Utilities will fight coal

HARTFORD (UPI)—Connecticut utilities found their first taste of President Carter's stern energy conservation plan a little hard to swallow. "We're going to fight this," vowed Northeast Utilities and United Illuminated to convert several of their oil-burning electric plants to coal-burning operations. A Northeast spokesman confirmed receipt of the FEA's "letter of intent." A United Illuminated spokesman said his company had not yet received the FEA demand, but expected it shortly.

The FEA order came only days after Carter unveiled his controversial energy plan which calls for more reliance on coal and less dependence on oil and natural gas.

FOR MANCHESTER CUSTOMERS

The home phone that thinks it's a secretary is here!

TOTALPHONE! The incredible new computerized phone service that acts as your personal home secretary, works for only about 13¢ a day (24 hours a day, every day) and never takes a coffee break!

Five Extraordinary Totalphone Features:

- Call Forwarding Totalphone gives you added security for your home by letting you answer your phone even when you're not there. A simple code allows you to transfer incoming calls to another number any time you want to. So when you're away for a long vacation or just an evening, you can forward calls to where you're going and answer yourself, or transfer calls to a friend or neighbor's phone.
- Call Waiting When you're already on the phone and someone else is trying to reach you, Totalphone sounds two beeps. By putting the first call on "hold" you can answer the second. So the kids can talk and Dad won't worry about missing the important call he expects.
- Speed Calling With Totalphone, Mom in California who was eleven times around the dial array is suddenly only a beep and a boop away! Totalphone codes your frequently called local or long distance and emergency numbers so you can reach them as fast as you can push two buttons!
- Three-way Calling Totalphone lets you add a third party to your two-way conversation whenever you want to! So when you're talking with your sister across town, you can add Mom in New York and all talk together (without operator assistance)!
- Touch-Tone Phones Totalphone service replaces dial phones with modern Touch-Tone® (push-button) phones. Touch-Tone is faster and more accurate than dialing. It's more fun, too, because each button plays a melodic note! Wall or desk Touch-Tone Totalphone gives you many decorator colors to choose from at no extra charge!

Opinion

Hope for homeowners?

Each year, the average price of a new or existing house creeps higher by a few thousand dollars, placing homeownership beyond the reach of more and more Americans, particularly young couples just starting out.

No end to housing inflation is in sight, and nobody seems to have any good ideas on how to stop it or even slow it down. But if you can't lick inflation, there are ways of working around it, and housing and banking industry people, as well as government officials, are coming up with a number of ideas aimed at giving would-be homeowners at least a toehold in the housing market.

One "alternative mortgage" plan being talked about by financial institution loan officers would let homebuyers pay only the interest on their mortgage for the first five years of a loan to keep monthly payments as low as possible in the beginning. Payments would jump in the fifth year, but in the meantime the family's income would presumably also have increased.

A similar plan, which is already being experimented with by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, allows homebuyers to start payments on FHA

No love of violence

With a friend like Ramsey Clark, the opponents of capital punishment don't need any enemies.

The former U.S. attorney general and candidate for U.S. senator from New York last year was one of several prominent persons who spoke at a rally in Atlanta the other day, where about 3,000 protest marchers from around the country called for abolition of the death penalty.

For too long, said Clark, Americans have glorified power and violence. It's time we begin revering life as an end in itself and practiced the old Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

It happens, of course, that only one man has been executed in the United States in the past 10 years and the only glorification involved in that sad episode was the news

Candidates not all alike

Dear Editor:
The Bolton Democratic candidates are circulating an open letter to the voters in which it states, "Yet at this critical time Bolton townpeople have become distrustful of their elected officials, particularly the Board of Selectmen." This attempt to cast a shadow over ALL elected officials. As a present member of the Board of Finance and the Zoning Board of Appeals, who is up for reelection to both offices, I wish to take exception to this irresponsible statement.

If the so-called "distrust" is directed at the selectmen, then so specifically charge them. If it is directed at some of us other officials, who are also elected, then so charge us. But just because there is thought to be distrust in one segment of elected government, that is no reason to imply distrust to the rest of us. This rationalization is wanting, reckless and without foundation.

As a singularly elected official in two separate and distinct offices, I stand by myself and should be viewed accordingly. I will not tolerate any attempt to discredit me by innuendo or implication.

I defy anyone to demonstrate where I have violated the faith, trust and confidence the majority of voters have placed in me. My approach is to treat everyone as fair, square, and as equal as possible; to decide every consideration on its merits as it is presented, to be honest and truthful, and not to represent or favor any special interest group. To be sure, there have been disagreements, but "disagreement" is not synonymous with "distrust."

I have indeed kept faith with the people of Bolton and will continue to uphold their trust and confidence in the future. This empty, baseless accusation will not go unchallenged insofar as my candidates are concerned.

Elsewhere in the above-mentioned Democratic letter, it was stated that the "tax rate has been moving rapidly upward." I oppose these tax increases and waged vigorous battles against them. It was my position that these increases were unnecessary and that we should have had literally

The registrars office has announced that the annual canvass of residences in the Town of Manchester will begin on Monday, May 9.

About 25 persons, under the supervision of the registrars office, will call on local homes to verify the voter registration of the occupants.

Budget has $150,000 for overtime salary

The Town of Manchester's proposed 1977-78 budget includes more than $150,000 in overtime salaries for town employees.

The overtime expense is based on estimates made by town department heads, Controller Thomas S. Moore said.

About half of the overtime cost — $71,826 — is budgeted for employees of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees — Local 991, which represents Public Works Department workers. A large amount of the town's overtime snow removal, would be included in this budget.

Another $51,049 is budgeted for overtime expenses for the Town Fire Department and $29,777 has been proposed to pay overtime costs for the Police Department.

Other estimated overtime expenses for the upcoming year include: Mid-management workers, $14,900; library employees (for proposed Sunday openings) $4,000; unaffiliated workers, $2,957; and the Municipal Employees Group, Inc. (MEG), $2,425.

Moore said that the estimates made by the department heads are based on past years expenses for overtime.

"They base it on their experience with snow removal and other overtime activities," he said.

Barry will work hard for bottle bill passage

Sen. David Barry (D-4th) has announced that he will vote for the Bottle Bill when it reaches the floor of the Senate and will work actively for its passage.

Barry is one of 19 senators who signed a petition to bring the bill out of committee for floor action. The bill passed the House last week, and Barry feels it will pass in the Senate.

"I expect a close vote, but I think it will carry by a narrow margin," he said.

Barry said that the proposal was supported by 72 per cent of the persons who responded in his recent "Shoe-Box Survey."

"I don't see this bill as a cure-all for litter or for solving the energy problem. However, I do see it as a positive step toward conserving our natural resources," he said.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Members of Brotherhood in Action really outdid themselves Sunday when B'nai B'rith honored Town Manager Robert H. Weiss.

Mark Kravitz, owner of The Colony, where the breakfast was held, gave a quick check to see that all was in order before the festivities began.

Also spotted Mary LeDuc and Marge Zikus, Tod LaBonne, and Matt Moriarty Sr.

Tom Ferguson was there with his wife, Vivian, who was one of the speakers. She wore an attractive blue suede dress. Also spotted St. Roman.

Ruth Willey and Charles Taylor shared a table, and Russ McClelland was on hand representing the Manchester Lodge of Masons.

Floyd Larson (of The Herald staff) and his wife, Barbara, started their vacation right by attending the BIA breakfast.

It was a nice morning despite the inclement weather and was especially heartwarming to see townspeople turn out to honor a hardworking resident.

Bullheads anyone?
Well, I did it again. I just happened to mention to a friend that I liked bullhead chowder.

You guessed it. Early Sunday afternoon, he arrived armed with a milk bucket filled with frisky, home-brewed chowder.

Well, he cleaned them (thank heavens), and while I didn't make a chowder, I did fry several of them in cornmeal and they were delicious.

The chowder is yet to come.

Funny, how such awful looking fish can have such sweet meat.

To be truthful, I've never made the chowder. I've only eaten it prepared by a family friend in Newport, Maine.

I have located a recipe for New England Fish Chowder so will give it a try during the week.

Speaking of recipes, chatted briefly with Jay Reed of Stationers in the Manchester Parkade at the BIA breakfast.

Sometime ago, I had featured a cookbook called "In The Beginning" — a collection of hors d'oeuvres in "Your Neighbor's Kitchen." Jay said he had acquired some copies and they had sold quite well.

"In The Beginning" was compiled by members of Rockdale Temple Sisterhood in Cincinnati, Ohio and I reviewed it in the cooking column.

Mother's Day
Adam and Eve had no mothers. Julius Caesar, Johnny Carson, Joan of Arc, Audrey Hepburn and Napoleon Bonaparte did. Yet not too many of us know anything about the mothers of celebrities.

Napoleon's mother, for instance, was Laetitia Ramolino, a lady of strong character and great beauty married to a lawyer Charles Bonaparte. Rembrandt, the renowned Dutch painter who was born in 1601, often used his mother Cornelia as a model.

Another artist, Michelangelo, was given by his mother Francesca into the nursing care of a marble worker's wife. This strongly influenced his ultimate career as a master sculptor.

Audrey Hepburn's mother was the Baroness Ella van Heemstra. Julie Andrews is the daughter of Barbara and Ted Wells, who had a vaudeville act in England.

"Tonight" show host Johnny Carson was born in Corning, Iowa and raised in Norfolk, Neb. His mother's maiden name was Ruth Hook.

And movie stars Shirley MacLaine and Warren Beatty are both offspring of Mrs. Kathryn Beatty (one 't'), nee MacLean of Richmond, Va.

Joan of Arc's mother, Isabelle de Vouthon, was a farmer's daughter and a devout Catholic.

And who, finally, was the mother of Alex Haley, the bestselling author who has had all American reading, watching and learning about "Roots?" Haley was born in Ithaca, N.Y., and his mother was Bertha George Haley, nee Palmer.

Perhaps Abe Lincoln summed it up the best when he said, "God bless my mother; all that I am or ever hope to be I owe to her."

Cancer Dance

Music for dancing will be provided by Manchester's own Johnny Prytko Orchestra. Tickets are available through the American Cancer Society, 643-2168.

Decide now on sewers, town tells 8th District

The Manchester Board of Directors, at the request of Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, has asked that in areas where the town is seeking to install sewers, the town should receive notification from the Eighth District at a May 3 meeting.

"I'm proposing that the Eighth District make a decision right now," Weiss said. "If they want to expand their area and provide sewer service in that area, then let them do it right now. If they don't, and the town installs the sewer, the district should waive any future interest in the sewer," he said.

"If we're going to go in there and make a heavy investment, we should know we're going to service that area," Weiss said.

Along with the Concord Rd. proposal, Michael Massaro, president of the district, has sent a letter to Weiss requesting that another recently approved sewer installation, along New State Rd. for the Sunnyside apartments, be sent to the district for approval.

Massaro said that he felt Weiss' request is a "fair" one.

Members of the board also backed the Weiss proposal.

Mayor Matthew Moriarty called it, "A reasonable request."

He also said that if the district does not decide on May 2 about the Concord Rd. project, the town may discontinue planning work on the project.

GOP against full-time counsel

Manchester's Republican party has announced its opposition to the proposed concept of a full-time town counsel. Such a position would be "a creature of the general manager," the party statement, released today by Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson, said.

"The Republican party of Manchester objects strongly to the changes in the structure of the town council's office," the statement said.

The 1977-78 proposed budget includes a full-time permanent town counsel position and two part-time assistants. Traditionally, the town committee's position has been a political appointment by the party that has a majority on the Board of Directors.

"Republicans feel that a full-time counsel as proposed in this year's budget would quickly become a creature of the general manager, no matter who (the manager) might be," the party said.

"This is one more action which makes the public more remote from the control of its own business."

The statement said that the three party members will vote against the full-time town counsel and requested that the six Democratic directors immediately after the incident at the apartments where both men live.

Police Chief Robert D. Lannan said today doctors at the hospital indicate Sheehan's condition is somewhat improved, but still critical.

Police released further details of the incident today, which is under investigation by the detective bureau.

Patrolman Gary Benson answered the call of a disturbance at the Centennial Apartments about 4:45 a.m. Sunday. He heard gun shots and saw the two men coming out of a first floor apartment onto a porch, as he approached the building.

One man, later identified as Hart, had a small revolver in his hand, and the other, identified as Sheehan, appeared injured, according to the officer's report. Benson ordered Hart to drop the gun, which he did, and immediately handcuffed him. He then went to the aid of the Sheehan, police said. Other officers arrived on the scene to administer first aid until the ambulance arrived. Sgt. John Mott took charge of the immediate investigation.

According to the police reports, Sheehan had made continuous attempts to enter Hart's apartment by banging on the front and rear doors. He was refused entry. He broke a window in the rear door and unlocked it and entered the apartment, police said. According to the reports, Sheehan had a black jack in his hand with which he allegedly struck Hart's dog before he approached Hart and Sheehan. Sheehan was attempting to enter Hart's apartment to see Ms. Rodens, police said. She told police Hart fired one shot in the air to warn him before allegedly shooting Sheehan.

Sheehan received three bullet wounds, all of which completely went through his body in the chest and abdomen, police said.

Appropriate locations for such projects, lot and building requirements, site development, provisions for recreation and community activity, accessory requirements and approval procedures.

Lannan told the commission that there are no state guidelines to follow for developing an elderly housing project. He said he has copies of elderly housing regulations used in South Windsor and West Hartford. He said South Windsor has a special exception section in its town planning regulations for elderly housing.

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Woodruff Hall at Center Congregational Church for a public hearing on the development plan for the Lenti property on Gardner St.

The Planning and Zoning Commission denied two requests Monday night for sidewalk waivers.

One was a request from Multi-Circuits for a waiver of sidewalks and curbs for a parking lot development on Harrison St. The other was a request from Hockstam Valley Associates who sought a waiver of sidewalks and curbs for making an improper turn. He was involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Rt. 5 and Rt. 30.

Police said Royce attempted to make a left U-turn from the south to the northbound lane of Rt. 5 and cut in front of a car driven by John Carlson, 30, of Scenic Meadow Rd., South Windsor. Both cars had to be towed. Minor injuries were reported. Royce has an answer date of May 5 in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, May 5.

Vernon Police arrested 14 persons Monday for exceeding the speed limit. Radar units were operating on West Main St. and Rt. 63.

South Windsor Gay Royce, 17, of Windsor, was charged Monday with making an improper turn. He was involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Rt. 5 and Rt. 30.

Bonds ruled out in buying land for new firehouse

The Town of Manchester cannot purchase property for a new firehouse by bond issue, the town's bond counsel has ruled. Thus, Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has recommended that the Board of Directors appropriate $38,500 in Fire District surplus and unappropriated funds to purchase land for a new firehouse in the South End.

Hartford's law firm of Uplike, Kelly & Spellacy, which acts as the town's bond counsel, has said that the single expense for the purchase of land for a proposed firehouse cannot be paid by a bond issue. If the expense for land purchase is included in the total cost of building the firehouse, it can be part of that bond issue.

Weiss had proposed in his 1977-78 budget to bond just for the purchase of a parcel of land at the intersection of S. Main St. and I-94. Because of the bond counsel's ruling, Weiss Monday night told the Board of Directors that he will propose that the land be purchased with surplus and unappropriated funds in the Fire District budget.

The sale price of the land has been set at $38,500.

The proposed transfer of funds to pay for the land will be a public hearing item at the board's May 10 meeting.

The agreement was that Rooney would be reinstated to the rank of sergeant in the Manchester Police Department. He would receive full back pay. He would also apply for the disability retirement.

Review Treasurer Roger Negro said that the disability request is now being reviewed by Dr. Alice Turek. Such applications "usually take a couple of months to review," he said.

Thus, he does not expect the matter to come before the Pension Board until at least June.

Rooney said this morning, "I'm disappointed to see that this will take at least another month. In essence, the town had promised quick action three months ago."

He said that approval of the application by the town would indicate that a final settlement on the matter is near. He pointed out that he has been out of work since last June.

Brian Rooney seeking pension

Policeman Brian Rooney has filed for disability retirement pension one of the steps in an agreement between the Town of Manchester and Rooney.

Rooney, a 14-year veteran of the town force, was demoted from sergeant to patrolman on Jan. 6, 1976. At the time of the demotion, Police Chief Robert Lannan said that the action was a disciplinary one, but would give no further details on the matter.

A grievance hearing was held concerning the demotion, and Town Manager Robert B. Weiss upheld Lannan's decision. He also said, however, that Rooney should have first chance at any sergeant's vacancy that occurred.

The Connecticut Council of Police Unions then filed a grievance with the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration on behalf of Rooney.

A hearing by the state board was started last November, and a settlement was reached during this step of the procedure.

The agreement was that Rooney would be reinstated to the rank of sergeant in the Manchester Police Department. He would receive full back pay. He would also apply for the disability retirement.

Review Treasurer Roger Negro said that the disability request is now being reviewed by Dr. Alice Turek. Such applications "usually take a couple of months to review," he said.

Striking NBA refs to return

BOSTON (UPI) — The 24 striking NBA referees are back on the job today and the question on many minds is: Will coaches and players love Bob Rakek, Paul Mikaluk and the other officials more now than before the 15-day strike? The answer assuredly will turn out to be "No." You see, officials never have gotten respect and never will get it — unless and until a formula is worked out whereby they can control the game. Presently, basketball games are run two ways: either the aggressive players and coaches dominate the officials or the assertive referees. Richie Powers, dominates the playing of the game. Neither the inmates nor the administrators, however, run the asylum that passes for professional basketball. Officials should control the game while players and coaches, through their team captain alone, should be able to question officials' decisions.

Instead, we wind up with a splitting contest between the players and the referees. The problem was magnified during the just concluded strike. Initially, players and coaches were on their best behavior, trying to aid the substitute referees, most of whom were thrust into NBA games for the first time. But as the playoffs wore on and the games became more important, the replacement referees have the brunt of the players' and coaches' wrath.

Two weeks after crediting the substitutes for fine work under great pressure, Boston coach Tom Heinsohn accused Eastern League official Richard Jackson of wearing a "7ers T-shirt" or even "No. 7 jersey." So when the "regulars" get back to action, the playoffs will settle back into the familiar pattern — some player or coach will claim lopsided officiating aided his team's downfall.

Power, and down the sidelines, scream endlessly, to kick chairs, tip over water buckets and race on the floor to protest calls under the pretense of a 20-second injury timeout to a player. Watch players and coaches continue to challenge judgment calls, judge how they charge the scorer's table to gripe about the time clock. All the above examples are illegal, under NBA rules, and call for technical fouls. However, few of the substitute referees have the whistle on just as infractions and just as few regular officials historical-ly have asserted themselves within the protection of the guidelines. Powers, once considered the best referee in the NBA, has gone the other way. If Heinsohn opens his mouth against the NBA referees, Powers assesses a technical foul.

Long before the strike began, the basketball officiating got out of control. John Nuciatola, supervisor of NBA officials, said he needs a third official to cope with today's bigger and faster players. Heinsohn says the sport would benefit if one of the two existing referees were eliminated. "We have too many whistles now with NBA officials. Nobody loves an official in any sport but then nobody loves a judge either. Basketball officials need to be respected, as judges are and as baseball umpires are. The image of the basketball referee must change so that never again will a Jo Jo White — a very reputable and seldom complaining player — have to say: 'I haven't seen a good ref since I've come into the league.'"

Nets reward Loughery with five-year contract

CARLE PLACE, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Nets didn't make the fall guy. Despite posting the worst record in the National Basketball Association last season (22-60), the Nets rewarded Coach Kevin Loughery Monday with a five-year contract, a source close to the team said. The Nets will receive more than $100,000 per year, an increase of about $35,000 from his current contract. Loughery's new contract, signed in 1973 and his first, will run through the 1978-79 season. While the Nets would not divulge the financial terms of Loughery's new contract, a source close to the team said the Nets' coach will receive more than $100,000 per year, an increase of about $35,000 from his current contract.

The vacancy on the HSA board occurred when the Subarea F's representative resigned several months ago.

All town consumer representatives of Subarea F are asked to be present so that a new consumer representative for the subarea may be selected.

School calendar

Dr. Kennedy also reported that Manchester is expected to receive an additional estimated $110,000 in state school funding next year under the Guaranteed Tax Base formula (GTB). The increase, if voted by the legislature, will bring Manchester's total share to about $305,561. However, the figures are based on 1976 figures, Kennedy stressed, and will be modified by 1977 data, such as school enrollment figures.

Two teachers, with many years of service to the Manchester schools, were granted retirement requests with special recognition of their service. They are Mrs. Virginia O. Cameron, English teacher at Iling Junior High with 22 years service, and Mrs. Arline E. Kenyon, a Grade 3 teacher at Washington School who began her teaching career with in Manchester in 1930 and has taught a total of 44 years.

Mrs. Terry Miller, Grade 1 teacher at Bowers, was granted a leave of absence for one year without pay to pursue graduate studies.

Globe Hollow work begins Monday

Renovation work at Globe Hollow should begin next Monday and be completed by early June, Town Engineer Walter Senkow said today.

Another town project — the construction of a new refreshment stand-restroom facility at Mt. Nebo — should be completed sometime this summer, Jay J. Giles, director of public works, said.

Senkow said that the contractor for Globe Hollow, Black & Warner Construction Co. of Farmington, is scheduled to start Monday. The contractor was low bidder, submitting a price of $20,500 for the work.

The pool is being renovated to improve water circulation in the swimming area. Funding is being provided by Community Development block grant monies.

The pool normally opens Memorial Day weekend. Completion of the work will probably postpone the opening date, and the Board of Directors is also considering not opening the facility until June 15 as a budget-saving step.

The Mt. Nebo work is being done primarily by town forces, although some of the work is being subcontracted, Giles said.

The town, in fact, is now seeking bids for the plumbing work at the facility. The bids will be opened May 16 at 11 a.m.

The entire project had originally been put out to bid but, when the bids came in higher than expected, the town decided to do the work itself.

The project, however, is a secondary one at this time, Giles said. Town crews are concentrating on sidewalk work and work at Mt. Nebo on "fill-in" time, he said.

Work at Mt. Nebo started a couple of weeks ago, and Gil said it is hard to estimate when the job will be complete, although he did expect it to be done sometime this summer.

Where the Votes Are

The North has long cast a majority of the votes in U.S. elections but the South and West are catching up. The Conference Board notes. Only 30 per cent of the votes cast during the 1920s were from the South and West. But by 1972, the difference had narrowed to 35 per cent for the North and 45 per cent for Western and Southern states.
