

Cheney Tech students report on exchange visit

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

Three students at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School Wednesday reported to the student council and visitors about their recent week's visit to a vocational technical school in the Baltimore, Md., area.

Richard Oellers, Richard Caron and Daniel Babler were short-term exchange students under the American Field Service program. Each stayed with a different family during the entire period. Besides visiting the Eastern State Technical School in Overlea, they also visited the Overlea High School which, like Manchester High School, has some courses in the technical fields.

Although the boys did not attend a regular curriculum schedule, they toured and observed the two schools and their course methods.

They noted that the technical school in Overlea provided feminine oriented courses such as cosmetology and food service. Also, their curriculum was arranged to provide a half a day of technical instruction," one boy said.

Questions from the group covered such interests as dress code, discipline, smoking privileges, social activities. Except for wearing ties, the boys at the Maryland school dressed pretty much the same as Cheney Tech boys, who are required to wear ties during their related classroom sessions.

This is the first AFS participation by Cheney Tech. The boys' traveling expenses and spending money were provided by the student council.

Angelo J. Tedesco, chief of the Bureau of Vocational Technical Schools for the state Department of Education, said that a AFS student from Greenland is attending EIT at the Whitney Vocational Technical School in New Haven. This is the first experience in foreign exchange students in vocational education in the United States, he said.

Except for final paper work, a family has volunteered to be a host family next year for a foreign student from Greenland. Cheney Tech has been involved in the AFS Program for many years.

Fluorocarbon ban advances

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee has approved a bill to ban the sale of nonmedical fluorocarbon products in Connecticut.

Fluorocarbons are used in refrigeration systems and in many aerosol products. The ban would stop the sale of several deodorants, hair sprays and spray paints in their present form.

Some fluorocarbons are suspected of destroying the earth's ozone layer in the upper atmosphere, which acts as a radiation filter.

Carterwoos Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Launching a campaign to win Senate approval for the $50 tax rebate, President Carter says without the measure "too large a proportion of the tax reduction would be going to businesses and not enough to consumers."

He insisted prospects for passage "look good," but nevertheless set forth his arguments on the need for the rebate in a letter to each Democratic senator and his lieutenants moved to muster support for the controversial bill.

Carter loaded his Good Friday morning schedule and planned an early start this afternoon on his Easter holiday weekend. He was taking his family to Calhoun, Ga., for a private three-day visit with his son Jack and Jack's family.

Before leaving, Carter arranged meetings with violinist Yehudi Menuhin and Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the father of the nuclear submarine, one of Carter's special heroes. To those members of the Senate who want Carter to restore federal budget provisions for some 30 water projects as a trade-off for passage of the $50 rebate, Carter said he was "not much of a trader."

He said he was "not inclined at all" to trade his approval for a water project that is not needed, in return for votes on the tax refund "which I think is needed."

But at the same time he told reporters there may be some "interaction" as he makes a final review of the water projects and as the Senate deliberates the rebate bill when it returns April 18.

Carter says he will make a decision by April 15, taking each water project on its merits. There were indications the President might soften his stand on a few projects.

"The rebate," he argued in his letter, "will help those most in need. It will provide added purchasing power for low and middle income persons."

"The economy still needs financial stimulus to maintain strong growth rate and keep unemployment moving down steadily over the rest of this year," he said.

In other developments, Carter Thursday signed the emergency drought assistance bill which would set up a "weather bank" for growers of perennial crops — such as fruit orchards — to buy enough water for the crops to survive. The legislation provided for 5-year, interest-free loans for emergency water purchases.

Carter announced 19 appointments, including one surprise — the selection of Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lacey to be ambassador to Mexico.

Decorating an Easter tree

Working to make someone's Easter happier, these students and others in Room 14, Grade 3, at Bowers School decorate an Easter egg tree and make Easter baskets to be distributed to residents at Crestfield Convalescent Home. Michael Coleman, left, holds a large box containing the candy baskets which are being filled by Chris Goldsmir. Stacy Richards puts the eggs on the tree. Colored paper egg Easter cards will also be given out. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Scandal topples Rabin

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has resigned as head of the ruling Labor party and bowed out of next month's elections, abruptly ending a meteoric career over a scandal involving an illegal U.S. bank account.

The 59-year old general who turned to diplomacy and then to politics made the announcement Thursday on nationwide radio and television in what could spell a setback in U.S.-Israel peace efforts in the Middle East.

Rabin's move reopened the struggle for leadership within the Labor party. The party's 15-member central committee was scheduled to meet Sunday to discuss a replacement.

Political analysts refused to speculate on whether Defense Minister Shimon Peres, Rabin's arch rival and a hardliner on Arab peace, would get the nomination or whether a compromise candidate such as Justice Minister Haim Zadok would be chosen.

Rabin narrowly beat Peres in the decisive Labor party vote for the premiership nomination two months ago. National elections will be held May 17.

Rabin's decision came after Attorney General Avraham Barak indicated he will seek legal proceedings against Mrs. Leah Rabin for maintaining an illegal bank account in the United States.

"I stand with her and I would not claim immunity as a member of Parliament," the prime minister said, accepting "formal and moral" responsibility.

Looking grim but calm, Rabin said he had already announced his resignation to Labor party Secretary Meir Zarmi and said he will seek ways to end his role as a caretaker premier, although there has been no such precedent in Israel's history.

"I am not prepared to assume responsibility, albeit for what I consider a minor oversight, for the damage the Labor party could suffer in the forthcoming elections," he said.

When disclosures about Mrs. Rabin's secret bank account with the National Bank of Washington surfaced four weeks ago, she indicated it contained only $2,000. She said she closed the account and donated the balance to a children's welfare organization.

But admitting "a misunderstanding has been created," Rabin said the account in fact contained $18,000, which he later through periodic withdrawals, shrank to $400.

The money accumulated during Rabin's tenure as ambassador to the United States, a post he assumed after retiring as army chief of staff during the 1967 Middle East war.

Attorney intimates appeal of zone change ruling

Atty. Bruce Beck, who represents the plaintiffs in the appeal of the industrial park zone change, gave strong indication Thursday that the matter will be appealed to the state Supreme Court.

But admitting "a misunderstanding has been created," Rabin said the account in fact contained $18,000, which he later through periodic withdrawals, shrank to $400.

Pilgrims trace Christ's steps

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Thousands of pilgrims followed black-robed Franciscan friars through the ancient alleyways of Jerusalem today, tracing the traditional steps of Christ on his way to the crucifixion and marking the ninth Good Friday observances held in Israel-occupied East Jerusalem.

Winding their way through the narrow Via Dolorosa (Street of Sorrows), the pilgrims — estimated at 30,000 by tourism officials — stopped at the 14 stations of the cross where tradition says Jesus stopped to pause on his way to martyrdom. The walk took an hour.

At the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the pilgrims stopped at the last five stations of the cross and prayed at the rock of Calvary, site of the crucifixion.

Tourism officials cited the double observance of Easter Sunday by both Eastern and Western churches as the reason for the sharp increase of visitors to Jerusalem for this year's celebrations. Last year 20,000 tourists and pilgrims attended the rites.

Because they mark the year according to different calendars, the Eastern churches — including Russian and Greek Orthodox, Armenian and Coptic — celebrate Good Friday and Easter Sunday on different days than the Western Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches.

When the calendars coincide, once every few years, the two branches of Christianity celebrate the anniversary of the crucifixion of Jesus together.

On Easter Sunday, the Latin (Roman Catholic) Patriarch of Jerusalem, Monsignor Giacomo Beltrite, will celebrate a pontifical mass in the 1700-year-old Church of the Holy Sepulchre, followed by a procession within the church to each of the stations of the cross.

Human rights push is defended

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young says the increasing Soviet presence in Africa is no reason for panic and President Carter's push for human rights has won the hearts and minds of the oppressed people of the world.

Noted for sometimes speaking too quickly, the ambassador weighed each word carefully in an interview Thursday with UPI. He had just been reprimanded by British Ambassador Ivor Richard for saying in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. that Britain had been "a little chicken" on racial questions.

Young earlier apologized to Richard, who said he considered the matter closed.

On Africa, Young warned against over-enthusiasm, saying the situation in Zaire, for example, "is very complicated."

"I think it is a mistake to make everything in Africa simply a basis of an East-West struggle."

He was asked about its apparent Soviet attempts to expand its influence in Africa through such means as the African visit of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny.

Young said there were two developments after that visit — the signing of a Soviet-Mozambique defense treaty and the almost immediate reversal by Mozambique of its contract to sell electricity to South Africa.

"So I wouldn't jump to conclusions on the basis of one visit," he said.

State man participates in Bataan reunion

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Thirty-five years after the infamous Bataan death march, Sig Schreiner remembers using stones to cover the eyes of fellow soldiers who survived the 100-mile journey only to die in a prison camp.

"I was a member of the burial squad. We buried an average of 50 men each day. They just couldn't make it any longer," sig Schreiner, 57-year-old resident of Norwalk, Conn. Schreiner is one of about 150 American veterans who have returned to the Philippines for a "Reunion for Peace" with former Japanese and Filipino soldiers in commemoration of the 5th anniversary Saturday of the fall of Bataan.

Bataan, the decisive battle for control of the Philippines, fell after a brutal three-month siege. About 38,000 U.S. and Filipino troops, including 5,000 American Marines, began the march to the prison camps.

"Nobody really knows how many of us survived the three-day death march to the prison camps. Entire units, sick and battle-weary troops, just disappeared into the jungles," Schreiner said.

"Our guards were shock troops who saw a lot of their buddies killed. They were itching to get us."

"But it was in the camps that most of our guys died. They were determined to survive the march, but when they saw the conditions in the camps, the short rations and lack of medical supplies, many of them just couldn't go on."

"The fellows who were very weak, we just laid them out in the yard and put stones on their eyes when they died," he said.

Salvation Army announces special Easter services

Commissioner and Mrs. Paul S. Kaiser, national commanders of the Salvation Army in the United States, will be conducting Easter services Sunday at the Manchester Salvation Corps Citadel.

They will officiate Sunday at the 7 a.m. Sunrise Service at Center Park, and at the 10:45 a.m. Holiness Meeting and the 4 p.m. Songs and Sounds of Easter at the Citadel.

As national commander, Commissioner Kaiser serves as chief administrator, official spokesman and president of all Salvation Army corporations in this country. He is also chairman of the Salvation Army's Commissioners Conference, the national body which determines Army policy in the United States.

He was born in England and was reared and educated in the United States. He received a B.S. degree magna cum laude from the University of New York and in 1929 received its distinguished alumni award. He was commissioned in 1930 by Gen. Evangeline Booth from the New York School for Officers Training. After serving with appointments with corps and divisions, he was named candidates' education and youth secretary for the Eastern Territory.

The commissioner, considered a specialist in youth work, was appointed to the New York State Youth Commission by former Governors Averill Harriman and Nelson Rockefeller.

After appointments as divisional commander and staff secretary, he was named chief secretary for Switzerland and Austria. He then became the first American to be appointed territorial commander for Germany.

Commissioner and Mrs. Paul S. Kaiser. She is a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said about 38 per cent of those persons receiving stamps in New England would get reduced benefits and as many as 11 per cent would get no benefits at all.

Leahy said he would oppose the plan vigorously, both in committee and on the Senate floor.

Poet to read verse Tuesday
Charles Simic will read his poetry Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Manchester Community College auditorium at Bidwell St.

Simic, a native of Yugoslavia, is an English professor at the University of New Hampshire. He has published five books of his own poetry and three books of translations of Yugoslavian poets.
The reading is free and open to the public. A reception will be held in the auditorium after the reading.

8th District votes Monday on proposed sewer project

The Eighth Utilities District will vote Monday night on whether to permit the Town of Manchester to construct sanitary sewers and services to the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area. All residents of the District are eligible to vote at the meeting, which will be held in the Whiton Memorial Library, 88 N. Main St., at 7:30 p.m. The project would include a trunk line from Union Pond to Tolland Tpke. and street sewers in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. subdivision. The Town Board of Directors, at a north of Middle Tpke., requires district approval. Later that week, the Town requested such approval from the district. The cost, along with much of the cost of the project, could be paid through federal funds that the State of Connecticut is making available for such street sewer projects. Lawrence Noone, a district director, told the board at the March 15 meeting that the project, since it is a superonic issue aside for further consideration. Democratic leaders revived it in mid-session and placed it on the consent calendar. The calendar, a list of noncontroversial bills agreed to by Republican and Democratic leaders, passed on a 31-0 vote.

Senate votes to ban SSTs

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Senate has decided Connecticut can do without the thundering roar of the controversial Concorde SST. With little fanfare, the Senate Thursday voted unanimously to ban landings of supersonic jets at Bradley International Airport that fail to meet federal noise standards, except in emergencies. The measure now goes to the House. Bradley International, the state's largest airport, is located near Windsor Locks. Gov. Ella T. Grasso's hometown. Mrs. Grasso has been an adamant opponent of Concorde landings in Connecticut. The Concorde ban has been landing at Dulles International Airport in Washington since last May. New York Gov. Hugh Carey and local citizen groups have successfully prevented any Concorde landings at New York City's John F. Kennedy Airport. The measure, adopted by the state Senate, did not directly ban landings by the British-French Concorde. Instead, the proposal would prevent landings by any existing or future commercial supersonic that exceeded noise pollution standards established by the federal government for subsonic aircraft. Since it is impossible for the Concorde to meet those noise standards, the plane would not be allowed to land at the airport.

Stamp plan criticized

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — The Carter administration's plan to overhaul the Food Stamp Program has been strongly criticized by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt. Leahy said Thursday the proposal would discriminate against the northeastern states, especially New England. Among other things, the proposed changes would sharply reduce benefits for those near the top of the current eligibility ceilings. Leahy, who is a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said about 38 per cent of those persons receiving stamps in New England would get reduced benefits and as many as 11 per cent would get no benefits at all. Leahy said he would oppose the plan vigorously, both in committee and on the Senate floor.

Workshop signs pact with P&W division

The Manchester Sheltered Workshop has entered its fourth year of working under contract with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group's Manufacturing Division. The workshop for retarded persons provides various hammering which are required in all five P&WA plants in Connecticut. It is located on Main St. in Lincoln Center. The Sheltered Workshop of the Hartford Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center is also fulfilling two contracts with Pratt & Whitney. P&W has also had contracts with three other workshops in the Hartford area. The contracts are awarded on a competitive bid basis. The most satisfying aspect of this program to us is our involvement in helping persons with handicaps succeed on their own merits," said Donald L. Brown Jr., vice-president for L. Brown & Co., vice-president for purchasing of the Manufacturing Division. The program is a coordinated effort involving P&WA's Purchasing, Manufacturing Services and Plant Engineering departments, all of which have located suitable projects for handicapped workers. To assist the workshops in filling the orders, P&W Manufacturing Division has provided instructors, equipment and tools. Pratt & Whitney Aircraft makes its payments directly to the organization, just as it does with other vendors and they in turn pay their workers. Representatives of the workshops say there are dual satisfactions for the handicapped: receiving a paycheck and not being idle. "Our people are most happy when there's work on the floor," said Lewis Stein, executive director of the Manchester Sheltered Workshop. The workshops try to match their various jobs with the most appropriate workers. In Manchester, one worker has proven the most skilled at performing all the hammer repairs. An order of 200 hammers provides work for him for about three to four weeks, Stein said. The Manchester workshop has repaired more than 3,000 hammers since beginning with an initial order of 565 hammers in 1974. Work being done by the other workshops has included welding and assembling, sorting drill bits, and other tools, cleaning and servicing fans and collating and rebinding service manuals.

LaVergne hens color their own Easter eggs

CHARLTON, Mass. (UPI) — While others worry about dyeing eggs for Easter, Jean LaVergne and her wife Anne raise Araucana hens, which lay golden, turquoise, olive green and pink eggs. Their 18 hens are from a variety known as the Easter Egg Hen, a rare species which may have been mated at one time with a wild bird which changed its genes and the color of its eggs. The colored eggs are pale in color but easily distinguishable from the brown and white eggs that most hens lay. The eggs have been a novelty for the family and Mrs. LaVergne said her children have taken them to school to show doubters they really do exist. "We had trouble convincing people," Mrs. LaVergne said. "But it's a fascination for the kids. And it's funny for them to tell other kids at school." The LaVergnes collect about two dozen eggs daily. They eat most of the eggs but sell some of the fertilized eggs. They also hatch some new eggs. "It's funny to watch them hatch. You can get brown, black, yellow or white chicks. But we haven't hatched enough eggs to see if the colors match with the color of the eggshell," Mrs. LaVergne said. While the colored eggs are an interesting side benefit, she said it was another feature that led the family to acquire the Araucanas two years ago. The eggs supposedly have very little cholesterol and 20 per cent more protein than other eggs, according to Mrs. LaVergne. "We figured if we were going to have chicks, we may as well have healthy eggs." The Hartford County Medical Association is the authorized local chapter of the American Medical Association. It represents approximately 1,450 medical doctors, or the equivalent of 95 per cent of the licensed physicians in Hartford County.

Four area doctors admitted to Hartford medical group

Physicians from Manchester becoming members in the organization are Dr. Ranjit L. Kuruklausurya, Dr. Michael Passarelli and Dr. Daniel P. Purcell. From East Hartford, Dr. Helena Chahk will also be inducted. The Hartford County Medical Association is the authorized local chapter of the American Medical Association. Seniors happier when married

BOSTON (UPI) — Older people are remarrying at a fast clip and are happier when they do than their younger counterparts. So says Boston University researcher Barbara Vinick. She claims both society and relatives of the elderly have no trouble accepting the trend. "In many cases, the remarriages really conform to an ideal of calmness and serenity that is lacking in early marriage," she said. Increasing trends Under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, Mrs. Vinick recently studied two dozen remarried elderly couples in two Massachusetts towns. The average age was 67 for brides and 73 for bridegrooms. "It's a trend that's increasing," she said. "From 1960 to 1974, the number of brides 65 and over has more than doubled to 16,000, and the number of grooms has almost doubled to 33,000. In 1940, there was hardly anyone I could have interviewed."

Men need marriage more

It's not true that elderly men are trapped into marriage by eager women, she said. "Men needed marriage more than women," she said. "In many cases, they said they were lonely. They were not as close to other people as women." Mrs. Vinick thinks social planners should make it easier for the elderly to marry by setting up more places for them to meet. She also favors reform of pension and Social Security laws to insure elderly don't lose benefits if they remarry.

Accepted by society

"Remarriage among older persons is becoming more accepted by society in general," she said. "People's relatives really approved of the remarriage. That way there is someone there to relieve the burden." In some cases, she said, remarriage meant an elderly spouse did not have to enter a rest home, because there was someone to take on nursing duties. Mrs. Vinick said both courtship and remarriages are less highly charged among seniors than the young. "The people who were the most satisfied were the ones who did not have to make drastic changes," she said. "Don't fight much." They also don't fight much. "With younger marriages, the idea is you should communicate all you're feeling," she said. "With these couples, the idea is that you should hold it all in." The lack of energy doesn't rule out sex but does tone it down, she said. "The physical act was not what they stressed. What they stressed was the warmth, the closeness."

The saccharin issue

Most of the criticism, and much ridicule, of the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on saccharin has centered on the fact that a person would have to consume impossible amounts of the artificial sweetener to equal the doses fed to laboratory rats. Specifically, about 800 12-ounce cans of diet drink per day.
FDA and other scientists, however, have defended the Canadian tests, which led to the FDA's action, as having followed standard scientific methods. It is too expensive and time-consuming, they say, to feed multitudes of rats small quantities of a suspected cancer-causing substance over their lifetimes. Thus to accelerate the procedure, a small number are fed massive amounts.
If, for example, something causes cancer in one per cent of the laboratory animals, this could translate into a human rate of one in 100,000. Multiplied by 220 million people, that would be 2,200 new cancer cases.
This, they say, constitutes an unacceptable risk and fully warrants prohibitive action by a government agency charged with safeguarding the public health.
The ordinary person is not equipped to argue scientific method with the scientists, although he may be excused if this kind of thing sounds to him a little like conducting an automobile safety test by ramming 10 cars into a wall at 100 miles an hour to simulate 100 cars hitting it at 10 miles an hour.
But in the final analysis, laymen and scientists alike have to rely on common sense, and common sense seems to have been the chief casualty in the saccharin controversy.
Despite this and other tests, we really don't know if saccharin has ever caused cancer in anybody. It has been around for 70 years, and the rates of stomach and bladder cancer has been declining in recent years.
There are also the possible consequences to people who must have a substitute for sugar in their diets. An increase in heart attacks caused by overweight would seem to be a poor trade-off for a decrease in cancer deaths.
What if the government may reasonably go in protecting people from all the risks involved in daily living. There are any number of suspected cancer-causing agents that occur naturally in foods, but no one - so far - has suggested we starve to death in order to avoid cancer.
The FDA built up an immense fund of gratitude and respect among the public in the thalidomide case a decade or so ago. Resisting all kinds of pressure, it steadfastly refused to okay the tranquilizer, which was later conclusively and dramatically proved to cause birth defects.
Unfortunately, it has pretty much depleted that fund with this saccharin business.

Terrorism again

The collision of two 747 jumbo jets in the Canary Islands was not only history's worst aviation disaster. It also accounted for the greatest toll of life that can be attributed to the activities of political terrorists.
Originally scheduled to land at Las Palmas airport on the island of Grand Canary, the Dutch KLM and Pan American jetliners had been diverted to the neighboring island of Tenerife, where they met fatally on the runway during takeoff preparations. They were diverted because a time bomb, admittedly planted by a group agitating for the independence of the Canaries from Spain, had exploded shortly before at Las Palmas, injuring eight persons.
The terrorists, of course, cannot be accused of desiring the deaths of the Dutch and American victims. They claim that the planes could have landed at Las Palmas, but the authorities did not want anyone to see the bomb damage.
Be that as it may, they planted the bomb, which only by sheer luck did not kill anyone - directly. By the worst possible luck, compounded by weather and human error, it indirectly caused nearly 600 people to lose their lives.
Is there no place in the world free of these fools and idiots, whose ideological stock in trade is terror, destruction and death.

Don't forget that other federal tax

WASHINGTON - Yeah, I know, April 15 is just around the corner and muted curses are heard in the land as folks work up their annual outrage over the income tax.
But what all we working stiffs should be sore about is a tax that sort of creeps up on us. It is called the Social Security Payroll Tax, and it should drop dead retroactively before we all end up eating in soup kitchens.
A greedy monster
You think Uncle Sam is taking your shirt by the income tax route? The Social Security tax has grown like some slack-jawed, greedy monster until today the average family pays more to the Social Security fund than it pays in federal income taxes.
In theory, the tax is shared. That is, one dollar is deducted directly from your paycheck and a matching dollar is put up by your employer. But the fact is that employers consider the Social Security tax they pay as a fringe benefit - in effect, part of the employee's wages.
But, you may argue, Social Security is a pension system. Correct. But unlike commercial pension setups, the federal government does not invest your contributions and return them to you when you retire. Instead, Social Security takes your contributions for this year and pays them out in this year's benefits to somebody else.
That's why you're reading newspaper stories about the Social Security system being in dire trouble. Despite almost annual increases in the Social Security tax rate and scheduled increases over the next several years, the system is running out of money. By the early 1980's, the tax won't be raising enough to meet the system's obligations and maintain a wise reserve.
Income tax is fairer
Now then. The income tax is a pain in the neck. But despite all its defects, including numerous loopholes for the rich, it is progressive. Individuals with higher incomes pay income taxes at a higher rate. Moreover, there are the numerous exemptions and deductions which make the bite a little less sharp.
The solution is obvious. It's time to shift the burden by financing Social Security from general revenue - meaning the income tax. That way, the working poor will benefit even if they pay a few dollars more in income tax. This is not the perfect solution; it is simply the only solution.
Congress, of course, will dawdle. It always does. But President Carter should use up some of his honeymoon with the voters by pushing for general revenue support of Social Security. As of now, the payroll tax rate is due to soar to 12.6 per cent in 1981. When that happens, most of us may have to start living in tents - and from Sears, not Abercrombie and Fitch.

Thought Commentary The crown in question

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, has dropped a well-baked but still fairly warm potato in the lap of the Carter administration with his suggestion that it's high time we return the crown of St. Stephen to Hungary.
Said crown was presented to King Stephen, founder of modern Hungary, in the year 1001 by Pope Sylvester II in gratitude for his having brought Christianity to the land. At the end of World War II, the saintly king's crown along with an orb, scepter, sword and robe, were recovered from the Nazis by troops of Gen. George Patton, and since then have been in U.S. custody, reportedly in Fort Knox, although the State Department isn't saying.
This is not the first time the subject of the crown has come up, and each time Hungarian Americans have circulated petitions and sent resolutions to the president urging that the national relic not be delivered into the hands of Hungary's present rulers. To them this would be tantamount to "legitimizing" the Communist regime.
In Vanik's view, however, making return of the crown contingent upon Hungary becoming a democracy is "really creating an impossible condition because it's not going to happen."
The United States, he thinks could do a lot to influence Hungary to become independent of the Soviet Union by giving back the crown, and also by granting Hungary most-favored nation trading status, as we have Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia. Vanik is chairman of a House Ways and Means trade subcommittee.

Open forum Favors independence for Human Rights panel

Dear sir:
I agree with those who say that the East Hartford Human Rights Commission should get its own executive director or technical coordinator plus secretarial staff.
The town's record in trying to obtain community block grant funding is a sorry one indeed. Perhaps if the town had followed more of the recommendations of the Human Rights Commission through the years, the record might be a lot better. Human rights administration is not a part-time business. Full time staffing is as necessary here as it is in physical planning.
If East Hartford ever gets community block grant funding from HUD, maybe it can use its $20,000 community block grant coordinator as its human rights technical coordinator as well.
After all, the East Hartford Human Rights Commission seems to be more attuned toward serving the needs of low income and moderate income persons than either the Mayor or the Town Council of East Hartford.
Very truly yours,

Building increases

Building in Manchester broke out of its winter doldrums during March, when 101 building permits were issued.
It marked the first time since last September that over 100 permits were issued during a one month period.
The total estimated cost of the projects issued permits in March is $95,435, according to the Building Department report.
Although last month showed improvement over recent months, it did not compare favorably with March 1976. In that month, 194 permits were issued for projects with an estimated cost of $95,546.
One sign of spring in last month's building report is the issuance of permits for three swimming pools. Other permits issued last month were: six single-family dwellings, one greenhouse, one tool shed, three fences, seven signs, 69 alterations and additions, 11 affidavits, and two demolitions.
The Building Department also issued 44 electrical permits, 25 plumbing permits, 11 heating permits, and 23 certificates of occupancy.

Ancient Suburbia
Suburban living is not a modern development. Archaeologists in Italy have uncovered Ostia, a community about 10 miles north of ancient Pompeii that was strictly residential, without market places or forums. The residents are believed to have been wealthy Pompeians and Roman patricians on vacation. Excavations from Vesuvius in 19 A.D. buried this Roman version of affluent suburbia.

Japan cuts TV export

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan agreed today to restrain voluntarily its exports of color television sets to the United States.
The agreement was reached at a meeting between Robert Strauss, President Carter's special envoy, and Minoru Masuda, deputy vice minister of international trade and industry, officials said.
Japan's color television exports to the United States recently became a major trade issue as the U.S. International Trade Commission claimed that the shipments of Japanese-made sets were hurting the American industry.
The number of TV sets shipped from Japan last year totaled more than two million units. Officials said Japan has not worked out details on the planned voluntary restraint on the TV shipments.
Technical points on cutting down on Japan's TV shipments will be worked out later, according to officials.

Town responds to criticism of its fair housing program

The Town of Manchester has taken steps to satisfy fair housing and affirmative action. Alan Mason, director of human services, has written in the town's application for $301,000 in third-year Community Development funds.

The town believes that it has shown good faith in these areas during the past year," Mason wrote. His remarks are in response to comments and criticisms made by several regional agencies that reviewed Manchester's application. Those remarks, along with the town's responses and the plan of expenditure for the third-year funds, will be sent to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development by Monday, Mason said.

Mason mentioned that the town has adopted an Affirmative Action Plan and has developed a system to receive complaints connected with housing and employment.

A seminar on affirmative action has been held for town department heads and more are planned for the future, he said.

Mason also said that a housing inspection program, sponsored by Community Development funds, is generating applications for the rehabilitation loan program.

He also responded to criticisms that housing goals do not reflect the possibility of increased employment because of the proposed industrial park. The application requests information for 1977 and 1978, and the park's major tenant, the J.C. Penney Co., would not begin operation until 1980, according to Mason's report.

Thus, proposed jobs to be provided by Penney were not included in the present application, but, Mason said, a $5,000 housing study included in the third-year application would help further analyze the impact Penney might have on housing. Town and Penney officials have both said that they expect most of the proposed 2,000 jobs to be filled from the area labor market.

New health programs delayed

The three new mental health programs which were scheduled to begin on or about April 1 in the Region IV of the North Central Regional Mental Health Board are still being processed. The programs, part of 19 new mental health programs being implemented throughout the state, are waiting for final financial processing.

and approval signatures, William Rosenblatt, executive director of the North Central Regional Mental Health Board, said Thursday.

The programs which are designed to reduce state hospital utilization must be ready to begin by June 30 or the allocated funding will be returned to the state's general fund, Rosenblatt said.

The new programs proposed by the Regional Mental Health Board involve the Hartford Hospital, St. Francis Hospital, and the Capitol Region Mental Health Center, all in Hartford. The programs include emergency care, training, transitional programs, activity programs and crisis intervention.

The Community Services Division of Manchester Community College is offering a spring semester course entitled, "A Practical Approach to Personal Money Management."

worth and planning one's estate will be explained.

For further information, call the Community Services office at 666-2127.

The course will begin on Tuesday April 19 and will continue for six weeks on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The instructor is Warren Sullivan, an employee of the Windsor Bank and Trust Company in Windsor.

HUD will review the full package from the town and may request further information. The federal department has 75 days after receipt to act on the request for Community Development funds, Mason said.

Four win awards at science fair

Four Manchester students were awarded trophies at the awards ceremony Saturday for their exhibits in the 28th annual Connecticut State Science Fair held all last week at the Thames Valley State Technical College in Norwich.

Martin Hancock of St. James School was a first-place winner in the Junior Physical Division with his exhibit on "Schlieren Photography." He also received special awards from the United States Army and the Connecticut Joint Federation for an outstanding scientific project.

There were two other state winners from St. James School. They were Mary Holt who won fourth place in the Junior Physical Division and Thomas Day who won fifth place in the Junior Biological Division.

Mary Holt's exhibit was entitled "What is Different in the Sounds of Musical Instruments?" She also received a special award from the American Speech and Hearing Association for outstanding achievement.

Thomas Day was awarded a fifth-place trophy in the Junior Biological Division for his exhibit on "Schlieren Photography."

From Manchester High School, Marc Lauffer a junior, won third place in the Senior Biological Division for his project entitled "Homograft Immunity." He received a special award from the Stamford Medical Society.

Among the honors winners was David Gutman of Iling Junior High School who received second honors in the Junior Physical Division for his exhibit on the Archimedes principle.

There were 78 schools in the state which submitted 241 exhibits.

PTA panel to discuss problems of youth

The Verplanck School PTA will sponsor a panel discussion on problems dealing with Manchester's youths Tuesday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Service on the panel will be Officer James McCooe of the Manchester Police Department; Robert Digan, coordinator of Youth Services of the Manchester Board of Education; Detective Donald Wright of the MPD; Sue Grant, assistant director at Crossroads. Officer McCooe will visit the fifth and sixth grade students at Verplanck in their classrooms on Monday and will discuss topics to be covered at Tuesday's meeting. He will also answer any questions.

There will be a question and answer period after the panel discussion Tuesday night. The meeting is open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Spelling bee scheduled

The language arts committee of the Manchester elementary schools will sponsor its second annual worldwide spelling bee Tuesday, April 19.

Contestants and parents are invited to arrive at the host schools for light refreshments between 3:15 and 3:45 p.m. when the bee will start.

The host schools and the grades that will participate there are as follows: Bowers, Grade 2; Highland Park, Grade 3; Keeney, Grade 4; Martin, Grade 5; Robertson, Grade 6.

There will be two winners at each grade level. Certificates of participation will be awarded to all children who attend final bees.

Retired teachers will serve as judges. Speech department personnel will give out the words.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The former manager of the Beatles has been indicted on charges he evaded paying taxes on income he received from the sale of Beatle promotional records usually distributed free to disc jockeys and reviewers.

Allen Klein, 46, of New York, president of ABKCO Industries Inc., was charged by a federal grand jury with evading $125,815 in taxes on $216,701 in unreported income for the three years from 1970 to 1972. The indictment alleged Klein, the group's last manager up to their breakup several years ago, took part in a scheme to sell the promotional records to record wholesalers, jobbers and distributors.

Ransom-Makulis

Janet Ann Makulis and J. Donald Ransom Jr. both of Manchester, were married March 12 at St. Bridget Church in Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Ransom Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Makulis of 22 Sherwood Circle. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. Donald Ransom Sr. of 22A Thompson Road.

The Rev. William Slack of St. Bridget Church performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's ivory satin wedding gown, which was designed with bell neckline trimmed with seed pearls and a scalloped train. She wore a finger tip veil with ivory satin edging and carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink sweetheart roses, spider pompons and ivy.

Miss Linda Deplais of Little Rock, Ark. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Makulis of Manchester, the bride's sister-in-law; and Miss Barbara Spearbeck of Ulica, N.Y.

Kenneth Becker of Vernon served as best man. Ushers were Thomas Makulis of Manchester, the bride's brother; and Gary Vincent of Manchester.

A reception was held at Willie's Steak House in Manchester, after which the couple left on a motor trip to Florida. For traveling, Mrs. Ransom wore a three-piece dark green corduroy pantsuit. The couple is residing in Ellington.

Mrs. Ransom is a student at Springfield (Mass.) Technical Community College majoring in physical therapy. Mr. Ransom is employed at Moriarty Bros., Inc. in Manchester. (Closko photo)

Town agencies to sponsor health fair

The Manchester Public Health Nursing Association (MPHNA) and the Town Health Department will co-sponsor their second annual health fair offering free health services to all Manchester residents on Tuesday, April 26, from 2 to 7 p.m. in the Manchester High School cafeteria.

About 40 organizations and agencies will participate in the event which will include disease-screening programs. Health information and several films being shown throughout the day.

Some of the screening programs will be for high blood pressure, glaucoma, breast cancer, oral cancer, diabetes, sickle cell anemia, and Cooley's anemia, lead poisoning, and heart disease. Mini ERGs will also be available.

For educational activities, there will be representatives from the following groups: Lung Association, Cystic Fibrosis, Mental Health Association, Manchester Memorial Hospital, Education Community, Medicare, Connecticut Medical Service, Social Security, La Leche League, Health Systems Agency, Natural Family Planning, Planned Parenthood, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Sexual Assault.

Also, Crisis Service, Family and Child Services, Greater Hartford Council of Alcoholism, Al-Anon, Family Oriented Child Information Society (FOCIS), Manchester Medical Society, Manchester Drug, Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, Crossroads, Instructors of the Handicapped, Manchester Ostomy Group, Venereal Disease, Manchester Homemakers Service, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Head Start.

There will also be a podiatrist and nutritionist at the health fair.

Transportation for the health fair is available by calling the Senior Citizens Center at 643-5310 at least two days in advance of the event. This service is limited to the elderly in Manchester.

For those unable to drive or get a ride by other means, call FISH at 646-3474 or the Red Cross at 643-5111 at least two days in advance of the health fair.

For further information about the health fair, call either the MPHNA at 647-1481 or the Town Health Department at 649-5381.

Congresswomen organize

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are 18 women members of Congress, and now 15 of them belong to the Congresswomen's Caucus.

The caucus was created to monitor and influence government developments affecting women. Reps. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., and Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., were elected jointly to head it.

"Today, women members of the 96th Congress cross political, philosophical and regional lines to join in an effort to secure what amounts to equal status for the women of this country," said Mrs. Heckler in a statement.

Committee endorses code of ethics bill

HARTFORD (UPI)—A panel of legislators has endorsed a toughened code of ethics for state officials and more stringent requirements for lobbyists.

The Government Administration and Policy Committee Thursday approved the measure, which would create a seven-member ethics commission. Under the provisions, commission members would not be associated with government or politics.

But the commission's procedures would be conducted in secret, with the records being made public only after the panel's rulings were made.

Although the proposals would require financial disclosure to some extent, the commission would be able to exempt officials or lobbyists from that requirement if it would cause an "undue hardship."

The proposals still need approval from the Judiciary and Appropriations Committees before going to the full General Assembly.

The committee vote received praise from both Republican and

Committee finishes draft of reorganizational plan

HARTFORD (UPI)—The panel laboring to produce a plan to streamline Connecticut's bureaucracy has come up with a working draft of its restructuring plan.

Under the draft, worked out by the Government Administration and Policy Committee and unveiled Thursday, there would be 19 cabinet-level departments to oversee Connecticut's 200 boards, agencies and departments.

Committee Chairman, Rep. Patricia T. Hendel, D-New London, said the panel's plan differs in many respects from the report of the Filer Commission. That panel, headed by Atina Life and Casualty President John Filer, studied how to streamline state government.

"The Filer Commission had recommended 17 cabinet-level departments; we recommend 19," she said.

"We have also proposed a substantial reduction in the number of boards, councils, commissions and other agencies which have proliferated over the years," she said.

The committee's plan would centralize planning and policy decisions into three major agencies, an Office of Policy and Management, an Office of Administrative Services and an Office of Revenue Services.

"This would clearly delineate who is to set policy," said the committee's other co-chairman, Sen. Wayne Baker, D-Danbury.

As expected, the committee bowed to the wishes of Gov. Ella T. Grasso who opposed combining state health care agencies into one superagency.

At one point in its deliberations, the committee had planned to combine the Mental Health Department with the State Health Department. But under the working draft, those agencies will also remain separate.

Baker said the State Police Department would remain

Brewster old hand at tact

NEW HAVEN (UPI)—Yale President Kingman Brewster, formally nominated Thursday as ambassador to Britain by President Carter, is an old hand at diplomacy.

An intern dean found that out when he told Brewster he did not wish to be appointed permanently. Brewster praised the dean for his accomplishments, and said he wanted the very best for Yale. But the dean insisted he would prefer to return to his private practice.

Brewster then told the dean, known for his dedication, that if he didn't serve the full term, Brewster would close the school down. The dean capitulated.

Brewster, 57, has been president of Yale since 1963, and he's always demonstrated an ability to weather storms.

Brewster countered potential student mutinies with an even hand.

Councilman defends remark about blight

By MAL BARLOW East Hartford Reporter "People have a right to know," said James Cordier, member of the Republican minority on the Town Council. "We can't ignore the facts. The facts are that we are not living in the best of all possible worlds." Cordier found himself on the defensive Thursday after his Wednesday statements about "blight" areas in East Hartford. Residents of the areas he named were angry. Town leaders said he should not focus on these areas; he should not make them seem worse. "The young man has no knowledge," said Mayor Richard Blackstone Thursday. "I take exception to his comments," the mayor said. "It is an insult to the hard working men and women of East Hartford who live in these areas. They work hard to keep up their homes. The mayor said the word 'blight' as used by Cordier meant one percent of an area had homes 'needing attention.' 'That means one home in 100 needs attention. That hardly constitutes blight in my mind,' the mayor said.

Town Clerk John Barry Jr. said his office had been getting calls through Thursday about Cordier's comments. One woman who had lived in her home for 50 years said she never considered it a slum dwelling. Barry reassured the people calling him their homes are okay. Warren Sullivan, newly appointed director of development, refused any comment on the matter. His office did release the seven-year-old report on which Cordier based his comments. Cordier said he made his comments because of the recent treatment of Mrs. Esther Clarke, GOP minority leader on the council. Mrs. Clarke had asked the council to tour areas of town which may need the town's help to stay in good repair. She said homes in these areas are often owned by absentee landlords who do not take proper care of them. She said the council should make it its tour and then consider new ordinances. The new laws would put teeth in the powers the town gives to Frank Barone, its director of inspections. The mayor said the word "blight" as used by Cordier meant one percent of an area had homes "needing attention." "That means one home in 100 needs attention. That hardly constitutes blight in my mind," the mayor said.

Towns get 4th check from feds

The Town of East Hartford will receive $98,500 in its fourth of five payments under the Anti-Recession Fiscal Assistance Program, U.S. Rep. William Colter's office announced today. East Hartford has now received $356,502 through the federal program, which provides funds to communities based on population and unemployment figures. The funding is aimed at assisting towns with high unemployment rates maintain the present level of services. The Town of Manchester will receive $49,500 in its fourth payment and has received a total of $153,320 through the program. Other area towns will receive the following amounts: The total amount of money granted thus far is in parentheses: South Windsor, $14,940, ($49,544); Bolton, $1,317, ($5,166); Vernon, $2,495, ($9,226); Coventry, $5,451, ($23,424); Andover, $903, ($4,008); and Hebron, $1,332, ($7,156).

Mayor says doctor can make decisions

"He's the doctor," said Mayor Richard Blackstone Thursday, explaining why he has approved the recent acts of Dr. John N. Gallivan, East Hartford's director of health and social services. "I don't fully understand why he had to appoint himself (director of health and social services)," the mayor said. "But if he says it is necessary, that's good enough for me." Dr. Gallivan told the Town Council Tuesday night he has appointed himself the director of nurses in place of Miss Carolyn Furness. He had hired Miss Furness 11 years ago to be the director when the staff was much smaller. The town had then just signed a contract with the East Hartford Public Health Nurses Association (EHPHNA) to jointly serve East Hartford.

Dr. Gallivan cited federal and state rules for his "emergency action." In order to satisfy these rules, he had to appoint himself the director. "I don't fully understand why he had to appoint himself (director of health and social services)," the mayor said. "But if he says it is necessary, that's good enough for me." Games decide champs

The East Hartford Department of Parks and Recreation has announced the results of championship games held at Penney High School Wednesday. The 11-man team, under the guidance of supervisor Steve Frank, consisted of Andy Franklin, Mike Salvatore, Mike Salla, Jim Flink, Simon Elsing, Blake Garrison, Jeff Morrow, Mark Kieran, John Foley, Phil Tougas and Vishnu Narayn. The sixth grade championship team consisted of Mike Bolduc, Chris Donahue, Rich Hauser, Jim Kane, Jason Donovan, Bryan Barrett, John Casparini, Anthony Roberts and presented awards to the winning teams. In the Pee Wee Division, Goodwin defeated Hockanum 9 to 3. The second final was at 2:30 p.m., involving only sixth grade boys. A combination of players from O'Brien and Willowbrook defeated O'Connell 4 to 3. Members of the Pee Wee division championship team received wooden plaques, presented by the director of parks and recreation, Frank DeGregorio.

Manchester groups set race down Hockanum

The River Rats and the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee in Manchester are sponsoring a canoe and kayak race down the river Saturday, April 30. The race will begin at 9 a.m. in Talcottville. Sometime the same day (sponsors hope) the race will end at the Powder Mill Shopping Center in East Hartford off Burnside Ave. It is the first time for the race. Sponsors hope it will become an annual event. The River Rats was formed by Leo Watkins of Manchester and his friend when they were teen-agers. They hope to draw attention to the Connecticut River watershed, Watkins said. Prizes will be given. The Eighth District Fire Department in Manchester will help run the race. They will station personnel along the river, each with a CB radio. Either aluminum or plastic canoes are allowed. Watkins recently ran the river in a plastic one. There are some fast bends, he said. But the river is too shallow for much danger.

East Hartford police report

East Hartford Police charged three persons with shoplifting in separate incidents in shopping centers Thursday. Lynda R. Tutino, 27, of 47 Smith Dr., East Hartford, was arrested at 1:33 p.m. at the Sage-Alton store on Main St. and charged with fourth-degree larceny. Arnold Lawson, 17, of Hartford, was arrested at 8:32 p.m. at the Powder Mill Shopping Center in East Hartford off Burnside Ave. It is the first time for the race. Sponsors hope it will become an annual event. The River Rats was formed by Leo Watkins of Manchester and his friend when they were teen-agers. They hope to draw attention to the Connecticut River watershed, Watkins said. Prizes will be given. The Eighth District Fire Department in Manchester will help run the race. They will station personnel along the river, each with a CB radio. Either aluminum or plastic canoes are allowed. Watkins recently ran the river in a plastic one. There are some fast bends, he said. But the river is too shallow for much danger.

Public protector

Sgt. Russell Bartholomew, 44, joined the East Hartford police force in June 1968. He worked as a patrol officer until 1969 when he was assigned to the narcotics squad. He returned to patrol duty in January 1971. He made sergeant in January 1973. Commander Joseph Leone said the sergeant is often called "the smiling policeman." "I have a happy outlook most of the time," he admits. "I can smile until the pressures of this job get me down." Most of his work is on the road in charge of patrol officers. He handles special assignments now and then. He and his wife, Lillian, have three daughters - Debbie, 22, Karen, 19, and Sue, 16.

Town doesn't require ties

Town Hall employees wear ties because they want to look good, said William Miller, director of personnel at East Hartford. But the town does not order them to wear ties, he said. "We rely on the people's personal pride to appear neat and clean," Miller said. He was commenting on the Board of Education suit against Penney High School teacher Richard Brimley. The school wants Brimley to wear a tie. He wants to be free to wear turtlenecks or other clothing. Miller said, "It's a question of how you want to look to people coming into the Town Hall. He sees no need for a dress code. Town employees use common sense in their dress." School Supt. Eugene Diggs said the school teacher dress code is needed where the employee is "a role model for students. Brimley won a recent 2-1 decision in the U.S. Second Circuit Court of Appeals. Without the school board asking, the full court of nine judges decided to review the case. A teacher's dress should reflect his status, said Dr. Diggs. In most cases, this means a jacket, shirt and tie.

Two Rockville seniors get full scholarships

Two Rockville High School seniors, Robert Kukulka and Barry Taylor, have been chosen to receive full four-year Bissell Scholarship Awards. The scholarship fund was established in 1964 by Lebeus Bissell of Rockville. He died in 1972. He was head of the Bissell Insurance Co. Bissell established the fund to be as flexible as possible. While primarily established for Rockville High students, it has been expanded to include Ellington and Tolland. In the event no students from any of these schools is eligible, it could be expanded to any other town in Tolland County. Bissell also had the provision in the trust that should the day come when no Tolland County students are eligible, the fund will be dissolved and the remaining money will go to Yale University and Phillips Academy. Bissell was a graduate of both schools. The scholarship provides complete four-year tuition to the college of the winners' choice. Kukulka is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kukulka of Gerald Dr. He is president of the National Honor Society. He has been a high honors student over four years of high school, played varsity football for four years, is a member of the track team, and a member of the Outdoor Activities Club. While the students haven't yet been notified by the colleges to which they have applied, Kukulka would like to attend Williams College and he plans to major in political sciences. During his junior year he was also chosen to represent the school at Boys State at the University of Connecticut. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor of George Dr. He is a member of the National Honor Society and has been a high honors student for four years. He has been a member of the school band for four years and also held solo chairs in the All-State Band and the All-New England band. He is a trombone player. His first choice for college would be Cornell, where he would like to major in veterinary medicine.

Fund cut threatens nurse agency

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter A cut in the proposed budget of the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association, made by the Vernon Town Council Thursday night, could mean a cutback in services for Vernon residents. The association had requested $74,916 as Vernon's share of expenses for free immunization clinics and other "human services." Mayor Thomas Benoit recommended $74,000 and the council, after lengthy discussion, voted 8-2 to further reduce the budget to $70,520. In a letter sent when the budget was submitted, Williams said he hoped, if an agreement couldn't be reached on a contract, that the council would allow a reasonable application to the association. He said this would be about $75,000. Kukulka is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kukulka of Gerald Dr. He is president of the National Honor Society. With Vernon, the costs are estimated and the board said that the council reduces the amount "on the basis of the evident feeling that we are asking too much money. I see the explanation that there had been a public hearing and the some $400,000 in revenue sharing funds had been used to allocate $12,000 in each department budget for equipment. First inning run spree gives Indians' triumph

While not a deluge, Manchester High did enough scoring in the first inning to gain a 4-1 CCLL verdict over Hall High in the 1977 baseball opener for both schools yesterday at frigid Kelley Field.

The Silk Towners' next tilt, Tuesday against Conard High originally slated for the West Hartford site, has been switched and will be played at Kelley Field at 3:30.

Hall had a threat going in its half of the first as Indian starter Pete Daigle had a stretch of control problems. The Manchester righthander issued free passes to the first two batters and after getting a strikeout, walked Scott Clement to jam the sacks. But Daigle induced Tom Soares to hit back to the box for an inning-ending pitcher-to-homer doubleplay.

Warrior righthander Bill Hayton, with a big-breaking curve, easily retired the first two Indians but then the home club struck. Frank Livingston singled, Ray Gilha was hit by a pitch and Ed White got a handle hit, to the third base side of the mound to jam the bases.

Tom Jones, who was second-leading RBI man a year ago, then followed with a single up the middle plating two runs and Brian Moran singled to left scoring White Jones, trying to make third was cut down ending the frame.

Hall got a marker back in the second as Greg Calibey tripled to straightaway center and scored on a Bill McCarthy opposite field single to right.

The Indians completed their scoring, and hitting for that matter, as Jones reached on an error, stole second and scored on Moran's wind-blown pop single behind the shortstop hole.

Daigle went the first six innings for Manchester to get credit for the win. He walked six, struck out four and allowed four hits. Junior left-hander Mike Jordan went the final three frames, scattering three hits while fanning five to gain a save. Hall had runners on in every inning winding up stranding 15. Hall's Hayton the final five innings allowed just two runners to reach, both on errors in the fifth, retiring the last 19 in a row.

Record play day
"Nobody will believe it but the biggest one-day play for golfers at Minnehaug was 745 nine hole rounds in 1962," owner Graham Clark noted this week.

"Play that day started at sunup and ended at sundown," he added. Now in its 23rd season, Minnehaug, an 18-hole course, handles as many as 300 players when weather conditions are favorable.

One of Clark's goals in life was somebody to own a golf course. Only through sound foresight, hard work and a lot of sweat and patience, the dream was realized when a once 120-acre dairy farm was turned into one of New England's finest public courses.

The course got its name after the Minnehaug Indian tribe that settled in the area.

"I wouldn't trade this place for any place in the world. It's been a headache at times, but there have been many happy years," he added.

Little man delivers
There's always room for a little man in pro basketball. Calvin Murphy of the Houston Rockets, all of nine inches over five feet, recently scored his 10,000 point in the NBA. He's the 77th player to reach or surpass that figure in the hoop major league. Jim Ruster, head golf pro at Minnehaug, has won over 30 golf tournaments and is one of the most prominent young golfers in the state.

Howes looks to Detroit
DETROIT (UPI) - Gordie Howe and his two sons, Marty and Mark, still want to return to Red Wings in the National Hockey League where the elder Howes wrote all the league scoring records in a 25-year career. But Colleen Howe, Gordie's wife, said the Red Wings have failed to contact the Howes and she said in an interview Thursday the family "will not wait on the Red Wings until August."

Cromwell tops Tech

Five runs in the second inning powered Cromwell High to a 1977 season-opening 19-5 win over Cheney Tech in Charter Oak Conference baseball action yesterday in Cromwell.

Gary Brennan was hitting star for the Panthers, Class S Division runnerup a year ago, with three safeties and four RBIs.

Cheney got a run in the third on a bases-loaded walk to Gary Martineau, one in the fourth as Jim Boudreau tripled Mark Ouellette home, two in the sixth on an error, and one in the sixth inning on a fielder's choice by Chris Vana.

Bob Walter started and went the distance, Cheney also won the loss while Scott Ekstrom went five innings for Cromwell to gain the win.

Koufrou and Lewis LaBeach each had two hits in the Beavers' eight-hit attack. Cromwell had nine safeties off Walter.

Lasorda, Rapp winners in debuts as managers
NEW YORK (UPI) - For Tom Lasorda and Vern Rapp, it was a day that made what at one time seemed to be a lifetime of bus rides all worth it.

Lasorda, who was a surprise choice by the St. Louis Cardinals last winter to replace Red Schoendienst, launched his major league managing career with an easy 13-6 romp over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bill Campbell flops in Red Sox debut

BOSTON (UPI) - The Cleveland Indians seemingly had breathed their last gasp before finding a second wind that won them the first baseball game of the season.

Down 9-0 by the third inning and trailing 4-2 in the ninth, the improved Indians blew past the Boston Red Sox, 5-4, Thursday in 11 innings at Fenway Park.

Buddy Bell, a third baseman playing leftfield this season, had gotten the Indians into extra innings with a two-run homer after new third baseman Bill Melton had singled to lead off the ninth against Boston relief ace Bill Campbell.

Second baseman Duane Kuiper won the contest with a 50-foot boncer along the first base line that brought Frank Duffy home from third.

"But the turning point was Duane Eckersley coming back so well," said Cleveland manager Frank Robinson of his starting pitcher. The hard-throwing Eckersley had given up two stolen bases and a run in the first inning and pair of back-to-back solo homers to Bernie Carbo and Dwight Evans in the second inning.

After hitting Carl Yastrzemski in the wrist in the third inning and yielding a leadoff double to Carbo in the fourth, the 22-year-old Eckersley was within one mistake of an early departure.

Instead, Eckersley struck out the next three batters in the fourth and gave up just four more hits and one run through the ninth inning to allow the Indians to get back in the game. He wound up with seven strikeouts while Dave LaRoche, getting the win with two scoreless innings of relief, struck out two more Boston batters.

"I was aiming instead of throwing early in the game; then I started getting stronger," said Eckersley, who averaged nearly a strikeout per inning last season. "I wasn't loose enough in the beginning, but I threw pretty well after the fourth inning. "I think I could have gone longer than nine inings, but on the first day after the Red Sox had lost a 3-0 lead Thursday and dropped the season opener, 4-2, to Cleveland in 11 innings of questions and criticisms carried new bars.

Why did he leave pitcher Bill Campbell in the game after he had yielded a two-run homer in the ninth to Cleveland's Buddy Bell? Why did Dutch Hobson hit away with a man on and no outs in the 11th inning and why did Zimmer use weak hitting Doug Griffin as a last-out pinch hitter in the same inning?

The plucky, 46-year-old manager laid down his philosophy tersely in a post-game interview.

"Look, I do what I think is right for my ballclub at that particular time. I never second guess myself afterwards because I do what I think is right," he said.

"I wanted to go with my best reliever and Campbell is my best. He's not going to do the job 100 per cent of the time; no one can. But I'll go down with my best."

Green step closer to golf dream

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Hubert Green has dreamed of winning the Masters since he first visited the Augusta National as a 13-year-old schoolboy.

He took a step toward fulfilling that dream Thursday when he secured five-under-par 67 that sent him into today's second round with a two-stroke lead.

"It's become very important to me to win a major championship. I've won 11 tournaments (in six years) and if I win 15 more and don't win a major, I won't be a better player in the eyes of some of the other golfers."

Only three golfers in the 71-man field broke 70 in Thursday's opening round. The other two were 47-year-old Don January, making his 17th Masters appearance, and 24-year-old Billy Kratzert, in his second.

January was the first golfer to tee off, Kratzert the last, and both wound up with 69s. Kratzert, who was disqualified in the final round last week at Greensboro when he played an out-of-bounds club by mistake, was the only player who did not have a bogey in the first round.

"That should tell you something," said Kratzert, "defending champion Ray Floyd who had a 71—six strokes higher than his first round last year when he went on to tie the tournament record with a 17-under-271.

However, fifteen golfers broke par in the first round and Hale Irwin, one of five who shot 70, said it is still anybody's tournament. "A lot of people are playing well today," he said.

Green, who has not finished higher than fifth (at the Crosby this year) in any one of his 27 PGA Tour events, was the only one under through the 18th hole. He had six birdies and two bogeys, but at No. 10 when he missed a 10-foot putt after playing out of a bunker. "I was a little off," he said. "I was pretty tired coming in, but I'm still hurting."

Tom Watson, this year's leading money winner on the PGA Tour, also had 70. South Africa's Gary Player, the only foreigner to win the Masters (1961, 1974), and Ben Crenshaw, last year's runner-up, were at 71 along with Floyd. Tournament Players' Championship winner Mark Hayes, Dave Hill, Gene Littler, and Bud Allen.

Jack Nicklaus, the Masters' only five-time champion and the perennial favorite here, was in a logjam at even-par 72 that included Greensboro winner Danny Edwards and former Masters champions Billy Casper and Charles Coody.

Four-time champ Arnold Palmer, now relegated to a sentimental status at 47, was nine strokes off the pace at 76. And three-time champ Sam Snead, who will be 65 next month, may be might withdraw because of an ailing back after shooting an 81.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thursday night marked the end of an era for the New York Knicks and whatever happens next season it will not be the same club.

Bill Bradley appeared in his last game for the Knicks at Madison Square Garden and New York Coach Red Holzman presided over his last home game ever. But while the sentiment belonged to New York Thursday night, the game belonged to the Indiana Pacers, who came away with a 114-100 triumph that insured the Knicks would finish below .500.

With less than two minutes to play, Bradley, who scored 10 points in only his fourth start in the year, left the game and an emotional crowd of 11,000 stood and roared in gratitude for his 10 years of dedication to team play and his superb basketball.

In the post-game locker room, team Captain Earl Monroe said: "It was very hard for the fans to show their affection for him the way they did before the game and during it. Bill was an A fitting part of the New York scene. For myself, I'm losing a teammate and a friend, and those are the hardest people to leave."

Bradley expressed mild surprise in saying that when he started in pro ball, he expected to play only four years.

NBA

"But I got hooked on the narcotic of the game," he said.

Holzman was asked about his feelings after conducting a team before the last game for the last time in his pro basketball career of more than 30 years. Showing no emotion, Holzman said, "Just one of those things that you show emotion in many ways."

High-scoring Pacer forward Billy Knight held on to just six points in the first half, finished with a game-high 28 to lead the New York Knicks to victory. Robisch added 25 for Indiana, while Bob McAdoo had 25 points to top the Knicks.

In other games, Phoenix bounced Kansas City, 121-110. Cleveland dumped Detroit 108 and 107. The Celtics clobered the New York Nets, 124-86.

Suns 121, Kings 110

Paul Westphal scored 30 points as Phoenix eliminated Kansas City from a playoff spot. Alvan Adams scored 21 points for the Suns and Irvin Terrell and Ron Lee added 16 apiece. Richard Washington and Scott Wedman shared scoring honors for the Kings with 20 points each.

Cavaliers 108, Nuggets 94

Bobby Smith scored 23 points and Dick Snyder added 19 to spark Cleveland past Denver.

Skating weekend

STOWE, Vt. (UPI) — Skiers put away their equipment yet. Mt. Mansfield is open for the Easter weekend.

The mountain had officially closed last Sunday. However, officials reported Thursday the mountain had received 18 inches of snow in the past two days and so the chairlifts will be running once again.

Jay Keck, who is also open, reports a foot of new snow.

Girls' softball

Opening with an impressive win yesterday was Manchester High's girls' softball team. In a 1-0 victory over the host team, the girls' team won their first game in three years. Junior right-hander Doreen Dowham hurled a two-hitter, striking out while walking five. She got excellent defensive support.

Manchester had a 17-hit attack led by Jackie Figley, Ellen Donadio and Jackie Figley, who had three home runs in the game. The Indians scored in every inning but the sixth with a five-run third frame highlighted by Kathy Strand's three-run homer.

Following is an unsolicited testimonial
The best type of advertising.

July 24, 1976

Dear Jeff,
We want you to know how pleased we have been with the way you handled the purchase of our new home on Church St. and the sale of this house. You have been very fair, unpressured, and honest with us; and we feel that you represented the property well, both in showing it, and with the MOST creative real estate ads I've ever read! (If you don't get several dozen calls in response to the last one in The Herald, I'll be very surprised.) We won't hesitate to recommend your services to friends looking for an agency.

Sincerely,
Chuck & Susan Plese

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is a very attractive 67-year-old single woman, has been going with the same 50-year-old man for 15 years! He openly dates others, and my sister puts up with it.

He is a divorced man who plays the field, and he's convinced my sister that marriage at his age is a bumper and that all men need variety. My sister is a very nice woman. Our whole family has tried to make her see how foolish she is to waste her time on him, but she insists she "loves" him and is satisfied with things as they are. She could really get someone else but she won't look at another man.

"What is wrong with this dummy? And how can I convince her to break off with this man?"

DEAR ABBY: My father was a very successful businessman, and my mother came into a large inheritance soon after her marriage. They were regarded as "high society," yet I was constantly beaten, kicked and brutally mistreated all through my childhood. To this day I have a semi-crippled leg as a result of the beating I received as a child.

Today I am 50, happily married with two children of my own. Long ago I broke off all relations with my parents, as I could never forgive them for the way they treated me as a child.

My wife is urging me to make friends with my parents and to visit them. I want nothing to do with them. Most recently they have dangled a large inheritance in front of me. My wife thinks I'm crazy to pass up this fortune. She wants me to forgive and forget. I can't seem to convince her that I can't forget what they put me through and want none of their handouts now. Am I wrong?

DEAR ABBY: I have seen plenty of those so-called apartments at the store buying bullets and beer. (A great combination—almost as good as drinking and driving.) Every deer season we wait for the news: how many hunters will kill other hunters by mistake; how many will have heart attacks from over-eating and have to be flown out of the mountains at the taxpayers' expense.

Anybody who wants to buy a hunting license can get one, you know, regardless of how long a shot he is. Farmers have had their livestock accidentally killed by some of these "barbarians" who shoot everything that moves. (One farmer even considered putting a bounty on his animals' heads. "THIS IS A COW!")

I've never been hunting, and I don't care to go. The only kind of shooting I do is with a camera. That way I'll have something beautiful to remember—not the bloody, lifeless remains of a once beautiful animal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do as you please today. You're a bright thinker today, but don't rest on your laurels. At money-making, you're a dud.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't sit your present plans. South winds the heart lead in dummy. You can't do anything else with a singleton ace. Then declare should go with the diamonds because it can get you out of the hole.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a bright thinker today, but don't rest on your laurels. At money-making, you're a dud.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be content with small gains today. 3,000 miles. Best clean, real quick! $405. Rick, 648-5542.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Seek the companionship of those who have no axe to grind today. Persons with too much ambition may only try to use you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you have something important to do today, accomplish it quickly and quietly and alone. Partners would later number you among the detestable.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Speak favorably of friends who are not present today, even though others are demeaning you. Silence would later number you among the detestable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make sure you have a companion today. This could make you a mark for connivers who might try to sack you with some bad merchandise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An opportunity for gain might present itself today, but you'd have to compromise your ideals. You won't be content with your prize.

Manchester girl dies in auto accident

Barbara K. Shainin, 16, of 35 S. Lakewood Circle, a student at the Loomis Chaffee School in Windsor, died Thursday in a one-car accident in Barkhamsted.

State police said Miss Shainin was a passenger in a car driven by John Foulke, 18, of Larchmont, N.Y., also a student at Loomis Chaffee School. Foulke was charged with misconduct with a motor vehicle and evading responsibility and was released on a $1,000 bond pending an April 18 appearance in Torrington Common Pleas Court, state police said.

The accident occurred at 5:30 a.m. Thursday when the car Foulke was driving hit a tree alongside Hayes Rd. in Barkhamsted, police said. John Ratte, headmaster at Loomis Chaffee School said Foulke and Miss Shainin were apparently with a group of students who went to Enders State Forest in Granby Wednesday afternoon. He said all the other students had returned before 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. He could not account, he said, for the whereabouts of Foulke and Miss Shainin between 9:30 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. Thursday.

Miss Shainin was born April 26, 1960 in Manchester, daughter of Dorian and Margaret Shainin of Lakewood Circle, and had lived here all her life. She had attended South School and Bennet Junior High School and was a junior at Loomis Chaffee School. She was a member of the school's year book committee and was a volunteer worker in the Reading is Fundamental program. She formerly belonged to the 4-H Club.

She is also survived by two brothers, Peter D. Shainin of Burlington, Wash., and Richard D. Shainin of Covenant Station, N.J.; four sisters, Ellen M. Shainin and Carol A. Shainin, both at home, and Mrs. A. Shainin of Waterbury and Sister Beth Shainin of the Sisters of Notre Dame, Barrington, R.I.; and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Vera A. Shainin of Florida.

The funeral is Monday at 9 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., with a Mass at St. Dunstan's Church, Manchester Rd., Glastonbury, at 10. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Windsor Locks.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 6 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Reading is Fundamental volunteer program in care of the Loomis Chaffee School.

Judy Brown elected

Judy Brown of Parker St. has been elected president of the Episcopal Church Women of St. Mary's Church.

Other elected officers are Diane Gutzmer, vice-president; Sue Chesney, secretary; Nancy Taylor, treasurer.

Elected chairpersons of the various committees are Connie Roberts and Florence Bickley, program; Marialice Schoen and Gloria Boenig, ways and means; Celeste Sheldon and Carolyn Parrott, hospitality; Betty Hewitt, publicity; Dot Garrison, outreach; and Mrs. Sheldon, membership.

The organization will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall. Stephen O'Donnell, director of Crossroads, will be guest speaker. After the program, there will be a silent auction.

On May 9, a potluck is scheduled for members of all women's organizations of the church. Mary Heslin, commissioner of consumer affairs, will speak.

A fund-raising project for the Irish Children's Project is scheduled for April 30. The Episcopal Church Women will sponsor a bake sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Top Notch supermarket, and Highland Park Market. They will be assisted in the project by the women of St. James Church.

Pending bill would affect Cheney Tech

Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School is one of 16 state vocational technical schools that would be affected by a Board of Trustees for State Vocational Technical Schools if the legislature approves a bill providing such a board.

The Connecticut Vocational Technical Schools Parents Organization voted recently to support such a bill.

Reinhardt W. Buchli, the former director of Bullard-Havens Tech and current president of the statewide organization, said that the decision was made after considerable deliberation from all the delegates. The meeting was conducted at Kaynor Tech in Waterbury.

The bill would provide a board of seven trustees consisting of "one member from the business, industrial and commercial communities, one member from organized labor, one parent of current or former vocational-technical school students, one member of the local boards of education, and one member of the Connecticut State Board of Education. The balance of two members shall be appointed at large by the governor."

Entries being accepted for Hockanum race

Applications are now being accepted for the canoe and kayak race on the Hockanum River scheduled for Saturday, April 30, starting at 9 a.m. from Talcottville. The race date is May 7.

The race is sponsored by the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee and the River Rats are officiating. If the race has to be postponed, an announcement will be made on radio station WINF (1230 AM).

The put-in point will be alongside the Steak Out Restaurant, off Rt. 83, Talcottville. Take-out will be at the rear of the Powder Mill Shopping Center off Burnside Ave.

Entrants will be checked in at the starting point beginning at 8:30 a.m. All entrants will be responsible for their own transportation.

Canoe and kayaks will be started at timed intervals by the race officials. Check points along the course will be manned by members of the River Rats and the Eighth District Fire Department. Awards will be presented for the fastest finishing times upon the completion of the 5.8-mile course by all entrants.

According to the rules, all entrants must be at least 12 years-old, and wear life preserver jackets at all times. Life preserver cushions are not acceptable. Should any individual pass a checkpoint without a lifejacket, he will be disqualified. Each canoe must also carry a sturdy length of rope about 20 feet in length.

Lee Watkins, one of the officials who has run the course, said the river should be navigable with portages at the Union Pond dam and probably behind the Economy Electric building off Rt. 83. Some other shallow water may be encountered, but with skill, can probably be traveled. Canvas canoes are not advisable, he said.

A slide program of the Hockanum River, including parts of the course are now being shown in the window of Watkins Bros., on Main St.

Entry forms may be obtained at a checkpoint without a lifejacket, which may also be used, is provided on this page.

William J. Gabb II

EAST HARTFORD — William J. Gabb II, 63, of West Hartford, former president of the Gabb Mfg. Co. of East Hartford, where the prototype for the first Kaman helicopter was built, died Thursday at John Dempsey Hospital, Farmington. He was the husband of Mrs. Georgia Smith Gabb.

Mr. Gabb later founded and was president of the Gabb Special Products Co., Windsor Locks, which manufactures specialty products for the aviation industry. He was a member of Sphinx Temple Shrine. He also was a member and former measurer of the Hartford Canoe Club.

He is also survived by two sons, two sisters and two grandchildren.

A memorial service will be Monday at 11 a.m. at the First Church of Christ Congregational, West Hartford. Burial will be private.

The James T. Pratt Funeral Home, 71 Farmington Ave., Hartford, is in charge of arrangements.

There are no calling hours. The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Heart Association of Greater Hartford, 310 Collins St., Hartford.

Mrs. Joseph Steppe

ROCKVILLE — Mrs. Delia Martin Steppe, 67, of 65 High St. died Wednesday at Rockville General Hospital. She was the wife of Joseph Steppe.

Mrs. Steppe was born in Ireland and had lived in Rockville most of her life. She was a communicant of St. Bernard's Church and a member of its Ladies Guild. She also belonged to the American Legion Auxiliary, the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary.

She is also survived by two sons, James A. Kelly of Rockville and Charles E. Kelly of New London; a sister, Mrs. Russell Finley of Rockville; and two grandchildren.

The funeral is Saturday at 9:15 a.m. from the Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., with a blessing at St. Bernard's Church at 10. Burial will be in St. Bernard's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. There will be a Mass of Christian Burial Tuesday at 10 a.m. at St. Bernard's Church.

Funeral practices to be discussed

Arthur Holmes will be guest speaker Wednesday at a meeting of Manchester Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons at 1:30 p.m. at South United Methodist Church. His topic: "Modern Funeral Practices."

The Holmes Funeral Home of Manchester has been a member of the Golden Rule for 18 years, and Holmes has recently returned from a meeting of the international organization in Atlanta, Ga.

There are spaces available for 14 more persons on the group's trip to Canada May 13. They will be in Ottawa for the Tulip festival and spend two nights each in Ottawa, Quebec and Montreal before returning home May 19. The trip will be open to nonmembers after Wednesday's meeting.

To date, the chapter's tax aides have assisted 211 persons with their income tax forms including 18 home visits to those who couldn't get to the aides' office.

Pope enters taxing part of Holy Week activities

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI headed into the most taxing part of his 14th Holy Week as pontiff on Good Friday by re-enacting Christ's walk to his crucifixion nearly 2,000 years ago.

Aides were to shepherd the 79-year-old pontiff carrying a lightweight wooden cross for almost 20 minutes in the Way of the Cross Procession.

Pope Paul, recently recovered from influenza, suffers from a chronic arthritic condition in his knees that makes walking and lifting extremely painful.

The Good Friday procession past the ancient Colosseum in Rome precedes a 2 1/2-hour Easter eve vigil and midnight Mass in St. Peter's Basilica Saturday, to be followed on Easter Sunday by an address to pilgrims in St. Peter's Square.

Berk wins

John T. Berk of 20 Analdi Rd. is Manchester's most recent Connecticut Lottery winner. Berk had a two and three-digit match on a weekly "Double Play" ticket for a $2,500 win. He is eligible for a jackpot finalist drawing and, if drawn, he will compete for a $100,000 jackpot on the lottery's televised "Double Play" drawing.

Berk's winning weekly ticket was purchased at Manchester Elk's Lodge, Bissell St.

The traditional outdoor Mass will include an Easter message Urbi et Orbi (to the city and the world).

On Holy Thursday, the Pope presided over a ceremony at the Basilica of St. John Lateran and personally washed, dried and kissed the feet of 12 seminarians aged 12 to 14, re-enacting Christ's gesture to the Apostles before the Last Supper.

The boys, all Italians except Mirslaw Buszek, 13, the son of Polish refugee parents, sat on specially raised benches to make the pontiff's task easier as he passed among them.

The Pope appeared in good health as he rode, standing in a convertible Mercedes limousine, from the Vatican to St. John Lateran. He blessed the crowd from right to left as his car passed by.

At the church, he was carefully supported by two aides up and down several steps during the Mass.

Jaycee show draws support

Area merchants have reacted favorably to the Manchester Home Show sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees. The show is scheduled for May 14 and 15 at the Manchester State Armory.

The Jaycees report they have rented 40 per cent of the booth and display area. Proceeds from booth rentals will be used by the Manchester Jaycees to further its community activities and services.

For information on booth rental, contact Anthony Petkajtis, 647-0074, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; or Ralph Alexander, 649-4804 from 6 to 8 p.m.

About town

The Manchester Auxiliary of Child & Family Services of Connecticut will conduct an executive board meeting on Tuesday at the Manchester office, 110 Main St. There will be a coffee at 9:30 a.m., followed by a meeting at 10.

Members of the board of directors of Manchester Public Health Nursing Association will meet Monday at 9:45 a.m. at St. Dunstan's Church, Manchester Rd., Glastonbury, to attend the funeral of Barbara Shainin, whose mother, Mrs. Dorian Shainin, is a past president of the board.

Manchester police report

Manchester Police reported a theft Thursday that resulted in the loss of $650 worth of tools from a Garden St. home. The tools were kept in the basement of the home, police said.

Another theft occurred Thursday at a Tudor Lane apartment, police said. An antique clock, a $20 bill, and a coin collection were taken in the robbery, according to police.

Police arrested two men Thursday and charged them with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) from the Caldor store on Tolland Tpk.

Police arrested Everett C. Walker, 65, of 3 1/2 Walnut St., and Donald J. Coulombe, 19, of 38 Redwood Rd. The men were doing maintenance work in the store at the time of arrest, police said.

The court date for both men is April 25.

Other arrests made by Manchester Police included:

• Bruce W. Garner, 17, of 42 Norwood St., charged with altering a license. Court date is April 26.

• Russell Allen Jr., 24, of 195 Spruce St., charged with reckless driving. The arresting police officer reported that he saw a vehicle driven by Allen "fistbumping" on the road near the intersection of Hilliard and Cumberland Sts. The arresting officer also said that two other vehicles had to swerve to avoid being struck by the vehicle Allen was operating.

Court date is April 26.

• Robert B. Bouchard, 20, of Vernon, charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of drugs or alcohol and operating a motor vehicle while his license is under suspension.

Court date is also April 26.

Emmy program delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A boycott of the Emmy Awards presentation by a number of television stars has forced NBC-TV to postpone the scheduled May 13 program.

The network also warned that it will cancel the program if the problems are not resolved next week. The boycott is an outgrowth of a power struggle between the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and its Hollywood chapter, which withdrew from the organization.

The network Thursday sent a letter to academy chairman Richard Rector advising him of NBC's decision.

The academy collects nominations and makes the awards. This year, Rector said, 143 performers have elected not to nominate themselves, but 246 other performers on night-time shows have submitted nominations.
