Solar energy expert speaks

Bright future forecast for solar energy use

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

Joel Gordes, speaking Wednesday night at Lutz Junior Museum, gave a bright forecast for the future of solar energy. About 25 people turned out to hear Gordes, an employee of Solar Industries, Inc. in Waterbury and a lobbyist for solar needs. "If this was five years ago, this room would probably be empty," Gordes said at the start of his 90-minute presentation. "But, that was before an Arab oil embargo and a cold snap like this winter." He gave a brief history of solar energy and explained that the use of the sun as a source of energy goes back to the days of Archimedes. He showed a slide of an Indian home started in 700 A.D. that included a passive heating system, one without fans or piping that naturally retained the sun's warmth.

He also showed a slide of an Indian "Sun Kachina," a god that they considered among the most powerful. "They worshipped the sun's energy. Possibly, we'll be doing that in our own way very soon," Gordes said. This present-day worshipping may begin as other energy sources become less plentiful and more expensive, he said. Charts and statistics in the slide presentation showed the decline in the world's fuel supply. "What took millions of years to develop will be gone in just a few years," he said. He also said that electricity for heating is "one of the most inefficient uses of energy." And he questioned the increased interest in the use of atomic energy as a source of power. "Some people in the 50s thought this would be the

State

HARTFORD — Douglas Michael Costle, 38, is the choice of President Carter to head up the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Costle, now assistant director of the Congressional Budget Office, succeeds Russell Train. He is a former deputy commissioner and commissioner of the Connecticut EPA.

HARTFORD — Legislators and parents Wednesday claim Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church uses "indoctrination" and "brainwashing" on its members.

HARTFORD — A legislative package designed to update Connecticut's corporation laws for the first time in nearly 20 years has been proposed by Secretary of State Gloria Schaffer.

HARTFORD — Connecticut's 40,000 state workers will receive $2 million in back pay they were promised but never given when Gov. Ella Grasso signs a bill approved Wednesday by the Senate restoring one-quarter of the annual increment taken away in 1975 when the state faced a financial crisis. The House approved the bill Feb. 10.

Regional

BOSTON — While both Mayor Kevin H. White and the Boston School Committee are eager to see an end to federal receivership at South Boston High School, a group of leaders from the city's black community are seeking to extend the order. The pros and cons were to be argued in court today.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Police are investigating a "Teen Challenge Club" in which children won bicycles, BB guns and other prizes for performing sex acts. Two middlemen were arrested in connection with the club.

BOSTON — The defense has rested its case in the extortion and conspiracy trial of state Sens. Joseph J. C. DiCarlo and Ronald MacKenzie after calling 25 witnesses in 17 days.

National

WASHINGTON — Thwarted in every effort to get a roll call vote on a proposed $13,000 annual raise for members of Congress, opponents of the salary hike planned at least a symbolic protest today before the House adjourned for the week. The pay raise will take effect Sunday since it did not get a specific vote of disapproval.

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration moved today to quell growing Senate opposition to Paul Warnke as U. S. strategic arms negotiator, denying a critic's suggestion the former Pentagon official will be a "disarmament czar."

ORLANDO, Fla. — Investigators said Wednesday up to a third of the food stamps handed out in Florida are fraudulently obtained and then used to buy anything from guns and booze to sex.

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday the average refund sent to taxpayers who have already filed 1976 returns was $456.34, the highest ever. However, in processing 1.8 million returns, IRS found one in every 10 early filers made mistakes — also a new record.

WASHINGTON — President Carter says he wants normal relations between United States and all nations, and Cuba's reported willingness to withdraw troops from Angola is a step toward that goal.

International

LONDON — Britain has ordered former CIA agent Philip Agee and newspaper reporter Mark Hosenball to leave the country for violating "national security."

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The Roman Catholic Church has refused a government order to expel all black and mulatto students from Catholic schools or face loss of accreditation.

CAIRO, Egypt — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, calling Egyptian President Sadat a "man of vision," arrived in Egypt today with an Israeli request to find out whether the Arab world might agree to limited negotiations in the Middle East.

Carter hears solons' views on economic stimulus plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter indicated today that a scaling down of his proposed $50 income tax rebate was "workable," according to the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said after a White House meeting between Carter and committee Democrats that the President did not object to panel changes in his plan to give a $50 tax rebate to almost all Americans. The committee, which is working on Carter's $31 billion economic stimulus plan, voted Wednesday not to provide a full rebate to Americans making more than $25,000 — and none at all to those making more than $30,000.

"The President was extremely understanding of whatever changes we made," Ullman said. "What we had was an understanding that it was workable and that it was a procedure that made some sense."

Ullman said there was "no conclusion as to what we agreed to or what we didn't agree to. That was not the purpose of the meeting."

"We brought all of these ideas, put them on the table, and the President and his people were able to participate with us in the exchange of ideas."

During Carter's first weeks in office, congressional leaders complained they were not being consulted on important issues as Carter had promised. He promptly apologized and stepped up his schedule of meetings with them.

The economic stimulus plan, which the Ways and Means Committee began rewriting Wednesday, calls for changes in the standard income tax deduction and Carter said his first version was off-base on that subject.

He outlined the problem during a question and answer session with federal workers at the Agriculture Department Wednesday, noting with a grin that "people who do live together and are not married have a benefit in income tax." He said the original economic package would have provided a $2,400 standard deduction for single people and $2,800 for married couples.

"We have changed that proposal and we have given a $2,200 standard deduction to single people, $3,000 to married people," he said.

During the meeting with HEW workers, Carter said he intends to move toward national health care in phases. He said he plans by the end of 1977 to have a schedule in mind for "a year by year progression toward a complete comprehensive health care system."

On other issues Wednesday:

— Carter said he would like to move toward normalizing relations with Angola, Cuba, Vietnam and other nations. One roadblock to full diplomatic relations with Angola has been the presence of Cuban troops there, but Carter said he has learned through "indirect sources" Cuba has promised to remove the troops.

— White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter "fully supports the 16-month test period for the Concorde in the terms originally proposed," and will not interfere with it. Powell said Carter relayed that message to the French and British governments.

— Carter told Cabinet members he will hold them "personally responsible" for carrying out his orders to cut down the number of unnecessary government forms businesses and individuals must fill out.

— Carter said as part of his "zero base budgeting" plan for fiscal 1979, federal employees will be asked to write a one-page description of their job, along with ideas on how it could be improved.

MHA says town told of deficit for proposed housing project

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

Manchester Housing Authority members and the authority's attorney, Dominic Squatrito, said Wednesday night that town officials knew last June that more funds would be needed for the proposed elderly housing project and that authority members thought a commitment for the funds had been made then.

It was revealed this week that the Housing Authority had not taken steps to obtain additional funds from the third phase of the town's share of federal Community Development funds. The $301,000 in funds have already been committed to other projects.

The state Department of Community Affairs (DCA) has withheld approval of the 40-unit housing project until it receives a written commitment from the authority of an additional source of funds beyond the state's $640,000 allotment which was committed in 1973.

Squatrito told members Wednesday night that his understanding of a June 1, 1976 meeting he had with the Town Board of Directors was that the directors understood the needs for additional monies and that he was told to "go forward" on the project. He said also that there was no formal vote taken on the issue at the June meeting.

Members of the Authority said they had not been concerned about receiving the needed Community Development funds because they thought they "had been covered" by the June 1 meeting.

Authority members said Wednesday they knew of the DCA's request for an assurance on the additional funds at their Dec. 15 meeting. Dr. Joseph Danyliw, vice-chairman of the authority, asked Wednesday night that the minutes of the meeting be amended to include a Dec. 6 letter from Michael Duffy of the DCA in which the request was made.

Richard Schwolsky, chairman of the proposed project for the authority, said Wednesday the authority members "may have been remiss in not following up" on the funding needs and "in assuming funds were taken care of." However, he said if the members had known the funds were not included in the Community Development allotment, they would have been at the hearings to make a request.

The authority is now in need of an additional $175,124 for the housing project, according to a cost outline in a letter drafted by Squatrito to be

Alleged leaders of coup die in crash

KAMPALA, Uganda (UI) — Two government ministers and an Anglican archbishop accused of plotting to overthrow President Idi Amin were killed in a traffic accident while trying to overpower an arresting officer, a government spokesman said today.

The victims were Janani Luwum, archbishop of Uganda, Burundi and Rwanda; Land and Water Resources Minister Lt. Col. Erinyo Oryema and Internal Affairs Minister Oboth Otuubi.

The three, implicated by Amin in an abortive coup plot, were arrested late Wednesday but Radio Uganda announced at the time this was only provisional, pending a full investigation.

sent to Town Manager Robert Weiss in behalf of the authority.

Of the total amount needed, Squatrito said, $92,267 could be covered by Community Development Funds. Those costs would include construction of a road from Spencer St. to the site and the utilities and a storm sewer under the road.

Director of Human Services/Alan N. Mason said today those items would qualify under the CD guidelines. The CD funds cannot cover any construction costs which would include bringing the utilities from the road into the various buildings.

Mason said the Board of Directors could change their vote of Feb. 8 to commit the funds. The project has not yet been submitted for review in the state clearing house for federal funds, he said.

A special meeting of the Board of Directors and the Housing Authority has been set for Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building to discuss the funding problems.

The authority will also ask the directors for $82,837 from the Town's General Funds, to cover the cost overruns.

The total additional funds now needed are only $66,000 more than was requested of the Town Directors last June, Squatrito said. The additions include $40,000 in anticipated price escalation to the time of bidding and a $25,500 contingency funds which was increased from $8,000.

The total cost of the project now comes to $967,286, Squatrito reported. That amount includes the $640,000 in committed state monies, and $152,162 already spent for land out of town and Community Development funds.

Squatrito's contention that $30,000 had already been earmarked for the project from CD funds this year, leaving only $62,000, is not correct, according to Mason. He said no funds for the housing project were included in this year's CD requests. The $30,000 was committed in the first year of funding, he said, and was spent for site development.

Mason also said that he did not receive any formal requests last year from either Housing Authority or the Board of Directors for CD funds for the housing project.

Judge rescinds leases to off-shore oil tracts

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge today rescinded the sale of $1.1 billion in leases for offshore drilling rights off the New Jersey and Long Island coasts.

Judge Jack B. Weinstein in U.S. District Court rescinded the leases for 93 tracts on the grounds that former secretary of the interior, Thomas Kleppe, had violated the National Environmental Policy Act.

In a 132-page decision, Weinstein said, "Judged against 'a rule of reason' the secretary of the interior violated NEPA. The parties are enjoined from further proceeding with the exercise of any powers purportedly granted by Sale 40 leases executed by the defendant."

"The leases are declared null and void. This order is stayed pending the completion of appeals, if any."

Weinstein also said in his decision that "there is no showing of illegal acts by the oil companies. The fact that they must suffer because of the secretary's failures was considered by the court."

"The public's rights and equities are paramount and must prevail."

The federal government last August sold leases for 93 of the 154 tracts in the offshore area 50 to 100 miles east of the New Jersey coast and 100 miles south of Long Island.

Long Island's Nassau and Suffolk counties along with two environmental groups sought a permanent injunction barring the Interior Department from allowing the drilling to begin.

Although drilling has not yet been started by the approximately 40 companies that bought leases, the federal government estimates 400 million to 1.4 billion in the area known as the Baltimore Canyon.

Shrine Circus right on target of being especially for kids

Circuses are for kids, and that's what the Shriners have put together for its 1977 show at the State Armory in Hartford.

Kids like animals, and there are plenty of them in the 4th annual Sphinx Temple Shrine Circus.

Lions! Joseph Marcan's African lions perform early in the show. Marcan wrestles with one, rides another, and three leap through a ring of fire.

Dogs! The Phillips Canine Revue has dancing dogs. Baboons! These trained My-Imba baboons perform in the center ring of the three-ring circus, riding bikes, dancing, and juggling.

Elephants! The Christiani elephants are known the world over. They thunder into the ring and balance on a ball, form the London Bridge, and do a variety of stunts and dances.

Horses! Golden Mist, the wonder horse, does a routine to music.

The Hamlet-Morton clowns provide antics between acts, like duck hunting, shooting an astronaut to the moon, and saving a baby in a hot fire.

For aerial acts, the Shriners have the Flying Valentines and Ray Valentine, considered one of the finest "catchers" in the business. Oriental maidens perform acrobatics on hanging perches. Carlow fascinates his audience with balancing acts high above the center ring.

The Pharoas and the Lido Duo perform on the aerial cradle and suspended high above the crowd.

The Quasars are featured in their space rocket rotating near the ceiling.

The show opened Wednesday, and continues through Monday, George Washington's Birthday.

On opening night, the Shrine units paraded around the floor. Sphinx Temple officers were introduced; the illustrious potentate is Harold Turkington of Manchester.

Warren Blessing of Wethersfield, chief rabban, is general show chairman.

Wednesday night, Harry G. Shalet, potentate in 1976, presented a $6,000 check to Carl Martin, chairman of the board of governors of the Shriners Hospital at Springfield.

A check for $1,500 was presented by the Sphinx Temple Band Ladies, raised at an auction. Making that presentation was Lee Pabst of Manchester.

Omar Shrine Club was well represented in the opening parade.

On Saturday, the Omar Shriners will take 143 youngsters from Manchester to a special Kiddies Show. Ian Wright is general chairman.

Buses will pick up youngsters at several school locations at 7 a.m. Manchester Kiwanis Club assists Omar in this project by providing funds for buses.

Chaperones will be Roger Chadwick, Milton Turkington, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ledoux, Randy Brown, Stan Baldwin, Bob Haugh, Art Tins, Barbara Haugh, Will Chadwick, Tom Tracy, Don Crawford, Dick Pietras, Bob Clifford.

Also, Ken Jones, Will Douglas, Phyllis Votz, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Knob, Mr. and Mrs. Norm Bjarkman, Fred Gaal, Hoyt Stillson, Joan Lane, Bernie Trutt, Steve Pen

Gourley named winner of VFW VOD contest

Peter J. Gourley of 730 Keeney St. is the first place winner in the 30th annual Voice of Democracy contest conducted by the VFW Post and Auxiliary.

Other winners in the annual broadcast scriptwriting scholarship contest are Alan Girelli of 91 Norman St., second place; and Ann L. Kibbee of 31 St. John St., third.

They were among 85 Manchester High School students participating in the contest under the direction of Gilbert Hunt, head of the school's English department. "What America Means to Me," was the topic selected for this year's script.

The winners and their parents will be guests of the VFW Post and Auxiliary at a ham dinner Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the post home. Awards will be presented to the winners during the evening.

Ticket information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Mary LeDuc of Homestead St. or Edwin Edwards of Wells St., 646-0206, co-chairpersons of the contest.

Edwards said that all participants in the program will receive citations.

The annual broadcast scriptwriting contest was conducted with the cooperation of the National and Connecticut Association of Broadcasters.

Return money

LISBON (UPI) — Townspeople voted Wednesday to abolish the Housing Authority and return a $255,000 state grant for construction of 30 units of housing for the elderly.

The vote, 299-273, effectively killed plans to build the structure on 10.7 acres in town.

Observers said it was the first time a community eligible for this kind of state grant has returned the money.

Opinion

Let's do it right

Will the General Assembly let Connecticut get in step with the majority of her sister states, or will Nutmeg motorists have lots of time to listen to a different drummer as they wait for the traffic lights to turn green at many intersections?

overwhelmingly accepted rule. Granted there are some intersections where this rule might not be acceptable. The defense that Connecticut roads are narrow and meandering (obviously many followed the cow path of least resistance) does not preclude the use of the "western rule" since New York State and other states with equally narrow and meandering roads use it.

Carter is no country boy — he's a slicker

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — The day after Jimmy Carter's first press conference as President, House Speaker Tip O'Neill told a visitor from his home state of Massachusetts that Carter was "no country boy; he's a country slicker."

It was an admiring remark, and at the same time one with rueful overtones. Confrontations between any President and Congress are inevitable because of the clash of powers. O'Neill was saying, as an aide put it, that this Congress "had better not think it can push Carter around."

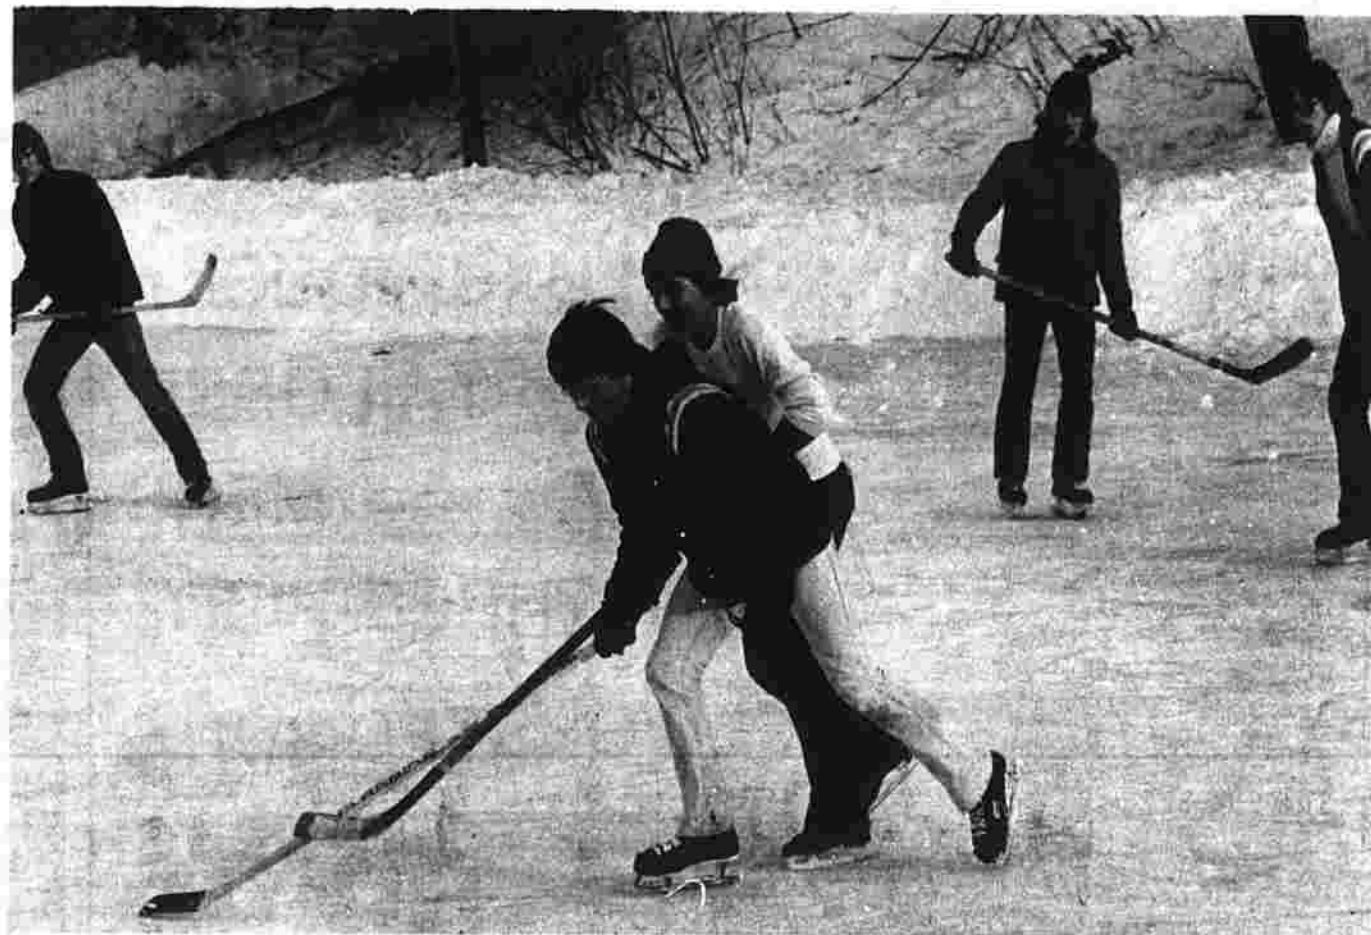

That will bring Carter no billets doux from Capitol Hill. Carter used the clout of the Presidency to put the legislative branch on the spot — and, incidentally, to proclaim his own moral viewpoint.

Wants to sound human
Carter knows, for example, that the average Congressman is not exactly a national pin-up boy. He knows that the guy in Plains who makes $7,500 a year thinks Congress is overpaid and underworked. He also knows that people want a President to sound human. It takes a man with self-confidence and an intimate acquaintance with Main Street to admit, as Carter did, that he had made mistakes and probably would make more.

Tiresome surcharge

An example of how federal paperwork costs the consuming public money is the law requiring automobile tire dealers to fill out a form and send it to the manufacturer every time they sell a tire.

Has it been worth it? The Department of Transportation reports that more than 600 million tires have been manufactured since May 1971, when Congress passed the registration law. Of that number, about three million tires, or one-half per cent, have been recalled.

Persistence
The approaching visit to Hartford of the record breaking 15-year-old Romanian gymnast, Nadia Comaneci, or the knowledge that Connecticut's own Bruce Jenner won the Decathlon in the Summer Olympics of 1976 gives ample cause to speak of persistence and dedication as being important ingredients in the life of any of us. Obviously, we are not all Olympic champions, yet to accomplish even the modest goals we set before ourselves takes persistence.

difference? The difference is called PERSISTENCE — a willingness to keep working and keep trying!
Life can be played in the same way. You can smash your clubs, throw in the towel, retreat... or you can be one who persists in spite of adversity or changed circumstances.
The apostle Paul in his second letter to Timothy said, "You saw my endurance and love and patience as I met all those persecutions and difficulties at Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra. And you know how the Lord brought me safely through them all." (1 Timothy 3:11-12) New Testament (in Modern English)
We not facing persecution, but we do face constant challenges, even adversity. BE PERSISTENT!

Lavitts renovating downtown apartments

The new owners of the Manchester Gardens Apartments between Forest and St. James Sts. have begun a two-year, $250,000 rehabilitation project on the apartments.

They purchased the property from Manchester Gardens Corp. on Dec. 30, 1976 for $953,000. The former corporation was owned by Barbara Steinberg of New York. Sol Lavitt of West Hartford and Mark Lavitt of Coventry are the new owners of the 102-unit complex. Mrs. Katharine Lavitt, wife of Sol Lavitt, and Alice Lavitt, their daughter, are also associates in the new endeavor, called Manchester Gardens Associates.

In corporate post

Bruce A. Marlow, formerly of Manchester, has been named president and chief executive officer of Bonded Services, a division of Novo Communications, Inc., the diversified communications and information services subsidiary of Novo Corporation, which is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Marlow, who also was named president and chief executive officer of Novo Communications in May 1974, will direct the growth and development of Bonded Services, which for more than 40 years has provided management of entertainment media and distribution services for the international motion picture, broadcast and recording industries. Marlow will oversee the expansion of worldwide operations as well as launching activities in new and related areas.

Old photographs sought for pictorial history

Much of Manchester's history is recorded in photography, but where? From attics, closets, albums, wherever — it is the dream of two staff members at Manchester Community College to coordinate a collection of photos from as early a date as possible in Manchester to the present into a permanent series of albums to be kept at the college. The display would become a source of information pleasure and research for groups and individuals who are interested in the town's history.

Already involved in setting out a varied group of early negatives are Sylvian Ofara and John Sutherland, assistant photography professor and professor of history, respectively.

Ofara and Sutherland are interested in whatever makes for historical interest — family events, neighborhoods, buildings, commercial and manufacturing establissements, disasters, events such as athletic, political and cultural ethnic organizations, church and civic groups.

They will accept daguerotypes, tintypes, ambrotypes, glass plates and regular photos and negatives.

Believing that pictures are worth more than words in telling a story, Ofara and Sutherland are convinced that a photographic history of Manchester will be an invaluable asset to the college and the community. They hope to have one or two albums compiled in about a year. It is their intention to make it an ongoing project.

The coordinators of this project are not asking for permanent donations of pictures or negatives. They only want to borrow them to make copies. The originals will be returned unharmed to the donors.

Credit for all photos will be given to the donors, if desired.

Ofara and Sutherland said that they will examine the photos loaned them and make a selection before returning them.

Other forms of illustration acceptable are old woodcuts, silhouettes, lithographs, drawings, pen and ink sketches — anything from the pre-photo era.

A photo of the famous Blizzard of '88 appears with this story to introduce the idea of Manchester's history in pictures. Other historical pictures collected by Ofara and Sutherland will appear in The Herald from time to time.

Anyone wishing to submit historical photo art work for consideration in the college photo anthology is asked to contact Sutherland by calling the college at 646-4900, extension 572.

Rec plans children's arts, crafts exhibit

The Manchester Recreation Department women's programs will not have classes the week of Feb. 21 due to school vacation.

On Thursday, Feb. 24, Bea Sheffel, senior leader in charge of women's programs, will offer a one day, non-competitive arts and crafts exhibit for the children of Rec program members.

Children from age 4 and up are welcome to participate in this free program. Anything handmade in the field of arts or crafts will be accepted, including original crayon drawings. The only rule is that all work be original and that parents make up a small freestanding sign with their child's name and age on it. Exhibit items may be left at the Rec on Wednesday, Feb. 23, between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

This exhibit is to give children gain recognition for their creative efforts.

Several possible origins have been suggested for the name "Dixie," associated with the U.S. southern states. Because of the French word for 10 "dix" — printed on $10 bills in early Louisiana, that state became known as "Dix's Land" or "Land of the dixies." Other possible derivations are from "Mason-Dixon Line" and the name of a kind-hearted Dutch farmer, Dixie, in New York whose slaves, when sold to a southern plantation in the 1760s, sang of their longing to return to Dixie's farm.

NAACP threatens lawsuit against state agency

HARTFORD (UPI) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said Wednesday it would sue the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities for not enforcing the state's equal employment laws.

The Connecticut NAACP's executive director, Ben Andrews, said the state itself is not near full compliance and among those filing defective employment plans were the governor's office and the state police.

Andrews said that as of Sept. 1, 1976, a total of 22 state agencies ignored the law totally by not filing their plans. These included the state treasurer's office, which is headed by Henry Parker, a black.

"How can the state request that private enterprises comply with the law when it chooses to ignore it," Andrews said.

He said plans filed by 92 of 99 state agencies were disapproved at one point; at another, only 83 agencies filed any kind of plan and 35 of those were approved and 39 disapproved. Nine are still pending.

Andrews said in a letter to Arthur Green, the director of the state's human rights commission, that the NAACP "will initiate legal action seeking to have your agency mandated to enforce the law imposing those sanctions already established as penalties."

Cat show starts Saturday

More than 425 cats and kittens, running the full gamut of the pedigreed cat world, will compete for honors and awards at a cat show sponsored by the Charter Oak Feline Fanatics, Inc., Saturday and Sunday at the West Hartford Armory.

The Charter Oak club is a nonprofit affiliate of a national organization, The Cat Fanciers Federation. It's a fully sanctioned championship show.

In addition to the championship class, there will be a special division of household pets. These cats don't have to be of pedigreed backgrounds and are typical of the average home-loving cat.

The "household" cats will be judged strictly on standards of coat condition, grooming, good health, and disposition. The panel of eight judges comes from the United States and Canada.

The "Morris Award," as created by television's famous Morris, will be presented to the best household pet of the show.

All net proceeds from the show will be donated to the University of Connecticut for feline research materials and to the university's small animal pathological laboratory.

The laboratory research service is used by many veterinarians throughout the state and includes all small animals not just cats. In the past the club has donated more than $18,000 to the university.

The show will be open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. both days.

Sell roses for Heart Fund

Alan Cone, principal at Bennet Junior High School, buys some roses at the Manchester State Bank from Harriet Haslett, center, as Ellen Zinsser holds the ones he has selected. The roses were sold there and at other businesses on Monday, Valentine's Day, to benefit the Heart Fund. More than 1,000 roses were sold, including nearly 100 at the Hartford Civic Center totaling $1,027 in proceeds. Part of the money will be used to pay for the roses. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Thought fast

PALMDALE, Calif. (UPI) — Ron Robinson, 19, thought fast when a man wearing a ski mask and carrying a shotgun entered Foster's Donuts Shop where the young man was on duty all alone.

Robinson turned the afterburners up full blast on the stove where the doughnuts are crisped in oil and a large flame shot up.

Robinson dashed out a back door and ran a block to a telephone where he called the sheriff's office.

Then he returned to the shop and, along with deputies, watched it burn to the ground.

Damage check ordered

HARTFORD (UPI) — State officials have been ordered by Gov. Ella T. Grasso to inspect the Connecticut coastline for winter weather damage to see if it is eligible for emergency federal aid.

The Department of Commerce was ordered to inspect shoreline marinas and marine industries to determine whether there is basis to apply for funds from the federal Small Business Administration.

Sen. William E. Strada, D-Stamford, earlier sent Mrs. Grasso a letter asking her to seek relief for the coastline that was battered by this winter's severe weather.

"Officials from seven shoreline cities and towns have already informed the state of the need for help for marine-related businesses that have suffered extensive damage," Mrs. Grasso said.

She said Commerce Commissioner Edward Stockton had assigned staff members to evaluate the situation and send the data they collect to federal officials to determine if SBA assistance is obtainable.

Ford decision to sell bombs under review

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Security Council probably will recommend that President Carter reverse a Ford administration decision to sell deadly concussion fire bombs to Israel, administration sources said Wednesday.

Both the White House and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, in Israel on a fact-finding trip of the Middle East, declined to say whether Carter would cancel Ford's announcement that the United States would sell Israel some 2,000 CBU72 bombs for between $6 and $7 million.

"The decision probably hasn't been made yet," said one source. "It's got to go through the NSC process and when it comes out, it'll probably have President Carter's name on it. But I would suspect that it will be rejected."

Carter said earlier he was considering the matter at length. The deadly cluster bombs, which use kerosene and kill by suffocation as well as fire, were used by South Vietnam during the Vietnam War. Sources say many U.S. officials are opposed to introducing a new system into the Mideast because they feel it is not needed for Israel's defense.

Another source said today the Pentagon had always opposed the decision to sell the bombs, which Ford announced last October during a visit by Israeli officials to the White House.

He said supporters of the sale — Ford and former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger — were gone, and Carter's new men, Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski opposed it.

"The previous decision was a political decision," said one Pentagon source. "It was a bad decision."

Stratton named Elk of Year

William "Roy" Stratton, deputy chief of the Town Fire Department, has been selected as "Elk of the Year" by Manchester Lodge of Elks.

The lodge will have a dinner-dance in his honor Feb. 26 at the Elks Home. Dinner will be served at 7:30, and music for dancing will be provided by the "Progress of Sounds" band. Paul Hablard is chairperson of the event.

Stratton, a member of the lodge for the past nine years, was selected for the honor because of his active interest in the lodge and its membership and his service on the investigation, crippled children's, house and kitchen committees of the lodge. He has been a member of the Town Fire Department for more than 25 years.

The Feb. 26 dinner-dance is open to members of the lodge and their guests. Ticket information may be obtained at the Elks Home on Bissell St.

Lutherans elect lay officers

Roderick MacLean of Ambassadors Dr. has been elected president of the Emanuel Lutheran Church and vice-chairman of the church council.

MacLean has been a member of the parish for 20 years, and is presently serving as chairman of the stewardship committee. He and his wife, Althea, have five children. MacLean is employed by Travelers Insurance Co. Other officers elected are Ruth K. Benson, secretary; Earl Anderson, treasurer; James Hamilton, assistant treasurer; Donald Anderson, financial secretary; Bob Bagley and Clarence Wogman, delegates to synod convention; and Herman Johnson and Earl Anderson, alternates to the convention.

The chairman of the congregation is the administrative pastor, the Rev. Ronald J. Fournier who has been pastor for the past five years.

At the church council meeting, a special appeal for world hunger was approved. The council also voted to support the ministry of Ingrid and Thomas Murphy.

New council members attending their first meeting included Russell Linger, Rosemary Carpenter, Vyril Bus, Donald Gunsten and Paul Erickson. Erickson has served on the church council under seven pastors since Pastor P.J. Cornell who served from 1911 to 1932.

Mrs. Prentice honored

Mrs. Ena Prentice of 55 Theresa Rd., center, recently retired from the Manchester library staff, admires a pen and ink drawing given her upon her retirement. The drawing, done by Lynn Beaulieu, another staff member, is held by Robert Biega, assistant to the head librarian. Mrs. Dorothy Miller, chairperson of the retirement party, looks on. Mrs. Prentice was honored Sunday at a party in her honor at the Glastonbury Country Club. She had worked at the library since high school when she began part time as a page. She took several in-service library courses and was in charge of the cataloging department when she retired. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Repairer-insurer collusion charge made at hearing

HARTFORD (UPI) — A spokesman for Connecticut auto repairmen says some insurance companies and "preferred" repair shops are in cahoots. An insurance company lawyer denies the charge. And a state legislator wants an investigation. House Minority Leader Gerald Stevens, R-Milford, Wednesday called for an investigation into the alleged collusion between insurance companies and certain auto repair shops. Earlier, Vincent DeLauro, former president of the Auto Body Association of Connecticut, testified that some insurance companies give claimants no choice when it comes to fixing their car. Appearing before the legislature's Insurance Committee, DeLauro said agreements like these prohibit competition and may cause repairmen to economize. He said some cars may be unsafe after insurance-referred repairs and auto owners should be able to patronize the shops they trust.

Court upholds limit on topless dancing

HARTFORD (UPI) — It's alright for Ann Corio's actresses to dance topless at classy dinner theaters in Connecticut, but a woman doing the same at a gin mill can get pinched. So ruled a three-judge federal panel Wednesday, upholding the constitutionality of a state law banning topless dancing and sex shows in run-of-the-mill bars. The plaintiffs, a bar owner and a topless dancer, claimed it was illegal discrimination for the Connecticut Liquor Commission to allow a performance of Ann Corio's "This Was Burlesque," which featured topless dancers, while preventing others from performing likewise at bars. Corio's 1975 production was at the Chateau de Ville in East Windsor, one of a number of dinner theaters in Connecticut. The jurists drew a fine distinction between performances at dinner theaters and those at bars. They ruled a state liquor commission may approve "nonconforming performances" at dinner theaters if it is believed they would be "unlikely to present the same provocation as are posed by the 'bacchanalian revelries' typically associated with barroom nudity."

Hartford man indicted for counterfeiting

HARTFORD (UPI) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted a Hartford man as part of a reputed counterfeiting ring allegedly responsible for circulating at least $700,000 in bogus money throughout New England. Authorities have seized that amount during a two-year investigation, according to Special Prosecutor Paul E. Coffey of the federal Strike Force on Organized Crime and Racketeering. The indictment charged Joseph Guicastro with helping to make, sell and pass an unspecified amount of counterfeit $5, $10 and $20 bills. Robert Wilkinson of Boston, arrested in October on similar charges, was named as an unindicted

Propane shortage eases

HARTFORD (UPI) — A state official says the Connecticut's propane shortage has eased and workers are going back on the job. But he warned there is still potential for major problems. Lynn Alan Brooks, state commissioner of planning and energy policy, said Wednesday recent warming trend has brought with it encouraging energy developments, but he warned there was no guarantee the situation couldn't suddenly sour. "It's better than it was a few weeks ago, but potential for turning bad quickly is still there," he said. "Where we are right now is where we were a couple of weeks ago, but some strain has been taken off the system because the rivers have been cleared and we don't have the distribution problems," he said. The state Labor Department reported 400 persons who were laid off at a New Haven factory due to energy-related problems have returned to work, although 60 others were still jobless. Brooks said the state's largest supplier of propane to Connecticut has received a substantial shipment and the situation was easing. Brooks met earlier in the day with Robert Mitchell, regional head of the Federal Energy Administration.

Extended forecast

BOSTON (UPI) — The National Weather Service extended outlook for New England from Saturday through Monday calls for: Fair weather Saturday. Chance of snow late Sunday and Monday. Overnight low temperatures in the teens inland to the 20s along the coast. Afternoon highs in the 30s.

Town Hall closed Monday

Manchester's Municipal Building will be closed Monday, Feb. 21 in observance of Washington's Birthday. Emergency numbers in effect for the day will be: Highway, 649-5070; refuse, 649-1886; and sanitary sewer and water, 649-9687.

209 take police exams

A total of 209 candidates took a written test Tuesday for three openings in the Manchester Police Department. Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager, said that the candidates will also have to take an agility test before the town begins work on the final selections. He expected the three positions, all for patrol officers, to be filled in about a month. The number of candidates who showed up for the first part of the test represented about 80 percent of the 263 persons who originally applied for the positions.

Dead tree removal lagging

Ernest J. Turcek, tree warden for the Town of Manchester, said today that the town's tree removal program is behind schedule.

Old law kept just in case

NARRAGANSETT, R.I. (UPI) — Scantly clad sun-bathers better button up their overcoats when strolling on the pier in this seaside tourist town. An ancient local law sets a penalty of 10 days in jail or a $20 fine for anybody on town streets who fails to cover up in a cloak or coat from neck to knees.

Police Chief Richard A. Colvin said the law is so old nobody can remember when it was enacted. But his department hasn't enforced the statute for at least 14 years, he said. Town Council President Raymond E. Trainor Jr. thinks the town should keep the law because it might come in handy someday. "It would be a good thing to have if someone wearing nothing but a bandaid starts raising hell someday," Trainor said.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has built or acquired 27 major dams on the Tennessee and tributary rivers since its establishment by Congress in 1933 to develop the river system.

Rec-Pancierera

Linda Susan Panciera and Lawrence Stanley Rec, both of Manchester, were married Feb. 11 at Center Congregational Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sophia Panciera of 60 Porter St. and Milton O. Panciera of Warwick, R.I. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rec of Cromwell.

The Rev. Winthrop Nelson Jr. of Center Congregational Church performed the double-ring ceremony. The aisles were decorated with bouquets of mixed flowers. Walter Gryb of Manchester was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white Qiana gown designed with a high neckline, long sleeves trimmed with seed pearls, and a redingote skirt which fell from an Empire waistline and terminated into a chapel train. She wore a matching turban with waltz-length chiffon veil and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Lynda Jane Moriarty of Manchester served as maid of honor. Miss Cynthia Louise Rec of Cromwell, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Miss Rhonda C. Panciera of Manchester, the bride's niece, was flower girl.

Francis Kocum of Glastonbury served as best man. Thomas Panciera of Manchester, the bride's brother, was usher.

A reception was held at The Colony in Talcottville, after which the couple left for Montreal, Canada. They will reside in Manchester.

Mr. Rec is employed as a radiologic technologist at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Hartford. Mr. Rec is employed in the Engineering Department of Power Systems Division of United Technologies Corp.

Mrs. Lawrence Rec

Judges named for Saturday pageant

Heading the list of judges for the Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant to be held Saturday will be Theresa Brown, host of the daily WFSB-TV talk show, "This Morning."

Philadelphia native, she was educated in the public schools there and at Michigan State University where she was graduated in 1966 with a B.A. in journalism.

Prior to coming to WFSB-TV in 1974, Ms. Brown was a reporter and editor at KYW-TV and radio in Philadelphia for five years and a general assignment reporter at WPIX-TV in New York for a year.

Before entering broadcasting, she was on the staff of Ebony, a copywriter for Doubleday and a trade news editor in the public relations department of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

Other judges are William J. Haggerty Jr., producer of the New Hampshire Scholarship Pageant; Ken Caughan, editor of ABC Radio; News and former officer of the Miss Massachusetts, Miss Connecticut, and Miss New York State pageants; Catherine Farm, former Miss

Theresa Brown

Tennessee and presently chaperone for Miss Watertown; and Tom Guercia, business manager for Miss North Haven.

Edward Tomkiel, Manchester town clerk and Robert Bonner, manager of the Manchester branch of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association, will serve as auditors.

The local pageant, sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees, will feature

10 young ladies from the greater Manchester area who will vie in swimsuit, talent and evening gown competition for the title.

The winner has a chance of going on to become Miss Connecticut and, if she wins that title, can seek the Miss America crown and a $15,000 scholarship.

Nearly one million dollars in educational scholarships are awarded annually at the local, state, and national Miss America Pageants, making it the largest scholarship foundation in the world for women.

The contestants will be introduced at 8 p.m. in the Bailey Auditorium at Manchester High School. Proceeds from the event are contributed to the scholarship fund awarded to the contestants and to the Manchester Scholarship Foundation.

Advance tickets are available at Watkin's, the Senior Citizens Center, Artistic Hair Design, any ABC Radio, or by calling Charles Rohde, ticket chairman, at 646-8461. Tickets will also be available at the door prior to the performance.

40th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Clark of 95 Greenwood Dr. were honored at a party on Feb. 3 at Herdick Hall in Bolton in observance of their 40th wedding anniversary. The couple was married Feb. 6, 1937 in St. Patrick's Church in Lawrence, Mass.

Hosting the party were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klein, all of Bolton; and Mr. and Mrs. John Purdy Jr. of Manchester.

More than 100 guests, relatives and friends from Lawrence and Cape Cod, Mass. and Connecticut attended.

The couple has resided in Manchester 35 years and were formerly owners of Clark's Market and Pete's Grocery, both in Manchester.

The couple received many gifts and a money tree. They are planning a trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have operated motels and cottages at Cape Cod for the past five years.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - My wife eats a lot of ice. Do you think it would hurt her in any way?

DEAR READER - The reason for the medical importance when she is eating lots of ice might be important. People sometimes develop a habit of eating large amounts of strange things, including clay, laundry starch and ice. There are medical reports of some people eating over four pounds of ice a day.

Such strange eating habits are associated with iron deficiency. Usually, if corrected, the person may have an aversion to the food that was once an obsession. Your wife may then not care for ice at all. I am sending you The Health Letter number 44, Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radon City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Florida flakes fantastic

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Snow fell here briefly - flakes a Massachusetts tourist said were the largest he had ever seen.

Up to an inch of snow fell in sections of Tallahassee and Leon County over a 20-minute period.

Steve Ball, announcer at a local radio station, said he got a call from a Massachusetts man who said, "These were the largest snow flakes he had ever seen."

Rush said the snow was caused by a little trough of low pressure and rapidly dropping temperatures.

"The sun is out now and it is all over. There is absolutely no chance of any more snow."

'Redlining' charge said unprovable

HARTFORD (UPI) — A local civil rights group's charge of widespread mortgage "redlining" by Hartford banks cannot be proved with the data available, according to a state Banking Department consultant.

Gold, a banking consultant, said this would allow investigators to determine whether redlining — the denial of mortgages for certain neighborhoods — is occurring in Connecticut.

Banking Commissioner Lawrence Connell said Wednesday the group's report does not offer adequate proof of redlining and makes misleading comparisons. The banks have denied they redline.

Honor Society inducts 50

Section Two THURSDAY FEBRUARY 17, 1977

Together Manchester High School students and staff can work and make a difference in their own lives and in the community.

Making a difference was the theme of the talk given by Mrs. Eleanor L. Gowen, vice-principal at Manchester High School, Wednesday night at the annual National Honor Society induction ceremony.

At the invitation of the town's school board, 50 students met for a day with 50 of the community's older people to discuss economics of aging, housing, transportation, family relationships and recreation.

Following the invocation by the Rev. Burton D. Strand and welcoming remarks of the Fred A. Verplanck Chapter of the National Honor Society delivered addresses. They were Peter Gourley, president, leadership; Robert Weiss, vice-president; scholarship; Lorraine Egan, secretary; character, and Gwen Froh, treasurer.

New candidates presented are as follows: Class of 1977 — Steven Armentano, Kathleen Banas, Robert Bryce, Thomas Danahy, Jane Dewey, Nancy Downing, Timothy

When, she said, she commended the cooperation with school administration and the many students who made the operation run smoothly.

Blanche Stone, council vice-president, described the measles vaccine clinic which ran yesterday and today in Manchester's high schools and junior high schools.

There will be a makeup day scheduled after school vacation for those who were not vaccinated this time. Also, the program will be taken into the elementary schools after vacation.

There are at least three cases of the regular, or "hard" measles in Manchester, Dr. Turek said, but there are several cases in surrounding towns.

Mrs. Gustafson said there were a few students who said they would get the vaccination from their family physician. All physicians will be notified of their patients who received the vaccination at the school clinics, Mrs. Gustafson said.

School arts program backed by council

The Manchester Arts Council has approved a resolution supporting the development of the arts program in the public school system, according to Ms. Marcie Lain, council vice-president.

The council also supports the hiring of an additional elementary school instrumental music teacher as listed in the Board of Education's proposed 1977-78 budget.

Ms. Lain said that Mrs. Marilyn Peracchio of 530 Spring St. was nominated recently to fill a vacancy on the council Board of Directors.

Mayor Moriarty to be 'jailed' to help out March of Dimes

Manchester's participation in the National Foundation March of Dimes program this year will be "Jail and Bail" activity in which town officials will be "jailed" and released on "bail" which becomes a contribution to the fund drive.

Also participating in the spectacular event will be Jeff Jacobs, general manager of radio station WITF in Manchester, who will broadcast the donations throughout the day. Jacobs will tell the listening audience about the "prisoners" in jail and provide the public with a chance to put up bail in the form of March of Dimes contributions to release their friends; or, they can bid to keep them in jail. It takes another contribution to match this amount to raise bail to get him out.

Manchester's Mayor Matthew M. Moriarty Jr. looks like he's having a rough time trying to resist the arrest of "Officers" Joseph Hachey, center, town chairman of the March of Dimes fund drive, and Noel Belcourt, town treasurer of the March of Dimes. Only when someone "bails" Moriarty out of jail will he be freed. The bail becomes a donation to the March of Dimes. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Transcript delays FOI case

Any further development in the freedom of information case against Tax Commissioner Gerald J. Conway has been delayed by the completion of a transcript. It is not known at this time when the transcript will be finished.

The transcript is of a meeting earlier this month between Heffernan, the Freedom of Information (FOI) Commission and Atty. General Joseph E. Blawie. It is expected before further steps will be taken in the complaint against Heffernan, according to Al Lange, counsel for the FOI Commission.

Collection of papers feasible

Jay J. Giles, director of public works, has determined that it is "economically feasible" for the town to reconstitute curbside newspaper collection.

He said that if the price of newspaper remains at its current rate of $15 per ton, the town would have to collect about ten tons per week for the entire year.

Area police

East Hartford
Lawrence L. Ungewitter, 30, of 76 Crestwood Trail, East Hartford was charged with driving without a license and failure to take the right after a one-car accident on Ridgewood Rd. Wednesday at 6:22 p.m. The car he drove struck a utility pole.

Two young men were arrested Wednesday on court warrants in connection with three December breaks into Main St. churches.

Michael Hathverdi, 19, of Bloomfield was charged with third-degree burglary (two counts), second-degree larceny, third-degree larceny, fourth-degree larceny and second-degree criminal trespass.

Steven T. Giontriddo, 22, of Hartford was charged with second-degree criminal trespass and second-degree larceny.

The churches were St. Mary's, St. John's, and First Congregational. Hathverdi posted a $5,000 surety bond for court appearance March 7. Giontriddo was released for the same court date.

Sending games to Mansfield

The association is accepting donations of soft and easily manageable games or toys, which may be left at the resident state trooper's office or town hall offices. (Herald photo by Dunn)

FISH answers many calls

South Windsor
The South Windsor FISH organization received an average of 19 calls per month during 1976 for a total of 223 requests for transportation.

Several local families also rely heavily on FISH for social service, counseling and medical needs. One handicapped teen-ager has been transported to Camp Kennedy in Manchester for the past five summers.

While more than 80 per cent of FISH callers ask for transportation.

Coventry sewer plan to go to voters soon

Coventry may go to its third public sewer referendum as soon as June, Richard Breaux, Sewer Authority chairman, said Wednesday at a meeting with Mansfield officials.

About $2.3 million, representing less than a two-mill increase, is the preliminary estimate for Coventry's share of the planned two-town system, Breaux said.

About $1.7 million of that money will be recovered by tax assessments on individual homeowner's sewer hookups, Bruce Stave, Sewer Authority member, said.

The average estimated cost to connect the proposed system for a private homeowner is $2,100, Tom Juros, representative of Griswold & Fuss of Manchester, said.

Griswold & Fuss, engineering consultants, prepared the new facility plan for the Sewer Authority.

The total estimated cost of the proposed sewer system, within Coventry town limits, is $14.7 million, but much of this is jointly funded with Mansfield and $11.6 million (80 per cent) is to be reimbursed by the federal government, Juros said.

Hebron school board approves skating area

The Hebron Board of Education has voted to authorize the Recreation Commission to install a temporary ice skating area at Gilead Hill School.

The year of 1976 saw an additional service offered - Lifeline Reassurance Calls to those whose physical or mental well-being is served by receiving one or two calls a day.

FISH is supported by contributions of local churches and organizations. FISH volunteers may be reached by calling 643-1065.

Bolton

The Bolton and Vernon United Methodist Churches will conduct a five-week Lenten Bible Study series starting March 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bolton church. Subsequent meetings will alternate between the two churches.

Friends of the Library will sponsor a puppet show Wednesday, Feb. 23, at Bentley Memorial Library. It is open to children of all ages, but preschool children should be accompanied by an adult.

Elected trustees of the United Methodist Church for 1977 were James Norris, chairman; Kenneth Perrett, vice-chairman; Mrs. Ernest Whipple, secretary-treasurer; Harold Hoar, liaison with sexton; Aelis Copes, liaison with finance; Robert Richardson, parsonage committee, and Ralph Roles, trust funds.

To help control the outbreak of measles, the Bolton School Health Department is suggesting that students be re-immunized for adequate protection.

The annual International Food Fair, sponsored by the Coventry Girl Scouts, will be Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Coventry High School. The public is invited.

Coventry

Rham High School students George Giacoppe and David Niemczyk have been selected to participate in science symposiums this spring at Yale University, New Haven. Mrs. Priscilla Blanchette, social studies department coordinator, has also been selected to attend a symposium at Yale.

Rham students have been reminded that results of the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Test are available to those to take the test. Eight-graders applying to Windham Regional Vocational Technical School must have application forms returned this week. An Army Reserve representative will talk to interested students Friday during the fourth period.

South Windsor

Lynn Grossi of South Windsor will conduct a class in modern jazz at a Sunday dance seminar in Cromwell, sponsored by the Connecticut Chapter of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists. Registration is set for 9:30 a.m. for the morning session and 2 p.m. for the afternoon session. The seminar will be held at Cromwell's Knights of Columbus Hall, 573 Main St.

Tolland

The Tolland Junior Women's Club will conduct its monthly story hour Feb. 28 from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Tolland Public Library. Children aged 4 to 7 are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Vernon

The Vernon Democratic Town Committee will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Shop & Shop, R-Mart Plaza, Rt. 30. The committee will be asked to fill two vacancies on the Town Committee, two on the Traffic Commission and one vacancy on the Economic Development Commission.

The Conservation Commission will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building, Park Pl. There will be a public hearing on the request of the Planning and Zoning Commission for a permit to alter wetlands for a sewer project on Windsorville Rd. During the regular meeting the commission will discuss the request of the Town of Vernon for a permit to alter wetlands for sewer projects on Evergreen Rd. and Rt. 30 at Vernon Center, the Open Space Plan; and the town planner's budget request.

Because Monday, Washington's Birthday, is a legal holiday, refuse usually collected on Monday in Vernon will be picked up Tuesday morning along with the regular Tuesday route.

Vernon council tables nursing contract

A proposed contract between the Town of Vernon and the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association was tabled Tuesday night by the Vernon Town Council to await town budget deliberations for 1977-1978.

Besides Vernon, the nursing association serves Ellington, Tolland, Somers and Bolton. It has contracts with each of those towns but has never had a contract with Vernon.

The association has already prepared its projected budget for the coming year, and Vernon's share is estimated at $74,900. Councilman Stephen Marcham asked if the contract would obligate Vernon to pay the difference if the association goes over its projected budget.

Lawrence Small, treasurer of the association's board of directors, said, "We are getting to the point where we can't absorb the costs."

Councilman Thomas Dooley asked, "If you ask us for $74,000 and we can't afford to pay it, will you cut back on services?"

Miss Elaine Shattuck, acting director of the association, said, "Absolutely, we would have to."

The proposed contract calls for the town to reimburse the association for the net cost of services provided under the terms of the agreement.

The association is to provide professional community health nursing services for the residents of the town. This excludes service to the school system.

The net cost of services, all income received by the association from patient fees and reimbursements.

The gross cost includes the average salary per staff nurse plus the average of all other costs per nurse, including transportation at the rate of 15 cents a mile.

The contract calls for payments from the towns to be quarterly, in advance and at the end of each fiscal year. A cost analysis for the services provided will be submitted to the town.

It further states, "On the basis of the cost analysis the town agrees to pay any additional net costs for services rendered during the preceding fiscal year."

It was to this section of the contract that some council members objected. Councilman James Filkoff said he felt this would be like giving the association an open check.

Measles clinics slated in Vernon and Tolland

The Rockville Public Health Nursing Association, in conjunction with health directors in Vernon and Tolland, will sponsor two measles clinics.

There will be a clinic in Tolland Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in the Tolland Ambulance Association Building (to the rear of the old Tolland Jail off Tolland Green).

The Vernon clinic will be Feb. 25 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in St. Bernard's Church Hall, St. Bernard's Ter., Rockville.

The nursing association said there are four groups of children who should receive the measles inoculation: Those who were immunized against measles before 1966; those immunized before they were a year old, regardless of what year it was; those who were given Gamma Globulin at the same time they received the measles shot; and those who never had a measles shot (up to 18 years of age).

Miss Elaine Shattuck, nursing director, said there are children who should not receive the measles shot: Those allergic to eggs, chicken, chicken feathers or neomycin; those having a fever for any reason; those getting cortisone or those with leukemia or any other blood disease or being treated for any malignancy. Vaccine cannot be given during pregnancy either.

Each child going to the clinic must be accompanied by a parent or a guardian who will be asked to sign a consent form. If a parent can't accompany the child, the parent should pick up a form at the nursing office, 63 Park St.

Bolton student's design may be on Christmas Seals

A painting by Kimberly Ruel, a Grade 3 student at Bolton Elementary School, is one of six from Connecticut being considered for use on the 1978 Christmas seals.

Last December all the children in the Bolton Elementary School in kindergarten to Grade 3 painted pictures with the theme, "Christmas With Family and Friend." Four were selected by Mrs. Sarah Winter, art teacher, to represent work from Bolton.

Other paintings by Jill Silverstein, Grade 1; Carolyn LeMaire, Grade 2; and Amorice Ansaldi, Grade 3, were sent to the Connecticut Lung Association for consideration along with art work submitted by other state elementary schools. The Connecticut Art Association is also involved in the judging.

Six paintings from each state will be reviewed by officials from the American Lung Association and the National Art Education Association, cosponsors of the project for the 1978 Children's Christmas Seals.

Kimberly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ruel of 135 North Rd., Bolton, painted a scene of Christmas depicting her brother and her self trimming the tree and decorating the living room.

The first Children's Christmas Seal project was conducted for the 1975 holiday season when the Christmas Seals were comprised of 54 paintings by children from all over the country. A painting by John Gomersl, 7, of Canton will be used in the 1977 seals. Two years' lead time is needed to produce the seals.

The Board of Tax Review will conduct three sessions to hear grievances and complaints on the 1976 Grand List. The board will be in session tonight and Friday night from 8 to 10 and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon in the Community Hall.

The Bolton Women's Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at Herrick Memorial Park. The Board of Education will meet in special session tonight at 8 in the 5-8 Building of Bolton Elementary Center School. Raymond Allen, superintendent of schools, said the meeting will all be in executive session to discuss contracts and a personnel matter.

The Democratic Town Committee will meet Friday at 8 p.m. in the Community Hall. The agenda will include the election of new members, reading of correspondence, planning fund raisers, and a report about the election campaign from the Platform Committee. The first issue of the Democratic newsletter, Plain Talk, is being distributed.

Young magicians help heart fund

Vernon

Two Rockville High School students will demonstrate the art of prestidigitator, more commonly known as magic, for the benefit of the Vernon Heart Fund.

Bryan Flint of Vernon is about to do his magic trick of pulling a lady out of a light bulb.

Flint will be the pulling of a lady out of a light bulb and West will break from his specialty of tricks with fire to perform the floating sphere illusion.

Both youths are members of Students in Organized Companies, an affiliate of Junior Achievement.

David Wilcox, the five-year-old, who is this year's heart poster child, will also make an appearance during the afternoon.

While the show is especially for school children who will be on vacation, adults are invited too. Tickets will be 75 cents. They may be ordered in advance by calling 675-7881 or may be bought at the door.

New charter ideas aired

Vernon

Ronald Hine, Vernon's director of public works, told the Charter Revision Commission Monday night he thinks the charter should have a clearer description of the director's duties.

The commission has been listening to department heads' ideas as to where the charter needs revising. Hine said he feels the public works director should have a professional background in this field. He also suggested that the position of building inspector should be removed from the public works department because the inspector is operating as a department head in most areas.

Hine referred to a suggestion made by Police Chief Herman Fritz that the position of a public safety coordinator be created. He said he would oppose this unless it were established in conjunction with his department.

He said he would object to the proposed coordinator having control over his department.

Donald Berger, recreation director, also spoke to the commission Monday night. He said now the recreation director is under the authority of the Recreation Commission. He feels he should come under the authority of the mayor, as do other department heads.

Berger said he has had good relations with the present commission and some past commissions but he feels that as long as the charter is to be rewritten this should be changed.

Broader powers opposed

Vernon

Fearing that the Commission on Hospitals and Health Care (CHHC) may be granted too much power by proposed legislation, the Vernon Republican Town Committee has called on State Rep. Chester Morgan to vote against the proposal.

Donald Sadrozinski, chairman of the town committee, wrote to Morgan on behalf of the committee because of recent suggestions by the commission that Rockville General Hospital merge its pediatrics and maternity units with Manchester Memorial Hospital.

The proposed amendment to state statutes would grant additional powers to the hospital commission. Through these powers, the commission could order the two hospitals to merge their services.

Sadrozinski told Morgan the town committee "unequivocally supports the continuation of all basic health services at the Rockville General Hospital."

He said it is understood now that the CHHC has no power to force consolidation of services but the commission is asking for the authority to decide which services are necessary and for the power to mandate changes as the commission sees fit.

"We urge you, as a member of the committee which will review this bill, to vote against the amendment and against the granting of additional powers to the Connecticut Commission on Hospitals and Health Care," Sadrozinski wrote Morgan.

He said his committee continues to feel that the town is best served by the maintenance of a strong program of basic services at Rockville Hospital.

Sadrozinski said, "A very real fear of the granting of additional powers to CHHC will allow them to mandate the changes, which they merely have the power to suggest at the present moment."

In urging Morgan to consider this position, Sadrozinski also urges all Vernon residents, and those of other area towns which use the services of Rockville Hospital, to do the same.

He said sometimes he can carry problems at the time of complaint but others have to wait until the landlord can be located.

During January, 33 structures were inspected under the routine housing code inspections. This involved 64 dwelling units.

The housing code violations found were: 8 electrical, 12 heating, 8 plumbing, 9 structural, and 10 sanitary.

During the month the following violations were corrected: 28 electrical, 14 heating, 9 plumbing, 16 structural, and 1 sanitary. Outstanding violations at the end of the month totaled 16.

Darcey placed one caveat and released one.

Under the Housing Rehabilitation program, 11 structures and 15 dwelling units were inspected. Only five structural violations were found but the total number of violations from January and previous months was 259.

However, 55 of the previous violations were corrected during January leaving a total of 204. Those corrected involved: 23 electrical, 2 heating, 5 plumbing, and 25 structural.

While begonias are his No. 1 specialty, Mr. Cheney has others. He is growing 75 varieties of fuchsia, a hanging basket plant with lovely flowers on trailing vines growing over the edge of the basket. He has a collection of 40 kinds of columnea, another hanging plant with tubular flowers in vivid colors.

Mr. Cheney is starting a collection of streptocarpus, a small upright plant sometimes called the "Cape primrose," described as almost everblooming, and gaining in popularity.

Jade plant he finds almost in demand and there are jade plants in many sizes on his greenhouse benches.

Mr. Cheney has "stayed away" from mail order business but he advertises in some national publications that go to plant enthusiasts and when they are on vacation trips in New England some of them find their way to Ash Swamp Rd.

Gripes keep Darcey busy

Vernon

Vernon Housing Code Inspector John Darcey, in a report to the Town Council, said much time and effort is involved in following up complaints.

Darcey said in January he investigated and completed 16 complaints. Under the housing rehabilitation program he investigated 20 complaints.

Darcey said some of his complaints come from the Police Department at late evening hours, early morning hours and weekends.

He said sometimes he can carry problems at the time of complaint but others have to wait until the landlord can be located.

During January, 33 structures were inspected under the routine housing code inspections. This involved 64 dwelling units.

The housing code violations found were: 8 electrical, 12 heating, 8 plumbing, 9 structural, and 10 sanitary.

During the month the following violations were corrected: 28 electrical, 14 heating, 9 plumbing, 16 structural, and 1 sanitary. Outstanding violations at the end of the month totaled 16.

Darcey placed one caveat and released one.

Under the Housing Rehabilitation program, 11 structures and 15 dwelling units were inspected. Only five structural violations were found but the total number of violations from January and previous months was 259.

However, 55 of the previous violations were corrected during January leaving a total of 204. Those corrected involved: 23 electrical, 2 heating, 5 plumbing, and 25 structural.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Growing house plants is a full-time business for Ronald T. Cheney at his greenhouses and garden center on Ash Swamp Rd. in Glastonbury.

"It's what I always wanted to do," he says, but it took several years, in which he combined raising plants with other ways of earning money, before he reached this goal.

Four years ago, when I first went to see Mr. Cheney, it was because both of Manchester's garden clubs had asked him to raise seedlings of annual flower plants for them to set out in the flower beds they plant on E. Center St.

For the past three years the clubs have had to find their annual flower plants elsewhere. At that point Ron Cheney changed his life style. He quit his job with the Glastonbury sanitation department. He no longer collected trash to take to the town dump, plowed snow after a winter storm, or set fence posts along the highway. He could devote all his time to growing and selling plants.

He also quit sowing seed and raising small plants of either vegetables or annual flowers to sell. Other people are specialists in growing seedlings, says Mr. Cheney. He will buy flats of annual plants at wholesale from these other growers and sell them at retail, but he will grow only house plants.

What Mr. Cheney seeks to develop is a year-round business in potted plants that are always in demand. He makes no special effort to display plants for Christmas, such as poinsettias, nor Easter plants such as Easter lilies. He will leave those jobs also to the specialists.

100 kinds of begonias

He prefers, for example, to have a wide assortment of begonias, and when he has acquired only a few more will have 100 kinds of begonia plants. They will be offered in several sizes as well as in many varieties. He propagates his own begonias and the variety of which he has a picture, the beefsteak begonia, is propagated from leaf cuttings.

It is almost a continuous process, with new cuttings being started in a rooting medium at frequent intervals.

When a cutting has started roots and is beginning to grow leaves, it goes into its own small pot. As it grows larger it is moved to a larger pot and there may be several such moves, from a 2 1/2-inch pot to one that is 3 inches in diameter, then 4, then 5. The price goes up with the size of the plant, but you never know what people are going to want. Some will prefer to take the smallest plant at the lowest price.

"Every greenhouse has to have a few plants just to admire and talk about," says Mr. Cheney.

The original greenhouse that I saw four years ago is still in use but several others have been added. They are all covered on top and sides with heavy plastic, except the newest one, which is built of fiberglass. They all have hot air oil-burning stoves but to save cost, Mr. Cheney is now adding wood-burning stoves and has found a supplier who will furnish firewood at a price he feels is reasonable. He has already reduced his oil bill by the help of the wood fires.

Mr. Cheney has "stayed away" from mail order business but he advertises in some national publications that go to plant enthusiasts and when they are on vacation trips in New England some of them find their way to Ash Swamp Rd.

He is always on the watch for new plants and one he has recently acquired is a crown of thorns with yellow, instead of pink, blossoms.

There is a cactus collection, but Mr. Cheney told me there may be difficulties ahead for the suppliers of cactus plants. Most of the plants are collected in the wild and fears are being expressed that some kinds of cactus are becoming endangered species. In both Arizona and California there is talk of forbidding the taking of cactus plants from wild desert areas.

Mr. Cheney had the help of his wife since he started raising plants and both his wife and his mother still help him, part time. He hires two high school boys sent to him by the vocational agriculture department at Glastonbury High School for after-school hours.

Colleges passing mortar board

PATRICIA McCORMACK

UPI Education Editor

Colleges trained people helped cope polio vaccine, invent television, map space voyages, design new strains of wheat to fight hunger 'round the world.

Since America began, the college-trained have turned ideas and dreams into reality and create better lives for all.

So reminds a new Ad Council campaign on behalf of the nation's colleges — described as "in deep financial trouble and dropping courses, firing professors, closing laboratories and limiting libraries."

"Make America Smarter — Give to the College of Your Choice," says the campaign featuring a picture of a upturned mortar board filled with stock certificates, checks and folding money.

Are the colleges really in "serious financial trouble"? Are the campaign threats too any ever faced?

If the answer is yes, how can that be when tuition are the highest on record — whether paid by the state and a public university or by parents of children attending private schools.

Dr. John C. Sawhill, president of New York University, answered the questions and focused on the issues when the "Make America Smarter" campaign was unveiled at a conference in New York the other day.

No one is holier woff needlessly, he said. The colleges are doing poorly — with fuel bills, salaries, food and other supplies going up faster than income, be it from appropriations or privately paid tuition.

The situation can only get worse, as Sawhill sees it.

"If we really hope to Make America Smarter in the coming decade we must force the public to cope to grips with the hard facts," he said.

"Institutions of higher learning are in financial trouble and they may not be able to fulfill their promise of developing our vital human resources without the generosity of their friends and alumni."

Sawhill traced the crisis to the following:

— Slowdown in the birth rate. World War II baby boom youths entered college in the 1960s. The demographic bulge has passed through the system. But both independent and the public sectors had built facilities to accommodate peak enrollments. They are left with heavy fixed costs. The pressures will be even more severe in the first half of 1980s. There will be a steep decline then in the number of college-age students.

— The decline since 1968 in federal support for research and research, especially in science, increases financial problems, particularly for the larger, heavily research-oriented institutions like New York University.

— Recession and inflation squeeze the schools some more. The recession cut gift income. Fuel costs continue to lead the inflation pressures. Schools — like families — must spend more than they can budget for light and heat bills.

— Unemployment and underemployment among college graduates has reduced the perceived economic advantage of a college education. The result: Flight from traditional fields like liberal arts and education (with a grim job market). This has led to reduced tuition income of these schools. Enrollments are booming among "nontraditional" students — older women, retired persons. But numbers aren't high enough

Learning to tie a fishing knot

Jim McCauliffe has the complete attention of these children as he gives them a lesson in knot tying at the first fishing class at the Recreation Department. McCauliffe and Larry Spencer (looking on) are from the Bassmasters Fishing Club of Manchester whose members are teaching the class for four Wednesday nights for children ages 9 through 12. The next three classes will be Feb. 16, March 2 and 9 at 7 p.m. at the Teen Center. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Puppet show Wednesday at Lutz

The Lutz Junior Museum is sponsoring the puppet show, "Rumpelstiltskin," Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 10:30 a.m. at the Second Congregational Church, 385 N. Main St.
The show, presented by the Wunderlee and Wilson Traveling Puppet Theater of Westport, is one of several vacation week activities planned by the museum.
After the performance there will be a 15-minute demonstration of how puppets are made.
Tickets will be available at the door. Popcorn and soda will be available for a quarter.

Page Wilson of Westport works with two puppets she will show in a production of "Rumpelstiltskin" sponsored by Lutz Junior Museum at Second Congregational Church.

Gentile Show to aid hospital

Al Gentile and his band will present "Hospital Sentimental Journey" on Wednesday, April 13 at Manchester High School. Proceeds will benefit Newington's Children's Hospital.
The program will include the sounds of the big bands with Broadway and vaudeville acts.
Tickets are available by calling 649-9746.

Manchester police report

William J. Street Jr., 20, of the Essex Motor Inn, was being held today in lieu of a $1,000 bond on a charge of carrying and using a dangerous weapon that was lodged Wednesday night.

Police said the weapon, a five-shot revolver was found in a car in which Street was a passenger. The other two persons in the car were not arrested.

A court date of March 14 was set for Street.

Duties explained

Town fire fighters Tom Raimondo and Dick Schlie explained the training, duties and responsibilities of a professional fire fighter for students at Bennet Junior High School. Town firemen spent two days during a recent career day at the school answering questions of the students. (Photo by Skoglund)

St. George rerieved

LONDON (UPI) — The Church of England has decided to give the "benefit of the doubt" to St. George, England's patron saint.

The General Synod of the Church of England decided Wednesday to drop the Roman Catholic Church from St. Nicholas and St. Valentine from the calendar of saints because their existence cannot be confirmed.

Gov. Grasso defends affirmative action

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso, conceding part-time and cleaning work is for women and children, today defended the need for such programs.

Mrs. Grasso also told her weekly Capitol news conference she favors the concept of a law to allow citizens to pass laws through referendum questions on the election ballot.

John Garibaldi, who has presented a $100 donation to Crossroads from UNICO, listens as Cheryl, perched on the arm of the sofa, reads a poem she composed expressing the purpose of Crossroads. Listening to her are other clients at Crossroads, Missy, center, and Robin, while Sue Grant, supervisor at Crossroads stands in the rear. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Gift given to Crossroads

Cheryl's poem expresses opinion of Crossroads

One of the young clients at Crossroads, Manchester's drug counseling and information center, wrote a poem recently expressing her opinion of the center.
