Ugandan crisis eases

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — President Idi Amin today assured a meeting of whites — mostly Americans — at Entebbe airport that he had "nothing against them," partially easing the suspense over Wednesday's scheduled showdown meeting with some 200 Americans barred from leaving the country.

Radio Uganda said Amin met informally with the group of whites at the airport and told them the world media had "misunderstood" his orders summoning all Americans in Uganda to a meeting.

"Ugandans are your brothers and sisters ... enjoy yourselves," Amin told his guests, the radio said. The white party was composed mostly of American employees at Uganda Airlines. Amin said he proposed to hand out "honor medals" at Wednesday's meeting.

The radio said Amin was anxious to thank Americans for their "good work."

The broadcast said Amin was in a jovial mood and explained he had ordered Americans not to leave only so he could "see them all jointly." Earlier, the radio said holding them hostage "never has crossed his (Amin's) mind."

Amin issued the order last Friday and at the same time firing off an angry cable to President Carter describing as "false" Carter's criticism of recent events in Uganda.

Amin then charged 5,000 U.S. Marines were off the east African coast and issued a nationwide alert for a possible "invasion."

Western diplomats in Nairobi were checking reports reaching here that Amin also has instructed the estimated 200-member British community to attend the Wednesday 8 a.m. (midnight EST) gathering at Entebbe, site of last summer's dramatic Israeli rescue of occupants of a hijacked French plane.

Amin originally scheduled the meeting with all Americans for this morning, but during the weekend he postponed it until Wednesday, offering assurances that they were safe and should not be considered hostages. Diplomatic and naval sources in Nairobi discounted other reports that the nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise, which docked at Kenya's port of Mombasa last week, has returned. The vessel has at least 95 fighter aircraft aboard.

Radio Uganda announced that Zaire President Mobutu Sese-Seko has cabled Amin seeking assurances for the safety of Americans. The radio said Amin has replied that "there is no cause for alarm."

Amin today telephoned Charles Harrison, ABC correspondent in Nairobi and an acquaintance from Kampala, and told him he was happy with the Americans in Uganda and would confer medals on some of them when he meets them Wednesday.

"The Americans here are my sons and daughters," he said. "They are very happy."

"I have been receiving many telegrams from heads of state concerning the Americans — President Mobutu of Zaire, from the crown prince of Saudi Arabia, and from Emperor Bokassa of the Central African Empire."

He ended with a joke about President Carter: "Carter has just joined politics and I am senior to him."

Buckland plan approved

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

The Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC) this morning unanimously approved the plan for the proposed industrial park.

A few minor changes were made based on suggestions by Stephen Penny and William Anderson, two members of the EDC who live on Burnham St., the neighborhood closest to the proposed park.

The plan is now scheduled to be presented at the Board of Directors meeting Tuesday night.

The plan details construction of the park, which is proposed for a 393-acre site located between Burnham St. and Tolland Tpk. Information on cost estimates, land use, effects and utilities construction is included in the plan.

Penny requested an extension for the amount of time permitted the EDC to act on matters connected with the park. The park plan, as originally written, would provide 30 days for the EDC to act on park-related items. Penny said that this did not offer the commission, which only meets once a month, enough time to properly consider proposals before acting.

Atty. Rolland Castleman, who, along with Atty. Jules Karp, represents the EDC, said that the 30-day limit was an "oversight." He said that there would be no problem in extending the limit.

The EDC agreed and voted to increase the limit to 60 days. Another change was made in the wording of a regulation governing landscape requirements for prospective tenants.

The regulations originally said that a firm in the park would have to landscape with "shrubs, ground cover, or trees."

Anderson said, "I don't find that acceptable." He expressed concern that a company might do all its landscaping in ground cover and not use any trees or shrubs, a situation the EDC and neighbors of the park did not want.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said that any landscaping plan would have to be approved by the EDC, but Anderson said that the provision was "misleading."

Following a suggestion by Penny, the commission voted to change the wording to "ground cover, and shrubs or trees."

Signs Enlarged
Penny also questioned an increase in the permitted size of a free-standing sign in the park to a maximum of 450 square feet.

Weiss said that this change was made at the request of the J.C. Penney Co., which wants to locate a two-million square foot distribution center within the park.

Weiss said that the firm wants a 430 square-foot sign (slightly larger than 20 feet by 20 feet) that would be visible from nearby I-86.

Alan Lamson, assistant town planner, explained that the size of a sign will be based on the amount of frontage a firm has. Thirty square feet on a sign will be permitted for every 100 feet of frontage, he said. Thus, it is unlikely that any other company will approach the maximum size sign permitted.

Anderson also asked about a change in the park plan that allows a firm to acquire additional open space park land at a later date. He wondered if the town would receive any additional revenue for that property other than the tax money that would come from the expansion of the acquiring firm.

Weiss said that such a decision should be made by the EDC if, and when, such a proposal is made. He said that this change was also made in discussion with Penny.

"They don't want to close themselves off from expansion possibilities," he said. The firm has no plans at this time to expand, he said.

In another matter, Robert Blanchard, a member of the EDC, suggested that Alan Mason, director of human services, be present at Thursday's meeting of the commission. Blanchard had some questions about a housing report written by the Department of Human Services and included in the park plan.

Blanchard said that the report seems to suggest a need for more low-income housing in the town, and he is fearful that the Capitol Region Council of Governments, the area's planning agency, may later use this part of the report to require such housing.

Governors lobbying Cabinet members

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's governors — most of them Democrats — were expected to spend a large part of their three-day winter meeting lobbying with Carter administration Cabinet members.

The governors gathered in the nation's capital Sunday for preliminary meetings, and the serious business of their annual winter conference begins today.

All but three of the 50 state governors were joined by four territorial chief executives to discuss energy, welfare reform and health care — the main items on their agenda. Western governors wanted to talk about water, and aid for their drought-stricken states.

Republicans control only 12 statehouses. The winter meeting is the first time in many years the governors conference has been heavily controlled by Democrats with one of its own in the White House at the same time.

Carter, the first governor to advance to the White House since Franklin Roosevelt, assigned most of his Cabinet to meet with the conference participants.

The President will host his former colleagues and their wives at a reception and dinner Tuesday night.

Carter chose one governor, Cecil Andrus of Idaho, as Interior Secretary, and put a former governor, Kenneth Curtis of Maine, in the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

The governors conference is headed by Democrat Reubin Askew of Florida, who took over the chairmanship when Andrus resigned to come to Washington.

Thirty-three of the 36 Democratic governors, and all the Republican governors were expected, along with independent James Longley of Maine. Only the governors of Arkansas, Missouri and Wyoming planned to miss the meeting.

Waterbury talks break off

WATERBURY (UPI) — The school board and striking teachers, about $1 million apart in contract negotiations, broke off talks late Sunday with no new negotiations scheduled.

"Negotiations are in recess and we will be in court Tuesday," Mrs. Bernice Wadge, acting president of the Waterbury Teachers Association, said at the conclusion of Sunday's meeting.

The city's 1,114 teachers, who have worked without a contract for 14 months, went on strike last Wednesday for the second time since January, closing 29 schools and keeping 17,000 students from classes. City officials canceled classes again today.

Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wall issued contempt citations Friday against 29 WTA leaders and ordered them to appear in court Tuesday.

The judge could order the union leaders jailed since teacher strikes are illegal in Connecticut, and fine each one $750 a day for every day the strike continues. The WTA itself could be fined $5,000 a day for each day the strike continues.

The School Board offered teachers a $785,800 contract Sunday, calling it the "best and final" offer. Teachers rejected it, saying they were holding "it for a $1.7 million wage package over the next two years.

Teachers went on strike for five school days in January until the School Board accepted their $1.7 million contract proposal. The pact needed approval of Aldermen, however, and they rejected unanimously as too expensive.

The Waterbury Taxpayers Association

Saturday held an afternoon rally to support Mayor Edward Bergin's position the financially troubled city is unable to meet the teachers' demands.

Federal mediators, who joined talks Thursday after state mediators left in desperation, withheld comment on the status of the talks.

Energy plan backed by Sen. Ribicoff

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., today called upon his congressional colleagues to approve President Carter's expected call for a cabinet-level energy department.

Carter is expected to submit legislation to Congress Tuesday that would set up a Department of Energy with jurisdiction over virtually all energy programs.

"Reorganization is crucial to the design and implementation of a coherent energy policy. Coherent policy is not a frantic response to crisis. It is a comprehensive and long-term approach to a problem that will not go away," Ribicoff said in a speech to the Hartford Graduate Center.

Ribicoff is chairman of the Senate's Governmental Affairs Committee, which is expected to handle the President's energy department proposal.

"We will give it top priority. Creation of a broad-based energy department will deal with issues of supply, conservation, and data collection," he said.

Ribicoff, calling the United States wasteful in its use of energy, said meaningful conservation measures must be taken.

"Conservation requires serious changes in the way we think and deal with energy and is of major importance. We waste between 30 and 50 per cent of all energy consumed in the United States," he said.

Town urged to seek state aid

Town Director Carl Zinsser is urging the Manchester Housing Authority to apply for a portion of state bonding money for elderly housing which was included in Gov. Grasso's budget message earlier this month.

Gov. Grasso proposed a $10 million appropriation for elderly housing as part of the $94 million capital construction program.

Zinsser said in a letter to Pascal Mastrangelo, Housing Authority chairman, that possibly 15 towns will benefit from the grant.

Zinsser added, "It would seem to me that this 10 million dollars will be divided among those towns that can show a need and are willing to pursue the grant."

"Manchester can surely show the need and the fact that we have land available should help us to obtain the necessary funds."

Zinsser referred to the housing authority's list of applicants waiting for elderly housing which has grown to nearly 200.

The current elderly housing project being planned by the authority is for 40 units on Spencer St. The town and the Housing Authority own a total of about six acres on Spencer St. which has been allotted for elderly housing.

The first step necessary in applying for the funds is to contact the Department of Community Affairs.

Mastrangelo had not yet received the letter from Zinsser today, but said he thinks the suggestion is a good idea "and that the matter has not yet been brought before the authority. If possible, Mastrangelo said, Manchester would like to get the money.

'Bottle bill' to be topic

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a breakfast Wednesday which will include speakers with various viewpoints on the controversial "Bottle Bill."

The breakfast will be at the Colony Room of the Steak Out Restaurant, Rt. 83, Talcottville at 8 a.m. and will be followed by discussion from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

Three legislators, Rep. Francis J. Mahoney (D-13) Rep. Muriel Yacavone (D-9) and State Sen. David Barry (D-4) will present their views on the issue.

Two representatives from the Connecticut Beverage Advisory Committee will present a film and speak on the issue. Kathy Golas, chairman of the solid waste committee of the state League of Women Voters, will present views in favor of the bill.

The chamber is attempting to hear all representative views on the issue before they take an official stand, according to Suzanne Flöcken, Chamber executive vice-president.

The breakfast will be open to the public. Reservations should be made by Tuesday at the chamber offices, 646-2223.

Today's news summary

Compiled from United Press International

State

HARTFORD — Rep. John W. Anderson, D-Newtown, co-chairman of the Environment Committee, believes adoption of the controversial "bottle bill" would help, rather than hurt, the state's ailing bottling and brewing industry. He feels the no-deposit, no-return bottles were a key in enabling larger firms to put smaller firms out of business.

HARTFORD — The Connecticut Conference of Municipalities says the value of tax-exempt properties, like churches and state-owned buildings, has skyrocketed in recent years, representing a "crushing burden" on the state cities and towns.

WATERBURY — Susan Ridley Crone, 20, of Meriden has been crowned Connecticut's Miss Universe for 1977. She will represent the state at the Miss U.S.A. Pageant in Charleston, S. C. in May.

MILFORD — The Meadowside Elementary School was closed today because of a fire which broke out about 2 a.m. caused extensive damage. No injuries were reported. About 450 pupils are affected.

Regional

BOSTON — An extended weather outlook for New England from Wednesday through Friday calls for: Fair weather Wednesday and Thursday with highs in 30s and in the 40s Friday. Overnight lows in the teens Wednesday rising to the 20s and low 30s Thursday and Friday.

AUGUSTA, Maine — President Jimmy Carter plans to name a negotiator soon to try and reach a settlement between Maine and two Indian tribes claiming 12.5 millions acres of the state. The Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes contend the state illegally took their land in treaties dating back to 1790.

National

DETROIT — The trial of two Filipino nurses accused of poisoning hospital patients goes to court Tuesday but the government may be put on the defensive almost as much as the defendants because of tactics used by the FBI to the government's case.

TOLEDO, Ohio — Ice breakup, ice jamming and some flooding continues in northwest Ohio where eight ice fishermen were rescued unharmed from an ice flow in Lake Erie Sunday.

NEW YORK — Marian Anderson, who overcame racial bias to become an internationally famous renowned opera singer, was honored on her 75th birthday Sunday in a concert at Carnegie Hall attended by First Lady Rosalynn Carter. Miss Anderson now lives with her husband, Orpheus Fisher, on a farm in Danbury, Conn.

International

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — A bomb blast and shootings killed five persons and peace movement leaders warn that paramilitaries have stockpiled enough explosives to demolish Belfast.

WARSAW, Poland — Poland's Roman Catholic primate Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński is hospitalized but a church spokesman says the 75-year-old prelate is not seriously ill.

KHARTOUM, The Sudan — Egypt, Syria and the Sudan met today in a "historic" summit to forge a new alliance aimed at building up Arab power against Israel.

A little unseasonal fun

Only a few days ago, youngsters were skating at Charter Oak Park, but on Saturday afternoon the weather called for basketball in shirtsleeves. The players are John Kennedy, left, of 50 Woodside St., Dave Edward of 138 Glenwood Rd., and Dave Thomas of 114 Steep Hollow Lane. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Buckland item on PZC agenda

The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will conduct a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. today and may act on several pending matters, including two items connected with the proposed industrial park.

The PZC last month granted a change to Industrial Zone for most of the proposed park's property. The commission must also, however, grant a similar zone change for two small parcels of land that were not included in the first change.

The large zone change has been appealed and a court date is expected to be set soon for the appeal hearing.

A Feb. 7 hearing on the small zone change drew some opposition to the proposal. The PZC, which acts as the Island-Wetlands Agency, must also issue an island-wetlands permit for the park because water bodies within the park boundaries would be affected by the work.

The PZC may also act tonight on a Residence M Zone proposed for a acre tract on Parker St., near East St.

The M Zone has been requested by William B. Thornton, who has drawn up a plan for 56 single-family houses and 127 apartment units on the site.

Another proposal before the commission involves a change in the M Zone regulations to permit housing for the elderly and handicapped in the zone.

The request has been made by the Wesley Retirement Center, which plans to locate an elderly housing project on Hartford Rd.

Club to honor supreme officers

Manchester Emblem Club will honor officers of the Supreme Emblem Club of the United States Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Elks Home on Russell St.

Guests will include past supreme presidents and supreme officers who live in Connecticut. Members of clubs from throughout the state will also attend the event.

Mrs. George Maxwell and Mrs. Edward Bayles are co-chairpersons of the event. They are being assisted by Mrs. Alfred Ritter and Mrs. Alfred Ponticelli, Mrs. John Ziemka, Mrs. Frank Torres, Mrs. John Carson and Mrs. Ponticelli, theme and decorations: Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, Mildred Hawthorne, Gertrude Hawthorne, Julia Dolka and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, door prize.

Mrs. Joseph Larico will be in charge of the guest book. All past presidents of the local club will serve as hostesses after the meeting. refreshments will be served.

Do expectant fathers expand?

HARTFORD (UPI) — Do expectant fathers expand? A university of Connecticut study indicates they think they do.

Dr. Jacqueline Fawcett, an associate professor of nursing, says her study of 50 fathers-to-be showed they believe they grew larger as their pregnant wives put on weight.

The interviewed prospective parents several times during childbirth classes, telling each husband and wife to stand at the center of a 54-inch plastic circle on the floor.

The mat was divided into circles. The person was instructed to imagine himself or herself as a "transparent cylinder" and measure their body size by one of the circles on the floor.

She said the results showed husbands perceived they expanded during each successive month on their wives' pregnancy. Following childbirth, the men thought they had lost the extra flab.

Three die in fire in New Haven

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Three persons died and at least three others were injured early today in a downtown rooming house fire, authorities said.

The names of the dead and those hospitalized were not released, pending notification of next of kin. Two persons were admitted to St. Raphael's Hospital with second and third degree burns. A third person was admitted to Yale-New Haven Hospital.

Latin mass draws full house

HARTFORD (UPI) — Yearning for the old, the faithful braved pouring rain Sunday and filled St. Justus Church.

They celebrated a Roman Catholic Mass in traditional Latin, a practice abandoned one decade ago in favor of English readings.

The chapel was filled to standing-room-only capacity, with most celebrants middle-aged or older. Few of the women wore hats, as was required before the change, and many of the men dressed casually.

A white-haired woman leaned on the arm of a younger man and wept softly on her way back from communion.

The Rev. Henry Smolinski said in his sermon, churches have "dropped a lot of things that really weren't meant to be dropped." He said a restoration of "some of the old things" is appropriate in a time when the Church is calling for a renewal of faith.

ZBA hearings tonight

The Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct five public hearings tonight at its 7 o'clock meeting in the Municipal Building's Hearing Room.

Robert and Ann Marie Burney are seeking a special exception to use the premises at 728 N. Main St. for a child day care center and nursery school. The building is in a Residence A Zone.

Another hearing will be for a conversion of a single-family home into a two-family home, requested by Thomas P. Crockett. The house is located at 100 Florence St., which is in a Residence B Zone.

Crockett is seeking a special exception for the conversion and is asking for a variance on the lot size. He is also seeking a variance to use an accessory building to remain straddling the lot line.

Everett's Manchester Shell is seeking a special exception that would allow it to sell used cars at the 275 Main St. gasoline service station located in a Business II Zone.

Central Sign Co. Inc. is requesting a variance to erect a 25 square-foot free-standing sign at 509 Center St. The site is in a Business II Zone.

The first annual art and craft show exclusively for children was held Thursday at the Manchester Recreation Department, 110 Cedar St.

The show attracted a small crowd interested in encouraging children in the art and craft workshops held for children during the recreation department's art and craft workshops.

The art work consisted of watercolor painting, stick craft, and apple doll, puppets, a button picture, collages, and crayon drawings. Each child received a participation ribbon.

The children and parents who attended agreed that this type of non-competitive exhibit is a good way to encourage children in creative pursuits. Bea Sheffel spoke.

Neighborly beginning
It was of more than symbolic importance that the first foreign head of state to meet with President Carter in Washington was Mexico's new president, Jose Lopez Portillo. Each country has problems of overlapping concern to the other whose solutions demand far closer cooperation than has been the case in the recent past.

Mexico is a small country only in comparison to its giant northern neighbor. In area, population, natural resources and agricultural and industrial production, it ranks among the largest and richest and hardly fits the category of a "Third World" nation — although its former president, Luis Echeverria, attempted to cast it in the role of leader in the developing world, at the expense of relations with the U.S.

Mexico also has troubles in proportion to its size. Its inflation rate is three to four times that of the United States. Its economy is staggering under the heavy foreign debt and successive devaluations of the peso and its unemployment rate is serious. Even more ominous is its runaway birth rate: At the present four percent a year population growth, Mexico's 60 million people will double early in the next century.

Fortunately, Mexico also has immense potential, and it is encouraging that Lopez Portillo seems to have eschewed the ideological and nationalistic excesses of his predecessor for a more sober and businesslike approach to his office.

Cut down on hunts

The United States got out of the whale-hunting business and banned imports of whale products five years ago. So far, however, it has been unable to convince the 16-member International Whaling Commission to declare a 10-year moratorium on all whaling.

Actually, only two countries, the Soviet Union and Japan, still operate global whaling fleets. Both have cut the size of their fleets in recent years and no new whaling ships are being built.

Partly through U.S. efforts, the commission last June did lower the annual catch limit on whales to 27,939, a reduction of 6,000. But this doesn't mean much. The limit has been steadily lowered, yet has always been pegged well above the number of whales the whaling countries figured they could catch.

Fortunately, the new U.S. 200-mile fisheries limit that goes into effect in March will help protect declining whale populations, even though it was not planned that way, writes William Graves in the National Geographic. It will give this country jurisdiction over some of the world's richest fishing grounds.

And although the total ban urged by the United States still appears years away, whaling is declining and may eventually disappear with or without a push from the whaling commission. Whale-lovers hope it does before the whales do.

Dear Sir: How does one affirm the obvious? By acting responsibly on March 15th and voting in favor of the referendum on the bond issue for the proposed Manchester Industrial Park.

I seriously doubt that in recent years the voters of any community have been afforded a more extraordinary opportunity to take decisive action for their economic future and that of the generations to follow than will the voters of Manchester on March 15th. The J.C. Penney complex in the proposed Manchester Industrial Park represents precisely the type of new business activity

Litter is an educational problem

Editor's Note: In a recent article, Thomas L. King, of the National Wildlife Federation explained that his organization withdrew its support from Keep America Beautiful, Inc., because the KAB program involved "just picking up litter." This article is a response to that criticism.

By Roger W. Powers
The more than seven million residents of communities currently employing KAB's Clean Community System (CCS) know what the Keep America Beautiful program is.

As officials and citizen leaders in the certified CCS cities realize, the only way to control littering is to bring about a fundamental improvement in the waste-handling practices of the entire community. Early participants in the CCS have cut down on accumulated litter by as much as 70 per cent — and, after nearly two years, the trash has not returned. Other cities, more recently certified in CCS, are seeing the same trends develop.

Began in 1972
The Clean Community System is the result of an extensive action research project launched in 1972. With the help of behavioral scientists, KAB set out to identify the attitudes and habits which lie behind littering and to develop techniques to change them. The research was based on the psychological premise that most people tend to do what is considered "normal" at certain times and in certain situations, to act in ways that are expected and accepted and to follow the unwritten rules, the "norms" of behavior.

Loose refuse
Obviously, if you could dry up the major source of loose refuse, you would not only get rid of more than half the accumulated trash, but also cut sharply on activating the "norm" that it is O.K. to litter where litter already is.

That was the theory developed by KAB's research, a theory which was put to test in an action research project in three cities — Charlotte, N.C., Macon, Ga. and Tampa, Fla. — early in 1974. (Later that year, additional cities, in colder climates were included as research sites.) It worked. Not only did each of these cities achieve substantial, sustained reductions in litter accumulation, they also developed new habits of day-to-day cooperation between city government, business and the civic sector. They renewed public confidence in local government and the community's ability to deal with its February is motor vehicle registration month. Twenty-five years ago we didn't have to go to Hartford, or Waterbury, or to any other branch of the state Motor Vehicle Department to get our license plate inserts renewed; we got them right in Manchester at the State Armory.

Friends met friends while waiting for registration renewals; a lot of small-town chatter took place as motorists rushed in lines in the month.

It became the duty of a Herald staff member to daily get the number of inserts distributed that day; it became a daily reminder to motorists that their license plates would soon expire.

More often than not, this correspondent got the assignment of making the early-afternoon call at the State Armory. It usually was car registrations, and the CB Big Bear over at MVD took care of that problem.

Better get those inserts out of the brown envelope and put them on today; those plates expire at midnight.

for deciding how waste will be handled on both public and private property all too often seem to think, "That's not my job. Let the sanitation department take care of it." or "I've always run my operation this way. Why should I change now?"

Updating needed
The rest of us strengthen these norms by accepting them. Most shoppers wouldn't dream of telling the grocer that they are tired of walking through garbage that has blown from his uncovered cans, all over the parking lot. That would be "eccentric," not "normal." The mother who won't take her children to the park because it is knee-deep in trash and "You can't fight City Hall," is reinforcing all the other norms about littering by expecting to have to put up with loose trash.

Success noted
With the success of the CCS in the test cities, KAB, in early 1976, made the program available to communities across the country on a certification basis. If the attitudes and habits of an entire community contribute to the problem, then the entire community must be involved in changing them.

By the end of January 1977, 40 certified CCS cities were implementing the program. KAB's goal of 100 cities certified by the end of the year is being met through monthly project team training workshops in various parts of the country. CCS has been formally endorsed by the Georgia Municipal League, the Southern Legislative Conference of The Council of State Governments and the member organizations of Clean World International, representing 27 nations around the globe. In fact, CCS has such universal application that the Swiss are sending a project team to be trained by KAB in the spring.

More than picking up
"Just picking up litter?" Hardly. In changing the normative system which encourages littering, CCS not only brings about fundamental improvements in the ways in which a community handles its waste, it also brings about a fundamental improvement in a community's ability to handle other, more serious problems. As the co-Chairman of the Indianapolis Clean City Committee says, "Once people get the facts, once they understand it, you get the commitment. You can almost feel the difference."

Low blood sugar may mislead

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I have low blood sugar. My doctor tells me not to eat anything with sugar in it, including fresh fruit.

Note here that starch is just a combination of glucose molecules and when they are broken down they are really glucose sugar. Also note that whether the food is rapidly emptied by the stomach or not is important. Here is where many people slip up on food recommendations. A diet of bulky fruits — raw, unsweetened — can be eaten because they are emptied slowly, a little at a time, into the intestine and never cause a high concentration of sugars in the intestines.

Obviously neither fats nor proteins will increase the concentration of glucose in the small intestine and not trigger an overproduction of insulin or a faulty time release of insulin — hence no hypoglycemia attacks. That is why your doctor has advised you to avoid sweets and starches. To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 39, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. HUD ready to give $5 to 5 towns

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) says it is ready to hand over $2.5 million in federal funds to five suburban communities in Connecticut.

David Epstein, a HUD official, said Saturday his department has approved revised applications from West Hartford, Glastonbury, Enfield, Farmington and Vernon. The federal housing money will be used for community development.

At the request of the city of Hartford, U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Blumenfeld blocked the release of the federal money more than a year ago.

In January 1976, Blumenfeld issued an injunction against the HUD applications of West Hartford, Glastonbury, Enfield, Farmington, Vernon, East Hartford and Windsor Locks.

Blumenfeld said the applications were based on faulty statistics and the money could not be released until the suburbs submitted — and HUD approved — revised applications.

HUD now says five of the communities can receive the federal aid. Windsor Locks and East Hartford did not re-apply and therefore are not eligible for federal assistance.

Hartford officials, who are opposed to the original applications, have already indicated the new applications are satisfactory and they will not challenge them.

Inspecting Prospect St. accident scene

East Hartford police officer inspects scene of a one-car accident at about 8 p.m. Sunday on Prospect St. near Sterling Rd. The driver, Patricia A. Wallingford, 32, of 10 Emily St., East Hartford, told police she was heading north on the mist-filled street when she saw an oncoming car in the middle of the road. She veered to the right and struck this pole. She was taken by ambulance with her passenger, Douglas Wallingford, to Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was treated and admitted, and was in satisfactory condition this morning. Her passenger was treated for facial injuries and released. No arrests were made. (Photo by Earl Chastain)

East Hartford

A robbery with a sawed-off shotgun Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the Devonau Shell Service Station at 405 Ellington Rd. netted two thieves $103 in cash, East Hartford police said.

The young male attendant alone in the station said a black female and a Puerto Rican male entered. She asked him for change for the phone. He gave it to her and went to show her the phone.

She went to the phone but when he returned back, he found himself looking down the barrel of the shotgun. He was taken to the station and released.

The attendant said he was given $70 from the register, he said. They also took $25 cash belonging to the attendant, he said.

Ellington

Danny Davis of Union St., Rockville, was treated and released at Rockville General Hospital Friday night for a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the chest.

Police charged Johnson with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny. He was released on $500 cash bond for court appearance March 21.

Tools valued at over $300 were found in a field behind the store.

Rockville

Police responded to an alarm today at 12:33 a.m. at the Cumberland Farms store at 241 Silver Lane, East Hartford, and found footprints leading away from the store.

Officers followed the footprints through backyards for about one-eighth of a mile to a porch on Martin Cleary Jr., 38, of Waterdown.

Police said they found Cleary's car on Whitney St. nearby. It contained items taken from the store as well as items missing from the M & M Texaco station, 1475 Silver Lane, which police discovered at 12:32 a.m. had also been broken into, police said.

Vernon

Police responded to an alarm today at 12:33 a.m. at the Cumberland Farms store at 241 Silver Lane, East Hartford, and found footprints leading away from the store.

Officers followed the footprints through backyards for about one-eighth of a mile to a porch on Martin Cleary Jr., 38, of Waterdown.

Police said they found Cleary's car on Whitney St. nearby. It contained items taken from the store as well as items missing from the M & M Texaco station, 1475 Silver Lane, which police discovered at 12:32 a.m. had also been broken into, police said.

A set of businesses at 1217 Burnside Ave. were broken into and each place ransacked, although nothing appears to be missing. They were the Powder Puff Beauty Salon, the office of Ness Inc. and the office of Truck Appraisal Service.

Two house breaks in the 900 block area of Tolland St. took place Friday. In both cases, entry was made through a rear porch. Missing was $40 from one house and a clock and carphones from the other.

Art's Snacco station at 1534 Main St. was broken into Saturday night and a set of tires valued at $134 taken.

A set of businesses at 1217 Burnside Ave. were broken into and each place ransacked, although nothing appears to be missing. They were the Powder Puff Beauty Salon, the office of Ness Inc. and the office of Truck Appraisal Service.

Police said it is believed that David and his brother, Ronald, 14, were attempting to make rojak fuel when it ignited and David's pajamas caught on fire.

Police said the flames on the boy were extinguished by his mother. The home suffered minor smoke damage. The Vernon Fire Rescue Squad administered first aid to the boys.

James Walker, 17, of 95 Diane Dr., Vernon, was charged Sunday with fourth-degree larceny. The complaint was made by Caldor at his home. He was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, March 23.

Killian enters council contest

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

"A tradition of public service runs in our family," says David J. Killian. Killian is the newest candidate for the seat on the East Hartford Town Council vacated by the Jan. 23 death of Councilwoman Odessa Terry.

For the first weeks after her death, while black bunting hung from the portals of Town Hall, little public discussion was made of the vacancy. The council did not even name a committee to study a replacement.

But last week, activity picked up. Candidates include former councilman Albin C. Anderson, planning and hearing contractor Joseph Paquette, and Burnside School teacher Patricia McCabe.

One of the nine Democratic Party Democratic Town Committee at its March meeting.

The fourth district followed suit on Thursday.

Killian said he has held talks with seven of the nine district chairmen and believes he now has enough support to win the endorsement of the Democratic Town Committee at its March meeting.

Killian, 54, of 66 Briarwood Lane, said his father was deep into politics in Hartford.

"Our house was always a party committee room," he said.

His brother, Robert Killian, is the state's lieutenant governor.

Killian is a production engineer with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, where he has worked for 26 years.

He moved with his family to East Hartford 11 years ago and almost immediately joined his district's committee. A few years later he joined the town committee and is now its secretary.

He helped found the Catholic Interracial Council and has spent a good deal of time in social action and human rights efforts.

He said he wants the unpaid council seat to repay the town which helped him raise his six children. He said his taxes have been about $600 to $800 a year, far below the cost of just the education his children have received.

He certainly owes the town a few hours of my time," he said about the long hours most council members devote to the job.

One of his six children is still in local schools as a freshman at Penney High School and another, David Killian Jr., is an officer on the local police force.

Lions ask okay for fair

The Lions Club will ask the Town Council Tuesday night to set a public hearing for its request to hold a carnival May 24 to 30.

The Lions propose to hold their fair this year at the shopping plaza at 407 Main St., East Hartford, where Warehouse Foods is located.

Coleman Brothers Shows Inc. of Middletown will run the show, expected to be as big as the one held by the Lions in 1976.

In other business on the council's Tuesday agenda, Mayor Richard Blackstone will ask the council to authorize a combined corridor design and open space hearing for the I-94 to I-86 connector to be March 30 at the East Hartford High School at 7:30 p.m.

The offer from Superior Hardware and Supply Inc. of 17 Sawka Dr. to sell the town 25 acres of land off Long Hill St. next to town land and near the town golf course will also be discussed. Violette E. Ravalese, vice president of the firm, would the council the land is for sale.

Charity ball scheduled

The Italian Ladies Club of East Hartford is sponsoring its annual Charity Ball Saturday at the club hall on Tolland St.

It is titled "Primavera Dinner Dance" and all net proceeds will go towards the Hartford Hospital Diabetic Fund.

Council to discuss agenda for meeting

Coventry
The Coventry Town Council will hold a special meeting tonight at 9 at Town Hall to set dates for two special Town Meetings before the Annual Town Meeting in May.

The Council will discuss items for one of the Town Meetings tonight. On the agenda is a shortage in the town's snow removal account and increased insurance rates.

Items for the second Town Meeting, which will allocate federal revenue sharing funds received in January, will be discussed later because this issue requires a public hearing before the Town Meeting.

FISH seeks input
Coventry FISH adjourned its annual meeting last week until March 30 so it could seek public feeling on the effect on FISH of the new Dia-A-Ride service, a federally funded program for elderly and handicapped persons in the Willimantic area.

Since September, there has been a reduction in calls to FISH, which also provides rides for Coventry residents. Officers of the local group have questioned the need to continue ride operations, which cost $45 a month.

"It is ironic that for the first six years of our operation we worked with very limited funds but had numerous service calls," FISH Coordinator Rose Fowler said. "Now, due to our successful Christmas Wish campaign, we have the funds to operate effectively but we have very few calls."

Persons with comments about continuation of the FISH service should call Rose Fowler or Elma Kusnick, or attend the March 30 meeting at the Town Hall.

Appeals board reduces Coventry's Grand List

Coventry's Net Grand List is now $45,629,010 as the result of last week's revision which cut the original figure by $17,590.

There were 15 citizen complaints about tax assessments. The Board of Tax Review reviewed the appeals, looked at the properties and made these decisions:

- Margaret Tirrell, Woodland Rd., complained that her property was assessed as lakefront property, but the low lake level created a peninsula of land in front of her house instead of water. The board agreed and reduced the assessment to that of a road front property.
- Patricia Putnam, Merrill Rd., complained that front acreage of her 12.7 acres was unbuildable. The board reduced the assessment for that reason but also added another assessment when it discovered another outcrop on the property.
- Robert and Harriet Mead, Rt. 31, complained that their property was overvalued. The board agreed and allowed a greater depreciation allowance.
- Revision to assessments based on arguments about wetlands were:
 - Carl Stetson, South St., was allowed a greater depreciation on several lake acres.
 - Zoletie Vinton was allowed greater depreciation on five acres on Rt. 31.
 - Louis Lucier, Daly Rd., was given the increased depreciation for his lot.
 - Arnold Carlson, Standish Rd., was given a similar depreciation allowance.

The Board of Tax Review also approved several assessor's changes and voted for no change on complaints made by Douglas Whipple, Patricia Pease, George Roofs and Shirley Mogelicki.

South Windsor chief returns to police post

South Windsor Police Chief John J. Kerrigan returned to his office at Town Hall today following a lengthy absence because of illness.

Kerrigan was hospitalized with a heart ailment on Nov. 19.

The chief is expected to spend only half days at the Town Hall at first, however, and eventually work back in to his full-day schedule.

Rehearsals begin
Rehearsals of the South Windsor Community Chorus to prepare for its Annual Spring Concert will begin tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 at Timothy Edwards School Music Room.

This is an 85-voice chorus representing South Windsor and surrounding communities, and is directed by Roberta Reeves.

Anyone interested in joining the chorus is invited to come to the first rehearsal, which is necessary. For information, call Ms. Reeves, 644-0040.

Andover Grange seeks vote on Old Town Hall

Members of the Andover Grange and their friends are circulating a petition asking the Board of Selectmen to call a Town Meeting and referendum to let townpeople decide whether to appropriate money to renovate the Old Town Hall.

The fate of the building has been uncertain for some time. A study committee, appointed by the selectmen in 1976, estimated it would cost about $20,000 to renovate the building.

Neither the selectmen nor the Board of Finance pursued the matter. The selectmen felt it would be better to wait until the school building committee completed its study on an addition to Andover Elementary School.

Grange members and their friends, however, decided not to wait any longer. They want townpeople to decide whether something should be done.

One grange member said this morning the response to the petition has been "absolutely fantastic."

Unique project Palm Sunday is date to start on housing

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Ground will be broken for the Welles Country Village on Palm Sunday (April 4) and it is hoped to have the housing for the elderly ready by next winter.

The village will become Vernon's first privately developed senior housing project. Zoning provisions for such a complex were approved about a year ago.

Earlier this month, the Planning Commission approved plans for a drainage system for the complex, which will be built on some 30 acres of land in Talcottville.

Directors of Welles Country Village Ltd. explained the housing units and answered questions of about 70 persons attending a meeting at Talcottville Congregational Church Sunday.

The project is backed by the New Samaritan Corporation, the housing arm of the United Church of Christ. It will be built with a mortgage from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Franklin Welles, who owned the land on which the units will be constructed, is president of the board. He, and the Rev. Kenneth Knox, pastor of Talcottville Church, spoke and answered questions at Sunday's meeting.

The village will consist of 100 units of one-bedroom independent apartment units and up to 80 units of cooperative housing.

"The village is being built to provide a better environment for independent living for older adults and handicapped persons," brochures say.

Welles proposed the village a few years ago after visiting a similar project in Ohio.

There are three types of apartments but all only have one bedroom. Two types will contain 940 square feet and the other, 860 square feet. The basic difference is the layout. They all have a kitchen, pantry, bath, bedroom, living-dining room combination and storage space.

Each apartment will be furnished with a range, refrigerator, wall-to-wall carpeting, tub-shower combination with safety facilities, individual thermostats, a direct alarm to emergency services, connection to a master TV antenna, and easy access to a laundry on each floor. There will be a connection for air conditioners in each apartment.

The apartments will be available to families of two or more persons or a single person who is 62 or older or handicapped. In the case of two or more persons, the head of the family or the spouse must be 62 or older or handicapped.

Rent will be $350 a month. This includes heat, lights, and maintenance. Welles said some persons may be eligible for housing assistance and Elderly Housing Management will assist them in determining this.

It was explained that income limits vary from time to time and there is an asset test which has to be met. In a single household, if a person qualifies and makes less than $5,000 a year, he will pay 15 per cent of income for rent. If the person makes between $5,000 and $6,200, they will pay 25 per cent of income for rent. For a two-person household earning less than $6,000 a year, rent would be 15 per cent of the income. If income is at least $6,000 but less than $10,000, it would be 25 per cent for rent.

The village will also have hobby and craft rooms, a community hall for social programs, open space for walks and gardens and a full range of activities for residents.

The cooperative units will have one-bedroom and two-bedroom units. The one-bedroom units will cost about $30,000, but full plans haven't been completed for these.

Ownership of these units will be by the non-profit cooperative corporation and each member will own stock in the living room. The one-bedroom units will consist of 800 square feet with one and one-half baths.

Although official application forms are not available yet, names have been taken from persons interested. Welles said that 50 persons have signed up for the rental units and 30 for the co-ops, up to the time of the meeting. More names were being taken Sunday.

Besides Welles, other officers of the board are Thomas Burgess, vice president, and Linda Kidney, treasurer and secretary. Board members are Howard B. Noble, Douglas E. Hayes, Alice Hammar, Arthur Higgins and Frederick Winkley.

MACC news

The Division of Special Ministries is sponsoring a Christian Singles Group for divorced, separated, widowed and never married people in the Manchester area. A get-acquainted meeting was held at Concordia Lutheran Friday morning.

If you would like further information please call Barbara Baker at Concordia, 649-9049. At the present time, the group is meeting to get to know one another, share needs, ideas, and common experiences and develop a program particularly suited to the single Christian.

Another volunteer new to the conference is Lillian Fitzsimmons, whom many of you will remember for her years as receptionist at The Herald. As the new coordinator of "Today's Thought," a religious message written by area clergy and laid and appearing daily in The Herald, Lt will be responsible for scheduling writers, sending reminders and monitoring the materials.

We would remind you to turn your dial to WHP while eating breakfast, if you a real early bird or driving to work, for the 6:10 morning message. "Look Up!" is a brief moment, sharing words of hope, strength and inspiration at the beginning of each day. Clergy who will be sharing the "Good News" with us during the next weeks are the Rev. Dr. James McLaughlin, the Rev. Charles Kuhl, Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Reardon, and the Rev. Stephen Jacobson. Start your day with an upbeat! World Day of Prayer.

All women of the community are invited to join together Friday in World Day of Prayer, celebrated around the world by men and women of every nation and every denomination. A fellowship time and luncheon will begin at noon at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 41 Park St. Bring a sandwich. Pie and coffee will be served by Church Women United.

Following lunch, we will share a worship service, "Love In Action," written this year by the Christian Women of the German Democratic Republic. The Rev. Barbara West will be guest speaker. Free baby-sitting is provided during both the luncheon and the World Day of Prayer Service. Bring a sandwich for your little one. Juice will be provided.

Reminder: We are still in dire need of decent housing for a number of Manchester families. Please contact the MACC office 649-2093 if you have an apartment suitable for a family with three children or a first-floor apartment for a handicapped man and his wife.

Comment session Tuesday

The Board of Directors will conduct a public comment session Tuesday, March 1 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the directors' office in the Municipal Building.

The session offers Manchester residents a chance to make suggestions and comments about the town. The sessions are held the first Tuesday of each month from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and the third Thursday of each month from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Crawford singles NETS champion

Teams with Bray for doubles title

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor

Tall, handsome and talented Dick Crawford had a profitable three-day stay in Manchester over the weekend and left town with a check for $500 on his ability as a tennis player.

The 27-year-old, 6-1, 180-pound bachelorette out of Weston, Mass., defeated Jim Ratliff of Greenwich in straight sets in the singles finals, 6-2, 6-3, and then teamed with sticky Rich Bray of Woodbridge to add the doubles crown, also in straight sets, against the challenge of John Mayotte of Pittsfield and Ratliff, 7-6, 6-4. Crawford and Bray were top seeds.

Play was the third leg of the 10-city 1977 New England Tennis Stars (NETS) $20,000 CBS Sports-Yamaha Grand Prix circuit with $2,000 in prize money being offered here.

Crawford, who will leave shortly for a 12 tournament swing in Europe, won $50 for his singles effort and $150 as his share of the top prize in doubles.

Attendance was excellent at the Manchester Racquet Club with the biggest winner the Manchester Memorial Hospital Development Fund. The total realized was not announced.

The singles finals brought together two former Southern college stars. Crawford, out of the University of North Carolina, relied on a booming serve to whip the one-time University of Virginia player with the cat-like moves.

Crawford was the only seed to reach the money match. Top-seeded Bill Drake had to default to Crawford after suffering a foot injury Saturday. Drake won the first two NETS titles this year. Second seeded Bailey Brown had to retire in his quarter-final match with Ratliff when he became dizzy.

The third seeded Crawford lost in the finals to Drake in the first NETS event in January but he was on top throughout after starting off with a double fault in his first serve.

Ratliff, a finalist for the first time in the three-year history of NETS, gave his best but was repeatedly out-bid and outsmarted by his more experienced opponent who has been in Forest Hills play.

Coming off an elbow and knee injury, Crawford showed no ill effects. Beautifully placed baseline and drops shots made up his repertoire. Ratliff, who admitted being tired after a tough match against Bray, never stopped trying but he could not duplicate his great first round effort Friday night when he whipped popular Ted Hoehn.

The doubles success was the second in three tries for the Crawford-Bray combo. Bray, a former University of Miami standout, completed the regional journey to the national title by winning the first point via a 15-point tie-breaker, 7-5, really turned it on in the next game to send the excellent crowd home to early dinner.

Champ wanted Drake

"I wanted to meet (Bill) Drake here. That was my only disappointment," dark-haired Doug Crawford said as he unclipped his tennis shoes yesterday afternoon in the Manchester Racquet Club lockerroom after winning the New England Tennis Stars Singles Tournament.

"Drake beat me in Wayland (6-4, 6-3) and I wanted a second chance at him," Crawford added.

Drake, the No. 1 seed, was forced to the sidelines with a foot injury after the quarterfinals. He was slated to play Crawford in the semis but had to default.

Crawford, who whipped Jim Ratliff, 6-2, 6-3, may not get a chance to play Drake this season on the remaining seven NETS stops.

This week he'll be in Virginia and next week in Washington for two tournaments and then off to Europe for 12 tournaments.

A full-time tennis playing pro, and still a bachelor, Crawford said he was guaranteed between $300 and $400 for each of the dozen events in Europe.

"I don't feel that I'll have to worry about finances. I expect to make enough money," he said.

"I'm playing better tennis all the time," the 27-year-old added.

DOUG CRAWFORD

One local winner

Manchester had one winner among the contestants, amateur John Barton, of the Pop Shoppe, teamed with pro John Mayotte to win the popular Pro-Am, 8-3, over the team of Ted Hoehn and Bob Barber. The tourney almost didn't get started on time Friday. Early arrivals at the Racquet Club found water from the sudden overnight thaw covering all four courts on the north side. Dr. Martin Duke, long a top-flight player and ex-town champ, was busy administering to several players who became ill. The list included Bill Cashman, Bill Drake and Bailey Brown. The latter reported he will not be back with the Boston Lobsters in World Team Tennis play this season. Pretty Kate Molanphy, 11, one of the top young players in the membership, "won" her Challenge Match against pro John Mayotte and Scotty Gottlieb had the same success against Ted Hoehn. Hoehn and Bailey Brown rate an A-plus for the excellent free clinic staged Friday afternoon at their interest.

Volleys and serves

"Doubles is my game," Jim Ratliff said after losing to Doug Crawford in the singles finals yesterday. "I was very tired. I took four showers before the match to try and loosen up. My legs are tired." Singles finals referee Jim Sullivan of Boston, the man with the booming voice and specially designed tennis sport coat, has been calling matches for 26 years. He added much to the weekend. "Just one man's opinion: The best matches were Friday night. Attendance held up well, far exceeding expectations of the NETS' organization... If the Manchester

UConn quintet 'in'

STORRS (UPI) — The University of Connecticut and Fairfield University have been picked to compete in the Eastern College Athletic Conference's New England basketball playoffs.

The announcement came Sunday on the heels of UConn's 80-70 Friday night victory over the Rhode Island. The UConn Huskies, currently 15-9, won last year's playoff. Fairfield is 16-8 this year.

CCIL playoffs tonight

The concluding games, consolations and finals, in the CCIL playoffs, are on tap tonight at Manchester High's Clarke Arena.

In the 6:30 opener it will host 13-8 Manchester 16-5 Penney High of East Hartford faces 14-7 Windham High. Penney beat Wethersfield, 75-72, and Windham nipped Manchester, 52-50, in the finals.

Manchester and Wethersfield split during the regular season with the Indians winning the first, 55-35, and the Eagles taking a 63-57 verdict. Penney gained the upper hand twice on Windham, 70-68 and 74-63.

Whalers top Jets

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (UPI) — The Whalers ended their four-game road trip Sunday night with a 3-2 victory over the Winnipeg Jets in World Hockey Association play.

"It was an enormous win for us," said Whalers' coach Harry Neale. "It couldn't have come at a better time. It puts the heat right on Birmingham."

The Whalers, in the race for the final playoff spot in the WHA Eastern Division, are now five points ahead of fifth-place Birmingham, which beat Edmonton 4-0 Sunday night.

New England got off to a 1-0 lead when Larry Pleas scored the first goal at only 1:35. Peter Sullivan evened the score for the Jets at 19:08 and then pulled his team ahead at 16:42, making the tally 2-1.

Entering the final period, the Whalers lagged behind until Mike Rogers scored at 2:13 and Tom Webster came through at 12:40 to edge the Jets 3-2.

Racquet completely covers face of ball boy

Ever watch a basketball game and know, from the start, one team was going to win and probably could pick the final score?

That's what it appeared like Saturday as East Catholic toyed with St. Paul and wound up with an unwanted 81-57 victory in the consolation tilt of the HCC playoff at the University of Hartford.

The championship game, where the Eagles would've preferred to be, went to South Catholic over St. Thomas Aquinas, 106-83. It was the Rebels' second straight HCC crown.

There's not much consolation in a consolation game victory but "it is a game," stated East coach Stan Ogrudnik, "and you should have enough pride to play it. To win it there's nothing tangible but we could've come in here flat but we weren't."

East, now 16-6, tallied the first 12 points, six by Gary Carlson, before the Falcons found their way onto the scoreboard at the 3:33 mark. The Eagles led at the turn, 20-9, and after leading by as many as 15 points early in the second stanza, grasped a 34-22 halftime edge.

St. Paul, which finishes 9-13 and in the throes of a six-game downswing, came within eight, 36-28, with just over a minute gone in the third quarter but a three-point play by Carlson pulled East out of the danger area.

It was all downhill the rest of the way for the Falcons as East racked up 31 points in the final period.

Carlson, who is heading for Assumption College in the fall on a four-year scholarship, paced the Eagles with a career-high 27 points. With the production, the 6-6 senior is captain and was named MVP of the No. 5 spot on the all-time East scoring list with 666 points.

Mark Dumais, in another steady performance, had 14 points and 11 assists. He, along with St. Paul's John Burke, Aquinas' Rod Foster and South's John Pinone and Paul Merca, was named to the all-journey team. South's Steve Ayers was tournament most valuable player.

Jon Lindberg had 13 points to make it three Eagles in double figures while Burke and Bob Tanguay each had 14 points for St. Paul.

Mattatuck repeats win in CCCAA hoop play

By DAVE ROBACK
Correspondent

If one is a lonely number then Mattatuck Community College's women's basketball team doesn't believe in it as it repeated as CCCAA hoop champions for a second straight year with a 66-68 decision over Manchester Community College Saturday night at Plainville High.

The loss drops the Cougars to 6-10 with the season finale tonight in New London against Connecticut College.

The game seemed to evolve slowly with neither side gaining control due to a large number of turnovers. After taking the first two and-a-half minutes to get rid of the jitters, Mattatuck relied on its outside attack to go out in front, 6-2.

Fouls and turnovers hampered MCC's play as it fell behind, 24-10. But a variety of shots by Ginny Petersen, Sally Lentocha, Bonnie Kilgore and Betsy Mayshar in a three-minute span cut the deficit to 28-19. It was 32-21 Mattatuck at the half.

Strong outside shooting early in the second half by Elysa Johnson, Petersen and Mayshar brought the Cougars to a 36-29 deficit. But that was the closest MCC would come as Pat Mango and Tami Chapman

Hayes proud of coverage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets is proud National Basketball Association rivals think it takes three men and a boy to keep him in check.

"I'm 6-9 and I'm getting double and triple-teamed all the time," said Hayes Sunday after his 40 points and 17-103 victory over the Buffalo Braves. "Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sometimes has only one guy guarding him."

Hayes scored 31 points in the final 1/2 minutes, capping a game which he also pulled down 14 rebounds for the NBA's Phil Chenier leading the Bulls to a 117-103 victory over the Buffalo Braves. "Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sometimes has only one guy guarding him."

North Carolina set, feels it rates NCAA bid

NEW YORK (UPI) — As far as North Carolina is concerned, it shouldn't matter what happens in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament. And, after what happened last weekend, it probably won't.

"I feel we deserve an NCAA bid," North Carolina Coach Dean Smith said after his team's 87-77 victory over North Carolina State Sunday afternoon in Charlotte, N.C., in a nationally televised game.

The victory gave North Carolina a 24-2 record and came one day after the Tar Heels clinched their second straight Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship. This is the 11th straight year in which the Tar Heels have finished first or second in the ACC standings.

North Carolina beat Duke, 84-71, on Saturday to finish 8-3 in the ACC, then won the title later that night when North Carolina State handed No. 9 Wake Forest its fourth consecutive loss.

The winner of the ACC tournament, which begins Thursday in Greensboro, N.C., receives a spot in the East Region.

Phil Ford and Mike O'Konecny scored 26 points Sunday as North Carolina built a 57-48 lead in the final 14 minutes of the game. Ford scored 14 points, including a 37-33 lead with 7:55 to go in the half by out-scoring the Cardinals, 18-2.

Jack Nicklaus silences foes

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — These youngsters who have been staging a tour takeover the last two months might have to wait a year or two more after all.

Tom Purtzer, Rick Massengale and Bruce Lietzke were served notice at the Jackie Gleason Invitational Golf Classic that Jack Nicklaus is still very much around and so is Gary Player. Lee Trevino also let it be known that he won't be long before he's back on top.

Nicklaus holed a 32-foot putt for an eagle three on the 15th hole Sunday to win the $90,000 first prize in the Florida event on the PGA tour.

Nicklaus had a 70 Sunday for 72-hole total of 278, five shots better than Player, who finished second after shooting 73 Sunday.

Trevino, playing his first tournament since major back surgery last November, skied to a 79 Sunday, but a 69 and a 71 on Friday and Saturday showed he can't be counted out. He finished way back in the pack with 284.

Purtzer, who won at Los Angeles last week, missed the cut. Massengale, who won the Bob Hope Desert Classic the previous week, shot a 69-290.

Lietzke took this week off to spend time with his aging father in Beaumont, Tex. The win his other winning this year, Tom Watson, finished with 72-288, 15 strokes behind Nicklaus.

Nicklaus has a theory on why so many young players seem to storm the gates early in the year and then fade out of sight.

"I think that it's difficult to do," he said Sunday. "But her protests sounded a little less emphatic as she wound up a three-week swing through Florida with me Sunday that was the last year. I said it would be difficult for any one player to win more than six."

"But," she said, "we can always win a little more." While most of the golfers complained about the gusts of wind, up to 30 miles an hour along the 6,124-yard stretch, it was the wind that helped Nicklaus.

"I'm able to work the ball both ways," he said. "I'm able to use the wind to my advantage."

PHIL VALENTINE LOSS IN 17 POINTS TO LEAD CONCORDIA LUTHERAN TO A 53-35 WIN OVER CENTER CONGREGATIONAL SATURDAY NIGHT AT HILLING. MATT GILHOUSKY HAD 14 POINTS FOR CENTER.

RECK HEDDING HAD EIGHT POINTS AND EMANUEL HARTFORD TO A 38-35 WIN OVER EMANUEL OF MANCHESTER, WHICH WAS LED BY JOHN ANDERSON'S 13 MARKERS.

DAVE ROBERTS NEEDED 19 POINTS, DAVE ABBOTT 13 AND KURT VAN HOE 10 AS SOUTH METHODIST DOWNED TRINITY COVENANT, 52-45. JOHN JOHNSON HAD 13 POINTS, MAURICE GODIN 12 AND ORZIE JOHNSON 10 FOR TRINITY.

STANDINGS: WAPPING 49, South Methodist 41, Concordia 5-1, Trinity 5-1, Fairb. Lutheran 3-2, St. Mary's 2-3, Emanuel 1-4, Hartford 2-4, Center 1-5, Emanuel of Manchester 1-7, Temple Beth Shalom 1-7.

Two die

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Authorities are investigating the cause of a fire which claimed the lives of a 15-month-old boy and his uncle in their apartment. Fire officials say the blaze apparently began near a living room couch, gutting the room, and filled the rest of the apartment with smoke. The youngster, Jamie Drakeford, died in the flames Saturday night. His uncle, Samuel Wilson, 22, died Sunday at Bridgeport Hospital from serious burns.

Manchester police report

Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car accident on S. Main St., near Line St., about 12:03 a.m. Sunday.

Robert C. Rusconi, 35, of 53 Battista Rd. and June Rusconi, 28, of the same address, were transported to Manchester Memorial Hospital by ambulance after their car collided with one driven by Robert A. Stewart III, 26, of Glastonbury. Stewart received no injuries. The Rusconis suffered various bruises and were discharged from the hospital. Police said the Stewart vehicle, traveling north on S. Main St. skidded across the center line and, because of icy road conditions, the Rusconi vehicle, traveling south, could not stop in time to avoid the collision. Both cars sustained front end damage and were towed from the scene. No charges were made. In another accident Saturday about 2:30 p.m., Russell L. Smith, 12, was injured when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car on Hilliard St. Smith was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital by the driver of the vehicle, Everett E. Newton Jr., 28, of 546 Hilliard St. Smith was treated for lacerations of the face and head and discharged. Police said the Newton vehicle struck the rear wheel of Smith's bicycle when Smith was crossing Hilliard St.

Seven graduation rings valued at $501 were reported stolen from the Manchester Community College bookstore. The theft occurred sometime between 10 a.m. Thursday and 10 a.m. Friday, police said.

An undetermined amount of wood was reported cut down from trees on land on the north side of Keeney St.

Stanley Shamonis, 47, of no certain address, was charged with fourth-degree larceny, (shoplifting) Saturday after an incident was reported at King's Department Store. He was released on a $100 cash bond for court March 14.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our beloved mother and grandmother, Esther S. Silverstein, who passed away February 28th, 1969.
We often sit and think of you
And think of how you died.
To think you couldn't say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
The blow was hard, the death severe
We never thought your death so near,
We called you home and gave you rest
We knew on earth, you did your best.
Children and Grandchildren

In Memoriam
In loving memory of my wife, Nettie, who passed away February 28th, 1969.
Someone remembers and someone cares,
Your name is whispered in my prayers,
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere,
How often I wish you were here.
Safely missed,
By husband
Alphonse Reiss
