Chamber fetes Mahoney

By SUSAN VAUGHAN
Herald Reporter

Francis J. "Fran" Mahoney, native of Manchester, former mayor and town director, and present state representative, is the 1977 recipient of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce "M" award.

Receiving the award at the close of the Chamber's annual dinner at the Colony Restaurant Wednesday night, a beaming Mahoney said, "This is a really a shocker. I didn't think it was time for me. I'm too young. I've got a lot to do yet. I've still got my work in the House of Representatives," he said.

"My efforts have always been to serve everybody in town, regardless of political affiliation, and I will continue to do that," said Mahoney, a Democrat who is serving his fifth consecutive term in the General Assembly. He served on the Town Board of Directors for 12 years and as mayor for two terms.

The announcement of the award was made by William Hale, past president of the Chamber, in the absence of Frank Trombadori, outgoing president, who could not attend Wednesday.

Mahoney certainly meets the list of criteria cited by Hale for the recipient of the annual award. Those qualities include stable, well-known, respected, leadership, ambition, determination, achievement and the ability to initiate projects and successfully complete them.

Mahoney has a long list of projects he has headed for the community. He said he has found the committee's names with the Bicentennial Committee for which he served as co-chairman with Nathan Agostinelli. He said he has found the committee's projects, the reconstruction of the old Keeney Street School and the construction of a community band shell a "challenge and a joy."

Other projects which he spearheaded on the Board of Directors included construction of five neighborhood swimming pools and three new firehouses.

Mahoney has long been a supporter of recreation and athletics in the town. As a former baseball and basketball player, he started the annual West Side Old Timers' reunion for the annual Knights of Columbus Irish sports nights for more than two decades and is also general chairman for the annual British-American Club sports nights.

Mahoney is a member and former chancellor of the Knights of Columbus and a member of the Elks. He is an incorporator of Manchester Memorial Hospital and has served on numerous town and civic committees.

Mahoney worked for United Aircraft Corp. for over 40 years until his retirement. Thirty-five of those years were with Hamilton Standard in Windsor Locks.

Longshoremen on strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Longshoremen today struck seven major shipping lines which service Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports in a dispute over the loss of job guarantees in the handling of containerized cargo.

"Thirty-thousand men will be going out," Larry Malloy, a spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said today. "These seven lines will be struck in any port from Maine to Texas."

The first indication of the strike came at 12:01 a.m. in the Port of New York.

A security guard at the Howland Hook Marine Terminal in Staten Island said longshoremen stopped work at midnight on the United States Lines' ship, American Astronaut.

"At midnight, the men walked off the job," guard Vito Liotine said. He said three work gangs with about 50 men went on strike.

But the full effect of the strike could not be measured immediately. Malloy said there would be no picketing.

The targets of the strike are the major shippers handling container cargo in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Baltimore and Norfolk. The walkout also will affect ports on the Gulf of Mexico where these shippers — among the largest in the nation — also operate.

The longshoremen are seeking compensation for the loss of job guarantees in the handling of containerized cargo. The job guarantees were taken away by a National Labor Relations Board ruling in December 1975.

Settlement is reported in electric rate dispute

HARTFORD (UPI) — A proposed settlement including customer refunds and a rate reduction as of May 1 has been reached in a legal battle over Northeast Utilities' rates, the Connecticut Citizens Action Group said.

The CCAG said Wednesday night under the agreement Northeast would have to refund about $5.5 million to consumers as a settlement for a 1974 rate increase.

Hartford City Councilman Nicholas R. Carbone said the refunds would include $3.7 million to be paid to $71,250 residential and commercial customers in Connecticut. Each customer would receive the same refund of $4.28.

Carbone said another $1.5 million would be paid to about 140 cities and towns that use Northeast electricity for street lighting. In addition, Northeast would have to pay $10,000 for the legal costs of several challenges.

The CCAG said Northeast also agreed to drop its appeal of a $21.6

Zaire accused of attack

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Angola charged today that a Zairean coastal battery shelled an Angolan ship in Angolan waters, damaging the ship and wounding crewmen. Angola threatened to retaliate against any further "provocative acts."

"This warning already amounts to a formal and definitive statement of nonrecourse of such provocative acts whose consequences will fall entirely upon the Kinshasa regime," an Angolan defense ministry statement said.

Health and welfare.

The strike affects Seatrains, Sea Land and the United States Lines, domestic shippers; Hapag-Lloyd Cargo and Container Service, Dard Container Line and Atlantic Container line, which are foreign firms, and all Soviet containerships.

The Public Utilities Control Authority, the Hartford City Council and several other parties.

"This agreement is without precedent anywhere in the country," said CCAG director Marc Caplan.

"Nowhere have consumers challenged the enormous resources of the utilities with such success," Caplan said.

Carbone said the refunds and legal reimbursements would be "nonrecoverable," meaning Northeast could not use future rate increases to make back the money.

"What has been won today by this settlement is the recognition of a different kind of power — the power of consumers to deny utilities automatic access to their pocketbooks," Caplan said.

For the past two years, the CCAG and other consumer groups have engaged in a series of legal battles to force the giant utility to reduce its rates. If the settlement is approved, it will resolve 23 court cases and PUCA proceedings involving Northeast.

Carter to drop tax rebates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today that President Carter has dropped his proposal to give every American a $50 tax rebate as a major and popular feature of his $31 billion economic stimulus package, but one that was in trouble with Congress.

Carter also will withdraw his recommendation for a $2 billion investment tax credit for industry, said Press Secretary Jody Powell.

Explaining that Carter "could not well" withdraw the rebate and at the same time give industry a tax break.

Administration sources earlier said the President changed his mind about the rebate because he was concerned the economy was improving, and he felt the payments would contribute to inflation.

Aides said Carter began to rethink the rebate idea a couple of days ago. Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and Budget Director Frank Lamm led the vanguard for dropping it, they said.

Conservative and liberal economists both had opposed the idea of the rebate, the White House said. The rebate has passed the House, but Carter had to enlist the Democratic leadership in a full-scale campaign to line up Senate support.

Last Friday, the President was optimistic that the rebate would pass, although he conceded it would be "tough."

Powell smiled when asked whether there were "political con-

Armed gunmen seize embassy

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Two armed men took over part of the West German Embassy today to protest Bonn's handling of war criminals, marring solemn nationwide observances for the six million Jews who perished under the Nazi reign of terror.

The two men, who witnesses said were armed with at least one pistol, took over one or two rooms of the embassy's chancery section but made no attempt to seize hostages, an embassy spokesman said.

A police riot squad sped to the scene.

The spokesman said the men, who he said were of Polish extraction, did not seize any hostages although they threatened violence if an attempt was made to oust them. Staff members in the embassy continued their work.

The men said they would give themselves up at the end of the day, the spokesman said. He said one of them said his father had died in a concentration camp.

The men said the purpose of the seizure of part of the four-story building was to protest the apparently lenient handling of the trial in West Germany of 14 alleged war criminals for their part in running the Maidanek concentration camp.

The trial has run for 125 sessions over 18 months and the accused are not in custody. Film clips about the trial appeared on Israeli television Wednesday night.

The 'Third Dollar' Gambling: America's way of splurging

The taste for gambling, like that for sports, is a kind of feeble-mindedness. Whenever it has seized a man of any viable talent — for example, Dostoevsky — he has ended crazy.

H.L. Mencken
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Mencken may be right. But nearly 90 million Americans — more than three out of five adults — now gamble, at least occasionally.

Says John Quinn, director of the New York State Lottery: "Most people have a dream they want to buy for a dollar."
These dollars add up. Up to $9 billion was bet illegally in 1972, according to "deliberately conservative" estimates by the Justice Department. That's about as much as Americans spent last year on gasoline and oil.

States join in
Not surprisingly, more and more hard-pressed states are trying to tap this awesome market. Some 32 states have now legalized gambling on horse races. Thirteen states have lotteries and at least two dozen others are actively pursuing this phenomenon. In the near future, a state without a lottery may not be a state at all.

Legalized betting — on lotteries, horses, dogs, jai alai, casinos and bingo — brought in about $19 billion in 1975, according to a study by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. But even more was bet illegally.

New fever
Many states are now scrambling to get in on the action. More than 100 top-level state officials gathered last October in Palm Beach, Fla., for the National Conference on Public Gambling. Two main topics were on the agenda: 1) how to get more people to gamble; 2) how to get those that already bet to bet more.

One reason for this new strain of gambling fever is that people have not only more time on their hands but more money in their jeans. The number of paid holidays and vacations is rising. And while a four-day work week isn't here yet, many say it's around the bend.
Also, paychecks are steadily increasing. The Conference Board, New York-based non-profit economic research organization finds that real personal income (after inflation is subtracted) jumped 73 per cent during the last 15 years, despite three major recessions.

A new theory
"There's a theory," says one economist, "that when a person gets his hands on two extra dollars, he'll spend $1.50 cautiously and save the rest. But when he gets an extra third dollar, he'll splurge it away."
Bookies and public gambling officials are snuffing madly now for that "third dollar."

Lotteries are the current rage. And casino gambling (approved this year by New Jersey voters for Atlantic City) seems on the increase. But many believe the big legal game of the future is sports betting — on the giant spectator sports such as boxing, football, baseball and basketball.

Betting on people
"Betting on lucky numbers of even dogs and horses is one thing," says one public official. "But people's adrenalin starts pumping when they bet on other people."
As New York's Quinn puts it: "There is a greater sense of participation in sports betting. It's you who are picking the winner."
Actually, most state officials don't care what's bet on. It's volume they want. "I don't care if the product we bet on has four legs or two," says Raymond Blanchard, president of the National Association of Off-Track Betting.

Two-legged — or sports — betting is already flourishing. A Justice Department official told a New York Times reporter that nearly two-thirds of the nation's illegal betting last year was on sports events.

Widespread
Sports betting is so widespread that a network of "business" have sprung up to sell bettors advice. Many of them market their services like old-time traveling medicine shows. Such as:
ALLSTATE LIMITED: Our Picks Will Lower Your Blood Pressure...COMPUTER LOGIC: The Computer Way to Winning...TIPS WILL GIVE IT TO YOU FREE...A&M SPORTS SERVICE: Get The Official Line...HUEY'S DIAL-A-WINNER: A 7-Year Record of 71 per cent Success...and so on.

They have developed complex systems to determine the likely winners. One better, who has subscribed to a half-dozen services, says: "I've made a few bucks using their picks but most of them don't know anymore than the average bettor. They all come on like experts, using fancy jargon. They can't just tell you Pittsburgh is gonna beat Oakland. They gotta talk about 'power ratings' and 'offensive thrust' and stuff. They remind me of those Wall Street tip sheets which give you 25 reasons why to buy certain stocks."

Football lottery
So far, only one state besides Nevada has plunged into sports betting. That's Delaware, which set up a football lottery. It has produced very disappointing revenue to date (some say it is not merchanidized effectively) and is being fought in the courts by the National Football League. The NFL, along with other organized sports and many of the country's religious organizations, argue that legalized gambling will corrupt American athletics.
Proponents of legalized gambling say it's going on anyway and that legalized gambling cuts down on underworld revenue. They point out that gambling is the greatest single money-maker for organized crime, supplying the fuel for narcotics, loansharking, prostitution, bribery, etc. To bolster their argument, they cite a study conducted for New York which concluded that the major promise of increased legalized gambling would not be in raising state revenues but in fighting organized crime.

Some doubts
Some experts have their doubts. In New York, for instance, state-run lotteries and off-track betting have had little impact on illegal betting. One reason: Bookmakers can supply credit for customers; the state cannot.
As Edward Joyce, a Justice Department official, told New York Times: "We have a lot of wrap-ups in New York and we never heard a bookie say, 'OTB is killing me!'"
Legal or not, gambling appears to be on a steep upward trend. As odds-maker Jimmy (the Greek) Snyder puts it: "For a while lot of people, gambling is as natural as breathing."
(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

to satisfy the world's growing thirst for fuel, petroleum companies are going out into the oceans farther and farther, and down deeper and deeper.
When the industry first went offshore in 1947, it worked in water only 20 feet deep. Today, platforms operating through depths of half a mile are not unusual.
Each day, hundreds of divers go into the water to explore ocean bottoms for gas and oil and to install and maintain drilling and pumping equipment. But the job is getting too tough for men alone. At 1,000 feet, a diver can work only 20 minutes at a time, unless he is equipped with extraordinary and expensive support gear.
As a consequence, diversless subsea systems are being developed that will ease the strain on human capabilities as exploration moves to ever-deeper areas. One such system, the product of nearly eight years of experimentation by Regan Offshore International, Inc., will be used by the Canadian government and a consortium of 29 companies to explore for oil in deep Arctic waters.

Go deeper
A string of marine "risers" — buoyant steel pipes up to two feet in diameter and 70 feet long, with telescopic joints to compensate for ocean movement — will be placed on the sea bottom under the ice, along with an array of other equipment and tools that will be connected and operated from the surface without the need for divers.
Regan, a subsidiary of Hughes Tool Co., used the riser system to drill in the deepest water to date, some 3,450 feet off Thailand in 1976.
How much deeper it will be possible to go in the search for oil and gas is limited only by technology. Fortunately for the world's thirst, the limits are constantly being extended.

Today is Thursday, April 14, the 104th day of 1977 with 261 to follow. The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries. British Antarctic explorer Sir James Clark was born April 14, 1800. On this day in history: In 1861, the flag of the Confederacy was raised over Ft. Sumter, S.C., as Union troops there surrendered. In 1865, John Wilkes Booth crept into the box of President Abraham Lincoln at Ford Theater in Washington and shot him. Lincoln died the next morning. In 1917, President William Howard Taft set a precedent by throwing out the first baseball to open the major league season. In 1975, screen and stage star Frederic March died of cancer at the age of 77. A thought for the day: British novelist Dinah Craik said, "Oh, my son's my son 'til he gets him a wife, but my daughter's my daughter all her life."

Thought
Suffering: A lonely time
Although the experience of pain in body, mind or soul can be an opportunity for a profound sense of closeness with others, it is also a time of aloneness. There is a dimension of suffering which leaves us by ourselves. There is a time before we can share it; there is time when we don't understand it clearly enough to find the right words or images. This is time when others are not able to hear and understand. There is time when others are asleep or away. And there is a sense in which the pain is uniquely ours — our body, our mind, our soul. No one else has our pain and often no one else can take it away. Even God.
What they can do — our friends, our neighbors, our God — is be with us if we will let them. In that time we may be alone and accompanied — a paradoxical truth of faith.

Go deeper
A string of marine "risers" — buoyant steel pipes up to two feet in diameter and 70 feet long, with telescopic joints to compensate for ocean movement — will be placed on the sea bottom under the ice, along with an array of other equipment and tools that will be connected and operated from the surface without the need for divers.
Regan, a subsidiary of Hughes Tool Co., used the riser system to drill in the deepest water to date, some 3,450 feet off Thailand in 1976.
How much deeper it will be possible to go in the search for oil and gas is limited only by technology. Fortunately for the world's thirst, the limits are constantly being extended.

Ramps will be built at town post offices

The United States Postal Service has applied for building permits for concrete ramps at two Manchester post offices.
The ramps, which will assist carriers in loading mail vehicles, will be installed at the Buckland Post Office and the Broad St. sub-station, Edward DeFoe, postal operations analyst at the Hartford office, said.

The ramps will lead from the rear loading platforms to the parking area.
"It allows the carriers to load the vehicles more easily," DeFoe said. He said that the ramps will permit loading without having to back vehicles up to the platform area.

The ramp at the Buckland office will cost $3,500 and the ramp at the Broad St. sub-station will cost $4,500, according to the permit applications.

Town to buy chemicals

The Town of Manchester is seeking bids on chemicals needed in the treatment of the town's water supply. The town is seeking delivery of the chemicals in containers. All of the ten chemicals, including liquid chlorine, sodium hypochlorite, copper sulfate and sodium fluoride, are used in the water treatment process.
Bids on the items will be opened May 3 at 11 a.m.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Mrs. Joy Logee Martin guides a group of 4-H Club members through Logee's greenhouse at Danielson. Plant with drooping red tails is Acalapha. (Photo by Atwood)

Gardeners visit Logee's greenhouses in Danielson to find a plant that is new and different. The greenhouse specializes in unusual plant material.

On the last Saturday in March, the Connecticut Horticultural Society paid for a bus to take 44 members of 4-H Clubs, including several adult leaders, on a trip to see the greenhouses. The boys and girls were from both Hartford and Tolland counties, including a group from Manchester.

Passengers brought their own lunches from home. The CHS paid for the bus and a supply of soft drinks.

Saturday is a busy day at Logee's and so many more visitors were scheduled later in the day that the greenhouse operators decided to take us all through the displays at one time, divided into five smaller groups with five guides.

Joy Logee Martin, daughter of the founder, was our hostess and she told us that Logee's is the oldest greenhouse in Connecticut in continuous operation by one family. The greenhouse is observing its 65th year and a number of its plants are more than 50 years old.

Logee's does principally a mail order business and has wide distribution for its illustrated catalog. Many retail sales are made at the door but Logee's does little wholesale business. Visitors are welcome every day from 9 to 4. Groups like ours must come by appointment.

Many begonias First pages in the catalog and hundreds of feet of space in the greenhouses are occupied by begonias and Mrs. Martin said this is their No. 1 crop. Of the 1,000 kinds of indoor plants on display, 500 are varieties of begonia.

It is hard to realize there are so many kinds of begonia plants. They have clusters of pretty flowers, but are grown mostly for their distinctive foliage. The leaves are colored and show patterns of many colors in shades of red, green, brown, silver and pink, with a few that have patches of black, a very unusual color in the plant world.

One of the most easily recognized and quite commonly grown is Iron Cross, with chocolate brown markings in the shape of the German iron cross on an apple-green puckered leaf.

Begonias are propagated in the greenhouses and the Logees have made hybrid crosses which have produced 25 new varieties.

The begonias prefer a shaded location and some tall shrubs and vines are grown with them to shield the plants from direct sun.

They are tropical or sub-tropical plants in their native habitat and while they can be set out on a patio in this area during the summer, they must come indoors for winter weather.

Begonias are classified by their habit of growth and the color of their leaves. Mrs. Martin called our attention to a "hairy-leaved" begonia, started in the list as a new hybrid, which she said had been developed by her son. It is called Quinceburg for the river valley where Danielson is located and has huge leaves, more than a foot across, velvety green on top and maroon underneath.

Passion Vine Walking through the greenhouses with the boys and girls, we saw a red-flowered passion vine, grown in the same location for many years and a Ponderosa lemon, also very old and bearing huge ripe lemons the size of large grapefruit.

"You give one of these lemons," Mrs. Martin said, "to people who have everything." The juice is surprisingly sweet.

Most of the children had never seen bananas growing and we stopped to look at a banana tree, more than head-high, with green bananas growing on a heavy flower stalk. It takes six months, Mrs. Martin said, for bananas to ripen after the fruit has formed.

There was a kumquat, with green fruit, and a coffee tree with green berries. A South American tomato tree is a curiosity. It is a woody shrub, six feet tall or more, with fruits that are described as having a tomato flavor.

A sea olive, with tiny flowers that filled the air with fragrance, was pointed out to us and we saw a Sensitive Plant, whose leaves shrink against the mid-rib when touched.

This is one of the oldest plants on earth, Mrs. Martin said.

There are 100 kinds of cacti and succulents in the collection, an Acacia that grows to the roof, and a Powder Puff Plant whose flowers have a thousand stamens.

To fill out the day, the boys and girls were taken to visit the Red Gate Goat Farm in Canterbury, run by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waterman.

Nuclear energy discussion

A program on nuclear energy will be presented Wednesday, April 20, at 8 p.m. in the Reception Hall of South United Methodist Church. It is sponsored by the Social Action Committee.

Richard F. vonHollen, nuclear product sales manager of Combustion Engineering, and Philip R. Rosenthal, health physics manager of Combustion Engineering, will speak on the energy and safety aspects of nuclear power.

VonHollen received a B.S. in mechanical engineering from Stephens Institute of Technology and a M.S. degree in mechanical engineering from Carnegie-Mellon University. He has had 15 years of nuclear experience at Westinghouse and Combustion Engineering, including designing systems, component analysis, safety and licensing analysis, and power optimization and economics of energy systems.

Rosenthal received a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Maryland and a Congressional Medal for contributions toward scientific research in Antarctica. He served as senior nuclear project engineer and refueling director at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics prior to his joining Combustion Engineering in 1970, where he is responsible for radiological and health physics activities.

The movie, "Now That the Dinosaurs are Gone," will be presented. It addresses the question: Should America accelerate development of nuclear power to be ready for the day when oil and gas supplies run out? If America is to continue to grow and to become less dependent upon foreign fuel, reliable sources of domestic energy must be developed. A discussion period will follow. This program is open to the public.

Directors vote for sewers, approve funds, repeals laws

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night approved a sewer project to serve the Sunnyside Apartments and voted to permit "Damato" to pay for sewer hookups at the old rate of $100.

Other action taken Tuesday night included: The scheduling of a public hearing on April 25 for the distribution of unappropriated Revenue Sharing funds that the town will receive.

The approval of $5,598 for renovations at South School for the handicapped instructor for the program. Both items will be paid by a federal grant.

The approval of a $2,754.13 allocation for Georgia-Pacific through an agreement in the town's industrial guidelines. The payment is a reimbursement for money expended by the company for the installation of water lines.

The approval of an $11,000 transfer from the Contingency Fund to the Pension Benefits-Social Security account, and an $9,500 lower rate also be imposed there. The directors approved the repeal of six town ordinances that are now outdated.

The appropriating of up to $7,500 for a summer enrichment program for Grades 4-12. The money will be provided by fees charged for the program.

The approval of $119 for an evening ceramics class conducted by the Recreation Department.

The appropriating of a $117.24 state grant that will send two teachers to a workshop on the metric system. The item was approved 8-1, with Paul Willard casting the lone no vote.

The approval of early retirements for George M. Adams and Eva Oates.

The authorization to fill the vacant planning technical assistant position.

The approval to downgrade a position in the controller's office from secretary to clerk-stenographer. The present secretary, Mrs. Oates, is retiring.

About town

Ostomy, family-plan groups to have booths at Health Fair

Among the many exhibits and information booths at the Manchester Health Fair will be one from the Manchester Area Ostomy Association and one from the Couple to Couple League. The second annual Health Fair will be held April 26 from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Manchester High School cafeteria. The purpose of the Ostomy Association is to educate, develop and promote the understanding of ostomies to the community and particularly to ostomies both before and after surgery, and to those involved in their care. The association is a rehabilitation organization of patients with ileostomy, colostomy, and ileo-bladder surgery. Manchester Ostomy Association meetings are held at Manchester Memorial Hospital on the second Monday of alternate months beginning with September except for the summer months. The meetings are where patients can discuss their problems with others. Ostomy types of surgery are required when a person has lost the normal bowel or bladder function because of birth defects, disease, injury or malignancy. The Couple to Couple League is a non-profit, interfaith, nationwide organization to help interested couples develop the art of natural family planning. The system is based upon the awareness of certain female changes that occur around the fertile time. This form of natural birth regulation has the effectiveness of the pill but none of its medical side effects. The teaching couple in the Manchester area is Bill and Kathy Siddons.

Elks to install Jon Hawthorne

Jon C. Hawthorne will be installed tomorrow as the exalted ruler of The Manchester Lodge of Elks. He will succeed Anthony T. Merola Jr.

Hawthorne was born in Hartford. He attended schools in Hartford and Meriden as well as in Fairhaven and New Bedford, Mass., before his family settled in Manchester. He graduated from Manchester High School in 1959.

He has been active for many years on the Newton Children's Hospital Committee, and, during the past year, served as the chairman. In addition to serving on other various lodge committees, he assisted in the successful participation of the Manchester Lodge of Elks National 'Hoop Shoot' contest.

Hawthorne has been a member of the Manchester Police Department since 1969. He was previously employed by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft, following his graduation from high school. He has been active in the social and community activities of the police union and he is now union vice-president. He is very interested in the youth of Manchester. He is a coach in the Midget Football program and a scoutmaster in the Cub Scouts.

Jon Hawthorne

Other officers elected are: Alan T. Donze, esteemed leading knight; Leon R. Zahaba Jr., esteemed loyal knight; Wayne A. Warren, esteemed lecturing knight; William F. Legault, secretary; Joseph Lantieri Jr., treasurer; Robert Arnold, trustee for five years; John E. Griffin, elder.

Exalted ruler-elect Hawthorne announced the appointments of: Edward McKernan, esquire; Donald Zienak, chaplain; Richard Godfrey, inner guard, and Arthur Steele, organist.

The officers will be installed at a semi-public installation tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

East Hartford man dies from accident injuries

EAST HARTFORD — Herbert L. Hutchins, 57, of 91 Cannon Rd. died Wednesday at Hartford Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday when he was hit by a car at Main St. and Wells Ave.

Hutchins was the victim of a hit-and-run accident, and police said a late model dark-colored car hit him about 9:30 p.m. as he was crossing Main St. Police are still seeking the driver of the car.

Hutchins was born in Manchester and lived in East Hartford for 30 years. He was employed as a custodian by the East Hartford Board of Education. He previously had worked as a truck driver for the First National Warehouse in East Hartford for 25 years, retiring in 1973.

He was an Air Force veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict. He was a life member of East Hartford's VFW Post 2083 and a past team squirrel of the VFW's.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Helen Costello and Mrs. Ann Stager, both of East Hartford, and two grandchildren.

The funeral is Friday at 9:30 a.m. from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219W. Center St., with a Mass at the Church of the Assumption at 10:30 a.m. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Miss Ruth Lanz
ELLINGTON — Miss Ruth Lanz, 81, of 238 Somers Rd. died Wednesday at her home.

Miss Lanz was born Feb. 17, 1896 in Ellington and had lived in the area all her life. She was a member of the Apostolic Christian Church.

She is survived by 4 brothers and 7 sisters, all area residents, 10 nieces and nephews, and several grandchildren and grandnieces.

The funeral is Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Apostolic Christian Church, Middle Branch Rd. Burial will be in Ellington Center Cemetery.

Friends may call at her home tonight from 7 to 9.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the American Cancer Society.

The Ladd Funeral Home, 19 Ellington Ave., Rockville, is in charge of arrangements.

George Klotz
George Klotz, 88, of 133 Oak St., East Hartford, formerly of Manchester, died Wednesday at an East Hartford convalescent home.

Mr. Klotz was born March 20, 1889 in Austria and had lived in the United States for 63 years. He was employed as a construction worker in the area and was employed by the Andrew Ansdal Construction Co. of Manchester before retiring in 1954.

House adopts bottle ban bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — The bottle bill, not taken very seriously when proposed in Connecticut only a few years ago, today was halfway to adoption.

"It feels awfully good. It's been a long time," said Rep. Russell Post, R-Canton, of the surprisingly decisive 75-68 House of Representatives vote for the bill.

The bill faces an uncertain future in the Senate where it will be subject to extensive legislative maneuvering.

Modeled after Vermont and Oregon laws, the measure would require deposits on all beverage containers and prohibit pull-top cans.

Similar bills, which proponents claim will clean up the countryside, save energy and teach conservation, died in the Connecticut legislature for the past three years by sizeable margins.

The House version has been passed because lawmakers had found their constituents solidly backed it.

"The most important factor this time was that legislators tested the waters in their districts and found out the people really want the bottle bill," he said.

The House vote had been expected to be so close that minutes before it was taken neither environmentalists who sponsored the bill — nor the unlikely coalition of business and labor that opposed it — were sure of the verdict.

Other lawmakers said the difference was a number of lawmakers switched their votes because they were no longer convinced the bill would damage the state's economy.

"While I do have some reservations, there is overwhelming support for the bill. It's clear the public wants the bottle bill," said Rep. John Janis, D-Stafford Springs, one of them.

"This bill will not do the job it is claimed and it will cost jobs in the state of Connecticut," said Rep. Andrew Grande, D-Bristol, whose argument was echoed by other anti-bottle bill speakers.

Rep. John Anderson, D-Newtown, said removing the $1,000 fine for violation was aimed at attracting any undecided voters to the bill.

Bridgeport edges out Hartford for No. 1

HARTFORD (UPI) — Bridgeport has replaced Hartford as the largest Connecticut city, according to the U.S. Census Bureau's estimate of the 1975 population of American cities.

Bridgeport, which lost 13,563 residents in the five-year period, had a 1975 population of 142,060.

Hartford, which lost 13,152 residents in the five-year period, had a 1975 population of 138,152.

New Haven, home of Yale University, was the third largest city in 1975 and again in 1976 even though 10,962 people left during that period.

New Haven's 1975 population was 126,845.

The population of all five cities declined between 1970 and 1975. The number of residents moving out of the city, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, was 138,152.

James C. Breitenfeld, executive vice-president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest of honor at the Chamber's 76th annual banquet Wednesday night.

The banquet, which will be held at the Chamber's new headquarters in the Chamber Building, will be the first day of work for Chamber executive vice-president James C. Breitenfeld.

Breitenfeld, who has been with the Chamber since 1973, will be the guest of honor at the Chamber's 76th annual banquet Wednesday night.

to have a powerful impact on the community," he urged. The membership to give the town continued reason to be proud of the Chamber, to be proud of being Chamber members and to bring in "new blood" into the membership.

Breitenfeld introduced his wife, Gail, to the members, and guests who filled the ballroom of the Colony Restaurant.

The announcement of the annual "M" award by the Chamber, kept secret until the end of the meeting, topped the evening's events.

Francis J. "Fran" Mahoney was the popular choice. "What excites me most is the potential of the Chamber" and his associates. William R. Johnson, chairman of the event and also incoming president for the Chamber, served as master of ceremonies.

He presented plaques to three retiring directors, Noel Belcourt, James Farr, and Dan F. Heale, vice-president of finance since 1973.

Also retiring as directors are Max Grossman and R. Lee Watkins, who were not present.

Suzanne L. Flocken was commended for her term as executive vice-president of the Chamber from September 1974 to the present.

She was not present Wednesday. Mrs. Mildred Treiblich, who left the Chamber in February after more than 15 years as secretary, was also given a round of applause in absentia.

Dodd, who was making his fifth speech of the day, kept his remarks brief, citing the "M" award as the prime reason for the meeting.

He talked of his feeling of affiliation with Manchester and his many friends here. He said he has been here so much recently he feels like Manchester is in his district (the second Congressional).

Noting he was not an "enthusiastic supporter" for President Jimmy Carter originally, Dodd said he has come to appreciate him. "He is unique," Dodd said of the President.

He said "For the first time in 15 years the American public is feeling better about itself and has a sense of confidence about the future."

He cited President Carter's historical first in serving at a town meeting and the honor of his many calls to the President. "I believe in you," is what President Carter is trying to say to the American people, Dodd said.

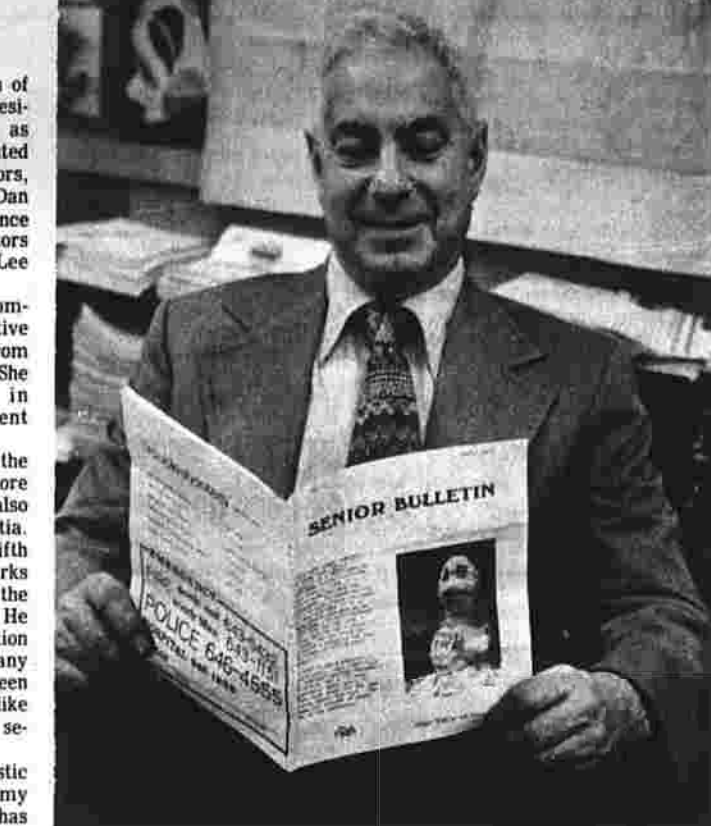

He commended the idea of creating a public trust, of restoring faith in government. He said there is a need for a new kind of leadership who are conducting town meetings, having office hours and making themselves more accessible to their constituents.

Grasso said, "We are investing a considerable sum of public money for modernization of the New Haven line to attract riders to this form of public transportation."

Mrs. Grasso has repeatedly called for federal help in upgrading all of New England's founding railroads.

BIA breakfast profits to subsidize Bulletin

Proceeds from a breakfast honoring Manchester's Town Manager Robert B. Weiss will help insure continued publication of a new bulletin for the town's senior citizens.

The B'nai B'rith is sponsoring the breakfast from which the proceeds will be donated to Brotherhood in Action for its Project 77 which is funding the publication of the Senior Bulletin.

The breakfast will be Sunday, April 24, at 9 a.m. at The Colony in Talcottville.

Guest speakers for the event include Judge Frank Monahan (retired), of Windsor, whose friendship with Weiss began when Weiss was Town Manager of Windsor.

Other speakers are Dr. John E. Rogers, Nathan Agostinelli, State Rep. Francis Mahoney, The Rt. Rev. Magr. Edward J. Reardon, Rabbi Leon Wind, the Rev. Clifford O. Simpson, Mayor Matthew Moriarty, William Steib, Judge William FitzGerald and Norman Fergusson.

Town Director Vivian Ferguson was also invited, but she will be out of town that day.

Tickets for the event are available from any member of the four participating groups in the BIA — Manchester's two Masonic lodges, Campbell Council of the Knights of Columbus and B'nai B'rith. Tickets are also available at Garmen's Men's Shop on Main St., Reed's Stationers at the Manchester Parkade, and Beller's Music Shop on Main St.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made through this weekend. The breakfast is chairman of the event and James Holmes will be master of ceremonies.

Local lawmakers divided on issue

Local legislators were almost equally divided Wednesday in the House on the issue of the proposed bottle bill.

The bill, which would prohibit non-refillable containers, passed the House by a 77-65 margin. Four area legislators voted for the bill, five voted against, and one abstained.

Rep. Theodore Cummings (D-12th) of Manchester and Marie Yacavone (D-9th), who represents parts of both East Hartford and Manchester, voted for the measure.

The other yes votes cast by local legislators were from Reps. Robert Skip (D-53rd) of Coventry and Teresa Bertinson (D-57th) of East Windsor, whose district includes all of Ellington and part of Vernon.

Rep. Francis Mahoney (D-13th) was one of those who voted against the proposal. Other no votes were cast by Reps. Timothy Moyah (D-10th) and Richard Williard (D-11th), both of East Hartford, Dorothy Miller (R-55th) of Bolton, and Chester Morgan (D-56th) of Vernon.

Rep. Abraham Glassman (D-14th), who represents all of South Windsor and Manchester, abstained Wednesday. He is in the vending machine business and has said that he would not vote on the bottle bill because of the conflict presented by his business interests.

A petition effort is now on to bring the bill before the State Senate.

Members of the board said the money that comes in during the fiscal year ends July and January are the two primary tax collection periods of the fiscal year.

Mrs. Jackson responded, "If it doesn't, I'm going to demand to know why."

At last week's meeting of the board, she said the uncollected tax figures are "the highest I've ever seen."

James Turk, collector of revenue, said earlier this week that he is not alarmed by the amount of uncollected taxes. He pointed to the number of bankruptcies this year and also said that many of the 38 senators are required for the bill to be presented on the Senate floor.

Sen. David Barry (D-4th) said that, as of Wednesday afternoon, there was a member of the Board of Directors said that she is still concerned about the town of Manchester's collection of revenue.

"I don't think the effort has been put forth," Phyllis Jackson, a member of the board, said of the town's tax collection procedures.

8th District director defends sewer stand

Lawrence Noone, a director of the Eighth Utilities District, said Wednesday that he is simply abiding by the law and representing the people of the district in his statements concerning a proposed sewer project.

Several members of the Town Board of Directors have expressed concern about comments Noone has made about the proposed project, which would include street sewers in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. subdivision and a trunk sewer from Union Pond to Tolland Tpke.

The sewer project, being north of Middle Tpke., requires approval by the district, according to Special Act 200. The town has turned the matter over to the district for its approval.

At that meeting, Noone expressed concern that approval of the project might forfeit the district's right to annex this area at a later date if the residents petitioned to join the district.

This remark upset some town directors. Mayor Matthew Moriarty said, "I'm for the project in general, but not if we are going to spend the money to benefit one small part of the town."

Moriarty also requested that the town seek some type of commitment that the sewer line would remain the town's in the future, no matter what happens in the area.

Other directors made similar remarks. "What would could have been better left unsaid," Phyllis Jackson said. "This only splits the town down the middle," she said of Noone's comment.

And State Rep. Theodore Cummings (D-12th) also commented on the subject.

"Don't you think the town ought to get some protection? He is asked referring to the planned sewer project.

"The town ought to get some assurances that the district won't apply pressure to annex that area once the sewer is in. Isn't that a reasonable request for the town?"

In a companion case, Randall Flinders, 22, of 24 Talcott Ave., Rockville, was charged Wednesday with disorderly conduct, risk of injury to a minor and escape from custody.

The arrest was made in connection with a disturbance at Flinders's apartment, police said. He was held at the police station overnight and was to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, today.

DOT completes work on rail track pact

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Department of Transportation has finished work on the details of a $4.8 million contract for upgrading rail tracks on the New Haven Corral line, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today.

The project involves laying 20 miles of new track between Milford and Fairfield and eight miles between Norwalk and Stamford.

Money already invested in the Corral system has netted an increase of 3.8 per cent in ridership, according to DOT figures. The figures show there were 4,507,675 riders in the first three months of this year compared to 4,372,287 for the same period last year.

Grasso said, "We are investing a considerable sum of public money for modernization of the New Haven line to attract riders to this form of public transportation."

Mrs. Grasso has repeatedly called for federal help in upgrading all of New England's founding railroads.

Other speakers are Dr. John E. Rogers, Nathan Agostinelli, State Rep. Francis Mahoney, The Rt. Rev. Magr. Edward J. Reardon, Rabbi Leon Wind, the Rev. Clifford O. Simpson, Mayor Matthew Moriarty, William Steib, Judge William FitzGerald and Norman Fergusson.

Two town directors are upset over health agency revamping

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
Two members of the Manchester Board of Directors who serve on a health sub-committee are upset about a recently announced proposal to realign the Health Department.

The two directors — Phyllis Jackson and Vivian Ferguson — feel that replacement of the present health director, Dr. Alice Turk, should be done through normal application and examination standards.

The proposal would result in Dr. Turk relinquishing her administrative duties and working full-time on town medical activities.

Ronald Kraatz, health administrator and chief sanitarian, would become health director.

The changes are proposed to eliminate the need of a physician extender, a new position proposed to attend to more of the town's medical needs so that Dr. Turk could have more time for supervisory responsibilities.

Mrs. Jackson said that the proposal was mentioned "as an idea" at a meeting of the health sub-committee last week.

"There was no indication that the shakeup was going to be made," she said. Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Ferguson and Jack Goldberg, are the three directors who serve on the sub-committee.

Dr. Walter Schardt, who also attended the meeting, said that it would take about a year to analyze whether such a move was practical, Mrs. Jackson said.

"Frankly, I was a little upset when I saw the proposed change in the paper," she said. "If a position opens up, it should be opened up for everyone."

She called Kraatz "very capable," but she said that if the health director position is opened, it should be publicly advertised.

"We should get the most capable member that is available for the taxpayers' money," she said.

She said that the realignment of the department was mentioned at a meeting of the town department heads earlier this week. She felt the matter should be presented to the entire Board of Directors before any such formal approval is mentioned.

Mrs. Ferguson agreed. She said that the change in the department constitutes a policy decision.

"How can you announce a policy decision without consulting the board?" she asked.

She also said that such a position change should require an examination.

Vernon police budget cut would mean service cuts

By BARBARA RICHMOND

Services will be cut, there will be staff layoffs, a proposed Rockville police officer will go down the drain, and a lot of necessary equipment won't be purchased unless the police budget is reconsidered by the Town Council.

William Yetz, the department's community relations officer, told the Board of Directors of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce Wednesday that taxpayers, business people and other organizations have to make a decision about priorities. The police budget request was for $1 million. The mayor reviewed it and recommended $963,600. Yetz called for the support of the chamber in getting the council to re-evaluate the budget. Chief Herman Fritz told the council the department could get by with the proposed budget "but we as policemen don't feel we can," Yetz said.

He detailed a few of the items that will have to be cut if the budget remains status quo. He said instead of replacing six cruisers, only three will be replaced; two new positions will be eliminated; training programs will be dropped along with oxygen units for the cruisers and sufficient ammunition for guns. Yetz said he had been working getting donations of furniture and volunteers to man a police office for $1 million. The mayor reviewed it and recommended $963,600. Fishing derby set Saturday

Vernon

The 15th annual Children's Fishing Derby, sponsored by the Vernon Recreation Department, is scheduled Saturday at Valley Falls Park from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Donald Berger, director of recreation, said the department will stock the pond with about 400 trout ranging in size from 10 to 14 inches. He said about a dozen "whoppers," weighing almost two pounds will be stocked. The pond which will be closed to all fishing until the derby starts.

The derby is open to all Vernon boys and girls up to 15 years of age.

They must fish from the shore and use live bait or lures. Fishing with flies is not permitted for safety reasons. Parents may assist the younger children in baiting the hook but may not assist in landing the fish. There will be a special grand prize for the largest fish caught. The grand prize is the John M. Gessay Award, given in memory of Gessay, who owned a sporting goods store and was sponsor of the event for many years. There will be five age groups for boys with a first and second prize for each. The categories will be those six and younger, 7 and 8; 9 and 10; 11 and 12; and 13 to 15.

Hospital merger decision will consider the service

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The decision on whether Rockville General Hospital will merge its pediatrics and obstetrics departments with Manchester Memorial Hospital will be made on consideration of quality and availability, Robert Boardman, Rockville Hospital's administrator, told the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce Wednesday. Officials of both hospitals are discussing the proposal made by the Commission on Hospitals and Health Care. Boardman said there was a plan to bring in outside consultants but Rockville officials objected. The talks are going on without consultants, he said.

The commission had been pushing for legislation which would give it the power to order such moves rather than just suggest or recommend. Boardman said this issue is now dead. "The commission lost some of its powers rather than gaining some," he said. Boardman said Rockville officials fear if pediatrics and obstetrics are moved from Rockville it will kill the town's ability to attract new doctors. He referred to the state commission's cutting of hospital budgets all over the state. He said about 30 cases, including Rockville's, are still in the courts. He said the way the budget was cut, the commission was telling the hospital to run on previous budgeting. Boardman said hospital costs will continue to go up at a higher rate than general inflation. He said there is no way out. He said services due to new technology will continue to add to hospital care. He said the emergency room care 10 years ago was catch-up catch-can. Now it requires a round-the-clock staff which has added about $200,000 to the budget.

Dems will name Sancho to school board vacancy

South Windsor

It appears Alfred Sancho of Mark Dr. will be the Democratic Town Committee's choice to fill a Board of Education seat vacated by the resignation of Robert Eversole.

The decision will go to the Democratic Town Committee tonight, with nominations still permitted from the floor. Sancho is a former Park and Recreation Commission member and was recently appointed to the Housing Authority. Other candidates appearing in interviews this week include Wayne Gerit, Faith Hnath, Nancy Kerensky, Dolores Lawler, Patricia Sprengmeyer and Jacqueline Smith.

There will be a free-will offering. The choir is composed of 48 selected voices. They annually make a tour of Wisconsin Synod congregations in the Great Lakes States. This year they have extended their tour to include congregations in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, Connecticut and eastern Canada.

School hosts meeting

The Parker Memorial School in Tolland will host an early childhood conference for Northeast Connecticut on May 4.

Mrs. Phyllis Halloran, a primary school educator, will talk about how children's literature can be used as a vehicle for getting to know children. The conference will be sponsored by the Early Childhood Division of the state Department of Education. It is designed for educators in nursery schools through Grade 3 and parents of children of this age group. Registration will be from 3:30 to 4:15 p.m. and coffee will be served. Mrs. Halloran's program will be from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner. From 7:30 to 8:30 there will be concluding remarks and demonstrations.

Few criticize Bolton school budget

A Wednesday night public hearing on Bolton's proposed 1977-78 school budget opened with questions about specific items in the spending plan. It ended two hours later with a round of applause commending the budget.

Several programs were questioned but few were criticized. About a dozen persons spoke at the hearing, which was attended by about 75 townspeople and school officials. The Wednesday night hearing, conducted by the Board of Education, dealt only with the Board of Education budget. Another hearing, scheduled tonight at 8 at the Community Hall, is for discussion of the town government budget. A question by Mrs. Virginia Butterfield touched off a lengthy discussion about a program for teaching college credit courses at Bolton High School.

Mrs. Butterfield asked whether the town could afford such an accelerated program. School Supt. Raymond Allen—and several persons offering comments—said it is wanted by townspeople and costs are minimal.

Questions about staff salaries and the student-to-staff ratio in the school system resulted in a short, heated exchange between Joseph Fleming, high school principal, and Ivi Cannon, Democratic town chairman. Ms. Cannon, asking about the possibility of reducing staff to cut costs, said it was "very distressing" to see high school classes conducted with just a handful of students. She also said there were indications of student lack of interest in the school. Fleming, disagreeing with Ms. Cannon, called her remarks "half-truths" and "damaging." School board members explained their efforts to combat declining enrollment in the schools. Chairman Robert Thornton said a comprehensive study of options within the school system will begin next month.

Other persons questioned the need for as much administrative staff with declining enrollment. Educators responded that the administration is "bare bones" now. In a preliminary presentation to townspeople, Joseph Haloburdo, chairman of the school board's finance committee, explained the school budgeting process. He said the budget proposed for 1977-78 compares well with area towns and results in "competitive" per-student costs.

The proposed school budget is $1,457,291, which is $83,352 more than the 1976-77 appropriation. Educators are saving the increase by $74,497, by using a 1976-77 spending figure of $1,382,856, which includes $8,855 in capital expenditures.

Estimated school revenues are down about $15,000 for 1977-78, meaning the net increase will be more than the appropriation increase. Board of Finance Chairman Jerald Hassett steered Wednesday night discussion away from talk about tax increases, explaining that there are too many variables to guess at the mill rate at this point. Hassett said the tax rate could increase by about 7 to 9 mills. Earlier Wednesday, finance board member Morris Silverstein estimated the increase at 9.31 mills.

Bennet to stage talent show

Bennet Junior High School's second annual talent show and comedy will be presented Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bennet auditorium.

The lighter side:

Pioneering spirit is just dormant

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pioneering spirit in this country is not dead, it is just dormant.

FDA considering prescription sale of saccharin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday it is considering giving permission for saccharin to be sold as a drug, but still intends to ban it in diet soda pop — the sweetener's widest use.

Ambushed at start
Even before the campaign really got going, Manchester High's hopes of an OCHL track title appear out the window.

Bits and pieces
Simsbury High's baseball team, which comes today to Kelley Field to meet Manchester, has opened with two impressive triumphs.

Guidry's confidence boosted

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees decided to give Ron Guidry a crash course in confidence Wednesday night and the slender left-hander responded by carrying the club to its first victory since opening day.

Essian learned proper procedure after homer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jim Essian never hit a major league home run before, so he was uncertain of the proper procedure when he belted the ball against the upper deck railing in right field in the second inning of the Chicago White Sox' 7-3 win over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday.

Red Sox

"I think he was trying for a ground ball," Zisk said of Ferguson Jenkins' pitch. "It was a slider low, and I think he slipped and got it a little in on him and when it came in, I just adjusted a little bit and hit it good."

New England Whalers host Quebec tonight at 7:30 in the WHA playoffs at the Hartford Civic Center.

Manager impressed with Page's hitting

NEW YORK (UPI) — The person least surprised about all this early-season hitting by Oakland A's rookie Mitchell Page is his manager, Jack McKeon.

Monthly pin winners announced at Parkade

Two of 48 bowlers in Saturday's rolloff of monthly winners at the Parkade Lanes will qualify for all-expense trips to Washington, D.C.

Standings are upside down

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National League seems to be turned upside down as defending division champions are in talispins and unlikely teams are dominating the upper echelons.

National league

The World Champion Cincinnati Reds dropped their third straight one-run game Wednesday night to Western Division-leading Houston, 7-6, while the Philadelphia Phillies, who lost 3-1 to Chicago, have yet to win in their worst start since 1969.

Yankees

Guidry entered the game after the Royals had tied it 3-3 on back-to-back doubles by Fred Patek and Frank White.

The Cougars, 4-2, wasted little time in getting on the scoreboard as Rick Nicola singled up the middle scoring Tom Dawson in the first inning. MCC struck for four more runs in the second as Mark McMahon delivered a key two-run homer.

UConn, however, took advantage of two walks, two hit batsmen two hits and an error for six runs and a 6-5 lead after three frames. MCC regained the edge, 7-6, but the young Huskies knotted it in the home half of the fourth on singles by Al Garra and Pat Desorbes.

Craig Wilson went the distance for MCC to notch the win while Steve Cannata, second Husky hurler, took the loss.

Flyers down by 2-0 count

NEW YORK (UPI) - Three days after owning a seemingly insurmountable home-ice advantage in the quarter-final series with Toronto, Philadelphia faces the stark possibility of exiting from the Stanley Cup playoffs in a four-game humiliation.

"We now have our work cut out for us," the Flyers' Gary Dornhoeber said after Toronto defeated Philadelphia, 4-1, Wednesday night, taking a 2-0 lead back to the cozy confines of Maple Leaf Gardens Friday.

Bennet to stage talent show

Bennet Junior High School's second annual talent show and contest will be presented Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bennet auditorium.

The co-mistresses of ceremonies, Lorrie Botteron and Missy Nelson, will introduce the 14 acts made up of students in Grades 7 to 9. The student talent includes several singers, dancers, gymnasts, and instrumentalists.

Highlights of the entertainment program will feature a Spanish cooking lesson by Chef Gary Selinger who promises excellent results despite his gastronomic confusion.

Richard Getchell and his friend, Danny, will present a comedy dialogue. Laura Webb will accompany a group singing a song she composed, and three ninth grade girls will appear as the Andrews Sisters singing and dancing to a World War II musical favorite.

Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place contest winners. The judges are Allan Cone and Ronald Edmondson, school administrators, and Mrs. Corinne Longo and Mrs. Patricia Whitaker, co-presidents of the Bennet P.T.S.O.

Richard Getchell, ventriloquist and seventh grade student at Bennet Junior High School, practices an interview with his friend, Danny, in preparation for a talent show and contest Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Bennet auditorium. (Herald photo by Dunn)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pioneering spirit in this country is not dead, just dormant.

When adversity strikes, the traits of perseverance and sacrifice that carried American frontiersmen over rocks and rills and an occasional treacherous hill still come to the surface. Evidence of the way our hardy heritage lives on may be seen now in the Pacific Northwest where a severe drought is testing the mettle of the citizenry.

It was reported the other day that Oregon Gov. Bob Strub and his wife Pat were setting an example of indomitable will by using the same bath water.

That's the sort of coping with hardship that has made this country great.

"Double-dipping," as the sharing of bath water is called, requires real fortitude. Particularly if one person bathes in the morning and the other at night.

Or if one bathes on Tuesday and the other on Thursday.

Bear in mind that the Strubs are saving not only the water it takes to fill the tub a second time but also the energy it takes to heat the water. Thus their exercise in conservation has relevance for the entire country.

Even now President Carter is making the final decisions on the energy program he will set forth later this month. It has not been revealed whether he will make

FDA considering prescription sale of saccharin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration is considering giving permission for saccharin to be sold as a drug, but still intends to ban it in diet soda pop — the sweetener's widest use.

The agency said FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy would reveal details of the saccharin ban at a Thursday news conference.

Allowing saccharin to be sold as a drug, either prescription or non-prescription, would affect less than one quarter of the amount used. The agency indicated it has no intention of going back on its plan to ban food uses of the last remaining approved artificial sweetener.

"The biggest use for saccharin — about 75 per cent — is in diet soft drinks. It is also used in diet foods, drugs and cosmetics. Only a fraction actually winds up as a table top sweetener."

Most of the complaints which have poured into the FDA since it proposed banning the sweetener last month have come from consumers who want it allowed in food.

If FDA declares saccharin a non-prescription drug, it would be treated like aspirin. It could be sold wherever such drugs are sold, but subject to FDA controls over labeling. Certain advertising restrictions also could be established. When Canada banned saccharin in foods, it permitted it as an over-the-counter drug.

Another option, apparently less likely, is for FDA to make saccharin a prescription drug. If that happens, consumers wanting a bottle for the dinner table would have to get a doctor's prescription and have it filled by a pharmacist.

The FDA proposed a saccharin ban after tests on rats conducted in Canada indicated it could cause cancer in man.

Relaxation technique will be explained

"Relaxation Technique" will be explained by Donald McConnell, director of Addiction Services, Department of Correction, for the State of Connecticut, at the Educational Community, 645 Birch Mountain Rd., April 17. An open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. with McConnell's presentation at 5 p.m.

McConnell will present an easily learned technique for relaxation credited with increasing energy, relieving headaches, high blood pressure, backaches and other tension related discomforts.

McConnell, of Somers, has trained over 1,000 persons in relaxation. He is a member of the American Psychological Association and has run workshops throughout the Northeast. A former Roman Catholic priest in Latin America, McConnell, is a doctoral candidate in Education Policy Studies, at the University of Wisconsin, in Madison, Wis., and has received a counseling certificate from Seton Hall University, South Orange, N.J., and received his certificate as a behavior modification trainer, from the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute, in Princeton, N.J.

The Educational Community is an adult educational center offering courses in skills of living presented by a faculty of professionals with experience in social skills, health communication, education, community resources, and related fields.

Point of no return Thoughts aPLENTy

Ambushed at start

Even before the campaign really got going, Manchester High's hopes of a CCLC track title appear out the window. Coach Dick Williams cited his own team, Windham and East Hartford High as pre-season picks. The latter pair met Tuesday with the Hornets victorious, 81-64.

Somebody, however, forgot to tell Simsbury High it didn't figure in the picture as the Trojans routed the locals, 90-55, to throw a damper on any title dreams.

What did the Silk Towners in, were the seven field events. After the 100 running events Manchester held a slim 42-40 edge. But in the javelin shot put, etc., the Trojans secured 50 points while the Indians could muster only 13. That right there, tells the whole story.

Maybe Simsbury was overly potent in the field events but if it wasn't, then Manchester is in deep trouble. Jack Wilson has all but one or two players back from last year's 6-2 team. That contingent would've done considerably better if two pitchers hadn't moved. One wound up in Arizona and pitched his team to a Class AA semifinals while the other landed in California where his team made the state A finals. One is reportedly headed for Arizona State, a collegiate baseball power. Maybe Wilson's luck will be better in 1977.

Manchester High basketball standout John Fisch will be honored tonight at Fiano's Restaurant with Manchester UNICO's Brian Piccolo Award. Second meeting of the Manchester High Athletic Boosters Club is slated Wednesday night, April 20, at 7:30 at Manchester Country Club. All interested parties are invited to attend. Among the items on the agenda are plans to set up committees, including membership — which will try to get people interested in the club.

Bits and pieces

Simsbury High's baseball team, which comes today to Kelley Field to meet Manchester, has opened with two impressive triumphs. Coach Jack Wilson has all but one or two players back from last year's 6-2 team. That contingent would've done considerably better if two pitchers hadn't moved. Standings are upside down

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National League seems to be turned upside down as defending division champions are in tailspins and unlikely teams are dominating the upper echelons.

The World Champion Cincinnati Reds dropped their third straight one-run game Wednesday night to Western Division-leading Houston, 7, 6, while the Philadelphia Phillies, who lost 3-1 to Chicago, have yet to win in their worst start since 1969. The Reds blew a six-run lead in Houston and eventually lost to them in the bottom of the ninth on Willie Crawford's third single of the game. Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, the Phillies managed just one unearned run against Ray Burris and Bruce Sutter.

"We're not down," insisted Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson. "Let's add everything up in October and see what happens. I didn't know that seven games makes a season."

The Phillies have dropped their first four games at home and must play 18 of their next 21 games on the road.

Wednesday night they couldn't reach right-hander Burris, who yielded only three hits in seven scoring innings to earn his first victory.

The optimistic sign for Philadelphia was a strong outing by rookie pitcher Randy Lerch, making his first major league start. He was locked in a scoreless duel with Burris until veteran catcher George Mitterwald led off the seventh with a solo homer that just cleared the left field fence. The Cubs clinched its two out later when Ivan DeJesus beat out an infield grounder and scored on Jose Cardenal's double. Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis clubbed New York, 7-3. Pittsburgh blanked Montreal, 3-0. San Francisco dumped San Diego, 3-1, and Los Angeles strung Atlanta, 6-3.

National league

Cardinals 7, Mets 3

Ted Simmons and Keith Hernandez each hit two-run homers for St. Louis, more than offsetting Joe Torre's homer for New York. Hernandez' third home run of the season made John Denny 2-0, with relief help from Clay Carroll.

Pirates 3, Expos 0

Pittsburgh notched its second victory of the season, thanks to Bruce Kison's dandy two-hitter. After yielding a single to Cash leading off the game, Kison allowed only two base runners the rest of the way — Ellis Valentine walked and Gary Carter singled.

Giants 3, Padres 1

John Montefusco, 1-1, hurled a three-hitter and struck out eight, while Bill Madlock slugged a solo homer as San Francisco halted San Diego's three-game winning streak.

Reds 3, Braves 3

Rick Monday hit his first homer, as a Dodger, in the eighth to carry Los Angeles over Atlanta. Solo homers by Pat Corroy for the Braves and Ron Cey for the Dodgers had tied the game 3-3 in the sixth.

Crowd expected

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Despite a losing record in the baseball season's first week, the California Angels are expected to draw a record home opener crowd Friday night against Seattle — more than 40,000.

Guidry's confidence boosted

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees decided to give Ron Guidry a crash course in confidence Wednesday night and the slender left-hander responded by carrying the club to its first victory since opening day.

Guidry, a 26-year-old who has played for six teams during his six year stay in the New York organization, came on in relief of Ed Figueroa during the seventh inning and proceeded to fire one-hit ball to help the Yankees snap a three-game losing streak with a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Guidry entered the game after the Royals had tied it 3-3 on back-to-back doubles by Fred Palek and Frank White. George Brett greeted Guidry with a single and Hal McLee walked before the slender left-hander struck out John Mayberry to end the inning. The Yankees then scored runs in both the eighth and ninth innings while Guidry was setting the Royals

Essian learned proper procedure after homer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jim Essian never hit a major league home run before, so he was uncertain of the proper procedure when he belted the ball against the upper deck railing in right field in the second inning of the Chicago White Sox' 7-3 win over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday.

"First I started running," Essian said. "Then I saw it was going out so I slowed down to a trot."

Essian, playing in his 101st major league game, hardly touched the dirt between third base and home plate. "I remembered to tip my cap when I got to the dugout," he said. "I tipped it to the fans then."

Earlier, he said, Ralph Garr met him at home plate and "he bowed and tipped his cap. So I remembered to tip mine. The bench was as happy as I was. They didn't give me any silent treatment."

Essian's homer was the first run of the game. Richie Zisk iced the decision for the White Sox with his second homer of the season in the seventh inning after singles by Essian and Ralph Garr.

"I think he was trying for a grand slam," Zisk said of Ferguson Jenkins' pick. "It was a slider low, and I think he slipped and got it a little in. I'd been trying to get it in on him and when it came in, I just added a little bit and hit it good. It could just as well have been a liner right at somebody, an outfielder or the shortstop. I got it just right."

Jenkins wouldn't concede that the pick got away from him. "It was a low slider," he said. "We've been losing because of mistakes. The first homer didn't mean anything, because we should have come back. But that Zisk really cranked one."

Sports briefs

New England Whalers host Quebec tonight at 7:30 in the WHA playoffs at the Hartford Civic Center. Tampa Bay Buccaneers have signed hometown favorite Gary Huff and released former Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier. George Allen of the Whalers has been named WHA Rookie-of-the-Year by the Hockey News. NBA referees are still picketing the game. The latest last night in Maryland. Unseeded Adriano Panatta of Italy ousted top-seeded Jimmy Connors in WCT tournament in Houston. His Nastase easily won his match against Bill Martin. Barry Ashbee, assistant coach and veteran defenseman with Philadelphia in the NHL, has "a form of leukemia." His playing career ended in 1974 after he was struck in the eye by a puck. Washington defeated Cleveland last night in the NBA playoff, 109-100. Los Angeles coach Bill Fitch blasted Richie Powers, one of two regular referees not on strike, as the cause of the defeat. "The other guy was better," Fitch told Powers. The other guy was a hastily recruited non-league referee, Roger McCann. Tom Watson, winner of the Masters, has been labeled the "Man in the Tournament of Champions" starting today in LaCosta, Calif. "Transsexual" tennis player Renee Richards must take a second sex test before endorsement by the U.S. Tennis Association to participate in future events.

Manager impressed with Page's hitting

NEW YORK (UPI) — The person least surprised about all this early-season hitting by Oakland's rookie Mitchell Page is his manager, Jack McKeon.

The first-year Oakland skipper saw Page play last year in the International League, where McKeon managed the Richmond club, and Page was the reason the 23-year-old rookie now is playing for the A's.

Page drove in six runs with his first two major league home runs, plus a double Wednesday, to span the inning to a 9-3 victory over the California Angels. Page now has 12 hits in 24 at bats, two homers and 10 RBIs. His most productive game came the day after he was given an $11,000 raise to $30,000 a year by Oakland owner Charlie Finley.

"It's like a fairy tale," Page said. "I hadn't come over here I would be in Columbus (Ohio) tonight, opening with Charleston (where he played last year)." Page hit the third to put the A's in front, 3-1, and added a solo blast in the seventh. His two-run double in the ninth triggered a final three-run rally for Oakland. Dick Allen, Rob Piccolo and Jerry Tschall each had an RBI each, while Rick Langford pitched 2-3 innings to gain his first major league victory.

Monthly pin winners announced at Parkade

Two of 48 bowlers in Saturday's rolloff of the monthly winners at the Parkade Lanes will qualify for all-expense trips to Washington, D.C.

down in order to hand Kansas City its first loss in five games this year.

"We've had a good spring at all. Tonight was the right situation for me. It's important that we have him all year with his confidence."

"When you pitch against these guys and beat them, you know you've beaten a good team," Guidry said. The Royals collected five doubles and nine hits against Figueroa before Guidry took the mound. He finished with three strike outs — sending Amos Otis back to the bench in the eighth inning and ending the game by fanning White.

"We didn't think the kid would have that much poise," said Mayberry. "He was throwing some smoke out there."

Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph each picked up three hits for the Yankees and Bucky Dent, the No. 9 batter in the powerful New York order, drove in two runs. Dent sent home the winning run in the eighth with a double off the left field wall that enabled Rivers to score from first base.
