

Hello there. Here we go again, and one news article that's worth telling you about is that one of our members, Tommy O'Neill, received the distinct pleasure of receiving an invitation to President Carter's inauguration by none other than Vice President Walter Mondale.

Now for other news. We talked about a Caribbean Cruise and I finally got the word, and the price I received just didn't fit my pocket-book. I feel it would have been in the neighborhood of $700 and I'm not about to throw that kind of money on you folks. So now our good friend Paul is going to try to come up with a nice cruise, but leaving from New York, and I'm sure it will be a real great trip at a more realistic price.

As far as the Nova Scotia trip, I am waiting for a price on that and hope to have it and more details by this time next week.

Ceramics class. By the way, on Tuesday morning we are starting new ceramics class. We have some new molds and lots of room for more participants. The class is open to all our seniors and all you have to do is drop by this coming

Tuesday morning a little before 10. While on the subject of Tuesday, I wonder how many of you happened to see in last Sunday's Courier the picture of none other than our square dance caller, Happy Hall Petschke, at our center every Tuesday morning from 10 to noon and the class is open to all seniors whether you know how to dance or not.

Here's some good news for you all. As you know, it's income tax time, and in the past, once again we have the good fortune to have some capable senior volunteers on hand to help you, for free yet, with your income tax return. The action is scheduled to start the first of February and in my next column I'll have more information for you.

Pinocchio. On Wednesday morning, the action starts to pick up as we had 35 players for our pinocchio games with the following winners: Michael Haberman, 657; Archie Houghaling, 573; Grace Windsor, 560; Ann Thompson, 554; Lillian Lewis, 553; John Derby, 552; Al Cheliman, 543; Helena Gavello, 542; Grace Moore, 541.

In the afternoon, it was time for bridge and we had three tables for the game. We started a new deal which we find is helping to speed up the games so that more hands can be played and still give those who need to take our bus a chance to play. We want to welcome back some of the old familiar faces and look forward to seeing some new ones, so come on out and see what it's all about. The lucky prize winners were: Ender Anderson, 3,899; Nadine Malcolm, 3,579; George Vallone, 3,900.

Variety show. From now on, you're going to be hearing more and more about our Variety Show. The name of the show this year will be our version of "Show Boat." Marcel, Roger, and their talented crew are sure this is going to be the best show yet.

Now on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 6, starting at 1:30 p.m., will be our own audition and the performers we need lots of people, performers who we can count on you. Just show up and tell us you're ready to help make this show the best ever. Remember, that everyone is donating their time and efforts which I believe has

Day, our seniors will put on their own Fun Program. This is always an enjoyable afternoon when we watch our seniors perform.

Hey everybody, guess what? I just received, some real exciting news! Our mini-bus has been shipped and we should be able to pick it up maybe even sometime this coming week.

By the way, because of the cold weather last Tuesday, our bus wouldn't start. We tried to reach as many as we could who usually take the bus for shopping, however there were some who didn't reach, so if you're in doubt because of the weather, if it hasn't been on the radio, then call our office so you won't be standing outside.

Menu for the week. Monday, old fashioned vegetable beef soup, sloppy joe on a bun, diced Jello with whipped topping, tea.

Wednesday, Dutch potato soup with crackers, grilled Reuben sandwich, homestyle bread pudding, tea.

Rhodesia turns down British peace plan

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Prime Minister Ian Smith today turned down the latest British proposals to lead Rhodesia peacefully to black majority rule, British negotiator Ivor Richard said. At a news conference, Richard said that following a 45-minute meeting between the two men, Smith had taken a "tragic and fateful decision."

Richard blamed the Rhodesian leader for failure of peace negotiations and said he saw no purpose in reconvening the adjourned Geneva conference.

He said he felt "sad and apprehensive" about the future of Rhodesia. Richard, chairman of the Geneva talks, said he planned to return to London later today. He has spent nearly four weeks on a diplomatic shuttle across southern Africa to seek agreement among black and white leaders on an interim government leading to black majority rule.

The latest proposals, which he discussed with Smith Friday, included a plan to set up a 30-member ruling council with a majority of black nationalist members and presided over by a British resident commissioner. Smith discussed the proposals with members of his "inner cabinet" — senior ministers — over the weekend. He is scheduled to make a nationwide radio and television address this evening.

"It is difficult to see where we go from here," Richard told reporters. But he said he hoped Smith had not finally closed the door on all chances of a peaceful transition to black rule.

The British diplomat said Smith was not even prepared to accept the latest British plan as a basis for negotiation. He said Smith refused to deviate from the proposals but to him by former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last year.

The four Rhodesian nationalist delegations who attended the Geneva conference have strongly rejected the British plan as a basis for a settlement.

"Mr. Smith is of course perfectly entitled to take this attitude and he does believe it is in the best interests of his country," Richard said. "So far as we are concerned, however, it is a tragic and fateful decision." Richard said the latest British plan had been accepted as a basis for new negotiations by nationalist delegations to Geneva and by the five "front-line" African states surrounding Rhodesia. It also was endorsed by the United States and other Western countries, and South African Prime Minister John Vorster had been anxious for negotiations to resume.

"Mr. Smith has rejected our proposals as even a basis for further negotiation. He bears, as we see it, a heavy responsibility for what may now happen," Richard said.

"Fighting will go on, sanctions will not be lifted and the people of this country, both white and black, will suffer further. The outcome is extremely difficult to foresee.

"We had a good fighting chance of settling (the problem) on the basis of these negotiations. Everyone I saw doubt he believes it is in the best interests of his country," Richard

Carter to seek reduction in worldwide arms sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today said he would seek a worldwide reduction of arms sales and will move "quickly and aggressively" to reach agreement with the Soviet Union to ban atomic tests and reduce nuclear stockpiles.

Describing the White House as "really awe-inspiring," Carter also said he will make his first "freedom chat" to the nation within a week or two on his plans to send a government reorganization plan to Congress shortly, comprehensive energy policy within 90 days and a welfare reform plan by May 1.

He made the remarks in the first interview of his presidency Sunday in the Oval Office, with reporters of United Press International and Associated Press.

Responding to questions, Carter said he did not contemplate a moratorium on U.S. weapons sales, because that would be "absurd."

But he said Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be "much more hesitant in the future to recommend to the Defense Department" arms sales agreements, and the President will have final approval before they are submitted to Congress.

Furthermore, Carter said, "I would like to move very quickly, even prior to the SALT II agreement, toward a much more substantive reduction in atomic weapons as the first step to complete elimination in the future."

Awed by White House. Wearing a blue-gray tweed suit and slipping coffee, the President sat on a sofa before a glowing fire in the fireplace and spoke with some reverence about the White House.

"It is really awe-inspiring," he said, calling his tour of the Lincoln suite and the Treaty Room a "very sobering... very gratifying experience."

"I can't say that I feel complete at ease with it yet," he said, while adding, "I feel good about it. I have enjoyed it so far... I think I will like it very much. Good working conditions."

Carter called his order pardoning all Vietnam draft evaders on his first full day in office "a proper thing to do," and said, "It is one that I feel very much at ease with. It is something that should have been done. I was very grateful to be the one to do it."

Other subjects. On other subjects, Carter said: He believes his $30 billion, two-year economic stimulus package is "a good one" and a "proper figure for giving the ailing economy a shot in the arm."

A peace conference on the Middle East is "very likely this year" and Vance will confer with heads of state in Israel, Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan in depth this subject. Many of the leaders will be invited to visit Carter in Washington after Vance visits them.

He believes "very strongly" in majority rule in Africa, "which means relinquishing the control of the government by the white minorities in the countries affected."

Losing the fear of difference said key to ecumenism

By ALICE EVANS. Herald Reporter. "Talking about the ecumenical movement is a little like picking up a blob of mercury. It just goes in all directions, and that's the danger in talking about the movement."

Dr. Robert W. Huston, chief of the ecumenical staff officer for the United Methodist Church, said that to a group of Manchester area clergymen, their wives and members of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches Sunday afternoon at South United Methodist Church. He then proceeded to Shank Hill Rd.

"There are issues every church faces, and because we all face the same issues it is a little bit silly for us to attempt to come to grips with these problems and issues separately. They are not unique. The chances of our discovering some new insight are much greater when we share our traditions and come closer together in love and understanding of who we are and what we are doing and our loss of fear of difference and our fear of the 'other' that we are made one. So in a way this sacrament is the symbol of our oneness, our wholeness, but it is also the place where Christianity is the most clearly divided."

The ecumenical movement has been Dr. Huston's life for 12 years, and he told of his participation in the Nairobi Assembly of the World Council of Churches, a study by a Jewish-Christian group in the Middle East, the central committee meeting of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, Switzerland, and the World Methodist Conference last August in Dublin, Ireland. He and a few other attending the Dublin conference went to Belfast and joined the peace marches on Shank Hill Rd.

"I walked in front of a group of nuns, who for the first time in eight years were able to walk on Shank Hill Rd. and were being cheered by Protestants on the sidewalks. At no time in the previous eight years would a Roman Catholic's life have been worth very much as they had been caused on Shank Hill Rd. "In quest of a Church of Christ Uniting, the Consultation on Church Union (CCU), has published a statement which is really awe-inspiring. "There are issues every church faces, and because we all face the same issues it is a little bit silly for us to attempt to come to grips with these problems and issues separately. They are not unique. The chances of our discovering some new insight are much greater when we share our traditions and come closer together in love and understanding of who we are and what we are doing and our loss of fear of difference and our fear of the 'other' that we are made one. So in a way this sacrament is the symbol of our oneness, our wholeness, but it is also the place where Christianity is the most clearly divided."

Snow removal fund shrinking

Although the town is having some problems keeping a full supply of winter equipment, there may now be just enough snow-removal money to get through the rest of the season.

Highway Superintendent Timothy O'Sullivan said that the town has now spent about $70,000 of the $103,000 budgeted for snow removal.

"We may just be able to squeeze through. We're better off than most towns," O'Sullivan said of the budget.

He had said last week that it seemed unlikely the $103,000 would be enough to make it through the winter. But, he now says that the money remaining should take care of about two big and three small snow falls.

"With a little luck, we can make it," he said. There has been a "serious problem with equipment," he said. Earlier this week, there were nine snow trucks that needed to be repaired. Four are back in service and two more should be operating in the next few days, O'Sullivan said.

The other three have blown engines and may not be operating for about two weeks, he said. He also said that the town's sand and salt supplier made a delivery Thursday. The deliveries had been stopped earlier in the week because of the supplier's diminishing stockpile.

O'Sullivan expects that the town will begin making "controlled replenishment" to public sandpiles early next week.

In another cold-weather matter, the Water Department said that problems with frozen water lines have dropped off since the beginning of the week.

On Monday, the town received about ten calls for frozen services. Fran Taylor, a department employe, said all of the problems were in private lines and not in town mains, he said.

A few more calls were received on Tuesday and Wednesday, but there were none Thursday or this morning.

Industrial park referendum hearings Tuesday at 8

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Building hearing room to conduct a public hearing on funding for the proposed industrial park. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has recommended a March 15 referendum for a bond issue to pay for the park costs, which have been estimated at $12.4 million. These costs include the purchase of land needed for the park and the construction of roads and buildings within the park. The park, which last week was granted a needed zone change for about two-thirds of its property, would cover a 300-acre tract in the Buckland section of Manchester. It would be near I-86 between Tolland Tpke. and Burnham St. Although the March 15 referendum, if approved, would be for $15,314,500, much of this cost will be repaid to the town, according to town officials. A recent letter from Weiss to the directors indicated that the town will receive $11,164,250 in revenues from the park. Thus, the total net cost to the town would be $4,150,250. The revenue figure includes $6.4 million for the sale of land to firms interested in locating in the park. The major proposed tenant, J.C.

PZC public hearings tonight

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will meet at 7:30 p.m. today to conduct three public hearings. The first hearing is for a requested change in the zoning regulations that would allow housing for the elderly and handicapped as a special exception in a Residence M zone. An M zone presently permits single-family, duplex, and group housing, but has no provisions for elderly or handicapped housing. The requested change has been submitted by the Wesley Retirement Center, Inc. et al, which has expressed interest in locating an elderly housing project on Hartford Rd. Pascal Mastrangelo, chairman of the Manchester Housing Authority, announced today that the authority has endorsed the proposed Hartford Rd. project. The PZC will also discuss a proposed amendment to the zoning regulations that would prohibit any new junk yards or motor vehicle junk yards in Manchester. She was most impressed with the inauguration ceremony. "My feet were very cold, but I was very impressed with the swearing-in. To be there within the sound of the words — it kind of gave me a chill up and down my spine," she said. Irene Fisch, of Grant Rd., also mentioned the spirit of the entire affair. "It was really great to be part of. Everybody was just so friendly and bubbly. Nobody was sorry for coming," she said. Mrs. Weinberg and her husband, Stan, who was Carter's state coordinator, both enjoyed a continental breakfast at the White House on Friday morning. They were one of the families from across the country that was being repaid for housing a member of the Carter family during the campaign. Carter's daughter-in-law, Judy, stayed with the Weinbergs during a Connecticut visit.

Inaugural was big treat for Manchester residents

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
Most people can probably think of a better way to spend a week than in a jam-packed city with long lines and elbow-to-elbow parties. But Manchester residents who attended last week's inauguration, a crowded Washington D.C. was the place to be. "You were so moved with the spirit of the inauguration, you were patient," Barbara Weinberg explained. "We could have stayed home and probably seen more on television," she said. "But, there's nothing like being there." Other Manchester residents who attended agreed. The inauguration of President Jimmy Carter offered them a chance to see history first-hand, even if the seats were not always front-row. John Post, of Pitkin St., and Judy Muschko, of Spring St., went to the

Businessmen ask tax cuts, LWV pushes for income tax

HARTFORD (UPI) — Businessmen lobbied today for cuts in their taxes, the League of Women Voters pushed a personal income tax and one group not invited to testify said it had been left out unfairly. The legislature's Finance Committee held another of its "by invitation only" hearings on tax reform in Connecticut and the Taxpayers Association of Connecticut took strong exception to being left off the witness list. E. Steve Pearl of Manchester, the president of the association, said the committee's hearing was by invitation only. His group was not invited to testify and he said that was unfair. Senate Finance Chairman Audrey Beck, D-Manfield, had "no comment." Kenneth O. Decko, vice president of the Connecticut Small Business Association, the state's largest business group, agreed with his colleagues at similar hearings last week that tax incentives for businessmen were needed. He called for adoption of an investment tax credit, which would give manufacturers an incentive to come to Connecticut and help create badly needed factory jobs. Barbara Sachs, representing the Connecticut League of Women Voters, called for cuts in the sales and corporate taxes and increases in state aid to localities in finance cuts in local property taxes. "To provide the revenues required for these changes and to add fairness to Connecticut's state-local tax system, the League of Women Voters proposes adoption of a progressive personal income tax," she said. Last week the Finance Committee released a study of the Connecticut

MACC news

By NANCY CARR

We have been (along with the more familiar requests for help) fielding a number of very fair (and a few unfair) questions regarding AFDC grants and the families receiving them. For example: What about that program to get some of these fathers to support their own children? Just for the record, although the state has increased its efforts to gain support payments for these families from absent parents, those additional dollars do not go to increase the family's income. What they do is reduce the state/federal cost of support. The flat grant remains the same. Aren't families such as these eligible for "cheap" rents in low income housing? Actually public housing provides a federal/state subsidy to less than 25 per cent of these families and is not available to most families. In answer to questions concerning MISA housing (which is medium income not low income housing): the rental agency there will not rent an apartment to anyone on town welfare or AFDC. Aside from food stamps which are a real assist if the family can keep enough aside to buy them, other subsidies are available on a very limited basis to a small number of families. The division of Social Action which has written to both the governor and our legislators to urge an increase in payments to low income families received the following replies. Gov. Grasso said, "Please be assured that I am awfully aware of the dollar gap between current grant levels and the present cost of living. I am very hopeful that we will be able to make appropriate adjustments. I am giving the most careful consideration to Social Services Commissioner Maher's request for an increase in AFDC." After outlining some steps taken to assist low income families, she closed with the thought, "That in no way are the governor or the governor's office insensitive or guilty of a lack of caring, but we must consider with utmost concern for all of our people any budget increases." Sen. David Barry wrote, "I believe that the present levels are inadequate and I will support an increase. I am not in a position at the present time to know how great an increase will be possible. Both have indicated a desire to hear from their people. Write and let them know your thoughts on these most important issues. Governor Grasso may be reached at 590 Prospect St., Hartford. Sen. Barry's address is 315 E. Center St. Church Women United of Manchester at their regular Tuesday Forum meeting, passed a resolution in favor of increased grants to AFDC families. They also passed a resolution opposing to Shopp for non-essential items on the Sabbath. Week of Prayer Each year in the rather exhausted let down following the holidays, the Octave of Christian Unity (January 18-25) provides us with a beacon light with which to set forth on the coming year. The theme for the 1977 Week of Prayer is taken from Romans 5:5 "This hope does not disappoint us because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit."

Rec center attendance down ice rinks crowded nightly

Attendance at the recreation centers has been down this winter but the ice skating rinks are crowded every night, according to Melvin R. Siebold, recreation director. Recreation Department ice skating rinks have been open 30 days and the Northview area ski has been in operation over 10 days, both many more days than in normal winters. Siebold reported that all three skating rinks have been open almost all of the 30 days. Center Springs Pond was opened for the first time

Thursday and hockey was allowed on the Center Springs Annex. Coasting at Center Springs has also been popular. An additional three-inch layer of snow was added last week to the bottom of the Northview ski slope by park department crews to allow more use of the slope, Siebold said. Other winter activities scheduled for the rest of the winter include ski races next Saturday sponsored by the Manchester State Bank for youth ages 6 through 15. Registration will be at the bank this week or prior to the races at 10 a.m. at Northview. A ski clinic will be sponsored before the races on Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the indoor ski shop on Main St. Siebold noted the winter carnival being planned by the Eighth Utilities District for Jan. 30. Activities will include figure skating and ice fishing. An ice sculpture contest for junior and senior high and college age youths will be held at Top Notch store on N. Main St. at a date to be determined in February.

Municipal officials press for more state funding

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut municipal officials told Gov. Ella T. Grasso today state government should shoulder more of the fiscal burden which is crushing the state's 169 cities and towns. In a Capitol budget meeting, the leaders of the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities asked Mrs. Grasso for a large increase in unrestricted block grants. "The problems of cities and towns are the responsibility of the state as much as of the municipalities, and the burden of solving them must be shared," said Berlin Mayor Arthur B. Powers in prepared remarks. East Hartford Mayor Richard H. Blackstone, CCM president, told Mrs. Grasso, "concern for the fiscal management and restraint in state spending must be balanced with careful consideration of the increasingly serious plight of our towns and cities."

Apples Apples In late April and early May a large mature apple tree will produce between 50,000 and 100,000 blossoms, in clusters of five or six. If all the blossoms were to set fruit, the tree would produce as many as 800 bushels of small apples. Usually a mere 2 to 5 per cent of the apple blossoms set fruit that develops into maturity, yielding 15 to 30 bushels of apples.

State to expedite Penney request for DEP indirect source permit

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
The timetable for obtaining an indirect source permit from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) will be speeded up to meet the needs of the J.C. Penney Co., according to those involved in the permit process. The Penney firm has said that it wants to break ground by mid-1977. This schedule includes time for a public hearing, which requires a 30 day notice, Pac said. Penney has not yet applied to DEP for the needed permit, but Michael Fishman, a traffic engineer for the company, said that the application will be filed in the first part of February. The permit is actually granted in two steps. The first is a traffic flow study, which has to be completed by Penney. The second is an air quality study, based on the traffic flow study, which is done by DEP. To ensure that the figures being compiled for the traffic-flow study are accurate, representatives from Griswold & Fuss, the consultant engineering firm for Penney, and the industrial park, have met with DEP officials. Walters Fuss, of the engineering firm, said that Michael Dudek, an employe of the firm, met with DEP officials on Jan. 17 to show the traffic work that has been done so far.

"We're making sure we're on the same frequency," Fuss said of the Jan. 17 meeting. "What it boils down to is the cooperation of everyone involved and making sure the figures being used are accurate," he said. Fuss said that letter are being written regularly between his firm and DEP to iron out any problems that might cause delays later on. He attended a meeting Dec. 6 between DEP, Penney and town officials. At this meeting, those involved discussed the DEP permit procedure and how to do the reviewing process as quickly as possible, he said. "It was thought that this (the permit process) could be speeded up. I think everybody expressed that they would be extremely cooperative in moving this along," Fuss said. He said that Penney officials left the meeting satisfied that their groundbreaking deadline could be met. The Penney project will require other permits. These include wetlands permit, because the project would require the alteration of inland-wetlands. This permit will be handled by the town Inland-Wetlands Commission. A study of the discharge of water into surrounding water bodies will also be required and will be done by the state division of water compliance. The entire park plan also requires a permit from the state commerce commissioner. Charles Duffy, deputy commerce commissioner, said that the park plan is reviewed by various state agencies, including the DEP and the Department of Transportation. "The state agencies review the plan to see if it is in concert with their plans," Duffy said. "Once everyone has okayed the plan, the commissioner grants his approval," he said.

Loan group reports good year

Last year was the best year for savings and loan institutions in Connecticut since 1972 and their second best year ever, according to a report by Lawrence E. Green, executive vice-president of the Savings and Loan League of Connecticut. Gross savings deposits were $2.7 billion and net growth in savings was $227 million, according to the report. With mortgage rates dropping slightly during the year, the industry closed 13,150 loans, raising their total mortgage investments to $2.6 billion with commitments to make $6.8 billion in additional mortgage loans at the year end, Green reported. Green predicted a continuation of the recovery in new housing starts for 1977 with a 10 per cent increase and continued strength in resales of houses. The association expects 1977 savings to continue at a high rate which means a plentiful supply of mortgage money.

Real estate firm recruiting

Is the lobby of your bank

just another waiting room?

You can read a book. Take a nap. Maybe even get a haircut, in the time it takes most banks to wait on you. Or you can move along. And get into Jet Banking at CBT. We're working hard to make banking easier. For instance, at CBT there's no such thing as waiting in the "wrong" line. Our Jet Teller line keeps things moving. And if you're just making a deposit or payment, our Jet Deposit Box means there's no waiting at all. Ever run into the bank to cash a check? And end up playing the waiting game? At CBT our Jet Check Cashing Line puts an end to that game. Especially on busy days. At CBT you can transfer money between your savings and checking accounts with a simple phone call. Jack was 'real special'

Jack Thompson cannot possibly slip away from the Manchester political arena as quietly as he came upon the scene in 1971. He was a relatively unknown quality then, but his party found in him a willing candidate for the Board of Directors. Its candidate screening committee also found in him the qualifications for a good administrator. He fashioned a strong team for his campaign, and he motivated that staff by being a hard campaigner himself. He waged a strong, but quiet, campaign, ringing doorbells and letting the voters see the face of Jack Thompson. And when the election was over, Jack Thompson had moved from relative obscurity into fame. He surprisingly led the ticket as the Democrats ended a five-year Republican dominance in town politics, from which the GOP has never escaped. His party gave him the mayorship and he conducted board meetings skillfully. He also made himself available to the voters. He established Mayor's Office Hours on Saturday mornings and he listened to the people who came to him with major and minor complaints, and if he didn't have the answers he sought them out. His recent promotion to executive director of the Connecticut State Employees Association really came as no surprise to anyone who has followed his career in both the public and private sector. We feel Jack Thompson would never let conflict of interest rule his vote. Mayor Matt Moriarty Jr. called Jack "real special." He has been, and Manchester can be fortunate if he has had the experience of a Jack Thompson in its administration.

He's bound to come out sooner or later

Reports of the return to public life of Richard Nixon will, it is hoped, prove to be greatly exaggerated. The Republicans need him like they need to lose another dozen seats in Congress. The country needs him like it needs another Russian wheat deal. There is, to be sure, little prospect that Nixon will ever again seek or hold elective office, or ever again exercise any influence in the party he so grievously wounded. But a number of friends of the disgraced president have been dropping hints that he may make at least a limited comeback. Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, for instance, who was President Ford's running mate, suggests that Nixon might find some acceptable role in the field of foreign affairs because even his adversaries admit that "he did a lot of good in this area." But it is hard to imagine Jimmy Carter employing Nixon's services, even though he did write the former president to the inauguration as a protocol courtesy. According to other sources, Nixon is setting great store by a series of four 90-minute television interviews with David Frost that are to be aired this spring. He believes the public is ready to put the "mistakes" he made in perspective and to listen to his side of the Watergate story. Yet he had plenty of opportunities to tell his side of the story while he was still president, but chose instead to continue to try to con the American people. Can the public, which is still recovering from Watergate, swallow six more hours of Nixon on television, even if it will be rerun time? Then there is Mr. Nixon's book, which he has been working on since he went into exile at San Clemente and which is scheduled to be published next fall, with earlier serialization in the New York Times — the same newspaper he tried to prevent from publishing the Pentagon Papers. "It's inevitable he's going to come out at some time," says Rep. Charles Wiggins of California, one of Nixon's faithful-to-the-end defenders of the House Judiciary Com-

Today's thought

In the Lord's good time This week let us consider several important phrases that help lead us out of our ruts and dead ends. One of them is the saying: "It will all work out in THE LORD'S GOOD TIME." You know how it feels to go for each of us — we face an obstacle or frustration. Impatiently we fume and fuss. Try a prayer like this one: O Lord, not my will but yours be done. Give me new patience and the assurance that you are working right here at my side to overcome this problem. Fill me with trust that all shall be well in YOUR GOOD TIME. LORD, IN YOUR GOOD TIME. Town official responds to sanding complaint The following letter was sent to Charles McCarthy assistant town manager by Tim O'Sullivan, superintendent of highways and sanitation, in response to a complaint by Rod Myers of Carpenter Rd. To date this year, our private contractor (Ansaldo) has wrecked two plows there. The Town has wrecked four plows, sheared the mounting bolts on one engine and completely wrecked one front end. Basically, the contractor has refused to plow the area except during daylight hours. Regarding the specific complaint our records indicate no basis for Mr. Myers' complaint. With regards to the Wednesday after Christmas, the portion of that route on the chemical list received chemicals at 5:15 p.m. It was sanded between 3:35 and 5:10 a.m. and completed at 7:45. Chemical and sand were applied at that route at 5 a.m. that morning. With regards to the last storms, the list of times of sand and salt applications on the mentioned street is available. Western lines lead new boom

Wall Street is bullish on the railroads

NEW YORK — Are railway companies glamor stocks? Foreigners investing the New York Stock Exchange often consider the question absurd. They are wrong. Railways have pulled the Dow Jones transportation average up to a 12-month-high despite the low-flying performance in this index of airline stocks. The airlines have been hurt by higher fuel prices, competition from charters and talk in Congress of deregulation that some brokers (among them Kahn, Loeb and Oppenheimer) have removed them from their recommended purchase lists. Yet European investors still feel disoriented when they are advised to buy the shares of American railroads, or those of public utilities or broadcasting companies. Most Europeans associate railroads with the luskaming public sector. The way in which six northeastern American railway companies, including the once proud Penn Central, have gone from the bankruptcy courts into the Consolidated Rail Corporation, a government subsidized concern, has helped confirm their prejudices. American disapproval. American brokers disagree. On their recommendation share buyers have, over the past year, pushed the price of Santa Fe Industries (which owns the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway) up from $31 to $38, Burlington Northern from $34 to $45, Union Pacific from $76 to $101, and St. Louis-San Francisco from $24 to $41. The Dow Jones utility average ended 1976 at the year's high. As public utilities are often purchased mainly for their yield, the recent spectacular firming of bond prices has helped their share prices. So has the recent willingness of rate commissions to grant them liberal price increases. Disadvantages too. Railroads also have the disadvantages of being both capital-intensive and labor-intensive, and of competing against truckers (road haulage companies) who have their highways paid for by government subsidies. The railroads have to lay, maintain and repair their own track. Railway rates are still generally lower than those charged by their competitors, but they are criticized for an unreliable delivery record. Shippers have, as a result, continued to switch freight from rail to road, especially for the most bulky or heavy commodities, such as grain and coal. Nevertheless, respected share analysts continue to rate some of the railway companies, especially those operating west of the Mississippi, as a sound investment over the long haul. Outlook smoky. The outlook for the next 12 months or so is made smoky by the risk of strikes in the coal industry, the railways' biggest customer. The United Mine Workers Union is to hold what promises to be turbulent presidential election in June. This could provoke industrial unrest. So could negotiations on new labor contracts for both coal and railway workers to replace those that run out at the end of 1977. Why? OPEC is one answer. Higher oil prices, plus jitters over nuclear power, have persuaded Jimmy Carter that America ought to rely more on its vast coal reserve. This means more business for the railways that haul it. More important, the western railroads were granted, and also purchased, vast tracts of land when the West was opened during the 19th century. This land contains a lot of timber, coal, oil and the other treasures. Santa Fe, for example, can cover its dividend even without its railway earnings. "The Economist of London

History will decide Eden's niche

WASHINGTON — It would be fitting, now, if the ancient Greek poet could take over the saga of Anthony Eden, Earl of Avon, for he was the stuff of which tragedy is made. Dead at 79, Anthony Eden had suffered his final tragedy 20 years before, when he was forced to step down as Britain's prime minister because of the invasion of Suez by British, French and Israeli troops. He lived since as a kind of anachronism in socialist England, perhaps the last prime minister by aristocratic right. Doomed to disaster. But it was typical of the man's love of country that he insisted he be flown from America to his family home as well as the quietly elegant British dress. Even if you were very young in 1938, you remember Eden vividly in his finest hour — an hour of defeat. At 40 he was Britain's sparkling and principled foreign minister, determined to call the bluff of two ridiculously evil men named Hitler and Mussolini, only to be rebuffed by his boss. That was the darkest month of appeasement, that February of 1938. Over young Eden's protests, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain met with and bowed to the Italian Ambassador, Count Grandi. He offered Grandi everything Mussolini wanted — recognition of the conquest of Ethiopia and a state visit to the Duce of Rome. Eden went home, sick. Did what he had to do. And then, two days later, Eden walked into his office a few steps across Downing Street from the prime minister's residence, to do what he had to do — quit. But he did so in the gentle understatement of his kind: "My Dear Prime Minister, the events of the last few days have made plain a difference between us." In Rome, the fascist press gloated over the political demise of "Lord Eyelashes." In Germany, Nazi satraps boasted that "They carried a corpse from Downing Street." But in a country house in Chartwell, a great man named Winston Churchill mourned. Heart sank. "My heart sank," he wrote later, "and for a while the dark waters of despair overwhelmed me... There seemed one strong young figure standing up against long, dismal, drawing tides of drift and surrender... Now he was gone..." That "strong young figure" returned, of course. He served under his own friend, Sir Winston, as secretary of state for war during the darkest days of World War II, and in his old post of foreign minister before ascending to the prime minister in April 1955. Throughout that period, his brilliance seemed untarnished, and when he reached the apex of a lifetime devoted to public service it had seemed that another lustrous name would be added to Britain's list of great prime ministers. Greatest test. Suez was Eden's great test, and he met it. He believed that intervention would head off what he feared would

Earle Clifford came by our desk early last fall and dropped an envelop on it. "Here's something you might like to look at; you might find something in it interesting for a column," he said. "Take your time with it; we're going away for a couple of months," he said. We did get to that envelope recently, and this is what we found in it. * * * A program, on the cover of which is a musical lyre and the words "Beethoven Glee Club." It is a copy of the first annual concert by the Beethoven Glee Club. Our column about Beethoven was printed on March 8, 1976. The program was exactly a year and seven days from the origin of the vocal clinic — organized May 20, 1925, the first concert May 27, 1926. It was in the high school hall, and Helge E. Pearson was conductor. It contained this purpose of the club: "The purpose of the Beethoven Glee Club is to awaken and cultivate, through study and song, a knowledge and appreciation of the best in music that comes through our common inheritance, and to adequately express it through sacred and secular concert." The entire program was there, some of it printed in Swedish. An interesting memory. * * * Did you * * * the Inaugural Parade Thursday? I hope you didn't wait until Friday to see it. Now, I know the parade is ALWAYS on Jan. 20, so I wonder what calendar I was looking at when in the column last week I said the parade was Friday? Better that you listened to Betty Ryder. I goofed!

Moldy hay harms lungs

DEAR DR. LAMB — I contracted farmer's lung by inhaling moldy hay, feeding my pet rabbits. I am going through a bad experience with coughing and spitting constantly. I am under a doctor's care, taking medications for the coughing spells and for my throat inflammation that is suffering spells. The doctor told me I have an allergy to moldy hay and this disease will take some time to go away. I am still spitting watery and foamy material more than five weeks after I inhaled this moldy hay. Can you tell me more about this farmer's lung? Is there a possibility that I am under a doctor's care, taking medications for the coughing spells and for my throat inflammation that is suffering spells. Tonight's meeting, scheduled for 7:30 at Penney High School, was originally planned to meet with East Hartford's state legislators.

William Miller, director of personnel, is surrounded by union men and leaders when he attends his club. Getting a grip on his neck is Santo Alleano, president of the fire fighters' union here, and on his left is Ronald Durler, president of the public works employees' union. The building has been remodeled often since.

Members and friends visit the club for lunch, dinner and evening talks. They run a softball league, play pool and sponsor flag football and baseball teams.

Members say their wives (most members are family men) do not object to the time they spend at the club. They at least know where they are and that the company they keep is no worse than their husbands.

Vernon board to hear new school bus rules

The Vernon Board of Education, at its meeting scheduled for tonight at 7:30 at the Middle School, will hear a report - on proposed regulations on discipline and vandalism in school buses.

The report was prepared by Dr. Edward Meyers, board member, and Charlie Brisson, business manager.

For minor offenses, students in the elementary schools will receive one warning followed by a three-day suspension of bus riding privileges.

The same penalty will apply to secondary students, except they may be immediately suspended by the principal if they have been previously warned by the bus driver.

Some specific offenses noted in the report are: Loud talking or shouting repeatedly; use of vulgar or obscene language; minor pushing-shoving altercations; not staying in the seat, not keeping hands and head inside the bus; or opening windows without permission; throwing objects on or at the bus; eating or smoking on the bus; not following driver's orders; or violation of any other rule or regulation set by the school board.

For major offenses, pupils will be suspended from bus privileges for five days. Major offenses include complete disrespect for the bus driver, major fights and vandalism.

Students found guilty of bus vandalism will be expected to make restitution to the bus company.

Under the vandalism procedures, a suspension letter will be mailed to parents of the suspended pupil, along with a copy of the state statute on parental liability for willful acts of minor children.

The bus company will be responsible for notifying the school principal if and when payment for damages is received.

If the principal isn't notified within 30 days that payment has been made, then a copy of the suspension letter and a memo will be sent to the superintendent of schools.

The superintendent will again request payment. If no answer is received, the superintendent may turn the matter over to the town attorney.

Bus drivers must present a written report of discipline problems to the bus supervisor.

For students in Grades 6 to 12 and Vernon students riding to Cheney Tech in Manchester, bus tickets are issued the first day of school with the name, address and bus number on them.

The tickets must be shown when boarding the bus. Bus tickets are lost, new ones will be issued on written requests from parents.

When a student is suspended from the bus, the ticket will be taken by the bus driver and held until the suspension is lifted. Bus tickets are not transferable.

Board gets school budget

The Hebron Board of Education has received a first draft budget for 1977-1978 totaling $1,090,802, an increase of $130,731 over the $960,071 budgeted this year. The increase is 13.3 per cent, according to School Supt. David Cattaneo.

The school board took no action on any budget item last weekend. The board members did, however, discuss some of the areas and appeared to agree to establish their own priorities, based on public desires, rather than ask the administration to cut the budget without any direction from the board.

Board member Robert Nickels said it would be unfair to ask the administration to make a cut without Joseph Pelletier's agreement and said the board itself must decide what is important.

The new budget provides for program expansion to add a reading consultant with a salary of $10,350. The consultant would provide services to both schools, directing and supervising the reading program.

Also proposed is an additional part-time instrumental music teacher, two days a week at $3,450. The administration told the board the time now given to instrumental instruction is inadequate.

Another proposal is a part-time art teacher, one day a week, at $1,725. This would restore kindergarten art.

The proposed budget includes $497,216 for teacher salaries, compared to $460,730 this year.

A matching funds grant available to introduce the arts in education was discussed by Hebron Elementary School Principal Paul White. The total cost would be $3,500, with $1,800 from federal funds, $1,200 through-kind contributions in the school systems, and $500 in budgeted funds or funds obtained through outside agencies.

The program is designed to place professional creative writers in direct contact with students and teachers. The school would be required to develop a plan to employ a poet or writer for at least five days.

The Board of Education will meet again on the budget on Feb. 3. Its regular meeting is scheduled Feb. 10.

6 of 14 lots sold

Only 6 out of 14 land parcels were sold at Coventry's tax sale Saturday. Proceeds from the sale were $3,906, Audrey Bray, tax collector, said.

Two parcels received the most attention. Land and a cottage at Pine Lake Shores brought a $1,200 bid from Sterling MacPerson and land on Wrights Mill road was bought for $1,400 by John Leonard and Arnold Carlson.

The remaining four lake lots were bought by neighboring property owners. The parcels not sold will remain town property.

Weekend notes

Return meeting on the basketball court between Manchester High and East Catholic takes place tomorrow night, at the Clarke Arena with the SRO (sold right out) sign up again. The box office will not be open. Dave Wiggin, MHS director of athletics, reports the host Indians will be looking for their first win ever over the Eagles in the series which started three years ago. Clyde Miller, who has been doing a great job covering the Manchester High hockey team, reports attendance has been poor to date. "Manchester has put up a better and more competitive hockey team this year but the support from the student body and town people is way down." Miller reports it costs $203 to put on a home game at the Bolton Ice Palace, counting the cost of ice time. The average attendance has been 50 paying fans, principally relatives of the players. Miller adds that unless financial help is forthcoming, the program will have to be axed. Next game will be Wednesday night at Bolton.

Watson ends drought on PGA golfing trail

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — It's been a long time between victories for Tom Watson, but when he finally snuffed his losing streak it was in the tournament he wanted to win more than any other — the Crosby National Pro-Am.

Whalers end long losing skein

HARTFORD (UPI) — The New England Whalers' nine-game winless streak is over. Now they're off on a two-week, six-game road trip — and the team is looking forward to it.

The long drought ended at 4:43 in overtime as veteran Ralph Backstrom, who has seen little action in the last few games, dug the puck out from behind the Cincinnati gate and passed it to Dave Hynes who was standing to the right of goalie Norm LaPointe. Hynes blasted a shot into the upper corner of the net for the game's lone win.

Double weekend loss dealt Celts by 76ers

BOSTON (UPI) — They are a team in the sense that a handful of pearls can be a necklace — a group of individual gems. Philadelphia took turns shouldering the load Sunday in a 91-83 victory.

Whereas guard Lloyd Free had paced Saturday night's 109-94 win with 26 points, six Philadelphia players scored in double figures.

Free scored 10 of his 19 points in the game during the early going. Tom Seivie and Jim Barnett, who scored 10 points apiece, netted six each in a 23-4 second quarter. Most of the 15,000 fans filling up to Boston Garden came to see Julius Erving's local debut. But Erving, who left University of Massachusetts to join the Virginia Squires in 1971, was not the dominating force, despite his team-high 19 points in 35 minutes of play.

His major contribution was a ninepoint effort in the third quarter while Boston was fashioning its comeback.

"We all have a common objective on this team," said Erving when asked about his new role as a supporting actor after five seasons as the No. 1 star in the ABA. "We want to win the championship and I have found that by playing 30-35 minutes I can be of the most value."

The loose cohesion of the 76ers stood in strange contrast to Boston's organized disunity. Boston tried to work its running game but was victimized by poor shooting and lack of fluidity.

While Philadelphia made 35 of its 73 field goal attempts, Boston could not get on just 28 of 106 shots.

Angelus routed Indiana, 121-104. Warriors 104, Hawks 97. Phil Smith scored nine points in the final six minutes of play to give Golden State a victory over Atlanta. John Drew scored 42 points for the Hawks, but the Warriors' offense came after that was seven.

Lakers 121, Pacers 104. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 25 points and rookie Earl Tatum added 20 points, a career high, to lead Los Angeles to its 17th win in the last 21 games and into first place in the Pacific Division with a victory over Indiana.

U.S. MIXED — Dave Neff 215-584, Ralph Tapp 215-555, Charles Hartley Jr. 201-580, Steve Pelletier 551, Gail Shimatsu 178-202, Alvin Delisle 454, Diane Emmett 193-495, Marge DeLisle 463, Peg Callahan 482, Ginger Youkers 474, Lois Sperry 486, Diane Brennan rolled a 158 triplicate.

The Whaler coach said he was concerned at first about the goalie rookie Abrahamson, who looked "a little shaky at first" but by the third period was sharp as he got his confidence.

Neale said one of the Whalers' problems has been goaltending. "It's been inconsistent. One night, Christier is great, then another night, not so. The same is true of Cap Raeder."

Cincinnati's Blaine Stoughton tallied his 31st goal of the year at 14:58 as Abrahamson was caught out of position.

Steve Carlson tied it for the second period as he lifted a centering pass from Tom Earl over the sprawling crossbar and dropped just beyond the goal line.

However, Billy Steele tied the game on a power play for Cincinnati at 17:17 of the third period as he wristed a low shot past Abrahamson.

The win boosted fourth place New England's point total to 41, five less than third place Cincinnati in the East Division.

The Whalers first road game will be Tuesday night in Cincinnati. Their next home game will be Feb. 6 against Indianapolis.

Ending a four-game losing streak, Manchester High's hockey team upped Maloney High of Meriden, 6-1, Saturday night at the Bolton Ice Palace.

The Indian stickmen now sport a 5-10 overall record. Roger Landry, assisted by Gary Peruta, put Maloney ahead five minutes into the opening session but Bryan Woodhouse, assisted by Mike Mumford, knotted it at 11:25.

Three second-period goals gave Manchester the lead for good. Kevin Hiers with unassisted goal set the two-minute mark made it 2-1 and 2:34 later Hiers tallied again for a 3-1 edge.

Phil Hinkley scored a second goal at 8:25 at the ice Palace against Fermi High of Enfield.

A 4-1 margin going into the second period, Manchester's lead was extended to 5-1 by Clark Brown, assisted by Woodhouse and Tom Roach. The edge was 5-3 at 11:25.

Phil Valentine's eight points led Concordia to a 3-3-1 win over winless 0-6 Tempel Beth Shalom Saturday night at Illing.

Also, St. Mary's improved its record to 2-1 with a 4-0-3-2 tie over 0-4 Emmanuel of Manchester. Craig Ostrout had 16 points and Mike Gaffney 14 for St. Mary's while John Anderson had 14 tallies for Emmanuel.

Wapping remained unbeaten at 4-0 with a 4-1-3-3 victory over Congregational. Gary Heckman had 11 points and Mike McGinnies and Duane Gentile 10 apiece for Wapping while Matt Glushko had 13 markers and Bernie Aiemann 12 for 0-3 Center.

Pat McCann tossed in 24 points and Bill Calhoun and Sean Campbell nine and eight respectively, as Eastern Realty took a 48-48 double overtime win from First Hartford Realty Friday at the East side. Eddie Reid popped in 18 points and Bob Eschman 12 as the Bike Shop topped Manchester Cycle in overtime.

Standings: Bike Shop 5-1, Boland Oil 4-1, First Hartford 3-3, Eastern Realty 2-3, Auto Comfort 1-4, Cycle 1-4.

East Side Midget standings: Groman's 4-2, Wyman Oil 4-2, Celtics 3-3, Community 2-3, Police 3-3, Pro Remodeling 3-3, Top Notch 2-4, Manchester Travel 2-4.

John Schaefer and Bob Schartz each scored a goal and an assist and Gerry Cheevers stopped 14 shots in leading Boston to an easy victory over Atlanta.

Cannock 6, Rangers 2. Newly acquired defenseman Larry Goodenough and Jack Vanover's most impressive performance this season, the Canucks took a lead on goals by Gerry Monahan, Chris O'Neil and Bobby Lalonde. Rookie Don Murdoch scored his 31st goal for the Rangers.

Stan Drakins of Junior Bruins of Brattleboro, Vt., also a member of the U.S. squad, was third in 1:42:17.16. Olympic silver medalist Bill Koch of Brattleboro, Vt., skipped the race because of a lingering cold and recurring attacks of asthma.

Canadians, led by twin sisters Sharon and Shirley Firth Innes, B.C., swept the top four places in the women's 10-kilometer race. Alison Owen Spencer, the top U.S. finisher and a three-time member of the U.S. National Team, completed the course in 20:33.81, nearly three minutes off the winning pace.

Fritz Kocher, 19, Bill's brother, won the junior men's 15-kilometer race in 52:23.85. Beth Paxson, 16, finished in 1:40:36.50. Stan Drakins of Junior Bruins of Brattleboro, Vt., also a member of the U.S. squad, was third in 1:42:17.16.

Bjorn Borg en route to victory

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Bjorn Borg is a hard young man to convince. He had just let Jimmy Connors escape three match points, win three straight games and even the sets at one apiece.

Almost every one on the 8,000 spectators who had paid $15 and $20 to watch the match, figured Connors was well on his way to his eighth straight win over Borg.

The 20-year-old Swede had his own idea. "I knew if I could take the third game in the third set, I would beat him. But I had to win that game," he said later.

Borg had the serve and did not waste any time, winning four straight points. Both had serve in the next two games, before Borg broke Connors' serve to make 1-1. Connors broke back immediately, and Borg followed suit. All he had to do from then on was hold his serve.

The final score read, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, as Borg beat Connors for only the second time in his career and collected the $100,000 first prize in the Grand Slam of Tennis Tournament Sunday.

Lt. Gov. Killian still dreams of becoming governor

By ANDREW M. NIBLEY
HARTFORD (UPI) — Sometimes the ascent to political power requires some downward movement — say, two or three floors.

Robert Killian

Case in point: Connecticut's Lt. Gov. Robert Killian.

He has worked on the state Capitol's fifth floor, is currently residing on the third and hopes with all his heart that someday he'll make it to the second floor tier where the big prize awaits, the governor's chair.

Since he was 16 Killian began working at the Capitol and he had his ups and downs even then. One of his duties at the time was to lead tourists up through the catacombs to the top of the gold dome which crowns the French Gothic building.

"I was young and energetic then. They figured I could go up and down those stairs all day," Killian recalled with a smile.

Looking out from the dome, now closed to the public, the high school student could see the whole of Hartford stretching out before him. He was on top of his world.

Ambitions grew

And as Killian grew, so did his ambitions. "I knew what I wanted to be when I was in high school... a lawyer," the 57-year-old Hartford native said in a recent interview.

So, Killian went off to Union College in Schenectady, N. Y., to pursue his studies and fulfill his ambition. In his spare time, Killian received varsity letters in football, lacrosse and boxing.

Shortly after he graduated from college, Killian went where most young men went at the time — to war. When he returned to Hartford from the Pacific in 1946, he was older, wiser and an Army lieutenant decorated with four battle stars and a Purple Heart.

In the next few years, Killian graduated from the University of Connecticut Law School and helped form what was to become a very profitable law firm — Gould, Killian and Krechevsky.

Sometimes during the next 20 years, Killian's idea of what he wanted to be changed.

When Democratic Gov. John N. Dempsey appointed him attorney general in 1967, the state's chief legal officer, he relished the opportunity. It was here — on the third floor of the Capitol — where Killian got his first bitter taste of hard-nosed politics.

Accepts second spot

In a move to help intraparty wounds, Mrs. Grasso offered Killian the lieutenant governor spot on her ticket. Killian accepted.

He emerged bloody, but unbowed. Upset fuel prices

Upset with rising fuel prices in the state, Killian promised the people of Connecticut he would go after the big oil conglomerates with an antitrust suit. According to Killian, the U.S. Justice Department didn't share his enthusiasm.

"They didn't have the guts," he said bluntly.

Although the suit is still pending, Killian admitted he lost the battle. The oil giants are still intact and fuel prices continue to rise in the Northeast.

Learned a lesson

"I learned a valuable lesson," he said. "It is wrong to raise the aspirations of people beyond what you can produce."

By this time, however, Killian's own aspirations had risen considerably.

He wanted more than anything else to move down another floor — to the governor's second-story office.

So, he decided to run for the office in 1974 Democratic primaries against his current boss, Gov. Ella T. Grasso.

The odds against his winning were enormous. Mrs. Grasso was backed by the state's most powerful political force, the late state Democratic Chairman John Bailey.

Killian freely admitted it was no contest. "I had to drop out. I couldn't even win in my own city (Hartford)."

When Mrs. Grasso won, there was some consolation. He was still stuck on the third floor. But at least, he was in the right wing of the building. In fact, his office was right above the governor's.

"I won't lie to you," he said. "I still want to be governor. I mean, you have to be the best you can in life."

He quickly added he would never do anything to undercut Mrs. Grasso politically. But he wouldn't mind at all if she landed a top government job in Washington.

After all, a nice as the domeriew of Hartford must have been, things just look better from the second floor.

Litter tax proposed on container industry

HARTFORD (UPI) — Some environmentalists are talking of combining or perhaps even replacing a plan to ban non-returnable beverage containers with one to tax the beverage industry to finance litter cleanup.

The so-called "bottle bill," modeled after similar legislation in Oregon and Vermont, has never mustered the votes for passage in Connecticut. Proponents of anti-litter legislation, however, say this could be the year a ban on non-returnables is enacted.

But Rep. Andrew Grande, D-Bristol, has another proposal, modeled after a Washington state law, which he said could be combined with — or even replace — the controversial bottle bill.

Grande said he thought his plan would be more acceptable to lawmakers and, especially to the bottling industry which has lobbied heavily against restrictive beverage container legislation.

"I don't think the bill would be that taxing on business, the amount would be that significant to business and industry. I think it's a different approach and one that could be acceptable to the legislature," he said.

Rep. Russell Post, R-Canton, a prime backer of the bottle bill, said both would get a public hearing and then a determination would be made on which course — or a combination — would be taken.

"I personally prefer the Oregon version. I think the Oregon concept will lead to reduction in prices, energy and litter. The Washington approach would lead to hire environment employes to pick up the litter," he said.

He said Grande's plan would not do anything to save energy or stop the public trend to a "throwaway mentality," which he said is very disturbing.

Grande said he thought his plan would be more acceptable to lawmakers and, especially to the bottling industry which has lobbied heavily against restrictive beverage container legislation.

"I don't think the bill would be that taxing on business, the amount would be that significant to business and industry. I think it's a different approach and one that could be acceptable to the legislature," he said.

Under his plan, industries in the state would be taxed to help pay the cost of litter cleanup, with the assessment based on a formula set by a state study. "I don't think the bill would be that taxing on business, the amount would be that significant to business and industry. I think it's a different approach and one that could be acceptable to the legislature," he said.

He said because Connecticut has a total of about 23,000, that might mean a lower assessment.

Hartford opens new post office

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford's new $11 million post office at 53 Weston St. was to begin operation today.

The sprawling new complex, which occupies seven acres in the city's northward march next to the Jail Alford Front, replaces the 43-year-old post office located downtown on High St.

Hartford Postmaster Paul Donovan said the new facility will be more convenient than the old building because operations will be carried out on one floor instead of three. He also said parking will no longer be a problem for postal employees.

He said it cost $25,000 to move personnel and equipment from the old building to the new.
