the 1977-1978 budget, and will also discuss transportation, contest participation and personnel.

There will be an organizational meeting for a 4-H Club Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Dwight Knowlton, Hebron Rd. Andover and area children aged 9 to 18 are welcome to join. Club projects will include small engines, tractors, woodworking, plants, photography, beef, dairy, dogs, goats, horses, poultry, rabbits, swine, child care, clothing, food and leisure.

Bolton pols work on slates

With party caucuses less than two weeks away, Bolton's Republican and Democratic Town Committees are actively working to present a full slate of endorsed candidates for the May town election.

Both political parties will caucus on the caucus. He said there are a handful of positions for which there are no candidates yet, but he will have a full slate by the caucus.

Robert Morra, Republican town chairman, asks any Republican interested in seeking an elected office to call either himself, 646-7447, or Joseph Gately, 649-6497, no later than Wednesday.

Morra said he anticipates some contests at the caucus. He said there are a handful of positions for which there are no candidates yet, but he will have a full slate by the caucus.

Stacom comes off bench, ignites Celtics triumph

BOSTON (UPI) — Kevin Stacom's idea of happiness is more playing time. Tommy Heinsohn's joy is a strong bench performance. Both men were beaming.

Stacom scored 12 points in a third-quarter roll Sunday afternoon to help the Boston Celtics trounce the New York Nets 106-91. It was a promising performance from a man who, so far, has failed to live up to Heinsohn's hopes.

Jim Ard, who is starting center for the Celtics while Dave Cowens plays himself into shape, also turned in a strong game, scoring 14 points and leading Boston to a 21-point lead in the third quarter.

Stacom's performance was a surprise. "I'm glad I've gotten the playing time. It's helped my confidence," he said.

Stacom became much more important to Heinsohn Friday with the loss of high scoring guard Charlie Scott, who is out of action for at least three months with a broken arm.

For football selections

Sayers, Starr, Gifford named Hall of Famers
CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Gale Sayers, a pro football legend turned human by injuries, and Bart Starr, the mechanical genius who sat on the throne of the Green Bay Packers dynasty in the mid '60s, were among five players named Monday to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Sayers and Starr joined Forrest Gregg, Frank Gifford and Bill Willis as the 1977 inductees to the football shrine. Sayers, Starr and Gregg all were selected in their first year of eligibility following a mandatory five-year waiting period after retirement.

Sayers exploded onto the NFL scene in 1965 when, as a rookie, he scored 22 touchdowns in a four-year career that earned him the NFL MVP award in 1969.

Starr was a teammate of Star on Green Bay, earning all-pro honors for eight consecutive seasons from 1960 through 1967.

'Designated' star paces Marquette

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you graduate with honors from the Al McGuire basketball school, better known as Marquette University, you usually can expect all the fringe benefits.

That's because McGuire believes anyone who can withstand four years of his shenanigans deserves to be rewarded. And the way McGuire goes about rewarding his seniors is to build his offense around them.

According to McGuire, Bob Ellis, this year's "designated star," has a problem: he's not selfish enough. That fact was evident Sunday when Ellis, played by fouts in the first half, scored four of his "big ones" at the start of the second half to key a 14-4 spur that broke open a tight game and gave the ninth-ranked Warriors a 12-point lead.

Butch Lee topped Marquette with a game-high 27 points. The win was the seventh in a row for the Warriors and raised their record to 11-2. Don Williams had 22 points to lead Notre Dame.

Yarborough victim of fate
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — As Cale Yarborough saw it, he was a victim of racing fate. In the new season's NASCAR Grand National opener Sunday, Yarborough lost to an old rival, David Pearson, when he should have won.

Eagle matmen win
Improving its record to 2-3 last Friday was the East Catholic wrestling team with a 27-21 win over East Hartford High at the Eagles' Nest.

Spurs end loss streak

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Knight, who has fast become a one-man wrecking crew in the NBA, leveled everything but Coby Dietrich and the San Antonio Spurs Sunday afternoon.

Average over 24 points per game, Knight scored a season-high 43 points, but it was Dietrich's 20 points in 26 minutes that prodded the Spurs to a 122-115 victory to end a four-game losing streak.

Pro basketball
Knight's standout performance, coming on 15 of 24 shots from the floor, was backed by Wil Jones' 21 points.

Lietzke wins on long putt

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — There seems to be some confusion how long Bruce Lietzke's winning birdie putt was in the $200,000 Tucson Open.

Most people who saw it on the 18th hole at Tucson National Sunday figured it was from 65 to 70 feet. Lietzke, a PGA Tour official, marked off the distance and it was 82 feet.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for voting for the right of the biological parents to remain anonymous if they wish. I suppose some biological parents would dearly love to be reunited with the child they gave up, but for me it would be traumatic.

I was 14 when I gave up the child I had conceived by my stepfather. That part of my life was a nightmare, and the day I signed away my legal rights to the baby I really did not want. I knew that I had done the right thing.

When the child is 18, I will be 32, and by that time I hope I will be married and have a child by a man I love.

Abby, I'm writing this because I want adopted children to realize that in most cases, they are better off for having been given up for adoption. And they should be grateful to their biological mothers, who had the good sense to give them to parents who wanted them.

I closed a door I never want opened.

FLORIDAN

DEAR FLORIDAN: I applaud your mature and sensible philosophy. Read on for another excellent letter from another reader who shares your view:

DEAR ABBY: There is a group here in Colorado that calls itself "Adoptees in Search." They are trying to force legislation that would allow adoptees access to their birth records—complete with the names of their biological parents.

As a woman who gave her child up for adoption, may I express my view? If adoptees want to change the law from this time forward, fine. But when I left my child at a year or so, I was not sure that my records would ever be confidential and no one—and certainly not my child—would ever know who her biological parents were.

Other unwed mothers may feel differently, but I have no desire to intrude myself into the life of the child I gave up years ago, and I feel it would be best if that child did not come into my life.

I was promised that my records would remain forever closed. And if they are ever released to anyone, I will sue the home for violating our agreement!

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be prepared to do more giving than receiving today if you stir up your mammoth bank for traits about them you admire. Accommodate the positive!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Assume no financial obligations for others today. If you must, do so with a clear conscience. Later you may find you're glad to have the documents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should anyone attempt to pressure you in commercial situations today, be prepared to back off quickly. You're dealing with the wrong guy.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) Counsel with the entire family today is an important decision to be made. If everyone isn't heard, you'll have a problem later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) The wrong attitude toward tasks today could make them both difficult and dangerous. Keep your impatience and temper in check.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Let your common sense prevail tomorrow today. If you have a few bucks left over, sock it away instead of blowing it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your diplomacy and tact may be used in dealing with members of your own family. Arbitrary actions could cause a domyromp.

Your Birthday

Jan. 18, 1977

This coming year you are likely to be far more ambitious than you have been in the past in order to assure success, keep from spreading yourself thin.

Win at Bridge

Start with brain in gear

By Oswald & James Jacoby

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, have never been married, but have a beautiful 9-month-old baby. His father has never seen him and probably doesn't care to.

The problem is, I still live at home and we usually go for walks around my neighborhood. Usually I run into people I knew in high school. When we talk, the person almost always asks, "Who is the baby's father?" This always embarrasses me, and I don't know what to say.

What should I tell these rude people? Also, what should I tell my son when he asks, "Where is my father?" I love my son so much that sometimes I wonder if it was fair to keep him. But he's a happy child, and I know he's a good kid.
