By Frank Atwood

Steve Plumley, who has just had his 14th birthday, wants a snake as a pet. He has his parents' permission to get one but his mother has vetoed his first choice among snakes, a boa constrictor. "No way," she said. So Steve will settle for a smaller snake and keep it in a pen outdoors. He wants to be a veterinarian, but the only animals in the Plumley household are the family cat and some goldfish. A snake will add variety and it will be his own. No one else wants to take responsibility for it.

Steven Plumley, 14, grooms the Crown of Thorns which blooms in the window of his family's living room on Andover Rd., East Hartford. The plant blossoms continuously, summer and winter. (Herald photo by Dunn)

In the meantime, Steve is learning about the plants that inhabit this world with the animals. He grows house plants. Last year he had a portion of the family garden allotted to him, and this year he will have his own garden in a separate area, 10 feet square, which he will prepare with a hand spade. Steve will grow two crops. One will be Big Boy tomatoes. He will have 15 plants, grown from seed, and when they are set out they will be staked. His second crop will be pumpkins. They will be little "pie" pumpkins, but he expects to use them for Halloween decorations. He'll start the tomato seed under fluorescent lights in the basement. Steve's most showy house plant is a Crown of Thorns, which stands in the living room window. A dwarf variety, it is not quite two feet tall and has flowers constantly. They are small and red, and there are dead flowers and sometimes dead leaves to be picked off every day, one of Steve's chores. He waters the plant every day and feeds it once a month.

Red flowers
The Crown of Thorns is a Euphorbia. I have been told a few times that "nobody" is interested in Latin names, but I continue to look them up. Steve's Crown of Thorns matches the description of Euphorbia splendens bojeri, a native of Madagascar. It has the stubby shape that is attributed to this plant, most especially, the cardinal red flowers that are described. Most older varieties of the Crown of Thorns grow long branches that may reach to the top of the window and have pink, not red, flowers. Beside the Crown of Thorns, Steve has a small Norfolk Island pine, which could grow in time to the top of the window or higher, and a Mimosa, or sensitive plant, the leaves of which fold upward instantly if touched.

Steve's mother has more plants than her son, but his Crown of Thorns has the place of honor. She has, among others, a Baby's Tear, dropping from a hanging pot, a cactus that she calls a Panda bear, a fern from her sister in California, which does not have a name, a Schifferia, which drooped in the basement but does fine in the living room, and a cactus which, after standing still in other locations, took off and grew when placed on the television set. The moderate warmth from the TV tubes apparently was just what it needed. Steve finds himself almost alone among his friends in his gardening interest. Only one other boy has a garden, but Steve is independent. There may be no other boys in the eighth grade at the Robert J. O'Brien School who yearn for a boa constrictor or even a garter snake.

"Suddenly it's spring"
This is the excellent title of a one-day garden fair Saturday, March 19, at the Wapping Community Hall, South Windsor, sponsored by the Friends of the South Windsor Public Library and the Down to Earth Garden Club. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with no admission charge, and there will be talks, films and discussions as well as spring flower exhibits. There is a long list of authorities, living in South Windsor or nearby and known for their knowledge of special crops. Norman Priest, for example, will talk on rock plants and ferns, Louise

Evans on wildflowers. Sophia Gedrim on dahlias, Guy Wallis on rhododendrons, and many more. Suddenly it was spring
Mrs. Donald Manning of Marion Dr., coming home from church last Sunday, spied one purple crocus poking through the mulch of salt marsh bay over her flower bed. Cautiously pulling away more of the mulch, which she had piled on heavily and which had then been covered with snow, she found a small forest of crocus in bloom. There were not only purple crocus, which she has in largest numbers, but white, yellow and striped crocus blossoms in profusion. They had not only budded but blossomed under the salt marsh bay. "I was flabbergasted," said Mrs. Manning.

Human rights stressed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rejecting claims that the United States is interfering in the internal affairs of other nations, President Carter used his first major trip to stress that concern for human rights should not be limited by national boundaries. "No member of the United Nations can claim that mistreatment of its citizens is solely its own business," Carter told the United Nations Thursday night. "Equally, no member can avoid its responsibilities to review and to speak when torture or unwarranted deprivation of freedom occurs in any part of the world."

Carter, meanwhile, signed a bill today to bring the United States into compliance with the United Nations' economic sanctions against white-dominated Rhodesia.

The United States, under the so-called Byrd Amendment, has ignored the sanctions to permit importing chrome from the south African nation. Everywhere Carter went on his two-day trip to Manchester, West Virginia and the United Nations, he was enthusiastically received despite — or perhaps because of — the potency of his words. Quick trial granted on park zone appeal

Judge Thomas J. O'Donnell of Hartford's Court of Common Pleas this morning approved the motion for an immediate trial for the appeal of the industrial park zone. The approval was granted despite the objections of Atty. Anthony Pagano who, along with Atty. Bruce Beck, represents the seven plaintiffs in the appeal. Pagano said that the immediate trial would place he and Beck in an "untenable position," and they would be then unable to properly prepare the case. Pagano also said his expert witnesses, appraiser Ed Hall, will not be available until June. Pagano added that if the case was taken on its priority list position, it would be heard during June. Atty. Roland Castleman, who represents the Manchester Economic Development Commission, argued that any delay could seriously endanger the proposed park. "If ever I suggest there is a case that deserves an immediate public hearing, it is this," Castleman said. He explained the tight time schedule and he spoke of the importance of the project to the town and state. The judge ruled in favor of the immediate trial, although no date was set this morning. "This is the type of case that should be expedited," Judge O'Donnell said.

Snow generates many accidents

Many auto accidents were reported to police departments in the area due to snow and slippery pavement. An accident on I-86 in Manchester near the East Hartford town line involving several cars and a tractor-trailer caused a massive traffic tie-up. Reports on the accident were still sketchy by noon today. However, it appears no serious injuries occurred. Police, fire fighters, wrecking crews and an ambulance crew worked at the scene for well over an hour trying to untangle the mess. Traffic backed up for miles. Lack of snow tires on many vehicles was one reason cited for the large number of accidents.

Weiss asks $50,000 cut in town school budget

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has recommended a $50,000 cut in the $14,887,300 budget requested by the Board of Education. Weiss has notified Allan D. Thomas, chairman of the Board of Education, of his proposal for the budget. With the cut, the budget will be $14,837,300, an increase of just under 7 per cent over the present $13.8 million budget. Last year, Weiss cut $300,000 from the board's recommended budget. In addition, Weiss has agreed to a request by the school board to remove $103,200 from the board's operating budget to be placed in a without account. The change would have no net effect on spending. The board requested that the $103,200 be subtracted from their total recommended operating budget of $14,940,500 at a March 7 meeting with the Board of Directors. School Supt. James P. Kennedy attributed the relatively small reduction this year to recognition by the town manager that "there is a need to make improvements in the school system."

Kennedy also said the impact of the recent layoff of 17 teachers and whether the board will be able to recall the bulk of them is not yet known. If they cannot recall them, it would mean more unemployment compensation payments by the board. In his budget recommendation sent to School Board Chairman Allan D. Thomas, Weiss said, "I feel that this will still allow a reasonable amount of money for your overall operations and still provide for the opportunity for program improvements."

Urban bank being considered to help distressed cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Carter administration is studying proposals to create an urban development bank to provide low interest loans for financially troubled cities and businesses willing to locate in cities, UPI learned today. Administration sources said the concept of an "Urban" is still under study and could be scrapped if President Carter decides it is not needed. "Active interest"

But they called it unlikely that planning would have advanced to this point without "active interest" at the White House. Any legislative proposals, the sources said, probably will include provisions for a rural development bank to gain the widest possible support in the administration and Congress. UPI learned the Urban bank would provide loans to cities at 1 per cent above the federal government's borrowing costs, now less than 5 per cent. It also would provide guarantees to enable shaky cities to raise money in bond markets without paying premium prices. Other proposals

Other proposals under consideration include: — Government-backed loans to businesses willing to locate and provide jobs in depressed cities. — Federal backing of municipal bonds to free a city to raise more money in public markets. — An option for cities to offer taxable bonds in exchange for a 35 per cent subsidy from the Treasury on the federal taxable income. Municipal bonds now are tax exempt. Urban banks little more than a concept now, but details are being worked out by a team headed by Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal. Other members come from the White House, the Office of

Consumer prices up 1%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices rose a full 1 per cent in February, the biggest monthly surge of inflation in nearly two and one-half years, the Labor Department reported today. The increase, reflecting a 12 per cent annual rate reminiscent of the darkest days 1974, was caused largely by higher food prices. Severe winter weather brought a record increase in vegetable prices. Food prices rose 2 per cent last month, the largest increase in three years. February's increase comes on top of a 0.8 per cent jump in January. These big increases compare to average monthly rises of no more than 0.3 per cent in the last four months of 1976.

Not since September, 1974 — when inflation was approaching a post-World War II peak — have consumer prices risen as much in one month. Vegetable prices have never risen as sharply in one month since the government began keeping records. Economists promise no relief from this trend in March. Inflation is not expected to cool significantly until April at the earliest.

The Consumer Price Index was 171.1 in February, reflecting an increase of 6 per cent over the past year. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967 now cost $171.10. About half of the February increase was blamed on food prices. But higher costs for fuel oil, gasoline and natural gas also contributed substantially to the increase. Vegetable prices rose 20.9 per cent in February as a result of crop failures caused by the weather. Fresh fruit prices were up 4.1 per cent because of the freeze in citrus growing regions. Coffee, poultry, eggs and sugar also increased substantially, but prices were lower for beef, dairy products, processed fruits and vegetables and bakery goods. Commodities other than food rose 0.7 per cent, the same increase registered in January.

State

HARTFORD — The state House of Representatives has approved a bill to appropriate $10.8 million to bail out agencies who, for whatever reason, could not stay within their budgets. It also includes funds for 300 new state police cars as well as money for corporate tax refunds and unemployment benefits.

BOSTON — The New England extended forecast, Sunday through Tuesday, calls for generally fair weather throughout the period. Daytime highs in the 40s and 50s south and 30s and 40s north. Overnight lows in the 30s south and mid teens to mid 20s north.

National

OAKLAND, Calif. — Wendy Yoshimura, convicted on bomb conspiracy charges and sentenced to prison, is being allowed freedom on bail just like her underground traveling companion Patricia Hearst. She was sentenced Thursday to one to 15 years on a conspiracy charge and to five to years on each of two charges of possession of bomb materials and an automatic weapon. Her bail was set at $50,000.

MIDDLETOWN — Patients circulate a letter saying things are going down hill at Whiting Forensic Institute for the criminally insane. HARTFORD — Gov. Ella T. Grasso's plan for partial repeal of liquor pricing controls that critics claim artificially inflate retail prices appears on the verge of committee approval. The plan would repeal the fair trade laws on liquor but retain some form of minimum price markup.

LITCHFIELD — Paul Beligni, 24, who has said a former Reilly chum had a motive to kill Peter Reilly's mother, Barbara Gibbons, gave secret testimony Thursday to the one-man grand jury probing the state's role in the arrest and prosecution of the Falls Village youth for the crime.

NEW YORK — Mystified viewers of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show" jammed the network's switchboards Thursday night when the show failed to appear. It was pre-empted because the NCA regional basketball playoffs ran about seven minutes past the scheduled time. The show contract requires the pre-emption be nationwide when there is a runover caused by something other than a news program.

Regional

PORTLAND, Maine — Edward Gullion Jr., 26, of Boston, was convicted of one count of interstate transportation of explosives for his part in a series of terrorist bombings in New England. He could get up to 10 years in prison when he appears for sentencing April 15.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — The state Board of Regents will appeal a federal court ruling which struck down a Rhode Island law mandating the housing of students to non-public schools regardless of district lines. The case will be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston.

International

KINSHASA, Zaire — The government-run news agency says Zaire is preparing for "expansive action" against invaders from Angola.

Great day for Irish

It was a great day for the Irish on St. Patrick's Day at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Miss Alice A. She still has her Irish brogue after living here for 25 years. All hospital employees also received green carnations. (Herald photo by Pin-

Directors slate meeting on land parcel purchase

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors will meet Monday night to discuss a recommendation by Town Manager Robert B. Weiss that the Town of Manchester immediately purchase a parcel of land involved in the industrial park.

The meeting was requested by board members who want to discuss the proposal together.

The property is a 36-acre parcel owned by Suzanne Shorts. Twelve of the acres are included in a northeast section of the park that was granted a zone change by the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) on Feb. 23. The northeast section and a small northwest section of the park were granted zone changes separate from the major zone change granted Jan. 17.

Atty. Herbert Phelon, who represents Mrs. Shorts, warned the PZC that the granting of the small zone change might lead to an appeal by his client.

He said that the zone change would create split zoning of his client's property — the 12 acres within the park would be zoned industrial and the remaining 24 acres would remain residentially zoned.

Phelon said that this could create a problem for his client if the industrial park does not develop.

Despite Phelon's remarks, the PZC

Child's needs to be topic Monday night

Sister Elizabeth O'Hara, R.S.M., will be the guest speaker at the St. James Home and School Association meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Her topic will be "Meeting Your Child's Needs."

Sister O'Hara is director of child care and coordinator of treatment services at Highland Heights, New Haven.

She attended the College of New Rochelle and Fordham University where she received her doctorate in clinical psychology.

She has served as staff psychologist at the Kennedy Child Center in New York City, director of psychological services at the Gengras Center for Exceptional Children at St. Joseph College in West Hartford, and as assistant professor of psychology at St. Joseph College. She was also an elementary grade teacher for 10 years.

Sister O'Hara is a member of the American Psychological Association, Psychologists Interested in Religious Issues, and the Mental Health Association of Connecticut of which she is president of the New Haven Chapter.

There will be a question and answer period after the talk.

The association will have a business meeting after the guest speaker.

granted the change.

Now, Weiss has recommended that the town immediately purchase part or all of Mrs. Shorts' property, depending on the owner's preference.

In a letter to members of the Board of Directors, he said that an immediate purchase could prevent an appeal by Mrs. Shorts. Such an appeal, coupled with a similar action already taken against the major zone change, could endanger the park project, Weiss said.

The J.C. Penney Co., the proposed major tenant in the park, has signed a contract with the town that is contingent upon land being available to the firm by late August.

The appeal period for Phelon and his client ends on March 29. Because of this, Weiss is seeking quick action from the directors.

Meeting set

In fact, since no board meetings were scheduled before March 29, the directors are scheduled to meet on Monday night to discuss the proposal.

This approach, however, did not suit several board members. The Monday night discussion was then scheduled. That meeting will follow one at 8 p.m. between the directors and the Board of Education, at which Weiss will make his recommendation on the school budget.

Phyllis Jackson, a member of the Board of Directors, was one of those

At recent meetings of the Manchester Board of Directors, members of the board and residents have requested that steps be taken to prohibit or curb massage parlors in town.

At the board's March 8 meeting, the directors approved a recommendation of Town Manager Robert B. Weiss that Town Counsel Victor I. Moses begin work on three ordinance changes, including one on massage parlors.

To help in this matter, Charles J. McCarthy Jr., Manchester's assistant town manager, contacted Bolton First Selectman David Dreselny and asked for a copy of the Bolton ordinance, which was adopted last month.

McCarthy said that the town received the Bolton ordinance earlier this week. He plans to look it over, as does Moses.

The lengthy Bolton law does not prohibit massage parlors, but it does

Catholic club offers scholarships

The Catholic Graduates Club of Greater Hartford will award two $500 scholarships to Catholic high school students living in Hartford County and planning to attend a four-year college in the fall.

Scholarship winners will be chosen on the basis of need, scholarship, character and achievement. The club has awarded more than $33,000 in scholarships over the past 20 years.

More information on these scholarships may be obtained from high school guidance counselors.

State briefs

Hospital insurance
HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Hospital Association is considering going into the insurance business to save money for member institutions.

The association proposed Thursday the creation of a separate, nonprofit firm to provide medical malpractice and general liability coverage for hospitals, physicians and allied health workers.

General hospitals now pay more than $12 million a year in insurance premiums to Aetna Life & Casualty, which provides coverage for most Connecticut hospitals.

Bugging incident
NORWICH (UPI) — The FBI is investigating allegations of illegal wiretapping at the Capehart Corp., the Norwich Bulletin reported today.

New grads
HARTFORD (UPI) — The new Board for State Academic Awards Thursday granted bachelor's degrees to three women and five men, ages 25 to 51, after a search by police.

Lottery Numbers
HARTFORD (UPI) — The winning Connecticut weekly lottery number drawn Thursday night was 12-Red-996, while the winning Daily Numbers combination was 606.

A burglary was reported at a Summit St. home Thursday in which two rings and a jar of pennies was stolen. Police are investigating a suspect who was seen entering and leaving the home during the day.

Another break was reported in an Oak St. apartment Thursday in which a bedroom was searched, but it had not been determined if anything was missing.

A possible break into a Wilford Rd. home was also reported Thursday, but nothing was taken.

Hearing postponed on injunction bid

A hearing on a request for an injunction against the state Department of Commerce's approval of the Buckland Industrial Park project was postponed Thursday.

The injunction is being sought by Atty. Bruce Beck and Anthony Pagano, who represent seven clients who have filed an appeal against a zone change granted for the 393-acre park.

The attorneys are seeking the injunctive action because they feel that the state did not make sufficient environmental study before approving the project plan, which details development of the industrial park.

Alarm over tax breaks

The exemption of a wide range of properties from real estate taxes is an old, established American tradition that has withstood numerous court challenges.

The question today is whether it can withstand a brewing taxpayer revolt.

Most people recognize that tax-exempt real estate (property held by churches, schools, charities, hospitals and similar nonprofit institutions, as well as by federal state and local governments) serves the general welfare.

It is the growing ratio of this tax-exempt property to taxable property, combined with ever-higher property taxes for homeowners, that is giving more and more people cause for concern, writes Leonard Sloane in a recent Parade magazine.

In financially precarious New York City, for example, the percentage of tax-exempt property rose from 25 per cent in 1950 to almost 40 per cent in 1976. More than $25 billion worth of property in that city is now free from real estate taxes.

According to Democratic Rep. Edward I. Koch, the city of New York is subsidizing the federal government alone to the tune of $50 million a year in lost property tax revenues, and foreign governments by another $8 million. He has proposed a bill that would allow cities to apply for government payments in lieu of real estate taxes on exempt federal and foreign-held property.

In Ohio, 15 per cent of the real property in the state, valued at over $6 billion, is tax exempt — up $2.6 billion in the last 10 years.

Nationwide, the International Association of Assessing Officers believes that about one-third of all potentially taxable real estate in the United States is exempt

'They should be killed, not tried'

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — At a desk in the Egyptian Embassy, an aide to Ambassador Ashraf A. Ghorbal lit a cigarette then warily stubbed it out in the ashtray. "Why don't you Americans stop living in a dream world?" she demanded angrily. "Those men are kidnappers who have already killed once. They should be killed, not tried."

It seemed futile to argue with this sweet woman of the blazing eyes, but I said the banal thing about the American tradition of due process. "Bah, Execute them!" she snapped. "What need is there for due process? These men have been caught in the act of kidnapping and murder. They've told you what they are doing and threatened to cut off the heads of their hostages. We have watched their crime. Bah! Execute them."

She was, of course, demanding the impossible of this Republic. Our structure of law isn't built that way.

In an extreme example of taxpayer restiveness, more than 100 residents of the tiny Catskill mountain town of Hardenburgh, N.Y., last September had themselves ordained as ministers in the little-known Universal Life Church. Their acknowledged purpose was to avoid paying part of the taxes on their homes, in keeping with their status as "ordained clergy."

A court challenge to the Hardenburgh caper would seem to be certain. One can imagine the chaos if millions of property owners around the country suddenly got this kind of religion.

In any event, demands for more study of, and possible changes in, the tax-exempt property situation are likely to become stronger and more strident in the years immediately ahead, writes Sloane.

One area where the tax exemption principle may have been stretched beyond reasonable limits concerns profit-making businesses run by some religious groups, such as publishing houses, life insurance companies, wineries and distilleries.

While a massive rollback of tax exemptions appears politically and socially infeasible, a closer scrutiny of present and proposed tax-exempt projects might lead to a better balanced tax structure.

The day before the vote on the projects, the Senate handed Carter a technical victory as a psychological defeat when it voted 58 to 40 to approve Paul Warwick as U.S. negotiator in upcoming arms control talks with the Soviet Union. The 40 negative votes — a result of the President's unwillingness to back away from a much distrusted nominee — are significant in that they represent more than the one-third of the Senate necessary to defeat any future treaty with the Soviets that they regard as suspect.

Item: Meanwhile, in far-off Africa, a force of several thousand mercenaries, reportedly in the pay of the Angolan government, crossed from that country into Zaire, engaging government troops in combat and placing eight American missionaries under house arrest.

The action made a farce of the recent comment by U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, a Carter protégé, that the Cuban troops who are still in earlier in the evening. "If we even get our hands on them, that is," "Praise be to Allah, or God," said the woman in the Egyptian Embassy. Then severely, from a suddenly lightened mouth, "but brace yourself, my friend, for more of the same. In these matters, you Americans are out of your depth. Your laws punish the victim, not the criminals."

It was the hyperbole of honest anger, but this sweet woman of the blazing eyes had a point. Our laws may not punish the victims, but they are inadequate in that they fail to give the victims the total protection which is the government's obligation to its citizenry.

Kill all such terrorists? Yes, of course. But one sighs in resignation. For the terrorist knows that in America he will live to be much older, the while he gleefully witnesses in notoriety, before death summons himself in very troubled waters.

Angola "bring a certain stability and order" to it. The President has never publicly disavowed Young's incredible assertion and Young, for his part, shrugged it off by saying his role is to serve the administration as "a kind of point man" on issues before they are crystallized into U.S. policy.

Headaches for White House Item: In this anything-goes atmosphere it was virtually predictable that similar irresponsible statements from lesser officials would be forthcoming. Sure enough, in that same Excedrin-headache week for the White House, the deputy leader of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. Human Rights Commission profusely apologized to fellow delegates, on behalf of the United States, for American involvement in the "subversion" of the deposed former president of Chile, Marxist Salvador Allende.

The State Department promptly disavowed Tyson's statement, as it has done several times following utterances by Young, and at least this time the President brought himself to "consultation." But the damage had been done and once again this country has been made a laughingstock at the hands of an inept civil servant.

In fairness to the President and his people, it should be noted that the administration is still very young. Hopefully it will soon settle down and such early mistakes will fade into nothingness. Mr. Carter's openness and candor are refreshing, but they're not enough. The American people have a right to demand competence as well.

It is clear that if he doesn't act now to plug the leaks in the ship of state, the President before long will find himself in very troubled waters.

Carter's team: Leaping Before looking

Lee Roderick

WASHINGTON Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Last week was not the best of times for the nation's capital, which found itself partially paralyzed by the Hanafi terrorists.

For the city's No. 1 citizen, Jimmy Carter, it was worse still as he and his fledgling administration suffered setback upon setback.

Mr. Carter, a strong-willed man to say the least, no doubt would prefer to forget what was by all odds the worst seven days of his presidency. But he would be wise instead to learn the week's lessons and profit from them in the future.

First legislative defeat Item: The Senate handed the President his first major legislative defeat by voting 66 to 24 to bar him from holding up any funds budgeted this year — any that Congress may budget for 1978 — for the 19 water development projects Carter wants to scrap. Senators left out only one of the 19 — the Meramec Park Lake Project in Missouri — but even then only after Missouri's two senators joined in opposing it.

The large margin of Carter's defeat, in which 35 Democrats deserted their leader, indicates Congress will probably have the necessary votes of two-thirds of its members to override a possible Carter veto of their action.

The stinging defeat served as a good object lesson to the President that next time he would be well advised to confer with affected members of Congress before trying to scuttle something as vital to their states as life-giving water.

Psychological loss Item: The day before the vote on the projects, the Senate handed Carter a technical victory as a psychological defeat when it voted 58 to 40 to approve Paul Warwick as U.S. negotiator in upcoming arms control talks with the Soviet Union. The 40 negative votes — a result of the President's unwillingness to back away from a much distrusted nominee — are significant in that they represent more than the one-third of the Senate necessary to defeat any future treaty with the Soviets that they regard as suspect.

Item: Meanwhile, in far-off Africa, a force of several thousand mercenaries, reportedly in the pay of the Angolan government, crossed from that country into Zaire, engaging government troops in combat and placing eight American missionaries under house arrest.

Thought
Says Martin Luther King, in his book, Strength to Love.
"Ask an innocent young lady, who, after a moment of overriding passion, becomes the mother of an illegitimate child. She will tell you that society is slow to forgive. As a public official, who, in a moment of carelessness, betrays the public trust. He will tell you that society is slow to forgive. Go to any prison and ask the inmates, who have written shameful lines across the pages of their lives. From behind iron bars they will tell you that society is slow to forgive. Make your way to death row and speak there with the victims of criminality. As they prepare to think of their walk to the execution chamber, their hopeless cry is that society will not forgive. Capital punishment is society's final assertion that it will not forgive."
Forgiveness is love in action. Love confronts us in the framework of forgiveness because we have broken our relationship with God, and continues to do so; therefore forgiveness is love's road back home to God.

Some little-publicized facts about members of the state Senate:
— of the 36 members, 31 are men and 5 women (with 22 Democrats and 14 Republicans).
— 11 members are serving their first term, 9 their second, 2 their third, 10 their fourth, 3 their fifth, and 1 his eighth.
— 12 members served in the House prior to election in the Senate and 15 held municipal government office in their home towns.
— regarding age, 10 are in their thirties, 16 are in their forties, 6 are in their fifties, 3 are in their sixties, and 1 in his seventies.
— 2/3 of the members were born in Connecticut and 32 are college graduates, with 16 from Connecticut higher education institutions.
— 16 members are attorneys with the balance in a variety of occupations. (The percentage of attorneys in the House is not nearly as high.)
— An effort is being made in the legislature to provide more money than is contained in the Governor's budget for funding the arts.
— It is estimated that during the past five years more than 10 million people have viewed performances and exhibitions at Connecticut's major cultural centers.
— In spite of the growing, popular demand for the arts, increased financial support has been one of the major cultural centers. Increased admission prices, contributions and grant money have not provided adequate funds to meet operating costs. As a result, the New Haven Opera Company has closed, the Wadsworth Athenaeum

Hartman will not plant land for industrial park

The Hartman Tobacco Co. has decided not to plant on land that is proposed for inclusion in the town's industrial park. Hartman owns between 70 and 80 acres that have been planned for the J.C. Penney Co. catalog distribution center. Penney had planned to break ground in June for the center. But, an appeal of a zone change for the park could delay that groundbreaking, and Penney, in a contract signed with the town, has extended that deadline until late August. Hartman, because of the possible delay in the park development, had considered planting tobacco on the park land. If the crop had been planted, and the town had to purchase the land, it would have cost an additional $7,000 to $8,000 in acre, according to Town Manager Robert B. Weiss. The total expense would have been about $500,000, Weiss estimated. But, Richard Newfield, president of Hartman, said that his firm has decided not to plant the crop on the land proposed for the industrial park. The firm would have had to lay its seed bed in mid-March and plant the crop in May. The first harvest usually takes place around Sept. 20.

Harrison photos on display

A one-man show of photographs by Jon M. Harrison of Bolton is on display in the "Picture Place" at Manchester Community College. The "Picture Place" is next to Room 16 in the basement of the college's campus on Hartford Road. The display is free to the public on weekdays, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., and on Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., through March 30.

The show, titled "Favorite Images," is a collection of black-and-white photographs that were taken over more than a dozen years.

Harrison is on the college and community relations staff at the college. His photographs appear in many publications, including "A New England Pattern" by William E. Buckley, "Silk Along Steel" by Thomas F. Lewis Jr., and "An Illustrated History of Waterford, Connecticut" by Robert Bachman.

Two of the photographs in the display won first prize in the Coventry Arts and Crafts Show in 1972 and 1973. In 1974, another group of photos was hung as a one-man show, titled "In the Wake of Man," in the Wilbur Cross Library at the University of Connecticut. Currently, he and two other photographers are making a photographic record of old buildings in Coventry on behalf of the Coventry Historical Society.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Harrison of 33 Myrtle St., Manchester.

LEGAL NOTICE

In accordance with the provisions of Section 7-121j and Section 12a-99 of the General Statutes of Connecticut, as amended and Title 23, Section 128 of the U.S. Code, the Connecticut Department of Transportation will hold the following combined open space and corridor/design public hearing:

East Hartford High School Auditorium
 77 Burnside Avenue
 East Hartford, Connecticut
 Wednesday, March 30, 1977 - 7:30 p.m.
 Manchester High School Cafeteria
 134 Middle Turnpike East
 Manchester, Connecticut
 Monday, March 28, 1977 - 7:30 p.m.

These hearings will be concerned with the Department's recommended corridor/design plans for Interstate 84 and Interstate 86 and open space lands in East Hartford and Manchester. The required open space lands consist of approximately 27 acres of Veterans Memorial Park in East Hartford, approximately 2 acres of Wickham Park in Manchester and approximately 1/2 acre of the Laurel Lake Marsh in East Hartford and Manchester.

The Department's recommended corridor/design is shown on a map dated February, 1977, entitled "PUBLIC HEARING MAP, INTERSTATE 84 - INTERSTATE 86, EAST HARTFORD-MANCHESTER." This map is on display for public inspection in the offices of the City Clerks of East Hartford and Manchester. Written statements or exhibits concerning this project may be submitted, either at the public hearings, or may be mailed or delivered to the Connecticut Department of Transportation, Bureau of Planning and Research office at 34 Wolcott Hill Road in Waterbury until April 20, 1977. These written statements or exhibits will be made a part of the public hearing and will be considered in the same way as oral statements recorded at the hearing. The statements and comments of each hearing will be combined into one public hearing transcript.

Each hearing will be conducted in the following manner: After the Department of Transportation's presentation, the moderator will first accept comments from town officials, area legislators and regional planning agency representatives. Individuals who wish to speak are requested to sign a sign-up sheet when entering the hearing. In order to allow everyone an opportunity to speak, all individuals speaking for the first time will be requested to limit their remarks to approximately five minutes. Individuals with lengthy prepared statements are requested to give a summary of their statements not to exceed five minutes and submit a copy of the entire statement, which will be made an official at of the public hearing transcript. After everyone has had a chance to speak once, there will be no time limit for those wishing to speak a second time.

Maps, drawings and other pertinent information developed for the project and written views received as a result of the coordination concerning this project are available for public inspection or copying at the consultant engineering office of Close, Jensen & Miller, 449 Silas Deane Highway, Wethersfield, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

In addition to the discussion of the recommended corridor/design, relocation assistance programs will be discussed at the public hearings.

All persons interested in this matter are invited to attend these hearings.

Pursuant to Section 102(2)(c), P.L. 91-190 of the 1969 National Environmental Policy Act, a Draft Environmental Statement (Section 4(f) Statement has been prepared for this project. This document and the Overview Assessment for Interstate 84 between Hartford and Providence are available for public inspection and copying during normal working hours at the following locations:

Newspaper for elderly is planned

Brotherhood in Action, an organization representing the Charter Oak Lodge of the Knights of Columbus and the Manchester Lodge of Masons, has adopted its community project for 1977. The Steering Committee for BIA selected a newspaper for the elderly as its annual project. Norman Fendell, BIA chairman, said "We are extremely enthusiastic about the project for the coming year. It will benefit the handicapped and elderly."

The newspaper will be printed by students in the Graphic Arts Program at the Regional Occupational Training Center (ROTC). Plans now call for the Department of Human Services, Manchester Community College, and members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), to co-sponsor and put together the newspaper. The publication will be printed and distributed to convalescent homes, senior citizens' housing projects and the Manchester Senior Citizen Center by students at the ROTC. Proceeds of a B'nai B'rith breakfast honoring Town Manager Robert B. Weiss on Sunday, April 24 at 9 a.m. at the Colony in Talcottville, will benefit the project. Breakfast tickets are available at Beller's Music Shop and at the Municipal Building.

Dr. Lamb

What causes bad breath?

DEAR DR. LAMB—My daughter is 34 and has had bad breath for several years. None of the products on the market seem to help for very long. When she has a check-up with her doctor she asked him about this but he couldn't seem to find out what is causing this. She has a bit of a weight problem so she watches her diet but she says she has no problem with her bowels, which sometimes happens when people don't eat the right food. I am wondering if you have any solution to this problem? DEAR READER—Bad breath is a symptom, not a diagnosis. It is also very common. Unfortunately some people have it and are unaware they have it and it is offensive to others. Your daughter was correct in asking her doctor about it and I am sorry she didn't get more help. It is also true that the available mouthwashes and breath sweeteners are of little help. They just mask the odor temporarily and do not do anything to correct the cause.

The cause can be from the teeth. This can be from infected pockets around the roots that a person cannot clean out himself. A low grade infection is present along with decaying material. This is pyorrhea and it needs to be treated by a dentist. So, one thing a person should do is see the dentist to correct any existing dental problems. Beyond that the problem may be a low grade infection of the sinuses. As the air flows through the nose or back of the throat it may pick up unpleasant odors from such infections. Mouth breathing may cause bad breath. The normal secretions in the back of the throat may dry up and this may attract bacteria to grow there that create an odor. Chronically infected tonsils may be the source of bad breath. Any significant infection can release unpleasant odors. However, if the tonsils are not infected, taking them out will not help a bad breath problem. Beyond the teeth, throat, nose and sinuses there are possible problems with the lungs. Any infection of the lungs, such as chronic lung disease, can cause bad odors that pass out of the lung with each breath. The lungs are a major source of odors. Remember that the odor of alcohol on a person's breath comes from the alcohol vapors being released from the blood going into the lungs and into the air that the person exhales. This is the basis for the breath test for alcohol consumption. You can breathe out the odor of any chemical from the body. A person with diabetic acidosis will have an odor to the breath similar to alcohol because chemicals of incomplete metabolism (ketones) are released from the blood into the air. Similarly, chemicals from liver disease may cause the breath to have a particular "fruity" odor. I am sending you the Health Letter number 94, Halitosis, to give you more complete information. Others who want this information or want it sent to someone who needs it can send 50 cents for it with a stamped, addressed envelope for mailing to whoever you want to request it. Just send your request to me in care of the Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 226, San Antonio, TX 78292. My advice to everyone who has a breath problem is to have a medical and dental evaluation. The causes of this social problem are many and some are more important than just having a socially embarrassing problem.

Weiss honored

Adding to the avalanche of awards won by Manchester High School students recently, Robert E. Weiss was named winner of the Young Columbus Award. The award, sponsored by The Hartford Courant and Parade Magazine, is given to Courant carriers. Robert, a well-known senior at MHS, was chosen for this prestigious and lucrative honor for both his high-level efficiency as a carrier and his versatility of scholastic and extracurricular activities. A selection of the latter includes Math Team, Debate Club, Student Assembly treasurer, Instructor of the Handicapped, vice president, Sports Editor of HSW, and National Honor Society vice president. Robert's skill as a carrier is evidenced by the total satisfaction with his deliveries enjoyed by his Spring Street customers, whom he has served for four years. The award is quite a rewarding one, as it entails a twelve-day trip to Spain and Portugal for Robert. He will depart April 7 on this all-expense paid venture.

Seniors make plans

Cliques

The Student Assembly elections are coming up in a month or two, and with them will almost undoubtedly come the campaign vows to rid the Student Assembly of its atmosphere of cliques and sycophancy and to make it more of a representative body. Come next year, however, there will be no real change in the make-up of the Assembly—and it is fairly easy to see why.

To begin with, the Student Assembly is currently set up so that those who do join are those who want to join, and the president has no power whatsoever to deprive people of seats in the Assembly or to force people to attend meetings. There have been suggestions of reverting to a home-room election basis (while keeping the come-as-you-will arrangement intact). This will merely result in those who want to participate being the only candidates for election, which only compounds the initial problem by adding a potential aura of exclusivity to the Assembly. Another problem is the fact that beyond certain limits, people cannot be prohibited from associating with whomever they wish. Some people naturally mingle with certain others due to a common interest or social preference, deplorable as such a situation may be. People are more likely to mix freely with those who are thought to be of a common background or who have similar experiences. Thus, people who know each other and are interested in one or more clubs are likely to congregate in what are commonly defined as "cliques."

The last and most outstanding point is the inalienable right implied by the freedom of speech, thought, action, and to be as stupid and unreasonable as one wishes. If people choose to be as stupidly self-centered, hypocritical, thoughtless and cruel as they tend to be at the high school level and in certain social circles, then that is their privilege. Along with the right to be open in outlook goes the right to be closed and narrow-minded, as long as this situation exists, there will always be cliques, and no Student Assembly president, now or in the future, will be able to change that. — Lawrence R. Dunn

Seniors plan rites

After 30 years at the high school, George Emmerling still gets excited when March rolls around each year and the time comes to start planning for senior activities again. As class advisor, he has been busy the past week discussing the upcoming activities with seniors in the auditorium and says he is extremely pleased with the great amount of response and support it has gotten from them. Slides of past proms and picnics were shown to encourage student participation and highlight the schedule of fun events. Emmerling feels that "senior week" at MHS does a lot for the seniors especially for a school this large and is looking forward to the weeks of preparation ahead.

"Senior week" is a week in June each year in which classes take part in several activities culminating their graduation. First and foremost of these activities is, of course, graduation, the date of which is not officially established. However, it will be announced by the first of the month.

The next event, which is undoubtedly the most popular among seniors, is the annual senior class picnic. The picnic has been held since the 1930s at Frank Davis' resort in Moodus, Conn. This recreation resort is the largest in New England and provides the seniors with two full meals of all the food they can eat along with the privilege of using any of the facilities available for the fee of $12 per student. This money also covers the transportation cost of the bus ride up and back. Perhaps what really makes the day even more fun and worthwhile is the fact that MHS seniors will be the only people at the resort all day, which is a privilege no other school has. We have this privilege because MHS is the oldest school still attending the resort each year. The picnic is scheduled for June 13, rain or shine and tickets will be put on sale next week for a down payment of $6 or a full $12 payment. Senior dues of $2 may also be paid at this time. A reminder for students is that the picnic is strictly for seniors and no underclassmen are allowed.

Another popular "senior week" activity is the senior prom. The prom will be held at the Howard Johnson Convention Center as it has for the past three years. Seniors are permitted to bring guests to both the prom and the dawn dance and go single to either.

Immediately following the senior prom, a dawn dance will be held at the high school sponsored by the Manchester Rotary Club. It will include a band, dancing and a buffet. For the past twenty-five years, MHS seniors have danced until the wee hours of the morning on this night living up to the dance's name.

The quadrangle part concludes the "senior week" festivities. It is held in the quadrangle or in the cafeteria in case of inclement weather. Free pizzas, soda, and ice cream are provided and it is considered a "free night" for the seniors. The party is basically a night for socializing and signing yearbooks from 6 to 9 p.m. Entertainment will also be provided.

The year's senior activities promise to offer 1977's overclassmen a week of fun-filled events and excitement. Yet Mr. Emmerling wishes to caution seniors on two things which he does not sponsor. One is unsupervised graduation parties after graduation which have resulted in severe problems in the past. The other is that there is no such thing as senior skip day. If one does occur, seniors will be confined to silent study halls and will be forced to make up the hours they missed after school.

Last week's senior preparations were to inform seniors and their parents of the facts and keep them aware, well in advance, of the financial investments of the "senior week." Yet these activities are not compulsory, they are just encouraged. Mr. Emmerling feels "senior week" is the most rewarding part of his job and hopes that it will offer seniors "a time in which they can look back on with happy memories. After all, your high school graduation happens only once in your life."

Early graduates will be contacted by mail for a full appraisal. — Carolyn Egan

Several win awards in essay-poster contest

Each year the Connecticut Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped sponsors a statewide competition comprised of an essay and a poster contest. The purpose of this contest is to introduce the situation of the handicapped into the high schools.

The essays submitted this year were to discuss the subject of handicapped individuals and affirmative action. Posters were to illustrate a similar theme by emphasizing the capabilities of handicapped employees.

In the essay category of the contest, i.e., the Connecticut "Ability Counts" Survey Contest) two MHS seniors received awards this year in the statewide level of competition: Christine Jaworski was awarded fourth place and Laura Smith fifth. Both awards include a check and an invitation to attend an annual Awards Dinner in early May.

On the local level of competition, the following MHS seniors submitted the top five winning entries: Laura Smith, first place; Christine Jaworski, second; Lori Iserberg, third; Janet Seybolt, fourth; and Ann Fitzgerald, fifth.

Two additional MHS students were named as award winners in the statewide competition of the poster contest: Doreen Downham, a junior, received first place, while Grace Jaworski, a sophomore, was awarded fifth place. The two girls have also been offered invitations to attend the awards dinner in May.

Siblings attend classes

Last Thursday, March 10, you might have noticed some little people walking around the halls of MHS, who were too small even to pass for undersized sophomores. These were the Little Sisters and Brothers of Manchester High School students involved in the Youth Services program.

The kids came to school with anticipation and attended their Big Sisters and Brothers' classes with them. The freedom to take breaks during free periods, the unaccustomed privilege of eating outside and even the very size of the high school generated an air of something special for the kids. As a Big Sister, I can say I had quite an excellent day and the other Big Sisters I know felt the same way. A number of teachers also voiced their approval of the day.

This event was planned to show the Little Sisters and Brothers around the high school. They were not meant to benefit from the teaching in the classroom, but to mingle with some of the older kids and get a small feeling of the high school. I think most of the kids are looking forward to their years at MHS with a clearer understanding of their later years of schooling. — Carlene Douville

Student profile: Meet Mike Sherman

Mike Sherman

Since Mike Sherman and his family moved to Manchester about four years ago, he has acquired a great number of close friends and more casual acquaintances. It is Mike's personable character which evokes such a favorable response from those he comes in contact with.

Coming up against a person as amiable and easy-going as Mike is, it is difficult to react to his candid friendliness with anything but reciprocal congeniality. At the same time, however, you are hit off guard by his goodwill, most of us are accustomed to occasional rebuffs and spite from those around us. This can produce a kind of skepticism towards Mike's good nature, which appears to "not be true." Such incredulity arises when one allows the exterior aspect of Mike's character to override his inner motivations.

Mike's kindness is a reflection of his method in handling others. According to Mike, it is far more sensible to treat someone with warmth and friendship than it is to be indifferent or show aggression, simply because malice inspires more bad feelings. An open attitude produces potential friends rather than enemies. Hence, Mike's agreeability is wholly sincere. He prefers your support as opposed to your hostility and personality is also unique in that he never cultivates hatred against anyone: "I can't think of anyone that I genuinely don't like." Thus, Mike never selects specific individuals to whom he extends friendship. Naturally he is especially close to certain companions of his, but he never discriminates between who he likes and who not to like.

It would, however, compromise Mike's character to classify him as just an all-around nice guy; his benevolent emotions merely have the upper hand over other aspects of his personality. Sincerity and honesty are two dominant qualities of Mike's, in addition to a sense of humor.

Mike rarely approaches any subject with great intensity; he takes things slowly and subtly. This in itself is rather deceptive, though, for in direct contrast to his relaxed attitude, Mike is the victim of his excessive worry. He worries about "everything." Unlike most of his friends, Mike cannot skip a class kids should have a goal, a career — something to shoot for. I know what I want to do, but I have friends, who don't know where they're going." For the present, however, Mike is expending as little energy as possible where school work is concerned (and what senior isn't?).

Being a member of the varsity basketball team makes great demands on Mike. He has been involved in the sport for years and plays primarily for enjoyment and social activity. He regards the basketball team as the ideal organization for providing him with the physical exertion necessary to stay in shape and an opportunity to really work hard and cope with others, in addition to increasing the sordid side of his vocabulary.

Being a player has also established a great affinity between himself and most of his coaches and teammates. There's a sense of unity inherent in the whole team structure which especially appeals to Mike, so that he does not object to being labeled a jock.

Although he did not consider the matter seriously, Mike had jokingly discussed the possibility of his being named president of the senior class with his friends. The fact that he was actually voted the position came as an unexpected honor for Mike. It is indicative, though, of the appeal that Mike holds for his fellow students. As class president, Mike's main objective is to provide the seniors with a good time in the upcoming final months of school. Mike himself has enjoyed attending MHS and is especially satisfied with the course selection available and the freedom of the open campus policy, but after three years of it, I'm ready to move on.

For entertainment Mike indulges in backpacking an interest he picked up while living near the White Mts. in New Hampshire. He also enjoys reading, listening to music (anything but hard rock), or lifting weights as part of a "personal fitness kick."

Obviously, a newspaper article falls quite short of producing a truly adequate representation of Mike. He runs much deeper than superficial amiability, however fine a quality this may be. To do justice to forming an opinion of Mike is to get to know him personally. — Christine Jaworski

Teacher explains musical interpretation

Assumption now has band

A musical venture which began last November at Assumption Junior High School has developed into a 27-member instrumental band under a new program.

In fact, the group presented its first concert in December. They are preparing for another concert to be held in the church hall on April 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Assumption Junior High is one of six schools that is participating in the Music for America program. The program, based in Elkhart, Ind., was introduced to the Hartford Diocese last September. The program's aim is to develop instrumental music programs to private and parochial schools with no cost to the school. The program also provides its own teachers.

Two-prong approach proposed in unemployment legislation

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee has decided to take a two-prong approach in dealing with the delicate matter of unemployment benefits for persons who quit their jobs or get fired.

Originally, a bill was proposed that would simultaneously prohibit both classes of ex-workers from collecting benefits.

But the legislature's Labor Committee decided Thursday separating those who quit from those who are fired would be more practical.

Connecticut manufacturers and businessmen have complained that the present law unfairly taxes in-state businesses since most states don't allow so-called "quits" and "fires" to collect weekly unemployment checks.

House chairman of the Labor Committee, Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Bozrah, predicted the two measures could save the state about $18.1 million a year in unemployment payments.

Rep. Richard Martin, D-New London and a member of the committee, said both bills stand a fair chance of passage.

"Manufacturers would like to see the bills passed to improve their business picture. Labor has indicated it wants abuses in the compensation system cleared up," he said.

The "fires" bill will be carefully drafted on guidelines which would not extend benefits to a person who was fired for "willful, repeated misconduct."

Under the "quits" proposal, anyone who quit his job would not be allowed to collect unemployment benefits.

CPR to be topic at PTA

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), a life saving technique, will be the topic of the Keene Street School PTA meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

After a brief business meeting, a film and demonstration of CPR will be presented by Kenneth Cusson, a member of the Manchester Town Fire Department. There will be a question and answer period.

The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Two complaints aired

The directors' comment session Wednesday included a complaint that a N. Main St. single-family residence is being School St. firehouses.

Pascal Prignano, a member of the board of directors, conducted the session.

Stolberg criticizes Grasso

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso is declaring war on the poor by opposing significantly higher welfare benefits, says a leading legislative advocate of increased payments.

Rep. Irving Stolberg, D-New Haven, co-chairman of the Human Services Committee, told Mrs. Grasso Thursday in a letter he was "horrified" by her stance on the issue.

Mrs. Grasso has requested a five per cent increase in welfare payments for the basic grant. Democratic leaders in the Senate and her commissioner of Social Services, Edward Maher, want a 20 per cent hike.

Mrs. Grasso earlier this week said there might be room for compromise, but a 20 per cent increase was out of the question.

Current payments are based on 1971 living costs, while the 20 per cent increase would bring benefits to 1974 levels.

"I hope you will reconsider what is in essence a declaration of war against the poor," Stolberg said in response to Mrs. Grasso's comments.

He said Mrs. Grasso's position was "an outrage to the conscience of Connecticut and to the principles of the Democratic party."

Sunset law proposed
HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today proposed legislation that would mandate review of certain state programs every six years in order to determine if they are still needed.
The proposal, a so-called "sunset law" which has also been introduced by various members of the legislature, is aimed at eliminating outdated, wasteful and duplicative programs, she said.
"The citizens of Connecticut demand, in these economically difficult times, that state government be operated reliably and effectively," she said. "The sunset law provides a mechanism to assure such operation."
"The law will help create a government that is leaner and more efficient, because if designated agencies cannot demonstrate that they serve a continuing public need, they will go out of existence," she added.
The legislature's Program Review Committee and other committees would make the recommendations as to termination and they would be reviewed by the House and Senate.
Under the governor's plan about 60 boards, agencies and programs would be designated for review initially and their number would be increased in succeeding years.

Chicago's Irish pay Daley tribute

By United Press International
For 21 years, Richard Daley rapped a shillelagh three times on the pavement at the corner of State and Lake Streets to signal the start of Chicago's St. Patrick's Day Parade.
But Daley died last December.
Thursday, 70,000 persons marched down State Street, turning the annual parade into an unabashed tribute to the only mayor many of them could recall.
The parade and the day had always belonged to the former mayor. By tradition, the Chicago River turned green and a green stripe ran down the middle of State Street. The parade was largely his creation.
Now, by official designation, the parade paid homage to "a great Irishman — Mayor Richard J. Daley."

State and unions reach agreement

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state and most of its employees today agreed on a contract giving them an $1,300 across-the-board raise and a five per cent salary increase in the second year of a two-year contract.
It is the first major bargaining under the new collective agreement law.
The contract with all employees covered by the Connecticut State Employees Association and the Connecticut Employes Union Independent covers a two-year period.
The contract is the first major agreement between the state and its workers under a collective bargaining law passed in 1975 that took effect last year.
It is subject to ratification by the union members and will go into effect unless the legislature rejects it.
CSEA won the right to represent all but about 6,000 of the about 40,000 state workers this fall in a series of bitterly-fought elections with Council 16 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.
In her budget, Gov. Ella T. Grasso planned on giving each state worker an average increase of about $750 for both salary and annual increments.
Mrs. Grasso and legislative leaders have said they thought state employees had suffered during the last two years of government austerity and deserved to be rewarded for their patience.
Previously state employees salaries and working conditions were set by legislation.
Agreement was reached early today following late-night negotiations.
State police and faculty at community and technical colleges are among the state workers not covered by the contract. They are represented by other unions.

Gengras' tax probe concerns auditors
HARTFORD (UPI) — Millinaire businessman E. Clayton Gengras has paid auditors out of his own pocket to help him examine Connecticut Tax Department records.
Gov. Ella T. Grasso isn't bothered, but Connecticut's two government auditors are concerned the one-time Republican gubernatorial candidate may be poking into the confidential records of business rivals.
"Nobody has examined any records they weren't supposed to," the Democratic governor said this week.
Gengras, who recently sold Connecticut his financially-sailing bus line, was appointed by Mrs. Grasso as a member of a "Committee of Government Efficiency."
For months, Gengras has been concentrating on the Tax Department, once bringing in at his own expense a weekend of private auditing, firm and at other times using private businessmen to study the department, the Hartford Courant reported today.
"it ought to be handled in a lot more formal manner," said Auditor Henry Becker, a Republican. "It's not just Clayton Gengras in there, any Tom, Dick or Harry is coming in."
Becker and his Democratic counterpart, Leo Donohue, recently sent Mrs. Grasso a letter, calling for formal guidelines, through legislation "if necessary," on the duties, powers and responsibilities of her efficiency committee.
It was the second time they have spoken out against Gengras' access to confidential records. Earlier they questioned the practice of allowing private businessmen to see records that could include information about competitors.
When the auditors first questioned the practice in January, Tax Commissioner Gerald Heffernan rushed to Gengras' defense, saying he would be "shocked" if Gengras or his associates snooped into private records.
Now the auditors have gone beyond the issue of confidentiality.
"There is also the possibility of appearance of conflicts of interest on the part of businessmen apparently exercising authority of the governor's office or agencies which they have prior or future business relationships," their recent letter said.
For her part, Mrs. Grasso says Gengras' assignment in various departments of government is "consistent with his duties as governor."

Interviews to start for town planner
Testing and interviewing of 12 candidates for the town planner position will begin next week, according to Charles F. McCarthy Jr., assistant town manager.
The present town planner, J. Eric Potter, is retiring at the end of this month.
McCarthy said that oral exams will be given to the 12 applicants. The top three candidates will then be interviewed by Town Manager Robert B. Weiss.
McCarthy said the post should be filled by March 29.
One of the applicants for the position is Alan Lamson, the assistant town planner. Mr. Lamson is hired to replace Potter, the town would then have to advertise and test to fill the assistant town planner's position.

Drama course offered at MCC
The Community Services Division of Manchester Community College will offer a noncredit course, "Scene Study: Advanced Drama Workshop," this semester for the first time.
The course is intended to help drama students achieve a higher level of skill. It is patterned on the Stanislavsky system of instruction, emphasizing inner conviction, aiming for true characterization, spontaneity, naturalness and intensity in their roles.
The instructor is Mildred Dana, a professional actress in network television, feature film and the New York Stage. The course is open to graduates of the "Drama Workshop" course at MCC. Other individuals should apply for an interview with Mrs. Dana by calling the Community Services office at 646-2197.
The classes will begin Monday, March 28, and will continue for nine weeks on Mondays, from 7 to 10 p.m. Meetings will be held in the music room on the main campus of the college. Information about cost and registration can be obtained by calling the Community Services office.

Delegation visits cemetery

HANOI, Vietnam (UPI) — In the cemetery that stands for hell in Hanoi street language, an unassuming Vietnamese official today showed four White House emissaries what they had come for — 12 black metal boxes holding the remains of Americans missing in the Indochina War.
"Please — in here," said Vu Hoang, director of the Vietnam Foreign Ministry's Consular Services.
There was no music, no flags, no prayer, no ceremony.
"Sad," said Mrs. Edelman.
The Vietnamese to whom this cold day in Hanoi might seem but a small, footnote to their Thirty Year War began talking to Woodcock about delivering the boxes to the Americans' plane that departs Saturday morning.
It was too much for Sonny Montgomery, chairman of the House Select Committee on the 2,550 Americans Missing in Action, shook his head. He came far closer to tears than anyone. He saw and heard talk and movement dealing with how to move boxes and when and where.
The Mississippi congressman raised his hands and his voice.
"I do believe ceremony is in order," he said. "I do wish for there to go to hell or Hades or the devil — one tells another, 'Go to Van Dien.'"
Woodcock, Yost and Mrs. Edelman stepped inside the middle of the three doors of the yellow plastered building. On a table covered with white sheeting sat 12 black boxes with American names pasted on the top and front of each.
At first there was no sound except a cool wind blowing through 50-foot pine trees beside the House of the

'Melodies and Memories' surveys 150 years of American music

By JOHN JOHNSTON
In her program of "Melodies and Memories" for the Manchester Historical Society dinner meeting audience Wednesday evening in the Wadsworth school cafeteria, Mrs. Patricia Young Brown of Stratford broadly surveyed music in the first 150-year span of American history.
She interspersed contralto renditions of sacred and secular compositions during her commentary, with self-accompaniment on the autoharp.
Even before English, Dutch, and French influences faded and left their marks on this part of our culture-to-be, she said, European music was heard on New World shores. As Columbus' ships hove into sight of San Salvador, their sailors sang the Te Deum.
The Rev. Henry Ainsworth's Psalter, lacking measure bars, was used on the Mayflower. It was more scholarly and grammatically correct, Mrs. Brown said, than his successor, the New England Psalter. From the first she sang two selections that may still be found in many hymnals although under different titles. They were the "Pilgrims' Melody," which has been set to the words of "Turn Back, O Man"; and "Old Hundred," now more familiarly known as the Doxology.
Psalms in early New England churches were intoned more than sung, the speaker said, and were "deaconed"; that is, the deacon recited each line, which was repeated by the congregation. This procedure was necessary in some cases, she added, because only one book was available.
"The Bay Psalm Book" was the first publication in the new nation. The first edition of 1,700 copies contained only words.
Instrumental music was missing from churches in our first century, and about 1720 a controversy broke out over the subject of singing part of the service. Out of it arose a demand to sing by note, replacing recitation.
This led to the formation of choirs and the use of a pitch pipe. Singers were sensitive about relying upon this device, Mrs. Brown said, so it was often disguised. In one instance to King's Chapel, and passed off as a Bible.
The first organ in the United States arrived in Cambridge, Mass. in 1816. It was one of very few that escaped the destruction of Oliver Cromwell in England and only because it was still in the possession of the manufacturer. It was offered to the Brattle Street Church, but refused, and then taken to King's Chapel.
Even Isaac Watts, one of the great hymnsters, wasn't spared the wrath of traditionalists. A court arranged for him, Mrs. Brown commented, for introducing poetry into church music.
The Huron Indians, influenced by Father Marquette's missionary work among them, sang of Jesus' birth in the form of an old French carole. Mrs. Brown sang their carol that incorporated language of their lives — Manitou (God), bark lodge (stable), and rabbit skins (swaddling clothes).
She mentioned that two early songs were tinged with irony. After the Stamp Act of 1765, its repeal the next year, and the later tea tax, songs reflected the emotions of people and mood of the times. The first American patriotic one, "The Liberty Song" (1768), was sung to a British patriotic tune.
A British surgeon introduced the melody of "Yankee Doodle" before the Revolutionary War. Throughout the conflict the sarcastic American words were sung to or for the enemy troops.
The first native composers developed with the rebellion, Mrs. Brown said, ranging from the polished Francis Hopkinson to the semi-literate tanner, William Billings. "She sang two of the latter's works, the tender "When Jesus Wept," and wrote the first art song by an American in America. This was "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free" (1759). Mrs. Brown's concluding solo was another of his works.

Area police report

Vernon
Gregg Gonjag, 19, of 10 Eleanor Dr., East Hartford, was arrested Thursday on a court warrant charging him with possession and sale of marijuana to an undercover agent.
Vernon Police said the arrest was made with the cooperation of East Hartford police. Gonjag posted a $1,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, April 23.
Brenda Tremain, 16, of 12 School St., Rockville, was charged Thursday with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). The complaint was made by K-Mart at Vernon Circle. She is scheduled to appear in Court April 13.
James Gray, 17, of 24 Farmstead Lane, Vernon, was charged Thursday with reckless driving, driving an unregistered motor vehicle, misuse of registration plates, and driving without a license.
Police said Gray was observed driving recklessly in the parking lot of the Center Road School. He was released on his promise to appear in court April 13.
The MSF is conducting a townwide drive for funds for scholarships for worthy students.

YWCA offers workshops

The Nutmeg Branch of the YWCA is offering a series of short-term workshops starting next week at the N. Main St. YWCA Center.
The programs of one to four weeks in length will precede the regular spring YWCA program, which will begin in late April.
Starting next week, there will be four tennis clinics at the Manchester Racquet Club with its pro, Jack Redmond.
Tuesday, there will be an Easter egg workshop to learn fabric-covered and decoupage techniques of egg decorating.
Beginning Thursday there will be a four-week photography workshop and a three-week copper tooling workshop.
A cardio-pulmonary resuscitation training program will begin April 5.
"Guiding Your Child's Leisure Reading" will be presented by Patricia Roth Schwartz April 13. Arline Norman, who does private counseling for the YWCA, will lead a workshop on liberation and change in times April 15.
Also planned is a four-week workshop on communicating with your preschooler led by Margaret Sargent Child and Family Services of Hartford.
The workshops are open to non-members as well as members. Registration may be made in person at the YWCA office, 78 N. Main St., or by calling 647-1437.

Manchester facility worries area town

South Windsor
South Windsor officials want to push for improvement of town roads and completion of I-291 in the Backland area, where Manchester is planning an industrial park.
Several officials said they were suffering from lack of information about Manchester's plans.
"Manchester should share its information," Nancy Coffin, chairman of the Mass Transit Commission, said. She and Cile Decker, a council member, suggested a meeting of representatives from South Windsor, Manchester and East Hartford, which would also be affected by traffic.
The council met this week with the Mass Transit Commission and the Economic Development Commission, and everyone agreed there would be a dramatic increase in traffic on local roads when the Manchester industrial park is built.

School budget

In other council work this week, the Board of Education made a plea for no cuts in its 1977-78 budget request.
Council members indicated they liked what they saw in the budget, but there was no indication whether the council would leave the school budget intact.
The Board of Education is seeking a total of $7,572,477 for 1977-78, up from the 1976-77 appropriation of $7,123,808. Most of the increase is for staff salary increases.
School board chairman Marjorie Hutensky emphasized that the board prepared its request with "a great deal of care," using "zero-based budgeting."
Cuts in the education budget "really hurt," she said. "They can cut just deeply into our curriculum," she said.

South Windsor roads will be cleaned soon

South Windsor's spring road sweeping program will begin March 23 and will last for about eight weeks. Subdivisions will be swept first, with arterial streets next, beginning on the east side of town.
Residents are requested to rake sand off lawns into gutters and to make every effort to remove sticks, large stones, cans and other debris which may damage sweeping equipment.
The program includes talks by two AFS exchange students: Erin Kenney from South Windsor, who has been an exchange student to Turkey, and Ida Hlawanna from Austria, now attending South Windsor High School.
Anyone interested may now sign up with Jim Snow at the Town Hall for the April 6 bus trip to Radio City Music Hall.
The date of April 13 has been set by the Advisory Committee on Aging for a South Windsor Open Forum at Town Hall. All South Windsor residents are invited to discuss activities and concerns related to the aging.

Vernon educators adopt new budget

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

A $9,844,638 budget was approved by the Vernon Board of Education Thursday night. It does not reflect any staff reduction, but the budget still has to go to the Town Council, public hearing and annual town meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Steele, chairman of the board's budget committee, said the original budget requests, made to School Supt. Raymond Ramsdell, totaled $10,000,000. These were pared to $9,953,000 by Dr. Ramsdell.

Then the budget committee made further cuts of $108,362.

The approved budget is an increase of 7.2 per cent, or $600,156, over the current budget. Mrs. Steele said the budget presented to the council last spring reflected an 8.1 per cent increase over the previous one.

"I think we did a good job of eliminating items that won't hurt the academic program," Mrs. Steele said.

She said cuts were made in areas of equipment supplies and repairs. She said most of these were small amounts which will not damage the ability to teach.

She said a substantial cut of $10,000 was made in the audio-visual budget and $12,700 was cut from repairs and equipment. Other areas suffering cuts were the high school business department, where a request for typewriters was cut in half.

Under special education, $15,000 was cut from tuition. Mrs. Steele said the committee felt the amount had been over-estimated.

She said $2 per cent of the total budget is fixed costs.

"In general, there's not much left to cut. We got it down to a bare bones budget without impairing programs," Mrs. Steele said.

The budget will go to the council. Next month, the council and the board will meet to review the budget in detail before it goes to the hearing and annual meeting.

Vernon mayor opposes dividing state surplus

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit does not favor a proposal which would give half the state surplus to towns and cities. Nor does he favor the proposal of the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities (CCM), which asked that all the surplus be turned over to towns and cities.

In a letter to State Sen. Robert Houley and State Reps. Terresale Bertinussen, Chester Morgan and Dorothy Miller, the mayor said he and other town leaders had been asked by CCM to write their representatives in support of the proposal.

"I do not support either of them as they now stand," Benoit said.

"The monies in the surplus, if they do in fact exist, are not just a 'paper surplus,' belong to all of the citizens of Connecticut but a reasonable and equitable allocation of all the surplus funds would be nearly impossible," the mayor said.

He said a state surplus should be used first to reduce the state deficit and "liberally improve our bond rating and the entire financial picture."

Roaming dog problems on the rise in Vernon

In the past four days the Vernon dog warden, Mrs. Helen Gleason, and her assistant have picked up 28 roaming dogs. The problem is increasing.

Mrs. Gleason said Thursday it is against the law to allow a dog to roam. It also is expensive for the owner when the dog has to be retrieved from the dog pound.

If a dog is picked up within 24 hours after being brought to the pound, the owner pays $10. If the dog is over six months old and has not been licensed, the owner also has to obtain the license before the dog is released.

For each day after the first 24 hours, the owner pays $3 a day for board. Mrs. Gleason said she has used up about 200 pounds of dog food over the past 3 1/2 weeks.

If a roaming dog bites someone while off its own property, the dog has to be quarantined at the pound for 14 days, Mrs. Gleason said.

Roaming dogs brought to the pound are kept for seven days. If not claimed by their owner, Mrs. Gleason tries to find a good home. If this fails the dog has to be put to sleep.

After bringing the dog in, Mrs. Gleason makes every effort to find the owner. This is easier if the dog is licensed and has the information on its tag. If not, she advertises a description and hopes the owner will see it or call in looking for the dog.

Unclaimed dogs may be purchased for $5.

A license must also be purchased. Mrs. Gleason reminds owners that dogs must be on a leash while being walked.

Hebron Dems to study names for board seat

The Hebron Democratic Town Committee voted Tuesday night to appoint a committee to fill a vacancy on the Board of Education, created by the recent resignation of Mrs. Barbara Stanchfield.

Serving on the committee are First Selectman Aaron Reid, Selectman Cynthia Wilson, Joan Rowley and James Lynch.

The unexpired term runs to the November 1977 municipal election. The committee is to study the names of persons interested in filling the vacancy and to recommend a name to the Board of Education.

Andover Meeting slated on secret ballot plan

The Andover Board of Selectmen has scheduled a Town Meeting March 30 to answer a petition asking for an ordinance to have paper ballot voting at a Town Meeting if requested by two percent of the voters.

The selectmen will ask the town council if the proposed ordinance will conflict with present Town meeting procedures. Town meetings now follow Robert's Rules of Order.

Margaret Jurovsky's name will be submitted by Andover selectmen to the Tolland County Bar Association to be considered for an outstanding citizen award.

The selectmen chose Mrs. Jurovsky because of her work in getting the state to purchase Bishop's Swamp, her work in getting housing for the elderly and her position as municipal agent for the elderly.

A letter will be presented to the outstanding citizen of Tolland County.

The selectmen appointed Faith Weber, Republican registrar of voters, to replace Mary Mariani. They appointed James Piro and Gregory Hollister as alternates to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Officials said the name of the person who agreed to do it has been lost.

Court judges show inconsistency

By MILT RICHMAN
TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn tells me he feels a great sense of satisfaction and vindication.

That's perfectly understandable. If I were he, though, I'd also feel some sense of caution because Kuhn says about going one-for-two. "What happened in Chicago is tremendously important. What happened in Atlanta is a preliminary step in an important decision."

Be that as it may, Bowie Kuhn is far from being out of the woods yet. Finley says he's appealing, which comes about as much of a surprise as his hiring another lawyer.

No matter whether he wins or loses his appeal, he will keep after Kuhn.

That's the nature of the man. It isn't that he really despises Kuhn so much, it's simply that he's been critical anyone who was commissioner. Charlie can't stand authority unless he's the one exercising it.

As for Turner, he may give Kuhn more trouble in the end than Finley. When the judge ordered Kuhn to "tamper" with Gary Matthews before signing him as a free agent, he made it clear he meant right now.

Reterring to Kuhn, Edfield said, "He's going to have to do it or I'll do it for him. You have a man enjoined from looking after his business right at the time it needs looking after."

Despite his setback in the Turner case, I'm sure Bowie Kuhn feels better about his status as commissioner than he did when he was first appointed. He should feel better if for no other reason than he's not hunting so much anymore, he's swinging away. At least, he's acting, doing something, which to my way of thinking is far better than stepping back and doing nothing. Remember how the commissioner said he couldn't do anything about Catfish Hunter's contract problem with Finley? I remember it, and still say he could've brought his influence to bear.

It reminded of how the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis once pointed to the rule dealing with the action any commissioner could take "in the best interests of baseball."

The rule is somewhat elastic the way it was written, and during his commissionership, Landis once asked his attorney, the late Leslie O'Connor, about his legality.

"What does this mean?" he said, pointing to the rule in the book.

"It means whatever you make it mean," O'Connor replied.

Landis understood that and made the rule reflect the force of his personality.

Slowly but surely, Bowie Kuhn, I think, is growing to understand what that rule means, too.

Finley vs. Kuhn

What puzzles me about this entire business is how one U.S. District Court judge can rule that the baseball commissioner does have authority over the owner of the Oakland A's and how another U.S. District Court judge can rule doesn't have any authority over the owner of the Atlanta Braves. Can somebody please explain this laughable riddle to me because my legal experience is rather limited. I suppose it has a lot to do with what district you're in when you challenge the commissioner's authority. Anyway, I think they should get together. Some

Idaho State tops UCLA; North Carolina nips Irish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ask the average sports fan to name a college basketball powerhouse and he'll probably respond with UCLA, Michigan, and North Carolina or Kentucky.

Three of the above proved worthy of their reputation Thursday night but the fourth, the No. 4-ranked Bruins of UCLA, acted more like pyrotechnics in a shocking 76-70 loss to unheralded Idaho State, in the NCAA West Regional semifinals. The loss was only the third for the 10-time national champion Bruins in their last 32 NCAA appearances.

"This was our greatest victory ever — it's got to be," said Idaho State Coach Jim Killingsworth. "We've never played a No. 4 team before. Let alone beaten one. Unfortunately we don't have long to celebrate."

"The best team we tonight," said UCLA Coach Gene Bartow. "It's history. We lost Jim's got a great team and they're very deserving of their 25-4 record. If we played 10 times, I don't know how many they would win. But they won tonight and that's what counts."

"I'm not really surprised we won. I'm excited and happy, but not surprised," said Steve Hayes, who led all scorers with 27 points. The 7-foot center also grabbed 12 rebounds.

Idaho State trailed by six at halftime but battled back to grab the lead with eight minutes to go and were ahead, 65-56, when UCLA went into a full-court trapping press. The Fighting Irish led by 14 early in the second half, but, up by five with 5:45 remaining, Coach Digger Phelps

Coventry

The Coventry Beautification Committee will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall. Agenda items include landscaping plans for the elderly housing, the Rt. 31-Lake St. triangle and the rear of the Town Hall. Plans for a bulletin board outside the Town Hall, and tree and shrub plantings, also be discussed. The meeting is open to the public. Volunteer help is needed. To learn more, call Fran Fruk, chairman, at 742-9664.

Coventry PISH has thanked those who responded to the group's recent drive to determine whether its service is needed. Because of the response, 20 volunteer drivers are

Strive for W's

"I'm no Dee Rowe. I'm Don Perno. I'll strive for the same thing, 'W's (wins)'" Don Perno said in his first public appearance at the University of Connecticut's new varsity basketball coach.

"I'm excited and delighted and it's the culmination of a lifetime dream," the 35-year-old Perno said. A UConn grad, Perno has been Rowe's first assistant coach for the past five seasons.

Rowe, who won 120 games and lost 82 during an eight-year career, which

The last hurrah

"This is my last hurrah as a basketball coach," Rowe told a gathering of nearly 100 at the Holiday Inn in an emotional speech that was a classic.

Rowe was brought in to turn the basketball program around, from losing to winning, and despite the feelings of some students and alumni, his record speaks for itself.

"I've been coaching," he added, "a career that spanned 21 years."

Rowe lauded John Turner, director of athletics for his decision eight years ago to bring him in from Worcester Academy, who led all scorers with 27 points. The 7-foot center also grabbed 12 rebounds.

Idaho State trailed by six at halftime but battled back to grab the lead with eight minutes to go and were ahead, 65-56, when UCLA went into a full-court trapping press. The Fighting Irish led by 14 early in the second half, but, up by five with 5:45 remaining, Coach Digger Phelps failed to get Bucky Dent in the Chicago White Sox. "Now they're stuck with Stanley."

Stuck? Well, maybe that's not the word. As Stanley says, "Okay, I'll give you Campanaris and Grich, but name me another shortstop in the league who is better than me."

Stanley batted .238 in 110 games last season and signed a three-year contract with the Yankees, which, he says, "gives me security for the first time in my life."

Elsewhere around the camps: Rusty Staub hit a two-run homer and Jason Thompson a three-run homer as the Detroit Tigers routed the Montreal Expos, 11-3. Roy Howell and Juan Beniquez homered in the Texas Rangers' 7-6 win over the Minnesota Twins. Rookie outfielder Steve Henderson's two homers paced the Cincinnati Reds to a 10-1 triumph over the Houston Astros.

Dave Kingman, holding out for a $3-million contract spread over six years, hit his third homer in four games in the New York Mets' 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. ... Myri Smith shut out Kansas City for seven innings as the Baltimore Orioles scored a 2-1 victory over the Royals. ... Charlie Chan's two-run homer gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox. ... Many Mets, 39 and still going strong, hit a two-run single that enabled the Los Angeles Dodgers to defeat the Yankees, 5-2. ... Honers George Scott and Bobby Darwin paced the Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Moves up

Manchester Community College soccer coach Jim Dyer will not be with the team next season. Dyer will assume the role of assistant coach for Joe Morrone at the University of Connecticut.

In four years at MCC, Dyer compiled a 37-15-5 record. In the last two seasons, MCC was ranked fourth in New England Junior College play, and finished with a 10-4 record last fall.

Young wins chance by beating Foreman

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Jimmy Young won a new chance for a crack at the world heavyweight boxing title Thursday night by handing heavily favored George Foreman only the second defeat of his professional career.

The 28-year-old Philadelphia native won the 12-round bout by knocking out Foreman in the final round with a left hook to the head.

Foreman, suffering from hand cramps and dehydration, was taken to Professional Hospital after the fight for a checkup.

Foreman was badly battered in the final round when Young scored a brief knockdown and hammered away repeatedly at Foreman's head with a combination of lefts and rights.

A delirious crowd of 12,000 fight fans urged him, screaming, "Jimmy Young, Jimmy Young."

Promoter Don King said after the bout that Young would have a chance at the winner of the Ken Norton-Duane Bobbick bout scheduled for Madison Square Garden in New York May 11. The winner of the second Young fight will have a chance at Muhammad Ali, he added.

Finley loser in Kuhn case

CHICAGO (UPI) — Major league baseball owners intended to give their commissioner virtual dictatorial powers, a federal judge ruled Thursday, so Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley lost his $3.5 million damage suit against Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"It is the judgment of this court that plaintiff Charles O. Finley & Co. Inc. has failed to sustain the allegations of its complaint," Judge Frank McGarr ruled. "The relief sought therein is denied. Judgment is consequently entered for defendant Bowie Kuhn."

Finley said he would appeal the decision.

"My only hope now is with the appellate court," he said. "This is a decision of just one man. We believe that 90 per cent of the judges in the United States would have reached the opposite decision, and I think the judges of the appellate court will, too."

Yankees satisfy Stanley

NEW YORK (UPI) — The guy who's already been singled out as the whipping boy by the New York Yankees should lose the 1977 American League pennant feels "needed."

He's shortstop Fred Stanley and for a man who has never committed a foul on the ball field he must be the most maligned player in the game. The Yankee clubhouse is an elegant room with prima donnas and millionaires wall to wall.

You've got a tough act to complete when George Steinbrenner, Billy Martin, Reggie Jackson, Ken Holtzman and Thurman Munen are all talking at once but that's not Stanley's problem. They get the credit when the Yankees win and he gets the blame when they lose.

The Yankees were criticized during the winter for not getting either Bert Campanaris or Bobby Grich in the re-entry sweep

Champions will be crowned in duckpin bowling Sunday

By EARL YOST Sports Editor
Champions will be crowned this weekend in the annual Town Duckpin Bowling Tournament at the Holiday Lakes. Quarterfinal matches in both the Men's and Women's Divisions will be held Saturday with the semifinals and finals in both divisions set for Sunday afternoon.

NBA roundup

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Houston Rockets don't have the most expensive team in the NBA, they don't have the most well-known players and they don't have the most wins. What the Houston Rockets do have, however, is a 42-26 record that is second to none, a nine-game winning streak that is the longest in the NBA this season, a three-game lead in the Central Division and the best record in their 10-year history with more than three weeks remaining to improve on it.

High-scoring, physical game seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — If nothing else, the championship game of the 40th National Invitational Tournament Sunday afternoon figures to be high-scoring, physical and punctuated with outstanding individual play.

NIT

Southwestern Conference to reach the NIT finals when Otis Birdsong broke loose from a tight defense to score the go-ahead points and dominated the backboards, drew his fourth personal foul with 13:17 left and Greg Sanders, who finished with 20, collected his fourth less than three minutes later. Hagan, a 6-foot guard, then took control of the offense after the Bonnies' 13-point lead had dwindled to four, sinking five crucial free throws, stealing the ball twice and passing off for several baskets.

Practice runs

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — Race-goers ventured from their trailers and tents to dine on corn dogs and barbecue Thursday night as drivers entered the 12 Hours of Sebring auto endurance race practiced in darkness. The race begins at 11 a.m. Saturday in what should be a thrilling hot Florida sun and ends under the stars.

McCullough leader

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (UPI) — Some of the city's biggest names dread the wind that whips off the ocean across the tough Sawgrass course, but little-known Mike McCullough figures that's just an alibi. "When you are hitting the ball well, wind conditions don't matter," said the former elementary school physical education teacher, who outshot everybody else in Thursday's opening round of the $200,000 Tournament Players Championship. "I was too cold out there to be nervous. I wish I could play the next three days like this."

Congratulations to all concerned taxpayers who cared enough about the future and the economy of their town, and their friends, and neighbors, to turn out and vote. A ride through some of the towns who have turned a blind eye to their future economy should be enough to tell you how important a vote is. Again, thanks for going to the polls.

Vernon council sets dates for budgeting

The Town Council will start its budget deliberation schedule March 29. All meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber of the Memorial Building, unless otherwise announced.

At the March 29 meeting the following budgets are scheduled for review: Town Council, executive and administrative, probate court and jury committee, registrars, elections, accounting, outside auditing, assessment, Board of Tax Review and tax collector.

March 31: Treasurer, purchasing, law, town clerk, Permanent Municipal Building Committee, Planning Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals, Zoning Commission, Planning Department, Conservation Commission, Merit Board, Economic Development Commission, Sewer Authority, Arts Commission and the Greater Hartford Transit District.

April 7: Health, Housing Code, Child Guidance Clinic, vital statistics, Rockville Public Health Nursing Association, Ambulance Service, Manchester Sheltered Workshop, Manchester Homemakers Service, social services, youth services, Hockanum Valley Community Council, Community Renewal Team, North Central Regional Mental Health District, and HELP.

April 13: Public works, engineering and parks departments.

April 12: Vernon Cemetery Committee, Social Security, pension insurance, group insurance, unemployment compensation, municipal insurance, refunds, tax adjustments, contingency, Charter Revision Commission, interest on debt, principal payments, capital improvements, sewer assessment fund.

April 26 will be set for the Board of Education budget, which is always the largest one and usually the most controversial.

The public hearing is scheduled April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Sykes School auditorium, Park St., Rockville. The annual town meeting will be May 17 at 8 p.m. at the Vernon Center Middle School, Rt. 30.

Two Monday meetings for review of budgets had been scheduled, but due to a conflict with meetings of other boards involving county members, these dates will be changed.

Budgets to be discussed at those meetings include: Recreation, library, police, school crossing guards, both fire departments, fire marshal, civil preparation, Traffic Authority and canine control.

Tolland

Grade 7 and 8 students at the Tolland Middle School edged out Grade 5 and 6 students in a contest conducted to see which group could bring in the most nonperishable food items to donate to the Tri-Town food bank. The contest was sponsored by the Blue and Gold Club in conjunction with the home room representatives. David Standley, president of the club, coordinated the drive at the school.

"Showcase '77," the products show sponsored by the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the former Grant store, Rockville Center. The hours Saturday will be noon to 8 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.

Dr. Allstair Karmody attending surgeon at Albany Medical Center Hospital, will be one of the featured speakers at today's symposium on Diabetes Mellitus at Rockville General Hospital. Dr. Karmody is a member of the medical center of the replant team composed of vascular, plastic, and orthopedic surgeons. Dr. Karmody was a member of a team who performed the first successful foot transplant on a young child.

Richard Suisman, chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Governments and Democratic councilman from Hartford, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Vernon Young Republicans March 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Caterino, Valleyview Lane. He will speak on the regional government and how it affects towns of the Capitol Region. Anyone interested is invited to attend. For more information, call any member of the organization or 875-2398.

Volunteerism is FISH topic

The total volunteer concept, including the perspectives and limitations of volunteers, will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. Robert C. Casstevens at the meeting of South Windsor FISH March 24 at 11:45 a.m. at the Avery Street Christian Reformed Church.

This will be the annual meeting of the estimated five per cent of the capital region's 46,000 elderly persons who are not mobile and the additional numbers who are semi-mobile and need some kind of care or a friend.

Following Pastor Casstevens' talk, there will be a brief intermission. The annual business meeting will start at about 1:15 p.m.

FISH. It will start with a luncheon to which local clergymen, officials, social service and health care personnel have been invited.

Pastor Casstevens is executive director of the Department of Aging and of the Breakthrough to the Aging Program of the Capitol Region Conference of Churches. Breakthrough to the Aging serves

Bazaar to celebrate all holidays of year

Holidays of all sorts, including "Strawberry Day," will be featured in the "Carnival of Holidays" March 24, sponsored by the Tolland County Extension Service.

The bazaar will be in the activities building at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon, from 10 to 9 p.m.

It will feature crafts and foods for most holidays observed during the year. Among them will be Valentine's Day, St. Patrick's Day, Easter, Mother's Day, Graduation, May Day, July 4, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas and anybody's birthday.

Roslyn Kornfeld of Coventry is general chairman for the event. Others assisting will be Irene Bernant of Rockville, sales ladies, and Inge Thoms, Coventry, president of the Tolland County Extension Home Economics Association.

In addition to exhibits on holiday crafts and foods, craft items and food items will also be sold.

Proceeds from the event will provide special program leaders and speakers for county meetings and buy equipment for home economics activities.

The extension service is planning a spring weekend tour to Buffalo, N.Y., May 12 to 15. Reservations must be made with the extension office by May 30.

Members of the tour committee are Judy Savoie of Coventry and Luba Williams of Tolland. Plans are to visit several points of interest in the area including the Corning Glass Plant, Rockwell Gallery of Western Art, the Rochester Liliac Festival and Niagara Falls.

EAST HARTFORD AREA NEWS

Housing official defends pets ban

"In no way could (Mrs. Walter Schwamb) ever conclude the (East Hartford Housing Authority) was 'arrogant,'" said Ray Lavey Thursday.

Lavey is chairman of the five-member authority. He responded to charges by Mrs. Schwamb the group has been "arrogant, insolent and petty" to her and to residents of Hockanum Park, a 100-unit complex for low income families maintained by the authority off Brewer St.

Mrs. Schwamb made the comments at the Town Council meeting Tuesday night. She referred to a recent meeting held by the authority and lawyers for the pet committee of the complex.

The lawyers had argued for a compromise. They asked the authority not change their plans to enforce the pet ban in all the town's 879 units, including Hockanum, Lavey said.

He noted Mrs. Schwamb did not attend the special meeting.

The authority told pet committee lawyers they had at least four reasons for keeping the ban:

- Pets are prohibited by the lease.
- Fellow tenants have complained about pets in the projects.
- It is difficult to supervise any pet control program in projects.
- Pets compound maintenance problems in projects.

Lavey said every decision of the current authority on the pet issue has been unanimous. He said members have listened to pet owners often and they tried to be fair in enforcing the ban.

Nick Giannasi, executive director, said Thursday attorneys for the authority served three tenants eviction notices.

One tenant served in Veterans Ter., off Columbus Circle, has removed the pet. The authority has stopped eviction there.

The other two tenants live in Hockanum Park, he said. They are so far contesting the evictions.

Giannasi said he had attended the authority's meeting with the pet committee's attorneys.

"I thought the commissioners treated the attorneys with every respect," he said.

He said he respects Mrs. Schwamb's liking for pets and her concern for the people of Hockanum Park. He noted she has helped many people find homes for their pets. She has also helped others take care of their pets to avoid annoying neighbors.

"This is her cause," he said.

Club makes celebrity quilt

The East Hartford Emblem Club has made it possible for one lucky person to put 21 celebrities on his bed.

The club made a quilt containing signatures of stars and world figures. For the price of a raffle ticket, someone will get to keep the quilt.

The quilt project began last summer when club members wrote to many famous people. They told of the Emblem Club which is affiliated with the Elks Club on Roberts St. They enclosed strips of fabric that would be used to make the quilt and asked the stars to sign them.

Twenty-one did sign and returned the strips. The women then worked the signature strips into a quilt large enough to cover any bed.

Proceeds from the raffle tickets will enable the special charities committee of the club to buy hospital equipment. They will give it to the three Hartford hospitals and the Manchester hospital.

They also plan a donation to the East Hartford paramedics.

The signatures on the quilt are: Frank Sinatra, Bess Truman, Mitz Gaylor, Mamie Eisenhower, Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, Lady Bird Johnson, Pearl Bailey, Jimmy Durante, George Burns, Totie Fields, Ray Bolger, Mary Pickford, David Brinkley, Rosalind Russell, Emmett Kelly, Joe DiMaggio, Ginger Rogers, Irma Bombeck, Joan Rivers, Groucho, and Mike Douglas.

The club received Miss Russell's signature one month before she died. Any Emblem Club member can sell raffle tickets for the quilt. The raffle will be held April 11 after the regular monthly meeting at the Elks Home on Roberts St. The public is welcome to attend the drawing.

Manchester facility worries area town

Most of the officials also agreed that 1-291, the proposed expressway between the Mass Transit Commission, said, she and Cile Decker, a council member, suggested a meeting of representatives from South Windsor, Manchester and East Hartford, which would also be affected by traffic.

Manchester should share this information," Nancy Calfry, chairman of the Mass Transit Commission, said. She and Cile Decker, a council member, suggested a meeting of representatives from South Windsor, Manchester and East Hartford, which would also be affected by traffic.

Champions will be crowned this weekend in the annual Town Duckpin Bowling Tournament at the Holiday Lakes.

Quarterfinal matches in both the Men's and Women's Divisions will be rolled Saturday with the semifinals and finals in both divisions set for Sunday afternoon.

Defending champions, mother and son, Mary Simmons and Don Simmons, exempt from the qualifying, will join seven and 15 other rollers in the head to head matches.

Familiar faces in the Men's Division include George Pelletier, Paul Correnti, Tony Marinelli Sr., Ed Bujacius, Rocky Lupacchino, Dom DeDominicis and Steve Dyak among the veterans. Pelletier and Bujacius are both former winners and the latter is the No. 2 ranking high average small pinner in the United States. One of Pelletier's qualifying games was a nifty 182.

Ray Andreatta, who paced the field of 61 male qualifiers with a five-game total of 728, had a whopping 159 effort in a 70 pin Pelletier is second at 703 and Bujacius third at 708. Besides Andreatta there are several other comparative newcomers to the championship field who can't be overlooked, like Emile Roux, Dave Dynes, Mike Pagan, Pete Wojlyna, Pat Irish and Carl Bujacius.

Over on the distaff side, familiar figures will be in the title play like Kris Kelly, who paced the qualifiers, veterans Delina Rock, Chickie Balesano, Irene MacMullen, Miki Irish, Kathy Wickham, and Roberta Shore.

Men's quarterfinals will be Saturday at noon with the women firing away at 1:30. Sunday rolling starts at noon with the championship best of seven sets slated to start at 1:30. All matches up to the finals will be best of three.

There were 40 entries in the Women's Division. The men will roll from scratch and the women will use the handicap systems.

What the Houston Rockets do have, however, is a 42-28 record that is second to none, a nine-game winning streak that is the longest in the NBA this season, a three-game lead in the Central Division and the best record in their 10-year history with more than three weeks remaining to improve on it.

All-Star forward Rudy Tomjanovich, having the best year of his distinguished seven-year career, scored 23 points and front-court mate Moses Malone hauled down 24 rebounds to keep the Rockets' lead over Thursday night as they edged division rival Cleveland, 88-87.

Kings 125, Braves 104.

Brian Taylor scored 24 points to lead seven Kansas City players in double figures as the Kings posted their seventh straight win and snapped a three-game Buffalo victory skid.

Hurks 100, Celtics 91.

Milwaukee scored 124 points, double his average, and teammate Earl Monroe also finished with 20. High-point man for the Nuggets was forward David Thompson with 30. Teammate Dan Issel had 16.

Warriors 115, Warriors 101.

Reserve forward Larry Steele scored 27 points to help second-place Portland extend its lead over Golden State to 1 1/2 games in the Pacific Division. Jamaal Wilkes led the Warriors with 24.

High-scoring, physical game seen

Southwestern Conference to reach the NIT finals when Ois Birdsong broke loose from a tight defense to score the go-ahead points and dominated the backboards, drew his fourth personal foul with 13:17 left and Greg Sanders, who finished with 20, collected his fourth less than three minutes later. Hagan, a 6-foot guard, then took control of the offense after the Bonnies' 13-point lead had dwindled to four, sinking five crucial free throws, stealing the ball twice and passing off for several baskets.

"I think I play well all the time," said Hagan, confidently. "I'm starting to concentrate on scoring more. I think I can be a big scorer. I go to the basket well and the other team has to respect me."

One thing's for certain, everyone respects Birdsong. Houston's all-American guard and the nation's fourth leading scorer. Despite an off night, mostly due to the defensive play of Alabama's Anthony Murray, Birdsong, came up with the key plays.

"If I don't score 30 points, no one thinks I play well," said Birdsong, who hurt his shoulder with 13 minutes left and finished with 18 points, 12 below his average. "I only take good shots and when I took my shots tonight, especially the last one, they went in."

jumped with 1:46 left and fed off for an assist 18 seconds later in an 82-78 victory over Alabama. The win was the 40th in Coach Guy Lewis' career.

"We're thrilled to be playing in the finals," said St. Bonaventure Coach Jim Satalin. "I thought we might lose the game, but we hung in there. This team has played well all year long and we've got experienced kids now."

One of those kids, Hagan, wasn't even on the varsity as a freshman last year. On Thursday night, however, he displayed the poise of a senior when Essie Holis, who scored 14 first-half points and dominated the backboards, drew his fourth personal foul with 13:17 left and Greg Sanders, who finished with 20, collected his fourth less than three minutes later. Hagan, a 6-foot guard, then took control of the offense after the Bonnies' 13-point lead had dwindled to four, sinking five crucial free throws, stealing the ball twice and passing off for several baskets.

Practice runs

Sebring, Fla. (UPI)—Race-goers vented from their trailers and tents to dine on corn dogs and to barbecue Thursday night as drivers entered the 12 Hours of Sebring auto endurance race practiced in darkness.

The race begins at 11 a.m. Saturday in what should be a broiling hot Florida sun and ends under the stars.

McCullough leader

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (UPI)—Some of golf's biggest names dread the wind that whips off the ocean across the tough Sawgrass course, but little-known Mike McCullough figures that's just an alibi.

"When you are hitting the ball well, wind conditions don't matter," said the former elementary school physical education teacher, who outshot everybody else in Thursday's opening round of the $300,000 Tournament Players Championship.

"I was too cold out there to be nervous. I wish I could play the next three days like this."

McCullough, who will be 31 next Monday and who has spent five years on the PGA tour without much success, went into today's second round with a two-stroke lead after posting a 6-under-par 66 on Thursday.

PeeWee hoop winners at Community Y

NBA roundup

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Houston Rockets don't have the most expensive team in the NBA, they don't have the most winning players and they don't have anyone who can really dominate the game.

What the Houston Rockets do have, however, is a 42-28 record that is second to none, a nine-game winning streak that is the longest in the NBA this season, a three-game lead in the Central Division and the best record in their 10-year history with more than three weeks remaining to improve on it.

MIDGETS—Paced by Steve Bycholski's 14 points, Moriarty's trimmed Crispino's last night at the West Side Rec. 59-56.

Ken Stringfellow added 12 points to the MB offense and Bill Silver hooped 18 tallies for the losers.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Bob Walk, a 6-5 junior forward from Rutland, Vt., has been chosen captain of the 1977-78 Williams College basketball team.

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About advising that an 8-year-old child should not be left alone for three hours after school: At 8, my daughter not only stayed alone, she started dinner. At 10 she could prepare any meal as well as I could. At 12 she is learning to make her own clothes. Society today is plagued with irresponsible youths who are coddled until they are 16, after which someone tries to teach them "responsibility." The result: Many healthy young adults on welfare.

DEAR MOM: I applaud your efforts to teach your child responsibility, and wish all parents would follow your fine example. But unfortunately you are the exception—not the rule. Most 8-year-olds without supervision are not as "safe" as your lucky youngster. DEAR ABBY: My dad takes a bath at least three times a week—but not alone. He takes my TV into the bathroom with him. I've tried reasoning with him, but it doesn't work. I'd like to cut him out, but since I'm only 15 years old, that wouldn't be a good idea.

Vernon council sets dates for budgeting

The Town Council will start its budget deliberation schedule March 29. All meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber of the Memorial Building, unless otherwise announced.

At the March 29 meeting the following budgets are scheduled for review: Town Council, executive and administrative, probate court and jury committee, registrars, elections, accounting, outside auditing, assessment, Board of Tax Review and tax collector.

March 31: Treasurer, purchasing, law, town clerk, Permanent Municipal Building Committee, Planning Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals, Zoning Commission Planning Department, Conservation Commission, Merit Board, Economic Development Commission, Sewer Authority, Arts Commission and the Greater Hartford Transit District.

April 7: Health, Housing Code, Child Guidance Clinic, vital statistics, Rockville Public Health Nursing Association, Ambulance Service, Manchester Sheltered Workshop, Manchester Homemakers Service, social services, youth services, Lockman Valley Community Council, Community Renewal Team, North Central Regional Mental Health District, and HELP.

April 13: Public works, engineering and parks departments.

April 12: Vernon Cemetery Committee, Social Security, pension insurance, group insurance, unemployment compensation, municipal insurance, refunds, tax adjustments, contingency, Charter Revision Commission, interest on debt, principal payments, capital improvements, sewer assessment fund.

April 26 will be set for the Board of Education budget, which is always the largest one and usually the most controversial.

The public hearing is scheduled April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Sykes School auditorium, Park St., Rockville. The annual town meeting will be May 17 at 8 p.m. at the Vernon Center Middle School, Rt. 30.

Two Monday meetings for review of budgets had been scheduled, but due to a conflict with meetings of other boards involving council members, these dates will be changed.

Budgets to be discussed at those meetings include: Recreation, library, public, school crossing guards, both fire departments, fire marshal, civil preparedness, Traffic Authority and canine control.

Tolland

Grade 7 and 8 students at the Tolland Middle School edged out Grade 5 and 6 students in a contest conducted to see which group could bring in the most nonperishable food items to donate to the Tri-Town food bank. The contest was sponsored by the Blue and Gold Club in conjunction with the home room representatives. David Standley, president of the club, coordinated the drive at the school.

Vernon

"Showcase '77," the projects show sponsored by the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the former Grant store, Rockville Center. The hours Saturday will be noon to 8 p.m., and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.

Dr. Allister Karmody, attending surgeon at Albany Medical Center Hospital, will be one of the featured speakers at today's symposium on Diabetes Mellitus at Rockville General Hospital. Dr. Karmody is a member of the medical center's replant team composed of vascular, plastic, and orthopedic surgeons. Dr. Karmody was a member of a team who performed the first successful foot transplant on a young child.

Richard Suisman, chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Governments and Democratic constituent from Hartford, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Vernon Young Republicans March 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Caterino, Valleyview Lane. He will speak on the regional government and how it affects towns of the Capitol Region. Anyone interested is invited to attend. For more information, call any member of the organization or 875-2398.

The Nathan Hale Branch of the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for volunteer drivers on a regular weekly or biweekly basis as a "Driver of the Day." These drivers are asked to be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to transport blood and persons to hospitals, doctor appointments and such. For more information, call the Red Cross office, 38 Park St., Rockville.

The extension service is planning a spring weekend tour to Buffalo, N.Y., May 12 to 15. Reservations must be made with the extension office by May 30.

Members of the four committees are Judy Saville of Coventry and Luba Williams of Tolland. Plans are to visit several points of interest in the area including the Corning Glass Art, the Rochester Lilac Festival and Niagara Falls.

Volunteerism is FISH topic

South Windsor

The total volunteer concept, including the perspectives and limitations of volunteers, will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. Robert C. Castevens at the meeting of South Windsor FISH March 24 at 11:45 a.m. at the Avery Street Christian Reformed Church.

This will be the annual meeting of FISH. It will start with a luncheon to which local clergymen, officials, social service and health care personnel have been invited.

Pastor Castevens is executive director of the Department of Aging and of the Breakthrough to the Aging Program of the Capitol Region Conference of Churches.

Breakthrough to the Aging serves the estimated five per cent of the capitol region's 46,000 elderly; people who are not mobile and the additional numbers who are semi-mobile and need some kind of care or a friend.

Following Pastor Castevens' talk, there will be a brief intermission. The annual business meeting will start at about 1:15 p.m.

Congratulations to all concerned taxpayers who cared enough about the future and the economy of their town, and their friends, and neighbors, to turn out and vote. A ride through some of the towns who have turned a blind eye to their future economy should be enough to tell you how important a vote is. Again, thanks for going to the polls.
