By Frank Atwood

During this week of school vacation, about a dozen Manchester High School students have been working in a greenhouse at Woodland Gardens transplanting seedlings of annual flower and vegetable plants.

"We always have a mixture," Mr. Zapadka said, "of those who have done the work before and others doing it for the first time." Danny Carvalho, whose picture we were able to take before the week began since he has finished his high school courses and is employed full time now, told me he can fill a flat of six plastic containers with potting soil, dig out the seedlings from the flat where they were started, poke nine holes in each of the six trays, drop a seedling with some of its roots into each hole and press the soil around each little plant in less than four minutes. He has transplanted 54 seedlings in that time.

Standard speed for a transplant who has had time to learn his job is a thousand plants an hour. Before the job is finished, Woodland Gardens will have transplanted a quarter of a million seedlings, although it won't all be done in one week.

To have plants ready when gardeners will want them, May 1 is the objective date for annuals. Peak time for sale to home gardeners will be closer to the end of May.

It happens that I have interviewed in recent weeks three operators of garden centers who told me that they plant no seeds and grow no seedling plants. They buy their plants from wholesale growers, and Woodland Gardens is one of those nearby. The Zapadka, although growing plants for their own retail customers, have the greenhouse space to grow larger numbers. The surplus goes to other retailers.

The bulk of the "bedding plant" business, which is grower language for plants of vegetables and annual flowers ready to set in the home garden, is in a concentrated area just north of New Haven.

The farmers there, for many years, grew fresh vegetables for the New Haven market. The sons of these men have found it more profitable and less work to grow annual plants. The climate is a little less rigorous than in the central Connecticut Valley. They must burn some oil or gas, but not as much as would be needed here. They use plastic greenhouses and they have eliminated benches, setting their flats directly on the ground. I have not heard of anyone who has found a way to avoid hand sowing and hand transplanting of the little seedlings.

Seeding, at Woodland Gardens, follows a schedule that is kept faithfully, year after year. Petunia seed, very fine and slow to germinate, is planted first, on Jan. 10. It is followed promptly by other slow-growers that include begonias, impatiens, bromellia and vinca.

Daniel Carvalho, 20, a mid-winter graduate of Manchester High School, transplants petunias in greenhouse at Woodland Gardens, Manchester. Daniel is from Puerto Rico and lives with an aunt in town. He wants to stay in floriculture as a life work.

Starting Feb. 1, the seeds of sweet alyssum, marigold, snapdragon, celery and parsley go into the flats. On Feb. 10, the first tomatoes are started, although there will be other seedlings later. Peppers and eggplant are also on the Feb. 10 work sheet. Petunias most popular Feb. 20 was the date for lettuce, cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and cauliflower. March 15 brings seeding of zinnias, calendula and a second crop of marigolds.

The most popular annual flower, John Zapadka says, is the petunia, with marigolds and impatiens close behind. The tomato leads all the vegetables, followed by peppers, lettuce and cabbage.

The seeding mixture is one part of soil, one of peat moss and one of sand, with the soil sterilized before it is used. This procedure protects the small plants from bacterial diseases which causes them to "damp off," or die and topple over at the surface of the soil. Seeds are encouraged to germinate quickly by bottom heat. The temperature at the bottom of the flats is held at 70 degrees by hot water pipes or electric cable.

Quick germination also reduces losses from disease. For the same reason all watering is done in the morning so that the small leaves after they appear will be dry at night. Transplanting starts as soon as the plants are large enough to handle and, to give air a chance to circulate around them, the plants are set no closer than 1 1/2 inches apart.

Late changes spark squabble

By GREG PEARSON
Reporter
A public hearing Thursday night on the proposed industrial park plan started quietly, but turned into a minor squabble over a list of about 100 changes to the plan.

The Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC) met Thursday night to hear comments on the park plan, which details the cost and development of the park, proposed for a 393-acre site in Buckland.

About 40 persons attended the hearing at the Manchester High cafeteria, a small gathering compared to the 300 who filled the room for a zoning hearing on the park last month.

A few of those in attendance, however, became quite vocal when the list of changes to the park plan was presented to the EDC members. Almost all of the changes were minor, simply corrections of typographical errors.

The list was made available for the first time Thursday night. Town Manager Robert B. Weiss explained that the work on the list had not been completed until late Thursday afternoon. Thus, it was impossible for the list to be made public before the meeting, he said.

One of the included changes, eliminating a 30-foot maximum for lights in the park, upset neighbors of the proposed park.

Diplomat says there's no cause for alarm

Amin restricts U.S. citizens

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Ugandan diplomat assured the State Department today that President Idi Amin will permit Americans to leave the African country when they wish. "There is no cause for alarm," he said.

Acting Ambassador S. M. Cherebet was summoned to the department as President Carter expressed strong concern at Amin's announcement that U.S. citizens living in Uganda could not leave—and would have to meet with him Monday.

Cherebet told UPI he assured Assistant Secretary of State William Shaufele that the department was monitoring it closely, "according to the usual procedures to protect U.S. interests," the White House statement said.

Cherebet said he had talked with his government by telephone and also had been in touch with the State Department Thursday.

Opinion

Is television growing up?

Television is like the little girl in the nursery rhyme, but in reverse: When it is bad it is very, very bad, but when it is good it can be terrific.

People are still talking about the American Broadcasting Company's production of "Roots," based on Alex Haley's search for his African ancestry. By almost every measure, "Roots" stands in a class by itself.

It was aired for an unprecedented eight consecutive days, a total of 12 hours. It broke all records for number of viewers. But more important, it touched Americans, black and white, as has nothing else ever seen on television, except possible coverage of the assassination and funeral of John F. Kennedy.

Then a week later, the National Broadcasting Company presented "Tail Gunner Joe," the story of the rise and fall of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, who gave his name to another unbelievable but fortunately much briefer era in American history.

More modest than "Roots" (only three hours) and dealing with completely different subject matter, "Tail Gunner Joe" may actually have been the more significant and controversial production.

Slavery is gone, never to be revived. But the McCarthy's we must always guard against, for the fear and distrust which were his stock in trade are only too latent in the American character. No one defends slavery today, but there are still many people who will tell you McCarthy was a hero.

If Americans learned some things from "Roots" about slavery and the black experience they were not aware of before, they learned about equally uncomfortable facts about themselves from "Tail Gunner Joe."

For instance, that the supposedly feisty Harry S. Truman was remarkably unfussy when it came to standing up to McCarthy. That Dwight D. Eisenhower also found it politically expedient to keep his silence, until McCarthy went too far. That with few exceptions, no one in the U. S. Congress or the entire U. S. government had the courage to challenge McCarthy as he recklessly smeared and besmirched the good names of so many people.

Not least, that for all his accusations, for all the investigations he conducted, for all the suspicion he inspired and capitalized upon among Americans for a period of several years in the late 1940s and early 1950s, not a single subversive in the government was ever exposed by McCarthy.

America was indeed lucky that McCarthy was little more than an unprincipled opportunist, a bum and a boob at heart. It causes shivers to think what he might have done had he been a truly evil man.

Both "Roots" and "Tail Gunner Joe" can be faulted, and have been, for simplifying complex issues.

But if the "kind-hearted" slave-owner or dedicated abolitionist was slighted by the one and the post-World War II background of the Cold War and Soviet expansionism were left unexplored by the other, both were essentially truthful in their portrayal of two important periods in our history.

In any event, it is heartening to see that television does not have to pander all the time to the lowest common denominator of taste and that there is no Gresham's Law that says poor programming must inevitably drive out good.

It is too early, and probably foolhardy, to say that television is at last coming into its own and beginning to realize its true potential as both an educative and entertainment medium. But the current trend toward equally uncomfortable facts about themselves from "Tail Gunner Joe."

Today's thought

Brotherhood Week
I was very impressed recently with the television presentation of "Roots." It was the story of a black family and its survival of many hardships. The story originated in Africa with the capture of blacks and their slavery in the United States, lasting through four generations of time. The story was hard to watch, for it showed the brutality of man. But it also showed man's ability to endure. This particular family survives because each family member knows who he is, each being descendant of a proud race of Africans who were once free. And in each generation there is at least one of the family whose responsibility it is to pass on this strong sense of identity and pride.

Now, what has this to do with Brotherhood?
Brotherhood is that act of man reaching outward to others. But can anyone reach out unless he first knows himself. Each of us must find our own identity, our own sense of pride in being who we are. Then—and only then—we can look outward.
So, this year during Brotherhood Week and the ensuing weeks, search yourself for your beliefs, free yourself to understand others, and then reach out your hand.

Feline League entitled to same roles as men

In regard to a recent article in this newspaper, it was stated that Mel Seibold together with Carl Silver took it upon themselves to resolve a rather difficult and very complex question. I am referring to the question of discrimination by the town in regard to applying different standards and regulations between the top male softball league and the top female softball league.

It appears that in an effort to initiate this season's programs, the two men found it necessary to make a very hasty, unfair, maybe illegal, far-reaching, and from where I sit "a conflict of interest type of decision."

The conflict of interest concerns Carl Silver who works for the Recreation Department and is instrumental in making a decision that affects the Feline League in which Carl Silver coaches a team. That could hardly be called an objective decision.

These two men found it necessary, with what seems much fanfare, to make a very technical and very "touchy" legal decision. That decision states that the top male league, the Silk City League, may enjoy a five-player exception from the residency requirement that the top female league, the Feline League, may not enjoy that same advantage.

I would like to state my position. I feel that the Silk City League should be allowed the five-player exception. I feel that this would allow the Silk City League to continue to represent Manchester ASA state tournaments with the best and strongest team possible. Also the Silk City League does represent the best quality men's softball played in town and does offer much enjoyment to the fans all across town. Let's not change this.

Politics Pearson

By GREG PEARSON

The past week featured get-togethers by both the Democratic and Republican parties in Manchester.

The Democrats held their annual Lincoln Day dinner-dance on Saturday night. The featured speaker was Dan Lufkin, former commissioner of the state Department of Environmental Protection, who is already being talked about as the party's nominee for governor in 1978.

In fact, a few local Republicans Saturday night mentioned the possibility of a party ticket with Lufkin and Manchester's Nathan Agostinelli running for the state's two highest offices in 1978.

Some felt Lufkin's youth and energy would make him the prime choice for the governor's spot. Others point to Agostinelli's experience — he was state comptroller in the Meskill administration — as a strong point.

But Lufkin said that the governor's race is "too far away" to be concerned with right now. He said that the party must concentrate on this year's municipal elections rather than any one office or person.

Agostinelli also said that he is not, at this time, seeking office. "I'm not campaigning actively and I'm not seeking anything right now," he said.

He does feel, however, that Lufkin is interested in the state's top post. "I just feel he's going to be a candidate, just from the way he's talking," Agostinelli said.

The dinner committee, headed by Wally Irish, deserves credit for a job well done. The affair was well attended and well run.

I-84-86 connector hearing is March 28

A corridor design and open space public hearing for the I-84, I-86 connector will be held Monday, March 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Manchester High School cafeteria, 124 E. Middle Type. Construction of the connector, which would run through East Hartford and Manchester, would require two acres of land from Wickham Park and six acres of Laurel Lake Marsh property.

Maps and studies of the proposed project are available for public inspection at the town clerk's office. The studies will also be available at Manchester libraries.

An environmental study of the project said that the connector would cause no air quality problems, but it did express concern with the loss of presently unused land and the effect the loss would have on wildlife.

The Perennial Planters Garden Club will meet at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Raymond Halted, 212 Greenwood Dr. Ruth Lloyd and Helen Jamroga will be cohostesses. Following the business meeting, Alfred Lange will talk and show slides from the Pacific Northwest.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss this morning expressed support for the project.

"I'm very pleased they're moving ahead with this. The connector's something we've wanted for a long time," he said.

He said that there are "more serious environmental concerns" with the present situation where traffic uses local roadways to travel the distance.

The Council of State Governments is an agency created, supported and directed by all of the state governments. It conducts research on state programs and problems, as well as providing information services and publications.

It also assists in state-federal liaison, promotes regional cooperation and provides staff for affiliated organizations.

About town

Town tax take now at 93.3%

The Town of Manchester has collected 93.3 per cent of its expected tax revenues for the 1978-79 fiscal year, according to James A. Turek, collector of revenue.

Through January, Turek's office has collected $14,876,201.48 of all collectible tax monies. The estimated tax revenue for the full year is $15,947,477, Turek said.

"We're in good shape," he said. The collected figure includes tax collection from July 1978 and January of this year, the two largest tax collection periods of the year.

He said that after the second period the town should have collected 90 to 95 per cent of its expected tax revenue for the entire fiscal year.

The Perennial Planters Garden Club will meet at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Raymond Halted, 212 Greenwood Dr. Ruth Lloyd and Helen Jamroga will be cohostesses.

St. James fund short of goal

The St. James School Foundation is nearing the end of its second year in existence, but it is still short of its year's goal of $20,500.

The donations for the current fund drive were $7,559, according to the foundation's financial statement for April 1, 1975 through Jan. 25. The end of this year's drive is April 1.

The foundation was incorporated in 1975 as a long-term insurance measure and also designed to meet any emergencies the school may encounter.

The foundation limits annual expenditures to not more than 20 per cent of the year-end balance which insures the fund will grow. In its first year, the foundation raised $18,500.

The long-range goal, according to foundation president William O'Neill, is a quarter of a million dollars in the account by 1984 when the 1975 kindergarten class graduates from the eighth grade.

This kindergarten class was the first one at the school in 25 years.

The idea of providing a financial foundation to insure continuance of the parochial school, when so many are closing, began when the school celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1972.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Reader asks about surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 37-year-old male. I had a very severe heart attack when I was 35. A heart catheterization showed one heart artery was 95 per cent occluded at the front of my heart and an artery on the back was 25 per cent occluded.

I have been to four different specialists since then and some advise an immediate coronary artery operation and others advise taking my medicines and waiting to see if my condition improves. How in the world does a lay person know what is the best decision? Is there any evidence that the operation prolongs life?

I am not trying to put you on a spot in answering these questions, it is just that I am so confused, I don't know what to think or believe.

DEAR READER — I am not surprised that you are confused. Medicine is not an exact science and scientists often disagree over more exact matters — such as nuclear energy. In medicine, new techniques or new medicines are tested and they have their proponents who think they have had good success in using them and their opponents who have had less satisfactory experiences with the same medicines or techniques.

Whether a person should have a graft put in to detour blood around a block in one or more arteries to the heart muscle depends a lot on the individual case. There are some combinations where surgery will prolong life but your description of the location of your occlusions does not fit that category.

Otherwise who have had less complete agreement among experts that having the graft will prolong your life. It may relieve your symptoms if you are having chest pain. With the one exception (blockage of the main left coronary artery) I usually prefer that the patient try a medical program. But that program means a lot more than just taking pills. Remarkable results can sometimes be achieved by going on a strict diet to eliminate every ounce of excess body fat a person may have.

Completely portable and easily hand held, System III consists of a keyboard encoder having 31 functions. Included in the keyboard functions is the ability to control five separate start-stop operations, such as tape recorders, film projectors, or VTR. Four other switches are generally used to dim lights, control volume, or other "up-down" functions. A rack mounted decoder, and a dissolver capable of operating up to six (three pairs) of Kodak Carousel type projectors is keyed by the encoder to execute the desired functions. Of particular note is Systems III's ability to be operated as either a wireless or as a hard wired system.

The reaction to System III at the National Audio-Visual Convention and Exposition was "quite pleasing," according to Carlson.

"The most appreciated features seemed to be System III's easy operation, its complete portability, and its capability to do so much for the speaker. We are proud to have put something on the market that is recognized as being so valuable to presentation speakers," Carlson said.

CCIL hoop playoffs tonight at Arena

While no championship will be at stake, there should be good, exciting basketball action tonight at Clarke Arena as the top four finishers in the CCIL clash in the second annual league playoff. The lineup lists Penny High of East Hartford against Wetherfield High in the 6:30 opener and host Manchester High opposing Windham High in the nightcap. Manchester, Penny and Wetherfield decked for the 1976-77 league crown, each at 13-5 while Windham was fourth at 11-7. Coming into the playoff, Penny is 15-5 over-all, Manchester and Windham each 13-7 and Wetherfield 13-4. Manchester beat Penny twice and split with Wetherfield while the latter also divided with Penny. This time the Silk Toppers are the licentious top ranked and the draw against Windham. But it doesn't appear to be in the Indians' favor as they lost twice, 82-57 and 69-54, to the Whippets. Penny beat Wetherfield the first time, 47-40, with the Eagles

Russell's big night highlights victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — Campy Russell had one of his best nights of the season Thursday when he hit 13 of 18 shots from the field, including the last eight in a row, to score a game-high 30 points in lifting the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 99-86 victory over the Golden State Warriors. The Cavaliers called from 13 and 12 point deficits to put the game away in the second half, holding the Warriors to just 37 points over the game's final 24 minutes. "When they started to reel off those points, we felt that we just had to beat down on defense and we did," said Russell. "We started to get good shots and started to concentrate more. You have to go after the ball to win." "We just couldn't buy a basket in that second half," said Golden State Coach Al Attles. "They went and got the ball more than we did. You also don't win many games by scoring 37 points in one half." Gary Brokaw had his biggest night in a Cleveland uniform by scoring 17 points and Austin Carr added 15 to keep the Cavs one game behind second-place Houston in the Central

Crusaders' Perry injured

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Holy Cross freshman guard Ron Perry suffered a badly sprained left ankle on Thursday night's 111-89 win over Boston University and is feared out for the rest of the season. Crusader Coach George Blaney says he's not optimistic about Perry's chances of returning to the lineup. Perry was hurt in the first half

Aquinas upsets Catholic in HCC tourney, 58-55

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports Writer Just like the storybook character, when East Catholic's basketball team is good it can be very, very good, but when it's bad it's... "We played very intelligently and turned the ball over," was the lone statement from stunned Eagle coach Stan Ogrodnik. And who could blame the veteran mentor from being almost speechless after seeing his quintet blow all of a 10-point lead and fall, 58-55, to St. Thomas Aquinas in the opening tilt of the third annual HCC Playoff at the University of Hartford South Catholic center St. Paul, 88-54, thus pairing the Rebels, 20-1, against 16-5 Aquinas Saturday afternoon at 2 in the HCC championship game with East, now 15-4, versus 9-12 St. Paul in the non-consolation. East, which had beaten Aquinas twice previously, notched the final seven points of the third period to go up by 10 points, 48-38, heading into the stretch. It looked like the Eagles

Tiant threatens to quit baseball

BOSTON (UPI) — Threatening to retire, 36-year-old Luis Tiant say he will not report to the Boston Red Sox' spring training camp unless a contract position, as explained by assistant general manager John Claiborne has been made Tiant honor his present contract through the end of this season. The Red Sox management was unresponsive to Tiant's refusal to report to camp. "What Luis wants is certainly not unreasonable under any circumstances. It's not an enormous amount of money," said Woolf, who has lost many superstar clients because of his unwillingness to ask for astronomical salaries. "He feels everybody else is on a multi-year contract except himself and Carl Yastrzemski and feels he's entitled to it. It's not a question of being a holdout." Tiant told Woolf he was "seriously considering the possibility of retirement" and asked the attorney to investigate the possible sale of the pitcher's home and the winding up of business interests in the Boston area. Pitching for the Red Sox has represented a second career to Tiant. A fireballer and 20-game winner with Cleveland in the 1960s, Tiant was nearly out of baseball in 1971 when the Minnesota Twins and Atlanta Braves both released him unconditionally. The Red Sox picked him up and after a slow start, Tiant has compiled a 97-45 record with Boston. He has notched three 20 game-winning seasons the past four years and led the Red Sox into the 1975 World Series.

Coventry winning streak extended to 13 games

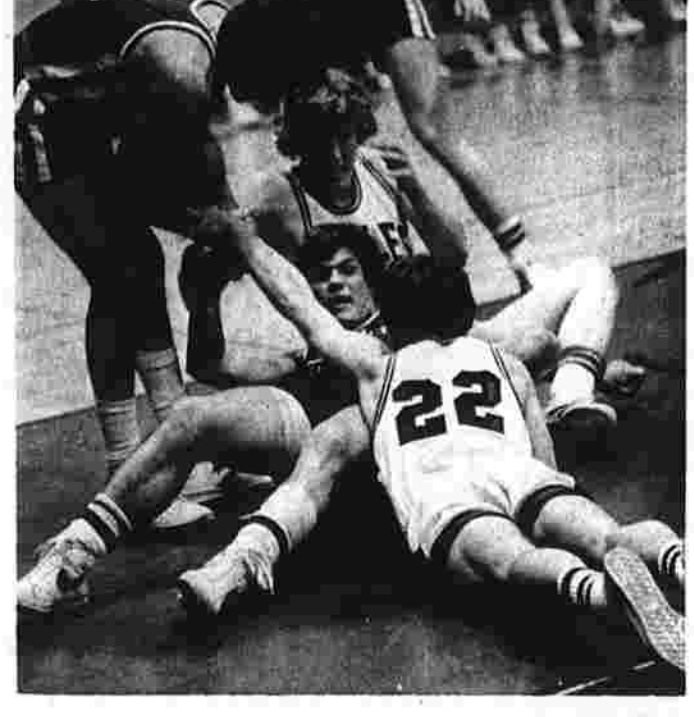

Completing probably its finest season ever, Coventry High ran its winning streak to 13 with a 67-61 decision over Tolland High in a non-conference basketball clash last night in Tolland. The Patriots, co-champs of the Charter Oak Conference, head into Thursday play with a gaudy 19-1 record. Coventry is in the Class S Division. Tolland (6-1) — Johnson 2 0 4, Alderuccio 3 17, Tracy 10 22, Dane 4 1 9, Defemia 4 0 8, Labarge 1 0 2, Kopsick 4 1 9. Totals: 28 5.

had finally pulled away from the Saints who had stayed close throughout. But looks are deceiving. In the first 4:01 of the final quarter the Eagles couldn't do anything right. They threw the ball away five times and missed two floor shots. Aquinas, meanwhile, was getting the most out of its bench as reserves Rod Foster and Andy Gierz combined for 10 points to knot it at 40-48 at the 4:19 mark. Three free throws gave Mark Zaleski hit two charity tosses and Tony Brown a layup off an East giveaway for a 52-51 lead with 2:53 left. After an Eagle miss, the Saints went into a delay with Gierz finding the middle open and driving in for a layup to up it to 54-51. Mark Dumais made it a one-point game again with two free throws with 49 seconds to go. Seventeen seconds later maybe the key play occurred. Foster, 6-0 sophomore, made the front end of a one-and-one situation but missed the second. The rebound, however, went out of bounds; ruled off of East giving Aquinas possession. Gierz, completing a standout performance, then sealed the victory with a bullet pass to Zaleski for a layup with 15 seconds left. East led after the first quarter, 11-9, and at the intermission, 26-23. The Eagles were a fine 20 to 37 from the field but the killing statistic was 21 turnovers, seven in the final period. Dumais and Gary Carlson each had 14 points for East with Jon Lindberg (13) and Jeff Heim (11) also in double figures. Aquinas, 22 for 45 from the field

Jockey Cauthen newest phenom

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nobody in horse racing history has ever come barreling out of the gate like 16-year-old riding marvel Stevie Cauthen, which doesn't necessarily mean there haven't been other kid phenoms in the past. The list includes Chris McCarron, still doing all right in Maryland, Tony Despirito, Bill Boland, Willie Shoemaker and the late Earl Sande much further back. One day at Havre de Grace, Sande won six out of seven races. Riding home with him that evening, his trainer, H.G. Bodwell, felt obliged to have a little chat with the young jockey to keep him from suddenly getting a swelled head. "When he finishes breakfast, he returns to the track. With all the interviews lately, he has been getting back to the track somewhat earlier. After finishing with the media, he goes into the jockeys' room to dress and that's where he also studies the Racing Form to check on the past performances of the horses he'll be riding that day. Once in the jockeys' room, the change in Stevie Cauthen is astonishing. He suddenly becomes a mature adult. Normally, he doesn't joke around much to begin with, but now he's all business.... Cauthen's mother, Myra, is a little concerned about her son working so hard every day and wishes he would have more time "to be a boy." His father, Ronald, a blacksmith, isn't concerned at all about his son because he feels the youngster was brought up right and knows his trade. The older Cauthen knows that his son isn't in any danger of growing too big for his britches. Only 95 pounds and 5-foot-1, Stevie Cauthen hasn't even been riding a full year yet, but he has a nice head start already toward his first million, having earned more than $150,000 with 240 winners last year. The other day, he was asked if he minded being in the Connecticut media because he doesn't keep track. "I don't really know. You'll have to ask my father." He was being honest about it because he doesn't keep track. Land all-stater STORRS — Scott Nier of Huntington, Pa., a high school football all-stater in Pennsylvania, has announced his intentions of furthering his education at the University of Connecticut. He's the player UConn Coach Walt Nizicki referred to in his first meeting with the Connecticut media when he asked about the recruitment of athletes. "There's an all-stater who lives down the road from me in Huntington. His daddy has been selling shoes to my family for years and I think it's about time he did something for us."

Major changes in NFL seen

BOSTON (UPI) — Agreements modifying the Rozelle Rule and reducing the college draft from 17 to 12 rounds highlight the NFL's new collective bargaining agreement, according to the Boston Globe. The 28 NFL owners meet in New York today and tomorrow to vote on the issue, needing a 75 per cent approval for passage. The 28 player representatives will also vote on the pact, and if they approve it, the agreement will be forwarded to all NFL players for their approval. The Globe outlined 13 terms of the pact, among them a major change in the Rozelle Rule, a change in college draft procedures, and a settlement of the John Mackey suit against the Rozelle Rule and the Yazo Smith suit against the draft. Details of the agreement have not been revealed, but the Globe said today it had learned there despite "secrecy" by both the league and the players' union. — The pension fund will be fully funded and benefits increased, with owners paying money into the fund that has been withheld over the past three years of no collective bargaining agreement. — Medical benefits will be increased. — Preseason pay will be increased by way of additional per diem payments to training camps. — Both sides say they'll study the possibility of a 16-game schedule, but any change must be mutually agreed upon by both parties. The new schedule, if approved, would not be implemented until the 1978 season. — Major decisions by owners affecting the league, like square limits, schedule changes and rules changes, must be approved by the players. — The owners will consent to check off union dues and recognize the Players Association as bargaining agent of all the players. — More money will be paid for post-season games. — Grievances for matters such as injuries or fines will go to a neutral arbitrator to be approved by both players and management, rather than the commissioner. MCC women bow to Hartford five

By DAVE ROBACK Correspondent As the saying goes it was close but no cigar for Manchester Community College's women's basketball team as it dropped a tense 60-51 decision to the University of Hartford yesterday at the Hawks' gym. The locals fall to 6-9 over-all and resume action Saturday against Mattatuck Community College in the CCAA championships at Plainville High. Gimny Petersen hit a layup with Bonnie Kilgore adding a free throw and Betsy Mayshar two 15-footers as MCC cut Hartford's lead to 33-32 with 13 minutes left in the second half. For the next four to five minutes, the Cougars stayed close but the pressing Hawks' caused turnovers which enabled Karen Groah, Diane Weisberg and Karen Waite to hit a series of jumpers giving the Hawks an eight point lead which they protected the rest of the way. Laurie Christians had eight points in the second half to lead MCC with 12 markers with Mayshar following with 11 points and 12 rebounds. Kilgore and Petersen added 10 and nine rebounds respectively. Waite led the 11-2 Hawks with 20 points with Groah and Laurie Weisberg following with 17 and 10 respectively. Housing project to get CD money

Allocation of the third-year federal Community Development (CD) monies was revised Thursday night to provide funding for the Spencer St. elderly housing project.

The revised plan, prepared Thursday night by the CD Citizens Advisory Committee, will also include funding for a housing study and a legal aid service. Both of these items were rejected by the Board of Directors when the first plan for spending the $301,000 third-year CD block grant monies was approved.

The changes will now be submitted to the Board of Directors for a public hearing and vote at its March 8 meeting.

The revision in the third-year plan became necessary when the state Department of Community Affairs (DCA) recently asked the Town of Manchester for funding guarantees to cover cost overruns involved with the 40-unit Spencer St. project. The DCA said it would not approve project plans until the guarantee was issued by the town.

The Board of Directors Tuesday night voted its intent to fund the overrun costs.

Attorney Dominic Squatrito, who serves as counsel for the Manchester Housing Authority, prepared a compilation of these costs. He said that the town had guaranteed $175,124 in funding.

Of this total, $92,267 could be provided through CD funds. This figure included a $30,000 appropriation made, but not yet used, during the first year of CD funding.

Thursday night, the Citizens Advisory Committee approved a $83,000 appropriation in third-year funds for the housing project. This covers the amount of CD funds that could be used to pay the overrun expenses.

The remainder of the cost, $42,857, is expected to come from other federal funding sources and from surplus in the town budget.

The committee took the money granted to the housing project from the fund set up to cover future expenses of storm sewer projects.

An additional $15,000 was also removed from the sewer category and allocated by the committee for the legal aid program ($10,000) and the housing study ($5,000).

All of these changes will be subject to a final vote by the directors at the March 8 meeting.

The committee's proposed use of third-year CD funds now stands as follows:

Elderly housing, $83,000; housing code, $20,000; legal aid, $10,000; housing study, $5,000; storm sewer work, $44,000; rehab loan program, $100,000; planning and administration, $40,000; and contingency, $19,000.

Chrome ban approved by subcommittees

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A pair of House subcommittees, heading a warning by U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young against further delay, has approved legislation to halt U.S. imports of Rhodesian chrome.

Repeat of the measure which allowed the United States to import chrome in violation of a U.N. boycott of Rhodesian products, is considered a key to improved U.S. relations with black Africa.

The House International Relations subcommittees on Africa and international organizations approved repeal after Young cautioned delay could spark violence throughout southern Africa.

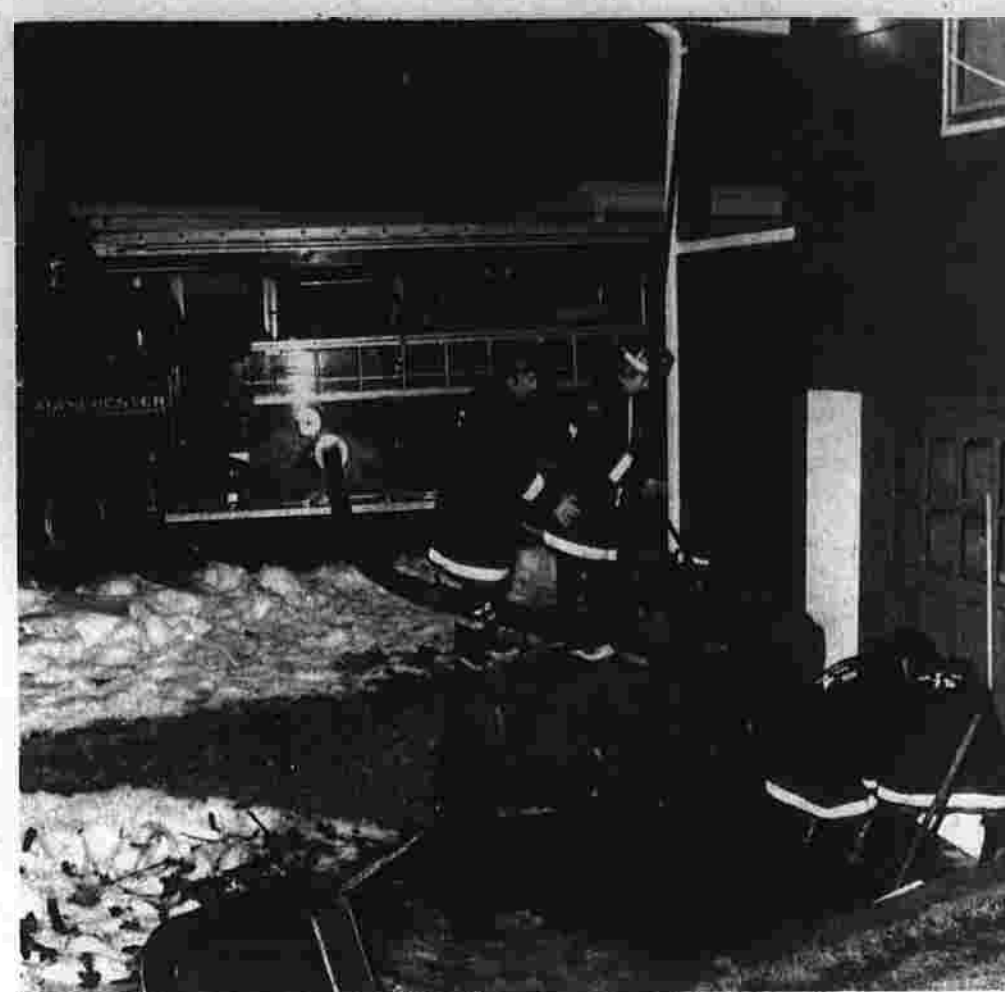

"If we don't repeal the Byrd amendment and move very rapidly towards majority rule in Rhodesia, they are going to have violence spread to neighboring Mozambique, Botswana and South Africa itself," Young said.

Fire calls

Manchester Thursday, 7:15 p.m.—unnecessary call, 172 Center St. (Town)

Thursday, 10:58 p.m.—standby for flooded basements (District)

Wires, 112 Spruce St. (Town) Thursday, after 11 p.m. thru noon today—about 50 calls for flooded basements (Town) Thursday, after 11 p.m. and 17 today calls for flooded basements (District)

Pumping out flooded basements
Eighth District Firefighters kept busy all night and today pumping out flooded basements of homeowners. The District had received 17 calls by noon today. Many homes in town were having flooding problems as a result of an early morning rainstorm which left nearly two inches of rain in addition to the long-term snow cover. (Photo by Gemme)

Rain causes basement floods

A rainstorm which occurred mostly after midnight today caused flooding of many basements but flooding in the streets was kept to a minimum.

The National Weather Service at Bradley International Airport reported that 1.75 inches of rain fell, mostly after midnight. Rainfall ranged from one to two inches throughout Connecticut. No serious flooding was expected, with skies clearing today and no more rain expected until Monday, according to the weather service.

The Town and Eighth District Fire Departments were "flooded" with calls from homeowners with flooded basements.

Ken Rebeck of the Eighth District Fire Department said the fire headquarters had received 15 calls for flooding problems and had been working through the night. He said there was up to four to five feet of water in some of the homes.

The Town Highway Department was prepared for flooding problems and had been working for the past few days checking to see that all catch basins, brooks and culverts were open.

George Ringstone, assistant to the superintendent of the department, said the department received only four calls related to street flooding problems. They were minor problems. One was a blocked catch basin on West Middle Tpke. near the Manchester Parkade and the Parkade Apartments. Police reported several motorists were stranded in that flooded area and had to have their cars towed early this morning.

The Weather Service reported that any small streams that might have swelled up from the storm will start receding today. The larger rivers are expected to remain within their banks.

Penney complex benefits cited to Community Services Council

Town Manager Robert Weiss told the Community Services Council Thursday that he believed that Penney's complex in the proposed industrial park will mean much to the economic life of the Manchester area.

Penney's will be bringing only 40 supervisory personnel into the complex, and the remainder of the estimated 2,000 employees will be hired in this area, he said.

"There is a great need for jobs in this area, and unless we can provide jobs, we won't retain the population but see it moving elsewhere. With new money coming into area homes, there will be an impact on conducting official business because it did not always have the necessary seven members attending all meetings."

Mayor Sandra Bender said she was concerned about attendance by members of the commission, but commission members pointed out that the nine-member commission had been missing a member for a couple of months before a replacement was appointed.

Corporation formed to run band shell

Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell Committee has formed a corporation, and Francis Mahoney and Nathan Agostinelli have been named co-presidents of the non-profit corporation.

The committee, which was incorporated so that it could extend its fund-raising activities, will handle all facets of the operation of the shell including the scheduling of events.

Ralph Macaroni will be assisted by Dr. Ronald Denison in handling the scheduling of events and in seeking professional talent from outside the area to perform at the shell.

Carol Kuehl will serve as secretary of the corporation's board of directors, and Ted LaBonne will head the fund-raising efforts. Other members of the board are David Morsey, Joel Janeska, and John Sullivan. The dedication ceremonies have been set for May 22, and the performing groups who participated in the ground-breaking ceremonies in September will be invited to try out the shell's new stage. In September, they performed with a flatbed truck as a stage.

Dr. Denison, president of Manchester Community College, said the college is scheduled to conduct its graduation ceremonies June 5 at the shell.

Work in it is progressing on the shell. Jay Giles, director of public works, said, and funds are available for to purchase and extension installation of retaining basins. Funds are still needed for phase three of the construction—putting the roof on the shell.

Now that the committee has been incorporated as a non-profit organization, LaBonne is hoping for contributions from United Technologies Corp., Travelers Insurance Co. and/or the Hartford Foundation for Giving. He said that he believed that fund-raising efforts for the band shell will be an ongoing sort of thing and would never stop as a source of public giving.

Fund-raising efforts will be re-activated in March, LaBonne said, and Katherine Giblin, who heads the public phase of the drive, is ready to get going again.

Suspect arrested

Police arrested a 24-year-old Rockville man today in connection with an armed robbery at the 7-11 store at 253 Main St. Feb. 12.

William C. Meyers, was charged with first degree robbery and third-degree larceny. Bond was placed at $5,000 and he was to be presented in Common Pleas Court today.

The robbery occurred shortly after noon on Feb. 12 and resulted in the theft of $285 from the store's cash register. According to police, the man had a small handgun which he pointed at the store clerk and forced the clerk and a customer to lie on the floor while he took the money.

Police were investigating today an incident which occurred Thursday about 7:30 p.m. in which three Hartford Courant paperboys were robbed of an undetermined amount of money. One of the youth was struck on the head with a cane, police said, but was not hospitalized. The incident occurred in the Garden St. area while the boys were making collections from customers. They were not identified.

State okays reimbursement

The state Bonding Commission this morning voted to approve a $19,243 reimbursement to the Town of Manchester. This money is the state's share of the purchase of the property formerly owned by the Manchester Water Co.

The total cost of the purchase of the 157 acres is $700,966. Federal funding paid for half the cost, the town paid $195,523, and the state has now officially paid the remaining $192,424. The money from the state should be sent to the Town of Manchester within the next few weeks.

Carter energy agency wants price controls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter will ask Congress to let a new energy super-agency control oil and gas prices and oversee energy research, but he plans to exclude atomic energy regulation from that agency, administration officials said today.

Officials also said Carter's proposal, to be sent to Congress next week, will avoid seeking any major changes in existing energy policy. Budget Director Bert Lance said creation of the new cabinet-level Energy Department would abolish the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration and the Energy Research and Development Administration.

He and other officials said the new department also would take over energy-related duties now being performed by dozens of other agencies including the Interior and Defense Departments and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

But officials said Carter plans to leave the Nuclear Regulatory Commission out of the department. The NRC is responsible for licensing atomic power plants and making sure they are operated safely.

A draft of the President's proposal already has been sent to Capitol Hill, and there are predictions the formal submission of the plan may trigger sharp debate.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., one of the key energy experts in the House, praised the proposal but said it is "there is great resistance to this sort of thing... (and) I'm sure there will be a lot of guerrilla warfare."

Dingell said, "It will move the nation forward very significantly in addressing its grave energy problems. It provides for much better administration. But I do have some reservations, particularly with transfer of functions now in EPC since that is an independent agency which is an arm of the Congress."

Manchester police report

Two men were arrested Thursday in connection with several thefts from motor vehicles which occurred on Wednesday night in a home on Main St. Feb. 14.

Edward J. McKiernan, 18, of East Hartford and Marc J. Pare, 15, of West St., were charged with six counts of third-degree larceny, two counts of fourth-degree larceny and one count of criminal attempt at third-degree larceny.

They were being held at Manchester Police Headquarters today in lieu of $5,000 bonds for presentation in court.

An additional charge of criminal mischief was lodged against Pare in connection with damage to the car.

Similar charges were lodged against Robert M. Mahoney, 16, of 56 Lenox St., earlier this week in connection with the same incidents of thefts of CB radios, stereo equipment and other items from motor vehicles. Several of the vehicles were parked on Ambassador Dr.

Other arrests Thursday included Steven A. Sweet, 21, of Hartford, who was charged with third-degree burglary in connection with a house break in January in which several savings bonds were stolen. Sweet was being held in lieu of a $2,500 bond for presentation in court today.

Judith A. Lindstrom, 35, of 33 Ridgewood St., was arrested Thursday night on charges of reckless endangerment, disorderly conduct and assault of a police officer after police were called to her residence because of a disturbance.

Police said the charge of reckless endangerment stem from her two children being locked out of the house and the condition of the house. The disorderly conduct charge was lodged because Mrs. Lindstrom was uncooperative with police. The assault charge relates to one of the arresting officers being struck with an ash tray.

Mrs. Lindstrom was transported to Manchester Memorial Hospital and later to Norwich State Mental Hospital, police reported.

The theft of the entire contents of a locker in the men's locker room at the Manchester Racquet Club on W. Center St. was reported Thursday afternoon. The contents included clothing and a watch, all valued at about $500 and other personal items.

A break was reported in a vacant house on Spencer St. but nothing was reported damaged.

P&W guards resign

EAST HARTFORD (UPI)—An internal investigation involving stolen office equipment has resulted in the forced resignation of 12 security guards at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

The company said Thursday the probe — conducted without state or local police — resulted in the suspension of five other employees, whose assignments were not disclosed.

The suspensions range from two days to two weeks, and the resignations became effective Wednesday night.

The company said the infractions involved breaches of company regulations.

The Hartford Courant quoted a source as saying the employees either participated in or ignored security breaches at the plant, allowing office equipment to be removed.

He is not worried about pollution problems arising from the industrial park, apparently, because he said the tobacco fields in that area are highly fertilized and sprayed with chemicals. The fertilizers are showing up in higher levels in the water than one would expect, and the dust in summer carries much of the chemicals out either into the ground or used as sprays into the surrounding area.

Anderson said he anticipates that after the industrial park is completed and landscaped, the overall quality of the air in that area will be improved.

Council cuts HRC quorum

South Windsor
The South Windsor Town Council has voted to lower the number needed for a quorum on the Human Relations Commission from seven to five.

The vote to change the quorum figure came after the commission had requested that it be allowed the same number for a quorum as other agencies and commissions.

Human Relations Chairman John Giordano told the Town Council that the commission was having difficulty conducting official business because it did not always have the necessary seven members attending all meetings.

Mayor Sandra Bender said she was concerned about attendance by members of the commission, but commission members pointed out that the nine-member commission had been missing a member for a couple of months before a replacement was appointed.

The suggestion was made at a public hearing, before the Town Council meeting this week, that the commission appoint alternates such as for the Planning and Zoning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals.

Commission member Jacqueline Smith said she did not feel alternates would work on the Human Relations Commission because all members must be well informed on each topic.

The council voted to lower the quorum number, with only Councilman Leonard Sorokan voting in opposition.

Sheekley told the EDC he had been getting about two inquiries a week regarding possible industrial and commercial clients.

Although EDC Chairman Leroy VanderPutten indicated the town may be headed for an increase in commercial and industrial development, there has been some speculation that the town may have lost some potential clients because it does not have an industrial park.

It is the hope of the subcommittee to complete its study on the industrial park and put together a report for the Town Council by June.

School board cuts budget

Coventry
The Coventry Board of Education cut about 10 per cent of School Supt. Arnold Elman's $5 million education budget proposed Thursday night, leaving the proposed budget increase for 1977-1978 at 9 per cent.

The school board cut $28,292 from the superintendent's proposed $2,800,790 budget. Elman's proposal represented an increase of 10 per cent over the current year.

Most of the budget cuts are reflected in salaries, supplies, operation expenses and unemployment compensation.

Legal Aid post in doubt

A request to be assigned one of Vernon's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) positions, made by the Tolland-Windham Legal Aid office, has been a continuing request for about two years. But the town doesn't have any positions to assign.

Stanley Roessler, director of administration, has been asked to prepare, for the next Town Council meeting, a priority list for town jobs.

The request for the legal aid office, made by James Sturdevant, would provide paralegal assistance to town residents.

Lenten programs planned

Vernon
Lenten Enrichment and Appreciation Program (LEAP) is the theme of a series of Lenten programs planned by United Congregational Church.

On Sunday, March 6, the film, "His Land," from Billy Graham's World Wide Pictures, will be shown.

An old fashioned hymn sing, scheduled March 20, will be led by soloists and small groups of church members.

Miss Doreen Ritzen was installed recently as worthy advisor of Rockstar Assembly 39, Order of the Rainbow for Girls.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. "No Name." Every Real Estate agent has a list of clients who have given them their name and phone number, are loyal to them and SERIOUSLY want a home. The agent knows the price range, the amount of the mortgage they can carry, whether or not they have a king-size bed, if a formal dining room is necessary, etc. So, when your IDEAL HOME becomes available, they are the ones called. More often than not, the property is listed and sold, never having been advertised. No "For Sale" sign up, and you've never had the chance to see it. Poor you, they got the house, you didn't. If you are seriously looking for a home, let your agent know your requirements. They'll find the home that fits your needs.

Win at Bridge. Against a diamond lead any South might well have gone down, but the heart lead and the actual distribution gave South the hand on a silver platter. He should have started by returning the heart finesse. West would never lead from a queen against that bidding.

Ask the Jacobys. A South Dakota reader asks how many times the cards should be shuffled before being dealt. The rules of bridge say they should be shuffled thoroughly. This implies to us a minimum of three shuffles. Even he couldn't last another trick or he would probably have been down two.

Enterprising group of merchants

This group of youngsters recovered this old cash register and set out to find a buyer for it. Scott Racine of 218 Spruce St., extreme right, found the register in his cellar, and, together with his friends, hauled the 300-pound machine around on this flatbed wagon. The other youngsters, from left, are Richard Danforth, 70 Pearl St., Russ Armstrong, Rockville; Brian Armstrong of 68 Pearl St. and Gary Danforth, Jerry MacDonald, of Collector's Corner, is looking over the register, but he decided against buying it. Lufkin attacks proposal changing Taylor status

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two men who may battle over the 1978 Republican gubernatorial nomination disagree about whether the state's top water pollution official should become a political appointee.

Speaking Thursday before the legislature's Environment Committee, former Environmental Commissioner Daniel Lufkin attacked a bill sponsored by House Minority Leader Gerald P. Stevens, R-Milford, that would have that official serve at the governor's pleasure.

Lufkin, Stevens, Senate Minority Leader Lewis D. Rome, R-Bloomfield, and former Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., are considered the front-runners for the GOP nomination next year.

Lufkin claimed the legislation was "a loaded gun aimed at the head of one civil servant." Robert Taylor, director of DEP's Division of Water Compliance and Hazardous Materials.

The measure would actually transfer the power of appointing the water compliance director from the DEP commissioner to the governor. Lufkin claimed it would "get rid of Bob Taylor."

Taylor worked for Lufkin when he headed DEP under former Gov. Thomas J. Meskill. Lufkin, a Wall Street financier and close political friend of Sen. Lowell

Town grows old without a plan

East Hartford has been growing older without a plan, town officials told the League of Women Voters Thursday night at the Goodwin School.

John Shemo, planning aide in the town development office, was the only official to come to the meeting of those first invited by the league.

As of 1973, there were only 1,070 acres open to development. The rest of the town's 18.2 square miles were either developed, were park lands, or were in flood plains.

But development in the last three years has eaten much of those available acres, she said. She asked Shemo how many are left.

Shemo, noting the need for a plan, admitted the information is not known for certain.

She invited Walter Forrest, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission for many years. But Forrest had to leave town, she said.

Anthony Kayser took Forrest's place. Their combined years on the commission helped them answer most questions pressed by the audience.

The last town plan of development was made and accepted in 1962. East Hartford has seen a great deal of development since then, said Mrs. Sussman.

Bernard Kehoe, East Hartford's data processing supervisor, discusses the results of a program flashed on tube on the machine in front of Mrs. Joan Martin, computer operator in the Town Hall computer center.

Mrs. Dale Prescott, computer teacher at Penney High School, looks at the results of a program of student James Willis flashed in their classroom computer hookup from Town Hall.

Town has hard-working computer

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

East Hartford's town computer works harder than most, the accounting firm of Haskins and Sells told the town this winter.

"We think you have done a fine job in coordinating your work of the center," said Ronald Baldwin, chief accountant for the firm's office in Hartford.

The accountants are even more correct now, said Richard Harvey, the town's director of finance.

Since the fall annual audit, the town has continued to add more jobs to the IBM computer maintained at the Town Hall. More town and school department programs have been set up to work with the computer.

Teaching programs in both the math and business departments of both town high schools have been expanded using new equipment. Students can now "speak" to the computer from their classrooms.

Most area towns have a computer for the town administration, a computer for the school offices, and maybe even another for their high schools.

Town's use
In East Hartford, all town departments have all their finances run through the computer.

Bernard Kehoe, electronic data processing supervisor or "master of the monster" as Harvey calls him, said the computer knows all. It gets every purchase order, every pay check detail, and every bill payment right away.

Kehoe's "monster" can give back on demand each department's financial status at any moment. Three times a week, Kehoe makes the demand for each department and informs department heads.

Once a month, a year-to-date budget statement is taken from the computer. Harvey then meets with each department head to go over the statement.

The computer does not allow conducting official business because it did not always have the necessary seven members attending all meetings.

Mayor Sandra Bender said she was concerned about attendance by members of the commission, but commission members pointed out that the nine-member commission had been missing a member for a couple of months before a replacement was appointed.

The suggestion was made at a public hearing, before the Town Council meeting this week, that the commission appoint alternates such as for the Planning and Zoning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals.

Commission member Jacqueline Smith said she did not feel alternates would work on the Human Relations Commission because all members must be well informed on each topic.

The council voted to lower the quorum number, with only Councilman Leonard Sosniak voting in opposition.

anyone to "get in the red," said Harvey. If spending threatens a department's budget, the department head must go before the Town Council to get approval for the extra spending.

Other jobs include keeping constant track of all taxes, the names and numbers of all books in each of the town's five libraries (209,643 as of Feb. 14), and every new backyard pool for assessment records.

Harvey praised Sheehan for keeping the computer abreast of the latest, federally suggested programs. The simplest of storm drain surveys would take a trained engineer a full day's work in math to get the results the computer gives Sheehan in seconds, he said.

Building sewers
Town Engineer Charles Sheehan has helped Kehoe put the computer to its hardest tests.

Engineers take all the survey figures from an area around a storm sewer. The raw data is then pumped into a program called COGO. Within seconds, the computer tells the engineers every fact they need to know about the storm sewer - how a major storm will tax it, whether or not there will be flooding and how much, etc.

The computer, loaded with the town's storm sewer data, tells Sheehan's office what will happen in town storms. It alerts the engineers to problem areas and even tells them how big to make new culverts and storm drains.

Harvey praised Sheehan for keeping the computer abreast of the latest, federally suggested programs. The simplest of storm drain surveys would take a trained engineer a full day's work in math to get the results the computer gives Sheehan in seconds, he said.

Board uses
The Board of Education runs a program center at administration headquarters at the Woodland School. They have everything they need except a computer.

But several of the machines there are hooked up by special telephone lines to the computer at the Town Hall. The phone lines make the school center as efficient as if the computer were right there, said Raymond Vail, supervisor of data processing for the school system and former aide to Kehoe.

Vail's staff runs programs designed to help the school board keep track of the rapidly changing figures concerning town schools. For example, the computers can tell quickly when too many high school students sign up for too few classes.

School leaders get an early warning and may be able to do something about it such as add more classes. Using an attendance program, lists of absent students is given each of the town's 22 schools early in the morning. Every school then has a chance to call every absent student's home to check on him if it wishes.

Classroom uses
In 1970, Dr. Thomas Andreoli, now math supervisor for the whole system, and George Zervas, head of the Penney High School math department, set up a computer class.

They helped the students make up their own computer programs and then took them all by bus to the Town Hall. There the students waited in line to try their programs.

Today, the program has expanded to East Hartford High School and is being used at each high school has its own hook-up and machines for "speaking" to the town's computer.

Zervas said there are now about 70 students in five computer classes learning three different computer languages. A fourth language will be added next year.

Vail said IBM officials had told him the high school use of the computer is rare in the northeast. Students can complete work on a program, walk over to the classroom machine, funnel in the program, and see, within seconds, whether they did it right and what the program can tell them.

"The hands on ability is most valuable," said Zervas.

Both high schools also have elaborate computer equipment in their departments which also allows them to "speak" to the town's computer. About 60 Penney students now take the department's courses, many of which lead directly to jobs in Hartford.

Due to new equipment at both schools, many more students have expressed interest in the classes for next year, said Tom Yacavone, a business education teacher.

The future for East Hartford's computer includes tighter security at the Town Hall, said Harvey. The "monster" as he calls it grows in importance to the town every year.

The town's accountants did recommend the town consider a larger system in a few years. But despite the town's heavy use of its computer, Kehoe said it still has its idle moments.

P&W guards resign

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — An internal investigation involving stolen office equipment has resulted in the forced resignation of 12 security guards at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

The company said Thursday the probe — conducted without state or local police — resulted in the suspension of five other employees, whose assignments were not disclosed.

The suspensions range from two days to two weeks, and the resignations became effective Wednesday night.

The company said the infractions involved breaches of company regulations.

The Hartford Courant quoted a source as saying the employees either participated in or ignored security breaches at the plant, allowing office equipment to be removed.

The house breaks took place since November in the area of Central Ave. and Phelps St. More arrests are expected in connection with the breaks.

Arthur L. Liston, 32, of 1268 Silver Lane, East Hartford, was arrested Thursday on a warrant charging him with containing (two counts), harassment, second-degree burglary, and second-degree larceny.

The charges stem from domestic disputes, police said. He was released on bond.

will be open throughout the show. Thomas Barrows is managing the show.

Heart Fund Special Gifts Chair Person Mary Brennan announced to town residents who received letters from the Heart Fund Association that they should make their returns as soon as possible.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who is being married soon for the first time...

DEAR ABBY: My son and his family live near me, and for the last eight months I have seen a male friend of theirs stop in for coffee every morning...

DEAR FED UP: Parents, not children, make the rules in their own homes. You can't control what goes on in other homes, but you can tell your children that you're not proud of them for doing what they're expected to do...

DEAR NAMELESS: You've already told her that you thought it looked bad for the neighbors, and it didn't seem to face her, so I doubt that threats to quit babysitting for her would produce results...

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column to discourage the practice of paying children for getting good grades in school.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about the Astro-graph. I saw it in your column and I was very interested in it.

Enterprising group of merchants

Human services revamp unlikely

HARTFORD (UPI) — The co-chairmen of the legislative committee handling state government reorganization say a controversial plan to merge the sprawling human services bureaucracy into one super agency is dead.

But they said there may be some changes coming to help coordinate the numerous human services agencies.

Two legislative committees, Government Administration and Policy, and Human Rights and Opportunities, Thursday held a joint public hearing on the proposal.

At the hearing, 20 witnesses spoke out against consolidation of human services while only two spoke in favor of the proposal, which was among the most controversial parts of a state government reorganization plan.

A committee headed by Aetna Life & Casualty President John Piler has recommended the more than 200 state agencies, departments and commissions be merged into 15 super agencies.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso endorsed many of those recommendations, but strongly opposes consolidation of health and human services.

GAP Committee Chairman Sen. Wayne Baker, D-Danbury, was asked if the proposal was dead.

"Yes," Baker said. "For one thing, the governor said she is against the idea and would veto the bill and that's a pretty strong parameter."

House Chairman Rep. Patricia T. Hendel, D-New London, agreed, and said there were too many objections to putting all human services agencies under one umbrella.

"But something has to be done. I've dealt with constituents who have been buried by the inaccessibility of services offered by the state," she said. "Certainly before the end of our two-year term in office we will come up with some recommended changes."

Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, said the political mood in the State Capitol this year is against the proposed consolidation of human services.

Lufkin attacks proposal changing Taylor status

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two men who may battle over the 1978 Republican gubernatorial nomination disagree about whether the state's old water pollution official should become a political appointee.

Speaking Thursday before the legislature's Environment Committee, former Environmental Commissioner Daniel Lufkin attacked a bill sponsored by House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Bloomfield, and former Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., are considered the front-runners for the GOP nomination next year.

Lufkin claimed the legislation was "a loaded gun aimed at the head of one civil servant," Robert Taylor, director of DEP's Division of Water Compliance and Hazardous Materials.

The measure would actually transfer the power of appointing the water compliance director from the DEP commissioner to the governor. Lufkin claimed it would "get rid of Bob Taylor."

Taylor worked for Lufkin when he headed DEP under former Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

Lufkin, a Wall Street financier and close political friend of Sen. Lowell Turner, said he would serve simultaneously head of the CIA and overall chief of intelligence.

The latter post was coveted by Gerald Ford to coordinate the work of all intelligence branches — in the Defense, Treasury, and State Departments as well as CIA — in an effort to prevent abuses such as those of the recent past.

Turner confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stansfield Turner, 53-year-old Navy admiral and former Rhodes Scholar, is the new U.S. Director of Central Intelligence.

Turner's nomination was confirmed unanimously by the Senate Thursday. He is resigning his post as commander-in-chief of NATO southern forces to
