HARTFORD — Puzzled and worried parents have swamped area retailers with questions since federal officials banned children's sleepwear treated with a cancer-causing fire retardant. Spot checks indicate all garments with the substance have been removed from shelves since the ban was announced Thursday.

HARTFORD — R. Samuel Clark, director of the Connecticut Child Welfare Association, is frightened of a trend revealed by the death of seven state children in the first three months of 1977 from abuse and neglect.

HARTFORD — Connecticut officials have been encouraged by the response of employers to a campaign to get workers to leave their cars at home. The program is aimed at larger businesses and about 800 such firms are now encouraging car pooling, use of buses and other ways of getting to and from work.

HARTFORD — Dennis Condon of Caldwell, N.J., landed his twin-engine plane safely at Brainard Airport Friday afternoon after a tense two hours while a visual check was made to see if his landing gear was properly locked in place for a safe landing. No one was hurt.

BOSTON — The state asks companies to voluntarily limit auto insurance rates for 350,000 young and urban Massachusetts drivers, some of whom are paying 90 per cent more this year.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Workers reject a contract offer at the Milton Bradley Co., the world's largest game maker.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — Inmates are locked in their cells and all privileges are canceled following a riot at the Berkshire County House of Correction.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Representative William Bailey wants to represent his inner city district in the Rhode Island House, whether or not he goes to jail. Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy signed extradition papers Thursday, ordering Bailey back to Michigan where he faces a jail term for shoplifting 33 record albums from a Port Huron store in 1973.

WASHINGTON — Radio interference prevented the crew of a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines jumbo jet from hearing control tower instruction that might have prevented its runway collision with another jumbo jet at the Canary Islands airport last month, the Washington Post reported in today's editions. It said preliminary study of the tape recordings from the KLM jetliner's cockpit apparently confirmed that the Dutch crew started a takeoff without getting formal permission from air traffic control.

SAN FRANCISCO — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau made a quiet exit from the San Francisco Bay area, declining comment on another report that he is having marital difficulties.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Gerald Ford, back in his hometown for the first time since he lost the presidency, planned a quiet Easter weekend with his family and friends.

LOS ANGELES — Lee Majors may be the "Six million Dollar

Man" on the television screen, but he's the $1 million absentee: Universal Studios which is suing him for breach of contract. It wants $1 million if Majors does not return to the series next year, backed up with a court order forbidding him to work elsewhere.

WASHINGTON — Ralph Nader says President Carter's chief energy adviser, James Schlesinger, is "grossly out of touch" with citizens opposed to nuclear power, and says Carter, himself, is softening his stand on the issue.

CARSON CITY, Nev. — Nevada now has an official state fossil — the Ichthyosaur. Gov. Mike O'Callaghan Friday signed into law a bill giving the title to the prehistoric monster fish, whose remains are included in a state park in central Nevada.

WASHINGTON — Morocco needs U.S. permission if it wants to bring any American-made arms into Zaire, the State Department says. That permission has not been granted. Morocco is reported sending troops to Zaire to help fight rebel invaders from Angola.

LONDON — Princess Anne is pregnant and in November will have her first child — Queen Elizabeth's first grandchild. Buckingham Palace announced Friday. The princess was married to Army Capt. Mark Phillips, a commoner four years ago.

LONDON — Sgt. Mike Davies, a British police expert, says the February automobile crash which allegedly killed Uganda Anglican Archbishop Janani Lumum in Kampala was faked. He based his conclusion on official photographs of the accident.

Easter peanut huntress

Melanie McCabe, 5, of North St., Manchester is delighted with the 52 roasted peanuts she found at the Manchester Community College Easter peanut hunt held this morning at the MCC main campus. A friend said she is shy, but not about peanuts. Few of the other children got more than a dozen. The hunt was held for children related to faculty members. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Pope Paul prepares for Easter vigil

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, who bore a wooden cross through a drizzly Rome in a Good Friday procession, today neared the end of Holy Week observances with an Easter-evening vigil.

The 79-year-old pontiff, who suffers from an arthritic condition that makes it painful for him to walk, planned a day of rest and prayer before beginning a 2 1/2-hour vigil and a traditional midnight mass in St. Peter's basilica to commemorate the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Easter morning he planned to celebrate another mass in St. Peter's, then deliver his yearly Urbi et Orbi (to the city and the world) message from a special outdoor altar on the church steps facing St. Peter's Square.

The Good Friday Way of the Cross procession, marking Christ's condemnation, crucifixion and burial, was attended by an estimated 75,000 who braved driving rains and jammed the pagan ruins around Rome's Colosseum square.

A black-clad Roman Catholic priest carried the five-foot cross during the first 11 of 14 prayer stations. The pontiff took the cross at the 12th station, which symbolizes Christ's death on Jerusalem's Mount Calvary.

On his walk to the 13th station, the Pope faltered briefly but a nearby attendant grasped his red cape to steady him and he completed the procession as a light drizzle fell.

In a message following the procession, the Pope called on Christians to find strength and guidance in Christ.

"For you men and women, where will you find a greater light than in the wisdom of the cross that has conquered the mystery that surrounds the destiny of human life?" the Pope asked.

Area churches plan Easter vigil services

Solemn vigils will be kept tonight in several Manchester area churches and the dawn of Easter morn will be greeted with loud hosannas for the Risen Christ at various sunrise services.

Manchester churches planning services tonight include St. Mary's Episcopal, 7, First Service of Easter with blessing of Paschal candle, Holy Communion and Baptisms; Church of the Assumption, 7:30, Easter Vigil Mass; St. Bartholomew's, 7:30, Liturgy of Service of Light, Liturgy of the Word, Liturgy of Initiation, Liturgy of Eucharist; St. Bridget, 7:30, Vigil Service; St. James, 7:30, Easter Vigil Service.

Area churches scheduling services tonight include St. Bernard's of Rockville, 7:30, Vigil Service and Mass; St. John's Episcopal Church of Vernon, 7, Paschal celebration, First Eucharist of Easter, Sacrament of Holy Baptism; St. Peter's Episcopal of South Windsor, 7:30, Great Vigil and First Easter Eucharist, lighting of Paschal fire and chanting of "Exsultet."

Manchester churches having sunrise services Sunday are Community Baptist, 7, service, 7:30, breakfast; Calvary, 8, service on church grounds followed by breakfast in church; Church of the Nazarene, 8:30, service; Salvation Army Corps, 7, service in Center Park.

U.S. reviews arms plan

CALHOUN, Ga. (UPI) — President Carter, encouraged privately by Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, says if a second look at his strategic arms proposals shows them to be unfair to the Soviets, he will be "very eager" to alter them.

Carter and his family were spending the weekend in Calhoun at the home of the Carter's eldest son, Jack, 29, and his family. Carter had a light schedule planned.

On his arrival Friday afternoon, Carter told reporters, "We will be reassessing some of the objections the Soviets have raised to see if there is some alternative that would be fair to both sides."

"If there is any inequity there, we would be very eager to change it."

But the President said, "My own opinion so far — and I have done a good bit of work on it, even since the Moscow talks — is that our proposal was fair and was equitable."

Hinting further at behind-the-scenes progress, Carter described the meeting between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin Thursday as "encouraging" and said "the private messages that I have had from Mr. Brezhnev also have been encouraging."

Carter's key proposal — asking deep reductions in the number of nuclear missiles and bombers each side was allowed under the preliminary Vladivostok accord of 1974 — caused a bitter Soviet reaction.

In his brief news conference at Dobbins Air Force Base, Carter also said:

- Palestinians must have a voice at the forthcoming Middle East peace conference in Geneva.
- The flap involving U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's remark that Great Britain had a history of racism is a "disgrace" to the British government considers it to be an end to the matter, and so do I.
- He's been talking to several Senators reportedly opposed to his $50 rebate for every taxpayer and found them "to still have an open mind" on the subject.

Peace effort to continue

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Defense Minister Shimon Peres, the probable successor to Premier Yitzhak Rabin as Labor party candidate for premier, said today Israel's government crisis should not slow Middle East peace efforts.

"I maintain that we must press on with the diplomatic momentum and strive for the reconvening of the Geneva conference in the second half of 1977," Perez said in an interview.

Political sources said Foreign Minister Yigal Alon, 58, has decided to abandon efforts to challenge Peres in the re-election race, probably because he couldn't muster enough support within the Labor party.

Instead, the sources said, Alon would settle for a deal making him defense minister in a new Israeli cabinet under Peres. The two men planned a meeting today to discuss the possible compromise.

"I don't foresee any substantial change in the goals of Israel's foreign policy," Peres, 54, told a state radio interviewer in an obvious response to recent reports describing him as a hardliner on Middle East policies.

The Labor party called a meeting Sunday to discuss its choice for premier to run in the May 17 elections. Rabin resigned Thursday in a surprise move after authorities said they would prosecute his wife, Leah, for keeping up to $18,000 in a U.S.

bank account in violation of Israeli currency regulations.

Party sources said a possible Peres-Rabin pact would avert a split in the ranks of the party at the most critical time in its history. Labor is facing a serious challenge from right-wing and new reformist groups in the upcoming elections

State Department reluctance irritates Rhody fishermen

BRISTOL, R.I. (UPI) — Rhode Island fishermen are trying their own brand of diplomacy out of frustration with State Department reluctance to seize foreign fishing vessels violating the new U.S. 200-mile fishing limit law.

They are taking their case directly to representatives of some foreign governments, including the Soviet Union, and are demanding answers from their own government.

The New England Regional Fisheries Management Council, in charge of administering the law in New England, has asked a State Department representative to attend a Wednesday meeting in New London, Conn., to give a "full explanation" of recent enforcement decisions.

The fishermen are particularly irked that three Soviet vessels, recommended for seizure by the Coast Guard, were let off with maritime parking tickets on orders from Washington.

But recent meetings between Alan Guimond of Bristol, executive secretary of the New England Offshore Fish and Lobster Association, a Yuri Znamenskiy, counselor of the Soviet embassy and a member of the Soviet-American Fisheries Claims Board, may prove an equal disappointment.

When they met for the first time shortly after the first Soviet ship was boarded, Znamenskiy promised the Russians would do what the State Department, apparently, would not.

"He (Znamenskiy) assured me that stern action would be taken against any of their vessels, especially the captain, who could lose his license. He said they would impose fines on these people and they could even go to jail," Guimond said Friday.

The Russian said the first incursion was an accident that would not happen again. But the Coast Guard has since boarded other Soviet vessels in forbidden areas.

Envoys try to defuse crisis

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Diplomatic activity intensified in Lebanon today to defuse the crisis created by the Palestinian guerrilla takeover and consolidation of Christian rightist positions near the Israeli border.

The guerrillas claim their orders are open-ended: To break the back of the Israeli-supported rightist effort to carve out a security belt along the southern frontier.

In the capital, Syrian envoy Col. Mohammed al Kholy arrived Friday with a private message for President Elias Sarkis from Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Syria has given tacit support to the guerrilla offensive in the south and pictures of Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat appeared in recent days at Syrian checkpoints alongside those of Assad.

In other diplomatic activity apparently intended to head off the possibility of a showdown between Syria and Israel, Foreign Minister Fuad Butros met Friday with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Soldatov.

Butros earlier in the week also met with U.S. Ambassador Richard Parker.

"We received orders (this week) to break the security belt the rightists were attempting to establish for the Israelis along the border," said "Capt. Mussa," the Fatah commander in the strategic southern hilltop town of Kham captured Thursday by the guerrillas.

"That order is still open."

In the past week, the Palestinians have recaptured the towns of Kham and Taybe from the rightists along the eastern end of the 60-mile border.

The action has thrown the rightists on the defensive and put their supply lines from Israel under Palestinian fire.

On Friday, artillery fire was exchanged between Palestinian positions in the border towns of Kham, Taybe and Ebel Es Saqi and the nearby rightist strongholds of Kleia and Marjayoun. The rightists also were aided by Israeli artillery support from a northern border settlement.

Steelworkers win victory in tentative contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Steelworkers won a major victory in contract negotiations with the big 10 steelmakers by obtaining a tentative offer for improved job security and guaranteed income, according to a top union official.

The union's triumph was announced by USW President-elect Lloyd McBride Friday as the two sides moved quickly toward a tentative agreement on all provisions of a new three-year contract for nearly 340,000 workers in the basic steel industry.

Some 600 local union presidents awaited details of a tentative agreement today. The presidents were expected to ratify the proposal and endorse continuation of an existing no-strike pact in the industry.

The demand for a guaranteed annual wage — sometimes known as "lifetime job security" — has been the core of the contract retiring I.W. Abel has sought to crown his 12 years as president.

Union members in the basic steel industry previously had some contract provisions for income security — including supplemental unemployment benefits, extended vacations, a 32-hour pay guarantee for each work week and short-term income maintenance for disabled workers.

The new contract was negotiated under a no-strike agreement that has existed since 1974. The current contract expires Aug. 1. Without a settlement before April 20, the two sides would be required to submit all unresolved economic issues to arbitration.

The no-strike agreement also guarantees the workers an automatic $1.50 bonus with a new settlement and no less than a 3 per cent pay hike in each of the three years of a new contract, plus cost of living adjustments.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hill, Well, we thought that with the "Showboat" behind us we would be able to relax a little bit. However, we find that our annual "Big Week" is just around the corner, and so we are back at our necks trying to figure out just what the program will be for that week.

Meanwhile, the weather is slowly beginning to get better and that means it's golfing time. So we are calling for an important meeting for all golfers to be held Monday evening, April 11, at 7:30 at the center. This means that anyone wishing to participate in our golf program should attend this meeting, and like always it is open to both men and women.

A reminder that the second bus for Nova Scotia is scheduled for go; however, all you people who signed up should come in with at least your down payment. If we don't get all who signed to come in, then it will create a problem as to whether it will go for sure or not. Also, there are still a few more seats available for anyone who drops by.

As for the Bermuda-Nassau boat cruise, we are just about all set to go. However, there may still be an outside chance that some more may be able to go, and if you would like to go, then you must call the O'Brien Travel Agency on Monday morning.

Paul would like you folks who are going to contact him, if you haven't already, as to whom you'd like to sit with during the meal.

Don't forget that your complete payment for the trip is now overdue and therefore you must get it up by the middle of this week, as this trip is scheduled for Saturday, May 7.

Back to our successful Variety Show, and after Sunday's performance, the cast and all the volunteers returned to the center for a relaxing party. I want to thank Ann Haupt, chairperson, and her helpers, Ann Thompson and Sue Kerr, as they really did a beautiful job in getting everything ready for us. It was good to come from the show and just be able to sit back and relax because everything was ready for us.

Also a reminder to all in the cast: you will please be sure to turn in all costumes by the end of next week. The Wednesday morning crewed embroidery class is finished for the season and so we would like to try a new idea.

Our two college girls, Karen Vandewen and Janet Ryan, who have been doing an excellent job in helping the seniors here at the center for the past couple of months, are issuing a call to form a "Fellowship Circle."

This coming Wednesday at 10 a.m. the girls would like to hold an organizational meeting and welcome all seniors to come and bring some ideas of what they would like to do. Maybe one senior could interest others in some type of sewing, sharing recipes, exercising, etc. It will be a nice way for everyone to get together with their friends and meeting new ones as you share your hobbies and interests. This is quite an understanding for these two young ladies, and I hope we'll have a nice turnout.

Sounds like an excellent idea and you could even plan on staying for a lunch that is served at noon time.

Now for the happenings here at the center and we start with the results of our Senior Bowling League at the Parkade Lanes.

Men Class A (over 130 average) high triple and single, Charles Banks, 221-50; Men Class B (130 average and under) high triple and single, Tom Riddle, 185-47; Women Class A (over 100 average) high triple and single, Flo Rossberg, 173-419; Women Class B (100 average and under) high triple and single, Marion James, 138-54.

On Wednesday morning we had 36 players for pinocle with the following winners: Esther Anderson, 610; George Lark, 604; Robert Schubert, 589; Grace Windsor, 571; Cecile Benson, 568; Ann Haupt, 567; Margie Reed, 510; Martha Rockwell, 480; Martha LaBate, 462.

On Tuesday morning oil painting class and our Wednesday morning crewed embroidery class ended this past week.

We here at the center wish to thank both Kay Hendrickson and Lynn King for doing such a super job, and the seniors are sorry it ended so fast. We also want to thank Mr. Ernest Lewis, who is in charge of the Board of Education Adult Classes, for making it possible for us to have such competent instructors and able to enjoy two nice programs.

Dinner April 4
By the way, don't forget about the big dinner and entertainment for our seniors at the ROTC building on Thursday, April 14 starting at 6:30 p.m.

The entertainment after dinner will be the Dorothy Lamot Dance Studio whose students will perform all kinds of dances. The students, from toddlers to an adult class, will really entertain you.

The menu for the dinner is really outstanding: Boneless breaded chicken, sweet and sour meat balls, baked macaroni in cheddar cheese sauce, baked Virginia ham (carved to order), chiffonade salad with dressing, whipped jelly with cottage cheese, assorted cheese platter, diplomat potato salad, Mexican cole slaw, assorted relish tray, braided rolls and butter, pineapple chiffon cake and coffee or tea.

Tickets are going fast so pick yours up at the office first thing Monday.

On Thursday, we had Mr. Bob North who showed us a movie on a tour of Vermont and Mount Snow. We all enjoyed his talk very much.

During the day we were told that John Phelps, Louis Bachev and

Two men complete EMT course at MCC

Two members of the Eighth Utilities District Fire Department recently completed an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) training course at Manchester Community College.

District fire fighters Garry Albert and Ken Roback, having completed the 81-hour course, are now certified with the State of Connecticut. The District Fire Department now has 21 EMTs.

Albert, captain of Training Co. 3, has been a member of the department since May 1974. Roback, the department's dispatcher and a member of Engine Co. 2, joined in February 1975. Both are members of the firehouse's night crew.

Manchester Chapter, Parents Without Partners, will have a dance tonight from 9 to 11 at Flano's Restaurant, Bolton.

Wednesday, Italianstyle lasagna with tomato sauce, tossed green salad with dressing, bread and butter, homemade bread pudding, beverage.

Thursday, sliced turkey on whole wheat bread, baked beans, dice Jello, beverage.

Friday, grilled hamburger on a bun, old fashioned beef gumbo creole soup with crackers, chilled pudding with whipped topping, beverage.

Schedule for the week

Wings of Evening

By CLIFF SIMPSON

If Easter be not true
If Easter be not true
If Easter be not true
If Easter be not true

Angela Morgan expresses this truth in her poem:
Resurrection
Waken, O world, if you would glimpse the wonder
Of God's great primal plan.

Easter is true NOW!
To many people, the question
of Life Eternal is linked to a kind
of endurance contest that begins only
when death has arrived.

Life Eternal is NOW!
To many people, the question
of Life Eternal is linked to a kind
of endurance contest that begins only
when death has arrived.

Our Lord whose resurrection we celebrate on Easter said: "And this is eternal life, that they know the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."

temporality of Life Eternal in this quotation from his writings:
"The Eternal Life is not future: It is. It lies in a relation to God through Christ. It does not depend for its essence on any external change. It is to know God... the Kingdom of Whom is Eternal Life, and is spoken of as something continuous, progressive..."

Can you imagine the manuscript of a novel lying on a desk, the pages in proper sequence. An electric fan is turned on and the room is filled with fluttering sheets. Utter confusion exists. A stranger enters and tries to put the pages back in order. She reads one page after another until some sense emerges, but still the secret of the book is hidden.

There are groups of incidents but no connection. Suddenly her face lights up. She has found a page that relates all the individual episodes into an ordered whole. She has found the key.

Such I believe is what Easter is to the rest of existence. How jumbled, how mixed up, how confusing — until we find that Easter gives meaning and purpose to all of life. It is the key. We have found it.
Money, power, sex, other philosophies have not given the answer. Christ the Lord has found the way, the truth and the Life.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for
you the key that opens life to its
fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Easter is tomorrow. May it be for

fullest, both now and for all eternity.

Unemployment reforms

One of the major controversial issues before the General Assembly is the reform of the unemployment compensation law to help restore its fiscal solvency and begin steps toward paying back some $400 million borrowed from Uncle Sam.

The key issue seems to be the fire and quits provision.
Business contends a worker who is fired for just cause or quits voluntarily should not be entitled to unemployment comp. Labor, on the other hand, contends unemployment comp is a right and therefore a worker is entitled to it regardless of the reasons for his idleness.

Historically, the management view is more correct.
The original concept of unemployment insurance was to provide a partial income for workers idled through no fault of their own.
But we think the real loser in this battle is not the unemployed worker, but the workers who are working and in most instances have been working for many years without ever drawing the popularly called "rocking chair money."

By making eligibility almost universal, the state has depleted the fund and run up a tremendous debt. Not all that debt is the fault of the state.
The federal government must share part of the blame for its cop-out of extending benefit periods instead of really trying to get people back to work. Too often unemployment compensation has been used by the Congress as a back-door welfare, making it virtually impossible for the system to be adequately funded by the employer contributions.

The debt must be repaid in some manner and a trust fund created if those who are working and have been insured protection for which the employers are paying the premiums.

We think the working worker should demand a longer reasonable waiting period for unemployment eligibility in the case of fires and quits. If a person is fired or quits, he should not be entitled to the same treatment as one who loses his job through no fault of his own.

Such a stiffening of the eligibility can help restore the fund to solvency and retire the fund's debt. Unless this is done, the steady worker stands to be ultimate loser.

The question for the legislature is not whether management is right or organized labor is right but,
will the system be able to help the steady worker if and when he should need a few weeks of unemployment compensation
because he is laid off through no fault of his own.

Herbert Brucker

Herbert Brucker, who died recently at the age of 78, pursued two careers. One of them was a long career as a journalist and journalism educator. In those capacities he made a considerable contribution to the profession and earned the respect of fellow journalists as well as a wide segment of the public.

It was as a working newspaperman and as a teacher — often a critical teacher — of newspapermen that he will be remembered by his colleagues.

He established a high standard and insisted that others live up to it while, by his own example, inspiring them to do so.

He embarked on a second and much shorter career as chairman of the Freedom of Information Commission.

They were not really separate pursuits because throughout his life he was devoted to the idea that citizens must know what is going on if they are to have control of their destinies in a democratic society.

It was in this second career that in a short span he earned respect for his no-nonsense approach to the decisions he was called upon to make.

He presided over the Freedom of Information Commission in its early days when the law that set it up to insure public access to government information was being tested, sometimes for what seemed to be capricious purposes.

The fact that he was a complimentary man did not inhibit him from acting decisively and speaking plainly.

His death is a loss to the profession and to the public.

There is toughness in Jimmy Carter

WASHINGTON — What weeping and gnashing of teeth over the alleged "failure" of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's arms limitation mission to Moscow?

You'd think Vance had spit in Brezhnev's eye and then kicked his shins, when all the poor Secretary did was present the American position.
Some of my colleagues in the media apparently think President Carter should have dispatched Vance with a hot hand, prepared to suggest nothing that would ruffle Russian feelings.

Brezhnev uninformed
Somebody should have told Brezhnev that Carter was a new man in town, publicly dedicated to a policy of freeze on new nuclear weapons and a major reduction in old ones. That somebody should also have noted that there is a toughness in Jimmy Carter that rejects casting himself in the role of St. Thomas.
More on route to the scaffold in 1555.
"See me safe up," quoth that brave yet curiously submissive man, "for my coming down, I can shift for myself."

Carter has ideas
No, Carter has ideas. He said long ago — and keeps repeating — he wants something better than mutual U.S.-Russian cordiality, that he is determined to pursue a cutback in nuclear arsenals, if possible to a destruction of those arsenals. So his proposal to Moscow was that the two nations make a meaningful start toward that goal.

Moscow turned horrified thumbs down on:
Ratification of the Vladivostok agreement limiting nuclear arsenals, but leaving open whether to include the U.S. cruise missile and Soviet backfire bomber in the pact.
Cut the number of each country's ballistic missiles launchers from 2, 400 to between 1,800 and 2,000, and reduce missiles with multiple warheads from 1,500 to between 1,100 and 1,200.

Does not denude
Such a program hardly denudes either country of the power to destroy the other many times over.
Sure, the Russians depend mostly on larger, land-based missiles, while the U.S. stresses smaller and more accurate missiles, and the Carter proposals would ban cruise missiles with intercontinental range. But nobody in Washington rejected the notion that the U.S. position could not be negotiated.

Another curious thing: On the one hand, the Russians complain the Carter proposals took them by surprise. On the other, they whisper that Carter and Vance were playing the propaganda game by revealing contents of the proposals at press conferences before Vance left for Moscow.

Touched all bases
Yet, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly
Dobrynin was privately briefed in advance of those press conferences before he left for home to brief his superiors. On their talks with Vance, Carter touched all the bases; what his critics at home forget is that this new President seems determined to honor his campaign pledge to "take foreign policy to the people." This is not merely Carter, the open-government man. He knows he needs support at home for his foreign policy if he's going to get anywhere.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd is not the government's leading foreign policy expert, but he put the American proposals in practical terms. Without suggesting that any final treaty must include every U.S.
ingredient, he urged that Carter,
Vance & Co. hold firm.

May say yes in May Byrd told reporters he hoped that when talks resume in mid-May,
Vance and other U.S. negotiators
"just go right back to the same proposals...I would lay it right back under their noses...The whole history of bargaining with (the Russians) has shown that where they say no today, six months from now they may say yes."

Carter said much the same thing.
His proposals, he told reporters, "obviously require a great deal of careful and long-term negotiation."
He was telling Brezhnev, so make us a counter-offer. That, after all, is the name of the diplomatic game.

Thoughts

"So stay awake, because you do not know the day when your Master is coming. You may be quite sure of this that if the householder had known at what time of the night the burglar would come, he would have stayed awake and would not have allowed anyone to break through the wall of his house. Therefore, you too, must stand ready because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect." Matt 24:42-44.

We are awake and we rejoice as we prepare for the glorious coming of the Lord. He is risen as He said. He has given to us all the promise of eternal life — a life of peace and joy in His Kingdom. Our daily life of love and service builds that kingdom until He comes again.
In our Easter joy let us seek to express the joy and peace of the Kingdom of God to one another.

Easter musical set for Sunday
 The musical, "By My Spirit," will be presented by the Chancel Choir of the Church of the Nazarene at 7 p.m. at the church, 238 Main St. The public is invited.
 The ministry of the Holy Spirit in cleansing and filling the human heart and empowering for service to a troubled world is the theme of the presentation.
 The choir, under the direction of David H. Blaney, will feature the Rev. Donald Kaufman as reader. Soloists are Kathi Peck and Jean McFall.
 A familiar expression in religious circles today is "born again." This experience usually involves faith in Jesus, followed by an emotional, dramatic crisis when one finally says "Yes" to Jesus.
 Without questioning the sincerity of those who have been so "born again," I do challenge the accuracy of their information. The New Testament furnishes no example of today's conversion of sins, Acts 2:37-41, et al.
 Did you "born again experience" conform to this pattern? If not, you would be well advised to study the Scriptures and to act in keeping with its definition of the new birth.

Bryant crusade worries some

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anita Bryant's self-proclaimed crusade against homosexuality and her use of scriptures to denounce it is worrying some clergies.
 A top official of the National Council of Churches was moved this week to say Miss Bryant's campaign misrepresented certain Christian positions and stereotypes.
 The Rev. G. William Sheek, director of the National Council's Family Ministries and Human Sexuality, said in a letter to the Dade County, Fla., commissioners that he was deeply concerned "about certain myths and stereotypes that are being perpetuated in the dialogue over the ordinance concerning civil rights for homosexuals."
 Officials of the Council, including Miami, have passed an ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals in housing and employment.
 Miss Bryant is a leader in the Save Our Children campaign.
 Miss Bryant has been quoted as saying "God puts homosexuals in the same category as murderers" and the conflict in the county is "a battle of the agnostics, the atheists and the godly on one side and God's people on the other."
 Sheek, however, said it was "simply not true" that the Bible has a "single and clear position on homosexuality and that the biblical position was that homosexuality was a 'sin against nature' not to be tolerated in society."
 The National Council of Churches, including some 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations, says "all persons are entitled to full civil rights and equal protection and to the pastoral concern of the church" and in support of legislation at all levels that would "guarantee the civil rights of all persons without regard to their affectional or sexual preference."

Bolton's candymaker predicts better than average Easter

BOLTON (UPI) — Candy appetites, whetted by cold weather, have contributed to a sweet Easter for the few candymakers left in Connecticut.

Despite a threatened jelly bean shortage and a poor cocoa bean crop, Robert Munson predicted Friday this Easter will be even better than most.

He estimated his four Munson's Candy Kitchen stores will have sold 40 to 50 tons of candy before the Easter rabbit finishes his rounds Sunday.

Besides a few tons of jelly beans, the grand total includes chocolate eggs, chickens, baskets, and, of course, rabbits.

Munson said his prices rose 7 per cent to 9 per cent above last year's, even though poor crops in South America and Africa drove cocoa bean prices up more than 100 per cent.

Eric Dannemann, a partner in Brigham's Candies, Inc., said prices have risen 10 per cent to 20 per cent over last year, but also said chocolate rabbits are selling better than usual.

Munson said a big factor in making this Easter better than last year is the temperature. He said candy appetites go up when the temperature goes down. Last year, the Easter Sunday temperature was 95 degrees.

Munson said he sells more candy on Easter than he does on Christmas, Valentine's Day, Mother's Day and Halloween combined.

The candymakers stockpiled much of the cocoa used to make this year's candy before foreign prices jumped, Munson said.

The natural gas shortage last winter shut down the biggest jelly bean manufacturers, but they rebounded in time to keep pace with the Easter demand, he said.

Munson, who describes himself as "the president, the owner, the candymaker, the whole bit" at the company his family began 31 years ago, said few real candymakers still operate in Connecticut.

Official says strip mining contributes to floods

By United Press International

West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller said Friday that strip mining may have contributed to flooding in his state and similar charges were made in Alabama against a power company.

Spokesmen for the coal industry and the power company denied the charges.

Although water conditions continued to drop today in flood-ravaged states, officials in the Southeast and Appalachia areas were busy providing food, water, shelter and clothing for thousands still homeless.

The worst flooding in a decade caused $275 million in damage and resulted in 23 deaths in six states.

"There's no question when you apply rain to steep slopes it comes down," Rockefeller told a news conference. "It (strip mining) contributed to the disaster substantially."

But Ben Lusk, president of the West Virginia Surface Mining Association, said Rockefeller was "incorrect or misinformed or both."

Macon Ray, public safety director for Lincoln, Ala., accused the Alabama Power Co. of failing to take prompt action in implementing flood control plans.

The bulk of complaints from Alabama residents charged that the power company, which is responsible for a number of reservoirs on northern Alabama rivers, kept spillway gates closed, allowing water to pile up backstream.

But a statement from Alabama Power said, "Although the flood control regulation procedures applicable to the storage reservoirs afford considerable flood control benefits, they are by no means capable of completely reducing or confining all flood levels under conditions of major floods."

More than 10,000 persons were homeless in Kentucky alone, and the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration said Friday it would keep emergency relief centers open for business in Kentucky on Easter Sunday.

Manchester police report

Donald J. Alexander, 21, of 106 Woodbridge St. was being held on a $200 bond at Manchester Police Headquarters today on a charge of second-degree larceny.

Alexander was arrested about 4 a.m. today in connection with the theft of a motor vehicle which was found off the road near Exit 99 of I-86 by state police. Alexander was found a short time later in a nearby phone booth, police said.

He was charged by state police with evading responsibility and operating a motor vehicle without a license.

The car, owned by Walter N. Bayer Jr. of Bolton was stolen from in front of a Stone St. home a short time before the accident, police reported.

David E. Brodeur, 34, of 331 Bush Hill Rd., was charged with reckless driving Friday morning after an accident on Crestwood Dr. Police said Brodeur's vehicle struck a car parked in front of 57 Crestwood Dr. and owned by Alfred Bockus, 69, of the same address. The impact turned Bockus's car completely around and Brodeur's vehicle landed on the front lawn of the home, police said.

Brodeur suffered a cut on the chin as a result of the accident and was treated at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He is scheduled for court appearance April 26.

Alan S. Krowka, 24, of Vernon, was charged with third-degree larceny Friday after a shoplifting incident at Sears. He was released on a promise to appear in court April 25.

Two breaks were reported Friday.

One was at a Wetherell St. home from which a television set, liquor, cigarettes, food and a glass collection were stolen. The value of the items was estimated at $180.

Police reported a break into the building at Camp Kennedy. The front and rear doors of the building had been pried open and numerous items thrown about inside and outside the building. Missing were paints and several craft items. The date of the break could not be determined, police said.

Area police report

East Hartford

Using a one-man radar unit, police made six speeding arrests in town Friday and another five from midnight to dawn today.

The radar unit was set up for short periods all around town, said Sgt. John Haley. Spots were picked based on complaints received from residents.

The radar will continue in use through the weekend.

Vernon
Mark Cook, 17, of 104 Lockwood St. and Stephen Sulots, 16, of 98 Columbus St., both of Manchester, were arrested Friday at 2:15 p.m. in the Reservoir Rd. area while fishing on posted property.

The young fishermen were charged with third-degree criminal trespassing. They are scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 19 in Rockville April 27.

Operas for 1977-78

The Connecticut Opera Association's 1977-78 season will include Cesare Siepi and Montserrat Caballe among its stars.

The new season repertoire will include "Faust," "Lohengrin," "La Boheme" and "Norma." "Lohengrin" and "Norma" will be new productions.

The opening night performance of "Faust" on Oct. 22 will star Cesare Siepi as Mephistopheles, and William Johns as Faust. Others in the cast include Jeannette Pilou, John Darrenkamp and Judith Forst.

On Nov. 12, Wagner's "Lohengrin" will star Karl-Walter Boehm in the title role with Marita Napier, Vern Shinall and William Wildermann.

Montserrat Caballe stars in Puccini's "La Boheme" on Feb. 23. Rodolfo will be sung by Vasile Moldoveanu, a Rumanian tenor.

The final production of the season, "Norma," on April 15, marks the return of Christina Deutekom. She has appeared here in "Lucia" and "Puritani." Making his debut as Pollione will be Alfredo Sanchez Luna, a Venezuelan tenor.

Subscriptions for the new season may be obtained by calling or writing the Connecticut Opera Association, 15 Lewis St., Hartford, 527-0713. Single tickets will go on sale Sept. 1.

At the Civic Center

Tonight at 7:30, the Celtics play the Spurs at the Hartford Civic Center.

April 17 from 1 to 5 p.m.: Marriage Encounter Rally.

April 17 at 7:30 p.m.: Gene Roddenbery, creator and head writer of the "Star Trek" TV series, will talk about "The World of Star Trek," the original two-hour pilot film for the series, rejected by NBC as "too cerebral" for television audiences and never aired on TV, will be shown as well as a series of bloopers which occurred during production of "Star Trek."

For further information, call 566-8000.

Theater events

William Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost" will be shown at the Harriet S. Jorgensen Theatre at the University of Connecticut Storrs, April 22 to 30 at 8:15 p.m., with a special performance April 26 at 10 a.m. For reservations, call 429-2912.

The Glastonbury Players will present "Time of the Cuckoo" April 22, 23, 29 and 30 at Gideon Welles Junior High School in Glastonbury at 8 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door. For more information, call 633-4898.

The Hartt Opera-Theater will present Bartok's "Bluebeard's Castle" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" at Millard Auditorium, University of Hartford, 200 Bloomfield Ave., West Hartford, on April 14, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. and April 17 at 2:30 p.m.

The Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam opens its 15th season April 26 with a musical revival of "Sweet Adeline" by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II. The show will run through June 18. For reservations, call 873-8668.

Musical events

The Manchester Gilbert & Sullivan Workshop celebrates its 30th production with "Brigadoon" on April 21, 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. at Manchester High School. Proceeds will be donated to New Hope Manor, a residence for girls with drug-related problems. Tickets are available by calling Janet Acker at 521-8168. Group rates are available for groups of ten or more by calling 646-6235. For further information, call Mrs. Acker.

The "Feast of Fools" will be presented April 17 at 4 p.m. at Trinity Church, 120 Sigourney St., Hartford. The event is free. For further information, call the church office at 527-8133.

Al Gentile and his orchestra will present a "Sentimental Journey" Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Bailey Auditorium in Manchester High School. Proceeds from the big band-vaudeville revue will benefit the Newington Children's Hospital. For more information, call 643-0746.

The Simsbury Light Opera Company is presenting Gilbert & Sullivan's operatta, "H.M.S. Pinafore" tonight and April 15, 16, 22 and 23 in the Simsbury High School auditorium. Show time is 8:15 p.m. A Sunday matinee is planned April 17 at 2:30 p.m. For ticket information, call 658-0031.

Foot Prints at 466 Main St. will present an evening of jazz by "Voosh" at a date in April to be announced. Members of the group are Gene Bozzi, drums and drum synthesizer; Bob Gatzen, vibraphone and marimba; Tom Majeski, electric guitar, acoustic guitar and 12-string guitar and Don Wallace, electric bass.

The University Symphonic Wind Ensemble of University of Connecticut, Storrs, will play with the Eastern Brass Quintet on Tuesday in Jorgensen Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The Cologne Chamber Orchestra will perform Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Jorgensen Auditorium. On Thursday at 7:30 p.m., the New England String Quartet performs in Von der Mehden Recital Hall. For information, call 486-4226.

Art exhibits

At Foot Prints, 466 Main St., there is a mixed media exhibition in progress through Friday. From April 17 through 29, photographs by Yolla Niclas will be featured. There will be a reception April 17 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the gallery. The public is invited. For further information, call 643-8953.

At Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford, print making, a type of two-dimensional art traditionally intended for the sighted audience, will be presented for the visually impaired by the Lions Gallery of the Senses "Paperworks" is showing through mid-July. "Paperworks" has been designed in progressive stages to help visitors, particularly the visually impaired, understand how an artist translates an idea into an image. For more information about current exhibitions and events, call the Atheneum at 247-9111.

HSC plans fundraiser

The Hartford Despatch and Warehouse Co. in East Hartford will be the scene of the Hartford Stage Company's annual spring fundraiser, a dinner dance on April 16 entitled "A Moving Experience." This year's dance will emphasize the Stage Company's relocation to its new $2.5 million facility on Church St. in downtown Hartford in late summer.

For reservations, contact the HSC business office at 525-5601, or Mrs. Sidney Berson, 561-1436.

Movies scheduled

"The Marquise of O" will have its Hartford premiere Wednesday at the Wadsworth Atheneum Cinema in Hartford and will continue for two weeks.

At Manchester Community College, "Return of the Pink Panther" will be shown Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the MCC auditorium on Bidwell St.

At University of Connecticut in Storrs, the Film Society presents two suspense films, "The Wrong Man" and "Pickpocket" on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 154 in the Life Sciences Building. On Thursday, "Goldiggers of 1933" and "Showboat" will be shown at the same time and the same location.

Musical at school

"Annie Get Your Gun," Irvin Berlin's musical, will appear on the East Hartford High School stage Thursday and Friday, April 14 and 15, at 7:30 p.m. The EHHS Masquers will perform it.

The musical is based on a book by Herbert and Dorothy Fields. Berlin wrote the music and lyrics.

Richard Sterner will direct the Masquers. Richard Prior will direct the EHHS orchestra.

Cast members are selling tickets now. More should be on sale at the door.

At the Bushnell

Julie Harris stars in "The Belle of Amherst" as she portrays New England poet Emily Dickinson, tonight at 8 at Bushnell Memorial Hall in Hartford.

Wednesday at 9:40 and 11:10 a.m., the Hartford Symphony Orchestra presents a young people's concert for area students. For information, call the Hartford Symphony Orchestra at 278-1450.

Thursday at 8 p.m., convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt is scheduled. His lecture will be followed by a question and answer period. For reservations, call 246-6807.

Dinner theaters

The surrey with the fringe on top will be stopped at the Pine-Brook Dinner Theatre in Higganum now through May 22 for the presentation of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma."

Maitland Peters as Curly, Renee Stevens as Laurey, and Ada Simmons as the energetic Aunt Eller are featured in the musical that takes place in the wilderness days of the western state.

The cast enthusiastically recreates the excitement of the Saturday night town dance, and the show features several lively song and dance numbers.

Songs from the show include "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," "The Surrey With the Fringe on Top," and, of course, "Oklahoma."

At Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, Jerry Lewis entertains Tuesday through April 17. He will be followed by Frankie Lane from April 19 to 24.

The Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor presents "The Boys From Syracuse" in its final performance of its present run tonight. Opening Wednesday is the Rodgers and Hart favorite, "Pal Joey" which plays through June 5.

UNPA stamps promote saving water

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

More stamps from the UNPA. These will be issued April 22 to commemorate the UN Water Conference last month at Mar del Plata in the Argentine.

The designs for the New York UN and the Geneva UN will be distinctly different. The 13 and 25-cent values will be the five drops of water headed for the funnel. The background of this stamp is yellow, the funnel is tan and the drops are in shades of blue.

The Geneva stamps will have a dark blue field, and an aqua blob on a tan and yellow earth.

The purpose of the conference was to see how to conserve water — hence the symbolism of doing it out dropwise. They think of everything.

The stamps will be, or have been, done in photogravure by the Government Printing Bureau of Japan.

There may be still time to order the NY FDCs through the Manchester Philatelic Society. See M. Landry at the April 19 meeting at Mott's.

The stamps just might be around in time for the UN booth at MANPEX '77, at Manchester High School on the 23rd and 24th of April. There is an inspirational sheet from the UN WFUNA group offering all manner of artwork and FDC combos for these stamps. Some of this material may also show up at the MANPEX. No promises.

All that in 22 pages

A new magazine just received — "Cover Country," Vol. 1, No. 1. "Devoted to the needs, wants, and desires of Cover and Postal History collectors." All that in one little mag of 22 pages. It may expand, and perhaps the many misspellings are typos.

Some of the subjects: Topical Cover Philately; Railroad Covers in the U.S.; Tracing the History of Naval Covers; Stationery — Postal History Cinderellas. (Collectors Press, 2041 Illona Lane, Merrick, NY 11566. It is a monthly, $7.50 per year.)

Many good articles

The Antique Trader Weekly has improved of late. They went through a long dry spell back along with only one or two "readables" per number — just page after page of those far-out ads. But in a recent issue they had pieces with the following titles: Kolorful Kodaks; Custard Glass; Jenny Lind; Judge Garrett's House of History; The Irish Colleen on St. Patrick's Day Postcards; Now That Was a Winter, (old winter scenes.)

In the section "Relic Round-up" they report on the London auction house, Christie's, that is going to open up in New York in May. They hold out both palms — taking commissions from buyer and seller alike.

Other titles in the same issue: A Modern Collectible — The Decorated Lunchbox; The Legend of Lifebuoy (soap); Glass Knives Update; Bibelots of Tobacco — Pipe Tamper, Alias Stoppers.

And there is a real good bit on fountain pens. "The Big Four." (Wahl-Eversharp, Shaeffer, Parker and Waterman.) The only independent survivor now is the Parker Pen. Co. Eversharp folded and the other two were swallowed up. The downfall started on Oct. 29, 1945, when the Reynolds Pen Co. came out with the ballpoint — at $12.50! And it wouldn't really write. The pen from the Parker Duofold set that cost $7 in 1925 is said to bring $150 today. Start looking.

Meeting is Tuesday

The Manchester Philatelic Society will meet at Mott's Community Hall Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. It will be the last such gathering before the MANPEX '77. This will be, as already noted, at the Manchester High School on the 23rd and 24th. Try to save at least one of these days.

900 megahertz: Airwave of the future

By INK DIPPER

Motorola has field-tested a high frequency radio that may be the basic model for the CB unit of the future.

The radio, operating just above 900 megahertz (compared to 27 megahertz for present CB), has surprised federal officials who observed its operation. The unit, with four watts and operating on AM, has almost the same range as a comparable 27-megahertz CB.

Field tests for the radio were conducted in the Chicago and Washington, D.C. areas late in 1976 and early this year. More tests will probably be made under spring-time conditions.

A move to the 900-megahertz range is one proposal for avoiding non-radio interference and skip. The higher frequency range does not pick up interference from electric lines and similar energy fields. And skip is non-existent on the range.

No price studies have been made on the unit, which is a "brass board" model, a unit put together on a non-production chassis. One estimate is that the unit might not cost more than 50 per cent above production costs from present 27-megahertz units.

Motorola's unit might be an indication that 900-megahertz CBS could be built at prices competitive in today's CB market.

Although Motorola isn't releasing exact results of the tests, federal sources said the 900-megahertz unit did well when operating under the same conditions as a 27-megahertz unit.

Engineers from both the FCC and the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy (OTP) saw the radio in operation. The FCC granted a temporary operating permit for the special rigs. The OTP is interested in the Motorola experiments because of the political implications revolving around the next channel expansion.

OTP has been reviewing possible frequency areas for the next channel expansion and has found that there is little space left under 900-megahertz for the next move, and taking space from other radio services would cause controversy. However, there is adequate space above 900, and OTP engineers would like to be able to recommend that the next CB expansion be made there.

OTP does not set policy, but it makes recommendations to the FCC and is sometimes involved in negotiations when frequency space is allotted.

One of the drawbacks for the 900-megahertz CB system, some engineers have said, would be line-of-sight characteristics of the higher frequencies. On 27-megahertz, the radio waves follow the contour of the earth, while on 900 they generally move in a straight line.

But federal engineers taking part in the tests said that the 900-megahertz AM waves seemed to have more range than had been expected.

Testing was done from car to car, using two of the experimental units, in Washington, moving through city streets, through the suburbs and into the country area.

The future channel expansion is seen as an advantage for American radio manufacturers who lagged behind in CB production but have surpassed the Japanese in manufacturing and technology in the higher frequency business communications field.

It's expected that such companies as E.F. Johnson & Co., General Electric and Hi-Gain will all be following suit in trying out their own CBs of the future.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I have been told by different people that Donny and Marie Osmond are trying to get their staff members to give up their own religions and change to the Mormon faith. Is this true? CINDY GROFF, Collegeville, Pa.

Someone close to the Osmonds says it's not true. This person says that the Osmonds believe the best way they can advertise their faith is by the example of their own sterling behavior. So they do no proselytizing.

DEAR DICK: My brother and I heard that Farrah Fawcett-Majors and her husband, Lee Majors, were breaking up because of something she said on a talk show. We were told she said, on the show, that she was a lesbian and that's why they're breaking up. Is this true? I hope not. MISS VIGIL, Pueblo, Colo.

That rumor is wrong on three counts — A, the Majors are not breaking up; B, Farrah never said anything about being a lesbian on a talk show; C, Farrah never was anything but a genuine girl.

DEAR DICK: I am a real good fan of Elton John, and I have heard some people say that he is a homosexual. Could you please straighten me out on this? LISA WEBER, Caldwell, Ida.

This seems to be the week for rumors about stars and their unusual sexual preferences. This one has some basis in fact. In an interview with Rolling Stone magazine, John said he was bisexual. He said he liked women, but...

DEAR DICK: I've been wondering if Jean Stapleton of All in the Family is Jimmy Carter's sister. PEARL MAYNARD, Plymouth, Wis.

Jimmy has a sister, but it's not TV's Jean. The president's sister is Ruth Carter Stapleton.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know what year "The Perils of Pauline" was produced and who the leading lady was. C.E. FOX, DeLand, Fla.

If you mean the original, that was Pearl White and it was made in 1914. There was a film biography of Miss White, starring Betty Hutton, called "The Perils of Pauline," which was made in 1947.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me if James Conrad of The Wild, Wild West is old enough to have been in World War II? I believe he was in my outfit. H.L. BANK, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

His name is Robert Conrad, not James, and he's now in Baa Baa Black Sheep. No, he wasn't in World War II. Conrad is only 41, or at least that's what he says.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me why there are no men contestants on the New Treasure Hunt program? MRS. M. KLAPP, Muncy, Pa.

Two reasons, according to the producers. First, the audience at home seems to identify more with women than men. And, second, they find that women react better — i.e., yell and scream — than men do. So they prefer women.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me who played Peter on "Bachelor Father?"

12. Who played Max on "Hennessey?"

13. Where was the home of "The Millionaire?"

14. Who played Mr. Honeywell on "My Little Margie?"

15. Who played Charlie in "My Sweet Charlie?"

Answers
15. Al Freeman Jr.
16. Clarence Kolb
17. Silverstone
18. Henry Kulky
19. Samuel Long
20. Nigel Bruce
21. Stephen Bayler
22. Erle Stanley Gardner

Science and morals

The ethics of biomedical research

Editor's Note: This is the 12th of 16 articles in the series, "Moral Choices in Contemporary Society." In this second of two articles on science and morals, Hans Jonas of the New School for Social Research discusses the morality of both the means of biomedical research, which involves human experimentation, and the ends of such research, which include control over birth, behavior, and death. These articles, which explore the controversial moral dilemmas that perplex Americans today, were written for Courses by newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

In modern science, man's quest for knowledge has lost its time-honored purity and become thoroughly alloyed with mundane action.

Not only in what science seeks knowledge about, but also in how it obtains that knowledge, the line between thought and deed often vanishes.

This merging of thought and action must affect the venerable "freedom of inquiry." We are wary of interfering with this freedom, once painfully wrested from earlier thought control and re-emphasized for us by its shameful repression in the Communist East. Yet we must remember that complete immunity of theory from public constraints depends on its separation from practice.

Never has absolute freedom been claimed for action, and surely never been accorded to it.

Thus to the extent that science becomes shot through with action, it comes under the same rule of law and the same social censure as every outward action in civil society. Obviously, this consideration bears on the admissibility of experiments, which are not necessarily innocent because they promote knowledge.

To make the point by just citing notorious atrocities is to weaken it. One easily agrees, for example, that one must not, in order to find out how people behave under torture (which may be of interest to a theory of man) try out torture on a subject; or that one must not kill in order to determine the limit of tolerance to a poison.

Remembering Nazi research in concentration camps, we know too well that the perpetrators of such scientific experiments were despicable and their motives base, and we can wash our hands of them. Here was "freedom" of inquiry as shameful as its worst suppression. One might even argue that the case falls outside the realm of science and wholly into that of human depravity.

What means for what ends?

Our problem is not with that phenomenon, nor with crooked or perverted science, but with bona fide, regular science. Keeping to indubitably really is like.

The crucial fact is that the first clone or genetic freak, experimentally produced, is as real and definitive as any individual brought forth into the world. Even discounting the overwhelming risk of beginning with monstrosities before the technique is perfected (without the moral freedom enjoyed by hardware engineers to scrap the failures), there is simply no right to experiment on the unborn - non-consenting by definition.

For this reason alone, the whole venture is ethically unsound. We pass over the more philosophical objections against this kind of goal as such.

Returning from these extravagant, futuristic perspectives of "biological engineering" to present realities, we have the problem of consent, which besets even the most defensible experiments on humans and is bound up with the mechanics of recruiting subjects.

"Informed consent"

The law prescribes "informed consent." But who can be really "informed," that is, who can fully understand, except fellow scientists who should indeed be the first to volunteer?

They also are socially best places to satisfy the second ethical requirement, namely, that the consent be "voluntary."

But for obvious reasons, numerical and other, actual recruiting falls back on more captive populations: Students, welfare patients, prison inmates, for whom freedom of consent (which equals freedom to refuse) is questionable. And for the last two groups, the meaning of "informed" is almost empty. Here lies a twilight zone of great ethical vulnerability for much of today's vital research.

Disputable goals

Often the research goal itself falls into the twilight zone.

For example, prevention and interruption of pregnancy are not, by the original meaning of medicine, properly medical goals, unless pregnancy be equated with disease and the fetus with a tumor. They may be approved, nonetheless, on non-medical grounds. Pursuing research toward them implies a tacit option for birth control, free sex, free abortion - surely choices in ethics.

There are also disputable ones. But whatever the merit of the goal itself, research toward it already poses its ethical problems with its need to experiment on human subjects, present and future. Here a point can be reached where a research goal becomes inadmissible merely because it requires inadmissible experiments.

A case in point is genetic research when it seeks to determine, for example, whether human cloning is possible, or whether the human type can be improved by "genetic surgery," that is by modifying the gene composition in reproductive cells.

At least one try at real cloning or at really producing a genetically altered individual is necessary to find out what is possible and what the achieved possibility legitimate and even praiseworthy goals, we ask whether in their pursuit there are limits to the experiments we may perform.

Biomedical research, more than any other field of science, involves such moral and legal issues. Medicine, of course, is by definition not a disinterested science but committed to a goal sanctioned by every standard of private and public good.

However, it relies heavily on scientific research that, although geared to those practical ends, has its component of pure theory.

In that respect medicine is a branch of biology. This in turn, once mostly a theoretical discipline, is becoming increasingly pregnant with potentials of use. Applied biological knowledge, medical or otherwise, is a technology to which theoretical inquiry is then wedded.

What better use can there be for a science than to benefit its very subject
