BERLIN - A proposed teachers' contract was rejected in a referendum Monday by voters for the second time this year. The tally was 1,825 in favor and 1,955 against. In February, after the first rejection, teachers responded by taking the next day off from classes calling it a "mass professional day."

SAN FRANCISCO - An appellate court has wiped out a judge's order placing five followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon in their parents' custody for 30 days to undergo "deprogramming." The order only affects two Moonites as three have renounced the church since the lower court ruling March 3.

DALLAS - The problems of suburban life have caused an increasing number of teen-agers suicides, says Charles Vorkper, director of a suicide prevention agency. Suicide is the No. 2 cause of death for all persons in the 15-24 age range, he said.

HARTFORD - The executive committee of the Superior Court judges would have the power to remove state's attorneys under a measure approved Monday by the Judiciary Committee. It would replace the cumbersome law now in effect and goes to the full General Assembly for action.

HARTFORD - Legislative leaders were scheduled today to vote on a proposed pay raise for themselves and their colleagues. The Legislative Management Committee, composed of leaders from both parties, must make a decision before Wednesday's deadline. Lawmakers now receive $11,000 for each two-year session plus a $2,000 expense allowance.

In arms and fishing disputes No new confrontations wanted by President

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The White House, although involved in disputes over arms reductions and fishing limits with the Soviet Union, is not seeking a confrontation with any nation, President Carter's chief spokesman says.
And White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Monday there was no connection between the fisheries dispute this week and the stalled arms talks.
Carter, reassessing the nuclear arms limitation proposals in light of Soviet objections, expected a further explanation today from Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin - a meeting Powell said was scheduled by "mutual agreement."
White House aides said there was a possibility the question of Soviet trawlers violating U.S. fishing limits will be addressed, but they indicated that subject was not the main reason for the meeting.
Dobrynin saw Secretary of State Cyrus Vance Thursday and later Carter announced he'd received "encouraging" messages from Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev since the breakdown of the arms talks in Moscow.

Moroccans reported in Zaire

By United Press International
A Zairean cabinet minister said today French military planes airlifted Moroccan troops to Zaire, contradicting official statements from Paris that the transports carried only war material.
In a Paris radio interview, Mubanza Nsomi Lehwanihi, minister of national orientation, said French military aircraft carried "the first contingent of Moroccan troops" to the war front in southern Zaire.
He told Europe No. 1 radio network that the Moroccan soldiers went directly into the operational zone in Shaba province to help Zairean units combat an insurgency allegedly backed by Angola.
Lehwanihi's statement contradicted official Elysee Palace statements that the French planes airlifted only Moroccan military equipment.
Lehwanihi said Zaire did not seek any big power involvement in the conflict. He said his government merely wanted France and Belgium to speed up deliveries of arms already ordered by Zaire before the rebellion began March 7.
He said there were no French troops fighting in Zaire.
In another interview, Gen. Nataniel M'Bumba, the leader of the forces invading Shaba province, said he aims at "liquidating" Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko and setting up a new government of national unity.
He said his forces had killed "hundreds" of government soldiers in what formerly was called Katanga province. M'Bumba said morale was so low among Zairean troops that they had to be retrained and padlocked to their vehicles so they could not surrender or escape.
The interview with the former commander of the elite Katanga gendarmes during an abortive secession attempt in the early 1960s contrasted with previous reports that the rebels simply wanted to win independence for the remote copper-rich province.
M'Bumba claimed that Belgians and Frenchmen were fighting on the Zairean side. French planes Monday

8th District delays sewer plan vote

Eight Utilities District approval of a town sewer installation in the district was delayed for three weeks Monday night to allow district officials more time to examine the proposal.
About 75 District residents appeared for the special meeting at the Whitten Memorial Library, but quickly approved adjournment until May 2 at 7:30 p.m. The latest night vote came from Jay J. Giles, public works director for the town, who is also an Eight District resident.
Giles presented the proposal for the $28,000 sewer project for the Concord-Baldwin Rd. area last week in another special meeting of the District last Monday. The project is being proposed now because of federal and state funds which are available and which will pay for a large share of the project.
The action Monday was made on the recommendation of John D. LaBelle Jr., acting counsel for the District, who said the proposal is more involved than the District officials initially thought and more time is needed to review it with town officials.
LaBelle said this is the first time a sewer project has been done in this manner. District approval is needed for any sewer lines laid by the Town through the District boundaries.
LaBelle said the main concern are the eventual cost to the District for trying to locate, install and maintain the sewer trunk line and whether the District has the right to tie in.
Calvin Taggart, superintendent of public works for the District, made the suggestion of tying into the new sewer line at last week's meeting. It brought up new questions for the District to consider, LaBelle said.
LaBelle said he does not want to inconvenience the town, but also does not want to act hastily on the project proposal. The District deadline for submitting the proposal to the state is June 1.
LaBelle is acting in the absence of his father, John D. LaBelle Sr., who is presently hospitalized and also wants an opportunity to review the proposal.
LaBelle said he will meet with Giles and Town Manager Robert Weiss to discuss the implications of the proposal for the District.

Kennedy suggests shorter school term

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
School Supt. James P. Kennedy proposed a revised Manchester public school calendar for the 1977-78 school year to the Board of Education Monday night which includes an earlier closing in June, a shortened April vacation and conducting school on Election Day.
Dr. Kennedy stressed that the calendar is only a proposal which can be changed by board action. A vote on the calendar may be taken April 25.
Under the proposal, school would close on June 14, more than a week earlier than in recent years. Dr. Kennedy said the reason for the change was to have as many productive instructional days as possible, with the assumption that school days earlier in the year are more fruitful than late June.
The earlier closing would also be advantageous to students competing for summer jobs, Kennedy said, because more Connecticut schools are closing earlier.
The spring vacation would be limited to two days in mid-April under the new plan. Dr. Kennedy explained the reason for retaining the complete February vacation.
He said the schools have reported that epidemics of flu and other communicable diseases have been broken with the February vacation. Closing in February also saves more energy, will involve more bad weather days, thus saving on school snow days, and incorporates two legal holidays, Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays, Dr. Kennedy explained.
Based on purely scientific evidence, Kennedy added, he believes more families take winter vacations in February than in April.
The proposal to have school on Election Day was based on data from the principal at the schools which are also voting places. The principals all said they think school could be held safely on Election Day. Kennedy reported. Safety is the main concern, he said.
The recommendation was also based on the schools' remaining open during a referendum in March. Kennedy said the arrangement worked well that day and the police were most helpful. He also added that peak hours of voting are usually during non-school hours from 6 to 8 a.m. and 4 to 5 p.m.
One new holiday will be added to

Low-income tax cut may offset fuel levy

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter is considering tax relief for low income Americans to help offset any burdens created by increased taxes on gasoline and other energy forms, high administration officials said today.
The officials said a decision on the form of low income relief, needed to offset any administration efforts to increase energy, would not be made until probably the day before Carter's energy plan is announced April 20.
The official said there had been no change in administration strategy since last week when Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal discussed part of the plan in a meeting with a few reporters.
Blumenthal said he, Budget Director Bert Lance and two or three other high administration officials were discussing the tax aspects of the energy plan with Energy Director James Schlesinger.

Auditors probing alleged violation by GOP leader

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors are looking into anonymous charges that House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Middlebury, abused his legislative mailing privileges.

"We're going to look into it," Republican auditor Henry Becker Jr. said Monday.

He said he also was concerned about whether the guidelines governing such conduct needed to be changed.

Stevens, who denied the charge, is widely thought to be seeking the 1978 Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The mailing issue was raised in a letter from an anonymous source to a businessman to the auditors charging Stevens missed the privilege as part of that campaign.

The writer claimed to have received a mailing with a magazine article Stevens had written on his economic policy.

"As far as I'm concerned it's a proper mailing directly related to a program I'm trying to get through the legislature," Stevens responded.

The writer asked for the investigation because he lived outside Stevens' district and said he didn't think taxpayers should pay for it.

The writer said the mailing was Stevens' effort to gain campaign support.

Lawmakers sending more than 500 copies of mail at state expense must get the Legislative Management Committee's approval. David Ogle, its executive director, said Stevens got approval from House Speaker James J. Kennedy, D-Hartford, who chairs the panel.

He said Stevens also received permission for one other mailing this year. Ogle said no other legislator had requested such permission.

A spokesman for Stevens said he mailed 2,000 letters each time.

There is no limit on whether the mailing can go outside the lawmaker's district.

But the guideline says "use of the state mail privilege for campaign letters or campaign business shall not be permitted at any time."

"From what we've gotten so far it may be more a question of whether the policy is a good one, rather than whether there has been a violation," Becker said.

"Of the top of my head, I'd say there are problems with the policy," added Democratic auditor Leo V. Donohue.

Becker said "I don't know if it's (the letter) politically inspired or not. I suppose it could be."

Stevens declined to speculate on the motivation for the letter.

"I don't know who wrote it and why they wrote it," he said.

A number of other prominent GOP leaders are also thought to be eyeing the gubernatorial nomination.

Dog survey to start
A survey for unlicensed dogs will begin next Monday under the direction of Ronald Mathewson, state secretary of the Humane Society and Manchester Deputy Dog Warden John McClelland.

The men will be assisted by a group of youths under their supervision.

Failure to license a dog could result in a $25 fine or 30 days imprisonment, McClelland said.

James Turek, collector of revenue, said Monday that the present tax collection situation in the Town of Manchester does not present abnormal problems.

"I don't think there's reason for alarm," Turek said.

At last Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Directors, Phyllis Jackson, a member of the board, expressed concern that the town is far behind in tax collection.

Turek did say that the town is "significantly behind" in collection at this point. Expected tax revenue for the year is set at $15,947,477, and the town has collected $15,000,000.30.

Turek, however, also predicted that the town will come close to matching the tax revenue estimate.

"I'm not terrifically concerned," he said. He said that several local bankruptcies are part of the reason for the unpaid balance.

But he expects that the balance will be reduced in the next six weeks as the town continues to press those with outstanding tax debts.

Turek also said that June, the last month of the fiscal year, is a large tax collection period for the town.

Many taxpayers, particularly businesses, will hold off paying until the last moment. This allows them to accrue interest on money that will eventually be spent on taxes.

"On June 30, we do a landslide business in this office," Turek said. This is the day that the town begins placing real estate liens on property that has unpaid taxes.

Turek said that the expected tax revenue, set by the Board of Directors at 99 per cent of total tax revenue, may be a bit high in these tough economic times.

"Small businesses are in a bind for cash," he said. For some businesses, taxes, which should be considered as part of overhead costs, are being treated as a bottom-line item, he said.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss echoed Turek's remarks on the 99 per cent collection estimate. He said that in past years the town has been falling short of that figure.

The Connecticut Public Expenditure Council, in a recent study of the town, recommended a "more realistic" tax collect estimate figure, Weiss said.

Even so, Turek said, "I'm confident we will be close to these estimates."

This far this year, his office has also collected $96,118.07 in taxes from previous years. The unpaid balance for these years, from 1974, is $207,471.82.

He said it is difficult to predict the tax revenues in a year for these past years.

During the last two fiscal years, the town has collected more than $200,000 each year in taxes from past years. Turek said that the town will collect more than $150,000 in back taxes this year, but he doubts it will be as fruitful as 1974-75 and 1975-76, which he called "unprecedented."

TV critics' choices include 'Roots,' 'Mary Tyler Moore'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Roots," "Eleanor and Franklin" and the swan-song season of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" dominated the Television Critics Circle Awards show Monday night.

"Roots" won the "Program of the Year" honor and four other awards, a five-trophy tie with "Eleanor and Franklin," based on the marriage of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show" took four. Ed Asner scored a double triumph, winning comedy and drama awards for his performances in "Roots" and "Mary Tyler Moore."

Some 200 critics in 100 cities were eligible to cast ballots for the awards presented during a two-hour entertainment show. The critics noted they were responsible only for the awards, not the entertainment, reserving the right to pan the show if they didn't like it.

The awards drew more than the usual attention because they may be the only big prizes for television performers this year. The Emmys — chosen by performers and others in the Television Academy — are tangled in the breakup of the academy in a power struggle between New York and Hollywood and may not be presented at all.

An unusual feature of the critics awards is that more than one winner can be declared in one category.

"I don't know who wrote it and why they wrote it," he said.

Other winners were: News — "60 Minutes"; Sports — "ABC's Summer Olympics"; Documentary — "National Geographic Specials"; Music — "FBS Great Performances Live from Lincoln Center"; Variety — "The Carol Burnett Show"; Child — "ABC Afterschool Specials"; Male Comedy — Alan Alda, "MASH"; Supporting Female — Angela Baudety, "Upstairs Downstairs"; Supporting Male — Burgess Meredith, "Tail Gunner Joe"; Ted Ross, "Minstrel Man."

"Eleanor and Franklin" shared the best drama award with "Roots." The tale of the Roosevelt marriage also took the top writing and directing awards and its costars, Ed Herrmann and Jane Alexander, won best dramatic acting honors.

The critics even had a booby prize — the "non-achievement award" — and rejected "The Big Party" and

Installation begins on Love Lane project

Installation of water and sewer lines on Love Lane will begin this week, Town Engineer Walter Senkow said Monday. Because of the work, traffic on the road will be one-way at times, and Senkow advised motorists to use alternate routes if possible.

The project includes the installation of about 1,350 feet of sewer lines,

1,300 feet of water lines, and a pump station. Senkow said equipment needed for the work is being moved to the area and the cutting of pavement should begin by this week.

The project is expected to be completed in a month to six weeks, he said.

Town plans to buy homes in industrial park May 1

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester hopes to begin purchasing homes shortly after May 1 from those residents who would have to relocate if the industrial park becomes a reality.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss said Monday.

"It's our feeling that homes have a value that won't fluctuate greatly," Weiss said. "Even if the park does not develop, the town would be able to re-sell the homes at a price equal to the purchase price."

If any financial loss is involved in re-selling the homes, the cost will be shared between the town and the state, Weiss said.

There are eight homeowners who would have to relocate for the park. Another three or four families live in homes that are on state property that was originally proposed for I-91. These families have been renting from the state and will also be assisted by the town in relocation.

The town is now in the process of discussing relocation procedures with these residents who live on property that is planned for inclusion in the 393-acre industrial park.

The Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC) met last Thursday and approved guidelines for property acquisition connected with the park.

Two land appraisers have nearly completed evaluation of property that the town will acquire. All of these appraisals will be sent to the state Department of Commerce, which will then set fair market values for the parcels. The town will then make an offer to the property owners for purchase of the land.

"At this point, the town should be prepared to purchase or condemn the property within a reasonable period of time," the EDC-approved guidelines said.

The guidelines give the town up to 60 days after an agreement is reached to purchase a home. But, apparently, the town plans to take the action immediately.

After the sale of the home is completed, the homeowner has 90 days to move. Thus, if all of the homes are purchased by the end of May, all of the homeowners would be relocated by the end of August, the approximate deadline that the J.C. Penney Co., which would be the park's major tenant, has set for beginning work in Manchester.

Amex seeks 'final proposals' on location for a new home

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Stock Exchange said Monday "final proposals" for New York, New Jersey and Connecticut on a new home for the Amex are expected to be received within two weeks.

The Amex said the proposals will be professional, responsive to our needs and exciting.

Manuel Kolton said at the exchange's annual corporate meeting.

Connecticut and New Jersey officials started a campaign last year to try to entice the Amex to relocate in their states, using more favorable securities tax laws as a lure.

In New York, city and state officials have pledged to seek better tax treatment for the securities industry and have suggested several Wall Street locations for the Amex.

The Amex is expanding its current cramped facilities on Trinity Place in the Wall Street district which it acquired in 1960.

Kolton said the exchange will take several months to review and that the Amex is also preparing studies of economic and transportation factors related to a new facility.

Refugee hairdresser challenges state law

HARTFORD (UPI) — A class action suit has been filed by a Vietnamese refugee who claims her family is forced to remain on welfare because of an immigration technicality.

Nguyen Thien Lien of Hartford said she has taken 2,000 hours of instruction to become a hairdresser, but has been prevented by a state law from taking a hairdresser's examination.

The suit, filed Monday by the Neighborhood Legal Services, said for her to be eligible to take the examination, the state requires that she be a citizen or an alien who has formally declared her interest in becoming a citizen.

However, neither option is available to special refugees who came to the United States in May 1975.

Opinion

Japanese air grievances

Japan is being increasingly criticized for its aggressiveness in international trade. The Japanese have captured 90 per cent of the imported steel market in South America and the Middle East and almost as much in the United States. Nine out of every 10 new shipbuilding orders go to Japan. Last year the island nation racked up a balance of trade surplus of $5.3 billion over the United States and $4 billion over the European Common Market.

Not all of it is due to lower labor costs or greater production efficiency. Japan has been accused of "dumping" everything from ball bearings to television sets in other countries at government-subsidized low prices, while excluding foreign competitors from its domestic market.

Speaking of unfair competition, however, the Japanese have some complaints of their own, particularly in the field of air travel.

For example, in 1975, twice as many Japanese flew to the United States as Americans entered Japan, but most of the Americans and half the Japanese flew on U.S. carriers. The reason is that while only Japan Air Lines (JAL) flies to the U.S. from Japan, two major U.S. airlines have landing rights in Japan by virtue of the 1952 Japan-U.S. Civil Air Transport Agreement.

There is also some question, the Japanese suggest, of "dumping" by U.S. airlines by means of shaved fares.

Red Cross appeals for suggestions

Dear sir: First, I would like to thank you for the helpful publicity you have given to the American Red Cross. Secondly, when the executive committee of the Manchester-Bolton Branch recently met to discuss our objectives for the coming year, it occurred to us that there were many areas of our communal living where we should be active, known to some of your readers but unknown to us. I would like, therefore, to inquire what social needs are felt by members of our community. Naturally, we have no desire whatsoever to duplicate what any other agency is doing. I will welcome any and all of your ideas as to how we can better serve this part

Part-timers plight

Through the media of this newspaper, I should like to bring to the attention of our state citizens, employers, and representatives a condition which has existed within the state employment structure.

A small group of state workers known as intermittent's now numbering about 350 people and at one time 600 have in fact been performing many vital and routine tasks for the people of this state. This dedicated group for over two years has been classified as "part-time employees" in spite of the fact that most worked on a regular weekly basis for 32 hours. They were paid on a portal-to-portal basis. This was only three hours less than their full-time co-workers. No benefits, including a few hours of for being sick, were given; and even such holidays as Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, had to be made up by working on a Saturday or coming in earlier in the morning.

In some cases they did a far superior job in their various work areas than some of the full-time people with a vested interest. It is unbelievable that at this writing over 100 of these intermittent's work in the Main Office of the State Labor Department in Wethersfield.

Illegal alien controls are long overdue

WASHINGTON — An Immigration and Naturalization Service study estimates that American taxpayers fork over as much as $13 billion a year to provide such services as health, education and sanitation for illegal aliens.

You're right. Whew! We have had a lot of concerned citizens over the years complaining that these illegals — estimated at from six to eight million bodies — take jobs away from certified Americans because they work for less money. But before the INS study, it had not dawned on most of us that in one way or another they're all a burden to the U.S. taxpayer.

Quality for Medicaid Most of the aliens qualify for Medicaid. Their children attend tax-supported schools. Most are eligible for food stamps.

Now there have been two developments. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., has reintroduced, with refinements, a bill he sponsored last year that would crack down on illegal aliens. And a Carter administration task force has begun the task of reshaping U.S. immigration policy. I don't think Carter's team can improve on the Packwood bill, although it's nice to find a President taking the problem seriously. The Packwood bill's virtue is in its simplicity. It calls for what he calls "a uniform and logical law that takes advantage of our existing record-keeping systems," and thus would not create another money-eating bureaucracy.

Uniformity needed Logic and uniformity are needed. In New York state, for instance, it's illegal to ask anyone for a birth certificate to prove citizenship. Federal equal opportunity legislation says that any examination of one prospective employee must be made of all job applicants.

Under the Packwood bill, national community. Elimination of inequalities in the agreement is now needed "to properly reflect the present equal partnership between the two nations."

The Japanese would seem to have some valid beefs, and there should be no reason why we can't reach a new agreement giving them a fairer share of the air travel market. Maybe if they would stop dumping color TVs on us...

employers would be required to screen their job applicants for illegal aliens and keep on file a statement verifying that they have seen a Social Security card and two corroborative pieces of identification. If these requirements were not met within 30 days, the employer would be subject to a $1,000 fine for each illegal employee hired.

Periodic surveys Packwood would make the Small Business Administration the link between employers and the Justice Department. The SBA would conduct periodic surveys to check verifications. The Social Security Administration would verify account numbers.

Vaccination re-education is needed

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the great public health achievements of all time, the virtual eradication of a half-dozen once-dreaded childhood diseases, is in serious jeopardy as a result of declining immunization rates.

Unless the slide is halted, increasing numbers of American children may once again fall victim of such totally preventable diseases as polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and rubella (German measles).

Victim of success To a large degree, the childhood immunization program has been a victim of its own success. Parents no longer worry enough about diseases like polio — simply because so very few cases are ever reported any more.

Yet, as the recent measles outbreak has shown, these diseases are not extinct. Without immunization, any or all of them could become menacing once more.

Health experts acknowledge that the childhood immunization program has also suffered from the fallout of last year's disastrous swine flu experience, a hastily-mounted emergency vaccination effort that created more problems than it solved.

Doing studies Six special study groups, which have been examining the whole immunization field since last November assembled in Washington this week to discuss their findings, and a work paper produced by one of these task forces bluntly summed up the problem created by the swine flu flap.

Although that program was a unique, one-shot effort, the study group reported that the routine childhood immunization program has been "threatened by loss of credibility and loss of confidence in public health programs initiated by the federal government."

Greater effort Private physicians administer two-thirds of the vaccinations currently provided to children in this country, and obviously need to step up their efforts. Schools, churches, community groups and a multitude of volunteer organizations can help spread the message.

Drug companies, which have been slowly but steadily backing out of the manufacture of these vaccines, should be prodded into continued production.

And parents, most of all, need to realize that one trip to the doctor with a healthy child for an immunization is infinitely preferable to a dozen visits for treatment of a youngster needlessly stricken.

Thought Suffering: The rule not the exception This Lenten season may have reminded us of the reality of Jesus' suffering. The words, the songs, the images of this time have made clear his pained countenance. But this should not be an exceptional experience.

Unfortunately, many of us are led to believe that suffering is like a mistake. If you are really doing a good job, it won't happen. If you are a faithful person, things will go well and if they should not, then your faith will keep you from hurting.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Exactly when it all started I don't recall, but Easter was not it cracked up to be.

Oh, it was a beautiful day, don't get me wrong. Company was coming, the ham was baking along with a roast of beef for my non-ham eating friends, and was humming "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning."

Then it began. I had tried a recipe for "Zuppa Inglese" (like an English trifle) and prepared the night before. All I had to do Sunday was surround it with mounds of whipped cream.

Well, my daughter got out the electric beater and whipped and whipped, and finally the cream began to form peaks. Then, following the recipe, I added a sprinkle of Amaretto (liquor) to flavor the cream.

That was my downfall—or I should say the cream's downfall. The peaks collapsed, the cream curdled, and there was my four-layer cake oozing custard and apricot preserves and looking quite naked.

Well, the panic passed (if they do you know) and I finally left to pick up Grampa in East Hartford. As we neared my house we stopped at the corner to pick up more cream.

We did—but then the car wouldn't start. A fast call home brought Number Three son on his Honda and luckily, he got old Nellie started.

Meanwhile, the company had arrived to a welcoming committee of two inquisitive dogs and matching children.

The dinner went along fine. Everyone was very complimentary and my daughter and I just beamed in the knowledge our efforts had not gone unnoticed.

Dessert time came. Well, it seems when you use that spray-type whipped cream, you have to apply it JUST before serving. We hadn't and it collapsed. I don't think the guests noticed. Besides when I said it was "Zuppa Inglese" they probably thought that's the way it was supposed to look.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My friend and I saw the movie "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and it made me think about mental institutions.

One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest is a treatment of mental institutions given operations on the brain as they show to make the patients more obedient? Also the shock treatments look so brutal.

Why do they give shock treatments and are they as the movie shows them to be?

My friend is from Czechoslovakia and said she wanted very much to see the movie because it is directed by one of her fellow countrymen who was deported.

Please, please comment on this as it is very disturbing to me to wonder about our own mental institutions and how and who runs them.

DEAR READER—Movies and TV are very effective opinion molders—even so-called objective newscasts. I can see the movie has had that effect on you.

No, operations on the brain are not used to make patients more obedient. That is pure fiction and no doubt millions of viewers have been misled as you have been.

Years ago an operation called the prefrontal lobectomy was done to cut large parts of the frontal lobes of the brain from the rest of the brain. This did modify behavior. A related operation is still done today involving about a centimeter of the brain where personality is affected. Such an operation is only done in extreme situations where the patient is so unmanageable with his anxiety-type reactions that he is totally incapacitated. It is not done to control the patient's behavior but to relieve him from discomfort. The patient must give his consent if he is able to, and if he is not his nearest relative or those legally responsible must do so. It is nothing like depicted in the movie.

Electric shock treatments are used primarily to treat depressions. You may not be aware of how uncomfortable and unhappy a depressed patient can be—so depressed that he may be suicidal. Depression and manic depression can be very dangerous to the patient. Electric shock is used properly can relieve such reactions and can be life saving. Shock therapy relieves the patient's suffering. That is what medicine is supposed to do whether it is a pill for pain, arthritis or shock therapy for total despair and misery.

Modern electric shock therapy is not brutal. The patient is given a muscle relaxant so that the muscles hardly move in response to the electric current. He is also given sedative or anesthetic so he is almost unaware of the procedure. Untrained observers may not notice the mild convulsive like response it is so minimal. It would certainly not make a very dramatic movie scene. The results of such treatment in properly selected cases can be quite dramatic.

New medicines to control or modify patient behavior are so effective that there would be no reason to use either surgery or shock treatments for such purposes. So, a good movie from an entertainment point of view is not very good from a point of view of teaching the public anything about modern psychiatric treatment. Unfortunately many viewers will not separate fact from fiction from reality.

Manchester police report

Two men were arrested on several motor vehicle violation charges Monday night after two cars were observed racing on Main St. and nearly hitting a pedestrian.

Arthur D. Edwards, 25, of 12 Proctor Rd. was charged with reckless driving and unnecessary noise. Dean R. Pleasant, 26, of Pt. Hickey Fla. was charged with reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license.

Police said the two cars were observed driving at high speed on Main St., running a red light at the corner of School St. and nearly striking a girl crossing the street.

Edwards was released on a $50 bond and Pleasant was released on a $150 bond, both for court appearances April 26.

Charles F. Sklenen, 43, of Colchester, was charged with breach of peace after an incident in an apartment on W. Middle Tpk. Monday night. He was released on a $100 nonsurety bond for court April 25.

Honald N. Love, 23, of Vernon was issued summons for failure to obtain a Connecticut driver's license, misuse of marker plates and operating an unregistered motor vehicle. He posted $50 bond and was scheduled for court April 26.

Michael E. Heffron, 26, of 32C Thompson Rd., was charged early today with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. He was released on a promise to appear in court May 3.

A break was reported at Anderson Bros. station, 770 Main St. over the weekend. About $90 in cash was taken from a cash drawer and a window was smashed, police reported.

Band shell work suspended until more money is raised

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

Work on Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell will apparently come to a halt until more funds are raised for the project. The Bicentennial Band Shell Corp. may obtain a grant or loan to provide such future funding.

The town has notified me the till is pretty dry. We've pretty much shut down," Joseph Swenson Jr., the contractor for the project, said Monday.

Also, the Bicentennial Band Shell Corp. has applied to the Hartford Foundation for Giving for a grant to pay part of the cost. The grant may be a matching one, with one dollar being paid for every dollar that has been pledged, but not yet contributed, to the Band Shell fund.

Swenson has continued work on the project, including the installation of the Band Shell's roof. But, he will now apparently have to stop work until more funding is raised for the project.

The contractor is right up to the money that has been collected," Hale said. He said that his "gut feeling" is that the Band Shell should be completed now. He said that the possibility of a loan to finance the remaining cost is being considered.

Swenson also said that it would be less expensive if the Band Shell construction is completed as soon as possible. His contract, like most standard construction contracts, includes an "inflation clause," he said.

He also said that any increase in material costs will be passed on to the town.

Conservation agency favors simpler I-84-86 connector

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Herald Reporter

The Manchester Conservation Commission approves of a highway connector between Interstate 84 and Interstate 86, but not the one that is proposed by the state Department of Transportation (DOT).

The commission Monday night approved a resolution offered by Dr. Fred Spaulding, commission member, to send a letter to Governor Grasso, DOT, and to the town Board of Directors describing the commission's proposal.

Spaulding's proposal urges initiation of cooperative action with DOT and the Town of East Hartford and other transportation and environmental authorities that ramping between the two highways is approved and constructed.

Spaulding originally suggested calling the ramping "temporary," but the commission preferred to consider the plan as a possible permanent installation.

The commission had not met to approve prompt action, highway building moratoriums because of energy shortages, probable private legal suits and other delays could hold off final construction of the interchange up to 10 years.

"They're not building a connector," Spaulding said, "but a grade-two new highway scheme."

The letter stated that the groups' greatest concern is that the modified plan for the new wing includes proposals for an open ended time line for completion and use of city employees to complete the renovation.

The committee proposed that the final project plan be completed with state money and contractual services concurrently with the renovation of the old wing.

The basic concern of the parents is that the entire project be completed as a package as quickly as possible for the benefit of the children, they said.

The parents found two other proposals acceptable. They agreed with the school board's proposal to completely renovate the oldest section of the school.

The proposal calls for a $20,000 increase in the 194-73 present contract, a lesser increase for the second year and no increase for the third year. The proposal may be signed with the owner of the bus service.

Water system needs dominate town directors' meetings

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

Future improvements to the Manchester water system will be a topic of discussion tonight at two separate meetings.

The town Board of Directors meets at 8 o'clock tonight and will consider a $30,000 appropriation for a detailed study of the water supply distribution system.

The study was recommended by the Boston engineering firm of Weston & Sampson, which recently completed a study of the town's water treatment system.

The Board of Directors is also expected to act tonight on a proposal to proceed with planning for the Washington School-West Side Reopening.

State funding is expected for the work, but has not yet been approved. Paul Greenberg, a member of the Board of Education, spoke to the directors last week and said that the collisions account to pay for fire and liability insurance costs. The board is expected to vote on the repeal of five town ordinances that have been outdated or have been superseded by state laws.

Appropriations for the Head Start program will also be considered by the board. A total of $8,500 is needed for renovations at South School, and $2,268 is needed to pay a part-time instructor for handicapped students.

Funding will be provided through a grant from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. A state grant of $117.24, which also has to be approved by the board, would send two teachers to a metric workshop to be held in Massachusetts.

The directors may also act on a proposal that the town acquire property needed for the proposed sewer project in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area and the trunk sewer line from Union Pond to Tolland Tpk.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. with the Data Processing Committee, which will request approval of the first phase of its study on the town's present data processing services.

The directors have also scheduled their first budget workshop to follow their regular meeting.

Bentley group voices concern on school renovation plans

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

The Bentley School Concerned Parents for Better Education expressed their concerns for the proposed renovations to the school in a letter presented to the Board of Education Monday night.

School Supt. James P. Kennedy read the letter to the board. The letter was the result of a meeting of the parents on March 29.

The letter stated that the groups' greatest concern is that the modified plan for the new wing includes proposals for an open ended time line for completion and use of city employees to complete the renovation.

The committee proposed that the final project plan be completed with state money and contractual services concurrently with the renovation of the old wing.

Bank plans new office

Society for Savings, a full-service bank, has announced it will establish a branch office at the Charter Oak Mall in East Hartford.

Details of the 3,500 square-foot branch operation were jointly announced by Benjamin P. Terry, president of Society for Savings, and Harold R. Still, vice-president of the Strip Division of Arden Shopping Centers Co. Owner and developer of Charter Oak Mall.

Terry said that the Charter Oak Mall branch will be the bank's 10th outlet. He said that Society for Savings' efforts to better serve its customers are evident by the growing number of its satellite offices.

Society for Savings is headquartered in Hartford and operates offices throughout the area. The bank was founded in 1876. The 200,000 square-foot Charter Centers Co. Mall, at I-94, Forbes St. and Silver Lane, opened to area residents on April 12, 1976. Major anchor stores include Bradlee's Department Store, Stop & Shop Supermarket and Medi-Mart Drug Store.

Arlon Shopping Centers Co., headquartered in Chattanooga, Tenn., owns two other shopping centers in Connecticut in addition to Charter Oak Mall. The other shopping centers are in Branford and Derby.

Limited space is still available in Charter Oak Mall.

Andover board topic of complaint

Whether the Connecticut Freedom of Information (FOI) Act supersedes state statutes may be decided soon by the FOI Commission.

Andover resident Lawrence Bates sent a complaint to the commission Monday about the town's Board of Finance meeting March 31 to consider budget requests.

The finance board went into executive session and Bates was not permitted to attend. Board Chairman John Vennamus cited a state statute which requires an executive session.

Bates says he was wrongfully denied the right to attend the meeting; people who were invited to attend were wrongfully permitted to do so; the board voted on budget proposals in the executive session; votes of board members were made public within 48 hours; minutes of the meeting, and the board's worksheet was withheld from public inspection.

Bates asks the FOI Commission to order the board of Finance to comply with the FOI act. He specifically asks that:

- The public be allowed to attend all meetings.
The board not be allowed to permit persons not giving testimony or opinions to attend executive sessions.
All votes made public within 48 hours.
The board record the votes of each member on each executive session.
Records maintained by the finance board be available for public inspection.
A schedule of regular meetings be filed with the town clerk.

Furniture firm leveled by fire

Tolland State and town fire officials were sifting through the rubble this morning to determine the cause of a fire that destroyed the Lakeview Furniture Co. on Rt. 74 in Tolland. The fire call was turned in shortly after midnight.

The building was owned by the Bahler family. The name of the owner of the furniture company was not available.

The fire leveled the manufacturing plant, warehouse and storerooms. Ronald Littel, Tolland fire chief, said the building was full of furniture and it is a total loss.

Littel said the fire was brought under control at 4:09 a.m. but one pumper remained at the scene.

Fire companies from Ellington, Crystal Lake, Rockville, Vernon, Stafford Springs and Willington assisted the Tolland department.

The office of JOHN H. LAPPEN, INC. will be closed all day Wednesday due to a death in the family

Michael Zuk said a .22 caliber rifle was found at the scene. Burt, an active participant in sports and dramatics in school and a new carrier for The Hartford Courant, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn A. Burt.

A memorial service will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Stafford Baptist Church. Burial will be at the family's convenience.

Naming ad-hoc bus unit upsets Vernon educator

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

"I really have mixed emotions as to whether I should continue as chairman of the Transportation Committee," Dr. Edward Meyers told the Board of Education Monday night after the board approved an ad-hoc committee to work with him.

Parents say schools need public relations

The Vernon school system needs a strong public relations program to lead to greater support for education, Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps told the Board of Education Monday night.

Planners okay applications

The South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) has approved the application of Leon Kaminski for a subdivision of three lots and one parcel on the east side of Niederwerfer Rd. in an RR zone.

The PZC also approved the application of Mellen Marine for a special exception from zoning regulations for retail and wholesale storage and sales of boats and marine engines, as well as the right to repair and service.

Coventry PZC approves request for subdivision

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) Monday night approved the two-lot subdivision application of Catherine A. Hill of South St.

The lots, about one acre each, are near Flanders Rd. PZC conditions of approval include requiring an engineered septic system, a specific driveway location to minimize possible sight-line problems, and stabilizing the soil to prevent erosion.

In other action, the PZC modified subdivision approval of two lots in Coventry Hills, Section 2, Richard Breen, owner of the undeveloped 28-lot subdivision, asked that two lots on Geraldine Dr. be approved for immediate construction because the

The new light beer from Anheuser-Busch.

Natural Light.

Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, Busch and Michelob, now bring their natural quality to a new light beer. Anheuser-Busch Natural Light. Natural Light is brewed with all natural ingredients. The best barleys, the finest hops available. Natural Light, like our other fine beers, contains nothing artificial. Naturally carbonated. Our unique Natural Light brewing process keeps the light beer natural, from barley malt to bottle—an expensive, time-consuming process that delivers a smooth, refreshing taste. And it's less filling, with approximately one-third less calories per 12-oz. serving than our regular beers. Anheuser-Busch Natural Light...light beer brewed the natural way.

Nursing board prefers 'status quo'

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

The board of the East Hartford Public Health Nursing Association (EHPHNA) voted unanimously Monday night to keep nursing districts and duties the same for the next 90 days.

"I'll have to speak to (Mayor Richard Blackstone) about the vote," the doctor said.

The board's vote for the status quo followed long talks in Town Council Chambers Monday about the doctor's recent orders to the 10 nurses, working out of the town's health office. Angry words passed often between Pinney and Dr. Gallivan.

Doctor's view

Dr. Gallivan told the 11-year history of the joint nursing venture. In 1966 he set it up. One of his first acts was to hire Miss Carolyn Furness as director of nursing, to be in charge of both town and EHPHNA nurses.

Miss Furness chose to be considered a town employee, he said.

"In 1966 I was blissfully unaware of the rules of Medicare and Medicaid," he said.

These rules became more and more demanding, he said. They have been enforced by the state Health Department.

In 1973, the state made its first clear warning to East Hartford that "we were in trouble," the doctor said.

"There must be a clear description of duties between the town and EHPHNA nurses," he said.

He said he was busy at the time trying to merge town nurses with school system nurses. This failed. He was also then trying to merge his nursing staff in some ways with nurses of local industry. This also failed.

"Over the past nine months we could see the darkening cloud," he said.

He said his view of state demands was that the town had to do something right away. Otherwise, EHPHNA and the town would lose state and federal funds through programs such as Medicare.

The state would not recognize the 11-year contract. The EHPHNA nurses were supposed to have a director who answered only to EHPHNA. But Miss Furness, as a town employee, answered to the town through Dr. Gallivan.

Dr. Gallivan two weeks ago ordered all five town nurses to report not to Miss Furness but to him. The EHPHNA nurses were to report to Miss Furness. Only EHPHNA nurses would do Medicare work.

This move, along with new nursing districts, would better satisfy federal rules, he said.

Pinney's view

Pinney said Dr. Gallivan had "misinterpreted" state letters, the town or quick action, and the nature of the state's criticisms of the town's nursing setup.

Pinney compared the state to a town sidewalk inspector.

The sidewalk inspector goes to a home and checks the walks. If he finds a couple blocks cracked, he tells the homeowner. He puts him on notice. He asks the homeowner to set a date when he can get the walk fixed. The inspector will not force the man out of his home if he can't get the walk fixed.

The state in this case is no different from that inspector, Pinney said. They have found cracks in an otherwise fine nursing program. They asked the town to fix them.

Pinney said he spoke to state health officials. They assured him there was no emergency.

"I think, for whatever reasons, this has been blown all out of proportion," he said. "All (the state) wants is a written agreement that EHPHNA nurses can work with town nurses (on Medicare patients)."

"The town is now considering Carolyn an illegitimate child," he said.

"I take exception to that," said Dr. Gallivan. "Carolyn is legitimate."

"We love her," said Pinney. "We want her to continue doing what she is doing."

New president

The board voted to accept the suggestions of the nominating committee. They chose Mrs. Virginia Tozier to be president for the next two years. She will be installed May 16.

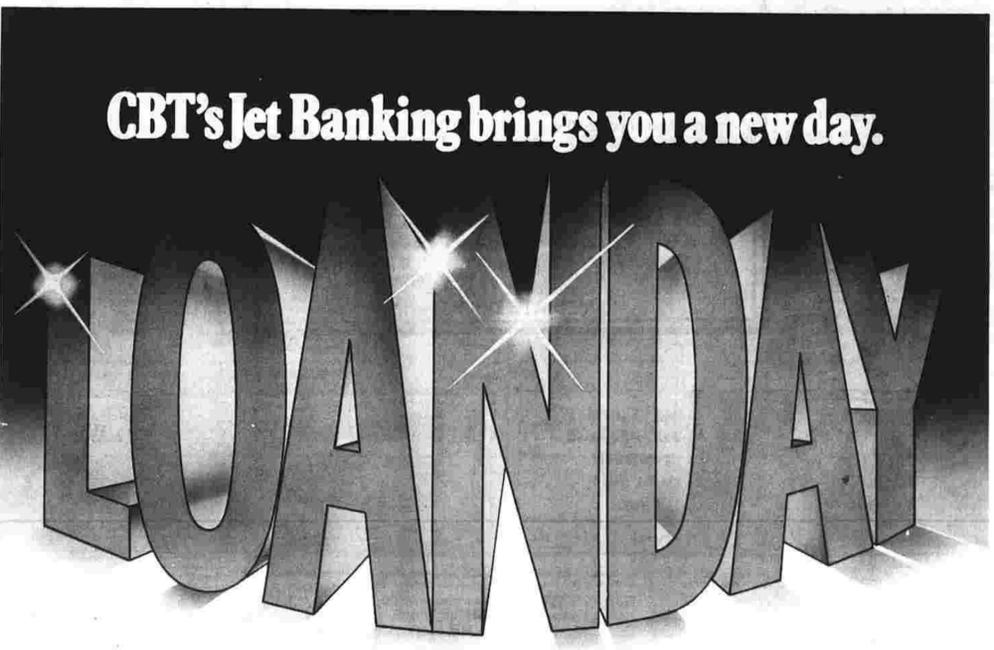

Mrs. Tozier was the only speaker on the board Monday night who sounded a friendly note toward Dr. Gallivan.

"The state (officials) told me if the town wants to interpret the problem this way, they can," she said.

"But it needn't be a bad thing. We can start talking right away with the mayor and the doctor about a new agreement."

"Let's take these 90 days and work for something better."

After the meeting, Mrs. Tozier and Dr. Gallivan met together.

'Here's what was wrong...'

Coach Rick Gallagher tells members of the junior varsity girls softball team of East Hartford High School what they did wrong in their first game last Thursday. They beat Simsbury 16-14. But Gallagher said the EHS team had to bat its way to the win. Their fielding was awful. The EHS science teacher is fielding a new set of players for his fourth season as JV coach. Two of his three previous teams had winning seasons. They play Manchester at Soldiers Field in East Hartford April 20. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Girl gets scholarship

Rebecca Pelletier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andre Pelletier, was recently awarded the Rev. John F. O'Mara Scholarship. The award was made at the conclusion of St. Mary's CYO annual minstrel.

Becky, a CYO member and a senior at East Hartford High School, plans to study for a career in nursing. At EHS, she was president of the junior class and a cheerleader. She is active in music groups and other organizations.

The scholarship is given in memory of the late Father O'Mara, a former St. Mary's CYO director. Miss Pelletier was the fifth recipient.

Anyone wishing to donate to the scholarship fund may send donations to the O'Mara Fund, Society for Savings, Main St., East Hartford.

Members of the scholarship committee are Ann Murphy, Sally Willard, Shlela Tuller, Bill Barrett, Pat Callahan, Henry Giardi, Gerard Keen, and Stan Tuller.

Spending input sought

East Hartford Mayor Richard H. Blackstone has scheduled a public hearing Friday, April 22, at 7 p.m. in the Town Hall to hear citizen's advice on how to spend $1,778,770.

He expects the money through the federal Revenue Sharing program.

The town can spend the money on just about anything, he said. There are few strings attached to it.

The town expects to receive about $1,811,319 for the 1976-77 fiscal year. This has been earmarked for the salaries of police and fire fighters.

The hearing to be held by the mayor will not be a "first." The federal government received complaints there was not enough citizen input on spending of the funds. Therefore it now requires the town's chief executive to seek public's views on how to spend it.

The Town Council will also hold budget hearings on the funds and their use. They take place later in the spring.

Bank plans new office

Society for Savings, a full-service bank, has announced it will establish a branch office at the Charter Oak Mall in East Hartford.

Details of the 3,500 square-foot branch operation were jointly announced by Benjamin P. Terry, president of Society for Savings, and Harold R. Still, vice-president of the Strip Division of Arlen Shopping Centers Co. owner and developer of Charter Oak Mall.

Terry said that the Charter Oak Mall branch will be the bank's 10th outlet. He said that Society for Savings' efforts to better serve its customers are evident by the growing number of its satellite offices.

Society for Savings is headquartered in Hartford and operates offices throughout the area. The bank was founded in 1852.

The 200,000 square-foot Charter Oak Mall, at I-84, Forbes St. and Silver Lane, opened to area residents on April 12, 1976. Major anchor stores include Bradlee's Department Store, Stop & Shop Supermarket and Medi-Mart Drug Store.

Arlen Shopping Centers Co., headquartered in Chattanooga, Tenn., owns two other shopping centers in Connecticut in addition to Charter Oak Mall. The other shopping centers are in Branford and Derby.

Limited space is still available in Charter Oak Mall.

Andover board topic of complaint

Whether the Connecticut Freedom of Information (FOI) Act supercedes state statutes may be decided soon by the FOI Commission.

Andover resident Lawrence Bates sent a complaint to the commission Monday about the town's Board of Finance meeting March 31 to consider budget requests.

The finance board went into executive session and Bates was not permitted to attend. Board Chairman John Yeomans cited a state statute which requires an executive session.

Bates says he was wrongfully denied the right to attend the meeting; people who were invited to attend were wrongfully permitted to do so; the board voted on budget proposals in the executive session; votes of board members were not made public within 48 hours; votes of members were not recorded in the minutes of the meeting; and the board's worksheet was withheld from public inspection.

Bates asks the FOI Commission to order the board of Finance to comply with the FOI act. He specifically asks that:

- The public be allowed to attend all meetings.
- The board not be allowed to permit persons not giving testimony or opinions to attend executive sessions.
- The board not be allowed to vote on any issue in executive session.
- All votes made public within 48 hours.
- The board record the votes of each member on each issue.
- Records maintained by the finance board be available for public inspection.
- A schedule of regular meetings be filed with the town clerk.

Furniture firm leveled by fire

Tolland
State and town fire officials were sitting through the rubble this morning to determine the cause of a fire that destroyed the Lakeview Furniture Co. on Rt. 74 in Tolland. The fire call was turned in shortly after midnight.

The building was owned by the Bahler family. The Tolland fire department was the owner of the furniture company was not available.

The fire leveled the manufacturing plant, warehouse and storerooms. Ronald Little, Tolland fire chief, said the building was full of furniture and it is a total loss.

Little said the fire was brought under control at 4:09 a.m. but one pumper remained at the scene.

Fire companies from Ellington, Crystal Lake, Rockville, Vernon, Stafford Springs and Willington assisted the Tolland department.

Naming ad-hoc bus unit upsets Vernon educator

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

"I really have mixed emotions as to whether I should continue as chairman of the Transportation Committee," Dr. Edward Meyers told the Board of Education Monday night after the board approved an ad-hoc committee to work with him.

The action was the result of a suggestion made at the last board meeting by Joann Worthen. It was prompted by recent problems with bus discipline.

Mrs. Worthen recommended appointment of a committee of bus drivers, members of the administration, parents and other board members.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, school superintendent, named seven persons to the committee and the board approved the motion.

Meyers, after listening to several parents, offered to let parents be a part of the discussion with his committee. He asked them to contact him in writing, stating their complaints.

After the motion was made for the ad-hoc committee, Meyers said he felt the action would be incongruous with what he had just said.

Board chairman William Houle said he felt the action was the result of the request of the board at the last meeting.

Mrs. Worthen said, "The transportation problems don't start with the board they start in the homes. I would like to be ready to attack this problem next year on each grade level."

Meyers said, "To keep revising policy is not the answer. We just came up with a set of rules (in January). I think is pretty good. I don't like your suggestion."

"We already have a Transportation Committee set up and I think it should handle the problems," he said.

Meyers referred to the recent bus problem involving a student at the Middle School. The girl had been suspended from bus privileges for two days for using profanity and then was involved in a bus incident during which the arm of the woman driver was broken. She was suspended another three days for this. This action was approved by the Transportation Committee 2-1, with Meyers dissenting.

"I admit probably we didn't handle this recent problem to everyone's satisfaction. I would like to proceed with being chairman of the Transportation Committee. I would rather go step-by-step and have people come in concerning problems that pertain to them," he said.

He said he didn't think there was any directive at the previous meeting to set up the ad hoc committee. In saying he had mixed emotions about continuing as chairman, Meyers said, "I don't feel I have the confidence of the board."

Houle said naming the seven-member committee was the result of interpretation of the minutes of the previous meeting.

The seven named to the committee were Mrs. Worthen, to represent the board; Weller Dugan, president of the PTO Council; Elbert Henderson, of the Middle School PTA; Marion Foley, citizen; Diana Salter, Marion Street PTO; Joann Bentley and Andrea Hanson, bus drivers; and Mason Thrall of the bus company.

Nancy Harold referred to the matter of the Middle School pupil who was suspended from the driver's privileges after breaking the driver's mirror.

Mrs. Boulanger then told the board, "You did great harm. Probably what you did was good for one minor but it created hell for the rest of the kids. They deserve an apology and an explanation. I doubt if bus discipline improved after that."

Charles Villa, husband of the bus driver whose arm was broken said, "As a taxpayer I'm very surprised that you board members are not men and women enough to admit you made a mistake in judgment."

"Suspension is a very serious matter," Houle said. "You are denying a youngster the right to education. The state Board of Education doesn't take suspension lightly."

Joann Bentley, a bus driver, said, "You say suspension from education is very important. Well, so is the responsibility of 60 kids. The drivers don't want to hurt the kids but you have to back them so they can drive safely."

Mrs. Lee Boulanger cited the lack of communication between the school administration and the parents. "I wish PTOs weren't so intimidated by the administration to the point where they are afraid to discuss important issues," she said.

She said it is difficult for parents to get information. She said she hadn't seen the new bus rules adopted in January.

Board Chairman William Houle said information about the rules is available and has been in all the newspapers.

Parents say schools need public relations

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The Vernon school system needs a strong public relations program to lead to greater support for education, Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps told the Board of Education Monday night.

Several parents and bus drivers spoke at the board meeting. All were referring to the bus incident involving a student at the Middle School.

"I suggest your energies be turned to planning and implementing a public relations program," Mrs. Phelps said.

Mrs. Lee Boulanger cited the lack of communication between the school administration and the parents. "I wish PTOs weren't so intimidated by the administration to the point where they are afraid to discuss important issues," she said.

She said it is difficult for parents to get information. She said she hadn't seen the new bus rules adopted in January.

Board Chairman William Houle said information about the rules is available and has been in all the newspapers.

Houle also said, "If you bring a matter of your concern to me, I'll make sure it gets the proper attention."

Coventry PZC approves request for subdivision

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) Monday night approved Catherine A. Hill of South St.

The lots, about one acre each, are near Flanders Rd. PZC conditions of approval include requiring an engineered septic system, a specific driveway location to minimize possible sight-line problems, and stabilizing the soil to prevent erosion.

In other action, the PZC modified subdivision approval of two lots in Coventry Hills, Section 2. Richard Breen, owner of the undeveloped 28-lot subdivision, asked that two lots on a map in file with the town clerk be included in the subdivision.

The Exchange Club of South Windsor is accepting applications for its vocational technical school scholarship. The $500 scholarship is available to any South Windsor resident who is a senior in an accredited secondary school and who plans to attend an accredited post secondary vocational technical school.

Applications are available at the high school counselor's office or by contacting scholarship chairman Gerald Martinez, 212 Laurel St. The deadline for application is May 1.

Coventry residents will discuss the 1977-78 school budget proposal at a public hearing tonight at 8 at Coventry High School.

The budget proposal of $2,852,498 represents an increase of $236,790, or about nine per cent over the 1976-77 budget of $2,615,700.

Most of the increase is for teacher salaries, School Supt. Arnold Elman said.

A six per cent salary increase is recommended for administration, teacher aides, nurses and maintenance personnel.

Other budget increases this year include: Transportation, up $136,594 due to a new bus contract; employee insurance, up $32,116; replacement of non-instructional equipment, up $1,808, and new instructional equipment, up $2,566.

The Board of Education proposes no new teachers but hopes to increase the part-time speech and hearing therapist and high school learning disabilities teacher.

The town government budget hearing is scheduled Thursday at 8 p.m. at Coventry High School.

Andover

The Andover Historical Society will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Andover Elementary School. Nathan Gatchell will present a film, "The Innocent Years," about America in the 19th Century and early 20th Century. The public is invited.

Autumn Whitney of Andover Elementary School received the first reading certificate from the school's Doris Chamberlain Library for reading and reporting on 25 books.

Bolton

Applications for scholarships from the Bolton Scholarship Fund Inc. are available at Bolton High School. Any Bolton resident attending or planning to attend a recognized post-high school educational program is eligible. Applications must be returned to the high school by May 1. The scholarships will be awarded in June.

Cub Scout Pack 157 will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the All-Purpose Room at Bolton Elementary School.

The Bolton High School Class of 1978 will have a double-header donkey basketball game Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the high school gym. The first game is between students and faculty. The second game is students vs. members of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department. Discounted tickets are available until Friday.

South Windsor

Atty. Francis J. Carino will head the South Windsor Cancer crusade. The fundraising effort will place strong emphasis on house-to-house solicitation, special gifts and business and industry appeals, and special events. Carino asks groups or individuals interested in volunteer work to contact him at 643-1845 for more information.

Students at the Timothy Edwards School will not be allowed to wear black-soled shoes to school as of Wednesday. Principal Arthur Hottin said black soles leave marks on floors. The ban was announced after other means of curbing the problem were unsuccessful. He said school floors and walls are covered with thousands of black marks which make the school look shabby. He said the marks are difficult to remove and this has increased maintenance costs.

The Rockville Hospital Auxiliary will have its spring card party Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Ellington Ridge Country Club. Beer prizes and desserts are included in the charge. Players should bring their own cards. Tickets are available at the hospital gift shop or by calling Georgette Pollard, 29 Webber Rd., Tolland.

John Manson, state corrections commissioner, will be guest speaker for the Vernon Young Republicans Friday at the Romejko home, Edith Lane. Anyone interested may attend. To learn more, call any club member or John Linderman, president, 875-2398.

The Rockville Emblem Club 15 will meet Wednesday at the Elks Lodge, N. Park St. The meeting will start at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper. The business meeting will start at 8 p.m.

Students at the Vernon Center Middle School will receive their third quarter report cards on Friday.

Debbie Ryder of 56 Franklin St., Rockville, a senior at the University of Connecticut, is student coordinator of Awareness Week at the university. During the week there will be a wheelchair road-rally, a disability dinner, and a wheelchair basketball game. The Special Student Services are of the Student Affairs and Services are sponsors of the event.

Students at the Timothy Edwards School will not be allowed to wear black-soled shoes to school as of Wednesday. Principal Arthur Hottin said black soles leave marks on floors. The ban was announced after other means of curbing the problem were unsuccessful. He said school floors and walls are covered with thousands of black marks which make the school look shabby. He said the marks are difficult to remove and this has increased maintenance costs.

The Rockville Hospital Auxiliary will have its spring card party Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Ellington Ridge Country Club. Beer prizes and desserts are included in the charge. Players should bring their own cards. Tickets are available at the hospital gift shop or by calling Georgette Pollard, 29 Webber Rd., Tolland.

Recognition due Boston Marathon

BOSTON (UPI) — Man's inhumanity to himself will be on display Monday when the streets from Hopkinton to Boston bubble with blistering feet for the 81st time.

At 5 a.m. along with spring comes the Boston Marathon — that 26-mile, 385-yard stretch of harshly undulating pavement that has more of a personality than the names who complete it. It is here again, awaiting the ascent of 2,500 to 3,000 runners, including more than 100 women.

This year, though, the marathon is getting recognition beyond the day of the race, a recognition long overdue. Annually, runners from all over the world come to Boston just to test themselves against the grueling course that has snubbed Olympic gold medalists and laid waste some of the top runners in history.

Northeastern University will host a two-day conference on running. The public is invited to the first day's seminars while the second day is devoted to doctors interested in joining the burgeoning field of sports medicine.

Dr. Roy McGregor, creator of the New England Deaconess Hospital's runners clinic and Dr. George Sheehan, medical adviser to Runner's World magazine, are among the featured speakers.

Boston's Eliot Lounge, longtime haven for the running drinker, will sponsor a free spaghetti dinner Sunday night April 17. All registered marathon entrants are invited to load up on carbohydrates — thousands are available in a meal of spaghetti and beer — in preparation for the following day's trek.

"We have to help these people out some way, make them feel they're wanted," said Eliot Lounge bartender Tommy Leonard, a marathon runner and world class person. "They come from all over, most of them knowing no one, just to run. We're trying to bring the runners together so they won't feel all alone."

But whether the runners attend the seminars or spaghetti feast, they all enjoy the experience that is unique to the Boston race. As many as a half-million spectators view the event, cheering runners to greater distances and speeds than they thought possible. Thousands of persons go beyond watching; some set up water stands, others hold down runners, more pass out orange slices and a few even offer alcohol to the weary distance men.

And the course itself, with its series of hills coming just when most runners are hitting the pain barrier, makes the Boston race special among the 150 marathons run in the United States.

Despite the qualifying times — three hours for men under 40 and 3 1/2 hours for all women and men over 40, the field keeps expanding because of the running explosion. Stores are springing up across the country that cater only to the runner. Circulation in running magazines has increased 10-fold over the past few years.

Now the first book has been published about the Boston

Marathon. The fascinating book by Joe Falls of the Sporting News is a series of vignettes about the heroes and eccentric also-rans. The book captures the mystique of the punishing journey and the people who push themselves through the distance.

Anyone who jogs even a mile a day knows the pain of the distance runner and the mental discipline it takes to keep going when the body screams. "Stop. Anyone who has ever had to endure physical pain for a length of time can appreciate the accomplishment of a runner who fights off crippling blisters to finish despite bleeding feet.

To runners, completing the marathon is proof that the human spirit can overcome physical pain. Each competitor is finding a freedom of self that few others know — as well as prolonging life through strengthening the cardiovascular system.

And the Boston Marathon is the embodiment of all distance races, a test that both frightens and exhilarates the thousands who cram Hopkinton Green each April.

Does it seem exciting, challenging? Then start training now for next year and see how running sets the mind and body free. Soon it will become clear why the Boston Marathon is more than a sporting event, more than a running sea of crazy persons.

Completion represents fulfillment, a feeling most persons never get during an entire lifetime.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It didn't take Mark Littell long to demonstrate that he carries no mental scars from the home-run ball he threw to Chris Chambliss that enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Kansas City Royals and win the 1976 American League pennant.

The hard-throwing 24-year old reliever faced the Yankees for the first time since the final game of last season's play in game No. 2 of their best-of-seven playoff series with the Yankees. He was rewarded with the victory when John Mayberry's double off the right field wall with two out in the 13th inning knocked in Fred Patek and gave the Royals a 5-4 triumph.

"This game didn't mean anything to me," said Littell after the game. "I just said, 'Here's another ball club and we've got to beat them.'"

Patek opened the Royals' bats with a walk and was sacrificed to second by Frank White. George Brett was walked intentionally and Hal McRae tied before Mayberry deflected the game-winning hit. Reggie Jackson hit his first homer as a Yankee off Paul Spittorff in the eighth inning to turn the game into a one-run triple in a four-run fifth. He added five more runs in the eighth inning to turn the game into a romp. Hise hit a two-run homer for Minnesota and Juan Bernhardt and Ruppert Jones homered for the Yankees.

In other AL games, the Texas Rangers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 4-2, in 10 innings, the Oakland A's beat the California Angels, 3-2, the Minnesota Twins routed the Seattle Mariners, 12-3, and the Toronto Blue Jays topped the Detroit Tigers, 5-2.

Boo birds respond

It didn't take the Boston boo birds at Fenway Park long to get on relief pitcher Bill Campbell. The righthanded relief artist at least while with the Twins) acquired from Minnesota and then given a $200,000 contract failed miserably in his first two appearances and was charged with both Red Sox losses. Campbell was booed when he entered Sunday's game against Cleveland and when he was tagged hard and departed early in the game.

Similar stunts were repeated shortly after dawn on Hill Street and area streets running in Karen Saunders, the long distance runner and generally considered the finest female marathoner in Connecticut. She's expected to be in the starting field of the Boston Marathon Monday. Back from a winter vacation in Sarasota, Fla., is Lety Bray. Sporting a new look, Bray took close calls on the major league teams that played exhibition games in Sarasota and Brandon this spring. Thanks to Horace Murphy, retired superintendent of parks in Manchester, now residing in Sarasota, the inside on the Grapefruit League games was forwarded via the mails. Mel Cushing, long associated with sports in Manchester, has taken an early retirement from the aircraft and has moved to Newport, N.H.

Forgotten man

Forgotten man with the Boston Celtics this season has to be Norman Cook, the No. 1 draft choice, who has seen only token service with the NBA Eastern Division club. Speaking of the Celtics, the 10,000 plus paying fans for the final "home" game in Hartford last Saturday night against San Antonio was cream on the cake for promotions at the Civic Center.

Slumping Redlegs beaten by Astros

NEW YORK (UPI) — So far this season the so-called super teams such as the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees have been struggling to look respectable, while the underhanded Houston Astros has been looking like a champion — even without injured Cesar Cedeno, who has yet to play this year.

The latest episode in the season-opening slump of the World Champion Reds, won 2-3, came Monday night as the Astros beat them, 4-3 for Houston's third victory in four games, good for first place in the National League West.

Houston pounced on Cincinnati starter in the left field while making a spectacular catch off a drive by Pete Rose.

Cincinnati got a solo homer from Ken Griffey and two hits from Dan Driessen — his first this year after going 0-for-15 — but they were not enough.

In the only other NL games, Chicago topped Philadelphia, 5-2, and Atlanta edged Los Angeles, 7-6.

Cubs 6, Phillies 2
Manny Trillo's double highlighted a two-run third inning and Bobby Murcer connected for his second home run of the season as Chicago downed Philadelphia behind the seven-hit pitching of Bill Bonham, who held the Phillies scoreless until the ninth.

Braves 7, Dodgers 6
Willie Montanez singled with the bases loaded in the fourth inning to clinch a four-run rally and pitcher Mike Marshall keyed a two-run ninth inning that carried Atlanta over Los Angeles. Marshall singled in a run before Pat Rockett hit into a double play to score Gary Matthews with the winning run in the ninth. Atlanta held off a ninth-inning Dodgers rally to clinch the victory.

highlighted by Cliff Johnson's first home run of the season, a two-run blast.

"I keep telling the kid (second baseman Julio Gonzalez) that when we get Cesar Cedeno back in the lineup we're going to run amuck," said third baseman Eric Cabell, who was missing a bruised elbow inflicted by a Fryman pitch in the eighth.

Cabell's free press with one out started Houston rolling and starter Attendance up

NEW YORK (UPI) — This year's baseball spring training games were seen by a record 1,064,862 people, the highest total since major league teams stopped barnstorming and started playing organized schedules in Phoenix, Arizona and California.

The 1977 figure is a six per cent increase over 1975, the last time major league teams played a full spring season.

Littell in top form heading off Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Rudi, whose nine RBIs and .833 slugging percentage highlighted the American League's first week of play on Monday was named the league's "Player of the Week" for April 6-10.

Rudi, in his first week as a California Angel after being obtained in last fall's free agent draft, hit .333 and belted two homers — including a grand slam — and two doubles for five RBIs.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even with Bill Walton's assurance that he will not boycott Tuesday's opening round of the National Basketball Association playoffs, the Portland Trail Blazers are casting a wary eye toward the Chicago Bulls.

"The Bulls are going to be tough, much tougher than during the playoffs," said Portland coach Jack Ramsay. "We'll have to keep our poise and patience."

Portland defeated Chicago all four times during the regular season, a statistic which makes Ramsay's referees had the Blazers and the league in a state of jitters for awhile.

But the star center cleared that up at Monday's practice session, saying as a member of the NBA Players Association he would not play if, as a player, he is boycotted by the players association.

"I wouldn't act as an individual," Walton said, "only as a member of the players association."

Portland's has the home-court advantage. If a third game is necessary, it will be in Portland Sunday afternoon. The second game is scheduled Friday night in Chicago.

Elsewhere, Boston faces San Antonio armed with the home-court advantage. The second game is scheduled Friday night in Chicago.

Red Sox notch win

BOSTON (UPI) — Luis Tiant and Bill Lee, whose success this week determined the Boston Red Sox post season chances, produced solid performances in an academic exercise at Fenway Park.

Tiant gave up four hits and one run in five innings Monday while Lee yielded three hits and a run in the Red Sox' 10-9 win over Northeastern University.

"For the pitchers it was good. We got our work in," said Tiant, a 21-gate winner last season who was reported late to training camp because of contract problems. "I just tried to throw strikes and do what I normally do out there. You don't want these guys to hit you."

Manager Don Zimmer said that Tiant did his first start of the season Saturday at Cleveland. Rick Wise was to make his first start this afternoon when the wireless Red Sox played the White Sox in Chicago.

In the free exhibition game left fielder Jim Rice treated the 2,500 patrons to a batting display, driving in three runs with a single, double and triple. Second baseman Dennis Doyle added two hits and a run batted in.

Injured catcher Carlton Fisk sat out the game as backup Bob Montgomery and bullpen coach Walt Rucker shared the receiving duties. Fisk suffered a sprained muscle under the right ear in Sunday's 19-9 loss to Cleveland and had head treatments Monday.

"It's a day-to-day thing but I hope to play tomorrow," said Fisk before the club left for Chicago and today's start of a two-game series with the White Sox. "It feels better now than it did this morning."

Zimmer said he was contemplating lineup shifts after the club had lost its first two games. He did not specify the shifts, but did say Ferguson Jenkins would pitch Wednesday as scheduled in Houston (Norriz 0-0).

The middle distances (440 and 800) will be in the hands of Linda Maher and junior Nancy Donadio, juniors Linda Cheney and Janice Meyer and seniors Liz Barrett and Cindy Swallow. The mile and two-mile runs will be in the capable hands of juniors Katie Hennessy and senior Steve Leslie Scott and Julie Hodson and sophomore Joanne Meyer. The fourth and final position is up for grabs with senior Dave McGonigle, junior Mike Belanger and sophomore Jamie Smith in the running. Lack of playing time because of the weather has not allowed Malin a long look at the candidates.

"I think now we have three guys capable of playing good golf. We're definitely competitive. If we can get a No. 4 third, then we'll have a good shot at a third title."

Linescores Error paves way for win

By DAVE ROBACK
Correspondent

As the baseball game between Manchester Community College and Eastern Connecticut State College's jayvees developed, a wizard without a crystal ball could've predicted how the winning run was going to score.

An error with the bases loaded in the home half of the ninth pushed across the winning run for the Cougars as they defeated Eastern 7-11-10, yesterday at windy Morristy Field.

The Cougars, 3-2, resume action Wednesday against the University of Connecticut jayvees in Storrs.

MCC's John Zickony walked and advanced on Rick Nicola's ball single with Neil Esposto's single to right loading the bases. A hard hit ball by Bill Monroe eluded a charging Ray Sullivan from his second base position scoring Zickony with the winning tally.

The Cougars went into the top half of the ninth with a 10-8 lead. But Eastern's Sullivan, a Manchester High graduate, started a two-run rally with a single up the middle. A walk, fielder's choice and single by Dave Fervis tied the contest.

Three hits gave the visitors from Williamant an early 2-0 lead in the first with each side striking for the Cougars knotting it in the fourth inning. Single runs in two innings gave Eastern a 4-2 edge but a single by Tom Dawson, two sacrifices and miscues put the locals on top, 4-2, at the end of the sixth.

Tom Kearney went the distance for MCC with the lefthander striking out two and walking to tie the rocky victory. Art Benson in relief of starter Neil Selva took the loss.

Mark McMahon and Monroe each had a double for the Cougars with Dawson, Nicola and Esposto each collecting two hits. Sullivan had three safeties and Peter Slocum two for Easterns.
