Love Lane sewer being installed

As the trench for a new sewer line on Love Lane is extended, a bulldozer fills in the dirt to cover the completed work. The project, which includes the installation of about 1,300 feet of sewer line and a pumping station, began about a week ago and, with good weather and soil conditions, will be completed in about a month or less. After the sewer installation is completed, another group of engineers will move into the same area to install a water line, all of which will be a traffic handicap for several weeks. ## Carter standing firm against water projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today told a group of House Democrats there is a big "inflationary difference" in the level of farm price supports and the minimum wage he favors and the amounts advocated in Congress.

Carter also told the group, assembled in the state dining room of the White House, "I think we ought to quit wasting our money on unnecessary water projects."

The President has proposed farm price supports much lower than those sought by farm groups and some members of Congress.

He also has proposed raising the minimum wage from $2.30 an hour to $2.50, while the AFL-CIO is seeking a $3 minimum. A bill pending in the House would put it at $2.85.

Carter told the congressmen there is a "tremendous inflationary difference" between the level of farm supports and the minimum wage he advocates and the amounts espoused on Capitol Hill.

But he said, "I believe we've got a good beginning for White House and congressional relations."

"I'm grateful for your advice ... and criticism. I'm trying to carry out the promises I made during the campaign to you and your constituents."

The President said he has had to address a series of "controversial problems," adding, "It is my hope and expectation that the budget will be balanced by the end of my term."

And, in a reference to the cutbacks he has proposed in federal spending for water and dam projects, he said, "I think we ought to quit wasting money on unnecessary water projects."

Carter also mentioned his new energy program and said "it's difficult to please all the groups."

He then took questions from the congressmen for about an hour in a session closed to reporters.

It was one of a series of meetings Carter plans to hold with congressional leaders to set a timetable for priority legislation before he leaves for London next month.

United States, Cuba sign fishing accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Cuba today announced agreement on fishing rights in waters off the two countries.

The two-part agreement, reached in face-to-face bargaining between U.S. and Cuban officials in New York and Havana, is seen as a significant step toward better relations between the two countries.

Details were not immediately announced, but it covered overlapping fishing territorial waters off the Florida coast and is also expected to allow Cuban boats limited fishing rights elsewhere within the U.S. 200-mile limit.

Assistant Secretary of State Clarence Todman, the Carter administration's top aide for Latin American policy, returned from Cuba today and the announcement was made a short time later.

It was only the second bilateral agreement between the two countries since the United States broke relations with the communist government of Fidel Castro 16 years ago. An anti-hijacking agreement lapsed two weeks ago.

The fisheries negotiations became necessary after both the United States and Cuba approved a 200-mile fishing zone on March 1. Their new maritime boundaries overlap in the 90-mile-wide Florida Straits.

Experts make progress, hope to cap well today

STAVANGER, Norway (UPI) — Oil disaster experts battling a runaway well in the North Sea say they have completed the first stages of repair work and are optimistic the 120-foot-high gusher may be capped today.

"Practically all the preliminary work has been implemented and we can get on with the main job," said Robert Archimbeault, engineering manager for Phillips Petroleum, Norway, at a Wednesday night news conference.

Two Texans from disaster specialist Paul "Red" Adair's Houston company and their daredevil crew "got everything in a state of readiness" Wednesday.

Three more pieces of equipment — already assembled and weighing nearly four tons — need to be put in place "and we will be in a position to close," he said.

Archimbeault said that with luck, the 28,000 barrels of oil spilling into the sea daily could be choked off this morning.

The two Texans, Angser "Boots" Hansen and Richard "Toots" Hatteberg, used sparkless tools to minimize the danger of fire as they worked Wednesday on the Bravo platform in the center of the North Sea, attempting to bolt down a crucial cutoff valve to the spewing pipe.

The repair team was, in effect, trying to put a faucet on the pipe so that it could be turned off. Since the well blew out Friday night it has created an oil slick — now shaped like an artist's palette — that covers 580 square miles of ocean surface.

Norwegian navy officials said the slick, now stretching 45 miles from the Bravo blowout platform, was about 150 miles from the nearest coasts, those of Denmark and Norway. The well in Norway's Ekofisk oil field is almost midway between the Norwegian and British coasts.

Officials said so far damage to wildlife has been minimal.

Archimbeault said the plan for capping the well calls for hydraulic pressure to close two "blind rams" inside a blowout preventer valve, now in position on top of the well's pipe.

"If they close successfully and if they hold, the flow stops then," he said.

In that case a navy-sized flotilla of clean-up vessels would be left to get on with mopping up the oil slick while work on Bravo platform returned to normal.

But if the "blind rams" do not hold, the three-piece assembly would have to be swivelled into position across the jet of oil spewing at a pressure near to 5,000 pounds per square inch. Even this, he indicated, might be done "with good luck."

"I must emphasize that much depends on the people out there."

Boy hurt badly

A young boy is reportedly in critical condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital as the result of injuries received in an accident this forenoon, a hospital spokesman said.

The boy, Scott Hartley, 7, was reportedly run over by a car while he was playing with friends in the vicinity of Hartford Rd. and McKee St.

Cummings hits district, praises work on budget

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Democratic Town Committee Wednesday night heard its chairman give a tongue-lashing to the Eighth Utilities District and the mayor say that budget work will produce an acceptable mill rate and level of services.

Town Chairman Theodore Cummings, who has frequently been at odds with the district, criticized the events surrounding the proposed Baldwin-Concord Rd.-area sewer. The Town Board of Directors has approved $110,000 to begin planning work for the project, but the district has not yet taken a final vote on approval of the project.

Under Special Act 200, the project, because it is north of Middle Tpk., has to be approved by the district residents.

"Just think of that," Cummings said. "We (the town) have to ask them if we want to put a sewer on their property because of some foolish act called Special Act 200. We'll take care of that in the near future, you can bet your life on that," he said.

"We're through subsidizing the district," he added. He said that the project is being paid for with federal Revenue Sharing funds.

"If they don't want it, we'll put it to use where someone will use it and it will be appreciated," Cummings said.

Mayor Matthew Moriarty's comments concentrated on the 1977-78 town budget, which the directors have to complete by the end of next week.

The mayor called the budget process "the most important work the board does all year." This year's budget from Town Manager Robert B. Weiss proposed a 9.43 mill increase in the General Fund tax. The directors have been working for the past two weeks to reduce that figure, as well as the overall proposed $25.5 million budget.

"I can say the mill rate will be an acceptable one to everyone," Moriarty said. "The level of services we will provide will be one we can point to with pride."

Cummings also mentioned that the town Republicans have requested a

Urban Democrats face test in their budget challenge

HARTFORD (UPI) — Urban Democratic and some Republican lawmakers, apparently willing to dare Gov. Ella T. Grasso to veto the budget, today faced their first test of strength against the spending plan offered by legislative leaders.

The legislature's budget-making Appropriations Committee was scheduled to vote on the $1.91 billion document submitted by the Democratic leadership which calls for a 10 per cent increase in welfare payments. The size of the welfare increase is the stumbling block, with big city Democrats and some Republicans pushing for a 20 per cent boost.

Leaders of that coalition said Wednesday they didn't think they had the votes to win their point in the committee but at the meeting, which was expected to last into the afternoon, opened today they were more optimistic.

"I think we may," said Rep. John Mannix, R-Wilton, who Wednesday had said he didn't think the votes were there.

However, the first actual test could come on whether to vote on the budget today with the coalition of dissident Democrats and the Republican minority expected to try and force a postponement on the vote until Saturday.

Rep. Christopher Shays, R-Stamford, the ranking GOP member on the committee, said he would vote to put off the vote because he and members of his coalition had not been given complete copies of the proposed budget by the leadership until Wednesday night.

Mrs. Grasso, who first recommended a five per cent welfare hike, said Wednesday she would veto

Today's news summary

Compiled by United Press International

State

HARTFORD (UPI) — About 100 nursing homes have written the Connecticut Department of Social Services to question or complain about the new state rates for welfare patients. Social Services Commissioner Edward W. Maher said Wednesday the homes have requested hearings on their new rates, raised questions about the formula used to arrive at the rates and insisted mistakes must have been made.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Each of Connecticut's more than 80 FBI agents has contributed to a nationwide defense fund for former agent John J. Kearney of Simsbury, an FBI spokesman said Wednesday.

Kearney, 55, a former FBI supervisor in the bureau's New York City office, has been indicted for alleged illegal mail opening, wiretapping and conspiracy in connection with surveillance activities against the Weathermen.

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — The University of Bridgeport Student Council has voted unanimously to oppose the proposed transfer of WPKN-FM, the student-operated radio station on campus. University officials announced plans Monday to ask the Federal Communications Commission to approve the full or partial transfer of the station's license to Public Radio for Southern Connecticut.

National

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will conduct a series of meetings with congressional leaders to set a timetable for priority legislation before he leaves next week for the "Downing Street Summit" in London. The President plans to unveil his welfare reform program, a top priority campaign promise, early next week.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's intelligence agencies are prepared — at President Carter's prodding — to say how much they cost taxpayers each year, but CIA Director Stansfield Turner and two predecessors don't think much of the idea. For one thing, they said Wednesday, it's never been done before. And, for another, it might help enemy agents get a fix on U.S. spy efforts.

International

PARIS (UPI) — Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong said today he is "optimistic" that the coming talks with the United States in Paris will begin a new era in their two countries' relationship. Dong's aides later told UPI that Hanoi will demand in the talks, opening next Tuesday, that the Carter administration abide by the Nixon administration's pledge to grant Vietnam $3.5 billion in reconstruction aid — a promise put into cold storage after North Vietnam's invasion of the South in 1975.

Gospel concert planned

The Davis Family Singers of Salisbury, Md., will present a concert of gospel music Friday at 8 p.m. at Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Tpk. The concert, which is open to the public, is being sponsored by the Maranatha Christian Youth Fellowship and will be presented by the church. After the program, refreshments will be served by the Maranatha staff in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Bob and Ruth Davis organized this family ministry in 1967. Bob manages the group and sings bass. His wife sings alto and shares the responsibilities of the group with her husband. Linette, and daughter, is the lead singer, and her husband, Jonathan Willey, plays the bass guitar and preaches at youth rallies and evangelistic crusades. Brenda Clark, sings tenor and plays the piano.

Flu clinic volunteers to be feted

The Manchester Health Department has invited all persons who volunteered their services for the townwide flu clinic last fall to an appreciation dinner Wednesday, May 11, at 6 p.m. at the Army-Navy Club. Those planning to attend are asked to call in their acceptance by 4:30 p.m. on Monday to Terry Morrow, 648-5281, extension 211.

Police report

David L. Wetherell, 18, of 79 Cushman Dr., was arrested on a charge of third-degree assault Tuesday night. The arrest was in connection with a fight in which another youth was injured. David J. Harley, no age available, of 335 Lydall St., was found in a semi-conscious condition by police after being called to the parking lot of the 7-11 store on Green Rd. about 7:45 p.m. Harley was transported to Manchester Memorial Hospital and then to St. Francis Hospital in Hartford, where he was treated and discharged. Police said two other youths were with Harley in a car which had been followed into the parking lot by the car allegedly driven by Wetherell, and a light ceased. Police said Harley was kicked in the head and fell to the ground. Wetherell reportedly left the scene and was arrested later. Wetherell was released on a promise to appear in court May 9.

Police report

George A. Miller, 31, of 611 Rachel Rd., was arrested Wednesday on charge of attempting to obtain a controlled substance by fraud or deceit. He was arrested at the Shop-Rite Pharmacy on Spencer St. He was later released on a $1,000 nonsurety bond for court appearance May 9.

Walter H. Smith, 40, of Granby, was charged on a warrant Wednesday with issuing a bad check. He was released on a nonsurety bond for court May 18.

Bradford B. Driggs, 25, of 54 N. School St., was arrested early today on a charge of disorderly conduct after he was observed allegedly looking into apartments on Tudor Lane. He was released on a nonsurety bond for court appearance May 9.

Bay State keeps Sunday closings

BOSTON (UPI) — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis says he is "extremely disappointed" a legislative committee has acted unfavorably on bills repealing Massachusetts' Sunday closing laws. The bills automatically received adverse reports Wednesday when the deadline under legislative rules for reporting out bills passed without a favorable vote on the measure. "I am extremely disappointed that the Commerce and Labor Committee has chosen to give an adverse report to all bills which would repeal or revise the Sunday Blue Laws," Dukakis said.

Violence yields

Political activity could be a "pressure valve" to reduce gang warfare in urban ghettos, says a University of Wisconsin sociologist.
According to Prof. Howard S. Erlanger, who studied gang violence in East Los Angeles in the late 1960s and early 1970s, gang fights decreased as political activity among the gangs increased. Conversely, violence mounted when political activity declined.
As examples of political activity, he cites gang member participation in such things as walkouts from the city's schools to protest discrimina-

Firm 'Roots'

When something stirs the hearts and minds of people as much as did the now-famous television series, "Roots," there is bound to be reaction. Most of it has centered on the question of the historical accuracy of the book by Alex Haley, on which the series was based, and some of it has even been international.
The London Sunday Times, for instance, has thrown doubt on Haley's discovery that he was descended from a young African named Kunta Kinte, who was kidnapped by slave traders in the 18th century. Other critics have pointed out that the story ignores the important role played by black Africans themselves in the slave trade.
Still others, while they take pains to condemn slavery as an evil institution, argue that it really wasn't all that bad, you know. It was to the economic self-interest of slaveowners to treat their slaves humanely.
All of which criticism would seem to be quite beside the point.
Alex Haley is not Swiss-German or Scotch-Irish. He is not Chinese. His roots obviously are African, and since there is no record of Africans ever having hijacked passing ships to take them to America, it is also obvious that someone along the line one of his ancestors was forcibly brought to this country.

As for the claim that slavery was not oppressive as we have always thought it was, those who make the claim have the burden of explaining why it was necessary to have a Fugitive Slave Law, why such a thing as the Underground Railroad existed, why there was an abolition movement — why, indeed, the nation nearly tore itself asunder over slavery.
In short, it is difficult to figure out just what the critics are getting at. If "Roots" is not absolutely verifiable in every detail, it in no way offends essential historical truth. If it does not tell the whole story of the black experience in America, Haley never pretended that it did.
As for other criticisms — that all the black characters in "Roots" are good and noble and all the whites are mean and cruel, and that rehashing all this stuff about slavery will contribute to racial discord — the one charge was also laid against "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the other is reminiscent of the argument not heard in more than a century that blacks would be happier if they were kept in ignorance.
White Americans have "Gone With Wind," black Americans now have "Roots." When it comes to a comparison between the two in terms of historical accuracy, there is really no contest.

Carter faces uphill battle for gas tax

WASHINGTON — A Commerce Department report that the economy grew at an annual rate of 5.2 per cent during the first quarter of 1977 — double the rate in the last quarter of 1976 — suggests that President Carter's energy program may underestimate the American people's obsession with buying anything we want, regardless of price.
The report noted that consumer spending on motor vehicles rose at a whopping 70 per cent annual rate. This, despite the fact gasoline prices have doubled since the Nixon "energy crisis." And cars cost more these days.
Lots of luck.
We must wish Carter, and Congress, all the best in their efforts to find a solution to the Republic's biggest problem. After all, the economy we save is our own. And Carter is not just giving it the old Madison Avenue shot when he says the government seeks to avert "an impending catastrophe."
But we are a people who have never made major sacrifices in peacetime. We insist on buying all the goodies and comforts and conveniences of life we can't afford.
On the desk is a letter from a reader in San Francisco. He says auto prices and the price of gasoline are a "national disgrace." So he goes on to complain that the payments on his 1977 Buick, plus the cost of feeding and maintaining same, "keep me broke." Obviously, it never occurred to the man NOT to buy a new car.

Carter's plan
Carter's program would:
Boost gasoline taxes 50 cents per gallon over 10 years if consumption continues to rise. Starting with the 1978 models and through 1985, a car getting less than 12 miles per gallon would be taxed an extra $469. Natural gas prices would rise to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet on new natural gas for both interstate and intrastate deliveries. U.S. crude oil would be taxed to raise the price to the world price of $13 to $14 a barrel.
It's a pretty good program. Somehow, we've got to reduce consumption or we'll run out of energy, but the enemy is us — the American people. We have been spoiled by the world's highest living standard. Moreover, most of us work for a living, and instilled in us is not altogether improper belief that we can spend our paychecks any way we please.
Minutes after Carter concluded his address to Congress, the individualistic attitude of the American people was reflected in comments by Capitol Hill poohbais.
Tax attacked
Rep. John Rhodes, R-Ariz. House Minority Leader, attacked the gasoline tax. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said "There is always time down the road to say no." Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said "Parts of the plan will no doubt be revised in the interests of workability and equity."
Of Jimmy Carter, Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill says, "He's going to have to give us some help along the line." That means O'Neill hopes Carter realizes his program will make a lot of voters mad.
O'Neill knows that everybody is a special interest in this country — even he and me — and the terms of the entire House and one-third of the Senate will be up for grabs next year. So if Carter pulls this re-off, don't bet the rent money that he won't take a stroll across the Potomac.

The runaround on plutonium

By Martha Angie and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Roger L. Conner could have told Jimmy Carter long ago that plutonium shouldn't be used in commercial nuclear power plants. In fact, Conner tried to warn the federal government about the danger four years ago — but nobody was listening.
In the wake of President Carter's decision earlier this month to abandon indefinitely the use of plutonium as a reactor fuel, Conner's story is worth recounting because it is a saga of citizen frustration in the face of government obstinacy, obstruction and obfuscation.
Secret permission
In December 1972, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) secretly granted the Consumers Power Co. of Michigan permission to experiment with plutonium at its Big Rock Point nuclear generating plant near the community of Charlevoix, Mich.
Conner, a Grand Rapids, Mich., resident, is executive director of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, a coalition of about 70 local conservation clubs, church groups and civic organizations.
File suit
In March 1973, Conner's group filed suit in federal court, challenging the use of plutonium on the same grounds that Carter cited in his recent ban: It is the principal component of nuclear weapons.
Because Conner's organization is a small group with limited financial resources and relies heavily on a volunteer staff, it asked the AEC to help pay for the costly litigation. But the request for financial assistance was merely bounced back and forth between the AEC staff and the court. "We felt like a well-used ping pong ball," recalls Conner.
The environmentalists spent $60,000 — more than they could afford — when they were forced to abandon the fight, still entangled in preliminary, procedural issues which the government bureaucracy dealt with at a leisurely pace.
Several national environmental organizations then took up the cause and found themselves dealing with this chronology:
February 1974: The AEC belatedly

orders its staff to prepare an environmental impact report on the use of "mixed oxide" fuel, the combination of uranium oxide and plutonium oxide used in "demonstration" programs at Big Rock Point and two other commercial nuclear reactors. (Although the President's decision was directed primarily at the planned new generation of "fast breeder" reactors, those three older "light water" reactors have been using reprocessed plutonium for several years.)
Acceptable
August 1974: The AEC staff releases for public comment an 1,100-page document which, not surprisingly, concludes that "mixed oxide" fuel containing plutonium is indeed an acceptable fuel.
August 1976: The AEC has been abolished but its successor, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC), issues a final environmental impact report, again endorsing the use of plutonium.
November 1976: The NRC announces it will begin receiving applications for the regular commercial use of "mixed oxide" fuel in power plants, even though it has not completed a study of the dangers of theft and sabotage of plutonium, a material it acknowledges is "one of the most toxic known radioactive materials."
Court intervenes
March 1977: Only 10 days before Carter's decision is announced, the Supreme Court agrees to hear environmentalists' appeals of the NRC's allegedly premature decision to begin processing "interim license" applications for plutonium.
A footnote: When Carter announced the government's opposition to the use of plutonium fuel systems, the reactor core at Big Rock Point contained 20 kilograms of material — more than any other commercial reactor in the country and enough to make five nuclear bombs.
As for Conner's organizations, it's still $25,000 in debt. "But there's a feeling that we're finally on the way to resolving one of the most important issues facing the world," he says. "There's also a sense of vindication — and a little bit of anger about the way we were battered around."

Thoughts

On a park bench sits an empty, lonely form. The eyes are sad and the hands are withered. Many days and much wisdom is contained in this form on the bench, but no one seems to care.
Suddenly a rosey checked, laughing little girl appears. In her hand she carries a balloon and a daisy. She looks for a moment at the sad form of the old man. Then with an outstretched arm and a smile she hands him the balloon and daisy and beams "I love you." The sad, empty form looks up, and a faint smile appears on the wrinkled face.
Indeed the very presence of God could be felt as this little girl touched the life of that man on the park bench. It is spring — someone needs your touch.

Newcomer's suggestion

To the editor:
As a newcomer to political campaigns who is talking with residents of Bolton about town government, the following are guidelines which I believe would be advantageous to the community and could be started within the next few months by newly elected town officers:
(1) General planning as the way the town can take advantage of the relocations required by the 1-84 route, for better business areas and the residential growth it will bring, should start now.
(2) Town officers and agencies can meet regularly with the selectmen and with each other to consider and to plan how their work together can use the town's resources to avoid duplication, control the financial burden and maximize the use of tax dollars.
(3) Powers of the new charter vested in our voters as ways to better serve their needs in the management and development of the town, are to be encouraged to be used in every possible way.
(4) Prudent management and voter understanding of town affairs can be continued and strengthened by such specific steps as standardizing town accounting, requiring numbered purchase orders, showing income as well as expenses in reports, planning construction and major maintenance projects three to five years ahead, developing zero budgeting, close attention of the Board of Finance to the duties assigned it by the new charter.
(5) The Board of Selectmen can actively influence the town's tax rate by knowing what its residents want taxes used for, by supervising all expenditures to determine if they are getting mileage for their money, and by urging long range alternatives to present problems as ways to more adequately meet community expenses and needs.
These appear to me to be workable goals and guidelines which would maintain the town's good character and community advantages while at the same time involving widely our residents in its orderly growth.

The classes are taught by qualified professionals and include the following in weekly consecutive order: Early Pregnancy, Labor and Delivery, Preview to Parenting, and Infant Care and Nutrition.
The classes are free of charge and open to the public. Pre-registration may be made by contacting Mrs. Thomas G. Hall at 878-8785; Mrs. Thomas Moore, 646-1234; or by writing to FOCIS, 20 Westfield St.

Eunice Shriver will speak at benefit dinner

Eunice Kennedy Shriver will speak May 9 at a fund-raising dinner for the benefit of Alpha & Omega, a nonprofit organization co-founded by Carl and Rachel Rossov of Ellington in 1974.
The organization was formed "to protect handicapped children by providing a home environment and family setting for such children where they can receive basic education, health care, and stimulation of their physical and emotional capabilities."
Proceeds from the dinner will go toward a fund to build a larger home behind the Rossov's existing home on Lanz Lane in Ellington.
The Rossovs hope to raise $20,000 toward the $20,000 down payment needed to get the larger home started. The couple has already received a $5,000 grant from the Swindell's Foundation of Hartford and also another $7,000 in private donations.
U.S. Rep. Christopher J. Dodd is the honorary chairman of the dinner. He has donated an unspecified amount of his recently approved $1,000 congressional pay raise toward the fund.
The children living with the Rossovs include three of their own children, a handicapped child they adopted, and five multiply-handicapped foster children. They plan to add more children after the larger home is built.
Mr. and Mrs. Rossov plan to build a home that is barrier free in design. Several physicians have testified to the good work done by the couple in helping these handicapped children.
Ben Ezra Chapter of B'nai B'rith has also been instrumental in helping the friends of Alpha & Omega. Mrs. Shriver, sister of the late President John F. Kennedy, has been active in programs for the handicapped and mentally retarded children through the Kennedy Foundation.
The fund-raising dinner will be at the Sheraton-Hartford Hotel in Hartford. Tickets are still on sale and will be sold on a walk-in basis the night of the dinner.
Other guest speakers will be the Most Rev. Daniel Reilly, bishop of Norwich Diocese, and Sal D'Amico, a member of the National Planning and Advisory Council on Handicapped Individuals.

Work is ahead of schedule at Adams St.-W.M. Tpk.

Work on Manchester's W. Middle Tpk. and Adams St. should be completed in about two months, according to Jay J. Giles, director of public works.

Most of the remaining work is on Adams St., where the base paving and sidewalks still have to be installed, Giles said.

Work on the two streets was started last summer. The project is financed by approximately 15 per cent funding from the town, 15 per cent from the state and 70 per cent from the federal government under the Urban Systems Program.

The contractor for the work, Della Construction Co. Inc. of Enfield, had been given a total of 593 days to complete the work. Giles said that the town had originally expected the work to be completed by November of this year, but now it appears that the job will be finished several months ahead of that date.

Giles said that installation of a new culvert at Bigelow Brook near the Parkade has been completed and that a temporary bypass road that had been used in the area is no longer needed. The only work that remains on W. Middle Tpk. is the laying of 1 1/2 inches of bituminous surface course and some sidewalk work.

The base paving on Adams St. from Center St. to Middle Tpk. should be installed in the next few weeks, he said.

Sidewalk work on Adams St. will also begin soon, and some repair work on the street, between Hilliard St. and Middle Tpk., also has to be done.

"A lot of little things have to be polished off, but much of the major work is done," he said. "Things are looking pretty good."

He said that he was pleased that the main contractor, which has subcontracted some of the work, has been able to complete much of the work so quickly.

He did say, however, that the swift progress did cause some problems. Traffic inconveniences and rework in some areas were required because of the rate of progress on the road work.

Dominic Zaino, left, and Joseph Pullo, employees of Corsetti Construction Inc., pour cement to anchor new curbs that will be installed on Adams St. The work is part of the Urban Systems Project to upgrade both Adams St. and W. Middle Tpk. (Herald photo by Dunn)

40 seek plans job

The Town of Manchester has received 40 applications for the position of technical planning assistant, which has been vacant since the beginning of this month when former assistant Alan Lamson became town planner.

Lamson replaced J. Eric Potter, town planner for 8 1/2 years, who retired at the end of March. The applications will be reviewed and eligible candidates will take written examinations. The top three candidates will then be interviewed by Lamson. The position is expected to be filled by May 23.

Elks will honor 64 youths at 'Gathering of the Eagles'

The Elks of East Hartford will honor 64 youths from the area in a "Gathering of the Eagles" dinner and award program Sunday.

The affair will be held at the Elks lodge at 148 Roberts St., East Hartford starting at 1 p.m.

The youths to be honored have attained the highest award in scouting, the Eagle badge. They come from Manchester, East Hartford, Glastonbury, South Windsor, Hebron, Marlborough and Bolton.

The seven towns are part of the Algonquin Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The affair marks the third major effort by the lodge of honor youths in scouting. It is believed to be the first time an Elks lodge in the state has honored Eagles this way.

The lodge also sponsors a coed Explorer Post and a regular scout troop.

"Many a great man was once a Boy Scout who became an Eagle Scout," said Fran Reinholdt and Ralph B. Sims, co-chairmen of the affair.

The Eagles and troops are: Troop 25 of Manchester, Barry Cottle, Mark Kimball, Eric Thomas, Robert Weiss, Scott Altemany, Randall Joyner, Jeffrey Metheny, David Beckwith, Glen Ellis, David Shearer, Gary Turkington, Carl Gunderson, and Ralph Michels.

Troop 27 of Manchester, Brian Colbath and Stephen Mitchell. Troop 47 of Manchester.

She heads learning center

Janet Chisholm has been selected as the director of the Manchester Early Learning Center on Wadwell Rd. which will be open May 16.

The center is an all-day year-round facility designed to accommodate 32 Manchester children of working parents.

The school's curriculum will provide a learning environment for three- and four-year-olds. The program will provide social situations, free choice play times and teacher-directed sessions.

Ms. Chisholm's background includes child development training at the University of Connecticut and Connecticut College, and serving as an instructor in a Montessori school, church schools, day care centers and preschools.

She served as a director of Christian education in Honolulu which included redesigning a day care facility. When she moved to Connecticut in 1969, she became director-teacher of a state-funded day care center in New London.

As a graduate assistant at University of Connecticut, she worked in the preschool laboratory with children, parents and student teachers. She received her master's degree in 1975.

During the year when Ms. Chisholm was associated with Manchester Community College, she supervised field work students placed in various early childhood centers throughout the greater Hartford area, and also conducted parent education programs at Squire year appointment as instructor at Village, At Square Village, she helped parents conduct a mini-preschool.

Ms. Chisholm is completing a one-year appointment as instructor at Village, At Square Village, she helped parents conduct a mini-preschool.

The new Early Learning Center is accepting applications for enrollment. Further information is available by calling 643-1742 or 646-3878 on weekdays or after 5 p.m.

Signs designed to aid elderly

The Rev. Ronald Fournier, chairman of the Manchester's Commission on Aging, explains to Mrs. Georgina Vince of 44 Case Dr. the Please Send Help signs the commission is providing local senior citizens as Diane Wicks, the town's outreach worker to the elderly, looks on. The signs are designed to aid the elderly when their car breaks down on a highway or to place in a window of their home in the event of an emergency. They are available at the local Senior Citizens Center, the Human Services Department at the Municipal Building or from any chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons. Cardboard for the signs was donated by Lydall Inc., and the Regional Occupational Center did the printing free of charge. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Do something different, America. Come see Canada.

Take a tour or come on your own, by road, rail or air. Whatever kind of vacation you have in mind, whatever price you want to pay, Canada will give you more than your money's worth. Any travel agent in town can arrange it for you.

Edmonton and the Rockies. 13 days by rail/tourbus $1,050* (incl. air taxes)

Any travel agent in town can get you to Montreal to board the Canadian National Super Continental for an unforgettable 3-day journey across Ontario, around the rugged north shore of Lake Superior and across the prairies to Edmonton, Alberta, which is so far north that the sun shines a full 17 hours every summer day. From Edmonton by tourbus to Banff, a delightful little resort town ringed by towering Rocky Mountain peaks. You'll tour Emerald Lake, Yoho Valley, magnificent Takakkaw Falls and Lake Louise, a blue-green gem in a matchless setting of snow-capped mountains. Then via the fabulous Icefields Parkway to the Columbia Icefields where you can snowmobile across the largest body of ice on the continent south of the Arctic Circle... and to the resort town of Jasper. You can ride the Sky Tram to the top of Whistlers Mountain, swim, hike, trail-ride, fish glacier-fed lakes and goil on a championship course a mile high in the mountains. After 3 fabulous days, you'll board the Super Continental at Jasper for the return journey east. Package includes sleeping car accommodations, hotels, sightseeing, some meals and taxes.

Montreal, like Paris, is a city of sidewalk cafes. 3 days $146.24*

Yankee Holidays can get you to Montreal via Delta Airlines, arrange accommodations for you in a deluxe downtown hotel, include complimentary continental French breakfasts and a familiarization tour of the city... and then leave you to have a ball.

Montreal is big (only Paris has a bigger French-speaking population) and sophisticated. You can stroll miles of underground shopping galleries, sip an aperitif in a sidewalk cafe, ride a horse-drawn caleche over Mount Royal, catch a cabaret and take your pick of more than 5,000 restaurants. You can see the fabulous Olympic Stadium, explore the permanent Man and His World Exhibition on Ile Ste. Helene, check the Place des Arts for symphony concerts, drama and ballet. You can stroll the narrow streets and cobbled squares of the Old City... or sit looking down on it all from a cocktail lounge 40 stories high in the sky. Where's your joie de vivre, America!

Cabot Trail Adventure. 9 days by bus and cruise ship $395*

Kaplan Tours can take you by luxury tourbus along the eastern seaboard to Canada's picturesque province of Nova Scotia... then back by cruise ship. You'll spend two glorious days on Cape Breton Island, where the lochs and glens are uncannily like the highlands of Scotland, and where Gaelic is still spoken in the tiny villages. You'll visit the ancient and beautifully-restored fortress of Louisbourg and the fascinating Alexander Graham Bell museum at Baddeck. Then to the great port city of Halifax, where you can explore the 18th century Citadel, the renovated waterfront, now busy with boutiques, craft shops and restaurants, the Maritime Museum and the beautiful art gallery that was once a powder magazine. You'll visit nearby Peggy's Cove (the most photographed fishing village in Canada), then follow the beautiful Annapolis Valley to the seaside resort of Digby... and to Yarmouth, where you board the cruise-ship M.S. Caribe (registered in West Germany) for a day long voyage to Portland, Maine. Package includes hotel, motel and resort accommodations, 9 meals, sightseeing, taxes, tips and escort service.

*Prices quoted are per person, double occupancy rate and are subject to change. Check with travel agent. This tour includes breakfasts and taxes. See independent travel agencies and tour operators, who have information. The Canadian Government Office of Tourism can assist in making reservations, but does not accept any responsibility for misadventure, charges or omissions.

Magnolia tree at the home of Miss Emily and Miss Betty Stavinsky on W. Center St. Tree is more than 40 years old and measures 30 feet across. (Herald photo by Pinto)

The magnolia tree on W. Center St. at Foley St. may be the largest and is certainly one of the oldest in Manchester. It stands on the front lawn of the home occupied by two sisters, Miss Emily and Miss Betty Stavinsky, whose father planted the tree.

It stood off its width as 30 feet and it looks about as tall as it is wide. The daughters remember that their late father, George Stavinsky, went to New Haven to get the tree, and they think that happened in the spring of 1933. He set it in a good spot with a wide, clear space around it and the magnolia has needed the room he gave it.

This year, before the weekend rain knocked off many petals, the tree had been filled with blossoms on every branch. Neighbors came over for a closer look and many strangers stopped their cars and walked up to see the tree.

The blossoms appear before the leaves. They are large and saucer-shaped, a combination of pink and white, and in the time they stayed open, more than a week, the pink became more pronounced. If the family once knew the variety name, it has been lost, but it seems to be one of the several varieties that are listed under the heading of "saucer" magnolias. These all date from a cross made, back in 1820, by one of Napoleon's retired soldiers. Many other crosses have been made in a century and a half and it is likely

Benefit carnival to start Tuesday

A carnival, planned as a family event to benefit Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell, will start Tuesday at the Manchester Community College campus across the road from the band shell on Wetherell St. and continue through May 8. Various attractions including such typical carnival-type rides as a ferris wheel and merry-go-round, will be open to the public Tuesday through next Friday from 5 to 11 p.m. and the following Saturday and Sunday from noon to midnight. Admission is free. The carnival is being sponsored by the MCC Student Band Shell Committee in an effort to raise at least $1,000 for the band shell.

Honored

Edward Merritt of 11 Monclair Dr. was honored recently at a 4-H appreciation dinner at Imperial Center in East Windsor. The dinner was given as a thank you for all the work done by Merritt above and beyond that called for by his job as extension agent in Hartford County. He was especially active in the development of the 4-H Outdoor Center in Marlborough, the apple orchard project in Bloomfield, and the development of many programs in the city of Hartford.

Amim to meet Seko

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Uganda President Idi Amin flew to Zaire today for a second meeting with President Mobutu Sese Seko concerning Ugandan aid for the government's fight against a rebel invasion in Shaba Province, the government news agency Azap said. Azap said it was "understood" Amin's second visit comes after Mobutu's frontline troops.

Inner peace talk topic

Kim Burke and Judy Lauckenotte, state representatives for the Inner Peace Movement, will present an introductory lecture Wednesday evening, Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan, 344 W. Middle Tpke. The Inner Peace Movement is neither a religion nor a replacement for anyone's religion but a self-understanding program to help individuals in whatever areas they are involved, the lectures said. Some areas to be discussed during the lecture include man's relationship to himself and the universe, the difference between the conscious and the unconscious mind and the relationship between the two, the four psychic gifts of prophecy — vision or clairvoyance, feeling, and intuition or clairaudience, and past, present and future dimensions of existence.

Conti invited to ZBA meeting

Bernard R. Johnson, chairman of the Town of Manchester's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), has told Francis J. Conti, chief building inspector, that the board will not hold a special meeting to talk with Conti. But Johnson has invited Conti to attend the board's next scheduled meeting on May 16.

Shot victim still listed as critical

Mark Sheehan, 22, of 54 Chestnut St., was still in critical condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital today with injuries sustained in a shooting incident Sunday.

DEP will hire 143

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso says the Department of Environmental Protection will hire 143 persons in the coming weeks for temporary jobs paid for by federal funds. Mrs. Grasso said Sunday $50,000 would be used from the state's federal anti-recession funds to create the jobs, which will last about six months. She said four projects would be undertaken by the workers: —A timber salvage operation aimed at yielding 200,000 board feet of saw timber and 255 cords of hardwood fuel that would employ 65 workers. —Construction of 2,000 picnic tables, which will create 13 jobs. —Clearing of wooded growth and other upkeep on 125 state-owned dams, which will employ 30 persons. —Resurfacing 15 miles of gravel roads and making repairs to 250 miles of publicly used roads and 400 miles of service and fire roads, which would create 35 jobs. The money for the project comes from the state's $9 million share of the anti-recession money. Half of that total has been passed on to local governments.

He underwent emergency surgery for gun shot wounds in the chest and abdomen immediately after the incident at the Centennial Apartments on Chestnut St. Terry J. Hart, 22, also of 54 Chestnut St., who was arrested in the shooting, was released on a promise to appear in court May 9 after presentation in court Monday. The charge of assault with a deadly weapon was reduced to first-degree assault and bond reduced from $20,000. "The program is an outstanding example of cooperation between public and private universities," she said.

Honored Weight Watcher clerks say they have much in common

Two Rockville clerks agree "We're all in the same boat and rowing for life." Geraldine Paly of 84 Orchard St., who has been a Weight Watchers clerk for 9 1/2 years and Ann Dahlstrom of 9 Progress Ave., who has served for four years at the Rockville class, were honored recently by Weight Watchers officials.

"As clerks you are the first to greet new members as they walk through the door, apprehensive and nervous," Midge Dugway, area supervisor for WW, explained, as the women were presented with certificates of merit.

Geraldine, now a trim 137, remembers how she first came in so long ago with 47 pounds to lose. "I wasn't sure of myself or of the organization, I'm from Missouri and I have to be shown. I lost 6 1/2 pounds the first week and that did it. I got on my soapbox and spread the word. "I made it. I packed in my size 18 clothes and bought size 12s. That's the size I still wear. Ann, now a slim 119 pounds, first came to class when she was 43 pounds heavier and wore, like Geraldine, a size 18. These days she wears size 9. Ann put on most of her weight as a result of pregnancies. As the mother of three, she looked at herself in the mirror and, having tried everything else, she finally tried Weight Watchers. "I notice reactions in the class similar to those I experienced. If someone comes early it's ten to one she had a good legal week. I know she will have a good weight loss and wants to make the most of it. Others may weigh in and leave and I think that's not a good idea. They should stay. There's nothing like the support and concern of the class for keeping one on the program."

From left are Richard Mackiewicz as Call 'n Fetch, Larry Ross as Pomp 'n Stuff, the prime minister; Ruth Glaeser as the Queen; Billy Hansen as the Emperor, looking at himself in the mirror in his new clothes; and Tina Listro as Flapdoodle, the court jester. Vendrillo, trustees. Camillo Vendrillo and Peter J. Vendrillo have been members of the local tribe for 54 years.

Crafts to shown at church fair

More than 20 craftspersons will participate in the third annual Springtime Craft Fair and Exhibit Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. outdoors at Center Congregational Church.

In the event of rain, the fair, which is being sponsored by Cadette Girl Scout Troop 77, will be in Woodruff Hall of the church. Admission is free, and free parking is available. Proceeds will be used to purchase camping equipment for the troop.

Manchester craftspersons participating in the fair are Sharon Anderson and Maureen O'Connell, macramé; Deborah Dickson, leaded glass; Rita Kenway, enamel jewelry; Janet Rawson, sandpainting and needlepoint; Angela Raimondo, dried flowers; Sharon Stalino and Mary Ann Johnson, assorted crafts; Laura Thomas, ceramics; Dottie Tyler, wooden sign posts.

Also, Beverly Walsh, plaques and marble animals; Gary White, gem jewelry; Pat Lukach of "Greens & Things," plants and accessories; Jean Brown, necklace and jewelry holder.

Area participants include Betty Lantieri and Rachel St. Pierre, leather hats, bracelets and handbags; Lynn Costello, thumbprints, Marilyn Williams, portraits; Dana and Chris Valenti, doughearts; Rosemary Diaz, cloth toys; Laura Harbut, crafty candles; Cindy Conklin, macramé plant holders; Norman Cohen, silverSmith; Richard Ellsworth, wooden toys; Sandy Greenberg, silk flowers, pins and combs; Jill Shearer, pillows. There also will be a homemade baked goods on sale; a make-it, take-it craft table for young children; face paintings by Mrs. Maude Carpenter of Bolton; and picture button pins done by Thomas Johnson, a troop father. ### State to sue General Motors

HARTFORD (UPI) — Despite General Motors' offer to exchange new cars for Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs sold with Chevrolet engines, Connecticut officials say they still plan to sue the firm. "It's not adequate restitution at all," Carl Ajello, state attorney general, said Wednesday. "In all likelihood we will file the suit." Ajello said there was a price difference between the Chevrolet engine and the ones normally put in Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs. He thinks the customer deserves to receive cash to cover the difference. "The difference is between $100 and several hundred dollars," Ajello said. An investigation by legal staff

Mrs. Antonio Trotter
EAST HARTFORD - Mrs. Corinne Morin Trotter, 61, of 52 Brookline Dr., died Wednesday at her home.

Mrs. Trotter was born in St. Francois-Xavier, Que., Can., and had lived in East Hartford for 36 years. Before retiring a month ago, she had been employed at Veeder-Root division of Veeder Industries, Hartford, for 28 years.

Other survivors are 2 daughters, Mrs. Claudette Robar of East Hartford and Mrs. Pauline Jones of Brookville, Maine; 2 brothers, Albert Morin of Sherbrook, Que., Can., and Berthuis Morin of Somersworth, N.H.; 6 sisters, Mrs. Fernand Cote of West Newton, Mass., Mrs. Lucienne Jackson of Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Milanche Brien, Mrs. Bernadette Gagne and Mrs. Theresa Camire, all of Sanford, Maine, and Mrs. Orise St. Denis of Godbout, Que. Can., and 11 grandchildren.

The funeral is Saturday with a Mass at 9 a.m. at Holy Family Church, Sanford, Maine. Burial will be in St. Ignatius Cemetery, Sanford.

Friends may call at Callahan Funeral Home, 1602 Main St., today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m., at the LaFrance and Boivent Funeral Home, Sanford, Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the American Cancer Society, 670 Prospect Ave., Hartford.

Mrs. Herbert Kelsey Jr.
HEBRON - Mrs. Joann Kelsey, 44, of Warren, Mass., formerly of Hebron, died Saturday from injuries suffered in an auto accident in Alma, Ga.

Mrs. Kelsey was the wife of the Rev. Herbert O. Kelsey Jr., former pastor of the First Congregational Church of Hebron and Gilead Congregational Church.

According to reports, the Kelsey car hit a trailer truck that had pulled across the highway to avoid hitting another car.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey was severely injured and is a patient at the Baptist Memorial Hospital, Jacksonville, Fla. Their daughter, Carol Ann, also suffered head injuries, according to reports.

The Kelsey family had lived in the Gilead Church parsonage for several years before the Rev. Mr. Kelsey assumed the pastorate of the Federated Church in Warren, Mass., in 1973.

Mrs. Kelsey is also survived by two sons, Herbert O. Kelsey III, and Lynn Arnold Kelsey, two other daughters, Rebecca Kelsey and Faye Hollister Kelsey, and her parents who live in Alma.

A funeral service took place in Alma and was followed by cremation. A memorial service is planned at a later date at the Federated Church in Warren.

It has been suggested that in lieu of flowers, memorial gifts may be made to the Joann Kelsey Memorial Fund in care of the Federated Church of Warren.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Dearborn
VERNON - Mrs. Evelyn Burt Dearborn, 85, of 310 Hartford Tpk., died Sunday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Dearborn had been employed as a nurse's aide at Rockville Memorial Convalescent Home before retiring in 1973. She was born in Lynn, Mass., and had lived in Vernon for the past 29 years.

She is survived by a son, John E. Dearborn of Vernon; and a sister, Mrs. Minnie B. Hartman of Lynn, Mass.

The funeral is Friday at 1 p.m. at Richardson's Funeral Home, 49 Lafayette Park, Lynn, Mass. Burial will be in Pine Grove Cemetery, Lynn.

Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester, was in charge of local arrangements.

Severe Belanger
EAST HARTFORD - Severe Belanger, 91, of 78 Ensign St., died Wednesday at Mt. Sinai Hospital, Hartford. He was the husband of Mrs. Amelia Marin Belanger.

Mr. Belanger was born in Fort Kent, Maine, and had lived in East Hartford for 24 years. He was a farmer in Maine before retiring 24 years ago. He was a communicant of Blessed Sacrament Church.

Other survivors are a son, Edgar Belanger of Southington; 2 daughters, Mrs. Eva Madore and Mrs. Mildred Madore, both of East Hartford; 10 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Saturday at 8:45 a.m. from Callahan Funeral Home, 1602 Main St., with a Mass at Blessed Sacrament Church at 9:30. Burial will be in Hillside Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 and Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Parties admit mistake in Maple St. apartment

Phyllis Jackson, Democratic town director, today denied charges of favoritism by town officials in allowing construction of apartments on Maple St. which are in apparent violation of the zoning code.

A problem with the addition which Mrs. Jackson and her husband, Nicholas Jackson, a member of the Manchester Housing Authority, have started building at 72 Maple St. was brought to light Wednesday.

Clarence G. "Bud" Brown, a Republican member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, said today he was not making any charges, but that the favoritism was brought up by the building department.

Mrs. Jackson and the building and zoning officials admit a mistake was made in granting the permit initially, or that a misinterpretation was made. However, Mrs. Jackson said that any charges of favoritism were made by a "loose tongue playing dirty politics."

"The record shows", Mrs. Jackson said, "I have always tried to be honest." She said, she has "purposefully tried not to make any personal friendships among personnel at town hall. I am the last one the department heads would be favorable to," she said.

Mrs. Jackson said she has complied with everything the building department has asked in regard to the addition, including having certified plans with state codes drawn up and changing the plans from frame to masonry walls to comply with fire codes.

The main problem with the addition, which is already well under way, according to Francis J. Conti, building inspector, is the planned use for two apartments on the ground floor of the building.

According to the Business II zoning code, as revised in 1972, apartments or residential dwellings are no longer allowed on the ground floor in the zone. The intent of the change was to provide more consistent uses in the zone, Conti said.

According to Conti, group dwelling structures with three to eight apartments, are allowed in the zone as an accepted use. The Jackson's plan is for two apartments on the first floor and three on the second floor, which would qualify it as a group dwelling.

The approval of the permit was made after extensive discussion between the Town Planning Department and the Building Department, according to Ernest Machell, zoning enforcement officer. At the time of the consent, all officials agreed that the construction would be all right.

Machell and Conti plan to meet with the architect, Victor I. Moses today to determine the legality of the building permit.

In a statement today, Brown said his intention in bringing up the matter was not to focus on the individuals involved, but to focus on what he calls the inadequacies in the Building Department.

The problem on Maple St., he said, "is clearly in violation of the zoning regulations for that area which do not permit group dwellings."

He added that the fact that one of the ground floor units may be used as an office is "insignificant since there are clearly three or more dwelling units in this building. This kind of foul-up in the Building Department is not new."

Bill will be "extremely close" in the Senate, and he predicted the passage of another controversial bill, one which would eliminate unemployment compensation for employees who have quit or been fired with good reason.

Herbert Stevenson, registrar of voters, reported on the May 21 Honors Dinner-Dance, which will be held at Willie's Steak House.

The dinner will honor party members Chester Bycholski, Mary Danaher, Jon Norris, Richard C. Woodhouse, Marion Clifford and Alice Lamenza.

The committee also named a new member, Nicholas Lefas, to replace Albert Campbell.

Sen. David Barry (D-13th) predicted that the state budget will be passed with no tax increase. He also said that the General Assembly is not a spend thrift one, as some have said.

'Brat' grew up to enjoy serving his town

By MAL BARLOW

"I was a spoiled brat," said Paul Maynard, soon to be the 10th recipient of the East Hartford Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award given annually to a resident of Connecticut to study engineering.

A year later, he was old enough to enter the service and he did, with relief. Maynard served in the Army as an MP near Calcutta, India. Of course, he played in the Army band. He did not see any battles except Indian riots against British control.

Back home, Maynard transferred to Boston University College of Music. He had enough engineering. In Boston he played bass in bands at restaurants and country clubs. The pay helped make ends meet. He married and had two children before graduation with a degree in music in 1949.

His political career had its start at Boston. He won the presidency of his junior class. All his school days were spent at the Burnside School and East Hartford High School, then held at the Center School. He is a member of the Class of 1943.

"I was so deeply involved in music in those days," he said. "My parents put a violin in his hands at age 7. He learned the bass at age 13. He played the violin in the EHHS orchestra and the bass in the dance band. But in the EHHS band he played the tuba."

"I was a jack of all trades. I was the fitter in the band. When we needed an instrument, I would take it up." He also sang in the Boys Glee Club and the school's quartet.

Maynard has won awards from their main insurance provider, Nationwide. In 1967, the company honored Maynard for his community service. Maynard went to the University of Connecticut to study engineering.

"I'm a service oriented person. I can't say no," he said. "Even with insurance, I'm better at the service than at the sales." He joined the Odd Fellows in 1949 and is a past noble grand in the fraternal order.

In 1953 he joined the Exchange Club. He was its president in 1957 and is still active. He is on the board of the Family Service Society. The society provides counseling, homemakers and meals on wheels.

He has worked for the East Hartford YMCA since he helped build its Main St. facility in the 1950s. He has been a board member since 1961. He has helped the Red Cross for many years. He was its Bloodmobile chairman for three years here. He has given six gallons of his own blood.

"I hope to hit 10 gallons before I have to quit," he said. Maynard has also served on many short-term committees aimed at getting special jobs done. One example is the YMCA building committee.

The group which is giving him its DSA also got service from Maynard. He served on the chamber's board for 10 years. As chamber president in 1967, Maynard helped set up the DSA program.

He left school teaching that fall to begin a career in insurance sales. He and Michael Eremita run the Eremita-Maynard Agency at 303 Burnside Ave. Both have enjoyed considerable success.

This is not the first time Hohman has threatened Connecticut with stiff federal punishment. He worked mostly in the elementary grades, but he helped with the EHHS bands also. By 1953, his pay had risen to only $63 a week. By '54 he had three children.

Lawmakers ignore the threat and debated the measure on two occasions. Connecticut has the second worst air pollution in the nation. California is first.

PZC to act on drainage in Coventry

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) has promised to act on Richard Breen's drainage modification application at tonight's special meeting.

The action is a result of a 2 1/2-hour public hearing Monday night about reducing drainage requirements for Coventry Hills, Section 2.

Breen plans to develop the 21-lot subdivision but contends that drainage requirements approved in 1973 are not needed for Section 2 because of the terrain.

Although PZC members were prepared Monday night to support Paddock and require the drainage work now, or when Section 3 is built, by the end of the meeting they were undecided.

The drainage plan, if required, would force the developer to destroy much of the natural setting. Many trees would be removed and stone walls would be removed, Breen said.

The PZC vote was delayed until tonight so the PZC could get a complete engineering opinion.

Vernon mayor keeps his raise in budget

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit was forced Wednesday night to vote to keep a raise for the mayor's position in the proposed town budget.

At a budget workshop, the Town Council was considering the executive and administrative budget of $88,691 as recommended by Mayor Benoit.

Under salaries and wages is a $495 salary increase for the mayor, bringing the salary to $8,738, a $1,154 increase for the director of administration, to a salary of $20,368; a $538 increase for the executive secretary, to $9,466; and a $447 increase for an account clerk, to $7,884.

Councilman Donald Eden moved to cut the budget by $795, which would include the $495 increase for the mayor.

The budget had already been amended to take out $4,865 for a CETA worker plus $500 for a temporary clerical assistant.

The motion to cut out the $3,400 in straight party line and the mayor broke the tie by voting against.

Eden said he didn't make the motion because he thought the mayor doesn't earn the salary but said it should be considered in the light of an employee.

Councilman Morgan Campbell then moved to reduce the budget by $3,400 by taking out the amount allowed for dues in the Capital Region Council of Governments (CRCOG).

Eden said the general public is under the impression that the smaller towns are getting the shaft from Hartford Councilman Nicholas Carbone.

Councilman Robert Wehrli added that he doesn't agree with that welfare payments should be increased by another 10 per cent.

Councilman Morgan Campbell then moved to reduce the budget by $3,400 by taking out the amount allowed for dues in the Capital Region Council of Governments (CRCOG).

Eden said the general public is under the impression that the smaller towns are getting the shaft from Hartford Councilman Nicholas Carbone.

Councilman Robert Wehrli added that he doesn't agree with that welfare payments should be increased by another 10 per cent.

The motion to cut out the $3,400 in straight party line and the mayor broke the tie by voting against.

Eden said he didn't make the motion because he thought the mayor doesn't earn the salary but said it should be considered in the light of an employee.

Vernon Police are investigating several complaints about homes being burglarized early Wednesday morning.

The areas involved were East St., upper E. Main St., East St., Reed St. and Center St.

Police said in all cases the method of entry was similar. Police said the burglar or burglars entered through unlocked doors and took money from pocketbooks and pants' pockets.

In some instances no money was taken; other thefts involved up to $370, police said.

Police caution all residents to make sure their doors are locked before retiring and if a prowler is heard to call the police immediately.

Edmund A. Balaise, 70, of 428 Tunnel Rd., Vernon, was charged Wednesday with driving while under the influence of liquor and failure to drive right.

He was involved in a two-car accident on Rt. 30.

The driver of the other car was Steven Broulet, 18, of Fernwood Rd., Vernon. Balaise was released on a $250 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, May 25.

Arlene Korchma, 25, of 949 Pleasant Valley Rd., South Windsor, was charged Wednesday with issuing a bad check. Police said she turned herself in at the police station.

The arrest was made on complaint of Nutmeg Village and the check was in the amount of $240, police said.

The candidates say....

Andover Robert Post, an independent candidate for first selectman in Andover, said he would like to see townspeople become more interested in the town, making their ideas heard and making Andover more than just a place to sleep.

Post said if he is elected his first priority will be action on the Rt. 6 problem at the shopping center. He said something must be done before someone is seriously injured or killed. Post feels the speed limit in town should be cut to 35 miles an hour in the commercial and residential areas.

He also supports more programs for youth, saying he will increase funds in that area, support on-going programs and help create new ones.

In other areas, Post supports the use of paper ballots at town meetings, working with neighboring towns for the betterment of the town, consider leaving the Capitol

Woodbury won't quit team fight

David C. Woodbury, sponsor of the David's team in the Town of Woodbury's top women's softball league, said Wednesday night that he still expects to field a team for this season.

Woodbury recently filed a quitclaim deed that temporarily transferred half-interest in property to the league.

Woodbury felt that the deed would qualify the women as taxpayers. But Town Counsel Victor I. Moses ruled against the property-transfer approach.

Woodbury said that he could not discuss other alternatives for his team, which does presently list some Manchester residents.

Temple's Silverstein Center will be dedicated May 15

Temple Beth Shalom will hold a Dedication Service for the new Silverstein Center May 15, at 3 p.m. The service will also include the placement of a cornerstone.

The Silverstein Center has recently been put into service as a multi-purpose room, and as a living memorial to Saul M. Silverstein, its first president and Rebecca B. Silverstein, a former Sisterhood president.

The dedication will take place on the fifth anniversary of Saul Silverstein's death.

The center, under the supervision of the Temple's Board of Directors is available for all age groups, and has been completely furnished and equipped very colorfully under the supervision of Richard Lawrence, architect, and Marvin Merzly, building committee chairman.

The large one-room center is completely flexible and provides a large library area with movable bookshelves, audio-visual carrels, games area, a step-down conversation area with a motion picture screen, and crafts, music and lounge areas. The crafts area includes facilities for cooking classes, art work, including pottery making, knitting and other crafts. The games area has facilities for table tennis, checkers, chess as well as a variety of other games.

It has already been used for both community and inter-community programs, both interfaith as well as those of Jewish background. Fund raising for the center began in early 1973 and continued until that October when the dedication was suspended because of the Yom Kippur War in Israel. It was renewed last October. The center complex, Josephine Navarro of Broad Brook and Candice Schreiber of Vernon, by Hyalie Hurwitz, executive director of the Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc.

Certificates are awarded after an individual has completed 60 hours of basic classroom training as a Homemaker-Home Health Aide and 160 hours of probationary time in the field.

The topic of the in-service session, which is an on-going component of the certification process as established by the State Health Department, was a role-playing situation in which case histories were presented to the group and methods of dealing with a variety of problems were discussed. Pam Broderick, assistant to the director, acted as moderator.

Early surprise

While you don't want to put the whammy on a team, as an (in) famous colleague in Hartford is reknowned for (can you believe coaches on a hot break cringe and hide in the corner when they hear he's calling), one cannot overlook the exploits of Manchester High's basketball team.

The Silk Towners, going into today's game with Pennyc High, had won four straight after a slow start. And they did it where most games — schoolboy, collegiate, pro — are won and that's with pitching.

The double-barrel combination of lefthander Mike Jordan-right-hander Kevin Hanlon has not allowed an earned run in 35 innings. Each has turned in two complete games in his last two outings to alleviate any problems of pitching shorts Manchester might have.

Pete Daigle, who was going to be one of Manchester's big three along with Jordan and Hanlon, has been out since April 13. He didn't have hepatitis as feared, reports The Coach Hal Parks, but a mild case of mononucleosis. It's not a "break" as such, but Daigle might be available for the last four games, and any possible tournament action.

With Daigle disabled, the pressure on Hanlon and Jordan intensified. But to date they've responded admirably. Hanlon in 24 2/3 innings has been touched for six runs, three earned for an ERA of 1.09. The senior has allowed 17 hits while striking out 32, both good ratios. Jordan, a junior, has equally impressive statistics. The portlander in 25 innings has given up five runs, only two earned for an earned run average of 0.72. He's been touched for 20 hits while whiffing 35.

Pitching alone doesn't win games. People like Ray Gilha, Tom Jones, Brian Moran, Frank Livingston and Ed White have come up with big plays — offensively and defensively — at opportune times and that's what any club needs to be successful. If the good pitching and timely events continue, then Manchester could be looking at its fifth straight post-season appearance.

Bits and pieces

For the first time in his 10-year coaching tenure, Manchester High's Hal Parks missed a baseball game. The varsity coach "felt very faint" and just couldn't make Tuesday's tilt with Wethersfield. He remained for inning but then left. Jayvee Coach Don Face, for the first time in his 10 years at Manchester, took over the

Syracuse top team

CENTREVILLE, Mass. (UPI) — Syracuse University has been selected Eastern College Athletic Conference Division I Basketball Team of the Year.

Richard Regan, chairman of the varsity squad, Steve Armstrong, on assignment from The Herald cover the varsity contest, didn't want to see the jayvee tilt canceled and look over the reins. His debut was a successful one as Stan Fyke fired a two-hitter in leading the young Indians to a 6-0 win.

If his first outing is an indication, Manchester High senior Dave Thomas is going to have a successful season. The junior fired a two-rounder at Manchester Country Club Tuesday as the Indians dropped a 4-1 duke to cross-town East Catholic. Tribe Coach Tom Kelley foresees a possible state title for Thomas before his sophomore days are over.

East Catholic, which has won state outdoor Class M track championships two out of the last three years, was unbeaten in seven starts going into yesterday's triangular meet with Ellington and Suffield. What makes all of this so remarkable is Coach Dave Kelley's thirdeads do not have a home track. All meets are away — and practices are on the school's parking lot. After a bit of a snafu, the Eagles are scheduled to meet cross-town Manchester High Thursday, May 12, at Pete Wigren Track.

Manchester High basketball standout John Finch will attend Clark University in the fall, cage Coach Doug Pearson revealed. Finch is a four-time all-CCIL selection and wound up as Manchester's all-time leading career scorer...While there are many varied opinions, this corner believes Wamogo's 6-11 Chuck Aleksinas is making a big name for himself by attending the University of Kentucky. That's fast company — and not the same competition by a millennium he's used to facing. And to those UConn alumni who wrote Aleksinas, you were no help at all. More than anything else the negativity expressed turned him off Connecticut. Be positive, otherwise keep you pens holstered.

And to all those who stood up and took notice as the New York Yankees kept on losing their early starts, how come you no noticed the Cincinnati Reds' miserable start? Predictions: By mid-July million dollar relief hurler Bill Campbell will ask the Boston Red Sox to trade him and an overweight George Scott will no longer be in love with Boston. Both because of the boss raining down from Beantown fans. The faithful won't put up with too much from these left's get-rich-quick artists.

And finally, will someone please tell former Atlanta Braves' pitcher Mike Marshall to grow up. Believe it or don't, the crybaby, troublesome Marshall is a college professor, or at least certified as one.

ORCHARD LAKE, Mich. (UPI) — Football star Bill Osmanski and famed basketball player Tom Gola were elected Wednesday to the Polish-American Sports Hall of Fame and will be honored at the induction banquet June 22.

Ed Nowinski, executive director of the hall, said pitcher Ed Lopat was one vote shy of the 75 per cent required for induction to the hall, which now has 12 members.

76ers play some solid defense to take lead in Boston series

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers wanted to show them Boston Celtics and their other numerous critics that, yes, they really do know how to play defense.

While shutting off a Celtics' fast break attack that has run wild in the past, the 76ers used a 33-8 spurt over a period of 8:43 in the first half Wednesday night as a springboard to a surprisingly easy 110-91 romp over Boston.

The win gave the 76ers a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series with Game 6 set Friday night at the Boston Garden.

"The big difference tonight was the fact we were able to get back on defense," Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said. "We had more concentration and Dave Cowens wasn't getting open as much."

Cowens, the Celtics' center who

Jo Jo White as saying "the 76ers are the worst defensive team I've ever seen."

"I don't know what they're hollering about," said Steve Mix, who came off the bench to shoot 9-for-11 for 20 points. "They're giving up 110 points a game so they'd better worry. We've showed them we can play defense."

Mix and Julius Erving keyed the 76ers' spurt that carried them from a 20-18 deficit to a 31-29 lead. The rally began with 12 straight points in the last 2:29 of the first quarter for a 30-20 lead and rolled into the second period to a delight of a sellout crowd of 18,276.

Erving scored 12 points in the up-rising while Mix had eight and Henry Bibby seven. Erving finished the Golden Game with 22 points, one behind game-high teammate Doug Collins, and Bibby chipped in with 13.

Coach Tom Heinsohn said it wasn't the Philadelphia defense, but the inability of his team to hit a number of inside shots as the reason the 76ers were able to blow the game open.

"We missed a lot of shots they gave us, good shots, five to seven feet from the basket," Heinsohn said. "We missed seven or eight layups. We were fouling up their defense at the beginning but we couldn't make the shots."

The Celtics, led by Charlie Scott with 20 points, finished with a shooting percentage of nearly 40 per cent and Heinsohn said most of those attempts were "good shots."

Two other NBA semifinal playoff series resume Friday night with Washington at Houston in the Eastern Conference and the Golden State at Los Angeles in the Western Conference. Both matchups are tied at 2-2.

burned the 76ers for 37 points in Sunday's 124-119 Boston win in Game 4, was completely stymied by the Sixers' center duo of Caldwell Jones and Darryl Dawkins.

The 6-8 tall driver shot just 4-for-14 from the field for eight points, his low for the series and almost 15 points below his playoff average. He pulled down seven rebounds while the Jones-Dawkins entry had 21.

"You have to concentrate on playing defense," the 7-1 Jones said. "Sunday he (Cowens) was open a lot of times and hit the outside shot. I came out to play him tonight. I tried to keep a hand in his face on the shot. We tried to keep him from getting in the game."

They wanted to talk more about their defense than any other aspect of their game, possibly because of a story in a local newspaper that quoted Boston guard

Islanders in tough position

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Form your own conclusion about the way the Islanders analyze their Stanley Cup semifinal series with Montreal.

"I know they have to do it for their talk about Montreal," Toronto did the same thing to them and they came back.

But the Bruins, thanks largely to superb goaltending by Cheevers, take the ice tonight in Boston two games up on the Flyers in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup Playoff round.

Boston, which lost to the Flyers in five games in last year's semifinals, put Philadelphia in the hole Tuesday night with a 5-4 double-overtime win. The Bruins won Sunday, 4-3, in another overtime affair.

The Flyers have been in this position before, having roared back from a 2-0 deficit to beat the Toronto Maple Leafs in their quarterfinal round. But the Bruins are not the Maple Leafs, and nobody knows that more than Flyers Coach Fred Shero.

"It'll be a little tougher to come back against Boston," two Sheroists to Toronto. "They've got a much better club than Toronto. But we've got a good club too."

Boston won Tuesday's game after rallying from a 3-1 second-period deficit. Terry O'Reilly, on the ice only because Bruins' Coach Don Cherry felt forward Bobby Schmalz was getting tired, knocked home the game-winner at 10:07 of double overtime.

Cherry, who remembers last year's series when

Flyers two down to Bruins

Boston took a 1-0 lead only to lose the next four, doesn't feel the Bruins can relax with the series lead.

"I know they (Flyers) will be up in Boston," Philadelphia forward Bill Barber says if the Flyers keep playing like they've done in the first two games, look out Bruins.

"We can't hang our heads. We've got a helluva hockey team," he said. "It's not over yet but we've got our backs against the wall. We played so well in the third period (Tuesday) and could score. If we keep playing this way, something's got to break."

Cey setting torrid pace

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ron Cey keeps swinging, the impressive statistics keep mounting and if the rest of the National League West clubs aren't careful, pretty soon they'll need binoculars to see the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I've been extremely fortunate to have the guys I'm playing with doing so well," Cey said, after his three hits and two RBIs helped Los Angeles nip San Diego, 7-6, Wednesday night. "Everything I'm doing is going right but I can only take partial credit. The other guys are doing a great job."

The Dodgers are 14-3, their best start since brookling to the West Coast from Brooklyn in 1958. They lead second-place San Francisco by 5 1/2 games, and Cey's hitting is providing the spark.

San Diego reached starter and winner Doug Rau for two runs in the

The Dodgers rebounded in the fourth on Cey's homer, Rick Monday's walk and Dusty Baker's shot into the left field seats.

Cey added the record-tying RBI when he singled home Bill Russell from second in the seventh.

Stand up steal

Kingman give-eth, take-eth away also

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets have once again learned that all too familiar lesson: What Dave Kingman get-eth, he quite often give-eth away.

Kingman, who is playing out his option with the Mets this season in hopes of parlaying 40 or so homers into two or three million dollars next year, got the Mets off a 1-0 lead Wednesday night against the Montreal Expos with a first inning RBI single.

Two innings later, however, it was an error by Kingman which kept an Expos' rally alive and paved the way for Ellis Valentine's two-run homer which gave Montreal a 3-2 victory over the Mets.

Andre Dawson started the Expos' third inning rally with a single and went all the way to third on Steve Rogers' sacrifice when third base was left uncovered.

Then Pete Frias hit what appeared to be a routine infield out, but Kingman, who has been installed at first base where his "clanking glove can best be hidden, dropped the throw and allowed the Expos another life. Valentine followed with a 410-foot homer to center field off Jerry Kosman. It was his fifth homer of the year.

The win enabled the surprising Expos to remain a half-game out of first place in the National League East and squared Rogers' record at 1-1.

"The way I see it, the National League East is a 500 race—very similar to 1973 when the Mets won," said Rogers, who gave up six hits and struck out nine. "We now go on a western trip. If we can play .500 ball against the west, we should be considered contenders."

First baseman Tony Perez agreed. "We're winning a lot of games by one run and that's a good sign," said Rogers, who gave up six hits and struck out nine. "We now go on a western trip. If we can play .500 ball against the west, we should be considered contenders."

Three provide fireworks, Munson match for Yankees

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The fireworks were provided by Willie Randolph, Reggie Jackson and Chris Chambliss—but Thurman Munson supplied the match.

Munson, the American League's Most Valuable Player last season, batted in one run in a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night, but more importantly twice moved Randolph into scoring position so Jackson could bring him home with sacrifice flies.

Munson, who is on an eight-game hitting streak, now boasts 14 hits in his last 35 plate appearances for a robust .400 pace that has raised his overall batting average to .292.

"I like to play in Baltimore," Munson said, trying to explain his consistency against Oriole pitching. "I see the ball well here. It's a nice stadium and I don't think about the fact that I might do well here most of the time. If I did, I might mess up."

Munson's theory is simple enough. "I go out and play as hard as I can and whatever happens will happen. We have a bunch of guys on this club who like to play hard."

It was the second time in the three-game series with Baltimore that Yankee bats rallied in a winning cause.

Munson scored four runs in the opening game of the series and hoisted his RBI total to 10 Wednesday when he singled across Randolph in the seventh inning after the Yankees' second baseman doubled.

Sparky Lyle, 1-1, spaced four singles over the last four innings as the Yankees overcame a 3-1 deficit with runs in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings.

Chambliss blasted his fourth homer of the year, a solo shot in the eighth inning, to tie the game.

The winning run scored on a ninth-inning double by Randolph, an infield single by Munson and Jackson's second sacrifice fly of the game. Oriole relief pitcher Dennis Martinez absorbed his second defeat.

Baltimore third baseman Doug DeCinces belted his fourth home run of the campaign in the second inning of a 450-foot wallop that was one of the longest homers ever measured at Memorial Stadium.

Dock Ellis

Marty Perez

Mike Torrez

Ellis to Oakland, Finley active

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Charlie Finley seemed more excited about the minor leaguer and the free Kentucky Derby tickets than the two major league players he dealt for and promised he'd have another trade in the next three days.

"We like the young man's speed and we are going to give him a chance to make the club right now," said the Oakland A's owner of outfielder Larry Murray, whose total experience in the major leagues amounts to two games with the Yanks, yet was described by Finley as the A's best right-handed pitcher since 1977 and shortstop Marty Perez saw a little action with California in 1969 and 1970 before becoming a regular with Atlanta in 1971.

In return the A's sent right-handed pitcher Mike Torrez, a 20-game winner two seasons ago, to New York in a long-rumored transaction.

Finley said Yankee owner George Steinbrenner originally offered Ellis and Perez plus $200,000 for Torrez, but the A's owner insisted on Murray and passed up the money. Finley also said Steinbrenner, as part of the deal, traded Finley to the Kentucky Derby, a race in which the Yankee owner will enter his horse, Steve's Friend.

"If the horse wins," said Finley, "I will lead him out of the winner's circle. George promised me the chance to show off his horse, who will be decked out in green and gold, my colors."

Finley said he is working on another deal and expects to complete it within 72 hours.

"Our aim," he said, "is to win in 1977. Sure, we are interested primarily in younger players, so we can offer our club, but we also are after experienced players to help us right now. I think the combination of young and old players will make us a better team all the way around."

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—There were a lot of heroes for the Brewers' two-run double in the fourth inning gave the Brewers a 2-1 lead. Carlton Fisk blasted his first home run of the season in the seventh to tie it up but the Brewers struck for two runs in the next inning and got the win.

Boston Manager Don Zimmer, whose team is off to a mediocre start this season and is now 7-5, was especially about the fact that the club hit some hard shots in the first two innings but got nothing for it.

"He hit some balls hard in the first inning and the second inning but it didn't do us any good. We came out empty. But I'm not using that as an excuse," Zimmer said.

But he admitted that part of the Boston hitting was because of Haas, a rookie who is doing a good job for Milwaukee.

"(Haas) pitched pretty good," Zimmer said.

Robin Yount stroked an eighth inning single to break a 2-2 tie and give the Brewers the victory. Dan Thomas followed soon after with another RBI single to add some icing to the victory.

Sixto Lezcano delivered a two-run double earlier. Grammas said.

Moore has pitched strongly for 7-13 innings but left with the game tied 2-2. Bob McClure came on to pitch successfully to one N.Y.

Bill Castro pitched perfect ball for 1-13 innings to win Detroit 7-1. Castro raised his record to 3-0.

"It's a club that refuses to quit. If you don't quit, you can always win," Grammas said.

The Red Sox scored first in the third inning on a

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman with a problem. I am almost ashamed to admit, but I need an answer, and you're the only one I can ask without embarrassing myself. Here goes: I've been seeing a 15-year-old boy, and we really dig each other. He's very mature for his age physically, that is, so when he told me he was 20, I believed him. I admit, it was dumb of me, but I was with his house and his parents walked in on us and caught us in "the act."

I know that an adult male who is caught having relations with a minor girl can be arrested for statutory rape, but does the same hold true for an adult female and an underage boy? His parents say they are going to have me arrested. Can they get me for statutory rape?

DEAR WORRIED: No, but in California, you can be charged with "contributing to the delinquency of a minor."

DEAR ABBY: As a lawyer, I would like to comment on your answer to SPEECHLESS, wherein you advised her to tell Grandma to "write down" how she wanted her jewelry, silver and heirlooms to be divided after she died. Abby, please tell your readers that unless Grandma writes it down in the form of a will, the only way her favorite loved ones are going to get what she wanted them to get is to climb through the back window while they're carrying Grandma to the funeral home.

Please correct this as soon as possible, or all my clients for whom I have prepared wills think I have overcharged them, and they'll be out in the parking lot slapping my tires.

DEAR LAWYER: You're right. I should have told SPEECHLESS to advise Grandma to engage a lawyer to draw up a proper will because most of those handwritten do-it-yourself wills aren't worth the paper they're written on. In matters having to do with the law, it's wise (and cheaper in the long run) to hire a lawyer and pay him for what he knows.

DEAR ABBY: I have just experienced one of the most uncomfortable afternoons of my life. I had a luncheon for three close friends, one of whom is a widow. The other two women spent the entire afternoon bragging about the gifts their husbands had given them, the trips they had taken and their plans for future trips. The little widow had nothing to contribute to the conversation, so she just sat and listened. I could tell she was hurt.

Don't women realize how often they do this? I am furious because it happens in my home. I have had the same experience to tell those two women how inexcusably rude because they'll hope I will mention it in my column because they'll be upset.

DEAR DUSTYGUN: I shall, but don't hesitate to let the offending women know your feelings. And should you ever find yourself in the company of such thoughtless and inconsiderate people, steer the conversation to another subject.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being overly possessive could provoke a real showdown today. If you have such feelings, make an offer. Living room, heat and hot water included. $245. Available May 6-8. 646-4701, after 6 p.m.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be prevented from completing a project today, but it won't be because you don't try. Others are not working for you. CANCER (June 21-July 20) You're a bit susceptible today. If you're involved with shapies, accept nothing that you say at face value.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22) Fantasy is music to your ears today. Others could use this fact for their own good.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're aware of yourself today. This may cause complications if you try to bluff your way through.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your ability to logically assess situations may desert you today, and be replaced by wishful thinking. This could be costly in business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) It will be possible this year for you to get what you want. The fun social things you've missed in the past. You could even take up a new sport.

Capricorn (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) You may be a bit fragile. Don't be worrying outlandish to ask your delectables.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) Should you feel a little bit sad something nice about a person, say nothing at all. A derogatory comment will long be remembered.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're more white-conscious than bargain-conscious today. Make a position there with one 13-card point hand that you are working for. This came to the conclusion that if you pick up East's queen of clubs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Trying to be all things to all people just won't work for you today. Take a position there with one 13-card point hand that you are working for. This came to the conclusion that if you pick up East's queen of clubs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Mistakes made by you or others who are working for you today could prove to be very costly. Check carefully.

Salemi promises facelift of river

By MAL BARLOW
Herald Reporter

Paquale "Bud" Salemi pledged to fellow members on the East Hartford Conservation and Environment Commission Wednesday night that the Hockanum River will get a facelift this July.

"The river will be at about its lowest then," he explained.

Salemi is chairman of the commission's Hockanum River Cleanup Committee. Since his appointment a month ago, he has been talking to past chairmen and town leaders.

State Sen. George Hannan promised to keep Salemi informed of what his Manchester constituents do with their portion of the river.

Patrick Jones of the Raymond Library will give Salemi the history of the river.

Salemi and a friend plan to canoe the river from the Manchester town line to the Connecticut River. They will portage the two dams in town. He said he will try and pick the part of the river now needing the most work.

"Now all I need are volunteers," he said.

Mrs. Nancy DePietro, commission member, said, "We can get you all you need."

She and Robert Ryan of the commission both have scouting contacts. Both promised them able workers by July.

Salemi appointed Mrs. DePietro his volunteer coordinator.

George Lenke, a friend of Salemi's, said he has been in touch with the town high schools about the river. He hopes to involve the schools and students in studies of the river water and banks.

The town will supply the volunteers with insurance, tools, a boat and trucks for hauling away trash.

"They have always cooperated with us in the past," said Michael Marin of the commission.

"It all sounds very good," said Mrs. Leslie Van Camp, commission chairman.

Zoning board to air liquor sale requests

Two pizza store owners are going to the East Hartford Zoning Board of Appeals tonight at 7:30 at the Town Hall to ask for an okay to sell liquor.

Ronald L. Stoppa, owner of Golden Pizza Inc. of 808 Silver Lane, is requesting a use variance and a distance variance to allow sale of beer and wine only.

Despina Milos, owner of the C & E Pizza restaurant at 1084 Burnside Ave., is requesting a variance of floor area to allow the sale of beer only.

Other requests to be heard tonight are:

- J.A. McCarthy Inc., to allow an accessory building 21 feet from the street line at 77-79 Elida Court.
- Ronald Benson, for a 10-foot rear yard variance at 62 Chesley Lane.
- Andrew Konon, for a variance to build a single-family dwelling at 144 Roberts St.
- Madison Development, to allow B-1 permitted use to continue to the R-4 rear section of the building at 550-560 Burnside Ave.

Boy's condition poor despite firemen's aid

Scott Albert, 15, of 261 Burke St., East Hartford, was listed in poor condition late this morning at Hartford Hospital from a heart attack he suffered Wednesday.

East Hartford Police said Albert was playing ball near 261 Burke St. with several other young people. The witnesses told police he ran for a ball, fell, and did not get up.

The witnesses called the fire department at 7:31 p.m. Engine Co. 6 from the Forbes St. fire station arrived seconds later.

Fire Fighters Wayne Bernier, Eddy Doyle and John Turpey began giving the youth cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Paramedics Daniel Fiorita and Michael Coppinger from the Burnside Ave. fire station arrived minutes later and took over.

The youth was transported to Hartford Hospital.

Police said the youth had had heart trouble. He appeared to have gone into complete cardiac arrest.

Robert Kenery heads police photo service

Investigator Robert Kenery, 29, joined the East Hartford Police Department March 4, 1975, as a patrol officer. He worked patrol duty until a murder July 25, 1975.

Kenery took pictures at the scene. He found and processed the fingerprints. Later he testified in court.

New Kenery runs the department's photo darkroom and lab. The only other man on the force who can fully replace him when he takes a vacation is Commander Joseph Leone. The department is training others to make sure his work gets done when he is off duty.

In the photo at left, he is testing an infrared camera system. It has taken photos in total darkness without the subject realizing it.

He and his wife, Mary-Anne, have one son, Brian, 6. Although Brian will sometimes help his father in the police darkroom, he tells everyone he wants to be a fireman when he grows up.

Little League opens season

The first games of the Little League Baseball season finally were played Wednesday night by all three East Hartford divisions.

The American League played two games at Gorman Park in the south end.

The Eastern League got in two games at Labor Field off Burnside Ave.

And the National League played two at McManille Park.

Sunday's rain forced postponement of opening day games and ceremonies. Tuesday's games were also rained out.

Clouds kept flying before the sun from 6 p.m. till dark Wednesday. There was a chill in the air. Most fans wore jackets and sweaters.

But the games were played.

In the National League, St. Mary's defeated Capitol Crane 8-0 and Dworin Chevrolet beat Vintage Homes 3-0.

In the Eastern League, Local No. 1933 edged the Jaycees 6-4 and T & J Auto Body beat Kiwanis 4-2.

Weather permitting, Little League will play tonight at 6 at their respective fields.

East Hartford police report

State Police from Colchester and officers of the East Hartford Police Department, armed with a search warrant, uncovered a quantity of hashish in an apartment at 442 Main St., East Hartford, Wednesday afternoon.

Six persons were charged with possession of cannabis-type substance with intent to sell.

Arrested were: David J. Swanson, 21, Louis P. McLane, 22, and Steven J. Shannon, 22, all of the 442 Main St. address; Kevin Morgan, 21, of 73 Oak St., Manchester; Tricia M. Nelson, 18, of 45 Fairfield St., Manchester; and Maria L. Levesque, 21, of 56 1/2 Birch St., Manchester.

Ms. Levesque and Ms. Nelson were released on $500 non-surety bonds for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, May 18.

Swanson was held overnight in Colchester. Morgan, McLane, and Shannon were taken to the Hartford Correctional Center, all in lieu of posting $5,000 cash bonds. They were to be presented in court in East Hartford today.

Three 16-year-old youths were arrested Wednesday on court warrants charging them with involvement in eight burglaries in the south end of East Hartford in recent months.

They are: Scott E. Dubay of 30 Leichter St., Jonathan D. Eckstein of 33 Homes St., and John S. Belch of 30 Cross Dr. All were charged with at least five counts of second-degree burglary and five larceny counts.

Belch is being held on a $5,000 bond and Dubay and Eckstein are each being held on $10,000 bonds in the state correction center in Hartford.

They appeared in Common Pleas Court 12 Wednesday and had their cases continued to Friday.

Stephen A. Johnson, 22, of 180 Westerly Ter., was charged Wednesday with fourth-degree larceny and interfering with police. Johnson allegedly refused to pay a taxi driver at $2.65 fee. Police arrested him near the taxi soon after he was escaped, police said. He was held overnight on $200 surety bond for court today.

Caroline King, 23, and Joyce White, 23, both of Hartford, were arrested Wednesday at Bradley's, on Silver Lane, and charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). They were held overnight on $100 surety bonds for court today.

The Sage-Allen store on Main St. was broken into today sometime between midnight and 4:30 a.m. A large amount of store goods is missing.

A patrol officer reported finding a pile of goods taken from the store at its rear about 4:30 a.m. No sign of entry could be seen.

The fire department sent a ladder and crew and after searching on the store's roof they found the point of entry.

Store officials and police were working at the store this morning to determine what is missing and gather evidence. The pile left behind was valued at $200.

Area police report

South Windsor
Darlene J. Pollard, 17, of 83 Bent Lane, East Hartford, was issued a summons Wednesday night for making an improper turn. South Windsor Police said the charge stemmed from an 8 p.m. accident on Rt. 5.

The Pollard vehicle was in collision with a car driven by Donald J. DeVeau, 48, of Bristol. DeVeau suffered minor injuries, police said.

Bolton candidates

Two men seeking top post

Richard P. Morra, Republican, and Henry P. Ryba, Democrat, are running for first selectman in Bolton's Monday election.

The winner will be the town's chief executive officer, presiding over the expanded Board of Selectmen created by the new Town Charter.

Richard P. Morra

1977 and established the Morra farm. Morra still lives there, at 20 Tinker Pond Rd. He is a self-employed farmer.

Morra entered public life as a constable, then helped establish zoning in Bolton and served on the first Zoning Commission for 14 years.

Henry P. Ryba, born in Hartford in 1930, lived there until November 1969 when he came to Bolton.

Woodbury won't quit team fight

David C. Woodbury, sponsor of the David's team in the Town of Manchester's top women's softball league, said Wednesday night that he still expects to field a team for this season.

Woodbury recently filed a quitclaim deed that temporarily transferred half-interest in property he owns to eight out-of-town women who are listed on his team's roster.

Woodbury said that the deed would qualify the women as taxpayers. But Town Counsel Victor I. Moses ruled against the property-transfer agreement, calling it a "flagrant disregard of the regulations."

Woodbury did add, "I want to know why a person who finds a loophole in taxes is considered brilliant, and someone who finds a loophole in the town's rules for softball is considered an American."

It has already been used for both community and inter-community programs, both interfaith as well as those of Jewish background. Fund raising for the center began in early 1973 and continued until that October when the drive was suspended because of the Yom Kippur War in Israel.

Early surprise

While you don't want to put the whammy on a team, as an (in) famous colleague in Hartford is renowned for (can you believe coaches on a hot streak cringe and hide in the corner when they hear he's calling), one cannot overlook the exploits of Manchester High's basketball team.

The Silk Towners, going into today's game with Penney High, had won four straight after a slow start. And they did it where most games — schoolboy, collegiate, pro — are won and that's with pitching.

The double-barrel combination of lefthander Mike Jordan-righthander Kevin Hanlon is not allowed an earned run in 35 innings. Each has turned in two complete games in his last two outings to alleviate any problems of pitching shorts Manchester might have.

Pete Daigle, who was going to be one of Manchester's big three along with Jordan and Hanlon, has been out since April 13. He didn't have hepatitis as feared, reports Tribe Coach Al Parks, but a mild case of mononucleosis. It's not a "break" as such, but Daigle might be available for the last four games, and any possible tournament action.

With Daigle disabled, the pressure on Hanlon and Jordan intensified. But to date they've responded admirably. Hanlon in 24 2/3 innings has been touched for six runs, three earned for an ERA of 1.09. The senior has allowed 17 hits, while striking out 32, both good ratios. Jordan, a junior, has equally impressive statistics. The pitcher in 25 innings has given up five runs, only two earned for an earned run average of 0.72. He's been touched for 20 hits while whiffing 35.

Pitching alone doesn't win games. People like Ray Gliba, Tom Jones, Brian Moran, Frank Livingston and Ed White have come up with big plays — offensively and defensively — at opportune times and that's what any club needs to be successful. If the good pitching and timely events continue, then Manchester could be looking at its fifth straight post-season appearance.

For the first time in his 10-year coaching tenure, Manchester High's Hal Parks missed a baseball game. The varsity coach "felt Tuesday's tilt and just couldn't make Tuesday's tilt with Watersfield. He remained for inning but then left. Jaycee Coach Don Race, for the first time in his 10 years at Manchester, took over the ECAC Division I Basketball Awards Committee, made the announcement Wednesday. Syracuse, competing in a 35-4 overall record this season, competed in post-season tournament play for the seventh consecutive year.

76ers play some solid defense to take lead in Boston series

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers wanted to show Boston Celtics and their other numerous critics that, yes, they really do know how to play defense.

While shutting off a Celtics' fast break attack that has run wild in the past, the 76ers used a 33-8 spurt over a period of 8:43 in the first half Wednesday night as a springboard to a surprisingly easy 110-91 romp over Boston.

The win gave the 76ers a 3-3 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series with Game 6 set Friday night at the Boston Garden.

"The big difference tonight was the fact we were able to get back on defense," Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said. "We had more concentration. We shut off their penetration and Dave Cowens wasn't getting open as much."

Cowens, the Celtics' center who burned the 76ers for 37 points in Sunday's 124-119 Boston win in Game 4, was completely stymied by the 76ers' center duo of Caldwell Jones and Darryl Dawkins.

The 6-8 last driver shot just 4-for-14 from the field for eight points, his low for the series and almost 15 points below his playoff average. He pulled down seven rebounds while the Jones-Dawkins entry had 21.

"You have to concentrate on playing defense," the 7-1 Jones said. "Sunday (Cowens) was a lot of times and hit the outside shot. I came out to play him tonight. I tried to keep a hand in his face on that shot. We tried to keep him from getting in the game."

The 76ers wanted to talk more about their defense than any other aspect of their game, possibly because of a story in a local newspaper that quoted Boston guard

Form your own conclusion about the way the Islanders analyze their Stanley Cup semifinal series with Montreal.

"What we have to do is forget this talk about Montreal," said winger J.P. Parise while preparing for game 3 tonight at Nassau Coliseum. "It's nonsense and should be forgotten."

Either Parise is brasser than a pickpocket at a detectives' picnic or Montreal mystique is so strong that he just hasn't been paying attention.

Montreal owns a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven affair, after absorbing two shutout losses in the first two games. Saturday it was a three-goal comeback and a 4-3 triumph, Tuesday, a three-goal third period resulted in a 2-0 victory.

"We had the chances to win but we didn't capitalize," said Islanders' Coach Al Arbour, firmly skeptical of Montreal mystique. "Billy Smith has been playing superb in goal. I hope we get the breaks now that we're going home."

"They're vulnerable," said New York defenseman Dave Lewis. "They're not invincible. They get tired and frustrated and lose their confidence, just as we do."

That still leaves New York with the problem of taking four of five games from a team that has won a record-tying 11 straight playoff games, gone undefeated in 35 straight home games and won 10 of the last 11 meetings between the two clubs.

Arbour's biggest decision may be whether to grant goalie Chico Resch a start or stay with Billy Smith, whose numerous and spectacular saves have gone unappreciated by the Islanders offense.

Montreal will be without Rejean Houle for the remainder of the playoffs. He suffered a separated shoulder Tuesday. However, the Canadiens expect Pierre Boisnard to be back in uniform for the first time since he separated his shoulder in the quarter-finals against St. Louis.

ORCHARD LAKE, Mich. (UPI) — Football star Bill Osmanski and famed basketball player Tom Gola were elected Wednesday to the Polish-American Sports Hall of Fame and will be honored at the induction banquet June 23.

Ed Browski, executive director of the hall, said pitcher Ed Lopat was one of the 75 per cent required for induction to the hall, which now has 12 members.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — American stockbroker Dick Siderow, better known in Britain as the golfer who has won its Amateur Championship twice in the last four years, will be inducted for a third time next month, the Royal and Ancient club announced Wednesday.

Flyers two down to Bruins

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers says only a nut would have picked the Bruins to beat the Flyers twice in a row in Philadelphia.

But the Bruins, thanks largely to superb goaltending by Cheevers, take the ice tonight in Boston two games up on the Flyers in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup Playoff round.

Boston, which lost to the Flyers in five games in last year's semifinals, put Philadelphia in the hole Tuesday night with a 5-4 double-overtime win. The Bruins won Sunday, 4-3, in another overtime affair.

"The Flyers have been in this position before, having roared back from a 2-0 deficit to beat the Toronto Maple Leafs in their quarterfinal round. But the Bruins are not the Maple Leafs, and nobody knows that more than Flyers coach Fred Shero.

"It'll be a little tougher to come back against Boston," Shero said. "They've got a much better club than Toronto. But we've got a good club too."

Boston won Tuesday's game after rallying from a 3-1 second-period deficit. Terry O'Reilly, on the ice only because Bruins' Coach Don Cherry felt forward Bobby Schumatz was getting tired, knocked home the game-winner at 10:07 of double overtime.

Cherry, who remembers last year's series when he led the Bruins to a 4-2 victory over the Flyers, said he doesn't feel the Bruins can relax with the series lead. "I know they (Flyers) will be up in Boston," he said. "We know they'll come out fighting. Toronto did the same thing to them and they came back."

"We can't hang our heads. We've got a helluva hockey team," he said. "It's not over yet but we've got our backs against the wall. We played so well in the third period (Tuesday) and could score. If we keep playing this way, something's got to break."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ron Cey keeps swinging, the impressive statistics keep mounting and if the rest of the National League West clubs aren't careful, pretty soon they'll need binoculars to see the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I've been extremely fortunate to have the guys I'm playing with doing so well," Cey said, after his three hits and two RBIs helped Los Angeles nip San Diego, 7-6, Wednesday night. "Everything I'm doing is going right but I can only take partial credit. The other guys are doing a great job."

The Dodgers are 14-3, their best start since shifting to the West Coast from Brooklyn in 1958. They lead second-place San Francisco by 5 1/2 games, and Cey's hitting is providing the spark.

Three provide fireworks, Munson match for Yankees

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The fireworks were provided by Willie Randolph, Reggie Jackson and Chris Chambliss — but Thurman Munson supplied the match.

Munson, the American League's Most Valuable Player last season, batted in one run in a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night, but more importantly twice moved Randolph into scoring position so Jackson could bring him home with sacrifice flies.

Munson, who is on an eight-game hitting streak, now boasts 14 hits in his last 35 plate appearances for an overall batting average to .292.

"I like to play in Baltimore," Munson said, trying to explain his consistency against Oriole pitching. "I see the ball well here. It's a nice stadium and I don't think about the fact that I might do well here most of the time. If I did, I might mess up."

Munson's theory is simple enough. "I go out and play as hard as I can and whatever happens will happen. We have a bunch of guys on this club who like to play hard."

It was the second time in the three-game series with Baltimore that Yankee bats rallied in a winning cause.

Ellis to Oakland, Finley active

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Charlie Finley seemed more excited about the minor leaguer and the free Kentucky Derby tickets than the two major league players he dealt for and promised he'd have another trade in the next three days.

"We like the young man's speed and we are going to give him a chance to make the club right now," said the Oakland A's owner of out-fielder Larry Murray, whose total experience in the major leagues amounts to two games with the Yanks, yet was described by Finley as the key to the trade.

The other players Finley received have had a little more time in the majors. Right-handed pitcher Dock Ellis had nine seasons in the majors prior to 1977 and shortstop Marty Perez saw a little action with California in 1969 and 1970 before becoming a regular with Atlanta in 1971.

In return the A's sent right-handed pitcher Mike Torrez, a 20-game winner two seasons ago to New York in a long-rumored transaction.

Finley said Yankee owner George Steinbrenner originally offered Ellis and Perez plus $200,000 for Torrez, but the A's owner insisted on Murray and passed up the money. Finley also said Steinbrenner, as part of the deal, gave him two tickets to the Kentucky Derby, a race in which the Yankee owner will enter his horse, Steve's Colors.

"If the horse wins," said Finley, "I will lead him out of the winner's circle. George promised me the chance to show off his horse, who will be decked out in green and gold, my colors."

Finley said he is working on another deal and expects to complete it within 72 hours.

"Our aim," he said, "is to win in 1977. Sure, we are interested primarily in younger players, so we can build our club, but we also are after experienced players to help us right now. I think the combination of young and old players will make us a better team all the way around."
