

Godi leaving MCC post

Harry S. Godi, dean of students at Greater Hartford Community College, will leave the college at the end of this school year for a similar position at Greater Hartford Community College.

Officials of both colleges made the announcement Wednesday.

Godi came to MCC in 1965 as director of admissions and registrar when there were only 280 students at the college and Dr. Frederick W. Lowe was president and the only other administrator. The school now has more than 6,000 part-time and full-time students.

Godi became the dean of administration at the associate dean level in 1967 and was appointed dean of student affairs in 1970. It was the first full deanship in the Connecticut Community College system.

Commenting on the announcement Wednesday, Godi said, "This decision is the result of an assessment of my own career objectives and the ways in which my experience and abilities can best continue to contribute to the community college system. My enthusiasm and personal commitment to the community college concept has been a strong motivating force during the entire 12 years of my service at MCC. It remains as strong today."

Continuing, he said, "I believe that programs and services in the area of student affairs are well developed at MCC and I received great personal satisfaction in my new position, Godi said.

The areas of activity Godi has been responsible for as dean include placements, admissions and records, registration, testing, counseling, financial aid, student activities, athletics, health services, security, the women's center and the day care center at the college.

Godi has held three state offices within the community college system, including serving as first chairman of the council of deans of student affairs in 1973-74; as a member of the system's first personal policies review committee and liaison person from the council of deans of student affairs to the state Community College Board of Trustees Student Affairs Committee.

Prior to coming to MCC, Godi was director of admissions at Quinnipiac College in Hamden for 12 years. He lives in Vernon with his wife and family.

Vance leaves for Moscow tonight

Arms race tops agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Cyrus Vance leaves for Moscow tonight hoping to throttle the U.S.-Soviet arms race and pursue a dialogue with the Kremlin on human rights, the Middle East, Africa and other world trouble spots.

In addition to the likely topics for discussion, President Carter said Thursday Vance's agenda would include:
• Mutual and balanced NATO-Warsaw Pact force reductions;
• A total ban on testing nuclear devices, both weapons and "peaceful devices";
• Demilitarizing the Indian Ocean.

Judge promises early decision

The talks began in something of a diplomatic cloud, however, coming a week after Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's denunciation of the administration's human rights crusade as an intolerable interference in Soviet internal affairs.

In addition, the administration hopes, the two sides will get down to three days of hard bargaining—enough to allow the negotiations to range over the future of the stalled U.S.-Soviet arms negotiations.

Checks mailed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today announced the state has mailed out $4 million worth of federal anti-recession funds to Connecticut's 169 cities and towns.

The $4 million is half of what the state received under the controversial Public Works Employment Act. Mrs. Grasso pledged distribution of the money in her budget message last month.

In ceremonies at the Capitol today, the governor personally handed checks to the chief executive officers of seven municipalities and announced the other checks are in the mail.

She promised any additional funds paid to the state through other public works bills now before Congress will be passed on in full to the state's municipalities.

"It is now estimated that no less than $12 million will be available for that distribution if the Congress adopts proposed legislation," she said. "When the Congress acts I will distribute another check to each municipality some time after July 1."

"If the Congress proceeds as indicated, the checks for the next fiscal year will total three times the amount of today's payment," Mrs. Grasso said.

Vance leaves for Moscow tonight Arms race tops agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance leaves for Moscow tonight hoping to throttle the U.S.-Soviet arms race and pursue dialogue with the Kremlin on human rights, the Middle East, Africa and other world trouble spots.

In addition to the likely topics for discussion, President Carter said Thursday Vance's agenda would include:

- Mutual and balanced NATO-Warsaw Pact force reductions;
- A total ban on testing nuclear devices, both weapons and "peaceful devices";
- Demilitarizing the Indian Ocean.

The talks begin in something of a diplomatic cloud, however, coming a week after Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's denunciation of the administration's human rights crusade as an intolerable interference in Soviet internal affairs.

When Vance meets him in the Kremlin on Monday, Brezhnev is expected to charge the new administration has specifically violated principles which former President Nixon agreed to in 1973 governing the conduct of U.S.-Soviet relations.

To buttress the point, Brezhnev may also recall the original U.S.-Soviet agreement establishing diplomatic relations in 1933 called for non-interference in each other's internal affairs.

The Vance delegation, which includes U.S. arms negotiator Paul Warnke, is expected to dispute the "interference" claim, and point to the Soviet Union's signing of the 1975 Helsinki Accords — a broad range of recognized freedoms.

Once the expected confrontation over the human rights issues concludes, the two sides will get down to three days of hard bargaining — ending Wednesday — over the future of the stalled U.S.-Soviet arms negotiations.

At his news conference Thursday, President Carter said he sought significant reductions in the arms ceilings with Brezhnev and former President Gerald Ford agreed at Vladivostok in 1974.

In addition, the administration hopes to find acceptable restraints which can be applied to U.S. long-range Cruise missiles as well as the Soviet Backfire bomber.

Limiting the two new weapon systems has plagued the negotiations for more than a year, and prevented former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger from completing a long-term strategic arms agreement in 1976.

Judge promises early decision

Arguments completed in zone appeal trial

Arguments were completed this morning in the court appeal of Manchester's industrial park zone change. Judge M. Morgan Kline indicated that the decision will be forthcoming.

Atty. Roland Castelman, who represents the Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC), said today that the record of the Jan. 10 public hearing of the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) supported the commission's decision to grant the zone change needed for the industrial park.

"I think the record of this case will support the zoning commission's decision to decide whether a particular project will significantly deteriorate the quality of air," Castelman said.

Castelman presented his arguments this morning. Attorneys Bruce Beck and Anthony Pagano, who represent the seven plaintiffs, presented their arguments Thursday morning.

At the end of this morning's session, Judge Kline said to the attorneys, "Thank you for a very pleasant weekend." He was alluding to documents and evidence in the case that he will be reviewing.

"I understand that there is a desire for expediency. I will try to have my decision soon," the judge said.

In his presentation, Castelman challenged an argument by the plaintiffs that the PZC did not adequately review environmental concerns in approving the zone change.

"It is not the function of the zoning commission to decide whether a particular project will significantly deteriorate the quality of air," Castelman said.

He said that future large developments in the industrial zone would be subject to approval by the state Department of Environmental Protection.

Castelman spoke of the "legislative" nature of zoning decisions.

He said that the appeal case is not to decide on an industrial park, but to decide strictly on the approved zone change.

"The question is whether the

Gerald Ford meets with GOP friends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Gerald Ford, on a nostalgic first visit to Washington since leaving office, called a meeting today of old Republican friends from Congress and the party's national chairman.

The meeting with Republican lawmakers and GOP chairman William Brock started off Ford's second day in the city where he led for 22 years as congressman, vice president and President.

Ford spent 75 minutes Thursday in the Oval Office with President Carter getting "an update on domestic and international matters that concern a President and a former President."

"What's it like being out of office?" Ford asked.

"I enjoy what I'm doing," Ford told reporters, without specific mention of the reported plan to contract he has with NBC for television appearances over the next five years, the night clubbing he has done with Frank Sinatra and more opportunities to speak delivered on Carter's energy proposals and the Soviet weapons buildup.

"We have a fine mixture of work and pleasure and more opportunities to be with the family, so that makes me very happy," Ford said.

Some Republicans liked the idea, but Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., spoke for the Democrats when he described it as a "completely indefensible proposal."

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall told a House subcommittee Thursday the administration wanted an immediate 20 cent increase, which would raise the nation's minimum wage to $2.50 an hour.

Marshall also outlined a system of automatic future increases to bring the minimum wage to $2.75 on July 1, 1978, and $2.85 a year later. The system was much less generous than labor leaders and House Democrats were expecting.

Labor, Democrats outraged by Carter minimum pay plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Organized labor and congressional Democrats are outraged by President Carter's proposed minimum wage formula, charging the plan would keep millions of workers "permanently locked into poverty."

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall told a House subcommittee Thursday the administration wanted an immediate 20 cent increase, which would raise the nation's minimum wage to $2.50 an hour.

Property owner challenges industrial park zone change

By GREG PEARSON
Britain's Court of Common Pleas. Mrs. Shorts owns a 36-acre parcel that she wants to be divided by the boundary of the northeast section of the park. Twelve acres are within the proposed park and would be industrially zoned with the granted zone change. The other 24 acres are outside the park and would remain residentially zoned.

At the zoning hearing, Phelon said that such split zoning of the parcel could cause problems for Mrs. Shorts if the industrial park does not develop.

Phelon explained Thursday night that his client is not opposed to the plan, she is taking the action simply to protect her property.

"She would dearly love to see the park consummated," Phelon said of Mrs. Shorts. "She's really not trying to delay anybody. She just wants to protect herself."

He said, for instance, that if the first major zone change is overruled, and his client fails to appeal, there would be no industrial park, but Mrs. Shorts would be stuck with a residentially zoned parcel.

Subcommittee chairman John Dent, D-Pa., told Marshall the Democrats intend to enact a "more reasonable" plan. He said no self-respecting congressman could endorse a 20-cent hourly increase for low-wage earners after just getting a $13,000 yearly increase.

I-84-86 hearings are set

The Connecticut Department of Transportation (DOT) has scheduled two public hearings on plans for improving and connecting I-84 and I-86 in the East Hartford and Manchester areas.

The hearings, which will involve corridor and design plans as well as the impact on open spaces, are set Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Manchester High School Cafeteria, E. Middle Tpke., and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the East Hartford High School auditorium, Burnside Ave.

The plans call for widening I-86 from I-84 in East Hartford to north of W. Middle Tpke. in Manchester; connecting the existing sections of I-84 in Manchester and East Hartford; and widening I-84 between the vicinity of the Rt. 15 interchange in East Hartford and I-86.

Included in the plans are priority lanes for the exclusive use of buses and carpools as well as a bikeway system. Local access to the expressway network will be provided by interchanges at Roberts St. in East Hartford and at W. Middle Tpke. and Spencer St. in Manchester.

The project will require the acquisition of open space lands, consisting of about 27 acres of Veterans Memorial Park in East Hartford, about 2 acres of Wickham Park in Manchester, and about 9.6 acres of the Laurel Lake marsh in East Hartford and Manchester.

The project is eligible for financing with federal Interstate funds (90 percent federal to 10 percent state).

A plan showing the proposal and a copy of the environmental impact statement are on display in town clerk's offices in East Hartford and Manchester.

Maps, drawings and other information for the project are available at the consultant engineering office of

Tri-Town Players revive classic comedy 'Harvey'

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

The famous rabbit that isn't a rabbit and the equally famous man who isn't a man are back in town for an entertaining evening tonight and Saturday at 8:15 at Vernon Center Middle School on Rt. 30 in Vernon.

"Harvey," the well-known comedy by Mary Chase, is being presented by a lively cast of the Tri-Town Players.

The Pulitzer Prize-winning play made a hit on Broadway and later starred James Stewart in its movie version.

Through the play's clever dialogue and timing by Elwood P. Dowd and Howard Becker, Harvey (Dowd's name for his rabbit friend) becomes so real that it almost becomes visible in the eyes of the beholder — depending on the extent of one's imagination.

Dowd is a lovable eccentric who enjoys companionship with his mythical rabbit. By the end of the play, it's possible to believe that maybe most of us have, or would like to have, as convenient an invisible friend as Harvey, even at the risk of being considered eccentric.

Whenever Dowd grows the whiskers and smooths the ears of his six-foot two-inch invisible rabbit friend, or whenever he turns to it making a comment while reading aloud to it, you have little difficulty in seeing something that isn't there at all.

Dowd lives with his sister, Veta, and her daughter, Myrtle Mae in the Dowd family mansion. Although the women tolerate Dowd's eccentricity they find his presence (and his rabbit's) embarrassing to guests. The

About town New closing time set for main Post Office

Manchester's VFW Post and Auxiliary will have their annual dinner honoring past commanders and presidents April 2 at the post home. The event is open to members and friends. Reservations close Monday and may be made with Mrs. Cary Crane, 645-3600.

Bengston explained that the change is connected with a new sorting process under which outgoing mail will be sent to Hartford for sorting by machine. Outgoing mail will have to be in the Manchester post office before 6 p.m. if it is to be included in the shipment to Hartford. It will be sorted there and mail will be returned by 5 a.m. for distribution in town by carrier.

Bengston said that if mailers separate Manchester mail, it will be hand sorted in Manchester.

One mail slot in the post office will be reserved for Manchester mail for the convenience of those who need a Manchester postmark for legal reasons.

Elected

Miss Revlon is scheduled to be at the Caldor store, Tolland Turnpike on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. According to store manager Ron Sedger, she will give shoppers beauty tips and make-up demonstrations in addition to free samples of Revlon cosmetics.

For sale again

A dining room set that was sold by Watkins in 1959 is on display in Watkins windows and is for sale again. It is a reproduction of George Washington's Mt. Vernon dining room set.

It was first sold by Watkins on a special order of the Jack family. It has been in the possession of that family ever since. It had been in storage in recent years until Andy Jack restored it and Watkins agreed to display it for sale.

Receive service award

Abraham and Charlotte Elkin, franchise operators of the Dairy Queen-Brader store at 245 Broad St., have received American Dairy Queen Corporation's 25-year service award, according to Harris Cooper, president of the corporation.

The 25-year service award is a certificate and emblematic jewelry commemorating service to the Dairy Queen system.

Manchester police report

John B. Riley, 28, of 8J Rachel Rd., was arrested Thursday on a court-issued warrant charging him with third-degree larceny by possession and fourth-degree larceny (theft of services). The charges related to theft of a cable television converter unit and illegally tapping into a cable television line.

He was processed and released on a written promise to appear in court April 4.

David C. MacManus, 36, of 148 Lake St., was charged with disorderly conduct Thursday afternoon. The charge was related to attempts by MacManus to strike a police officer while investigating an incident at the home, police said. MacManus was later released on a $500 cash bond for court appearance April 4.

A burglary and theft of two sledge hammers was reported at Burr Nurseries at 420 N. Main St. Thursday. Police said there was no apparent forced entry to the nursery warehouse, but a locked closet had been broken into.

Rec centers end winter programs

The Manchester Recreation Department has announced that its winter recreation programs at the East Side Rec, West Side Rec, Community Y, and the various schools it used for its winter recreation programs will close Saturday.

The Adult Basketball Leagues and Co-Ed Badminton at Hill Jr. High School will end Thursday, March 31.

The Wednesday afternoon swim at Manchester High School will continue until May 27.

Teachers end walkout

HARTFORD (UPI) — Striking teachers, who kept Connecticut's four technical colleges closed four days, returned to classes today as their leaders resumed contract talks with the state.

About 160 members of the Federation of Technical College Teachers voted Thursday to end their illegal walkout under an agreement worked out earlier in the day at Hartford Superior Court.

The strike at all colleges in Hartford, Waterbury, Norwich and Norwich all shut down classes for the system's 3,000 students.

Teacher leaders had been ordered to appear before Judge Walter Sidor Thursday for violating his back-to-work order issued Monday.

Instead of fining the union $10,000 or jailing strikers, Sidor allowed the agreement but told teachers to return to court next Thursday and kept his restraining order in effect. The state reportedly had agreed to drop contempt proceedings as a part of the agreement.

"They're going back to work on the supposition that very, very soon we'll have a contract," said Edward Kearney of Waterbury, president of the federation local. The union and representatives of the college trustees resumed talks late Thursday and will continue until either another impasse is reached or a contract accepted.

Fence bids opened

A South Windsor firm is the apparent low bidder for a fence installation at 215 Oakland St.

Atlantic Fence of South Windsor submitted a bid of $1,077 for the four-foot high fence, which will cover a 300-foot stretch on the road. The fence is being installed between the existing sidewalk and stone wall for safety. Nine firms bid on the installation.

Media coverage

HARTFORD (UPI) — Suggestions the news media should discourage terrorist acts by ignoring them are a "bunch of nonsense," says syndicated columnist Carl T. Rowan.

"I think this is a bunch of nonsense that you can seize 140 people and ask the press not to cover it," Rowan said Thursday prior to a speaking engagement sponsored by a Hartford insurance firm.

Repairs real dam issue

Mark Twain might have said it: Everybody talks about planning, to be added to some, but nobody wants to do anything about it - not when it cuts close to home.

President Carter's run-in with the Congress over his plan to kill 19 water development projects, mostly dams, is only the latest illustration of this maxim. Handling him his first legislative defeat, an aroused Senate voted 65 to 24 to bar him from holding up any funds for water projects in the current fiscal year.

It has been argued that Mr. Carter was less than tactful by making his announcement without prior consultation with congressmen whose constituencies would be affected. Now that they are being paid $7,000 a year, senators and representatives more than ever want to show the folks back home how useful they are, and doling out generous helpings from the federal pork barrel has always been a jealously cherished way of doing it.

The fact is, however, that even if all 19 of these water-resource projects were shot

Feds outdo consumers

Economists used to point with alarm to the fact that America was becoming a "debt society." But you don't hear so many claims these days that the buy-now-pay-later syndrome is a dangerous and self-indulgent flaw in the national character.

Indeed, Uncle Sam could take some lessons in sound debt management from his nieces and nephews. In the past 15 years, the federal debt has increased nearly twice as much as outstanding consumer credit. Statistics compiled by one major bank credit card provide additional evidence that Americans exercise far more debt restraint and financial responsibility than their elected representatives.

Former guard urges support for park

Dear Sir: As a former guard and unofficial guide at the Dinosaur State Park for its infancy and for five additional years, I certainly had a most enviable opportunity of meeting and talking to people.

The geologists were there in great numbers - the scientists of different fields - world-wide travellers - tourists from all sections of these United States and bus loads of school children, boy and girl scout troops, the blind children, the crippled ones, retarded - and many more. The children have certainly impressed me the most by their enthusiastic approach and want for knowledge of this distinctive prehistoric gem and officially recognized by our U.S. Government as a National Landmark.

The blind children that came were thrilled beyond words of "seeing" for the very first time in their young active minds something out of the long distant past - something to talk about - something that only a child can visualize within their world of fantasy.

The crippled children came in their wheel chairs and other forms of conveyance - the thrill and their jabbering took them away from themselves if only for a short time, but also gave them a slight look into an extraordinary wonder of their world.

Mr. Editor - all that I have written

Can Congress fool Mother Nature?

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON - If federal environmental regulations are carried to a conclusion as logical as the regulations themselves, on May 31 - the nationwide deadline for compliance with primary standards of the Clean Air Act - we may see something like this:

"BULLETIN: Today federal authorities, acting at the request of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), arrested the following for non-compliance with U.S. clean-air standards: (1) The coastline of California's Monterey Peninsula, (2) All deserts in the United States, (3) Virginia's Great Dismal Swamp, (4) The nation's forests. Further arrests are imminent."

The charges? Monterey's balmy Pacific breezes kick up ocean spray which evaporates, leaving an unlawful level of salt particulates in the air. Desert winds, minus the water, do the same thing with sand. And the Great Dismal Swamp, along with forests and other heavy growths of vegetation, emit too many hydrocarbons into the air.

Ludicrous? You bet. But tell it to Congress. Its members are the ones who were stampeded by environmentalists into passing clean-air standards so stringent that not even Mother Nature can pass muster. Six pollutants regulated. Six pollutants are now regulated. In addition to particulates and hydrocarbons, they include carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxides, sulfur dioxide, and photochemical oxidant. With just two months to go before the "final" deadline for compliance with primary standards on them, EPA data indicate that nearly half of the country won't meet the particulates standard, nearly two-thirds won't meet the carbon monoxide standard, 10 per cent won't meet the sulfur dioxide standard, and nearly 90 per cent won't meet the oxidant standard.

The head of the EPA said last year, in fact, that only the Virgin Islands and American Samoa had reached all the primary standards.

Uncle Sam failed

While Uncle Sam has failed to fool Mother Nature, he has had somewhat better success in bringing industry into line with Capitol Hill's environmental edicts. But at what cost to other human values and national priorities such as low rates of inflation and unemployment and the development of new energy sources? Added expenses to companies, remember, are merely passed on to us in higher prices.

"The situation we have gotten ourselves into would be ridiculous if it were not so serious," writes Irving Kristol in a recent Wall Street Journal commentary. "We are much exercised - and quite rightly - by the fact that the OPEC monopoly has cost this country some $30 billion in increased oil prices since 1972."

Economic costs

"But in that time we have inflicted upon ourselves much larger economic costs through environmental and other regulations - and will continue to do so, perhaps at an increasing rate."

Echoing Kristol's concern is the executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, Charles J. DiBona, who argues that the problem is not regulation per se, but the setting of "zero discharge" standards that are impossible to meet without inordinate sacrifices.

"The money and effort required, says DiBona, "would cripple the nation's programs in other areas. The Brookings Institution estimates that compliance with proposed amendments to the Clean Air and Clean Water Acts by 1985 would cost this nation at least $50 billion." The figure - larger than the entire current federal budget - works out to $2,500 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Rules need rewriting. In an interview with Scripps League Newspapers, DiBona, a former deputy director of the White House energy policy office, added that unless these regulations are rewritten, "it will be impossible to open any kind of new plant in this country after May 31."

Instances of job- and energy-producing projects being torpedoed by questionable environmental priorities are numerous. Many of these projects die quietly. Others hit the headlines, such as the nearly completed $100-million Tellico Reservoir on the Little Tennessee River which has been stopped cold by a three-inch fish called the small darter.

It is strange indeed - but a commentary on our time - that the small darter means more to the government than the people living along the Little Tennessee who will now be denied new jobs, tourism, and hydroelectric power.

We all want a cleaner environment. But that desire must be balanced with our urgent need to create more jobs and energy and to hold inflation to a reasonable level. Otherwise, our planet will one day find itself a fit habitation for everything - except man.

Lenten prayer
Free us, Lord God, from sitting in the darkness of despair
Rather than standing in the light of your confidence.
From living in the past
From settling in complacency and apathy
Rather than pioneering in compassion and hope.

Free us, O God, from the fear of change
So that we may help make needed change.
From the dread of death so we may live eternal life, now.
In Jesus Christ we ask it all. Amen.

The anti-Sunbelt coalition

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - There were times last fall when a traveler on the campaign trail across the Northwest and Midwest might have been excused for thinking that the War Between the States had broken out all over again.
From Maine to Minnesota, politicians of every hue and stripe were saber-rattling on the stump, vowing to lead the charge against the infidels who had robbed their homeland of its former glory.

"Sunbelt" enemy
The enemy: The so-called "sunbelt" states of the old Confederacy and the new West.

The pretext for war: A belated realization that the nation's economic lifeblood has been seeping from north to south over the past 30 years in a flow accentuated by the policies and spending patterns of the federal government.

As long as times were good and jobs were plentiful, no one paid much attention to the steady migration of people and industry to the south and west.
Politicians plodded along familiar, parochial paths to re-election, looking out for the interests of their own cities, districts or states with nary a glimpse at their neighbors.

Good times collapsed
But the good times collapsed in the 1970s, and the cities and states of the industrial north suddenly discovered they no longer had the tax base or economic resiliency to cope with a recession.

Policitians from city hall to Congress began to feel the pinch, and to look for a villain. The sunbelt states provided a convenient whipping boy for the campaign season, but for the long haul, the federal government seemed a more promising target.

Form coalition
Last September, 204 members of Congress from 18 states stretching from Maine to Minnesota banded together in a coalition to promote the interest of the entire region.

With the advent of the 95th Congress, the coalition has begun to focus on specific federal programs and policies that affect the economic well-being of the Northeast and Midwest.

"We would like to see federal dollars used to smooth out some of the disparities that have developed between regions," said Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., chairman of the coalition.

Military outlays
Some problems have proved easy to pinpoint, such as the lopsided allocation of military outlays to the south and west. A coalition task force, in a letter to President Carter last month, angrily noted the Defense Department is seeking only $5 million next year for military construction projects in the Northeast and Midwest combined - while more than $58 million has been earmarked for Carter's home state of Georgia alone.

"We are concerned about the imbalance and are most anxious to cooperate with you to initiate corrective action," the task force leaders wrote Carter.
Formulas complicated
Other inequities are more difficult to identify. Formulas for allocation of federal grants in housing, community development, education and other programs are hideously complicated. But the coalition has begun a research program to analyze such formulas in terms of their regional impact, and to come up with proposals to rectify imbalances.
Harrington and other representatives of the group recently met with Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's chief issues adviser, and other key administration officials to plead for help for the Midwest and Northeast.

Sensitivity noted
"So far, they seem very sensitive to our views," Harrington said.
All of this unprecedented cooperation among the northerners is making sunbelt legislators decidedly edgy. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, told last week that southern and western members of Congress may soon form their own bloc.
It might not be a bad idea. As Harrington put it, "It's high time all of us in Congress break out of the bad habit of worrying only about our own districts and states and start looking at problems on a regional basis."

Morrison-Gagnon

Joyce Mary Gagnon and James B. Morrison, both of Manchester, were married Feb. 12 at Community Baptist Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Gagnon of 688 W. Middle Tpke. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Morrison of Calais, Maine. The Rev. Odo Stairs of Community Baptist Church performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Giana knit gown with flower and leaf lace trim and designed with gathered bodice and yoke outlined with lace and seed pearls, high tuckered collar, long fitted sleeves, high-rise waistline, and semi-circular skirt extending to a full chapel train. Her finger tip veil of imported silk illusion was edged in lace and attached to a lace Camelot cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons, statice, and white and peach roses.
Mrs. Jeanne Johnson of East Hartford was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Gagnon of Manchester, the bride's sister, and Penny Gagnon of Manchester, the bride's sister-in-law.
Andre Daigle of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were Stephen Gagnon of Manchester, the bride's brother; and Carmel Brumbach of Manchester.
A reception was held at the Marco Polo Restaurant in East Hartford, after which the couple left for the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. They are residing in Manchester. (McKinney photo)

Pancreas helps form insulin

DEAR DR. LAMB - How do you know when there is something wrong with the pancreas?
DEAR READER - Sometimes you don't. The pancreas from animals is used as sweeteners. The rounded head of the gland fits into the U-shaped first portion of the small intestine. The tail of the pancreas extends to the left. The organ is just under the stomach and rests against the spine.

In a way the pancreas is digesting itself with its own enzymes. Bloated help to confirm that the pain is from the pancreas and not from a ruptured peptic ulcer or any number of other problems that can cause acute belly pain.
Other individuals have chronic pancreatitis. A viral infection may involve the pancreas. Mumps is one example which may involve the neck glands, testicles and also the pancreas.

Gallstones with involvement of the bile duct may affect the drainage of the duct from the pancreas and set off inflammation of the pancreas.
Alcohol is a frequent cause of pancreatitis. Anyone with pancreatitis should not touch a drop of alcohol in any form. About half of the cases of pancreatitis have no known cause, infection, alcohol or gall bladder disease. The fourth most common cause of death from cancer in men is cancer of the pancreas.
Readers who want information about Gallstones and Gall Bladder Disease can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 49. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Owners throw curve ball at Finley

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Surprise! His fellow owners have thrown Charlie Finley a curve ball. They are taking no action to buy him out. Instead, they're going to let him sweat it out. So sure was Finley that the major league clubowners were readying a plan to buy his Oakland franchise and move it to Washington, D.C., the A's owner was already naming his price — $10 million.

But in their spring meetings Thursday, the owners instead rejected any plans for divisional realignment and refused to take any definitive action on a plan that would create two 13-team circuits with Finley's A's being sold to Washington interests and shifted into the National League. Although inaction appeared to rule the day, the owners' message to their longtime antagonist, Finley, was clear. They are not about to be stampeded into solving the over-crowded San Francisco Bay area problem by meeting any conditions or price demands from Finley. Baseball's return to Washington, which has been championed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a majority of the owners, will have to wait. "There has been considerable discussion for two 13-club leagues," conceded Walter O'Malley, board chairman of the Los Angeles Dodgers. "But two conditions must first be met — that a suitable owner be found for the Washington franchise and also if (Baltimore Orioles Board Chairman) Jerry Hoffberger gives his approval. Every time the question has been raised, he hits the roof." A forerunner to the 13-13 concept had been the American League's expressed desire to realign into three divisions of five, five and four teams as a means of solving its present unwieldy 14-team schedule. "The main purpose of these meetings was to consider the three division format," said MacPhail. "If we were to implement it for 1978, it would almost have had to be agreed upon right now because any schedule for next year has to be presented to the Players Association by June 15 for their approval. "After discussing it, the decision was not to go to three divisions by 1978." Meanwhile, in a related matter, Sterling Tucker, president of the Washington, D.C. City Council, made the first formal presentation for a return of baseball to the nation's capital since 1971 when the last franchise there was shifted to Arlington, Tex. "I told them, Washington is 'baseball ready,'" said Tucker. But until Charlie Finley comes begging on his hands and knees, major league baseball isn't ready for Washington, D.C. — again.

Tanana, Angels apparently set

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Tanana is just about ready and that means the California Angels are, too. Tanana is the 23-year-old, left-handed curveballer on whom the Angels are counting to team with strikeout king Nolan Ryan and give them the best 1-2 pitching punch in the American League. The Angels finished in a fourth-place tie in the AL's Western Division last season but acquired shortstop Bobby Grich, infielder Don Rosemary Casals returns ball at Garden. She defeated Virginia Wade in first round action.

Spring training
Baylor and outfielder Joe Rudi each re-signed draft deals which cost clubowner Gene Autry about $3 million. The addition of the three stars has made the Angels the co-favorites to win the Western title but they must prove they have enough pitching depth. The assumption is that both Tanana and Ryan will come close to 20 victories and their work this spring indicates they will. Tanana allowed two runs and nine hits while striking out seven batters in seven innings Thursday when he pitched for the Los Angeles Angels. He was the only pitcher to win the game. The Angels' bullpen was led by Tom Carrithers and Joe Kerrigan in a one-hitter which gave the Montreal Expos a 2-0 win over a split squad of Atlanta Braves. Bob Bellori's single off Carrithers was Atlanta's only hit. Cookie Rojas' pair of two-run singles led the Kansas City Royals to a 10-9 win over the Texas Rangers.

Women tennis pros 'attack' Billie Jean

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than any other person in tennis history, Billie Jean King was responsible for bringing women's tennis into big-time status and big-time money. Yet now the ladies who are reaping the fruits of King's labor are openly snapping at the six-time Wimbledon champion's decision to play in the same tournament with transsexual Dr. Renee Richards. "I'm disappointed with Billie Jean," said Chris Evert, the 23-year-old favorite to win the $50,000 Virginia Slims Championship this week. "Women should stick together. She's been fighting for us to stick together and talk it out and then she didn't do it. But I can understand her wanting to play in tournaments as much as she can." The only woman player at the Slims championship not critical of King was her longtime friend Rosie Casals. "Billie told me she felt that she was at a crucial stage in her game and that the tournament would give her the competition she needed," Casals said. "I think it's fine. It's important to her. In certain ways, it's important to her. In certain ways, it's important to her. In certain ways, it's important to her." "She (Richards) can play as soon as she passes the test," Stove said, referring to the sex chromosome test used in the Olympics.

Cinderella quintet set for Marquette

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Cinderella North Carolina-Charlotte 48ers, who marched from basketball obscurity almost overnight, take another giant step Saturday when they battle nationally renowned Marquette in the opening game of the NCAA semifinals. The two meet at 2:15 p.m. in the Omni with the victor meeting the winner of the 4:15 p.m. game. "We like to play 40 minutes of full speed basketball," said Tarkanian. "Our personnel dictates our play. We're not a big team." North Carolina goes into Saturday's play in the worst physical shape of any of the semifinalists. Center Tom LaGarde is out with a knee injury; second-team All-American guard Phil Ford is still bothered by an elbow injury which kept him out of most of the second half in last Saturday's East Regional final against Kentucky; and forward Walt Davis will play with a splint on the broken index finger of his shooting hand.

NCAA

When the NCAA playoff began, I figured there were 20 or 25 teams capable of making it to the final four," said Las Vegas Coach Jerry Tarkanian. "But, I figured (top-ranked) Michigan or Tennessee would be the winner in the Midwest. Charlotte (unranked this season despite a 28-3 record) was a surprise." Marquette Coach Al McGuire disagrees, saying, "Charlotte exposed itself when it went to the finals against Kentucky last year in the NIT. All four teams in this thing are on the upswing. We're all ready." The four NCAA semifinalists get their first look at the 15,000-seat Omni during practice sessions this afternoon. Marquette has the court from 1-2 p.m. EST, Las Vegas from 2-3, Charlotte from 3-4 and North Carolina from 4-5. The North Carolina-Las Vegas game should offer a stark contrast in offenses, especially if the Tar Heels are in the lead late in the game. North Carolina has averaged 94 ppg while posting a 27-4 record, but likes to slow down the tempo with its "four corners" delay offense while protecting a late lead. Lynn may be out of action for a week to 10 days after missing the five previous games with the other injury. Wise's status wouldn't be known until later today. "Not only did they lose two key players, the Red Sox also lost the game, 8-1." "That's the last time any of my players will take batting practice when we're playing a National League team," said Zimmer. "This

Smith standout in Braves' win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Randy Smith, who may be leaving Buffalo at the end of the season for the summer side of the NBA, revealed a fair sampling of his talents Thursday night. The 6-foot-3 guard scored 29 points, led the Coliseum record of eight steals and had seven assists as the Braves dimmed the Suns with a 107-102 victory. Smith, unhappy with his contract which expires at the end of the season, expects to be playing elsewhere next year. "I'll just wait until this summer and see what turns up," said Smith. The Bellport, N.Y., native had a strong supporting cast Thursday night as Buffalo snapped a four-game losing streak. Adrian Dantley had 17 points, Ernie DiGregorio 16, John Shumate 13 and George Johnston 11 as Buffalo outscored the Suns, 20-5, in a third-quarter burst after leading by just two at the half. Lynne was hampered by a knotted muscle in his right leg, suffered a moderate sprain of his left ankle Thursday in a base-running accident after being used as a pinch hitter because National League umpires would not let the Red Sox use a DH. Then pitcher Rick Wise came up with a bruised left ankle when he tipped a foul off his foot while taking batting practice.

Zimmer blasts NL stand on DH

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — Boston Red Sox manager Don Zimmer has blasted the National League's stand against the designated hitter after two of his players were injured while his club lost an exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates. Centerfielder Fred Lynn, already hampered by a knotted muscle in his right leg, suffered a moderate sprain of his left ankle Thursday in a base-running accident after being used as a pinch hitter because National League umpires would not let the Red Sox use a DH. Then pitcher Rick Wise came up with a bruised left ankle when he tipped a foul off his foot while taking batting practice.

Lynn may be out of action for a week to 10 days after missing the five previous games with the other injury. Wise's status wouldn't be known until later today. "Not only did they lose two key players, the Red Sox also lost the game, 8-1." "That's the last time any of my players will take batting practice when we're playing a National League team," said Zimmer. "This ly to left field had been caught when he jammed his spike in the dirt and tumbled to the ground. Dr. Joseph McPike examined Lynn at Winter Haven Hospital and diagnosed the injury after X rays proved negative. Lynn suffered torn tissue in his left ankle as the ankle started to swell because of hemorrhaging.

Whaler home skein ends

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Bearded veteran Bill Flett executed the hat trick and player-coach Glen Sather tallied one goal as Edmonton kept alive its hopes for a WHA playoff berth last night at the Hartford Civic Center.

The pair was instrumental in the Oilers' 5-4 success over the New England Whalers before 9,424 fans which ended the latter's modest five-game win streak on home ice. The loss just about killed the Whalers' hopes of winding up in third place in the final Eastern Division standings and that means the team will draw the flying Quebec Nordiques in the playoffs.

With seconds left, Mike Antonovich just missed the tying goal when his shot was wide and the Oilers were a happy bunch, especially Ron Musnick and Brett Callaghan, two ex-Whalers, who both had fine games. The latter collected three assists.

Flett, who started the season with Atlanta in the NHL, has averaged better than a point a game since joining the Oilers. He's the leading goal-maker with 29 and in the last 11 games the big guy has a dozen goals and six assists.

A $2,300 judgment claim was served on the Oilers by former player Wayne Carlton yesterday afternoon. A Hartford County deputy sheriff appeared at the Civic Center to take possession of the Edmonton equipment.

Carlton claimed the Oilers failed to reimburse him $2,300 for expenses incurred when traded by New England to Edmonton last year. The problem, however, was solved.

Irwin, Marsh tied for lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Last year, Hale Irwin helped his friend Graham Marsh correct a problem with his stance.

Whalever Irwin suggested must have worked because the two were tied going into today's second round of the $225,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"He suggested that I move my left leg a little and I have been playing much better for it," said Marsh, an Australian who technically is a rookie on the PGA Tour despite having won numerous tournaments.

Irwin and Marsh, the best of friends both on and off the course, held a one-stroke lead after firing a 6-under-par 65 Thursday.

Ben Crenshaw started today one stroke behind the leaders after touring the 6,655-yard Harbour Town Golf Links in a 5-under-par 66 Thursday.

Defending Masters champion Ray Floyd, who tells all who will listen that his game is better now than it was at this time last year, was two strokes back of the leaders along with Tom Watson, the second leading money-winner this year with $109,535.

Jack Nicklaus, who helped design the course with its narrow fairways flanked by pine trees and salt marsh, was in a crowd of players who finished the first round three strokes behind the leaders. With Nicklaus at 68, were Charles Coody, Jerry Pate, Danny Edwards, Lynn Litt and Leonard Thompson.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature 17-year-old girl. Last week I had plans to go to a movie with another girl. Last week I had plans to go to a movie with another girl. Last week I had plans to go to a movie with another girl.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday a salesman came to my door and showed me his product, and before I knew it, I had signed a contract to buy it. I have two years to pay, but now I'm afraid to tell my husband about the monthly installments.

DEAR ABBY: I don't think it makes any difference whether the friend who suddenly breezed into town was a guy or another girl. Breaking a date at the last minute as you "best friend" did was unfriendly.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of the business executive (or professional person) who has pictures of the spouse and family prominently displayed on his desk. No one else is interested, and if he or she has forgotten what his family looks like, he should take a better look at them when he gets home.

DEAR ABBY: I never know what to say when I am "introduced" to a gallery of pictures. I keep fighting the urge to say "I care."

DEAR ABBY: It doesn't take very long to say, "He loves me!" and there's an outside chance that some people do care.

Educators debate 'SLP'

By LINDA LOVERING Herald Correspondent
About 15 teachers and principals from Robertson and Coventry Grammar Schools attended Thursday night's Board of Education meeting to debate the effectiveness of the Sequential Learning Program (SLP) in Coventry schools.

James Sayers, fourth grade teacher at Coventry Grammar, told the board he was not satisfied with present coverage of the board's meeting with fourth grade teachers two weeks ago. He said other fourth grade teachers agreed with him.

Sayers read a "restatement" of teachers' feelings about the program as it affects the fourth grade. This is the first year the program was instituted at that grade level.

William McDermott, principal at Coventry Grammar, said coordination meetings with staff were organized to solve program problems. He urged Sayers not to forget the strengths of the program.

Vernon mayor pares service requests

As he had with all of his department budgets, Mayor Thomas Benoit had to pare requests made by several social service and human resources groups to which the town contributes.

The groups provide services to Vernon residents, usually on the basis of their ability to pay, and the town is asked to contribute to make up the difference.

the money recommended for the Hockanum Council is to allow it to obtain reimbursement under the Social Security Act for the cost of providing social services such as counseling for Vernon residents.

The mayor said the $500 he recommended would be used by CRT as local match for additional state and federal grants.

Hebron zoners delay hearing

Due to bad weather, the Hebron Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) decided to reschedule a public hearing on adoption of town zone descriptions.

The PZC will hold its hearing on the Alice Pomponow subdivision application for approval of three lots.

The PZC voted later to approve the subdivision, stipulating that access to the Belanger lot be from Deepwood Dr., that construction conform with a 1976 letter from Frank Richardson, sanitarian, and that any other building conform with regulations.

Richard T. McDonald and Joseph O'Brien discussed the possible resubdivision of property at East St. and Daly Rd. O'Brien would like to eliminate two previously approved lots and gain approval of three parcels.

WANT TO SELL YOUR HOUSE IN A HURRY?

- Here is a list of 5 important things you can do:
1. Place your home with a reliable agent. Selling your house in today's highly competitive market is no do-it-yourself exercise. You will receive maximum exposure.
 2. Price it right. Consider location, neighborhood and current market.
 3. Show To Best Advantage. Lights on in each room, greenery on the hall table, flowers in the living room, soft music, even a beautiful fire brightens a chilly day.
 4. Don't help your agent sell. Let him do the selling.
 5. Sell for the best offer. If you have appraised realistically, your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price.

Town seeking time extension on drinking water standards

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester is in the process of applying for an extension before new federal drinking water standards go into effect.

The standards, established as part of the state and federal safe drinking water act, are supposed to go into effect in June of this year.

Frank T. Jodanis, water and sewer administrator, said that he will request that town drinking water be exempt for four years, the maximum exemption permitted.

According to Jodanis, Richard Woodhull, principal water sanitarian in the Environmental Health Division, said that the exemptions will be granted in three categories—color, odor, and turbidity (clearness) of the water.

Jodanis said that water from wells is in good condition.

"Well-wise, we're clean. We have no real problem with wells," he said.

The problem is with drinking water that comes from reservoirs.

"Without filtration plants, there is no way to come close to meeting the standards," he said. A study done recently by Weston & Sampson, a Boston engineering firm, has recommended several plans for improving filtration of Manchester waters. The least expensive of the options would cost about $7 million.

A study committee of town residents has been established and met for the first time this week. The members were presented copies of the Weston & Sampson report, which they are expected to read by the committee's next meeting on April 12.

"With a complete filtration plant, we should have no problem meeting the standards," Jodanis said. He said that the exemption from standards would give the town four years to pass a bond issue referendum, design a filtration facility and build it.

The problem is with drinking water that comes from reservoirs.

"It's not unrealistic," he said of the timetable.

If the extensions for odor, color and turbidity are granted, the town should have little trouble meeting the standards of the act, Jodanis said.

One problem area could be the sodium level at the Love Lane well. "Some days it's o.k., other days it isn't," he said of the well and its sodium readings.

In another matter, Jodanis said that this year's budget for both the Water and Sewer Departments will be more detailed than in past years.

"It's a more complete budget than we've ever presented before. We went facility by facility and each one was evaluated," he said.

The Sewer Department budget includes detail on the cost of each water source involved in supplying Manchester residents.

Fran Taylor of the Water Department explained the reason for the detail in this year's budget.

"There's been some talk about one central (water) plant. This is a system to intelligently evaluate the system to see which areas are costing us 'capital' number of dollars," he said.

Jodanis added that both the water and sewer budgets are also in line with requests that the town develop zero-based budgeting.

He said that he and his department supervisors have worked on the budget since before Christmas. They finished the work this week.

"I don't regret the work at all. It's been a good experience. It's given everyone a better understanding of how the operations run," he said.

Thompson fete sold out

Guests attending the testimonial dinner for John Thompson will be required to present their tickets at the door. The event, which is sold out, will be held Thursday at the Army-Navy Club beginning at 6:30 p.m. There will be no tickets sold at the door.

U.S. Rep. William R. Cotter will be guest speaker at the Thompson dinner.

Thompson is being honored for his service as a town director and former mayor. He resigned from the Board of Directors last month when he became executive director of the Connecticut State Employees Association.

Deficiency bill signed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso has signed into law a bill to bail out state agencies who overspend their budgets and need more money to complete the year.

The $10.8 million package, signed Thursday, also includes funds to buy 300 new state police cars as well as money for corporate tax refunds and unemployment benefits.

The bill, traditionally known as the "deficiency bill," is an annual exercise designed to provide money to state agencies who spend more than they were given in their budget.

It was passed Wednesday by the Senate and last week by the House.

The law, the 13th measure signed by Mrs. Grasso this session, covers the budget year ending June 30.

Area police report

East Hartford
Charles L. Cosgrove, 17, of 15 Russell Dr., East Hartford, was arrested Thursday at the Bradley's Charter Oak Mall, and charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). He is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford April 11.

Coventry
Coventry Police picked up two juveniles Thursday after receiving a complaint that youths were trying to steal a car at the Rt. 31 shopping center.

The owner of the car said the two youths ran away when they saw the owner coming, but the car was considerably damaged. Police picked up the pair in the woods a short time later. They were referred to juvenile authorities and released to their parents.

South Windsor
Four boys, aged 13 to 15, were referred to juvenile authorities Thursday, South Windsor Police said. The four were allegedly involved in an incident earlier this month during which extensive damage was done at the Avery Street School.

Michael Pelaky, 24, of Walnut Trail, Coventry, was charged Thursday with failure to obey a traffic signal. He was involved in a two-car accident at Chapel and Ellington Rds. Police said the Pelaky car struck a car driven by Edward Partridge, 54, of Hartford. A passenger in that car, Mary Partridge, was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital with possible back or neck injuries.

Scott Lavoie, 18, of 46 Highview Rd., South Windsor, was charged Thursday with third-degree criminal mischief. Police said his car went off the road and was stuck in the yard at 1020 Pleasant Valley Rd. Lavoie was released on a non-surety bond for appearance in court April 4.

Vernon
Gary Blinn, 28, of 9 Tolland Ave., Rockville, was charged Thursday with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was released on his promise to appear in court April 13.

Climbing high at Mayberry
Patty Kelly, fifth grader at East Hartford's Mayberry School, climbs bars near the end of a long series of gym equipment. She took part in the school's Wednesday night gym show for parents. Physical Education Director Michael Gerich praised the equipment's effect on the children's growth. The show's title was "I can move, I am me." (Herald photo by Barlow)

Cleanup chairman selected

East Hartford
The East Hartford Conservation and Environmental Commission Wednesday named Bud Salemi chairman of the Hockanum River Cleanup Committee.

Salemi is a new member of the commission. He said the most he knows about East Hartford's part of the river is what he learned as a boy walking its banks.

His first act will be to call the past chairmen. He wants to know how they kept the river clean.

Austin Harlow, a volunteer town constable, told Salemi of the river barge.

The barge was really just a raft on barrets with an outboard motor and a winch. Townspeople would float the barge down the river pulling trash out of it and off the banks. The raft would carry it to a pickup site.

The raft's winch allowed for lifting ice boxes and stores out of the river, Harlow said.

Salemi said he would have to find that barge.

Land to be appraised

East Hartford
The Town of East Hartford will appraise 25 acres of land in the northeast corner of town before it decides to buy it.

William B. Dailey Jr., member of the Town Council and chairman of its real estate committee, said this week the land could be a good thing for the town.

It is at the eastern end of a 41-acre parcel now owned by the town. It might become a nature park.

Harry and Violet Ravalese wrote the town Feb. 18 to offer their 25 acres of open land. The Town Council referred the matter to Dailey's committee. The committee decided it wanted the land to extend the park.

"But we don't want the town to pay too much for the land," said Dailey. The appraisal figure will help them decide to buy or not.

Both parcels are open spaces. There is woods, marsh and meadows there. The town's golf course is separated from both parcels by another piece of land.

Closing sale rule asked

East Hartford
East Hartford must have the tools to control going-out-of-business sales, said Town Councilman Harry Egazarian this week.

He has asked the council's ordinance committee to study the West Hartford law on the sales. Atty. General Joseph J. DeStefano said the state Department of Consumer Protection, "The store had begun its sale in September. The state gave it up to three extensions, he said."

"There can be a lot of stuff going in the back door," he said.

The store should have to get a town permit from the police chief, he said. A state permit is not enough, he said.

Basketball event expands

East Hartford
The East Hartford Department of Parks and Recreation has announced that a basketball tournament for sixth grade boys will begin Saturday. The program has been planned for sixth graders who have less opportunity than seventh and eighth graders for membership and playing time on middle school teams.

The first games will take place at Penney High School Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

A special program for girls will be held in April.

Pee Wee results
Results of the March 19 Pee Wee tournament games were: Goodwin, 43; Mayberry, 18; Sunset Ridge, 19; Woodland, 13; Hockanum, 45; O'Connell, 24.

This week's semi-final schedule of games at Penney High School will match Goodwin against Sunset Ridge and Hockanum against O'Brien. All players and supervisors should arrive at 1:00 p.m.

Roller skating
The Department of Parks and Recreation announces that two roller skating sessions will be held Saturday at St. Mary's School Hall, 1451 Main St.

The afternoon session is from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m.; the evening session is from 7 to 9 p.m.

A $1.25 charge covers admission and skate rental.

Area town asks haste on I-291

By JUDY KUEHNEL
Herald Correspondent

Plans for J.C. Penney Co. distribution center in Manchester and the possibility of a South Windsor industrial park next to the Penney complex have caused growing concern in South Windsor about the traffic impact on local roads.

In an effort to avert a serious problem, Mayor Sandra Bender is sending a resolution to Gov. Ella Grasso, urging that the state "proceed with the utmost haste in the planning and construction of Interstate 291...in anticipation of a dramatic increase and change in area traffic patterns."

Mayor Bender told the Town Council this week she hoped the resolution would make the governor more aware of the traffic to be created by the proposed industrial growth of both Manchester and South Windsor.

"Our streets are not adequately prepared for such a drastic change," said Mayor Bender. "Plus the Penney complex and the industrial park will undoubtedly attract additional supportive and ancillary facilities."

Not all councilmen, however, felt the letter would have any effect.

"I don't think it's going to do any good," said Councilman Len Soroski. "I would recommend that you have a police car take you and the resolution, and drive right up to the governor's mansion. Otherwise it's not going to make one bit of difference."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Department of Transportation, the Capitol Region Council of Governments, the J.C. Penney Co. and Manchester's Board of Directors.

Area team is tops

The Blessed Sacrament CYO grammar school basketball team won the Manchester-East Hartford Deanean Championship this year.

In the state CYO playoffs they beat Lee CYO teams of Bristol and Meriden. But St. Anne's of Hartford stopped them.

The East Hartford team ended the season in third place in the state.

Educators debate 'SLP'

By LINDA LOVERING
Herald Correspondent
About 15 teachers and principals from Robertson and Coventry Grammar Schools attended Thursday night's Board of Education meeting to debate the effectiveness of the Sequential Learning Program (SLP) in Coventry schools.

James Sayers, fourth grade teacher at Coventry Grammar, told the board he was not satisfied with press coverage of the board's meeting with fourth grade teachers two weeks ago. He said other fourth grade teachers agreed with him.

Sayers read a "restatement" of teachers' feelings about the program as it affects the fourth grade. This is the first year the program was instituted at that grade level. The program is SLP in creating a lack of independence in children. He said children are too dependent on adults for reinforcement and direction. He said children have not developed good study habits and cannot cope with groups.

Children are restless, less motivated and sadly lacking in many basic skills," Sayers said. Sayers recommended a serious study of the SLP. He said the solution is reworking the program, making the best use of present materials and the possibility of alternative programs. School Supt. Arnold Elman said program revision has been going on since the program began. Teachers from other grade levels agreed, and Mrs. Tina Butler, third grade teacher at Coventry Grammar, said fourth grade teachers had not complained in school meetings about the program, but had praised the third grade program.

William McDermott, principal at Coventry Grammar, said coordination meetings with staff were organized to solve program problems. He urged Sayers not to forget the strengths of the program. Carol Hollings, kindergarten teacher at Coventry Grammar, said she also found some of the same problems with her students, but she felt that television and outside influences are responsible.

Clarence Edmonson, principal at Robertson, agreed. He said the poor functioning of students was due to the environment today. Mrs. Butler recommended that the fourth grade teachers re-evaluate the program as the previous grades have done.

Sayers said the program has no alternative for children who don't fit into the program. Carol Phillips, third grade teacher at Coventry Grammar, disagreed recommending that Charles Dana run for the position on the Zoning Board of Appeals vacated by William Grunke.

Mary Lou Lemaire was elected to the town committee. At its recent meeting, the GOP committee also voted to sponsor two teen-agers who will attend the Teenage Republican Convention (TARS) April 1 and 2 in New Britain.

Any teen-ager interested should contact Robert Morra, Joseph Gately or James Marshall for more details.

The committee also agreed to sponsor Douglas Oviatt to attend the Connecticut Intern Program in Washington, D. C. It donated $25 toward his expenses. While in Washington Oviatt will work under Sen. Lowell Weicker and Rep. Stewart McKinney and Ronald Sarasin of Connecticut.

commendation, $2,500. Hockanum Valley Community Council is sponsoring $2,000 and the mayor recommended the same; the mayor's Renewal Team of Hartford requested $2,000, the mayor recommended $500, Hockanum Extension Life Line (HELPL) requested $4,248 and the mayor recommended the same; North Central Regional Health Bureau requested $861, the mayor agreed.

The mayor explained each group's function. For the Child Guidance Clinic, fees are charged on a sliding scale. About half of the financial support for the agency comes from the state Department of Children and Youth Services. The balance comes from patient fees, charitable donations and grants from the town.

The agency had 545 cases this fiscal year. Of these, 118 or 22 percent were from Vernon. The mayor during the past year, devoting 5,012 hours. The fees are also on a sliding scale, according to ability to pay. Of the 5,012 hours provided to Vernon residents, 1,977 were fully reimbursed under the Medicare program and 43 hours were paid for by private clients.

The money recommended for the Hockanum Council is to allow it to obtain reimbursement under the Medicare program and 43 hours were paid for by private clients. CCM urges retention of teacher pact veto

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The state's municipalities, to no one's surprise, are asking lawmakers to kill a bill that would take away the power of city officials to reject teacher contracts.

The Connecticut Conference of Municipalities, which represents the state's 169 cities and towns, Thursday asked the legislature's Education Committee to reject a bill that would change the current system.

Seeks office
HARTFORD (UPI) — The Department of Public Works is seeking to buy a large office building within one mile of the Capitol for use as additional office space for legislators.

WANT TO SELL YOUR HOUSE IN A HURRY?

Here is a list of 5 important things you can do:
1. Place your home with a reliable agent. Selling your house in today's highly competitive market is no do-it-yourself exercise. You will receive maximum exposure.
2. Price it right. Consider location, neighborhood and current market.
3. Show To Best Advantage. Lights on in each room, greenery on the hall table, flowers in the living room, soft music, even a beautiful fire brightens a chilly day.
4. Don't help your agent sell. Let him do the selling.
5. Sell for the best offer. If you have appraised realistically, your asking price should come pretty close to your selling price.
