Miss Manchester 1977

To the strains of "Will she be Miss America," 20-year-old Cynthia Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tucker of 235 Burnham St., parades down the ramp at Manchester High School after capturing the title of "Miss Manchester 1977." The ninth annual Jaycee-sponsored Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant drew a near capacity crowd of more than 1,000.

Cynthia Tucker to reign as Miss Manchester

By BETTY RYDER

Herald Family Editor

A regal Miss Cynthia Tucker of 235 Burnham St. received a tumultuous applause and a standing ovation following her selection as "Miss Manchester 1977" Saturday night at Manchester High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Burnham.

The popular sophomore at Eastern Connecticut State College, where she is planning a career in public relations, presented a fast-moving jazz dance for her talent presentation.

Capturing the second spot as first-runner up was the talented Mary Ann Nassiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salem Nassiff of Manchester, who, attired in an elegant black tuxedo, sang "Breaking Up is Hard to Do," with all the aplomb of a youthful Lisa Menelli.

Elizabeth Perusse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Perusse of East Hartford was second runner-up and also was awarded the talent award, an engraved tray, for her outstanding jazz dance performance.

The Miss Congeniality Award, also an engraved tray, which is voted by the contestants themselves, was presented to Dawn Hliviak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hliviak of Manchester.

Drawing great applause for her rendition of "I Got a Brand New Pair of Roller Skates," was Shirley Giraltis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giraltis of Manchester. Shirley, wearing a country-style dress, white knee socks and a pair of roller skates, accompanied herself on the guitar.

The ageless Sally Middleton, who served as mistress of ceremonies and Sale Denver from radio station WRCQ, New Britain, master of ceremonies, keep the show moving right along with their commentaries.

Robert Price, a member of the Board of Directors for the Town of Manchester, in the absence of Mayor Matthew M. Moriarty Jr., who had a previous commitment, presented the award to Miss Tucker.

The ninth annual Jaycee-sponsored Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant, under the directorship of Richard S. Lawrence, presented the following to Miss Manchester: $500 scholarship from Manchester Packing Co.; $100 scholarship from the Manchester Jaycees; $25 Savings Bond, Manchester State Bank; Use of facilities at European Health Spa;

Mideast wants peace but divided on issues

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, saying both Arabs and Israelis "believe desperately in the need for peace," left Syria today for the United States to end his five-day, six-nation tour of the Middle East.

Speaking before his departure, Vance said the two sides agree on the issues involved in any Middle East settlement but are "deeply divided" on how to resolve them.

He told reporters, "All parties are agreed on the need for peace... all are agreed that, if the procedural questions can be resolved, they are prepared to discuss all substantive questions at Geneva without preconditions."

By "procedural questions," Vance referred to the issue of how the Palestinians should be represented at a future Geneva conference — an issue on which Israel and the Arabs still disagree.

Finally, he said, "all the parties are agreed on the general nature of the three-core element of the Middle East problem," which he defined as "peace, withdrawal from the occupied territories and resolution of the Palestinian question."

Vance said, "The two sides are deeply divided on the method of resolving these three core issues."

He listed the basic disagreements he had found:

— The definition of peace: "On the one hand, you have the view that it's simply the end of war. That is generally the Arab view. On the other hand, you have the view that peace is the establishment of full, normal relations. That is the Israeli view."

— Withdrawal: "There is a clear difference in the meaning and shape of withdrawal." The Arabs generally have defined withdrawal as the return of every inch of Israeli-occupied territory; the Israelis insist on certain border adjustments for greater security.

— The Palestinian question: "Even among the Arabs themselves there is a difference in how to resolve this," Vance said, but declined to give the specific positions.

— The PLO: "The parties are sharply divided on how to proceed on the key question of how to deal with the PLO," he said. Vance again declined to detail the individual proposals, but said the possibility of establishing a Palestinian government in exile was discussed.

"The conclusion I draw," said Vance, "is that one must be careful not to be overly optimistic."

He said he considers his trip to the Middle East a success, if only because it gave him a chance to meet Arab and Israeli leaders personally. He quoted President Hafez Assad of Syria as saying, "there is no substitute for meeting a man face to face and looking him in the eye."

During the trip, Vance received assurances from Saudi Arabia that it will hold the line on oil prices, and the Saudis said "there is no linkage" between the American peace efforts and further oil price increases.

Vance also said all the Middle East parties were anxious to cut back on their arms purchases, but there was no indication on how this could be put into effect.

Carter to discuss energy problems with Canadian Prime Minister Trudeau

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter began his second month in office today with a scheduled get-acquainted visit from Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

He also planned last-minute work on a message which goes to Congress Tuesday on several controversial changes in the Ford administration budget.

Trudeau, embroiled at home in a political battle with Quebec separatists, was the second foreign head of state Carter has invited to the United States, following by a week the visit of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Chief among the topics Carter and Trudeau were expected to discuss is America's energy problem.

Canada, which voluntarily increased its allotment of natural gas and oil to the United States during January's cold weather crisis, will decide later this year whether to support a plan to bring Alaskan gas to other American states via a pipeline across Canada.

According to reports in Montreal, Trudeau also was expected to give Carter a first-hand report on Quebec Province, where Premier Rene Levesque is pushing for separation from the Canadian union. Trudeau has warned that such a separation would leave Canada vulnerable to other "spheres of influence."

Besides setting aside several hours for talks during Trudeau's two-day visit, Carter scheduled a state dinner Monday night and arranged for the Canadian leader to address a joint session of Congress Tuesday.

Carter also had a big week ahead on domestic affairs, sending to Congress his proposed revisions in the fiscal 1978 budget submitted by Gerald Ford.

Administration sources said Carter will ask for a $2.7 billion cut in defense spending and elimination of funding for 18 water and dam projects — both proposals certain to provoke controversy.

Carter's defense plans were outlined over the weekend by a senior defense official. He said the President will seek a $2.7 billion cut in the Ford administration's $123.1 billion budget request for military programs which go beyond fiscal 1978.

But he said actual cash expenditures for defense in 1978 should be down only about $500 million from Ford's figure of $110.1 billion.

Carter also is expected to ask Congress to delete fiscal 1978 funds for 18 water projects, including mammoth irrigation and power projects in Arizona, North Dakota and California, and congressmen in the affected districts have already begun rumblings of opposition.

Sources said one of the dams Carter wants to stop is the Garrison Diversion Project in North Dakota. Canada has opposed the project on grounds it threatens the Red River and Lake Winnipeg with pollution.

Carter this week also will keep in close touch with the progress of two major proposals he already has sent Congress — a $31.2 billion economic stimulus package and a request for power to reorganize the federal government. Some congressional action is expected on both pieces of legislation.

Lufkin gives views on several subjects

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

After his speech to Republicans Saturday night, Dan Lufkin commented on several other topics, ranging from the governorship to the environment.

References were made throughout the evening that Lufkin might be the party's candidate for governor in 1978. He said, however, that the race is "too far away" to be concerned with at this time.

"The objective now is for all Republicans to look to the municipal elections in the fall," he said.

He did say that a reference in his speech concerning individualism was in response to remarks made recently by Robert Steele, former congressman from the Second District.

Steele criticized Republican State Chairman Frederick Beibel, whom Steele said is supporting Lufkin for the party's top spot in 1978. Steele has also expressed interest in the nomination for governor.

"The effort shouldn't be on one candidate or one office," Lufkin said.

Lufkin also remarked on the following topics:

• The Presidential election — He called the Ford-Carter race "amazingly close" and pointed out that a few thousand votes in states like Hawaii and Ohio could have changed the outcome.

"You could really call that election a draw," he said.

He did praise Jimmy Carter for some of his appointments, particularly that of Connecticut's Douglas Costle as head of the Environmental Protection Agency. He pointed out that Costle was relieved of his duties as state environmental commissioner by Gov. Ella Grasso.

• National Programs — "Nothing is worse than promising legislation for program that are not funded. We were promised model cities and we ended up with broken neighborhoods," he said.

He said that programs should be developed through a system where "You deliver what you promise. You promise only what you deliver."

He expressed his opposition to a national health care program, which he said "would leave the patient uncared and mixed in red tape."

• Environment — Lufkin, a former commissioner of the state Department of Environmental Protection, spoke of the need for "balance between future development and environmental concerns."

He called the proposed J.C. Penney development in Manchester a "significant contribution to the state" and said that he feels the project can be completed while also attempting to improve environmental needs in the area.

He said that he favors the Bottle bill, which would prohibit throwaway bottles in the state.

"I don't think the bottle bill costs jobs. It deals with the fact that we have finite resources in this state, country, and world," he said.

• The rise in independent registration — He called the increase in persons registering independent "a function of misunderstanding. The viability of our system really depends on a two-party system."

State

GREENWICH — Republican Sen. Lowell Weicker, riding a new wave of popularity, is looking to the sea for possible solutions to future energy and food needs.

WATERBURY — With a Wednesday strike deadline approaching, talks in the Waterbury teachers' dispute today appeared bogged down. The union broke off talks Saturday and new negotiations have not been scheduled.

Regional

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., planned to introduce legislation today requiring buildings financed with federal money, as well as certain other federal buildings, to have windows that open. He contends sealed windows waste energy resources on many days when reasonable comfort can be achieved by opening windows.

AUGUSTA, Maine — Sen. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, says imported shoes captured 45.7 per cent of the U. S. market last year, a marked increase from 41 per cent share in 1975 and 37 per cent in 1974. He plans to present the data to the White House as an argument for tariffs and quotas.

PLAINS, Ga. — The Rev. Bruce Edwards resigned Sunday as past of the Plains Baptist Church, President Carter's hometown church. After his ouster by a segregationist segment of the church, he said he is looking for a congregation that wants an outspoken preacher.

DALLAS — Two freight train tank cars filled with liquefied propane exploded in an industrial area in the north section of Dallas Sunday night, shooting fireballs into the air and rocking buildings. No serious injuries were reported.

In-migration rate declines according to CPEC study

HARTFORD (UPI) — Fairfield County won the popularity contest among Connecticut's counties for attracting the greatest number of new residents between 1970 and 1975 and now appears to have more residents than any other county.

But, the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council said today, the number of people moving into the Nutmeg State in the first half of the 1970's was dramatically less than during the previous ten years.

Only 3,800 persons decided to move to Connecticut during the first half of this decade. That contrasts sharply with the years between 1960 and 1970 when more than 195,000 persons migrated to the state.

Still earlier, during the 1950 to 1960 decade, nearly 243,000 persons entered Connecticut.

The CPEC, a private research group, said the number of births in Connecticut also declined substantially between 1960 and 1975. In 1960 there were 56,659 births recorded. By 1975 the number had decreased to 35,971.

The least popular counties between 1970 and 1975, according to figures compiled by the state Department of Health, were Hartford, New London and Tolland.

In 1960 and 1970 Hartford County had the largest population of the state's eight counties. But between 1970 and 1975 Hartford County showed a net population loss of 16,912 residents. Hartford County's 1975 population of 824,700 was just below

Fairfield's total of 826,800.

Litchfield County, the third largest in the state with 150,970 residents in 1975, was second only to Fairfield in attracting 3,807 people from out of state during the five-year period.

Middlesex County came in third in the growth contest with 2,710 new residents for a total population of 120,100, followed by Windham County with a net gain of 1,839 persons and New Haven which attracted 245 out-of-staters.

New London County lost 406 residents and Tolland had a decline of 376 persons during the first half of the decade. In 1975 New London County's total population was 239,600. Tolland had 108,090 residents and Windham was the most unpopulated county with 89,840 residents.

Wonder now No. 2 Grammy winner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Black recording artist Stevie Wonder became music's No. 2 Grammy Award-winner Saturday night by clinching four key honors given by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences.

Wonder's "Songs in the Key of Life" was voted top album of 1976. In addition, he was voted best producer, male pop singer and male rhythm and blues singer.

There were 49 categories in all, but only a dozen of the Grammys were handed out during the nationally televised program.

Other major winners included Arthur Rubenstein for the classical album of the year for "Beethoven: The Five Concertos."

Bruce Johnston won the award for best song of the year for his composition, "I Write the Songs."

Natalie Cole and Linda Ronstadt captured the best female awards of the year. Miss Cole, the daughter of the late Nat King Cole, for best rhythm and blues performance for non-returnable beverage containers has drawn strong support from environmental groups who claim it would clean up the countryside.

The Connecticut State Labor Council, along with manufacturers of beverage containers, have opposed the measure, arguing it would create economic chaos.

"For Connecticut, where we have a sizable bottling manufacturing industry, we're talking about putting people out of work. I think before we do that, we had better treat very carefully," Sarasin said.

Volunteers, Dobkin said "All of us have been touched by cancer in some way, whether in ourselves, a friend or neighbor, or perhaps even a stranger whose illness has touched us for a moment. None of us is immune to the possibility that cancer may strike close to home, leaving us feeling helpless. But this is a chance for every one of us to act — to fight back."

Opinion
A good showing

It was nice to see the Town of Manchester well represented at the State Capitol for Monday's public hearing on a bill to provide state funds for school construction programs.

The General Assembly's Finance Committee conducted the hearing and has since voted its approval of the proposed legislation, which would provide $87.8 million in state funding for 76 school projects.

All of those who spoke at Monday's hearing praised the proposed bill, and judging by the subsequent vote, the words did not fall on deaf ears.

Manchester deserves special praise for its turnout at the hearing. A total of 38 Connecticut communities have projects that are included in the proposal, but no town had more input at the hearing than Manchester.

Of the dozen or so speakers at the hearing, four persons — Asst. Superintendent Wilson E. Deakin, Washington School Principal Robert Heins, and concerned parents Patrick Brown and Marilyn McCann — were from Manchester. They spoke in favor of renovations at the Washington and Bentley Schools, two of the projects included in the bill.

Brown and Mrs. McCann, in fact, were the only parents who spoke at the hearing. Other towns were represented by school administrators or elected officials, but no other parents spoke.

At one point in the hearing, Sen. Audrey Beck (D-29th District), chairperson of the committee, commented, "Manchester seems to want its schools."

The four townspeople who spoke assured that the town's interest in its schools was made clear to the committee.

It is this kind of interaction in government that helps a community receive at least some of what it is asking for in state legislation.

It is easy to criticize the insensitivity or inefficiency of the large statewide operation of a government, but one key to the process is still input from people.

Public hearings are scheduled for all bills that have a chance of being acted on by the General Assembly during the 1977 session.

Input like that made by Manchester residents Monday is important, and it does not go unnoticed.

Frozen Assets!

Second-class citizens aren't always black

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — All the excitement over television's mostly superb production of Alex Haley's mostly superb "Roots" set me thinking about a boyhood friend from a well-to-do Italian family who was refused admission to a prestigious prep school solely because — as his father put it — "the kid's a Wop."

Which is by way of saying that my only disappointment with the TV "Roots" was that by implication all American whites were indicted for the institution of slavery.

Implication disproved

Haley has disowned this implication. In TV Guide he wrote that he preferred to "consider that 'Roots' speaks of the American human drama, in which ancestrally we all came from somewhere across the ocean."

"Thank you, sir. You have more common sense and more tolerance in your little finger than the 'way-out' leaders, who have seized on 'Roots' not only to wallow in their own 'guilt' but to denounce whites in today's America as inherently immoral."

Now then. Even if my forebears had owned slaves, I would feel no guilt. They were them and I'm me. Second, there was a grandfather named John Tully who was a raging abolitionist. He enlisted in the 15th Massachusetts Volunteers Regiment, was wounded at Antietam, and came back to fight at Gettysburg. That doesn't make me a hero. Nor does it demean the descendants of Southern whites who fought for a cause they believed in.

A reminder

Indeed, "Roots" should be a reminder that some white Americans are still treated with thinly veiled contempt as second-class citizens by some segments of show biz. These are the so-called elites who are dislodged because their ancestors came from the wrong "somewhere across the ocean."

Too many TV and movie producers still portray Poles as a stupid, Italian as mobsters, the Irish as hard-drinking cops or crooked politicians.

Stereotypes prevail

These citizens by now have a right to be fed up with TV shows, movies and even commercials that lump them all together as untidy and sometimes criminal immigrants who speak broken or ungrammatical English and therefore are legitimate targets for ridicule and even condemnation as congenial hoodlums.

There have even been political overtones to some of this mockery. In recent campaigns, hardhats and blue collar workers have been polsters speak gibbly of the "Polish liars" who are the "Polish parents or grandparents came from Italy, Ireland, Poland or Latin America. Commentators and polsters speak gibbly of the "Polish vote" as though it were imported from Warsaw. References to the "Catholic vote" suggest the bloc takes order from the Vatican.

Image maker 'guilt'

Predictably, blacks are seldom satirized or ridiculed on screen or tube or in print. I say predictably because of the "guilt" that still pervades our image makers. There are exceptions, but mostly blacks are

Heart fund drive to begin next week

Only a week is left to concentrate on the once-a-year month-long Heart Fund drive.

Of Manchester's 47,000 population, there were 217 deaths during the past year from cardio-vascular diseases which represents 48.3 per cent of all deaths in town. Of the total population, there is an estimated 4,750 persons with high blood pressure, and an estimated 5,913 persons who have cardiovascular disease.

Throughout the country in 1974, 665,000 persons died of heart attack — 350,000 before they reached the hospital. Many thousands of these deaths have been saved if the victims had heeded the signals.

When you suffer a heart attack, minutes — especially the first few minutes — count.

Know the signals which are:

- Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in center of chest lasting two minutes or more.
- Pain may spread to shoulders, neck or arms.
- Severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. Sharp, stabbing twinges of pain are usually not signals of a heart attack.

The foods we eat, especially fatty foods, are one of the risk factors in heart disease. The American Heart Association's nutritionists have tested thousands of recipes in order to provide the best of all culinary worlds.

Here are a couple of low fat and low cholesterol recipes:

Fish roasts bread
3 C. sifted all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
¾ C. sugar
1 ½ tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
1/3 C. margarine (polyunsaturated)
1 1/3 C. buttermilk
1/2 C. currants

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Sift together the first six ingredients. Cut in the margarine with a pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add buttermilk and stir until lightly moistened. Mix currants in lightly.

Shape into a ball and knead about 15 seconds.

Place on a lightly greased cookie sheet. With the palm of the hand flatten dough into a circle about seven inches in diameter and 1/2 inch thick. With a sharp knife, cut a cross on top, about 1/4 inch deep and five inches long, to prevent cracking during baking.

Bake 45 to 50 minutes. Cool on a wire rack.

Yield: 1 round loaf.

Southern Meat loaf
1 ½ lbs. lean ground beef
1 medium onion, diced
5 slices bread
1 tsp. basil
1 tsp. parsley
2 tbsps. grated parmesan cheese
¼ tsp. garlic salt
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. black pepper
2 egg whites (slightly beaten)
1 1/2 C. can tomato sauce
1 tbsps. prepared mustard.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Combine the first 10 ingredients and ¾ cup of the tomato sauce and gently mold into a loaf.

Pour the tomato sauce from the can into a bowl and, using the can as a measure, add the same amount of water. Mix in the prepared mustard. Pour sauce over loaf and bake one hour. Yield: 6 servings.

That State Army over at 330 Main St. has been used for a lot of things — basketball games, boxing and wrestling matches, car shows, dances, and dinner meetings.

It was also used for a poultry show. Manchester had a poultry club, and it had a show yearly at the armory. They were put on for at least 15 years, all before World War II, and they were generally held during January.

While running through the micro film for 1935, we came across some stories about the 14th annual Manchester Poultry Show, and the results of the judging.

Those shows went on four days, Wednesday through Saturday. Judging was done on the first day.

Charlie Johnson, then of 28 Woodland St., was secretary and he took all the entries. There would be entries for cocks, cockerels, hens, pullets of Mediterranean, Rhode Island Reds, Orpington, Rocks, and Jersey Giants.

You could also find exhibits of turkeys, ducks, geese, rabbits, pigeons.

The grand prize for the show was $20, and there were 11 prizes for individual classes.

Some of the Manchester members of the poultry club took prizes in 1935. Frank Bowen won first place in the dark barred Rocks; Ray Smith was winner in single comb Reds; Herman Kisman won in white Wyandottes, and William Pitkin took first in white Rocks.

Joe Carter, John "Dusty" May and George Sankey all won prizes in Buff Orpingtons.

There was an advertisement about the show, and there were some familiar names, like the Little and McKinney poultry and feed firm. Moon Feeds, Startwatt's sprays and insecticides, and the Manchester Milk Dealers.

Other exhibitors were Schaller's Motor Sales (Plymouth and Dodge cars), Cole Motor Sales (Pontiac and Reo cars), Dillon Motor Sales (Ford cars and trucks), Riley Chevrolet (forrunner of Carter Chevrolet), Singer Sewing, Watkins Bros. advertising stoves, and Manchester Electric Co. advertising ranges and heaters.

Judges came from Springfield, and some from the Vernon and Somers area.

The poultry shows are now ancient history.

Brotherhood Week

If I remember rightly, the slogan used to advertise "Boy's Town" (a big boy carrying a small boy) goes something like this: "He's not heavy Father, he's my brother." And we know that we have to be very little to be carried by God. So can we say God's invitation is not that we live just with him but with each other. To see God in every man and every situation. Brotherhood

One of the major goals of the Brotherhood program, co-sponsored by Temple Beth Shalom and the Conference of Churches, is to encourage mutual understanding and reciprocal esteem among our people.

A particular hope, stressed by the present Brotherhood reading program in our schools and public libraries this month, is that education will create a climate in which we can recognize our interdependence upon one another and come to understand and respect each other's unique and distinctive beliefs, customs and traditions.

A trend which has increasingly disturbed many in the religious community is the polarization among differing religious groups on such issues as abortion, birth control, right to life or death with dignity, to help others. Their private schools, quality integrated education and the use of busing to ensure equality.

It is an even more disturbing trend in recent years the anti-Semitism, a serpent many of us felt to be, if not beheaded, at least forced underground.

Over 60 Manchester clergy and religions recently heard Rev. Robert Huston, chief ecumenical officer of the United Methodist Church, speak of his personal experience as he traveled around the world. Dr. Huston also, with this rise in anti-semitism, un-did the sad fate of a people and as an essential part of the Jewish faith. Ignorance, whether based on misunderstanding or lack of understanding, the trend toward polarization, both religious and racial, and a rise in prejudice and bigotry endangers our welfare both as individuals and as a nation.

Lufkin addresses Manchester GOP

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Dan Lufkin, attacking the spendthrift policies of the Democratic party, told local Republicans Saturday night that the GOP faces "a great opportunity" to strengthen itself.

"Under the Democratic system, it has been more or less, most is best. The electorate's onto that game. It's not going to win as it may have in the past," he told about 150 Manchester Republicans who had gathered at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner-dance.

Lufkin, introduced by dinner chairman Wally Irish as "a man who epitomizes our party — truly a team player," said that Republican ideals are now being turned to more frequently.

He spoke of promises made by Democratic rulers.

"The Republican party has been unpopular in the past because we've asked, 'Wait a minute. What will it cost?'" he said.

"For the first time, you see Democratic leaders across the country asking those same questions that we have been asking for years," Lufkin said. "Never before have we had a greater opportunity to bring that Republican philosophy into focus."

This same theory of rising Republicanism was also the focal point of the place mats used for the evening. The mats were reproductions of a recent editorial Lufkin wrote about the party's future.

At the beginning of his speech, he joked with the audience that if they found themselves "tuning out" while he spoke, they could just pick up the place mats and start reading.

Work on do.

Lufkin also told the group that part of the party's responsibility is to take advantage of this increased opportunity.

"It's up to every single one of us to bring others into and help finance the opportunities we have in 1977 and 1978," he said.

"This is no time for individual aggrandizement. The first obligation is to put the party in shape so it can be a viable force," he said.

Lufkin, who served as the state's first head of the Department of Environmental Protection from 1971 to 1973, was in meeting with Republican organizations throughout the state to discuss the party's need for the future.

The party must look to increase Republican registration and choose the best candidates for all positions," he said.

"Our time, our opportunity, our goal must be to look toward the election of municipal candidates in the fall," he said.

He also praised the local Republicans for their showing Saturday night.

"It's a joy to see this kind of turnout, this kind of response, this kind of enthusiasm," Lufkin told the group.

Senator and wife work out problem

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative leader and his wife planned to turn over a new leaf today after a weekend incident in which the state's annual Democratic fundraising dinner where Hannon was the toastmaster.

Sen. and Mrs. George W. Hannon of East Hartford issued a joint statement Sunday in which they said they had decided to seek professional help immediately to resolve their problems.

Mrs. Hannon, 47, the mother of nine children, complained to police Saturday at 3:37 a.m. her husband attempted to choke her after the dinner.

Mrs. Hannon accompanied her husband to the Jefferson-Jackson-Baley dinner Friday night at the Hartford Civic Center, but left before he did. An argument occurred after he returned to their East Hartford home and the police were called.

The police, who found the 44-year-old Hannon asleep on the couch in his insurance agency office, lodged no charges against him. Hannon is an Assistant Majority Leader in the state Senate.

As with many family difficulties, a traumatic event sometimes crystallizes the situation and draws the parties closer together," the Hannon's said Sunday.

"We want our many friends to know that we are seeking the professional help necessary to resolve our problems," they said.

"We believe that professional assistance will be beneficial for both of us and that we will emerge stronger as a result of it."

The Hannon's said they were leaving together Sunday afternoon on a short trip "to seek some peace and quiet for several days." They declined to say where they were going.

Mrs. Hannon said she was pleased she and her husband had decided to seek counseling. "We're working out our problems. We're in the process of it now," she said.

They said they would decline any further public comment on what they described as a "regrettable personal family incident."

The police declined to give any specifics on the matter, but said an officer's report would be available Tuesday, when the department's records office opens for business.

Irving Meltzer to speak Sunday at breakfast on Jewish activism

Irving Meltzer, of South Windsor, will address the monthly breakfast meeting of Charter Oak Lodge, B'nai B'rith, Sunday at 9 a.m. at the Bonanza Steak House, Spencer St.

Meltzer's topic will be "Jewish Activism." The program will include two short films dealing with the State of Israel, "Free People" and "Children of the Exodus."

Meltzer was recently awarded a citation by the government of Israel for his participation in transporting refugee Jews to Palestine during World War II and immediately thereafter. Serving as an American Volunteer for Palestine, Meltzer was captured by the British and imprisoned in a concentration camp on the island of Cyprus.

He had served in the United States Merchant Marine and then became part of a group of American and Canadian Jews who volunteered their services to run the British blockade, which was intended to limit the number of Jews from Europe seeking admission to Palestine. The volunteers' mission was to transport survivors of German concentration camps to Palestine. Subsequently, Meltzer himself was sent to Palestine from Cyprus, under the British blockade, before returning to the United States, after the creation of the State of Israel in 1948. Meltzer served with the Israeli Marines and was assigned as a communications officer in the Israeli Navy.

The breakfast is open to the public.

State donates sign on Andover history

The Bicentennial Commission has given the Town of Andover a large metal sign engraved with the town's history. The commission submitted a report and application to the state and the state gave the sign on charge.

The sign, which is about 2 by 5 feet, is blue with silver lettering and has the state seal on the top. The history of the town is inscribed on both sides of the sign.

Richard Clark, commission chairman, said the commission hasn't set a date for a formal presentation of the sign to the town. He said it will possibly be in June. It will be installed by the commission but the place hasn't been decided.

Clark said the commission is wrapping up a lot of projects and reviewing prior projects. Its next meeting will be a working session.

Vernon zoners review regulations on liquor

Prompted by a request for a permit to sell liquor at a pharmacy planing to open at 338 Talbotville Rd. (Rt. 88), the Vernon Zoning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) plan to review the existing regulations.

The zoning commission will meet March 3 in advance of the planned joint meeting. The ZBA now handles liquor applications.

Last week, the Zoning Commission denied a request by pharmacist Paul Leon to amend the zoning regulations to include pharmacies selling liquor.

The existing zoning regulations don't provide guidelines for approving requests of pharmacies to sell grocery and convenience stores for the sale of liquor.

Fire engine damaged on way to false alarm

A Rockville fire truck and two cars received minor damage Sunday when they skidded on a slippery hill. The fire truck was responding to a box alarm at St. Bernard School which proved to be false.

Fire Chief Donald Maguda said the truck stopped to assist at another accident and perhaps in doing so averted more serious damage by locking the other skidding cars going into the already disabled ones.

Maguda reminds residents that false alarms are not only endangering the lives of firemen and others but are also very costly to the town.

He said it costs about $25 to $30 every time a fire vehicle responds to a call and five vehicles go out.

House fire cause unknown

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacDonald, North St., Hebron, was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin late Friday night.

The home, of 18th Century vintage, was said to be filled with antiques. The MacDonalds were not home when the fire broke out.

Six members of the Hebron Fire Department suffered from smoke inhalation and a seventh fireman suffered a back injury. All were treated and released at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Jerry Taylor was driving home Friday night when he saw flames coming from the house. He reported the fire over Citizens Band radio. It took four hours to bring the fire under control. Firemen were hampered by the fact they had to chop through 27 inches of ice on a nearby pond to obtain water.

Departments from Colchester, Bolton, Andover and Columbia assisted the Hebron department. The fire was reported at 11:25 a.m. and Hebron firemen stayed on the scene until 8 a.m. Saturday.

At 10:30 a.m. the Hebron Department was called out to another fire at the home of Gerald Gulmand, 789 East St. They were at the scene for about two hours. No injuries were reported but the house was heavily damaged.

A third fire at 5 p.m. Saturday was in a garage at the intersection of Rts. 94 and 85.

PZC reviews subdivision

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet Feb. 22 to review a preliminary report on a proposed 11-lot subdivision on Burnap Brook Rd.

An application for the subdivision was briefly discussed at last week's meeting of the commission. Eugene Sammartino is the applicant.

Burnap Brook Rd. is part of the town road system but it is only paved from Rt. 9 to the area of the former railroad tracks. The commission doesn't know if the town would have to pave the road if houses are built on it.

Town Atty. Katherine Hutchinson turned the matter over to another attorney for investigation because she was involved in the sale of the land to Sammartino as attorney for the former owner.

In other business last week, the commission: * Asked for more information from the Ball Co. on Rt. 6 before renewing its excavation permit. The commission wants an updated contour map and also wants to know what has been done and when excavation will resume.

* Began work on a long-range plan of development for the town. * And agreed to contact the local post office to see how it feels about the proposed numbering of houses.

Sciosio was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, March 23.

Milestone for Keon

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — "We started this race to run out front," said Cale Yarborough.

And, except for 31 furious lead changes among nine drivers, Yarborough achieved his goal Sunday at Daytona International Speedway to win his second Daytona 500 stock car race.

Yarborough was out front 10 different times, leading the 200-lap race for a total of 137 laps.

And he was out front by 1.39 seconds — or about 12 car lengths — when it counted.

Yarborough, who won the Daytona 500 in 1976 and was third last year, was right on Yarborough's bumper for the final 75 miles.

"Benny was running real strong," Yarborough said. "I couldn't shake him. He was in my draft and sticking pretty tight. The traffic was thinned out and I couldn't get any lapped cars to shake him loose."

But he was finally able to whip past a slower car. After he shook Parsons out of his draft, Yarborough kept a slim but firm lead to the finish.

"Salt Walther turned right, right into Buddy. It definitely wasn't Buddy's fault. We ran this race just like we run them all — as fast as we can," he said.

Yarborough, who collected $63,700 for winning the $414,000 race, had a close call when Salt Walther's Chevrolet hit Baker's Ford on the backstretch with about 80 laps to go.

"I was right on Buddy's bumper. I was lucky I got out of that," Yarborough said. "For some reason, people will not look into their rear view mirrors here."

Dr. J unleashes talents again after slow start

NEW YORK (UPI) — Since leaving the New York Nets, Julius Erving has been trying to adapt his skills to the talented Philadelphia 76ers.

The American team won the cup last year for the first time since 1971. Jimmy Connors, Dick Stockton, Roscoe Tanner and Brian Gottfried have been picked as four of the five players making up the American team. The fifth player will be chosen at a later date.

"Any team that has as much depth as the Americans is going to be hard to beat," Stolle said. "It's a hell of a tennis team that you can get that many top-ranked players together."

Tony Fred, John Alexander and Mark Edmondson will also help the Australian team try to wrench the cup from one of the toughest American teams ever to play in the tournament, sponsored by Aetna.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: Lori, a 31-year-old single woman was recently adopted by her lover, Charlie, a 35-year-old man with two children and a wife who refuses to give him a divorce.

Charlie and Lori now live together and because they have the same last name, everyone assumes they are man and wife.

Charlie says his lawyer advised him that this arrangement is better for him than marriage because if Lori and he split, she can't sue him for alimony. Also, since he's supporting Lori he can claim a nice tax deduction.

Charlie's wife is having a fit because she is now legally the "mother" of her husband's sweetheart, and she doesn't like the idea one bit.

I understand that Lori's parents are still living, so I am puzzled as to how Charlie can adopt a "daughter" whose parents are living.

Please ask your legal hotshot to check out the above situation and let me know if it's kosher. It sounds like a good deal to me.

CURIOS IN ARLINGTON

DEAR CURIOUS: Adoption laws differ from state to state, so if you're considering a similar setup, I advise you to consult your own legal hotshot.

DEAR ABBY: I'm told that mothers and daughters should be "best friends." Frankly, my mother gives me orders. Her penny-pinching drives me all up a wall.

For birthdays, Christmas and all gift-giving occasions she buys sale items that are invariably slightly damaged, the wrong size, useless or just plain ugly. And of course nothing can be returned. (She has lovely expensive taste when it comes to buying for herself, however.)

My sisters and I (all married and with families) have never received one gift from mother that we could use. And if she doesn't see her gift being used, she's not above asking for it back!

If she were poor, I wouldn't say anything, but mother has a stable inheritance, and father is a very wealthy man.

When dad gives her a present, she immediately exchanges it for cash.

How does one cope with such a problem?

ULCER-PRONE

DEAR PRONE: Your mother is a character. She's also a cheap skate. A good sense of humor is the best ulcer remedy I know. Develop yours.

And cheer up, dear. What she doesn't spend on you now, she probably leave you.

DEAR ABBY: You always say, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest," so that's why I'm writing. Also because there's a one in a million chance that the gentleman whose parking place I stole today will see this.

I feel like a dirty dog. I'm a woman who at my age (30) should know better, but I deliberately STOLE a man's parking place. I saw him waiting to pull into a parking place that someone was pulling out of, and I sneaked in ahead of him.

If he had cussed me out I wouldn't have blamed him, but he didn't. He was a perfect gentleman. He just looked at me sadly and shook his head as if to say, "Shame on you, lady."

Master, if you should see this, please believe me when I say I'm sorry. I feel like a thief. I've never done that before, and I'll never do it again.

Grand way to bid slam can show several hands from his book, although we will change the bidding in order to simplify.

Jim: "Here is a hand bid to seven diamonds by Rubin and Matt Granovetter — partners in an important team match. North's five-notrump bid was the variation of Ely Culbertson's grand-slam force as played by this team. It set diamonds as the suit and asked partner to bid seven with two of the three top honors, six clubs with one and six diamonds with none. Hence, North knew that South held the ace of diamonds and went to the grand slam. Their opponents at the other table stopped at six and both tables made six."

Oswald: "I won't go into all the play but as Alan points out seven is a good contract that can only be made if declarer has seen the opposing cards."

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Alan Sontag, one of the best of our young bridge players, has just completed a book called, "The Bridge Bum." The title is rather misleading since it is about Alan's bridge experience and Alan is anything but a bum or anything like one."

Oswald: "Since Alan is just 21 you can call him young. He has won plenty of major tournaments including the Vanderbilt and Reisinger. We Berry's World."

For Tuesday, Feb. 22, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're on solid footing today. You're on solid footing today. You're on solid footing today. You're on solid footing today. You're on solid footing today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The feeling of independence today, you're just a slow starter. You could spend more time than you're ready to spend today to reach. Plan some fun later today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If the pace gets too hectic today, withdraw to a quiet corner and get your head together. You'll feel better for it.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Friendships take priority today. Even if you have to subordinate your position to help a friend, you'd be wise to do so.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) In the day you're not zoned in on your targets. Later, you'll get the right range. That's when your goals are attained.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others may offer unsolicited advice today. You'll probably find that your ideas are better in the long run.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're involved in a serious situation, go straight to the heart of the matter.
