News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi! Well, like I said this past Wednesday, by the time you're reading this, our big "Showboat" presentation will be on its way. One day down, ready for the second by 8 p.m. tonight, and the finale at 2:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Because this column has to be written on Thursday, I can't give you the full story on how things are going. I do know, however, that for all shows we do have a few tickets to sell at the door, but my advice to you is don't wait too late for either tonight or Sunday or you may not be able to buy a ticket.

Also, for you folks with tickets, my advice is to get there early for the best seats. The seats are very comfortable, and to get a decent seat, it's worth getting there early. We do reserve a couple of rows for special guests and hold them until fifteen minutes to curtain time.

With all the work our staff and all the members of the show have been doing lately, there hasn't been too much time to talk about too many other things. However, the action starts with Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes with the following results: Men Class A (over 150 average) high triple and single, Clarence Peterson 231-84; Men Class B (130 average and under) high triple, Ray Bernstein, 450; high single, Vic Hurd, 181; Women Class A (over 150 average) high triple, Mary Picard, 382; high single, Betty Miller, 153; Women Class B (100 average and under) high triple and single, Bert Chulow, 123-313.

Pinocchio, bridge
On Wednesday, we had 36 players for pinocchio in the morning with the following winners: Rene Maire, 601; Sam Schors, 588; Helen Silver, 587; George Last, 587; Cecile Benson, 566; Robert Schubert, 556; Helena Gavello, 551; Joseph Carlin, 550; Ann Haupp, 549.

In the afternoon it was bridge games and the lucky winners were: Marianne Herdic, 3,990; George Last, 3,280; Katherine Ellsworth, 3,010; Florence Hayden, 2,850.

Our heartfelt condolences to Robert Stone and family whose mother, Anna Stone, passed away this past week.

Mini-bus
By the way, I guess I have to make one point perfectly clear about the use of our Mini-bus. These seniors, along with a lot of help from outside organizations and individuals, raised the money to purchase this vehicle. The main reason for the Mini-bus is to pick up persons not on our regular bus route, and bring them to and from our programs. We have graciously extended its use to take our local seniors to various places such as doctors appointments, mariners, etc. This we do as an added favor and only when it will not interfere with its basic reason.

Now it seems like some people think it's a taxi cab or something that, when they need it, we should drop everything to satisfy them. Therefore, we announced certain rules would be enforced in the use of the Mini-bus. We cannot and will not take any person and make two, three or four stops with them and wait 15 p.m. We are just too busy and do not have that time. We do take a person on a special necessary trip but we leave them there and tell them to call our office when they are ready to go back home. We also tell them there may be a delay in picking them up for the return trip, due to other demands of the vehicle.

So, please, we are trying to help as

Golden Rule used as theme of Christian Science talk

"Great changes for good in human affairs" result from understanding the divine law behind the Golden Rule, was the theme of a public lecture by William H. Alton, a Christian Science lecturer and teacher from New York City, Tuesday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist in Manchester.

To obey the Golden Rule, he said, "We need to at least glimpse one another's spiritual identity. Otherwise we're stuck with all the trouble-making unlovable qualities which underlie individual and world strife."

Every individual can make an "enormous contribution to bring about a better world for ourselves as individuals," he said.

"How important it is that we really understand the divine law underlying the Golden Rule, and obey it to the full. Only in this way can all turmoil be replaced with love that is everywhere present and available. We are being called upon to put divine love first in our lives, to love ourselves because we are part of divine love's plan, and to accept the true and lovable identity of everyone else.

"Then we'll not only find ourselves being loved and at peace, but we'll also bring love and peace to all mankind," he concluded.

Meany's race horse stumbles

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — What kind of horse can you buy in this city for $8 million? Not a very fast one, as George Meany found out the other day when he entered his, named Nifty Ninety-Fifth, in the year's first big race and the filly stumbled and lost.

Law vs. justice

If a man walks into a police station and says he has committed a crime, the police can book him. If later, however, he refuses to repeat the confession, his earlier admission of guilt may not be introduced as evidence against him.

This is the thanks to the U.S. Supreme Court's 1966 Miranda ruling, which to many people carried the Sixth Amendment guarantee of the right to counsel in a criminal prosecution, as well as the definition of "illegal evidence" to an absurd extreme.

Critics of Miranda lately thought they had a good case for having the court overturn or at least modify the ruling. It was a particularly emotion-arousing case, involving the sexual molestation and murder of a 10-year-old girl on Christmas Eve in Iowa in 1968.

The suspect, who was later convicted, had actually led police to the girl's body.

Unfortunately, in persuading him to do so, the police broke a promise made to his lawyer not to question him in the lawyer's absence. Because of this, the Supreme Court, by a 5-4 vote, has thrown out the conviction and ordered a new trial, in which the way the girl's body was found may not be mentioned.

There is also an incidental question as to how the Supreme Court thinks the defendant in this case is now to receive the fair trial he supposedly did not receive the first time. Any prospective juror who reads the newspapers will know the details of the first conviction, and although it will not be in the trial record, it will inevitably be in his or her mind.

There is no reason why we cannot retain Miranda and all the other hard-won rights that have been established in the past decade. But there is also no reason why legality cannot be tempered with common sense.

We certainly cannot permit the torture of criminal suspects. But we ought to be able to determine in each individual case whether the circumstances surrounding the discovery of certain evidence violated the constitutional rights of the accused.

The administration of justice in this country is being further and further removed from the people. The Supreme Court's decision in the Iowa case is another step in this process, the possible ultimate consequences of which are disturbing to contemplate.

Today's thought

Meditations on the general thanksgiving

Today with modern mechanism and mass organization, we often hear it said that the individual counts for very little. We hear of group pressures and organizations which claim that the group is more important than the individuals that comprise that group.

And do we not know also of the determining power for righteousness of one man like St. Francis of Assisi? Gratitude is always a test of a person's real character. And often the true test of character is shown in the situations where we have the opportunity to rise to the occasion. Gladstone could not rise to the occasion when he made his last speech to the House of Commons after 60 years of able leadership. He was peevish and personal, instead of being gracious, noble, generous and thankful. What a way to write finis to a career!

Do a person's deeds match his words? In Christ, both deeds and words always ring true. Sometimes great men exhibit some mental quirks or juvenile judgments. Nobility, generosity, and gratitude are often needed and found sadly lacking. Simple gratitude is the crown of Christianity.

Can we rise to the occasion of life? Submitted by The Rev. John D. Hughes St. George's Episcopal Church Bolton

the picketing bill was to be a prelude to repeal of state "right to work" laws and other big labor plums. Several fortuitous things happened, however, to prick labor's balloon and send this bad piece of legislation to the dustbin.

Overconfident First, labor was overconfident. Rep. Frank Thompson, a New Jersey Democrat and chief sponsor of the bill who reportedly received nearly $30,000 from organized labor last year, symbolized labor's cockiness in opening the floor debate on the measure: "...I do sincerely believe that after this year, we will be — to paraphrase the remarks of one great American — free at last of this matter."

Thompson's defends bill "The essence of the bill," argued Thompson, "is that it would permit workers who have a dispute with their own employer to picket their employer, economic allies at a common construction site." He added that "all that the bill really does is provide for union workers in the construction industry the same rights which have long been accorded to industrial unions and their members."

Rep. Mickey Edwards (R-Okl.) however, spoke for many when he said "calling this a bill for equal treatment of workers is like calling a pork chop a salami in order to sell it at a delicatessen."

Basic rights involved The bottom line for most opponents was voiced by Rep. Philip Crane, an influential conservative Republican from Illinois: "The First Amendment to the Constitution grants to all Americans the right to associate with any organization they wish without penalty. Implicit in this constitutional guarantee is the right of all Americans not to join any organization with which they disagree or in which they have no interest, again without penalty."

Although big labor is still reeling from its stunning defeat, there is no doubt it will now pull out all the stops to try to pull the rest of its goals into law. Whether this setback signals a mere knockdown of those hefty demands or a real knockout remains to be seen. * SCRIPPS LEAGUE NEWSPAPERS 1977

Carter stood aside Labor's second mistake was in counting on President Carter to use his credits on Capitol Hill to give the measure a boost. Still smarting after recent confrontations with Congress, Carter stood aside.

More conservative plan needed for connector cannot recall ever being caught in a traffic jam on these roads. Will there ever be enough traffic on I-84 between Manchester and Providence to warrant this massive connector? Based on the overwhelming number of people at the hearing from towns east of Bolton, Notes who spoke against this project I must seriously question whether I-84 will ever be completed.

What does the word "saint" call to your mind? A long-robed figure with a halo? One isolated in a monastery, unapproachable by the world? A nun ministering to the sick in a hospital? Anyone who goes about doing good? It may be any one of these or all of them. It may be you.

Death bed wit Samuel Upham of Drew University was known for his witty sayings. Upham's wit even at his death was publicized well into the twentieth century through the Stylites column of Hartford Luccock, which some of you may have enjoyed reading in the "Christian Century." He picked up this bit of tradition while teaching at Drew a decade after Upham.

So then we are not different from others in that we are chosen for greater honor, greater prestige, more glory in this earth; we are different in that we are chosen for a greater task and for a greater service. The "saints" are saved to serve (taken from Barclay, "The Daily Study Bible—Acts").

the picketing bill was to be a prelude to repeal of state "right to work" laws and other big labor plums. Several fortuitous things happened, however, to prick labor's balloon and send this bad piece of legislation to the dustbin.

Overconfident First, labor was overconfident. Rep. Frank Thompson, a New Jersey Democrat and chief sponsor of the bill who reportedly received nearly $30,000 from organized labor last year, symbolized labor's cockiness in opening the floor debate on the measure: "...I do sincerely believe that after this year, we will be — to paraphrase the remarks of one great American — free at last of this matter."

Thompson's defends bill "The essence of the bill," argued Thompson, "is that it would permit workers who have a dispute with their own employer to picket their employer, economic allies at a common construction site." He added that "all that the bill really does is provide for union workers in the construction industry the same rights which have long been accorded to industrial unions and their members."

Rep. Mickey Edwards (R-Okl.) however, spoke for many when he said "calling this a bill for equal treatment of workers is like calling a pork chop a salami in order to sell it at a delicatessen."

Basic rights involved The bottom line for most opponents was voiced by Rep. Philip Crane, an influential conservative Republican from Illinois: "The First Amendment to the Constitution grants to all Americans the right to associate with any organization they wish without penalty. Implicit in this constitutional guarantee is the right of all Americans not to join any organization with which they disagree or in which they have no interest, again without penalty."

Although big labor is still reeling from its stunning defeat, there is no doubt it will now pull out all the stops to try to pull the rest of its goals into law. Whether this setback signals a mere knockdown of those hefty demands or a real knockout remains to be seen. * SCRIPPS LEAGUE NEWSPAPERS 1977

Carter stood aside Labor's second mistake was in counting on President Carter to use his credits on Capitol Hill to give the measure a boost. Still smarting after recent confrontations with Congress, Carter stood aside.

More conservative plan needed for connector cannot recall ever being caught in a traffic jam on these roads. Will there ever be enough traffic on I-84 between Manchester and Providence to warrant this massive connector? Based on the overwhelming number of people at the hearing from towns east of Bolton, Notes who spoke against this project I must seriously question whether I-84 will ever be completed.

Wings of Evening By CLIFF SIMPSON The triumphal entry How recently have you read one of the accounts of Palm Sunday in the Gospels? Mark gives it to us in eleven short verses.

Potter praised To the editor. Eric Potter now retiring from his position as town planner for more than eight years, really deserves a great measure of thanks from the townspeople whom he has served so well.

Trail Blazers make playoffs first time

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Portland Trail Blazers made it over the first hurdle Friday night.

"It was a good win and a good achievement," said Blazers Coach Jack Ramsay, whose squad defeated Golden State 109-88 to qualify for the NBA playoffs for the first time in the club's history.

"Now we have to take the steps necessary to keep it going," he added. "All I want us to do now is to play as well as we can. It doesn't matter who we play. If we play well, we're going to win."

Bill Walton scored 30 points and brought down 14 rebounds to spearhead an evenly balanced

Portland attack.

"Walton is outstanding," said Warriors Coach Al Attles. "I really sympathize with any guy who has to play against him. Our people did all they could."

With Portland up 53-44 at the half, the 6-foot-11 center reeled off eight straight points to start the third quarter as the Blazers began to pull away.

But the slick shooting of Gus Williams and Rick Barry, who finished with 25 and 24 points respectively, brought Golden State to within eight midway through the final period. Portland then ran off 13 straight points to seal matters.

Elsewhere, Indiana clipped the New York Nets 89-88, Philadelphia

Sign of the times

Four years ago the average salary of a Boston Red Sox player was $46,890 with just two members of the cast reaching the $100,000-or-better plateau. Today, there are 15 members of the 25-man squad drawing $100,000 or better in annual salaries and the payroll has skyrocketed to approximately $120,000 per man. The team payroll is in excess of $1 million, up $2 million in three years.

The Red Sox must attract 1.5 million fans to Fenway Park this season to break even.

Ticket prices have been increased 50 cents per ticket and Boston will have to draw two million fans just to rubbed several red welts on his body. Twice Gilmore made dunk shots and each time he executed the slam-dunk which left the basket supports rattling. John Havlicek, who is not making a decision about retiring until after the upcoming NBA playoffs, the Celtic veteran can still shoot with the best but he's lost a few steps to age and two knees that have to be swathed in ice packs after every game. Connecticut Goli Land, featuring a pay-three course, is open for the season with Ted Wagner returning as pro. Wagner doubles as golf coach at Rockville High.

Full house likely

Red Sox expect to play before a capacity crowd Thursday afternoon against Cleveland with Ferguson Jenkins the starting pitcher. It will be the 58th opener at historic Fenway Park. A dozen wheelchair marathons will take part in the Boston Marathon April 18 with Bob Hall the favorite. The latter has competed in the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester the last two Thanksgiving. Manchester Recreation slow pitch softball program starts Monday, May 1. The Rec has abandoned plans to run a Sunday morning softball league and a double team at UConn this spring. The Red Sox have been baseball's best drawing franchise for a number of years.

It should be interesting to see if both bids can be met before the curtain falls in the 1977 season.

A championship team could be the answer but few, if any, are picking Boston to dethrone the New York Yankees.

Ligittane seven-footer

Artis Gilmore, in his first year with Chicago in the NBA, is a legitimate 7-2 and with Afro, naturally, is even taller. After four years in the ABA, Gilmore is rapidly establishing himself as one of the premier pivots in the game. Boston's Dave Cowens had to work extra hard to keep Gilmore away from the basket. Cowens won the individual battle, 20 points to 15 in 10 rebounds to 11, but admitted it was no picnic. "He's all arms and legs, and all elbows," the Celtic star said as he ended the game.

Three major threats to Olympic Games

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI)—Lord Killinan said Saturday commercialism, soaring costs and politics posed the three greatest threats to the Olympic games and warned that the International Olympic Committee would have to tackle the problems soon if the games were to survive.

The IOC president, addressing journalists at the end of a week of meetings between his nine-man executive board and national Olympic committees from 90 countries, predicted the problems would become sharply outlined next year when the IOC meets next year to choose sites for the 1984 Olympics.

"One of the reasons we have problems has been the very success of the games, which has grown enormously," said Killinan.

"The three types of problems we have are all growing commercialism and commercial pressures on competitors, the escalating costs of staging games," Killinan said.

"I shall be interested to see how many cities apply for the 1984 Games. At one time there were a very great number."

IOC sources said, at one time, almost a dozen cities had shown interest in the 1984 Games, but the financial and the political problems experienced in Montreal had put more of them off.

One IOC executive source said Tehran, once a front-runner for the choice, had cooled considerably about the idea and might not even file a bid, the deadline for which is September 15.

"It's not only the money. I have two things in the back of my mind making me play a little harder," Irwin said.

"I played probably as good a first 10 holes today as I've played in a while," Irwin said. "I didn't have my game in too good a condition at the start of the year."

Edwards, who has six finishes this year in the top 20 and earnings of $25,850, also made it clear he is hungry for a win.

"If I get to the point where I can

Five-year pact for Jim Palmer

NEW YORK (UPI)—After a brief separation, Jim Palmer and the Baltimore Orioles are back together.

The brilliant right-hander, who had said he may have outlived his usefulness with the club, Friday signed a five-year contract estimated between $1.25 million and $1.5 million.

The money really wasn't a factor," said Palmer, who had indicated otherwise 24 hours earlier. In last year's contract Palmer had performance clauses based on the number of home runs and total number of innings pitched.

General Manager Hank Peters and Palmer both confirmed there had been no change in the Orioles' monetary offer, but modifications had been made in some bonus contingency clauses.

"We had a good, long talk about a lot of things," said Peters. "We reviewed the proposal that he had made and agreed to some minor modifications. The contract is not signed, but we have a verbal agreement and a handshake. The formal signing will take place after the club returns to Baltimore."

All of which brings great relief to the Orioles, who heavily depend on the arm of the three-time Cy Young winner.

Earlier, a frustrated Palmer said of his status with the team: "I don't know what I'm doing here. I don't even know if I'm going to be here."

"If you have to threaten to play out your option to get the money, then I have to think the relationship I've had with this club is not very meaningful."

The Orioles' signing of outfielder Ken Singleton for a five-year pact at a reported $1.1 million touched off Palmer's sour feelings.

Palmer, who has played 11 years with Baltimore, was on the brink of signing a five-year pact when he learned the figures in his contract were similar to those in Singleton's.

"Believe me, I don't begrudge Ken a thing," said Palmer of the outfielder who last season batted .278 with 13 homers and 70 RBIs. "But you have to wonder what criteria they are using to pay players. Is it performance or threat of leaving?"

Elsewhere around the camp, Robin Yount and Sesto Lezcano hit homers to lift Milwaukee to a 7-6 win over Seattle. Carl Williams, who played by Oakland this week, belted two homers and knocked in seven runs as the A's bombed San Francisco, 16-4.

Home runs by Larry Hise and Kuskic carried Minnesota to a 4-2 victory over Montreal. Rookie Ray Knight and Bill Plummer homered to push Cincinnati past the White Sox, 2-1.

Joe Zeb's three-run blast paced Kansas City to a 12-9 decision over Pittsburgh. Wilbur Lynch led fielding stars gave Houston a 1-0 squeaker over Texas. Andy Roddick allowed one hit in six shutout innings as Philadelphia topped St. Louis, 2-1.

The Cubs routed the Braves, 10-4. Reggie Jackson had three hits and drove in two runs as the Yankees edged Baltimore, 3-4.

Young Eagles set for game Tuesday

By LAD AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Young, extremely so; that will be the makeup of East Catholic's 1977 baseball team. Tuesday afternoon in New Britain against HCC foe St. Thomas Aquinas.

An illustration of how young Coach Jim Penders' Eagles will be is behind the plate where freshman Dave Bottaro gets the nod. East's lone experienced receiver, senior Mark Dumais, has had trouble throwing and will be utilized as either designated hitter or in left field.

What also is inexperienced is the pitching staff where only senior right-hander Frank Greene, 5-11 a year, and junior southpaw Kevin Martin, 6-1, have varsity experience.

The rest of the pitching staff is made up of sophomore right-hander Ken Braza, who's impressed with his control thus far, sophomore left-hander Craig Stousser, junior right-hander Jim Dakin and freshman pitcher Pete Kiro, the latter with the best velocity and best assortment of pitches already. They're young, but Penders notes, "pitching could be the team's strong suit. There is a lot of depth and I've been impressed by their control."

Around the infield, junior Don Martin will be at first, senior Mike Furlong at second, senior John Murphy at shortstop and senior Tom Boland, who has come along well defensively, at third. Junior Mark Hopper is listed as a utility infielder and catcher. Sophomore Howie Furlong, Mike's younger brother, also is working behind the plate.

Senior Tom Cerbo, who cycled four home runs last season when East won eight of 18 starts after Namath led the New York Jets to an astounding 16-7 record in the previous year, will be the right fielder. Kiro, "because he can swing the bat and is the fastest kid on the National Amateur Football League, also is working behind the plate."

"I've been impressed by their control."

"This will be a hungry crew, one which will be enjoyable to work with. The biggest drawback, though, is the schedule which is highly competitive. It's one of those years where all clubs (opponents) seem to have everybody back. If the kids don't get down on themselves after a loss or two, as the year goes on we will definitely get stronger," added East's coach, beginning his ninth year.

Schedule: April 5 Aquinas, 9 St. Paul, 12 Windsor Locks, 15 Bulkeley, 16 Xavier, 20 South Windsor, 22 St. Paul, 26 South Catholic, 28 Albert A., 30 Northwest Catholic, 11 May 2 Gilbert, 5 Windsor Locks, 7 Aquinas, 9 Rockville, 14 South Catholic, 17 Northwest Catholic, 20 Xavier, A.

Completed 258 of 491 passes, both league highs, for 4,007 yards and 26 TDs.

Betty Burfield, an Auburn-haired New Yorker who now lives here, and Carol Mann were among the few winners of the $240,000 winners Circle tournament Friday.

Burfield had a two-stroke edge over Mann with 72-115, one under par for 36 holes—and loomed as the favorite for the $38,000 first prize to be awarded Sunday after 72 holes.

Mann, who hasn't won a tournament since 1975 but said she "now in an upcycle," shot a 71 for a 145 total.

There was a six-way tie for third at 146 among Cathy Whitworth, Ai-yu Tu, Joanne Carter, Jan Stephenson, Amy Alcott and Pat Bradley.

Defending champion Judy Rankin, who was a four-way tie for first at 72 after the blowing sand, was angry about the blowing sand. She said she thought play should have been suspended for a couple of times because of the sand blowing out there.

Part of her anger may have been her 148 hole when she hit her tee shot out of bounds. She took a five-over par 77 for a 149 total.

She didn't get any second her motion about suspending play, but some of the other pros said the wind was bad.

Stephenson said, "It made me so

Meeting set on mini-mall finances

A special meeting of bankers and Town Manager Robert Weiss and Kenneth C. Burkamp to discuss Burkamp's difficulties in financing his mini-mall on Main St. is scheduled for Thursday at 10 a.m. in Weiss's office.

Burkamp explained to Weiss that because of the difficulty in obtaining financing, he may be forced to accept any available tenant rather than be selective as he has been up to now. He said he may have to accept any tenant, even if they offer the type of business operation detrimental to the downtown area, for the sake of additional rental income.

Burkamp bought the former Grant's store in December 1975 and has been renovating it since then. Several stores have opened in the mall, but the goal is 25 to 30 stores. He said he has already exceeded his financial resources by about $27,000. Burkamp has run into other snags in the project. The most recent was a court order which overruled a decision by the Zoning Board of Appeals to allow a liquor permit for a restaurant in the mall.

Burkamp requested the meeting to seek an alternative solution to the financing problems. Weiss agreed to conduct the banking officials and schedule the meeting. Weiss said Friday he is not sure what, if anything, the meeting can accomplish to help Burkamp.

The officials who have been asked to the meeting are William H. Hale, president of Hartford Savings & Loan, William A. Moorhouse, assistant vice-president and manager of Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., Robert B. Bonner, manager of First Federal Savings, Francis S.

Westhill Gardens Fellowship will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m. in Herrmann Hall, Bluefield Dr. The Rev. Kenneth Gustafson, pastor of Calvary Church, will lead a devotional program. Refreshments will be served. All residents of Westhill Gardens are invited.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will have a service of the Holy Eucharist, 7 a.m. Monday at 10 a.m. at the church.

The New Life Mission will take place today and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at South United Methodist Church and not at 7 p.m. as reported.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to submit a thought in response to your letter, HAVING DOUBTS, who felt that God was punishing her by "taking" both her parents on days that called for celebrations. (Her birthday and wedding anniversary).

My brother-in-law died on his wife's birthday. At the funeral service, the minister suggested that we think of it as the husband's birthday, too; the birth of a new spiritual awakening of a loved one who was continuing his journey, and returning home to his Father's house.

It is possible that our purpose here has been achieved each of us when our purpose here has been achieved, surpassing anything that human senses could discern, including the most devout living relationships.

DEAR RUTH: Thank you for a beautiful letter. It brings to mind this eloquent poem by Judith Matteson:

To Live Is comprehending death; To see the majesty of snow Is to know That it will disappear, And leave it.

DEAR ABBY: May I respond to the woman who signed herself HAVING DOUBTS? On my birthday, God took my 4-year-old twin daughters. They were playing hide-and-seek with a little friend, and both of them "hid" in an abandoned ice box that had been stored in a neighbor's garage. We searched them frantically for several hours, but by the time we found them they had both suffocated.

On Christmas Eve, my beloved mother died. On our 25th wedding anniversary, my husband and I received the news that our only remaining daughter had been killed in an automobile accident - on her honeymoon! Somehow my husband and I continued to believe in the wisdom and goodness of the Lord. And we still do.

NEVER A DOUBT

Win at Bridge Hand falls for lack of bid

No one paid much attention to East's play. East knew he had played the right card, but North and South were so busy arguing about their bidding that no one stopped to compliment East.

There was really no cause to argue. North had a tough choice at his second bid. Three spades and even four spades were possible choices, but North had elected to bid two notrump. This left South with a choice between a pass and a raise to three notrump.

South didn't have a singleton anywhere in his hand. He only had 12 high card points, but his hand was going to take six or seven tricks at either spades or notrump.

We would have had three notrump because we are optimistic and three notrump really fits in.

Ask the Jacobses

A Kentucky reader wants to know if it is ever proper to give your partner when you are in a bad position.

The answer is "Yes" but the chance does not come so very often. Here is one time: Your partner bids six of a suit and you have the other three aces. You can surely raise him to seven.

Berry's World

PIECES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're buying anything major today, make sure it has an ironclad guarantee. And I mean written, not verbal.

LIBRA (Oct. 23-Oct. 31) Don't make decisions that speak for your mate today. It could be that his or her opinion is diametrically opposed to yours.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) If you're ignoring someone today, you're obligated to you, you could be embarrassed today when they ask you how come.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Be prepared to back up what you say today with irrefutable proof. Your mate may think you're bluffing, but if you can't back up your words, you'll be embarrassed today when they ask you how come.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) It appears you haven't learned from past mistakes. You could be playing the wrong game today. Stop playing for yourself today.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Spot-check your work of a critical nature being done by your employees today. Lex inspection may mean rejection of effort.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't take on opponents who outpace you today. You could easily defeat your opponent today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Go along with the majority today, rather than trying to convert them to your thinking. It can be painful to do so on this day by yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) If you're ignoring someone today, you're obligated to you, you could be embarrassed today when they ask you how come.

Two lady missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have been assigned to work in the Manchester area.

Sister Janice Bury and her companion, Sister Becky Fife are two of 250 missionaries currently laboring in New England. Both are 22 years old and are native Californians.

Before entering the mission field, Sister Fife, received her B.A. degree from Brigham University in Provo, Utah, in early relations. Sister Bury also attended BYU and will continue her study of elementary education after her mission.

The young women will serve their mission for 18 months, and are either self or family supported.

As a service to the community, the missionaries offer a Family Home Evening presentation to demonstrate how this program can be adapted to meet every family's needs.

For more information on this and other programs, the missionaries may be contacted at 83 Ridge St., or by calling 649-3727.

Of the proposed amendments clarifying individual and state's rights in the Constitution and originally submitted to the states by the First Congress in 1789, two were not approved. # Buster Brown playing cards are unique

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

This shows the front and back of some miniature playing cards recently found in a Springfield attic. Buster Brown and his talking dog, Tige, were in a comic strip that ran from 1902 to 1926. Although the strip expired 50 years ago, Buster and Tige go on and on in advertising.

Right now they are pictured at the entrance of a variety store in this town having a tug of war with a stocking to show how strong it is. Earlier they have been pushing shoes, hats, buttons, and even cigars and whisky. At one time there was a museum in New York City given over to Buster Brown "products."

You can't say as much for the Katzenjammer Kids, or Little Nemo and Flip, or Happy Hooligan, or Krazy Kat, or the super-polite Alphonse and Gaston.

"...Do you remember?...For you're much older than I..." How does that song go? Can't find it anywhere.

These things are collectible as oldtime playing cards (Copyright 1906) or as comics. There is a full deck with joker saying "Resolved that I will make people laugh if I get a licking every hour — Buster Brown."

The deck is a series of four or five panels, each set making the equivalent of a strip. This one is the second panel of "Buster Milks the Cow" — with the cow winding up for a good kick.

("O what a cinch!"). The fourth one shows Buster flying through the barn roof saying "Gee! I forgot to bring the milk."

Other sequences are entitled: Buster Helps Bake a Cake...Cleans Up the House...Acquires a Monkey...Plays a Trick on Ma...Controls His Temper...Practices His Violin...Hunts the Purse...

He puts frogs in a mailbox; tries to hatch eggs by sitting on them; and frightens Ma by tossing a dummy out of a window.

One card has a conclusion: "After all I'm only an honest healthy boy following my natural instincts to keep busy. What would I do without an occasional go to keep in practice?"

He and Tige are still busy now selling children's clothing and heaven knows what else. It would be interesting to assemble a collection of BB advertising through the five decades after the ending of the newspaper strip.

Perhaps Connecticut's unique Museum of Cartoon Art in Greenwich could help with such a project.

Four stamps due

The USPS will release a se-tenant of four stamps at Santa Fe on the 13th. It will show brown pots with primitive decorations — Pueblo Indian Art.

The actual pots are now in museum collections out west. They represent four Pueblo groups: The Ziz, the San Ildefonso, Hopi and Acoma.

A color spread of the stamps in Linn's suggests that they might be a candidate for this year's "Most Popular."

Coins on stamps

Coins-on-stamps people will like the set just released by the Channel island of Jersey. It shows coins from more than 100 years of its history.

There are special first day covers and presentation packets available. Address: Philatelic Service of the Jersey Post Office, Box 304, Jersey, Channel Islands, Via Great Britain. The World Stamp Almanac shows that they ship orders postfree, but they have a handling charge — amount not stated.

Coming events

Once again the A. & J. Dunn Second Sunday Stamp Show at Meriden will be held on the first Sunday — that is, tomorrow, the third, Meriden Holiday Inn, 10 to 4:30.

Gerry Gerath will have his First Sunday Stamp Bourse as usual at the Ramada Inn, East Hartford, 10 to 5.

The Central Connecticut Coin Club will meet Tuesday evening, 7:30, at the KofC Hall, 138 Main St., Manchester. There will be a quiz on the dollar and if you have an exhibit of dollars, please bring it along.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I read the book, "A Shooting Star," about John Wayne. I thought the author was unreasonably critical of John. He said his movies and his life were flops. We thought "The Green Berets" and "Alamo" were fantastic. The author thought they were flops. Why are they so antagonistic? He's our hero. We know he's no saint but he's a terrific star. MRS. YATES, Gilmer, Tex.

John Wayne has never been the critics' darling, only the public's. I am personally very fond of Duke — he's always been nice to me and we get along splendidly — and I like his recent movies but I, too, thought "The Green Berets" and "The Alamo" were pretty bad. As for the book, authors of some biographies apparently feel that only by being excessively critical can they create the controversy which leads to large sales. A book which is merely a "puff" exercise rarely sells. That may account for it. Don't worry about Wayne; he'll survive.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know what the red, yellow and blue shirts mean on the crew of the Star Trek people. I can only figure the red shirts as security. Please, can you give me the meaning if there is any. TIM HARMON, Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

The meaning of the shirt color for the Enterprise's crew was never really defined. Capt. Kirk (William Shatner) always wore yellow and the other leading officers wore blue and the communications and security people wore red.

DEAR DICK: I very much enjoy the Doty-Dayton movies, but don't know anything about the company. I was wondering what you can tell me. I heard they were based in Wyoming. I have some ideas for screenplays for them. Would they read them, and where should I send them? J.D., Athens, Ga.

Doty-Dayton, which is based in North Hollywood, Calif., not Wyoming, is headed by 36-year-old Lyman Dayton, who believes in making movies with three characteristics — strong moral values, realism, historical value. With such films as "Against a Crooked Sky," they are doing just that, and turning a profit, too. They have two coming out soon — "Baker's Hawk" and "Pony Express Rider." They tell me they will read your ideas. Send them to Doty-Dayton Productions, 4665 Lankershim Blvd., North Hollywood, Ca., 91602.

Science and morals

Freedom of inquiry & the public interest

Editor's Note: This is the eleventh of 16 articles in the series, "Moral Choices in Contemporary Society." In this first of two articles dealing with science and morals, Hans Jonas of the New School for Social Research discusses the ethical challenges to the scientist's traditional freedom of inquiry. These articles, which explore the controversial moral dilemmas that perplex Americans today, were written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

By HANS JONAS

What are the points of contact between science and morals?

At first glance there seems to be none, beyond the internal morality of being true to the standards of science itself. The sole aim of science is knowledge, its sole business the pursuit of it.

This clearly defined purpose imposes its own code of conduct, which can be called the territorial morals of the scientific realm: Abiding by the rules of method and evidence, being rigorous and intellectually honest. These virtues are conditions of good science and imply no commitment beyond it. So considered, science constitutes a moral island by itself.

But is this the whole truth?

Something like it was untrue as long as the contemplative sphere and the active sphere were cleanly separate (as they were in premodern times), and pure theory did not intervene in the practical affairs of men. Knowledge could then be considered a private matter of the knower. Being merely a state of his mind, it could do no harm to the good of others, as it sought only to comprehend and not to change the state of things.

However, the rise of natural science at the beginning of the modern age changed the traditional relation of theory and practice, merging them ever more intimately. We still pay homage to the dignity of "knowledge for its own sake." But it would be hypocritical to deny that in fact the emphasis in the case for science has heavily shifted to its practical benefits.

Technological spillover

From the Industrial Revolution onward, there was an increasingly irresistible spillover from theory, however pure, into the vulgar field of practice in the shape of scientific technology. In the early 17th Century, Francis Bacon had precociously directed science to aim at power over nature for the sake of raising man's material estate. But it was more than 100 years later that his charge belatedly and almost suddenly became working truth beyond all expectation.

Therewith, the subject of "science and morals" begins in earnest. For whatever of human doing impinges on the external world and thus on the welfare of others is subject to moral assessment. As soon as there is power and its use, morality is involved.

The very praise of the benefits of science exposes science to the question of whether all of its works are beneficial. It is then no longer a question of good or bad science, but of good or ill effects of science (and only "good science" can be effectual at all). If technology, the offspring, has its dark sides, is science, the progenitor, to blame?

The simplistic answer is that the scientist, having no control over the application of his theoretical findings, is not responsible for their misuse. His product is knowledge and nothing else: its use-potential, is there for others to take or leave, to exploit for good or evil, for serious or frivolous ends. Science itself is innocent and somehow beyond good and evil.

Plausible, but too easy.

Theory, practice fused

The soul-searching of atomic scientists after Hiroshima tells as much. We must take a closer look at how theory and practice are interlocked in the way science is nowadays actually "done" and essentially must be done. We shall then see that not only have the boundaries between theory and practice become blurred, but the two in the expectation of some future return in the practical sphere. There is mutual understanding on this. The anticipated payoff is put forward unashamedly as the recommending rationale in seeking grants or is specified outright as the purpose in offering them.

Science as servant

In sum, science has its tasks increasingly set by extraneous interests rather than its own internal logic or the free curiosity of the investigator. This is not to disparage those extraneous interests nor the fact that science has become their servant, that is, part of the social enterprise. But it is to say that the acceptance of this functional role (without which there would be neither science of the advanced type we have nor the type of society living by its fruits) has destroyed the alibi of pure, disinterested theory. It has put science squarely in the realm of social action where every agent is accountable for his deeds.

The involvement of scientific discovery with action goes beyond its eventual application. How does the scientist get his knowledge?

Through most of the history of the theoretical endeavor — from the Greeks to the beginning of the 17th Century — the seekers after truth had no need to dirty their hands. Of this noble breed, the mathematician is the sole survivor. Modern natural science arose with the decision to wrest knowledge from nature by actively operating on it, that is, by intervening in the objects of knowledge. The name for this intervention is "experiment," vital to all modern science. Observation here involves manipulation.

Morality of manipulation

Now, the grant of freedom to thought and speech does not cover action. Action always was, and remains, subject to legal and moral restraints.

Originally, experimentation kept to inanimate matter and to small-scale models in the laboratory. But experiments nowadays can be ambiguous. An atomic explosion, be it merely done for the sake of theory, affects the whole atmosphere and possibly many lives now or later. The world itself has become the laboratory.

One finds out by doing in earnest what, having found out, one might wish not to have done. Moreover, the younger life sciences have extended the aggressive methods of physics to animate matter, and experimentation on living things inevitably deals with the original, not with substitutes: Here, ethical neutrality ceases at the latest when it comes to human subjects. What is done to them is a real deed.

"The interest of knowledge," cannot be used as a blanket warrant for the morality of such deeds. In short, the very means of "getting to know" may raise moral questions before the question of how to use the knowledge poses itself.

From both ends therefore — that of its technical fruits and that of its methods of producing them — modern science finds itself exposed to the winds of ethical challenge.
