

Buckland park development set by plan

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Any firm interested in becoming a tenant in Manchester's industrial park would have to meet regulations for the park that are detailed in the project plan.

The 17-page section of park regulations was written primarily by a subcommittee of the Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC). Neighbors of the park and the J.C. Penney Co., which plans to locate a two million square foot catalog distribution center in the park, had some input into the regulations.

Landscaping, lighting, and land usage are among the items that are detailed.

The regulations were developed to set standards that must be followed by all occupants of the park. Thus, the town will have control over the layout of the park and the types of businesses that will locate within it.

The land to be used for development in the 393-acre park must be zoned industrial for the park to develop. (A zone change to industrial, granted by the Planning and Zoning Commission, has been appealed.)

Some uses normally permitted in an Industrial Zone, such as heavy manufacturing or bulk oil storage, will not be allowed in the industrial park.

Uses allowed in the park will include light manufacturing and warehousing.

The rules prohibit rubbish accumulation in the park and any activity that would be "offensive" for any of a variety of reasons, including odor, smoke, noise, or dust.

More specific regulations include a rule prohibiting a firm's building from covering more than one-third of its property. The J.C. Penney Co., for instance, is expected to buy a 160-acre parcel, and its center will occupy 47 acres.

A firm's parking area also should not exceed one-third of its property.

The remaining open space is not to be used for building development, but may include rail lines, roadways or underground utilities.

Neighbors of the park were concerned about lighting and landscaping of the park. A 30-foot limit on lighting structures was asked for by the neighbors and included in the plan. Lights are also to be shielded to eliminate the possibility of bothering nearby residents.

Landscaping should include ground cover and trees or shrubs. The planting is expected to be done within 90 days of occupancy or completion of the building, whenever possible.

This planting, should be done during the periods of Aug. 15 to Nov. 15 or April 15 to June 15, considering the best planting seasons.

Other regulations for the park include:

- Buildings in the park must have the same exterior design on all sides. This prevents a building from having a nice-looking front side, but poor-looking sides and rear design.
- The minimum plot size will be two acres.
- All on-site transmission lines, except for existing high-voltage power lines, will be underground.
- No structure shall be built within 50 feet of the park boundaries or within 150 feet of an existing residence.

• At least two per cent of a parking lot's area must consist of islands to direct traffic flow.

• Free standing signs can be no larger than 450 square feet. A firm will be permitted 30 square feet of sign for every 100 feet of street frontage.

The EDC will have to approve a firm's plot layout before any construction on the site will be permitted. Once development begins, the town's zoning enforcement officer, or anyone else appointed by the town manager, will have enforcement power to ensure that the regulations are being followed.

The weather

Mostly sunny today, high 55-60. Clear tonight, low in upper 20s and low 30s. Sunny, breezy and a little milder Wednesday with high in upper 40s or low 50s. Zero chance of precipitation through Wednesday. National weather forecast map on Page 11.

Taking advantage or pre-spring

When the weather is right, you rush the season for March is a fickle month and while the weather the past few days have been a pleasant contrast to some of the winter days just past, Doreen Downham, of 76 Foster St. and Kathy Moon, right, of 43 Pearl St. sharpened up on their badminton so they'll be ready when lawns have greened up for a more orthodox game. The forecast is for continued mild weather but remember if March comes in like a lamb, it goes out like a lion. (Herald photo by Dunn)

State

HARTFORD — A proposed moratorium on liquor store permits, while a legislative study of the liquor industry is conducted, has been called an effort to further reduce competition by Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers, leading advocate of the effort to repeal liquor minimum pricing laws.

HARTFORD — The Program Review and Investigations Committee Monday embarked on the long road to reform of Connecticut's higher education system by approving a proposal calling for a new board of higher education with broad budget and planning powers.

NEW HAVEN — An 11-year-old girl in critical condition at Yale New Haven Hospital is the fourth person in Connecticut this year suffering from Reye's Syndrome, a noncontagious but sometimes fatal, disease affecting youngsters between 6 and 14.

Regional

BOSTON — When city officials decided to crackdown on the collection of unpaid parking tickets, they found the government is its own worst enemy. Drivers of government vehicles accumulated 15,000 tickets for the first 11 months of 1976, good for $127,585 in fines, the Boston Globe reported today. The federal government was the No. 1 culprit.

PEABODY, Mass. — Former President Gerald Ford will address the Ski Industries America annual trade show March 18 at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

BOSTON — Leo J. Nolin, sentenced to live in prison 50 years ago for shooting a grocery store owner to death, is asking the Massachusetts Supreme Court for a new trial. If the high court agrees, the 74-year-old Nolin will probably go free since no transcript exists of his 1927 trial and both key witnesses in the case are dead.

National

WASHINGTON — American troops, "the only readily integrated military units" in the world, might be used as part of a U. N. peace-keeping force in Rhodesia, U. N. Ambassador Andrew Young said in an interview published today. But winning congressional approval for non-combat duty would be difficult, he admitted.

TOWER CITY, Pa. — Rescuers today dropped a television camera, microphone and loud speaker through a hole straight down from atop a 435-foot hill into a flooded-out coal mine to find out if five missing miners might still be alive. However, there is little hope any of the five men survived last Tuesday's accident.

International

CAIRO — Ugandan President Idi Amin said today he on a CIA death list as "one of Africa's" "strong leaders" but added he has many American friends who pass him information from the spy agency. An embarrassed silence greeted Amin as he took the center stage at the Afro-Arab summit conference Monday.

BUCHAREST, Romania — The United States has begun 24-hour relief operations to airlift medical supplies to quake-ravaged Romania, flying in tons of antibiotics and other supplies. The official casualty toll now stands at 1,034 dead and 6,185 injured.

Rabin cites U. S. role in Mideast peace quest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, beginning his second day of talks with United States officials, had breakfast today with a group of senators who described the meeting as "constructive."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., one of Israel's chief supporters, said it was a "very good meeting...informal and instructive."

Ribicoff said the meeting "made it clear that the United States must play a key role" in the Middle East, specifically on getting the parties back to the negotiating table at Geneva.

Asked if there is any movement toward resumption of the Geneva negotiations, Ribicoff said "the movement is that everybody wants peace. The Israelis want peace and the Arabs want peace."

Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., said Rabin described Israel's political situation, including the recent Labor Party election which he narrowly won, and "about prospects for negotiations in 1977."

Rabin arrived in the United States Sunday for three days of talks with President Carter and administration officials.

In a warm toast at a stag "working dinner" in the White House Monday night, Carter said he and Rabin discussed at length the possibilities for "helping carve out for Israel and Israel's neighbors a time of permanent peace, mutual respect, trade, better understanding and acceptance of differences."

Rabin, in turn, said he believed his talks with Carter "will serve and help bring meaningful negotiations, agreements that in the long run... will bring peace to the Middle East."

The two men's friendship goes back to 1971 when Rabin, then Israeli ambassador here, visited Carter in the Georgia governor's mansion.

Ex-Marine wants talk with Carter

WARRENSVILLE HEIGHTS, Ohio (UPI) — A black ex-Marine who has "a hangup about white people" and who has held a diabetic police captain hostage since Monday afternoon today demanded President Carter listen to his grievances.

Corey Moore, 26, Warrensville Heights, took Capt. Leo Keglavic, 48, and Shelly Kiggins, 18, a high school student and part time clerk, hostage in the traffic section of the station about 2 p.m. Monday.

Moore, armed with .38 caliber and .45 caliber pistols, released the girl early today in exchange for a television set. He had demanded media coverage of the seizure and has communicated with the media through an intercom hookup.

"We are trying to get a call through to the White House," said Police Chief Craig Merchant. "We've talked with the Secret Service and realize it's a gigantic problem from their point of view."

"If this is approved there's no telling how many other people are going to try the same thing," said Merchant. "We're trying to make Mr. Moore understand how involved this request is."

Moore demanded late Monday that "all white people get off the planet in seven days" but changed that demand today when he said "if the white people don't leave the planet...they should show good faith by burning all their money."

Carter said he has never looked on the two countries' relationship as merely helping Israel. "I consider it an equal partnership that has derived tremendous benefits and freedom for us," he said.

"As long as I have any influence on our government, that friendship, recognition, strength and sensitivity to purpose will never waver," Carter said.

Rabin praised Carter's initiatives which he said he hoped would lead to "an end to the bitter war," and said: "We trust you... will do whatever is possible to pursue the cause of peace."

United Way needs help to avoid dissolution

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

If no volunteers can be found to fill the offices that make up the United Way of Manchester, Inc., the local organization may be forced to dissolve.

So said William H. Hale, executive director of the United Way of Manchester, Inc. in a recent letter to the directors and agency representatives of the local group in which he announced a special meeting.

Calling the United Way of Manchester's situation "severe," Hale has scheduled a meeting for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 344 W. Middle Tpke.

"If the United Way Corporation is to continue as an entity in Manchester, we have to find concerned citizens willing to serve United Way," Hale said in the letter.

He listed eight areas of service which are: Chairman of a nominating committee, president of United Way of Manchester, Inc., secretary of the local organization, Manchester campaign chairman 1977, Manchester campaign vice-chairman 1977, chairman of Manchester budget committee, chairman of Manchester membership committee, and ten directors to fill expiring terms.

Hale said that if the corporation is dissolved, local identity will suffer.

There would be a campaign each year with a Manchester chairman and Manchester volunteers, Hale said, but there would be no Manchester Board of Directors nor a Manchester budget committee.

"All requests for funding would have to be made directly to the Allocation Committee of the United Way of Greater Hartford," Hale said.

Manchester's United Way goal last year was to make $95,000. Manchester raised $75,456, which was less than what was raised the previous year.

Hale said that Manchester is receiving $95,592 with the difference made up by the United Way of Greater Hartford. Last year, Manchester was allocated $89,000.

The breakdown of United Way funding to Manchester's agencies is as follows: Manchester Homemakers Service, $17,000 (requested $25,980); Lutz Junior Museum, $8,500 (requested $9,000); Community Child Guidance Clinic, $11,000 ($20,000); Child and Family Services, $18,400 ($35,700); Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens, $25,596 ($48,000); Manchester Public Health Nurses Association, $15,000 ($25,000).

Speaking for the financial effect of the Community Child Guidance Clinic, Executive Director Dr. Tanash Atoyntan said that their United Way allotment this year of $11,000 is a $1,000 cut from last year's allotment.

The demand for the agency's services consistently increases, he said. Of the 12 towns which the agency serves, the bulk of the agency's 600 cases comes from four nearby towns, Atoyntan said.

Although the number of cases remains consistent, Atoyntan said the type of problems that come to the agency are more serious than ever before.

"We have cut all the expenses that we could," he said and added that he didn't want to think about having to cut back in services indicating that the cutback in funds might affect the agency's program.

Directors of the other agencies benefited by United Way of Manchester were not available for comment.

Although the Manchester-Bolton branch of the American National Red Cross Greater Hartford Chapter receives its United Way allotment directly from the United Way of Greater Hartford, it, too, is affected by this year's grant.

The Greater Hartford Red Cross Chapter received only $944,000 of its $966,000 request.

Mrs. Elaine Sweet, executive director of the Manchester-Bolton branch, said that the Greater Hartford Chapter is conducting a fund drive campaign by mail during the month of March to try to make up the difference.

Group petitions 8th District for fire protection release

A group of Northfield Green condominium residents is getting impatient with an apparent delay on a petition they have submitted to the Eighth Utilities District to release them from district fire jurisdiction.

Arnold Kleinschmidt, who is acting in behalf of the residents in about 36 condominium homes, said he sent a registered letter to Edward Fitzgerald, secretary of the Eighth District Board of Directors dated Feb. 28 asking for the status of the petition. He said he never received an acknowledgment of his letter.

The first letter requesting the action by the Eighth District was read at the Eighth District's Feb. 21 board meeting. The directors voted then to refer the request to Atty. John LaBelle, district counsel.

LaBelle said he has not seen the petition. District President Michael Massaro said today he has a copy of the petition which he will forward to LaBelle immediately.

The original petition of the residents, who live in only two sections of the complex on Ambassador Dr., was dated August 1975. It went to the Town, and Town Counsel Victor I. Moses ruled last October that the Eighth District directors must decide on the matter before the town Board of Directors can allow the residents into the Town Fire District. If the Eighth District directors deny the request, then action is ended, according to Moses' decision.

Carter to visit Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will meet with the heads of six other major industrial democracies in London May 7-8, the White House announced today.

The leaders of Canada, West Germany, France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain will also gather at 10

All indications are that the request will not be granted, according to Massaro. He said there has never been a request by residents to leave the district and there is no precedent for acting on such a request.

The petition is a turnabout of the Buckland fire jurisdiction case in which the Eighth District was granted the right to expand its boundaries. That decision is now being appealed by the Town.

The Ambassador Dr. residents still want to be included in the Town Fire Department's jurisdiction with the other eight sections of the condominium complex which are in the Town's Fire District.

The first two sections of homes which are petitioning are those directly off Lydall St. and in the far west portion of the complex.

Kleinschmidt said, "It is time we had consultation in the town." "It is getting to the point where our homes are being jeopardized," said Kleinschmidt, referring to the fire last week on a portion of Lydall St. which is in the town's jurisdiction, but was responded to initially by the Eighth District Fire Department.

He said that situation has occurred also on Ambassador Dr.

Directors to vote on Buckland plan

Two items connected with the proposed industrial park will be discussed by the Board of Directors at its meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

The directors are expected to vote on the plan for the 300-acre park, which would be located in Buckland near exit 93 of I-95. The plan details costs and procedures for development of the park.

The Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC) has already approved the plan, but the Board of Directors and the state Department of Commerce must also okay it.

The board is also expected to discuss a proposed contract between the town and the J.C. Penney Co., which would be the major tenant in the park. Signing of the contract has been scheduled for Friday.

The EDC, however, must approve the contract before it can be signed. The commission met Monday, but recessed until Wednesday without taking formal action on the pact. The EDC did not act because of an incomplete listing of the town's responsibilities in the park development, a list that should be completed by Wednesday, according to Town Manager Robert B. Weiss.

Weiss said that approval of the contract by the Board of Directors is probably not required, but would be "a matter of good judgment."

William R. Cotter

Cotter to speak at testimonial for Thompson

U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter will be the guest speaker at the Jack Thompson testimonial dinner to be held Thursday, March 31 at 8 p.m. at the Army-Navy Club.

Probate Judge William FitzGerald, chairman of the event, said that all tickets have been sold. He will be master of ceremonies for the festivities.

Jack Thompson, a former mayor of Manchester, resigned from the Board of Directors last month after he became executive director of the Connecticut State Employees Association.

General committee members should take note of a change in the next scheduled meeting, which will be Thursday, March 10 at 7 p.m. instead of March 17, as originally planned. The meeting will take place in the Municipal Building's coffee room.

Owners asked to keep dogs from roaming

With the advent of the spring planting season, Manchester Dog Warden John McClellan is reminding residents to be particularly careful not to let their dogs roam onto other person's property.

"Your neighbor may be furious, but he will seldom let you know about the trouble which your dog has caused. Be a good dog neighbor," he said.

McClellan also said that spot checks are presently being made for unlicensed dogs.

Consolidation plan unveiled

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso unveiled a promised consolidation of licensing and advisory boards and said she was proposing all such boards have a membership of at least one-third consumers.

Mrs. Grasso proposed that 16 professional, occupational, licensing and advisory boards and one agency be merged into the Department of Consumer Protection, while 20 others be put under the Department of Health, to increase efficiency.

Mrs. Grasso also announced a $30,000 contribution from Connecticut's health, life and property-casualty insurance companies to Operative Fuel, the statewide drive to provide emergency fuel supplies to state residents.

She also said she favored bills being considered by the legislature to limit smoking in restaurants, grocery stores, elevators and other public places and would sign them.

Health Commissioner Dr. Douglas Lloyd told the governor's weekly news conference that the reorganization was aimed at improving the "accountability" to the public of officials on such boards.

Mrs. Grasso announced in her "State of the State" message in January she would seek consolidation of the licensing boards and today's announcement supplied the details of her program.

These regulatory boards now exist independently and decisions they make on who may practice or what procedures must be used in certain professions have been criticized in some quarters for not serving the public interest.

Mrs. Grasso hedged when asked by reporters if the department commissioners would have control over the boards under her proposal, indicating they would have some, but they would not directly supervise the actions of the boards. She said she expected the merger would "dilute" some of the boards' powers.

Mrs. Grasso said in order to implement her promise for one-third consumer representation on all of the about 200 state boards, she would, if necessary, replace existing members before their terms expired. She said she hoped such replacement could be done by July, but appeared uncertain about whether the entire process could be completed.

"It is only proper that consumers be guaranteed a voice in the operations of the boards and commissions," she said. "All have a significant impact on the public."

Consumer Protection Commissioner Mary Heslin said she expected the consolidation would lead to a central complaint office to coordinate action on complaints about all boards under her jurisdiction.

"I would hope you would have greater efficiency and accountability" under the merger, she said.

MCC sets audition dates

Try-outs for an upcoming production of "Barfoot in the Park" will be held soon at Manchester Community College. Dates for the auditions are Tuesday, March 15 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the college auditorium; Thursday, March 17 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the music room; and Saturday, March 19 from 9 a.m. to noon in the auditorium.

The Neil Simon comedy will be performed in the MCC auditorium on the evenings of April 27 through 30. This contemporary comedy involves a young married couple, the mother-in-law, an eccentric male neighbor plus two workmen.

Richard Dana of Manchester is directing the play. Dana is assistant director of the division of humanities and communication arts at Manchester Community College. He is director of theatre at the college.

Waste money
HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., says Connecticut could lose up to $140 million in federal water pollution control money unless Congress acts to extend the deadline for grant applications.

McKinney said that Connecticut has applied for less than 20 per cent of the money available to the state — one of the worst records in the country.

Groundbreaking set for MCC rec project

Ground will be broken next Tuesday for the new outdoor recreation facilities at the Manchester Community College campus, according to Dr. Ronald H. Denison, college president.

The new complex, which will be the first permanent facility on the campus, will include four lighted tennis courts, a regulation size baseball field and a general play area. It will be located in the northwest part of the campus.

The contract for the project was awarded last month to the Keeler Construction Co. of Yalesville which submitted a bid of $149,600.

The time for the start of construction depends on the amount of frost in the ground but all evidence indicates it will begin as scheduled, Dr. Denison said.

A total of $250,000 in state funds was made available by the General Assembly last spring for the project. The extra money above the base bid will allow extra items such as lights, bleachers, dugouts.

The new facilities will serve nearly 2,000 persons involved in the college's athletic programs.

Manchester police report

Manchester police arrested Kenneth C. Weiss, 16, of Coventry, Monday on a warrant charging him with first-degree robbery and two counts of second-degree larceny. The arrest was in connection with an incident on Feb. 9 in which Weiss and a companion allegedly stole a wallet and took the car of the man while hitchhiking on I-94.

Police said the youths threatened the driver with a knife, took his wallet and made him get out of his car. The pair allegedly told the man they would leave the car at Globe Hollow Swimming Pool where it was later found.

Weiss was being held at police headquarters today in lieu of $2,500 bond and was to be presented in court today.

Another arrest is expected in the case, police said.

Also arrested Monday in a shoplifting incident at Caldere's was Andrew S. Milewski, 16, of 127 S. Lakewood Circle. He was charged with third-degree larceny and released on a promise to appear in court March 21.

A break was reported at WINF Road Transmission Station on Love Lane in which about $150 in tools were stolen. The break occurred sometime between last Thursday and Monday night, police said. A housebreak on Agnes Dr. resulted in the theft of a small amount of change Monday.

A break into a Spring St. home resulted in the theft of a stop watch and a dollar bill.

Opinion

A fast switch?

Have you the same confused feeling about Congress that we do?

It seems like only yesterday that it was perfectly acceptable constitutionally for Congress to accept a husky pay raise by the simple legislative device of having a special commission recommending one and letting it become effective unless the Congress specifically vetoed it.

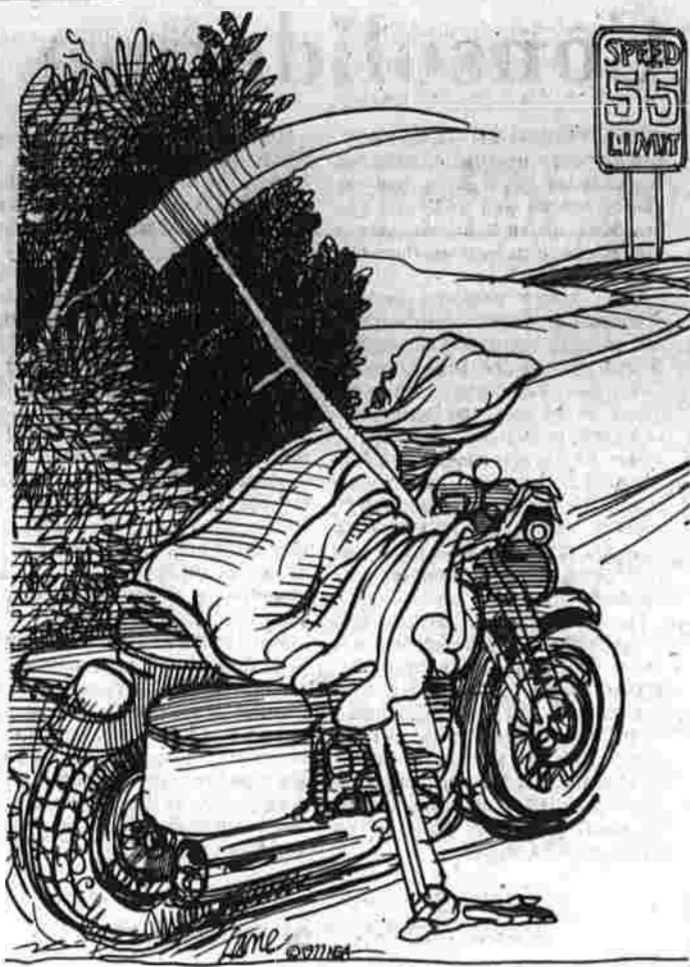

Now late last week the Senate overwhelmingly passed enabling legislation to give President Carter the powers to make a sweeping reorganization of the federal bureaucracy which he feels will make it more efficient and more responsive to the people.

The House, however, is not expected to act so quickly or overwhelmingly. If Rep. Jack Brooks of Texas typifies the House misgivings, we are indeed confused.

He has constitutional doubts, he says, about Carter's request to allow reorganization plans to go into effect unless — and get this — the Congress specifically vetoes the plan.

Apparently some principles do not apply to a congressman's wallet.

Business Hall of Fame

The first woman member of the Business Hall of Fame was inducted recently at the 1977 National Business Leadership Conference in Washington.

She is the late Florence Nightingale Graham, better known as Elizabeth Arden, a name that has become synonymous with the multibillion-dollar "beauty business."

The Business Hall of Fame was established by Junior Achievement, the 58-year-old national organization that helps young people learn the principles of the free enterprise system firsthand by organizing and managing of their own businesses under the guidance of adult volunteer advisors.

At J.A.'s request, the editors of Fortune magazine each year select Business Hall of Fame laureates. Elizabeth Arden joins such illustrious past honorees as Benjamin Franklin, Eli Whitney, Thomas A. Edison, Andrew Carnegie, J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller.

Reader says support Assault Bill hearing

To the editor:

We expect to have bus loads of people arriving at the State Capitol for the public hearing. The bill concerns the assault of elderly persons. This bill deserves the full support of all people of all ages and persuasions.

Try to visualize some elderly person, trudging along from shopping at the food store, or on the way to it, after receiving his or her monthly pension, where the long-winded check has to stretch for all the human needs, and sometimes though not often, at tiny amount put aside, from the slim food allotment, to buy a used bit of clothing to try to keep warm during the frosty weather.

Suddenly, a sharp blow to the head and a sharp smack across the shoulders, and at that same moment, the tightly clenched purse is suddenly snatched and, with lightning speed, the aggressor shoots out of sight, leaving the elderly person slumped to the ground, shocked, slumped and unable to pick him or herself up, or possibly still lying at the attack spot, until a kind person arrives and lends a helping hand.

Gradually, as the mind begins to clear, it occurs to the victim, what the stolen purse contained. The payment for the next month's rent, in another day or two; the food for the ensuing month is gone, other small needs will not be available, and now, there is not even a dime in your possession with which to make a phone call. As a rule, in a time like that, there are no police at hand, and very often also a time when there is very little pedestrian traffic.

First TDC chairman backs Penney complex

To the editor:

I have been watching the plans for the development of the proposed Industrial Park with great interest. As first chairman of the Town Development Commission, on which I served for five years, I am very aware of the difficult job it is to attract major industrial projects to this or any other town. The prospect of having J.C. Penney Catalog Center as the cornerstone for a major industrial park is an opportunity we as a town cannot afford to miss.

Attention Open Forum writers

In anticipation of many letters on the Buckland Industrial Park referendum, March 15, The Herald cannot guarantee publication of any letters received after noon Friday, March 11. Again writers are asked to limit their letters to 250 words or less. The Herald reserves the right to edit longer letters to that limit or to return them to the sender for editing.

It is true that we become basically what we eat, and therefore need to balance our diets with a variety of good healthful foods. The same

I congratulate the town officials for this major achievement and hope that the public will support the referendum on March 15 in large numbers. We cannot afford to take this for granted. Our votes for the project can mean the only reasonable hope we have for reducing the property tax burden on our homes. See you at the polls on the 15th.

Congress can't wait until October

WASHINGTON — Lobbyists for assorted unions of federal employees already are hard at work on Capitol Hill, lobbying against a projected "cost-of-living" pay raise for some 3.4 million civil and military "servants."

Sick joke. President Carter's budget calls for a 6.5 per cent raise, to go into effect next October. The unions want a bigger boost, something in the neighborhood of 11 per cent.

Lunatic situation. It's a lunatic situation. Government employees, in multi and in uniform, automatically get a "cost-of-living" raise every year. The only question is how much. The amount of the raise is recommended by a government commission to the President, and he usually goes along. Carter stuck to the 6.5 per cent boost contained in Gerald Ford's budget. If this offends the shoe salesman whose take-home pay has been nibbled away by inflation, nobody in Washington cares very much. This is a town where guys take care of their own, to wit, those gorging at the same public trough.

Congress benefits too. Yes, you guessed it. Members of Congress are among the trough-wallowers eligible to benefit from this ripoff. And yes, these are the same jokers who recently accepted a salary increase of $12,900 to $37,500 a year. They figure on adding another $2,800 to $3,700 to their annual loot, depending on the size of the increase. Fortunately, a couple of Capitol Hill freshmen — Reps. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., and Hal Sawyer, R-Mich. — have proclaimed that this is outrageous they will not willingly heap upon the suffering taxpayers. They have introduced separate bills which would kill the increases for members of Congress.

Today's thought

Balance your diet applies spiritually and much care should be used in planning your spiritual diet. Jesus said, "I am the Bread of Life." (Most families have some form of bread with every meal although their menu for the main course generally changes every day.) Through necessity many different things become part of our daily schedules but in order to become more like Jesus, we need to consume a little of him everyday and make him a regular part of our life. Balance your diet and your spiritual life by adding Jesus to your life, and see if you don't start to feel a little better.

The worry over Warnke

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Paul Warnke, tapped by President Carter to help lead this country and the world into a brighter day not so threatened by mushroom clouds over the horizon, is perhaps the new President's most serious mistake so far.

Warnke will be voted on by the Senate Wednesday to wear two big hats: head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and negotiate a new nuclear arms treaty with the Soviet Union.

He may not quite be "like choosing a bull weevil to head the Department of Agriculture," as one witness told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But considerable evidence has surfaced in the past few weeks to indicate that, in the words of Sen. James A. McClure (R-Idaho), Russia probably will "welcome Warnke with open arms."

Carter's choice. Leading supporters of Warnke, who has a long and well-documented history of opposition to major U.S. weapons systems, include Marcus G. Raskin, co-director of the liberal-oriented Institute for Policy Studies. Warnke, he writes, "recognizes that American national security is in grave moral, economic and physical danger without disarmament."

Senators backing him either took a similar tack or voiced the view that Carter simply is entitled to have anyone he chooses in the crucial weapons posts.

Total nuclear disarmament — Mr. Carter's expressed goal — is a beautiful mirage that this world won't see until and unless the day comes that there is a cataclysmic change of heart in the Kremlin's cold rulers. But it would be insane not to hope for such a day.

Soft-headed bargaining. The problem with Warnke is that he threatens to substitute soft-headed bargaining for hard-headed progress to that end. A second problem — which arose at his confirmation hearings to surprise even many of his defenders — is that, based on consistent past positions, the nominee appeared to take a 180-degree turn on many major issues in the hope of winning confirmation. In other words, his integrity is very much in question — as would any arms agreement likely to be negotiated with the Soviets.

Former arms negotiator and deputy secretary of defense Paul Nitze told the Foreign Relations Committee he previously had believed Warnke should be given at least one of the posts — until listening to Warnke's testimony. Now, he said, "I don't believe he ought to be confirmed for either." Nitze added that "I had thought that he had really believed in the views that he espoused over all these years."

Jackson most witting. The most witting criticism of Warnke, however, came from Washington Sen. Henry Jackson. In a Senate speech Friday (March 4), Jackson, a member of the Armed Services Committee which also questioned Warnke, attacked both his previously stated views that his apparent flip-flop on them. "Sitting through the hearings," said the Democrat, "was like watching a statue perform somersaults."

Jackson continued: "He has been a tireless advocate of deep and, I believe, irresponsible cuts in the defense budget; of unilateral restraints in our defense programs... of the notion that nuclear superiority is meaningless; of the notion that Soviet strategic nuclear weapons have been largely a response to our own, and that they mindlessly and mechanically 'ape' the United States."

When Warnke came before the Senate, Jackson continued, he had the "honorable option of defending his long-nurtured views. He had the opportunity to elaborate... He had stood up for, and by his convictions, He chose not to do so."

The Senator said "I am... forced to the conclusion that Mr. Warnke has adopted the line he thinks most likely to secure his confirmation. And that disturbs me most of all."

Back off impossible? The question may fairly be asked: Why didn't Mr. Carter back off on his nominee to such a sensitive post when confronted with the tremendous opposition that has arisen throughout the country?

One answer is that after the fiasco over the President's first nominee to head the CIA, Ted Sorensen, Mr. Carter's prestige was on the line. He didn't feel he could afford two major retreats so early into his new administration. He also may still genuinely believe Warnke is the best man for the deal to be made.

But it is easy to wish that the President instead had chosen to stake his prestige on a position less crucial to us, our children, and to generations yet to be born.

If you have a ticket to the fashion show on March 15 featuring the Whalers hockey team, their wives and friends, hang on to it.

The March 15th show is a sellout, with 500 tickets in the hands of happy viewers.

Talking to Linda Morton of the New England Whalers Hockey Club's office in the Civic Center Plaza, she said, "We're so excited."

And well they should be. Proceeds of the event will benefit Camp Crossroads, a private summer camp for retarded children located in Willimantic.

Super dinner

Looking for a place to have a super dinner in nice surroundings, and at a reasonable price? Try the delicious dinner prepared and served by students in the Hotel and Food Service Management program at Manchester Community College.

Last Tuesday, it was their guest, and the meal was delicious. It included Manhattan clam chowder, tossed green salad with cheese dressing, fisherman's platter with tartar sauce, au gratin potatoes, greens beans, Foresters, assorted rolls with butter, strawberry ala Rita, and coffee or tea.

Dinners are served Tuesday and Wednesday evenings promptly at 6 in the Student Center dining room. Guests may bring in their own wine which will be served by the students.

are available for groups of 35-40 people. Reservations will be held until 15 minutes before meal time.

Some of the forthcoming entrees include boneless chicken parmesan, baked stuffed pork chop with applesauce, and Yankee pot roast with vegetable garnish.

Short Shrimped.

You've all heard of a fellow getting short changed, but did you ever hear of one who got short shrimped?

Well a member of The Herald staff (who wishes to remain anonymous) was brought a package of frozen shrimp with the plastic wrapper boasting that there were no less than 20 shrimp therein.

On taking count, he found there were only 15, and promptly sent a letter off to the Florida packing company complaining he was short five shrimp.

The letters continued back forth until our staffer called the matter to the attention of the Department of Consumer Affairs.

A new program called "Early Alert" is being utilized in some precincts in the Bronx and it might be a good idea right here in Manchester.

Elderly citizens register with "Early Alert" and in cooperation with the U. S. Post Office a red dotted sticker is affixed to his or her mailbox.

When the mailman makes his daily rounds, he notes whether mail has been picked up from the red dotted mailbox. If a day or more passes and the mail has not been removed, he notifies his supervisor who in turn calls the Early Alert office in Manhattan, part of the City of New York's Department of the Aging.

Once notified, the program's director will call the registered person directly. If there is no answer, the person or agency they've designated as a contact on their registration card is notified. If that fails, the social service agencies in that area go and check.

One way or the other, someone finds out why that registrant hasn't picked up his mail.

In many cases, the department reports, elderly people had fallen, others had been robbed and tied up, and still others had died without anyone knowing it.

Sound like a good idea?

School board makes plea for keeping budget intact

The Manchester Board of Education presented its 1977-78 budget request to the Board of Directors Monday night with pleas to keep it as intact as possible.

The school board's budget request is $14,992,500 representing a $1,115,500 increase, or eight per cent, over last year's budget.

The improvement increases amount to $84,000, or a 7.3 per cent increase, the lowest ever, according to Allan Thomas, board chairman.

Thomas called it a "reasonable, realistic and progressive budget."

Thomas said the board has "done a superb job with the means available" over the past five years.

John Yavis, chairman of the school board's finance committee, described the two major differences in this year's budget are in the number of positions (eight) and the board's response to community pressure.

Yavis commended the work of the P.T.A. Council's budget study committee which he said was more active than ever this year with 15 to 20 persons actively involved.

Several of the committee's recommendations were responded to by the board, Yavis said, in its change in the improvement priorities. The priorities include the addition of several elementary instructors in special areas.

There was little reaction to the budget Monday by the directors, however, Mayor Matthew Moriarty said "it will be a tough year," in terms of the budget.

Director Phyllis Jackson pointed to the dramatic decrease in enrollment over the past year and told the school board, "We have no where to turn for any funds this year."

In an overall overview of the budget request, Dr. Kennedy showed the projected decline in enrollment in the schools for next year is 270.

He also released the newest figures on Manchester's position in terms of per pupil expenditure statewide. He said Manchester ranked 60th in the state, spending $1,353.22 per pupil.

That figure compares with an expenditure of $795.58 in the 1969-70 school year when Manchester ranked 50th in the state in expenditures.

The Board of Directors will now review the school budget in depth as part of the overall townwide budget which will be subject to public hearing in April.

Thomas told the directors that the community is saying this year, "improve the budget, spend more."

Yavis said the history of the board has been to cut programs. This year, he said, "we would like to restore some of the programs from the savings made by cutting the teaching positions."

Yavis also said there would be no school closings this year despite declining enrollments.

The next school to be closed will be the Green School, Thomas said, but that it is not ready yet and would mean displacement of 270 students.

School Supt. James P. Kennedy said the board would not recommend closing Green School until enough space is found in one school to allow continuance of the individualized instruction program of the school.

There was little reaction to the budget Monday by the directors, however, Mayor Matthew Moriarty said "it will be a tough year," in terms of the budget.

Director Phyllis Jackson pointed to the dramatic decrease in enrollment over the past year and told the school board, "We have no where to turn for any funds this year."

In an overall overview of the budget request, Dr. Kennedy showed the projected decline in enrollment in the schools for next year is 270.

He also released the newest figures on Manchester's position in terms of per pupil expenditure statewide. He said Manchester ranked 60th in the state, spending $1,353.22 per pupil.

That figure compares with an expenditure of $795.58 in the 1969-70 school year when Manchester ranked 50th in the state in expenditures.

The Board of Directors will now review the school budget in depth as part of the overall townwide budget which will be subject to public hearing in April.

Sex discrimination challenge dropped

A Recreation Department official said Monday that any ruling by the Human Rights Commission against the town's residency rule in softball would result in the Silk City League losing its right to use out-of-town players.

And, because of this, David Woodbury, who filed a complaint against the residency rule, said he will not pursue the matter through the commission.

"The rule either stays the way it is, or the Silk City League loses its privileges," Melvin Siebold, director of recreation, said.

The Recreation Department recently released its rules for softball. Any participant must be a resident of Manchester or a member or employee of the team's sponsor.

The Silk City League, considered the top men's softball league, was given the right to use up to five non-residents per team.

Woodbury, who sponsors a team in the top women's league, the Felina League, protested the ruling by filing the appeal of the residency rule.

Town Counsel Victor I. Moses ruled that the Recreation Department's rules are not discriminatory on the basis of sex, but he suggested that the two sides get together and attempt to reach a compromise.

Siebold said Monday, "We plan to go ahead as planned. How can we change the rules now?"

He said that if the rule was changed to include the Felina Area fire calls.

Mayor proclaims save vision week

Mayor Matthew Moriarty has proclaimed the week of March 12-18 "The Golden Anniversary of Save Your Vision Week."

"I commend the profession of optometry for initiating 'Save Your Vision Week' and supporting it these past fifty years," Moriarty wrote.

He said that people "rely more than ever before on good vision to learn, to work and to play" and that they need to be reminded of the need and value to preserve and protect this gift of sight.

Dirty water

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Coast Guard says Connecticut water was 65 per cent dirtier last year than in 1975 due to an increase in the number and severity of oil spills.

A year-end review by the Coast Guard showed 38,328 gallons of oil polluted the rivers and harbors in Connecticut last year. The Coast Guard's figures show 22,322 gallons of oil were spilled into Connecticut waters in 1975.

Highland school closed by water main break

A water main break on Ferguson Rd. this morning led to the closing of the Highland Park School today.

Service to the area was restored by 11 a.m. and the school will be open Wednesday, a Water Department spokesman said.

An eight-inch water main split shortly before 7 a.m., according to the Water Department. The break was caused by a buildup of frost in the ground, which was beginning to thaw. The line, however, is made of cast-iron and did not move with the ground as it thawed, the spokesman said.

Water service in the area, including the school, had to be stopped to repair the line. The spokesman said that the repair was completed and water was turned back on at 10:55 a.m.

Town seeks bids for fence job

The Town of Manchester is seeking bids for the installation of about 300 feet of chain link fence at 215 Oakland St.

The fence is being installed between an existing sidewalk and an existing stone wall for safety reasons.

Bids on the item will be open Thursday, March 24 at 11 a.m.

Sun heat tax break gets little support

HARTFORD (UPI) — Tax incentive plans to encourage the use of the solar ordinance, the CAG survey indicated 49 are now considering it. Seven more, including Hartford, have tabled the ordinance. Only two communities, East Windsor and Stonington, have defeated it.

Ms. Cohen urged towns to adopt the measure and said CAG can supply information to citizens or communities interested in promoting it locally.

Both the Department of Environmental Protection and the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities have endorsed local adoption of the ordinance.

Towns which have passed the solar property tax exemption ordinance are: Bethel, Bloomfield, Bolton, Bristol, Canton, Chaplin, Cheshire, Colebrook, Eastford, East Hartford, East Lyme, Ellington, Farmington, Glastonbury, Guilford, Hampton, Kent, Litchfield, Lyme, Middletown, New Canaan, New Britain, Newtown, Norfolk, Old Lyme, Oxford, Seymour, Southbury, Stratford, Trumbull, Vernon, Waterford, West Hartford, West Haven and Woodbury.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

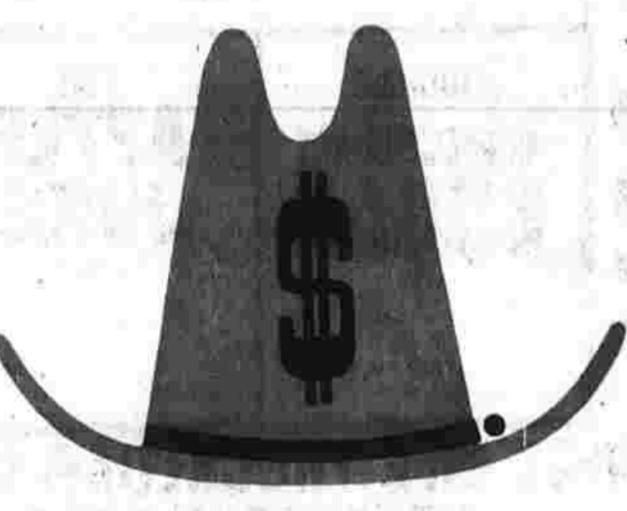

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you pointed out that saturated fat in coconut oil stimulates the body to form excess cholesterol and fatty particles in the bloodstream. Does hydrogenation of vegetable oils, which I understand results in hardening of the fat, change the unsaturated fats of such oils into more highly saturated fats?

In other words, if a product contains "soy oil hydrogenated" is it necessarily acceptable from the standpoint of saturation?

DEAR READER — You're on the right track. A polyunsaturated fatty acid has more than one place on the carbon chain where there is room for hydrogen atoms. A saturated fat has all the spots filled with hydrogen. When a food manufacturer adds hydrogen to the unsaturated fat he is changing it to a saturated fat.

The catch is how much of the unsaturated fat is converted by the hydrogenation process. If it is only a small amount it is not so important but the more that is hydrogenated the more saturated fat will be the product. That is why plain food labels that tell you exactly how much of the fat is saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated are necessary to judge the value or danger of using it in diets restricted in fat and unsaturated fat content.

Coventry proposal explained

By LINDA LOVERING
Herald Correspondent

The Coventry Town Council, responding to protests from Talcott Hill Rd. residents, Monday night discussed the condition of town-owned land behind the high school. The residents asked the Council to consider that site instead of the Council's preferred location of Talcott Hill Rd. and Rt. 31 for the proposed central town facility.

Town Manager Frank Connolly and Town Sanitarian Don Holmes said the major problem with using the town-owned property was access to it.

Holmes said a road at least 1,700 feet long would have to be built over wetlands, costing a minimum of $80,000. The road proposed for the Council-approved site would be about 450 feet at an estimated cost of $24,000. The Council has approved a bond for deed to buy land there for $42,000.

Land conditions are similar at both locations, Holmes said, but the Talcott Hill Rd. site could be built 350 feet away from the nearest house and would be completely hidden by trees. The same facility, if located on the town-owned site, would be 150 feet from the planned 40-unit elderly housing complex and would have no protection from trees there, Holmes said.

Stephen Nagy of Talcott Hill Rd. told the Council the proposed facility — which would include a town garage, parking for trucks, snowplows and school buses, the police department and storage for other town equipment — was a health and safety hazard in a residential area. Nagy also said water runoff would flood neighboring properties.

Bradford Wheatley, owner of a circa 1734 colonial house across from the Talcott Hill site, said, "Commercial development is most important to you (Council) than preserving the town's heritage."

What they accused the Council of "haphazard" selection of the proposed site and requested a full report of the total cost of the facility so taxpayers will know what they are going to buy.

George Ross of N. River Rd. and James Ladd of South St. Ext. supported the residents. Al Bray, a Talcott Hill resident, supported the Council's plan because he said he would rather see a planned facility there than 15 houses.

After the Council's presentation, the residents were still not satisfied. James Curry of Rt. 31, said, "The railroad isn't dead, because they (Council) are reroading this thing through."

Nagy said he was planning to seek support at tonight's Democratic Town Committee meeting. Nagy is a Republican.

The Council, in further action, decided to appoint a five-member committee to prepare preliminary designs and cost estimates for the facility. The plan is to be ready for the Town Meeting approval of the site.

Councilman Robert Keller said all seven input is needed and a preliminary picture should be given to the townspeople.

A public hearing will be held March 14 to discuss use of $35,000 in federal revenue sharing funds to help buy the site.

"Raindrops keep falling on my head" — So does snow, sleet, ice and sometimes sunshine at Coventry's town garage. Town officials say new facilities are needed; they're proposing to relocate the garage facility to a 22-acre site on Rt. 31 and Talcott Hill Rd. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Fire consolidation ideas dominate Vernon hearing

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The question of consolidating the Rockville and Vernon fire departments drew a lot of attention at a public hearing Monday night but the proposal to eliminate the annual town meeting received just one passing comment.

The informal hearing was conducted by the Charter Commission. Most of the 60 persons attending were members of the fire departments.

About 15 persons spoke during the hearing. Of these, 11 spoke against consolidation of the fire departments. This proposal has been a source of controversy since the town governments were consolidated about 11 years ago.

The question of whether or not to have combined, rather than separate, Planning and Zoning Commissions, also drew some comments.

Mrs. Robert Schwartz, speaking on behalf of the Vernon League of Women Voters, said the league is for combining Planning and Zoning but against a suggestion to have commissions. She said she would rather have a commission than an appointed body.

Robert Schwartz then suggested that the charter be changed so no one could serve on more than one commission or board. He said he feels persons doing this have a conflict of responsibility.

Speaking next was Robert Kelly, battalion chief of the Rockville Fire Department rescue squad, who said he was speaking for Chief Donald Maguda and other members of the department. He said communications are good, that staff meetings are conducted each month.

On the question of combining the fire departments, he said, "We're 11 years into consolidation and we still continue with two fire departments. I think it's a political football."

"I think if the revision commission doesn't make a firm commitment to recommend to consolidate, this will be a very heavy work schedule."

John Linderman, a member of the Planning Commission, had ambivalent feelings concerning the Planning and Zoning Commissions. He said from a strict government point of view they should be combined. But, he said, on the other hand he feels a combined board would have a very heavy work schedule.

At that time the committee recommended that the departments be reviewed every five years. The vote against consolidation then was 3-1.

The committee set up by the South Windsor Board of Education to investigate problems at Timothy Edwards Middle School has distributed questionnaires to parents and students.

The questionnaires were distributed to students at the junior high school and were filled out during school time as a homework project. During the past week the questionnaires were sent home to parents.

The form asks each person what his or her major concerns were about school life at Timothy Edwards. If the person has major concerns, they are asked to list them, and also to say what they think should be done about them.

The person is also asked what good things they feel take place at the school, and also to list them. School Board Chairman Marge Hutensky said a report would be issued on the survey's findings, but she said it would take several weeks to compile the information on the questionnaires.

Full speed ahead
The word is full speed ahead from Carl Silver in regards to the slow pitch softball program conducted by the Recreation Department. Only the Silk City League will be allowed to use non-residents, maximum of five per game, and all other leagues must adhere to the residency rules. Silver adds that memberships will be the same for non-residents as local players. There are bound to be protests on the matter but they should not be directed to this department. One thing sure, teams that used ineligible players over the past few years are suddenly concerned about the matter which could result in forfeits if found guilty. Yale names Frank Ryan A.D.

NEW HAVEN, (UPI) — Frank Ryan, former quarterback for the Cleveland Browns, has been named Yale University athletic director, replacing Carm Cozza who resigned in November to devote full time to his football coaching duties.

Yale president Kingman Brewster Monday said Ryan will take over as athletic director June 1.

Ryan said, "I am delighted to join the Yale community. I look forward to the challenge of getting back into athletics and the academic environment."

Ryan never had a losing season while quarterback for the Browns. He retired from professional in 1970 after two years with the Washington Redskins.

He led the Browns to four division titles in his career, and to the National Football League championship in 1964, beating the Baltimore Colts 27-0.

After his retirement from professional football, Ryan was hired by the U.S. House of Representatives to design and implement the first computerized record system for the lawbody.

The 40-year-old father of four holds a doctorate degree in mathematics. He is a native of Fort Worth, Texas.

His wife, Joan, has been a sports columnist and feature writer for the Washington Post.

In his professional football career which began with the Los Angeles Rams, Ryan compiled 51.1 per cent of his passes, the 20th best record in the history of the NFL. His passing gained 16,042 yards, and 149 touchdowns. Ryan was intercepted 111 times.

Ryan will be paid $35,000 a year at Yale. He will have charge of 26 varsity teams and 16 intramural teams. Ryan's father, Robert, was a graduate of Yale in the class of 1931 and was captain of the tennis team. Ryan's brother, Robert, was graduated from Yale in 1956. Ryan had three uncles and two cousins who are also Yankees.

Brewster said Ryan has signed a five-year contract with Yale.

East Catholic vs. Cheshire
Tall quinets vie in L play tonight

There'll be plenty to look up to as 10th-ranked East Catholic and seventh-ranked Cheshire High collide in a Class L Division first round engagement tonight at 8 at the New Britain High.

The 17-6 Eagles of coach Stan Ogdinok will floor a frontcourt of 6-4 Jon Lindberg, 5-8 Jeff Heim and 6-5 Gary Carlson while the Housatonic League quinets, coached by Joe Chandler, will match up with 6-3 sophomore Tom Staley, 6-5 junior Rich Buttery and 6-4 senior Bill Glass.

"We're going to have to stop Glass and Costello. Glass is a good outside shooter and their guards are reportedly very quick," Ogdinok advised. Glass and Costello lead Cheshire with 16.7 point per game averages. Carlson (15.3) and Dumais (13.8) are the Eagle top scorers with Lindberg (10.5) also a twin figure pointmaker.

The winner will advance to Friday's quarterfinals against the South Catholic-Kaynor Tech winner. While the Eagles, who've been knocked out the past two years in the first round, would love nothing better than a rematch with South Ogdinok notes, "We're not looking past anyone. We'll be ready (for Cheshire)."

14th win in row for Coventry five

Victory No. 14 in a row was notched by Coventry High last night as the top-ranked Patriots routed 16th-seeded Thomaston High, 69-35, in a Class S Division first round tilt at Hall High in West Hartford.

The other area team in State Basketball Tournament play last night, South Windsor High, was sent to the sidelines. The 15th-ranked Bobcats ran into defending Class L Division champ Hartford High of Bridgeport and wound up on the short end of an 84-51 score with Windsor, champs of the Central Valley Conference, finishes 17-7 while Hartford.

Other team members were Banas, Casavant, Kasel and Richardson.

The Manchester Ski Club Championships were held at Okemo Mountain last Saturday.

The 24-gate course was held on the lower War-dance in which over 100 members competed.

'East not all that bad'

NEWARK (UPI) — All things considered, Kentucky's Joe Hall says he isn't all that torn up about losing the home-court advantage in the NCAA regional playoffs.

The second-ranked Wildcats finished in a tie with Tennessee for the Southeastern Conference basketball championship Monday night, but the Volunteers earned the right to represent the SEC in the Midwest Regionals by virtue of having beaten Kentucky twice during the regular season.

Kentucky drew a berth in the Eastern Regionals.

Tennessee (22-5) meets Syracuse (25-3) in a preliminary game at Baton Rouge, La., Sunday afternoon, and, if victorious, moves on to the Midwest regionals on Kentucky's home court at Lexington, Ky. Kentucky (24-3) takes on Princeton (21-4) in a preliminary game at Philadelphia Saturday night for the right to go on to the Eastern Regionals at College Park, Md.

"The East is not all that bad," Hall said Monday night after his Wildcats had ended the regular season with a 72-54 victory over Georgia in Athens, Ga. "The toughest teams in the East, North Carolina and Notre Dame, are in the other bracket, so we'll only have to play one of them."

On the other hand, he says, Tennessee is playing in "what may be the toughest regional of them all. After all, you are going to have to beat Michigan to make it to the finals from that region."

The Vols wound up their regular season Monday night with a 65-55 win over Vanderbilt at Knoxville, Tenn. Both Tennessee and Kentucky had 16-2 SEC records. Alabama finished with a 14-4 with an 85-70 decision over Florida, which claimed the fourth spot.

Mississippi State walloped Auburn, 85-75, in the other SEC game. Louisiana State and Mississippi finished their seasons last weekend.

Jack Givens' 21 points paced the Wildcats in the spot. Mississippi State broke a tie at 66 on Toby Murphy's 16 and Mike Neulin had 10 points.

Rookie of the year candidate Adrian Dantley, who missed one game because of the flu, returned with a game-high 33 points for Buffalo. Randy Smith scored 16 points, as did Eric McGreor, who led the Braves with 12 rebounds. John Shumate scored 15 points.

Kevin kept the ball alive." Malone, another former Braves' player, hit 13 points and grabbed 13 rebounds to tie Kunnert in the board department and pull the Rockets to within 14 games of the Central Division-leading Washington Bullets.

Rudy Tomjanovich and rookie Lucas tallied 20 points apiece. Calvin Murphy had 16 points, while Neulin had 10 points.

"I'm very honored and taken by surprise," said Kunnert when informed by telephone from New York that he had been voted the honor. "I really hadn't given it much thought. I've been too preoccupied with winning basketball games."

Like two seasons for girls' quintet

By LEN AUSTRER
Herald Sportswriter

It was like two seasons in 1976-77 for Manchester High's girls' basketball team.

Coach Ginny Lind's quintet got off to a fast start and qualified for the State Tournament after 13 games with a 10-3 mark.

But then something happened and the Indians dropped six straight regular season titles and a 65-60 post-season outing to Bristol Central to wind up with an over-all 10-10 ledger.

The major accomplishments were improving over 1975-76's 6-13 docket and making the tourney after a two-year lull. There was no one big disappointment but "after we made the tourney, it seems as if we went flat. We lost to teams we thought we would've beaten," Lind stated.

The Indians will be hit hard by graduation with eight seniors departing. Those who won't return are Nancy Downard, second leading scorer with 106 points, Kathy Strand, third

Kunnert dishes it out

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Houston's seven-foot center Kevin Kunnert sure can "dish it up" against the Buffalo Braves.

"I'm just happy we won the game," said Kunnert, after scoring a career-high 31 points in Houston's 128-107 victory over Buffalo Monday night. "Mike (Newlin) and John (Lautens) were driving to the basket real well and they just kept dishin' the ball up to me and I had really easy shots."

Houston Coach Tom Nisslake agreed, but not before adding that Kunnert is improving daily.

"Running is the key to our offense and getting

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 18, and I've had it with my mother. She has absolutely no respect for my personal privacy. When I'm gone she goes through my room, all my belongings, everything I own. I've never given her any reason not to trust me, but she asks me where I get every penny of my money, who I've been hanging around with and what I'm doing. I've asked her to please stop going through my things, but it doesn't do any good. Please help me, but don't send your reply in the mail because she reads my mail, too.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

DEAR OPEN: Violating one's reasonable privacy at age breeds disrespect, but try to see your mother's side of it. Parents are responsible for their underage children, and you mother is apparently a little nervous about you. Continue to give her no reason to mistrust you, and eventually her confidence will grow and her suspicions cease.

DEAR ABBY: There is a little girl in our neighborhood who likes to bite other children. My children have been bitten by her several times and I am tired of it. I have heard that a human bite can be more serious than a dog's bite. Is this true?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, if the skin has been broken, the victim should be protected against infection by a tetanus shot. Also, antibiotics are recommended, depending on the severity of the bite. A human bite CAN be more serious than an animal bite.

Win at Bridge

Greed builds its own trap

DEAR ABBY: I am married and am the father of two children who are both in grade school. For seven years I have been seeing (and for the most part supporting) a beautiful woman and her two school-age children, who are not mine. I made it clear from the start that I was married, and divorcing my wife was out of the question. This woman has decided that she should not see either anymore because she wants to get married, and her children need a father. I happen to agree with her, but there's one thing we do not agree on: I should continue to send her checks until she finds a job or a man to support herself and her children. She says that the least I can do for her. If I say I stop seeing her, we stop the whole thing - including the money. She says she can't get along without my money, and if I discontinue it while she is in need she will tell all to my wife. I would feel like a fool sending her money, but it would crush my wife and ruin my marriage if I were ever found out. I know I've had my cake and eaten it too all these years, but I need your sound advice.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Anyone who is threatened with blackmail, and has as much to lose as you apparently have, should run - not walk - to his lawyer.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's no doubt you can make things happen today. It's far better to enjoy what you accumulate. There are many problems, but you may face a potentially serious disagreement between you and your mate today. It can be prevented with unselfish concern.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Don't try to use others to further your ambition today. It's far better to enjoy what you accumulate. There are many problems, but you may face a potentially serious disagreement between you and your mate today. It can be prevented with unselfish concern.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) It's no use to cling to ideas that you know won't work. Use your nimble mind to select timely alternatives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's probable someone you usually depend upon won't be there when you need them today. Figure how to get along without them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Make sure you can interest today. The only person you can really count upon is you. Intentions are good, they could lead you astray today, however, such motives could guide your actions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't try to delegate authority today. If you want something done right, do it yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Monday offers you a big mistake this year to pass up any chance you have to add to knowledge in your chosen field. What you learn governs what you'll get.

Yale budget
NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Yale President Kingman Brewster says the Ivy League school's 1977-78 budget has been reduced by $8 million as the university struggles to meet rising costs.

Brewster said the reduction will affect continuing year-to-year expenses by about $5 million while the remaining $3 million was removed from proposed projects, including faculty salary raises. The school said it is fighting increased fuel and insurance costs, rising unemployment compensation costs and declining revenues from grants, contracts and a stock loan program.
