Town to seek federal funds for lateral sewer projects

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Jay J. Giles, director of public works, said today that the Town of Manchester would apply for funding being made available by the state for lateral sewer projects.

Such funding could provide financial assistance for several projects, including the proposed sewer installation on Love Lane.

State officials announced Thursday that towns will be allowed to apply for $20 to $40 million in federal clean-water funds to build lateral sewers. Lateral sewers are those smaller lines that transport waste from the private lines leading from homes to the main lines of the sewage system. Giles said that these lines are also known as "street sewers."

The state had previously made federal funds available only for larger sewer projects such as trunk line installations or treatment plant improvements.

Giles said that many such large-size projects have been 90 per cent state and federally funded and ten per cent town-funded.

"In the past, the state hasn't made funding available for smaller projects," Giles said.

The change, however, was apparently made because the state has a Sept. 30 deadline to spend $137 million in federal clean-water funds. Rather than lose the money, the state has decided to make some available for the smaller sewer work.

The Love Lane project, which includes the installation of about 1,300 feet of sewer line, was recently put out to bid for the third time. The first bid came in much higher than the town had expected. The second bid was also higher than expected, but the town decided to transfer other sewer funds to pay the cost of the work, which the lower bidder had sent at $92,672.

The town, however, was unable to transfer the funds quickly enough to satisfy the contractor, and he decided not to do the work.

The project includes installation of a water line and a sewer pump station, and Giles said that the now-available federal funds could help pay part of the cost of this project.

Work in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. may also be aided by such funding, Giles said. This sewer line installation was proposed about five years ago, but had to be delayed because of the high cost. The area was very rocky, and the town feared assessments for the abutting property owners would be too high to make the project feasible, Giles said.

He was not sure what effect the possible inclusion of federal funds would have on the assessment rate charged abutting property owners.

Other areas where sewer installations have been considered, but not yet started, include Lodge Dr., Leland Dr. and a portion of Keeney St., Giles said. Federal funds being made available by the state might help fund all of these, he said.

Four brothers slain

HOLLANDSBURG, Ind. (UPI) — Four young brothers were blasted to death with shotguns in a modern St. Valentine's Day massacre early today by gunmen who forced their way into the family's mobile home along a remote country road.

The victims' mother, Betty Spencer, 43, also was shot but "played dead" and managed to walk a quarter mile to a neighbor's home to call police.

Investigators said a wig may have saved the mother's life. A shotgun blast ripped off her wig, they said, and the gunmen probably thought part of her head was blown off.

Police said they believed "three or four" gunmen were involved.

Two suspects were questioned at the Parke County Jail in Rockville, but were not charged. Police said they were not certain the two were involved in the killings and they were looking for "three or four" suspects.

The victims were Reeve B. Spencer, 16; Ralph Spencer, 14; Raymond Spencer, 17, and Gregory Brooks, 22. Mrs. Spencer was the mother of Brooks and stepmother of the other three.

Canal talks resume

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — A team of American diplomats arrived Sunday to negotiate a new Panama Canal treaty and pledged to seek a quick solution to the long-standing dispute over who will control the vital link between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

Chief negotiator Ellsworth Bunker and Sol Linowitz, President Carter's special representative, spoke briefly with reporters at Tocumen Airport and then flew to Contadora Island, 30 minutes away by air, to await the start of negotiations Tuesday.

Carter meets cabinet on budget revisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter met with his Cabinet today to discuss amendments he will submit to Congress next week on the 1978 fiscal budget prepared by former President Gerald Ford.

Carter, who returned to Washington Sunday from a weekend in Plains, Ga., had a busy day on tap including a White House greeting for Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo.

The Cabinet meeting focused on amendments to the lame duck Ford budget, according to White House Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Carter said Saturday he has completed a revision of Ford's 1978 defense proposal and his arms budget will be somewhat smaller than the $123 billion recommended by the former president. Carter has stressed that, due to his short time in office, he will not be able to do much tampering with the Ford budget.

The President has also promised that next year, he will begin a process of "zero based budgeting" in which every spending item will have to be justified.

There was no press coverage of today's Cabinet meeting, but Powell said the possibility remains alive for future Cabinet sessions.

A couple of weeks ago, Carter told the Cabinet he was considering opening their meetings to limited press coverage.

Sunday, Carter appeared to move quickly to soften U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's remark that Henry Kissinger as secretary of state had "put a burden on Britain's back and then abandoned them" during efforts to promote black rule in Rhodesia.

"I don't think Andy said it in a critical way," the President told reporters before flying back to Washington to meet with Young and top foreign policy advisers.

Maintaining the tradition of a new president meeting first with the heads of state of neighboring countries, Carter planned to welcome Lopez Portillo on the White House south lawn this morning and host a state dinner for him tonight.

Carter has demonstrated his interest in hemispheric affairs and his ability to speak Spanish on a number of occasions, including his meeting with the so-called congressional "border caucus" on such problems as the value of the Mexican peso, as well as traffic in drugs, guns and alien workers across the border.

During a stroll in his hometown of Plains, Ga., Saturday, Carter also said that while he is concerned about human rights in Cuba, he hopes Premier Fidel Castro will follow up his interest in increased trade with the United States with "a mutual desire to reduce tensions and alleviate animosities."

Vance leaves tonight for a 10-day trip to the Middle East. The cautious lawyer-negotiator will be following in the tracks of the ebullient Kissinger, whose personalized "shuttle diplomacy" characterized U.S. relations in that part of the world for several years.

Carter sprang to Kissinger's defense Sunday when reporters outside the Plains Baptist Church asked him about Young's comments.

Buckland park land appraisals started

The Town of Manchester is receiving appraisals on property within the boundaries of the proposed industrial park. Negotiations with some landowners of the property has also begun, according to Town Manager Robert B. Weiss.

The town is proceeding with appraisals and negotiations despite an appeal of a zone change needed for the park. The park will cover 393 acres in the Buckland section of Manchester.

About two-thirds of the property required a zone change to Industrial Zone before work on the park could begin. The change was granted on Jan. 17 by the Planning and Zoning Commission, and was appealed the next week by Atty. Bruce Beck and Anthony Pagano, who represent seven clients, including four who live within the park.

The work is being done now because the town is hopeful of meeting a June groundbreaking deadline set by the J.C. Penney Co., which would be the major tenant in the park.

Thus, if the appeal is not sustained, the town would still be close to the Penney schedule.

The town has hired two appraisers, Peter Marselle, who is the assessor in the Town of Bloomfield, and Al Werbner, who is a member of the Manchester Community College staff.

The appraisers were hired late last year and have already begun submitting values for the land, Weiss said. Working with these figures, the town negotiates with the property owners for the sale of the land.

The State of Connecticut, however, must select a third appraiser and "determine what they consider the fair market value," Weiss said. The town will not be able to purchase any land for anything less than the fair market value, he said.

The state review of the properties will not be completed until May, Weiss said. Thus, a final agreement reached in the next couple of months between the town and property owners may have to be raised to meet what the state sets as the "fair market value" of the land.

Any property owner who is dissatisfied with the final offer made for the land may take the matter to court. The town has the right of eminent domain over the property, thus assuring it the right to purchase the land.

State

HARTFORD — The state Labor Department says nearly 25,000 Connecticut residents will lose their unemployment benefits next month if Congress does not act quickly to prevent a scheduled cutoff. Federal funds for jobless benefits are due to expire March 28.

HARTFORD — The Connecticut state police are trying to build a case against Peter Reilly so they can arrest him again for the 1973 slaying of his mother, Barbara Gibbons, according to Reilly's lawyer, T. F. Gilroy Daly.

HARTFORD — According to the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities, the state's 169 cities and towns will be forced to raise local property taxes and cut back on essential services if Gov. Ella T. Grasso's budget is adopted. CCM contends the proposed budget offers municipalities only a net increase of $700,000 over last year's funding.

HARTFORD — Chief Court of Common Pleas Judge Roman J. Lexton has joined others who complain the Corrections Department is freeing convicts before their time is up under an "unbelievably liberal" interpretation of the law. He urged the legislature to plug loopholes in the statute.

Regional

BOSTON — Projected to last three weeks, the federal extortion-conspiracy trial of two Massachusetts senators enters its fourth week today with no end in sight as the prosecution calls its 16th witness.

CONCORD, N. H. — Democratic National Chairman Kenneth Curtis has defended proposed congressional pay hikes as necessary because of the high cost of living in Washington, D.C. But the pay raise, he said, should include a strict standard of ethics for elected officials.

BOSTON — A random survey of 500 Massachusetts voters indicates the state would probably support strict federal gun control legislation, although it rejected by a wide margin last year a proposal for state handgun control.

National

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Buffalo residents, having suffered through 14 feet of snow this winter, were confronted with traffic jams and long lines Sunday as they lined up for free food stamps to make up for two weeks of almost universal unemployment because of the crippling blizzards.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Bess Truman, widow of President Harry S. Truman, quietly celebrated her 92nd birthday Sunday with her only daughter, Margaret, in the white Victorian house she grew up in.

CINNCINNATI — Kidnaping charges have been filed against Jessie L. Coulter and his ex-wife, Rita, whose weekend visit to an unwed mother's home to get information about their long-lost son turned into 15 hours of terror for eight hostages in a locked, windowless room. Coulter surrendered Saturday after being duped that a police officer was his son. Six of the hostages escaped earlier and the other two were unharmed also.

International

NEW DELHI, India — Lillian Carter, who led the U. S. delegation at the funeral of President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed, has decided to fly to Bombay to visit the village where she served as a Peace Corps volunteer a decade ago. The U. S. Embassy said today. She is scheduled to return to Washington Tuesday night.

Busy ice carvers

With a little chiseling on the part of Mike Rooney, kneeling, of 72 Lockwood St., and David Berneto of 18 Bolton St., this block of ice hopefully will be sculpted to resemble "Charlie Brown." The ice sculpting contest was held Saturday in front of Top Notch Foods on N. Main St. and co-sponsored by the store and the Manchester Rec Department. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Top ice sculpture is cool mermaid

It was a little cold for a mermaid to be out last Saturday, but the one that was carved from a block of ice in an ice sculpting contest in front of Top Notch Foods in Manchester won first place for its sculptors, Heather Cole, Holly Cole, Albert Cole and Gretia Cole, all of 354 Main St.

Other winning sculptures were as follows: Second place—"The Bear," by Tam Le of 22 Spencer St.; Phyllis Combs of 710 Vernon St. and Elaine Deaso of 595 Tolland Tpk.; third place—"Abe Lincoln," by Russ Rosten of 80 Benton St. and Alan Miskunas of 59 Overlook Dr.; fourth place—"Jimmy Carter," by Randee Trahita of 318 Ferguson Rd., Carolyn Egan of 75 Jarvis Rd., Becky Bourret of 23 Fleming Rd. and Jacqueline Hedlund of 91 Pitkin St.

Ship's tests show little contamination of Georges Bank area

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (UPI) — University of Rhode Island's research ship "Endeavor" returned to port Sunday morning after four days of taking water and sediment samples in the Georges Bank area around the sunken Liberian tanker Argo Merchant.

Sheldon Pratt, the chief scientist aboard the cruise, said early indications show little oil contamination even though the Argo Merchant dumped 7.6 million gallons of oil into the rich fishing area last December. "We only saw oil droplets in one of 38 locations," Pratt said. "That certainly can be contrasted to the original picture we had."

The one location with oil was near the bow of the wrecked tanker. "The sediment samples we took there have a good quantity of oil in them in the form of small droplets," Pratt said.

However, the scientist said fishing does not seem to be affected. "We did see a large fishing fleet within ten miles of the site," he said.

The scientist also added little oil was found in the water samples. "A bunch of our deep water samples will be analyzed in the laboratory, and it will take some weeks or months to complete," he said.

"However, we did have some on-board screening from the Coast Guard scientists, and they indicated that there is very little oil in the water." Rhode Island is now trying to recover the cost of the cruise and other expenses. Atty Gen. Julius Michaelson filed a lawsuit against owners of the Argo Merchant for costs estimated at over $100,000.

The next cruise of "Endeavor" is planned for Feb. 21, according to a university spokesman. The crew will study the spill's effect on fish eggs and on plankton, the tiny plants and animals which are the basis of the food chain in the ocean.

The man was described as white, in his late 20s, and about six feet tall and 160 pounds. He had dark hair, shoulder-length hair, a mustache, dark eyes and black-rimmed glasses, police reported.

Panel to consider major education legislation

HARTFORD (UPI) — The legislature's Education Committee will consider reform of higher education governing bodies and a fair and legally acceptable formula to relieve the school tax-burdened property owner, according to the committee's co-chairman.

Sen. Richard F. Schneller, D-Essex, said Saturday these and other issues that will have a long term impact on education in the state will be confronted in the current session.

On the long-debated subject of deciding how higher education should be governed, Schneller said it's his feeling the 1977 Legislature "will either see some reorganization or the matter will be laid to rest for some time."

Higher education is now governed by five separate boards with the Commission for Higher Education acting as a coordinating body.

Missionary to speak at Gibbons Assembly

Sister Marie Alice LaGace of Manchester, a missionary to Africa, will be guest speaker Tuesday at the 8 p.m. meeting of Gibbons Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, at the Manchester Knights of Columbus Home.

Sister LaGace will discuss "Meditation and Contemplation with the aid of Christian Yoga," a technique for physical and mental relaxation, and the "Jesus Prayer," a prayer used by the Monks from the third to 14th century.

Directors plan hearings on town budget

The Town of Manchester will hold three neighborhood public hearings to allow input into next year's budget before the budget is actually drawn up.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said that, in the past, public hearings on the budget have been conducted until the first draft of the document has been completed.

The three neighborhood hearings will allow townspeople to make suggestions before the first draft is done.

The hearings will be held on Monday, Feb. 28, Thursday, March 3, and Thursday, March 10, Weiss said. No locations have yet been selected, but he said two of the hearings would be held in the north and east sections of Manchester. The third hearing will probably be at the McKee St. fire house.

The annual public hearing, held after the budget draft is completed, will still be scheduled, Weiss said. This hearing is usually held the first week in April.

Weiss said that the idea for these neighborhood budget hearings came from a suggestion by Mayor Matthew Moriarty, who thought that neighborhood hearings would provide input to town officials on general items connected with Manchester.

Weiss applied the suggestion specifically to the budget. "I thought it was an excellent suggestion," he said.

7-11 store robbed

A man with a small handgun held up the 7-11 store at 253 Main St. Saturday and took $285, police said.

Police said that the man entered the store about 1:30 a.m. Saturday and purchased $8 worth of items. He left, but returned at 12:15 p.m.

On the second visit, he put the gun to recover the cost of the cruise and other expenses. Atty Gen. Julius Michaelson filed a lawsuit against owners of the Argo Merchant for costs estimated at over $100,000.

The man was described as white, in his late 20s, and about six feet tall and 160 pounds. He had dark hair, shoulder-length hair, a mustache, dark eyes and black-rimmed glasses, police reported.

Police report

Manchester Police reported the theft of several items from a W. Middle Tpk. apartment Saturday night.

Police said that several antique items, including furniture, silverware, and china, were taken in the theft from a storage area.

The break was reported shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday, police said. A sewing machine and a silver tea set were also reported missing. There was no value listed for the missing items.

A Manchester woman was treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital Saturday for minor injuries following an accident on Summit St.

Police said that Charlotte B. Pyka, 61, of 72 Duane St. was southbound on Summit St. Handall W. Glemey, 26, of 487 Grove St., was eastbound on Grove St. and stopped at the intersection.

He pulled forward to see past a snow bank, police said. When he did this, his car struck the upcoming vehicle operated by Ms. Pyka, police reported.

She was treated and released for bruises, and there were no charges made.

Manchester Police also reported the following weekend arrests:

• James F. Roy, 18, of East Hartford, charged with operating a vehicle while his license is under suspension. Court date is March 1.

• James J. Egan, 60, of 185 E. Center St., charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of drugs or alcohol and evading responsibility. Court date is March 1.

MACC news

A public hearing concerning the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) welfare grant program in the State of Connecticut is scheduled for tomorrow evening. We urge you to contact your representatives concerning this most pressing issue.

Rep. Francis Mahoney, a member of the Appropriations Committee, may be contacted at 119 Hamilton St., Sen. David Barry, at 315 Center St., and Rep. Ted Cummings at 87 Lantion Rd. They look forward to hearing from you.

The rest AFDC payment allows $2.94 a week or $3.27 per day for food for a family of three. If the family keeps enough aside to buy food stamps, an additional 6 cents per day is available, bringing the total to $3.10 a day for three persons. If you have just taken a pencil and worked out a daily menu based on these figures you've seen what is and what isn't possible. Thank God for the food stamps at least.

Based on April 71 prices, the AFDC food allowance for a family of three is $4.21. May '76 prices indicate that the real cost is in excess of $4.85 a week.

Since some of you have been sending checks, large and small, and all checks, large and small are most appreciated with notes indicating your deep concern for these and other families suffering from this winter's triple barreled onslaught of no jobs, higher prices and severe cold, we would again urge you to contact the men and women who translate your concerns into action in Capitol Hill.

Home needs look for homes for a number of low-income families. One young family for whom we are deeply concerned is still living at the Essex Motor Inn with their 18-month-old baby. Monday, the little one came back "home" to the motel after a tonsillectomy. Home is now one room with no cooking facilities. There are no eating facilities at the motel and the closest reasonably priced place to eat is Friendly's. Several social workers (one from state and one from town welfare) have been looking with us, including a public health nurse.

This particular family is receiving the AFDC flat grant of $37 a month. (Actually, the grant is $37.42 a month.) The rent allowance is $101.85. At this point, we're facing a very large question. Is there a two bedroom apartment renting for $101.85? This family can also go as high as $11.82 a month for electricity and cooking fuel and another $22.83 for their heating and hot water bills. Even if they put part of their food money and all their allowance for clothes and extras into rent, it

Lawmaker's work is never done

Someone made a count a few years ago of all the federal, state and local laws which govern the lives of Americans. The figure was in the millions. Whether or not the total included the multitude of rules promulgated by regulatory agencies, which have the force of law, or included laws which are little more than dead letters though still on the books, really doesn't matter. Enough new laws are passed each year to more than make up for those that fall by the wayside.

In Ohio, for example, which can probably be considered typical, bills waiting to be introduced include handgun control, mandatory deposits on beverage containers, voter registration by mail for handicapped persons, a sales tax on casual sales of watercraft and outboard motors, a prohibition on telephone company charges for directory assistance when the number is not listed in the telephone book, the exemption of volunteer rescue vehicles from motor vehicle registration fees, creation of a Civilian Conservation Corps and Spanish-Speaking Affairs Commission, tougher penalties for drug violators, and on and on and on.

The nation not only has a new Congress this year. The legislatures of 49 states are slated to convene sometime during 1977. Only Kentucky, which is one of a handful of states whose legislatures regularly meet only every other year, will be spared the onslaught of expected legislation. The fact that any state still has a part-time legislature suggests that, complex as society has become, we still cling to certain traditions from simpler days. Even many of the states whose legislatures meet every year have set limits on the length of sessions. One of the shortest is Alabama's 30 days. The good people of the state have wisely determined that if there is anything demanding the attention of the lawmakers in Montgomery, a month is plenty of time for them to deal with it. Any longer and they would only get into mischief. Time limits or part-time legislatures notwithstanding, however, we can look for a boom year in lawmaking, as the solons in the respective states consider just about everything under the sun.

The Ohio Legislature passed a "privacy act" during its 1976 session, with the admirable intention of shielding confidential personal information about individuals from the prying eyes of people with no need to know about it. The law was so sloppily written, however, that even lawyers, who delight in making simple things complex, are complaining that no law at all would have been better. One of its initial effects has been a virtual clampdown on any kind of information given out by public authorities. The law director of Cleveland has even advised the fire department not to tell reporters the location of a fire or the names of the people involved because it could be construed as a violation of the privacy law. Lucky Kentucky.

Passage of the "Bottle bill," which would prohibit throwaway bottles, is a main goal of two statewide organizations — the League of Women Voters and the Connecticut Citizens Action Group. The LWV and CCAAG have both indicated their primary concerns for this year's state legislature. The LWV lists the following four items as its "topics of higher concern" for the 1977 session.
• Passage of the Bottle Bill.
• Payment of cost-of-living increases for families involved in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program.
• Strengthening of the state's Freedom of Information Act, which allows the public to obtain certain records and attend some meetings that had previously been considered confidential.
• Reaffirmation of the state's support of the Equal Rights Amendment.

CCAG has listed 22 bills in its "citizen legislative program." Along with the Bottle Bill, CCAG's list includes legislation to:
• Require yearly inspections of motor vehicles to check for safety and pollution controls.
• Ban all fluorocarbons used as propellants for aerosol products manufactured or sold in the state.

Did Kojak help pull the trigger?

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Consider Ralph Leroy Clayton that night last summer. He had fallen asleep in front of his TV set in rural Juniata County, Pa., 15 miles east of Lewistown, while watching Kojak. Clayton was abruptly awakened by his wife who was frightened by a car that had driven to their house and then backed out several times. As her husband got up and opened the door, Mrs. Clayton testified later in court, she heard Chester Riley Scott — a man with whom Clayton had had words — yell from the darkness: "You son of a bitch you, I'm going to kill you."

Shot from the hip
By the time Scott, 25, reached the porch, Clayton, confused and unnerved by the stream of obscenities from outside, was ready with a 12-gauge magnum shotgun. One shot from the hip through the screen door

Reorganization and presidential power

WASHINGTON — The purpose of federal government reorganization—as pushed by President Carter and his Republican and Democratic predecessors—is not primarily to increase efficiency. Reorganization is crucially important if a president is to gain effective working control over his departments and agencies. The civil service laws, important as they are in protecting employee rights, serve to make it virtually impossible for a president effectively to manage the federal government short of a major reorganization.

Only a thin layer applies to a thin layer of officials at the apex of the State Department, Pentagon, Treasury, Agriculture and the other agencies he is charged with administering. At the working level he must depend on the senior civil servants. Firing any of these, shifting them from one post to another or transferring them to other departments to fit his particular style and purposes is all but impossible. In recent years it has not been accomplished at least to the degree necessary for effective working control by the White House and Cabinet.

Entrenched
Most of the senior civil servants today are so entrenched with key congressmen through mutual back scratching — and so tied in with

Today's thought
Love
This love of which I speak is slow to lose patience — it looks for a way of being constructive. It is not possessive; it is neither anxious to impress nor does it cherish inflated ideas of its own importance. Love has good manners and does not pursue selfish advantage. It is not touchy. It does not keep account of evil or gloat over the wickedness of other people. On the contrary, it is glad with all good persons when truth prevails.

killed Scott instantly. He died still clutching his only "weapon" — a cigarette butt and pack of matches, and a silver dollar-size hole in his chest. The case came to trial recently and on Jan. 29 Clayton was acquitted of criminal homicide by a jury. Left unanswered was the question: Why did Clayton pull the trigger on this night when he admittedly had succeeded in turning aside Scott's taunts by ignoring them in previous encounters? Why? Although neither the defense nor the prosecution pursued this theory in court, I can name some very respected behavioral scientists who likely would underscore the fact that the last thing Clayton remembered before being jolted awake was watching Kojak — one of TV's most violent programs.

The scientific link between television violence and imitative behavior by adults is not as well established as the similar effects of such violence on children. But the circumstantial evidence to that end is mounting. Recent studies also point strongly on TV's power to spur aggressiveness in adults as it does in children, and to create in them a distorted view of how dangerous the real world is. At UCLA, for example, some 200 couples were divided into three groups and fed different TV diets for two weeks. One group watched violent shows each evening. A second watched such programs as Sesame Street. A third, control, group watched no television.

Startling results
One of the researchers, David Loye, reported to a conference of the American Psychiatric Association that preliminary results were "startling for a field study." Participants showed major effects of the programming: the violence-watchers rated themselves more and more hostile as the time passed and were noticeably more aggressive toward and less tolerant of those around them, including their families. The mood of the Sesame Street group, on the other hand, became more charitable. In 1976, Canada's Royal Commission on Violence in the Communications Industry concluded that "the evidence from more than 100 studies of screen (and TV) violence and aggressive behavior... is fairly conclusive. The presentation of media violence can lead to an increase in the level of aggression." Cold statistics, however, don't tell this sad tale as well as such events as these:

Deadly imitation
A 14-year-old Canadian boy watched a mock self-hanging by rock star Alice Cooper on TV and killed himself trying to duplicate the stunt. A slayer in several murder cases had seen the film "Magnum Force" three times the week before killing his victims by forcing them to drink lye, in direct imitation of what he had viewed in the film.

Where does the buck stop?
Where does the buck stop for such ugliness? TV executives and commercial sponsors must share the blame. So must we, the consuming public, who show a ready appetite for violence even as we decry it. In addition, the sick minds of too many of our so-called "creative" artists — writers, actors and directors — are due much more blame than we've been inclined to give them. We're, in a sense, are at the mercy of the novelist, poet, creator of cinema, the lyricist, and the playwright," says noted psychologist Victor B. Cline of the University of Utah. "I would plead with them to give us — at least in part — a new vision of man, a new set of heroes. Let us see at least some heroes who can cope, who can solve problems in responsible ways. If our civilization is to survive, our arts will have to contain some positive values and will at least some of the time present an image of man reflecting his greatness, his potential for good, and his infinite capacity to love and have concern for the welfare of his brother and his neighbor."

Reflections

Hal Turkington
Managing Editor

Been out sledding this winter? Where'd you go? Center Springs? Find any hills around for sledding? We were reading an old copy of The Herald recently, and there was a story that brought back memories for this correspondent. It will others, too.

The story said: "Two more streets in town have been closed for guarded sledding. Guarded sledding. Back in the 1930s, some of Manchester's side streets were shut off to traffic to allow places for children to slide. The story we referred to said that Garden St. and Eldridge St. would be closed to traffic for a portion of each day for sledding. Horace Murphy was the park commissioner then.

There were guards at both the top and the bottom of the streets to close off traffic; barricades were also placed there, detouring traffic away from the streets. "Double rips" were not allowed; those were double sleds on which two people rode. Only single sleds were allowed. Officials were fearful of accidents by the bigger sleds. We did our sledding on Garden St., for the most part, but we did get into other areas of town. On Winter St., we'd start the slide from the long driveway at 55 Winter St., make a right turn onto the street, and either keep going west on Valley St. or into the park. If you had any kind of luck, you could sled all the way to Newman St. In the park, we had trails that went all the way to the pond. We "posted" our own guards at intersections. Other streets? There was Foster St., Henry St., Cambridge St., Hemlock St., Coburn Rd., Old St. Don't forget the Old Golf Lots which is now Memorial Field at Manchester High School. One of the greatest stretches of roadway for sledding was Birch Mt. Rd. But you needed a lot of guards up there. When you started at the top, you could plan on a descent of about two or three miles; it was a great run! About the guards? Well, they were hired by Murphy for the job. They received lunches and hot drinks while on duty, and they also had permission to accept the same from neighbors on the streets. They could go off their tour and into a home to get relief from the cold, provided another guard came on duty for that period. Cars were not as numerous in the 1930s. Motorists didn't mind driving to the next street to get where they were going. There aren't many sledding areas around today, and we certainly are not advocating street closings for the sport; you really can't do it today because of the heavy vehicular traffic.

But it was a lot of fun in the 1930s.

Looking for 'Kojak lollipops'
Youngsters reach into the desk of Police Chief Robert Lannan (right) to get "Kojak lollipops" given out Sunday at an open house at the Manchester Police Department. The open house, sponsored by the Police Department and the Exchange Club of Manchester, attracted about 500 people. The tour of the station included talks and demonstrations about the daily activities of the local law enforcers. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Brainard denies charges he dropped budget figures

Neither the council nor its chairman has the right to delete the figures because it is a town manager's decision, Brainerd said. He said the Town Council's budget responsibility is to delete the proposed figures and the town manager's responsibilities lie with the format and printing of the budget.

Mad Bomber' star in MCC hoop win

By DAVE ROBACK

The 'Mad Bomber' strikes again, and again, and... In real life he goes by the name of Marc Cheney, but on the basketball court he is the 'Mad Bomber'. And it is appropriate as Cheney hit nine straight points in the final three minutes from the 15-20 foot range to give Manchester Community College a 58-56 come-from-behind victory over Tunxis Community College Saturday night at Plainville High.

Massengale planned rest but Hope win alters mind

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Rick Massengale, who won the Bob Hope Desert Classic with a tournament record 337, had second thoughts today about playing this week in the Los Angeles Open.

After winning the $40,000 top prize and an $8,000 automobile in the Hope, Massengale said he was going home to Texas to rest. He said playing five days in the warm desert had sapped his strength.

Later, he talked things over with brother Don and decided that as long as he was in a winning groove he should play in Los Angeles.

Bruce Lietzke, the man Massengale beat here by six strokes, agreed to play in Los Angeles a couple of weeks ago.

Lietzke's goal is to play in as many tournaments as possible, especially now that he is on a streak. But his father is ill in a Houston hospital and, naturally, he is concerned.

"Right now," he said Sunday, after matching Massengale's 57 and running his streak to 25 rounds of par or less, "my plans are to play in Los Angeles. But I am concerned about my dad. I think I should spend some time with him."

So, there is a strong possibility Lietzke will compete in Los Angeles along with most of this year's best players, including Tom Watson, who missed the Hope after winning the Crosby and San Diego Open.

Lietzke, who won the Tucson and Hawaiian Opens by coming from behind, started the last round of the 90-round Hope Sunday, six shots behind Palmer in the first Hope Classic.

"That was my goal, to get the record," said Massengale. "This is a big victory for me. Now, I've got my confidence back. It's nice to win early in the year because then you have a chance to win again. Two tournaments is my goal."

Lietzke played well all this past week but he never could get close to Massengale, who led every step of the way. Lietzke finished at 17-under 243, four shots ahead of Bobby Walze and five better than Mike Morley and Bob Shearer.

Palmer, playing for the fourth week in a row, wound up at 35 and said he was greatly encouraged by his continued fine play. Lietzke won $22,800 and now has 1977 earnings of $123,350, easily the best of anyone. Watson, who passed up the Hope and like Lietzke has won twice this year, is second at $95,101.

East Hartford trackmen snap Indian win streak

Knocked from the unbeaten ranks Saturday was Manchester High's indoor track team by East Hartford High by a 58-35 count. The Indian track team had won 11 consecutive meets since the season was paced by Marty Jordan (16) and Mark Dunlin (14).

Hoop shrine Whalers sting Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (UPI) — It was bank day in Cincinnati, but Stinger coach Terry Slater felt the only giveaways occurred on the ice. Bank day was a promotion where banks gave away money to children to encourage them to start bank accounts.

back. He made a run at Massengale by leading the front nine in 32 to cut the lead to five and, for a minute or two, trailed by only four on the backside. But Massengale, playing the best golf of his career, rolled home three birdies coming back, including one of 30 feet on the final hole, to win by six and break the tournament record of 338 set in 1960 by Arnold Palmer in the first Hope Classic.

Pate to play

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, knocked off the PGA golf trail when his wife contracted the mumps, will play in the $200,000 Los Angeles Open, the seventh and last event on the pro schedule's winter tour.

Pro hockey

Governors in Chicago today to determine the fate of the team. "I think the guys have responded very well," said Cleveland Coach Jack Evans. "We were playing good prior to the All-Star break, but then the news broke in Vancouver. After the initial shock, we've settled down and played as though nothing was the matter."

Indian matmen bow

Dumped for the eighth time in 11 outings Saturday was Manchester High's wrestling team, 33-18, by Forni High in Enfield. Cory Chandler, Bill Tedford, Chris Luz, Mike Scholsky and Bob Gagon picked up points for Manchester. Tom Jones, who normally wrestles at 188 (pound class), moved up to the unlimited division.

Cops prevail

Winners of the annual Cops and Robbers (Clergy) charity basketball game last night at Manchester High's Clarke Arena were the Cops by a 43-42 count. Attendance was 525 with proceeds of $330 going to charity.

Walker, Bayi in top form

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Walker and Filbert Bayi, the arch-rivals and world record holders who may never again run against each other, turned in their best performances of the indoor season Saturday night.

Walker, showing no ill effects from a nagging glandular infection, pulled away from the field on the final lap to win the 1,500-meter in 3:40.2 at the ninth U.S. Olympic Invitational Meet in New York.

Tanzania's Bayi, the world-record holder in the 1,500-meter, ran his fastest mile of the indoor season to capture that event in 3:57.2 at the Mason-Dixon Games in Louisville.

The Tanzanian government prohibits Bayi from running against Walker, the world's mile record holder and Olympic 1,500-meter gold medal winner from New Zealand, because of New Zealand's relations with South Africa.

Walker was forced to pass up the Toronto Indoor Games Friday night because of swollen glands, but wanted to face the challenge of the current indoor mile sensation, Niall O'Shaughnessy of Ireland, in the Olympic 1,000-meter.

Team play difference in West NBA victory

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Team play, Rick Barry said, made the difference in the West's 125-124 triumph over the East in the National Basketball Association's 27th All-Star game.

He could have said Rick Barry was a standout on the team that defeated Julius "Dr. J." Erving — who won Most Valuable honors though playing on the losing team — and associates on the East squad.

"I think we were a better team," Barry said. "They had some great individual performances, but they did most of it on their own. We worked as a team. And Westphal got the big steal at the end. We played better defense."

His defense might have been "better" against most of the East, but it was futile against Dr. J. and Bob McAdoo. Each scored 30 points and Dr. J. stuffed the ball three times to draw cheers from the sellout audience of 10,938.

He was a going-away winner in the vote for MVP but said he was disappointed in losing the game.

"Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) and (Bob) Lanier and Barry did enough for them to win," Erving said. "It was contrary to public opinion in the arena."

He referred to loud boos when he was announced as the winner. But he soon cheers when he came to mid-court to receive the MVP trophy.

Best evidence of the "team" aspect of the West's win was the fact that Abdul-Jabbar was high scorer with 21 points, followed by Westphal with 20 and Thompson and Barry with 18 each. Six West players were in double figures.

Capacity crowd watches Rockville, Edwards win

Before a capacity crowd of 500 Saturday night at Iling Junior High, the first Iling Basketball Invitation was staged — and it was not a productive evening for local entries. Rockville High's freshmen in a squeaker got past Iling Junior High, 63-62, and unbeaten Timothy Edwards of South Windsor routed a good Bennet and Junior High five, 86-59. Rockville led at all turns, 19-12, 31-29 and 50-38. The Rams rallied in the final stanza but fell one point short. Steve Cohen had 19 points, John Ostrowski 16 and Randy McCado 13 for few high school teams and hold their own. Tony Moccio led the winners with 23 points followed by Jamie Gallagher adding 16 and Ken Hill seven markers. Ed Kennison had 14 points and Rich Koepsel and Jeff Lombardo 10 apiece for Bennet, which only lost in 13 outings.

East girls stop HPHS

Pegging its final regular season mark at 18-5 Saturday morning was East Catholic's girls' basketball team with a 51-35 win over Hartford Public at the Eagles' Nest. The Eagles' new await word of the rankings and pairings for the State Tournament, which will be announced Saturday in Hamden. Trailing 21-18 at the half, East caught fire in the third stanza pumping in 22 points compared to four for the visitors. That was more than enough for the win. East, without the services of high-scoring guard Carol Lemonay and Kathy Hall, both out with injuries, was led by Rita Lupacchino and Kathy Doocy with 16 and 14 points respectively. The frontcourt pair also combined for 27 rebounds, 17 by Lupacchino, Debbie Burnett had 12 markers for East. Sunday's Results: New England 5, Cincinnati 4, Indianapolis 5, Winnipeg 7, Indianapolis 5, Edmonton 5, Calgary 2, San Diego 5, Phoenix 2.

MCC defeat string four

Suffering its fourth straight setback Saturday night was Manchester Community College's women's basketball team, winning 61-34 to the University of Hartford at the Hawks' gym. Hartford connected on its first eight shots from the floor and raced to a 28-10 halftime edge. The smaller Cougars were forced to shoot from the outside and were not able to secure many offensive rebounds. Karen Groah and Laurie Weinstein had 16 and 14 points respectively for MCC. Groah 8 0-0 16, Books 4 3-8 11, Burnett 4 1-2 12, Chapis 3 0-0 6. Totals 13 9-18 35.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: When someone makes a donation to a charity in the name of a friend as a Christmas gift, who gets the tax deduction?

DEAR DBL: The person who pays out the money for a tax-deductible gift gets the deduction, not the person in whose name the donation was made.
