Music groups given $2,000 grant

The Manchester Civic Orchestra and Choral (MCO) has qualified for a $2,000 challenge grant from the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving. Francis W. Helfrick, M.D., president of the MCO, said a quiet solicitation among the business community of Manchester has raised the $2,000 required to match the foundation's challenge on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Dr. Helfrick said that the grant was given to stimulate support for the MCO among the area businesses, and it has done just that. He called the response from the Secretary explains defense budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown says a cut of over $2.7 billion in the defense budget is being achieved by stopping some programs — including the Navy's nuclear strike cruiser — and slowing others, such as the B1 bomber and MX missile. At a Pentagon briefing Monday, Brown said the proposed Carter revisions provide a defense budget of $120.4 billion compared to Gerald Ford's proposed $123.1 billion for the year beginning Oct. 1. Brown said he anticipates more savings after additional study. The B1 bomber, which Carter once termed an example of a wasteful weapons system, will be procured at a reduced rate of five aircraft next year instead of eight as Ford had planned. Carter, he said, has not yet fully made up his mind whether to proceed with the full fleet of 24 B1s. Contracts are structured so that a final decision is not necessary before June. Similarly, Brown disclosed a deferred decision on whether to produce the new generation MX strategic missile. The immediate savings is $150 million. He said the deferrals and revisions give the department options to see what happens in the strategic arms limitation talks, and added: "I think it is almost certain our subsequent program will depend on what happens in that negotiation." The administration's budget contains some increases. They include: —$60 million to improve U.S. aircraft stationed in Europe. —$50 million for additional maintenance facilities in Europe. Savings included: —Canceling the Navy's controversial nuclear strike cruiser at a saving of $187 million. —Deleting the Navy's final buy of six A7E light attack fighters at a saving of $24 million.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A man Monday decided to fill in for a streetcar motorman who was calling police about his rowdy passengers, according to authorities. The trolley operator called police to report the disturbance and while he was talking with a dispatcher he noticed his streetcar moving down the tracks. Police stopped the "acting motorman" one block away and charged him with theft. He was identified as Timothy P. Rabb, 27, of San Rafael, Calif.

Economic bill moving quickly with little debate or changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's proposal to stimulate the economy with $50 rebates and jobs is moving quickly through Congress' budget process with little debate and few changes. The Senate voted 72 to 20 Tuesday to make room in this year's budget for $17.3 billion in economic stimulus. It is 1 billion more than Carter originally requested. The House was to vote late today on its similar $17.3 billion version of the budget resolution. Neither measure enacts Carter's proposals into law. All they do is make room for the package in the budget for fiscal 1977, which runs until Oct. 1. They deal only with the first year of Carter's $31 billion, two-year proposal. And they leave many issues unresolved. For example, both House and Senate versions approve the $13.8 billion Carter sought for tax reductions. But they leave open whether these should be mainly rebates, as he proposed, or permanent tax cuts, which the Republicans and some Democrats want. Sen. William Roth, R-Dele., said Carter's proposal is "an ineffective gimmick and an insult to every taxpayer," and it "will not inspire business to increase production and create new jobs." Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N. Mex., said a smaller, permanent tax cut would do more for the economy. The Senate version calls for a budget deficit this year of $82.2 billion, House version, $78.2 billion. Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., said either would be the highest ever and

Directors agree to fund overrun costs of Spencer St. elderly housing project

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter Review of the plans for the 40-unit elderly housing project on Spencer St. should begin this week following Tuesday night's vote by the Board of Directors that it intends to provide funding for overrun costs connected with the project. The Town of Manchester will use federal Community Development and Revenue Sharing funds and surplus in the town budget to pay the $175,124 additional cost. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said this morning. The board voted 6-0 (John Thompson, Phyllis Jackson and Vivian Ferguson were absent) that it intends to provide funding for overrun costs connected with the project. "The directors, however, could not make any actual appropriation of funds Tuesday night. A public hearing, which requires sufficient advertising, must be held on any appropriation. Michael T. Duffy, director of the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) Housing Bureau, said this morning that the board's action Tuesday night will be enough to permit a start to the reviewing process of the Spencer St. plans. Duffy said writing to Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) Director Leon Enderlin in December and said that the DCA would withhold formal approval of the elderly housing until the town guaranteed that increases in the project could be funded. "The town's word is good to me," Duffy said, reacting to the Tuesday night vote of intention to fund. "I will go ahead and begin reviewing the plans as soon as I get formal word from the town."

showed a "lack of fiscal discipline." The Senate addition to Carter's proposal was all to make room in the budget for spending increases, mainly to create jobs, beyond what he proposed. They include government subsidies to help low income families pay their high fuel bills this winter, environmental construction grants, railroad and highway construction, work programs in federal parks and forests, and more for youth employment than Carter asked. Sen. William Roth, R-Dele., said Carter's proposal is "an ineffective gimmick and an insult to every taxpayer," and it "will not inspire business to increase production and create new jobs." Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N. Mex., said a smaller, permanent tax cut would do more for the economy. The Senate version calls for a budget deficit this year of $82.2 billion, House version, $78.2 billion. Town challenges six claims in Buckland zoning suit

By GREG PEARSON Herald Reporter The Town of Manchester has challenged six of the 11 claims filed in an appeal against a zoning change for the proposed industrial park. The appeal, filed in Superior Court, was submitted by the Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC), was prepared by Atty. Jules Karp and Roland Castleman, who were hired by the EDC to work on the park preparations. Atty. Bruce Beck and Anthony Papano appealed a Jan. 17 zoning change needed for 245 of the proposed park's 393 acres. The appeal listed 11 statements in the appeal. The town's answer to the appeal was filed Tuesday, the first date the town could respond to the appeal. however, apparently feels that these actions are not required before the zone change application is submitted. The town's answer also challenges a statement that the park would cause deterioration in the value of homes and property of four of the plaintiffs, who live within the proposed park site. Also challenged is a statement in the appeal that two of the plaintiffs who live outside of the park site are aggrieved parties because the park will damage water, air and other natural resources in the area. The appeal also said that the Planning and Zoning Commission, which granted the zone change, acted illegally, arbitrarily and abusive of the discretion vested in it. "This is also being denied in the town's answer to the appeal. A transcript of the zoning hearing is still being prepared. Once that is submitted, a court date should be set for the case.

Jackson questions Warnke's fitness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, questioning the fitness of Paul Warnke to be top U.S. arms negotiator, suggests Warnke changed his views to win Senate confirmation. "I believe this suddenness with which Mr. Warnke has changed his position on a number of central issues raises some fundamental questions about whether, and to what degree, the Senate is justified in basing its judgment on an assumption of consistency, clarity, and forthrightness," Jackson said Tuesday. During a heated exchange at a hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Warnke stubbornly insisted, "My fundamental views have not changed." Warnke conceded only he had revised some standstill strategic circumstances and U.S. and Soviet weapons developments changed. Warnke easily won approval of the Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday when it voted 15 to 1 to recommend his confirmation as chief arms reduction negotiator. Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., dissented on both votes. Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., dissented on the second. The Senate Armed Services Committee, holding an extra series of "educational" hearings, was well. The company is merely waiting for "profit maximization," Galloway said. Rep. James Collins, R-Tex., said Galloway ignores the need for conservation. He said if producers went all-out, regardless of cost, gas would run out long before the nation had alternate sources of energy. Galloway said Texas' failure to contribute to the "profit-before-gas" philosophy. He and Strongin said a Federal Power Commission study showed the fields would bring Texaco a 15 per cent return on investment at prices well within federal price control, and up to 100 per cent return at some of the prices Texaco said it would need to develop the fields fully. Palmer said the two fields are tied up for two Texaco customers, and for the company's own use in its Post Arthur refinery. It is "a straw man case" to contend Texaco could produce the gas faster for the emergency, when it is tied to 20-year contracts for the approximate amount of the gas in the fields, Palmer said.

Natural gas reserve defended by Texaco

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Texaco vice president says a House subcommittee misses the point if it thinks little natural gas fields can be turned on easily to get the country through the energy emergency. R. B. Palmer, senior vice president in charge of Texaco's worldwide exploration efforts, denied any suggestion by the House subcommittee on oversight and investigations that Texaco, waiting for maximum profits, willfully holds back gas it could produce quickly and profitably. The subcommittee invited him to tell his story today. Tuesday, subcommittee staff investigators contended Texaco and other major oil and gas firms let a "profit-before-gas" philosophy hold sway over the public interest in times of emergency. Dr. John Galloway, director of the subcommittee's energy task force, said Texaco has half a trillion cubic feet of natural gas in the Tiger Shoal and Lighthouse Point natural gas fields in the Gulf of Mexico, that it could produce easily, by sinking new

Bureau chiefs oppose state revamp plan

HARTFORD (UPI) — Three heavyweights in Connecticut's bureaucracy aren't too excited about this year's state government reorganization plan. And for good reason. They stand to lose a lot of their power if the plan goes into effect. Three state department commissioners said Tuesday they were in favor of keeping or adding to the number of departments in their domains. None want to give up any departments. Their comments were made to the legislature's Government and Administration Policy Committee, studying reorganization of Connecticut's executive branch. Commissioner Eric A. Plant of the Department of Mental Health and Commissioner Gareth Thorne of the Department of Mental Retardation said they would lose out if their departments were put under the control of a so-called superagency. "I do not believe a central planning system can really be very sensitive to what's happening to people," Thorne said.

Women's Council to hear talk on realty records

Eugene Sammartino, president of Fireside Realty, Inc., attended the annual convention of the Homes For Living Network Feb. 9-13 in Dallas, Tex., where entertainer Steve Allen was introduced as the official spokesman of the Homes For Living Network for 1977.

At the opening General Session, the more than 1,500 persons in attendance were told that Allen would be seen in print advertising, and in radio and television spots which will be available for members to use beginning April 1.

As an international marketing association of over 1,500 cooperating real estate offices, the Network provides marketing programs and services to its affiliate members so they may better assist the American home buying and selling public. The more than 12,000 brokers and sales associates serving over 8,000 communities in all 50 states, Canada and Puerto Rico accounted for more than $5 billion in residential sales in 1976.

Also attending the convention from Fireside Realty, Inc. was Chris Sammartino.

Opinion Are rules to blame?

It is time either to prove or to lay to rest the charge that the natural gas industry is using the present crisis to loot the pocketbooks of American consumers by forcing the deregulation of interstate gas prices.

The hardships people are enduring because of closed schools and factories and businesses and lowered thermostats are bad enough without the nagging suspicion that they are attributable to machinations in the executive suites of the gas companies. People like Ohio's Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, who make this kind of charge without offering convincing evidence to back it up, are doing no one a service.

Neither is the federal government doing anyone a service by leading us to believe that, once the crisis is over, we will again have plenty of gas at the same regulated price. None of the emergency steps currently being taken to bring gas into gas short states does anything to address the problem of where we are going to get the gas we will need in the future.

One thing we can all agree on is that even if this winter's severe cold and unprecedented gas demand had been foreseen, the capability of the utilities to keep the fuel flowing normally would still have been strained to the utmost.

Thus the immediate question that must be resolved when this winter is over is how to prevent a repeat of a situation that is approaching tragic proportions. And in this respect, a grave indictment can be brought against the regulators. One piece of evidence:

The largest supplier of natural gas in Ohio, one of the states hardest hit this winter, is Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. In May 1973, Columbia sought permission from the Federal Power Commission (FPC) to convert former gas-producing fields into a storage pool to hold up to 115 billion cubic feet of gas reserves.

Not until March 1976, after nearly three years of studies, hearings and conferences, did an FPC administrative judge grant the company authority to build the storage pool. By then the cost of the project had doubled from $33 million to $66 million because of inflation and imposed environmental requirements, and was in any case too late to have prevented this winter's shortage.

Interestingly, one reason for the delay was an FPC staff determination that the plan was "too ambitious and too costly."

In other words, the government not only tells the utilities how much they may charge for their products, it tells them how to run their businesses in the smallest detail — with less than spectacular foresight.

We may or may not believe the industry's claim that artificially low prices are discouraging exploration for new gas deposits. But consider this:

The U.S. Bureau of Mines estimates that there are 300 trillion cubic feet of methane gas, the major constituent of natural gas, in U.S. coal seams. This is equal to the total of proven and currently recoverable U.S. natural gas reserves.

Not only could these vast deposits become a major new energy source, but degasification of mines prior to mining would do much to prevent methane gas explosions that take the lives of scores of miners every year.

According to mining engineers with the University of Pennsylvania, however, coal seam gas is not economically recoverable at current interstate gas prices, which is why little more than experimental wells have been drilled so far.

The price of gas and other fuels is high already and nobody, except possibly stockholders in energy companies, welcomes the idea of even higher prices.

But it is becoming increasingly clear that unless we free our so-called free enterprise system of self-defeating overregulation, the alternative is worse — a condition of permanent energy shortage and recurrent energy crises.

Watch George Bush for 1980

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON — Add another name to the list of potential Republican presidential candidates for 1980: George Bush, freed from the tongue-tied restraints of the Central Intelligence Agency, is back on the political market.

Bush, 48, one of the GOP's most articulate and versatile figures, has just returned to Houston to resume a business career and rebuild his partisan political credentials in case opportunity beckons four years hence.

Large list
 Although Congress has barely finished counting the 1976 electoral votes, the line of Republicans who may seek a shot at Jimmy Carter in 1980 keeps growing. Bush is merely the latest addition to a list that includes:

Ronald Reagan, John Connally, Elliot Richardson, Donald Rumsfeld, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., Illinois Gov. Jim Thompson and the defeated 1976 ticket, Gerald R. Ford and Sen. Robert Dole.

Even before he unpacked, Bush dashed off to Alaska for a round of Lincoln Day speeches, his first political appearances in three years. (As head of the U.S. mission to the People's Republic of China and later as CIA director, he avoided partisan events.)

Helping the party
 "I'll be doing some of that kind of thing, hopefully to help the party," Bush told us. "I've told people that, sure, I want to stay alive politically."

Bush won't need to scratch around for invitations. As GOP national chairman for 20 months in 1973-74, he delivered hundreds of speeches on the rubber-chicken circuit during the darkest days of Watergate, when Republicans needed all the help they could get. The party activists haven't forgotten his dedication.

Bush can also count on assistance from a small but talented group of political operatives who returned to Houston from Washington at the same time he did.

Baker an ally
 Among them are James Baker, a long time Bush ally who won almost universal praise as Ford's campaign manager last year, and Pete Rouseff, a former Bush aide at the GOP National Committee who worked at the Ford White House under two successive chiefs-of-staff, Rumsfeld and Richard Cheney.

Like Bush, Baker and Rouseff insist it is premature to talk seriously about 1980. "It's fair to say that George would look at it," Baker said. "It's something he obviously hasn't ruled out and if he decided to do something, I'd certainly help."

Hasn't said
 "George has never said he is going

An owlsh editor's notebook

By FLOYD LARSON

Uncle Julius would like to have a re-run of last November's election. He thinks a lot of voters might have voted differently if they had known they were voting for $55,000-a-year congressmen instead of $42,500-a-year ones.

One of the least acceptable arguments we've heard in favor of the congressional pay boost was that of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr.

He claims it was needed to make government service affordable for the average wage earner and attractive to high paid executives. Now it may be that a $200,000 a year might take a government congressman instead of $42,500-a-year ones.

Quite frankly, what scares off more top flight administrators from government service is the inquisitorial nature of confirmation hearings by the Congress. As Uncle

Winter ice on Cohasset beach in Massachusetts

Julius says, if the same standards of conduct were applied to members of Congress that the Congress often demands of appointees, they wouldn't have a quorum in either house.

And as for working men now being induced to run for Congress because the job now pays $55 Gs. That's pure bunk.

Only a few months ago, some congressmen were arguing that the taxpayers should be financing congressional campaigns because campaign costs kept the poor from seeking office.

Maybe there wouldn't be so much furor over the pay hike if service was restored to public service.

Cousin Juniper is upset about President Carter's letter to a Soviet dissident in Moscow. What makes him unhappy isn't the contents of the letter, but the fact it was delivered two days faster than a letter between Manchester and Hartford.

Connecticut's 2nd Dist. Rep. Chris Dodd has said he will give away his $13,000 a year pay raise until Congress adopts a new code of financial ethics. Right away one wag in the office wanted to know if the National Rifle Association was on his list of recipients.

Maybe it is the times, but doesn't it seem strange to read about counterfeit helicopter parts? Does it mean our money isn't worth counterfeiting anymore?

Another sign of times a changing. There was a time when a President didn't dare venture past the Mississippi without at least three sets of plans in his briefcase for huge dams on some western rivers. Now President Carter would like to eliminate about 40 proposed dams from the drawing boards.

One of the more controversial ones is the proposal to drop the Garrison diversion dam in North Dakota. Do you know what a diversion dam is? It is a run-of-the-river dam below a large dam to make more efficient use of the stored water. Or to put it another way, whenever you overbuild a large dam, you often need a diversion dam to make the big one more economic. The project then becomes a compromise between the huge inefficient dam the politicians like and the smaller run-of-the-river dams which produce more electric power collectively and at a cheaper cost. You have to remember that big dams, while great engineering feats, are not necessarily the best way to harness all rivers.

While on the subjects of dams, we pulled a lucky boo-boo some decades back when Foster Dulles got mad at Egypt and pulled U. S. funds out of the Aswan Project on the Nile. The Russians leaped into the breach and helped build. The question now is who will help Egypt get the slit out of it?

We'll bet the pro-dam forces will win a partial victory though. What with the drought in much of the West, the Corps of Engineers will rally their lobbyists to the cause of water storage even though no one has figured out a way to how to hold back water for next year when the farmers below the dam want the water for this year's crop.

The politics of the dam building is simply this: Any delay, even if the dams are not eliminated, could be fatal. The cost-benefit ratios used to evaluate the merits of dams doesn't take into well under inflation since the benefits are already inflated.

So the western congressmen may save their projects as far as keeping them on the drawing boards; but Carter may just win the war since a year or two of debate could delay the dams to the point in time where they would not be economically feasible.

It is going to be interesting to watch. This week's cornpatch special: The modern day accent on special sales on Washington's birthday reminds us of the oldie. The only reason Washington could throw a dollar across the Potomac was because a dollar went further in those days.

Carter lucky to have sister Ruth

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Let all married males left a flagon to a Georgia veterinarian named Robert Stapleton, whose wife is Jimmy Carter's sister, and who regard his relationship to the President as only incidental.

Stapleton and his wife represented Carter at Mexican Embassy party the other night. Mrs. Stapleton had attended the White House state dinner for Mexican President Jor Lopez Portillo the night before, but Stapleton did not because "I work for a living and I'm self-employed."

Reporters, in their common way, asked Mrs. Stapleton how about that. "When the President tells him to come, he comes," she replied. "No I don't," said Stapleton. "When the President's sister tells me to come, I around referring to "My brother-in-law the President." Like most husbands, he obviously likes to please his wife, barring the bestial upon her of too many mink coats. Presumably, he is on good terms with his wife's brother, but he quite properly feels Carter's wishes run second to those of the girl he married.

Right priority
 In short, it is more important that a husband get along with his wife than with his brother-in-law. That's what Stapleton was telling the reporters. He was not snobbing the President, merely stating a fact of married life.

At the same time, I'm sure Stapleton would agree with me that a sister is a very good thing for a man to possess. I don't know whether Carter will ever take himself too seriously, but if he does Ruth Carter Stapleton sounds like the kind of sister who will tell him to knock it off and behave himself.

Thoughts

Brotherhood Week

"Personhood"
 Reverence for life among all persons demands a response and commitment. The late Dr. Albert S. Switzer, an Austrian Nobel prize winner for peace in 1952 was asked to define a formula for world peace. His answer was "Reverence for Life."

Can it be true then that the brotherhood of mankind must include all persons? Is this then a "personhood?" We could name some persons and add the rest as we go through the day: Jew, Gentile, Black, Christian, Moslem, Greek, Roman, Catholic, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, American Indian, French, German, Canadian, Mexican, English and law breakers, law enforcers, tax collectors, employers, employees, union members, nonunion members, lawmakers, businessmen, politicians and our neighbors etc.

Let us love and defend one another. Have a good day.

The original charge related to an alleged theft of meat last year from the Shop-Rite store on Spencer St. Ms. Kirtley was being held in the Hartford Jail today in lieu of $500 bond and was to be presented in court today.

Doris L. Roboto, 35, of East Hartford was charged Tuesday night with first-degree criminal trespassing, after she allegedly broke into Lorraine's Interior Decorating shop at 119 Oakland St. Ms. Roboto is an employee of the shop. She was released on a promise to appear in court March 14.

Metro Bowl at 29 Olcott St. reported theft of a coin box with an unknown quantity of money. The theft occurred Saturday or Sunday, police said. Vandalism resulting in a broken glass in a door also was reported at Metro Bowl Tuesday night after trouble with several youth was reported to police.

MMH accepts Rockville merger study plan

Manchester Memorial Hospital will go along with the Rockville General Hospital Board of Trustees' recent decision not to hire a consultant to study the possibility of merging maternity services of the two hospitals.

The study will be conducted instead by the hospitals' staffs and members of a joint committee appointed from both hospitals to study the proposed merging of the two hospitals' maternity and pediatric services.

The Rockville hospital had earlier decided to hire an outside consultant to determine whether Rockville General's maternity department could be shifted to Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Andre Marmen, MMH development director, said today that the Manchester hospital "will abide by the Rockville hospital board of trustees' decision" not to hire a consultant. He also said that MMH members of the joint study committee will work to come up with the best solution they're capable of.

According to Rockville hospital administrator Robert C. Boardman, RGH trustees felt the work could be done without the need and expense of an outside consultant which would cost from $5,000 to $6,000.

Although the trustees made the decision at a Jan. 31 meeting, Boardman didn't disclose the fact until Tuesday.

The joint study was begun four months ago upon the advice of the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care after it rejected a proposed $3.2-million expansion of Rockville General Hospital and asked it to consider combining its services with Manchester Memorial Hospital.

LWVs to discuss United Nations

A discussion of the United Nations will be the theme of a joint area meeting of the League of Women Voters.

Leagues from Manchester, South Windsor and Vernon will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Stop and Shop Hall in the K-Mart Shopping Plaza off Rt. 30 near Vernon Circle.

The theme of the meeting is "The United States at the United Nations—Fight, Flight or Something In-between?" Members will present U.S. views on third world development.

The public is invited.

The planning committee consists of Mrs. Nancy Brander, Mrs. Gerry Edwood and Mrs. Virginia Mocaraki, all of South Windsor; Mrs. Joan Ingthous, Mrs. Norma Marchesanti and Mrs. Joyce Taylor, all of Vernon, and Mrs. Pat Sack of Manchester.

A visit to the U.N. was made recently by 15 LWV members from Manchester who were among 1,000 LWV members from throughout the nation making the visit.

Thursday's joint meeting and another LWV meeting in March will lead to an LWV consensus on the U.N. program item.

TV industry fires back at PTA commission

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The television industry fired back at the National PTA Commission Tuesday, calling those behind the movement to limit violence on television self-righteous "elitists" who think they should have the right to censor programs because they are better than the viewers.

There is no scientific proof that violence television programs has any impact on what viewers think and do in real life, witnesses said.

They testified at the eighth and last of a series of hearings sponsored by the commission into effects of TV violence.

Ray Danish, director of the Television Information Institute, quoted to a series of hearings sponsored by the commission into effects of TV violence.

He said the industry is "not television plots."

There is "a lack of consensus in the scientific community over what, if any, meaningful relationship exists between television programming and violence in our society," said Van Gordon Slater, CBS-TV vice president of program practices.

Adventure has been a staple of literature and drama for centuries, he argued. "Inherent to this genre is jeopardy and violence."

Many opponents of TV violence are "righteous individuals," he said, "who have their own definitions as to what constitutes virtue and truth and who believe our programs should conform to their precise definitions."

Coffee prices are high because...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Coffee prices are high because (multiple choice):

— The growers are holding it off the market.

— The Brazilian government is tax happy and money hungry.

— The American consumer can't stop drinking it.

— Fear of a shortage has fueled price speculation.

— The State Department goofed somewhere along the line.

— Congress, seeking a villain in the coffee price situation, has been offered those possibilities, among others.

An initial hearing Tuesday by two House subcommittees provided ample opportunity for finger pointing, but almost no agreement on who or what is to blame or how to correct the situation.

Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., wondered why Joan Braden, the State Department consumer adviser, hadn't done something to help coffee consumers.

"Americans don't want to stop drinking coffee. There is, in fact, no evil conspiracy abroad," Mrs. Braden had testified.

Drinan, a Jesuit, said he gathered that she was suggesting Americans should give up coffee for Lent.

Jane Byrne, consumer affairs commissioner for Chicago, said she went to Brazil and found one grower with 300,000 bags of coffee stashed away, waiting for prices to rise even higher.

Not generally true, said Julius Katz, assistant secretary of state in the economic and business affairs area.

"To the best of our knowledge no coffee-producing country is pursuing policies to restrict or inhibit the export of coffee to world markets," he said.

Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., said Brazil is embarked on a "deliberate, pervasive campaign" to inflate prices by, among other things, levying a heavy export tax.

That's not what the tax is all about, said Katz — it's a tax on excess profits, which come from higher prices caused not by an actual shortage but by the fear of a shortage prompted by shrinking reserve supplies.

"The best thing we can do," said Katz, "is to have more coffee grown in the world." Beyond that, he added, there really is nothing that can be done until the situation returns to normal around 1979 when reserves of coffee grow closer to normal levels.

Proposed Parker St. M zone
Giles says widen, straighten road

Jay J. Giles, director of public works, has proposed the straightening and widening of a 1,500-foot section of Parker St. if a proposed M Zone development is to be accommodated.

The M Zone would cover a 48-acre tract on Parker St. and is being proposed by William B. Thornton. The development, which would include 88 single-family houses and 127 apartment units, was presented to the Planning and Zoning Commission at its Jan. 24 meeting.

Giles issued a report to J. Eric Potts, planning director, on a feasibility study done for the proposed development, which, if approved, would be on Parker St. in the vicinity of Bent St.

Giles said that the road is 30 feet wide and contains five curves, four of which are within a 1,500 foot stretch of the property proposed for the development.

Beechwood income standards revised

The MISAC Corp. board of directors Tuesday unanimously approved a revision in income standards for applicants to the Beechwood Apartments on Rachel Rd.

The 191-unit multi-church sponsored moderate income complex is run by the MISAC Corp. The MISAC board includes three representatives from each of eight local churches and a synagogue.

The change which was adopted states that rent for "all acceptable applicants must not exceed 30 percent of their earned income."

The revision was made on the written recommendation of Lee C. Greenough, the rental agent for the apartments. Greenough was not present Tuesday.

Council balks on dam okay

South Windsor

The South Windsor Town Council Tuesday night withdrew from the agenda its acceptance of a dam as part of T&M Builders open space subdivision.

The council was originally under the impression it had no choice but to accept the retention basin as part of the open space land proposed by T&M and approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC).

Although reluctant to accept responsibility for upkeep and maintenance of the dam, the Council had agreed to do so rather than put the dam in the hands of a residents' association.

The PZC had, however, made Council acceptance of the retention basin a condition prior to its formal approval of the subdivision. Without Council's acceptance of the dam, PZC approval of the development would be withdrawn.

It was the general consensus of the Council, said Mayor Sandra Bender, "that they did not want to accept the dam. I should make it clear, however, that the Council approval or disapproval relates only to open space. We do not look at it from a standpoint of planning and zoning."

Thomas Francoline of T&M Builders said the firm plans to reapply to the PZC as soon as possible.

"We would like to develop our property, and feel we have acted in good faith," said Francoline. "We would like to sit down and discuss alternatives with regard to ownership of the dam."

"When we received approval from the PZC, public ownership of the dam was not a condition. We mentioned an alternate was resident association ownership. We were under the impression that to have the town own the dam was an informal condition."

T&M Builders has been trying to get PZC approval for the proposed subdivision in the Norton Lane-Tumblebrook Dr. area for the past few years. The dam was proposed as a solution to drainage problems of concern to the PZC.

Francoline said T&M was looking for guidance from the Council. He suggested that, if necessary, the dam could be on a parcel of land separate from the open space which would be owned by the town. The dam would be owned by T&M, which would post a bond for upkeep and maintenance of the basin.

Budget requests submitted

Bolton

The Board of Finance will hold its first work sessions on 1977-1978 budget requests March 7 and 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall. It is not yet known which boards will meet with the finance board first.

The finance board Monday night received budget requests totaling $500,000. The requests, not all complete, don't include the Board of Education request. Nor does the total include expenditures for bonded indebtedness.

Included in the requests that were received was an item submitted by the Board of Selectmen for $43,012 for police protection.

Of that amount, $30,000 is for the resident state trooper and $22,412 is for a constabulary. The $22,412 includes an 11 member constabulary, reconstructing the old library into headquarters, and a cruiser. The old library would have a garage addition to house the cruiser.

Under the general highway budget, the selectmen are requesting $9,000 in 1977-1978 and $8,000 in 1978-1979 for a new dump truck.

At its meeting, the finance board approved an appropriation of $2,576.50 for unemployment compensation for three former Board of Education employees.

Other appropriations approved were:

- $3,649 for anti-recession funds to a special account earmarked for highway crew wages.
- $790 from cash surplus to the elections budget for wages for enrollment sessions, canvass mileage, wages and clerical.
- $5,400 from cash surplus to highway signs. Under federal legislation, the amount is 100 per cent reimbursable. The amount is for material only; labor must be supplied by the town.

The board also approved transfers within several budgets.

The Monday night finance board meeting may have violated the state Freedom of Information Act because the act prohibits any government agencies from meeting on a holiday. Monday was Washington's Birthday.

Ambulance pact approved

Coventry

The Coventry Town Council approved a three-year ambulance contract with the Coventry Volunteer Fire Association Tuesday night. The contract, retroactive to July 1, 1976, will continue until July 1, 1979.

The fire association has been serving the community without a contract since July 1976 through a $100,000 budget approved at the spring Town Meeting. The contract itemizes the use of this money.

Budget calendar

Town Manager Frank Connolly outlined the 1977 budget calendar and it was approved by the council.

- March 29, the town manager presents his budget to the council, the Board of Education budget having been received March 14.
- April 12 is the public hearing date for the Board of Education Budget. The general town budget hearing follows on April 14.
- Two council budget-cutting sessions are scheduled April 16 and 23.
- The corrected budget is published April 29 and the budget is presented May 13 at the Annual Town Meeting.
- The decision to cut the budget before public hearing was discussed by members of the Council. No decision was made, but a majority of the Republican members felt no action was necessary until after the public hearing.
- A series of meetings between the Council and all town boards, commissions and public officers of town agencies will be held in the week prior to completion of the budget, to enable town officers to air concerns and needs. The Council talked with members of the Park and Recreation Commission Tuesday night.

Can't be members

Members of the Republican or Democratic Town Committees are considered public officers and therefore may not be considered for membership in the Charter Revision Commission, except under the allowed one-third public officer membership, Town Atty. Abbot Schwebel said.

State statutes do not define "public officer," but Schwebel felt town committee members would be considered public officers.

The Council also met with Donald Powers, town labor negotiator, and Wayne Blair, superintendent of streets, in executive session Tuesday night. No action was taken following the session.

Audit's ideas implemented

Vernon

Most of the recommendations made in the annual audit report for the Town of Vernon are under implementation, Thomas Dooley, chairman of the Town Council's audit subcommittee, said.

The members of the auditors met to meet with the committee, Stanley Roessler, director of administration, and Charles Brisson, business manager for the school system, and report to the council on 30 days.

One of the recommendations was establishment of general ledgers for the General Fund, Capital Projects Fund, Enterprise Fund and Special Assessment Fund. Roessler said he is working on this.

The auditors said that with a well-maintained ledger, the administration and the council would have a much more valid figure of surplus available for future appropriation.

In connection with the town's checking accounts, the auditors said that with the large number of transactions being processed, the town should pursue the possibility of obtaining listings by check number and amount of items processed by the bank, and by check number items not processed. The auditors said this sequencing numerical listing would save time in balancing the town's checking accounts. Roessler has contacts with the banks concerning this.

While the auditors commended the work of the tax collector's office, they called for a review and possible reworking of procedures. Dooley said the auditors feel that the people in the department and the machines are being utilized to excess.

Dooley said a more efficient and economical procedure may help turn money over to the treasurer faster, so it can be invested.

The auditors said the tax collector is operating well within statutory deadlines for turning cash over to the treasurer but if the system were improved the town could earn interest on dollars invested for 15 to 30 days.

"We feel this objective is realistic," he said.

A recommendation to establish the Sewer Assessment Fund as a separate entity involves a bookkeeping transaction only.

The auditors said the change would result in removing from General Fund revenue the collections on assessments and from General Fund expenditures, the payment of Sewer Assessment Fund bonds and notes payable.

"This fund should preferably have its own self-balancing budget," the audit report stated.

Roessler said he has taken steps with the suggestion that petty cash funds, held by several town departments, be set up on the imprest system with monthly reports being required from each department. Roessler said he feels this recommendation is good.

Recommendations to establish uniform procedures for maintaining financial records of the various school activity funds and establishment of separate files for each trust fund and agency fund, will be discussed at the meeting.

Bolton

Twelve Bolton High School seniors and juniors have completed General Botany (University 110), a course in the Biology of Connecticut Cooperative Program for superior high school students. The 12, who earned four college credits, are Todd Addison, Kathy Leiner, Donna Mageau, Kathy Moriano, Susan Mardock, Scott Oviatt, Robert Peterson, Gail Seecharoll, Laura Stoppeworth, David Teller, Sandra Tomaszewski and Jeff Winkler. The course, offered in the fall semester with Kenneth Roy of BHS as instructor, is part of the school's gifted students program.

Senior Robert Peterson and physics instructor Kenneth Roy have been selected by Yale University to attend a series of lecture, demonstration and laboratory visits at the Yale School of Engineering and Applied Science.

Lawrence A. Converse III of Branford St. and Thomas M. Sheridan of Hebron Rd. are co-chairmen for the Bolton 1977 Heart Fund Drive. Converse and Sheridan will appoint leadership and supervise the residential, business, corporate, and special gifts campaigns. Converse, a painting contractor, is president of the Lions Club. Sheridan, a teacher, is a member of the Bolton Knights of Columbus, the Jaycees and the Democratic Town Committee.

Pats trip up Tech

Four players in double figures powered Coventry High to an 84-57 Charter Oak Coventry basketball win over Cheney Tech last night in Coventry.

The victory was the Patriots' 12th straight and gives them a share of the COC title with Cromwell, both at 17-1. Coventry, 18-1 over-all, closes out its season Thursday at Tolland High. Cheney winds up the 1976-77 campaign 5-13 in conference tilts and 6-15 over-all.

Quarterly raced to a 17-point first quarter lead and pushed the margin to 48-16 at the half.

Al Schmidt led the Patriots with 21 points followed by Paul Edmondson (14), Tom Newcombe (13) and Dick Elwell (10). Dave Mills was high man for Cheney with 18 points with Kevin Tyler adding 14 and George Frasser 13 in the losing effort.

UConn's will be ready

Although cruising along with a none-too-impressive 14-9 non-conference record, the University of Connecticut basketball team may peak by the time the ECAC New England playoffs get under way March 3 at the Hartford Civic Center.

While the UConn's are not in the four-team field as yet, it's only a formality before coach Don Rowe's squad gets the nod to join Providence College and Holy Cross.

The Huskies have been involved in so many close games it should do them well in post-season play.

If any team ever deserved the title Cardiac Kids it would have to be Rowe's current club. Win or lose, the UConn's have made it a point to go right down to the wire before a decision was reached.

One has learned these past three months that you can't count UConn out of anything.

The team could surprise in the upcoming ECAC's, just as it did last year with more talent.

Yale frosh winning

Yale's varsity basketball team is struggling along again with a 5-17 non-loss record but Don Burns has the 221 frosh riding high, wide and handsome. Burns' squad won 12 of its first 14 games. The former East Catholic High coach has turned out several crackerjack freshman teams since taking over at Yale.

Gary Waslewski, former major league pitcher, who also hurtled for Moriaty's in the Hartford Twilight League, has taken a position as associate manager of life and health sales in East Hartford with the Hartford Insurance Group.

Former East Catholic High athlete Cephus Nolen helped UConn's varsity win the Yankee Conference indoor track championship. The freshman placed second in the long jump. Nolen starred in track and football at East. George Lesser, well named after a vacation in Palm Springs, Calif., is staying in shape playing tennis. Ken Kelliher, greens superintendent at the Manchester Country Club, reports the weather was a balmy 80 degrees during week's stay in Portland, Ore., at the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America meeting. The popular Kelliher is looking forward to his fifth season at the local course.

Five state pros in NETS singles

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Five Connecticut professional tennis players will be among the 16 vying for top money in the singles and doubles competition in this weekend's New England Tennis Stars (NETS) play at the Manchester Racquet Club.

Action starts Friday afternoon with a clinic at 2 o'clock open to all wearing tennis shoes.

First round in singles starts at 5 Friday and seeking the major share of the $2,000 purse will be Bill Cashman of Madison, Joe Bouquin of Danbury, Ben Bishop of New Canaan, Rich Bray of Woodbridge and Jack Redmond, home pro.

Bouquin is a former University of Miami player and has played against the likes of Jimmy Connors and Ili Nastase.

Bishop made an auspicious debut on the NETS tour when he defeated Bailey Brown. Bishop campaigned four years on the European tour before joining the NETS circuit.

Bray holds decisions over Brian Gottfried and Harold Solomon and is another former University of Miami player. He holds the No. 2 ranking in New England.

Cashman moved up from eighth to fourth place in New England last year and is well on his way to an even higher ranking this time around. The former AIC tennis and hockey star teamed with Drake in losing to Stan Smith and Erik van Dillen recently in Springfield.

Redmond, home pro, won the Greater Hartford Open last spring and hopes to spring an upset or two despite the lack of tournament action because of his busy schedule here.

Pros Ted Hoehn and Brown will conduct the two clinics, sponsored by Yamaha. The second is listed Saturday afternoon at 4.

Benefactor will be the Manchester Memorial Hospital. Tickets for all three days will be on sale at the Racquet Club as well as several local outlets.

Bleachers to accommodate 600 spectators will be erected for all play.

Walton sparks Blazers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Walton is back with the Portland Trail Blazers and not a moment too soon.

Portland lost seven games and dropped out of first place in the NBA's Pacific Division during the big redhead's three-week, 10-game absence because of an inflamed Achilles tendon. But in less than a half-game against Boston Tuesday night, Walton provided some of what the Blazers have been missing and they ended up with a 113-111 triumph over the Celtics. In 22 minutes, he grabbed nine rebounds, had five assists, two blocked shots and four points.

Portland needed a big scoring night from someone with Walton still working back into shape and got it from Lionel Hollins, who came up with a career high 44 points. Hollins hit on 20 of 31 shots from the floor as Portland's five guards scored a total of 82 points. Havlicek led Boston with 33 points while White added 25.

Portland nearly blew the game with nine seconds left when he missed three free throws, any one of which would have clinched the contest. But a last-second shot by former Blazer

Sidney Wicks missed.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said, "When Bill gets ready to play 35 to 40 minutes we'll play more consistently. We planned to play him in just five minute segments."

Portland is now just a game behind Los Angeles, which was walloped, 135-103, by San Antonio.

All the NBA's home teams were victorious again Tuesday night as Buffalo beat Phoenix, 115-114, the New York Knicks downed New Orleans, 119-102, Chicago ripped Golden State, 118-102, and Denver kayoed Houston, 118-106.

Spurs 135, Lakers 103.

George Gervin scored 25 points to lead a balanced San Antonio scoring attack that included 17 from Larry Kenon, 15 from Mike Gale and 13 from Mark Oberding. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 29. Braves 115, Suns 114.

Randy Smith stole the ball from Paul Westphal and drove for a layup with seven seconds left in the game to cap a 36-point performance and give Buffalo its fourth straight victory under new Coach Joe Mullaney.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This letter was prompted by the letter from the artist who was "burned up" when people asked her how long it took to paint a painting...

DEAR N.Y.: Your message reminds me of the following story: A wealthy woman asked a famous military designer to design a hat for her. He placed a canvas ribbon on her head...

DEAR ABBY: I am really fed up with hotel maids who find a penny on the dresser and assume that it was left as a tip. A penny is about as valuable as a hobby pin these days...

DEAR TIPPED: Agreed! Everyone should be paid a living wage so nobody would NEED to depend on tips to make ends meet. Unfortunately, that's not the way it is, and most people are aware of it...

DEAR ABBY: I have a question regarding a letter I received from a woman who was asking for help with a problem involving a man who had been in the military...

Goal is $12,500

Heart Fund drive nears climax

To date, the Manchester Heart Fund drive has collected about $3,000, almost a quarter of its $12,500 goal.

However, drive co-chairman Barry Botticello said the collection figure does not include all the business contributions nor any of the door-to-door donations. Those donations will not be tallied until the end of the drive.

Although the drive is officially over the end of this month, Botticello said the door-to-door canvassing will continue until completed, which will be early in March.

"We are pleased with the progress of the drive so far," Botticello said today, "and we urge everyone to do his or her part in supporting the door-to-door campaign."

Anyone wishing to donate directly to the Heart Fund may send contributions to Barry Botticello, 150 N. Main St.; Peter Sylvester, co-chairman, P.O. Box 8311, 50 Founders Plaza, East Hartford, or Robert Bonner, treasurer, First Federal Savings and Loan, 344 W. Middle Tpk.

Voluntary public contributions are the only source of financial support of the heart program. By policy, the American Heart Association (AHA) now allocates 57 per cent of its national budget for research. Since the first Heart Fund campaign in 1949, more than $268 million in contributed funds have been channeled into research to combat the nation's leading cause of disability and death.

An estimated 1.8 million persons are afflicted by stroke. Many major strokes are preceded by "little strokes" or warning signals experienced days, weeks, or months before the more severe event. Prompt medical or surgical attention to these symptoms may prevent the ultimate stroke from occurring.

Warning signals of stroke are:
* Sudden, temporary weakness or numbness of the face, arm and leg on one side of the body.
* Temporary loss of speech, or trouble in speaking or understanding speech.
* Temporary dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye.
* Unexplained dizziness, unsteadiness or sudden falls.

The following recipes from the American Heart Association Cookbook provide nourishment as well as appeal to the palate for low-cholesterol diets.

Stuffed Cabbage Leaves
(vegetarian)
1 1/2 C. raw brown rice
1/2 C. soy grits
1 onion, chopped
1/2 C. toasted sunflower seeds
1 scant tbsp. caraway seeds
1/2 C. raisins
1/2 tsp. salt
1 15-ounce can tomato sauce (sweetened with 1 tbsp. brown sugar, if desired)
12 whole cabbage leaves, steamed briefly
1 C. yogurt
Cook the rice and soy grits together until done. Sauté onion. Mix the rice and soy grits with onion, nuts, caraway seed, raisins and salt. Add enough tomato sauce to moisten mixture.

Steam cabbage for a few minutes only, until leaves can be separated. Place about 3 tbsps. of the rice mixture on each leaf. Roll up and secure with a toothpick, if necessary. Place the rolled leaves in a covered skillet and pour the remaining tomato sauce over all. Cook about 15 minutes, or until cabbage is tender. This is especially good topped with yogurt.

Yield: 6 servings
Variation: Instead of stuffing and rolling the leaves, cut out the center of the cabbage. Boil cabbage 10 minutes, and fill cavity with stuffing.

Lemon Rice Pudding
1/2 C. raw rice
1 1/2 C. water
4 tbsps. raisins
Dash nutmeg
1/2 tsp. salt
1 C. skim milk
1/4 C. sugar
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
Place the water, rice, raisins, nutmeg and salt in the top of a double boiler. Mix thoroughly, cover and cook over boiling water for 20 minutes.

Stir in the milk and cook uncovered until it is absorbed, about 10 minutes. Stir in the sugar. Cool.

Add the lemon rind, juice and vanilla. Chill until ready to serve.
Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Several Manchester area high school students were in Washington, D.C., this past weekend preparing to perform in a concert for the Music Educators National Convention which took place Monday at the Sheraton Hotel here.

The students were Linda Embser, violinist, of 39 Judith Dr.; Philip Malinowski, violinist, of 29 Auburn Rd.; Tracey Jackson, flutist, of 106 Main St., Talcottville; Megan Burke, oboist, of 507 Bolton Rd.; Vernon; Kathy Crane, clarinetist, of Jurovsky Rd.; Bridget MacDonald, trombonist, of Bunker Hill Rd., Andover.

Miss Embser was the first student chosen from Manchester High School to participate in the annual event. She was one of 14 top high school students selected from 14 northeastern states to participate in the concert.

The other area students are members of the junior orchestra at the Julius Hart School of Music, University of Hartford, Charles Palmer, conductor. The orchestra was selected by audition to play at the conference.

Brian Colbath awarded Eagle Scout badge

Brian Colbath of 490 Taylor St. recently was awarded an Eagle Scout badge, the highest honor in scouting, at the annual Troop 27 banquet and Court of Honor at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Brian, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Colbath, is a junior at Manchester High School and a member of its wrestling team. He joined Troop 27 in 1971, and has served as assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, and also a member of its Leadership Corps. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow, a national honor society in scouting, and has earned the World Conservation award. He attended the 1973 National Jamboree in Pennsylvania, and Troop Leadership Development Week at Lake of Isles Scout Reservation. He is a member of St. Bartholomew's Church.

Palms to be attached to their Eagle badges were presented to Steven Mitchell, gold palm; James McDonough, silver palm; and Lee Garrity, second bronze palm.

Advancement certificates were awarded Jeffrey Cone, Scott Christensen, William Szarek, Life Scout; Douglas Mitchell, Andrew Gibson, Scott Smith, First Class;

Kenneth Szarek, Mark Colbath, Douglas Mitchell, Kurt Heinrich, Second Class; Daniel Carter, Dean DeFreitas; Kenneth Reynolds, Michael St. Onge, Kenneth Szarek, Kurt Heinrich, Dean Collins, Steven Beaulieu, Sean Manley, Tenderfoot; Michael Roux, Steven Beaulieu, George Depetta, Scout.

Receiving First Aid-O-Res patches were Bill Szarek, Ken Szarek, Dean Russell, Kurt Heinrich, Danny Carter and Mark Colbath.

Chapman Court smorgasbord set for March 6

Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will sponsor its annual smorgasbord March 6 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 25 Main St.

Mrs. Doris Isiam is general chairman of the annual event. Reservations close March 3. More information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Isham, 643-5588; Hazel Loveland, 648-2483; or Mrs. Barbara Harris, 646-3147.

Boy Scout News

Troop 157
St. Bridget's Boy Scout Troop for the first time placed first in the recent Klondike-O-Res Derby trials. Members of the troop entered all events and obtained perfect scores in pioneering and camping. Mike Neubel and Chris Johnson made the record of the day with a time of one minute and seven seconds in the crosscut saw competition. Troop members also ranked high in the compass course, fire building and first aid events. Representing the troop, besides Neubel and Johnson, were Steve Balon, Scott Mazur, Joe Neubel, John Whitcomb, and Dan Breer. Arthur Galvin, scoutmaster, and Steve Gronda, Bob Neubel and Vin Perry, assistant scoutmasters, were pleased with the troop's victory. Upon receiving the first-place trophy Galvin said, "I've never seen one of these before."

Cooking class banquet March 2

The International Cooking Class of the Manchester Recreation Department will hold a banquet to display its cooking skills on March 2.

All members of the class are welcome and are asked to bring a dish and a recipe for the dish. Members may also bring one guest. Invited guests will include Melvin Seibold, recreation director, and Town Manager and Mrs. Robert Weiss.

Foods to be prepared by the students include Oriental, French, Italian and Greek. This class was so popular that a similar class is planned for the spring. Bea Sheltel, instructor, said. The spring session calls for party cookery and will feature hot and cold foods suitable for large and small parties. For information, call 643-6798.

It's team work

Adults, youngsters join together at Legion Rifle and Pistol Club

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

Safety and responsibility with firearms are stressed in the competitive sport of shooting, when members of the Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion in Manchester meet weekly at the Nike Site.

Charles "Chuck" Barrera, a certified rifle, pistol and shotgun instructor for the National Rifle Association, instructed the post's program in 1973. He is also a hunter safety instructor for the State of Connecticut and instructor of the post's rifle and pistol team.

"We have an adult team and a junior team," Barrera said. "In 1973, the juniors placed fourth in the country; in 1974-75, they placed third."

Members of the Sons of the American Legion (SAL) from which the junior team is formed are closely supervised and train under the watchful eyes of qualified instructors.

Others assisting Barrera are Curtis Wilson, instructor, and Ron Kittredge, assistant instructor. There are currently 18 junior members and Barrera said the age for membership ranges from 10 to 18, depending on the maturity of the individual. Membership on the adult rifle and pistol team includes 20 men and 3 women.

"It is our endeavor to promote marksmanship in a good, clean, competitive sport," Barrera said. "When the Manchester High School Rifle Team was disbanded some time ago, we had several calls from former members inquiring about membership."

"Any son or grandchild of a veteran is eligible for membership in the SAL," Barrera explained. During the year, the post also conducts special courses in hunter safety and home firearms safety which are open to the public.

Explaining the enthusiasm of the youngsters involved in the program, Kittredge said, "There are many recognition awards that they may aim for such as NRA Junior Coach, Junior Administrator, Junior Rifleman, Junior Shotgunner, Junior Craftsman, Junior Hunter and Conservationist."

"Officers in SAL are Mike Pohl, president; George Giguere, vice-president; Gary Wilson, treasurer; John Spher, secretary; and Al Lea, apprentice instructor. "The kids really work hard. When in competition, their targets are sent to the NRA for scoring and the report is sent back to the local post," Barrera said.

The groups meet on Saturday nights from 6 to 8:30 at the Nike Site.

Both Barrera and Kittredge are available to speak to civic organizations interested in forming a rifle and pistol club.

In the meantime, they are hopeful of building up membership in the junior team and hope that fathers with interested sons will join the American Legion, thereby making the youngsters eligible for membership in SAL.

Kittredge keeps an eye as a youngster takes aim.

Ron Kittredge explains safety features to team members.

On second thought
By JAY WARREN

Our thermostat is set at 65, and it's so cold - even here in Mississippi - that I'm swathed in sweaters and can see my breath when it hits the air.

Baby, it's cold inside!
Unplug the iron. Close the refrigerator. Don't run the dryer for one pair of blue jeans! We've said these things a million times, and now, the kids respond to the energy crisis has taught me something about psychology. For years my husband and I have been trying to get our children to conserve electricity and to save fuel. "Turn off the lights. Shut the door."

After listening to President Carter, Sara announced with youthful zeal, "He's right. It's up to us to solve our own energy crisis, and we've got to do more than just keep the thermostat down. We've got to make some sacrifices!" "That's right!" echoed Kate. "Certainly Dad can't meet and a cause to work for."

Social Security

Q. I earned $11,000 through last Aug. 9 when I applied for Social Security retirement benefits. I haven't worked since. Must I send an annual report of earnings to Social Security?

A. People under 72 who earned over $2,760 and received Social Security retirement, survivors, or dependents payments for one or more months must send Social Security a report of their earnings by April 15, 1977. An earnings report form is available at any Social Security office. If you earn over $3,000 for 1977, you must send in an earnings report by April 15, 1978.

Q. I did not take medical insurance part of Medicare when I became eligible for it three years ago. When I asked about signing up for it now, during the open enrollment period, the amount of the monthly premium I would have to pay is more than some of my friends are paying. I thought the premiums were the same for everyone?

A. The basic monthly premium for medical insurance is the same for everyone. However, for each year you don't sign up after you became eligible to enroll, your monthly premium goes up by 10 per cent. This would account for the differences between what you will pay and what your friends are paying.

MVD INFO

Q. MVD has been sending out cards inviting drivers to join a carpool. The economic benefits are obvious, as are the social benefits like less crowded highways, less air pollution and less energy consumption. So you've sold me. Now give me some rules for a carpooler:

A. Do set up a schedule and be on time. Always. When you're late you mess everyone else. If you can't be on time, let someone know in advance.

Do all you can to have enough gas in the car for the round trip. Most people resent stops and delays. DON'T smoke unless everyone smokes, or unless the non-smokers have agreed that it's okay.

Do vote on the radio. People's tastes in music differ. Some may not want it at all. Be democratic. DON'T join a carpool with people you sense you're not going to enjoy. In this instance, first impressions are a pretty good guide.

Do consider personal hygiene. "Kissing sweet" you don't have to be. But underdressed or over perfumed riders can send people reeling for fresh air.

Do make an effort to strive for harmony. Rugged individualism and carpooling don't make for particularly happy marriages.

Do be sure your car is in peak condition. Make sure it's properly serviced regularly. If it comes out on the road, don't expect your passengers to laugh it off. Most important, DO be careful. No drinks. No speeding. No aggressive driving or negligence. Other people's lives are in your hands.

VA news

Q - I was honorably discharged in 1970 and have had problems in obtaining employment. Can I return to school under the GI Bill to obtain my high school diploma and then continue training to improve my employment possibilities?

A - Yes and the time you spend in school toward your high school diploma will not be charged against your educational entitlement under the GI Bill.

Q - I am rated 40 per cent disabled for VA compensation. Can I receive additional benefits for my wife?

A - Additional benefits for dependents of veterans with service-connected conditions are limited to those rated 50 per cent or more disabled.

Q - Why is my VA pension allowance reduced when I receive an increase in Social Security benefits?

A - VA pension is payable to wartime veterans with permanent and total disabilities, not resulting from service. The monthly stipend is based on the amount of annual income a pensioner receives from other sources. Social Security payments and other retirement benefits, less a 10 per cent exclusion allowed by law, are included in the annual income.

GROWING OLDER

By Lew Costin

Teaming a senior with two young 'uns

Load cheers and applause for Peter Dys, the dedicated executive director of the Lancaster (Pa.) Office of the Aging. He also heads the area Agency on Aging in that part of Pennsylvania. What Dys did was to put together a program that raised this headline in the Susquehanna Times, a local newspaper: "County Residents Over 60 Get Their Chores Done Free."

Hold your hats, everybody. Here, quoting the Susquehanna Times, is what the senior-agers get free:

The Home Chores Program will include: Replacing fuses, electric plugs, frayed cords, door locks, window catches, replacing faucet washers or faucets and doing other minor plumbing repairs; repairing broken stairs and floors, patching walls and ceilings; installing hand rails and safety rails for tubs and toilets; installing screens, repairing furniture, installing shades and curtain rods, shampooing and tacking down rugs, moving furniture, washing windows and walls, scrubbing floors, cleaning attics and basements to remove fire and health hazards, minor repairs to the exterior, minor painting, nonexpert insect-rodent control, bringing in coal, removing ashes, moving trash to collection points, cutting grass, trimming overhanging branches, and clearing walkways of snow and leaves.

There's no need, obviously, to expand on our need for such help. The little and big home repairs that we seniors can't make are sources of endless irritation. We can't afford to pay for leaking faucets. And if we could, where do we find plumbers and other artisans who will call to do little jobs like that?

Which brings us to a report of how Dys put the "Chores for Seniors" together. The pilot program began in the summer of 1975. The idea was, as Dys tells it, "to cross fertilize the talent and knowledge of seniors with the abilities of youth and with their need for practical experience under mature guidance."

For the pilot plan, Dys employed 20 young persons aged 14 to 19, using funds from federally funded Manpower's

"Summer Youth Chores Program." He teamed up the old and the young. One senior taught two young 'uns. As Dys reports, "Senior Citizens and youth developed a greater appreciation of one another in a talent and work-sharing experience."

The summer pilot plan was successful. In 1976, the Lancaster Office of the Aging made the Chores Program a regular service for over-60s in the area. Dys combined funds from the state's (Housing) Winterization Program and the Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

"Home Chores Service," Dys says, "becomes a very important part of our 'continuum' of care concept. It helps our older citizens live more comfortably in their homes. This also provides valuable support to our homemaker program which another agency in our community supplies under contract."

He now asks that all readers refer back to the list of home chores performed. We ask, "Should not every county office of aging in the U.S. provide this service?" In Cumberland County, N.J., a chore program similar to the one in Lancaster is called "Mr. Fixit."

Readers who agree that the Chores Program is a must should campaign actively to get it started in their own local area. Here's what we can do:

— Get up a petition. It might read: "Why can't we have a Home Chores Service?" Clip this column to the list of names and addresses on the petition. Mail it to the County Office of the Aging.

— Compose your own letter to the County Office of the Aging listing some of the chores that need your doing in your own home.

— If you belong to a Senior Citizens Club or action group, have your president write asking for chore services.

Please note. Show shopping is one of the services offered in the plan. Don't wait to write your letter or send your petition. It's a cold winter.

For more information, write your local office for senior citizens affairs.

Stop & Shop It's 'my store' to more people. Because it's the only store that has "Great Beef".

"I can tell you what makes our 'Great Beef' so good..."

If I had to do it in one word, I'd say "Consistency" — every piece of beef nice and tender, juicy and delicious. Not once in awhile. But every week. Isn't that what you want?

We can give you beef like that because we have the world's most modern meat plant, where we prepare all the beef for every Stop & Shop store.

We start with USDA Choice beef, and naturally age it for tenderness and flavor. We protect its quality and freshness right up to the minute you pick it out of my store's meat case. So you can grab a steak, a roast, or any piece of "Great Beef" any day of any week, and know your family is going to enjoy it. I'll give you your money back if you're not happy — not only if you don't, because we want you to be happy — but only with our "Great Beef", but with every piece of meat you get. That's why Stop & Shop is my store to more people.

Greg La Chapelle, Northeastern Meat Mgr.
